We noticed the other day that the Give Service Girls had just completed a pretty Service Flag for Mrs. J. L. Murphy, of this town. The flag contained five maple leaves—and we were glad to note that they are all blue. Mrs. Murphy should be a proud woman to have five sons serving their King and Country at the present crisis. It is an unusual honor not only to her but to Wolfville as well.

Wolfville people were shocked this week at the news of the death of Dr. Harold Lawrence, a former well-known and esteemed resident of this town. Dr. Lawrence went west some years ago and settled in British Columbia. He paid a short visit to Wolfville last summer, where he was gladly welcomed by many friends. No particulars as to his death have been received by THE ACADIAN other than it was the result of an operation.

A. V. RAND'S.

Mr. George Hanley, who has presided at the piano at the Opera House this week, has added very materially to the attractiveness of that institution. On Monday evening, when he made his first appearance, he presented a most wonderfully varied program of music and delighted all his hearers. Each night since has been a repetition and patrons of the picture house are loud in praise of the fine music given. Mr. Hanley is certainly a gifted musician and a master of the pianoforte.

Primary Room's Public Examination.

The public examination of the primary department of the Wolfville public schools, under the efficient management of Miss Nichols, passed off very successfully on Wednesday afternoon last, in the presence of a large number of visitors. The majority of the pupils were present with bright, eager, expectant faces. The exercises were varied and interesting, including songs, recitations, number work, word-drill, etc. Particularly pleasing features were the flag-exercises and drill, to which the children responded most heartily. While all the readings the little ones gave were pleasing, special mention may be made of Churchill Connor's, whose recitation, entitled 'The Soldier Boy,' was especially good. At the close three prizes were presented—Five dollars to Earl Godfrey for punctuality, deportment and excellent work; and two dollars and a half each to Bryce Hatfield and Victor Gould for rapid progress. Both teacher and pupils are worthy of much praise for the skilful and attractive manner in which the program was carried out.

Did Splendid Work.

A few weeks ago the writer read in the Halifax Herald the following tribute of praise to a well known trained nurse, having been on professional duties in Kentville, New Minas, Greenwich and elsewhere: Miss Nina Coldwell had recently returned to her home in New Minas, near Kentville, after being in Halifax over four and a half months in charge of the I O D E Home for children orphaned by the Halifax disaster, December 6th. Miss Coldwell went to Halifax on the relief train the morning of the disaster, which left Kentville, bringing outside assistance. After several days work in the emergency hospitals, the Daughters of the Empire were fortunate enough to secure her services for the Home that they were opening on Spring Garden Road. She remained there in charge. The work was heavy, the average number of inmates was twenty-five, many of them required surgical attention, and, save for the first three weeks, Miss Coldwell had no trained helpers. The skill with which she performed her difficult task won for her the admiration and gratitude of all those with whom she came in contact.

The many friends of Miss Coldwell in Wolfville and vicinity will be pleased to hear of her splendid and noble work, and know she is well worthy of praise.

Opera House.

Sir Herbert Tree journeys seven thousand miles to appear in 'Macbeth,' to be seen at the Opera House, Friday and Saturday, June 21—22.

Sir Herbert Tree, the eminent English Shakespearian actor, travelled more than seven thousand miles to appear before the camera in 'Macbeth.' He has been considered by many dramatic critics to be the greatest Shakespearian artist of all times, and his desire to act before the camera in one of Shakespeare's plays for future generations prompted him to select 'Macbeth' from all of the great dramatist's plays.

'Macbeth' has without doubt the most melodramatic and swiftest moving plot of any of Shakespeare's works. It adapts itself admirably for the screen, and the story can be said to be even better than some of our present day stage productions.

Monday and Tuesday, June 24—25 Herbert Robinson, who has made more people sit up and grip their seats than any other star of filmdom, will appear in the greatest melodrama of Society and the Underworld called 'Come Through.' The New York Tribune said 'one is appalled by so much cleverness.'

Come Through, by George Branson Howard is a vivid and thrilling screen show with realism in every foot of the seven reels. See adv.

Red Cross Notes.

The Red Cross Society wish to acknowledge with many thanks the receipt of $25.00 from the 'Give Service Girls.'

'Mac' will tell some of his dreadful experiences. Come and hear his story and learn what "Our Boys" are doing in Germany.

German Hospital Raid.

The following is a copy of a letter received recently by Mrs. (Rev.) C. P. Wilson, of this town. It will be found interesting by our readers:

Norwick, England. May 24, 1918.

To Mrs. C. P. Wilson,—Just before I left France for England Harold requested me to send you a line from here concerning the late air raid on Sunday evening last, May 19th, by the Germans on the British hospitals in France.

It was one of the most dastardly acts ever committed by human beings, and proves fully to what extremes they will go to accomplish their purposes.

Our own, No. 9, escaped with two killed and sixteen wounded, and I am one of the number invalided to England.

Altogether they dropped eight bombs on No. 9, seven of which exploded. Four of these dropped in the tents occupied by the personel, and it seems that it was only the hand of God that saved us all from complete annihilation. It was a terrible two hours we put in with the roar of the anti-air craft guns, the exploding of the dropping bombs, the bursting of the shells in the air, the whirring of the Gothas high above us, the search light flashing in all directions, and even the snapping of the machine guns from the air craft, equalling any of the bombardments that take place at the front.

Harold escaped without a scratch, although all had more or less very narrow escapes. For myself I was hit in the calf of the leg by a piece of shrapnel and threw me some distance away. I was taken to an Imperial Hospital, the wound—a rather bad one—was dressed, and afterward invalided to England where I am receiving splendid attention.

Harold was at the hospital several times to see me and only a few hours before I left requested me to drop you a line as nothing can go forward from our base in France. Harold is quite well and seems to like his soldier duties all right.

At the present time the hospital is badly situated and in a most dangerous locality, and it is hoped that the authorities will move them to a more congenial spot. Believe me to be

Most sincerely yours,
HUGH SLOAN.
