Colonel H.A. Bruce and Miss Angela Hall Who were married recently

TORONTO OFFICER WEDS WOMAN OF UPMINSTER

Col. H. A. Bruce is Married to Miss Angela Hall in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster.

From Anne Merrill.

Special to The Toronto Sunday World.

LONDON.—The wedding of Colonel H. A. Bruce of Toronto, who for the past two years has been consulting surgeon to the British armies in France, to Miss Angela Hall, daughter of Henry B. Hall, a prominent manufacturer of Upminster, Essex, took place very quietly at one o'clock Feb. 3 in St. Margaret's Church, that ecclesiastic gem, set literally in the shadow of Westminster.

There were no guests at the church, and no bridesmaids, nor were there any flowers on the altar, the service thruout being very simple. Even the bare east window seemed to accentuate the lack of ostentation; the precious stained glass which had been removed because of the air raids, not yet having been replaced.

The pretty bride was married in her traveling dress, a dark navy blue, over which she wore a three-quarter length seal coat with sable collar, and to her muff was fastened a cluster of lilies of the valley with a red rosebud half concealed. Just at the edge of the brim of her large black hat was one little red satin rose.

Colonel Bruce, who was in khaki, would have passed inspection before the most punctilious general. He looked handsome and distinguished, and was supported by Lt.-Colonel Badgerow of Toronto as best man. The bride was given away by her father.

The ceremony was performed by Archdeacon Carnegie, rector of St. Margaret's, who succeeded Dr. Henley Henson, now Bishop of Hereford. The archdeacon, it will be remembered, was married about two years ago, to the widow of the late Joseph Chamberlain.

While awaiting the bride, the organist, Mr. Edwin Stephenson, played a "Fantasie" by Tombelle; the "Bridal March" from Lohengrin, on her arrival, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the married couple left the church, en route for "Cherkley," Lord Beaverbrook's country home, which was loaned by its owner to Colonel and Mrs. Bruce for the honeymoon. On their return to town they will stay at the Carlton, awaiting their journey to Canada, which they hope will be about the end of the month, tho, like everything else just now, it depends upon "shipping," the colonel told me.

The beautiful furs worn by Mrs. Herbert Bruce on her wedding day, I have just learned, were the gift of her husband on that occasion and he also gave her an emerald and diamond ring.

Tho Mrs. Bruce, as Miss Angela Hall, has been mentioned as belonging to the county of Essex, Cornwall partly claims her, for it was there, in the early days of the war, that she started a dairy and poultry farm as her bit of war work.

In 1916, when an urgent appeal came for V. A. D. service in France, Miss Hall said goodbye to her cows and chickens, which she left to the care of others and offered her services, going over almost immediately and remaining on duty until after the signing of the armistice.

Miss Hall's work in France was chiefly connected with the supervising of the nurses' homes, and in 1917 she was mentioned in Haig's despatches.

Lady Brown, whose photograph was published on this page last week, is a daughter of Mrs. John Crerar and the late Mr. John Crerar, K. C., of Hamilton.

GREAT STATESMAN'S FUNERAL IN PICTURES

Last Rites for Late Sir Wilfrid Laurier Shown at Regent All Week.

By special arrangement the Regent Theatre will present in its news pictures views of the funeral of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Monday and each day this week. In order to secure this valuable picture it was necessary to send special photographers to Ottawa, who, stationed at various vantage points, will make a film record of this event. Friend and foe alike bear tribute to the memory of a great statesman, and the thousands of admirers of the late Sir Wilfrid who find it impossible to go to Ottawa to attend the funeral will have this opportunity of witnessing it.

Keep Baby's Woollens Soft and Sweet

Even little garments are dear now—you must make them last, and of course you want them always soft and comfy for the important wee person.

The little woollens need never shrink a thread—never stiffen or grow thick—not after repeated washings if you cleanse them in the pure, creamy Lux lather. It's so simple to whip the delicate Lux flakes into a rich suds—so simple to squeeze the suds through the little garments—then take them out absolutely sweet and clean and fresh.

Lux harms nothing that pure water may touch.
