THE MILL BONUS.

The proposition of Messrs. Hart & Price to the town council, stating that they would erect a flouring and gristing mill in town, capable of manufacturing one hundred barrels per diem, on condition that they be granted a bonus of $7,500, has been withdrawn, we understand, owning to the fact that it was thought a difficulty would be experienced in passing a by-law for that amount, and a less sum would not suit the projectors of the proposed mill. At the time of writing the chances are that Messrs Hart & Price will locate elsewhere.

A TARDY VOTE OF THANKS.

AT the last meeting of the town council deputy-reeve Detlor found fault with THE SIGNAL for taking the council to task for its discourteous treatment of Capt. Dancey, on his resignation as chief of the fire department. Mr. Detlor contended that it was impossible for the council to thank Capt. Dancey for his past services, owing to the fact that the resignation, which had been referred to the fire committee, had not been reported upon, and consequently the resignation had not been accepted by the council. If deputy-reeve Detlor's opinion in this respect be correct, it reflects discredit upon the fire committee. It is now in the fifth month since Capt. Dancey submitted his resignation to the council, and the fact that no report has been rendered goes far to show that the committee to whom the matter was referred, has been derelict in its duty, and has dilly-dallied when the public interest was at stake. There is not one man of the committee who would act in a similar fashion in a matter pertaining to his private business, and why the committee as a whole should trifle with the matter for over four months is something beyond all reason. The most decorous funeral ever solemnized would be a clear case of rapid transit, if contrasted with the slow-coach action of the fire committee of the council. And from what we learn, the committee will not become a more expeditious body until such time as some of the members learn to leave their personal animosities outside of the council chamber when they undertake to do the work for which they were elected by the ratepayers. But we are pleased to learn from the minutes of the council that although deputy-reeve Detlor took umbrage at the strictures of THE SIGNAL early in the evening, his better judgment came to his relief before the meeting closed, and that he ably seconded a resolution moved by councillor Seager, thanking Capt. Dancey, on behalf of the council, for his services as head of the fire department for the past nine years. And this, too, despite the fact that the snail-paced fire committee has not yet reported on the resignation of Capt. Dancey. The conversion of deputy-reeve Detlor to our way of thinking was sudden, we are willing to admit, but we believe it to be none the less genuine on that account.

THE HALIFAX SCARE.

Brady, the principal of the Phœnix Park murderers, will expiate his offence against society on Monday next. It was he who made the first onslaught upon Cavendish and Burke, and after the victims were stricken down, turned back and cut Burke's throat. No doubt can arise in the mind of any thinking person concerning Brady's blood-guiltiness, and yet we were told that the dynamiters so deeply sympathize with him that they have decided to give manifestations of their sympathy on the 14th inst.—the day upon which he will suffer the last dread penalty of the law. The manifestations, we understand, are to take the form of a series of dynamite and other explosions at certain naval and military stations throughout the Dominion. When the alarm was first given, a terrible scare was the result, but after sober second thought upon the matter public opinion discovered the absurdity of the threatening, and now quiet is once more restored, and the panic-stricken Britons are the butt of ridicule. The circumstances which led to the scare seem to be about as follows:—It appears there was a secret meeting of the Irish land League conference in Philadelphia, who had instructions to report anything of importance. It is claimed that this drill, but an attack on the safe failed. detective communicated to the Governor-General or to the British Government that the day of Brady's execution (next Monday) was to be the time for a combined attempt at revenge whenever and wherever opportunity might offer. General Sir Patrick McDougall, commander-in-chief of the British forces in North America was called upon. He said the statement telegraphed, said to be contained in the communication, was not strictly true, that two suspicious vessels had sailed from Boston for Halifax. He stated that a circumstance which occurred a short time ago had led him to order an extra sentry on guard at the large powder magazine in Point Pleasant park, but further than this there had not yet been any strengthening of guards there or at other places in the city. On being asked whether suspicious vessels had been observed hovering around the harbour lately, he answered that none had been reported to him. He stated that no special instructions had been issued to his officers by him regarding the taking of precautions for the protection of property or life, and that it was not anticipated that any events would occur to alarm the public. Lieutenant Adamson, at present in command of H. M. S. Tenedos, in the absence from the city of Commander Fane, was also visited and he too denied the report that orders had been issued on his ship for extra look-outs or other precautionary measures.

"SHOOT THE HAT."

THE SIGNAL would like to give a bit of advice to the audiences which usually patronize public entertainments in Goderich. There are two sets of intolerable nuisances at all entertainments. One is the small boy who stamps his feet, whistles with his crooked finger, keeps up a desultory conversation during any impressive portion of the programme, and generally makes himself disagreeable to every body but himself. The other nuisance is the "girl," or rather we should say the "woman—usually on the shady side of thirty—who glides into the hall with a Gainsborough hat, a size or two larger than a cartwheel, on her head. The large hat may be a mighty fine article to throw a shadow over the crow's feet around her temples, but the people behind have about the same kind of fun trying to get a view of the performance when the hat is at the right angle, as they would have in looking at a horse race through the medium of a close-jointed fence. If the "maids" who wear wide sombreros at entertainments had the faintest idea of how thoroughly they and their "cartwheels" are execrated by those in the back ground, they would certainly leave the obnoxious broadbrims at home, and perhaps stay at home themselves. A line must be drawn somewhere with regard to ladies' headgear at public entertainments, and THE SIGNAL chalks its line from that point at which "cartwheel" hats of every description are debarred, and mercy is thereby extended to the suffering public whose modesty or financial indisposition compels them to sit in the "back seat." "Shoot the cartwheel, anyhow," say we, and we firmly believe the suffering public will unanimously respond, "Yea, verily, so be it."

THE motion introduced by Mr. Jordan at the last meeting of the town council, relative to enquiring into the practicability of enlarging the town hall, so that it might be made suitable for the holding of public entertainments, is a step in the right direction. At present the hall is an entirely unprofitable investment to the town; but if, by a reasonable further outlay, it can be sufficiently enlarged to admit of being used for the holding of public entertainments, a revenue will accrue to the town which will in a short time become sufficently large to pay a good interest on the investment.

How Liquor is Sold in Maine.

Liquor-sellers in Maine are put to strange devices in order to conceal their contraband wares. On a recent police raid in that state, in one house the bottles were found in the well, tightly corked and with strings around their necks for convenience in raising. In another the bottles were under the cooking range in the ash pit. One liquor-seller, a woman, had two flat bottles hooked to a belt which she wore under her overskirt, and another dealer concealed his under a trap-door beneath a pile of hay in a back loft.

We observe that Mr. Macoun says that sheltered places in the Northwest are subject to early frosts. The whole secret of early frosts is presence of moisture at no great distance from the surface. Land with watery sub-soil is always frosty. On this continent summer frosts have been known to extend as far south as the Gulf States. Where the land is thoroughly drained there can be no summer frosts. But where there is a cold springy sub-soil the heat of the sun makes no impression beyond the surface, and the little heat that is accumulated during the day will on a clear night be given off by radiation long before the night is wholly gone, and the temperature of the surface rapidly falls to the freezing point. It is no uncommon thing to see fields of grain in which all the wet places have been cut off by frost, while the drier portions of the field are unharmed. We know of districts which were at one time annually subject to summer frosts where summer frosts are now wholly unknown.

An attempt was made on Saturday to burglarise the postoffice at Huntington, One. Eight dollars were stolen from the

SHERIDAN'S EXTRADITION

And the Difficulties to be Experienced in Acceding to the Request of the British Government.

New York, May 7.—A Herald's Washington special says:—It is understood that Minister West has fully represented to the British Government the embarrassing position in which he is placed by the failure to bring forward evidence necessary for the preliminary hearing in Sheridan's case. It is said that the reasons now alleged for the delay on the part of the home government do not decrease his mortification. Had the accusation never been made against Sheridan the information now in the British office would probably have postponed the demand for the warrant issued by the State Department on the 23rd of February. In Sheridan's case the evidence on which the Dublin Grand Jury may find indictments, while it might be sufficient to convict the accused under a special court of three judges created by the Irish Crimes Act, would not warrant their surrender by this government under the treaty fixed by a series of unbroken precedents. The evidence must establish the commission of murder or assault with intent to murder. Even if the indictment and evidence should appear on presentation to establish their guilt, still the United States would demand that they should have a fair trial before a jury of their peers, according to the criminal law in the case of assassination or murder. It is now well understood that our Government does not recognize such a crime as a political offence.

DYNAMITE SCARE.

Great Excitement at Halifax, N. S.—Is it a Big Hoax?

Halifax, N. S., May 7.—A startling letter has been received by Lieut-Governor Archibald warning him of the expected visit to Halifax of two suspicious American vessels, and cautioning him to have precautions taken for the safety of life and property in and about the city. The letter contained information which at once started the military and naval authorities into action, and steps are being taken to have everything in readiness should resort to severe measures be required. Col. Clarke on Sunday communicated to the officers at the barracks information, said to be from Sir. John Macdonald, that two suspicious vessels, manned, it was believed, by Fenians, and carrying a quantity of torpedoes and other dangerous explosives, had sailed from Boston a few days ago, and it was thought intended to make Halifax their distination. On arriving here it was asserted the torpedoes with which the vessels were laden would be laid, as opportunity offered, beneath water of the harbour, with the intention of blowing up shipping entering or leaving. Particular mention was made of an extraordinary watch to be kept on the 14th inst., the day on which Brady, one of the Phœnix Park murderers is to be executed. Sentries stationed at various points in the city have been instructed to be careful whom they allow to enter the gates at which they watch.

MACDONELL'S LITTLE BILL.

Six Hundred Dollars for Nine Days' Work.

Ottawa, May 5.—In the committee on public accounts this morning, Mr. Ross inquired respecting an account of J. A. Macdonell, of Toronto, for looking into the title of the land purchased for the Hamilton custom house. He drew attention to the fact that $603.90 were paid him for this service. He was allowed $20 per day during a stay of nine days in Hamilton and his expenses. Besides, some of the items are rather peculiar. For instance, the sum of $1 is charged for calling to see Mr. McInnes, who was not in; $2 is charged for a cab, and another dollar when Mr. McInnes was again not in. A fee of 1 per cent. on the value of the property is charged, making a sum of $550 for passing the title. Many other items bring up the sum to the total first stated.

The Printing Job.

The Chatham Planet is disposed to take a top-loftical view of the recent printing scandal. It says:

"What price we were paid for the work can be seen by any person, but what price we paid was a private matter of our own, not the business of the Government, much less of impertinent proprietors of Grit sheets."

This will not do, and the intention of it is to obscure the real issue. The Government took the job away from the Government printers and gave it to the Messrs. Stephenson. The Messrs. Stephenson took the job back to the Government printers and pocketed the difference between what they paid for getting the work done and what they received from the Government. The Government could have got the work done as cheaply at the office of the Government printers as did the Messrs. Stephenson, and the amount pocketed by the latter gentlemen was consequently extracted from the treasury of Canada and given as a reward for political subserviency. That is the frozen truth of the matter, and no amount of bluster can alter it.—[Advertiser.

Cunning Jail Delivery.

Six prisoners escaped from St. Paul, Minn., jail Friday evening. They sawed the lock off one cell and they shouted to the night watchman that a prisoner was hanging himself. The watchman entered the cell and was knocked down, gagged, his keys taken away and then the other cells were unlocked.

A Senator's Domestic Difficulties.

San Francisco, May 8.—Complaint was filed in the First Judicial District, Nevada, last Wednesday, by Theresa Fair against T. G. Fair, charging adultery on the part of defendant. The affair has created a sensation on account of the high standing of the parties and the great wealth of Fair. The prevailing opinion is the Senator will allow the suit to go by default, and agree to such settlement of property as determined upon by his counsel. Gossip says the following amount is agreed on:—Two million in cash and a million and a half in real estate. The couple were married in 1862.

Auburn.

Our farmers have at last got started at their seeding. Some are done.

Mr. Mitchell, of Blyth, intends starting a harness shop here in a few days.

The Auburn correspondent of the Blyth Standard has a "big fish story" in his items of last week. He credits one of our boys with having caught a sucker last week, weighing 12 pounds. We expect to see a great rush of the Blyth sports to the dam for the next few days.

The suckers have at last made their appearance here. And some good fishing is being had. They have not yet arrived in any great quantities, but we expect more in a day or two when the weather gets warmer. Friend Sturdy, sr., bagged a good many on Monday last.

The following is a report of the pupils of the senior division of Auburn school for April. 5th Class.—1st Joseph Stalker; 2nd Frances Farrow; 3rd Jennie Radcliffe. 4th Class.—1st Albert Downs; 2nd Jennie Hackkirk; 3rd Maggie Reig. 3rd Class Sr. Div.—1st Susan Walker; 2nd Wesley Lanigan; 3rd John Nicholson. Junior Division 1st and 2nd Willie Stalker and William Vaughan; 3rd John Barrie.

Saltford.

There is a great land boom in our village just now.

Mrs. Andrew Beck who has been sick most all winter is getting around again.

J. R. Miller, school inspector, visited the school last week, and made several promotions.

Mrs. H. Y. Attril and family have got home again to the "Oaks," their beautiful residence, after an eight months' trip to Europe.

Mr. Thomas McLean, who for the past seven years has been foreman for Mr. Peter McEwan, in his saltworks, being about to remove to the North-west was, previous to going, presented by those employed about the works with a handsome gold pin, and an address, as a mark of their esteem, to which he feelingly replied.

S. S. ENTERTAINMENT. — For some years past the younger members of the Sunday School here have been in the habit of raising money for Sunday school purposes by entertainments, consisting of songs, recitations and dialogues, and on Wednesday evening last the most successful of these came off. Long before the time for commencing the hall was well filled, and before 8 o'clock all the standing room was also occupied. Mr. Joseph Beck was called to the chair. The order throughout the evening was very good, and the various parts were gone through without any mistakes. Those taking part were:—Jessie Morris, Grace Allen, Miss Annie Morris, Miss McDonald, Messrs. Charles, James and Willie Stewart, Flora McLean, Maud Guilders, Nettie Greer, Annie and Martha McIntyre, Annie and Mary Fritzley, Bella J. Stewart, Lizzie Sands, Katie McDonald, Jennie Morris, Willie C. Stewart, Katie Wells, Maud Martin, Geo. McIntyre. Those taking part in the dialogues, which were excellent, were Jane Collinson, Marion Sands, Evelyn Martin, Charity Long, Willie and Hector McQuarrie, Edwin Morris, John Lasham. Two very nicely rendered duetts were given by Miss Mellish and Miss L. Papst. At the conclusion a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Moore and those who took part, for presenting such an intellectual treat.

Kingsbridge.

Thomas Clair, our well known trapper, hunter, etc., was successful in capturing six red foxes during this winter, besides a large number of skunks, coons, etc.

Mr. Thomas Garvey is erecting a large barn thirty-six by eighty feet, with stone underground stables, eight feet high. Stonework contracted by E. Shannan, Goderich, and carpenterwork by C. and Wm. Morris of Garbraid.

SAWING BEE.—Mr. Nicholas Hussey had a large sawing bee a few days ago with the Irishman as boss, and good supply of Wells's beer. The boys made the saws ring, and in the evening they sat down to a splendid supper got up by the Misses Hussey.

CHARIVARI.—Jas. Barker was united in the bonds of matrimony a few days ago, and the boys demanded a keg of beer, and on his refusal they gathered at night with guns, horns, cow-bells, etc., and made the night hideous with discordant noises.

FISHING.—The creeks and streams in this neighborhood are swarmed with suckers. The well-known Buckley Creek near here is thronged by people day and night, fishing. It is a common thing for a twelve year old boy to catch a bag full in about one hour.

Mr. Donald Cumming, the Dunlop architect, erected a house for one of our citizens in the vicinity of Kintail, and the frost not being out of the ground he put it up on temporary blocks in order that when the frost would be out they might be replaced by better ones. He got the house finished on the outside on Saturday night, and when he returned on Monday, lo and behold he was astonished to find the building had capsized over to the east, and a distance of about eight feet. The architect set to work, and by the aid of his men, and Mr. Baker and his men, and by mechanical appliances succeeded in getting it upright, minus the contents of its tumble.

"UNCLE TOM"

Death of the Veteran Lecturer, Josiah Henson.

A telegram received Saturday morning by Mr. William Berry, of this city, announces the death at Dresden of Mr. "Uncle Tom." He was born in the State of Maryland in June, 1789, and had consequently reached the great age of ninety-four years. Forty-two years of his life were spent in slavery, and the fact that he was a man of far more than ordinary ability coupled with the admission of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe that he was the original of her creation of "Uncle Tom," gave him for many years a prominent place in the public eye. His personal experiences of slave life were not of as dark a character as those of many of his race, and so far as the gross indignities, the barbarous cruelties, Mrs. Stowe records as made to endure, the character is overdrawn when compared with that of the acknowledged "Uncle Tom." The story of his escape, however, is a thrilling one, rendered all the more so by the fact that by extraordinary efforts and vigilance he brought his wife and family to Canada with him. It was on the morning of October 28, 1830, that Josiah Henson crossed the river from Buffalo and landed in Canada, where he threw himself wildly upon the ground, rolled in the sand, seized handfuls of it and kissed them, and jumped about so wildly that the spectators thought he was mad. "Uncle Tom" finally settled in Bothwell, at intervals taking lecturing tours throughout the country, and on one occasion visited England, where he was invited to Windsor Castle and treated with marked respect by the Queen. In politics the deceased was a consistent Liberal. Two sons and a daughter survive him.

Lump Sums instead of Pensions.

London, May 7th.—In the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone announced that instead of the pensions which it was proposed to bestow upon Lord Wolseley and Lord Alcester (Admiral Seymour) they would be given a lump sum of money. The change is believed to be due to the outcry against the provisions of the Pension Bill that on the death of the beneficiaries the pension shall revert to their heirs.

Mormon Marital Strife.

Recently O. F. Due, Mormon, Salt Lake, brutally beat one of his wives, Mormon police arrested Due, who was discharged by a Mormon Justice. The woman on Monday went before the U. S. Commission and charged Due with polygamy. Due was held in $25,000 to wait the action of the Grand Jury. The dissatisfied wife, her sister and another wife were placed under bonds as witnesses. This is one of the remarkably few instances where a Mormon woman has rendered a complaint against her husband.

A Constituency Disfranchised.

It will be remembered that Sir John was elected for Carleton and Lennox at the last Dominion elections, but has not yet decided which constituency he will sit for. His conduct in thus disfranchising a constituency, as important as Carleton or Lennox is utterly indefensible, and no attempt has been made to explain it.—[Globe Reformer.

On the outskirts of the recent tornado in Texas, 30th ult., hail fell like showers of grapeshot. Some hailstones were five inches in diameter. Much stock was killed. A family of seven persons took refuge in a cellar in time to escape being carried away with the house, which was lifted bodily, carried 400 yards, and dashed to pieces.
