DOHERTY SENT UP FOR TRIAL IN ALBERT CO. MURDER TRIAL

Witness Testifies Victim Dared Accused to Fight Him—Evidence Given That Prisoner Told Man, Slain Later, to Come Out if He Wanted Battle.

HOPEWELL HILL, Aug. 18—Lawrence Doherty, charged with the murder of Howard R. Cairns, of Harvey, Albert county, on the night of Aug. 11, was today sent up for trial at the next session of the Supreme Court, which opens Sept. 2. H. Lester Smith appeared for the Crown, and James C. Sherren, for the prisoner. The preliminary examination was held before Stipendiary Magistrate William D. Bennett and opened at 10.30 a.m. Counsel for prisoner said he would apply for bail.

The first witness, Mrs. Mary Ann McKinley, mother-in-law of the slain man, said she lived in Harvey, the members of her household, including besides herself, her brother, Dennis Daley, John Fenton, a boarder; Howard Cairns, her son-in-law, and the latter's son and daughter, George and Gladys, 19 and 16 years of age respectively.

WIFE A RELATLVE.

Cairn's wife had been dead 16 years. These people were all making their home there on Aug. 11, the day of the tragedy. She knew the accused, Lawrence Doherty, who lived at Broad River, Albert county. His wife was a grand niece of witness and had always made her home with witness until she went away with Doherty, who took her to his home and afterward married her.

Doherty or his wife never had visited witness' home until Tuesday, Aug. 11. They came there together about 7 o'clock. She was not expecting them. They told her they had come for Mrs. Doherty's trunk. Witness got supper for them. Witness and Gladys Cairns were present when they came, Howard being upstairs and Mr. Daley in another room. Mr. Fenton was also upstairs.

WENT OUT TOGETHER.

About half an hour after supper Doherty and Cairns went out. They had been drinking. After half an hour or more Doherty came back alone. She heard him before he came in calling Cairns bad names. Later Cairns came in and asked Doherty if he was as good a man as when he was outside, Doherty replying that he was. Both were in fighting mood and the witness told them to go out doors; she would not have them fighting in the house. They then went out, Doherty saying to Howard to come out if he wanted to fight.

FOUND VICTIM.

Gladys Cairns' daughter went to the door with a light but soon returned and went upstairs crying. Witness saw no weapon of any kind with either of the men. Witness said she went out doors and saw "Howie" lying down with his face covered with blood. Doherty was standing by him and said two or three times: "I am afraid I killed him." There was blood, she said, on Doherty's shirt.

To Mr. Sherren she said "Howie" treated Doherty. He had been drinking for several days and was somewhat irritable. "Howie," witness said, called Doherty a "d-liar" when the latter denied having a bottle. "Howie" remarked he "could beat any man in Harvey," and dared Doherty to come out and fight.

PART OF DOORSTEP.

The witness, on being shown the piece of plank exhibited in court, said in reply to Mr. Smith, it was part of her woodhouse doorstep, and was found alongside the body of Cairns.

Dr. J. E. M. Carnwath, the next witness, who made a post-mortem examination, told of visiting the home of Mrs. McKinley, arriving there about 1.05 a. m. Aug. 12. John Brewster met him at the road with a lantern and witness went up into the yard where Howard Cairns' body was lying on the ground about 15 or 20 feet from the house. The man had been dead about half an hour and was lying on his side with his face turned down.

CHEEK BONE SHATTERED.

There was a deep wound in the inner corner of the left eye by the side of the nose. He saw Lawrence Doherty there while he was in the yard. Witness went to Albert and brought the coroner, Dr. S. C. Murray, back. The witness described in detail the holding of an autopsy and the nature of the wounds. Both cheek bones were fractured, that on the right side being shattered to pieces. The right frontal bone was fractured and there were also wounds on the body. Internal examination of the head revealed both clotted blood and fluid blood. The wound near the eye had penetrated the head nearly five inches.

None of the wounds, witness said, were clean cut and were evidently made by some blunt instrument. A piece of plank shown the witness in court could not have possibly make the deep wound mentioned, he said, but could make such fractures as were found. Any one of several of the wounds was sufficient to cause death.

Gladys Cairns, daughter of the victim, who did not give evidence at the inquest, told of the night of the tragedy and said that Doherty, when he came into the house alone after he and Cairns had been out together, remarked that he did not think "Howie" would come back while he (Doherty) was there and said if he got one crack at him he would not need another. Her evidence otherwise was similar to that of Mrs. McKinley.

SAW FATHER FALL.

When standing in the door, she said, she saw the two men together with their hands going and on returning to the door a little later saw her father fall.

John Brewster, a neighbor, told of being called the night of the tragedy and finding the body of Cairns in pools of blood. The accused was there and witness said he asked him what he had done to Cairns. Doherty replied that he did not know.

On the close of the case for the Crown the prisoner was asked if he had anything to say and declined, on the advice of counsel. Mr. Sherren gave notice that he would make application for bail. During the examination today there was a large number of spectators present. The prisoner had a seat alongside of his counsel and did not seem to be particularly perturbed during the proceedings.

FROM HOSPITAL TO CAMP AT FAIR VALE

Little Patient Taken For Building up—Some Gifts Are Received.

Little Winnifred, Junior Red Cross patient, who has been in the General Public Hospital since April, will go out to the Lady Byng camp at Fair Vail today to join other children who are regaining health and vigor in the camp routine of outdoor life. She will spend two weeks at camp and her maintenance there will be provided for by the Junior Red Cross funds. It is expected that after her two weeks in camp she will return to the city for two or three weeks of special treatment and will then be sufficiently recovered to be able to go back to her home. She is a very delicate little girl and the successful treatment of her case is a special pride of the Junior Red Cross members.

GIFTS FOR CAMP.

The Junior Red Cross has also another reason for taking a great interest in the Lady Byng camp, besides the fact that a Junior Red Cross patient is to be one of the children in camp. Yesterday many gifts made by the Juniors were given to Miss H. Dykeman for the camp. These gifts included sweaters, jointed cardboard toys, scrap books and books as well a "button" rag rug made by the Hammond River Juniors. Each of these gifts will be gladly received at camp.

Some other gifts in kind have come to hand recently and have been very gratefully accepted. They have included four quarts of ice cream, given by J. S. Gregory, and a supply of fresh vegetables given by a friend from Rothesay.

MAHARAJAH LAUDS SALVATION ARMY

Admires Efforts in Attacking Vice and Eradicating Social Abuses.

LONDON, Aug. 18—A striking tribute to the Salvation Army was paid by the Maharajah of Patiala, who is now visiting London, when he inspected the men's hostel provided by the Army in the poorere quarter of London.

"Your great father, William Booth, was one of the first men to realize the possibility of organizing along the lines of military discipline relief for the suffering and the uplift of humanity."

SOLDIER HIMSELF.

The Maharajah said, "Gentlemen, I am a soldier myself. It has been my pride and privilege to serve the King-Emperor upon the field of battle in many countries and on several continents.

"I admire the sympathetic efforts of the Salvation Army in attacking vice, eradicating social abuses and uplifting the unfortunate. My faith is not your faith, but through this there is a jewel. No matter what our creeds may be, we can all join in the name of our common humanity to relieve suffering and extend a brotherly hand to those whose misfortunes are greater than ours.

NOBLE WORK PRAISED.

"The Salvation Army is doing much for my country. I am glad to testify to this and pay my tribute of admiration for its selfless noble work."
