THEY WANT RECIPROCITY.

An article in the Worcester, Mass., Spy shows that the movement inaugurated by the Boston chamber of commerce to secure reciprocity with Canada is being vigorously pressed forward. From 3,000 to 4,000 signatures to a petition to congress have been secured in Boston, and in Worcester the board of trade is taking similar action, a representative to the Boston board being in charge of the canvas for signatures in Worcester. In many other towns the like has been done, the signers being business men and manufacturers. The Spy thus outlines the movement and its purpose:—

The action proposed by the Boston chamber of commerce is that the United States government should, if necessary, take the initiative in arranging a reciprocal-trade treaty with the Dominion of Canada, on the basis of according to Canada equivalent concessions in duty to those which Canada should grant to the United States.

The Boston chamber of commerce believes that if sales in Canada are to be maintained, to say nothing about making an increase in them, the manufacturers cannot afford to lose any time in taking proposed action, as each month of delay tends to increase the strain which now exists between the two countries.

Trade organizations all over the country have fallen into line with the Boston chamber of commerce in adopting resolutions advocating closer trade relations with the Dominion of Canada. Circulars have been sent to all such organizations by the Boston chamber, giving the text of the memorial adopted by that organization and explaining in brief all the points necessary to cover the grounds, showing the area, character of the people of Canada, the amount and character of trade with that dominion, the duty conditions, need of changes and the action proposed; also extracts from President McKinley's last speech at Buffalo, giving his expressions along the line of reciprocity, the most important of these being as follows:

"By sensible trade arrangements which will not interrupt our home production, we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus. A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued and healthful growth of our export trade.

"Reciprocity is the natural outgrowth of our wonderful industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established. What we produce beyond our domestic consumption must have a vent abroad. The excess must be relieved through a foreign outlet, and we should sell everywhere we can and but wherever the buying will enlarge our sales and productions, and thereby give a greater demand for home labor.

"A policy of good will and friendly trade relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation are not."

THE FRIEND OF ENGLAND.

The latest despatches indicate that the new Ameer of Afghanistan is a strong friend of England. A Calcutta cable says the nobles swore allegiance to him before his father died, and that the latter warned them all against the Russians. The new Ameer was trained by his father, and shared his father's views respecting England. A London cable says:—

Sooner or later Habibulla will be called upon to show his mettle in disciplining rivals and grouping the tribes together, but unless important news from Cabul has been suppressed there is no immediate danger that a weak government, dependent upon Russia, will be substituted for the independent Afghanistan which has remained a strong defence for India. One of the officials of the India office remarked yesterday that the new Ameer was known to be the strongest and most capable successor, Britain's friend and ally, and that his father had done everything to secure for him the undisputed succession. The change of reign, he added, occurred, in one respect at an unfortunate time, since Lord Curzon has been creating a new province on the frontier and has not yet succeeded in setting it to rights. But unless an unforseen emergency should arise, Afghan affairs were like to go on as before. This remains the general conclusion of writers in the press. The Czar's pacific policy is regarded as the strongest safeguard against a revival of race rivalry in Asia.

An American exchange says that London stands in great fear of an epidemic of smallpox, and points out the laxity of the English people in regard to vaccination. There is no mention however of the epidemic nearer home, nor of that the Americans have so kindly sent over to us.

An indignant citizen of Georgia in a letter to the New York Sun emphatically upholds Rudyard Kipling. He says "Rudyard Kipling is the first man in thirty years who has written stories with good horse sense in them. He is a man, and that is why the little baby critics do not like him."

A suggestion made by the Mayor of Toronto might well be adopted in St. John on the night the Duke and Duchess are here. It was that for the royal reception everyone who has a flag should fly it, and that at night every house should be lit up—every lamp should be lighted.

DEAD LANGUAGES.

After prolonged controversy, says a despatch, the authorities have decided to eliminate Latin from the lower grades in the higher state schools of Sweden, while totally transferring Greek to the universities. The time thus gained will be devoted partly to a closer study of the English language and partly to modern history and economics.

This is a wise decision and is worthy of imitation by Canadian schools. The vast majority of students in the lower grades find Latin and Greek of no practical use after leaving school, and it seems a wise thing to devote the time which would be spent in this study to more useful work.

Nikola Tesla has purchased about 1,500 acres of land on Long Island, comprising a large stretch of hills and valleys, wooded bluffs and fine beach, where he proposes to establish a power and signal plant from which he will try to communicate with the most distant parts of the civilized world. Besides this Tesla soon hopes to give a new system of illumination to the world, by diffused light.

Those who say that prohibition is a failure in Maine are rather severely dealt with by the Boston Advertiser, which says: "People who insist that in Maine prohibition is a failure, never lack proofs. When no saloons are raided in that state the fact shows that the law is not enforced. When saloons are raided, the fact shows that there are saloons in Maine."

KAPLAN MURDER CASE.

CLARKS HARBOR, Oct. 10.—The coroner's jury in the Kaplan murder case concluded their labors last night, after a long and searching investigation. It was near midnight when they decided that all the available evidence had been taken. Some points connected with the tragedy have been cleared up, and in consequence, a young Russian Jew named Rill is under watch at the hotel here. Rill had been in some kind of partnership with Kaplan for a few days, but disagreed with him on the Friday previous to the murder. He bought a black mask at a shop here. After the tradegy fragments of a mask were found in Kaplan's shop. Other circumstances, still more incriminating, were laid before the stipendiary magistrate this afternoon.

The coroner's jury recorded an open verdict to the effect that the deceased Kaplan came to his death by bullet fired from some weapon in the hands of some person to them unknown on the evening of Oct. 8th. Warrants have been issued and placed in the hands of a constable to arrest Rill for the murder of Kaplan, and also for the arrest of Max Sachnir Sohn, who is also to be detained as a witness in the case. Arrests will be made early in the morning.

The body of Nathan Kaplan, murdered at Clark's arbor, N. S., on Monday, arrived here in the Prince Rupert late yesterday afternoon, and was interred in the Hebrew burial ground. Rabbi Welensky conducted the service. A large number of Jewish people met the body at the pier, along with Rabbi Welensky, and the funeral cortege proceeded to the cemetery. The body was accompanied from Nova Scotia by a son and brother, the latter is quite overcome by his brother's tragic death.

SIR THOMAS AND HIS SAILORS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Sir Thomas Lipton tonight dined the crews of the Shamrock II., the Erin, and the tender Porto Rico, the three vessels which composed the Lipton fleet in America during the last racing season, at the hotel Marlborough.

As Sir Thomas took his seat at the head of the table the band struck up "Here Comes a Sailor." The diners cheered heartily. As the din subsided Sir Thomas arose.

"Better luck next time," was the toast he proposed, then followed with a speech in which he said:

"I need not say I am delighted to see you all so jolly, men. And there is really no reason why you should not be happy, for while we did not lift the cup, we got fairly and squarely licked. You did your best and no man can do more.

"Captain Sycamore ought to be proud of his crew, and the crew of the Shamrock ought to be proud of Captain Sycamore. I am proud of you all. If I should decide to race again, I would not change a single man, provided you all would be willing to go with me.

"We were not successful in lifting the cup, but I tell you, boys, if we had won, I could not be more thankful to you.

"You have heard that this is a great country for trusts, and they cornered the wind, that's the reason why we could not get it. The Shamrock is as good as any boat afloat. Designer Watson deserves all credit for the thought and the skill he has laid down in its construction.

"But the best of boats need a little luck and while there was plenty of luck about that day, we did not seem to get any of it."

The evening was wound up with a vaudeville entertainment.

LABOR MEETINGS.

The painters, paper hangers and decorators of the city met last night and listened to an address from J. A. Flett, the labor organizer. They decided to organize and appointed as temporary officers: Geo. Maston, president, and J. H. Campbell, secretary. It was determined to have another meeting Monday night, in order that all the men engaged in these lines of business should have a chance to express their views.

There were also 1,334 exhibits that received honorable mention. The United States heads the list of prize winners with 661 gold trophies, 668 silver, 56 bronze and 470 honorable mentions. Mexico comes next, with 78 gold medals, 151 silver and 139 bronze.

AS HONORARY COLONEL.

At a meting of the Canadian Veterans' Association held recently in Montreal, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal was named honorary lieutenant-colonel. A letter regretting his inability to be present at the military demonstration, which is to be held at Sohmer Park, on Oct. 22nd, was received from Lord Strathcona. The letter enclosed a cheque for $100 towards the funds of the association.

LAST TRIBUTE.

Bishop Butler, of Demerara is Laid to Rest.

Crozier and Sword Crossed on the Coffin of One of Britain's Remarkable Men.

DUBLIN, Oct. 9.—With crozier and sword crossed on his coffin, Right Rev. Anthony Butler, S. J., was buried in Demarara. It was probably one of the most remakable funerals in the annals of the church and of the British army, for the body was borne to its last resting place on a gun carriage, and as the remains were lowered into the grave made for them in the cathedral, soldiers outside fired their farewell shots for the hero of the soutane and the sabretashe.

Thus ended the career of one of the remarkable men in the British empire—a career of romance, adventure, and ascetism—that has few equals in the pages of fiction.

BELONGED TO ARMY FAMILY.

Anthony Butler was 71 years old at the time of his death. Born in the County Clare, he was descended from a family of high connections in both Munster and Connaught, and was connected with an "army family." His father was Walter Butler, of Ashfield, and his mother, before her marriage, Frences Blake, of Frenchfort. Several members of the family have won distinction under the colors in various campaigns of early and recent dates.

Butler was educated at the famous Jesuit college of Clongowes and at the Oscott school, near Birmingham. At 19 he entered the army as a lieutenant in the Royal Irish Fusiliers (the celebrated Faugh-a-Ballaghs), and at once began active military work, serving in China and in the Indian mutiny. For deeds of valor he was decorated with many clasps and medals, and his promotion was rapid.

ENTRANCE INTO PRIESTHOOD.

He was the idol of the younger officers, and was familiarly known as "Tony" Butler, but little these roystering, reckless fighting men thought that in years to come Captain Butler, instead of being their boon companion in warlike exploits and adventures, would become their chaplain. This is what actually occurred, though, for at the age of 36 Butler informed his family that he had decided to abandon the army and to join the church. He was in barracks at Portsmouth when he penned the famous letter expressing his determination to enter the Jesuit novitiate at Roehampton, and the letter is said to have been a strangely impressive document.

The earnest protests of his family were futile, and in 1866 Captain Butler entered the Society of Jesus and was ordained to the priesthood in 1872. He was then sent to Jamaica on a mission, but soon returned to prosecute his theological studies, for which purpose he entered the college at Ghent, Belgium. Then Father Butler took charge of a mission at Belford-Leigh, Lancashire, and in 1878 the pope appointed him bishop of Demarara and vicar apostolic of British Guiana, in succession to the late Dr. Etheridge.

ENERGETIC IN HIS DUTIES.

It was at this time that the ecclesiastical fighting qualities of the new prelate developed. The greatest difficulties were surmounted; schools, missions and convents multiplied, and more especially was the cause of education advanced and the care of the unfortunate lepers on the West India Islands promoted.

Arduous labors finally affected the soldier-bishop's robust health, and the depressing climate also had its ill effects. He visited Europe in 1898 in the hope of bettering his physical condition, and the trip improved him considerably; but the ravages of the army service on the sun-scorched plains of India and the miasmatic swamps of China had made deep impress on his constitution, and upon his return to Demarara he declined rapidly. The end came peacefully twenty years exactly from the date of his elevation to the episcopate, and Bishop Butler's funeral took place with impressive ceremonies at Georgetown, the church, the army and the state participating in the obsequies. It was, however, distinctly a military funeral—something remarkable for a prelate of the Church of Rome.

MYSTERY ABOUT A BOOK.

Some years ago there was published in England and America a book credited to the famous Charles Lever, and called "Tony Butler." By those who knew the late bishop in his army days it was said that the volume portrayed some of the characteristics of the bishop; but literary authorities denied that Lever had ever written the novel, and churchmen scoffed at the idea that in any manner it sketched the military career of the soldier-prelate. Certain it is, however, that in phases of his career nothing too romantic or adventurous was beyond the achievement of the man, who, under crozier and sword, now sleeps beneath the vaulted dome of a South American cathedral.

SIBALLA REHEARSALS.

About seventy-five of those interested in the production of Siballa met at Oddfellows' hall last evening, when the various classes were formed and notices given of the different practices which will be held almost continuously from now until the date of production. Siballa, while bearing something of a resemblance to the favorite Zephra, promises to present more numbous and even brighter dances and is set to prettier music than its predecessor.

WILL BE REPAIRED HERE.

H. M. S. Indefatigable May Stay in Halifax This Winter—Such is the General Opinion—The Work Will Cost £27,000.

(Halifax Recorder.)

Considerable interest has been manifested in business as well as naval circles, in reference to the repairs necessary to H. M. S. Indefatigable, which was badly damaged by running on a reef in the St. Lawrence. No definite decision has as yet been announced as to whether this ship will be repaired here or taken to England or Bermuda. Everything is in favor of Halifax getting the work, and the general impression at the Dockyard is that she will remain here for the winter. There are several reasons given for this belief. One of the principal ones is, that on the way to Quebec, from Halifax, the Indefatigable made considerable water, and even yet, she is continually leaking at her pier in the Dockyard, and the pumps have to be kept steady at work.

If she was taken to any other port some repairs would first have to be made here, and this would necessitate extra expenditure. Again, another reason for the Indefatigable remaining in Halifax is that all the docks in England and Bermuda have already all the work they can handle. The cost of repairing the ship in Halifax will be £27,000.

The matter is at present being considered by the naval department in England, and, as stated above, Halifax will in all probability be named as the port where her repairs will be made. It is understood that 130 feet of the plates are damaged.

ALL IN THE FAMILY.

(Toronto Globe.)

A rural romance comes from the village of Ste. Rose de Fina, near East Templeton. According to this story an elderly man, said to be about sixty was yesterday to have married a girl of sixteen or seventeen. The friends of both parties objected to the match, but the bride, though she had another lover of more tender years, refused all along to break with her older admirer. Yesterday at the hour fixed for the ceremony the bride did not turn up, and the presumption was that she had gone off with the younger lover. The elder swain was disconsolate until someone suggested that he marry the elder sister of the missing girl. The groom prospective seized on the suggestion, promptly proposed to an elder sister, was accepted, and inside of an hour they were married, and the wedding bells rang out joyously.

LADY CURZON SEES A SEERESS.

(Chicago Chronicle.)

Lady Curzon while in Paris recently, half for a joke, called incognito on Mme De Thebes, a famous palm and card reader, who predicted for her many absurd things, among others these: "You will be divorced within three years. After a period of terrible grief you will meet a man whose advances, though they will fail to awaken love, will render life interesting again. When you are forty-seven years old you will marry a poor American of the same age who will be elected president twelve years later. Your first husband will then seek your pardon and afterward retire to live on a small farm."

The vicereine repeated this laughingly, but some of her friends were made somewhat nervous by the foolish prediction.
