The End of the Session.

The session of the Ontario Legislature which terminated Friday morning and formally closes this afternoon has been productive of —what? What practical good will result to the province from the proceedings that have occupied the attention of the House for the past session? What useful or beneficial measure has been placed on the statute book, or what absurd and useless law wiped out of existence? Though watching the proceedings closely from day to day, The World cannot off-hand name one such measure. The members have come and gone, and that is the sum total of it all. Yearly sessions of the Ontario Legislature have degenerated into a farce, and they cost the people of this province $125,000 annually.

A good deal of credit is being given, properly so, to a watchman on the Hudson River Railroad who discovered a rock on the track and hastened to flag the trains in both directions. But why would it not be possible to have a peculiar rocket to send up on such occasions that would give warning in all directions when the track is blocked. This appears to The World to be properly feasible and we are not charging a cent for the suggestion.

A Belfast man is willing to wager that he can put 3900 words on a postal card. So could anybody, putting one word over another, and they would be about as good that way as if written separately for all practical purposes.

The repeal of the Bait Act by the Newfoundland Government is more serious than appears on the surface. It is quite evident that pressure of some sort, not yet made public, has been brought to bear on Sir William Whiteway, who is personally an upholder of Newfoundland's rights in the matter. There may be trouble ahead.

The Conservative convention at Brampton on Saturday was a model one from several points of view. Especially was it so in its openness. Everything was above board, without concealment and no apparent desire for concealment. It is a hopeful sign when our political affairs are conducted in the open.

Raw Material.

The shibboleth of free trade is that there should be no tax on "raw material." Now, what is "raw material?" Barring the earth and its spontaneous productions, there is no such thing in the economy of nature. The article of coal is most frequently cited as a raw material. But coal is the finished product of the miner, and is no more a raw material than is silk, which, a finished product in itself, is the raw material of several handicrafts. So on with iron. The ore is the finished product of the miner, the pig the finished product of the smelter, and so on through all its various phases of manufacture. Wheat is in the same category. It is the finished product of the farmer, but the raw material of the miller, whose finished product becomes in turn the raw material of the baker. "Taxing raw material" is a fine sounding mouthful of words for free trade spouters, but when it is analysed there is found to be nothing in it.

Over two hundred New Jersey farmers have been sold out of house and home—evicted—because of the failure of a land company from which they purchased. The tyranny, so-called, of landlordism does not seem to be confined to any locality.

An Arkansas youth has just committed suicide, as he explained in a note, "prompted solely by a desire to explore the great hereafter." He was a fool. Had he lived out his appointed time he would have known a great deal more of this world and just as much of the next.

In New England, or some portion of it, they have introduced sewing as one of the studies for girls in the grammar schools. This is in the line of practical education. The ability to conjugate a Latin verb is all very well in its place, but there are times in the lives of most of us when it don't come amiss to know how to sew on a button.

Woman suffrage does not seem to grow in favor in the West, where it has been tried. Out in Kansas, at the recent election, only a little over one-half of the women who registered went to the polls. It will probably be found in actual life, apart from the notions of a few notoriety-hunting faddists, that the women think pretty much as the men do.

The McCoy-Hatfield feud has broken out afresh in West Virginia and Kentucky. The sensible portion of the continent were in hopes that these fools had wiped each other out of existence.

Rhode Island has adopted the secret method of voting, and on all hands it is pronounced a success. There is a pointer here for Mr. Mowat—or, rather, since the session is practically over, for Mr. Meredith.

There is a paper in California called The Iron Dollar. The iron dollar is not likely to have a very wide circulation.

A reporter of The Buffalo Times has done a good piece of work in following up and unearthing three dangerous counterfeiters. The secret service officers of the United States recognise his good work, and give him full praise. Intelligent police officers realise that the press is with instead of against them in unveiling crime and protecting the law-abiders.

Emin Bey is going back to Equatorial Africa in the interest of German commerce. He is not likely to get lost this time, and it is open to serious doubt if he was very much lost last time. He probably knew where he was all along, and the "rescue" business had a decidedly commercial flavor to it.

The Junction Ladies.

The "At Home" given by the W.C.T.U. of West Toronto Junction in the Reform rooms was one of the most successful and pleasant events of the season. The decorations were tasty, the audience was large and the refreshments were tempting to the daintiest. Mrs. Budd, the president of the union, presided and was the happy recipient of a beautiful velvet banner bearing the device in golden letters "The Lord Is Our Strength." The presentation was made by Miss Clendenan. The program consisted of recitations by Miss Eaton of Toronto and Miss Porte of Picton, addresses by Mayor St. Leger, ex-Mayor Clendenan and Dr. Gilmour, M.L.A., and several bright numbers of vocal and instrumental music.

THE MONEY COMING IN

To Transform Shaftesbury Hall into a People's Temple.

Shaftesbury Hall was thronged at all the services yesterday and those who came late found it difficult to even get inside the doors. Mr. J. Walton preached in the morning. In the afternoon Rev. Dr. Fulton spoke on the "Distinctive Doctrines of Christianity," while in the evening Pastor Wilkinson gave an address on the subject, "Did He Rise?" His remarks were especially devoted to the evidences of the resurrection and its place in Christianity as a fundamental truth.

During the afternoon service another 100 subscriptions of $5 each were offered. The hall committee have accepted Mr. Wilkinson's offer for the building and have agreed to spend $10,000 in improvements, of which sum the People's Tabernacle is to furnish $3000 and pay an annual rental of $2500. This will mean a great deal more room to work in, as the coffee house on the ground floor will be removed.

HONORING COL. GILMOUR.

His Brother Officers in the House Congratulate Him and Present Him with a Handsome Tablet.

Many old friends gathered around Col. Gilmour in his office in the Parliament Buildings on Saturday and congratulated him upon his long term of office as clerk of the Legislative Assembly. But their congratulations took a more tangible form. This was a beautifully executed tablet in bas relief representing the scene from Goethe's masterpiece where Marguerite steps forth from the convent and meets Faust. The tablet was surrounded by a rich plush frame. The presentation was made by the officers of the House. This is what Major Delamere read to his old-time friend, the colonel:

To Charles T. Gilmour, Esq., Clerk of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario:

DEAR SIR,—The officers of the House desire to congratulate you upon the completion of the fourth Legislature of the Province of Ontario in which you have held the high office of Clerk of the House. They can only refer to the ability and honorable manner in which you have for so many years discharged the duties of that important office, but as the chief clerk of the House they desire to express their appreciation of the courtesy, hospitality and uniform kindness you have always shown to them and others who have been associated with you, and their grateful remembrance of the manner in which you have endeavored to advance their interests and assist them in the performance of their duties. They desire your acceptance of this slight token of their regard, accompanied as it is with the assurance of their esteem for your many excellent and generous qualities and their heartfelt wishes for your future happiness.

Toronto, April 5, 1890.

Col. Gilmor replied that he could only in a few heartfelt words thank his friends for the kind and undeserved compliment they paid him. During all the past years in office he had met the most cordial co-operation from all about him and had found them always prompt, attentive and ready, not alone to meet but to anticipate his wishes, and from his heart he thanked them. Their kindness showed them to be patient and indulgent of his feelings. They all knew his temper to be bad, and when irritated, as the Queen's Own in other days knew, he used bad language. "But doubtless," said the colonel, "you will remember the old story of the lawyer pleading before the judge who shook his head as if in disapproval. The lawyer addressing the jury said: "When you know His Lordship as long as I do you will know that when he shakes his head there is nothing in it." So my friends know that my strong language is only an ebullition of temper. Again thanking you sincerely, I hope we may have many more pleasant days together.

From Police Blotters.

A despatch has been received stating that three men have been arrested at Newmarket on suspicion of being implicated in the recent robbery of articles of clothing from the Bradford G.T.R. station. G.T.R. Detective Spence will go to Newmarket to-day to take them in charge.

G.T.R. Constable Harrison had a lively tussle with a man named Hamilton at the Union Station Saturday night. The latter after being put out of the station grabbed the constable, tearing the buttons off his coat. The result was that Harrison conquered and had his assailant removed to Police Headquarters.

Frank Carey, 55 Delaney-street, was arrested Saturday by P. C. Twigg on a charge of assaulting William Mallon.

Detective Alf. Cuddy arrested William Green, 13 Agnes-street, Saturday on a warrant charging him with stealing some books from Alexander Doig, Eglinton.

Charles Morrison, York and Pearl-streets, was arrested by G.T.R. Detective Day Saturday on a charge of trespass. There is also an information laid against him for carrying a long dirk knife.

Fred Butchart and Fred Walker, 41 Richmond-street east, were arrested Saturday by Detective Black on a charge of stealing a quantity of gents' furnishings from Alexander Burnett's store, 221 Yonge-street.

Patrick Kelly, who also lives at 41 Richmond-street east, was in the cells on a charge of receiving the goods.

About 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon P. C. Reburn learned that thieves were at work in the City Hotel, Front and Simcoe-streets. On reaching the building, which is owned by Mrs. Gill, 233 Huron-street, he found a large quantity of lead pipe cut out and the beer pumps detached. Reburn arrested three young men who were in the building. Their names are: James Ewart, 155 York-street; Thomas Henright, 480 Adelaide-street west, and William McCracken, 109 Portland-street.

James Culley, 194 King-street west, had a watch stolen from the above address yesterday morning.

R. M. Hogan, Yonge-street arcade, had $15 stolen from his till Saturday.

Smith & Co., 219 Front-street east, have had a tarpaulin wagon covering stolen.

Mrs. Davis of the Walker House at Weston had her satchel stolen from her in Simcoe-street on Saturday.

Albert Steele, 15 Mitchell-avenue, and William McInery, 20 Stewart-street, were arrested Saturday by P. C. Kerr on a charge of fighting.

P. C. Blackwell has a prisoner named George Alward behind the bars on a charge of disorderly conduct.

RECRUITING THE ARMY OF VETS.

Great Day at the Ontario Veterinary College—The Successful Students and Gainers of Coveted Honors.

One hundred and forty veterinary surgeons were awarded their sheepskins Saturday at the Ontario Veterinary College, Temperance-street, and the more studious of the students were at the same time presented with the diplomas, medals and money prizes which their industry had earned them. The recent enlargement and improvements at the college has converted it into the most extensive on the American continent, and there are but two in Europe which can excel it in size and appliances. Prof. Smith is naturally proud of the reputation his college has acquired, and his pride is shared by the people of Ontario generally. The proceedings of Saturday were of an interesting nature. Short adresses expressive of satisfaction at the growth of the college and congratulating the students on the success they had attained were delivered by Sir Daniel Wilson, Hon. Mr. Pope, U.S. Consul, Dr. Aikins, Prof. Ramsay Wright, Dr. O'Reilly, Principal Caven, Prof. Richardson, Dr. J. W. Ross, Dr. Thorburn, Dr. May, H. Wade, secretary, and Mr. Rawlings, president Agricultural and Arts Association, Aldermen Frankland and Dodds, J. J. Withrow and J. H. Morris.

THE M'KINLEY TARIFF.

Objection to the Duty on Hides—What May Result if It Is Adopted.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A committee representing the hide, leather and shoe trade of New York appeared before the Ways and Means Committee to-day and opposed the proposed duty of 15 per cent. on hides.

There is reason to believe that the statement heretofore made, that the tax on hides was one of Mr. Blaine's schemes to force the Argentine Republic into a reciprocity treaty with the United States, is well founded. If a tariff is placed on hides, it is almost certain to drive the tanning industry across the border into Canada. While the greater quantity of the leather shipped from the United States goes to England, it is a fact worthy of note that the supply of hides, according to the last annual report of the bureau of statistics, comes largely to the United States from that country.

The Ways and Means Committee decided to increase the duties proposed in the tariff bill on the finer grades of cotton hosiery. The grades of cotton stockings, boots and half-hose valued at $2 and less per dozen are left as they stood in the bill, but on grades above that valuation, where it was proposed that the duty should be 40 cents per dozen and 40 per cent., the following rates have been agreed upon: Valued at more than $2 per dozen and not more than $4.75 and 40 per cent; valued at more than $4, $1 and 40 per cent; on cotton shirts and drawers, which the bill made dutiable at 50 cents and 35 per cent. for grades worth $1.50 and $3 per dozen and at 75 cents and 40 per cent. for grades above $4 per dozen in value, the rates have been increased as follows: Valued at more than $1.50 and not more than $3, $1 per dozen and 35 per cent; more than $3 and not more than $5 $1.25 and 40 per cent; more than $5, and not more than $7, $1.75 and 40 per cent; more than $7, $2.25 and 40 per cent.

OUR NEIGHBORS' CROPS.

Dry Weather in the Northwest—The Winter Wheat Showing Unfavorable.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The weekly weather crop bulletin says: Recent rains have placed the ground in excellent condition for seeding and farm work over the greater portion of Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Michigan and Dakota, although to the extreme north dry weather continues. Throughout the winter wheat belt from Ohio to out the winter wheat belt from Ohio to Kansas and southward to Tennessee and Arkansas farm work is greatly retarded owing to excessive rains, the season being from two to three weeks late, although wheat is reported as having improved and looks and grass look better. The weather during the week affected crops favorably in Louisiana and Texas, where planting is progressing rapidly. In the East Gulf States, while the weather was generally favorable and much progress was made in planting the cotton and corn, work was greatly delayed in northern and central portions of Mississippi owing to the excessive rains and floods. Crops are much improved in the South Atlantic States, where good growing weather prevailed, but early crops need rain. The weather during the week was generally injurious to crops in New Jersey and New York. In the former State fruit and vegetables were injured and little progress was made in farm work. The prospect for the fruit crop in New York is generally good, but peaches have been injured. Frost is not yet out of the ground in New England. In southern sections of this region grass and rye were improved by growing weather.

SIOUX SUN DANCE.

A Lively Gathering Near Pierre. S.D.—Lands in Severalty.

PIERRE, S.D., April 5.—A great and final Indian pow-wow and dance is being held to-night five miles from here on the reservation. The Sioux have been gathering at that point for two or three days and to-day they held a big meeting which to-night was changed to a dance. This is to be the last "affair" held on the reservation before the tribes leave for their new headquarters. For that reason the dance is a monster one and it is claimed it is by far the largest gathering of the Sioux that has been held for years. The zest with which the braves enter into their wild and weird orgies has not been equaled since the last war.

All the noted chiefs are there. There was a discussion as to whether the Indians had best take up lands in severalty or all go back to the lands that are left them. John Grass urged the Sioux to be men and not squaws—to take land and earn their living, and not get their life and being from the Government like a papoose from a squaw. Sitting Bull and the rest of the chiefs took the opposite side of the question. Bull expressed his hatred of the Government and of the whites, said only squaws should work, and that he and his small band would still take their provisions from the Government.

The result of the meeting was a decision not to take up lands, but to go back on the new reservation and let the Government continue issuing rations. Only a few squaw men and half-breeds will go in farming.

ALL HAIL THE RESURRECTION.

How the Great Fundamental Truth Was Commemorated Yesterday—Sketches of the Services and the People Therent.

In its early hours it was a bright Easter morn. On every hand the liquid sunlight streamed and every street was thronged with church-goers in Easter bonnets and hats, many of them containing long feathers that kept bowing in most stately fashion to the entire street. And what a profusion of buds and blossoms—badges of Spring's sweet power—were to be seen in the shape of corsage bouquets!—white carnations, purple violets, lilies of the valley with maidenhair fern, great crimson jacqueminot roses, yellow Marechal Neils and sunsets with their rich and glossy foliage, lively red papagontiers and other garden flowers, including the ever-popular snowdrops, which sweetly fling their modest jewels in the lap of spring. The male citizen must have enjoyed all the soft perfums of Eden's honeyed fragrance as he wandered with his Eve towards the edifices dedicated to the worship of the Most High.

And what pleasure was afforded by the tintinnabulations of the Easter bells, as, swinging cheerily in their steeples, they showered on the people sounds which clashed from many a hammer, but which seemed to coalesce into one silver knot of music, all like sounding messengers sent out everywhere—now heard, now lost—as if they left no nook unvisited, but carried their tidings everywhere that "Christ our Lord is risen to day."

For a time the bells held sway and were succeeded by the organs, which pealed forth the hymn so appropriately rendered on this important and joyous solemnity each recurring anniversary of the ascension of the Deliverer of the human race. Spirs, hydrangia and Easter lilies bedecked the pulpits and the altars, while the beams from the orient sun-king of the sky flashed through the figured windows richly stained with "twilight saints and dim emblazonings." As the organs stopped and the preachers arose to give thanks to the Giver of all good, amid a silence as noiseless as the dew falling upon the fleece of a sleeping lamb, one could almost imagine that each wondrous window was a colored screen that parted earth from heaven serene, and as he looked he saw through flushes of rainbow dyes the jeweled gates of paradise.

Probably never before in the history of Toronto were the special musical services on so elaborate a scale as those held yesterday in commemoration of the Resurrection.

A NEW ANGLICAN CHURCH.

St. Matthew's in the East End Opened Yesterday—It Has Cost $20,000.

The new and imposing Church of St. Matthews, corner of De Grassie-street and First-avenue, was opened for divine service yesterday morning by the Bishop of Toronto. At 8 a.m. there was a communion service in which over 100 persons participated. At 11 o'clock Bishop Sweatman preached an admirable sermon, which was listened to by a crowded congregation. In the course of his remarks he congratulated the congregation upon having such a handsome and commodious building for the purpose of worship. He stated that he had opened 19 Anglican churches in various parts of the city.

The service in the afternoon was conducted by Rev. J. P. Lewis, who also preached an able sermon.

At 7 o'clock Ven. Archdeacon Boddy officiated.

The Church of St. Matthew has an imposing appearance. It is built entirely of red pressed brick and its architectural features are very pleasing. The building is situated on the south side of First-avenue and is close to the street car tracks. Its interior is very handsome, the fittings being elaborate yet substantial. The seating capacity of the church is 800. This does not include several classrooms capable of seating 400. The building is well lighted and the ventilation is perfect. There are several handsome stained-glass windows, two of them being specially noticeable. The cost of the building is $20,000, exclusive of the grounds.

The choir is a first-class one of 60 voices with Mr. Guest Collins as instructor. The organ is a splendid one of Messrs Lye & Sons' make. At the service yesterday the choir rendered several selections.

The Sunday school classes at present are taught in the old edifice, but arrangements will be made this week to have the new Sunday school room ready by Sunday next.

The tower of the church is fitted up with a set of chimes, the gift of Mr. Allan McLean Howard.

The services this week will be as follows: On Wednesday evening Rev. A. H. Baldwin will preach, and special music will be furnished by the combined choirs of St. Matthew and St. Bartholomew. On Friday evening the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. J. C. Roper. On Sunday next the rector, Rev. J. S. Howard, will officiate. The offerings at all services are to be given to the building fund.

In Other Anglican Churches.

A full surpliced choir of 20 boys and 21 men with an auxiliary choir of female voices sang Dr. Parry's festal Te Deum and the anthem "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day" in the mother of Toronto churches in the morning, while at the evening service in St. James' the anthem, solo and chorale "Blest Are They Saith the Lord" and the chants Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis furnished an excellent service. Canon DuMoulin preached appropriately in the forenoon and Rev. Mr. Winterborne at night.

The sweet strains of "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" floated on the air from the portals of Holy Trinity in the forenoon, followed by the anthem "Lift Your Glad Voices." Choral matins, processional hymns, Te Deums and chants served to make up a beautiful service of song. In the evening the services included the anthem "As it Began to Dawn" and the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis chants. Rev. John Pearson occupied the pulpit in the morning and Rev. George Nattress in the evening.

These services were rendered at the Church of the Redeemer in addition to Easter hymns, chants, etc.: Morning—Anthem, "Gloria Patri," Russell; "Te Deum," Hopkins, in G; "Benedictus," Henley; Hymn 180, "Alleluia! Christ Is Risen"; "Kyrie," monotone; "Gloria Tibi"; Anthem, "Christ Is Risen." Evening—Hymn 183, "Jesus Christ Is Risen"; Gloria Patri, Russell; Magnificat, Tozer, in F; Nunc Dimittis, Tozer, in F; Anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord." Mr. J. F. Thompson sang "Resurrection" during the offertory. The rector preached at both services.

"Christ our Passover" was the canticle with which the services opened at Trinity Church. Jackson's Te Deum, Watson's anthem, "Ah! Give Thanks," and Clare's "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead," served to make up a choice service. The rector, Rev. Alexander Sanson, preached.

This is the program which the attendants of the Church of the Ascension were treated to: Hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day"; Te Deum, Kotzmar; Jubilante, Goss; anthem, "Christ Being Raised from the Dead"; Te Deum, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth"; hymn, "The Day of Resurrection." In the evening: Hymn, "Jesus Christ is Risen To-day"; cantata, Deus, Gilbert; anthem, with soprano solo by Miss McCormack, "I Know That My
