THE NEWS of the sudden death of Mr. W. H. Fuller at Kingston yesterday will be received with much regret by the newspaper men of Ontario generally, and by the people of Kingston in particular. Up till within four years he edited the Kingston Whig with marked ability, and his pen was one of the most frequently quoted in the whole Reform press. When he retired from the Whig, Mr. Fuller was appointed clerk of the crown for Frontenac, a position he held at the time of his death. He was a graduate of Queen's university. Mr. Fuller was "one in a thousand," and his many personal friends will drop a tear at the sudden ending of his young life.

A meeting of tanners was held at Beardmore & Co.'s office yesterday in the interest of the trade. The chief object of the meeting was to start an agitation for an export duty on bark. The result of their deliberations will be laid before the government.

THE BEEKEEPERS.

Second Meeting of the Convention—Interesting Discussions on Bees and Honey—A Dainty Morsel.

The beekeepers' meeting was resumed last night in the city hall, Mr. D. A. Jones being in the chair. The room was crowded to excess, showing the interest taken in the proceedings of the association. His worship Mayor McMurrich was present for a short time.

The meeting being called to order, the secretary's annual report was received and adopted; at the same time a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to Mr. McKnight for the special interest he has shown in the welfare of the association. The success of the association has been very gratifying. Only a year ago the association was formed with 33 members, which has been increased during the interval to 63 members. In a financial point of view there is a surplus in the treasurer's hands of $7 35.

The chairman stated that the association had been in receipt of a large gingerbread and a sponge cake, in which honey was the sweetening ingredient. They were the gift of Mrs. J. J. Wallace. The audience was treated to a taste of the dainties and pronounced them excellent. The peculiarity about cakes made with honey is, they will keep over a year and retain their moisture. A motion was carried giving it as the opinion of the beekeepers that, leaving out expense, honey was better than all classes of sugar for sweetening purposes.

The committee appointed to draw up a set of queries for discussion reported some ten in number. The first was the wintering of bees. This was discussed in an able manner by Messrs. Hare, Jones, Nugent, etc. Differences of opinion occurred, but most of these were dispelled by taking into consideration the nature of the locality in which the bees were farmed. All agreed that the bees should be well housed as early as October, plenty of honey being left with them to feed upon, and on no condition should the bees be disturbed, as such interference with their nature has proven by experience to be disastrous. "The uses of comb foundation" and "the cause of stocks fighting and killing others" were ably dealt with, which, owing to the late hour, the meeting adjourned, to meet this evening at the city hall at half-past seven. A good programme has been provided.

The executive committee will, as usual, be at the exhibition grounds to post those desiring information on particular points connected with bees.

GENERAL SESSIONS AND COUNTY COURT.

Judge Mackenzie yesterday presided over both the criminal and civil business.

In the sessions the grand jury returned true bills in the following cases:—Samuel R. Thompson, operating an illicit still; Robert Southworth, larceny and receiving; John Nelson, felonious wounding with intent to murder; John Flavell, jr., for appropriating to his own use a horse and waggon belonging to Thomas Houlgrave; Mary Reid, feloniously administering noxious things; Margaret McCabe, receiving stolen goods; John Anderson, shop-breaking. They found no bill in the case of Catherine Fleming, charged with having unlawfully wounded Josephine La France. None of the cases were proceeded with.

Several cases were disposed of in the county court. In the case of Kyle v. Mitchell a verdict for the plaintiff for $90 was entered by consent, and an order to enter judgment and issue execution at the end of two weeks under the judicature act granted. Barber v. O'Brien, Laidlaw v. Plummer and Lawson v. Clatworthy were made remanets. In Bray v. Hunter, a reference was ordered to Mr. N. G. Bigelow, as it was a matter of account. In the Ontario Copper and Lightning-rod company v. Bonnell, plaintiffs got a verdict for $100. Following is the peremptory list for to-morrow: Gale v. McKinnon, Croake v. Playter, Lamb v. Ansell, McArthur v. Scott, Campbell v. Perry, Winfield v. Birney, Rees v. McKeown, Francis v. Dennis, Grant v. Sawdon.

THE WATER-WORKS.

Increased Pumping Power and Larger Mains Wanted—An Additional Engine Recommended—The Extension—No Water For Yorkville.

The water-works committee dealt with some important matters at its meeting yesterday forenoon.

The engineer reported as to the growing insufficiency of the pumping capacity of the works as follows: I am informed by the engineer in charge of the pumping works that owing to the large consumption in the city he is unable to stop pumping with the larger engine, though much needed repairs should be made. It is needless for me to say that in the event of any accident occurring to the engine the consequences might be most serious, especially during this dry season, and when needed repairs cannot be attended to at once and efficiently the liability to accident is always increased. The whole question requires prompt and careful attention, and time will be required before additional power could be procured if determined upon. It is thought that an additional engine and pumps of a capacity of not less than twelve millions of imperial gallons daily should be procured. These, with connections, bores, foundations, alterations to buildings, and main across the Esplanade, would entail an expenditure of $100,000. After discussion the matter was referred to the executive committee, with a recommendation that it should be submitted to the people.

Another report was read. It dealt with the supply of water to Yorkville and the laying of additional mains. The report pointed out that in the event of the city agreeing to supply the village with water, the tariff would be the same as in the city, and the expenditure would just be the cost of the additional coal that would be required to pump the supply. The consumption at present in Yorkville was 300,000 imperial gallons per day, and with the present position of the pumping capacity of their engines he could not recommend the assumption of the additional burden. The report recommended an increase in the capacity of the mains on Front street, between Simcoe and Church, and on King street, between Simcoe and Jarvis. On Front street he recommends either a ten or twelve inch pipe, at a cost of $5700 and $7000 respectively. On King street he recommends a twelve or ten inch pipe, or the duplicating of the present six-inch pipe. The cost of these would be respectively $8000, $6000 and $4000. This report was also referred to the executive.

Mr. Brough further reported that three lengths of the extension into the lake had now been laid and jointed, and that the other three lengths were ready for laying, one being in the water and two on the banks ready for launching. This would make 1200 feet. There was every probability of the work being completed before the winter sets in; if not, the terms of the contract should be enforced.

WATER-WORKS NOTES.

The tender of the St. Lawrence foundry for the supply of 12-inch pipe at $35 per 2240 pounds has been accepted.

Mr. McMinn, the engineer in charge of the lake pipe extension, will be allowed $5 a week for his expenses of living on the island.

A week's pay has been recommended to be paid to two employees, Cronin and Trowbridge, who were injured in the service of the department.

Key hydrants are recommended to be placed at five cottages of James Milligan on Robert street; at five houses on Drummond street, of G. W. Banks; at six houses on Edward street, of C. Powell.

The committee has confirmed the purchase of the fountains, one to replace the stone fountain at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets, and the other to be placed at the corner of Yonge and King streets.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

THE TURF.

THE ST. LEGER.

The great Doncaster St. Leger is over and the Americans are jubilant. Archer rode Iroquois to victory, Geologist second and Lucy Glitters third. At the start the betting was 10 to 3 against Iroquois, and Americans backed heavily. The winner of the St. Leger by the winner of the Derby is a much more rare event than many suppose. The St. Leger was instituted in 1776 and the Derby in 1780, and the winner of the Derby has been successful at Doncaster only ten times, viz.:

Year.

1866—Mr. Sutton's Lord Lyon, by Stockwell.
1877—Lord Falmouth's Silvio, by Blair Athol.
1881—Mr. P. Lorillard's Iroquois, by Leamington.

Iroquois' victory was extremely popular. He and Archer were enthusiastically cheered. An excellent start was effected at the first attempt. Iroquois was the quickest away, but Archer immediately pulled him back. Before the distance pole was reached Iroquois came on in full running, winning easily by a length. Time, 3:20.

GENERAL NOTES.

The smart keel sloop Kestrel of Hamilton has been added to the list of the Toronto yacht club, having been purchased by a Torontonian.

It is rumored that a prize fight will take place next week near the city between Jerry Sheehan of Lombard street and John Meany of Duchess street.

OSGOODE HALL, YESTERDAY.

Mr. Justice Osler granted a writ of habess corpus to bring John R. Ferguson from St. Thomas gaol. Mr. Doherty, who obtained the writ, will move upon its return for an order for Ferguson's discharge, on the ground of irregularity in the proceedings which were taken against him for committing an assault.

The chancellor delivered judgment in the case of Neville v. Cunningham, in which the defendant, an old man of 70 years, from Guelph, argued an appeal in person. The chancellor's decision, however, went against the old gentleman, the appeal being dismissed with costs.

The case of Cameron v. Campbell was argued in the court of appeal. The appeal is from the court of chancery, the bill being filed for an account of $3200 left by the late Hugh Cameron in trust to the defendants, his executors, to pay the amount to the brother of the testator if he should be found in five years, and if not to pay the sum to the plaintiff. The brother failed to turn up, and plaintiff seeks to have an account made for the money. The judgment in chancery was for the plaintiff, and this is now appealed from. The case continues.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.

Shortly after seven last night a large crowd had congregated at the Royal opera house door, eagerly endeavoring to gain admittance. At eight o'clock every seat in the theatre was occupied, and the placard "standing room only" had to be placed outside the entrance. Before the curtain went up the house was crowded, and Manager Conner had to refuse admittance to many persons. Hundreds were turned away.

It is but right that Mr. Connor should meet with the success that is now crowning his efforts, as this week gives his patrons the privilege of seeing a fine play finely acted. No particular mention can be made of any of the cast, as each and every one of them performed their respective parts in a manner that did credit to themselves, and elicited many rounds of applause from the audience.

The dresses worn by Miss Agnes Herndon, a lady of undeniable beauty and splendid physique, are a marvel of beauty. In the first act she appears in a lavender silk draped with white lace, and a large French hat with white feathers. In the second act she wears an old gold satin dress draped with brocaded silk and black lace. In the third act she was costumed in a cream silk with spangles. In the fourth act she wore a black velvet trimmed with rich lace. In the fifth act her dress was equally as rich as the others.

The orchestra deserves special mention. Their playing is artistic and finished, the negro melody and imitation of clog-dancing being especially fine.

The Valley Slave will occupy the boards the remainder of the week.
