RECENT DEATHS

Mrs. Augusta R. Emmerson.

Dorchester, August 11—(Special)—The death occurred here early this morning of Mrs. Augusta Read Emmerson. She had been in delicate health for the past few weeks but bore her illness with great fortitude and passed away peacefully at 12.40 o'clock. With her at the end was her daughter, Mrs. Harvey Atkinson, of Ottawa, and two grand daughters, Mrs. J. T. Cornell, of Amherst (N. S.), and Miss Bernice Emmerson. Her two sons, Judge F. W. Emmerson and the Hon. Henry R. Emmerson died in 1918 and 1914. Other grandchildren surviving are Mrs. F. H. Deacon, Toronto; Mrs. Harry K. Bowes, Capt. H. R. Emmerson of the 6th C.M.R., now in England, children of the late Hon. Henry R. Emmerson, and Mrs. F. E. McLeod, Lacombe (Alb.); Mrs. Charles F. McLaren, Moncton; Kathleen Emmerson, of Boston; Gordon, of the 1st Canadian overseas contingent; Robert H. and Frederick, of Moncton, all children of the late Judge F. W. Emmerson. She is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Robert Christie, of River Hebert (N. S.); Mrs. L. R. Bates, of Sackville; Mrs. J. A. Christie, of Amherst, and one brother, H. C. Read, of Sackville.

The deceased had reached the age of 88 years and was born in the year 1832 at Minudie (N. S.), where she spent the earlier part of her life. Before her marriage she was Miss Augusta Read and in the year 1852 married the Rev. R. H. Emmerson who died 58 years ago, and in whose memory is erected the "Emmerson memorial library" at Acadia University. In religion the late Mrs. Emmerson was a Baptist and was one of the founders of the First Baptist church here in the year 1878. The deceased was a Christian lady of most philanthropic nature, of high ideals and was beloved by all who knew her.

The funeral will be held from her late residence on Friday morning. A service will be held in the First Baptist church here after which the body will be taken to Moncton for interment.

A touchingly sad death is that of Sadie Lois Fulton Thorne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, 71 Metcalfe street, which occurred yesterday. She was in her nineteenth year. From birth she had suffered from a heart affection which had always interfered with her physical development, but her intellect from childhood had been bright and remarkably clear. Unable for the greater part of her school life to walk she still showed such anxiety to learn that her parents had to help her to school day after day, and, handicapped as she was she still managed to grade like stronger children. After eight years she reached the high school, but distance from home and declining strength compelled her parents to stop her attendance. Then she turned her thoughts seriously to the study of music, and while all the time a sufferer, she made marked progress. In January last, however, her weak frame seemed to have reachd its climax, for she suffered a paralytic stroke from which she never really recovered. In spite of these afflictions she was of a bright, cheery nature and was never known to complain. Her parents will have the sympathy of many friends. A Brother, Vernon Thorne is in the 3rd Regiment on Partridge Island. The funeral will take place on Thursday at Ripples. There will be a short service at the home, 71 Metcalf street at 8 p. m. tonight to which friends are invited.

The death of Rev. A. J. A. Gollmer occurred June 26 at Stainfield, England, where he was vicar.

Mr. Gollmer was for several years curate of Trinity church, St. John, and afterwards rector of Cambridge for six years and of Waterford for five years, when he returned to England on account of ill health. A widow survives.

Telegraphic news was received last night of the sudden death of Fred W. Hatch, of San Francisco, whose wife was a Miss Annie Wilson, of Halifax. He was a brother-in-law of George S. Shaw, of this city.

News of the death of a former resident of the city, Edward B. Allen, a master mechanic, at Granby Smelter (B. C.), was received yesterday. He was hit by a water jacket, it appears, but other particulars of the death are not forthcoming. He was 37 years of age.

doubled the number of men she had promised to send to the front.

"And," said Col. Currie, "you must remembers this. If Britain had not cleared the Germans off the seas wheat here would be worth about 35 cents instead of $1. We have spend about $200,000,000 on our share of the war, and we shall make more than that on wheat alone, so that it is a business proposition to us also."

Miners' Splendid Work

Col. Currie, who met Col. Frank Meighen and other officers here, exchanged many recollections, including one of the time at Ypres when a German shell came just over his head and struck a tree behind him, without any dafage to him but considerable loss to the tree. He also mentioned that the Canadian miners in the Expeditionary Force had done splendid work.

Some of these men, said Col. Currie, had made their own hand grenades, mixing the explosive with bits of iron and stuff in their pannikins, rolling them into bombs, putting fuses in. Then when they got close enough to the enemy, they would light the fuse and throw them in, with terrifying effects to the Germans.

In this way also Frank Currie of Sault Ste Marie, he said, had also done great work at the famous Hill 60

"My namesake there, said Col. Currie ::with his knowledge of mining bossed the job of blowing up part of the hill. He took charge of the operations and planted the charge later firing the fuse, and the result of his operations was that some 800 Germans were blown to pieces. The Canadian mining men have proved particularly useful everywhere in these underground operatiqns."

"Col. Currie leaves today for Alexandria where he will speak in Gaelic at a recruiting meeting amongst the Glengarry Highlanders tonight. He will then spend ten days visiting the various camps in Ontario and proceed west to Manitoba, the western provinces and to British Columbia, giving lectures and practical demonstrations of the work at the front.

War is Business, Canadians Apply Business Methods

WHERE REGULARS FAIL

Col. J. A. Currie, of Toronto, Speaks of Conditions at The Front and Reasons Why Canadians Make Good

(Montreal Gazette)

"From what I saw at the front," said Col. J. A. Currie, who arrived in the city yesterday, "the Canadian officers did splendid work everywhere. When it came down to hard fighting under the novel conditions that prevail in Flanders and France today, the Canadian officers showed themselves as well trained and as ready to grapple with the situation as any of the British officers."

Col. Currie remarked that he and the rest of the Canadians should know something about what fighting meant, since his battalion, the 15th, had lost 691 officers and men during the heavy fighting around Ypres and St. Julien.

"War today," said Col. Currie "is a huge business. 'Watty' Burland, Frank Meighen and the other Canadian officers were all business men who knew business as well as military work and they were at once capable of applying business methods, where some of the other officers who had no business experience could not adapt themselves. It has been hard work for some of the other officers who knew nothing about business to get into line, and this has caused some difficulty.

"Our Canadian officers at the front," said Col. Currie, "grasped this fact. They knew what business meant and realized that this war was a matter of business. As experienced business men they took up every detail. That is why the Canadian officer makes good at the front. He does not turn his work over to a sergeant; he goes out and sees that it is done."

Col. Currie was on his way back from Fredericton, N. B., where he had addressed a patriotic meeting on Wednesday evening.

"There was lots of enthusiasm in the maritime provinces," said Col. Currie. "I told those people that Britain had not only carried out her agreement with the Allies by sweeping the seas clear of the Germans, but had more than

BISHOPS PICNIC AT TORRYBURN TODAY

Cathedral Children March in Lengthy Procession--Fine Weather and Big Crowds Expected

A lengthy procession of children of varying ages and sizes was witnessed this morning when the annual Cathedral Sunday school picnic was being started for the Bishop's grounds at Torryburn. Headed by the City Cornet Band playing a spirited tune, the youngsters marched happily along, accompanied by Rev. Wm. Duke, Rev. M. P. Howland, Rev. Hector Belliveau, Rev. C. J. McLaughlin, Rev. Dr. Bourgois and some of the teachers of the school. The rear of the procession was brought up by Bishop LeBlanc, in his car, accompanied by Very Rev. J. J. Walsh, V. G.

The expansive grounds at Torryburn are in excellent condition for today's big outing, which is a week later than usual, to allow of a better crop of hay being cut upon them. A large staff of committee workers went to the grounds on an early train this morning to prepare for the crowds expected during the day, and there is every reason to expect as great a success as formerly, particu- with such delightful weather favoring the event.

PROBABLY SO.

Jeptha Wade has a winter home at Thomasville, Ga. One of his sons is an amateur balloonist, and occasionally makes an ascent from Thomasville. If the family fails to hear promptly from him they set forth in a motor car and search until they find him.

One day, when the roads were slippery with mud, the automobile skidded, and slipped part way down a bank. It brought up without damage against a large tree. Mr. Wade could not get back on the roads and appealed for help to a farmer ploughing in the field below. The farmer hitched his team to the front axle and soon pulled the car out of trouble.

Mr. Wade looked back and said: "That tree saved us from a bad accident; if it had not been there we should have turned over and been badly hurt."

"Yes, suh," drawled the farmer, "that cert'nly is a useful tree. This mornin' a young feller in a balloon got stuck in it and I had to h'ist him out."

"Why, that was our son!" exclaimed both Mr. and Mrs. Wade, excitedly.

The farmer looked at them for a moment with a puzzled expression, then his face lighted up with a smile, and he said:

"I reckon you folks would find life easier if you was to stay at home more."
