UNB Student Draws Sentence

By JIMMY OLSEN - Cleaner Staff Writer

16-year old Paul Hair of Bartons Dump NB, an art's student at UNB was sentenced yesterday in Saint John. The condemned was nabbed on an unorthodox narcotics charge.

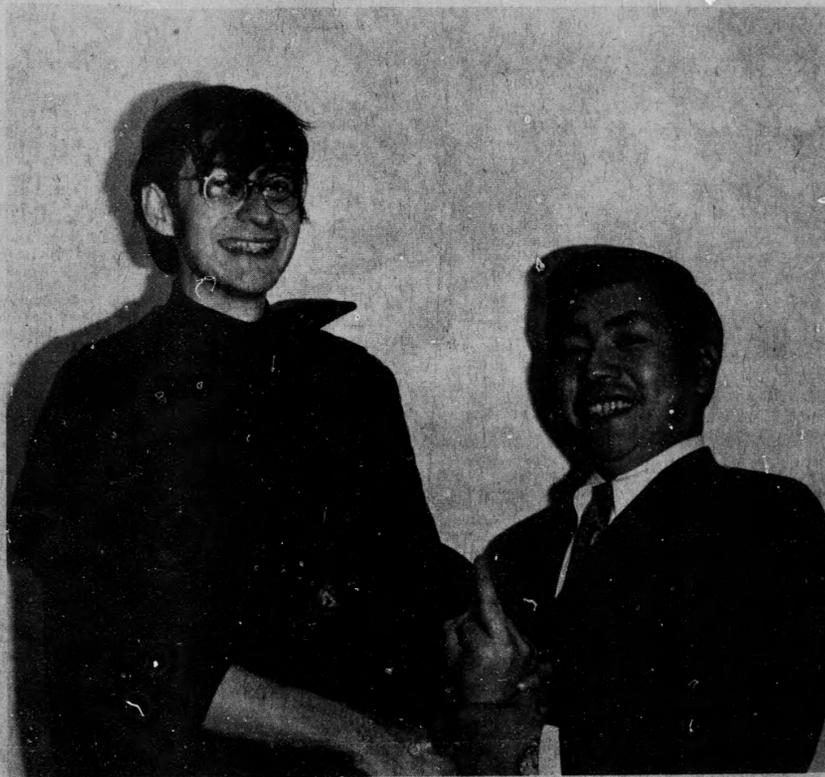

Hair's discovery, a purplish leafy sea-plant which is easily obtainable the Maritimes was until now considered to be "unobjectionable" to contemporary Maritime society. This help known commonly as "Dulse", when salted with fiddlehead greens becomes a sinful concoction capable of rendering the most steadfast mind rotten with avarice and sinful desires.

Hair, when arrested, was wearing green hipboots and greasy overalls and was sporting one of them that "Beatle haircuts". The offending articles were seized as evidence along with a corn-cob pipe found in the accused's person. A subsequent charge of indecent exposure was then levied.

Judge Floyd Smith found the accused guilty according to the pure foods and drugs act. The sentence for the combined charges of the possession of narcotics and being under the influence of same and indecent exposure was $500 and 99 years of hard labor at Dorchester Penitentiary. On release, if he lives that long, an investigation into how he procured the money to support this dubious habit and to consider if any ulterior motives such as sabotage of N.B. industry, were present. The jury was heard to exclaim "Boys, When the judge said they were going to lock him right up that feller was somethin' sorry." At last report Hair's ex-lanldady had left her home and applied for Welfare.

Erbigthing Now Owns Whole Shootin' Match

By BRUNSWICKAN NEWS SERVICE

The Daily Cleaner, one of New Brunswick's fastest decaying home-rural newspapers has sold out to NB pride of industrial establishment, K.C. Erbigthing Company.

The Cleaner, one of New Brunswick's oldest most established daily newspapers has among its credits of journalistic endeavours a five star shield in tribute to its unbiased non-reporting of the Oralmocktoe news interests. Upon presenting the award the commanding officer was warm with praise.

"Never in all my travels have I encountered such good coverage of any army base. You people have not missed one piece of dirt since I came here some five years ago, you always cover our rapes and muggings so well."

The Cleaner won more honours with its 1967 coverage of an attempted coup d'etat by an angry lumberjack's son from Richabucktoo. Leading off with a fiery attack headlined Six Points to Dictatorship, The Daily Cleaner was awarded the Preventive Maintenance Award by the Edmudd Bourque Society. The Cleaner ignored all protests and insinuations that the man was to be elected by the good people of New Brunswick and the Patriarchs in the St. Jeans River valley.

The Cleaner convinced of the extreme rightness of its stand has refused to change since they must protect the citizens from the danger of creeping socialism.

With the purchase of the Daily Cleaner this brings all English language dailies under the control of Erbigthing who stresses the convenience that greater conformity will allow. This latest purchase will in no way effect the editorial department since they will continue to reprint other editorials of interest to readers.

K.C. Erbigthing Oil Company is to New Brunswick what Standard Oil is to New Jersey. Big business and their control of the mass media here will bring the much needed financial stability to the Daily Cleaner.

An informed source who declined to give his name due to personal reasons (ie his brother has an Erbigthing gas concession) commented on the recent criticism leveled at the Erbigthing Company interests and their control of the mass media in New Brunswick.

"The control of the mass media is only a drop in the bucket considering that he only controls two of the radio and TV interests out of a possible three concessions. Erbigthing's interests have approximately three quarters of the round woodlots that were tax-free until Lewis Rubbershrewd's government decided to tax the stumpage controlled for more monies.

"Not to mention the various steel and construction companies under his control. The media is small time stuff to these concessions so why worry," he said.

Rumors were rampant that he underwrote the finances of any opposition moves against that traitor lumberjack's son, Lewis Rubbershrewd. The Cleaner and Jay Cee Vander BlowHorn vehemently denied all allegations to this effect.

Mr. Erbigthing was unavailable for comment on any indications that the media control of the Erbigthing interests was to come under Federal investigation due to adverse publicity about his control of the daily newspapers.

A usually reliable source said that this control could only benefit New Brunswick since it would lead to conformity of opinion and prevent the outside influences that might question his actions and that we must protect the people of New Brunswick from Commie, Far Left Publications.

Officials of the Cleaner say that the new ownership will not affect any present campaigns to clean up the news-stands to protect residents from obscene material.

ON POGO STICK Air Cadet Hops Into Family Tradition

By D. MANDARIN - Cleaner Staff Writer

WO1 Brian Mandarin, of the local 000 Lord Beaverswamp Air Cadet Squadron hopped into a family tradition yesterday when he leaped from the helicopter hovering 20 ft. above the ground with pogo stick in hand.

He was following a precedent established by his brother and his father before him. All experienced the same harrowing mishaps.

WO1 Mandarin struck the ground forcefully and bounced 30 ft. into the air. On his way down, the bottom of his pogo stick caught on a telephone wire and turned three somersaults before bouncing again. This time he smote the ground with his body right in the middle of a huge mud puddle. But, in the true military tradition, he jumped to his feet immediately and prepared for another jump.

The same thing had happened to his father, Don Mandarin, almost twenty years previous. His brother suffered identical consequences, the only difference being that he lost his pants on the telephone wire when he first jumped five years before.

The course in Pogo Stick Jumping is one of the local squadrons attempts to put the "air" back in Air Cadets. Only the top cadets in the squadron make the Pogo-Stick Jumping Club. Along with WO1 Mandarin, there were five other cadets who jumped.

Major D. Mandarin, Commanding Officer of the squadron, commented "These fine young men perpetuate the great traditions of the Royal Canadian Air Force."

More Beer Drinkers

For the year ending March 31, 1968, the Canadian Liquor Control Commission announced that the total amount of beer consumed in Canada was 342,198,738 cases which was a 3.9% increase over last year. The US had only 340,259,685 cases consumed which was a 5.8% increase over last year in the States. So drink up, fellow Canadians, they're gaining on us!

Council Passes By Law

The Fredericton City Council passed the anti-pornography by-law at the regular Council meeting last night by a vote of 9-6. Unfortunately, due to the explicitness of the terms and details of the by-law, the Cleaner regretfully announces that it is unprintable.

LAST NIGHT

Pornography Action Proposed

Last night at a special meeting of the Nites of Columbia, a large group of interested citizens and students turned out to propose action on the pornography crisis that exists in the Fredericton area.

The well attended meeting was held at the Monsenor Boid gospel chambers, and was under the Chairmanship of Justice I.M. Vain. In attendance also were representatives from most of the public service clubs in the Fredericton area, the most prominent of these being Her grace, Beloved Maternal Sister Frances Z. Muckraker, the acting supreme prayer-reader of the Fredericton Chapter of the Robin winged sparrows appreciation club.

The meeting opened with a prayer to the memory of all the birds that had lost their lives in their long flight south, and then the meeting began.

Symposium Disrupted

The University of New Brunswick managed to put aside its revolutionary goals for awhile yesterday to discuss education. The day-long symposium "Education and What It Means At UNB" was called by administrators when it dawned on them that students were misunderstanding the administration of reading, writing and arithmetic to them.

But the revolutionaries still were able to disrupt that calm, rational discussion by making impertinent suggestions and asking annoying questions while the majority of hard-working, clean-living, freedom-loving students were attempting to learn from the administrators that education is listening to what our elders say and believing it, that one side of a question is more right than the other, especially if that is the side of experienced university administrators who have held their posts for 22 years.

They have found it necessary to put injunctions on 14 students and non-students because, a spokesman said, "they have refused to obey rules that have been part of our university for 100 years."

Trudeau In Washington

Prime Minister Trudeau will be travelling to Washington to meet with President Nixon. It is to be hoped that the talks will be successful because of the close ties which have always existed between Ottawa and Washington.

New Brunswickers will look in with a special interest since we too have a special relationship with Washington. For it is well known that Ted Williams the newly named manager of the Washington Senators of the American Baseball League owns a fishing lodge in the Miramichi.

So we join the rest of the Canadian people in wishing Mr. Trudeau well.

BULLETIN

It has been reported that K.C. Erbigthing has made a bid to buy out New Brunswick's latest English-language paper, The Free North Press.

Although the Press has an editorial policy differing slightly from Erbigthing's other newspaper, he thinks it will be a valuable addition to his collection.

According to a spokesman, Erbigthing bought the Press because he wants to "tell it like it is."

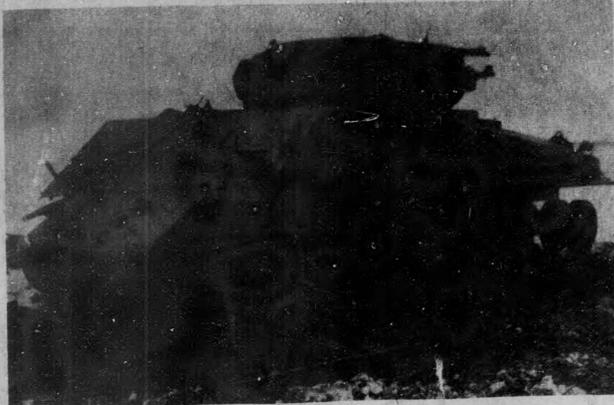

But one local pundit commented that it's more likely that Erbigthing wants to stifle the Press.

"He's publicity shy and the Press' blatant support of him in recent issues is personally embarrassing."
