HOT EXCHANGES IN THE COMMONS

Telling Thrusts On Trusts By Guthrie Stirs Up Mr. Ames.

BAD DAY FOR THE GOVT.

The Opposition Proposals to Improve Tariff Commission Bill Rejected on Party Vote.

Ottawa, Feb. 13. — On a straight party vote of seventy-six to forty-two, a Government majority of thirty-four, Parliament tonight rejected Mr. Guthrie's committee amendments to the tariff commission bill. The amendments called for the striking out of the clause placing the control of the commission under the Minister of Finance, and the substitution of a clause providing that it should be responsible and report to Parliament. A third amendment called for the striking out of the clause referring to the proposed commission, the investigation of the combines and mergers, as such investigation could better and more disinterestedly be performed by the courts and the machinery provided by the existing anti-combines act.

Some stormy scenes characterized the close of the long debate. Mr. Guthrie described Mr. Foster's confession that the Conservative Government of the past had fashioned its tariff on the rule-of-thumb system "It was a humiliating confession, and I venture to say accounts for the fact that times under such a regime were hard and the country at a standstill. The minister, however, presumes when he ventures to say Mr. Fielding followed similar system. No man is more strongly opposed to the present proposal than would be Mr. Fielding, were he here. The Fielding tariff was not made after the rule-of-thumb. It was formulated only after careful and critical investigation. And times were good, the country prospered, and Canada developed." (Liberal cheers.)

Guthrie and Ames.

Mr. Guthrie called upon the Government to let the bill stand over for two or three weeks 'til the country had an opportunity to study it. He knew very little about trusts.

Mr. Ames, interrupting, "Nothing at all."

"I quite appreciate that the hon. gentleman who has just interrupted knows more than I, and probably the Minister of Finance knows more than either of us," retorted Mr. Guthrie.

"That is the trouble," shouted Mr. Ames. "Hon. gentlemen opposite talk about something they do not understand." (Conservative cheers.)

"We are seeking to state plain, blunt facts as they appeal to the ordinary man, the ordinary citizen of Canada," responded Mr. Guthrie, warmly. "Why should the Ames-Holden Company, with a limited capital, be capitalized for two or three times that amount? It is a fraud on the face of it, I say, of such transactions, and I am not surprised that the Ames-Holden merger would prefer to be investigated by such a tariff commission, and would be reluctant to go before the judges of the high court."

Mr. Ames rose in heat. "The hon. member has alluded to the company with which I am connected. I want to tell him that every dollar of bonds is represented in actual money, and not a dollar of dividend will be paid on the common stock until that also represents actual assets." (Renewed Conservative cheering.)

Cheers for Trusts.

Mr. Guthrie sought to proceed, when Mr. Meighen declared, amid cheering, that Mr. Guthrie had been inactive when Mr. Monk brought the attention of the House to a merger last year. Mr. Guthrie retorted that the machinery was there for investigation, when a complaint was made. He sought to proceed, but could not be heard for the pounding of desks by the Government members.

"It must be interesting for the country to know how generous is the applause which Conservatives in this House give to the combines and mergers," proceeded Mr. Guthrie. "There was not much cheering when the remedial decree was before the House; there has not been the approach to a cheer over the naval policy, or lack of it, but when it comes to protection and trusts, Messrs. Ames and Meighen are cheered to the echo, and I am almost prevented from speaking. The situation is illuminating and interesting."

Mr. Cockshutt's Ultimatum.

After a spirited address by Dr. Clark, the House was treated after midnight to an excited attack on the member for Red Deer by Mr. Cockshutt. "I know more about the economics of England than the member for Red Deer," he declared. "I took part in two campaigns there. In Britain all they do is try all kinds of quack nostrums under their Lloyd Georges and old wornout fables." He warned the House that the manufacturers had more power than they thought. "Is every industry in Canada to hide its head because the farmers say so?" Mr. Cockshutt shouted. The workingman in the highly protected United States was, he said, better off than in free trade Britain. He urged the Government to force the bill through, and not put up with further talk from the Liberals.

"There shall certainly not be a free trader on this tariff commission," Mr. Cockshutt warned; "certainly not. If we put a man like the member for Red Deer on that commission, we would have a gun that would not go off."

Harried Mr. White.

It was an uncomfortable afternoon for the young Minister of Finance in the House of Commons. When the discussion on the bill appointing a tariff commission was resumed, Mr. Ames came down to the front benches and usurped the conduct of the measure, to the amusement of the Opposition benches, and the palpable displeasure of Mr. White. Then he sought to assert himself by reading a report of a Montreal address to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in 1908, and had, in consequence, to submit to the good-natured raillery of the "Old Chief."

Hon. Mr. Foster followed, and undertook to explain the bill for the Finance Minister, a task the member for North Toronto seemed to thoroughly enjoy. And, more, Dr. Schaffner, the Manitoba Conservative, came along with the declaration that if the measure meant what the Liberals believed it did, or what Mr. Ames had said it did, he would oppose it, a declaration which brought Premier Borden to the rescue with soothing words.

Hon. Frank Oliver.

Hon. Mr. Oliver completed the young minister's tribulations. The outspoken ex-minister charged that Mr. White, "represents in the cabinet the interests and the mergers, he is allied with that section of Liberalism which was Liberal so long as its Liberalism meant profit, but deserted as soon as its Liberalism meant merely principle."

DON'T LET THAT COUGH ROB YOU OF SLEEP

You probably know all too well how it goes. Just as you doze off, the tickling starts in your throat. A gentle cough, still asleep. A harder cough, and then another. First thing you know, you're wide awake, coughing your head off.

A few nights of that and you're so worn out and weakened that the cough takes a tight grip on you.

But why endure it?

DEADLOCK IN SENATE ON INJURIES BILL

The Government Refuses To Accept Amendments of Liberal Majority.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—The Government today declined to accept the amendment of the Liberal majority in the Senate to the inquiries bill. Hon. Mr. Lougheed, for the Government, declared that the proposal by Senator Kerr that persons employed to make inquiries should be for five years debarred from holding public office was a design to wreck the bill. The proposal stands at the deadlock stage, and will come up again on Thursday.

A motion by Senator Cloran to defeat the bill forbidding the pollution of navigable waters was lost and the bill given third reading.

FARMERS' BANK PROBE MAY BE PUBLIC ONE

Commissioner Says He Does Not Yet Know Scope of the Inquiry.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 13. — "I will act," asserted Sir William Meredith when seen this morning in conection with his appointment as commissioner to investigate the circumstances surrounding the granting of the Farmers' Bank charter.

Sir William could say nothing as to the scope or nature of the inquiry till he had seen his commission, which had not yet reached him.

"The Government will now appoint counsel to act in the matter," he remarked, "and he will arrange with me when and where the sittings will be held. I do not know yet when I shall be able to take up the matter, nor when he will. I do not know whether the sittings will be held here or in Ottawa. Of course, I have not any instructions yet, but I shall be very much surprised if the sittings are not public."

"Is there any indication as to the length of the inquiry?" Sir William was asked.

"No," he responded. "They said that it would not last long."
