THE LATEST SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.—We understand that a sporting gentleman in this city who has paid great attention to the culture of rats, offers to make a bet of considerable amount, that he will, during the coming summer, before a light wagon, built for the purpose, drive a team of those animals from the Astor House up Broadway to Union Square. He estimates that he can accomplish the task with one hundred rats in harness. I will be a novel sight and will take down any show ever made by Kipp and Brown with one of their fancy teams. New York will be on hand as the rat-ification of this affair. A posse of police will be detailed for the occasion, to clear the track, and all omnibusses will be required to take the back streets.—N. Y. Sunday Atlas.

DRAWING IT MILD!—The Richmond (Va.) Enquirer, speaking of the Know Nothings, says "every Democrat should burn with a vindictive desire to dip his dagger in the blood of the assassin that conspires not only the destruction of the party, but the overthrow of the country."

AN EXPEDITION AGAINST THE SIOUX INDIANS.—An expedition of four regiments, consisting of about four thousand troops will start from Fort Leavenworth during the spring, on an expedition against the Sioux Indians.—General W. S. Harvey, United States Army, will command the military expedition. We understand he says he will give a month's notice to all Indians, beyond Fort Laramie to leave the country, and after that time all he finds he will make an example of, by shooting or hanging them. He is determined to exterminate them from the country they now occupy.—Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, Herald March, 2.

FALLING ON A LARGE PIECE OF ROCK ON THE HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.—Narrow escape of the noon Train from New York.—The passengers by the noon train from New York, and which was due here at 5: 15 o'clock had a narrow escape when near Rhinebeck. As the train was passing into a curve a piece of rock, at least two tons in weight, fell upon the track and rolled over so that only a small part of it lay upon the rail. The engineer fortunately saw it fall and instantly set about checking the motion of the motion of the train, which was then going at full speed. So sudden was it checked and so quick the jerk that the passengers were all thrown in in their seats, and for a time the almost confusion prevailed. The cow catcher hit the rock, which lay so nicely poised, that the locomotive rolled it of without receiving any injury and with apparent ease. Upon learning the cause of the sudden stoppage the passengers became calmed down and in a few minutes the train was under motion. It was a narrow but fortunate escape.—Alb Jour. Tuesday 20.

COMPLIMENTARY SUPPER.—On Friday evening the young men employed in the extensive wholesale establishment of Messrs. A. & T. C. Keir & Co., of this city, entertained one of their number Mr. Andrew Thomson, who is about establishing himself in business in the flourishing village of Grimsby, at a splendid supper, which was got up for the occasion, at Roach & Maguire's Restaurant. After relieving the table of the groans so often ascribed to a luxurious spread by the newspapers, the sy company gave care to the winds for a time, allowing eloquence, music, and wit, to revel in each others sweetest charms till, becoming satisfied with an excess of pleasure, they forsook their seats around the festive board and left "the banquet hall deserted." Mr. Thomson has been in the employment of the Messrs. Keir & Co., for some seven years past, and carries with him the best wishes of his employers and his fellow employees.—Hamilton Banner.

The Hamilton Morning Banner has the following account of the opening of the Suspension Bridge:—The great Railroad Suspension Bridge was opened for the regular passage of trains on Monday. The Express train on the New York Central Railroad, due here at 10:25 a. m., was the first passenger train over, and every car was loaded to its fullest extent. Not only the inside of the cars, but the platform and tops were crowded with people. No jarring or motion of the structure could be perceived, and by reason of the evenness of the track, cars run steadier on the bridge than either end.

The strength of the structure was somewhat tested on Sunday by the passage of a long freight train. The train consisted of twenty two loaded cars, engine and tender, and extended upwards of 700 feet, nearly the entire length of the bridge. It was estimated that the train weighed about four hundred and twelve tons. It had no effect except to cause a depression of the superstructure of about 3½ inches more than that caused by the heavy freight "Pluto" a few days ago, in all about 9 inches in the centre. Such was the weight of the train that when the engine reached this end of the bridge it proved of insufficient power to raise the slight grade at that point and another engine was sent for, the whole train in the meantime remaining on the bridge.

Trains now cross and re-cross, the Great Western Railway leaving their passengers on this side of the river, and the New York Central Railroad leaving theirs on the other. The connections of the Canandsigua and N. Falls Railroad have not yet been made, hence their trains do not yet cross.

STARTLING OCCURRENCE.—A very extraordinary case was yesterday brought before the Police Magistrate. It appears that a young lady, named Bolster, who lives at Port Sarnia, came to town to endeavour to rescue out of the hands of the Sisters of Charity her younger sister, a girl of fifteen years of age. The girl had been once before got into the nun's house in Nelson Street, through the interference of her brother, who resides in the city; and the sister was then obliged to interfere to procure her release. On this, the second occasion, she was very much agitated by the duty which she had undertaken and, no doubt under the influence of great excitement, went to Mr. Ashfield to purchase a pistol. She asked that it should be loaded, and the whole circumstances exciting enquiry from Mr. Ashfield, she confessed that she intended to do injury to the authorities of the Asylum, if her sister was not given up to her. Mr Ashfield thought it best to take her before Mr. Gurnett. The Magistrate expressed much sympathy with her conditions, but felt it his duty to commit her to gaol till she could obtain security that she would not commit a breach of the peace. It appeared afterwards, however, that she had no friends in the city, and Mr. Gurnett consented that if the Superior of the nuns should give her consent, Miss Bolster should be released. Of course, the whole circumstances of the case must be enquired into. We would like to be informed on what authority the girl is detained in the Nunnery.—Toronto Globe. March 16.

DEATH OF A SPEARIFE.—MEG GORDON relict of WM YOUNG, Iron Spoon manufacturer, died at Greclaw lately, aged 80 years. She belonged to the same race, and was lineal descendant of "Meg Merrilies," or "Jean Gordon," one of the principal characters in Sir WALTER SCOTT'S novel of "Guy Mannering." She, like many of her tribe, either had or pretended to have, a knowledge of palmistry, and many a young lass has had to pay the fee to Meg after she was told who was to be her husband, and the good fortune that was awaiting. We learn these facts from Dublin papers.

REMAINS OF MADAME SONTAG.—The London Musical World gives a letter addressed by Count Rossi—husband of the late Madame Sontag—to a friend at Paris, in which he deeply laments his bereavement, and adds: "I am waiting for the arrival at Hamburg of her dear mortal remains, in order to go thereand meet them, I shall then accompany them to their last resting place, in the Convent of Maria Thal near Dresden, where her sister is a nun, and where, in consequence, the holy prayers of those who loved her most will not be wanting. I am having a small chapel built there, with two tombs, and, after satisfying this, the wish of my heart, I return to my family."

To the Subscribers of the Map of Ingersoll, by J. S. Kennefick.

GENTLEMEN,—Having delayed the publication of the Map of Ingersoll longer than I intended when first advertised, I beg to assure my patrons that I was actuated by no other motive than that of getting out a Map that would defy the scrutiny of parties who have already attempted to vilify its correctness. There has been only a small portion of the Ingersoll estate wanting; but now I am happy to say that I have achieved my object, and my Map will be fit for distribution forthwith. Knowing as I do that a month or two was no object, compared with a correct representation of the incorporated village, which, together with my illustrations on the margin of the Map, will, I trust, render the work worthy of a little patience on the part of the subscribers, to whom I return my unfeigned thanks, and beg to subscribe myself their very
