SIX MONTHS' STRIKE COST OVER $25,413,305

In the first six months of this year 823 strikes cost Pennsyvania workers an aggregate of more than $25,413,305 in wages alone, acocrding to figures compiled by William J. Tracy, director of the Bureau of Mediation in the State Department of Labor and Industry. This fact is set forth in a report Mr. Tracey delivered today to Commissioner Clifford B. Connelley of the Labor Department.

According to Mr. Tracey's report, the financial loss caused by strikes in the first six months of this year is greater than that for any full year since the bureau was established, in 1916. Mr. Tracey gave the following statistics on causes:

Wages, 184; hours, 14; union, 21; working conditions, 8; wages and hours, 69; wages and working conditions, 2; hours and union, 21; union and conditions, 2, and wages, union and conditions, 1.

BROUGHT FAMILY TO UNITED STATES

A Youthful Russian Dancer Earned Her Way Across Siberia and the Pacific.

New York, Aug. 19—Luna Nestor, sixteen-year-old Russian dancer, has succeeded in bringing her mother, grandmother and brother out of Russia to this city. It took them three years to make the journey. She conducted the party across Russia and Siberia, dancing for food enough to keep herself and family from starvation. Unable to speak English, she and her mother sought out the New York county chapter of the Red Cross on reaching this city, and asked for help in finding some way to support themselves.

The girl had danced in the Imperial ballet of Petrograd from the time she was five years old. Her father and mother were well educated and in comfortable circumstances until the revolution broke out. Then the father, who was in the army, disappeared. Fearing that her family would fall into the hands of the Bolshevik, Luna fled with them, hoping that eventually she might succeed in reaching America.

Although suffering from hunger much of the time, Luna insisted on giving part of what she earned to other refugees making their way across the continent. At Vladivostok the Red Cross assisted the Nestor family to Japan. Russian dancing was not popular in that country, so Luna proceeded to learn the Japanese language and Japanese dancing. She has a secondary talent of drawing, and used it to make posters advertising her exhibitions. It took her about a year to earn enough to bring her family across the Pacific, and finally to New York.

LONDON FIRMS DODGE HIGH RATES OF POSTAGE

London, Aug. 19—English postage rates for domestic letters and parcels are now so high that a well-known firm of London manufacturers has discovered it is cheaper by half to ship its mail to Paris and have it posted there for its clients in this city. This firm has just sent 8,000 circulars in a single batch to its branch in Paris to post for London. Had these been mailed here the cost would have been thirty-two pounds, whereas by sending them to France the postage is only sixteen pounds.

SIMPLE WHEN EXPLAINED.

Ottawa Citizen:—They found the stove in their shack—up the Gatineau—set on posts about four feet high. "Curious how these woodsmen stumble on scientific facts," remarked the professor. "This man has discovered that the heat radiating from the stove strikes the roof and the circulation is quickened." "Not at all," said the hygienist, "The idea is to have the stove above the window so that the cool, pure air can be had at night. Isn't it Charley?"

"Well, the fact is, when I brought that there stove up the river I lost most of the stove-pipe and had ter set it up there ter have pipe reach through t'roof." Exit the experts.

TOO EDUCATIONAL.

(New York Times.)

The new state "movie" censors have done it again. Their official axe has fallen this time on a scene from a reel of "current events," submitted as "educational." It is a beach scene in Atlantic City to demonstrate the use of the Ostend type of portable bath houses. Incidentally, Miss Hope Hampton appears in a one-piece, sealskin bathing suit.

The producers of the film, the Pathe Exchange, Inc., might have won approval for the picture if the title had not read "Atlantic City," for the censor's objection to the picture, according to the "certificate of disapproval," which is all the producers have to show for their trouble and a $3 fee, is not because of the bathing suit, but because wearing such a suit is "evidently in violation of the Atlantic City law."

The "fielding average" of the Pathe company on beach scenes since the commission assumed its duties in the Candler building, 220 West Forty-second street, is: Chances, two! errors, two; percentage, .000. Their first error was the submission of a scene from Dallas, Texas, showing "Dainty Dallas Divers Dare the Deep," or something of the kind. "Out!" ruled the censors, the minute they saw the picture.

THE PROUD COOLIE.

He is Willing to Hang Himself to Save His Face.

(Sam Dean, in Asia)

Chinese workmen would rather endure any amount of physical pain than to lose face. I made that discovery through an experience we had with our gatekeeper soon after my arrival in China. We had dismissed him because he insisted on collecting 10 per cent. on some goods we had brought into the courtyard to bale for shipment to America.

When I came home one night, shortly afterward, I found him mounted on the horse block in front of the gate, haranguing several hundred listeners. He told them how he had been cheated and discharged, and then, tightening a loosely knotted cord that encircled his neck, he coked himself a little before proceeding with his lecture. At last, with many shakings and waggings of his head, he went to the front door, tied one end of the cord to the brass knocker, and sank down till he was half strangled. Then he arose and addressed the assembly still further. I had seen enough. I rushed into the house and told a friend who had been in China longer than I what was happening. He ran out, gave the gatekeeper a shake, and said: "If you hang yourself at our door, I will kick you to death." The crowd burst out laughing, and the old man, who had hoped to make us lose face, lost so much himself that he sneaked away as fast as he could.

I remember another and more amusing case, where the crowd laughed no less heartily at the expense of the foreigner. He was a whale of an Italian contractor, and he was in charge of the rebuilding of the Peking south gate. In one spot the coolies were using a tamper made of a large round iron casting with ropes, and throwing their bodies backward and forward in time with a song they were singing, they raised and lowered the casting. Meanwhile, however, they were losing face with the crowd, for the Italian was laying on pretty vigorously with the cane, and so, to retrieve their honor, they began to sing with all their might:

"Old foreign devil, old foreign devil
Rest, beat him, beat him in the earth!"

The Italian did not understand, but the crowd did, and laughed heartily; the foreigner was giving the coilies blows with a stick, but they were hitting him a mental crack that made a fool of him.

A HONEYMOON TO MARS.

Kingston Whig:—If the aeroplane continues to grow in popularity and utility as it is doing now, it may soon be quite the regular thing for honeymoon couples to spend their wedding trip in an effort to travel to Mars. A French inventor has recently put on the market a light airship, capable of carrying two people with their baggage only, and travelling at fifty miles an hour . . . But now that we come to think of it, even at the rate of fifty miles an hour, it would take so long to reach Mars that the couples would probably have reached a ripe old age before their return. Still, that would be one way of making the honeymoon last for the rest of their lives.
