A LADY in Halifax is suffering in consequence of a mistake made in a drug store. She was given a prescription by a doctor for a lotion with which to bathe her face. ON Saturday afternoon William Cooper of Royalty Junction appeared before H V. Palmer, J. P., charged with having assaulted one Mrs. Emma Diamond, of the same place, contrary to the statute in such cases made and provided. The trouble appears to have had its origin in a dispute as to the right of taking possession of some wreckage on the railroad track. Mrs. Diamond claimed it because the section foreman told her she could have it. and Cooper claimed it because the station master gave it to him. Mrs. Diamond's children were removing it when Cooper came along and interfered with them. Mrs. Diamond then showed up and interfered with him, and dignified him with some unprintable titles. He caught hold of her and threw her in the snow. Although she is his mother-in-law she had him arrested for assault and being so ordered by the magistrate, he paid one dollar in full for the assault.

Said a Lady

to us a day or two ago, "You folks have got your name up for selling goods very cheap."

"We're going to keep it up," said we in reply.

The old-fashioned way of doing business was to charge as much as possible;—the new way, the way that draws the crowds, the way that is building up our big business, is to sell as cheap as possible.

We prefer doing a big business and selling goods cheap, to doing a small business and selling goods dear.

It Pays Us to Make it Pay You.

to buy from us, and that's just what we're doing.

Our Fur Goods are desperately cheap, and the balance of our Jackets, Capes and Ulsters can be bought for the price of the cloth.

All kinds of Goods are cheap. You see we must have money to pay for the big stock of goods our buyer is now buying in the Old Country.

Buy now—the profits are yours instead of ours.

A VERY successful surgical operation for the removal of a uterine tumor was performed on Mrs Michael McCarvill in the Charlottetown Hospital on Wednesday. The tumor had been growing for about fourteen years but Mrs McCarvill would not consent to having it removed, till recently when she was almost in extremis. The operation was performed by Dr. S R Jenkins, assisted by Drs. Conroy, McLeod and Kelly, and was that of hysterectomy. The tumour weighed something over thirty pounds. This, as far as we can learn is the second operation of the kind performed on the Island and the first at the Ch'town Hospital. A CHILD named Cassford, whose family lives on the Malpeque Road, opposite the residence of Mr. Maurice Blake, was very badly burned on Friday. The little one's mother went out to the barn about five o'clock that evening, leaving the child, aged about ten months, and two twins about four years old, playing near the fire When out a few minutes, she was called back to the house by terrific screams. On entering she saw the baby rolling on the floor and enveloped in flames. She extinguished the blaze and sent for medical assistance. All the clothing, with the exception of an under garment, was burned, the thighs charred to the knees, and the flesh on the left leg burned to the bone. The doctor did all he could for the little one but recovery is doubtful. The cause of the accident is unknown, but it is supposed that the children were playing with the fire and in that manner ignited the babys' clothing.

AN extraordinary case of highway robbery has been reported to the authorities of Halifax. The victim is John Ellerson, of Hammonds Plains. The robbery was committed in broad day light and on a public highway. Mr Ellerson says that while driving on Kempt road two men suddenly appeared. One grabbed him by the throat, and after much difficulty threw him down. While one of the robbers was going through his pockets the other held his hand over the victim's mouth, and almost strangled him with the other. Ellerson resisted violently, but his assailants being stalwart men soon had him nearly insensible. The robbers succeeded in getting Mr Ellerson's pocket book with all the cash it contained. From descriptions given of the highwaymen, it is thought they are two characters well known to the police.

H. will take place, after their attendance at divine service in St. Dunstan's Cathedral. The sermon on the occasion will be delivered by Rev. A. McAulay. In the evening, the beautiful drama of "Robert Emmet" will be played in the Lyceum by amateur talent. We have seen a rehearsal of the drama and can safely say that the piece will be capitally acted.

Summerside, Souris, Alberton and Emerald will also celebrate the day with grand musical and literary entertainments. At the latter place the orchestra, glee club and band of St. Dunstan's College will render several selections.

Somewhat of a sensation was caused at the recent Patti performance at Montreal, by the orchestra failing to play "God Save the Queen," when the curtain fell. The audience sat dumbfounded until the Governor-General, Lord Aberdeen, stood up in the vice regal box and started the national himself. The manager of the theatre explained the neglect to Lord Aberdeen as due to the presence of Patti's own orchestra, who were not aware of the custom.

The British Columbia legislature had a twenty-four hour sitting last week. The opposition talked against time to delay the passage of the estimates so that the government would be forced to proceed with the redistribution of seats bill before supply had been voted. The opposition however caved in, and their leader, Mr. Beaven, left in high dungeon denouncing the government as "a pack of blackguards" because they would not consent to an adjournment.

A London theatre produced a play in which was shown the ruler of a desert island who had an army consisting of two men, an officer and a private. He reviews his troops, and, while complimenting the rank and file, harshly critizes the officer. The officer threatens to resign, whereupon the ruler caves in and apologizes and good relations are restored. As showing the sensitiveness of diplomacy it is pointed out that a portion of the performance has been eliminated at the instance of the Foreign Office as offensive to the Khedive, whose emissaries must have pointed out the objectionable nature of the hit.

At Sherman, Ala., last week a thirteen year-old boy, Thomas Douglas, was lynched by a mob and his body then riddled with bullets. The offence was the shooting of a deputy sheriff. The deputy went and levied upon the only cow the boy's mother had, for a debt she owed. The mother refused to let the animal go, and when the deputy said it was his duty to take it, she told the boy to shoot him. Cornett laughed and said he guessed the boy would not do anybody any harm, and started to drive the cow away. No sooner had he done this than the lad stepped up and shot him through the heart with a revolver.

Not only the medical world, but the laity, have been highly interested by the evidence adduced by Professor Horsely in his lecture at London the other day, proving that the prehistoric man in the stone age frequently performed the dangerous and delicate operation of trephining. He had found sixty skulls in collections of these relics on which the operation had undoubtedly been performed. One case had been done by drilling a series of small holes, probably with a bone implement, then breaking the small partitions, and so releasing a small piece of bone. Another case seems to have been done with a flint saw. A third method was by scraping. This discovery is the most important proof yet found of the high intelligence of the unrecorded race.
