INDUSTRY.—Man must have occupation, or be miserable. Toil is the price of sleep and appetite, of health and enly ment. The very accessity which overcomes our natural sloth is a blessing. The world does not contain a brief or a there that Divine Mercy could have spared. We are happier by industry then we could have been with spontaneous pleaty and unbounded profusion. The body and the mind are improved by the foil that futures them. That not is a thousand times rewarded by the pleasure which it bestows. Its enjoyments are peculiar. No wealth can purchase them—no indoleace can taste them. They flow only from the exertions which they repay.

Talests is a Napkin.—A gentleman once introduced his son to Rowland Hall, by letter, as a youth of great premise, and aslikely to do honor to the University of which he was a member; "but he is slay," added the father, "and idle, and I fear buries his talents in a napkin." A short time afterwards, the parent, ancious for his opinion, inquired what he though of his sen? "I have shaken the napkin," said Rowland Hall, "at all the corners, and there is nothing in it."—Planamon Marczine.

It is those sufferers who may have neglected to avail themselves of the means of providing against such calamities.
