Lazarus, Morris & Co.

Opticians and Oculists,
MONTREAL,
HAVE, WITH A VIEW TO MEET THE INCREASED demand for the celebrated Perfected Spectacles, appointed JORDON, chemist and Druggist, Goderich, Ont., as their sole Agent for this place. They have taken care to give all needful instructions, and have confidence in the ability of their Agents to the requirements of all customers. An opportunity will be thus afforded to procure, at all times, Spectacles unequalled by any for their strengthening and preserving qualities.
Too much cannot be said as to their superiority over the ordinary glasses worn. There is no glimmering, waveing of the sight dizziness, or other unpleasant sensation, but, on the contrary, from the peculiar construction of the lenses, they are soothing and pleasant, causing a feeling of relief to the wearer, and producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural healthy sight. They are the only Spectacles that they are the cheapest because the best, always lasting many years without change being necessary.
PRESERVE AS WELL AS ASSIST THE SIGHT,
We employ no Peddlers.

ONTARIO ELECTION LAW.

WHO MAY VOTE.

Persons not otherwise disqualified, subjects of Her Majesty by birth or naturalization, if duly registered, or entered on the last revised and certified list of voters.

QUALIFICATION.

Every male person being actually and bona fide the owner, tenant, or occupant of real property of the value hereinafter mentioned, and being entered on the then last revised assessment roll for any city, town, village or township; of the actual value in cities of $400, in towns of $300, in incorporated villages of $200, and in townships of $200. When any real property is owned or occupied by two or more persons, and is rated for a sufficiently amount, if equally divided between them, to give a qualification to each, then each of them shall be deemed rated within this Act No person shall be admitted to vote unless his name appears in the last list of voters made, certified, and delivered to the Clerk of the Peace at least one month before the date of the writ to hold such election. The following are disqualified from acting as deputy returning officers or poll clerks:—Physicians, surgeons, millers, postmasters, persons over sixty years of age, and persons who have previously served as returning officers.

GENERAL ELECTIONS.

Every general election shall take place and be held on one and the same day, and the polling at all such elections shall also take place of the same day. The nomination shall be held in some public place most central and convenient, between 11 and 2 o'clock. In cities and towns proclamations are to be posted up; in Counties and ridings the proclamations are to be posted up at the town hall, or the place of the meetings of the municipal councils, and at every post office and at the polling places.

NOMINATION DAY.

Nominations to be made on the hustings in the open air, and a proclamation as prescribed by the Act read. No show of hands shall be taken on the nomination day, but if at the nomination more than one candidate is proposed, and a poll is demanded, the returning officer shall grant it. Any elector or candidate may demand a poll, and in case there is only one candidate, the returning officer shall, at the expiration of one hour from the nomination, close the election, and proclaim the person so chosen to be duly elected.

POLLING PLACES.

Each municipal district shall be divided into polling subdivisions by by law. In case of failure, the returning officer shall name the different polling places. No person shall vote at more than one polling place within the same municipality under a penalty of $200. In cities, towns and villages, the polling places shall be at least 200 yards distant from each other, and in other local municipalities at least one mile distant from each other; taverns are ineligible for polling places.

PROCEEDINGS.

On the day of polling the voting shall commence at 9 o'clock in the forenoon and close at 5 in the afternoon of the same day.

DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICERS.

The returning officer shall appoint his deputies, who shall before acting be sworn as to their duties. Persons so sworn, who shall neglect their duties, shall incur a penalty of $100. The returing officer is to see that the deputies are in possession of certified copies of voters lists, and shall deliver to the deputies the necessary poll book.

DUTIES OF POLL-CLERKS.

A poll clerk who accepts the office and then refuses to act shall incur a penalty of $40. Poll clerks to be under the order of the deputy returning officer. (After describing the manner of taking the votes, the Act proceeds)—When a vote is objected to, the words "objected to" shall be written opposite the name of the person voting. A voter may be sworn on demand of a candidate or agent.

NO TREATING.

No candidate shall, with intent to promote the election, nor shall any other person, with the intent to promote the election of any candidate, either provide, or furnish entertainment at the expense of such candidate or other person to any meeting of electors assembled for the purpose of promoting such election, either previous to, or during the election.

FLAGS, BANNERS, ETC.

No candidate, or any other person shall supply or furnish any ensign, standard, or other flag, with the intent that the same shall be used in such electoral division on the day of election, or either in eight days before the election, as a party flag to distinguish the bearer thereof and those that might follow the same, as the supporters of such candidate. Neither shall any candidate or any other person furnish or supply any ribbon, label or the like favor to any person whomsover to be worn or used within eight days before the day of the election, or on the election day. Penalty for disobediance $100.

TAVERNS AND HOTELS.

Shall be closed during the day appointed for polling, and no spirituous or fermented liquors shall be sold or given to any person on the election day under a penalty of $100.

CORRUPT PRACTICES AT ELECTIONS.

Persons shall be deemed guilty of bribery who shall directly or indirectly give or lend, or agree to give or lend, or promise any money or valuable consideration to any voter, or to any person, to induce any voter to vote or refrain from voting, or shall corruptly do such act as aforesaid; or if any promise of any place, office or employment is given or if any gift or loan or offer of the same be given for a vote. Any person so offending shall incur a penalty of $200. Provided always that the actual personal expenses of any candidate, his expenses for actual professional services performed, and bona fide expenses for the fair cost of printing and advertising shall be held to be expenses lawfully incurred.

HIRING OF TEAMS, ETC.

It is declared and enacted that the hiring or promising to pay, or paying for any horse, team, carriage, cab, or other vehicle by any candidate, or by any person on his behalf, to convey voters to, or near or from the poll, or from the neighborhood thereof at any election; or the payment by any candidate, or by and person on his behalf of the travelling and other expenses of any voter in going to or returning from any election, shall be illegal acts, and the person so offending shall thereby incur a penalty of $100 for each offence. Any elector so doing shall be disqualified from voting at such election.

VIOLENCE AND INTIMIDATION.

Any person or persons who shall directly or indirectly make use of, threaten any force, violence, or restraint on any person, or in any manner practice intimidation on or against any person in order to compel or induce such person to vote or refrain from voting, shall incur a penalty of $200.

Huron Signal.

GODERICH, March, 16th, 1871.

W. T. HAYS' AMBITION.

On the 14th February last, a Government Bill was passed, giving powers to establish additional Registry Offices, at the pleasure of the ministry. Mr Blake introduced an amendment to the effect 'that the additional registry offices should not be created without a desire being expressed therefor by the parties interested.' There was as usual the most strenuous opposition to this just attempt to prevent the government from making openings in which they might stow away their needs friends. Isaac Carling of course voted in support of Sandfield's will and pleasure as 'Brother John' ordered him; but W. T Hays was nowhere to be heard or seen. When the amendment was to reduce the exorbitant Registration fees Mr. Hays was in his place to do his best to quash it, but in the division of the office he took care to absent himself, so that he might, at some future time, be able to express the opinion that circumstances might seem to call for. It is being whispered, and there is a strong air of probability about the rumor, that if Sandfield Macdonald is retained in power, the County of Huron will be one of the first municipalities to be commanded nolens volens to 'plank out' $7000 to erect a second Registry Office. Of course W. T. Hays, Sandfield's very obedient servitor, would be the first incumbent of the unnecessary office. We should like to see the electors, both north and south, do their best to block this little game. We are not ready yet to have two counties, with all the attendant paraphernalia, and two registry offices and one Sheriff's office would be productive of endless annoyance, uncertainty and expense. Besides, if any change is made, what the people want is a reduction of fees and not a duplication of offices to provide another warm nest for a government lackey. Mr. Blake wished to give the county the opportunity of refusing to pay for another registry office if the people did not want one; but Sandfield Macdonald said "No! it is for me to say whether they shall have and pay for a second registry office or not." The conduct of Mr. Blake is that of a legislator who acknowledges himself to be a trustee of the people. The conduct of Sandfield-Macdonald is that of an upstart minister who would fain be a despot. The despot's tools in Huron have been Carling and Hays. Let your order to them at the polls be "Right about face! Quick march, home!" We don't want to have to provide for any more ministerial supporters.

To the Law and to the Testimony

THE MURDER OF THOMAS SCOTT.—Isaac Carling voted with the Government that the Ontario Parliament had no right to discuss the Question, and W. T. Hays shirked the vote altogether.

REGISTRARS' FEES—Isaac Carling and W. T. Hays, on 19th January last, voted with the Government to prevent the reduction of the exorbitant fees paid to Registrars of deeds.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT—Isaac Carling and W. T Hays voted with the government against Mr. Blake's Bill to abolish imprisonment for debt. These gentlemen think the honest poor man in difficulties is not entitled to the same protection as the rich man seeking to defraud his creditors.

THE SURPLUS—Isaac Carling voted with the government to give Sandfield Macdonald the entire control of $1,500,000 of the people's money to spend when and where he pleased, and make "ducks and drakes" of, if he liked.

COMMON SCHOOL LANDS—Settlers on these lands have to thank Isaac Carling for voting against Mr. McKellar's amendment to give relief on Common School lands, where such were sold above their fair value, the same as was agreed to be given on Clergy, Crown and Grammar School Lands.

ONTARIO DRAINAGE ACT—On 13th ulto., Isaac Carling and W. T Hays voted against Mr. McKellar's amendment to charge expense of preliminary surveys of swamp lands to the Consolidated Fund of the Province and not to lands drained. The burdensome government measure was carried.

COMMON SCHOOL TEACHERS—Isaac Carling voted that Common School Teachers should be compelled to pay four dollars a year to a superannuation fund they may get no benefit from; against Mr Perry's amendment to strike out the clause, which was lost.

M. P. P.'s AS GOVERNMENT CONTRACTORS.—On 2nd December, 1869, Mr Blake made the following motion:—"That the participation of members of this House in contracts for supplies to Provincial Institutions, sustained and controlled through the executive, tend to subver the independence of this House and should be prohibited." Messrs Carling and Hays voted against this universally understood principle, which even municipal councillors carry out; and the motion was lost.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR'S RESIDENCE.—On 8th January, 1869, Messrs Carling and Hays declared by vote that $110,000, was a reasonable expenditure for this purpose. We are of the opinion that it was wasteful extravagance. What do the electors think? Is not $8000 for a stable for four horses cutting it rather too

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF DRAINAGE.—On 21st December, 1869, Messrs. Hays and Carling voted against the motion:—"That no drainage works should be undertaken on granted lands unless a majority of the owners interested, or the local municipality shall petition for such works."

OFFICERS' SALARIES.—Messrs. Carling and Hays voted with the government majority which succeeded in carrying in the new assessment law that official salaries—those of the ministry included—should be exempt from being taxed.—While all of us work hard to earn a living and pay our taxes, these fine gentlemen are well paid to smoke, drink, read the papers and give uncivil answers to civil questions; and can even laugh at the collector of taxes.

Would the Star please publish Messrs Toms and Donaghy's telling speeches at Smith's Hill; because people seem to think that Mr. Donaghy on the stump here appeared to as great disadvantage as Mr Donaghy in the chair at the recent Nile Tea Meeting.

Our readers will excuse us for giving up our space for one week more to local politics.

How the Cloven Hoof Sticks out

Most Tories are inclined to hide the covetous greed which alone induces them to hang on to the skirts of Sandfield Macdonald, under a gaudily designed mask of professed principle. The only amusing feature the Star ever exhibits is the savage simplicity with which it acknowledges its gross and insatiable craving (like the gentleman's cook for "kitchen fee") for the crumbs that fall from its master's table. The Star specially objects to Robert Gibbons because "he would not have interest enough to get a man appointed Pound-keeper." If we had known, previous to the recent appointment of Municipal officers, that the Star had the lofty situation of "Pound-keeper" in his eye as an agreeable alterative to the agonizing throes which intellectual parturition must evidently cost the editor, we should certainly have pressed his claims on the Municipal Council, where we are fain to believe Mr. Gibbons would have had influence enough to secure his appointment. If the Star will kindly remind us, a few weeks before the date next annual appointments come round, we will do our best to gratify the editor's ambition; and we are sure Mr. Gibbons will also show that he bears the Star no grudge for all its malicious slanders and has "interest enough to get the man appointed Pound-keeper."

Then he wants our wharves to be built by the Provincial Government as our Harbor is to be dredged and piers erected at the cost of the Dominion Government. We claim this as a matter of justice; the Provincial government having assumed the power to aid certain "mixed or commercial Harbors" as the Dominion government takes the charge of "national harbors or harbors of refuge." When the dredging and pier-work are completed at Goderich, it will be pointed to by every American and Canadian navigators will point to this as the harbor that should be aided, and public opinion will compel Sandfield Macdonald's government to do justice in the premises; while there is no fear but justice will be done if the present ministry is turned out of office. We would remind our readers of the pregnant fact that the grant which will make Goderich the best Harbor on Lake Huron was procured for us by M. C. Cameron, Esq., M. P., whom the Star always opposed and vilified as a man of no influence, in just the same terms as it now mendaciously assails Robert Gibbons.

We unhesitatingly affirm that we would rather be without government grants for a century than see a single voter bartering his independence and trading off his citizenship, for a delusive promise of a share of the surplus. That surplus will be disposed of when, how and where the ministry pleases, and W T Hays and Isaac Carling have no more influence over it than the man in the moon we were going to say but on second thoughts we prefer the more local comparison of—the man in the Star. If Isaac Carling's voting weight amounts to anything it will be to place a whole array of public works, not in South Huron but in Brother John's constituency.

We ask the electors, both North and South, to do their duty to their country, fearlessly and conscientiously, and select reliable men to represent them, and reject the ministerial tools who have played their little game long enough. The sordid petitions made by the Star, to secure above all things money, money, money, are worthy of the despicable source from which they spring and will grate harshly on the honest yeomen of Huron, who form the bone and sinew of the constituencies, and can neither be intimidated nor bribed to prostitute their franchise

SOUTH HURON.

Mr Gibbons, Warden of the county of Huron, was unanimously nominated Reform candidate for South Huron by a convention assembled at Bruceefield yesterday. The Reformers of Huron will be glad to see Mr Gibbons once more in the House. He was most infamously ejected from it by the partizan trickery of the axe-grinders, more particularly by Clark, the member for Greenville, and Grahame, member for West York. His experience in municipal matters is very extensive; he is a ready, forcible and sensible speaker, and exercised much influence in the House while he sat in it In this respect he was a complete contrast to his successor Mr. Isaac Carling, who never opened his mouth, and is a perfect picture of stolid stupidity. Mr. Carling, by the way, has shown great reluctance to run, and was only brought to the scratch, it is said, by a despatch from the premier as follows:—"D—— it man, run at all hazards." We sincerely trust that the hazards may go against Mr. Carling, and that South Huron may do herself honour by electing the man fairly chosen at last election.—Globe.

The Star says of its attitude towards Mr. Gibbons at last election:—"We then condemned him as an annexation."—This is not exactly a "bull" but something of the same family. The Star still condemns him "as an annexation," and we suppose will continue to do so to the end of its little chapter. Mr Gibbons is quite as loyal as the individual who seeks to make "political capital" out of the false and silly accusation and yet has, upon occasion, supported ministers who "looked to Washington" as Mr Gibbons never did. When the country has been in danger Mr Gibbons has shouldered a musket ere now in its defence, and we doubt not would be as ready as the youngest to do so again. Such silly clap-trap is played out, Mr. Star.

SOLD—A good joke was occasioned last Saturday night in Colborne A meeting was called by the Reeve, at Smith's Hill, for the purpose of appointing delegates to a convention at Blyth, for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the opposition for North Huron. The notice calling the meeting, neglected to state in what interest the said candidate was to run. When the gathering was called to order, it was found that nearly every man was in favor of W. T. Hays, Esq., and delegates pledged to support that gentleman, were nominated. The opposition feel they were sold this time, but are very reticent about it.

So says the Star, and effectually "sold" Mr. W T Hays will find himself for taking a high-handed advantage of the "mistake" which Mr Wm Young acknowledged that he made. It is easy to "strike ile" by pouring a barrelful down a well of water, and equally easy to nominate delegates in any opposing interest when sleigh-loads of men are carted out to pack the meeting for the purpose. But this sort of "game" is not relished by the independent electors of Colborne, as Mr. Hays will find to his cost.

YOUNG MEN!

On 17th November 1869, the second reading took place of Mr. Boyd's Insolvent Franchise Bill, which, if passed, would have given a vote to those, though bachelor householders but owners of property, who enjoyed an annual income in towns and ships and incorporated villages of $400; in towns of $500; and in cities of $600. We all know what a large and intelligent class this would have enfranchised. Unmarried mechanics, clerks, bookkeepers, teachers, and even professional men, who may not have accumulated enough to invest in real estate, or do not feel inclined so to dispose of their accumulations, or do not require to rent premises for business purposes; all these would have received the rights and privileges of citizenship if the opposition had been able to carry the day. Sandfield however is afraid of the intelligent and thoughtful classes and the Bill received the six month's hoist. Carling and Hays voting against it. Need we say to those thus deprived of their proportion, that if they have not a vote, they have influence which they ought to use against the ministry which is afraid of them and desires to keep them in vassalage.

AN ADVICE TAKEN.

We find the following in the Star:—

"Where was Mr. Hays when the resolutions on the memory of the martyred Scott were voted upon? asks the editor of the New Era. We advise him to put on his spectacles and look over the division list, and he will find Mr. Hays voting for the amendment to Mr. Blake's claptrap motion, as he should do.'

Though the advice is not directed to us we have taken the trouble to re-examine the division list and find, as we had occasion to state elsewhere, that Isaac Carling voted for the Government amendment that though a citizen of Ontario had been foully murdered, the Legislature of Ontario had no right to discuss the question; while W. T. Hays not knowing how it might affect him among his constituents was too cowardly to vote "yea" or "nay" but deliberately shirked the division. Try again, O Star!

OUR CANDIDATE.

To the Editor of the "Huron Signal."

The unprecedented and shameful manner in which the Government has precipitated the elections has taken the country generally by surprise, but I mean it is the time of the people, if the little good will do them good. On the contrary I am inclined to think that when John Sandfield spoke the word to his minions, he verified what the Scotch Dominie said of John A. said of him "that he never opened his mouth but he put his foot in it." In North Huron we welcome them cheerfully. We feel that in the Parliament which has just closed we were virtually without a representative. W T Hays was never the legitimate choice of the people of North Huron. He got in by accident and false pretences. He came out to the Riding a bitter grit, but under assumed Conservative features. He got in partly through the influence of Mr. Whitehead's money and Mr. Whitehead's canvassers. He got in by falsely libelling the County Council and traducing the character of Mr. Alex. M Ross of Goderich, a man every way better than himself. And when he found himself elected, no person was more surprised at the success of his duplicity and mendacity than he. It was certainly no credit to North Huron to be represented by such a man Fortunately he is back to us again for our verdict, and I have no doubt what that will be. We have too many lawyers in Parliament; in North Huron we want of the long robed gentry, and certainly we do not want a roaring Division Court attorney from outside the Riding. We want a plain, practical, honest man, and such a man is Thos Gibbons. You are well aware that Mr. Gibbons and I are not of the same politics, but nevertheless I am aware that Mr. Gibbons possesses so many of the qualities necessary to make an admirable Legislator that we may well feel proud, if we can secure him as our Representative. I am well acquainted with Mr Gibbons and can testify to the purity of his character with certainty and indeed with pleasure and pride. Mr Gibbons is honest, honorable, truthful and gentlemanly, every act of

Shoulder to Shoulder.

If ever the Reformers of Huron can unite as one man, animated by one resolve, to strive heart and soul for one glorious victory, the present emergency imperatively demands such union. We can read in the countenance of our opponents tokens of dreaded disaster, but there is also visible there a determination to die hard. The rollicking air they wore, as they went into the field, has deserted them and we can see that they expect to win "by the skin of their teeth," if at all. They are dangling their false promises before the imagination of the ignorant, applying the lever of personal friendship where practicable, cajoling or bullying dependents, and using up all the methods by which any arch-schemers have been able to compass their ends. Whatever support the lust of promised gain, or the expectation of future favors can obtain from mercenary electors, the candidates, who are now canvassing North and South Huron, with the desire to be once more attached as shadows to John Sandfield Macdonald, will do their best to secure. They are prepared to promise a railway passing every farm in the county, aid to every harbor requiring it, and free drainage to every swampy lot in every township. But what about the performance of these magnificent promises? We need not tell our readers that their fate will be like the canal to Manchester or the harbor at Port Albert, which in the present year of grace are just in the same stage of advancement as they were in 1867, when the gentleman of gas and brass introduced them as capital figurers for stump speeches. But these things sometimes take with the classes who have not followed the course of politics closely enough to know that if the Premier had not some other destination for the surplus, he would have given Hays and Carling something tangible to work on, and not sent them out to the electors to tell them that if they are good boys and vote for Hays and Carling, Sandfield may send them down a plum. We ask Reformers, who have studied the questions involved, to seek to inform the less informed, to confirm the wavering, to stir up the indifferent, and each man to work as if the fate of the election depended on himself. Here is a vital question: Are the ministers our masters or our servants? We say that they are our servants, and that we pay them to do our work, as our representatives tell them. The moment they tell us that they are to do the work as they please, spend our money, and not let us know anything about the why and the how, and the where, until the scheme is so far advanced that it can not be stopped or altered, that moment they are aspiring to be our masters; and the moment any of our representatives are accessary to such high-handed proceedings, that moment they should forfeit our confidence and be dismissed. Sandfield a government has been thus high-handed. Carling and Hays have thus forfeited our confidence, and we don't desire to re-engage them. Let nothing distract us from the real issue, which is:—pure and responsible government versus corrupt, ministerial dictation. Let no side issue, no local feeling, no minor opinion or prejudice interfere with the great business we have on hand to aid in curbing a corrupt and high-handed executive by sending two such honest and reliable man to Parliament as Thomas Gibson and Robert Gibbons, who will assert the right of the people to control through their representatives the disbursing of the taxes they have paid. Sinking everything but the irrepressible longing for pure government, let our course until and on the 21st be "shoulder to shoulder." Come now, reformers of Huron, let us see for once if honesty cannot beat policy; if justice and common sense cannot prevail over chicanery and bragadoccio!

A RESIDENT OF GODERICH.

The great cry that is being raised against Mr. Gibbons is that he is a Goderich man. To attempt to create a prejudice against a candidate on such grounds is low and contemptible. One of the noisiest shouters is Thomas Greenway. No one, for some time past, was louder than he in denouncing Carling's incapacity; but now he has come out all at once as his brazen trumpeter and uncompromising supporter, and is doing his shabby best to excite the people against Mr. Gibbons, merely because he happens to reside in Goderich. This cause is just like his usual vacillation. He is the man who was in favor of the Gravel-Road By-law, while in Goderich and for weeks after, who helped to put the county to the expense of taking a vote on it, and then, a day or two before the voting, issued placards, under his signature as Reeve of the Township, denouncing the scheme and particularly the Town of Goderich. Not content with this, he actually assumed the duties of Returning officer (the person appointed resigning his duties to him for a couple of hours) and recorded the votes. He is now engaged in going from meeting to meeting, saying everything he can trump up against the people of this town, and his were the remarks which received the loudest plaudits from Isaac Carling. A striking contrast to the conduct of this miserable soul, and a fair example of the manly feeling of the genuine yeomen of Huron, is the language of Mr. Thomas McMicael, who, in concluding a controversy with Mr. Gibbons on the very subject Mr Greenway is spouting about frankly says:—"I say all success to Mr Gibbons as a candidate for South Huron, because I candidly believe that he will advocate the interests of Huron in the House at Toronto as earnestly and zealously as he does the interests of Goderich at home."

We wish Mr Gibbons to be judged by the confidence in him the Reform Convention showed in giving him a unanimous nomination, by what he is, and by the promises he makes—which his past career of unswerving honesty assures us that he will perform—and not by the trivial circumstance that he resides in Goderich. His qualifications should stand on their own merits, and we are much mistaken indeed, if the majority of the electors do not consider those satisfactory. We are confident there is not a single reformer in the South Riding, who will so far forget his principles as to vote for a corruptionist from Exeter, because the honest and reliable man now opposing him hails from the County Town. We ask the electors of this town, independent of party [illegible] support their own townsman, who suffering unjustly in their cause, and give him such a majority as will effectually silence those Carlingites who have no higher aim in the prosecution of a canvass, than to excite a narrow and unfounded prejudice against the Town of Goderich.

A BAD CAUSE.

'Tis indeed a bad cause that bolsters itself up by exaggerated reports of success in canvassing, when everybody interested knows, pretty well, what's what. The Goderich correspondent of the lying Telegraph puts down Mr. Hays' majority at the modest figure of 1000. The glorious news we hear from all quarters of the North Riding indicate that Mr Gibson's majority will take three figures to express it if his friends continue to work as strenuously to the last, as they are now doing.

Prince Alfred sailed from New Zealand on the 17th ult., and is expected in England by the end of April.

THE REFORM CAMPAIGN

GIBSONS IN THE BREACH,

THE ELECTORS RESPOND NOBLY

Carlings friends desert Him.

GRAND RALLY IN HAY.

VICTORY ASSURED.

(From our own Correspondent.)

VARNA.

TUESDAY, 6TH MARCH—Mr. Gibbons had a capital meeting here, although the "Stanley clique" did their best to raise petty local jealousies to the detriment of the man chosen by the unanimous voice of the entire reformers of South Huron. Dr. Woods was there and so was Mr. Ritchie and they endeavored to ride out the stalking horses of 'gravel roads,' county debt, 'grasping town of Goderich' and several other of their favorite hobbies, but the people, knowing the despicable purpose for which these side issues were brought up, did not seem particularly to appreciate the steeds or their riders. Robert Gibbons stood up manfully and refuted their false charges in a very forcible manner. He did more than hold his own in this strong conservative locality; which is fully as encouraging as the enthusiastic reception he met with in other places. Isaac Carling did his best to look jolly but is evidently "down in the mouth." The 'small fry' that used to follow the 'stout man' have all deserted him and he looks and feels lovely. "Podsnap" would be the very first rat to desert the 'sinking ship' and his absence looks ominous. Gibbons is in good spirits and confident of success; feeling assured that the honest yeomen of South Huron will not desert him but vindicate their right to have a representative of their own choosing.

ZURICH, WEDNESDAY—Mr. Gibbons had a glorious reception here. The meeting was a brilliant success and he was enthusiastically sustained by acclamation. The Germans came out in force, and are this time determined to wipe out the stigma cast upon them by Isaac Carling, when he brought against them the insulting charge of being aliens, and managed to get a partizan committee to strike off the votes of 16 worthy residents. Hay will nobly do its duty on the 21st and give a larger majority than ever for Mr. Gibbons. There was no supporter of Mr. Carling's present to speak for him and he felt it keenly and so expressed himself. The enthusiasm for Gibbons is extraordinary.

ROBERTSVILLE, WEDNESDAY NIGHT.—Mr. Gibbons had here the largest meeting that has yet assembled. There was no room large enough to hold it and most of the speaking had to be done in the open air. The usual number of drunken rowdies from Exeter tried to make an interruption but failed. Over two thirds of those present were for Mr Gibbons. His friends are zealous and enthusiastic, and are determined to go in and win. South Huron will be redeemed this time. Here Isaac Carling made the audacious assertion that "He would represent this constituency as long as he liked!" Mr Sinclair administered a scathing rebuke to him and demanded to know "if he set himself up to be the dictator and not the representative of the people," and carried the feelings of the audience entirely with him. That is what the present ministry and their supporters from Sandfield downwards are aiming at "to be the dictators and not the representatives of the people." The electors of South Huron will this time teach the "dictator" that he may issue his mandate to his automaton to "run at all hazards," but that they intend to leave Isaac at home to become "dictator" in his own household if he dare

FARQUHAR.—9 March.—We had here a large and respectable meeting. It was said there were only one or two Carling men present, and from the appearance we think the statement correct. Every attention was paid to the different speakers. Mr Carling and his man, Greenway, left before the meeting was over. The northern part of Usborne is not the place for Carling. His supporters there are few and far between, and totally devoid of influence.

FRANCISTOWN.—The same evening a large gathering of electors took place in the Dining room of Powers' Hotel. Attention was paid by the great majority of the electors present to the speaking. But as usual in that locality, a band of rowdies from Exeter with a little red-faced Doctor at their head, tried to disturb and break up the meeting. Such characters are a disgrace to any party. Thank fortune they are only to be found among a certain portion of the electors. At this meeting Mr Gibbons' supporters were in a majority of about three to one. Most of the row dies had no vote.

FRIEDSBURGH.—Friday.—The meeting was composed mostly of Germans from Stephen and that corner of Hay lying near Exeter. All parties had a good hearing—everything passed off harmoniously.

CREDITON.—Friday evening.—There was a large number of electors gathered in the Town Hall in this thriving little village. The Exeter rowdies were here mustered in force under the command of Dr Cowan. They prevented free discussion in every possible manner. The meeting broke up in disorder—neither Carling nor Greenway the Reeve of the Township, making the slightest exertion to suppress the rowdyism. This meeting was a grand success for Mr Gibbons. The part played by Carling's rowdies that night turned many a voter in favor of Gibbons. The people of Stephen are too fond of fair play to countenance such conduct, which Carling will find to his cost on the polling-day.

ELIMVILLE—Saturday. A large number of electors present, and the second place where Carling appeared to have a majority. But it is hard to say as his men are usually bad and rowdish and the Reformers the reverse. All parties are well listened to. Isaac appeared delighted to get to a place alive. He had a majority. Usborne won't go for Carling as it did last election. From all we saw we unhesitatingly say that South Huron is sound for Mr. Gibbons. Our friends are zealous and enthusiastic and working well. We were informed that Speakman and Elliott [illegible] busy distributing money, wherever they can do so without it being known, but they are being watched. Spackman has more money we are told than he has had for many a day. It will however be no avail. If the supporters of Mr. Gibbons work with a with his election is safe. We have no doubt but that they will strain ever nerve to return the people's representative —ROBERT GIBBONS.

Goderich Township:

MARCH 11th, 1871.

DEAR EDITOR.—As the Signal is devoted to the interest of the people of Huron and of true reform, permit me through its column to say a few words on our elections. The tory party are again on the war path, and it is remarkable that on the eve of almost every election that has taken place in this township, the Orange anacondas unfolds its coils from around its catholic victims; and again at the close how it tightens its hold. I recollect when Dickson was running in opposition to Cayley how orangemen and catholics went arm in arm and voted on the tory ticket. As soon as the last vote was recorded and the poll closed a black-hawk, tory veteran, mounted the platform and called loudly for three cheers for King William and down with Popery. The tables were quickly turned when young James McIntosh attempted to run for our Municipal Council and got defeated, scarcely receiving an orange vote; simply because he sint a "true blue." I wonder when I consider that it was not until Dan O'Connell, by his eloquence, got the Catholic Emancipation act passed that Catholics in Ireland at least, were allowed to vote at all. And it seems so strange that Catholics in Ontario will vote with the party that tried to prevent them from recording their votes in the days of O'Connell. For although Sandfield is at the head, his party is bone and flesh of the party that tried to prevent them from recording their votes in the days of the great repealer. And I think if Catholic voters had any respect for themselves they would either come out and vote for honest Robt Gibbons or stay at home. For the gigantic monster as soon as the election is over will circle his folds around them again and crush them as hard as ever.

Yours, A REFORMER.

DUNGANNON.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING,

UNANIMOUS FOR GIBSON.

A splendid meeting was held here, on Thursday 9th inst., at the call of Mr. Gibson. Over 200 persons were present and the chair was occupied by G. Girvin, Esq. Mr Gibson spoke with all the manliness and sincerity, so characteristic of him and was warmly applauded. Messrs. Toms and Donaghy, of Goderich, put in appearance in the interest of Mr Hays, but as usual "put their foot in it;" any little argument they advanced being effectually disposed of, by Mr Matheson, of Clinton, and Mr Alexander Fraser, of Amberley. Besides the two Goderich men spoken of, we only know of one other man favorable to Mr Hays present at the meeting.—COM.

ZURICH.

POLITICAL.—A meeting was held in the village to-day—called by Mr Gibbons, which was attended by the bulk of the respectable electors of the township. The speakers present were Messrs Gibbons, Carling, J S Sinclair and W Malcolm. Mr Carling's political genii such as "Spike" "Podsnap" etc. having deserted him he was perfectly isolated. As to the speeches, they were on the whole as good as any one would expect to hear from the several speakers. The manner in which Mr. Carling attempted to palm off sophistry on the simple and candid electors of the township was ludicrous in the extreme. The only utterance of his worthy of notice was that: "If the people elected Mr Gibbons, he would oppose the government and therefore Huron would suffer thereby as the government only supported their supporters. He said that motions like "Blake's controverted Elections Bill" should be, (and were only proper when) brought in by the government (!) and therefore he voted for Sandfield and against Blake. These and some other such erroneous doctrines composed his speech, at the conclusion of which he very systematically intimated that he was the only man fit for the office in South Huron, he being in such favour with the Government. During Mr Sinclair's speech, your correspondent could not help but notice how Mr Carling writhed beneath the scathing charges brought against him, and how conspicuous the 5 or 6 of his supporters present made themselves by their continued interuptions, as if they would fain stifle the devouring flame of accusation that was emanating from that eloquent gentleman, and consuming their guilty hearts. Ane ignoramus rode the Hobby horse "Sandfield is a reformer"; another, during Mr Sinclair's reference to the "Asylum being located at London" exclaimed—"It should have been at Goderich." Whereupon Mr Sinclair boldly told him that he "thought so as he would make one very good subject," and certainly we think some of the respectable attempts of the meeting left their good behaviour 'at home on the piano" if we would judge by the conduct of some half-dozen electors present. We think Mr. Carling's feelings were spared considerably by the speakers on account of the abject request he made in his speech. "Don't be too hard ah, ah, on me gentlemen, as I am alone to-day." Verily one would think that only a case-hardened villan would dare to appear on Mr Carling's shoes and ask the suffrages of the people of Hay whom he so foully abused, and whose trust he so basely betrayed.—COM.

A Voice from Hay.

Hay, March 8th, 1871.

To the Editor of the Huron Signal:

DEAR SIR,—Would you be kind enough to allow me through your columns to address a few words to the electors of South Huron,—more especially to those of this township concerning the coming election. Mr Carling has been vigorously prosecuting the canvass in this township for the past few days, with what result we will soon have a chance of knowing. His fair words and friendly bearing, pass him off as a "jolly good fellow," and this with some will procure him their support. But, electors of Hay, be ware! did he not during the last election parade soft words and kindly greetings; and make fair promises of what he would do? What fruits have they borne? He has abused your confidence—he has broken his promises and despite his pledge "to support any good measure," you will find his votes recorded in favor of any motion which would in any way contribute to the detriment of progress. Who was it, gentlemen, who during the trial by the Controverted Elections Committee, practically said:—"Germans of Hay, because you did not vote for me, I will not allow you to use the right of British citizens?" It was Isaac Carling! By the action of that committee the man whom you had chosen as your representative was deprived of his seat.—And yet Mr Carling has the hardihood again to solicit the suffrages of the people whom he so heartlessly trampled on; and whose trust he so basely betrayd. Who was it, Electors, who during last election, promised to support every measure which in any way tended to raise the standard of right and justice? It was he who, by wrong and injustice, disfranchised you once, and, though it stands now in the same position, comes to ask; yes to crave, the support of —whom? Not those who he said should not exercise that right surely—oh no.—[illegible] With the same inconsistency he voted "nay" on every measure that would hasten and "yea," on every measure that would stifle inquiry into the cold blooded murder of Loyal Scott. After this if the orangemen stick to the government they will lick the hand that strikes them? God forbid!—Some few indeed will—and have taken the sop and sold their honor for 15 pieces of silver, while others with manly courage have withdrawn their support from the despotic tyrants whom they in the past have served. A majority of them, we fear, some of our respected citizens of this township included, will be content to be trampled on still, and will turn the grindstone while the Axe-grinder-in-chief grinds the blade that will yet decapitate them. I hope I am wrong. In conclusion, I say to the electors of South Huron if after the trial they have been forced to give Mr. Carling and the manner in which he trifled with their interests acting as a tool in the hands of the Government, can we be so foolish as to now be deceived by his delusive promises and mendacious sophistries, and come forward again to support him? If they are, I have only to say that they are worthy of no better than the present corrupt government and deserve no better representative than they have had for the past four years. But I think more highly of glorious old Hay than this and expect to see the electors come out en masse for Robert Gibbons.

Yours truly, J. C.

REFORM MEETING UNANIMOUS IN FAVOR OF MR. GIBSON.

A large and influential meeting of the reformers of the Northern electoral division of Wawanosh was held here on Wednesday evening last for organising a united and vigorous course of action during the present contest. Wm Gordon Esq. was appointed chairman, and Mr N McHardy acted as Secretary. Mr Jas Somerville, of Lucknow, addressed the meeting at some length, criticising the votes and general conduct of the late member Hays, as well as of the government of which he has been an abject supporter. He especially condemned and exposed the money votes of the late session by which the government places at its own absolute and irresponsible disposal very large sums of the people's money, to the utter subversion of the essential elements and principles of responsible government. The following resolution was put to the meeting and Carried unanimously:—Moved by N. McHardy seconded by Edwin Gaunt dep. Reeve, and resolved, "that this meeting has every confidence in the ability and integrity of Mr Gibson to represent the interests of the North Riding of this County in the local legislative, and pledges itself to use every legitimate means and influence to secure his election." A committee was appointed to canvass the electoral division consisting of the following gentlemen, viz:—the chairman and Secy. of the meeting, Edwin Gaunt Esq dep. Reeve, John Gordon, John Webb, George Douglass Donald Cameron, Wm Anderson, John H Taylor, Wm Barbour, Geo Webster, Wesley Farrier, Hiram Smith, Donald Rutherford, Hugh McPherson, John McCrostie, Geo Campbell, Jas Somerville, Hugh Rutherford, Mr Mooney, Peter Campbell, Geo Weatherhead, James Cummings, Thos Lodd, Donald Grant, John Sheriff and Thos Somerville.—COM.

AMBERLY.

[From our own Correspondent.]

WEATHER—Ever since the date of my last communication, a sort of indescribable fluctuation of temperament seems to have been waging a strenuous conflict towards gaining the supreme ascendency in the atmospherical administration. March took up the sceptre on Wednesday and mounted the throne with a tolerably auspicious grace in good keeping (one would say) with the nature of things, as usually experienced in most climates belonging to semi-temperate zones, but in rather close proximity to frigid ones; but on Thursday an entirely new line of policy seemed to have been called into operation, and all symptoms of the hitherto stereotyped order, were, for the time, cast into abeyance, or rather hurled off in a sort of revolutionary outburst from the elemental magazine, indicating that a brand snatched from an equatorial sunbeam had been wantonly or wilfully poked through some chink or crevice, and had resulted in a general blow up of the entire Boreal fabric! The forky, and snak-like lightning darted, hissed and skipped from cloud to cloud gleaming with terrific brilliancy, whilst almost in simultaneous accompaniment the thunder-mouthed ordnance of Boanerges roared and rattled from all points of the sulphurous and reeking welkin; and gust on gust, in quick succession blown, from the lusty-winded trumpet of Eurus, bore downwards to earth, with delusivi violence, the watery freight of the Mammoth-bellied clouds. This extreme state of matters was not however destined to last long; for although nature seemed as if about to be shaken into shivers by the shocks of the biggest of all electric batteries, the tough old dame held together after all, and notwithstanding that her old weather-beaten-face underwent a very unsuspected and unceremonious process of washing; and to look abroad on the resurrected state of old logs, stumps and fences, not to speak of the post deluvial aspect of the fields and forests in general, and the circumstances of the rivers, consistent to a novel mode of architecture, being built across the bridges, the grand or consummating break up of the Frigid Monarchs icy thraldom had not yet been accomplished. It was something typical of certain premature attempts which giddy headed red republicans in such countries as France, Spain, Greace, Mexico and other "Benighted States" make towards establishing a new order of government, whilst the old order would much better suit their interests; and consequently, like such, very soon babbled and blundred itself out of existence. With a few temporary exceptions the weather since then has been less or more subordinate to the ordinary condition of the atmospheric laws, as wisely interpreted, faithfully recorded and emphatically predicted in Ayer's Sarsaparilla Almanac.

POLITICAL—The state of political matters in Ashfield at present is in a very stirring strain. The premier's crafty, and sudden prorogation of parliament has taken people by the ears rather hurriedly; and both Tory and Liberal seem to be putting forward their best shank bones in order to meet the emergency. A deputation from our district consisting of two good staunch intelligent reformers went to Blyth at an early hour on Monday to be present at a convocation of the supporters of Gibson who will undoubtedly be the representative put forward by the reform party, and I sincerely think that a good many who voted on the Tory (or nondescript, side at last election are about thoroughly enough disappointed with the choice they made on that occasion, and will likely give their influence in favor of the above named gentlemen at the forthcoming election. All our political workshops are busy at the Lathe, and will certainly turn out proper candidates. Amberly superintends the business.

HOTEL BUSINESS—The Delhi House, Amberly, (late Mrs. McPherson's) now occupied by Mr. Joseph Parr, is fitted up in an elegant and commodious style, and appears to be doing a respectable and thriving business. It has lately been made one of the intermediate mail stations on the Saugeen and Goderich line. And passengers bound either northward or southward must find it a great convenience where they can get a good meal. With the order the necessity of waiting for the arrival or despatch of the different stages, as Mr. and Mrs Parr, proverbial for their courtesy to travellers, will be found ready to afford them every comfort of their establishment, in as hospitable and orderly a manner as the best town hotel is capable of affording.

ACCIDENT—During the thunder storm which raged here on Thursday the 2d inst, the electric fluid struck one of the stables of Mr. R. Farish, Ashfield, and penetrated the building, killing on its passage two cows and one of his horses, besides doing considerable damage to the building. Mr Farish's loss is a matter of consequence as his stock is generally of a first class or at least superior quality, the horse alone being reckoned worth $70 dollars. I am not in the meantime aware whether either stock or premises may be covered by insurance.

SURPRISE PARTY, A ROMANCE OF REAL LIFE—A number of persons of both sexes, and of ages, differing from sweet fifteen to foolish five and forty, assembled by mutual consent, one night lately, at the domicile of a worthy, but somewhat eccentric old couple not ten miles from Kintail, ostensibly assuming to be a surprise party, but of whose intended visit the old couple seem to have been previously apprised, as they appear to have had themselves amply prepared with the various 'creature comforts' including a portly and well filled demijohn of that potent and far famed elixir known in Celtic phrase by the title of Dosal Gorm. The greater part of the visitants, however, happening to be conspicuous members of a society in which the uses of said Dosal Gorm are or at least should be strictly proscribed, winced with very plausible grace when the kind host brought forth his beverage, in consequence of which after taking off a jolly good bumper to their respective and collective healths and treating a friend or two who laboured under no pledged restriction, the redoubtable Dosal was quietly stowed away in another portion of the tenement through which all parties wishing egress or ingress had to pass. Matters then went on swimmingly as slang phrase goes and many racy things were said and sung; and fiddling, dancing and other demonstrations of a social and perhaps amatory nature, the whole scene almost Utopian! It however, soon became apparent to the old farmer, that a few of his guests of the temperance persuasion always on a return from an outdoor airing, which seemed to be indulged in with remarkable frequency, entered into the spirit of the festivities with more vigour of lung and limb than seemed to him consistent with an unliquored state of things; and having a good proboscis for 'smelling a rat' soon discovered that his friend 'Dosal Gorm' had been communicating his inspirations in the dark! Suffice it, the demijohn was again produced, and the bonds of moral (or shall we say hypocritical) restraint being this far cracked, soon gave way, and by-and-by the liberal stimulant became so far a general favorite, that instead of a Teetotal surprise it ultimately turned out a Tee-tipified orgie! The conclusion of the late, when every brave youth sought his lady love in order to escort her home, one poor young fellow who had travelled seven or eight weary miles of bush path for the sake of enjoying the society of a young girl, who formed one of the company, on proffering his services to see her safe home, was very tantalizingly repulsed, which so affected him as to make him literally weep aloud, and give utterance to his deep, deep, sorrow in sentiments something like those contained in the following ditty. Scene—a bush road—Lysander Solus, leaning against an old stump singing—Air Molly Brallagan.

Och! cruel, cruel Molly! have you really gone and left me now
Scorned, and ruined past all hope—among the stumps to avail?
Of life and all the pleasures in't you rudely have bereft me now—
I might as well go hang myself, as live to tell the tale;
I thought you were the purtiest girl of all in wide Ontario
And I thought no youth within it, had a better chance than I—!
For to win your best affections—but alas! you tyrant fairy O,
You've mutter'd me wid slighted love, and left me here to die!

I wish I were at home in the town of swate Dungannon now,
I'd go to bed right straight away, and never rise again;
Or, if I had a blonderbush, or else a rifled cannon now
I'd give some little boy a cent to shoot me thro' the brain!
'Twas for the sake of meeting her I came to this darned spree tonight
And broke my pledge to make me bowld, by drinking on the sly,
But of all the boys in Ashfield there are none beguiled like me tonight,
Since Molly's gone, and left me all alone, nor to die!

The things I rought to treat her wid, they cost me half a dollar, shure
I bought them o'er in 'Whiskey Sam's' as I came down the way
Besides a quart of good poteen and a new paper collar, shure,
And now all these expinses, have been fairly thrown away
Och, wherefore did I fix my eyes upon the fickle craithur so?
But I always thought she loved me cause she blush'd and look'd so sly;
Bad cess on all the stillness that led me for to treat her so
Since now she's gone and left me all alone for to die!

I've torn my Sunday breeches too, wid climbing o'er the fences sure,
But I would'nt grudge so much at that if Molly had been kind
One smack of her swate, darling lips could pay the whole expinses sure
For I'd be warm wid happiness, the hole I no'er would mind;
Och! I wish I had a horn—for they say there's consolation in't;
And my spirit's very faintish, and my throat is very dry!
Och! sure this nasty world, has an air of desolation in't
Since Molly's gone and left me, all alone for to die!

Alas! my poor heart's broken, and never will get whole again
The poison tooth of black despair is sitting at its core!
When next the solemn death bell's of swate Dungannon toll again
Its earth sure poor Sammy's dead, and gone forever more!
Och Love! you've done my turkey—you've laid my bonson waste tonight!
The very owls down in the bush, they mock me when I cry;
Whilst here, out in this wilderness I'm howling like a beast: tonight
For Molly's gone, and left me, all alone for to die!

THE COMING ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of the Huron Signal.

DEAR SIR:—The elections, may now be said to have fairly begun. Everywhere the candidates are in the field; and the contest is growing warmer and warmer every day. For the next four or five weeks we may expect to have a pretty lively time. Since the electors are called upon to choose their representatives, we think they should meet their former men face to face, and receive their explanations. We find that Huron is not behind hand, in bringing out her candidates, Mr. Gibbons is out in the interests of the people, Mr. Carling is candidate for the government. Although personally we have no objections to Mr Carling; yet as supporters of the people we would rather see Mr Gibbons occupying the seat.

With reference to the North Riding we think and not without sufficient grounds that Mr. Gibson will discharge his duty in an honest and upright manner, and therefore merits the confidence of the electors. His return is certain.

Yours sincerely
A Reformer. S. C.

Goderich Township.

SUBDIVISION No. 1.

On Saturday, 11th inst, at 8 p. m. about half a dozen electors, and a dozen boys met in the Orange lodge on 4th Con. Messrs Robert Gordon, John Davison, and William Donaghy were present from Goderich. Mr. George McKee was appointed chairman. Mr. Davison to Mr. Donaghy—"Come, say something." Mr Donaghy—"No, I can't say anything, you say something." Mr Davison then said, amongst things:—"This meeting was assembled to organize a Committee to attend to Mr. Carling's interests. He did not expect the Reformers were to exert themselves very much and if the conservatives worked hard they were sure to be successful." A Committee was then formed.—COM.

We draw the attention of the Reformers of Goderich Township to the fact that the Conservatives expect them to lie idly on their oars, and on that hope build their dreams of success. Reformers, be up and doing! If you cannot give Robert Gibbons a majority in your Township, do your very best to reduce the majority against him in 1867. Energy and enthusiasm can work wonders. Put your shoulders to the wheel, every one of you!

IRON IN THE BLOOD.—When the blood is well supplied with its iron element, we feel vigorous and full of animation. It is an insufficiency of this vital element that makes us feel weak and low spirited: in such cases, the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) can supply this deficiency, and its use will invigorate us wonderfully.

A Delaware paper speaks of Senator Saulsbury as "the glass of manners and of chilvalry in Congress debate." On more than one occasion, says the Tribune, he has appeared on the floor as the tumber of the senate.

A despatch from Columbia speaks of the very favorable exhibit of the finances of India. The revenue for the year from opium alone, is £8,000,000.

Red River News.

Our esteemed townsman Captain Cook, who is now in command of the Troops at Pembina, has sent Quarter-master Jordan a copy of the Manitoban of 18th February, from which we condense the following items:—

MEMBERS FOR DOMINION PARLIAMENT.—The writs for their election have not arrived. Dr. Schultz' News Letter asserts that there is something intentionally wrong in this. The Manitoban says that the simple truth is the mails containing them have been lost.

POLITICAL WISDOM.—A committee has been appointed to go the rounds and ascertain the "wants and wishes" of the people. Ganatt, the President only being able to conceive the one idea that "the cattle law should be battered" was unseated. His successor, John Sutherland, said his policy was, either "the rampage, or the wheel about and turn about and do just so."

THE COUNCIL AND ASSEMBLY CHAMBER are being prepared and decorated for the approaching session, in the traditional mode, but with a due regard to economy.

A BARBER SHOP.—A member of the Ontario rifles has just added this luxury of civilization to Winipeg.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.—The Manitoban cautions these gushing gentlemen, and particularly him of the Montreal Nouveau monde thus:—"Don't lie, don't exaggerate don't get frightened, don't make mountains of molehills, don't be stupid, don't make it out that we are in a state of anarchy in Manitoba, while we are getting along swimmingly."

CITIZENS' BALL.—A splendid Ball was given to the officers of the Ontario and Quebec Battalions, on 15th inst. Some 250 ladies and gentlemen were present and it was the most brilliant affair ever given in that latitude. Lieut. Governor Archibald and lady opened the ball and dancing was kept up till 4 a. m. The rooms were handsomely decorated and such mottoes as "God Save the Quee," "Ontario" Quebec, liberally distributed.

'TIS ASTONISHING how civilization and oysters progress hand in hand. An enterprising Winipeg firm advertises "Fresh Baltimore Oysters."

Lucknow.

BURGLARY.—"Honesty is the best of policy" but some do not believe it. On Wednesday evening of last week, some unfortunate son of necessity called into the store of A. Murray, Esq, in the absence of the inmates, and appropriated a large quantity of boots, tobacco and various kinds of merchandise to his own use. It is needless to say that he forgot to ask for a bill of Parcels. He is yet at large. If he escapes Neil and the rest of the "Jerkers" he will not lack for shoes to his feet and Cigars in his mouth this winter, but if he happens to be detected probably he will envy the position of the passers-by next.

PUGILISTIC VERY.—A few (evenings since a rencontre of singular beauty occurred in the middle of one of our principal streets. The combatants were "Big Dunce" and brother and the twin sisters. It appears that some children in the street excited the irascibility of the "big chap," and he though bent on a pitch battle with the young Fry was advised to go home by his brother. But no, Sir, he would not do that. No sooner had the brother begun to press him to go home, than they "set too," and pressed one another. As soon as the melee began, however, in jumps the bouncing heroines, exclaiming to the by-standers "In the name of Apollo, the sun of Jupiter wud none of ye interfare and save the brothers." However the "Jerking" of hair was intense for a time. Peace was at length made and the four went home in a cutter. After their arrival they decided that a "soft answer turneth away wrath' and then began to sing,

"Whatever brawls disturb the street
There should be peace at home,
Where sisters dwell and brothers meet
Quarrels should never come."

Railway Meeting at Wingham.

The inhabitants of Wingham and vicinity met in Mr. Griffin's hotel on Friday evening the 3rd March, for the purpose of arriving at some definite conclusion as to which road—the London, Huron & Bruce Railway or the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway—the inhabitants of Wingham and vicinity should support or give their influence to. C. Loyd, Esq., occupied the chair, and R. A. Graham acted as secretary. The meeting was then addressed by the Rev. M. Murphy, and Messrs R. Currie, of Wawanosh, A Fisher, Dr. Tamlyn, T G Jackson, G Green, John Ansley and H Davis, after which the following resolution was put to the meeting:—

Moved by A Fisher, Esq., seconded by G Green, Esq., That this meeting is of the opinion that a county bonus should be given the present railway enterprise, and that we pledge ourselves to use every legitimate effort to induce the County Council to submit a by-law to raise the sum of $300,000—$200,000 to be granted as a bonus to the L., H & B. R. R. and $100,000 to be granted to the H., G. & B. R. R providing that such railroads pass through, or within a reasonable distance, of the town of Wingham.

Moved, in amendment, by R. Currie, Esq. seconded by Dr. Tamlin, that this meeting is of opinion that a county bonus should be given to the present railroad enterprise, and that we pledge ourselves to use every legitimate effort to induce the Council to submit a by-law to raise the sum of $200,000, $100,000 to be granted as a bonus to each road, providing that said roads pass through, or within a reasonable distance of, the town of Wingham.

The motion was carried and the amendment lost.

The following gentlemen were appointed as a local committee to work in the interest of the L., H. & B. R. R.:—Rev. M Murphy, and Messrs S. Kent, T. G. Jackson, A Fisher, G Green and C Loyd. It being about twelve o'clock, the meeting hen broke up.—COM.

The Truth Suppressed.

While giving extraordinary publicity to the partisan action of the Grand Orange Lodge of West Ontario, the Star suppresses altogether the manly and judicious resolutions of the Grand Lodge of East Ontario, published in our last issue. How is this thus?

A MUSICAL TREAT.—Our musical friends will do well to examine Peter's Musical Monthly, a magazine published by Peters, 599 Broadway, N. Y., at three dollars a year. It is issued on the 15th of every month, and contains in each number 36 pages of the latest and best music, printed from full-size music plates.

☞ An esteemed Correspondent from Colborne gives us a very modest version of Mr. Hays! rowdy raid into the meeting of reformers at Smith's Hill. What would you think of the "cheek" which enabled the parliamentary stripling to say to William Young Esq, the Reeve:—"I'll take care that you never write Reeve after your name again." The electors of Colborne are replying:—"We will take care that you, W. T. Hays, never write M. P. P. after your name again."

☞ We cannot agree with the Globe that Isaac Carling sits in the House a "picture of stolid stupidity." He sits there a picture of stolid indifference knowing very well that whatever his own opinion may be, when the division comes he has to trot alone after "Brother John."

The Canadian Illustrated News, for the week is a magnificent number, and the illustrations really well executed. Several Canadian scenes and portraits of prominent Canadians are given.

THE ANGLO AMERICAN COMMISSION.—Sir John Rose is confident the deliberations of the Anglo-American Commission will have a favourable issue. It is said that Sir John and President Grant talked over the whole matter when the former was in Washington and agreed as to the general character of the settlement:

The appointment of six gentlemen, including Mr Trutch, as Legislative Councillors for British Columbia, has been gazetted.

It is said in Ottawa that all the frontier and Ottawa valley volunteer battalions as well as the Cookshire and St. Andrews' cavalry, will go into camp at Laprairie at an early period next fall.

PHYSICING HORSES.—Many persons physic their horses frequently—especially every spring. This is a great error, and one which has caused the loss of many valuable horses, as physic as it usually given, often produces inflammation of the bowels which generally proves fatal; it also weakens the horse and thus renders him more liable to disease, or less able to throw it off—what is required is a medicine which will operate gently upon the bowels, and act upon the liver and lungs, removing all obstructions there from, purifying the blood and enabling all the organs to do their work without overtaxing any, which is accomplished by the use of "Darley's Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine"—it is always safe and certain.

Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each page.

COLBORNE.

To the Editor of the Huron Signal:

On Tuesday last there was a meeting held at Smith's Hall on the 4th day of March, in all probability to be misrepresented in the Mail and likely to be in other papers, I send you here a true account of it. Mr. Wm. Young received a requisition signed by himself, Thomas Gibson and other three gentlemen, to call a meeting in Colborne to appoint delegates to attend the Reform Convention in Blyth on the 6th of March, which he did, but unfortunately signed it "W. Young, Esqr." Mr. T Hays saw the notice and the ambiguity, and no doubt thought that he could turn it to good account. He accordingly mustered a strong force from Goderich and Maitlandville, and came to Smith's hall, where the meeting was called. Mr. Young opened the meeting and explained the object for which it was called. Mr. Hays came in and protested against the legality of the meeting, on account of being called by the Reeve to appoint Reform Delegates. Mr. Young explained and apologized for the informality. The apology was accepted and Mr. Young exonerated from any blame, and a good deal of soft soap applied, but Mr. Hays still insisted that the meeting was illegal, but instead of intimating that he would take a protest against the proceedings of the meeting, he insisted on us proceeding to business and electing our Delegates, he being well prepared to overrule whatever we proposed and appoint whom he pleased. This we declined to do, and Mr. Hays proceeded to make a long harangue which amounted to nothing, except telling how much he had done for the County; that all we had received and were going to receive—was entirely through him. Our Harbour of Refuge, our Salt protection, and in short everything had been procured by him, for we would have never received one penny, nor one favour only for W. T Hays. And how magnanimous and unselfish: for all this was done at a sacrifice of at least four thousand dollars out of his own pocket. He said he was ready to answer any questions on the spot and satisfy all present that he was the man. But when an individual rose to ask some questions he was interrupted, and I understand was afterward threatened to get his nose broken for having the presumption to question our member. So being convinced that there was no chance of doing business, we adjourned to another room and appointed our Delegates. I have no time to give you farther particulars and I am sorry that owing to circumstances I was unable to send this sooner, and in time for your last weekly issue. Yours truly,

A REFORMER WHO WAS PRESENT.

FRANCE.

Bordeaux, March 10.—In the National Assembly to-day, after a speech by Thiers strongly urging the removal of the Assembly to Versailles. The Assembly rejected, by a vote of 407 to 104, an amendment demanding an immediate removal to Paris. Whereupon the proposition for removal to Versailles was adopted by a vote of 407 to 104. The first public sitting will be held at Versailles on March 20th.

Paris, March 11.—The Clocke newspaper announces the death of Henri Rochfort.

Thirty German wounded soldiers were killed by the recent accident on the Versailles Railway. The city is quiet. Forty thousand mobiles have left Paris in accordance with the demand of Von Moltke.

United States.

Washington, March 10.—Gen. Schenck entertained the British High Commission at dinner this evening. They were afterwards received by Secretary and Mrs. Fish. Secretary Boutwell has received advices that the new loan was put on the London market to-day and that it is there regarded as good as the five twenties of 1862.

Washington, March 11.—The American Commissoners met yesterday morning at the State Department and remained in session until two o'clock, when a meeting of the Joint High Commission was held, which continued until nearly four o'clock. The weather continues warm, and Justice Nelson complained of fatigue at the close of the session. Of the English Commissoners, Sir Stafford Northcote and Earl de Grey both experienced feelings of prostration from the severity of the work imposed upon them, especially as they are not accustomed to the temperature of this climate.

The German Minister called upon the President yesterday to convey a letter from Emperor William notifying him of his assumption of the title of Emperor at the request of the other German sovereigns and of the free cities of Germany.

The Bill permitting marriage with a deceased wife's sister, has been passed by the Commons.

TO THE

Free and Independent ELECTORS Of the North Riding OF THE County of Huron.

GENTLEMEN:

The lapse of time has again brought round the period, when the privilege of electing one to represent you in the Local Legislature has arrived. Having been unanimously nominated, by the Reform Convention of the Riding held at Blyth this day, as a candidate for that honorable and important position, I respectfully solicit your support.

Should I be successful in the election, it will be my endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability, and also to promote the general interests of the country, so as to maintain intact the privileges of the people on the one hand, while not seeking to infringe upon the prerogative of the Crown on the other. As is well known, my principles are liberal and progressive; and I shall endeavor to secure amendment where needed and the maintenance of that which is good.

Theory and practice show conclusively that, for the due maintenance of constitutional principles, there must be a vigorous opposition, governed by principle not by faction. All good measures, will have my support, whether emanating from the opposition or the ministry.

No administration is so perfect but that it must be watched. The present is no exception to the rule, as it seems to have been the aim of the ministry to exalt the Executive above the Legislature (more especially in the expenditure of the people's money), which should be corrected.

Matters of local developement will have my careful consideration and impartial support.

I need only say that it is my earnest desire that we may remain united to Great Britain, and that traitors and disturbers of the public peace, in whatever part of the Dominion they may be found, shall receive their due deserts.

It will be impossible, in the short time that elapses before the election, to visit all the Riding; but I will endeavor to overtake as much of it as possible, so that I can give further expression to my views.

I remain,
Yours faithfully,
THOMAS GIBSON,

Wingham, 6th March, 1871

ELECTORS OF THE SOUTH RIDING, OF THE County of Huron.

GENTLEMEN,

As the nominee of a full representative delegation from the South Riding of the County of Huron, I beg again to announce myself as a Candidate for your suffrages at the approaching election; and I do so, not only from the conviction that the Reformers of South Huron desire my candidature, but with the recollection that by the action of the Controverted Elections Committee at the last Legislative Assembly your opinions were ignored and YOU WERE PRACTICALLY DISFRANCHISED.

My public conduct in the past is a sufficient guaranty for my faithfulness in the future; and I need only say that should you see fit to pronounce in my favour in the coming contest I shall, while avoiding a reckless adherence to any party, place myself in opposition to the general policy of the present government by whose unauthorised expenditure of the public moneys and continued disregard of THE GENERAL INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE the principles of Representative Government have been not only jeopardised but in many instances quite subverted. Should I be chosen as your representative, the advancement of the general interests of the Riding and the development of its material resources shall as heretofore have my earnest attention.

Though by the action of the government in naming so early a day for the elections the time for prosecuting the canvass is necessarily short, I hope to have an opportunity of meeting you all, and explaining to you personally my views upon the past measures of the government as well as upon the questions likely to be brought forward for legislative action.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

STRETTON.

BY HENRY KINGSLEY.

Continued.

But it was quite otherwise. To Roland, who was a shrewd, clear-headed fellow, matters looked extremely ugly. What on earth was there to prevent his father having married in a secret way before? It was quite likely. Many men had done so. If Gray could prove that, the foolish wording of his father's will would point at once to Allan Gray as his father's heir. And—

He determined to knock up Mr. Somes, the head of the London branch of his Shrewsbury lawyers, and speak to him about it. Mr. Somes was over his dessert, and alone, and Roland, after a few preliminary civilities, opened the matter to that gentleman.

Mr. Somes, a young man about thirty, with long whiskers, looking very much like a cavalry officer without mustaches, fixed his shrewd bold eye on Roland's at once, and begged Roland to tell him what he thought of the matter.

Roland gave him the news which has been stated above, and added, 'I think very seriously of this business.'

Mr. Somes nodded. 'Do you know anything of this young Perkin Warback?' he added.

'I only know that he is a young man of the very highest character,' said Roland. 'He is a great friend of my brother's. He is, I believe, admirable in every relation of life. I know enough of him to say that if he did not fully believe in his own claim, all the tortures of the Inquisition would not have made him advance it.'

'It is an ugly business, Mr. Roland,' said Mr. Somes. 'It may go well with us, and it may go ill. I feel it my duty to tell you so. What are his proofs?'

'I have not the slightest idea,' said Roland. 'Mrs. Maynard knows something, and that is all I know about the matter.'

'Mrs. Maynard of the Barton? Yes, a client of ours. We have half Shropshire for our clients in consequence of our Shrewsbury connection, you know. The mother of the future Mrs. Evans,' he added, smiling and bowing.

'Why, no, Mr. Somes,' said Roland; 'that is off; and a good thing too, for I am going to India.'

Somes showed no astonishment. He wanted to know something more.

'We will hear about India another time, Mr. Evans. So Mrs. Maynard is one of his witnesses, and there's nothing between you and Miss Maynard? I suppose there is another gentleman in the field, handsomer than you are, though we Shropshire people used to consider you not bad looking?'

'I believe, Somes, that poor Jasper Meredith is au mieux there. But what does it matter to me now?'

Somes gave a sudden start, but Roland did not notice it. Very shortly after, Roland went away, and young Somes, filling himself some claret, took a letter from his pocket book, and read as follows:—

'Bonn.

'DEAR SOMES,—I have made such a thundering ass of myself, and have not a soul to advise me. I am coming at once to England.

'I have so far committed myself in writing to Miss Maynard, that her mother makes her write to me every day, and writes herself three times a week, calling me by my Christian name; what on earth shall I do?

'I have no one to advise with but you. You have always been as much of a friend as a man of business. Do advise me, etc.

'JASPER MEREDITH.'

CHAPTER XXVIII.

ETHEL was more than ever with Miss Evans in these times; and these two got more and more attached to one another. Ethel, watching her friend, saw that she was more and more distraught and anxious as time went on.

'I am going to have Eddy home,' she said one morning abruptly. 'He must do something for himself, for goodness knows how many I may have on my hands soon; and the army is not so expensive as Oxford, and so he had better be seen after. Ho! I suppose you know that Roland has got his commission, and passed his examination easily.'

Ethel was very much surprised.

'Ah! you may well stare, indeed. A nice mess we have made of it among us. I am sure I don't know whatever we shall do. I suppose you have not heard that Sir Jasper Meredith is engaged to Mary Maynard?'

'Impossible!' cried Ethel.

'True, young lady, for all that. Mrs. Maynard announces it everywhere, most openly. Well,' she continued, rubbing her nose, 'I am sorry for the little cripple, but it has saved our Roland, at all events. Now, perhaps, he will believe people when they tell him. I don't myself know what the man's intellect is made of, not to see through such a woman as that. In some senses he had better go where he is going; he leaves no fool behind to watch his interests.'

'Will he go abroad with his regiment, then, Miss Evans?'

'Lord bless you, didn't you know? He is going to India for years and years. And when, with kindly shaking hands, she had administered the blow, she was silent, leaving the girl to herself.

Ethel was silent also. At one time she breathed a little quicker, and there was a fluttering in her breath, but it soon stopped. Aunt Eleanor took no notice for a little while, and then went on with affected petulance.

'Of course he must go and fight somewhere, none of our family would have their health if they were not fighting somebody. I am always fighting the Board Guardians, or the farmers, or Deacon Macdingaway, or you, or Eddy, or some of you. The dear fellow who is gone fought at Waterloo and in India. It is all very well for his mother to say that it is ridiculous. I don't see it. He could make himself a rich man and a famous one by going to India, whereas he child do no possible good in regard to this lawsuit by staying here. I think it is best thing.'

'The lawsuit!' said Ethel. 'What lawsuit?'

'Law, child they are going to dispute his succession, or something of that sort; but I'll sort 'em. That deceitful old trot?'

'What deceitful old trot?' asked Ethel, in wonder.

'Phyllis Myrtle. That woman has deceived every one, and now she has let it all out in her drink to Mrs. Gray. I am not going to talk one word more about the matter. Your brother Jimmy is coming home to pass his examination for the army, at Chelsea Hospital of all places as if he was a wooden-legged pensioner, given to drink and language. I suppose you will say that you didn't know that next?'

'Indeed, I did not, Miss Evans.'

'I know she would,' said Aunt Eleanor, with scornful triumph. 'The next thing she will say is, that she does not know that Roland is coming here to his house, this very night, to dine and sleep, and to say good-bye to us all—that will be the next thing she will say; mark my words.'

'Indeed it will, Miss Evans,' said Ethel.

'I knew it,' said Aunt Eleanor. 'I knew she would say that. However, child, it is true, and as it is too late for you to go home, you had better stay and make the best of it.'

And now, for the first time, Aunt Eleanor looked at Ethel, and discovered that Ethel had turned, and was looking very steadily at her without speaking.

'Yes,' said Aunt Eleanor, quite coolly 'you are perfectly correct in your supposition. I arrange this meeting here to-night, and so you may keep your eyes to yourself, child. I thought proper to do so, and I did it: I never gave any further reasons for my conduct than that. I first of all communicated with Jimmy to know when he was coming, and I got him to promise to be here to-night. Then I sent and ordered Eddy home; in fact, he is at his father's house now. Then I ordered your brother John to step across; and lastly, I sent for Roland. And so they will all be here to dinner; and I am going to scold the cook and spoil the dinner for a quarter of an hour, and then I am going to dress. If you say a word, I will be civil to you. Go.' and Ethel went without a word, and there was silence in the house.

Not for long. A wild storm, which had been for some time progressing towards Pulverbatch Grange, now broke open the door, and held high riot in her peaceful hall. Aunt Eleanor heard it as she was putting on her brooch; and as she listened, her face grew fixed and worn-looking. And she did a strange thing.

She knelt down at her dressing-table and prayed,—prayed earnestly, until the first passionate spirit of her prayer had gone by the mere iteration of the words. Then, like a good Christian, she rose from her knees, strengthened, resigned, but perfectly self possessed and determined; and with her head in the air, went down staircase, saying, 'My bonny boys!'

Her bonny boys were misconducting themselves in the most outrageous manner. Jim Mordaunt had gone straight to Stretton Castle, and had driven over with Roland and Eddy in a dog-cart. They had arranged that Roland should sit behind with the groom, and that Eddy should drive, to which James had agreed with a calmness which to Roland forboded disaster. He had proposed to drive, but was at once objurgated by Eddy and James, as departing from his given word; and so they had departed, Eddy driving. But in the first dangerous lane, Jim Mordaunt discovered that he wanted to drive, and fought Eddy for the reins. Eddy resisted, and Roland found it necessary to interfere mildly, and to send the groom, who was convulsed with laughter, to the plunging horse's head. After long recriminations James was allowed to drive, and made the horse run away (fictitiously) in the darkest of dark places; and by scientific handling of his whip knocked Eddy's hat off, and pretended that he could not pull his horses up to recover it. Petruchio at his maddest was not so mad as James was that night; and so, when Aunt Eleanor came softly stepping down the staircase, with her candle glittering on her diamonds, she found Eddy with his curls in disorder, and the rain-drops glittering upon them, scolding James and appealing to Roland; James sedately exculpating himself, representing the whole matter as an unavoidable accident; and Roland standing by laughing, and saying at interviels, 'You fools! you fools!'

They did not see her till she said, well, young men, have you been having some fun?'

Their good-humored, kindly riot was stilled in an instant as they came towards her. She was a strange lady this, yet one who could give a reason for her actions, too. She passed Eddy and Roland, and going straight to James Mordaunt, and kissing him on the forehead, whispered to him, 'God bless you, my boy: you are not the first, and you won't be the last.' And then leaving him suddenly, she shook hands with Roland, looking at him steadily. After this she turned to Eddy, and said, 'Where is your hat, sir?'

'He knocked it off on purpose,' said Eddy.

'Why, bless the boy, his hair is all wet,' said Aunt Eleanor, making an excuse to pass her hand over the curls of this 'carum caput.' 'Go and dry it, sir, up-stairs. No, don't; you will not hurt. Come into the parlor.'

But as they were going the door was opened by one of the men, and a gruff voice asked, 'Is my brother here?' And James went back: for it was his brother, and they made their greeting alone.

'How goes it, Jimmy?' said the elder.

'No better, old man,' said the younger.

'That's bad, old chap,' said the elder 'Keep a light heart, and you'll soon forget it. By the by, the boy more has come down with Tom, in Donnington lane, and is knocked all to bits. I always said she was too straight in the shoulder. The Governor must have squinted when he bought her. Is Ethel here?'

'No, Johnny. Why?'

'Because she a'n't at home, that is all. I suppose she is somewhere.' And so they went into that room which Miss Evans was pleased to call her parlor.

Aunt Eleanor made Roland come and sit beside her, and as she talked to him about his resolution of going to India and of this wonderful lawsuit, she not only managed to turn himself and herself away from the fire towards the door at the lower end of the long room, but also, in the heat of her assurance that she would manage for his interests in the best way, contrived to get hold of his hand. As she held it, the door opened, and some one came in with a candle in her hand, throwing the light upon her face. At which time Aunt Eleanor found herself clasped tightly on the wrist by Roland; and said very quietly: 'You might have found that out before. You may well pinch me black and blue, indeed. Yes, indeed, you may well. I won't scold you because you are going to India. But if you ever have time to think, what a fool you have been over that matter.'

'It is too late, aunt.'

'Why, you don't suppose, do you, that such a girl as that is likely to allow herself to be played fast and loose with, as you have played fast and loose with her; and to be insulted by a chit of a Mary Maynard as you have insulted her; and to be 'Etheled' as you have 'Etheled' her; and then listen to a word you have got to say without—without—boxing your stupid ears? You don't suppose that, do you? I don't. Look at her.'

And indeed she was well worth looking at, holding her brother James's shoulders, and looking into his eyes with gentle, tender curiosity: for Ethel was as well worth looking at as any young lady in the good county of Shropshire that day.

'Roland,' she said, stepping forward and smiling on him, 'and so you are going to Indian: mercy on us, how lonely we shall be, and how the times will have changed! I shall stay with Miss Evans altogether, if she will have me now.'

She was quite self-possessed, much more so than was he; and as he sat beside her, and talked to her all that evening, he thought more and more what a fool he had been.

CHAPTER XXIX.

ROLAND had been in bed some three hours, when he was awakened in the dead of night by a horse's hoofs on the gravel; and while he was still lying wondering, a servant entered half-dressed, with a light, and put a telegram in his hand.

'The Colonel of the 140th Dragoons to Cornet Evans:—You will instantly join head-quarters, and make every preparation for sailing at once, Cornet Morlow having met with a severe accident. No delay can be permitted.'

His first astonishment over, he bade the servant dress himself and help pack, while he went off to rouse Eddy. Eddy at once determined to go with him, and see the very last of him, and they spent the night in packing, having determined only to tell their mother what had happened in the morning, and then only half the truth.

The parting form his mother was not difficult, for indeed he told her only that he was summoned to the head-quarters of his regiment. Not another soul save the servants did he see, but had driven off in the carriage long before any of the Mordaunts were astir. He looked across the valley at their house in the fresh morning air, and the house was closed, and no smoke was coming from the chimneys. Much was to pass before he saw them again.

He was very silent, but very gentle and kind in the train. During the whole of the long day's journed to Chatham, he talked only in a wondering, eager way about the future: where they would send him; how he should got his necessaries together in so short a time, and how delightful it would be. The moment they got to chatham, he reported himself to the Colonel, who seemed pleased at his diligence, and complimented him.

West Wawanosh.

Feb. 27th 1871

The Council met this day pursuant to adjournment. All the members present. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. A letter was received from, Clerk of East Wawanosh respecting work on town line 2nd con. half amot. of said work ordered to be paid on receiving an account of amount expended. Bill of R Wilson for gravel supplied to Jas. Walker, pathmaster near Dungannon amounting to $5 and R. Douglass bill for mending scraper 75c. were ordered to be paid. Moved by Mr. Gaunt, sec. by Mr. Durnin, that as the School Sections No. 4 & No. 1 Union Kinloss have been erroneously charged School rates for 1870 by reason of a mistaken assessment for that year; whereby section No. 4 has been deprived of the sum of $84.87 and Union S. Section has received that amount in excess of what 5 was entitled to; that No. 4 received that sum from the township treasurer and that Union Section No. 1 Kinloss repay said amount to township treasurer, by consent of Trustees of said section No. 1 on being certified of the equity of such arrangements by the township Clerk W. Wawanosh out of the rate to be imposed this year a certificate from J Somerville Esq., Inspector of Roads. Lucknow, asking payment of $50. amount voted by Council 9th May last and $3 for share of Scraper, ordered to be paid. The office of Collector was let by tender to John McCrostie for $40 and the office of chief Librarian to W T Murphy for $7.50 Messrs Linahan and Durnin were appointed a committee to examine Bridge bulls on 5th concession between 24 & 25 and report at next meeting of council. In the interim $12 to be paid contractor, on account. Moved by Mr. Durnin, sec. by Mr. Kinghan that a Town hall be built on the rear of lot 18 con 8 36 ft by 28 ft. The building is to be constructed, as nearly as may be, like the Colborne town hall. It was unanimously resolved that the Reeve procure the services of any competent person to prepare three copies of a specification of the work required to be done and that the work be let by tender, or otherwise, at the next meeting of Council. Moved by Mr. Wilson sec. by Mr. Gaunt that the council adjourn to meet again on Tuesday the 11 April next. Carried.

JAMES SCOTT, T'p Clerk.

Dungannon March 6th 1871.

DEAR MR. EDITOR you will please give space in the columns of your Weekly to this piece of composition on the Death of THOMAS SCOTT, who was shot at Fort Garry.

The Loyal Scott of Canada
In sorrow may lament
The untimely death of Thomas Scott
Who to Red River went.

He left his peaceful home and friends,
His fortune for to try,
Amongst the red skins of the West,
Beneath the West'rn sky.

But he was such a Loyal Youth,
No pleasure did he find
Amongst the rebels of the West,
It sorely vexed his mind,

To see a Vile insurgent band
With Riel at their head;
Enacting Anti British Laws
To fill the Land with dread.

Those laws they made Scott did impugn
And that with all his might;
For he was Loyal to the Crown
And swore that he would fight

Against such base usurpers
As Riel and his band,
Who fed themselves by plunder
There in a British land.

But Scott he fell a victim
To Riel's cruel rage
A monster and Imposter,
The greatest of this age.

So brave Scott was shot by order
And Riel gave command,
And thus he died a Martyr
The foremost in the land.

And now we greatly wonder
His Death was not avenged,
By some Imperial order;
But justice is deranged.

For still his Blood is crying
For vengance from the ground
Take vengance on vile Riel,
Wherever he is found.

Composed by an old Volunteer of year '38, Dungannon.

Good News From Bruce.

BLAKE CARRYING ALL BEFORE HIM.

Walkerton, March, 8, 1871.

Mr. Blake, M. P. P., arrived in his Riding on Monday evening, and had a grand ovation. He was met at Clifford by a cavalcade of three hundred persons, headed by a brass band. His meeting at Glenlyon was attended by eight hundred persons, much enthusiasm was manifested, and resolutions approving of his course and pledging support were passed unanimously. The prospect of success is excellent.

Mr. Blake addressed about 250 of the electors at Malcolm, Centre Brant. Meeting almost unanimous in his favor. Enormous meeting here. Great enthusiasm manifested. Not twenty hands were held up against the resolution for Blake. His opponents here would not face the music.
