Accident on the I. C. R.

CONDUCTOR GELDERT KILLED

(Special Despatch to the POST.)

HALIFAX, March 30.—Conductor Geldert was killed this morning, at Grand Lake. His special was run into by a train following. Accident supposed to be owing to neglect in putting out signals.

LOCAL MATTERS.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE honored the memory of Longfellow on Sunday, by the band playing a "Dead March" and by floating the stars and stripes half mast.

NEW PAPER.—The Telephone is a new journal to be published at Bridgewater, N. S. It looks well and will be of the Opposition party in Canadian and local politics.

MRS. GILLIS, whose boy, James, is in jail awaiting trial for assaulting and threatening Charles Fillmore, is making strenuous efforts to get James out on a habeas corpus.

RISE OF WAGES AT SPRING HILL.—An interview between the manager and the miners at Spring Hill has resulted in the wages of coal cutters being raised by 3 cents a box, and laborers wages 5 cents a day.

OUTSIDE.—On the first page: "Extreme Unction," a poem by Lowell, and "Godfather Death," a pleasing story. On the fourth page: "English Matters," and selections from Elder's speech in the Local, and McLellan's in the Dominion Parliament.

FUNERAL SERMON.—The widow of the late Captain James I. Smith, arrived at Sackville last week. A funeral sermon will be preached by Rev. G. F. Miles at Salem chapel, on Sunday next, at 3 o'clock. Also the funeral services in connection with the death of Whitney Bell.

COUNTY COURT.—The new County Court Act provides for the appointment of one new Judge and increases the jurisdiction to $400 in civil suits and $200 in actions of tort. The Globe hears that Wedderburn will be the Judge and that Elder will be Provincial Secretary.

He had received a telegram that a situation awaited him in Minnisota, and he concluded that he had best accept.

HERR MAXIMILIAN ON THE WING.—Alexander Gibson, the lumber king, has captured our old friend, Max Sterne, The Professor is to become organist of the Marysville Church. St. John mourns, but cannot keep him. The memory of Max Sterne is still green among Sackville people, A prince of monopolists that same Gibson is getting to be. It need not surprise anybody if he has Patti up to Marysvill before fall.

EURHETORIAN LECTURE.—Rev. D. D. Currie will deliver his famous lecture, "The Loyalist Idea," at Lingley Hall, next Tuesday evening, April 4th. It need not be said, that the lecturer is one of the best speakers in the Province. The subject is one in which all New Brunswickers should be interested. LOCAL MATTERS.

(From our own correspondents.)

SOUTHAMPTON ITEMS.

—There are faint symptoms of the Manitoba fever. It is hoped that it will not carry off many.

—It will be found that a good deal of work has been done in the woods, in this vicinity, notwithstanding the bad weather and superfluous snow.

—New Canaan friends of Rev. Fred Wright, had a gathering at Mr. S. Brown's. The pastor was obliged to accept a gift of $50, before he could get rid of them.

—The woollen mills here are making 3,000 yards of cloth per month. There was a mistake in regard to the quantity, in the Post late correspondence from here. In addition to this they manufacture 1,500 blankets annually. All Nova Scotia wool is used.

—A big push is being made for the sugar woods. Every year, improvements are being made in the sugar making apparatus. Mapleton produces the largest part of the sugar that is made in the County of Cumberland, and Cumberland makes as much as all the rest of the Province. The sugar made here is greatly improving in quality year by year. The industry needs no tariff to protect it.

SURREY, A. C., ITEMS.

—The skating in the rink continues.

—The river is now free from ice, and the coasters have commenced business.

—The roads are good, and both farmers and lumbermen are busy; but still wood is very scarce.

—Mr, J. T. Steeves is confined to his bed by a cold, &c. His medical adviser prescribes that he must omit his school duties until at least the 1st of May.

—We were glad to see that all work was suspended last Sunday on the Albert Railway. The late storms caused the trains to work for five or six Sundays successively. There is prospect of increased traffic this season, as a large part of our fuel is conveyed over this road.

—There does not appear to be any prospect of any amelioration in the present Inspectoral regulations. From the Inspector's reports, too, readers would infer everything is satisfactory, but $1200 has a powerful effect on the sight and feelings. No doubt, many believe that these regulations will only effect teachers, and make them work harder for less pay; but such must remember that labor will regulate itself, and I shall be dissapointed if trustees are not forced to add a large percentage to teachers' present pay if they obtain, in the future, persons well qualified for the business.

PARRSBORO' NEWS.

—It is said by some who ought to know, that a trio of steam boats will be in the Basin service next summer.

—St. Patrick's Day came and went without other demonstrations than those Boreas made with the light snow.

—The weather continues cold; no maple sugar in it The roads last week were the best of the season, and were well improved in hauling fire wood and ship timbers.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Holmes and family have the sympathy of the community in the demise of their estimable daughter and sister Alice, which took place on 19th inst., of lung complaint. Her age was about 22 years.

—Politics are squirming in view of the local election. Some special meetings have been held in the cause by interested parties, but unpolitical reprobates are not yet aware who will wiggle into office or who will wiggle out, or even who the candidates will be.

—James Halliday, a young Parrsboronian, went to Manitoba about two years ago with only means enough to take him there, and went to work and earned money to buy two building lots, at $60 each. Now he has sold one lot for $3,500, and has been offered that amount for the other lot, which he refuses —Some ladies and gentlemen, friends of Rev. W. Alcorn, met at the parsonage one evening, recently, and the sociability was just beautiful. They retired to their homes before the advent of the "sma hours," making their minister's heart lighter and his purse heavier, by $90. Mr. A. and his family are much esteemed on this circuit.

—As I saw an item in the POST of the 16th inst., to the effect that "loup cerviers and wild cats" had adopted a human profession, and were obbing hen roats in the city of Halifax, will its editor or some of its readers, give the information through the same medium, whether loup cerviers and wild cats are two distinct animals, or is the latter mythical; and if a different species, do they make raids on poultry in company.

SHORE ITEMS.

—Singing practice at Northport is prorogued. During one of the nights of meeting the lock of the school house became impaired so that it was impossible to unlock the door. The next day witnessed the teacher entering through the window followed by her obedient pupils.

—Whooping cough has been epidemic here this winter. Whole families have been afflicted with it, and it has even made its way into the schools, in some instances both teacher and pupils have been afflicted with it, and when they raise a whoop they would put to shame a party of the "red men."

—Mr. Benjamin Brownell last Saturday lost a fine mare. In starting a load of logs she slipped and fell, injuring herself so severely that she died in a few hours. Timothy Brownell on the same day had his foot badly cut by Chas. Hunter. They were felling a tree when Hunter's axe glanced and struck Brownell in the side of the foot, inflicting a severe gash.

—Mr. Joseph Hunter, who has been practicing for the Wimbledon Team, after taking the Christmas goose determined to try his luck on the canine race, and forthwith with a zeal worthy of a better cause shouldered his musket and marched into the yard of Mr. A. C. Angus and shot a fine watch dog. Mr. Angus at once consulted counsel learned in the law, and the result was Joseph was to pay a fine of ten dollars or go up for thirty days.

—Notwithstanding the unfavourable weather, lumbering has been proaecuted quite extensively here this winter. A great many logs are in at the different mills, ready for the spring's sawing, besides those that have been got out for the portable saw mills. Every year lumber is becoming scarcer and those portable saw mills are destined to hasten the time when this industry of our country will be numbered with the past.

—The weather during the month of February was the most stormy within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The roads were completely blocked up and mails and business in general delayed. We were isolated from the outside world for a week at a time, on account of not receiving our mail. Even the "conquering hero" who fulfils the office of mail courier, and who, although hardly like the flag of Nelson that had braved the battle and the breeze, has certainly faced many a storm and piercing gale, was compelled to remain at home till Jupiter saw fit to allow him to pass onward. Can it be that previous defeats have made him less courageous than formerly.

LOCAL AND PROVINCIAL.

—Moncton is to have a rolling mill, it is thought.

—The Avon Marine Insurance Co., of Windsor, N. S., has declared a dividend of 40 per cent.

—R. W. Swallow, of Advocate Harbor, N. S., was presented with a purse of $71 on the 9th inst., by his congregation

—The Spring Hill Coal Mining Company has commenced a slope on the new seam of coal discovered a few days ago.

—The Baptist Church at Moncton under the charge of Rev. Mr. Gates, is adding to its members. Mr. Gates has baptized seven converts recently.

—Mr. G. E. Langley, of Petitcodiac, had a pocket book stolen from him, while on the steamer "Scud." He lost promisory notes of considerable value.

—A heavy business is being done in freight on the Inter-Colonial. Some of the conductors whe run freights by the trip will get in 60 days this month.

—Schr. "Clara," Owen Martin, was seized at Alma on Thursday last, by Collector Stevens, of Hillsboro', for smuggling at Rockport and Alma, in November last.

—The Dane, who died of small-pox up in the Danish settlement, had previously communicated the disease to his wife and child. Fears are entertained that the malady will spread among the neighbors.

—Sixteen carpenters have left Halifax to work at Honolulu, They contract to receive $50 per month from the day they leave Halifax till they get back there; $1 per day allowed them for board on the journey.

—On the 2nd inst., the members of the Methodist congregation, at Parrsboro', met at the parsonage. After a pleasant evening, $72.00 in cash was presented to the Rev. W. Alcorn in aid of circuit receipts. Mrs Alcorn was also presented with $17.00.

—On Wednesday of last week, about 4 p m., the driver of a coal train between Moncton and Spring Hill observed a man lying across the track. It being an up grade the train was brought to a stand before reaching the man. He was found to be an Indian (name unknown) lying sound asleep from the effects of drink.

—George P. Thomas writes to the Times claiming that the trial of Moore for the stabbing of Halls was carried on in a manner very discreditable to the Magistrate. He also thinks that he was himself somewhat impolitely treated in court, and denies a report that he received money from Moore, and connived at his escape.

—Lord Dunraven, who, as will be recollected, was arrested down in Queen's Co., N. S., for shooting without license, has sued the magistrate for $5,000 damages. So has his companion, Mr. Jennings. The noble Lord is not without money, and might pull through without charging $5,000 per day for lost time. C. Tupper is counsel for plaintiffs, Harrington for defendant.

The Cape Tormentine Railway.

REPORT OF MR. BOXALL, C. E.

SACKVILLE, March 23.

To Josiah Wood, Esq., Hon. A. E. Botsford, J. L. Black, Esq., M.P.P., Amos Ogden, Esq., and others:

Gentlemen,—At your request, I beg to submit to you the following report on the Cape Tormentine Railway both as regards the quality of the proposed line and its prospective traffic.

This railway will leave the Intercolonial at Sackville Station, crossing the public road to the south of Mr. Wood's Bank and wholesale establishment, following along on the marsh until it arrives at Four Corners Station (3 miles). This station will accommodote the thickly populated part of Upper Sackville, and will be contiguous to two saw mills, a grist and fulling mill, and two large and important manufactories, the latter employing about 120 hands; it will also accommodate the settlers along the Abonshagon Road.

From this point the railway follows the marsh until it reaches the upland at or near Migic station (7 miles). This station besides accommodating the population of Centreville, Harper's Brook and Migic, will also be the loading place for the output of from seven to nine saw mills, and I have, from statistics gathered of the vessels loaded last year at the port of Sackville, that what would represent 750 car loads of deal, etc., was last year hauled from the vicinity of this station over the most execrable roads, on the alluvial deposit forming the marsh of Westmoreland Co., and this at a great cost to the manufacturer.

Soon after leaving Migic Station the line reaches some of the best timber land to be found in the Province, and continues in the forest until it debouches on the important townships of Baie Verte and Tidnish. At Baie Verte there is a station close to the town (16¾ miles).

This important station, will also accommodate the great agricultural parish of Botsford on its eastern side.

From Bay Verte the Railway takes a northerly direction, running round the Bay until it reaches the important station of Port Elgin (19 miles); here are saw mills and a large woolen mill, amidst a thriving and an industrious population. From this the line passes along south of the Emigrant Settlement road until it reaches either Cape Jourmain or Cape Tormentine; total distance 36 miles.

The country along the Emigrant Settlement road for seventeen miles is settled by a well to do, industrious yeomanry, with farms scarcely to be excelled in this Province.

This line can be effectively and well built at a comparatively small cost; its gradients are easy, its tangents long, and its curves are of large radii and few in number, the first seven miles is level, and, as surveyed, is a better line than the Interolonial between Moncton and Amherst.

The parishes of Botsford and Westmorland have a large agricultural product, and it is a notorious fact that cereals and potatoes can be purchased in these parishes at a nominal rate when the prices of the same comodities are ruling high even in St. John, as well as the United States; but they (the producers) can take no advantage of a good market; and from the want of a means of conveying their crops, the yeomanry in this rich part of the Province are great sufferers.

The trade of Sackville with the eastern part of the county amounts to nearly half a million dollars per annum. This great trade naturally gravitates to St. John. I would, therefore, advise you to communicate with the leading merchants of St. John, and urge on them to give you at least their moral support towards obtaining from both the Local and Dominion Governments such assistance as may enable you to economically, but efficiently, carry out your scheme.

I am familiar with the general character of the subsidized roads in the province, with all of which your line will favorably compare, that is if a large population, and a rich country for a line to pass through are essentials to a large local traffic—you have these.

There is no doubt but that it will be possible to bring passengers from Charlottetown, P. E. Island, and land them at Sackville station in 4½ hours, and such a good quick service as this, will certainly meet the approbation of say one half the Island, some 50,000 people.

There can be no doubt but that a great part of the trade of the eastern part of this Province and the half of P. E. I., tends directly towards St. John and the Eastern States of America; it therefore seems necessary to obtain a good shipping port on the shortest line, and as far west as possible on the Bay of Fundy, and Sackville with its wharf and railway thereto (on which a large amount of public money has been expended), and within a quarter of a mile of your proposed terminus, seems most certainly to offer all the conditions required.

Wishing you every success in your undertaking,

I am Gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,
RICHARD C. BOXALL, C. E.
