eat Britain's Position in the Canal Controversy

ening of Tremendous Diplomatic Struggle is Imminent—What United States Will Contend—Passage of Measure Now Before Senate Seems Assured.

Washington, July 13—The lines are now wn for a great diplomatic struggle between the United States and Great Britover the question whether this country discriminate in favor of American els in the administration of the Panaa Canal. The disagreement may termiin the submission of the question to Hague tribunal. A series of diplomatic and legislative conferences develop the fact that the forces in the American ernment which favor allowing Ameriships free passage through the canal in control. These forces take the posiit that there is nothing in the Hay-ncefote treaty, under which the canal built, to prevent this concession. he diplomatic struggle, precipitated by note received yesterday from Mitchell es, in charge of the British embassy, it expected will be fought along the following:

reat Britain will take the position that Hay-Pauncefote treaty provision, ich forbids discrimination in favor of interests of any nation, in conduct of canal, would operate against the pos-ons of the Panama bill now under conration in the senate. This position l be supported by a lengthy argument w on its way from London by mail, ich will be presented to the state detment and transmitted to congress imdiately upon its arrival.

The United States will hold that so long the ships of all foreign nations are acded the same treatment in the use of canal, the United States may pass erican ships free, or rebate the tolls rged them. This position was taken by house when it reversed the report of House Interstate and Foreign Comrce Committee, which would have preted free passage to American ships, and sed the bill.

ll Likely to Pass.

The ultimate passage of the measure be-e the senate now seems assured. The n behind the bill in the senate said that British note would not prevent consideration of the measure whenever it ld be reached in the ordinary course of siness. But the position of Great Brit-will strengthen the opposition to the position.

After a conference with President Taft, presentative Sulzer, of New York, chairn of the House Committee on Foreign fairs, made a statement supporting the l. He said:

"Of course I am surprised that the Brit-government now objects to the United tes government regulating tolls of its n ships through the Panama Canal. owever, nothing serious will come of the jection. We will treat it with the digy it deserves. The treaty is plain and ar to all. The British government should t and cannot complain if no toll disrimination is made against British ships favor of other nations. That is the real aning of the treaty and we shall carry t its provisions in good faith. We have s right under the treaty to charge or t tolls for our own ships. There no doubt about that. It never s questioned before, legally or diplomatlly. It cannot be successfully questionnow, and doubtless congress will proed with the Panama Canal legislation gardless of the criticisms of our friends ross the water. Besides, second thought ll put them right and show conclusively eir position is untenable."

upports British Position.

On the other hand, Representative lamson, of Georgia, chairman of the ouse Interstate and Foreign Commerce mmittee, and Representative Stevens, Minnesota, ranking Republican member the committee, supported the British sition. They pointed out three provions in the pending bill which they asrted violated the treaty provisions. They re:

First: The provision that no tolls shall levied upon vessels engaged in the astwise trade of the United States. This ay be held to be discrimination in favor American commerce and against the mpeting commerce of neighboring nations. The treaty prohibits any advantage disadvantage to any nation, to its comerce or its citizens, on account of the nstruction and operation of the canal.

Second: The senate amendment prohibing tolls to be levied on American vesls engaged in the foreign trade which ay be subject to being taken by the Unid States government in an emergency. discrimination in favor of American vesls against foreign vessels using the canal, tween the same ports and doing the me trade. For the same reasons this ovision seems to violate the terms of e treaty forbidding such discrimination.

Third: The proviso in a senate amendent provides in sustance that railroaded ships may be engaged in coastwise ade in the United States during a voye to or from trans-ocean ports, but not the ports of Canada, Mexico, Central or outhern America. This provision would em to discriminate in the use of the nal in favor of the commerce to the ans-oceanic ports and correspondingly operate to the disadvantage of the comerce of Canada, Mexico and Central and outh America. This discrimination in the e of the canal towards the commerce to d from some nations and against that others is also clearly forbidden by the ay-Pauncefote treaty.

Should the bill become a law over the rotest of Great Britain, it is scarcely exected that the matter will end there, as ritish, and particularly Canadian intests, undoubtedly would force further dipmatic action by London, and when these eans were exhausted The Hague tribunal ould be the court of last resort.

BEAR AND CUB SEEN AT WOODSTOCK; A MISSING MAN

Woodstock, July 13—Raymond Jones, the young man belonging in Simonds and under arrest for assault on the six-year-old daughter of Judson Rideout, had his preliminary hearing this morning before Police Magistrate Holyoke. He was committed and will be tried at the sitting of the October court.

The Woodstock Field Battery arrived this morning from Petewawa. There is a feeling of sorrow over the mysterious disappearance of Sergeant-Major Dunstan, and it is feared that he may have met his death from exposure wandering on the vast plains near the camp. The military authorities are making every effort to get a trace of the missing man.

A bear and cub started to cross the bridge from the Grafton side yesterday, but the curiosity of a great many people evidently made the mother bear change her mind and she went into the woods nearby, followed by the junior bear.

Gates will be placed on the King street railway crossing, on the recommendation of the railway commission who, after a hearing, decided that the crossing was dangerous and more protection was needed for on account of the heavy traffic at this point.

HOPEWELL HILL

Hopewell Hill, July 11—This week has furnished some very hot weather for this section. Yesterday the thermometer climbed to 87 degrees, the warmest of the season, and a pretty high point for the Shepody region, which has far cooler summers than many sections of the province, owing to the bay breezes and fogs. Rain would be beneficial. From present indications the grass crop on a large part of the Shepody marsh, will be very light, in some parts scarcely worth cutting.
