ASK THE CITY TO LAY TRACKS

Proposal That a Municipal Line Be Laid on Yonge Street From C. P. R. to Farnham Avenue.

In an effort to enlist the aid of the city against the proposal of the Metropolitan Railway to run their cars on the surface on their newly acquired right-of-way a short distance west of Yonge-st., and running south from Farnham-ave. to Birch-ave., a large deputation of residents from that section, with Ald. Maguire as spokesman, will wait upon the board of control today. The ratepayers interested will ask that Corporation Counsel Drayton be requested to propose some alternative plan which will do away with the proposed level crossings at all the intervening streets betwen Farnham-ave. and the C. P. R. tracks.

The Ontario Railway Board some time ago made the suggestion that the railway elevate its tracks over the right-of-way from Farnham-ave. southward, and plans were prepared giving the details of the scheme. The radial company, however, claimed that this was not feasible, because the cost would be in the neighborhood of $800,000. They also contended that a tunnel from a point near Mount Pleasant southward was out of the question owing to the expense. No finality has has been arrived at, however, and the matter is still pending before the Ontario Railway Board.

As a means of getting over the difficulty, Ald. Maguire will suggest that the city construct the line on Yonge-st. from the tracks to Farnham-ave., and then arrange to give the radial lines running rights over them. This proposition has been favorably received by many of the ratepayers in that section.

HOLY NAME RETREAT.

The Holy Name Retreat at St. Paul's Church, Power-st., is attracting Holy Name men from all sections of the city. Father Fitzgerald, in his sermon last night, continued his theme of the consistent, practical Catholic man, begun in his discourse on Wednesday evening, and also dealt with the various civilizations and religions since ancient times. He spoke of the six hundred years history of the Holy Name Society, its aims and objects, and dwelt specially on the obligations of members and benefits to be derived from membership in the society, founded to promote clean speech and respect for the name of God. Friday's services will be: Mass and instruction at 5.30 and 7.30 in the morning, and sermon and benediction in the evening at 8.

Nesbitt Case Opened.

The Nesbitt trial is under way. Thomas Lawson, a clerk in the department of finance, Ottawa, was the only witness examined yesterday, it being understood between Mr. Blackstock and Mr. Dewart, the opposing counsel, that the case should be resumed a week from to-day. When Lawson's testimony was concluded the $30,000 bail was renewed in the sureties of Dr. Walter McKeown and the accused, and the case was adjourned until a week from to-day.

Linotypes On Free List

OTTAWA, June 6. —(Special.)—A large deputation from the Canadian Press Association representatives who are meeting here waited upon Hon. W. T. White and Hon. Dr. Reid this afternoon and urged that the duty on linotype machines be removed. They pointed out that these machines are not manufactured in Canada, and that consequently a reduction or suspension of the tariff would not affect any Canadian industries. The present tariff on linotype machines from the United States is 20 per cent.

Hon. W. T. White, in reply, stated that the matter had already been called to his attention, and while he was perfectly willing to give their request every possible consideration, he could not say that he would grant their demands.

NOT UNITED ON HOME MISSION PLANS

So Determined Was Opposition of Western Provinces to Unification That Proposal Was Temporarily Shelved—Sentiment Appears to Favor Church Union.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 6.—(Can. Press.)—The plan of the home mission committee of the Presbyterian Church to unify the mission work of the church received an unexpected check this afternoon.

The first recommendation of the committee was that the division of the church into two sections should be terminated. As was stated by Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant in his advocacy of the plan, there were not two churches, but one and not two assemblies, but one. The representatives of the maritime provinces, who were present in the assembly, made, however, a vigorous protest and no decision was reached.

The proposal that all the work in the western section, including the supervision of hospitals, Sunday schools, Indian work, etc., should be under the supervision of the home mission committee, also received unexpected opposition. A message was sent from the synod of Alberta suggesting, not that the work should be unified, but that Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia should be given complete supervision of the work in those provinces. Dr. A. S. Grant withdrew all the further recommendations of the home mission committee until the committee of systematic conference, which has charge of the new budget plan had been reached.

Home Missions.

The report of the home mission committee showed 791 mission fields receiving assistance from the home mission fund, a net gain of 60 over a year ago. The committee recommended that the various building funds be amalgamated under one management. During the year the Women's Home Missionary Society raised $39,687.15, and 156 new organizations were added, making 650. A special effort is to be made in 1912 to increase the auxiliaries to 1000, and the presbyterials to 50. Contributions from the churches in Scotland and Ireland amounted to $6007.59.

The committee recommended in part as follows:

1. That the eastern and western sections of the church be united for purposes of mission work in Canada.

2. That all mission work on Canadian soil, for which the Presbyterian Church is responsible, be brought under one board.

3. That the assembly authorize the appointment, for the supervision of all mission work on Canadian soil, of 12 superintendents, who shall have oversight of districts, and be known as district superintendents.

4. That the different funds for the purchase of sites for churches and manses, and for assistance in the erection of manses and church buildings, be amalgamated, and that this fund be augmented to at least $400,000.

5. That the different Women's Missionary Societies thruout the whole church be united and formed into one Women's Missionary Society.

Women's H. M. S.

The report of the Woman's Home Mission Society showed the evangelical work, including 11 home mission fields in New Ontario and the west, deaconess' work in Winnipeg, Edmonton and the Kootenay; Childerhose memorial fund, from which emergency assistance is given to home mission conveners in Northern Ontario, in the form of small loans, the sending of libraries and literature to Sabbath schools in rural districts, and lumber, mining and construction camps, and also supplying needy mission fields with suitable clothing.

The amount raised during the year was $38,687.15, an increase of $7903.04 over last year.

The amount raised since the organization of the Women's Home Missionary Society in 1903 is $163,260.97; estimate for next year is $45,902.

Membership Increase Disappoints

Two incidents of note occurred at the morning session. Rev. Dr. Somerville spoke of the small increase in the membership and indicated that there was something seriously the matter when in the face of an immigration of 350,000 the church gained only two or three per cent. in membership.

Principal L. Baird threw great doubt on the immigration statistics, and indicated that the reason why the church did not get a larger proportion of the newcomers into the membership was due to the fact that they did not remain in the country. That those who came to the country and were counted as immigrants did not remain in the country was shown by the discrepancy between the figures prepared by the government, those of the immigration branch and those of the census.

SAID FAREWELL TO RAMSAY WRIGHT

Vice-president of University Addresses Graduating Class as He Takes Leave After 38 Years of Service — Opening of New University Organ in Fine Recital by Mr. Moure.

Last evening was doubly noteworthy in the University of Toronto. Not only was the magnificent new organ in Convocation Hall, which has been over a year in building, opened in a recital by F. A. Moure, bursar of the university, but a touch of sadness was added to the proceedings as President Falconer said in his opening remarks, by the fact that this was the formal leave-taking of the university with its vice-president, Prof. Ramsay Wright. He had served the university with distinction for thirty-eight years, said the president, and to him was entrusted the duty, usually reserved for the president himself, of delivering the annual address to the graduating classes.

Symbolism of Ceremonial

Prof. Ramsay Wright, who seemed deeply touched with the president's references to himself and the hearty way in which they were received by those present, spoke of the symbolism of the ceremony of commencement, their origin in the ceremonies which obtained at the University of Cambridge and of the many quaint customs which were now no longer observed. "Capping" was the only relic that persisted at the Scottish universities. The ceremonies of "inception" signified formerly the commencement of the career of actual teaching, and the new-made doctors used to be sworn not to teach outside their own university, except at the sister University of Oxford. In Canada we sent out our alumni to spread knowledge in all parts of the world. The candidate for the doctor's degree formerly used to be presented with a book, with a ring of espousal to his university, and in some of the Spanish universities with gold spurs and a sword, as a sign that he was the equal of any knight. He was also greeted with the "kiss of peace."

But little of all this remained. While the candidate placed his hands in those of the chancellor as a sign of tacit assent, the latter proclaimed that for the good of the province and of the British Empire, and in consideration of his having fulfilled all the requirements he admitted him to the degree.

Practical Imperialism.

Here Prof. Wright took occasion of the reference to the good of the British Empire to preach a little practical imperialism. "The integrity of the empire," he said, "will only be preserved by the co-operation of its parts. Some of you," he added, "may yet represent Canadian constituencies in an imperial parliament."

He commended to them the work of the navy league and the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire.

His advice to those about to graduate was to cultivate courtesy and civility, compromise that did not affect principle, a certain amount of confidence, conscientiousness and to avoid censoriousness and carping criticism, which always came back at the critic.

"I have been touched," he said, "by the many tokens which I have received from the members of the university of their affection towards me, from the president, from my colleagues and from my students." Great changes had taken place since he first came to the university, which then was a staff of only twelve with some two hundred students. Now the staff was between two hundred and three hundred. Toronto in those days had only a population of 65,000.

What struck him most in the growth of the city was its cosmopolitanism. Despite what some thought there was no cause to fear for the future. Some of the finest nations were of just such mixture.

The university was fortunate, said President Falconer, in having in Mr. Moure a bursar who was also a musician. Two men had taken foremost parts in the building of the new organ. One was Dr. Vogt, who was at present in Europe. The other was Mr. Moure. Now was the time, he declared, for the friends of the university to come forward and establish a chair of music.

Mr. Moure showed himself a capable organist, playing a varied and exacting program with feeling and a careful technique. In the familiar "Berceuse," by Gounod, he was most happy, this number showing off to advantage the beautiful soft reeds on the swell organ and the soft pedal stop which was used with them. Nor was he less effective in the majestic and stupendous Bach prelude and fuge in C. Major, or in the finale from the second suite of Leon Boellmann, which brought out the full organ. In the Pastorelle of F. de la Tombelle the fine tubular chimes on the solo organ were used. The other numbers were sonata in B flat (Op. 46) by Aloys Claussmann and Reverie du Soir, by Saint-Saens.

Immediately preceding the ceremonies in Convocation Hall the United Alumnae of the various colleges held their annual banquet in the east hall of the university, at which Prof. and Mrs. Ramsay Wright were the guests of honor. After the organ recital a reception was given by the university to the graduating classes.

MUCH OF MISERY DUE TO DRINK

Four City Missionaries Gave Reports on Conditions Found in Toronto's Congested Districts.

The Toronto City Mission Board met in the Tract Society's rooms yesterday. In the absence of Rev. Dr. McNeil, Vice-President Rev. E. A. Chown, presided. The treasurer, H. L. Stark, presented his report, which was more satisfactory than usual.

The mission has now four missionaries constantly at work in the city. Rev. Robt. Hall presented their reports, which were a revelation of the needs of the poor of the city, and the conditions found in the more congested districts. Much of the misery is the direct result of drink.

Striking incidents were recorded and all prove the good work being done in the homes of the people. Sixty dollars and fifty-two cents was expended during May in relieving distress found in these homes, and 560 articles of clothing and furniture were supplied to those who were in want. The gospel carriage services have been resumed and have been well attended.

The fresh air home was opened on Wednesday, May 28, and at present there are 28 children and 22 adults, mostly sickly women, enjoying a two weeks' rest free, and on Wednesday, June 12, 50 more will take their place.

Former Senator Chauncey M. Depew, replying to congratulations on his seventy-eighth birthday recently, announced that it was his ambition to live to be 100 years old. He attributes his splendid health to careful dieting and a judicious mixture of work and play.

Rheumatism and Lumbago

If you have any doubt as to the value of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a means of regulating the kidneys and thereby curing rheumatism and lumbago, you will find here the proof of what was accomplished in one case.

Mr. John Bellard, carpenter, Hanmer, Ont., writes: "I was entirely cured of kidney disease and rheumatism by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For about twelve years I was troubled with the kidneys and suffered a great deal from rheumatism and lumbago. I consulted three different doctors, and as they failed to cure me, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because a friend of mine had been cured by their use. Altogether, I have used ten boxes and was entirely cured over a year ago. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as the best cure for kidney disease, backache and rheumatism.

SHOULD STUDY TAX REFORMS

Assessment Commissioner Forman Says Tendency is to Favor It, But Wants City to Investigate.

In reply to a letter from Controller Church asking for his opinion on the proposition of submitting to the ratepayers the question of assessing improvements at a lower rate of taxation than land, Assessment Commissioner Forman stated that there was a strong tendency in the minds of the people approving of the scheme, but he considered that before any conclusion was reached, the city should obtain accurate information from such cities as Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, where the single tax principle is now in vogue in a greater or less degree. Mr. Forman however, does not commit himself to any opinion as to how this system would work in Toronto.

Special Legislation.

Regarding the controller's proposition that Toronto should apply for special legislation to make possible such reforms in taxation, he says:

"There is, I think, much to be said in its favor. Our legislature has to a greater or less degree already adopted this principle in as much as certain powers are conveyed to cities having a population of over 50,000, and it appears to me that Toronto, because of its magnitude and rapid development, should have the necessary powers granted in order to meet the present difficult situation of development under this present act. You inform me that Philadelphia, Boston, New York and Washington have special acts. No doubt these have been found necessary in order to properly govern these cities. This being so, it seems reasonable that Toronto should have the same power."

Controller Church brought this matter up in the board of control yesterday morning, and suggested that the assessment commissioner be authorized to visit the cities named in order to study the workings of the system. The board, however, referred it to the legislation and reception committee to get opinion on the scheme.

TREES IN DEMAND

Six Thousand Residents Have Made Application to Parks Department.

Since the planting season last spring the parks department has received applications from about 6000 residents of the city who wish to have trees planted on their front lawns. Owing to his limited appropriation this year, however, the parks commissioner has been quite unable to supply the demand. Tree planting operations are being undertaken by the department at the present time and good progress is being made.

SMOOTH TRICK CAUGHT WOMAN

Agents of T.E.L. Co. Got Them to Sign Contracts in Cedarvale District Under Wrong Impression.

Trading upon the credulity of housewives who had heard their husbands talking about electric light, agents for the Toronto Electric Light Company yesterday circulated thru the Cedarvale district signing up lighting contracts with the women. This is the district north of Danforth-avenue, which has negotiations on with the Hydro and in which the township has refused the T. E. L. Co. permission to plant poles.

The procedure of the agents was to approach a woman while the man of the house was away and say to her "You intend to take hydro light, don't you?" The answer would usually be "Yes," for all the residents of this new workingmen's neighborhood are worked up about the likelihood of cheap municipal illumination. "Then here's a contract for Toronto electric light. You sign here,' and the deed was done. The women did not know the difference between the two. It was not explained to them. One of the plausible employes of the T. E. L. Co. declared that he and his fellow agents had secured a hundred names. It is the company's intention to present the contracts as a reason why they should not be shut out of the district, which will probably soon be a part of the city.

"Rank misrepresentation" was the mildest of the descriptive remarks hurled by angry residents at the annexation meeting held in the Cedarvale Avenue Presbyterian school room last night when the T. E. L. Co.'s action was discussed. A letter will be sent to the township council bearing the endorsation of the 63 ratepayers present condemning the Toronto Electric Light Company's work.

The meeting was unanimously in favor of annexation to the city. A later meeting will be held when the terms and conditions will be presented.

ATTENDING TO BUSINESS

Municipal Committee Lacked Quorum for Third Time This Week

For the third time this week the fire and light committee were unable to hold their meeting yesterday afternoon thru the lack of a quorum. As a result, important business in the way of the proposed new building regulations has not been dealt with. A determined effort, however, will be made to get the members to turn out at a special meeting next week.
