CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER

SACKVILLE, N. B NOV. 19, 1891.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S SHARE.

The esteemed Transcript of the 13th inst., takes the Post severely to task for implying that a portion of the Pacaud steal was sent to New Brunswick during the late election and that Mr. Blair was an important party to the act. When these charges were first whispered about, all eyes were directed to the Fredericton Farmer, Mr. Blair's pocket organ in his personal capacity, for a true and satisfactory version or denial of the case. What does the Farmer say? In an editorial which was probably written by Mr. Blair himself, if not, then subjected to his approval, it cries out for the evidence; it asks for the proofs that such things did really occur, but so transparent is the wording, the fact that it does not deny the charges shines out with more brilliancy than does the circumlocution and redundancy with which the article abounds. Our esteemed contemporary at the railway hub, we observe follows the same illogical style of argument, and cries out for proof, but whether it is afraid of having to retract something or else its inward consciousness rebels, we notice too it does not flatly deny that Quebec funds were used in York county on March last.

The facts of this case are not altogether devoid of humor, however serious they may be in a politico-moral sense. In March last, one of the most prominent and aspiring Liberals of Kent county, who was recognized as having a strong pull at the ancient capital, went to Quebec to make some arrangements to procure the sinews of war for this province. He returned satisfied. A few days before the election a draft or check for $5,000 was sent from Quebec to Mr. C W. Weldon, Liberal candidate for St. John, for Mr. Blair's signature. Apparently the treasurer of the purifying fund was doubtful of the honesty of some one, so the bill was drawn in such a manner that neither one could get the proceeds without the signature of the other. By this capital arrangement, a fair divide had to be made. But our Kent county friend had ample use for money just about that time and he urged that the divisor be 3 instead of 2. As he was in the minority and likely to be so on election day, whether he got the boodle or not, it was decided to centre the forces in St. John and York.

On March 2nd, it was agreed to cash the note and a tall handsome gentleman was despatched to Fredericton to get Mr. Blair's signature. Unfortunately Mr. Blair was then on the stump at Prince William, and thither the tall handsome gentleman drove and got the requisite name, returned to St. John and the money was procured. The tall handsome gentleman is a prominent stationer of Prince William St., St. John.

These are known particulars of the case which have been slowly worked out, and so far they have passed unchallenged by the parties affected.

Following as closely as these revelation do upon the Quebec despatches that the proceeds of one of the notes endorsed by Mercier, Langelier and Pelletier, was transmitted to New Brunswick, there appears to the rational mind little doubt but that some of the Pacaud boodle did find a home in this province. There is one way in which the matter could be settled, quickly and easily and for all time. Let Mr. Blair state many of his organs that he is innocent of the above accusations. If he does so the Post for one will accept his word as truth.

A NEW SCANDAL.

Scandals in Quebec are beginning to be quite the fashion. A new phase of an old one is now attracting attention. Contractor Whelan whose name has figured with that of the illustrious Pacaud in a previous scrape gave the other day to a correspondent of the Toronto "Empire" the details of a scandal which colored a Mr Whelan related some facts concerning the various amounts which had been squeezed from him from time to time by the Quebec government. The amount foots up to $114,000 which was extorted on account of the Quebec Court work and the same gentleman whose names have been in everybody's mouth during the past few months in connection with the Bay Chaleur scandal are at the bottom of this fresh revelation. Mr. Whelan had threatened to reveal what he knew concerning the boodling several times and when he did make a clean breast of the affair the consternation was great. The provincial treasury owed Mr. Whelan large sums of money on account of various public works, and in order to raise funds to elevate the standard of the Liberal party in Quebec, Messrs. Pacaud, Beausoleil, Chas, Langelier and Carrier who acted as intermediaries between the contractor and the government, squeezed from him this large sum in consideration of having his claims pushed toward a favorable settlement. Mr. Whelan's verbatim replies to questions asked is interesting reading. The roll of honor as given by Mr. Whelan or stated by him to be substantially correct is as follows:

Hon. H Mercier	$ 13,750
Hon H Mercier & Beausoleil, M P	23,500
Hon H Mercier and E Pacaud ..	16,000
A Carrier, M P P	2,550
Hon Chas Langelier..	2,500
Hon P Garneau and others ..	4,950
Hon A Turcotte, ex-atty-general..	2,650
Rinfretaine's law office for which A E Robidoux, attorney-general is partner	18 500
Hon Jas McShane	7,100
Dominion Elections of 1887 ..	14,600
Sundry liberals	8,000
Grand total.....	$114,000

No legitimate equivilent was given for these sums, it was simply forced out of Mr Whelan by the recipients under promise of having the claims against the government satisfied. A large amount of the above was used was used in Messrs Mercier's and Blake's interests in the general election of '87, and the details of the appropriation will be found in the following detailed sums which the contractor has said to be correct:

Paid Louis Perriault subscription to general fund at Mercier's request.....	$ 5,000
Paid Quebec West.....	1,000
Paid H. J. Colran.....	3,600
Paid D Ford's note, endorsed by Mercier, Shehyn and Garneau	2,500
Paid cash to Senator Pelletier..	2,500
Total.....	$14,600

MR. CHAPLEAU'S POSITION.

For a long time Hon. Mr. Chapleau and his attitude toward his fellow members of the Abbott cabinent and toward the portfolio of Minister of Railways of Canada, have been the subjects of many leaders in the opposition press. Just what his position is and his motives for advancing Quebec's interest in the reconstruction he gives in a letter to the Hamilton, Ont. Spectator, of a recent date:

You make an appeal to the spirit of cohesion and of self-sacrifice which should animate all true Conservatives. In the present circumstances this appeal has all the more force, as everybody admits the necessity of union if we wish to assure the success of the Conservative policy. Let me tell you, before going further, that nobody has more at heart than myself the defence of this policy, and that, whatever I may do in the future, has been and always will be inspired only by the desire of devoting such prestige as I have been able to acquire and such influence as has been accorded to me among my compatriots to the service of my party, for the defence of the great principles which we maintain together.

To these principals the province of Quebec has been faithful ever since moderate Conservatives and Liberals formed an alliance which has gained for our party the title of "Liberal-Conservative." It is but a very few years since we were all powerful in that province. From Gaspe to Pontiac, the the Conservative members could grasp hands and form a chain which nothing but grave errors in the party management and internal divisions could dissever. Despite the difficult position caused by these divisions, I have succeeded, by force of energy and strenuous endeavor, in preserving a majority in the great political region which I represent at the council board. Still, more than anybody else, I realize how great is the ground we have lost elsewhere: and, after the last session, my friends and I understood the necessity, the urgent need of obtaining for the province of Quebec such representation in the cabinet as would give to us, to my French colleagues and myself, that increase of influence indispensably needed by us to redeem the ground lost during these last few years.

This is what very many Ontario Conservatives have not been willing to understand. Wherever they attribute to me motives of personal interest, they should have seen only my desire to augment an influence which is at their service as much as at that of the province of Quebec. The French Liberal-Conservative section is as indispensable to the party as the Ontario Tory section, as the Conservative contingent from the Maritime Provinces or from the West. It is, therefore, in the common interest that passions, prejudices, provincial or individual ambitions, should be put aside so as to give to the Conservative leaders who really represent the electorate in every region of the Dominion, all the prestige and the influence that the Government is in a position to place at their disposal.

You emphasise the opportunity of choosing in every district man whose influence can secure for the Government the largest possible support. Here is a point upon which the Ontario Conservative press should dwell with profit, instead of devoting their columns to making inconsiderate attacks on men from whom in the past they have received loyal and valuable services and whose influence is necessary to its existence.

I have been accused of approaching the Liberals and of fomenting treason in our ranks. They who have said that deliberately lie and soon will be afforded an opportunity of giving the authority for their calumny. As if, after thirty years of struggle, of labor and devotion to a cause which I have defended with love, as a sacred thing, I could feel like uniting with those who have nothing for me but violence, insults and calumnies. As if, after having proclaimed and secured the triumph of those lofty principles which I believed and still believe, to be the base of our prosperity, I could renounce them all to become the apostle of everything against which I have fought as inimical to the nation, ever since my first step in public life.

It is a fact that occasionally differences of opinion have arisen between my colleagues and myself regarding the management of the party. Generally we have been able to arrive at an understanding, quietly, by mutual concessions. When I have not been able to succeed alone in protecting the interests intrusted to me, I have called to my aid my friends, and I have intimated my decision to retire from the cabinet, rather than yield absolutely either to unjust exigencies, or to a line of conduct the approval of which was forbidden by my convictions, that is precisely because I believe in the Conservative policy that I have never lent myself, that I shall never lend myself, to a course which would, in my openion, be fatal to the party, rather than fail as a minister for an error, of which, with others, I should bear the responsibility, I would prefer to do, as that marshal of France, who, blamed by the Emperor, went to his tent to exchange his uniform for the soldier's tunic and came back to the monarch with these proud words: "Sire, I will die for France as a private soldier, but I will not bear the responsibility of a campaign which will be fatal to the army."

It is my constant endeavor to be worthy of those whom I represent. As a minister, I have a voice in the councils of the nation, and that implies the right of free speech. For those who reproach me with my independence, let them show their political record and compare it with mine to establish wether they or I have done the most for the maintenance and the greatness of the party which we defend.

For myself I ask nothing. What I demand is for my province. I have always taken into considgration the needs, the requirements of other provinces, so as not to be unjust in their regard before demanding anything for my own. Why is there in certain quarters a disinclination to recognize my liberality and an attempt to deprive me of an influence which I exercised only for the benefit of the party?

As well as anybody, I recognize the difficulties imposed on the first minister in the reorganization of the cabinet, and events will show that my personals count for nothing in the difficulties which the press has for some time brought to the knowledge of the public. I owe to the Premier my assistance within the limit of the interests which I am charged to guard and that support is unreservedly given to him. I feel sure that the Conservative journals which have attacked me will give me credit for not having precipitated a crisis which, had I considered only my own personality, might have been attended with the gravest results.

In conclusion, I desire, on my part, to make an appeal to the Ontario Conservative press. It is not to allow itself to form an unjust opinion of the French population of Quebec on account of the scandalous regime which the Liberals have imposed on us at Quebec for five years past. Our population has remained conservative: it has remained honest. Our people are indignant at having misplaced their confidence, although but for a period relatively short; but before long they will, I hope, have an opportunity of showing their resolve to undo their error by ridding the province of those men whose maladministration has brought discredit upon it. I have the honor to be, dear sir, yours faithfully,

J. A. CHAPLEAU.

Thanksgiving Day Races.

MONCTON.

In spite of the stormy weather of Thursday the races at Moncton proved moderately successful. The track was somewhat heavy but the events were well contested and the time made was passable. J. R. Lamy's colt did not attempt to lower the record owing to the condition of the track.

The first race called was the 2.50 class. The starters in this were: Gay Boy, F. Thibideau, pole; Zulu Chief, Geo. Wood, Sackville, second; Malpeque, Wm. Hodge, Moncton, third; Maud Allright, S. O. Humphrey, Moncton, fourth; Sir John, J. E. Steadman, Moncton, fifth; Black Jack, Thos Wood, Port Elgin, sixth; Shamrock Boy, W. F. Ganong, Amherst, seventh; and Gay Boy, John P. Durant, Summerside, on the outside. After scoring a few times the horses got away in a bunch, Zulu Chief taking the lead at the first turn and maintaining it to the close of the heat, although Black Jack made it very interesting finishing right on Zulu Chief's wheel. Sir John and Maud Allright in this heat had a great struggle for third place and finished neck and neck, with the advantage in favor of Maud. Shamrock Boy, Gay Boy and Malpeque finished in the order named. Durant's horse, Gay Boy, was distanced. Time 2.49.

In the second heat Zulu Chief had the pole and trotted in good style, winning the heat with little effort. Thibideau's Gay Boy, Black Jack and Sir John made a pretty race for the second place, coming under the wire in a bunch with Gay Boy second, Black Jack third. But owing to the two last mentioned running they were set back, and the second place given to Sir John, who had trotted square all the way round. In this heat Maud Allright broke badly and came in for sixth place. Time 2.53¾.

The the third heat witnessed a very pretty race betwween Black Jack, Maud Allright and Sir John, in the first half round. Zulu Chief, of course held the lead with Sir John second, Black Jack and Maud Allright trying for third place. Time. 2.55.

SUMMARY.

2.50 class; $90 to first, $30 to 2nd, $10 to 3rd.

The 2.40 class had for starters Gay Boy, Durant, Summerside; pole, Bashaw, Frank McManus, Memramcook; Reverie, D. Hogan, Moncton; and Wildflower, G. B. Willet, Moncton in order named. Wildflower almost immediately went to the front, and kept this position to the close, with Reverie second, Bashaw third and Gay Boy away in the rear. Tme 3 minutes.

The second heat was also taken by Wildflower, with Reverie and Bashaw second and third respectively, and Gay Boy running to save being distanced. Time 2.55.

The third heat was but a repetion of the others, Reverie and Bashaw making a hard struggle for second place. Time 2.55.

SUMMARY.

Letters from home:—

A. I. RICE, Photographer, New Glasgow, N. S., writes:—I have much pleasure in adding my testimeny to those already given, that K. D. C. is a positive cure for indigestion and dyspepsia. My own trial of the medicine proved a case of instant relief. I find the same is said of it by all who have tried it.

K. D. C. Co., DEAR SIRS.—Having been positively cured of dyspepsia by the use of three packages of K. D. C., I would cheerfully recommend it to any suffering from this dreadful disease.

J. FISHER GRANT.

MRS. ALEX. CAMERON, New Glasgow, N. S., says:—"K. D. C. cured me after 16 years of suffering."

E. COLLISHAW, Merchant, New Glasgow, N. S., "I have retailed nearly 500 packages of K. D. C., in about one and a half years and don't know of a single case where it failed to benefit."

K. D. C. Co.,—DEAR SIRS:—I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia for two years. Two packages of K. D. C. cured me after trying many other remedies without deriving any benefit from them. I gladly recommend it for the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia.

JAMES ROY.

—Sir John Thomson's youngest daughter is seriously ill with hip disease and her ultimate recovery is doubtful.

—It is reported that Mr. Sol. White, M. P. P. for North Essex, Ont., is about starting a paper which is intended to be an out and out annexationist organ.

Maritime Matters.

—Diphtheria is again becoming very prevalent in Halifax.

—Some of the St. John river steamers had to plow their way out of the ice the other day to reach port.

—Mr. E. W. Potter of Annapolis N. S. was accidentally drowned off the wharf at that place on Tuesday of last week.

—John H. Teague is in the toils at Lynn, Mass., on a charge of bigamy. One of his wives has been living at Upper Stewiacke, N. S.

—The steamers Fastnet and Heather Belle collided oft Charlottetown Harbor last Friday night. The latter was badly injured. No lives lost.

—The grand jury at St. John, has returned a verdict of manslaughter against policeman Caples who shot McNeil of Richibucto, a drunken resisting prisoner.

—Dr. Borden, Liberal member for Kings, N. S. has admitted bribery by agents in the late election and the event will invalidate the election. C. R. Bill is the Conservative candidate.

—Letters of Incorpation have been granted the Daniel & Boyd Company (Limited), the McNaughton Gold Company (Limited) and the Kingsley Steam Boiler Company (Limited).

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The seventh annual convention of the Nova Scotia Sunday School was held in First Baptist church, Spring Garden Road, Halifax, on Oct. 27th, 28th and and 29th. Halifax Co. was ably represented by 21 delegates, several of the counties sent no delegates but were represented by Mr. John Grierson, travelling agent for Sabbath School work. But there were in all 71 delegates representing the different counties. The Rev. A. Lucas from New Brunswick S. S. Association gave a brief sketch of their work as done and the great amount still to be accomplished. E. D. King, Q. C., delivered an address of welcome to the delegates and extended a most cordial welcome in behalf of the citizens of Halifax, and hoped by the blessing of Heaven much good would result from their united deliberations. The retiring president, J. F. Dastan of Bridgewater was not present. C. H. Lougard, Esqr. of Halifax was unanimously elected president for the ensuing year. The Rev. Mr. Robbing of Truro gave an eloquent address on behalf of the convention in reply to Mr. King's welcome and said that the Sabbath School was the hope of the country and its future depended largely upon the successful efforts of our S. S. Teachers and officers. Wm. Reynolds of Ill. then made a long and telling speech, traced his work in originating and teaching Sabbath Schools, stated that in Chicago 3 schools existed in which the children of Anarchists were taught the truths of religion. He said said that he realized so fully the vast possibilities of this great work that he had given up his pastoral labors and thrown all his lifes energies into the organizing and carrying on Sabbath School work in needed localities. Said milk and water christians will never take hold of the work, God skimmed the church and took the cream for this especial purpose. He urged enthusiasm on Teachers, make your classes enthusiasts, let your motto be all for Jesus. Nothing, short of the accomplishment of this should satisfy a S. S. teacher if not there must be something wrong. Search diligently and prayerfully till you find the wrong then seek to put it right. Mr. Reynolds was the leading spirit all through the Convention. Rev. R. Brecken of Sackville sketched his trip to the Holy Land and gave an interesting account of eastern cosumes, habits and customs, 3 women and 2 men were brought on the platform to illustrate the Eastern ancient mode of dress, the women had their faces covered and one was dressed as Rebecca was said to be when she met Isaac. He also showed the the tools used in agriculture, the bits and bridles as also the ancient plough. The Convention closed on Friday evening all having a profitable and pleasant time, and the delegates went home cheered and encouraged for work.

THE SHIP RAILWAY.

The S. John Globe says:

"Of course stopping the construction now will give the manipulators considerable leverage in any fresh demand which thoy may make for a new deal in the Canadian part of the financial business. The last issued statement shows that eleven million tons of shipping ply in portions adjacent to the railway on the Gulf, and in the Bay of Fundy, and is left to be presumed that the greater portion of this tonnage would use the railway between the two waters. If these figures are of real value, capitalists ought to jump at the chances to invest their money in such a splendid enterprise.

The Globe endeavors to mislead its readers in stating "it is left to be presumed that the greater part of this "tonnage would use the railway.". It is not left to be presumed, etc., on the contrary, the company has invariably in its estimates of traffic, an expectation of obtaining half a million of tons in twenty years time, or only about five per cent. of the tonnage, and not the greater portion, as the Globe unwairantably states The Globe's reference to "manipulators," and "leverage," is conceived in the Globe's usual sly, insinuating, underhanded style. If the Globe objects to the proposed change, let it state its objections in an open manly way, where it can be met. If it has any changes to make against the financial management, let them be stated in direct terms, to afford an opportunity for an answer. The Globe will not do this; it will seek to prejudice the public mind by sly innuendos, by behind the back stabs, instead of open opposition.

K. D. C. COMPANY, New Glasgow, N. S.

Baie Verte

—The weather the last week was quite in contrast with the week previous being warm, mild and balmy, which has been a great boom to the country. The poor Indian is now rarely seen yet his summer still exists.

—The annual missionary meeting was held in the Methodist Church here on Sunday the 8th inst., when Rev. Mr. Pickles of Point de Bute gave a very able, impressive address on the subject of missions, which was calculated to enthuse his hearers with true missionary spirit.

—The thanksgiving service on Thursday evening was one of much interest. The able discourse on that occasion from the pastor, Rev. L. S. Johnson, was based on Psalm 107, 1. In glowing terms he discanted on "fair Canada" and her resources, the unprecedented crops of the present year, her valuable mines, genial clime and the general prosperity throughout her borders. Some of Canada's drawbacks were referred to with characteristic force notably in temperance, the disapointing nature of the report of the late census, and after paying a high tribute to the memory of the late Premier of Canada Sir John Macdonald, referred to the recent scandal and corruption in the "high places" which he said is calculated to bring a blush to the cheek of every loyal Canadian. The remedy strongly urged was purity at the ballot box. It is humiliating to know that men who have in trust the sacred right of franchise should so forget their responsibility as to sell that trust for a "mess of pottage."

—We regret to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood intend shortly removing to Boston to spend the winter with their sons who are located there.

—Mrs. Bedford Harper after a few weeks visit in Campbellton, has returned home and is again at her post as organist in the Methodist church.

—The cloudless sky Sunday evening gave a very excellent opportunity to view the total eclipse of the moon.

Westmorland Point.

—The fine weather of late has been a great boon to the farmers, as they have been enabled to carry on the usual work essential to the season; and the roads are everything that could be desired.

—Thanksgiving day passed off very quietly here Nothing more than a few drives and friendly visits to celebrate the special season appointed to render up our profound gratitude to the Giver of all our temporal as well as spiritual blessings. We should esteem those seasons more highly.

—Our school house is undergoing considereble repairs and improvements. The class room has been newly pannelled and painted, with other suitable repairs, and we have a new stove ready to replace the old one; so there is everything necessary to to insure the comfort of both teacher and pupils. It has been intimated that we will have a first class teacher for the next term.

—We are sorry to say that the condition of our pastor is not any improved. He is still very ill and is likely to be compelled to keep his bed for some time yet. Special prayers were offered in his behalf in the church last Sunday.

—Mr. T. J. Etter who was taken suddenly ill at Halifax not long since, and was for a week in the hospital of that city, was able to come home one day last week. Although much better he is still very weak.

—Jos. Atkinson Esq. has lately been qualified as a Justice of the Peace, and is ready to transact all business in that line with promptness and despatch.

—The attention of the proper parties might be drawn to the bridges or approaches of the Missaquash and LaPlanche, on the road leading to Amherst, as any persons driving that way in the dark are liable to get quite a shaking up.

—Considerable complaint is peing made in regard to a party who is keeping a low grog shop in the old Mountain House. This is very much to be deplored, and the complainants mostly mothers. ask Scott Act, Where are you?

Point de Bute

—A week of open weather, has enabled the farmers to get the balance of the roots in, and make a good start at the fall plowing.

—Mr. J. H. Goodwin is doing a large business shipping hay, but is very much annoyed, because of the scarcity of cars on the I. C. R. To have to store hay on the platform in this variable climate is not favorable to the quality of the hay.

—Beef continues low and farmers are beginning to realize that if they want a steady market, they will have to raise a class of cattle, suitable for shipment to England.

—A number of the friends of the Rev. Mr. Pickles from the different parts of the circuit, by pre-arrangement met at the parsonage one evening last week and presented the Reverend gentleman with a fur coat, and Mrs. Pickles with seven dollars—the amount that the committee had received more than was required to pay for the coat. Mr. Pickles was very much surprised when the people came filing into the house, but supposed they had come to see how the new furnace worked, that had just been placed in the cellar of the parsonage; so that he took matters quite philosophically, and was not at all prepared for the event of the evening. When Mr. S. F. Wells called him to the front and presented him with the coat. He did not the less however appreciate the gift, and so expressed himself, notwithstanding making some hard charges against the English language as being a poor vehicle on which to express ones feelings. A charge which I doubt if the English language deserves.

Jolicure Items

—We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Judson Tingley who has been seriously ill, is rapidly improving.

—Several of our young people intend leaving this week for the States.

—Miss Eva Dobson and Miss Nettie Tingley have been visiting here for a few days.

—Messrs. Lawson & Dobson are about to open a general paint and repair shop at Wry's Corner. As this has been a long felt want we trust they will be successful.

—Several people think it a great pity your correspondent had not something else to do beside write to the Post. I would say for their benefit that my time is entirely at my own disposal. And as to who I am no anxiety need be felt about it.

—If the young gentleman who wished me to announce his marriage, will send me the name of the young lady, I shall gladly send it for publication.

Athol.

—The Athol young peoples' Christain Endeavour Society is progressing favourably and though our numbers are few yet we are strong in faith for though we only number 16 active members yet those are all strong true members and generally at their post.

—Our school has been reorganized under Miss M. McCully from Truro. Our last term teacher, Miss Irvin, from N. B., had to resign from throat trouble, and, although we regretted to loose her yet we anticipate good results from our present young friends energy and capabilities.
