WOMAN EDITOR
FARTHEST NORTH

The Eskimo, in Aboriginal Surroundings, Enlightening Primitive People

It is called the Eskimo and its associate editor is a woman. On Jan. 1, 1918, it celebrated its first birthday. Its subscribers are mostly Eskimos, and its editorial announcements says with an audible crow of pride: "The farthest north newspaper, the Eskimo, is alive, and wide-awake, with enough of good red blood in it to carry it to every part of Alaska's low-land country. Pure-bred from far-off camps bring word back to Nome that this paper which keeps the Eskimos in touch with each other, and with the outside world, is prized so highly that the copies are folded away in igloo Bibles for safe-keeping."

Reading in Igloo.
Once a month the paper makes its appearance. When the mail sled arrives at our village we are all so excited we don't know anything," is the way one Eskimo hunter puts it. "We cannot all read, no, no. But my brother's daughter, a pretty girl in deerskin trousers and smock, can read all print. She sits on the floor and we fill the lamp with seal oil and squat around to listen to what some of our people are doing a thousand miles away."

An Alarming Report.
"The great northern lynx," reads the girl on the floor, "is making terrible havoc among the reindeer of south Alaska. Here she has to stop until her alarmed audience discusses the danger for danger it is, the reindeer being the riches of the Eskimos—and lay plans to describe a cunning contrivance he has fashioned for the ensnaring of the enemy. Under the head of "Sports" come items which make the young lift their heads and the old shake their heads, items concerning a carnival here, the reindeer races there, the snowshoeing, skiing, sled and foot-racing, the ice-curling contests. A report of the season's yield in pelts, and prices obtained for the same, draws young and old; it is to this fur-clad people what Wall Street's daily news is to the bulls and bears."

Broadening the Eskimo.
The "Eskimo" bids fair to do a great work in broadening the outlook and drawing these snow dwellers together in bonds of common interest, in creating

CAMPBELLTON PEOPLE
GIVE $500 FOR BLIND

Addresses Given by Mrs. E. A. Smith of St. John and Mrs. Jenner

Campbellton, Jan. 24.—Mrs. H. M. Fielding of Windsor, who came here from Halifax, where she has been doing effective work on the medical relief committee, received a check for $800 from the good people of Campbellton for the blind victims of the explosion at Halifax. To Campbellton belongs the honor of inaugurating the excellent forward movement of securing funds for the Halifax blind endowment fund.

An address was given here on Tuesday evening by Mrs. E. A. Smith of St. John. She spoke briefly but with a force which carried with it deep conviction. Her impressions were from what she had seen and learned for herself during the horrible days and nights following weeks after the explosion.

Mrs. Jenner, formerly a resident here, gave a recitation and spoke also of a visit to Halifax since the disaster. The sum of about $100 was realized from the proceeds of the evening's talk by the ladies. Next morning, while waiting for the train to convey her home, Mrs. Fielding, accompanied by Havelock Sanson, went about among the business men of Campbellton and secured enough to raise this amount to $600. This was made possible by the generosity of such contributors as D. Richards, president of the Richards Lumber Company; Judge Matheson, D. W. Stewart, Havelock Sanson and others.

Mrs. Smith was at Dalhousie last night and addressed the people on the same subject. This campaign will be conducted all over the Dominion by various people for this most worthy object.

Garbage for Swine.
$1n nearly all our towns, and cities a portion of the refuse from kitchens is being used as feed for swine. In these days of stress and food shortage, closer attention should be paid to the utilization of garbage for this purpose. To those interested in this matter, particulars regarding garbage feeding, at Worcester, Mass., and Grand Rapids (Mich.), where it has been conducted for several years, will be sent upon application to The Commission of Conservation, Ottawa.

and fostering a national pride which will supersede the tiresome local one. The "Eskimo" promises to bring out during the next twelve months a group of original folklore tales, written by natives, tales he adds, which will put Danish sagas and Norse legends in the shade."

CANVASSERS FOR RED CROSS FUNDS WERE THE GUESTS

With the object of infusing all the enthusiasm and inspiration that was possible into the canvassers to stimulate efforts in the big drive today, the Red Cross executive entertained the canvassers at a supper in Bond's last evening and gave them their final hints before they set out on the big drive to obtain money for the Red Cross. All the men present were extremely enthusiastic and expressed their confidence in the people of St. John, feeling that they would not belie their established good record in patriotic giving by falling behind on this occasion. F. A. Dykeman, the chairman of the executive committee, presided.

A. L. Skilton explained to the assembly the need of funds in which the Red Cross stands at the present time, for they are down almost to their last dollar. He showed how some appeals for help had to be refused last year because of the lack of funds and spoke of the hard work which is being done by the ladies daily in packing and sending materials. T. H. Estabrook, when called upon, said that the men present had been called together by their mutual sympathy in the cause and that they were not in the least discouraged by the results of the results of the evening's talk by the people of St. John, saying that the results tomorrow will exceed the expectations of the executive.

Colonel Sturdee proposed a toast to the chairman, F. A. Dykeman, who was the toast of the evening.

ATHLETICS AND WAR.
Montreal Gazette: Major R. Tait McKenzie of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, who is a Canadian and has just returned after some months of active service with the Royal Army Medical Corps, has issued an appeal to young American collegians anxious to serve in the war to devote all their spare time to athletics. Well-trained athletes, Dr. McKenzie declares, are seldom victims of "shell shock," while this is a serious problem in others. He counsels all forms of healthy sport and athleticism in the training of the soldiers.

POLISH ARMY TO FIGHT IN FRANCE

Capt. Gasiorowski Expects Total of 150,000 Recruiting in Montreal

Armed on Western Front and Governments of United States and Canada Helping in Project

Montreal, Jan. 24.—At Nazareth Hall, 23 Jeanne Mance street, was seen yesterday afternoon the stirring Montreal end of the movement among expatriated Poles of the world to form an autonomous army of 150,000 men so that the Allies would be made to see that the Polish people are not only willing to accept an independent Poland because that has been made a condition of the ending of the war, but that they are willing to fight for it as well. The nucleus of the army is already in France as a result of the proclamation of President Poincaré of the French Republic on June 4th, 1917, giving permission for the formation of this army as a token that the Poles would leave themselves in honor bound to unite the fragments of Poland into a free and autonomous country once more.

Captain Gasiorowski, high commissioner for the Polish Army in France to the United States, explained to the enthusiastic audience which listened to him yesterday that all the Poles fighting with the French and Belgian armies had been given permission to join the new unit. There were a large number of Poles, from Austrian Poland and German Poland, who had belonged to the Foreign Legion before the war began, and the Polish veterans of this were part of the new army. The Poles in the Russian army in France had also been allowed to go to the new Polish army, and as every soldier of the Russian army in France had had from three to six years' experience before coming to France, each one of these Poles was an experienced soldier. Therefore the Polish Army was a tried army, to begin with and every day new recruits were joining it. In the United States recruiting offices had been opened everywhere and the United States government had given Polish-Americans their choice to fight in the Polish Army for the national freedom of their people or with the American army, which was fighting for the same end.

10,000 Gone Already.
Captain Gasiorowski expressed his appreciation of the way in which the Canadian authorities are helping on the same work. The organization already developed in Canada for recruiting and training soldiers has been placed at the disposal of the Polish patriots, and soldiers who enlist for the Polish Army are sent eventually to the great gathering ground in the United States for this army. From one Atlantic harbor already ten thousand had gone forward, and indications are that many more will follow.

Rev. Francis Pzyrak, pastor of the Polish congregation of St. Mary's parish, presided. Rev. Father Vrydansk, parish priest of Point St. Charles, was

TOBACCO FROM HOLLAND ARRIVES IN CANADA

Montreal, Jan. 24.—The growing scarcity of tobacco and the imminence of higher prices were indicated by the eagerness with which forty tobacco dealers from cities in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec grabbed up a distribution that was made at the Windsor Hotel here today from a consignment of 52 bales of Sumatra tobacco which was imported direct from Holland, representing an expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars. This is the first day from a consignment of 522 bales which is coming straight from Holland as the outcome of negotiations with the British government through the Dominion government.

POTATO CONVENTION
The third annual convention and potato show of the New Brunswick Potato Growers' Association was opened in Woodstock yesterday and will be continued today. At the afternoon session addresses were given by J. A. Clark, superintendent of the Dominion experimental station in P. E. I. He urged the farmers to conduct potato raising in spite of any drawbacks they may have this year owing to a surplus. Hon. J. F. Tweeddale referred to the impression among the farmers that food controllers would fix a price on potatoes and said that the department of agriculture would protest against any action that would work against the farmer.

of their youth, and the Allied armies, against Germany. The recruiting sergeant in Montreal will be Joseph Sawicki, and his office will be at 428 Frontenac street.

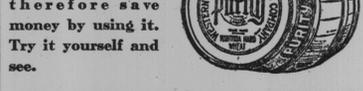

Love of Nationhood.
Captain Gasiorowski reminded his people of the various tragic and glorious events in the course of their chequered and eventful history. He told how the desire for freedom and for national unity had never been blotted out, but cherished even through the last 120 years while the country was divided into three fragments, one going to Russia, another to Austria and another to Germany. He explained how it was that in none of these countries could the Poles feel at home. The German mockery of giving them a united country did not deceive them, and the Poles, with few exceptions, knew that their only chance was with the Allies. The Polish people should leave nothing to chance, but form an army to fight for it.

Mr. Justice, Sawicki, secretary, read the resolution proposed for adoption by the Polish Army Commission at Pittsburgh, Pa., on December 30th last, and it was adopted unanimously. It stated that the Polish citizens of Montreal, remembering the various trials of their divided people in fighting for the Roman Catholic Church and their country, pledged themselves to strive with all their strength to support the Polish Army, to which was flocking the flower of their youth, and the Allied armies, against Germany. The recruiting sergeant in Montreal will be Joseph Sawicki, and his office will be at 428 Frontenac street.
