YOUNG MAN'S LIFE ENDS; ACID BOTTLE NEAR

Charles Jackson, Bookkeeper, Dies in Charlotte Street Tailoring Establishment

The circumstances surrounding the death of Charles Jackson this morning are very sad, and have aroused much sympathy amongst a large number of friends of himself and family. The news of his death came as a severe shock to his relative and friends. He was of a quiet, reserved disposition, and they had no reason to look forward to such an event as transpired today. He was at work for a short time this morning as bookkeeper at A. L. Goodwin's, but left the store about half past nine and went up through the market to Charlotte street.

He went into the building occupied by John Salmon, tailor, and others as he had been in the habit of doing at different times. He stopped for a few moments in the barber shop of C. A. Garney in which the same building, and then went into Mr. Salmon's tailor shop. He took a seat in a corner of the room near a window facing on the street, and remained quietly there for five or ten minutes. Then a third man heard one of the employees in the barber shop on the floor, with life fast departing. Dr. Mays Case was summoned but could do nothing as life was then extinct. Corner Berryman was notified and after viewing the body gave permission for removal.

On the floor nearby was found a small bottle with carbolic label, with the name of M. V. Yaddock, as druggist. This was left with Policeman Ward. It was not determinable this morning whether or not the dead man had taken the acid, although there was evidence that this was how he had come by his death. One man who had been with him a short time before his death said that he had taken away from him a little bottle which had some fluid in it at the time, but that later he had gotten it back again. It was empty when found after death.

Mr. Jackson was about thirty-five years of age, and his actual cause, which prompted his act of today, was, is not known. He is survived by his father, George Jackson, and by his young wife, who only a few days ago gave birth to a child, making the third small member of their household in King street east. His death was a great sympathy is expressed for her and the other members of the family in their bereavement. An inquest will be held at 11 o'clock. It was said by A. L. Goodwin that no reason could be ascribed there for Mr. Jackson's act, except that he had been in poor health for a few days and had been brooding over this.
