POKER GAME
GETS INTO THE
CITY COURTStory of Canterbury Street
Play Comes Out in Suit for $40.

A case in the City Court this morning which attracted considerable interest was one in which Parker O'Leary took action against Maxwell Brager for the recovery of $40 alleged due the plaintiff. The case arose over a card game played, according to the evidence, in Canterbury street.

O'Leary swore that he had received two checks, one for $20 and one for $10, signed by the defendant, on May 19, 1921. He had taken them to the Standard Bank. He had loaned Brager $10 the same night. He had received the checks from Louis Corey on the same evening. Corey had given them to him for money, as he owed him $30 in a poker game.

At this point, C. J. McIlroy, for the defence, asked that the case be dismissed, as the consideration was gambling. G. G. Mooney, for the plaintiff, argued that the checks made an account stated and could be collected. O'Leary said he gave Brager the money as he was leaving the hall at Canterbury street.

Maxwell Brager said he gave the checks to Corey. They were for gambling debts. He said Corey was the man who looked after the game. Brager said he had not had that night. He had given checks for chips with which to play poker. Seven or eight persons were playing in the game. He could not remember if he gave the checks to O'Leary or Corey. He had lost $150 that night.

Mr. McIlroy again quoted Chapter 445 of the Consolidated Statutes of New Brunswick in support of his contention that the amount could not be collected, and the magistrate postponed the case until next Thursday for judgment.

LARGE GAIN IN

Worst Storm Cape
Breton Has Known

(Canadian Press.)
Sydney, N. S., Nov. 23.—(Delayed)—The Sydney were still prostrate to night from the overwhelming effects of the worst storm in the history of Cape Breton Island. Starting early on Tuesday morning with a heavy fall of light sticky snow and continuing throughout the day the storm loaded up telegraph, telephone and power transmission lines to breaking capacity and then after darkness had set in, let loose a gale from the northeast which knocked out everything in the way of communication.

Without light, power or inter-urban communication of any sort, the residents of Sydney, Glace Bay, North Sydney and Sydney Mines spent the next twenty-four hours endeavoring to extricate themselves. A hasty summary of the progress made up to a late hour tonight showed:

Power service had been resumed, but electric light was available only in limited districts.

Train services were back to normal but the Sydney-Glace Bay train service was completely out of business and might not be resumed for a week.

Telephone service operating about seventy per cent of normal.

Ferry service in partial operation.

Sydney, Glace Bay and Sydney Mines still without wire communication with outside world.

Steel company without sufficient water to carry on normal operations, must await repairing of transmission lines leading to pumping station.

Late tonight the newspapers were in a position to publish editions after having had their plants tied up through lack of power throughout the day. Their Canadian Press service reached them by mail from New Glasgow, a nearest point on the mainland in communication with the outside world.

LOSS $75,000
ESTIMATED IN CAPITAL FIRE

Y. M. C. A. Building Destroyed and Pitts Structure Seriously Damaged.

(Special to Times)
Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 23.—An estimate of $75,000 is placed today upon the loss in a fire which destroyed the Y. M. C. A. building and seriously damaged the Pitts building adjoining early this morning. At seven o'clock there was another outbreak in the Pitts building which was threatening for a time. Firemen are still working on that building.

While the main fire was in progress a slight accident occurred at the home of Dr. R. H. McGrath. The blaze was confined to one room.

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. are to meet on Friday to take steps made necessary by the fire.

In addition to the two buildings mentioned minor damage was done by fire to the Inches building facing Queen street and to the Edgecombe property adjoining it. Dr. R. H. McGrath, who operated by Hedy D. Forbes, R. B. Belland, shoe dealer and A. A. Beland, dry goods, suffered water damage in the Inches building. All are insured.

Tenants in the Y. M. C. A. building were B. J. Griffiths, dealer in magazines, wallpaper, toys, etc.; J. M. Wilby, druggist; Louis Acker, ladies' wear; Tenants in the Pitts building were W. W. Maxwell, optician; C. D. Holder, ladies' wear; R. E. Black, ladies' wear; Dewitt Clark and Howard T. Blair, insurance agents; Wm. Clark, printer. All suffered loss, that to the ladies' wear stock being heavy. Much of the roof of the Pitts building is burned off.

Edward King of the fire department had one of his wrists broken and James Lyons also of the department had his nose broken.

J. D. McKenna, M. P. P., of Sussex, and J. W. Sovell, M. P. P., of St. Stephen, are in the city today.

HERE TO LOAD POTATOES FOR CUBAN MARKET

The San Bruno, the United Fruit Company's vessel, which was due here today to load potatoes for Havana, Cuba, arrived according to schedule and docked at Pier 14, where the new frostproof potato warehouse was recently completed. She is the first vessel of the United Fruit Company to come to St. John, and is also the first steamer to load potatoes at the new warehouse. She has a gross tonnage of 3,000 and a registered tonnage of 1,987. The San Bruno is one of the company's regular fruit boats and is of the ideal type for the potato business.

Accompanying the steamer on her trip from Boston were A. P. Davison, general manager of the company, and C. F. Schroeder, commercial freight agent. They will look over the harbor and port facilities of St. John while they are here and will return to Boston by rail. Nagle & Wigmore are acting as local agents for the steamer. Mr. Davison would not say this morning whether or not there would be any further fruit boats coming here for potatoes, but it is understood that this depends upon the success of the present trip.

TO MY FIRST LOVER.
(Gene Derwood, in The Forum.)
My eyes were shadowed brooks
With pregnant lips unsealed;
My mouth a round, red bird
With young song hushed unhealed,
With shy song hung unheard,
Her breast unruled by your kiss.

The night was like a lover
To an innocent swinging moon;
The wind was like a lover
To a swaying willow tree;
But my heart had beat too soon;

There was no love for me,
I stroked my smooth warm arm,
My like-a-flower hair,
I stood in perfumed charm,
But you—were elsewhere.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THE THEATRES
OF ST. JOHNEMMETT COMPANY
BID FAREWELL

Opera House Patrons Say Good-bye to Popular Players.

The popular Eugene Emmett-Jere McCallif Company, now playing at the Opera House, bid farewell to their many friends on Saturday night.

Their bill for the first three days of the week, "Riley at the Masquerade," was a very funny sketch and showed how versatile each member of the company is. Mr. Emmett, as usual, rendered his clear style several times, with feeling and understanding which clearly won the audience.

In a little talk before the curtain, Mr. Emmett thanked the people of St. John for the liberal patronage and support given his company, and said he and his company had enjoyed every day of his stay in St. John at the Opera House.

He announced the final programme Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and mentioned that Mr. Kraker, the manager of the Opera House, had engaged Professor Clifford McCollum, the blind pianist, as an added attraction. Those who have heard him play say there is no one who has his command of technique; also on Friday night the manager has arranged for an exhibition of boxing and athletic footwork by Johnnie McIntyre, welterweight champion of the Maritime Provinces, and Frank Burns, local boxer, and he thought that the ladies might enjoy seeing an exhibition of the manly art of self-defence and boxing.
