THE business man of to-day has very little time to spend reading his morning paper and therefore wants to get all the news in short, readable form. TORONTO is a big city and the daily occurrences interesting to the general public are numerous. As a concise, reliable paper none can compare with The WORLD.

HOW TO GET THE FIFTEEN ACRES.

Professor Goldwin Smith's letter to the Mayor in regard to saving the best piece of Queen's Park to the city is timely. To pay $35,000 a year rental, as the Professor points out, is not to be entertained. He then asks if there is not a modified plan. We believe there is. How would it do for the city to exchange some of its property down town for the university property in the park? As long as the University can secure a revenue we do not suppose it makes much difference to it where the land is.

Or could not the city borrow half-a-million dollars at three per cent. on the security of the 15 acres in question and buy the land outright with the money? The interest on half-a-million at three per cent. is $15,000 a year, which is $10,000 less than the rental asked by the trustees of the University.

There are a great many projects now before the citizens, all requiring money, but we believe that a great mistake will be made if we allow this fifteen acres to go into the market.

During the prevailing spell of weather take things easily; don't worry. If you can't keep cool, keep your temper.

A MINERAL POLICY FOR ONTARIO.

The World again suggests to the Ontario Government the desirability of instituting a policy of encouragement to mining industries in this province. We want all kinds of smelting works in Ontario: Iron, silver, copper, nickel. Especially so ought we to have active iron smelting. We are doing well with copper and nickel. Some means ought to be devised of subsidizing iron smelting. It may cost something but it will pay. No country is great without iron. Ontario will never be up to the mark without furnaces. It is no answer to say that the tariff is against the creation of the industry: We hold that the Government of Ontario can do a great deal towards giving the province a boom unequalled in her marvelous history.

The Globe, in order to let Mr. Mercier down easy, alleged that the extravagant budget of Quebec was a legacy he had received from the extravagant Tories that preceded him. That is only partially true. One of our contemporaries in Quebec has published the increases made in the budget by Mr. Mercier, and these are, for the greater part, of an unnecessary character—nothing but bribes to constituencies. The great item in Quebec's budget to-day is interest on borrowed money; but besides this there is a large outlay under the head of controllable expenditure, and here immense reductions could be made if Mercier had the nerve to do it.

The Hamilton Herald says a correspondent informs it that a jag is a bat. "N. W." writes to The World that the word is probably derived from the Scotch jaug, meaning a leather bag, wallet or pocket, hence that which is carried therein—a small load, as of hay or grain in the straw. "Rounder" sends a communication to the effect that the word should be written jagg, that it is derived from the Welsh, Irish and Gaelic gag, meaning aperture, cleft, chink, and that its signification is a ragged protuberance, hence the expression, "I feel very ragged." Trench, the eminent verbarian authority, speaks of "jagged vine-leaves' shade," and Sir Walter Scott refers to a peddler as a jaggar. The subject is evidently a deeper one than appears upon the surface, but we shall get to the bottom of it yet.

A correspondent who claims that he does not now suffer from the effect of heat as much as he formerly did, attributes this immunity to the fact that he steers clear of iced water and iced drinks generally, and confines himself to drinking warm tea or coffee three or four times a day.

The Marine Railway, 25 miles in length, connecting the Gulf of St. Lawrence with the Bay of Fundy across the Isthmus of Chignecto, will be completed by September next. Large sailing vessels which cannot go through the Strait of Canso will save 700 miles by this route, while steamers to St. John, N.B., from the St. Lawrence river will economize 500 miles. As this will be the first marine railway to be built, the results of the enterprise will be looked for with interest.

What Has Become of the Viaduct?

The Telegram has had a great deal of alleged fun over the Carnival, trying to discover its whereabouts, etc.

Could The Telegram tell the people what has become of the viaduct—its viaduct—Robert Jaffray's viaduct—Mr. Wilkie's viaduct—or any other viaduct?

The Turkish Government wants Great Britain to fix a date upon which it would evacuate Egypt. Turkey is evidently pining for a chance to impose fresh burdens upon a country which is just beginning to show signs of prosperity.

Bro. Dana is unrelenting in his warfare on ex-President Cleveland. He now charges the Stuffed Prophet of William-street with pleading a previous engagement when invited to take part in the unveiling of the Hendricks statue at Indianapolis, when in fact no such previous engagement existed. Worse than that, he proceeds to prove the charge. If ever Mr. Cleveland has an opportunity to attend Bro. Dana's funeral he will let no previous engagement hinder him from being on hand promptly.

A private citizen of New York offers to bet that he can beat any man in the world in a molasses-eating contest. The curiosities of the human family, it seems, are not always Aldermen.

Philadelphia last year drank 870,000,000 glasses of beer and smoked 300,000,000 cigars. A city can't do all this without showing the disastrous effect of it in its census.

South Dakota has had little more than a month's experience with prohibition and already, as was predicted, in the villages the drug stores are doing the work of the saloons, while in the cities there is not even any pretence of forcing the dry law. In Deadwood the saloons are licensed openly and take revenue from the traffic unblushingly. The Omaha Bee says: "Compared with the orderly enforcement of high license in Nebraska, the obedience to law, and the absence of strife and malicious prosecutions, prohibition in South Dakota is the essence of outlawry, a premium on free whisky, and a menace to public order." And yet the fatuous fanatics probably will have the temerity to claim that prohibition prohibits even in South Dakota.

A POLITICAL FAILURE.

As a foreign minister Lord Salisbury's career has been a conspicuous success. As the leader of a great party the British Premier has been a dismal failure. The despatches this morning announce that the Government have dropped the Irish Land Purchase Bill—which was introduced with a flourish of trumpets as the Government's chief measure of the session—the Tithes Bill and the standing order relating to hanging bills. The whole session has been a disastrous one for the Government. Lord Salisbury entered upon his ministry with an overwhelming majority. His support is now so wavering and uncertain that he dare not insist upon any measure against which the Opposition are united. Were he obliged to go to the country to-day his defeat would be almost certain. If his course continues to grow unpopular in the same ratio until the term of the present Parliament expires he will go to the polls without a possibility of victory.

ENCROACHMENT ON QUEEN'S PARK

Dr. Goldwin Smith Addresses a Stirring Letter to Mayor Clarke.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—My connection in the administration of the City Charities with many of those who take the most active interest in everything that affects the welfare of the people of our city will, I trust, excuse my apparent presumption in addressing you to ask whether it may not still be possible to save the fifteen acres of the park north of the university, now used as a cricket field and as a general playground, from being cut up into building lots to increase the revenues of the university?

It is needless to say how indispensable open spaces for fresh air and recreation are to the health, the happiness and even to the morality of the population of a great city. How can we expect the character of our boys to be what it ought to be if they have no playground but the streets? The crowds which fill Queen's Park every fine Sunday afternoon or summer evening show how inestimable is its value to the citizens of Toronto. High Park, though we gratefully recognize not only the benevolence of its donor but the pains which are being taken by the city authorities to improve and beautify it, is too far off for the purpose of ordinary evening recreation, still more for those of a playground. One American city after another having neglected, in the earlier stage of its growth, to secure parks or open spaces, and finding how essential they are to the healthiness and enjoyment of city life, is now endeavoring to repair its error.

If Queen's Park is lost, with it will go the last chance of a park near the heart of the city for Toronto. As the city grows the difficulty of obtaining land near the heart of it will of course increase. Already a cruel slice has been cut out of the park by the Government for the Parliament buildings, without apparent necessity, since there was plenty of room for building on the Front-street site.

I know that the interests of the citizens in this matter have not been neglected by the city authorities. I am aware that your own attention has already been turned to the subject and that you have sounded the trustees of the university as to the terms on which they would be willing to make over the land. They propose, it seems, a lease of the fifteen acres by the university to the city for 21 years at $35,000 a year, the lease to be renewable at a valuation. Such a proposal could not be entertained. But is it not possible that better terms might be secured? Institutions themselves endowed by public munificence ought to be liberal in their policy when public interests are concerned. An old university man and an Oxford ex-professor is not likely to underrate the value and claims of universities, yet I should hardly rate the extension of an academical staff or an increase of the number of students above an object vital to the welfare of the inhabitants of this great city.

Toronto, July 10. GOLDWIN SMITH.

THIS WAS THEIR LAST MEETING.

The Markets and License Committee Wind up Previous to Vacation.

There were present at yesterday's final meeting before vacation of the Property Committee, Chairman Moses, Small, Leslie, Bailey, McDougall, Carlyle (St. Thos.), Maughan, Gibbs, City Commissioner Coatsworth. It was resolved to purchase a new site for a fire hall in St. Mark's Ward, provided the present Brock-avenue hall can be sold to advantage. A sub-committee was appointed to take charge of the matter. On motion of Ald. Small it was resolved to instruct the City Commissioner to place loops of chain along the Don piling for the better preservation of life and to prevent drowning accidents. Ald. Vokes wrote apologizing for non-attendance on the ground of being out of town.

It was decided to request the experts, Messrs. Damp and Galley, in the matter of the St. Andrew's Market addition, to superintend the required alterations in the completed work, their fees to be dedicated from Architect Paul's account. A sub-committee was asked to adjudicate upon the city hall housekeeper's application for an increase of salary. It was the unanimous opinion of the committee that Mrs. Harris' request be granted. Ald. Maughan, Small, Moses and City Commissioner Coatsworth will select places for bathing in the East and West End. Ald. Maughan said it was time the city took steps to cancel the lease of the Turner baths on the west point of the Island. He charged that there was a regular saloon there, where whisky and beer were sold. The City Solicitor will be asked to see what chance the city has got to regain possession of the lease. If successful the site will be made a public bathing place.

Ald. Ritchie's name, as chairman of the sub-committee on Ashbridge's Bay, came in for considerable censure in not calling it together. Ald. Shaw claimed that the City Engineer's report, which was before the committee, could not be considered until it had been passed upon by the sub-committee, while Ald. Leslie suggested that the latter meet to-day and choose another chairman. There was a deputation of East End property-owners interested in the work on hand to watch proceedings. The discussion ended by the committee resolving to meet next Thursday in special session to go thoroughly into the matter.

House Investments.

It is an undisputed fact that house property in Toronto is to-day as good an investment as can be had. For instance any one holding say 20 houses, worth $2000 each, would in two years, after taking into consideration that the cost of production in wages and material has increased to between 20 and 29 per cent., be able to show on the $40,000, calculating at say 22½ per cent., a profit of $9000. This is indeed no small profit for such a short period. In addition to this there are good rents coming in each month. A person holding $100,000 worth of house property has in addition to the regular rents for two years an increase in value of $20,000.

Long Branch Cottagers

Will be catered for in groceries, fruits, etc., by the well-known firm of Mara & Co. of 280 Queen-street west, who, while establishing a branch store in the Park, will also wait upon the cottagers daily and make direct deliveries from their head store. Intending residents by dropping a post card to the firm stating their contemplated date of departure will be waited upon by their representative for their opening orders and have same duly delivered at their cottage. 135

THE CRICKET CREASE.

The Toronto Colts and Parkdale Play a Drawn Game Yesterday.

A friendly match was played on the Bloor-street grounds yesterday afternoon between the Toronto Colts and the Parkdale eleven. The wicket was favorable to scoring and consequently the bowlers suffered on both sides. The Colts batted first. J. Johnston played well for his 26. Wood's 43 was the result of clean batting. Capt. Laing decided to close his inning at 5½. Only four Flowery Suburb wickets were down at the time for drawing stumps, so the result goes as a draw. J. E. Hall's 24 were well put together. The popular cricketer received an ovation when Wood got his wicket. The score:

BASEBALL AT TRINITY.

A Review of the Season—Improvement in the College Play.

[Trinity University Review.]

The baseball season of 1890 at Trinity has been on the whole a very successful one; successful not so much in the number of victories obtained, as in the improvement in the team's work and general interest awakened throughout college in the great American game. Besides matches there have been inter class games which have caused great rivalry and excitement. In the latter 90 and resident graduates combined have proved themselves victors, easily defeating 92, who in turn vanquished 91. The college nine has played in all six games, two at home and four away. The former proved to be victories, while the latter were defeats. On behalf of the team it may be said that the defeats were against well known and first-class teams, especially in the case of the Parkdale Beavers, which is probably one of the strongest semi-professional teams in Canada. It is a pity that both Wycliffe College and McMaster Hall were unable to play us, as we feel sure that these games would have resulted in favor of Trinity, but McMaster Hall could not play us on account of examinations. Wycliffe confessed to being afraid. Both games against the Varsity Buffs were very close, only being really won in the last innings. In the game against Oakville, Trinity showed a weakness at the bat, but notwithstanding an adverse umpire and playing with but eight men we managed to keep them down to eight runs. Trinity getting three in the meantime. In reviewing the season's work, the most striking point is Trinity's weakness at the bat. The number of men striking out has been most lamentable. Sacrifice hitting has been very scarce with one brilliant exception. Pringle has done more of the latter kind of batting than all the rest of the men together. The base-running has been brilliant and yet poor at times. The pitching department has been rather erratic, for the first five or six innings good and in the latter part of the game decidedly bad. Of course, all this weakness both in batting and pitching is largely due to the lack of practice. On the whole we need not feel ashamed of our record, and everything points to a prosperous season next year. The team has had experience, and as we only lose about two members the spring of '91 should prove a brilliant one for baseball at Trinity.

THOSE CORNWALL LACROSSISTS.

A Pretty Good Sized Exhibition of Nerve—They Feel Wronged.

The gentlemen who take interest in lacrosse in Cornwall are a very much maligned lot. And they are also very novel. Certain reports appearing in certain Toronto and Montreal papers were not to their taste and at a mass meeting there the other night it was resolved to condemn these papers. A couple of Toronto journals were commended for giving impartial reports, and "the meeting had no hesitation in recommending all who desire an unvarnished account of sporting events to subscribe for said papers."

Now The World gave a fair report and was not commended. We feel sorry for this. But the funny thing is that Mr. D. Munroe, the secretary of the meeting, writes The World of the resolution, thus: "I have been authorized to send you copies of the same and request that you publish them at earliest possible date."

Now if the condemned journals have as much nerve as the above Munroe and his meeting the Cornwall kick will affect them very little.

Lacrosse at Rosedale Saturday.

Lovers of lacrosse will be given an opportunity of witnessing a first-class game at Rosedale Saturday between the Capitals and the Niagara Falls team. The Capitals have shown themselves to be exceedingly clever and gentlemanly players and are deserving of genuine support. The game starts at 3½. The team will be: C. W. Elliott, J. Wilson, P. McMichael, G. Amor, J. Park, F. Rose, S. Burns, G. Cheyne, R. E. Manis, M. McBrearty, E. McCormack, G. McQuillan, G. Wheeler (spare man). D. A. Rose, field captain.

Previous to the big match a second 12 composed from the following will play the Young Canadians commencing at 1½ p.m.: Wellett, Wheeler, McGuire, Large, Reid, Bell, Selby, Pape, McCullough, Herson, Breckenridge, Hill, J. McQuillan.

MARBLEHEAD, July 10.—A fast calm held back the yachts of the Eastern Yacht Club this afternoon and prevented their getting half way over the course, and the race was declared off. As far as the race went the Scotch cutter Minerva was being beaten by both the Gossoon and Ventura, while the Mayflower led the schooners and the Hawk outfooted the Shark.

SCORING THE NATIONALISTS.

Sir Hector Langevin Discusses the Race Crisis in Quebec.

THREE RIVERS, July 10.—There was a Conservative demonstration here yesterday at which Sir Hector Langevin was the principal speaker. The Minister of Public Works devoted his remarks almost exclusively to the race cries now agitating Quebec.

"Since 1867," he said, "we have been governed by a constitution given us by the Imperial Parliament, which has accorded to each province its particular liberties. Some people amongst us think, however, that there are clauses in this constitution which should be repealed. Pause and reflect before laying hands on the great work of the Fathers of Confederation."

Sir Hector referred thus to the Quebec Nationalist idea: "It has been stated that it is the dream of the French-Canadians to establish a French-speaking nation on the banks of the St. Lawrence. Such an idea has never entered the heads of ten people in this province. Perhaps one or two men in unguarded moments have given expression to such an absurd idea, but these words, like the grain which fell upon rock soil, failed to take root, and have never taken hold upon one serious-thinking man in Lower Canada. [Cheers.] We are one million and a half of French-Canadians against double that number of other races. Rather than think of forming ourselves into a separate nationality we will strive to live at peace with our compatriots of other races and creeds, and with them inherit the great and glorious destiny in store for the Dominion of Canada. We are French-Canadians, and French-Canadians we will remain. We speak French, and will continue the use of that beautiful tongue, which we learned at our mothers' knees; yet at the same time we will continue to be loyal subjects of our most gracious sovereign, and loyal to that glorious flag that protects us and which waves over the mightiest empire the world has ever known. [Tremendous cheering, during which the men waved their hats and the ladies their handkerchiefs.] If we are respected at home and abroad it is not because we are a great province, but because we are a great Dominion and because the army of England and the great navy of the empire are always ready to move to our assistance before our rights are menaced or our liberties as British subjects are for a moment in jeopardy. I have been told," continued Sir Hector, "that I dare not make use of these words in the Province of Quebec, but the ringing cheers which have greeted my utterance to-day prove once and for all that my native land is, as I always maintained, loyal to the heart to Canada, to the empire and to the Queen upon the throne." [Cheers.]

Mr. Duplessis said: "A dangerous current of opinion has swept over this province. Unprincipled politicians have appealed to the national and religious prejudices of our people for the purpose of gaining power and setting race against race and creed against creed. We have resisted this current. [Loud cheers.] We have fought this dangerous element and, thank God, as far as St. Maurice is concerned, Nationalism has never been able to lift its dishonored head in this fine constituency. We have been guided by our chiefs, yet we have been assailed as enemies of our race and traitors to our religion. These men declare in their cowardly and unpatriotic tones that Confederation has seen its best days. I see before me the elite of the Conservative party—[cheers]—and I feel it once more to be my duty to denounce these men who have raised the race and religion trouble in this Dominion and, who are doing their best to destroy the great fabric which the Fathers of Confederation so nobly built up. Men of Three Rivers, the Canadian idea must be placed before the provincial. Instead of criticizing everything that is from the Province of Ontario, that which is English and Protestant, let us strive to emulate all that is good and noble in the makeup of our fellow-Canadians of another race and creed. I have been told that I like everything that is English to the detriment of my own race, but this is false. I admire their enterprise and respect them as I wish them to respect me, and let us hear no more about driving the English out of the Province of Quebec. We want them here, the number of their rights and liberties must be respected. Let us not forget that, although we are in a great majority, we are, we have brethren in Ontario who are in an insignificant minority, and that any excess used against the minority here will operate against us in other parts of the Dominion."

A False Alarm.

Mayor Clarke, Chairman Vokes and Ald. Boustead of the Toronto Street Railway Committee form the deputation which it is intended will visit the States to gather information. They were all out of the city yesterday on various pretexts and the story went round that they had started out on their mission. The World, however, found out that Mayor Clarke was off to Wilson with Rehoboam Lodge, Ald. Boustead away with the Metropolitan Church Sunday school and Ald. Vokes was similarly employed. Each member of the deputation has pledged himself not to leave the city on street railway business until the council endorses the trip.

A Peculiar and Painful Accident.

A painful and peculiar accident happened to Mr. Harry T. Smith, a well-known stenographer, and it is possible that he may lose the sight of one of his eyes. Wednesday night he was getting on a car in King-street. A man standing on the steps was in the act of throwing away a lighted cigar, which was thrust into one of Mr. Smith's eyes, with the result that he was so seriously burned that the chances of saving the sight are despaired of. He is lying at his residence in Division-street in a darkened room. Mr. Smith is a son of the superintendent of the London Street railway.

For Colds or Pain.

Yellow Oil is the best remedy I ever used. I had a healing breast 15 months ago, which was very sore. I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which gave instant relief.

Moses Had Asthma.

My husband had asthma for eight years with severe cough, and his lungs also were affected. He could neither rest, work, nor get relief from any medicine he tried. Some time ago we got Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and after taking six or eight bottles his cough is entirely cured, the asthma greatly relieved and his lungs greatly benefited. MRS. HE OBJECTS TO SIGNS.

Outcome of an Eccentric Man's Hostility to Free Masonry.

CHICAGO, July 10.—A prominent minister and half a dozen leading business men, some of them millionaires, will be put on trial before Justice Jarvis Blume to-morrow. Among the witnesses summoned in the case are another popular preacher, some more millionaires and the managing editors of several big daily newspapers. The trouble grows out of the filing of a complaint of criminal libel by William M. Zearing against Rev. Dr. S. J. McPherson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church; Asa G. Pettibone of Pettibone, Mulliken & Co.; Henry M. Ralston, president of the Northwestern Fertilizing Works; Thomas B. Carter, the wealthy insurance man; George C. Benton, the lumber magnate, and Prof. Zalinguis Grovet.

Zearing claims that he has been libelled by signs. He is a lawyer of means and is considered able and shrewd, but somewhat eccentric. He is a strong opponent of secret societies, and it is said the present legal action is an outgrowth of his hostility to Free Masonry. The actual grievance of which Mr. Zearing complains was difficult to discover.

"The other side," said he, "can explain better than I can what they mean by their signs and motions. Perhaps they can tell what they meant by ridiculing a man by means of words and signs that no one but members of a secret society can understand. They will have to explain it all in court. When they turn the Presbyterian Church into a lodge-room and into a place for theatrical performances, it is time that somebody should interfere."

BEER AND BARLEY.

Why the Philadelphia Maltsters Cannot Do Without the Canadian Article.

[From The Philadelphia Record, July 9.]

We raise in this country nearly 64,000,000 bushels of barley. Last year's product was valued at $37,672,032. The barley mainly raised in the west makes very good feed for horses and cattle, but it makes inferior malt and poor beer. For malting purposes the Canadian barley is, perhaps, as good as any in the world, and the crop is mainly purchased in this country. The imports for the fiscal year 1889 were 11,368,414 bushels, valued at $7,723,838, and on which a duty of $1,136,841 was collected. The duty of 10 cents per bushel was equal to 10.59 per cent. on the value. It has been proposed to raise the duty to 30 cents a bushel, which would be equivalent to an ad valorem rate of 42.36
