MODERATE RUN OF CATTLE AT THE UNION STOCK YARDS

Quality of Fat Beeves Not as Good as Usual and Prices Were Lower.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards at the Junction were 66 cars, 1346 cattle, 93 sheep and 5 calves.

The quality of fat cattle was not very good.

Trade for the few choice lots of butchers' and exporters was good, but for the rest it was dull, with prices easier.

Exporters.

Exporters sold all the way from $3.87½ to $4.65, the bulk selling at $4.25 to $4.40, and there were few that brought $4.60 or $4.65; export bulls sold at $3.40 to $3.75, with two or three extra choice at $4.

Butchers.

Early in the morning the best butchers' cattle sold at good prices, ranging all the way from $4.25 to $4.35; choice picked lots of butchers' heifers, 1150 to 1200 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.35 to $4.65; rather good loads at $3.80 to $4.10; common mixed loads, at $3.25 to $3.45; rough to inferior, at $2.50 to $3.

Feeders.

Shore-keep feeders, 1200 to 1300 lbs. each, sold from $3.75 to $4; distillery feeders, 1000 to 1150 lbs. each, sold at $3.40 to $3.75; light feeders, 900 lbs. each, at $3.25 per cwt.

Milch Cows.

A limited number of milch cows and springers sold all the way from $32 to $50 each. But there was not enough to supply the demand.

Sheep and Lambs.

Lambs sold at $4.40 and sheep at $3.50 per cwt.

Representative Sales.

Wm. Levack bought 32 loads of butchers' and exporters, which was more than half of the fat cattle offered. Mr. Levack paid the same prices as are given above, which are his quotations for fat cattle.

McDonald & Maybee sold 21 exporters, 1355 lbs. each, at $4.65 per cwt.; 13 exporters, 1265 lbs. each, at $4.37½; 25 exporters, 1295 lbs. each, at $4.40; 23 exporters, 1290 lbs. each, at $4.35; 24 exporters, 1275 lbs. each, at $4.25; 21 exporters, 1295 lbs. each, at $4.37½; 18 exporters, 1245 lbs. each, at $4.12½; 20 exporters, 1335 lbs. each, at $4.25, and $5 over; 20 exporters, 1250 lbs. each, at $4.25; 20 exporters, 1375 lbs. each, at $4.10; 27 feeders, 1200 lbs. each, at $3.85; 22 feeders, 1205 lbs. each, at $4, 20 feeders, 1310 lbs. each, at $3.65; 23 feeders, 1020 lbs. each, at $3.20; 10 feeders, 1090 lbs. each, at $3.40; 18 feeders, 1110 lbs. each, at $3.60½; 20 feeders, 1145 lbs. each, at $3.60; 22 butcher cattle, 975 lbs. each, at $3.90; 11 butcher cattle, 1065 lbs. each, at $3.75; 11 butcher cattle, 930 lbs. each, at $3.40; 22 butcher cattle, 1140 lbs. each, at $3.55; 11 butcher cattle, 1065 lbs. each, at $3.60; 25 butchers', 1125 lbs. each, at $3.87½; 21 butchers, 950 lbs. each, at $3.87½; 25 butchers', 940 lbs. each, at $3.62½; 11 butchers, 835 lbs. each, at $3.50; 21 butchers', 1210 lbs. each, at $3.87½; 21 butchers, 1100 lbs. each, at $3.70; 1 export bull, 1900 lbs., at $3.75; 1 milch cow, at $50; 2 milch cows, at $45 each; of lambs, $4.40 per cwt.; 22 sheep, $3.50 per cwt.; 11 culls, $2.50 per cwt.

At the Grand.

"His Last Dollar," with the popular character actor, Mr. David Higgins in the leading role, was received by an enthusiastic audience at the Grand last evening. The play is proof of the fact that there can be such a thing as a popular melodrama that does not insult intelligence and good taste. It is far superior to Mr. Higgins' former plays. The merits of "His Last Dollar" are so great as to obscure its defects. These latter are largely those of time-honored melodramatic expediency; but even then the treatment is generally so superior as to lend to them an air of freshness and surprise. Again and again there crop out in the work passages of genuine drama, strong, vital, human stuff, that grips you and remains with you long after the straight melodramatic effects, however effective, have been forgotten. The comedy, too, is conducted in a legitimate manner. It is not extraneous, but is interwoven with the action. Bright lines are also an enlivening factor. Apart from quality, the play can boast of sound construction; the plot develops logically and with cumulative interest. The story of the play, like all Mr. Higgins' dramatic efforts has a decided American substratum. Its hero is a Kentuckian, a jockey in early life, who has made his fortune as a cowboy and ranches on the western plains. At the time of the play he is revealed in New York trying to quadruple his millions on Wall-street. The gaming instinct is strong with him. The trouble is caused by his partner and by the girl who has promised to become his wife. Both prove untrue to him, the former almost accomplishing his financial ruin, while the latter, infatuated with the false friend, aids and abets him. The terrible disillusionment that almost crushes the man who has remained simple and honest despite his wealth, the triumph of the indomitable spirit within him, and his desperate fight to save himself from being beggared, and the unselfish support he receives from the high-strung Kentucky girl, who truly loves him, form the central interest of the plot.

Mr. Higgins gives a characteristic performance. He is at his best in the dramatic passages, and in these his quiet intensity is superb. He builds up his climaxes admirably. At the performance last night there were moments when one could hear a pin drop. The actor who can impress a gallery by simple, suggestive methods is certainly remarkable. Miss Eleanor Montell gives an altogether delightful and artistic performance of the girl from Kentucky. The company is in every respect one of the most evenly balanced seen on a local stage for a long time. The large audience went wild over the play, and Mr. Higgins was obliged to come before the curtain and make one of his popular speeches. There is no doubt but that the Grand will be taxed to capacity at every performance this week.

At the Majestic.

"On Thanksgiving Day," a new sensational rural drama from the pen of Owen Davis, was the bill at the Majestic yesterday and drew two large audiences. "On Thanksgiving Day" is a pretty rural play, but not one showing fields of waving grain, the farm hands returning from the hayfields and stopping at the old well to quench their thirst or anything of that kind, for that would be impossible, the scenes being all of winter. As the name of the play indicates, it is of Thanksgiving time. Jane Howlet, a New England woman with a son by a first husband whom she does not love as she ought to, and a son by a second husband, on whom she bestows an amount of affection that would have been better divided between her two boys, suffers from a heart trouble that the doctor claims will prove fatal is she is ever greatly shocked. On the day that the play opens, she has sold some property and placed the money in a table drawer. Her favorite son, who is badly in need of money to get himself out of trouble with a gypsy girl, known as "Scarlet," finds the money and is about to steal it when he is discovered by his mother, who is blind, and does not know who it is. Her other son, who is also in the room, to save his mother from the possible fatal effect of learning that her favorite son is the thief, tells the blind woman that it is himself; and his mother, in the height of her wrath, drives him from the house. Afterward he is accused by his brother of being the cause of the gipsy's ruin, and is shot by her brother, who has sworn vengeance on his sister's betrayer. He is picked up wounded and taken to his mother's home, where everything is straightened out and the several couples are united. Vance and Sullivan have provided an elaborate scenic equipment and the members of the company presenting the piece gave an interesting portrayal of the various characters. A matinee will be given every day this week.

"On Thanksgiving Day"—Majestic.

The play at the Majestic this week is a charming rural drama, "On Thanksgiving Day." The performances yesterday were largely attended. The piece, which is Owen Davis', bears all the earmarks of a good melodrama, but the sensational parts are so well set off by the comedy element that it affords a most enjoyable entertainment. The story is a pathetic one, in which brother wrongs brother. No less than eight good comedy parts make merriment enough to suit the most fastidious. With a rural atmosphere reminding one of "The Old Homestead," "On Thanksgiving Day" is given by a very capable company. One of the features of the play is a realistic snowball fight, in which village boys take part. The play will be presented every afternoon and evening this week. On Thursday evening, election night, arrangements have been made for a special wire and the returns will be given out before during and after the performance.

PERMANENCE OF CURE.

The Chief Merit.

Many so-called pile remedies will afford the user slight temporary relief, and the majority of sufferers do not expect more than this. Women especially, after having tried every preparation recommended for the cure of piles, have come to the conclusion that there is no cure except by an operation. This is rightfully viewed with dread, because of the shock to the delicate nervous system of women, and many of those afflicted have resigned themselves to the situation with never a thought that there is any help in sight for them.

We invite the attention of all such to the experience of the lady whose address is given below.

"I feel it my duty to recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure, for after suffering ten years with a most distressing form of piles, I am entirely cured, thanks to this remedy. Anyone doubting this can write to Margaret Brady, 156 Whitman-street, Cleveland, Ohio."

Ten months later she writes: "I am glad to say that I am still perfectly free from piles, and have not had the slightest trouble since I first used your remedy. I am well known in Cleveland and have advertised Pyramid Pile Cure extensively here. I take pleasure in doing so, as it saved me from an operation, which I always dreaded, and you are assured the remedy can have no firmer advocate than I."

Testimony like this should convince the most skeptical that Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures but cures to stay cured. It is in the form of a suppository; can be applied in the privacy of the home, directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly.

Druggists sell this famous remedy for 50 cents a package, and we urge all sufferers to buy a package now and give it a trial to-night. Accept no substitutes.

Write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the cause and cure of piles, which is sent free for the asking.

Kilburn's Hall, same night, Toronto Junction at 8 o'clock. Speakers R. R. Gamey, W. F. Maclean, J. W. St. John and others. Good songs.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 31.—Long before 8 o'clock to-night Kilburn Hall was filled to overflowing with a most enthusiastic audience; and when W. F. Maclean, the Liberal-Conservative standard bearer for South York, entered, accompanied by Dr. Sproule, they were greeted by a perfect storm of cheers. The meeting was a splendid one in every respect.

On the platform were the candidate, Dr. Sproule, George Syme, jr.; W. J. Dalton, J. F. Goedike, Dr. Hackett, T. Thompson, and many others.

W. F. Maclean was the first speaker, and when he arose to address the meeting the cheering and applause was loud and long continued. Mr. Maclean expressed his gratification at the splendid reception accorded him, and then proceeded to discuss the great questions of the day. His candidature was not against Mr. Anderson, but against the principles he advocates. But it was not to be forgotten that 1200 good and true citizens of Toronto Junction had been disfranchised as a result of the work of Mr. Anderson and his friends. (Loud applause.) To the hilt Mr. Anderson said he was in favor of public ownership in municipal affairs, but he (Mr. Maclean) was in favor of public ownership right up to the hilt—railways, telephones, telegraphs, and all great public utilities. (Prolonged applause.) Public ownership has done more for the good of the people than anything else. He believed in wholesouled public ownership, and beginning by applying the principle to railways. The people pay the money to construct railways and the people should operate them.

Mr. Maclean's statement that "public ownership is the supreme issue," was greeted with hearty cheers.

"Mr. Anderson is appealing for your votes as a fellow-citizen of Toronto Junction," said Mr. Maclean. "I appeal for your votes as a fellow citizen of Canada." (Loud cheers.)

The statement was made by Mr. Anderson that the carrying of passengers at two cents a mile on railways would mean lower wages to the men, but such would not be the case, as more people would travel at the cheaper rates, and consequently more rolling stock would be required, and more men would be needed to operate them, and the railways could afford to pay better wages. Mr. Maclean's statement that a vote for Mr. Anderson would be a vote against Mr. St. John and in favor of the Ross government was loudly cheered and applauded.

"I appeal to you for your votes not on personal grounds, but on the principles I advocated," said Mr. Maclean, and the audience expressed their approval in a very hearty manner. And when he added that he wanted no man to vote for him who had no faith in the principles he advocated the audience cheered him to the echo.

Dr. Sproule's Good Talk.

Dr. Sproule was loudly cheered on rising to address the audience. He paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of the Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, after which he spoke in glowing terms of the work done in the house by W. F. Maclean. Of course, he said, Mr. Maclean had a great power behind him. "He had The World behind him, he controlled The World, and he was the light of The World.

"No man in the house was more fearless in advocating the interests of the workingmen than Mr. Maclean," said the speaker, "and when he was fighting the big corporations he appeared to be right in his element." (Loud and prolonged cheering.) He discussed the Dundonald incident, the G.T.P. and the national policy in a most eloquent and inspiring speech, which was applauded again and again.

How Arch. Campbell failed to keep his promise was vividly set forth and tickled the audience immensely. Archie had told the electors on that very platform and in his own presence that if elected he would do ever so much more for the market gardeners than T. F. Wallace, the Liberal-Conservative candidate. Well, Archie was elected, and they all knew how he shirked the vote by dropping into the speaker's chair, which had been conveniently made vacant for the occasion. (Cheers.)

Dr. Sproule closed a masterly speech by asking the electors to give Mr. Maclean the largest majority ever given to a candidate in the town on Nov. 3.

Gamey in Good Form.

R. R. Gamey was accorded a magnificent reception, the cheering lasting for several minutes. After referring to the Canadian system of party government as the best in the world, Mr. Gamey referred to the ballot to be used in Ontario on Nov. 3 as an absolutely secret one, so that no voter need be afraid of anyone finding out how he votes. Mr. Gamey thought that it was especially fortunate that the ballot was a secret one. Every voter should have the right to vote according to the honest dictates of his own conscience. (Loud applause.) Every man should vote in the best interests of Canada. He believed that the Conservative party in the Dominion represented the best principles in Canada: "and no man in parliament," said Mr. Gamey, "has stood up more consistently and honestly or worked harder in the best interests of the people than W. F. Maclean." (Cheers.) "First, last, and all the time he has stood up for the people," he added amid great applause.

He contrasted the position of Liberals on the question of protection in 1896, and to-day, and showed how they had changed in their views in a few years.

Mr. Gamey referred to the system of voting in Canada as giving an undue advantage to the Province of Quebec. In Ontario and the other provinces there is the one-man-one-vote system, but in Quebec electors can vote in as many constituencies as they have property. This, he said, was absolutely unfair. The voting should be just the same in Quebec as in Ontario and thruout all Canada. Every province should have the same system of voting in a Dominion election.

Speaking about the Grand Trunk Pacific, he said it was not expected that that part between Moncton and Winnipeg would pay, but that was the very part the government had undertaken to build, whilst the section west from Winnipeg, which would pay and pay well, would be built by the G.T.P. Mr. Gamey closed his powerful and splendidly practical speech by a strong appeal to the electors to vote for Maclean on Thursday.

That Ticket Business.

J. W. St. John, M.L.A., who was given an ovation, at once took up the famous white ticket question and proceeded to show that what he had stated on a former occasion was substantially correct. He had stated that Mr. Anderson or his friends were responsible for the printing and circulating of that little white card. The local Liberal paper had many references to the "little white ticket" in its last week's issue and asked such questions as: "Where did the little white ticket come from?"

"Well, I'll tell you presently where the little white card came from," whereat there was a wild outburst of cheering.

Mr. St. John went on to show how Mr. Anderson not only repudiated this little white ticket but he had also denied all knowledge of it. But Mr. Anderson's junior clerk—a young Mr. Gray—was in Mr. St. John's office one day when the "little white card" proved one of the topics of conversation.

"Was it Mr. Anderson who got up that card?" asked Mr. St. John.

"No," said Mr. Gray, "it was his secretary."

Mr. Harper of North Toronto was in Mr. St. John's office when this conversation took place, and being also on the platform, he promptly arose and corroborated what Mr. St. John said amid a scene of the wildest enthusiasm.

At this point there came an interruption, and it came from young Mr. Gray. He walked up the aisle and wanted to say something. When he did get a chance to speak he corroborated what Mr. St. John had said and again the audience made the welkin ring with their cheers. Mr. Gray still seemed to be laboring under the impression that he could make things clearer if he got another chance, so he was invited to walk upon the platform, which he did. But instead of improving matters, he only gave the good-natured audience another chance to cheer for W. F. Maclean and J. W. St. John, which they did with a will.

Another Witness.

Mr. St. John then brought in further testimony in the person of John Haggas, superintendent of the Toronto Junction waterworks, who had seen the little white card and had been told that it had been the work of Conservatives.

"Well," said Mr. Haggas to himself, "if that's the work of the Conservatives I'm done with them." But Mr. Haggas sought out Mr. Anderson and asked him about the matter and then it all came out how the "little white ticket" was the work of some friends (Mr. Anderson's) over-zealous friends, and any further circulation of them had been stopped.

Mr. St. John also pointed out that, as reported in The Telegram, Mr. Anderson, whilst repudiating the card, claimed that the questions asked on the card were "perfectly legitimate." Cheer after cheer swept thru the hall as these disclosures were made. The meeting, which was a splendid one in every respect, closed with the usual cheers. The belief is now quite general that Mr. Maclean's majority in Toronto Junction alone will exceed 200.

Bishop of Toronto Presides.

At the re-opening services in connection with St. John's Church yesterday, the Bishop of Toronto preached in the morning and Rev. Canon Sweeney in the evening. In addition to the $3000 already subscribed by the congregation towards the improvements, an additional sum of $800 was collected at the services yesterday.

Undertaker William Speers has written to the authorities at various points in the Eastern States in order to locate relatives of the late James B. Mayo, who died very suddenly on the Silverthorn farm near Islington on the 20th inst. City Marshall J. S. Wright of Holyoke, Mass., in a letter dated Oct. 25, says Mayo has no relatives there, so far as he can learn, but that he has sisters living at Willimantic, Conn. The chief of police of Hartford, Conn., says he fails to find anyone who is a relative or knows the man.

Fairweathers

96-98 Yonge St.

North Toronto

At North Toronto last night Mr. Gamey told several hundred people that Mr. Maclean was a candidate who stood up for the people's interests. Mayor Fisher was in the chair. He said the corporations had rights that should be protected, but the people should send representatives to parliament who would see that their interests were protected as against the unjust demands of the corporations. He compared the policies of the two great historic parties and concluded that the Conservative party could be depended on to carry out the policy of protection inaugurated by Sir John Macdonald.

Was it right, asked Mr. Gamey, that a man in Quebec should have more than one vote while the man in Ontario had only one vote?

Mr. Maclean's course in parliament on the railway rate question was commended. Mr. Gamey pointed out the injustice that while charging Americans 2 cents a mile thru Canada, while Canadians were compelled to pay 3 cents a mile. Mr. Maclean was working for the people in this respect.

The speaker was firmly convinced that we should own and operate our transcontinental railway. The people of the west wanted some relief from the exactions of the railway corporations, and a government-operated road would control the rates.

The same corporations that were holding the Ross government in power were behind Laurier, said Mr. Gamey, and then he touched the fringe of provincial politics. Premier Ross, he declared amid enthusiasm, could not weed out and make speeches, except in one riding, without hurting Laurier. This was because the tactics of the Ontario government had been so scandalous and so disgusting. But the same organization that had brought Ontario politics so low was in charge of the present campaign. The man from Manitoulin then commented on the acts of the Liberal organization, and when the time came to leave for the meeting at the Junction he had the audience roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

J. W. St. John, M.L.A., followed, and Mr. Maclean, who entered the hall while he was speaking, was enthusiastically cheered. Dr. Sproule commended Mr. Maclean's course in parliament. The Middlebrook family furnished music.

East Toronto.

East Toronto, Oct. 31.—At Osgoode Hall yesterday Justice Britton gave judgment directing that the G.T.R. must make other arrangements with the Town of East Toronto for a water supply, after May, 1905. An injunction is then granted Harold E. Foster and John Maughan, who own property along the stream from which the water is secured and who claimed that the diminished flow was a source of inconvenience and loss. The Golf Club are the chief sufferers. Defendants will have to pay such damages as may be awarded by the master.

The franchise granted by the Scarboro Township Council to the Toronto and Scarboro Railway Company is for 25 years, renewable in periods of 25 years. The extension must be finished by November, 1905. At the end of 25 years the public may get a share of the gross earnings of the company if the parties arrange between themselves for a revision of rates or if an arbitrator so decide. The fares will be based on the ordinary statutory rate, with the following provision. From the Woodbine to the Hunt Club, five cents, or six tickets for 25c; from the Woodbine to the Halfway House, 10c single and 15c return; from the Woodbine to the dividing line between lots 20 and 21, 13c single, or 20c return; from the Woodbine to Scarboro postoffice, 15c single, or 25c return; from the Woodbine to the Highland Creek, 20c single and 30c return. School tickets will be issued to carry children three miles or less in any direction at ten tickets for 25c, and during term time high school tickets for the whole distance will be given for 10c. There is no clause obliging the company to provide fenders, but they take the responsibility of all accidents. The company undertake to run a freight car each way daily as soon as they can run freight cars over the city lines. The only check to the township here is the provision that if the company fail to run the cars for a month at any one time, the charter is forfeited upon a 15 days' notice. The timetable provides for a half-hour service as far as the Halfway House, and an hourly service from the Halfway House to Highland Creek from 6 a.m. to 11.30 p.m.

Vaudeville at Shea's.

An all-star aggregation holds the boards at Shea's this week. The bill is one of the best this season and delighted the large audiences present yesterday. Brothers Bright, a clever team of gymnasts, open the show with a good turn. Cooper and Robinson, colored singers and dancers, are good singers and dancers. Isabelle Urquhart & Co. put on a laughable sketch entitled "Even Stepher." The Even Stephen part was not particularly apropos. The four Mortons are on the program for their only performance this season and delighted the audience with a bright sketch of singing, dancing, instrumental music and monologs. The Vassar Girls, comprising a company of eight young ladies, who play wind and reed instruments and sing and dance, gave an entertainment rarely equaled here. Jas. Harrigan, juggler and monologist, has a good act. Harry Rochelle's ponies and dogs are a wonderfully well-trained lot of animals. The kinetograph has three new pictures, which are very entertaining.

Thoroughbreds—Star.

The old favorites, Frank B. Carr's "Thoroughbreds," are here again and Manager Stair's theatre was filled to the doors yesterday. The Thoroughbreds supplied a medley of nonsense that kept the audience in a roar from start to finish. The company is rich in the features that go to make up a good burlesque show. The comedians are good, the musical numbers are bright and catchy, and the girls are pretty. A number of the old faces are back again. Josie Flynn, Blanche Washburn and Tim Healy among the principals, and some of the familiar but identified faces among the chorus. In the olio the Clausen sisters, Dot and Amy, assisted by Tim Healy, have a bright turn and Josie Flynn and Blanche Washburn appear in their old roles as singing comedians. The burlesque turn supplied by Coyne, Ardell, Lawrence and Edwards, would be better if it were compressed a little. Manager Stair announces an innovation on election night. It will be a midnight show, starting after the regular performance closes at 11 p.m.

Presentation to Wm. Michell.

At Jarvis-street Collegiate Institute yesterday afternoon a happy reunion of past and present teachers and pupils of the institution was held. A feature of the occasion was the presentation to William Michell, classical master, of a set of silverware. Principal Manley, together with many other educationists, accompanied by their lady friends, was present. The gathering was most enjoyable, and the honor conferred on the venerable educationist a well-deserved and timely one.

Administration of the estate of James W. Griffin of Georgina Township is being sought by his brother John of Pefferlaw. It amounts to $3700, and goes to the brother and sister.

ANOTHER case of this store's powerful influence in the marketing of pictures. "The whole stock," said we, "or nothing." And we named the price we'd pay. That meant that instead of taking weeks and months to dispose of their stock the trick was done in a single minute. The first deal was closed.

Now comes the second chapter. We think it will take half a day to bring this second half of the deal to a conclusion. Eleven hundred and fifty pictures cannot be retailed in a minute, but half a day will do it. The values are so apparent, so remarkable and so attractive. If you love pictures be sure to come to this 49-cent sale Wednesday.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Galt, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—A big Clare rally was held in the opera house to-night, at which George Lynch Staunton, K.C., of Hamilton, was the chief speaker. There was a big audience and enthusiasm ran high. The town band and the famous Clare Quartet of Preston furnished the music. Addresses were given by the Conservative candidate, George A. Clare, and George Pattinson of Preston. On the Grand Trunk Pacific Mr. Staunton said: "Let us give this public ownership a fair trial in our great transcontinental railway and if we don't like it we can give the road away at any time, just as it is being given away now. Don't give it away now to make millionaire Cox a multimillionaire. You men who work should be niggardly in spending your money on Cox. We call ourselves an educated, intelligent people, but I say we show no more intelligence than the peasantry of Russia if we allow the government to give away this road."

Kingston, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Ontario Hall was crowded to-night with an enthusiastic audience to hear George Taft Blackstock, K.C., of Toronto, in the interests of Capt. Gaskin, the Conservative candidate. Mr. Blackstock spoke for over two hours and delivered a glowing oration on the building up of Canada by the Conservative party, which roused his audience to rounds of applause. He ridiculed Laurier's claim to statesmanship and dealt briefly with the railway and tariff questions. During the evening two hundred students out for a time, entered, but beyond college yells, created no disturbance. Donald MacIntyre also spoke and Capt. Gaskin closed the meeting with a few words.

Education for Masses.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—One of the most striking evidences of the increasing liberality of the times since the accession of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky to the ministry of the interior, is the open campaign meetings being waged by The Russ for national education of the masses. The paper has opened a popular subscription and is daily printing many letters. The Russkiya Vedomosti of Moscow, a very influential paper, is warmly supporting the idea of opening a similar subscription there.
