40,000 FANS SEE RED SOX WIN THRILLING CONTEST BY A RUN IN FOURTEENTH

Pennant Winners Battle for More Than Two Hours Through a One-Run Tie, When Pinch-Hitter and Pinch-Runner Score the Tally That Counts — Spectators Entranced by Deeds of Amazing Skill.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Tearing world series records and traditions to shreds, the Boston Americans defeated the Brooklyn Nationals by a score of 2 to 1 in a fourteen-inning game here this afternoon. It was the second contest for the championship and was decided only after a struggle that surpassed in situations any ever evolved in the fertile mind of a baseball fiction writer.

For more than two hours the teams, pennant winners in their respective leagues, battled with almost superhuman skill and courage through a one-run tie. Then, with the stage set as though for the thrilling climax, a pinch-hitter and a pinch-runner won victory for the Red Sox just as twilight threw its mantle of semi-darkness over the Braves Field.

Of the heroes who rose from the playing field like the warriors from the dragon's teeth, sown by Jason in tales of Greek mythology, Delos Gainer was the star of stars. It was his single in the gathering darkness of the final inning that scored from second base Michael McNally, running for Hoblitzel, with the tally that won the second straight victory for the Carriganites over the champions of the senior league.

Opens With a Sensation.

The contest opened with a sensational circuit smash by "Hy" Myers, in the initial inning, and not for a moment afterward did the struggle halt or lose interest for the forty odd thousand fans, who hung on every play with an intensity equal to that of the members of the two teams battling for fame and financial rewards. For a short space of time the lone run scored by Myers appeared to be the margin that might give Brooklyn an even break in the series. In the third inning, however, Scott tripled to centre, and scored the tieing run when Cutshaw juggled Ruth's tap, and had time only to make the play at first base.

From that point the Red Sox and Superbas grappled in a baseball battle that rolled through eleven periods of play, without the slightest advantage for either club, while diamond deeds of amazing daring and skill held the spectators enthralled. Sizzling hits, wonderful catches, scintillating throws, and the keenest of baseball generalship succeeded each other so rapidly that those preceding were forgotten in the stunning brilliancy of later events.

The Winning Run.

Thus it came about that with grey shadows creeping down over the stands to the field, the Boston players made their last stand at the plate. Sherrod Smith, Brooklyn's southpaw, who had fought a splendid twirling duel against Carrigan's left-handed star, "Babe" Ruth, faltered for an instant, with Hoblitzell at the bat. He could not locate the plate in the twilight and passed "Hobby" to Daubert's station. Lewis moved his clubmate to second with an infield sacrifice. Here the Red Sox manager showed his baseball acumen by sending McNally to run for Hoblitzell, and taking Gainer from the bench to bat for Gardner. Gainer set himself for his effort, and slashed a line drive between short and third, which came to Wheat on the second bound. The latter, playing in deep left, whipped the ball toward the plate with every atom of his strength, but McNally had sprinted with the crack of the bat and ball and slid home with the winning run before Catcher Miller could clutch the flying sphere.

Back to Brooklyn.

As a result of Gainer's hit the Boston team left for Brooklyn tonight with two of the necessary four victories to their credit, and will renew tomorrow at Ebbets Field the struggle for further honors. Almost simultaneously the Brooklyn players departed for their home grounds, confident that their fortune will change once they are back upon familiar fields, and bearing with them the admiration of every spectator who witnessed the desperate battle against what is conceded to be one of the greatest baseball machines of modern times.

Brooklyn, in the role of the vanquished, garnered almost as much praise and honor as the triumphant Red Sox. Their fighting spirit will go down as one of the most remarkable in the annals of the game. Holding the Carrigan clan for fourteen innings, before admitting defeat, they established a new record for world's series play, eclipsing the 3 to 3 thirteen-inning tie game played by the Chicago Nationals and the Detroit Americans in 1907.

Win Hall of Fame.

While Gainer's hit, coming as it did at the climax of a remarkable game, has earned him a place in the "Hall of Fame" reserved for baseball players, there were others whose play showed the heights to which a player can rise when occasions like that of this afternoon demanded. "Hy" Myers, already a hero with his home run in the opening inning, robbed Hooper of an extra base hit in the sixth inning, with a running catch, in which he picked the ball off the grass top and finished with a complete somersault. Great praise fell also to Pitchers Ruth and Smith, who swung through fourteen innings of the closest kind of play with a steadiness of service and pitching judgment seldom equalled.

Ninety-Nine Batters; Thirteen Get Hits.

Fifty-one batters faced Smith, and of this number seven got hits for a total of twelve bases. Of the 48 that stepped before Ruth's delivery, but six got hits for a total of ten bases. Scott was the only player to get two hits, his collection consisting of a single and triple. Sherrod Smith fanned but one batter, Ruth; but he did it twice, his rival hurler appearing unable to fathom his slants. Ruth fanned four, the quartet consisting of Daubert, Myers, Cutshaw and Olson.

The total attendance figures for the two games now stands:
Attendance, 77,490.
Receipts, $159,115.50.
Players' share, $55,922.37.
Each club's share, $28,640.79.
National commission, $15,911.55.

THE GAME BY INNINGS

First Inning.

Brooklyn—Umpire Dineen called play at 1:59 o'clock. With the count 3 and 2, Johnston raised an easy fly to Walker and was out. Daubert raised a foul which Gardner caught within a yard of the Boston dugout. Myers picked out a fast curve and hammered it to the fence in deep right centre for a home run. It was one of the longest drives ever seen at Braves Field. Wheat hit to Hooper for the third out.

Boston—Hooper tapped an easy grounder to Smith, who tossed him out. Janvrin hit to Myers. Walker raised a lofty foul which Daubert gobbled.

Second Inning.

Brooklyn—Cutshaw's fierce smash glanced off Ruth's glove, but Gardner made a quick stop and throw for the first out. Mowrey drove a savage liner to Janvrin. Olson struck out on a high fast ball.

Boston—Hoblitzell rolled an easy grounder to Olson and was out on a fast throw. Lewis made the first hit for Boston, a clean single to centre. Gardner's wicked grounder was deflected from Mowrey to Olson, who tossed the ball to Cutshaw, forcing Lewis on a close play. A rapid throw by Miller to Daubert retired Gardner.

Third Inning.

Brooklyn — Miller's grounder was taken by Scott in deep short. Smith cracked a clean double to right, but foolishly tried to take third and was out, Hooper to Walker to Scott. Johnston hammered a hot single to centre. Daubert made a bid for a two-bagger to left but the ball struck the ground six inches outside the foul line. Johnston tried to steal, but was an easy victim on Thomas' perfect throw to Janvrin. Johnston's spikes tore Janvrin's trousers from the waist to the knee.

Boston—Scott landed on a curve for a tremendous hit to the fence in left centre for three bases. Rapid fielding by Wheat prevented a home run. Cutshaw made a marvelous running stop of a grounder from Thomas' bat, and threw him out, Scott holding third. Scott tied the score as Cutshaw threw out Ruth. Cutshaw fumbled Ruth's bounder just long enough to prevent him from getting Scott at the plate. The next moment Cutshaw made a real error when he allowed Hooper's roller to go between his legs. Janvrin forced Hooper, Olson to Cutshaw. One run, one hit.

Fourth Inning.

Brooklyn—Daubert waited and got a base on balls. Myers hit into a lightning double play, Scott to Janvrin to Hoblitzell. With two strikes and one ball Wheat almost hit the ball into the right field bleachers beyond the foul line. It was a tremendous drive, but was foul by two yards. He then dumped an easy grounder to Ruth, who threw him out.

Boston—Smith threw Walker out on an easy grounder. Hoblitzell got a base on balls. Lewis hit into an easy double play, Mowrey to Cutshaw to Daubert.

Fifth Inning.

Brooklyn—Cutshaw swung at a wide ball and was out on strikes. Mowrey drove the first ball on two bounds to Janvrin and was an easy out. Olson belted a long single to left. Miller raised a high fly to Hooper in short right field.

Boston — Gardner rolled a slow grounder to Cutshaw, who tossed him out. Mowrey picked up Scott's sharp smash and got him on a beautiful throw. Thomas whaled a terrific liner to left, which bounded away from Wheat and rolled to the fence. As Thomas rounded second Olson collided with him and knocked him sprawling. Umpire Quigley, who was close at hand, declared Thomas was interfered with and sent him to third. Thomas thereby received credit for a three-bagger. Smith with a fast ball struck out; Ruth and Thomas was left.

Sixth Inning.

Brooklyn—Scott judged Smith's ugly

BERLIN BELLE CAPTURES GUELPH FREE-FOR-ALL

Rosie Winters and King Brino Take Others in Stratford Heats.

GUELPH, Oct. 9.—The only Thanksgiving Day attraction in Guelph today was the horse races, which drew a big crowd to the exhibition grounds. An added attraction was a five-mile automobile race. There were but three entries for this event, S. Tolton, with a Chevrolet, and R. E. Robson, with a small McLaughlin six. The race was a close one all the way, with the latter car in front from start to finish. Considering the conditions, a half-mile track with fairly sharp turns, the time, seven minutes, was considered remarkably good. The horse races resulted as follows:

Free-for-All, Half-Mile Heats.

Berlin Belle, J. Davey Kitchener	5	4	1	1
Col. Baxter, A. B. Baxter, Hamilton	1	1	3	4
Sidney Mac, James Hillis, Guelph	3	3	2	2

BROOKLYN STAGING CRUCIAL CLASH OF WORLD'S STRUGGLE

Cool and Breezy Day for the Third Contest.

ANOTHER RECORD CROWD

National Leaguers Hoping To Turn Tide Against the Red Sox.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 10.—With the battle for the premier baseball honors of the year transferred from Boston to Brooklyn today the baseball enthusiasts of Greater New York flocked by the thousands to Ebbet's Field to view the world's series.

In contrast with the warm haziness of the past few days, remarkable for its suitability to baseball, the morning broke cool and breezy with the promise of a day more suited to work on the gridiron than on the diamond.

Long before game time there was every indication that the stadium, at the call of play, would be filled to the limit of its 26,000 capacity. The playing field itself had been smoothed down for the occasion. Gaily decorated with bunting, it was flanked on three sides by the accommodations for spectators, additional seats to the number of 2,000 having been provided in stands stretching along the left field fence.

May Be Crucial Game.

The struggle of the day, coming after the two desperate encounters in Boston, which left the Brooklyns without a victory and gave the Red Sox a commanding lead in the battle for the "crucial game" of the series.

"On familiar ground, after the loss of two heart-breaking struggles on alien soil, the Dodgers figured in the calculations of ardent Brooklynites as likely to gather sufficient inspiration from congenial surroundings to give them the edge they lacked in the Braves' field encounters. A pair of reverses by single-run margins, in one of which five extra innings were required to subdue them, was not looked upon as an indication that the National Leaguers were outclassed and doomed to certain defeat. Nevertheless it was realized that today's game might virtually decide the series, as another setback would force the Robins to the wall where a single thrust would mean their downfall. It was likely to be either the turning point of the series or a continuation of the Red Sox march to victory, and with no decided superiority in run-making power demonstrated by the American Leaguers the supporters of the National League champions were not inclined to concede anything until they were forced to do so.

Red Sox Confident.

On the other hand the Red Sox rooters came primed for the continuance of their favorites' triumphal progress, confident in the superiority of the Boston machine, supremely reliant that "class would tell." One game, at most, for the Robins was all that the great majority of them would concede. Manager Robinson of the Brooklyns, as usual, gave no hint of his pitching selection, but Jack Coombs was looked upon as his probable choice, with Marquard in a comeback effort as a possibility.

Probable Line-up.

The probable line-up of the teams for today's game is as follows:

Boston—Hooper, r. f.; Janvrin, 2b.; Walker, c. f.; Hoblitzel, 1b.; Lewis, l. f.; Gardner, 3b.; Scott, s. s.; Carrigan, c.; Leonard, p.

Brooklyn—Johnston, r. f.; Daubert, 1b.; Myers, c. f.; Wheat, l. f.; Cutshaw, 2b.; Mowrey, 3b.; Olson, s. s.; Miller, c.; Coombs, p.
