Suits for School Boys

Our Boys' Department as usual abounds with the greatest variety of strictly good garments. In making up the fall stock everything has been shunned that could not be conscientiously recommended for stylish appearance and undoubted quality.

School shortly begins and we extend an invitation to every boy and his parents to inspect our School Suits, Knockabout Suits and Dress Suits, Odd Pants and Reefers.

These are garments in all styles, sizes and prices.

A Jolly Night in Victoria Park.

There was a jolly crowd in Victoria Park last night, the occasion being a dance, given by the resident campers. About 100 couples were present and enjoyed themselves by dancing to music supplied by Messrs. Bond & Yates. The park was in the hands of the campers for the night, having been given over to them by Mr. T. Gardiner. An elegant repast was spread for them in the large dining hall, done up in the very best style by mine host, Gardiner. The party broke up about 3 o'clock and those living in the city had a special car for their accommodation. The thanks of those present were tendered to Mrs. R. L. Gillespie, Misses M. Hollard and E. Gillespie, along with Messrs. W. McAdams, W. Richards and R. L. Gillespie, for the very pleasant evening spent.

A Great Rheumatic Remedy.

Mr. H. E. West, Water-street, Vancouver, writes: I had been suffering from a very painful attack of rheumatism in my right shoulder, and could not attempt to raise my arm, so great was the pain. Griffiths' Menthol Liniment was applied, and in less than four hours the pain entirely left it, and I could use my arm freely. It is truly a wonderful remedy.

When in Buffalo stop at the Fillmore House, Michigan-street, corner Carroll, one block from the Erie and Grand Trunk and two blocks from the T., H. & B. depots; rates $1.50 per day. 246

A Baby Grand in double veneered mahogany was greatly in evidence at the warerooms of Heintzman & Co., on Thursday last. This grandeur of an instrument was tested by several of our most eminent professors of music, and they expressed themselves as extremely delighted with the beautiful tonal sweetness and sonority it contained. This piano is built on somewhat unique lines, and presents in its entirety a crystallization of earnest effort and artistic achievement.

If you have a painful corn, remember Dr. Russel's Corn Cure will quickly remove it without the least pain. All druggists sell it, 25c.

Grand Excursion to Atlantic City.

The next 10-day excursion to Atlantic City via Philadelphia and the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Friday, Sept. 2. Tickets only $10 the round trip, and good 10 days. Robert S. Lewis, Canadian Passenger Agent, 33 Yonge-street, Toronto. 46

Routine Transactions.

Alexander Manning, chairman, presided at the monthly meeting of the Board of the Home for Incurables yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance of members. Little other than routine business was done.

ARTICULATION

Ever notice how differently persons talk after artificial plates are inserted? Their articulation is improved if the plates fit — made obviously painful if they do not.

Our plates fit. They are made that way— by expert skill, aided by the best of modern mechanical facilities.

They aid—and inspire—our patients to articulate—naturally—praises for our work.

We charge from $5 00 up for plates, according to the material used for base. We use only the best grade of fine porcelain teeth, and all of our plates, from $5 up, are as perfect in fit and satisfaction as skill can make them. Painless extraction with gas or vitalized air is free when plates are ordered.

FORESTERS RAISE RATES AND ADMIT WOMEN

Both Great Radical Changes in the I.O.F. Decided on After Keen Debate, But by Big Majorities Yesterday—"Companions" Met Last Night.

The Temple Building, the most beautiful of its kind in Toronto, was once more the scene of a vast gathering yesterday, when the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters again convened. From the vast height of the building, which scarcely deigns to look up to the sky scraping tower of the new City Hall—is symbolic in itself of two things, and in solidity a criterion of both—the order itself and the man who has made the order what it is, float the flags that stand for freedom and enterprise the world over. Perhaps the busy man or woman who rapidly skims the papers does not realize that the existence of such a magnificent pile is a parallel standard of the growth and solidity of the order whose home it is, just as a man's outward dress and environment changes with his advancing position.

Growth of the Order.

Where the English tongue is heard there is mention of this order—starting in a small way and aptly illustrating the adage, "to despise not the day of small things," it has grown until Germany has been reached—Ireland numbers the ubiquitous Foresters in its shores, and England, the United States and similar countries have heard and realize the significance of the three magical letters, I.O.F.

Those who wish to see for themselves the most splendid instances of modern art will find it in the halls and corridors, the walls and ceilings of this vast building, the corner-stone of which was laid in 1895 by His Excellency the Governor-General the Earl of Aberdeen, a member of the order.

The electric machinery room presents to the inquiring eye huge engines of intricate construction, dwindling from shafts as thick as a man's body to needle-like parts, and no matter where the eye turns, the imagination is kindled, and the love of beauty from the sloping marble steps of the Richmond-street entrance, the quaintly, curious bronze work, to the cluster of tapering electric lights hanging like rare pearls wherever the gaze wanders.

About Oronhyatekha, S.C.R.

The name Oronhyatekha is as well known in Canada as those of the early patriots, or the later workers in all branches of life who have made themselves and their country known. Oronhyatekha, S.C.R., is the genius of the order, the central controlling force that made the order possible, with a facility for organization and executive ability that no one questions, a gift of being at one place, yet cognizant of the movement in detail of another; a man who has given all his time and energy, talents and opportunities to Forestry, into which he has thrown his individuality, his intense originality, and personal force that would compel success in any line—a man who could deviate and make his deviation a path for others. From his career at school, when his desire for knowledge placed him at the head of his class, till finally starting his career as a physician, are seen the same traits appearing as the foundation of his character. A big man, a great big man is the Supreme Chief Ranger, with a face that indicates mental gifts, a chin that there is no getting around and a calm penetrating eye, but behind the mask of business is a note of benevolence that may be seen, and as to which those who know him and his personal staff also can testify.

The Supreme Court of the I. O. F. having assembled yesterday, with Dr. Oronhyatekha presiding, the question as to the admission of women to the order was discussed at length, and the Supreme Court, by an overwhelming majority, decided to take in the ladies.

The proceedings were opened by the singing of "The Doxology," in which the big organ of the assembly hall led.

Rev. W. J. McCaughan presented the report of the committee appointed to examine the report of the executive, recommending the admission of women. The report was as follows:

"Your committee have carefully examined the recommendations of the Supreme Chief Ranger and have studied the statistics relative to women as insurance risks, and would recommend:

"That the Courts of Companions (women) of the I. O. F. be granted charters by the Supreme Court, and be made a part of our great order.

"That the active membership of companion courts be confined to women, while that of subordinate courts be, as at present, restricted to men.

"That the mortuary benefits of the order be granted to such members of the companion courts as may desire them, and are able to pass the Medical Board on equal terms with men.

"That it shall be optional with the different high courts to admit delegates from the companion courts within their jurisdiction."

The Report Discussed.

Judge Fitzgerald opposed the admission of women. The Supreme Court had opposed it for 20 years, and the executive should not have gone so far as it had gone. The admission of women would involve a great increase of liabilities.

E. J. Hiseler of Nova Scotia said that in his province it was thought that the admission of women would increase the membership of the order materially.

A. H. Backus said that many insurance companies declined to take risks on females at as low rates as males. The territory of the I. O. F. was very wide, and legislation of this sore should be considered carefully.

O. P. Stockwell of Utica, New York, strongly championed the admission of women to the order. He believed the time was ripe for it.

Women Are Good Risks.

Mr. Patterson of New York said that for 50 years the Mutual Life Assurance Company had charged $5 per thousand additional for female risks, but had lately reduced the charges for females to the same figure as those for males. Other insurance companies were following this example. He would support the motion.

George W. West of Manitoba said that he had changed his views and, with others of the Province of Manitoba, was now in favor of the admission of the ladies in the manner proposed.

Would Strengthen the Order.

H. C. Freed of Fredericton, N. B., said the proposed action would add strength to the order. The risk on the life of the average woman is a safer one than that on the life of the average man. If there was to be a gain instead of a loss, and also the benefit of the association of the women in advancing the interests of the order, then this motion should pass.

Better Risks Than Men.

John A. MacGillivray said the proposition of to-day is not that of 20 years ago, or of three years ago. Formerly it was proposed to admit women as members of the existing courts, but the present proposition provides that men and women are to have separate court. Then the women will not get the sick benefits. The argument about the greater risk was not a sound one. You do not find the women of our homes in the bar rooms, on the race course and such places. They were not in such risk of accident as are the men. Dr. Ward's point that in many cases a woman would be a safe risk whose husband could not get insurance was a hard argument to get over. He urged the adoption of the report.

Mr. McDermitt of the Ontario High Court was opposed to the proposition. He thought the woman's place was in the home, and not running around to organize courts of Foresters.

J. D. Clark of Ohio said it was a simple business proposition. Women needed insurance as much as men, and the risk in their case was no greater. The proposition should be accepted.

Michigan For It.

Mr. Stevenson of Michigan said that Michigan was unanimous in favor of the proposition.

Dr. Ward of London, England, said that the feeling in the Old Country was in favor of admitting women. He scouted the idea that woman was not as good a risk as the man.

A San Francisco delegate also opposed the proposition to admit women, and said that he had at his back instructions from fourteen courts, but for his own part his heart was with the movement, and he would vote against his own convictions. He was satisfied, he said, that if the Foresters of his district knew of the facts they would change their views, too.

Nebraska Favors the Ladies.

A Nebraska delegate said that the state he represented was a hot-bed of fraternal societies, and was emphatically in favor of the admission of women.

Mr. Wardrope of Hamilton opposed the arguments of Judge Fitzgerald, and said that the action already taken by the supreme executive was right. The admission of women would strengthen the order. He had come prepared to advocate the measure and found no serious opposition to it.

Experience Quoted.

Mr. Jenkins of Wales said that the question now before the court had been threshed out by the Rechabites order, which now had thousands of women, both married and single, in its ranks. He had been working along this line for twenty years. Women should be given the same protection as men. To a poor man who had lost his wife and is left with small children an insurance policy for a small amount would be a great boon.

Mr. McIlfresh of California believed in admitting women to separate courts, but not to men's courts.

Ladies Win Hands Down.

After remarks by one or two others the first section of the report was adopted by a vote of 133 to 16. The whole report was adopted by the same vote.

In the Afternoon.

At 2.30 o'clock the delegates convened and the proposed modification of the constitution took up their afternoon's attention. Routine business over, James Marshall presented the report of the Committee on Constitution and Laws. The clause in the proposed constitutional amendment, providing for an increase in the assessment rates, was endorsed. In reply to a question by A. W. Fraser, the chief stated that the proposed increase would only apply to new members. To a further question by Mr. Victor Morin of Quebec, he answered that it was proposed to provide new benefits, notably, in the line of old age pension benefits. They now proposed to solve this great problem, which had been studied by great minds for many years, by the scheme of pension benefits, which would involve a readjustment of the rates.

To Forestall Time.

It was also his view that the time was not far distant when the Government would call upon beneficiary orders to raise their rates and it would be better for the Foresters to take this step themselves and fix their own rates, and not appear to be forced to do it.

The New Scheme.

Under the scheme proposed the cost to old members would not be increased and there would be no injustice to new members. The proposed amendment would increase the benefit-conferring power to the order and place it in a stronger position than ever before.

Why Raise Rates?

B. J. Solomon, seconded by Mr. Wardrope, moved that the table of rates given in the Supreme Chief's report be adopted. W. G. Philips of Ohio, said he had heard no inquiry in Ohio for more benefits. The surplus had greatly increased and members were asking what was to be done with it. Why should the rates be increased? He saw no good reason for an increase and thought that this was a far more important question than that of the admission of women. If the rates were increased it would be hard to get new members, on which the success of the order so much depended. He would oppose the motion.

The chief observed that this proposed legislation would decrease the cost of insurance to old members.

J. H. Backus supported the resolution. Hon. Mr. Aiken believed this to be the most important question which could come before the order. He would favor an increase of rates, even though no additional benefit were conferred. The rolling up of the surplus in the past did not prove that the present rates were high enough. An increase in the rates was absolutely necessary. Take the Royal Arcanum, for instance. They had readjusted their rates to affect not only the new but the old members. They were now asked to place their feet upon the rock of perpetuity and make it unnecessary even to raise the rates, upon the existing membership. The rates must ultimately depend upon the mortality table.

Every dollar they fell short of collecting what would cover the average mortality for a long period of years would be a dollar of debt upon the order.

Too Low Rates a Menace.

The speaker cited the case of several beneficiary orders that had collapsed and left the old men who had been members, without any insurance at all, simply because the orders did not collect high enough rates to protect those men. The actual cost of carrying the risk must be paid or disaster must ensue. Better, he thought, to have $500 insurance and be sure of it than to be induced to carry $1000 and have the risk of losing it all.

S. V. C. R.'s Eloquent Words.

The eloquent Supreme Vice-Chief Ranger made the most powerful address that has been heard at this convention.

Rev. J. H. Courtenay paid a high tribute to the careful manner in which the affairs of the I.O.F. had been administered. He objected to comparing this order to any that had come to grief, for they had done so through mismanagement. He would support the measure with all his energy. Men would not stay out because of high rates. Many now stand out because they thought the present rates too low for safety. On hard business principles, the court should vote unanimously in support of the motion.

New Rates All Right.

E. J. Thompson, Paterson, said he had carefully examined the proposed new rates and compared them with others. They were not too high and would prove the salvation of the I. O. F. There are statistics covering nearly one hundred years, and from them an estimate of the actual cost of life insurance could be secured.

Safe Sound Basis.

If these new rates were adopted, he would not only be prepared to say, over his own signature, but in the paper that he publishes, that the Order of Foresters was on a safe, sound and scientific basis. Insurance societies that had suffered because they began too low and afterwards had to increase their rates, were referred to, and the speaker said the same would be the experience of the Foresters, unless they now adopted the rates proposed. Even with the increased rates, the new members got lower rates than in a straight life company and had, in addition, the old age pension benefit.

Difficulties in the Way.

J. Duclos of Quebec said there were two difficulties to meet. He believed there would be a great decrease of membership and there would be a prejudice aroused if rates were increased. On the other hand, he thought that the rates were now too low. The increase in the rates, however, should be adopted.

Jim Clancy, M.P., a Bro.

J. Clancy, M. P., said that in the phenomenal growth of Forestry they were discounting the future. They must provide for the future. If the growth of the order should cease the rates would have to go higher all round. Then there was the advantage of increased benefits and the receipts in the form of interest on the invested surplus were growing less. Because of this and for other reasons, old line companies were increasing their rates. There would be no prejudice aroused. There were no exacting shareholders to crowd the Foresters. The members were the only parties interested. As business men, they should meet this emergency and not have the Government coming down presently and telling them their rates were too low.

A Dakotan Heard.

J. B. Cooper of North Dakota discussed the death rate, as revealed in the experience of some old line companies, which got along without increase of rates. The fraternal orders in the United States carried more insurance than the old line companies. Some of the former had gone down, but it was through bad management. He believed the proposed increase would do a great injury to the I. O. F. They could not successfully appeal to members to come in when they had to ask them to pay more than the old members paid.

Lower Than England.

James Marshall, London, England, made a comparison of rates of the I. O. F. and the old line companies in England, which were similar to those of America. The I. O. F. was asking a person at 30 years to pay $13 on $1000. The old line rate was $25. The former ceased at 70 years, the latter had to be paid till death. The former carried with it, as well, a total and permanent disability relief provision. If you took the aggregate paid by a man up to the expectation of life, you can still convince him that he was getting beneficiary insurance. As to the death rate, if they had run so far with a death rate under six per thousand, they had no right to assume that it would always be so. The low rates had been a hindrance to growth in Great Britain. There should be no narrow-mindedness. The order should put itself in a secure position.

Mr. West of Manitoba opposed the adoption of new rates.

Favored Increase.

Mr. Stevenson of Michigan made a strong speech in support of an increase in rates. He believed it was necessary to place the order in a position to discharge all its obligations. The best minds in all fraternal societies were urging just such a step. "Let the Foresters lead the procession," said he.

Ralph Mordon of Ohio said he had been teaching the people that the rates were high enough, and now it appeared they were not.

Big Majority for Increase.

After a little further discussion, the motion of Mr. Solomon was put and carried by a vote of 125 to 16. This makes the amendment a part of the constitution of the order.

Invitation From Afar.

G. A. McElrest read a telegram from A. Silver, acting Mayor of Los Angeles, Cal., inviting the next Supreme Court to meet in that city, and pledging the City Council to make it a memorable occasion. The reading of the telegram was greeted with great applause.

Presents Greetings From England.

Mr. Chiswell of Central England, who was greeted with applause, made an happy speech, and, on behalf of the High Standing Committee of Central England, extended greetings, and presented the Supreme Chief Ranger with a handsome framed group photograph of that body, with the Supreme Chief himself in the centre. Mr. Chiswell said that the legislation of yesterday would make the order go forward by leaps and bounds. There were 31 courts with 850 members in his own jurisdiction.

"A Jolly Good Fellow."

The Supreme Chief Ranger, after the court had greeted Mr. Chiswell with "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," expressed his thanks and gratification at the courtesy of the brethren of Centre England.

The Order To-Day.

The court then adjourned, to meet at Foresters' Island Park, at Deseronto, at 3 p.m. to-day. The whole party goes there by a special train, leaving the Grand Trunk depot at 9.15 a.m.

The Sons of Scotland have invited all the Scotch delegates to spend this evening with them in Munro Park, where the prizes won on Civic Holiday will be presented. The use of the electric cars has been offered to the delegates on this occasion by the street railway company.

THE COMPANIONS' FIRST MEETING.

Lady Foresters Get Down to Work and Are Addressed by the Brethren.

The first official meeting of the Lady Companions as full-fledged members of the I. O. F., was held in the evening. There were present over 200 companions from many parts of the American continent, and with them many members of the Supreme Court.

Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger G. A. Harper, who has long been a great sympathizer with the ladies' department, occupied the chair and gave a short sketch of the inception of the woman Forester movement. He considered it a voluntary organization and held together by a golden thread, such as united the British Empire.

Where It First Started.

About two years ago the pioneer organization was inducted in Ohio, Michigan and Illinois, and was at that time designated the Sisterhood of the I. O. F. These sent in applications to the Supreme Chief Ranger, asking the privilege of participating in the insurance department of the order. Yesterday this section was admitted into the ranks of the I. O. F.

Its Rapid Growth.

In one year and a half of its existence it had enrolled a membership of 6176, with 132 existing courts, extending from Maine to California. There is one in Great Britain and 76 in Michigan. Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba also boasted of subordinate courts. Just as the chairman took his seat Dr. Oronhyatekha, Supreme Companion, entered the council room and was received with much applause.

The S. C. R. Speaks.

The meeting called loudly upon the Doctor for an address. He described this as one of the pleasantest hours of his existence, marking as it did a new era in the history of the I. O. F. He had always wished to see the ladies admitted, and now felt almost ready to exclaim with him of old, "Now let Thy servant depart in peace."

The chairman, at the suggestion of the Doctor, invited the ladies to take seats upon the platform, and among those availing themselves of the honor were Mrs. Mary Temple Jamieson, Miss Emma Bowers, Mrs. Alta M. Stewart and Mrs. Dr. Schrender. The following Supreme Court members were also upon the platform: Dr. Oronhyatekha, S.C.R., John A. MacGillivray, S.S., Hon. Judge Wedderburn,

END OF LIFE'S FITFUL FEVER.

Remains of Toronto's Late Anglo-Polish Knight Privately and Quietly Laid Away.

After a life of energetic and persevering industry, Sir Casimir S. Gzowski's body was yesterday morning laid away. Little ostentation marked the farewell scene of a long and useful life; as little as ever attended the funeral of a military man. Few flowers adorned the casket and the pall-bearers were supplied by Undertaker Young. Rev. G. A. Kuhring read the burial service in the library, where the remains lay, after which the cortege moved slowly from the Hall, up Bathurst-street, along College-street, Brunswick-avenue, Harbord-street and Hoskin-avenue, through Queen's Park to St. Alban's street and up Wellesley-street to St. James' Cemetery, where the remains were laid in the family vault. Among those attending were: Sir Oliver Mowat, Rev. Dr. Sheraton, Col. G. T. Denison, Thomas F. Patterson, Prof. Goldwin Smith, Hon. Frank Smith, Hon. A. S. Hardy, Chief Justice Hagarty, Hon. G. W. Allan, Engineer Jennings, Col. Otter, Sir George A. Kirkpatrick, Sir T. Galt, Col. Sweny, Dr. Baldwin, J. F. Kirk, Donald McKay, H. P. Dwight, D. D. Langmuir, H. C. Hammond, J. Molson of Montreal, and J. Ramsay of Hamilton.

The Foresters' Radical Change.

If any doubt existed in the mind of anyone as to the intelligence of those who are entrusted with the management of the Independent Order of Foresters, the action of the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon in almost unanimously adopting the new schedule of rates, should remove it. The Foresters, under the guidance of the Supreme Chief Ranger, Dr. Oronhyatekha, have made remarkable progress, both in increasing membership, and in the accumulation of surplus, having now a membership of nearly 150,000, and a surplus of $3,000,000, most of which has been accumulated within the last five or ten years. Under these circumstances, it appears at first sight, that the increase in the rates was unnecessary. It should be remembered, however, that the increase does not affect the old members, and that the change in rates carries with it additional benefits in the way of making a provision for old age and disability payment, and places the order upon a basis which, in the estimation of intelligent and well-informed men, must go a long way in disarming the opposition, which heretofore has been urged against it, on the ground of inadequacy of rates. The Foresters are to be complimented upon having taken this action, when they were in so prosperous a condition, instead of doing as many other fraternal orders have done, delaying the adjustment of rates until the surplus was exhausted, and increased assessments required to meet the payment of losses, with the inevitable result of loss of confidence on the part of their members. The fact that the death rate will ultimately materially increase cannot be disputed, and this no doubt was taken into consideration by the committee.

The action by the Supreme Court is without precedent in the history of fraternal orders. This is, we believe, the first time the question was brought before the Supreme Court, and to carry it almost unanimously indicates that that body is composed of men who are thoroughly earnest in their desire to perpetuate the order, and to make it in every respect worthy of the confidence of the public.

A Speculative Sale.

Twelve hundred packages of unclaimed goods of the Dominion Express Company were sold Thursday afternoon. The usual surprises were revealed. One man got a keg of port wine for 75 cents and went on his way rejoicing.

Charles M. Henderson conducted the sale in his accustomed finished style. Many were the laughs he raised by his bright witticisms, which were all taken in good part by the disappointed speculative buyers. As an auctioneer Mr. Henderson is on the topnoche.
