CROWN SUBPOENA FOR MISS KINRADE

Reported That It Will Be Next Move in Celebrated Case

INQUEST ADJOURNED

Details of Divisional Court's Judgment in Regard to the Warrant of Coroner Anderson.

Toronto, April 29.—The divisional court this morning gave judgment on the motion made by George Lynch-Staunton, K. C., to have the warrant for the arrest of Miss Kinrade issued by Coroner Anderson set aside.

The judgment in effeca is that "the certiorari proceedings were not the proper proceedings to take because the issuance of the warrant was a ministerial, and not a judicial act."

On the certiorari proceedings, therefore, Mr. Staunton has failed, but whether Miss Kinrade can be placed under arrest or not is another question.

On this point, their lordships expressed what, in the judgment of the two dozen lawyers who were in the hall, is a mere "opinion," but not a "judgment," and therefore is not binding. What they said is that "the warrant to apprehend a witness is not executable outside the jurisdiction of the coroner."

If this statement sent out by their lordships is the judgment of the divisional court, and is to be understood in its full sense, then there is no doubt but that Coroner Anderson's warrant cannot be served in this city on Miss Kinrade.

Whether their statement is a judgment or not there is no knowing.

Judges Issued Second Note.

The greatest possible mix-up occurred over the judgment. In the beginning, it was given orally by Chancellor Boyd, speaking for the other judges. The court room was crowded with lawyers, and when his lordship had finished, they were equally divided as to what the judgment meant.

This fact was brought to their lordships' notice, so at 12:15 they adjourned the sitting of the divisional court, and held a private conference.

Shortly before 1 o'clock they sent for Registrar Holmstead and dictated notes to him. The following is what he wrote down at their lordships' dictation:

"The proceedings by certiorari were not the proper proceedings to take, because the issuance of the warrant is a ministerial, and not a judicial, act.

"The warrant to apprehend a witness is not executable outside the jurisdiction of the coroner."

No one was present at the conference besides their lordships and Mr. Holmstead, who could give no further light on the trouble than what their lordships told him. Whether their lordships' dictation to Mr. Holmstead is to be understood in the nature of a divisional court judgment or not there is no knowing.

In any event both sides claim a win. Mr. Staunton says that while he has lost on the certiorari proceedings he has reall won, while on the other hand the crown claims a complete victory.

The Judgment Pronounced.

When the divisional court opened at 11 o'clock this morning, Chancellor Boyd said that a written judgment would be given later, but for the convenience of the jury, the witnesses, crown and others, an oral judgment would come first.

"We agree that the application for a writ of certiorari is not a proper process in these proceedings, there being only a warrant to apprehend, because the issue of the warrant is ministerial and not judicial. The coroner acted on advice of an officer instructed and appointed by the crown. A search warrant is judicial, but not a coroner's.

"We have expressed an opinion as to the examination of Miss Florence Kinrade, of whom it is said that she had told all she knew. The examination may have been protracted and exhausting, but the hour was late, the room was crowded, there was the difficulty of meeting next day.

Should Not Be Repeated.

"In short, there may have been extenuating circumstances, though to a superficial observer it seems to have been a proceeding that should not be repeated.

"We assume that the next examination will be confined to new matter, and suggest that this be done. Mr. Cartwright offered to divulge to us, in private the nature of the contemplated examination, but we declined to hear it in private."

Summons vs. Warrant.

Their lordships expressed doubt as to the services of a coroner's summons outside his jurisdiction, but they were not in doubt as to a coroner's warrant, which could not be executed out of his jurisdiction, in this case, the county of Wentworth.

A Crown Subpoena.

It is understood that the crown does not intend to waste any time in appealing. The course which it is reported will be pursued is one which has never been resorted to in Ontario before, but which is nevertheless provided for in the statutes. It is the issuing of what is known as a crown office subpoena. This is a declaration which can be issued only by the Attorney-General in person; no subordinate having the requisite authority to do so.

It is a declaration which states that in the Attorney-General's opinion the ends of justice will be served by the appearance in court of the person served, and that that person's presence is forthwith commanded. Failure to comply with the requirement is to be visited according to the statute with a most severe penalty. While the crown will not discuss the step that it contemplates, it is generally understood that this crown office subpoena alluded to in the arguments before the divisional court would meet the requirements.

The possibility of having recourse to a crown office subpoena, it is said, was discovered only after a diligent search by the department for several days.

It is an old English form of practice and not contained in the Canadian criminal code. There is a general clause, however, which makes the English criminal law as it was in 1790 the law of Canada in all points not excepted or otherwise provided for by the Canadian law. This subpoena even in the English courts has seldom been brought into use.

Coming from the Attorney-General himself, and from no one else, the application must be in the form of a sworn statement as to the pressing need for the appearance of the witness.

The disobedience of the subpoena is at the "peril" of the party who receives it, and almost any penalty can be imposed.

There are strong possibilities that portions, if not all, of the remaining evidence at the inquest may be taken in camera.

In view of Mr. Staunton's statement to the high court that the girl's reputation was being needlessly injured, the Attorney-General's department through Messrs. Blackstock and Washington, will express to Mr. Staunton their willingness, should he desire and request it, to acquiesce in any petition for privacy.

The right to exclude rests solely in the coroner, and the crown will not ask that it be exercised. It will, however, offer no objection to the course should Mr. Staunton urge it.

Postponed Until Monday.

Hamilton, April 29.—The Kinrade inquest was postponed today until Monday, May 3, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

RECORD-BREAKING STORM

Yesterday's Big Blizzard Did Immense Damage at Many Points.

Chicago, April 30.—The storm which seems to be co-existent over almost the entire country apparently has broken all records in the number and variety of freakish atmospherical disturbances, tornadoes, snow, sleet, rain, hail, lightning, flood, flame and electrical phenomena being among its features.

In the middle west there have been most spectacular happenings among thousands of accidents which dealt death and ruin on every hand.

A score or more lives were claimed as toll and property of immense value was destroyed by the wind and rain of tornado and torrential proportions which swept a large portion of the south. A blizzard is raging on the great lakes and snowplows are out in the northern tier of the States.

Little improvement of conditions is expected during the next 24 hours.

WILLIS BRITT POISONED

Ketchell's Manager Found Unconscious With Poison Tablets in His Pocket.

New York, April 30.—Willis Britt, manager of Stanley Ketchell and Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion, was found unconscious in a doorway of a house on Fourteenth street early today and removed to St. Vincent's Hospital, where it was said that his condition is serious. Several poison tablets were found in a bottle in Britt's pocket. The physicians worked for some time over him, but were unable to restore him to consciousness.

Britt with his wife and baby have been in New York for a month. He came here to arrange a match between Ketchell and Jack Johnson.

POSITION IS VACANT

New Principal for Mount Elgin Institute Must Be Appointed.

The decision of Rev. T. T. George, principal of the Mount Elgin Institute, to return to the active ministry of the Methodist Church, has left that position vacant, and the executive of the mission board in Toronto have suggested the name of Rev. S. R. McVitty as the probable successor. Of course, this action has to be ratified by the stationing committee of the London Conference, which meets in the Askin Street Church in June, before it becomes official. Mr. McVitty has a good deal of financial ability, and it is felt that he would make a success of the work of the institute.

It is possible that Rev. Mr. George will succeed Mr. McVitty at Essex, or some other suitable appointment would be found for him.

HOTELKEEPER FINED.

Brampton, Ont., April 29.—James Farrell, a farmer hotelkeeper at Streetsville Junction, who lost his license in 1904, was convicted before Magistrate Shaver at Cooksville yesterday on a charge of having liquor upon the premises and fined $50 and costs. On account of the nature of the evidence given for the defence, the magistrate expressed the opinion a charge of perjury should be laid.

SLATE ROOFING.
