COTTON AT 9 1-2 CENTS

Planters Show Signs of Weakening---Offerings Made to Fall River Manufacturers.

FALL RIVER, Sept. 12.—Manufacturers observed today the first signs of weakening on the part of southern cotton planters regarding the price of cotton from the new crop. Despite the action of the Asheville convention, fixing the minimum price at 11 cents per pound in the south, offerings were freely made today to the mills of cotton delivered here for 10¼ cents, or virtually 9½ cents per pound in the south. The grades offered were such as the local mills use for print-cloth yarns, a little better than middlings, and the quality is rather better than the early offerings of last year. The drop in the price has given manufacturers very much encouragement, as they now see an opportunity to make a profit by legitimate trading, instead of taxing all the risks of speculative buying of cotton as they have been compelled to do for two or three years past. With the present prices of cotton and cloth prevailing there is a margin for profit assured, and if the staple continues to go down the situation will improve very rapidly as most of the mills are sold up for the balance of the year.

Today's offerings of cotton have emphasized the growing optimism among local manufacturers, and a group of them, who discussed the local conditions this morning, said they felt more hopeful of the local business than they had for several years past. There can be no weakening in the prices of cloth this year, as the mills are so well sold ahead that there will be few spots in sight, and hence little inducement for cutting under quotations to move goods.

For the moment the demand for cloth is not as large as it was two or three weeks ago, but this is largely due to the fact that buyers withdrew orders when the bureau report was published, expecting a weakening on the part of manufacturers. It is now apparent that the sellers' position is exceedingly firm.

LARGE INTERESTS TOOK PROFITS

They Were Desirous of Quieter Conditions in Wall Street.

(New York Journal of Commerce).

Some surprise was naturally felt that the big financial interests should have failed to support the market against the operations of the contingent depressing prices last week, particularly since the bears have made use of sensational arguments directed against the very foundation of financial conditions. More mature considerations, however, shows the wisdom of the course pursued, since liquidation was almost an absolute necessity if a crash was to be obviated. Pool operation had reached a point where they took on a dangerous character suggestive of a repetition of the 1902 speculation, which, it will be remembered, led up to the 1903 decline. Nothing could have shaken confidence in the mercantile community more rudely than a collapse of the stock market, since Wall street's troubles are invariably reflected by the country at large. The rich interests who today hold the bulk of stocks realize that the constant advance of the past few months has discounted a measurable portion of future prosperity and that if the public is to be eventually induced into the market prices must not be at too high a level. If, as many people think, this fall will see new high record prices all along the line, the movement will have a more auspicious inception after a break of fair proportions. Incidentally the operations of the western contingent, which usually partake of a runaway tendency, find little favor in Wall street banking circles, where an inclination to put on the screws is periodically displayed. It is a fair inference, moreover, that the larger interests took advantage of recent high prices to realize profits and were not averse to recovering their stocks at a lower level.

FEATURES OF THE MARKET

Stocks Gained on Tuesday---Bulls Were More Confident---Liberal Buying.

(Boston Transcript, Tuesday).

The stock market rally of yesterday continued; trading in Wall street was more active. Over 400,000 shares changed hands this forenoon. A combination of gold imports and short coverings effected the change in sentiment, which is quite pronounced in its cheerfulness by contrast with a week ago. The crop estimates are a factor and the quick response of the exchange market to even suggested money activity here is convincing to bulls of the determination to permit in the autumn of 1905 none of the upsets and unsettlements which culminated in 1902. Money will be kept at least moderately easy; business needs will be met; temporary financial movements, caused by agricultural and mercantile activity, will not be allowed to complicate the situation. To-day's engagements of gold in London aggregated $1,300,000, and more is likely to follow. There always are gold imports in September, four or five millions in that month in the last three years; three times as much in 1901, twice as much in 1900.

Stocks gained fully one dollar in average today and held the gain. Specialties did much better than this. Reading got up 1¾, to 119½; New York Central 1½; Erie reached 51⅝; St. Paul 178; Steel preferred 164; Atchison 90; Union Pacific 151¾; while Amalgamated Copper crossed 82, and Smelting advanced 1⅝, to 127⅞; Northern Pacific 4, to 211¾. The advances in excess of $1 were numerous and the market held strong all day. The bulls have become confident again; prosperity, yet undiscounted, is seen ahead, and it cannot be denied that the "technical position" of the market is strengthened greatly by contrast with a month ago. Today buying was liberal—great crops, money market protection against stringency, great general business activity, railroad traffic heavy—these influences, combined with short covering, made for a bright day in the erstwhile weary market.

CODFISH ARE SCARCE

Codfish continue very scarce, and consequently the price is high. Good fish are bringing $7 to $8 a quintal in the States, and this is a strong inducement for exporting, which is one reason for the shortage here.

Smoked herring are scarce, there being no new ones as yet, and the old stock is being rapidly disposed of.

REPORTS, DISASTERS, ETC.,

The bark Low Wood has been at East Boston 176 days awaiting a charter out with lumber for Buenos Ayres.

Norwegian bark Aleida, Ctpa. Jensen, sailed from Runcorn on the 5th Sept. for Yormouth to load lumber for River Platte. She is 1,102 tons register.

BALTIMORE, Sept 12—Schr Fortuna, Edwards, hence the 9th for Salem, collided in the bay with tug Cumberland. The schooner passed up Sparrows Point 9 a. m., returning with flying jibboom gone, bowsprit, head rigging and part of truck "water."

PORTLAND, Me., Sept 13—Stmr Pensacola arrived today from New Orleans with a cargo of sulphur. She is detained at quarantine, there to remain until the health authorities are satisfied there is no danger from yellow fever.

Italian bark Oban Bay, 899 tons, Captain Smith, arrived at Yarmouth Saturday after noon from Greenock. She will load lumber at Buenos Ayres or Rosario. She is now discharging ballast at the wharf of the New Burrell-Johnson Iron Co.

Bark Star, Capt. Jacobsen, 1,221 tons, went ashore at Victoria Beach, N S, light on Sunday afternoon ebb tide. She floated with but slight damage at 5.30 and anchored off Granville. She made the passage from Liverpool in 56 days, and will load lumber at Annapolis for Buenos Ayres.

British bark Nellie Troop, now on the way from Cape Town to Sandy Hook, has been chartered to load a cargo of lumber at Mystic wharf, Boston, for Buenos Ayres at $7.50 a thousand feet. The bark Penobscot, which has been laid up at East Boston several weeks has also been chartered to load lumber here for Buenos Ayres. The Penobscot has been on the railway, receiving slight repairs to her bottom.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 13—Particulars regarding the disaster of the transport Kenjo on Aug 21, in the inland sea of Japan, involving the drowning of Maj. Kobori and 125 soldiers returning from Formosa, are received from passengers of the Empress of India. The British stmr Barsalong, under charter to the Nippon Kuseu Kaisha, collided with the transport, which displayed no lights. When the captains recognized each other's vessel they signalled and both shifted courses to starboard, but the speed of the transport was less than that of the Barsalong which crashed into the stern of the transport on the port side. The Barsalong at once put out four boats and 38, including 17 of the crew, were picked up, but 126 were drowned when the transport went down. The Barsalong was damaged about the bows and has been taken to Kawasaki yards for repairs. The Kenjo was formerly the British steamer Northumbera. She was insured at Tokio for $50,000.
