—The fisheries of Newfoundland appear to be decreasing. The Harbor Grace Standard publishes statistics which show that in 1815, seventy years ago, 100,000 more quintals of codfish were caught than in 1880. A CLERGYMAN'S DAUGHTER ELOPES.—Liverpool, Oct. 14.—The daughter of a well-known Presbyterian clergyman eloped from this city several days ago, and sailed for Quebec on the Dominion Line steamer "Oregon," in company with a merchant of this city, who left a wife and family behind him. The circumstances were cabled to Quebec, and word was received from that city to-day to the effect that Rev. Dr. Matthews of Quebec, Secretary of the Pan-Presbyterian Council, had met the truant, who is a charming girl, and induced her to consent to return home. PIRACY ON THE HIGH SEAS.—Hong Kong, Oct. 19.—The British steamer Greyhound, trading locally in Chinese waters, has arrived here, and her second officer reports that a daring attempt was made by Chinese pirates to capture the vessel. The captain of the Greyhound was inveigled on board the pirate ship, and after being plundered was killed. The Greyhound got on a full head of steam and escaped, returning to this port.

AN EAGLE'S VICTIM.—Montreal, Oct. 19.—On Saturday morning the wife of Jean Bapte Romilly, a farmer in St. Vincent de Paul, a villageten miles from Montreal, was feeding her fowls, while her child, aged about two years, was playing around. Suddenly a large bald-headed eagle swooped down and bore the little one off in its talons. The child screamed and extended its arms to its mother, who was beside herself with mental agony, but was powerless to render assistance. The screams of the child, however, attracted the neighbors, who with shot guns pursued the eagle. The bird was seen to alight with its prey upon the roof of a barn a mile distant, and lifting up its head, with one powerful stroke it drove its beak into the child's head and then began its horrid feast. At the near approach of the neighbors, who were firing guns to frighten the eagle, it took flight, leaving the child behind. When the body was recovered life was extinct. The skull was split in two and a part had been devoured.

A QUEER CASE.—We learn that Henry Taylor, of Lawrencetown, Annapolis Co., and Benj. Jackson, a colored man, were arrested here something over a week ago, on a charge of passing a false ten dollar bill. The charge was preferred by Mrs. Riley, of Kentville, before John Dennison, who consigned them to Kentville jail. Jackson was the man who passed the bill upon Mrs. Riley, Taylor having furnished it to him. A day was appointed for the examination of the case, but we failed to learn of the appearance of the prisoners before any court. But soon after their arrest they were seen on the streets at liberty, and upon being questioned made the statement that Mr. Dennison came to them before time of trial and said that if they would give him $20, or words to that effect, he would cause them to be liberated. Taylor immediately sent to his son, who came with the money and passed it over with the result of gaining the prisoners their liberty at least one or two days before time of trial. The crime for which they were arrested is a bailable one, and if proven would have involved heavy punishment. We deem it of interest to the rate-payers of this country that they should be told where the extra ten dollars went to, and whether the board of these men in the jail is a county charge or not. Further, under what law a magistrate has power to compromise a felony, if such is the case, and can he open the door to a prisoner who has been incarcerated by due process of law, by his simple word. And should the jailer throw open the prison doors upon such authority? We await an explanation.—Kentville Chron.

DR. NORTON,

Dear Sir,—For twenty-five years, I have been afflicted with salt rheum, and last summer my head and part of my body was one fearful sore. My husband employed at different times three doctors, which failed to do me any good. In August I commenced to take your, Dr. O. W. Norton's Burdock Blood Purifier, and after taking three bottles, am entirely cured as I have not had the least symptoms of it since. The Blood Purifier has also cured Capt. Brooks of dyspepsia and liver complaints. Yours truly,

Apple Report.

110 CANNON STREET, LONDON, E. C., 1st OCTOBER, 1885.

DEAR SIR,

We now beg to give you our latest information, as to the apple crops of the United Kingdom and the Continent.

The reports from all parts of the United Kingdom in July, were favorable and gave promise, in nearly all districts of good, average crops, whilst in some cases more than an average one was expected. Since then, we have had very dry weather, and more recently some heavy winds, which have lessened the crop, but there is no doubt there still remains a fair average crop, certainly larger than last year's though not by any means an excessive one.

From the Continent we have received the following advices all of which have reached us, during the last week or two.

HAMBURGH.—The apple crop in Germany, will this year be a medium one as regards quantity, but as the apples are small, the quality cannot be called satisfactory, and as a general rule they are not fit for exportation—of winter apples the white sorts are all spotted, and there is only one red sort called "Paradise" fit for export, that will yield a good crop of good quality, but these are only available for shipment from January to the end of March.

ROTTERDAM.—From Holland our correspondents write us that the crop of all sorts of apples, with the exception of stripes, which are a failure, is a very good one and far in excess of last year and that this applies both to early and late sorts.

DUNKERQUE.—From France the latest news is as follows: "We expected a large crop of apples this season, but latterly the high winds which we have had, have blown down a great deal of fruit, so much so, as to reduce the winter crop to quite a small one.

The English crop of plums has been very large and cheap but as soon as winter sets in, and these fresh fruits disappear, we see no reason why there should not be a good demand for Nova Scotian, Canadian and American apples, at fair prices, especially for those of good quality.

Yours truly,
JOHN S. TOWNSEND & Co.

Forgery at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—This morning Stipendary Magistrate Richardson Harris committed Joseph Graves (formerly a merchant at Port Lorne) to stand his trial at the supreme court for forging the names of John Risteen and David W. Marshall to notes on the branch of the Union bank here for the sums of $325 and $185 respectively, about a year ago. It appear that Graves had been in the habit of using Risteen's and Marshall's names before, and shortly after the alleged forgery they signed a paper to the effect that they had authorized him to use their names from time to time at the Union bank in Annapolis. Last winter he was arraigned before Justice Harris, at Bridgetown, on a similar charge, and discharged, and afterwards tried before Justices Barteaux and Leavitt at Annapolis for two other charges and after a through investigation was discharged. He was arrested, not long since, under two executions one being for the Marshall note, and tried before Commissioner G. T. Bohaker and F. Leavitt, for obtaining money under false pretences, and again discharged, when he was immediately re-arrested on the charge of forgery. He formerly did a big business at Port Lorne and borne an exemplary character. He assigned about twelve months ago. The case has excited a great deal of interest in this county, and much sympathy is expressed for the prisoner. Information was laid by Mr. Arnaud, agent of the bank.—Hz. Herald.

—We were yesterday shown an apple raised by Zenas McLeod of South Brookfield, Queen's, brought from the Liverpool exhibition by the Rev H. deBlois, and which as one of seven took the first prize there. It is of the variety styled "King of Tompkins Co," measured 14½ inches in circumference and weighs one pound three and one half ounces. In the opinion of competent judges, no finer or larger apple was seen at the Kentville exhibition, and does away with the idea so prevalent that our sister County can raise no fruit equal to our own. Indeed, we must look well to our laurels, since she bids fair at no distant day, to successfully compete with us in this respect. The other six apples of the same lot have been forwarded to New York to grace the exhibition there.—Wolfville Acadian.

ANARCHY IN BURMAH.—London, Oct. 13.—The Times has advices to the effect that complete anarchy prevails in Burmah. It is expected that Decoit will storm Mandalay. A very hostile feeling is shown in Burmah towards all foreigners, and a general massacre is feared. The Italian consul at Mandalay has been threatened with imprisonment.

MANDALAY, Oct. 13.—Every available armed man has been summoned for service. The Burmese ministry have decided to stop the British envoy with the Indian government's ultimatum at the frontier.

—Godey's Lady's Book for November is a genuine thanksgiving number, calculated to cause gratitude in the hearts of all its patrons. The steel engraved frontispiece "Without a Care," is a capital study of child life—three little girls cuddling under an old umbrella, each with a diminutive pussy in her arms. Mrs. Mary Bradley has a charming poem in this issue "At the Lock," which is illustrated by two handsome full-page process cuts. Helen Mathers' new serial "Love Lies A-Bleeding," begins in this number in a bright and engaging vein. Max Vander Weyde continues his interesting reports of Phillipa's doings in the article on "The Ceramic Club." This series that tells about women helping themselves in a pecuniary way has obtained great and well-merited popularity. There are a number of other capital short stories and poems which all make up a number of extraordinary merit. We had thought before that Godey's was excellent, but this month she has truly excelled herself.

—Another American belle, beautiful, rich and accomplished, has come to grief by marrying a foreigner supposed to be a Count, but who proved to be a base adventurer with another wife in Europe. Her name is Jennie Francis, daughter of Mrs. J. H Billings, of 272 Madison avenue, New York. Her relatives suspecting the man, discountenanced his attentions, but the silly girl, whose head was turned by the title of Count, married the man in private and secretly left New York for Europe, on their wedding tour. It was then she learned that Count Zacharish Zacharoff was a myth and that she had been grossly deceived. On learning the state of affairs, agents of the girl's relatives followed on a faster steamer, and so well did they carry out their plans they found Zacharoff's wife, and when the bogus Count with his American bride landed he met with a reception quite beyond his expectations. The deceived girl was nearly heartbroken by the disclosures and consented to return home. It is unnecessary to state that she paid all the expenses of the bogus Count.

Explosion of Flood Rock, Hell Gate, New York.

AN IMMENSE ENGINEERING WORK — A MIGHTY BARRIER SHATTERED.

[From the New York Herald, Oct. 11.]

Flood Rock is a thing of the past. The mighty barrier that for immortal ages has stood in the way of navigation and helped to give the name of Hell Gate to the strait which links the East River to the Sound, has disappeared before the ingenuity and the perseverance of man. The splintered fragments of the reef are still piled in vast heaps upon the site which the rock formerly occupied, but their removal has become the merest matter of mechanical labor. It has become a mere question of time, of months that may easily be counted, when vessels of heavy draught may sail in safety over the site where jagged reefs so lately threatened destruction to the smallest craft.

The removal of the rock has another and still more important effect. Henceforward the waters which, coming from three directions—from the Harlem, the Sound and the East River—swirled and eddied so fiercely about the Flood Rock, will meet in peaceful flow in the space left vacant for their union.

The destruction of Flood Rock was effected by the explosion of the mines with which it had been honeycombed within the past few years, under the direction of Gen. John Newton and the officers of the United States Engineer corps. The explosion, as the Herald has heretofore described, was effected through the agency of some 280,000 pounds of "rackarock," a new and powerful explosive, and dynamite. The work is regarded as being thoroughly successful.

The explosion, which took place at precisely fourteen minutes past eleven, a. m., was witnessed by many thousands of people, who crowded the East River shore on both sides and filled numerous excursion steamers. No mishap of any consequence resulted from the explosion.

THE VAST MINE EXPLODED BY GEN. NEWTON'S LITTLE DAUGHTER, MARY.

While whistles were blowing and a hundred thousand people crowding the shores of two cities, a little girl of eleven years, with shining brown hair and soft eyes, stepped from the steam yacht Runaway to the landing place at Astoria and walked to a little house that stands on the wharf. Gen. Newton's officers saluted her. She was the General's daughter, Mary. Gen. Abbott, commander of the troops at Willett's Point, held in his hand a little instrument, from which two copper wires ran out along the turf to the water. There they disappeared in the whirlpools that washed the base of the formidable Flood Rock.

Standing about the little girl were several ladies, a group of United States officers and a few private citizens. In the party were Gen. Newton, Colonel Gillespie, the Rev. Edward Cockran, Gen. Perry, Dr. Bryant, the uncle of Secretary Bayard; Colonel Wilson, Major Weldrick and Col. Murphy. Among the ladies were Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Gillespie and Mrs. Weldrick. The group placidly awaits the completion of the preparations. Very little is said.

At last the boats around the reef complete their work. Signals are exchanged, whistles shriek, cheers rise from the multitudes, and in ten minutes all the boats have sailed away except the one which will carry away the workmen last to leave the reef.

Another signal is given, and this boat also blows her hoarse whistle and steams swifily from the rock. It is now twelve minutes past eleven o'clock. The party in the little house stands in breathless expectation. General Abbott, in charge of the electric key, takes it in his hand to see for the last time that it is in working order. He glances at the great rock which still breaks into a thousand eddies the waters of Hell Gate.

Little Mary Newton, with her flowing hair, stands besides General Abbott, and she, too, looks at the great reef. Then she lifts her fair, white hand and places her dainty fingers on the key.

There is a moment's pause.

"Now," says General Abbott quietly.

The child's white finger presses the key, the earth trembles and a lofty dome of milk-white spray leaps into space. Ten thousand shouts fill the air from the crowds up and down the river; steamboats shriek and the flags salute the event. The Niagara of water melts away and Flood Rock, with its terrors, has disappeared. By sidereal time the rock was fired at 12h. 16m. 23.31s.

"That is what I call science," exclaims a large man in citizen's clothing. "I worked with Gen. Newton, years ago, and I knew he would make no mistake."

HOW THE WORK WAS DONE—PREPARING FOR THE EXPLOSION.

Flood Rock has an area of nine acres, although only 250 square feet was above water. A sea wall seven feet high was built around the island. Two shafts were sunk—one sixty-seven and the other forty feet deep. The main shaft was used for removing the excavated rock in blasting out the headings. The smaller shaft was used for the tubes conveying the compressed air which drove the drills. The first series of headings branched out from the main shaft at a depth of forty feet, and from the bottom of the shaft another series diverged directly under those above. The headings branched at right angles every twenty feet, and were sixty in number in each tier. The double system of headings was employed to gain a sufficient depth after the explosion without the necessity of dredging out to the extent that was necessary at Hallett's Point.

The total length of tunnelling was about four miles, consisting of twenty-four galleries running north and south, and forty-six running east and west. The longest of these was 1,200 feet in length, 5 feet wide and 10 feet high. There was a thickness of from 10 to 25 feet between the roof of the top tier of galleries and the water. There were 467 pillars left to support the roof. These were 15 feet square. The whole rock was honeycombed with tunnels, about 80,000 cubic feet of rock having been removed.

There were drilled in the pillars and roof 13,286 chambers for holding the cartridges, each chamber three inches in diameter and about nine feet deep. These chambers were filled with rackarock cartridges, of which there were about forty-seven thousand used, each being two and a half inches in diameter, two feet in length and containing six pounds of explosives. In addition to the rackarock cartridges, several hundred ordinary dynamite cartridges were used, to which the wires connecting with the detonating electric batteries were attached, the simultaneous shock from these causing the explosion of all the remaining cartridges. Over two hundred and eighty-five thousand pounds of explosives were used.

The rock consisted of hornblende gneiss, with intersecting cross veins.

CANADIAN LIVE-STOCK JOURNAL.—There have been few more marked successes in journalism than has been achieved by the Canadian Live-Stock Journal, of Hamilton, Ont. Started less than two years ago as a 20-page monthly, it has gone on steadily increasing in matter and interest, as well as in size, first to 24, then to 28, and finally to 32 pages. Though devoted especially to stock-raising, it includes The Farm, The Dairy, The Apiary, Poultry, Horticulture and The Home, so that for the general farmer or such farmers as make livestock breeding in any of its departments a leading feature of their business, we do not know where to find its equal in Canada. We heartily recommend it to our patrons as the leading paper of its class in the Dominion. It is published at Hamilton, Ont., by The Stock Journal Co. Price, $1 per annum. Those subscribing now for 1886 get the remainder of 1885 free. We can furnish it and our own paper together from now to end of 1886 for $2 25. Call at our office and examine it, or send to the publishers for a free specimen copy.

ENGLAND DEMANDS REPARATION.—London, Oct. 14.—The English government has presented a note to the Spanish government demanding reparation for the insult to the British consulate, which became surety for a Spanish claim merchant and pending an appeal the merchant failed, whereupon the Spanish officials seized and sealed up the archives of the consulate, in spite of the protests of the consul.

MR. EDITOR,—

As the Provincial Exhibition, at Kentville, is now a thing of the past, perhaps it would be well to refer your readers to some facts connected with the management of that Provincial Institution. We believe it to be such, and one that is calculated to do good, if wisely conducted. The importance of stimulating our people to develop the agricultural resources of our fair Province, and also the manufacturing industries is undoubtedly very great. This we conceive to be the main object in view in holding such exhibitions. It then becomes necessary to encourage our people to put forth efforts to make them a success. I have been told by those who attended former exhibitions, that the various departments of exhibits were not so full at the late exhibition as they were at some of the former. Consequently, it could appear as if there were less interest taken by exhibitors than formerly. If the truthfulness of this statement should be substantiated by the results of exhibitions yet to come, it would, indeed, be a thing to be deeply regretted. There is one thing to which we feel disposed to refer, and which we think is an injustice to exhibitors and that is the requiring of them to pay an admittance fee every time they entered upon the grounds with the exception of those who had the care of live stock, in such cases they paid but one admittance fee. We know that many of the exhibitors take a great deal of trouble to prepare for the exhibition and pay considerable to get their goods there and have to remain four days on expenses and at the close find themselves out of pocket and not even afforded the consolation of having received a prize are disposed to conclude that they will not go to so much trouble again. To take one admittance fee from exhibitors is quite enough, but to take one every time they enter upon the grounds is certainly a gross injustice—tax a man for spending his time and money to make the exhibition a success, tax a man for the privilege of looking upon his own goods. The church committee might, we think, with equal propriety charge the families who have gone to the trouble of getting up a tea-meeting for the benefit of the church for what they eat. It is a small matter financially it is true, but we think very wrong and a bad policy. Railroad and steamboat companies encourage and foster this enterprise by giving return tickets for one fare and allow the goods that have been on exhibition to be returned to their owners free. This is praiseworthy to the officials managing the affairs.

ECHO.

Melvern Square, Oct. 15th, 1885.

DEAR PIPER,—

A little commendable chaffing between certain individuals as to which town, Middleton or Bridgetown, contained the most buildings, has led to a count of the actual number in each number of each place. While the latter has taken 60 years to build its present number, 273, the former in less than one-half that time can count 178. Thirty years ago, I have shot partridges and other game on the ground where sit beautiful houses and other buildings in Middleton. Had our Bridgetown progressed at the same rate it would at at this date be much nearer London or Liverpool than it is. Thanking you for space,

I am sincerely,
S. C. L.

TELEGRAPH NOTES FOR THE WEEK.

Boston, Oct. 15.—Schr. C. Y. Gregory, Cleveland, from St. John, N. B., lumber laden, which arrived here to-day, reports: Morning of 14th, when 18 miles S. E. of Cape Ann, was run into during a thick fog by steamer Dominion, from Boston for Yarmouth, N. S. The steamer struck the Gregory amidships on the port side, cutting through several planks and causing her to leak so badly that it became necessary to throw overboard part of the deck load of lumber, so that she would not become unmanageable. Two of the steamer's passengers voluntarily came on board the Gregory to assist her crew, and the hole was patched with canvas.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 18, 11 p. m.—The emigrant train which left Jersey City at 7.50 p. m., stopped at a coal shute and at the east side of the Hackensack River bridge the western express (not the southern express), which left at 8.15 o'clock, crashed into the caboose and passenger car upon the east bound track. The Lehigh Valley train number 3, leaving Newark at 8.10 o'clock, crashed into the wreck and one of the Lehigh Valley cars took fire. The wreck is the most frightful on the road for years. Three of the dead have been brought to Jersey city. They are a man and woman, both decapitated and terribly mangled, and a boy of about twelve years, whose legs have been cut off, all dressed as emigrants. The names are not learned. It is impossible now to obtain a full list of the injured. Several have been recovered and it is said there are many more under the wreck. The latest information places the killed at eight.

Quebec, Oct. 10.—There is now at this port an ancient mariner in the shape of a barque called the Eliza. Just how ancient she is seems uncertain, but known to be over a century and a half old. The exact date of her construction and other early portions of her history have unfortunately been lost in the evolution of time. She certainly bears her age well, being still a very healthy looking craft, tidy, staunch and strong, built of oak and heavily copper-fastened. The vessel was originally brig-rigged, and tradition as it was in the privateering business on French account until captured by the English. She is 183 tons, now owned by Messrs. DeGruchy, Renouf & Co., a Jersey firm of merchants and commanded by Captain Jenne.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—There were 292 deaths from smallpox in the Roman Catholic parishes of Montreal during the week ending last Friday night.

Vienna, Oct. 19.—The situation in the east has again assumed a serious aspect, owing to the bellicose attitude of Servia. Prince Alexander, after endeavoring to patch up an agreement with King Milan, telegraphed the latter that he intended sending the minister of Greece to the Servian court on a special mission. It is evident from King Milan's answer that Servia is determined to fight for territorial aggrandisement.

Rare Bargain!

The subscriber offers for sale that DESIRABLY SITUATED PROPERTY, formerly owned by the late

DANIEL NICHOLS.

THE property contains 25 acres and is most beautifully situated in the fertile district of Central Clarence, facing the Leonard Road which leads to the village of Paradise. The house is in thorough repair, containing 8 rooms, and is fitted up with all modern conveniences, such as bath room, water closet, water pipes led into the house from a never-failing spring, etc. The cellar extends under the whole house, contains a milk pantry, is frost proof, has a concrete floor, and is capable of storing 450 bbls. of apples. The orchard on the place yields from 75 to 80 bbls. of apples per year of choice fruits, together with a quantity of plums, pears and cherries. A vegetable garden is also on the place, which is in a good state of cultivation, and has quite an assortment of small fruits such as currants, gooseberries, strawberries, etc.

A nice hawthorne hedge, well trimmed, separates the premises from the highway. The place cuts sufficient hay for a cow and horse, and has a good pasture with some woodland.

Adjoining the house is a store, which is thoroughly shelved, and well situated for a general trade. A good hall is over the store.

For terms apply on the premises to
