GRAY'S WHOLESALE.

AN EXCITING INCIDENT AT JACQUET RIVER

An exciting incident occured recently at Jacquet River Station when Constable Doucette of that place was knocked temporarily senseless by a big prisoner whom he was escorting to the county jail in Dalhousie on a charge which had to do with the manufacture or sale of hootch. Suddenly deciding that he did not wish to visit the shiretown accompanied by an officer of the law, the big stranger attempted to escape. A heated scuffle ensued before a number of excited spectators and in a few moments Doucette got the upper hand. Apparently content that the constable was too dangerous to trifle with, the prisoner suffered himself to be led to the train. As he was mounting the steps, however, he turned quickly and landed a powerful sleep-producer on Doucette's jaw. He then leaped across the platform and started for the main road. Men standing nearby gave spirited chase but as each man caught up and attempted to stop him, the stalwart runner catapulted each pursuer into the ditch, and made good his escape. So far he is still at large.

Buck—"Can you give a definition of an orator?"

Private—"Sure. He's a fellow that's always ready to lay down your life for his country."

THREE FIRE ALARMS FROM THE SAME BOX

During the last week three fire alarms have been rung in from box 12 on the corner of King and Queen Sts. The first fire, which did not occasion much damage occurred on the Schooner "Carmel" at the government wharf on Thursday last at midnight. The fire originated from a spark from the donkey engine which ignited on the deck. The old coal shed at the entrance to the same wharf was the scene of the second blaze which brought the firemen out at 5.45 Tuesday afternoon. This fire was apparently caused by children setting off fire crackers in the building. The blaze was promptly extinguished but it would have been as well if it had burned down as the disreputable old skeleton is merely an eye-sore.

The third fire, which occurred at noon here yesterday, broke out in the upper story of a house on Ramsay Street owned by B. Hello and occupied by J. E. Dion. It took some little time to reach the flames, but very little damage was done the building, excepting a part of the roof which had to be torn open in order to locate the blaze.

WILLIAM DESMOND TAYLOR MURDER CASE REVIVED

Alleged Writer of Threatening Letters is Held for Examination As To Mental Condition

Martinez, Cal., July 25—Albert Sans alleged author of threatening letters to Mabel Norman, film actress, and to Mack Senett, motion picture producer, was held today pending a hearing to determine his mental condition.

Police declare Sans apparently is obsessed by a hallucination that he is responsible for the death of William Desmond Taylor, screen director, slain in Los Angeles in 1921.

The missives to Miss Normand were so loosely written as to be nearly incoherent, but the text of some indicated that Sans entertained an idea he was engaged to wed the actress.

In spite of the similarity between the names of Sans and that of Edward Sands, valet, who was sought in connection with the killing of Taylor, authorities scouted the theory that the men are related.

The cowpuncher had applied for a policy and the insurance agent was catechizing him in the usual manner.

"Have you ever met with any accident?"

"No," said the cowboy, but added in an effort to give some hepful information. "A bronc kicked two of my ribs in last summer and a rattlesnake bit me in the ankle, a couple of years ago."

"My word!" faintly expostulated the insurance agent, "don't you call those acidents?"

"Naw," said the knight of the branding iron, "They done it a-purpose."—The Argonaut.

"What are you going to do when you get through college?"

"I'm going to be a concrete engineer."

"Well, you've got the head for it."
