WOOD ALCOHOL HAS CLAIMED ONE MORE VICTIM IN THE CITY

John Walsh, Returned, Dies at Morkin House.

FOUND DURING NIGHT

Was Lying On His Face On the Floor, and Died Quickly.

John Walsh, a returned soldier, died this morning at 7 o'clock in the Morkin House as a result of drinking wood alcohol and other substitutes for whiskey.

He went into the Morkin House on Monday evening and took a room for the night. At a late hour other persons in the house were disturbed by loud moanings from someone who seemed in pain. Investigation was made by Edward Morkin, proprietor of the Morkin House, who found Walsh lying on the floor on his face suffering intense pain. Before a doctor or ambulance could be summoned, the man succumbed.

John Walsh went overseas in 1915, where he served with the Canadian Army Dental Corps. He returned to Canada in the latter part of 1918 and was discharged from the army on January 2 of this year. He is a native of Stratford, and efforts will be made to get in touch with relatives there. His wife is employed at the Grigg House.

Coroner Robert Ferguson decided it was unnecessary to hold an inquest. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

RIOT ECHOES HEARD IN COURT-MARTIAL AT CARLING HEIGHTS

Officers at Once Referred Matter as Mere "Skylarking" of Troops.

Lance-Corp. I. H. C. Stearns, a member of the 1st Detachment, Canadian Garrison Regiment, appeared before a district court-martial at Wolseley Barracks yesterday morning, charged with conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline and addressing insulting language to the military police on July 17th last. Stearns pleaded guilty to the charge, but stated to the court that the language addressed to the police was not meant by him to be taken seriously, as he meant it for a passing joke.

The offence was committed on the morning following the riot at Carling Heights, when members of the Canadian Garrison Regiment, under quarantine for diphtheria, broke out of their quarters, the affair being referred to at military headquarters as "skylarking." Stearns is alleged to have remarked to the police, "you better get your photos taken before you are killed." His sentence was not announced by the court, but will be promulgated in a few days.

Pte. W. G. Murrill of the same regiment, also appeared before the court yesterday to answer a charge of discharging firearms and intentionally occasioning a false alarm in camp, the charge being an echo of the riot which occurred at Carling Heights during the quarantine of the soldiers for diphtheria on the night of July 16. The accused soldier pleaded not guilty to the charge and, owing to the absence of several witnesses in the case, the court adjourned until this morning at 9 o'clock, when Murrill's trial was continued by the same court.

The accused soldier pleaded not guilty to the charge, and after proving a satisfactory alibi, was discharged by the court. Murrill produced five witnesses who swore that he was returning from a restaurant on Oxford street when the last shot was fired. Pte. Thomas McCormick swore that he saw Murrill fire the shot, but his evidence was contradicted by the five witnesses, and Murrill was found not guilty of the charge.

The only witness heard in the latter case yesterday was Lieut. A. E. Burwell of the Canadian Garrison Regiment, who was on duty at Carling Heights when the offence was alleged to have been committed. Major H. M. Pardee of the Canadian Engineers, acted as president of the court, and Capts. H. C. McKendrick, No. 1 District Depot, and A. W. McNally, district intelligence officer, assisted him as members. Major G. N. Weekes, Corps of Guides, acted as judge advocate.

GOING SHOOTING, BUT CARTRIDGES WERE NOT PROPER REVOLVER SIZE

George Lampman Forgiven for Having Gun in Possession.

George Lampman, who pleaded guilty a week ago to carrying a loaded revolver when he was arrested near the home of his young wife at Simcoe and Wellington streets, following an order from the police magistrate to keep away from his wife with whom he had rows several times recently, was dismissed this morning in police court. The weapon was confiscated.

Counsel for Lampman today told the court that the cartridges in the revolver were not the proper size and could not be fired, while Lampman explained that he was carrying the weapon to go shooting, and that he was not near his wife's home when he was arrested.

WHEN THE KIDNEYS NEED ATTENTION

Thousands of people scrub their teeth every day, and yet a large percentage neglect a more important part of the body, the kidneys. If we could only look into our kidneys and see the millions of tiny poison crystals deposited there we would probably pay more attention to keeping them just as clean as the teeth. But we don't, and all of a sudden we feel a pinching pain in the side or back. The bones all over the body begin to ache and we say: "Gosh, I must be getting rheumatiz," when, as a matter of fact it is only the kidneys calling for help. A test worth trying, to keep the kidneys clean and healthy is to take a Solvax tabMet regularly. Solvax is being used by thousands of people and many surprising results are reported. All good druggists always carry Solvax in stock because the demand is growing greater every day as people learn through the newspapers that this is the proper way to take care of the kidneys.

If your druggist cannot supply you, write, inclosing 50 cents, to Botth's Hyomei Company, London, Ont.

EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION RESTS UPON INCREASED PRODUCTION AND BETTER CONTROL OF COAL

Herbert Hoover, Head of International Relief Organization, Declares Fate of Europe Is in Hands of Coal Miners and Owners—Europe Will Produce 443,000,000 Tons Next Year, While Amount Needed Is Estimated at 614,369,000 Tons.

Paris, Monday, Aug. 4.—Shipping and fuel representatives of France, Belgium, and Italy conferred with Herbert Hoover, head of the international relief organization here today, and decided to urge the supreme council of the peace conference to appoint a European coal commission to co-ordinate the distribution of European coal in an effort to avert what threatens to be a disaster.

The meeting was held as a result of a warning given by Mr. Hoover in an address at the recent conference in London of the supreme economic council. He said that Europe's coal production was 35 per cent below normal, and that the United States coal could not offer relief because of the shortage of shipping. During his address, Mr. Hoover said:

Fate Depends on Coal.

"The fate of European civilization now rests in the hands of the coal miners and coal mine owners of Europe to an equal, if not to a greater degree than in the hands of the providers of foods and supplies during the next year."

At today's meeting Mr. Hoover declined to accept the permanent direction of the proposed European coal commission, stating that he believed the problem to be strictly European, and that the situation cannot be relieved materially by the slight help which the United States can give.

Must Increase Production.

"Only a great increased coal production and an improved organization for its distribution can save Europe from disaster next year," Mr. Hoover explained, and he urged that some sort of fuel control be established which will greatly stimulate production, and secure such distribution as will maintain essential services, upon which economic and political stability must rest. According to figures gathered for Mr. Hoover by experts, England's annual production of coal has fallen from 292,000,000 tons in 1913 to 183,000,000 tons, the present production. Germany's decline is slightly greater. Europe, at the present rate, will produce 443,000,000 tons next year, while the amount needed is estimated at 514,369,000 tons.

HAIR-RAISING TRICKS BY AIRMEN MISSING FROM THE PROGRAM

The Weather and Darkness Caused Disappointment At Port.

Those who visited Port Stanley on Monday evening in the hope of seeing hair-raising stunts by aviators were disappointed, although those who waited long enough saw the fliers perform some of the more commonplace manoeuvres overhead. The result of this is that the L. & P. S. R. this morning served notice on the airman who made the contract that it had not been fulfilled.

The explanation given by a railway representative for the failure to show everything advertised in the vying line is: The airmen did not reach the port until 8:30 o'clock in the evening when light was beginning to fail, having been delayed on their flight by a storm through which they had to pass. The rain had made the wings and other supports of the 'plane too greasy for the performer to walk out and do gymnastic tricks on them, so these latter had to be abandoned. When time came for looping the loop and the spinning nose dive, it was too dark for safety, so the exhibition was cut short.

ALDERMEN IN TIGHT PLACE; ARE UNABLE TO PLEASE EVERYONE

Early Closing of Shoe Stores Proves Embarrassing.

London's aldermen are between the devil and the deep sea, and at the meeting of the city council they will have to make their choice. The question that will be decided is whether the early-closing bylaw affecting shoe stores shall be passed. If the measure is approved by the council, those city fathers who vote for it will have done so against the will of the east end merchants. If the bylaw is not passed, the councilmen will incur the resentment of the downtown merchants.

Some of the aldermen who have personal friends in both parties are considering seriously taking a trip to some place other than the council chambers this evening. When the roll is called up yonder (on the third floor of the city hall) there may be a number absent without leave.

Shoe dealers in East London claim that the bulk of their trade is done in the evening, and that to force them to close during that time is simply driving them out of business. On the other hand, the downtown merchants claim that all their clerks are clamoring to be free every evening.

GOES, WITH WARNING

Four employees of H. T. Reason's paper box manufacturer, 180 York street, testified in police court this morning that Alexander Massie had whipped his horses on July 23 while he was attempting to back a Grand Trunk cartage truck up to the shipping room entrance at A. M. Smith's next door.

A police constable, whom the chief of police described in court as being an expert on matters pertaining to horses, also gave evidence, and testified that there were slight welts on both Massie's horses after he had lashed them. Massie was dismissed with a warning.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

AGED RESIDENT DIES.

The death took place at the family residence, 1027 King street, on Monday morning, of Sarah Jane Waterfield. She was aged 60 years and is survived by her husband, John Waterfield, and one son, George. Mrs. Waterfield was born in Ireland, but had been a resident of this city for some time. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon. Services will be conducted at 3 o'clock by Rev. H. B. Ashby. Interment will be made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

LATE MISS FLEMING.

The death took place at her late residence, 38 Josephine street, Chelsea Green, on Monday morning, of Miss Elizabeth Fleming. Miss Fleming was aged 53 years, and had been in failing health for some months. She is survived by one brother, George Fleming of Detroit. She was born in Scotland. The funeral was held this afternoon. Interment was made in Woodland Cemetery. Rev. John Hosie conducted the services at the house and grave.

DEATH OF MRS. McMULLAN.

Mrs. Albert McMullan, 552 Princess avenue, died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock, following an operation. She had been in the hospital for the past three months.

Mrs. McMullan is survived by her husband, her father, who is seriously ill at the home of his son, Dr. J. Armstrong, Thorndale, and two brothers, Dr. W. N. Armstrong of Concord, Mich., and Dr. J. R. Armstrong of Thorndale.

The funeral will be held from her residence on Wednesday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

BURIED AT WOODLAND.

The funeral of Mrs. William Kerr, who died on Saturday, was held this afternoon from her residence, 772 Princess avenue, to Woodland Cemetery at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. W. R. McIntosh conducted the services at the house and grave.

CHARGE OF FIGHTING AT PARK DISMISSED

Kitchener Manager and London Fan Go Free.

Baseball fans filled the police court this morning when John Beattie, manager and first baseman of the Kitchener ball team, and Alfred Gleed, 24 Alexander street, both charged with fighting in Tecumseh Park during the game on Saturday afternoon, were dismissed by the magistrate.

"It is unfortunate that ball players should be demoralized like that," the magistrate remarked after he had heard the evidence, in which the manager testified that during the fourth inning of the game he got riled at London rooters and picked out Gleed as the chief offender.

All Satisfied.

As soon as the magistrate declared the case dismissed, the entire audience rose to a man and trooped out. Everybody seemed to be happy.

Beattie testified that in the fourth inning of the Saturday game he was ordered to the Kitchener bench, in front of the grandstand. This called up a storm of derision from the London fans, mingled with insulting remarks, he said, from rooters seated next to the players' bench. Gleed was among them, and got the wallops from the husky Kitchener manager for the entire crowd.

Denies Remarks.

Gleed testified that he had made no insulting remarks, and told the court that after he had been separated from the mixup by P.C. Tom Noonan, Beattie had admitted that he was the wrong man, offered to pay for his damaged hat and apologized.

The magistrate waived an examination of affidavits which Beattie offered, signed by witnesses, with regard to the alleged insults which Gleed had voiced.

VIOLATIONS OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS DROP TO HALF USUAL NUMBERS

Violation of traffic regulations has been reduced fifty per cent within the last three weeks, according to the list of offenders appearing in the police court blotter.

Diligent scouting by plainclothes men detailed to control traffic and to hunt down motor car drivers who break the laws is responsible for the reduction in police court cases, the police say.

Speeding offences have fallen off, chiefly due to the more liberal speed limit under the recently-enforced amendment to the Ontario motor vehicles act, while fines for speeding and for other violations of traffic regulations are to be more severe, the police magistrate announced recently.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PERMANENCY OF TEACHING.

That teaching is used chiefly as a stepping-stone is known to be a fact. That great advantage would be obtained by more permanency is acknowledged, and the public has expended considerable thought on bettering the condition of the profession but has failed in the object of securing permanency. The cause of this failure seems to lie in the fact that they are working at the wrong end of the string. Increased salaries, residences, etc., are believed to be the remedies, and these the public are attempting to apply when in reality it is a change in public opinion that is needed to accomplish the object. As things are, he who chooses teaching as a life's work chooses poorly. Life is short at best, and the ambitious young man of 21 looks forward to a life of usefulness reaching to 60 years and beyond, for are not some of our professional men, our politicians, doing their best work when advanced in years? But what of the teacher? His sun passes the meridian at 40. Thereafter he is considered too old, and the best schools are closed against him. As a high school teacher, he may yet be in the race, as a professor in the university he is not too old, as the chancellor of the university he is young at 40. As an inspector of public schools his age at 40 does not stand in his way, but as a public school teacher he is not wanted. The public asks for the young man who can go upstairs three steps at a time.

Does the reader doubt me? I have sat with the members of the school board in one of Ontario's good towns helping to choose a principal for one of the ward schools when the applicants had been asked to state their age. When any applicant confessed to the crime of having passed his 40th birthday, the secretary was asked to stop reading as they would on no account consider the application. Nor is this an exceptional case. If the reader is not convinced let him ask the city of London when they last engaged a new teacher who was over 40 years old. I have not been in close touch with London for a number of years, but the last one I know of was about the year 1878 or 1879. About that time I believe a resolution was placed on their books to the effect that they would not engage a new teacher over 40 years old. I am open to correction. If such engagement has been made since 1879 will someone please correct me. I am told that Toronto is in this particular in the same boat as London. We know how the towns follow the lead of the cities, and so where is the place for the old man in the teaching profession. He may keep a school for an indefinite time, but when a change becomes necessary the old man is not in it in for a good position. He must step down to an inferior position or else step down and out.

Just at the time when he has learned how to teach, when he has got to the place where he has an experience to fall back on in deciding the problems of the schoolroom rather than trust to book knowledge he finds that he must carry that experience to some smaller school, for the public places in one pan of its scales the older man with his judgment, knowledge, and ability born of experience, his reputation as a good teacher, his few grey hairs, a few wrinkles brought on by his work in the schoolroom and a general disposition quietened by contact with life. In the other pan they place the younger man with his buoyancy of spirit, his elasticity of step, his activity of youth, his self-assertiveness (sometimes justifiable), his handsome appearance, and withal the fact that he is of marriageable age, and down goes the young man's pan—he is the choice of the community.

Nor am I writing this to say their decision is wrong. I merely want to say, "What is the use of all the efforts to make teaching a permanent profession so long as public opinion demands youth as one of the qualifications of the teacher it admits into its best schools?" The attempt at "permanency" has been going on for 40 years, and the results you have with you. I can scarcely refrain from saying: "All honor to the foresight of the young man of ability who drops out of a profession early where only his youth is asked for and enters some field of usefulness where his whole life may be spent, each year becoming more valuable than the last."
