Journalists and Journalism.

A deal has been written of late in connection with the recent changes in the newspaper staffs in Toronto. A much-neglected and unappreciated class of men have thus received some portion of the newspaper space which they fill so often in glorifying the deeds of the valiant, reporting the words of the eloquent, relating the romances of life that come up every night like mushrooms nearly every day in the year, and photographing the exaltations and sorrows of the human race. There is too much work and life crowded into their twenty-four hours to give newspaper writers much time to tell about what they have done. The past is to them as the waters that have run by. They are interested only in what they have to do to-morrow. When leisure days come they do not find themselves in a mood to revive the past.

The country little knows how much it owes to the newspaper writer. He is the most law-abiding and patient person in the world. The newspaper writer never strikes. The intelligent compositor may rise in wrath if non-union boiler plate is used, but the newspaper writer quietly pushes his pencil, trusting in Providence and his proprietor and hoping for better times. Be his salery $10 or $40 it is all the same. Sometimes he "severs his connection" and sometimes, when discharged, he "resigns," but he never strikes. Although he and his proprietor often disagree as to how a newspaper should be managed he ever gracefully yields his own opinions, and his politeness to the secretary-treasurer is a lesson in civilization.

Sir Richard Cartwright was upset in the St. Lawrence River near Kingston Saturday, in consequence of a squall overturning his skiff. Fortunately there are no whales in the St. Lawrence.

Pulpit Topics Yesterday.

The heated term shows itself very perceptibly in our city pulpits. Many of the pastors are out of town, and the others so modify one of their two discourses as to relieve themselves of the anxiety and labor of sermonizing to relatively empty pews. Hence they are not anxious to select topics for the few which might by and by attract the many.

In Concord Congregational Church Rev. J. C. Madill spoke of a valuable bank note; Evangelist Sims in Stewart's Hall deducted lessons from "A dance; a feast and a storm," and Rev. T. E. Ingles in the East Presbyterian Church sketched the every-day life of a missionary in India. Rev. J. V. Smith of the Metropolitan believes that Christians should never be off duty, and hence he stays at home. Rev. E. C. Laker had a talk to boys and girls in the Euclid-avenue Methodist Church, and as it was Flower Sunday nearly all the worshippers brought a bouquet with them. Rev. A. Browning assisted the pastor at the day of rejoicing in Gerrard-street Methodist Church, and Dr. Oronhyatekha, Revs. Parr and Starr discussed in the Pavilion the best methods to advance the cause of temperance. Mr. Sydney Black of London, England, in Broadway Hall told the old but ever new story of the Cross. In Carlton Methodist Church Dr. Barrass spoke of Christ's farewell command, and Rev. Walter B. Floyd of New York explained to the worshippers at Knox Christ's estimate of the Holy Spirit. In Broadway Tabernacle Rev. Mr. Dinnick expounded the law that baffled Socrates and Rev. P. D. Will held up before his hearers the promised crown. The foundation of moral obligation was laid by Rev. W. F. Wilson, love was cherished by Rev. William Coulthard in St. Enoch's, words of truth and soberness were uttered by Revs. Philp and Crews, and lessons on the Homestead strike were drawn by Dr. Wild. Dr. W. Balstone, medical missionary of India, was one of the special attractions at Wesley Church; Rev. W. F. Allen took the pastor's place at Christ Church, Rev. A. B. Demill and Mr. Joseph Tait filled Rev. J. F. Ockley's pulpit in Trinity, and Mr. Joseph McNeill of D. L. Moody's College, Northfield, sketched the evangelist's life in St. Mark's. Other strangers were Revs. C. Sylvester and S. L. Kerr in Berkeley-street Methodist Church; Rev. J. Milner and Rev. James Matheson in Bathurst-street Methodist Church; Rev. A. Margrett in Olivet Congregational, and Rev. Dr. Rees of Philadelphia at Dr. Thomas'. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered in most of the Methodist churches. The camp meeting on Wells' Hill drew off many churchgoers, and the Island and other resorts received their quota of religious people seeking rest and recreation.

That story from San Francisco about the British Government seizing Pago-Pago harbor as a coaling station turns out to be as untrue as the majority of telegraphic reports these days. As a matter of fact, Great Britain has not interfered with the rights of the United States in the least, and in preparing to establish a coaling station in the same harbor as the United States she is merely doing what she has a perfectly clear right to do under the treaty.

In condemnation of the coloring which pervades all Yankee cablegrams from England, a correspondent writes:

"The Duke of Rutland, who is held up to odium and ridicule, in a cable despatch now going the rounds of the press, and who from its tenor might be thought to be a brutal and overbearing specimen of a tyrannical aristocracy—is none other than the amiable, mild-mannered and benevolent nobleman better known as Lord John Manners, once Postmaster-General, and who lately succeeded his brother in the Dukedom. If a man got in the way of one of the venerable octogenarian's shooting parties and provoked some incivility from his guests he was probably a disobliging crank who got no more than he deserved. It is exceedingly improbable that the aged Duke was there or knew anything of the matter."

Conscience makes cowards of us all. The City Treasurer of Montreal has just received $950 from a man in Baltimore, who declines to reveal his name. The money was sent through the Drovers' and Mechanics' National Bank of Baltimore without advice, and when Treasurer Robb wrote the manager for particulars, he received this reply: "We do not feel at liberty to say anything with reference to the draft for $950." It is actions such as this that serve to restore one's faith in humanity.

Toronto Dogs Have Had Their Day.

Every dog has his day except in Toronto, where a bylaw comes into force to-day under which the dogcatchers are empowered to seize and destroy all dogs, whether tagged or not, found running at large on the streets, unless such dog is accompanied by and is under the immediate charge of some competent persons. This means that citizens will have to tie strings to their dogs when they take them for an airing.

The World some time ago observed a whimsical sort of account of a dog that bit a hog in the streets; the hog bit a man and the man bit a cow. But what was more extraordinary, each conveyed his peculiar quality to the other; for the hog barked like a dog, the man grunted like a hog, and the cow did her best to talk like the man. A repetition of this sort of thing must have been feared by the council. Instead of supposing, as has generally been the case, that dogs are better than watchmen for the protection of property, people might be led to imagine from the council's action that Toronto dogs are guilty of all the crimes committed in Toronto. Still,

Let Hercules himself do what he may,
The cat will mew and dog will have his day.

The manner in which Hon. J. E. P. Prendergast, ex-Minister of the Greenway Government, became member for St. Boniface is interesting. In conducting the recount Judge Ardagh allowed a ballot with the word "wins" written on it for the Hon. J. E. P. Prendergast, ex-Minister of the Greenway Government. This left the vote a tie, but the returning officer, Oyr, gave the casting vote for Mr. Prendergast, thus seating him.

To Abolish the Rebate System.

What action the Dominion Government purpose taking in the event of President Harrison issuing instructions to impose a toll on cargoes and passengers passing through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal to a Canadian port is of course not known, but the probability is that an order-in-council will issue abolishing the rebate system for the remainder of this season, pending a permanent arrangement satisfactory all round.

Meantime the lake marine men will be the ones to suffer, owing to the disadvantageous position in which they will be placed in the competition for traffic with the railways.

The story which our despatches tell us to the antics on the floor of the House of J. K. Hardie, the labor representative of the Commons for South West Ham, recalls the well-known lines:

The things we see are neither rich nor rare,
But wonder how the devil they got there.

The experiment of sending frozen California fruit to Liverpool is not likely to prove a success. The first consignment sent over on the Majestic arrived in fine condition, but the bidding was slack and the prices low, English dealers claiming that frozen fruit will not keep for a sufficient length of time to enable the trade here to handle it with profit.

The London Advertiser awants the Dominion Government to order another issue of 25 cent shinplasters.

Now that the police have decided to arrest the lads who knocked down little Norma Stevens in Carlton-street a day or two ago other bicyclers will exhibit moderation in running down people for some time to come, if not for the entire summer.

The Queen's speech, which will be read today, is, our despatches say, the briefest ever delivered in a British Parliament. It formally intimates that Parliament has not met for the transaction of business, and contrary to expectations contains no reference to the troubles in Afghanistan.

No Hope of Separate Schools for Manitoba.

The Globe: It is morally certain also that the separate school system will never be reimposed on Manitoba by the Parliament of Canada, no matter what the Supreme Court may say. An honest and patriotic Ministry would tell the discontents frankly that their case is hopeless, and so put an end to an agitation which may do harm and can do no good except to those whose business it is to set neighbors by the ears and pose as the champions of this or that religious sect. The continuance of the struggle will assuredly not help the minority in Manitoba, who will receive all the more generous treatment when all the pressure of outside interference is removed.

The One That Grows Fastest.

[Ottawa Journal.]

Toronto, according to The World, wants "a well-thought-out scheme of a boulevard drive about the city, an island drive, an island summer hotel, a big city hotel, and other ways to make our city attractive to visitors." Meanwhile, as a starter, the city has voted $150,000 to extend and improve the exhibition. Toronto is level-headed; in these days when people are crowding into the cities, the handsomest, best equipped, most comfortable and cleanly town is the one that will grow fastest.

BY ARBITRATION.

Rental Value of the Baldwin Estate is Fixed For 21 Years.

A decision that will interest real estate men has just been arrived at by Messrs. Alexander Manning, J. Herbert Mason and Charles Ritchie, the arbitrators who were called upon to decide the value of the Baldwin estate in King, York and Pearl-streets.

The arbitrators' award gives the yearly rental value of the King-street frontage as $25 a foot from the C.P.R. building to No. 152 and $33 a foot from No. 152 to York-street.

The frontage in York-street from King to Pearl-streets is valued at $10 and $8 a foot.

This valuation is said to be a very low one, as the land on which the C.P.R. offices stand is rented at $45 a foot, that price having been fixed a year ago, Robert Jaffray, William Lount and J. H. Mason being the arbitrators.

James Cullen, Pool's Island, N.F., writes: "I have been watching the progress of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil since its introduction to this place, and with much pleasure state that my anticipations of its success have been fully realized, it having cured me of bronchitis and soreness of nose; while not a few of my rheumatic neighbors' (one old lady in particular) pronounce it to be the best article of its kind that has ever been brought before the public. Your medicine does not require any longer a sponsor, but if you wish me to act as such, I shall be only too happy to have my name connected with your prosperous child."

The Railway is Bashful.

The first trial of the electric car in Toronto was postponed yesterday, partly on account of the incomplete stringing of the wires and partly because they did not wish to make the trial before the large crowds who would have assembled to see the performance. The trial will take place to-morrow.

RAMBLES ABOUT LONGFORD.

bornly quiescent, and on the day of polling consistently stayed at home. The priests were all in favor of the Canadian Protestant; word had gone forth that he used to have the support of the whole of the faithful and he got it.

I fancy that this assurance caused Mr. Blake to take things easy. Why should he roll forth all the thunders of denunciation, or let loose the torrent of patriotic utterance when he had what sportsmen call "a sure thing." So he did well, but might have done better. I opine he will have to do if he ever seeks re-election. Arrived on the spot he not only found the platform erected but everything out and dry for the meeting.

Hurrah for Father O'Flynn!

The chairman of the meeting was a popular Catholic priest, Father O'Flynn. With geniality he presided; he introduced plenty of real Hibernian wit and the speeches were enlivened with lots of fun. The very appearance of Father O'Flynn told me that we should have a treat. He is short of stature, fairly stout, with rubicund features, protuberant proboscis, merry dark eyes and a wonderful command of words in the richest of brogues.

As this is a sketch and not a dry report, I will only give a few extracts from the speeches of this memorable day. Quoth the chairman: "I will tell you of an old Longford boy, an exile from Erin, who made his way to the great country from which our future member, Mr. Blake, has come. He went to the Falls of Niagara and saw a crowd of visitors there. 'Musha! what are you all looking at?' said he. 'Don't you see the water rushing with mighty power down the precipice?' 'Faith, an' I do, an' what's to hinder it?' [Loud laughter.] Continuing, Father O'Flynn, said: "In the words of our exiled countryman, I ask what's to hinder the triumphant return of Mr. Blake for South Longford?" [Loud cheers.]

Michael Davitt His Sponsor.

A strong point the chairman made was that the Tory candidate's supporters were rack-renters and that the seconder of Mr. Miller was a man who had taken a Kenagh farm from which a tenant had been evicted. At all of which references the crowd groaned and hooted with heart and main.

Another good point was that Michael Davitt was sponsor for Edward Blake, and that the Factionists would divide the country as the false woman in Solomon's day would have divided the other woman's child.

Next a series of resolutions was passed: (1) Pledging the return of Mr. Blake, (2) deprecating further punishment for past political offences, (3) for the restoration of evicted tenants, (4) compulsory sale of all holdings at a fair price, (5) special legislation for the bettering of the laborer's condition.

Vigorous speeches were made in support of these resolutions, which were carried unanimously with long-continued cheering.

One of the speakers pointed out that Kenagh was historical inasmuch as it was the town where the campaign commenced for which John Dillon went to jail.

Why He Is An Irishman First.

I have previously given the readers of The World a summary of Mr. Blake's speech. I merely add a few items left out in cabling. The hon. gentleman wore a red rose in his button-hole and his face a self-satisfied smile. The speech had evidently been prepared, for Mr. Blake had many notes and citations. At once he declared himself an Irishman first and last, though he had lived all his life in Canada. "My father's family came from Galway; my mother's from County Wicklow. The Humes of Wicklow had represented the district for three generations. Mr. Hume, my great grandfather, lost his life in the rebellion of '98. An uncle of mine lost his life in an Irish agrarian outrage. My father and mother emigrated shortly after I was born.

"My wife's father came from Kilkenny and my wife's mother from County Longford. She came from the neighborhood of Kenagh. [Loud cheers.] She was a Bickerstaffe and in this town she was married. [Renewed cheering, in which the women became most demonstrative.] I am too old to call myself a Longford boy, but my son, who is here—[clapping him on the back]—he is a Longford boy, just as his grandmother was a Longford woman."

Comment on all this is superfluous. It formed an open sesame to the Kenaghites' hearts. They cheered and danced and whooped it up in true Irish fashion. It all went down with great furore with the enthusiastic crowd.

Arraigns the English Government.

Then Mr. Blake sang the praises of Canada to the tune with which the readers of The World are already familiar. His sketch of the long years of sorrow, sadness and oppression of the Irish race was truly graphic and took with great effect. He told them plain out that "the English Government has failed to govern Ireland well and wisely for the best interests of her people." Then came historical proof, into which I do not enter. Reforms had been obtained, not from a sense of justice or generosity to an oppressed people, but by revolution or fear of rebellion. The Union, which had lasted 90 years, had been signalized by 90 coercion acts. Never this Union will never do for you what you can do for yourselves. [Loud cheering.]

In some eloquent passages Mr. Blake advocated the adoption of the Canadian system of Home Rule, and prophesied the return of the Grand Old Man to the helm of affairs. The mention of Mr. Gladstone's name evoked a long-continued ovation, and then seeing the tension to which his audience was strung Mr. Blake became less a Nationalist and more of a logician. He told again the tale of "my own happy land, my loved Canada, and his reasons for leaving it at an hour's notice to throw in his lot for the future of his days with his oppressed fellow-countrymen.

A Shame and a Crime.

Some of the readers of The World will hardly credit it, but Mr. Blake justified "the bitterness and rancor Irishmen in America feel against England for her treatment of the Sister Isle." Following this came what I certainly considered an indefensible statement "that the unfriendly feeling in the United States against Canada is because she is a dependency of Britain. The granting of Home Rule to Ireland would obliterate this."

This portion of Mr. Blake's speech did not seem impartial. He was rousing feelings which had better have been allayed. He talked of England ruling Ireland by 30,000 bayonets and 15,000 constabulary and condemned "the Castle system." He called this "a shame and a crime."

But this article is long enough, so I will reserve for to-morrow some pertinent comments on the remainder of this Kenagh speech, which was the only complete manifesto Mr. Blake made to his constituents. I will also sketch how he spent his Sunday evening and the warm reception in the darkling hours he received from some Parnellites as he drove back to Longford.

THE LARGEST IN AMERICA.

Toronto Junction Has the Largest Stained Glass Windows on the American Continent—Some Interesting Particulars About Them.

These immense windows, which have just been completed and placed in position in the new Presbyterian Church at Toronto Junction, consist of three triplets, each window consisting of a centre compartment 18 feet wide by 26 feet in height, and two side compartments 6 feet wide by 18 feet in height, making about 1600 feet of glass in the three windows.

The principal features of these windows, however, are the figures, which are of course Scriptural subjects, being executed in a manner exceedingly rich and harmonious in coloring, and in effect most pleasing to the eye.

The figures are considerably larger than life size, but it is futile to attempt to do justice to these great windows in a short description. They should be seen to be appreciated.

From a standpoint of art the windows are exceedingly fine and reflect great credit upon the artist, Mr. N. T. Lyon of Church-street, who has become noted for the quality of his stained glass work, the very moderate cost of the same, the contract for these windows being awarded to him, in the face of much competition, for the excellence of his designs. He is now engaged in manufacturing a number of memorial windows for different parts of the Dominion, a description of some of which may appear in The Sunday World when they are completed. 71

THEIR ANNIVERSARY SERVICE.

Good Templars Rally in the Pavilion—Encouraging Addresses.

In place of the regular Sunday temperance service in the Pavilion, Toronto District No. 19, I.O.G.T., held its annual public service yesterday afternoon. On the platform were seated Right Worthy Grand Templar Oronhyatekha and the district officers. District Chief Templar George Spence filled the chair.

Led by H. M. Blight, the audience heartily joined in singing the 100th Psalm, after which the 11th chapter of Isaiah was read. A sacred solo was rendered in excellent taste by Mr. Blight, after which Dr. Oronhyatekha addressed the gathering.

"Besides holding the position of chief of the I.O.G.T., Dr. Oronhyatekha is an Indian chief and feels deeply the injustice done the Indian by those who have given him the desire for liquor. The Doctor delivered an earnest and pointed address, setting forth the claims of the Good Templars for recognition by all temperance people.

Following the Grand Templar's discourse were addresses from two city clergymen, Rev. Theo J. Parr, pastor of Western Congregational Church, and Rev. J. Edward Starr of Elm-street Methodist Church. Both clergymen spoke encouragingly of the progress made by the order and the temperance cause and made stirring appeals for united effort in the temperance work.

There are 1300 Good Templars in Toronto and the membership of the order here is rapidly increasing, while much aggressive temperance work is being done by city lodges.

WILL THEY SLAUGHTER HIM?

Dr. Wild Speaks Plainly of the Anarchists and is Apprehensive.

The Bond-street sage preached a characteristic sermon yesterday evening on the Homestead riots. He pointed out the vast difference between theory and practice, and that Hugh O'Donnell and his fellows in all likelihood had no idea of such an outcome of their great strike.

The interference of the Anarchists with the strike was then commented upon in severe terms and their organization and methods condemned. "It shows that society is on the crust of a volcano, on which such a man as myself, who dares to speak out, will perhaps fall a victim," said the doctor. In speaking of the Iams incident, Dr. Wild remarked that he was not the only man in the regiment who held similar sentiments, and prophesied that the day would come in which three-fourths of the militia ordered to fire upon strikers would sympathize with the strikers.

"Do you think they would fire? If you do you hold a different opinion from me, and I'm a very moderate man," said the preacher, and he concluded with a few words referring to the grave danger to which society is exposed.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS AT DENVER.

Every Available Means of Transport Overtaxed.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 6.—It is estimated that by Tuesday next 200,000 strangers will have arrived in Denver to attend the grand conclave of the Knights Templars or to witness the evolutions of the Knights. The crowds are so great that the railroads have been forced to put windows into baggage and box cars, turning them into passenger coaches. In lieu of seats settees are put in, taken from depots. Even work train cars have been cleaned up and used.

Forthcoming Attractions at the Academy.

Monday, Aug. 29, will be the opening day at the Academy of Music. The theatre will be under the same management as last season. Manager Kirchner informs The World that amongst other attractions in the forthcoming season will be the following: Germania Opera Company, Hermann Opera Company, Lotta, Madam Janbeau, Said Pasha Opera Company, Robert Downing, Lillian Gos, Flying Marriage Company, Lion's Paw, The Dazzler, Private Secretary, Bulls and Bears, Robin Hood Opera Company, Howdin Thomas Opera Company, Mrs. Bernard Beere, Boscinian Opera Company, Gorman's Minstrels. Other attractions will make up one of the best lists for the season which the Academy has ever had.

A Dastardly Attack.

An assault of a peculiar character was committed on William Hand of 103 Oak-street on Friday night last. Mr. Hand, who is a lead glazier, says he was walking past the corner of Front and Water-streets about 12 o'clock on that night when a man whom he had never seen before came up behind him and struck him over the head with a paper bag filled with lime. The assailant evidently expected the bag to burst and temporarily blind Mr. Hand; but as it remained intact he gave up the fight and ran away, pursued by his intended victim. Mr. Hand says he would recognize the ruffian, and has put the police on his track.

The Jolly Foresters.

The moonlight excursion of Court Harmony No. 7045, Ancient Order of Foresters, took place on Saturday night on the steamer Cibola. The night was a grand one, and there was a large attendance of the members of the order with their friends. The excursion was a success socially as well as financially. The concert was enjoyed by everyone present. It was given by the following members: Brothers Joseph J. Lee, Sims Richards, Frank Wright, R. J. Licence, Prof. S. M. Early, assisted by Mrs. Frank Wright, Miss Polly Sheehan, Miss Ida Wilkinson, Miss Mabel Gloyns, Messrs. W. Draper, W. Jackson, D. Lauder and H. Sparks, under the direction of the chairman of entertainment committee, E. W. Vogeley. After the concert dance music was furnished.

At Hanlan's Point.

Manager Conner has a capital program of amusements for Island visitors this week. Amongst the attractions are Clifford Calverley, the wire king; Braatz Brothers, renowned acrobats; and Ray Burton, the champion swinging rifle shot of the world. There will be the usual musical attractions. Hanlan's Point is now the popular resort afternoon and evening for thousands of citizens who not only enjoy the coolness of the spot but the first-class performances which Mr. Conner week by week supplies.

Goody-Goody Chewing Gum is a delicious thing to keep your mouth moist.

A Dollar Too Much.

Hitherto the charge for liberating dogs captured by the trappers has been $2. The City Solicitor has decided that $1 is the proper charge in cases where the dog was licensed, and that citizens who have paid $2 in such cases are entitled to the return of $1.

Wilton Lodge No. 242, I.O.O.F., picnicked at Island Park yesterday afternoon.

SIGNALLED FORTY MILES.

A Successful Series of Experiments between Hamilton and Toronto.

Assistant-Surgeon King, in charge of the signalling corps of the Grenadiers, and Sergeant Huggins went up to Hamilton yesterday and got up on the Mountain, where they set up their little heliograph and were enabled to hold converse with four other members of the corps who were stationed on the Canada Life building in Toronto. The distance is 40 miles, and though there was a haze intervening the two parties had no trouble in holding conversation. This is a long distance to hold successful conversation over, but the men are now so well trained to the work that they would have no difficulty under ordinary circumstances in signalling orders and the like at long distances. Next week the experiments will be continued.

Osgoode Hall Notes.

In the case of Cousins v. Cousins, C.P.D., H.C.J., Mr. Hilton for the defendant, John Cousins, on Friday appealed before Mr. Justice MacMahon from an order made by the acting master in chambers directing that the defendant pay the plaintiff, Catherine Cousins, $140 arrears interim alimony. In his argument Mr. Hilton stated that the plaintiff's solicitor, Mr. Smythe, had given a consent in writing extending the time for delivering statement of defence up to Aug. 1. On July 27 Mr. Smythe had applied to the master and had obtained the order now appealed against. Now the application had been made and the order granted in direct opposition to the practice in such cases as laid down in Rule 580, which provides that "No application for interim alimony shall be made until the time for delivering the defence has expired." The learned judge reserved judgment until Saturday, when he gave his decision allowing the appeal. Costs will be costs in the cause of the defendant. The parties to the action formerly resided as husband and wife at London, Ont. The plaintiff now lives at Windsor, Ont., and the defendant in New York.

King of Wines.

The town of Ay is the cradle of the champagne district. It is there that Messrs. Duetz and Geldermann own their beautiful vineyards, under which are built their marvelous chalk cellars, measuring miles in length. These are filled with the now famous "Gold Lack Sec" Champagne, each bottle being carefully nursed for at least five years before shipment, and all containing wine pressed from the finest vintages only. Its delicacy, bouquet and effervescence has made the brand win its extraordinary success in the markets of England, Germany and Russia. It is now the favorite of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Court, the Army and Navy. It was also specially selected for the Lord Mayor's banquet, given last month in London.—LAWRENCE A. WILSON & CO., Sole Agents for Canada, Montreal.

"Hotel Vendome," New York.

Toronto people visiting New York should make their home at the well-appointed and handsome "Hotel Vendome," corner of Broadway and Forty-first-streets. The "Hotel Vendome" is a short distance from the Grand Central depot, and has also direct car service from the West Shore and Erie Railway ferry docks. The "Vendome" is almost opposite the Metropolitan Opera House, and street cars pass the door from all theatres. Its appointments are perfection. Newly furnished and equipped from the ninth story down; it is the par excellence of comfort. The hotel contains two hundred and fifty rooms, single and en suite, with or without baths, and is conducted on both the European and American plan. The cafe is one of the handsomest in New York, and the dining-room, situated in the ninth story, cannot be surpassed in New York. 1

They also contain Rocky Mountain Herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. MID-SUMMER ACTIVITY

The fact is a permanent success must have merit. That is true of anything and everything. It applies here inasmuch as progresses every transaction, and the doings of one season are never a high enough standard for the next. You understand, of course, that there's nothing to hinder anyone quoting absurd prices for inferior articles. For that matter one can claim certain things in the paper and repudiate them afterwards, but we don't need to spend a cent in advertising the goods beyond the benefit you derive from this store news. You'll shop here anyhow. There's no mystery about it—simply plain business. You buy Boots and Shoes here because it's your gain to do it. You wouldn't unless, that's a certainty. All through August many classes of goods will be sold without regard to profit. Your interest is to be maintained no matter how sultry the weather or how little the need.

This week we clear out the balance of our stock purchased from

It'd puzzle any one to determine the difference between these ready-made suits at $10 and others sold at $15. We can afford to sell clothing cheap because we have other stocks to help pay a profit. For instance we sell many kinds of

Furniture,
Carpets,
Pictures,
Baby Carriages

and general house furnishings on easy terms of payment. We sell for cash, of course, but mean to be liberal as possible to those with the least money to spend.

Houses furnished from top to bottom and ready-made clothing sold on the instalment plan. So much properly attended to is enough for one store.
