Special Notices.

PROSTRATION, RESULTING from the effects of the intense heat of the summer months, is the pre-disposing cause to many of the diseases incidental to hot weather. The stomach partaking of the general prostration of the whole system, is unable to properly digest the food passing undigested through the bowels, irritates the lining membrane, and Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, and when prevailing, Asiatic Cholera, may be excited. Attention to diet, moderate exercise, bathing and regular habits must be observed. To maintain the vital forces and prevent lassitude and exhaustion, Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya is unquestionably reliable, as it invigorates the digestive organs, and supplies material for generating nerve force.

DOCTOR BALLOU

OFFICE

No. 10 King Street West,

Three doors from Yonge St., Toronto.

A few evidences of his ability we give below as a few of the testimonials of the last and most difficult of cures he performed, when he was with us before, which is the best evidence, and a great proof to keep him busy as I see he is once more in the city, which will be until he cures every one he will take.

I desire that the citizens of Toronto and vicinity (to whom I am well known) should know of the wonderful cure that Dr. Ballou performed upon my son, William J. Parsons, in this city, on January 16th, 1874. He had a very severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism, and was brought home from school on Century, in a helpless condition, and was confined to his bed, on which we carried him to the Albion Hotel, sufferer badness liable to return, to be treated by Dr. Ballou, having little hope that he could ever be cured, after seeing so many afflicted with it for a lifetime. But what glad surprise awaited us. After one single treatment his pain entirely left him, his swollen knees and ankles became as nearly also ever, and in three days he was, and is to this day, as well as he ever was. In any other age such a cure would be considered almost a miracle. If there are any who desire further proof let them come and see.

ACHIBALD SPEARS,
No. 406 Queen street West, Toronto.

I would cheerfully recommend Dr. Ballou to all my acquaintances, as his services to me were beyond all price, and I had tested the skill of the so-called best physician

D. A. CAMPBELL,
175 Sherbourne street.

Dr. Ballou cured me of Lung and Throat Disease in three treatments, when I was so weak that I could scarcely walk to his office.

KATE SOMITER,
201 Sherbourne street.

Dr. Ballou cured my daughter of Epileptic Fits which she had for eleven years, and she never had one after his first treatment, and before it she had them as often as eight to fifteen every week.

WM. P. McMULLIN,
Hamilton, Ont.

Many other cases of Rheumatism, Dyspepsia Dropsy, Liver and Lung Disease, Heart Disease &c., may be seen at his office.

The Doctor also cures Cancer, Paralysis, Spermatorrhœa, and is perfect master of all Sexual or Private diseases. Treatments strictly confidential, and all letters addressed to him at 10 King street, West, will be attended to. Box 2045. 1412 1y

THE SCIENCE OF ACCOUNTS.

DOCTOR JOHNSON, writing on the Science of Accounts, uses the following language, "That science which no condition of life can render useless, which must contribute to the advantage of all who buy or sell, of all that wish to keep or improve their possessions, of all that desire to be rich, and all that desire to be wise."

The evils resulting from imperfect systems of Bookkeeping are great, and terminate in the insolvency and bankruptcy, not only of those who keep their accounts by them, but also of innocent parties unfortunately connected with those persons who have adopted imperfect systems of Bookkeeping. It is well known that a large proportion of the trading community adopt the old mode of single entry, on the disadvantages of which it is not necessary to enlarge, as it does not even possess the means, fallacious as they are in principle, of making the Ledger agree with itself. The system of Double Entry generally in use is well calculated to cover fraudulent entries in the transactions of extensive business, is troublesome to keep and rendering to balance. Comparatively, there are but few mercantile men whose books are carefully balanced. Indeed it would seem that the great balancing of books is of very secondary importance with the majority, who entirely omit taking any account of stock for the purpose of making an annual settlement of their affairs; and even many thinking men, who keep their books by double entry, find such difficulty in balancing that they very generally pass over small differences, and sometimes large ones, rather than go to the trouble of examining the last twelve months' accounts. It is also common for small errors to be passed over as of no consequence; whereas the difference by the Ballan system may be only the balance of numerous errors of uncertain amount, which may be exceedingly injurious, and should never be tolerated, especially in PARTNERSHIP CONCERNS. The question may now be pertinently asked, Why are so many students of Commercial Colleges found again trial to be unfavorable to the duties of a Bookkeeper? The answer is obvious,—the teachers generally are merely theoretic in their teaching, imparting that thorough practical acquaintance with bookkeeping and business customs which actual experience alone can give. How necessary then is it that the teachers in these institutions (professedly established for the imparting of a practical knowledge of Bookkeeping) should themselves be practical men. With these facts before us, it is of importance that the many hundreds of young men who are annually coming into business life should have a thorough knowledge of accounts, and especially of that important matter, the BALANCING OF BOOKS. Parents and Guardians should maturely consider this, and take care that the youths who are under their guidance shall study this science, as their services will not only become more valuable at the desks of their employers, but when they commence business for themselves will be more certain of success.

All admit the importance of KEEPING BOOKS simply and correctly, and most young men entering into business are anxious to become well-qualified Book-keepers, but where or how to obtain the requisite training, is the problem.

Let the practical philosophy of these facts be impressed on the young Men of Canada, then shall Commercial Colleges resume their true status among the institutions of the land.

LOSS AND GAIN.

A few years since Spurgeon was complaining of his service regularly, and she could never be found when required. "She'll get out of the house" said he, "twenty times for once she'll come in."

"John," said a joke, to a newly-married friend, "why don't you go to your mare cropped? They are mentioning long for a tail." "And your rotorical," replied John, "should be laughed. They are much too short for us."

Baxter, the Nonconformist, being on one occasion brought before Judge Jeffries, "Richard," said the Judge, "I hear you are a rogue in the country," replied Baxter, "that may be, my lord, I know not; I speak not of your lordship's jurisdiction."

At a Dublin Mansion House dinner one of the livery servants went up to a gentleman who was carving a joint of beef, and said, "Sir, master wishes you, if you please, for a slice of the sirloin." "Carry, for a slice of the sirloin!" exclaimed the gentleman, "how dare your master like it?" "Indeed," said the waiter, "I can't tell you how he likes it until he has tasted a bit."

Two Americans, one named Woodcock, the other Fuller, walking together, happening to see an owl, the last said: "Impossible to see an owl, the last said: "Impossible to see an owl, the last said: "Cock! You are very wrong" said the first, "for it is Fuller in the head, Fuller in the eyes, and Fuller all over."

A late reverend divine, well known for his quaint wit, as well as for his kindness of heart, walking out to the back of his premises, where a new street was opening, saw an Irishman hard at work with a crowbar striving to dislodge a huge stone from the ground, where it was held fast by the roots of a tree.

The gentleman's patience was fairly exhausted by the man's struggles to hold stones, and at last he exclaimed, in a great passion: "The divil take it! the divil take it!" The old pastor approached him, and quietly remarked that he ought not to make such free use of the name of the evil one, and certainly not throw such a big stone at him as that.

Pat was quiet in a minute, and striking his crowbar into the ground, and leaning leisurely on it, turned up his face at once to the pastor and the sunlight, and while over its roguishly played Irish wit he replied:

LOUIS KAMPS was fond of little adventures. On one occasion when he had been officiating as a judge at the Perth circuit, he proceeded to examine the bridge which, shortly before, had been thrown across the Tay. His lordship was inspecting a board inscribed with the rates of postage, when a smart looking boy came up. "Can you tell me, laddie," said his lordship, "what they charge for an ass crossing the bridge." "Gang across an' they'll tell ye," was the youth's reply.

The Rev. J. —— M——, incumbent of a parish in Warwickshire, relates the following anecdote at his own expense: The curate, gentleman is short in stature, and has the misfortune to be lame in one of his limbs. In the course of a pastoral visitation in a former parish, he called at the house of a small farmer, who happened to be in the fields. One of the family, a young lad, asked him to remain, as his father was expected home very shortly. The youth was ignorant as to the person of the visitor, but proceeded to interest him in the various concerns connected with the farm homestead. Showing him the piggery, the youth remarked as to the thriving nature of a young litter of pigs. "Do you see that ane," said he, "wi' the black patch on his back, feechtin' and scoorin' about like a hero; that's Garibaldi. Look at you ane wi' his snoot in the air and his tail like a corkscrew turned upside down; that's Palmerston; and, man, dae ye see that big-headed, scranky, bow-legged fellow, limpin about there; that's M——of the Hie." The youth was not a little taken by surprise and confounded, when his father came up and addressed his companion as Mr. M——, the individual whose appearance he had been so freely criticising.

A good lubricator for wooden axles is made of six parts of clean tallow and two parts of fine smooth plumbago. Another is made of five parts of tallow, five parts of soapstone, one part of plumbago, and nine parts of resin-oil; the tallow and oil are heated and mixed, after which the soapstone and plumbago are added.

A distinguished medical authority warns the drinkers of water from wells near dwellings to beware of the typhoid poison sure to be found sooner or later in these reservoirs, if any of the house drainage can percolate to them. The gelatinous matter often found upon the stones of a well is poison to the system, probably causing by its apores a fermentation of the blood, with the abnormal heat of fever. Wholesome, untainted water is always free from all colour and odour. To test it thoroughly, place in it a few grains of lump sugar, and expose it, stoppered, to sunlight, in a window. If, even after an exposure of eight or ten days, the water becomes turbid, be sure that it has been contaminated by sewerage of some kind. If it remains perfectly clear, it is pure and safe.

MARKING PENS.—A novelty has been introduced in this line in the shape of a glass pen which will not corrode or wear out, there is no split at the point to catch or spatter, and the ink flows freely off the point. This pen and a bottle of Payson's Indelible Ink should be in the possession of every house-keeper.

ELECTRICITY.

THOMAS'

Excelsior Eclectric Oil.

Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold!

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest Medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an Old Bronchial Cough. It positively cures Catarrh, Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured Crick in the Back, and the same quantity Lame Back of eight years standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical. J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes: "Send me a doz. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; it's cures are truly wonderful." Wm. Maguire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the small left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes—"Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes—"Send me some more Eclectric Oil, I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reed Ulverton, P. Q. write—"The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily in demand. Send us a further supply without delay." Lemoine, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P. Q. write—"Send us one gross Eclectric Oil, we find it to take well."

☞ Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents.
