Injury dashed to the front when start came, and was only galloping all the way. The pace was very slow throughout and the winner was never bothered. The Earl moved up into second place entering back stretch, and remained in that position; tired in stretch run and was under drive to outlast Joe Rose. The latter did not run his race. Burns caused a nasty jam rounding first turn and then pulled up, and appeared content to trail the leaders remainder of the trip. He was probably under the impression that he would have been disqualified had he won. Oberon pulled up lame. Winner entered for $1,000; no bid.

AN ENGLISHMAN ON CANADIAN RUGBY.

He Says It Takes a Mathematician to Comprehend What is Going On.

(Montreal Star.)

An Englishman well acquainted with the two British forms of football—Association and Rugby—looked in at the M. A. A. A. grounds this morning and saw the Montreal Club at work. This is what he thinks of the game as played here:

"I had been told," he says, "that football as played here was an improvement on the English Rugby game. It is. I once saw an advertisement for young men to come and learn to play Rugby; it ran: Come and learn how to kill the other fellow without being killed yourself. But an English Rugby game is a game of quoits in a young lady's school compared with what I saw on the M. A. A. A. grounds this morning.

'I dare say that to one who understands the game, this football is really interesting, but to the onlooker who does not understand the finer points of the strategy of working the ball up the ground by inches, and who is shy on mathematics, it looks rather as if the whole object of the game is to see how to kill the other fellow and—if possible—get killed yourself.

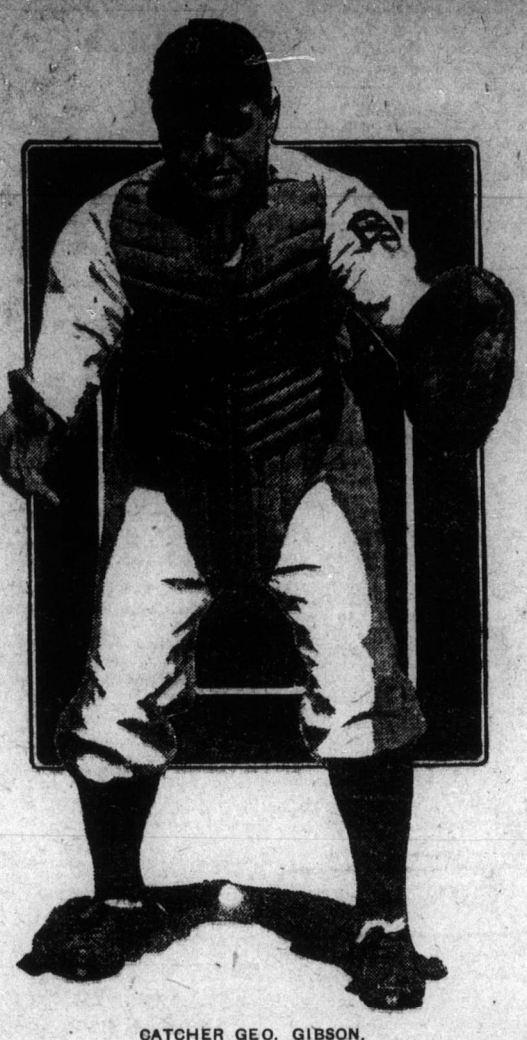
"I reached the ground to find an inextricable tangle of human beings on the ground. From the bottom of the pile some feet high a voice proceeded in pained accents: 'Anyhow, you need not put your foot in a man's face and keep it there,' and another replied in disgust: 'Aw, shut up! Play the game.' A scrimmage was formed, a nice, quiet-looking scrum without any shoving and pushing, then, just as I was looking for the ball to be thrown in a melancholy voice began to sing. He seemed to be working out some abstruse problem. 'Two, four, six, x, fifty, fifty, fifty,' he chanted, and the ball appeared. Somebody grabbed it, somebody grabbed him; he passed, the ball was carried a few yards and the unfortunate being who was carrying it met trouble! An opponent collared him round the waist, another gave a slide like J. Jones running for third base, and clinched his legs.

"They flung themselves through the air and descended from above, they squirmed along the ground and caught him from beneath. Groans and grunts wafted down the air and the whole mass came to the ground. Somebody from the outside appeared to take a running jump and land on top of the pile and then slithered over the top and tried to get his head underneath; apparently he was a doctor and wanted to know if the bottom man still breathed. Evidently the latter was still alive, for a man commenced to shout and they all got slowly to their feet as if disgusted at their unsuccessful efforts. Then, the whole thing started over again, a scrum was started, the gentleman with the melancholy voice sang his little hymn and so ad infinitum. Yes, I have no doubt it is an improvement, but only in the eyes of those tired of life or mathematicians able to understand how 'two, four, six, x, makes fifty, fifty, fifty.'"

Canada's Railroad Prospects.

With the extension and development of the railroads of the eastern part of Canada, the prospects grow brighter for the establishment of a new ocean route between the eastern and western continents. The terminus on this side will be Green Bay, New foundland, and the other will be some convenient port of Great Britain, and the projectors claim that this will possibly shorten the transatlantic trip by 36 hours between the United States and England. But little railroad construction is required to make the Green Bay readily accessible from any point. A great point in favor of this route is that it is claimed to be practically free of fog, and at all seasons of the year vessels may ply this water with speed and safety. A further development of this scheme provides for a tunnel under the Straits of Belle Isle, so that a steamship terminus may be established at the most eastern point of Newfoundland, which means a further saving of time.

The Presbyterian Mission at Point Barrows, Alaska, in the Artic Ocean, the most northerly church in the world, was burned April 12. It was built in 1890 with funds given by Mrs. Eliot F. Shepard, of New York.



CATCHER GEO. GIBSON.

FAVORITES CONTINUE TO WIN AT H. J. C. MEETING.

The Mackenzie Stable Won Two Races With the General Armstrong and Fort Johnson—The Latter Made New Track Record.

BRIGHT WEATHER brought another large crowd at the Hamilton Jockey Club races yesterday, and an excellent programme of seven events provided entertainment of the most satisfying kind. Favorites won the majority of the races, but the betting was pretty well distributed, and the bookmakers had a little the best of it. Several exciting finishes took place, especially in the fourth race. Hiacko was the favorite, and a peculiar thing about this horse is that he has never been ridden with whip or spur. Jockey Musgrave was up. The field broke evenly, but Hiacko sulked, and in the back stretch was almost last. Seeing that there was no chance of getting the horse to exert himself without a whip, Musgrave asked Jockey Paul, on the 100 to 1 shot Seaburn, to lend him his gad. The whip was ahnded over, and from then on the favorite came like a flash. Turning into the stretch Hiacko was about eight lengths behind, but at the wire only a nose separated him from the leader. The talent lost heavily on this race.

It was Ida D. all the way in the first event. Edgley made a poor beginning, but came very strong in the stretch, and pulled down second money in the last few strides. Petulant stood off Sinfran for third. The latter was going strong until the stretch, but had nothing left.

The favorite, Injury, was the class of the second race. The horse took an early lead, was in front all the way, and won galloping easily. The Earl held down second place throughout the race, but had to drive in the stretch to stand off Joe Rose. Otogo was cut off several times during the race. The talent went pretty strong to Joe Rose, who was the favorite.

The steeplechase was the best race of its kind seen at this meeting. Only one rider was unseated and none of the horses fell. The field kept well together and turned into the stretch in a bunch. Bergoo was always well up, but only got under the wire first by a nose. Class Leader, after leading part of the way, was in hot pursuit in the stretch. Lizzie Flat finished third ten lengths behind Class Leader.

Stromeland slipped through on the rail in the stretch to win driving by a length in the fourth race. If Hiacko had received a touch of the persuader in the first part of the race there would have been nothing to it.

Woolcasta and Kyle made an early running with General Armstrong third. The latter came fast on the rail in the stretch and won going away. Detroit closed rapidly on the outside on the run home and outgamed Kyle for the place.

Fort Johnston showed some class in the Waterdown Handicap for three-year-olds and upward, at one and a sixteenth miles, the last event on the card. After being well up all the way, he drew away in the stretch run to win easily by two lengths from Cave Adsum, with Pinkola third. The latter got away slowly, but finished fast. Fort Johnson set a new track record in this race, running the distance in 1.45 2-5, the first mile in 1.38 flat. The old record 1.46 was held by Creel.

Jockey Tommy Rae, who had the mount on Lizzie Flat in the steeplechase, showed that he is versatile by also riding Lou Corval and G. M. Miller on the flat in their races. If Rae were a bit heavier he would be one of the best cross country riders in the business, but he is almost too light to do a horse justice through the field.

Jockey Ross is not allowed to ride pending inquiry into his lack of effort when he had the mount on Elfall the day before yesterday.

Six races are down for to-day, a steeplechase and the Juvenile Handicap for two-year-olds at seven furlongs.

Belmont Park, Oct. 7.—Fauntleroy, second choice at 5 to 1, easily won the $1,500 Nursery Handicap here yesterday, defeating a high-class field of youngsters. It is estimated that 113,000 adult males in New York City make a living by "their wits," without in any sense being an economic factor aiding in production or distribution.

Only a disinterested third party is able to realize that there are two sides to a question.

MARKETS AND FINANCE

Thursday, Oct. 7.—The offerings on Central Market this morning were unusually large for Thursday, but, with the exception of grapes, the prices remained the same. The continued large supply of grapes, which is the largest in ten years, made it possible to procure them at from 10 to 15 cents a basket. Although there was an extra large supply on the market the prices remained firm. A fair supply of mushrooms were in and could be had for 10 to 15 cents a quart. In the hay market the price of straw was lower, the new price being from $7 to $9 per ton. The prices of all other produce remained unchanged.

Peaches were poor this morning. The late Crawfords are just about over and only Longhurst and Crosby were in today. The best Longhurst brought 65 cents a basket, but there was a great range of quality, with prices in keeping, running from 65 down to 30c. The Crosby brought 45 for the best, and as low as 25.
