THE SPORTS OF THE DAY

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE TORONTO SNOWSHOE CLUB.

The World's Champion Billiardist—Rowing in Australia and in England—The Sire of St. Gatien.

The annual meeting of the Toronto Snowshoe club was held last evening at Thomas' chop house, President Pearson in the chair. The secretary's report showed a large increase in the membership, the number of members now being nearly one hundred. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John McLaren; vice-president, Henry Brock; secretary-treasurer, James George; committee, Lyman Dwight, A. B. Mackenzie, S. Cutler, jr., J. G. McMaster, H. R. Boulton; whipper in, Chris. Henderson. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring president for his long and valuable services to the club. In replying Mr. Pearson dwelt strongly on the great benefits to be derived by city men from open air exercises, such as snowshoeing. No advance has been made in the matter of a gymnasium, common to all city clubs, in which this club took the initiative last winter, and the hope was expressed that something might be done this fall.

The World's Champion Billiardist.

Editor World: Who is at present champion billiard player of the world? In what position does Cook, the English player, stand alongside of the champion; is he superior or inferior? JNO. BROWN.

[Our correspondent apparently means the champion of England and not of the world. John Roberts, jr., is champion of England. Cook is inferior to him. There are many different styles of billiards nowadays, but if any man has a claim to the all-round billiard championship of the world, that man is probably Maurice Vignaux, although Schaefer and Slosson, as shown by the present tournament at Chicago, can push him mighty hard. Sexton also has some right to recognition at certain styles.]

Lacrosse in November.

From the N. Y. Sun. Nov. 21.

The lacrosse team of the university of New York won a closely contested game from the team of Mount Pleasant academy yesterday in Sing Sing. New York univerality got two goals in 30 and 15 minutes, and Mount Pleasant one in 10 minutes.

The Polytechnic institute of Brooklyn and the Brooklyn juniors (the Adelphi institute) have organized lacrosse teams. They will be coached by J. R. Flannery, who will resign the secretaryship of the National Lacrosse association at the end of the season.

Mr. Hodge of Princeton college will probably succeed Mr. Flannery.

B Wins.

Editor World: A and B make a bet. A bets that a judge never sentenced a prisoner to death in Canada without having a cap on. Who wins? PETER.

[To mention one instance—Judge Rose had no cap on when he sentenced John Easterbee recently at Welland. The wearing of a cap is not obligatory.]

At Aintree, Six Miles From Liverpool.

Editor World: Kindly state where the Grand National steeplechase was run in England in 1880? By so doing you will decide a bet between

Two LIVERPOOL MEN.

Hamilton, Nov. 23.

General Notes.

The hounds will meet to-day at David Kennedy's, Bloor street west, at 3 p.m. sharp.

Albert Hamm, the Halifax, N.S., fisherman, has established himself in St. Louis, Mo., and will row double with Jake Gaudaur next year.

Clarence Whistler has played havoc with the Australian wrestlers, having knocked out Donald Dinnie, Thomas and Miller at Graeco-Roman, and in any other style, in quick succession.

Poetess, the dam of Plaisanterie, was sold for $60, and her produce, a filly that is estimated to have made upwards of a million dollars for her backers, was bought for just a century more, or $160.

L. M. Lumley, of Ridgetown, Ont., has bought of S. A. Browne & Co., of the Kalamazoo stock farm, the standard-bred trotting yearling Strongoff, by Grand Sentinel, dam by Grey Fearnaught, for $500.

W. E. Harding, Richard K. Fox's lieutenant, offers to match Matsada Sorakichi, the wife-beating, sore bodied Jap., against Col. McLaughlin of Detroit, to wrestle a fair match for $500 a side, with J. F. Scholes as referee.

Wm. Beach, the champion sculler, is expected in America shortly with Deeble, his backer. Gaudaur, Hanlan and Teemer will then have an excellent opportunity to badger him into a race. It is even betting, however, that at least Teemer and Gaudaur will be as quiet as mice, or that their effort will be very feeble.

M. M. Allen challenges E. J. Baldwin to run his 3 year-old colt Volante against Alta a dash of one mile and three-quarters or two miles, over the Bay District course at San Francisco, any day during the coming fall meeting of the Pacific Blood-Horse association that does not conflict with his engagements, good day and track, for $5000, half forfeit, rules of the Pacific Coast Blood-Horse association to govern.

In the race for the Melbourne cup, run in Australia, recently, the horse Sheet Anchor, a very "dark one," created consternation among backers of favorites by winning the cup when the odds were about 30 to 1 against him. One bookmaker took $725 against $25,000, and others suffered in the same proportion, but not so heavily.

The London Sportsman has received a letter from a gentleman who offers to match David Godwin of Battersea to row any man in the world within four years of his age, for a stake ranging from £200 to £500 a side, from Putney to Mortlake. The editor of the Sportsman to be stakeholder. Godwin is 41.

The famous horse Hermitage, 4 yrs., by Hermit—Doll Tearsheet, winner of the Prince of Wales' handicap at the Newmarket second spring meeting, the Beaufort handicap and Her Majesty's plate at Stockbridge, the Bunbury handicap at Newmarket July and the Chesterfield cup at Goodwood, died at Nov. 7 at the Lagrange house paddocks. He was owned by M. Lefevre.

Dominick F. McCaffrey says he has made up his mind to retire from the ring. He says that but few fights are squarely conducted, consequently an honest man finds it hard to get along. He will at any time consider a challenge from John L. Sullivan, and may even seek a fight with him, but overtures from any other pugilist will be disregarded unless there is a mine of wealth in it.

A sculling match has been arranged to take place over the Thames championship course for £100 a side, between J. Largan of Putney and Dave Godwin of Battersea. It is said Geo. J. Perkins of Hammersmith will challenge Hanlan. When an Englishman challenges him it is a pretty good sign that the once invincible is pointing downward. However, if Mr. Perkins will only make the money big enough he need not doubt that Hanlan will catch on.

The aquatic sport is evidently nearly at as low an ebb in Australia as it is in England at the present time; at least, it may be inferred to be so, judging from the fact that Neil Matterson, a rising Australian sculler, can find no work to do, and, therefore, he has challenged Beach to row on even terms for a stake of £200 a side. "Matterson," says the Australasian, "may have greatly improved in form, but he will have to put in a few more years, a good deal more muscle, and acquire still greater skill, before he can hope to make a race with the present champion."

Much interest is being taken in the half-mile race for $1000 at Rosedale to-morrow afternoon between R. B. Herriman, of Owen Sound, and Ed. Case, of Hamilton. Case is the favorite at 100 to 90, but there's many a good judge who thinks that Herriman will win in a canter.

Under date of November 16, Edward Hanlan writes to us from Toronto: "Next summer I will row any man in the world on any fair course in America a match race; or I will go into a sweepstakes, each man to put up $500." The ex-champion has not lost confidence in himself. He is still full of courage. Beach, Teemer, Ross, Gaudaur and all others are given timely notice that he will make a resolute fight to regain the championship. Hanlan will simply ask for a fair field and no favors.—Turf, Field and Farm.

Mr. S. Cummings of this city leads the batting of the Toronto Cricket club, with a total of 268 runs and an average of 28.6. The Toronto club played 28, won 14, lost 10 and 4 were drawn. Two matches were played with Hamilton, both of which were won by the Hamilton club.—Hamilton Times. Toronto's forte is certainly neither cricket nor baseball. She can do a little better at rowing, but even at that is not always reliable. Torontonians are apt to think Hamilton a dull city, but when it comes to athletics she can everlastingly make the Queen City hump.

As some correspondence has recently taken place in reference to the breeding of St. Gatien, who is returned in the Stud Book as by Rotherhill, or The Rover, Mr. J. W. Hoare, of Wimbledon, by whom the horse was bred, writes to the editor of Bell's Life as follows: "I can only repeat what I have previously stated, viz., that St. Gatien was got by The Rover, by Blair Athol; in fact, there is not the least chance of his having been got by Rotherhill. My groom, Pearson, who had charge of both stallions at the time, is prepared to corroborate this statement. Besides, the style and markings of St. Gatien are quite sufficient to convince anyone that he belongs to the Blair Athol strain."

Police Court Yesterday.

Chinaman Wing Lee was charged with stabbing a cigarmaker named Alfred Wilson on the wrist. Wilson said he visited Lee's shop Saturday night to get his washing. They had a dispute about the "checkee" and "washee" bill. Wilson, who was a little the worse of liquor, seized his bundle and made for the door. The Chinaman followed him, when the alleged stabbing took place. A remand was made to produce a lady witness. Richard Laruriella, an Italian, struck a brother Italian named Nero Leonardo on the head. He was fined $20 or 20 days. John Kelly and Daniel Harrington fell out over a girl. Kelly struck Harrington and got $1 and costs or 10 days for doing so. William Cassell, at his own request, was sent to the Central for four months. Michael Doyle assaulted an old man named Fitzgerald. He was remanded for a week. Wm. McGeogh, the young man arrested on a telegram from the Northwest, is still detained, the warrant not having arrived. David Jenkins was fined $10 and costs or 30 days for assaulting Jacob Fisher at a meeting of the Plasterers' union Thursday night last. Joseph H. Hammond was convicted of Sunday shaving on his own confession. The magistrate said he hoped the case would be taken to a superior court.

Mr. Ruse's Chromo.

The Dominion Organ and Piano company have just got out a handsome lithograph show card. It is really a splendid piece of work. It is a picture about eighteen inches by two feet in size. The right hand corner contains a photograph of the Dominion factory at Bowmanville. The left hand corner at the bottom represents the wareroom building in this city, occupied by Mr. Ruse. The centre is a Canadian forest scene with a waterfall and rapid stream in the centre.

The Waterous Engine.

If it be true that "practice makes perfect," then the old-established Waterous Engine company of Brantford ought to turn out the most perfect engines and other machinery going. The head of the firm is himself a born inventor and a thoroughly practical man; and the number of his inventions, improvements, labor-saving and economical devices, etc., is legion. They claim to have the cheapest thoroughly good engines built, from 6 horse power, at the low price of $150, up to any size and power required. Over 1200 of the Waterous engines are now in use scattered all over the dominion, and in foreign countries too. So extensive has their business become that they had some time ago to establish branches at Winnipeg and Montreal. Just now they are making a specialty of their Standard Chopping Mills, of five different sizes, ranging in capacity from 8 to 40 bushels per hour—an article of great and exceptional usefulness in the Northwest and very handy to have in Ontario as well. The power required for these chopping mills is from 2 to 20 horse. To threshers, sawmill men and stock raisers, particularly, the Standard Chopping Mill is a big thing for saving time, and labor and money.

AUSTRALIAN ARGONAUTS.

The High old Times When the Rich Yellow was in Every Man's Pocket.

"I've digged for gold, and I've found gold wherever gold was to be digged for and found," obstinately remarked an old Australian, in reply to some observations just made by a Californian gold miner. "I've digged in California as hard as you have, and I've digged, for my pains, in Ireland, when a fellow 'salted' a hole in Galway and raised a company to plow up the gold that he had sowed. But there was more gold, and redder gold, and maybe better gold in Australia in 1852 than there has been in any other part of the world before or since. And there was more fun in gettin' the gold than you could shake a stick at. The harbors of Melbourne and Sydney were crowded with ships that couldn't get away, because their crews had deserted them and run off to the diggings; and the towns were crowded with the sailors, and lots of others, too, comin' back with their pockets full—for nobody seemed at that time to be tryin' to make a fortune and go home. All they wanted to do was to raise enough money for a good spree in one of the towns; and their notions of what a spree meant would, I think, have astonished even a Californian. A dozen times I've seen a fellow walk into a liquor saloon with a crowd behind him, call for drinks for all the rest, and issue a special order for a dozen of champagne and a tub for himself. Selfish? Oh, no, there was nothing selfish about it. He merely poured the champagne into the tub, pulled off his shoes and stockings, and washed his feet in it. Of course he was crazy; but doesn't gold make nine out of ten men crazy, whether they dig it out of the earth or get it in Wall street?

"Everything had to be paid for in gold dust, and every bar had weights and scales to test the value of the dust, which was then current coin. For what a miner then paid for an ordinary round of drinks he could now buy a heavy gold ring, but such a ring then would have been of small value in Australia compared with the worth of a pint of whisky. The eccentricities of successful miners coming to the cities to spend their gains extended to their clothing. Almost all of them were fond of tall silk hats, but their tastes varied as to the part of the hat that was most becoming, some preferring the top and some the bottom, and a common sight was a man walking in a crowded street wearing the highly-polished crown of a silk hat, followed or accompanied or preceded by a man whose head showed itself above the low walls encircling the rim that had thus been cut off from the upper portion of the hat.

"Elaborate weddings took place every day. As often as not the bride and bridegroom sat together on the driver's seat of a furniture van, both drunk, and still drinking health and long life to the crowd that was cheering them on their way, and exchanging jokes with the long procession that drove or rode after the happy couple. I don't know whether such weddings resulted well or not, but they were celebrated very often.

"The police force of Australia was one of the best in the world. It was very like the Royal Irish constabulary. But it was all out of town, and while very fair order was preserved at the diggings themselves, in the towns every man seemed to be following the dictates of his own free will, whether they proved him to be a saint or a sinner."

2 cups coffee	10
Beefsteak	15
