LORD CURZON'S ACT ANGERS BENGALESE

Division of Country May Have Serious Consequences.

KAISER TO COOK UP ALLIANCE

He May Seek an Arrangement With Russia and China to Offset British-Jap Combine.

London, Oct. 2. — The Bengalese boycott is the chief topic of discussion in English diplomatic circles, and Lord Curzon comes in for very sharp criticism on account of his arbitrary action in dividing the presidency. There is no fault found with the decision of the viceroy to make a division; as it is admitted by even the natives themselves that proper administration of the affairs of the province has become too unwieldy a task to be managed from one capital. The fault is found with the way in which the division has been made. A Calcutta paper sums up the natives' objections to the arrangement thus:

"You might as well annex the northern departments of France with the southern counties of England, and call the conglomerate a province. The violation of all natural boundaries in such a union would not be more grotesque than Curzon's scheme to unite in the new arrangement of a divided state elements as incongruous as Britons and French."

The ceremony of the pledge to the Goddess Kali is regarded as a threatening omen of the discontent aroused among the natives by the retiring viceroy, and it is feared that there may be early occasion for England to make use of her new ally, Japan.

In speaking of the latter alliance, it may be mentioned that Kaiser Wilhelm is said to be casting about for a means of offsetting the effect of the new Anglo-Japanese alliance on Germany's plans for extension of her holdings in Shan Tung, and there are rumors that an attempt is likely to be made by Count Von Buelow to revive the old understanding with Great Britain in regard to the spheres of influence in the Yangtse Valley and bring Japan into a new deal for the division or control of far eastern affairs. At the same time there is a good deal of talk of the possibility of Russia, Germany and China entering into a triple alliance, an arrangement which would probably be welcomed by both China and Russia, this being a long-cherished idea of M. Witte, during whose long conference with the German chancellor it is believed the matter was discussed.

Already cries of "No tyranny" are heard in quarters in Hungary that have been supposed inaccessible to anti-royal influences. Francis Kossuth and Albert Apponyl use language strikingly suggestive of revolution.

Italy is evincing strong interest in the Austro-Hungarian difficulty, and it is believed the conference between Foreign Minister Tittonti and Chancellor Von Buelow at Baden-Baden has to do with the crisis in Franz Josef's empire. The Italian Government is determined to act with Germany to prevent the disruption of the monarchy, while the Italian people are in complete sympathy with the Hungarians in their effort to achieve independence. Startling as have been the popular demonstrations in Hungary against Franz Josef and his advisers, Baron Gautsch and Count Goluchowski, it is not probable that the masses of the Hungarian nation will take the violent course urged by the extremist organs. At the same time, a very grave situation has developed in the opinion of the diplomats here.

Universal manhood suffrage is intensely desired by the Hungarian masses. The objection raised by Gautsch and Goluchowski is, according to the Budapest press, inspired by their fear lest the movement in Hungary beget a similar movement in Austria, where the conservatives would have all to lose, and the radicals all to gain from its success.

Kristoffy, Minister of the Interior in the Fejervary cabinet, a man of great energy and audacity, has burned his ships behind him, and is going about the country declaring the only panacea for the political ills of Hungary to be universal suffrage and the secret ballot. "Stand for these and against the military projects of tyrants," is his appeal, and it fires the imagination of the masses.

Socialism is exceedingly active and it will make itself felt next week when the coalition parties meet to consider their answer to the king-emperor. If the Diet should reject universal suffrage, the Socialists will prepare for a general strike. They declare that they are struggling for the restoration of parliamentary life.

BRANTFORD TAKES THE MAIN LINE

Hays that the Grand Trunk would never regret having made the step.

Mr. Hays expressed himself as being most pleased that he was able to be present on such an auspicious occasion. The running through Brantford of the main line put them in an ideal position to emulate all the great cities, and he believed that Brantford's future progress would eclipse that of the past, marvelous as that had been. So far as the Grand Trunk was concerned, he was quite sure that the increased receipts would amply justify the immense expenditure.

Mayor Urquhart, in behalf of Toronto and the adjacent cities, congratulated Brantford on its prosperity. He also congratulated the Grand Trunk for its hearty and successful co-operation.

This winding up the demonstration at the station, the city's guests were placed in carriages and given an opportunity of sizing up Brantford's many industries. The drive, which took in every section of this city halted at the palatial quarters of the Brantford Club, where refreshments were dispensed. From here an adjournment was made to the Y. M. C. A. building, where an elaborate luncheon was served.

Speechmaking lasted an hour, Mayor Waterous making an ideal toastmaster. "The King" and "The President" were honored in that order.

Hon. J. M. Young proposed the toast to Canada. Robert Henry, ex-M. P., now of Windsor, but still in spirit of Brantford, replied with vigor. His joy that Brantford was now upon the main line was shared by all.

T. H. Preston, M. P. P., proposed the health of Charles M. Hays, and Mr. Fisher, of the T., H. and B.

Mr. Hays observed that he had failed to note in the speeches made any hints of the directions in which he could better the railway facilities and give better services. Everyone seemed to be pleased.

Looking abroad, he could see that Canada was on the eve of great transportation development. He believed that within the next ten years more lines of railway would be built than in the preceding 25 years. The Grand Trunk Pacific was not enough to take care of the traffic of the great west. He prophesied that a third and a fourth transcontinental line would follow the Grand Trunk Pacific.

He believed in competition among railways. It was good. But railways could not extend and meet the demands of cities for nothing. Co-operation was the key to the problem.

Mr. Fisher, general manager of the T., H. and B., voiced Mr. Hays' sentiment, that co-operation would solve all transportation problems.

John Muir, president of the board of trade, proposed "Sister Cities," which was replied to by Henry Carscallen, M. P. P., Hamilton. Mayor Urquhart spoke briefly to this toast.

Editor F. D. Reville, of the Courier, in a bright speech, proposed the toast, "The Press," Rev. J. A. Macdonald, of the Globe, replied.

The evening celebration was participated in by the entire city. With the coming of dusk, thousands of Chinese lanterns and all types of pyrotechnic display transformed the city into a fairyland. The vicinity of the depot was especially brilliant, with Chinese lanterns and incandescent lights making a picture that will not readily be forgotten.

When the International Limited passed through at 6:30, and the Eastern Flyer at 8:15, these being there initial trips, there was a fresh demonstration, the monster locomotives and the splendid equipment of the two Flyers being greeted with rousing cheers.
