FIFTY MOTOR CARS JOIN IN PARADE

Hamilton Witnesses Demonstration in Aid of the Victory Loan.

Hamilton, Nov. 23.—Decked in the flags of the allies, and carrying appeals to "back up the men in the trenches with your dollars," about fifty motor cars took part in the Victory bond parade, that was held tonight thru the central portion of the city. The first prize, a $50 Victory bond, for the best-decorated truck, was awarded to the G. W. Robinson Co., and second place to the Dominion Glass Co. and Harper-Presnail Co. trucks.

The recommendation of the building committee that a school site available on the Scott property, bounded by Lotridge street, Cannon street and Melrose avenue, be purchased for the sum of $21,000, was endorsed at a special meeting of the board of education this evening. A cash payment of $1000 is to be made, and the balance is to be paid in City of Hamilton debentures. The debentures are to pay six per cent. interest.

Struck by a motor car when crossing at the corner of Inchbury and York streets tonight, seven-year-old Tommy Wylie, 38 Inchbury street, was fatally injured. The driver wasat once arrested on a charge of criminal negligence. An inquest will be held.

As a result of a conference with the Hon. Finlay Macdiarmid in Toronto today, Controller Jutten this evening brought back the glad tidings that herring would be supplied to Hamilton by Bronte fishermen this winter, to be sold to the consumer at a fixed price of 10c per pound.

Earlscourt Citizens Would Like Price of Potatoes Fixed

Keen interest is being taken by the residents of the Earlscourt district in the work of the citizens' committee, of which Geo. R. Ellis is the energetic president.

Since the deputation waited upon the food controller regarding the fixing of the price of potatoes, speculation is rife as to the action which Mr. Hanna will take.

"Potatoes at $2.25 a bag is altogether too high a price to pay considering the glut of potatoes everywhere, and the price should be fixed in the same manner as the fuel controller settled the coal," said a prominent resident yesterday.

Even the children of the section are alive to the situation, as instance an event which took place at noon yesterday. When the bells were ringing and the steam sirens tooting, in honor of the recent British victory, a school teacher in an Earlscourt school asked a pupil why the joy bells were ringing.

"On account of the Earlscourt people getting the price of coal fixed," immediately answered the boy.

SCORE'S WINTER OUTFIT SUGGESTIONS.

This little "pinch" in the weather emphasizes to the hardiest of us the need to look to the winter's outfitting—as for a man who is particular in his dress—and all men should be—and, by-the-way, more would be if they'd just take the trouble to ask for one of Score's Correct Dress Charts. In the "toggery" department there's the appropriate neckwear for winter, the collars as well, the half hose, the underwear, the gloves, and other things; and of very special interest to men who know values, the woolens department is offering fine Scotch tweed business suitings, regular $38, for $30, and Scotch and English overcoatings at the same price. The Estate Sale is still on. R. Score & Son, Limited, tailors and haberdashers, 77 King street west.

Inspector of Detectives Kennedy is in receipt of a letter from a Mrs. Blanche Duncan of Davenport, Iowa, asking for information as to the whereabouts of the relatives of her husband, the late Harry Duncan of Toronto. The letter states that she understands that he has brothers and sisters residing in this city and that she would like to get into communication with them.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

FIELD MARSHAL HAIG announced in his bulletin from headquarters last night that he had resumed his operations against the enemy positions west of Cambrai and that these operations were developing well. The German artillery displayed great activity towards Cambrai. A press bulletin says that the British renewed their attack on Fontaine Notre Dame and that they are still holding their ground between Cantaing and a point south of Fontaine. It is said that they have captured several score of guns. The wording of this message does not make it plain whether they captured the German guns in this renewed attack or whether they captured them in the first stage of their offensive. The renewal of the operations so soon is a remarkable testimony to the rapidity and efficiency of their construction corps behind the advancing tanks and soldiers. The pause may have its reason in the necessity of awaiting a fresh petrol supply.

* * *

The official announcement that the British have renewed operations suggests not a minor operation, but the making of an advance in continuation of the work so happily begun the other day. General Sir Julian Byng may at once attempt the turning of Cambrai. He at least is attacking the fragments of the third system of the Von Hindenburg line. He is now coming up to where the German heavy artillery has had its emplacements. The muddy roads, combined with the domination of the German railway communications, may have prevented the removal of these siege pieces, and the arrival of other siege pieces from elsewhere. If this is so, the Germans are lost. Without the support of heavy artillery the German infantry cannot fight. It has been only by clinging close to the German siege pieces that the German soldiers have been able to resist the assaults of the British and French these past two years. It may well be that the enemy has made the biggest blunder of the war in neglecting this front before Cambrai, and that the British higher command is taking a prompt advantage of the blunder by driving the assault home.

* * *

The new British offensive shows the futility of predicting how long the war will last. War depends a great deal on accident and blunder. Many of Wellington's victories in the Spanish Peninsula resulted from his taking advantage of the blunders of Napoleon's generals. If the British are fully prepared, as the next few days will tell, they have a fine opportunity for cutting the German army in the western theatre of the war in two, destroying almost one-half of it from west and north of Cambrai to the sea, and of rolling up the other half and invading Germany by Christmas. This result, however, would be the possible maximum. At any rate, they have achieved a splendid success, and they have destroyed the confidence of the German army and the German people in their elaborate trench systems of defence. That in itself is an epoch-making victory.

* * *

The country over which the British operations are rolling, except for a few hummocks and hillocks, is level. The heights seized near Cambrai comprise the banks of the Scheldt. The British are breaking open the portals to the Scheldt Valley for a general advance. Despatches from the front reveal that the British carried out their concentration not only with great secrecy, but with great rapidity. The infantry received a rapid training in how to advance with the tanks. The land before the British army at Cambrai, except for the river valleys, is a fairly high and dry plateau. It forms part not only of the Belgian plains, but of the great central plain of Europe. It extends not only thru Germany, but thru Russia, clear to the Urals. A few miles north of Cambrai lie many celebrated battlefields of bygone days, of Ramilles, Oudenarde, Malplaquet and Waterloo. It forms an ideal battleground for a modern army.

* * *

At the extreme eastern point of the far-flung British line, the British, in a brilliant operation, have captured the Turkish post at Jabu, 15 miles north of Aden, in Arabia. In East Africa they are rapidly clearing up the remnants of the German forces. In Palestine any day now may see the fall of Jerusalem. The inspired German press is preparing the German public mind for the los sof Jerusalem. For the sake of his people's morale, the enemy is trying to minimize the political importance of Jerusalem.

* * *

The Germans are striking the Italians much feebler blows, and the Italians are having less difficulty in frustrating all the assaults of the enemy. The enemy, no doubt, has become hesitant owing to the British advance on Cambrai. He does not quite know what to make of it. He has sent his Prussian Guards and picked Brandenburg corps to the Trentino. He seems to have skimmed the western front of his best forces.

* * *

In Russia, the Bolsheviki are endeavoring to arrange an armistice with the Germans. They believe that this act will stop the progress of the war on other fronts. Lord Robert Cecil says that if the Bolsheviki carry out their program, and the Russian people submit to it, it will put Russia outside the pale of civilization. The Bolsheviki, however, are not Russians, nor the Russian people. They have won over some of the soldiers, but the delegates of the peasants are quietly removing their offices and furniture from Petrograd. This action will remove them from Bolsheviki surroundings, and it is a sign of the way the Russian wind is blowing.

ELECTION WARMING UP

Everything Points to an Old-time Campaign in Historic Riding of North York.

Mrs. Hyslop, field secretary of the W. C. T. U., of Toronto, addressed a large gathering of the women of Newmarket yesterday afternoon under the caption "Union Government Win the War," in J. A. M. Armstrong's committee room. The speaker dealt trenchantly with the imperative need of unity at the present time, the need for soldiers to fill the ranks of those overseas, and expressed the hope that the Union candidate in North York would receive the endorsation of the electorate.

This afternoon Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is addressing the women of Newmarket on the same theme. The campaign is beginning to warm up, and everything points to a regular old-time election in the historic riding.

Town Treasurer Anderson of Newmarket is kept very busy these days taking in the town taxes, which are being paid with a promptness that speaks well for the prosperity of the municipality. Taxpayers have until December 1 to obtain the discount, and more than $30 000 has already been paid in, $7500 having been turned in in one day.

OBJECT TO HAVING HOSPITAL IN PARK

Ward Seven Ratepayers Protest Against Using High Park as Site..

At last night's monthly meeting of Ward Seven Ratepayers' Association, held in Annette Street Public School, West Toronto, the question of the proposed establishment of a military hospital in High Park was the chief topic of discussion. The meeting was addressed by Aldermen Ryding and Whetter. President H. S. Mott occupied the chair.

"Since the annexation of West Toronto to the city we have had many ups and downs to contend with in regard to improvements," said President H. S. Mott. "High Park, which is a rare beauty spot, should be kept in its natural state, as has been our constant endeavor."

While Mr. Mott expressed himself as in favor of doing everything possible for the comfort of the soldiers he was of the opinion that some other portion of ground could be obtained.

Too Much Hurry.

"This matter has been too hurriedly dealt with," said Ald. Ryding, who believed that the military authorities were attempting to rush it thru. The city has been very generous in its care of the soldiers and I am of the opinion that this matter should have been dealt with by the hospital commission."

While the alderman pointed out that the portion of the park upon which the government proposed building the hospital was not dedicated by the late Mr. Howard, but purchased by the city thereafter, at the same time he favored the procuring of about 150 acres just outside the city. The Royce property was also a suitable site, in the alderman's opinion, owing to its location.

Ald. Whetter attacked those members of the council who absented themselves when the vote on the location of the hospital was taken. He advised the association opposing the location by a strong deputation from the district.

That portion of property overlooking the east bank of the Humber River, adjacent to Bloor street, was a suitable location, according to the views of E. Wakefield "Of course this would necessitate the further extension of the Bloor street civic car line," he said.

Walks T. Fiske, who opposed the proposition vehemently, thought the desecration of High Park by the building of a hospital would be preposterous.

After considerable talk, with nothing definite before the meeting, R. Jackson voiced himself as believing that High Park was not the kind of park for a hospital.

"Your association should protest immediately against the railroading of this scheme by the military authorities or the city council," he said. "Your proper course would be the issuing of an injunction."

A motion was finally passed, in which a committee of five were appointed to interview General Logie with a view to finding another property. Upon the committee's inability to have the general agree to another choice the association will then issue an injunction.

PICKERING.

A big sale of Holstein cattle and thoroughbred Cotswold sheep will take place at Pickering, half a mile north of village, on Tuesday, Nov. 27. The property of John Quinlan, owing to his barns being burned. There will be no reserve. Usual credit sale terms.

MR. HANNA IS JOKE, STATES LABOR MAN

J. T. Gunn Criticizes Many Government Members, and Particularly Profiteers.

J. T. Gunn, candidate for the South York constituency in the Labor interests, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Silverthorn Labor party in McCormack's Hall, Silverthorn avenue, last evening. Duncan Hood, of the Oakwood branch executive, presiding.

Mr. Gunn, who received a good reception, outlined at some length the aims and objects of the party and severely criticized many members of the government and particularly the profiteers.

"We have no alliance with any other party," said the speaker, "nor do we wish any alliance with either Liberal, Conservative or Socialist. God helps those who help themselves," declared Mr. Gunn, "and the independent Labor party only represents itself."

"The government is appealing for one more chance to be allowed to win the war. Godfrey and Hawken are the aggregation who are talking about winning the war, but the labor men have been winning the war for the past three years, and the men who are sacrificing all are the working classes. I have every desire to win the war, and God knows I want to win the war, but when we allow these slackers who are bleeding us with salt and water to get scot free, it is time to stop their game. Conscription of wealth must accompany conscription of man power," said Mr. Gunn, who proceeded to read an account of the work of the deputation of the citizens' committee of Earlscourt who were successful in getting the price of coal fixed and recently requested Hon. W. J. Hanna, food controller, to fix the price of potatoes, which is soaring to the sky.

"There should be no reason to call upon Hanna to fix prices. As a food controller he is a joke," said Mr. Gunn. "He is the biggest joke in the country."

RICHVIEW FARMERS WANT SONS ON FARMS

Conscription Expected to Have Serious Effect Upon Production, and Insincerity is Charged.

At a largely attended open meeting of the Richview Farmers' Club, held Wednesday, the question of increased production was discussed, the members strongly urging the retention of the farmers and farmers' sons on the land.

Ex-Warden John Gardhouse referred to the seriousness of the situation among the allied nations in respect to food, and said that full information ought to be given out in the matter.

James French spoke on the question of increased production, and said that conscription would have a very serious effect on it, while Charles Grubbe and William Gardhouse took the same view, the former stating that he did not think any real farmers would be withdrawn from the land.

Mr. Stonehouse charged that the allies were absolutely dependent upon this continent for their food supply, and said that the authorities were insincere in asking for increased production and at the same time removing skilled labor from the farms.
