Poetry.

TO AN ABSENT HUSBAND.

Come to me!
Our home is desolate without thee, and the sky
No longer hath a glory for mine eye.
Oh for the dove's soft wings! oh that the sea
Would bear this heart's wish to thee!
Come to me!

Come home!
Our sacred treasure, our treasures all are here—
Our hopes—the children thou dost hold sodear;
And yet how sweet my sorrow when I trace
In those young eyes their absent father's face!
Come home!

Come home!
In sorrow or in sickness should'st thou pine,
Whose lips so sweet to soothe its pangs as mine?
Whose watch so steadfast o'er thy troubled sleep,
Whose tears so grateful and whose faith so deep
As mine?

Come!
What is the world to me and thou away!
How, when the sun is clouded, fares the day—
And yon celestial fields, how vacant to the sight
If the bright stars are absent from the night!
Come home!

I dream of thee!
Thine arms about my neck—these lips to thine,
Pressed as in holy marriage hour they met,
Or when new buds were added to the vine
Of our existence—whilst our eyes were wet
So blest to be!

And all the happy days, are we were one—
Our stolen walks—the timid whispered love
Told 'neath the wandering moon or setting sun—
Love which our union day by day did prove,
Return again!

Then on awaking, straightway I arise,
Knowing a vision has disturbed my brain;
But if the dream be sweet I dry my eyes,
For sweet dreams surely must be prophecies;
So comforted, I turn and sleep again.

But once I dream't, and woke, or thought I woke,
For to my heart it seemed a keep voice spoke,
And filled it with a sweet delight—not now—
The old delight, love, often shared wit you.

So I arose and, and felt about for thee,
Whilst through the window shone our marriage star,
So full of meaning, and do joyfully,
As it would say—"Thy love in lands afar
Is thinking of his love and gazing now on me."

But wherefore dream, and feel superfet sorrow,
When day returns, and night becomes to-morrow!
Bowed be our hearts, O Father, unto thee—
Guide thou the wanderer homeward o'er the main—
And in the time to come, if in thy will it be,
In the calm current of our common life,
Oh may the husband, children, and the wife
Drink the dear past again!

BODILY EXERCISE IN EARLY LIFE.—To force the active motion of children, as soon as they have acquired the use of their limbs, is barbarous opposition to improving their minds and manners, is an insult to common sense. It may, indeed, be the way to train up elevated puppets for the short-lived prodigies of learning, but never to form healthy, well-informed and accomplished men and women. Every feeling individual must behold, with much heart-felt concern, poor little puny creatures eight, ten or twelve years of age exhibited by their silly parents as proficients in learning, or as distinguished for their early proficiency in language, elocution, music, or even some frivolous acquirement. The strength of the mind, as well as the body is exhausted, and the natural growth of both is checked by such untimely exertions.

POTATO ROT.—The Newburyport Herald states that a West Newbury farmer planted this season eight acres of potatoes, manuring six acres of them with Plaster or Gypsum in the hill, and omitting it on two acres. The six acres have turned out all sound potatoes, while the whole two acres have been entirely destroyed by rot.

CELLARS.—Probably one of the chief causes why vegetables of certain kinds, particularly carrots, beets, and turnips, rot so often after being deposited in the winter bins, is the want of proper care in ventilating the cellars in which they are deposited. The Germans, who are famed for their exemplary domestic economy, are rigidly circumspect in this particular. In all or most of their houses there is a communication maintained between the cellar and the chimney, in order to facilitate the escape of the noxious and stagnant gases engendered by the vegetable and other contents. It is a well known fact that the air in cellars, from its rapid deterioration and impregnation by nauseous miasma, soon becomes highly deleterious to health; and to this fact doubtless, is attributable, in a great measure, the almost uninterrupted ill-health of many families among us, both in town and country.—Berkshire Culturist.

In drawing attention now, at the commencement of the Spring Trade, to our Large Establishment.

Corner of King and Cross Streets,

we wish briefly to enumerate the advantages which we offer to our Customers and the Public. We have always studiously avoided claiming to ourselves any power of Selling at thirty or forty per cent. under others in the trade, but simply rested our claims on our extensive experience—buying our Goods direct from the best Manufacturers at Cash prices.

In commencing the Clothing Business some time ago, in St. John, in addition to our large Custom Trade, we introduced a scale of prices little known previously to the respectable class of the public; this we were enabled to do, by entirely rejecting the long credit system, and supplying first rate articles at a moderate scale of Profit for cash.

Our theory has invariably been, that improvements can always be introduced. This year we endeavour to do better than last.

PRICES THE LOWEST—QUALITY THE BEST—AND WORKMEN SUPERIOR.

And by thus continuing to progress during the few years we have been in business, we apprehend we have now brought our business to a point surpassed by none.

The superiority of our style of Cutting is well known. The newest Paris and London Styles are introduced as early as in New York or Boston, and every improvement is at once adopted. In alluding to the large Stock of Clothes in our Establishment, we may merely state that it comprises the best assortment of FRENCH and GERMAN TWILLED CLOTHS, and DOESKINS, of every shade and colour to be found.

Having thus alluded to the general arrangement of our business, as far as regards the Order Department, we wish particularly to draw attention to the other very large and increasing branch of our business, viz:

THE EXTENSIVE READY MADE DEPARTMENT.

Of this branch, we may say that every article in our Establishment is made up as carefully as if ordered. No workman is too good to be employed by us. We make all description of Garments, up to the highest priced COATS, Numbers have proved and acknowledged the value of being at once fitted.

Some idea may be formed of the system pursued, when we state that in Coats we keep thirty six sizes, so that all shades and heights may feel a certainty of being fitted.

To enumerate the varied Stock would far exceed the limits of an advertisement, but our customers will find on visiting the

PANTECHNETHECA,
Corner of King and Cross Streets, that all their expectations will be fully realized.

REVIEW OF THE WORK.

Marriage requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil, which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness, be raised, and its real source in every instance disclosed, in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Excesses are always injurious; the gift, which when used in moderation is fraught with advantage, becomes, when abused, the prolific source of misfortune, and of greater or less injury to the constitution and vital powers. The particular excesses, on the nature and consequences of which this Treatise professes to dilate, are productive of greater misery to the human frame, than any other to which it is subject.

The Work contains an accurate and complete account of the Anatomy and Physiology of the Reproductive Organs, and of their relative conditions in health and disease. Nor are these the sole contents of the Work, the means of escape, as well as the nature of the danger are pointed out in clear and intelligible language. It decidedly requires the closest attention and study, for what subject can be of more importance than the preservation of health, and the physical capabilities of which every man should be possessed. It unfortunately happens that the unhappy victim of excessive indulgence and vicious habits, whether acquired in early life, or from the follies of advanced age, while suffering from their inevitable consequences, unwisely entertains a fear of applying to the qualified physician for relief. Shame and the dread so frequently but erroneously entertained that these complaints are beyond the reach of art, strike restrict him, and prevent his seeking for assistance where alone it can be procured. In acting thus, he forgets that accurate discrimination in ascertaining the causes of disease, sympathy with the sufferer, and above all, secrecy, invariably characterize the intelligent and practical physician, and to the medical man, who can show by his possession of the requisite legal qualification that he is entitled to esteem and respect in his professional pursuits the utmost confidence should be extended. DR. LA MERT has obtained the highest medical honours, as his diplomas testify, and the great extent of his practice for many years is a guarantee for his professional experience, which has reference almost solely to the treatment of these diseases.

The work may be had in St. John, of H. Chase & Co. price 2s. 6d. stg.; Halifax, Messrs. Moir on & Co.; Quebec, Mr. Neilson.
