FIRE UNDERWRITERS HEARD ADDRESS BY MRS. LANGSTAFF

The Fire Underwriters' Association of the Province of Quebec at their dinner last night heard an address from Mrs. Annie Langstaff, who brought forward many points in favor of her effort to gain the right to practice as a lawyer. She was introduced by Mr. C. Gauvin, president of the association.

Mrs. Langstaff opened her speech by explaining that her arguments in her fight for admission to the bar were for not only men, but a large number of women. Referring to the judgment recently rendered in her case, in which emphasis was placed on the fact that many of the women's cases were not fit to be heard by women, Mrs. Langstaff said there were many ways in which women would be of inestimable value especially in juvenile Courts, and in matters relating to marriage and divorce.

Her effort to enter the legal profession had aroused protests from many classes, said Mrs. Langstaff. These protests were mainly based on traditions of what women were bad as well as good. This was the possibility. She did not ask for any special privileges, for she would have to pass the same rigid examinations as men.

At the close of her speech, Mrs. Langstaff received a hearty reception. Mr. Hector Vidal proposed a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. A. B. Haycock.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths are inserted free of charge.

IS TALCUM A BEAUTIFIER?

Washington, D.C., March 24.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Newton gave a hearing to-day to complaints against the emergency revenue tax on talcum powder. The bureau had held that talcum powder is a beautifier and as such is taxable under the provision of the war revenue law.

Manufacturers of toilet articles contended that talcum is not a beautifier, but a toilet necessity. It was understood afterward that Mr. Newton did not think the internal revenue bureau's ruling ought to be reversed.

MUST DEPOSIT PRICE WHEN SUING ON PROMISE OF SALE

Action Dismissed Because Plaintiff Failed to Deposit Money With Court,—Insufficient to Declare Desire For Property.

The necessity of depositing the price, when suing with a view to forcing a man to stand by a promise of sale, has just been demonstrated before Mr. Justice Lafontaine in the local courts. His Lordship dismissing the suit of Hormisdas Desjardins vs. Leandre Belanger. Desjardins asked that Belanger be forced to transfer to him a certain property on Beaudry street. He alleged that Belanger, several months ago, had signed a promise of sale in his favor. The proof, however, showed that Desjardins had not availed himself of his alleged privileges under this promise of sale, until over a year afterwards. Moreover, in taking suit, he had not consigned into court the purchase price figuring in such promise of sale.

The court held that, in a bi-lateral contract, neither of the parties was obliged to start, first, the execution of his obligations, the execution of the obligations of each party being necessarily concomitant. As a consequence, the plaintiff, in order to obtain the delivery of the property, should have tendered the purchase price.

When, in a promise of sale, a delay was fixed, it was not sufficient for the party in whose favor such promise of sale was made to declare that he desired to avail himself of it. He must, in addition, put up the purchase price mentioned in such promise, and this, within the term fixed in the contract. And he should place the seller 'en demeure' to carry out his obligations under such promise of sale. Action dismissed with costs.

DELEGATION PROTESTS AGAINST TAX ON VAULTS

The leading banks, insurance and other mercantile firms of the city were represented in a large delegation which waited on the Legislation Committee yesterday at the City Hall to enter a protest against the present rate of taxation on vaults under sidewalks, as well as the tax on private bridges over certain back streets, required for business purposes.

So burdensome was the tax becoming the committee was assured that already certain business houses were closing up these vaults. Mr. J. Stevenson Brown cited a case where a large property in St. James street was assessed $1,200 a year for the space of 100 feet long under the sidewalk. While there was no objection to a reasonable tax, it was argued that the way the corporation assessed property for the privilege of getting light through a prism sidewalk, which costs the city nothing to maintain, was burdensome and unreasonable. Mr. Brown stated that the delegation represented a valuation of nearly $100,000,000 of property in Montreal.

Upon the suggestion of Ald. L. A. Lapointe, chairman, it was decided to have a report prepared by city officials.

Average price of twelve industrials 79.38 up 1.35. Twenty railways 91.39 up 1.21.
