INTERDEPENDENCE NOT INDEPENDENCE BEST FOR COLONIES

Says Ben Spoor, M. P., England, in Inspiring Address To Brotherhood Organizations — N. Chavre, High Caste Indian, Says Closer Relationship of Empire's Parts Desired by His People — Harry Whitehorn Here To Stay.

Men from every walk in life, representing eighteen brotherhood organizations of this city and several outside points, numbering nearly 1,000, crowded the great dining-room of the Masonic Hall to overflowing when the first annual banquet of the Men's Brotherhood of London was held on Thursday evening. Noted speakers among whom were Ben Spoor, member of Parliament for Labour in the British House of Commons, and Harry Whitehorn of the Westminster Gazette, addressed the assembly on the brotherhood movement.

The meeting is claimed to have been the greatest mass meeting ever held in London since the visit of Gypsy Smith to this city, for every chair in the room, which has a seating capacity of 750, was filled, while scores more stood and listened to the inspiring speeches from the corridor. The size of the meeting surpassed the expectations of the men who sponsored it, and the wonderful enthusiasm which was rampant was taken by them as an indication that the movement will spread until every church in this city has been listed.

One Birthday.
Although the movement has only seen one birthday in this city, and one year ago only one organization had been formed, there are now eighteen growing organizations. R. E. Smith, president of the movement in London, and chairman of the meeting, in addressing the gathering said that it was the aim of the brotherhood to have a branch in every church in the city before another year.

The keynote of the message of the meeting was advanced by an unexpected visitor, N. Chavre, a western-educated high-caste Indian, a native of Bombay, India. Mr. Chavre represents the new interests of India, and his one ambition is to create a closer relationship between India and the other colonies of Great Britain. He spoke only a few words, and yet his expression "Gentlemen, remember that above all nationalism, all patriotism for one's country, there is the claim

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH REMEDY FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Eucalypti (Double Strength). Take this and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Eucalypti used in this way acts directly upon the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.—Adv.

of humanity," was repeated again and again throughout the evening and formed a peg for many thoughts expressed.

The great address and message of the meeting was delivered by Ben Spoor, M. P. In a speech highly philosophical and yet with a vein of dry wit that was not lost, and delivered with wonderful oratory. Mr. Spoor painted the present condition of the world in all its grim realities, and then as his auditors were quite convinced there was no hope for the world, he told of the wonderful future that was to grow, and of the convulsions that were gripping the world, and how it was to be brought about by the great brotherhood of mankind.

Save World.
"It is only the idea of brotherhood which is to save the civilization of the world from chaos if it is to be saved," he said. "Those who know of the fearful conditions which exist in Central Europe and Russia are asking if there is some force which will arise and carry the good that exists in the present order on into a saner and better order of things. Any movement that gives promise to do that is welcomed by the brotherhood, and I believe there is a brotherhood movement which will accomplish it."

After telling of the unrest and turmoil which exists in Ireland, Egypt and India, the speaker said that it was hard to be an optimist in face of so much trouble, and that it required much faith to believe that good was coming out of it. He said, however, that there were much hope and promise in the world. "If there was no conflict, civilization would be dead," he continued. "The turmoil is caused by that force which seeks to work out a salvation." It was, he said, the greatest epoch in the world's history in which the foundation for a great civilization was being laid.

Interdependence.
Mr. Spoor said that the world interdependence was greatly overworked. He did not want to see an independent England, Canada or India if it spelled isolation. He did not want independence but "interdependence."

All the great empires and the powers in the ages past failed because they were based on slavery. The brotherhood stood for freedom. It had a vision of a united world in which there was no white men, no colored men, no Britains, Canadians or Indians. Harry Whitehorn, who is to be in Canada during the winter actively engaged in the brotherhood work, expressed the belief that the salvation of the world rested upon the movement and on the spiritual force that created organized labor, and the British labor parties. The basic for any remedy that is to save the world must be formed from the ethical teachings of Christ preached in the Sermon on the Mount.

Spirit on Foot.
He said that there was on foot throughout Canada, the real spirit of brotherhood which would eventually bring about the dream painted by Mr. Spoor. He believed the new civilization would last, and that in spite of the difficulty in being an optimist in face of all the world's trouble optimism should be cultivated.

"It was said," he continued, "that the last war was fought to abolish war. Those who are critics laughed at the statement. But I tell you that we must make that the truth. It must never be possible for countries to line up millions of men to spill blood no matter how sacred the cause is claimed to be."

He urged the necessity of the brotherhood to bring about a salvation of the world and not leave the work to the materialist, who could never accomplish it.

Exploiting Must Stop.
Mr. Whitehorn lauded the best factions of organized labor, which, he said, was promoted by spirituality, by a feeling of brotherhood. What he said that the brotherhood movement did not stand for organized labor, it stood for fair play for everyone. The good things of life must be for all, not for a few. The exploiting of workmen and women for profits and dividends must stop.

Unselfishness was the great point the speaker emphasized. He preached "Crucifixion of Oneself."

Thomas Howell of Toronto, general secretary of the movement, spoke briefly. He said that Canada was stirring the United States by the progress she was making. There was nothing in making Canada to touch the organization in Canada. He urged a great attendance of delegates at the World's Brotherhood Congress to be held in Washington on October 8.

One-Minute Talks.
Representatives of the eighteen different organizations were asked to give one-minute talks on their respective brotherhoods. One of the pleasant features of the evening was a visit of 20 members of the Brotherhood of the Good.

They were given a rousing reception. A musical program was provided. The men's chorus from the Midland Street Baptist Church, the Sarnia Men's Quartet, Mr. Russell of Sarnia, and Mr. McCullough of this city gave numbers. The many tables were bountifully prepared by ladies from the different churches.

It was announced that next Sunday was Brotherhood Sunday, and that it was to be celebrated in a majority of the churches as well as by a mass meeting in the Allen Theatre.

POLISH DELEGATES HAVE FULL POWER TO SIGN TREATY WITH THE REDS

Riga, Sept. 24.—Credentials held by Polish delegates to the peace conference here show that they have full powers to negotiate and sign an armistice against and preliminaries to a peace convention, but do not mention the fact that power has been given them to sign a final peace treaty. In his message to Moscow relative to the conference here with representatives of Soviet Russia, Prince Sapieha, Polish minister of foreign affairs, stated specifically the Polish delegates would be given full powers to sign a final treaty. This message and the credentials borne by the Polish representatives are now on file at Bolshevik headquarters in this city. No representations have as yet been made to the Polish delegation by the Bolsheviks regarding this situation.
