BEGINNING OF THE END.

THE NECK OF THE REBELLION IS NOW VIRTUALLY BROKEN.

Arabi a Prisoner at Cairo—English Troops Entering Cairo—Arabi Accused of Cowardice—The Sultan's Modest Request.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A dispatch from Tel-el-Kebir, dated yesterday, says:

The battle is but just done raging round us. Far in the rear we can hear the occasional crack of the rifle, but the firing is only desultory. Our cavalry are doing their work effectually and following up the shattered remains of Arabi's forces, the direction of whose flight showed that their orders were in case of defeat to make their way to Kafr-el-Dwar by the line of Zagazig. In all probability the arch-rebel, who, by the way, was invisible to us during the fight, has reached the former place and will make his last stand there. Here, even among his own men, our prisoners, his name is a hissing and reproach, nor do they hesitate to apply the vilest epithets to him, declaring that his poltroonery during to-day's fight was as gross as that he exhibited during the bombardment of Alexandria.

BEFORE THE BATTLE.

Before the general advance Sir Garnet Wolseley, in a general order, strongly impressed on both men and officers the absolute necessity of silence on the march and of not firing a shot until they were compelled to do so. He expressed himself in favor of the bayonet as opposed to the rifle when the general assault was made. During the whole of the march his instructions were strictly adhered to. Through the darkness of the night the long column wended its way, the almost oppressive silence being broken only by the occasional rattle of a wheel, the jingle of scabbard, or the champing of a bit in the jaws of a charger. The deep sand of the desert muffled the sound of the footsteps, and the literally Egyptian darkness faintly streaked by the first approach of dawn, added a weird, mysterious aspect to the march. At last the frowning entrenchments of Tel-el-Kebir came in sight, looming darkly over the arid expanse. The men with difficulty repressed a cheer, but acted strictly up to their orders. Our approach was completely unperceived till we got within about a mile of the entrenchments. Then the Egyptian regiments were hurried out, but they had not time to form before our cavalry were upon them. This and our galling fire were too much for them. They turned and fled, and following them up with a rush we were within the fortifications and the place was ours within fifteen or twenty minutes from the firing of the first shot.

ARABI IN CAIRO.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 14—Arabi and Toulba Pasha are virtually prisoners. They are both in Cairo.

CAIRO OFFERS SUBMISSION.

Batras Bey, Recouf Pasha and Ali Pasha Roabix arrived to-day and presented to the khedive on the part of the inhabitants of Cairo, addresses pledging themselves to loyalty submission. They were delegated to present the address at a meeting yesterday attended by several high functionaries, notables and ulemas, including Sheikh El Edwi, hitherto a staunch partisan of Arabi, and Butros Bey told the khedive that the rebel force at Tel-el-Kebir at the time of the attack consisted of 30,000 regulars, 7,000 Beduoins and 3,000 volunteers.

A FALSE REPORT.

The first news of the battle that reached Cairo reported great Egyptian victory, and when subsequently it was announced that Arabi was on his way to Cairo, it was rumored that he bore with him Admiral Seymour's head. The people of Cairo had never heard of Gen. Wolseley and imagined that Seymour commanded the British. When Arabi arrived alone the populace stoned him. Everything was quiet when the delegates left. The railway hence to Cairo is intact and the khedive gave a grand banquet to-night in honor of General Wood and Admiral Dowell.

ENGLISH ADVANCE GUARD AT CAIRO.

PORT SAID, Sept. 14—The English advance guard have arrived at Cairo by rail. They were received enthusiastically. All personages of rank concerned in the rebellion made submission.

Zagazig

MAGAZINES BLOWN UP.

All the enemy's magazines have been blown up and all unavailable stores destroyed.

THE SULTAN'S MODEST REQUEST.

ZAGAZIG, Sept. 14—The sultan has telegraphed to Gen. Wolseley his congratulations on the splendid victory acchieved by him and requesting him, now that the neck of the rebellion is broken, to stop the march of his army into the interior. Gen. Wolseley referred him to London for a response to his request.

NOTES.

Damietta has offered to surrender Alexandria.

The British took possession of the earthworks at Kafr-el-Dwar yesterday afternoon.

Gen. Wolseley is en route for Cairo.

The offer to surrender Kafr-el-Dwar is not unconditional.

It is reported that the prefect of police at Cairo has arrested Arabi.

Forcable Rescue of a Prisoner.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 14—John Taylor two years ago killed Captain Fletcher. He had several trials and was sentenced to ten years, but appealed to the supreme court. To-day Sheriff Cole and deputy Conway, of this county, took the train for Knoxville, having Taylor in charge. He was handcuffed. Several men boarded the train 75 miles from here and when between Philadelphia and Louden shot and killed Cole and Conway and wounded another man. They released the prisoner and took charge of the train, running it through Louden. At Leadus station Taylor and his brothers Bob and Andy got off, forcibly took possession of horses and took to the mountains.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL.

Fall of a Buttress—Four Women Killed.

DUBLIN, Sept. 14—One of the buttresses of St. Patrick's cathedral fell to-day killing four women. They were completely decapitated. St. Patrick's cathedral is one of the boasts of this city and is celebrated for the beauty of its gothic architecture. It was originally a Catholic church. Its anthems and choral services are also favorably known. The Sunday attendance for the sake of the music is very large, and before the anthem it is no uncommon thing to see crowds promenading its immense aisle and inspecting the old monuments with which it is filled. On account of its musical attracting it is generally called "Paddy's opera." It was completely restored about twenty years ago by Sir Arthur Guinness senior member of the firm of Guinness & Co., the famous porter brewers of this city. The cathedral is surrounded by St. Patrick's Close, which at one time was the St. Giles of Dublin, but since the restoration the neighborhood has been generall improved.

The Montreal Exhibition.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14—The great exhibition of Canadian arts and manufactures was thrown open to the public to-day under rather inauspicious circumstances, so far as the weather was concerned. The exhibits are far from being all in and it will take a day or two longer to get everything into order. The formal opening will occur on Monday next.

Bush Fires at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 14—A destructive bush fire is raging above and below the bank on the American side of the river just below suspension bridge. Bottery's elevator and other buildings are in danger of destruction.

A Storm in Mexico, N. Y.

MEXICO, N. Y, Sept. 14.—A heavy wind and rain storm swept over this place this afternoon while there were 3000 people on the fair grounds. The liberty pole was blown down, killing a horse and seriously injuring several people. Another horse ran away, and women and children were panic stricken. The cupola of the main building was blown off. Thos. Delong and Fred. Menkle were seriously hurt. Much damage was done to fruit and crops.

Serious Illness of Dr. Pusey.

LONDON, Sept. 14—Dr Edward Br Pusey, regius professor of Hebrew in Christ church college, Oxford, is sinking rapidly. There are no hopes of his recovery. Dr. Pusey was born in 1800 and was the second son of Hon. Wm. Bouverie (who assumed the name of Pusey), younger brother of the first Earl of Radnor. He graduated at Christ's church Oxford, in 1822. He shares with Dr. Newman the reputation of originating the Anglo-Catholic movement in the church of England in 1833. He was one of the writers of the celebrated "tracts for the times," which upheld judgment by works equally as by faith, baptismal regeneration, the apostolic succession of the clergy, the supreme authority of the church, the expediency of auricular confession and conventional establishments and an efficacy in the sacraments of the church not inferior to that claimed exclusively by the Roman Catholic church.

Postponement of the Czar's Coronation.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 14—The decision of the ministers to postpone the czar's coronation till next year was arrived at in consequence of the numerous revolutionary indications discovered by the Moscow police as the preparations progressed. The decision dissatisfies every one, as it will furnish aliment to the party of the Grand Duke Constantine, which bases its hopes on the theory that the Russian sovereign is not really emperor until he is crowned, and that the people should depose the prince who refuses to submit to the ceremony. To mitigate the evil effect of the decision the majesties will soon pay a visit to Moscow.

A LITTLE DOG'S SORROW.

FACTS MISSED BY THE GLOBE AND MAIL CORRESPONDENTS.

His Condition at the Train—He Refuses to Eat Mushroom—Col. Bagot Catches Flies for Him—He Tries to Eat His Tail—He Meets a Mongrel and Becomes Irregular—He Spoils a Mat at the Falls His Loss and Recovery.

BY SPECTATOR.

As the correspondents of the Globe and Mail have failed to obtain several important matters in connection with the Princess' little dog I have been at some pains to collect the most touching and important of these points, and beg now to lay them before your readers. The dog, in company with the princess, the governor and suite, arrived here on Friday or Saturday of the week. It was noticed by several gentlemen at the train, on the arrival, that the dog did not look well, and various surmises were afloat as to what could be the matter. His tail hung down straight and he refused a gingerbread which the marquis offered him. Some thought that the passage by train had the effect of unsettling his stomach, "but your correspondent learns on the highest authority" that his debility and depression of spirits were owing to his having suddenly, and before her royal highness or the governor could prevent it caught and actually bolted a small rat which was trying to get at the vice-regal lunch basket. The princess received a shock at this occurrence, "but your correspondent is glad to be able to state that she has now quite recovered from its effects." At the Queen's hotel the dog utterly refused to make friends with anybody, and even barked at the princess when she "tried him" with a little mushroom and milk. The acting private secretly informed me—"and I have his authority for stating the fact"—that the princess has never known him to refuse this before. The extent of his illness and consequent irritibility may be judged from the fact that when a darkey went into the vice-regal room at the Queens, the dog flew at him, despite the admonitions of the princess, shaking his trousers leg and putting one tooth into the man's flesh. But as a whole he did fairly while in Toronto and left room for hope by many that the crisis was safely passed. But to quote the line of a poet made almost it would seem to suit this occasion,

"Heaven from all creatures hides the book of fate."

All the way up to Niagara there were indications which could not but be viewed with positive alarm. Without the least notice being apparent the dog burst out of the arms of the princess; flew at something imaginary, whirled round and round, like you see dogs sometimes chasing their own tails; and not desisting till he went away staggering in the side of the car. With a promptitude that was highly creditable the acting private secretary caught the dog and restored him to his mistress, after which a lady of the household and a gentleman in attendance kindly volunteered to go try and catch two or three flies, as it was remembered by someone present that sometimes a terrier when known to reject all other food, and to be in a serious condition, will take flies. Two or three flies were found in the rear end of the car, two of which, fortunately, were obtained by the alacrity of Miss McNeilly, in which undertaking it would not be fair to omit mentioning that Captain Bagot and the acting private secretary rendered valuable assistance. To the heartfelt satisfaction of all, he ate the flies, after which there was much room to hope that the worst was over. Perhaps all might now have been well but for an incident whose important relation to the question demands that I should take notice of it. As the vice-regal train neared a station outside of the Falls, a common person, in point of fact absolutely a farmer, was standing by the edge of the platform accompanied by a disgusting and ill-bred looking little dog. Without the faintest indication of his action, Phiz sprang out of the car window and joined this disgusting looking animal to the utmost horror of the party. All at once his spirits seemed restored. He pricked up his ears, put his tail in a complete circle, and ran up and down the platform after the strange dog in the most extraordinary manner
