Western "U" Students Get Great Ovation at World Convention in Des Moines

Londoner Composes Song Which All Canadian Delegates Sing—Maple Leaf Deleg ates Make Presence Known in Holiday Parades—Dr. John R. Mott Makes Call To Service.

(By T. Roy McLeod.)

DES MOINES, Jan. 5.—With delegates from 1,000 universities present, along with representatives of forty nations, the eighth international student volunteer convention opened in the Coliseum here. The huge building, which seats 10,000 people, was packed with students, the Canadians numbering about 400, 192 of whom are from Ontario institutions, being placed in the centre of the main floor, directly behind delegates from abroad. On their right delegates from Colorado and Iowa are seated, with Michigan and Maryland students at the left.

The Coliseum, with two balconies on three sides of the building, resounded with the yells of various delegations prior to each session. The best of feeling exists between each state's representatives, Ohio, Indiana and Virginia giving the Canadian yell several times last night. Each state and province has its reservation in the Coliseum denoted by large signs.

To a Western University delegate, a London youth by the way, falls the honor of having his composition sung by all Canadian delegates here. To the tune of "Mademoiselle of Armentieres" it immediately found favor with the Canucks, 90 per cent of whom are returned soldiers and are familiar with the tune. The words are:

"What's the matter with Canada? She's all right.
What's the matter with Canada? She's all right.
Our stay with you is very brief.
We're out for gore and the Maple Leaf.
What's the matter with Canada? She's all right."

Composed En Route.

The verse was composed en route to Des Moines, and the Western "Med" was awarded first prize on the train for his ditty. The prize was one dime.

Drawn by two locomotives, the special Canadian Pacific Railway train bearing the Eastern Canada students here arrived Tuesday shortly before noon. At Detroit, Chicago and Kalamazoo, the natives were regaled with college yells, the Western "U" crowd doing its part. At the latter place Monday evening impromptu dancing was enjoyed by the Canadians, a mouthorgan and "kazoo" constituting the orchestra.

Following arrival at their destination, the Canadians hiked to the First Methodist Episcopal Church, where luncheon was served, after which each province was introduced and the individual Canadian institutions called upon to give yells.

Bennett of King's College, the oldest overseas British college, introduced Dalhousie, Truro, Mount Allison, Pinehill, New Brunswick, King's and Prince of Wales' universities. President Link of the University of British Columbia introduced his school, Professor Otterwell the University of Alberta, Professor Tisdale the University of Saskatchewan, and Professor Bowman the University of Manitoba.

Woman Introduces.

A woman student, Miss Nichol, introduced McGill, Stanstead and Royal Victoria, and A. B. Ramson spoke for Queen's, Albert and Belleville.

H. Lloyd of Toronto introduced his university, also Toronto and London normals, along with Western University, Huron College and the Ontario Agricultural College.

Although the western delegation comprises but four students, they gave their yell, and received the greatest applause from the throng, possibly due to the fact that they made up for lack of numbers in the noise provided.

At midnight New Year's Eve the Canadians paraded the streets of this city shouting: "Johnny Canuck! Johnny Canuck! In you're not with us you're out of luck! C-A-N-A-D-A!" and were joined by hundreds of American students. They concluded their New Year ushering by visiting the Wellington and Franklin hotels, where Canucks are quartered, parading the halls and roofs, "raising ned" in general.

Financial Difficulty.

On arrival in Des Moines, Canadian delegates immediately experienced financial difficulty, the rate of exchange charged here on Canadian money being fifteen per cent. Several business houses interested in the convention changed it at par. However, arrangements were made by the convention executive to exchange Canadian money at a ten per cent discount.

On dining cars en route to Des Moines Canadian bills up to two dollars for an individual were accepted at par. The Eastern Canada delegates will leave here at midnight Sunday, when the convention concludes, the Western Ontario students arriving home early Tuesday morning.

Wednesday afternoon John R. Mott, president of the student volunteers, opened the convention.

Dr. J. Ross Stevenson of the Princeton Theological Seminary delivered the invocation, and closed with the Lord's prayer, in which the thousands of students jointed.

was announced before the first speaker was introduced that the custom of the former conventions prohibiting applause of any kind would be followed.

Missionaries who have come from all over the earth were called to the platform and occupied seats near the speakers' table.

Speaking for a wide horizon of world service, Dr. John R. Mott opened the convention with an address on "The New World and the New Day."

Shaken World.

"It is a shaken world," he said, and again he told the student delegates that the world is more teachable now than ever before. "It is a humbled world," he continued.

"What nation today gives one the impression of pride and self-sufficiency, as was true of not a few nations six years ago? Wherever we go we hear the three questions—How did we miss the way? What is the way out? How long, O God, how long?"

Bolshevism, Dr. Mott said, has not been concerned with dividing the world vertically, into nations, but horizontally, arousing an antagonism of class against class.

Dr. Robert E. Speer, the second speaker of the afternoon session, delivered a powerful sermon on "The Immanence of God."

Dr. Speer's Address.

"The question has been asked, do we know of a single optimist in the world today? Are there any grounds on which a man could have a heart of hope and confidence and good cheer in this present dark, torn and embittered world?

"What kind of a world ought the world of God to be? It ought to be the kind of a world in which the principles of co-operation take the place of all principles of envy and strife and bitter rivalry. It ought to be a world where the bonds of union bind across all fissures and gulfs within and among the nations of men.

"It ought to be the kind of a world where the value of persons is supreme and all things take on a new value. It ought to be a world in which, instead of principles contending against principles, the individual against society, the nation against humanity, all these are gathered up into one great correlation, and we realize that the whole life of man is the life and the interest of Christ.

Call To Service.

"There are many of us here in this gathering today who are open to the danger of splitting human life up into fragments and thinking that some sections of it lie under a sacrificial loyalty from which other sections are exempt. There is no one of us who can enter life without divine sanction for services as his life's duty. Every man and woman is obligated to live under the law of human service."

Foreign Delegates.

Foreign delegates are in attendance at the Student Volunteer convention from Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, Costa Rico, Salvador, Venezuela, Columbia, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chili, Peru, England, Scotland, France, Holland, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Scandinavia, Poland, Checho-Slavakia, Greece, Bulgaria, Roumania, Russia, Japan, Korea, Siberia, China, The Philippines, India, Ceylon, America, Syria, Africa and Australia.

DON'T PAMPER YOUR STOMACH

Fear of Dyspepsia Robs the Entire System of Necessary Nutriment—Eat a Diversified Meal and With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets You Will Avoid the Distress of Indigestion.

Just because the stomach sours with gassiness, heartburn, water brash and such distresses after eating, is not a good reason for depriving the system of nourishment.

Instead of indigestible and innutritious bran and skim milk try the better plan of eating what you like and follow your meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest food, they assist the stomach to secrete juices that keep the stomach sweet, active and with the alkaline effect, just as when the stomach is in perfect health. Nor is it necessary to discriminate. You may eat freely of onions, sausage, mince pie and baked beans, or other dishes, such as average dyspeptic views with horror, suffer no distress if you follow with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. There is no need to fear any kind of food anywhere or place, for with these tablets you may prevent those distresses formerly made you pamper your stomach as if it were a tender infant. You can get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store at 50 cents a box.

$400 FINES ARE HANDED OUT TO BOOZE SELLERS

Two of the Twenty-Two Suspects Now in the Toils Convicted.

"FLY-COPS" TESTIFY

One Crown Witness Admits He Was Convicted Under the O. T. A.

The prosecution on Monday afternoon commenced its case against twenty-two local men charged with selling liquor and, by springing evidence which J. M. McEvoy for the defence found it impossible to combat, Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop succeeded in obtaining two convictions. The unfortunates who fell victims to the Ontario temperance act were Frank Baker, a returned soldier, who is still suffering from a badly wounded arm, and Leonard Pryor, colored, of 101 Clarence street. Instead of the usual $200 fine, Magistrate Graydon fined the men $400 and costs each, with the alternative of four months in the county jail.

Roy Cutts and Cyril Henry, special officers in the employ of the Ontario license board, were the men responsible for the two convictions. They have been working in London for more than two weeks, and have secured evidence which will be used against the other twenty men who will be tried today and tomorrow.

Cutts admitted in cross-examination that he had been convicted and fined at Brantford for violating the Ontario temperance act, which he is now employed to enforce. He also admitted to Mr. McEvoy that the Brantford magistrate refused to believe his evidence, given in the police court of that city.

During the hearing of the two cases on Monday afternoon the counsel for the defence and the court had a number of tilts. In both cases when evidence was produced which Mr. McEvoy could not combat without other witnesses, he asked permission to summon the other witnesses. Magistrate Graydon consented, but Mr. McEvoy could not produce the witnesses within a short time, and the cases were disposed of.

Witnesses Missing.

In the case of Pryor, a man and woman who were to have testified that he was at his home and in bed at the time he was alleged to have sold whiskey to the "fly-cops" could not be secured to testify. These two witnesses were in attendance at the court during the morning, and were ready to give testimony, but Crown Attorney McKillop was unable to proceed with the cases at that time. They failed to appear at the afternoon session.

There was considerable dispute as to whether the house visited by the two whiskey sleuths was at 101 William street or 101 Clarence street. The bottle of liquor purchased by the sleuths bore a label in Cutts' handwriting, saying that it was secured at 101 William street. Henry testified that he had gone three or four blocks east on Horton street before turning down to the place where the liquor was purchased. Cutts explained that he remembered it was bought at 101 Clarence street, and thought that by mistake he had written William street on the bottle.

Pryor swore that he was in bed at the time he was convicted of selling liquor to the "fly-cops," and his wife corroborated him.

George Baker was convicted of selling liquor at the Iroquois Hotel. The sleuths claimed that "Paddy," the bartender, told them that they could secure liquor from Baker. The accused denied that he had ever sold liquor to the men. Mr. McEvoy wanted to bring "Paddy" to court, but the man who dishes out two and a half per cent could not be found. Therefore Baker must serve the next four months in jail unless he can raise $400 to pay his fine.

In Captivity

A lot of us keep our brains in captivity by buying cheap jewelry at sales. Break the shackles of chance buying, safety first ideas. Buy from John A. Nash, My Jeweler. He sells that better grade of jewelry at really fair prices. His store is 206 Dundas street, "Where You Will Eventually Buy."

MUSICAL TREAT FOR LONDONERS PLANNED

Famous New York Chamber Symphony Coming Here On January 14.

An announcement of unusual importance is made by the London Conservatory of Music to the effect that a concert by the New York Chamber Symphony has been arranged for Wednesday evening, January 14, in the Auditorium.

This orchestra consists of eleven people picked from the leading symphony orchestras of the world. Every member was the soloist on his particular instrument in the great orchestras up to the time he became a member of this organization.

It is stated authoritatively that there is no other organization like this in the world. It is a unit of sheer artistic values. There is but one woman in the orchestra—the great Carolyn Beebe, pianist, who is the leader and founder. The other members are:

Pierre Henrotte, first violin, a Belgian, has held the post of concert-master of the Metropolitan, Chicago and Boston opera companies, as well as the official symphony orchestra of the San Francisco Exposition.

Scipione Guidi, second violin, Italian, first prize Royal Conservatory of Milan, concert master to Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra.

Samuel Difscrey, viola, American soloist, New York Symphony,

Paul Kefer, 'cello, French, gold medalist Paris Conservatorie, soloist for five years with the New York Symphony.

Emil Mix, double bass, American, ten years with New York Symphony.

Gustave Langenus, clarinet, Belgian, soloist Queen's Hall Orchestra, London, under Sir Henry Wood.

William Kincaid, flute, American, the greatest of American flutists, soloist, New York Symphony.

Henri de Busscher, oboe, Belgian, soloist for Ysaye at the age of 16; for eight years first oboe soloist for the Queen's Hall Orchestra under Sir Henry Wood.

Ugo Savolini, bassoon, Italian, soloist with London Symphony and New York Symphony; considered the finest bassoon player in America.

Joseph Franzi, French horn, Bohemian, soloist with Pittsburg and New York Symphonies.

All U. S. Citizens.

Each member of this remarkable orchestra is an American citizen. Those who were born subjects of the allies are naturalized citizens of the United States. Their repertoire includes every known combination of instruments used in chamber music. The remote libraries and museums have been indefatigably searched for unpublished novelties by the great authors, and many numbers on their program have never been performed publicly before. Music from the works of Beethoven and Mozart to that of the modern Russian school is represented.

Great enthusiasm is already manifested among local musically-inclined people. The appeal of a good orchestra is universal.

Man Has Back Badly Hurt While at Work

Walter Outram, 744 Grey street, was severely injured while at work yesterday, by the fall of some heavy weight on his back. He was attended by Dr. Duncombe, and later removed to Victoria Hospital. The doctors have been unable to determine the extent and nature of his injuries, so an "X" ray examination will be made today. Today Mr. Outram was reported as "much better."

ALD. MOORHEAD OUT FOR CHAIRMANSHIP OF NO. 2 COMMITTEE

If Beaten Will Take Any Post Assigned.

Ald. C. G. Moorhead, who polled the highest vote of any alderman in the last election, will be in line for the chairmanship of No. 2 committee, the board of works. Whether he is appointed or not will rest with the remainder of the council.

"I have never been an office seeker, and I am not going to change my policy now," said Ald. Moorhead today, "but if they see fit to appoint me to the position I am ready to accept the responsibility. In previous years, although I polled the highest vote as alderman, I did not offer myself for the chairmanship of the committee. In 1917 I withdrew in favor of Controller J. M. Moore, who was an engineer, and the logical man for the position.

"I shall do the same this year if the council should decide on another man for the chairmanship. As a member of a committee I shall endeavor to serve the city in the best way that I can."

Ald. William A. Wilson is considered as another possibility. His vote was only one-third that of Ald. Moorhead's, but he has served longer on the council, and the population of his ward is much smaller than the other. In view of his length of service he may be chosen.

Ald. Moorhead, having polled the largest vote in the city, will call together the striking committee, probably Wednesday. In addition to himself, this committee is composed of Aldermen E. R. Seabrook, J. Cameron Wilson, F. R. Watkinson and Mayor-elect E. S. Little.

ABOUT RHEUMATISM

What Thousands Have Found Gives Relief From This Painful Trouble.

Rheumatism is a constitutional disease, manifesting itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles. It cannot be cured by local or external applications. It must have constitutional treatment.

Take a course of the great blood-purifying and tonic medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acid condition of the blood on which rheumatism depends, and gives permanent relief. This medicine combines, with excellent alteratives and tonics, what is generally conceded to be the most effective agent in the treatment of this disease.

If a cathartic or laxative is needed take Hood's Pills. Pur[illegible]able.

CONCRETE VESSELS PLAN NOT SUCCESS

London, Jan. 5.—The final report of the select committee on national expenditure, says the work of the ministry of shipping has been remarkably efficient, and its financial arrangements satisfactory. The report expresses opinion that though the experiment in the construction of concrete vessels was justifiable under the conditions of 1917-18, the scheme was on too great a scale for experiment, and that expectations of it failed. Fourteen fabricated ships, completed or building, says the report, have been sold and will yield a profits of over £1,300,000. Two hundred standard ships, it adds, have been sold to the allies of Great Britain and other foreign nations.

TOYS IN FRANCE ARE BRINGING HIGH PRICES

Paris, Jan. 6.—High prices rule in the French toy trade, and many a little Parisienne is tenderly caring for a doll which cost a large sum, but which in other years might have been purchased for a comparatively insignificant sum.

"Toys have never been so dear," said a leading toy dealer today. "Between you and me, however, there have never been so many sold. An undressed doll, which sold for four francs before the war, sells today for eighteen francs, and dressed dolls, which in 1914 brought 15 francs, now sell for 50."

STATISTICIAN IS ARRESTED.
