Work of College Hampered.

Sir Robert drew a very favorable comparison between Canadian and American universities, but pointed out that the work of Toronto University was being hampered to some extent by the lack of needed accommodation, and the lack, too, of a sufficiently large teaching staff.

In mentioning some of the recent changes in university regulations, among them the raising of the standard of entrance requirements, he declared that he did not favor universities taking up things that could be taught just as well at collegiate institutes.

At least $4,000,000 was needed for building requirements at Toronto University, which sum was probably almost double the case of which the matter was referred by the premier, has not yet been able to verify or otherwise the disposition of his home and furniture under unscrupulous inducements of the case of two children, stranded in Toronto, I may say that while this department to which the matter was referred by the premier, has not yet been able to verify or otherwise the claim made by Mr. Passoe as to the disposition of his home and furniture under unscrupulous inducements of the case of

Should Get Taxes.

Under the suspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Clare's Church on Sunday evening, a congregational meeting was held, at which David Carey, chairman of the separate school board, gave an eloquent address on "Modern Education."

The speaker urged the parents to spare no sacrifice to educate the children, pointing out how he had given up everything humself in order that his own children would be well educated.

After the lecture, numerous pertinent questions were asked by residents from the townchip regarding the unfair taxation. One point brought out by Patrick McDermott was that, altho the tax rate for Fairbank was increasing so rapidly, there was still no sign of a separate school in the district, and the children were obliged to attend St. Clare School.
