"I did not give your wire sufficient consideration before replying. NEW ENGLAND TROTTING RECORDS.

The best records for New England bred trotters and pacers are much lower than they were a few years ago. Nelson's mark of 2:14¼ is the fastest mile credited to a New England trotter of either sex. Lady Maud's 2:19¼ is the best time mark for mares, and Hopeful, a 2:14¼ tops the list of gelding records for the six states. Hopeful was by Godfrey's Patchen. Cohannet, 2:17¼, by Bay State, holds the fastest New England pacing stallion record, with Allen Maid, at 2:16¼ holding the best pacing record for a mare. Granieta, 3:06¼, by Rockafellar, is, up to the present time, the fastest New England bred yearling, while Helen M., 2:28, by Cobden, is the fastest two-year-old. Nelson's 2:25¼ as a three-year-old still stands as the three-year-old record, and Elmbrook, 2:26¼, holds the four-year-old mark.

HOOF BEATS.

Nelson will likely be matched against the Chicago horse, Jack, in the near future.

Galopin leads the English winning stallions this season, his get having won $217,580. Hamptonis second with $175,455 and one of Galopin's sons St.Simon, third with $121,400. In America it is difficult to ascertain the record of winnings, owing to the fact that racing is still in progress, but Prince Charlie will probably lead the list with winnings very near in amount to those credited to Galopin.

Athletic.

TRAINING FOR OUTDOOR SPORTS.

People who imagine that by watching a man in training and providing the sinews of war for his work, they know all about the art of properly conditioning a man, can learn a great deal by carefully noting the following remarks of Prof. A. H. P. Leup, M. D., director of physical education at the University of Pennsylvania:

"The training of athletes, whether professional or amateur, is nearly always left in the hands of very incompetent trainers. Any person engaged in athletics is subject to no greater danger than that of being placed in the hands of the ordinary trainer, because of the latter's lamentable ignorance of the human body as a mechanism. They generally diet a man regardless of individual peculiarities. They restrict the supply of water of all alike, without knowing the requirements of the body in this direction. This is only an instance of the innumerable instances that could very justly be made against the common trainer, great though his reputation.

"Another danger is that of overtraining because of its aptness to do permanent physical injury, and especially in the case of students, by using up a larger supply of nervous energy than can be supported.

"The trainer must be able to judge when the body is receiving sufficient blood from an active heart without allowing the heart to become diseased or weakened from overwork. There are two kinds of dangers from overwork—the sudden and the gradual. Sudden overwork causes what is called bad form and staleness, making the muscles much less able to resist the inroads and growth of disease. Another bad condition is due to long continued training, especially if there be no intermissions of rest. This weakens a man so he has to live on a lower plane ever after, and is a more ready victim to the inroads of disease.

The best athletic work is based on what is called head work, as trickery or knack, and a large expenditure of nervous energy. The last is one of the most indispensable requisites for nearly all kinds of athletic work.

"Training of an individual properly conducted cannot possibly lead to any other but the most favorable results. In the hands of the ignorant, when wrongfully applied, it becomes a very potent agent for harm, causing much illness and harm and often death. A person properly trained is in a much better condition to withstand disease than if such exercise had not been taken."

Brevities.

Chief Engineer Kerr, of the fire department, has forwarded to Chief Webber, of the Boston department, a draft for $67.75, being the amount subscribed by the firemen of this city toward the relief of the families of the men who lost their lives in the late fire in Boston.

GARDENIA.

The following are extracts from two letters received this morning: 'your letter of —— received, I will take the car of oil you offer, it is the best oil I have ever used." The other reads: "Send at once two barrels Gardenia, I have never used such nice oil before, and as long as I can buy it you can count on me as a customer, you can also depend upon it I perfer to patronize a business whose success and profit is not dependent upon others ruin, this is not in my catechism. The above speak for themselves and should be sufficient guarantee of the superior quality of Gardenia. During the past seven years I have improved the quality of the oil imported into the provinces at least fifty per cent, and being a thoroughly practical man and knowing my business from A to Z, I will continue to improve the quality of the oils imported. I have held the confidence of the trade almost to a man and I refer to them for the superior quality of my oils and for the treatment they receive. I keep in stock all kinds of oils: American and Canadian, animal, vegetable and mineral, for which I respectfully solicit orders, which will be filled at lowest prices consistent with the quality of the goods I sell.
