What is the Best Pavement?

Professor J. S. Newburg, in The School of Mines Quarterly, has reached the conclusion that the asphalt is the best known pavement for light and heavy wear. "The result of the experience of the last ten years," the Professor said, "has clearly shown that the pavement made with Trinidad asphalt is equal to any in the world, if not superior to any other pavement in use. Its excellence, cleanliness, silence and salubrity are so apparent that no argument is now needed to enforce them, and to these may be added, and placed first in the list, economy, for it costs as little and lasts as long as any other good pavement and is much less trying to horses, vehicles and human nerves. It is rapidly growing in favor and it is not too much to say that it is the pavement of the future, and is destined in most instances to supersede all other kinds." But it is to be steadily held in view that all pavements, asphalt in particular, will depend on the thoroughness in which it is laid down. There is no pavement to slight the laying of which there is so great a disposition as asphalt.

Bismarck Ahead So Far.

Those correspondents of American papers who prefer giving the German rather than the French view of the great European question have been having a time to suit them just lately. That rather remarkable event, the visit of the Emperor of Germany to the Queen of England, gave them quite a lift; and more recently the Emperor Francis Joseph's visit to the former gave them a little more of the same. And they claim that the gain is with them, too, in more senses than in that of mere show and display. While the Emperors have been reviewing troops and such like, their hard-worked ministers have been attending to necessary business. One correspondent puts it this way: While the Emperors have been holding receptions, reviewing troops, feasting and generally performing the decorative roles associated with imperialism, some momentous practical work has been done by the diplomatic and military chiefs of the Alliance. Prince Bismarck's prolonged conferences with Count Kalnoky and Count Szechenyi embraced questions relating to Servia and Bulgaria, the Cretan rising and the threatened disturbance of the amity between Austria and Italy over the position of the Papacy. Emperor Francis Joseph's friendship for the Pope and his recent personal pledges to prevent the Italian Government from encroaching upon the Vatican, combined with Signor Crispi's openly expressed resentment at Austria's interference, appeared to make difficult Prince Bismarck's efforts toward restoring the entente. With his usual tact and good luck the Chancellor has arranged the quarrel at the cost of the Vatican. Emperor Francis Joseph, whose individuality, never strong, has been evidently weakened by his recent afflictions, has submitted to Count Kalnoky's representations and has abandoned independent support of the Pope.

It is denied that England has formally joined the Triple Alliance, but a strong impression prevails that practically she will be found "there" should occasion arise. With both France and Russia encamped, she could scarcely be more than neutral. Berlin newspapers are positively willing to say that a military convention just concluded completes the plans for naval and military combinations in the event of war. Remarks recently made by the Emperor of Germany indicate that the former are considered of great importance. And the prevailing signs are that England is expected to do something to the purpose, and that in the very opening of the crash.

It would no doubt be most pleasant, and most advantageous too, if you could deftly avoid war, and leave all the fighting to be done by other parties. But it is not always possible thus easily to avoid the responsibility and the suffering incident to war. In the making of the world England has done her share in time past, and it is likely that there is more of the same kind of work for her yet to do. And the nearer we come to the inevitable crash, the more unlikely does it appear that in the next great war England will be able to stand by like a party unconcerned.

Old Time Prices.

The New York Daily Commercial is discussing the fall in prices which has occurred during recent years. The view taken is that in nearly all the markets the law of progress is producing lower prices, cheapening of food, clothing and other necessaries of life and a decrease in the amount of human labor required in their production. Labor-saving machinery and better transportation facilities are the two great factors in bringing about lower prices, and it is pointed out that as these are here not temporarily, but permanently, it is folly to look for old time prices to rule except under exceptional circumstances.

The whole work of the former is now carried on with much greater economy than in the days before the introduction of modern implements. Grain and produce can consequently be placed on the markets at less cost to the farmer, and keen competition brings lower prices. Labor saving machinery and division of labor has a similar effect on manufactures. Almost everything manufactured is now produced on this continent at much less cost than that of 20 years ago. Iron is now produced at an average of $5 a ton less than it was a few years ago and it has lately been shown that the cost of producing cotton cloth has been materially diminished notwithstanding an advance in wages of labor. Transportation is also an important element in lowering prices. As an instance, it is stated that the cost of moving wheat from Minnesota to New York is 20 cents a bushel less than it was a few years ago.

The effect on trade produced by these two forces is not shown to be hurtful, but rather stimulating.

The one thing that does not seem to fall in proportion is the cost of railway traveling. Why don't railway fares come down in harmony with other railway charges?

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking and green fruit is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

DR. ANNIE SHAW IN TOWN.

The Well-Known Woman Suffragist Talks on Her Pet Theme.

Rev. Dr. Annie H. Shaw, the famous lecturer on women's enfranchisement, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Grimsby, where she has spent the last few days speaking on her favorite topic. She was much pleased with her visit and thinks Grimsby a delightful resort. Miss Lucy E. Anthony, niece of the renowned Susan B. Anthony, accompanies Mrs. Shaw as private secretary.

The World had a short talk with the Doctor, in the course of which she remarked: "It can be truthfully said that there is no reform at present on foot that is meeting with such popularity among the masses of the people as our suffrage movement, and this is due especially to the defeat which the temperance people have met with all along the line where constitutional amendments have been submitted to the votes of the States and been defeated." The people who are beginning to embrace this movement the speaker described as of two classes, the temperance people and those who believe in justice and hold that women who have to bear the burden of taxation as well as the burden of rearing and training children ought to have a right to say what should be the advantages surrounding the children during their development. Not a single session of the United States legislatures passes without propositions being made for enlargement of prisons and penitentiaries. During the extensive travels of the speaker, some 30,000 miles a year, she had been greatly astonished at the extreme youth of the prisoners confined in reformatories, etc. "And yet," said she, "we are compelled to build reformatories for these young boys and young girls." Intemperance, she asserted, was the primary cause for most of the crimes committed, producing as a result loafers, gamblers, etc.

"The mothers of these children have a right to say whether the saloon shall be foisted on the people at the expense of their offspring." The speaker declared further that among men the movement is growing perhaps more rapidly than among women, which circumstance is largely due to the fact that men who are brought into contact with the world really see the immense good that women can achieve by means of the ballot.

As an instance of the growth of the movement it may be stated that in its infancy where it met with decided opposition in pulpit and press it has now gained a firm foothold, and the ladies are not only invited to speak on live themes from the platform but are paid for it the same as other lecturers. Just now, the speaker continued, the reform is having a slight retrograde movement on account of the action of the territories, which are afraid they will not be allowed to become states. Conventions are packed against woman suffrage and against prohibition.

The growth of the movement in the United States, the speaker declared, is largely due to the interest taken in it by the W.C.T.U., which has taken this up as one of its lines of work. Over 200,000 women are engaged in this work in the United States. Evidences of this growth were apparent in the admission of women to the colleges as professors. Columbia College, which has always been opposed to such admission, had at last yielded. The New Haven Theological School was cited as another example.

Questioned as to her opinion as to the defensibility or otherwise of the sentence of Mrs. Maybrick, she replied emphatically: "I do not think the hanging of Mrs. Maybrick is justifiable. The trial of this woman by a court composed entirely of men," the speaker thought, "was not in line with the prevailing sentiment of the times. It seems to me that the charge of the judge to the jury was such that the jury could hardly render any other verdict." In case there is any room for doubt, as in the case in point, the speaker was decidedly averse to such a method of punishment.

Rev. Dr. Annie H. Shaw first began to lecture on this work about four years ago, but had been preaching for about ten years previously. To-morrow afternoon at 2.30 Mrs. Shaw will speak at Niagara-on-the-Lake on "The Enfranchisement of Women." From here she is billed to address outdoor meetings in Ohio and Illinois. In February next the woman suffragists of the United States are to hold a great convention in Washington. At this time Susan B. Anthony will be 70 years of age, which event will be included in the celebration.

A Hale Old Man.

P. T. Barnum at eighty years of age takes a more active personal interest in his Greatest Show on Earth than any other of equal age does in any other business. He reads all the "copy" prepared by the agents of the Show before it goes to the printer. When it is stated that that means reading about 600,000 words in manuscript one can easily see it is no easy job the old gentleman has undertaken. He personally attends every performance of the show when exhibiting in Madison Square Garden, New York, and sometimes goes with it to the large cities. Mr. J. A. Bailey, though, is the master mind which governs the organization of the big affair and controls all the features and attractions. The whole show will be here on Monday, Sept. 2.

Mr. T. J. Humes, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I have been afflicted for some time with kidney and liver complaint, and find Parmelee's Pills the best medicine for these diseases." These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required. They are Gelatine coated and rolled in the finest of Licorice to preserve their purity, and give them a pleasant, agreeable taste.

City Hall Small Talk.

Mayor Clarke and Ald. Swait, chairman of the Parks and Gardens Committee, had a long conference yesterday morning in the matter of an extension of the parks system.

The Mayor says he will call the council together next Monday week.

The special committee of the council appointed to deal with the purchase of new park sites is to be called together immediately. Ald. Dodds is the chairman.

A Toronto-Chicago Divorce Case.

Chicago will shortly be the working end of a divorce case in which a former Torontonian is the defendant. G. R. Paterson, formerly a pressman in The Globe office, returned to Toronto two weeks ago after an absence of nine years. Yesterday Sheriff's Officer McCormick served notice of application of divorce on him at the instance of his wife, the proceedings being taken in the Chicago courts. The ground of complaint is desertion. Murray & Macdonald are the Toronto agents for the Chicago lawyers who have charge of the case for Mrs. Paterson.

In Many Forms.

Dyspepsia assumes many phases, all disagreeable to the sufferer, yet it takes no form which from two to four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters will not cure. B B B cures dyspepsia, tones the weak stomach, aids digestion, sharpens the appetite and renovates the whole system.

Mr. John McCarthy, Toronto, writes: "I can unhesitatingly say that Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the best medicine in the world. It cured me of Heartburn that troubled me for over thirty years. During that time I tried a great many different medicines, but this wonderful medicine was the only one that took hold and rooted out the disease."

TORONTO AGAIN BEATEN.

VICKERY'S WILDNESS WINS THE GAME FOR DETROIT.

National League and Association Games—Opening Strikes at Westchester—A Favorites' Day at Saratoga—Trotting at Barrie, Chicago and Poughkeepsie—Cricket at London and Peterboro.

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—Vickery's wildness and some opportune hitting by the Detroits won to-day's game, which was an interesting one all through. The Detroits opened the ball in the fourth, when with Campau out, Zell hit to centre for four bases. This seemed to rattle Vickery and he gave Rooks and Virtue bases on balls. Smith's short single filled the bases and Wells sent them all home with a triple to right. A wild pitch, a muff at the plate by Vickery and Zell's single gave one in the fifth. In the seventh Campau's single and Burke's muff of Zell's liner to centre gave the sixth run.

Toronto scored a run in the fifth on singles by Grim and McMillan and Campau's fumble, two in the sixth on a base on balls and single by Burke and Hartnett. They got two more in the eighth on Burke's double, Zell's muff of Hoover's line hit to right and Hartnett's single. Attendance 1500. The score:

FAVORITES' DAY AT SARATOGA.

Four Out of Five Successful—Dilemma's Fast Mile.

SARATOGA, Aug. 20.—Four of to-day's races were won by favorites, and the fifth by a second choice. There was lively betting on Belle d' Or, Wary and Lavina Belle in the first race and a great race was expected. Neither Wary nor Belle d'Or seemed to be able to stay through, both finishing poorly as compared with Lavina Belle and Vermont. The usual small field of three contested for the Foxhall stakes. Once Again was out of it after a mile, pulling up lame. Leo H made a run away race of the fourth event and in the fifth race Dilemma's mile in one forty and a half was entirely too fast for the company she was in. To-morrow's card is the usual extra day program, with rather fewer entries than usual. Results:

Gossip of the Turf.

D. Lamasney bought Servia away from J. Dunn after her selling race at Monmouth on Saturday for $1900.

Mrs. G. L. Lorillard has determined to sell her horses in training. The sale will take place in about two weeks.

Mr. J. E. Seagram's filly Bonnie Ino was cut down in a race at Saratoga recently and will not likely face the starter again this year.

Mr. D. Higgins, the owner of Shamrock, lost $100 when the mare won at Saratoga on Friday last. He had his money on another horse in the race.

A gentleman who has just returned from Saratoga says that Dr. Smith's filly, Lady Reel, is a "cracker," and if she races in Canada this fall they can't beat her.

Mr. J. E. Seagram had $25 each way on his colt Objection, at 8 and 3, when he won at Saratoga on Monday. Stoval, the jockey who rode him, had a $100 straight.

Willie Coleman, the light weight jockey, has severed his connection with the Seagram Stable and is now in the employ of M. Gorman. Coleman has been "set down" at Saratoga for the balance of the meeting by the starter for disobedience at the post.

Billy McBride has purchased at Saratoga for the Red Bank Stable, from Labold Bros.' the two-year-old bay colt Sunderland, by Oneondaga, out of Imogene, and also the four-year-old chestnut gelding Everett, by Enquirer, dam Patricia, from J. G. Greener. They will sport silk in Canada this fall.

Fred Brown, a noted sporting man, and a rival of "Pittsburg Phil" as a plunger, died at the Worden Hotel, Saratoga, on Sunday after about one week's illness of inflammation of the bowels. He had been very successful in his plunging at the Saratoga track, winning $15,000 on Boccaccio in one race, and his total winnings at that course amounted to $40,000, over $30,000 of which was deposited in one of the Saratoga banks.

Mr. J. E. Seagram was offered at Saratoga last week the two year old colt Judge Morrow for $2000, but hesitated at the price. The next day Judge Morrow started in a race and finished second after being left at the post. Mr. Seagram then decided to take the colt, but his owner had raised the price to $3000. Several days afterwards the colt was started again, winning a dash of a mile in 1.42¾ and beating a good field. Mr. Seagram was then willing to pay $3000, but the owner politely refused to take $5000.
