WITH THE OARSMEN.

The Summer Regattas—Joint Professional and C.A.A.O. Meet Suggested.

The Halifax Regatta Committee have complied with Hanlan's suggestion, and a double-scull race has been added to their program.

London papers announce the English four-oared crew will surely visit Canada the coming summer to row at Halifax and Toronto and at Victoria, if the B.C. city will furnish a large enough purse.

The suggestion has been made that the C.A.A.O. and the professionals hold a joint regatta, lasting four days, in July or August. This agreed to would spoil Brockville's ambition and would release Hamilton of its annual responsibility.

Ned Hanlan says that a joint regatta would be a good thing with a stellar attraction on each day, or the association could have two days all to themselves and the pros the other two.

The professional star races will be the fours, singles and doubles, all three miles, and the half-mile dash for the world's championships. A ladies' race has also been proposed.

A citizens' meeting will be called for next week at the Queen's Hotel, when preliminary arrangements for the regatta will be made. The Halifax affair is scheduled for July 28, 29, 30 and 31, and Toronto's will be immediately before or after.

The Spalding Bicycle.

A bicycle that will make a sure bid for favor in Toronto this season is the Spalding, built by A. G. Spalding & Bros., the baseball men of New York and Chicago. The firm could not supply the demand last season, and that is the reason the wheel could not be had in Toronto before for love or money. The wheels are standard, strictly first-class and only one price, $100. The Harold A. Wilson Co., Ltd., 35 Kingstreet west, are the agents. As is well known they are also the outfitters for every known pastime.

Protection for Baseball Clubs.

The provisions of the new National Agreement adopted by the National Board at its last meeting in New York are not generally understood as yet, but they embody so many changes from the order of things that existed under the old agreement that an explanation of them will be of interest to every member of the big army of cranks. The Eastern League is affected by the changes, and in some ways will suffer by them, but not so severely as the greater number of minor leagues. Manager Shannon of the Rochester team has studied the situation as it now stands, and last night he made a lucid statement of the changes and the probable effects of the new conditions to a reporter of The Herald of that city.

"Last season," he said, "there were but two classes secondary to the National League, class A and class B. The Western League belonged to class A and the Eastern League to class B. The big league was compelled to put up $1000 to draft a player from a team of the class A league and $500 to get a man from the class B league. And the class A league could draft a player from the class B league.

"Now this is completely changed. Six classes, from A to F, have been created, and the highest price that a National League team can be compelled to pay for a player is $500. This is the figure that can be demanded by the class A leagues, and there are but three of these, the Eastern, the Western and the new Atlantic Leagues. The change is a benefit to the Eastern League in that is puts it in the same class with the Western, and so prevents the drafting of its men by any teams except those of the National League, but it is detrimental in that it will limit the field from which the Eastern League may draw material with which to recruit its forces.

"If the plans of the big league magnates are carried out it will not be long before every team of paid players in the country is under the National Agreement. The creation of the numerous small classes is calculated to bring this about, and now a special officer has been appointed by the National Board to give all of his time to the work of getting the little leagues and unattached professional clubs in line. John B. Day, the old-time baseball man, is the new officer.

How Any Club Can Hold Its Players.

"By paying a fee of $10 any club in the country get under the cover of the National Agreement and have the same protection in dealing with players as is now guaranteed to the Eastern and other big minor leagues. It makes no difference whether a club is in a regularly organized league. The protection can be secured just the same by putting up the $10 and getting into class F. The Hornellsville or the Palmyra club can get in, and neither the Rochester club nor any other club will have the right to dicker with any of its players.

"The only way in which the team of a high class can get a man from a team of a lower class will be by buying him or drafting him. And the class A teams will have no right to do any drafting until the National League has got in its work. The new agreement provides that the big league shall have from Nov. 1 to Jan. 1, after the end of each playing season, in which to make selections from the minor leagues. From Jan. 1 to Feb. 1 the Eastern and other class A leagues will have the right to draft players from any teams of lower classes."

It is very plainly to be seen from the statement of the case made by Manager Shannon that the teams of the strongest minor leagues will find themselves very much restricted hereafter in getting new material. In the past it has been the custom of the National League to gobble up every good man developed by an Eastern League team, but the team from which the man was drafted has had a big field from which to pick new men. The major organization will continue its gobbling process, of course, but the minor league teams will not find it so easy to supply the places of the men who are taken away from them.

The object of this wholesale classification of clubs is to get entire control of the players. In the past it has been possible for a player who would refuse to play with one club, and therefore couldn't be signed by any other club, under the National Agreement, to earn a fair salary by playing with a team of some small league not within the fold or with some unattached club. If the new plan works according to expectations it will be impossible for a balky player to get a job on any team in the country where he could earn a fair salary.

Baseball Brevities.

President James Hough of Guelph is being urged to stand for re-election as president of the Canadian Baseball League, but finds that his business requires all his attention. J. J. Ward will likely be out for his old office.

Rochester will have the youngest player in the Eastern League in the person of 17-year-old Robert Clark.

Would the big League invade Buffalo? Not in view of its National League and Players' League record. It is only a big minor league city—nothing more.—Philadelphia Sporting Life.

Harness Race Figures.

New York, March 18.—The new record books of trotting and pacing contain some interesting statistics relating to harness racing in 1895. Alothough no account is taken of races in which the winner's time is slower than 2.30, summaries of over 6500 harness contests are printed this year, showing a slight increase over the volume of sport in 1894. As only about two-thirds of all harness races are won in standard time, it is probable that no fewer than one or ten thousand trotting and pacing contests took place last year on the tracks of the United States and Canada. Something like 1200 meetings were held by the 1000 or more driving clubs and fair associations, and at these meetings nearly 14,000 different horses started for the $3,000,000 or more hung up in purses and stakes. According to the trotting turf guide, the total number of trotters in the 2.30 list of the close of 1895 was 11,889, but the compiler has rejected on technical grounds a good many records which are generally accepted by other authorities, so that the roll of honor now really exceeds 12,000 trotters. Of these about 1400 gained their best records last year, and something like 1000 pacers also entered the 2.30 list.

The strong showing made by the pacers is one of the most notable features of the statistics of 1895. Ten years ago the complete list of 2.30 pacers numbered less than 500 horses, and at the close of 1890 there were only 1251 side-wheelers having records as fast as 2.30. Yet so rapid has been the rise of the once despised pacer that the list now comprises more than 4500 animals, and it is increasing at a rate which bids fair some day to place the lateral-gaited horses in the majority. Just how many pacers there are in the 2.30 list at present is a matter of some uncertainty. In 1891 the 2.25 list comprised 894 pacers, while the Turf Guide four years later gives the names and records of 3455 side-wheelers that have equalled or beaten this mark.

For the first time in many years the compilation for 1895 shows no change in the list of champion trotters, not a world's record having been shattered during the last campaign. Alix, with her mark of 2.03¾, made at Galesburg September 19, 1894, holds the palm in the open class; the dead Ralph Wilkes still heads the list of 5-year-old trotters, with his record of 2.06¾, gained at Nashville in 1894. Directum's 2.05¼ remains the best time on record for 4-year-olds and for trotting stallions of any age.

Fantasy holds the champion 3-year-old record, but it is 2.08¾ and not 2.08¼, as the Turf Guide has it. The yearling record of Adbell, 2.26, made in 1894, was not approached last season, mainly because there were few yearlings in training and almost no races at all for colts of this age.

George E. Smith, "Pittsburg Phil," who sailed on the St. Louis last Wednesday, is worth more than $500,000. Most of his money is in cash. The day before he sailed he told a World reporter that during the panic of 1893 he had $156,000 on deposit in one bank and $250,000 in another. This should not encourage any country to bet, because for the one man who has made money like Smith, at least 100,000 have lost money. No man ought to feel complimented at being a 100,000 to 1 shot.—N. Y. World.

Jockey Brooker, who rode Mr. Seagram's Bonnlefield to victory in the Queen's Plate race last year, has signed to ride for Robert Davies, and will pilot Garter King in the same race next May.

Paddy Smith, brother of Denver Ed Smith and victor over Young Corbett, was defeated by Australian Billy Murphy at Cincinnati Tuesday night. In the tenth round Smith was so groggy that the round was cut short by a minute and Murphy was given the fight. Murphy had both hands broken.

In an article in the current issue of Athletic Life on the revival of the Olympic games at Athens the coming summer Goldwin Smith says of the Hellenic sports of ancient days:

"Boxing has greatly changed for the better, if it be true that the ancient boxer, instead of striking out from the shoulder, struck downwards, rising on his toes for the purpose, as the two boxers are described as doing in the Aeneid. In ferocity, however, ancient boxing seems to have greatly excelled ours, since the fists were armed with heavy gauntlets, and the gauntlets of Entellus in the Aeneid are described as stained with blood and brains, while Dares, the antagonist of Entellus, is at last carried out of the ring half dead and spitting out his teeth mixed with blood. For such an encounter as this a football match of the present day would be the best equivalent, though rather alien to Olympia."

Wedded at Bowmanville.

Bowmanville, March 18.—A very interesting event took place here this afternoon at Maple Ville, the residence of Mr. Chas. Young, when his youngest daughter, Carrie, was united in marriage to W. N. Tilley of Toronto, barrister. Mr. and Mrs. Tilley left on the evening train for Toronto, and will take up their residence in South Parkdale.
