LORD ASHBURTON.

(From the London Sun.)

We insert the following paragraph on the authority of the Morning Chronicle :—

"Having, to our great surprise, learned yesterday afternoon, that a bill had been found on Thursday last, by the Grand Jury of the Central Criminal Court, at the Old Bailey, against Alexander Baring, now Baron Ashburton, Francis Baring, and Humphrey Mildmay, on an indictment preferred by Thomas Kinder, we afterwards ascertained that the information was correct.

"The proceedings before a Grand Jury are, of course, ex parte. In stating the bare fact of the finding of this bill, we need only say that we have no wish to give pain either to the noble baron, or the two gentlemen against whom, as well as himself, the bill has been found. But whatever may be the issue of this prosecution in a Criminal Court, it can hardly be necessary for us to observe that a most important mission having been confided by the government to Lord Ashburton, the public interest require that the effect which a grave proceeding as that to which we have adverted, may have on the result of that mission, should at least be known and made the subject of deliberation, before the departure of the noble lord."

We presume this criminal charge applies to Lord Ashburton's connection with the United States Bank, against some of the late Directors of which a similar indictment has been found in the United States. The operations of that Bank having extended to England as well as the United States, they expose its partners here, as well as those there, probably, to such a charge. We hope the Noble Lord will come clear and clean out of the matter, but after this it will be utterly impossible for him to shake himself clear of his connection with that disreputable corporation. We doubt now whether Lord Ashburton will proceed on his mission.

(From the Boston Mercantile Journal.)

The following article on an interesting subject, we copy from the Madisonian of the 9th inst. The Madisonian has the character of being the organ of the "Executive," which gives to its opinions on the subject of our foreign relations, an importance which they otherwise might possess :

"THE SPECIAL MISSION.—Our friends of the National Intelligencer seem to think that the mission of Lord Ashburton to this country inconclusive as to the peaceful disposition of England, preliminary to a full and entire settlement of the difficulties now existing between the United States and Great Britain.—Such may be, and we sincerely hope is the case, but, as we remarked a day or two since it may turn out otherwise. Suppose the English Government to have determined on a war, and to be awaiting the most favourable juncture for the commencement of hostilities. What, in such an event, would be the course most naturally pursued on their part?—Would it not be to allay all suspicion, and prevent preparation, so that whenever the time of striking the blow shall arrive, it may be inflicted with the greatest effect. We have no disposition to doubt the sincerity of the British Ministry, but we know, from experience, that when that government intends to do anything, its agents are not so weak as to trumpet forth its intentions, and thus counteract its movements. Again, it is the policy of Great Britain to maintain the appearance of a desire to continue her friendly relations with this country, in order to place us, if possible, on the defensive, and thus have a pretence for any attack that she may meditate.—With a view to effect this, the first thing to be done would be to employ, as diplomatic agents, men whose connexions with this country are such as to produce an impression that their learning will be in our favour. Mr. Featherstonehaugh was of this description, and so is Lord Ashburton; but whatsoever may be the personal partialities of these gentlemen, their political obligations are all known to be strongly against us, as was evidenced by the report of the former in the question of the Northeastern boundary.

Now when matters stand thus, it is not wise, while we hope for the best to be prepared for the worst, and without courting difficulties, to place the country in such a posture as to render them comparatively harmless? We have always been prone, as a nation, to put off the evil day of expense; and have thus in more instances than one, been forced eventually to incur burdens, which had a little forecast been exercised, would have been, to a great extent, avoided. The English are a brave people and a warlike people, but they are also a prudent people, and are most apt to strike when they think the blow may be given with the least probability of its being effectually returned. We seldom see men quarrel when each knows that the other is ready to fight, and of all peace makers that we have ever known, perfect preparation for battle is the best, among nations as well as individuals. Our view of the matter is simply this: let Lord Ashburton be met in a spirit of frankness and conciliation, and let every thing be done, as we doubt not will be the case, to effect an accomodation of difficulties, that honor may sanction, but at the same time, let Congress take its measures, and make its appropriations, with a view to every contingency. Let the British Mail Steamers, when they visit our coast, find that we also are acquainted with that branch of naval architecture, and that the length of our rivers, and extent of our coast, furnish a peculiar facilities to the transportation of passengers and property by steam. In a word, let us be as we should always be, ready for a war, and then, and then only, shall we be enabled to secure an honorable and permanent peace."

ERROR.—In our notice last week of Domestic Manufactures, the name of the Fire Club to whom the new Engine belongs should have been "Union Fire Club," and not "Protection," as there stated.

To the Electors of Queen's Ward.

GENTLEMEN—The impoverished state of the Corporation, and the improvident, lavish, and useless expenditure of public monies, having alarmed and agitated the public mind, it has become necessary that a change should take place in Civic Officers. Impressed with the absolute necessity of Reform, and urged by many respectable parties whose properties are jeopardized by the recklessness of the present incumbents, I am induced to offer myself as a Candidate for the office of Alderman of Queen's Ward, and shall make my appearance at the Hustings for that purpose on Tuesday the 5th day of April next.

I am, Gentlemen, your's, obediently,

ANTI-BILIOUS SOLUTION.

THIS Invaluable Medicine has only within a few years been offered to the Public, the Proprietor having used it in his private practice for many years, and has experienced the most wonderful success by its use in the undermentioned diseases.

In a few moments after taking it the patient is entirely relieved of the most painful heartburn, or pain occasioned by a superabundant quantity of bile in the stomach and bowels. Though the effects of the Anti-Bilious Solution are so instantaneous, they are not the less permanent; it strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite, removes all acidity and bile from the stomach and bowels, raises the spirits, and strengthens and invigorates the whole constitution.

The most delicate and feeble invalid labouring under Dyspepsia will by continuing the use of the Anti-Bilious Solution for a few weeks, experience its most happy effects in being restored to the enjoyment of perfect health.

* Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Weakness, Langour, Coldness of the Extremities, Morbid Acidity in the stomach and bowels, headache, drowsiness, habitual costiveness, and general debility, bilious complaints of every description, diarrhea, vomiting, sour stomach, wind and flatulency of the stomach and bowels, jaundice heartburn, eruptions of the skin, scrofula, and red gravel, Asthma and Coughs in old Persons.—For these and many other complaints the proprietor has experienced the greatest benefit in his general practice, and can confidently assert that others may experience the same result by merely attending to the directions in taking this Medicine.

The subscriber has received a supply of the above for sale at the late Circulating Library Germain Street JOHN ELLIOTT.
