A PASS FOR THE GIBBET!

OLD MAN CARLSON'S STARTLING EVIDENCE AT THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Martin Burke Identified by the Owner of the Famous Cottage as "Frank Williams"—A Scene That Held the Breath of the Crowded Court Room—A Wild Story From Winnipeg.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Martin Mitchell, a carpet layer, was the first witness in the Cronin trial this morning. He testified that the carpet bought by "J. B. Simonds" in February last was laid by him on the floor of a room at 117 Clark-street. Witness was shown a piece of carpet, presumably from the Carlson cottage, and identified it as the same in pattern as that which he had laid in the Clark-street room.

Annie Carlson was then placed on the stand. The young woman began her testimony very timidly. She stated that on March 20 she was at the Carlson cottage when a man came to rent the cottage. He said his sister was to keep house for him, and he had some furniture he wanted to move in at once. He gave his name as Frank Williams. Miss Carlson then identified Martin Burke as the man. This ended her examination.

The Owner of the Cottage.

Jonas Carlson, owner of the cottage, was the next witness. He corroborated the testimony of his daughter-in-law about the stranger coming to rent the cottage. Witness said he had met and talked with O'Sullivan, one of the defendants, many times. O'Sullivan lived in the immediate vicinity. The stranger, after renting the cottage, walked to O'Sullivan's stable and talked with O'Sullivan. Witness heard Burke say to O'Sullivan, "The cottage is rented." On the afternoon of May 4 a few hours before Dr. Cronin was murdered, witness saw Burke on the front steps of the cottage. At 7 o'clock that night witness heard two men talking in the cottage "in a loud voice." In April he without conversed with O'Sullivan about the men who rented the cottage. O'Sullivan said he knew one of them and he was "all right." On May 19, Carlson told O'Sullivan the cottage was vacant and he had received a letter from Alice and Romance, all of whom are held either as prisoners or witnesses.

THE GRAND TRUNK'S COUP.

The Obnoxious Spur Completed During the Night—The Case at the Hall.

HAMILTON, Nov. 1.—When the rain was coming down yesterday forty or fifty sturdy laborers were at work building the spur line through the farm of Solomon Gage to connect the main line of the Grand Trunk with the Northern and Northwestern division. The Grand Trunk put the men to work laying the rails on Wednesday afternoon as soon as the officials heard the result of the injunction proceedings, and it was finished at 7 o'clock Saturday night. A reporter went over the spur on a hand car this afternoon and found the rails laid on the unballasted line in a reckless and uneven style, evidently done as a mere formality. At the south end there is a point automatic switch the same as that at the "Junction Cut," and the other is a stub switch of the ordinary kind. About a hundred men are at work digging ditches along the road, and no work is being done ballasting. They are apparently satisfied with getting the rails down somehow.

The Hamilton and G. T. R. Injunction Case.

The motion by Mr. F. Mackelcan, Q.C., for the city of Hamilton for an injunction against the G. T. R. restraining the company from proceeding with the work of connecting the Hamilton and Northwestern railroad and Great Western railroad about two miles from Hamilton, thus side-tracking the latter with the proposed through line to Buffalo, was argued yesterday in Chambers before Chief Justice Hagarty.

Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., and Mr. John Bell, Q.C. appeared for the G. T. R. His Lordship reserved judgment.

New Grain Rates From Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—These new grain rates on grain were yesterday adopted by the Chicago Board of Marine Underwriters, to take effect at midnight: From Chicago to ports on Lake Michigan, 55 cents net; ports on Lake Superior, $1.20 net; to ports on Lake Huron, Sarnia and Detroit River, 90 cents; to ports on Georgian Bay, $1.10 net; to ports on Lake Erie, $1.10 net; to ports on Lake Ontario, $1.35 net; to Ogdensburg, $1.35 net; to Montreal, $2.25 net.

A Wild Story of the Murder.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—A Winnipeg despatch states that the convict Gillette informed Mr. Baker that Burke told him the murder of Dr. Cronin was committed by Burke, Coughlin, Cooney, a man named Dennis and a man whose name Gillette cannot recall. Another man was to have assisted in the murder but backed out. The deed was done with clubs. After the doctor was dead his face was pounded out of shape to prevent recognition. The body was first thrown into the lake but the water washed it ashore. The motive of the murder was the betrayal of the order's secrets by the Doctor and his informing on a man who was short in his accounts.

State's Attorney Longenecker ridicules this story, and says he has Gillette's story locked in his safe. It is unlike that of the despatch. Attorney Ingram also pronounced the story a wild one.

Detectives are looking for the woman who Gillette says Burke spoke of. A woman with whom Coughlin was acquainted left for the Old Country last spring. It is hinted she went to England to receive the tin box containing Cronin's clothes.

His Wicked Partner.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Sylvester E. Brown, partner of Thomas Kavanaugh, one of the men indicted for trying to bribe the Cronin jury, brought suit to-day for a dissolution of the partnership. Brown says all the contracts the firm had on hand were cancelled and it is impossible to make any more contracts on account of the prejudice which the indictment of Kavanaugh caused. Judge Jamieson is sued an injunction restraining Kavanaugh from interfering with the business.

No Free Hymn Books.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The Acting Secretary of the Treasury has informed Rev. J. H. McIndrow, rector of St. Mary's Church, Amsterdam, N.Y., that there is no provision of law which would authorize the admission free of duty of 200 hymn books recently imported from Toronto, Canada, for choir and sodality use in St. Mary's Church.

GLASGOW'S HORROR THIS TIME.

A Gable Wall Falls on a Factory and Kills Fifty Workmen.

GLASGOW, Nov. 1.—The gable wall of a building which was being erected alongside of Templeton's carpet factory was blown down to-day. An immense mass of debris fell on the roof of the weaving department of the factory, crushing it in and burying fifty girls and women employed in the weaving rooms.

The work of searching the ruins for bodies is being carried on this evening with the aid of electric light. Six corpses have been recovered. Eighteen persons were badly injured. The accident happened shortly after the workmen had left the new building. There were 140 girls at work in the carpet factory. The majority of them made their way out safely but many had narrow escapes.

Midnight—Up to this hour 17 bodies have been recovered. As far as ascertained 33 girls are still missing.

The latest estimate of the loss of life is that fifty persons have been killed. The loss of property aggregates $75,000.

THE HAVASSA RIOTERS.

Landing a Big Batch of the Murderers in the Baltimore Jail.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—About 1 o'clock this morning the United States revenue cutter Ewing arrived in the harbor conveying the brig Alice, which arrived in the Capes yesterday with part of the Navassa rioters. The Romance, with the remaining rioters, was left down the bay in charge of the revenue cutter Lot M. Merrill. The prisoners captured on the Alice were lodged in the city jail.

In the examination of those on board the Alice important facts were elicited. It was shown by some of the negroes that a conspiracy to murder the white men was planned some days before Sept. 14.

The attack commenced in conformity with the plans by striking in the head Charles W. Roby, the superintendent of the mines. He was left for dead. The crowd then proceeded to the quarters of the superintendent and before night and after the whites had delivered up all their arms five men were murdered in cold blood. Mr. Foster was disemboweled.

District Attorney Hayes, who has been since Oct. 17 on the Ewing, considers the Government has a strong case against a dozen or more ringleaders. The cases will be pressed for trial at once. There were 124 persons brought up by the brig Alice and Romance, all of whom are held either as prisoners or witnesses.

WRANGLING RE THE COSTS

AFTERNOON AND NIGHT SESSION OF THE BOARD OF REGENTS.

More Lively Passages Between Reverend Doctors—An Unconstitutional Meeting—Disregarding the Methodist Conference's Decision—Cobourg's Ultimatum Met by One From the Regents.

For six hours yesterday the Board of Regents argued in Wesley Buildings, Richmond-street, over the latest development of the Victoria University squabble. All the old ground was traversed and numerous were the calls to order. The upshot of the heated debates was the passing of a resolution declaring that the board accepts the Cobourg proposals for settlement provided the costs are left with other matter for settlement by arbitration. This will be submitted to plaintiffs to-day and if accepted the injunction will be removed; if rejected the suit goes for trial on Tuesday next at the assizes at Cobourg and will probably occupy several days.

Hon. Senator Macdonald said since the last meeting of the Board of Regents a number of laymen and Methodist ministers had met in the Metropolitan Church and passed a resolution against the action of the highest court of the Methodist Church, the General Conference. They had also appointed a committee to ascertain what money could be raised for a purpose foreign to the declared findings and desire of the conference. The Hon. Senator wished to know whether the highest officer of the Methodist Church proposed to issue a notice to the public stating over his own signature that action was utterly unconstitutional.

The Chairman: The highest court of the Methodist body, its decisions and its officers are not receiving much obedience or respect now on the part of a section of the Methodist Church. I cannot give any definite answer at present.

Mr. Britton's Succinct Statement.

On the request of the board Mr. B. M. Britton, Q.C., gave a concise statement of the present position of the suit by the town of Cobourg against the Board of Regents. The successive steps are well known to readers of The World. The question of costs was the only bar to the settlement of the injunction matter.

Dr. Griffin: Then, are we to go on? Are we in doubt as to the proper course? Are we diffident in going into details seeing that the Board was divided on the subject.

Dr. Carman: Then, are we come to a pretty pass when the board's solicitor does not represent the board but only a portion of it.

Dr. Burns: Mr. Britton is not the servant of part of this board but of the whole.

Several voices: No, no; the board is divided. Some of the board are for the plaintiff and some for the defendants. [Laughter.]

Dr. Griffin: The men who are fighting against the board ought not to be in the secrets of our solicitor.

Dr. A. Sutherland: We have not been.

The Chairman: We can only recognize that this is a corporation suit. The World says that if the things have come to a pretty pass if we cannot decide on a question of costs without fighting anew the battle of federation. [Hear, hear.] I had hoped we had come here to decide a matter of business. If not we may give up meeting and law and pretence to do anything but fight. [Hear, hear.]

Mr. Britton, in answer to questions, said the costs now would probably amount to $3000. If the injunction trial went on the costs would probably reach four times that amount.

Dr. Burns: Is the question of costs all that is between us and the town of Cobourg?

Mr. Britton: I am assuming that the board will not go back on its resolution. [Laughter.] The matter is urgent. An order was obtained yesterday, returnable at Cobourg on Tuesday. Toronto, who cannot go down to Cobourg for the trial on Tuesday.

Dr. Stone strenuously pleaded for an agreement to settle the matter in the interests of peace and the removal of the scandal of a quarrelling and divided party.

The Senator Does Not Mince Matters.

Hon. John Macdonald, in an earnest speech, deprecated the proposed settlement as laid down in the memorandum read by Mr. Britton. This, he maintained, was speciously worded to give the plaintiffs a status at the arbitration which they did not at present possess. [Hear, hear.] The calling of a special meeting of the Methodist conference he regarded as a great mistake. The conference was divided and the country is unanimous in condemnation of the project. Such a course would afford a bad precedent and make the decisions of the highest court anything but binding. With warmth, said the Senator: "I could never be a party to breaking down constitutional barriers. [Hear, hear.]

Dr. A. Sutherland vigorously defended the people of Cobourg and their famous injunction.

Dr. Potts suggested that the question of costs be arbitration.

Dr. Sheraton was certain that the Cobourg people would not agree to this.

Dr. Parker would not pay the costs of men who had sued the university and plunged the Methodist Church in litigation.

Then others chimed in and sang the same old tune, Dr. Burns asserting that "things are more mixed than at the last meeting."

Reverend Doctors Cause Some Fun.

Dr. Burns worked himself into a fury. "No decree," said he, "of the Methodist Conference would ever stop their tongues—[laughter]—and if the next conference does anything we don't like we'll agitate, agitate." [Applause and laughter.]

The Chairman called Dr. Burns to order and he collapsed.

Then Dr. Griffin took up the tale and strode up and down the room talking at the rate of 300 words a minute and gesticulating wildly. "Talk of the question of costs," interrupted the chairman. "That's the thing I am talking about," replied the bulky doctor amidst roars of laughter. He then for a moment referred to the Cobourg proposal, but soon was off the rack and metaphorically, he flew at the throats of Dr. Dewart and Dr. Parker. Whilst at fever heat he rushed to the chairman and assured that patient functionary: "Doctor, I'm as cool as a cucumber!" [Oh, oh, and laughter.] "Well, I am," said the imperturbable, "only when so much twaddle is talked about traitors and treason it makes me mad."

Dr. Griffin closed by valorously saying, "Let the action go for trial. It cannot cost us so much as arbitration."

Hon. John Macdonald: "Not so much." [Dr. Potts: "Hear, hear."]

Dr. Griffin pathetically added: "I don't like Cobourg to sit down on me—to trample on me, or wipe its feet on me, and hence I say: To the trial let us go."

Prof. Mills, Dr. Dewart, Bursar George A. Cox objected to the proposed terms of settlement with Cobourg.

After further vigorous discussion and the defeat of two resolutions, it was moved by Dr. Potts, seconded by Dr. Burwash and carried by 30 votes against 2 (G. A. Cox and Prof. Mills):

That the board, having heard the proposal of the plaintiffs, as embodied in the minutes of judgment prepared by their solicitor, hereby resolves:

1. That we can not and do not by anything in this resolution admit any validity in any claim which may be set up by the plaintiffs, especially as we have no certain knowledge of what these claims are.

2. That we can not and do not admit any payment of costs as a matter of right.

3. That the board therefore hereby instruct their committee to abide by their resolution in regard to the submission of the questions at issue to the special session of the General Conference and in regard to all financial matters, including costs to accept arbitration, that is to say the question of costs of the action apart from those the defendants are already ordered to pay be referred to the arbitrators who may be appointed to determine the other money claims put forward by the plaintiffs, the particular form of the minutes of the settlement to be left to our solicitor in this action.

THE HARVEY MURDER TRIAL.

All the Evidence In—The Judge to Charge the Jury This Morning.

GUELPH, Nov. 1.—The court opened this morning at 9 o'clock and from that hour till 4.30 p.m. the time was taken up with examining W. J. Cookburn, H. J. Doughty, guards, and R. McKim, sheriff, as to conduct of the prisoner and his conduct while in jail.

Dr. Herod gave evidence as to the appearance of the prisoner when he first was arrested and as to his treatment during confinement. He also gave evidence as to the causes of insanity and quoted medical works to substantiate his statements. He was followed by Drs. Aikins and Richardson, who gave their version of the causes and effects of insanity. This closed the evidence for the defence.

Mr. Lount, Q.C., and Mr. E. F. B. Johnston addressed the jury for about two hours when the court adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow, when the judge will deliver his charge to the jury. The jury was locked up for the night.

WAGING THE PAVEMENT WAR.

Engineer Cunningham Replies to the Ratepayers.

The protests against the manner in which the Sherbourne-street pavement is being laid are being entered as vigorously as ever. Mr. William Myers of Sherbourne street was at the Mayor's office again yesterday insisting that the material being used in laying the pavement is not according to the specifications. Engineer Sproatt visited the ground in the afternoon and will make a report in a few days. In the meantime Assistant Engineer Cunningham has submitted a report. He replies to each paragraph of the Sherbourne street residents. It was impossible, he says, to roll the upper end of the street with a five ton roller, on account of the light, sandy soil there existing. At the lower part of Sherbourne street the soil is loamy, and the rolling had been done regularly. With regard to the gravel placed under and around the curb stones, he took up one stone and found more than is called for in the specifications.

With regard to the crown of the street, the contractors had begun to lay it at the north end the same as in Jarvis street, viz., 6 inches. Mr. Cunningham afterwards told the contractors that 4 inches would be sufficient owing to the car tracks being in the centre of the street. This change was made, but the residents of the street wanted it reduced to 3½ inches. Mr. Cunningham's opinion was that such a reduction was unnecessary, but as the contractors lay the pavement under five years' guarantee he was willing to make the alteration provided they would give him a letter to the effect that this alteration would not affect the guarantee. He also had instructed them in certain portions of the street, saving that when the natural grade was flat 2½ inches was too little to properly drain off the water. He therefore refused to give the order to so change the street. It was afterwards arranged that where the natural grade was flat 3 inches of crown would be allowed. Mr. Cunningham concludes: I do not think the citizens are justified in the complaint they have made about the tender portion of the street. An asphalt pavement when clean and dry is not slippery, but when wet and coated with greasy mud it is slippery no matter if it be laid on a dead level.

A CLUB BALL.

The Toronies to Warm Their New Home with a Social Social Affair.

The Toronia Club, since moving into its elegant new home at Wellington and York streets, has been contemplating a social event of some kind or other in the shape of a house warming. The matter is now taking form and it has been decided to give a club ball which probably will be the event of the social season of 1889-90. Several meetings have been held but the date of the affair has not been settled. The committee of management will meet shortly and well represented and they will be represented on the committee. Capt. J. J. Stewart and James W. Hendrie of Toronto will be on the committee from the Ambitious City.

There will be a big drive in the amusement world next week and several elaborate entertainments are on the cards.

"Evangeline," with all its beauties of costume, scenery and stage effects, will hold the boards at the Grand the first three nights of the week, with a matinee on Wednesday. The last half of the week, beginning with a matinee on Thanksgiving Day, will be honored by the presence of a comedy company in "Surprises of Divorce," new to Toronto.

At Jacobs & Sparrow's Opera House all next week the extravagance of "The Arabian Nights" with gorgeous scenery and effects, will be given. There will be a special matinee on Thanksgiving Day.

At the Grand this afternoon Mr. Mantell will present "The Marble Heart." To-night his engagement closes with "Othello."

At Jacobs & Sparrow's this afternoon and evening "The White Slave" will be the attraction for the last time.

Miss Nora Clench will open the new Academy of Music on Nov. 6. She will be assisted by a talented company. The plan is at Nordheimer's.

Levy and his company, together with the Heintzman band, will give a concert at the Academy of Music on Monday evening, Nov. 11. Tickets at Nordheimer's, Whaley Royce & Co.'s, and Heintzman's.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the humorists and Hoosier poets, are traveling as a double barrelled platform entertainment, and will appear at the Pavilion (in Toronto on November 11, under the auspices of the Young Men's Prohibition Club.

The first five dramatic performances in the Academy of Music will commence on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 7, with a matinee. The old English comedy "David Garrick" and Greendy's comedietta "Man Proposes" will be given afternoon and evening and repeated on Friday and Saturday. Manager Greene has secured the services of the Wood St. John Comedy Company, who have for the last two seasons been quite successful in the principal theatres of the United States.

The Syracuse Union says with regard to Miss Augusta Obstrom, the Swedish prima donna, who is to appear in the Horticultural Pavilion on Monday evening, Nov. 4, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra: Club: "She can sing with marvelous power and volume, she can execute trills and cadenzas and roulades like Patti, but her best is a faint, sweet strain, the echo of a silver bell, a fairy melody made perfect by the expression of a human soul."

The Elm-street Methodist Church choir has never begun a season with brighter prospects than it starts out with this year. It has a well-balanced chorus, a good quartet of solo voices and, what is most desirable, the members take an interest in rehearsals and are working hard to make the concert on the evening of Thanksgiving Day the most successful that they have yet given.

The People's Concert, with a notable list of contributors, will take place in the Pavilion Tuesday evening, Nov. 5.

The first of "Miller's realistic travels" was given last night in Temperance Hall. A series of beautiful views illustrating the most picturesque towns of the Old World proved enjoyable and instructive.

A good programme of Irish songs and melodies will be given at the I P B S concert at the Pavilion on Nov. 14. These artists have been engaged: Mr. James Thomson, Mrs Mackelcan, Mr Percy Gillight, C V Slocum, E W Schuch and H L Clark. The full band of the G O B will be present.

The seats for the Thanksgiving Concert of St. George's Society were well taken up at the opening at Mason & Risch's warerooms on Saturday. Englishmen may confidently count on one of the largest houses of that evening, devoted as it is to amusement. The programme will be essentially one of English music, and will in this respect recommend itself to all Britons.

Mr. Tate's Assailants Severely Punished.

Magistrate Denison made short work of the three young rowdies who so atrociously assaulted Mr. Thomas Tate Thursday evening at midnight. They were booked to the Central Prison for 6 months, John Boyd got 4 months and Albert Williams was sent to jail for 30 days. Nye has already been in the Central and Williams is under suspended sentence.

Thomas Vance, secretary of the Royal Scarlet Knights, writes to The World to say that if the little young rowdies attended their concert they did so as ordinary individuals and paid their admission; also that they are not True Blues as stated in your first drum band. Mr. Vance's first statement is probably correct, but the latter is certainly incorrect. The three rowdies belonged to Queen City Lodge of True Blues.

For School Trustee in St David's.

Mr W J Hambly, for many years foreman of The Mail's composing room, and now one of the editors of that paper, has frequently been asked to stand for Public School Trustee in St. David's Ward. Mr Hambly has consented to face the music at the next election. Trustee E P Roden is likely to be his particular mark. Mr Harry Parr, of the union band, is said to be a candidate. Here is the way one St Davidite lists the candidates: Mr Hambly, Methodist; Mr Roden, Methodist Church. Mr Hambly will run on the Orange-Tory ticket. Mr Parr on the Reform ticket. Mr Hambly will seek the suffrages of the common sense people, with a liberal support from the foregoing elements."

The Freshmen Are Cooled Off.

The trouble between the University medical freshmen and the second year Arts men has been amicably settled. They met yesterday morning in Prof. London's lecture room, and after some discussion it was decided that the Arts men should pay a stiff cash fine on either side of the ladies. They will also be boycotted by the girls, which has been apparently the bone of contention.

An Industrial School for Girls.

The Board of Directors of the Industrial School for Boys has passed a resolution pledging to erect a similar institution for the reclamation of young girls who have been in downward courses and as $10,000 has been subscribed, Mrs. Aikins of Jarvis street is to be the treasurer of the fund.

Jottings About Town.

Dr W A Dixon has passed very successfully his examination for M.R.C.S., Edinburgh.

James Milligan was arrested yesterday charged with committing an aggravated assault on John G. O'Keefe.

Fred Chambers, 89 Edward-street, was arrested by Policeman Ross yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing an umbrella from a dry-goods store in Yonge-street.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Metropolitan Church held a thanksgiving social last night in order to raise funds for charitable purposes. There was a large attendance.

The I.P.B.S. held their regular meeting last night. Ald. McMillan in the chair. The annual thanksgiving sermon will be preached by Rev. William Patterson in Cooke's Church, Sunday, Nov. 10, at 3 o'clock.

In the Surrogate Court yesterday Frederick E. Fuerst applied for probate of the will of Robert H. Trotter, who died Oct. 21 last, leaving property valued at $6000. The whole is bequeathed to Emily Jane Fuerst, wife of the applicant, and an adopted daughter of deceased.

S. T. Wood presided at the anti-Poverty Society's meeting last night. Several members were elected, after which interesting questions touching on the aims of the society were considered. Mrs. Lizzie Griffith will be able to deliver his lecture on "State socialism" as announced.

An officer arrived yesterday from Rochester to take back the two crooks, Peter Dunn and William Kennedy, who are wanted there for stealing two gold watches and two diamond studs from Rossa & Nolan's jewelry shop. In the Police Court yesterday they affirmed that they would sooner be in jail in Rochester than at liberty in Canada.

St. George's Society concert takes place at the Horticultural Pavilion on Thanksgiving day, the 7th Nov., when the following renowned artists will appear: Mrs. Agnes Thomson, soprano; Miss Jessie Alexander, elocutionist, Miss Langstaff, contralto; J. Churchill Arlidge, flautist; Giuseppe Dinelli, accompanist; E. W. Schuch and choir of the Church of Redeemer. Tickets can be obtained at Mason & Risch's music store, 32 King street east.

At the second meeting of the University of Toronto Medical Society last night this program was gone through: Address by the chairman; chorus, "A Tavern in the Town," by students; paper by Dr. Daniel Clark on "Borderland of Insanity"; duet, "Lorbeed Watch," by Messrs. Butters and Warbrick; paper by Dr. Ferguson on "Vertigo"; solo, "Sing to Me the Old Scotch Song," by Mr. James Proctor; notes on an interesting case, by Mr. Matthew McFarland.

Excursion to New York.

H. W. Van Every has received word that Buffet sleepers will be run in connection with his cheap trip to New York city, which leaves Toronto Nov. 9 at 12
