Mr. Owen Steele, the Summerside truckman, who lost his horse in the ice while assisting to save Mr. Henderson's horse from drowning, has received his reward. The body of Mrs. Charles Brown, the woman who strayed from her home some time ago was discovered Saturday morning by Mr. Josiah Carmody. Mr. Carmody was going up the river in search of oysters when he accidentally discovered the body. It was frozen stiff. As soon as word was brought to town a number of men procured a wood sleigh and hauled the body ashore. It was removed to Mr Charles McGregor's residence, St. Peter's Road. The funeral took place Sunday evening and was largely attended.

We have recieved from Le Moniteur acadien, of Shediac, the organ of the Acadians of the Maritime Provinces, a neat and well got up almanac for 1894. Besides the astronomical tables to be found in a work of the kind, it contains a directory of the Catholic clergy for these provinces, a list of doctors and lawyers, information of much value to farmers, and of interest to the general reader. The book does not contain three pages of advertisements to the one of reading matter, and is on that account convenient in size, and the most suitable almanac we have yet seen. All French readers should secure a copy.

George H. McKay, dry goods merchant, St. John, N. B, surprised the public Tuesday by assigning. Robert Lee McKay's father-in-law, is preferred for $7,000. The liabilities are stated at $34,000. Assets $25,000. Mr. McKay was a member of the firm of Hamer, Hamilton & McKay, from which he withdrew three years ago, setting up in business for himself. Last spring he removed from a modest shop in Charlotte street and took large premises in King Street. He has been a large advertiser, and has done a big business though his low prices have thrown trade into some confusion.

Rev. Father Gallant, of Bloomfield contemplates the enlargement of his already splendid church edifice. The congregation is growing and room is wanted. He intends, we understand, adding a chancel to the year and two wings with gables. At the point of intersection a beautiful dome will rear itself aloft. Mr. Baker, Summerside, is the architect.

There died near Big Pond, East Bay, on the morning of the 24th ult, writes a correspondent of the North Sydney Herald, fortified by the last rites of the Catholic Church, Dugald McDougall, Esq., aged 85 years, leaving a wife, one son and a number of grandchildren to mourn the loss of a loving husband, kind and thoughtful father and grandfather. The deceased had been ill just one week, and for some hours before his death it was known both to himself and to his sorrowing family that his illness would end fatally; but at that time, as well as throughout his illness, he showed that Christian patience which is rare indeed when man is brought face to face with death. The deceased was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. This was shown by the large concourse of friends which attended the funeral.

An interesting criminal action has been brought by one Moncton contractor against another It appears that the firm of Government contractors, P S. McManus and D J McDonald, who have the contract for the railway harbor front at St. John, have also the contract for the construction of a branch railroad in Cape Breton. J. G. McDonald, contractor and uncle of D. J. McDonald, was given power of attorney to supervise the railroad work in Cape Breton and contract bills. McManus alleges that he was dissatisfied with certain actions of J. G. McDonald which led to his privately sending an agent to Cape Breton to investigate, and that as a result of that investigation he took out a warrant for J. G. McDonald's arrest. This warrant was executed, and J. G. McDonald was arrested. The information sworn to by McManus sets forth that J. G. McDonald was instructed by power of attorney to collect and keep certain moneys, the property of McManus, subject to his direction "did fraudulently dispose or convert such moneys to some purpose other than that for which he was intrusted." Bail amounting to $3,000 was given. There are rumors that counter proceedings will be taken by J. G. McDonald.

Opium Smuggler Caught.

ESTIMATED THAT HE CHEATED THE GOVERNMENT OUT OF $72,000 A MONTH LAST YEAR.

Detroit, Jan 3—Donald A. Kennedy, one of the most notorious opium smugglers in the country, was arrested at West Detroit last night by U. S. Inspector Carter. Kennedy had been smuggling opium across the border nearly ten years, and managed to elude the vigilance of the brightest men in the secret service. Kennedy started from Toronto yesterday with an ordinary looking trunk, passed the customs at Port Huron all right and came to West Detroit, where he consigned the trunk to a Chinese firm in San Francisco. Carter, who accompanied Kennedy from Toronto, then made the arrest and seized the trunk. Packed beneath a false bottom were found 100 half pound tins of opium. It is estimated that during the last year alone, Kennedy smuggled an average of five hundred pounds of drug every month and cheated the government out of $72,000. His brother, Al. Kennedy, who used to be associated with him in the business, is now serving a term in Detroit house of correction.

In 1720 Stephen Gray discovered that electricity acts at a distance.

He Weighs 356 Lbs.

David A. Murphy, school teacher, was in town last week, says the Moncton Times, and was the observed of all observers. Mr. Murphy, was in the market building on Friday last and balanced the beam at exactly 356 lbs. He says he is taking on fat steadily and hopes to reach 400 before long. Mr. Murphy is now 32 years and 6 months old. He was born at Pleasantville, Queen's county, N. B and lived with his parents on the farm until about thirty years of age. He afterwards went to the Normal school and studied for the teaching profession, his last school being on the Moncton Road, near Shediac. When Mr. Murphy left the farm he was about the usual weight of a healthy young man, 160 or 170 pounds. He has five brothers and three sisters living. None of the brothers are of more than ordinary size, and the sisters, who are married, are rather thin and poor looking in flesh. Mr. Murphy never married, never drank intoxicating liquor, never smoked and never shaved. His long silken white beard and his colossal frame give him the appearance of the time-honored Santa Claus, and he is frequently greeted by that name. Mr. Murphy is a well informed gentleman with a decided literary turn, enjoys life and takes pride in the fact that his tremendous size is the result of taking on fat in a perfectly natural and healthy way. His only trouble is that he breaks down all the bedsteads and chairs in the country.

Is He Yet a Lord?

QUESTION RAISED TO THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH'S ENGLISH STANDING.

London, Jan. 3.—In the House of Commons today Wm. Byles, liberal, brought up an interesting question in connection with the rights of Duke Alfred of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, who, as the Duke of Edinburgh, is one of the hereditary law makers of Great Britain. Mr. Byles asked whether Duke Alfred retained his right as a peer of the realm to vote for the revision, rejection or approval of bills passed by the House of Commons.

Mr. Gladstone replied that the question was one that must be determined by the House of Lords itself, that house being the judge of the qualifications of its own members.

Robert Burnie, liberal, demanded that the terms of the oath taken by Duke Alfred as a German sovereign be produced in the house.

Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, replied that a copy of the oath would be produced.

London, January 3.—A despatch from Berlin to the Westminster Gazette, which is a liberal organ, says that Emperor William it annoyed by the discussion in the House of Commons in regard to the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, believing that it is calculated to injure the prestige of royalty. The despatch adds that the Emperor has advised Duke Alfred to surrender all claim upon the British treasury. The Czar, whose sister is wife of Duke Alfred, has, it is said, made a similar recommendation.

R R. Fitzgerald, Esq., and James McLeod, M. D., will, it is rumored, be asked by a number of citizens to nominate for the mayoralty.

Rose Coghlan and her brother Charles have made up and are friends again. It is reported that, owing to Rose Coghlan's influence, Mrs Charles Coghlan has been induced to abandon her suit for divorce against him.

Mr. Charles W. Weeks, son of W. A Weeks Esq., left Thursday evening to take a course at the Horticultural School, Wolfville N. S. After completing his course Mr. Weeks intends engaging in the fruit raising business in the Annapolis Valley.

Mr. Gladstone is said to be busily engaged on a prose translation of Horace. There are several good translations of the kind, but it is interesting and almost unique in one over four score years, holding the reins of a government of one of the most powerful countries in the world, thus employing his leisure moments.

Mr. Gladstone got into the year of great babies, 1809, only by a scratch. If he had been born three days later he would be a child of a year which was not so memorable for its births Among the great personages who were born in 1809 were Darwin, Tennyson, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Edgar A. Poe, the historian Kinglake, Mendelssohn, Jules Favre, Lincoln, Hamlin, Oliver Wendell Holmes.

W. T. Stead, the London editor and social reformer, who is now in Chicago, is a man who gets down to first principles every time In order to prepare himself to discuss the question of what should be done for the unemployed he recently dressed himself in rags and went out to do a three hours' turn at street cleaning with a gang of the unemployed that the city was furnishing work for. He came back with some very sensible suggestions which will at once be put in operation.

PRAYED IN VAIN.

Cossack Butchers no Mercy Knew, and Catholics Died at Their Altars.

FLOGGED IN THE STREETS, AND AGE OR SEX MADE NO DIFFERENCE.

A controversy has been going on between the German papers concerning the accuracy of the report of cruelty of the Cossacks at the Catholic church at Kroschc, Russia. The Cologne Volks Zeitung has investigated the subject and repeats the original statement with additional damaging charges.

The quarrel between the Cossacks and the villagers, who are Catholics, caused a detachment of 300 Cossacks to be sent from Kovno to Kroschc. The Cossacks were armed with rifles, lances and knives, a terrible whip, the ends of which were twisted with wire and with tight small pieces of iron. The Cossacks rode their horses into the Catholic church and the massacre of the people inside began.

The unfortunate Catholics threw themselves on their knees in a corner of the church and prayed to God for help, but the Cossacks shot and speared right and left until, according to the story told by the Volks Zeitung, the floor and walls of the church were drenched with blood. The infuriated Cossack cavalrymen are said to have acted like demons, smashing the crucifixes, candlesticks and images of saints and then throwing the vases in a cesspool. The people fled in all directions while the massacre was going on and were pursued and captured or badly wounded by the Cossacks of the second detachment, which were detailed to surround the town and to prevent the escape of any of the inhabitants.

A number of the latter are said to have been so panic stricken that they committed suicide, and many of them jumped into the swollen river, where they were drowned. The rest of the unfortunate inhabitants were surrounded by Cossacks, who, lance in hand, drove them before them to the market place in front of the town hall.

When this round up of the inhabitants of Krosche was completed every man, woman and child of the town was ordered to be punished by being flogged with the knout. A doctor was brought and he prescribed the number of lashes from the knout which each person, young or old, male or female, could bear. The victims of this Cossack fury then had their clothes torn off them or were compelled to take them off themselves and were made to lie, completely naked, between the rows of Cossacks who flogged them until many of them were almost dead

The number of people killed is not definitely stated; but report places the number at all the way from 70 to 100, with a very large number so severely injured that they have since died of their injuries or have been marked for life.

Sporting Notes.

J. C. Aveling, the amateur champion skater of England, has decided to become a professional.

Wm. Blair, Pugwash, N. S., has sold his trotting mare Favorite, 2.27½, to two Moncton sporting men.

The trotting mare Alix won $3,000 last season. Since her owner purchased her she has met all expenses, her original purchase, and cleared him $10,000.

Norseng has been matched to skate J. S. Johnson in Minneapolis in February, but the Norwegian says that if Johnson will consent the race can come off in New York.

Harold Hagen is now in Christina, Norway. He expects to come to this country next month, and before doing so has issued a challenge to all European skaters for races up to 25 miles.

Joe Donoghue and Adolph D. Norseng, the Norwegian skater, have been matched for a series of three races, one, three and five miles. The contests take place on Manhattan field, New York.

A Chicago despatch says: Edward Corrigan has decided to send his running horse, Riley, to compete in the Grand National race of England. The horse has been schooled to make the required jumps and go the distance.

"Tommy" Conneff has accepted the invitation to compete in the one mile run to be decided at the indoor handicap meeting of the Boston Athletic Association, in February. Conneff expects to break the record for the distance.

The time in which a foreign yacht club may challenge for the America's cup expired Sunday. The deed requires ten months' notice, and the season closes Nov. 1. Unless the notice is waived no challenge can be accepted. This settles the matter for next year. There will be no race.

The two-mile race between Hugh McCormick and Wilson Breen was won by the latter by half a lap. Hugh led for the first mile, but lacked staying powers to keep there till the finish. He is rather too well up in years to go against the young fry of speedy ones.

A football match, according to Rugby rules, was played in Paris, France, recently, between a 15 of Oxford University and a team representing the Racing Club of France. The match, which excited considerable interest, resulted in a victory for the Englishmen by 2 goals and a try to nil.

Donoghue recently declared that he would meet Harold Hagen for money, after his contest with Norseng had been decided, or he would skate Johnson a series of races from one to five miles, for either $1,000 a side or a cup of that value. He would race Johnson either as an amateur or a professional. At present the only hitch between Donoghue and Johnson is over the start. Johnson wants to leave the matter with his opponent, while Donoghue is in favor of starting half a lap apart.

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—L. P. Hebert, a well known French Canadian sculptor, now resident in Paris, is the successful competitor for the Sir John Macdonald statue to be erected on the Parliament grounds of this city. The government, while unanimous in their choice, did not know the name of the artist until after the selection was made.

Vancouver, Jan. 5.—Hundreds of dollars in Straits Settlement silver and Japanese coins were shipped east to Montreal and other cities today. It is the only outlet for unaccepted silver from here. Two rich Jews bought up the specie at thirty cents on the dollar, and circulated thousands of dollars in British Columbia. The coin was current for a week until it had found its way into every one's purses. Today banks, merchants, saloons and restaurants simultaneously refused the imported coin, and the excitement that followed beat a bank suspension. All sorts of schemes were devised to get rid of the suddenly depreciated silver. Much of it found its way into the church collection plates.

A SHORTENING.

Down the street through the busy way
A lady passed on marketing day.
Who, pausing at a grocery store,
Stepped quickly in at the open door.
With bated breath and anxious mien
She queried: "have you COTTOLENE?"

The grocer, leaving off his work,
Interrogated every clerk;
But none up to that time had seen
An article called "COTTOLENE."

"What is it?" said he to the dame,
"That answers to this curious name.
What is it made of? What's its use?
My ignorance you'll please excuse."

"You're not the merchant for my dimes,
I see you're quite behind the times.
For COTTOLENE, I'd have you know,
Is now the thing that's all the go,
An article of high regard;
A healthful substitute for lard.
Its composition pure and clean;
For cooking give me COTTOLENE."

As from his store the lady fled,
The grocer gently scratched his head—
On his next order, first was seen,
"One dozen cases COTTOLENE."

A LADY'S EXPERIENCE.

Mr. Wm. Thompson of Musquash, N. B., says: "For 2 years past my wife has suffered with Acute Dyspepsia accompanied with complete nervous prostration and a smothering sensation about the heart which frequently produced an attack of faintness. She became weak and nervous, lost all energy, and had a constant feeling of dread. She suffered with intense pain in the stomach after eating, which was usually followed by the smothering sensation about the heart and fainting spells. She tried a great many remedies and was treated by the doctors for some time, but obtained no relief. She became so discouraged that she gave up all hope of ever getting better, when our pastor suggested that she try HAWKER'S NERVE AND STOMACH TONIC and LIVER PILLS, which had produced remarkable cures in several cases he knew of. We did so and she obtained immediate relief from the distress after taking the second dose, and has continued to improve ever since until today she is as well as ever, and can enjoy her food without fear of suffering. I cannot speak too highly of these valuable medicines which have restored my wife to health and strength and saved much suffering and expense."

"Rev. Henry M. Spike, Rector of Musquash, N. B., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mrs. Tompson's case, and am greatly pleased that the medicine which I recommended to her produced such remarkable results."
