235. On 3rd February, 1882, the minister of Railways and Canals, requiring part of a lot for construction of the I. C. Ry deposited, in accordance with the Government Railway Act, 1881, a plan of the land, and gave notice under section 15 tendering compensation. The lot had been used as a cove, and a profitable lumber business had been conducted thereon by means of a wharf running into deep water, at which vessels of large size could load. The portion of the lot taken was 25 feet wide through the middle of it and across the wharf by 211 feet, in all 5,156 square feet; the portion of the wharf expropriated being 1,000 square feet. Respondents refused the sum tendered, and the question of compensation was submitted by the minister, under the Act, to the official arbitrators who, after hearing evidence of the claimants and the Crown, awarded the amount tendered and refused as full compensation for the land expropriated and all damages, and imposed the costs of arbitration upon the claimants. An appeal to the Exchequer court was heard by Fournier, J., one witness on either side being examined, the award of the arbitrators was set aside, the claimants allowed $11,073 ($8,500 damages and $2,573 value of land expropriated), costs of appeal (save of witnesses in the Exchequer court) and before the arbitrators.

236. On further appeal to the Supreme court, respondents gave notice of intention upon the hearing to contend that the decision should be varied and respondent allowed a larger sum as compensation and damages: The judgment of the court below should be affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs. Supr. C., 1893, Canada, Murphy vs The Queen, 3 Ex. C. R., 75; Cass. Dig., 314.

237. Where the construction of a retaining wall was rendered necessary, by the expropriation of a portion of a college property, in order to retain the soil adjoining the street, which it was desired to raise to the same level as the rest of the college play ground, the proprietor expropriated is entitled to the cost of such wall as part of the indemnity.

238. The prospective capabilities of the land and its adaptability to particular uses, may be taken into account, and the proprietor expropriated is entitled to more than the current market value of the property taken if the expropriation renders it impossible for him to extend his educational establishment as intended, and thereby make larger profits out of the additional number of boarders accommodated.

239. The fact that a church is left projecting to some extent on the street as widened by the expropriation of a strip along the front, and that the architectural appearance is marred, cannot be taken into account in estimating the indemnity. C. R., 1893, Montreal, Cité de Montréal vs Rue Bleury and Corporation du collège Ste-Marie, Q. J. R., 4 S. C., 410.

240. Under the Canadian Railway Act of 1888, as well as under the English Railway Acts, a railway company is responsible, where land or real rights are or have been actually expropriated, to compensate the proprietor, not only for the land actually taken, but for the direct damage to his remaining land, resulting either from construction and severance, or from the use of the railway line and the operation of the traffic service. Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Wood et al. vs The Atlantic and North-West Railway Co., Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 335; 18 L. N., 140; L. R., 1895, App. Cas., 257; 64 L. J., P. C., 116; 72 L. T., 238; 11 R., 407; 2 B. J. P. C., 54, 346.

241. Dans l'estimation de la valeur de terrains expropriés, il faut tenir compte de la valeur actuelle de ces terrains au moment de l'expropriation et non pas de celle que peuvent leur donner la perspective des travaux publics qui ont motivé leur expropriation.

242. On ne doit pas non plus, en faisant cette estimation, prendre en considération la plus value que ces terrains auraient pu acquérir à la suite de travaux spéculatifs d'une exécution difficile et d'un succès problématique.

243. Les tribunaux ne doivent renverser la décision des commissaires en matière d'expropriation que lorsqu'il est clairement démontré qu'ils ont commis une erreur. B. R., 1893, Montréal, Le Maire, les Echevins et les Citoyens de la Cité de Montréal vs Lemoine et al., R. J. Q., 3 B. R., 181; 17 L. N., 259; 23 R. C. Supr., 390.

244. In the matter of a railway expropriation, an award of arbitrators who have had the advantage of viewing and examining the property taken, and also the property affected by the construction of the railway, should only be altered by the court when it is shown that the arbitrators were influenced by improper motives, or when the evidence clearly and conclusively establishes that they erred in fixing an amount undoubtedly too high or undoubtedly too low. Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal et Ottawa vs Castonguay, Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 207; 16 L. N., 171.—Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal et Ottawa vs Bertrand, Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 203; 16 L. N., 171.

245. Where the railway company takes possession of the land required by it, after the institution of expropriation proceedings, but prior to the date of the award by the arbitrators, the latter are competent witnesses to prove that the matter of interest between the date of possession and the date of the award was not taken into consideration by them, and in that case the party expropriated is entitled to such interest in addition to the amount of the award. The party expropriated has a direct action for the recovery of such interest. Q. B., 1894, Montreal, Atlantic and North-West Railway Co. vs Leeming et al., Q. J. R., 3 Q. B., 165.

246. Bien que les terrains et bâtisses expropriés doivent être estimés d'après leur valeur à la date fixée pour l'expropriation, l'exproprié conservant la possession de ces terrains et bâtisses jusqu'au dépôt en cour du montant de l'indemnité, est responsable envers l'expropriant des dégradations qu'ils ont subies entre la date fixée pour l'expropriation et celle du dépôt du montant de l'indemnité.

247. Ainsi lorsque l'exproprié a abandonné les bâtisses expropriées, et que des personnes sans aveu s'y sont introduites et y ont commis des dégradations, l'exproprié ne peut réclamer de l'expropriant la valeur qu'avaient ces bâtisses à la date fixée pour l'expropriation. C. R., 1895, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Day, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 223.

248. Des commissaires en expropriation, même quand ils reconnaissent l'existence de dommages et en fixent le quantum, peuvent, sans dépasser leurs pouvoirs, refuser d'allouer ces dommages à l'indemnitaire, sur preuve qu'ils lui ont été payés sur une expropriation précédente. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Catelli, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 464.

249. Under the Dominion Railway Act, 51 Vict., ch. 29, compensation recoverable in respect of lands injuriously affected must be based on injury or damage to the land itself, and not on personal inconvenience or discomfort to the owner or occupant: It was held, therefore, that no compensation could be allowed to the owner of land fronting on a street along which a railway company lawfully constructed its line of railway, there being no interference with access to the land except so far as that resulted from the passing of trains. C. A., 1898, Ontario, Powell vs Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Co., 25 A. R., 209.

250. Dans l'expropriation d'un terrain vague on ne doit pas accorder d'indemnité pour la clôture qui l'entoure ni pour les arbres qui s'y trouvent, lesquels, s'ils ajoutent de la valeur au terrain, sont censés compris dans l'estimation faite de ce terrain. C. R., 1898, Montréal, La Cité de Montréal vs Baxter, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 149.

251. On an arbitration in a matter of the expropriation of land under the provisions of the Railway Act, the majority of the arbitrators appeared to have made their computation of the amount of the indemnity awarded to the owner of the land by taking an average of the different estimates made on behalf of both parties according to the evidence before them: The award was properly set aside on the appeal to the Superior court, as the arbitrators appeared to have proceeded upon a wrong principle in the estimation of the indemnity thereby awarded. Supr. C., 1898, Canada, Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada vs Coupal, 28 Supr. C. R., 531.

252. L'article 5164 S. R. P. Q., continue de s'appliquer à l'expropriation effectuée par une compagnie de chemin de fer constituée par acte de la législature de la province de Québec, malgré que l'entreprise de cette compagnie ait été déclarée, par statut fédéral, être pour l'avantage général du Canada; partant, aux termes de cet article, une sentence arbitrale peut être attaquée pour cause de nullité.

253. La plus-value que les arbitres sont autorisés à compenser contre les inconvénients, pertes ou dommage résultant du fait que la compagnie a pris possession ou fait usage de terrains, est une plus-value immédiate et spéciale résultant à ces terrains des avantages procurés par l'exécution des travaux de la compagnie, et non pas d'avantages futurs et partant éventuels et incertains. Les arbitres ne peuvent donc pas tenir compte de l'amélioration générale de la situation de la localité où s'opèrent les travaux, mais seulement de l'amélioration propre à l'immeuble même que l'expropriation affecte, plaçant la portion de cet immeuble qui reste au propriétaire dans une condition meilleure que celle où elle se trouvait précédemment par rapport aux autres immeubles de la localité. C. S., 1899 Montréal, Dickson vs La Compagnie de chemin de fer de Châteauguay et Nord, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 170.

254. Après l'annulation de la sentence arbitrale, le juge n'a pas le pouvoir d'ordonner le remboursement ou paiement du dépôt fait avant l'émanation d'un mandat de possession attendu que tel ordre ne peut être donné qu'en conformité des termes de la sentence arbitrale.

255. Après l'annulation de la sentence, l'exproprié peut poursuivre la compagnie pour la somme par elle offerte inlimine. C. S., 1899, Beauharnois, Brunet vs Compagnie du chemin de fer de St-Laurent et Adirondack, 5 R. J., 232.

256. After the commencement of expropriation proceedings, the city took possession of lands, constructed works thereon and incorporated it with a public street. Acting under a special statute subsequently passed, the expropriation proceedings were abandoned without payment of indemnity or return of the property: Where the owner of land has been illegally dispossessed, he is entitled to have it returned to him in as good condition as when it was taken and in the same state and also to damages equal to the rents, issues and profits thereof during the period of illegal detention. Supr. C., 1900, Canada, City of Montreal vs Hogan, 31 Supr. C. R., 1.

257. Si, à raison d'avantages, quelque problématiques et incertains qu'ils soient, la valeur d'une terre (dont partie avait été expropriée pour la construction d'un chemin de fer) a été augmentée sur le marché, les arbitres peuvent tenir compte de cette plus-value pour compenser les dommages résultant de l'expropriation de partie de cette terre. B. R., 1900, Montréal, Châteauguay et Northern Railway Co. vs Trenholme, R. J. Q., 11 B. R., 45; 8 R. L., n. s., 265.

258. The action was to recover a strip of land taken along the side of respondent's property, for opening a by-road, and for damages by removal of fences. Questions were raised as to the right of the corporation, without paying indemnity, to take possession of this land as part of the reservation for road allowance established by law. The judgment appealed from, in reversing the Superior court, maintained the action, granted $20 damages, and ordered that respondent should be reinstated in possession of a strip of land.

259. This judgment was reformed by striking out the damages, and adding, after the direction that the plaintiff should be reinstated in possession, the words, "si mieux n'aime la dite corporation de payer au dit demandeur la somme de $200, comme prix du dit terrain, le tout avec dépens, dans l'une ou l'autre alternative, contre la dite corporation dans toutes les cours." Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Township of Arundel vs Wilson, Cout. Cas., 210.

260. On an appeal from an award of arbitrators, under the Railway Act of Canada, ch. 29, sect. 161, so far as the appreciation of damages is concerned, no new evidence can be adduced, and no objection based upon the admission of illegal evidence, or the exclusion of legal evidence can be considered unless the illegalities complained of appear of record.

261. The award cannot be explained or varied by extrinsic evidence of the intention of the party making it. Error of law or fact on the part of the arbitrators, or excess of jurisdiction, must appear on the face of the award, or from the evidence or documents of record.

262. The court will not interfere with the discretion of the arbitrators as to the amount of the award, unless it be as a check upon possible fraud, accidental error, or gross incompetence.

263. The award of a block sum is valid, the law not requiring the arbitrators to distinguish between the amount awarded for value of land taken, and that awarded for damages to other lands. S. C., 1901, Ottawa, The Pontiac Pacific Junction Railway Co. et al. vs The Community General Hospital Almshouse and Seminary of Learning of the Sisters of Charity at Ottawa, Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 567; 3 Can. Ry. Cas., 99.

264. It is the value of the land at the time of the expropriation that the court has to consider in assessing compensation. If the property has depreciated in value between the time it was acquired by the person seeking compensation, and the time of the expropriation by the Crown, the former has to bear the loss. Where the property is occupied by the owner as his home, and he has no need or wish to sell, the compensation ought to be assessed upon a liberal basis. Ex. C., 1901, The King vs Sedger, 7 Ex. C. R., 274.

265. The Crown expropriated land of respondent and had it appraised by valuators who assessed it at $11,400, which sum was tendered to respondent who refused it and brought suit by petition of right for a larger sum as compensation. The Exchequer court awarded him $17,000. On appeal by the Crown: The evidence given on the trial of the petition shewed that the sum assessed by the valuators was a very generous compensation to L. for the loss of his land and the increase by the judgment appealed from was not justified.

266. The court, while considering that a less sum than that fixed by the valuators should not be given in this case expressly stated that the same course would not necessarily be followed in future cases of the kind. Supr. C., 1901, Canada, The King vs Likely, 32 Supr. C. R., 47; 8 R. L., n. s., 319.

267. Where the city of Montreal, under the provisions of 52 Vict., ch. 79, sect, 213, took possession of land, for street widening, in October, 1895, under agreement with the owner, the fact that the price to be paid remained subject to being fixed by commissioners to be appointed under the statute, was not inconsistent with the validity of the cession of the land so effected and, notwithstanding the subsequent amendment of the statute in December of that year, by 59 Vict., ch. 49, sect. 17, the city was bound, within a reasonable time, to apply to the court for the appointment of commissioners to fix the amount of the indemnity to be paid, to levy assessments therefor and to pay over the same to the owner, and, having failed to do so, the owner had a right of action to recover indemnity for his land so taken.

268. The assessment of damages by taking the average of estimates of the witnesses examined is wrong in principle. Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Fairman et al. vs City of Montreal, 31 Supr. C. R., 210.

269. Where lands at the time of the expropriation had a prospective value for residential purposes beyond that which then attached to them as lands used for farming or dairy purposes such prospective value was taken into consideration in assessing compensation: In assessing compensation in this case the court looked at the assessed value of the lands, not as a determining consideration, but as affording some assistance in arriving at a fair valuation of the property taken. Ex. C., 1902, The King vs The Turnbull Real Estate Co., 8 Ex. C. R., 163.

270. The plaintiffs, having taken the proper proceedings under the Railway Act of Canada and being duly authorized to cross the highway, were not bound to make compensation to the municipality for crossing it. K. B., 1902, Ontario, Montreal and Ottawa Railway Co. vs City of Ottawa, 2 O. L. R., 336, 4 O. L. R., 56; 1 Can. Ry. Cas., 305.

271. In expropriation cases where, the actual value of lands can be closely and accurately determined, a sum equivalent to ten per centum of such actual value should be added thereto for the compulsory taking; but where that cannot be done, and where the price allowed is liberal and generous, nothing should be added for the compulsory taking. Ex. C., 1903, Symondo vs The King, 8 Ex. C. R., 319.

272. A lessee of premises used as an ice-house recovered indemnity from the city for injuries suffered in consequence of the expropriation of part of the leased premises and, in his statement of claim, had specially reserved the right of further recourse for damages resulting from the expropriation. In an action brought after his death by his universal legatee to recover damages for losss of the use of the ice-house during the unexpired term of the lease: The reservation in the first action did not preserve any further right of action in consequence of the expropriation and, therefore, the plaintiff's action was properly dismissed by the courts below, as, in such cases, all damages capable of being foreseen must be assessed once for all and a defendant cannot be twice sued for the same cause. Supr. C., 1903, Canada, Anctil vs City of Quebec, 33 Supr. C. R., 347.

273. The judgments appealed from decided, in effect, that as the lands taken for use as part of a rifle range, at the time of expropriation, had a prospective value for residential and other uses beyond that which then attached to them as lands in use for agricultural and other similar purposes, such prospective values should be taken into consideration in assessing what would be sufficient and just compensation to be paid upon the expropriation of the lands for such public uses as would, in various ways, affect the lands injuriously and diminish their prospective values.

274. In making the assessment of such compensation, the court below consulted the municipal assessment rolls, not as a determining consideration, but as affording some assistance in arriving at a fair valuation of the lands expropriated. The Supreme court of Canada affirmed the judgment appealed from. Supr. C., 1903, Canada, Turnbull Real Estate Co. vs King; Corkery et al. vs The King; De Bury vs The King, 33 Supr. C. R., 677; 8 Ex. C. R., 163.

275. Upon application under section 139 of the Railway Act to acquire lands for station purposes, the Board may consider not merely the traffic coming to the station on the railway of the applicants immedialely or from a distance, but also future traffic on the railway and the future accommodation of the public. In dealing with the question of compensation, the board may require the applicants to do any act whatever, including the payment of money, in addition to the compensation ordinarily allowed under the statute, but any such additional compensation should be allowed only under very peculiar circumstances.

275a. Where warehouse property had been destroyed by fire, and an application was made to expropriate the land under section 139. Compensation should not be paid to the owners for business losses sustained since the fire and during proceedings taken before the board for leave to expropriate, but interest from the date of the original application for such leave was allowed.

275b. The principles upon which compensation should be allowed are fixed by the Railway Act and the Board has no power to order payment of compensation for any other damage than that which the statute allows in the ordinary case of expropriating lands under the Railway Act. Compensation can be allowed under section 131, for business losses sustained while an application for leave to expropriate is pending and that this was a proper case for allowing damages for such losses. Ry B., 1904, Canada, In re Grand Trunk Railway Co., 4 Can. Ry. Cas., 290.

276. Section 153 of the Railway Act, which provides that the date of the deposit of the plan shall be the date with reference to which the compensation or damages shall be ascertained, does not mean that all the company's improvements made before depositing the plan go to the land owner; the lands dealt with in this section are the lands as the company obtained them, in the condition they were at the time they entered, valued as of the date of filing the plan; the claimants' right to compensation accrued at the date the lands were taken, and stood "in the stead of the lands" by virtue of section 173; and so the improvements were not put upon the lands of the claimants at all. H. C., 1904, Ontario, Ruttan and Dreifus vs Canadian Northern Railway Co., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 339; 12 O. L. R., 187.

277. Dans l'estimation de la valeur d'un immeuble et des dommages qui résultent de l'expropriation, on doit tenir compte des revenus de l'immeuble ainsi que des ventes qui ont été faites dans le voisinage. En matière d'expropriation à Montréal, sous les dispositions du statut 54 Vict., ch. 78, art. 11, 1890, le rapport des commissaires n'a plus le caractère de "chose jugée" qu'il avait avant cette loi; et sur appel de la décision des commissaires à la cour de Révision, ce tribunal doit s'aider pour apprécier la sentence arbitrale, de la preuve qui l'accompagne; mais la cour de Révision ne changera le montant de l'indemnité que dans le cas seulement d'omission sur une partie de la réclamation ou d'erreur manifeste dans l'appréciation de la valeur de la propriété.

278. La cour de Révision ne doit pas prendre comme base de son jugement la moyenne de l'évaluation faite par les témoins des parties. C. R., 1904, La Cité de Montréal vs Gauthier, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 351; 11 R. L., n. s., 504, 505.

279. The foundation of proceedings under sections 146 et s. of the Railway Act, 1888, 51 Vict., ch. 29 (D.) to determine the compensation to be paid a landowner for lands taken or injuriously affected by a railway company in the exercise of their statutory powers, is the notice to be served on the landowner thereunder; and in the absence thereof the railway company is, as to the lands damaged by its construction, a trespasser, and like any other trespasser responsible to the person injured in damages to be recovered in the ordinary courts of the country.

280. Where, therefore, without taking any proceedings under said sections, the defendants, a railway company, for the purposes of their railway, made a cutting, adjoining the plaintiff's lands, which caused a subsidence thereof, whereupon the plaintiff brought an action, claiming a mandatory order to compel the defendants to support his lands and prevent further subsidence, and recovered damages for the actual loss then sustained: The plaintiff was entitled to the order and to the damages recovered; but as he would be entitled to maintain actions for the recovery of damages as further loss was sustained, leave was given to the defendants to take proceedings under the above sections for the assessment of compensation so as to have future damages settled, the judgment being stayed for a limited time. H. C., 1905, Hanley vs The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Co., 11 O. L. R., 91.

281. L'indemnité payée au propriétaire exproprié pour la construction d'un chemin de fer, n'est pas censée comprendre les dommages causés par l'obstruction à l'écoulement des eaux. B. R., 1905, Québec, The Grand Trunk Railway Co. vs Langlois, R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 173.

282. The railway company took for the purposes of their railway 3.09 acres of a grain and dairy farm of about 195 acres. The railway crossed the farm, severing from the front part of it about 24 acres, including a field of 18 acres which contained springs affording a supply of water for the cattle and horses on the farm. Upon an arbitration to ascertain the compensation to be paid for the land taken and the damages sustained by reason of the exercise of the railway company's powers of expropriation, the owner of the farm claimed damages inter alia for the loss or serious impairment of the convenient use for the purpose of the farm of the springs in the field mentioned. The company contended that the loss would be minimized by the construction of a farm crossing across the railway, and offered to appear before the board of railway commissioners and consent to an order directing that such a crossing be constructed and maintained by them: The owner of the farm had no statutory right under section 198 of the Railway Act, 1903, to a farm crossing sufficient to provide a satisfactory means of access for his cattle to and from the springs, and was entitled to damages in respect of this claim. Construction of sub-sections 1 and 2 of that section of the Railway Act. H. C., 1906, Armstrong vs James Bay Railway Co., 12 O. L. R., 137.

283. A railway company in 1900 entered upon lands and made valuable improvements, intending to take and use the lands for the purpose of their railway. In 1905 they obtained authority to take the lands, and filed their plan under the Railway Act on the 23rd March, 1905. Arbitrators, in awarding compensation to be paid by the company for the lands, allowed to the claimants a sum for the improvements actually made by the company: The company did not stand in the same position as an ordinary trespasser going upon lands; they had a statutory right to acquire a title, and entered after negotiation with the true owners, and with the permission of one who claimed to be, but turned out not to be, the true owner; although the improvements were fixtures, dedication to the land owners was not to be presumed, but the contrary; and the amount of the award should be reduced by the sum alllowed for the improvements. H. C., 1906, Ruttan and Dreifus vs Canadian Northern Railway Co., 12 O. L. R., 187.

284. Dans l'estimation de l'indemnité à fixer pour une expropriation de terrain en vertu de l'Acte des chemins de fer 1903 (Can.), les arbitres doivent tenir compte, non de la plus-value que la construction du chemin de fer donne aux immeubles de la localité en général, mais à l'excédent de plus-value, s'il y en a, que l'immeuble, dont le terrain exproprié fait partie, reçoit en sus de celle donnée aux immeubles voisins. C. P., 1906, Québec, The Quebec Improvement Co. vs The Quebec Bridge and Railway Co., R. J. Q., 29 C. S., 328; B. C. J., 245; R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 107; R. J. Q., 17 B. R., 353; 14 R. J., 199. (Conf. par le C. P., le 24 janvier 1908).

285. The appellant purchased at different times and in sixteen different parcels 623 acres of land, paying for the whole nearly $7,000, or about $11 per acre. The Crown on expropriating the land offered him $20 per acre, which he refused, claiming $22,000, which on a reference to ascertain the value was increasee to $45,000. The referee allowed $38,000, which the Exchequer court reduced to the sum first claimed: There was no user of the land nor any special circumstances to make it worth more than the market value, which was established by the price for which it was sold shortly before expropriation.

286. He claimed the larger price as potential value of the land for orchard purposes to which he had intended to devote it: As he had not proved the land to be fit for such purposes and the evidence tended to disprove it he could not receive compensation on that ground. Supr. C., 1906, Canada, Dodge vs The King, 38 Supr. C. R., 149; 10 Ex. C. R., 208.

287. Where the land taken consisted of an hotel property, an allowance was properly made for the loss sustained by the owner for the disturbance of his business and anticipated profits by reason of the expropriation, notwithstanding by the fencing off of the railway property therefrom, which the company had the right to do, the hotel property might have been rendered valueless as such, but which right the company had never attempted to exercise and presumably never would have exercised.

288. The value of the license of an hotel is also a proper subject of allowance, though merely a personal right, and the renewal thereof, though reasonably probable, is not absolutely certain. H. C., 1907, Ontario, Cavanagh vs The Canada Atlantic Railway Co., 14 O. L. R., 523.

289. Where a building used as a foundry is expropriated for the purpose of a public work, the owner who is unable to find suitable premises elsewhere to carry on his business is entitled to compensation for the depreciation in value of the machinery, tools and other personal property with which his foundry is fitted up. Ex. C., 1907, Halifax, The King vs Thompson, 11 Ex. C. R., 161.

290. The Crown expropriated for the purposes of a public work certain premises which the owner used as a hotel licensed to sell liquors. The license was an annual one, but as the license laws then stood, it could be renewed in favour of the then owner, or in case of his death, of his widow; but no license could be granted to any other person for such to which he put it could not be continued: While this particular use of the property added nothing to its market or selling value, it enhanced its value to the owner at the time of the expropriation, and such was an element to be considered in determining the amount of compensation to be paid to him for the premises taken. Ex. C., 1907, Halifax, The King vs Rogers, 11 Ex. C. R., 132.

291. Where the whole property is taken and there is no severance, the owner is entitled to compensation for the land and property taken, and for such damages as may properly be included in the value of such land and property.

292. He is not entitled to damages because such taking injuriously affects a business which he carries on at some other place.

293. Defendants, in expropriation proceedings, at the time their premises were taken had them fitted up as a boiler and machine shop. The machinery was treated as personal property by the defendants and sold for less than it was worth to them when used for such purposes: They were entitled to compensation for the depreciation in value of the machinery by reason of the taking of the premises where it had been in use. Ex. C., 1907, Halifax, The King vs Stairs, 11 Ex. C. R., 137.

294. A railway company applied to the board under section 178 of the Railway Act for authority to expropriate certain lands for the purpose of the diversion of a public highway. The landowners interested opposed the application unless the following conditions were granted: (1) that the adjoining landowners be paid compensation for the lands (part of the public highway) on which the railway was to be built on the ground that the said lands would revert to them as a closed public highway; (2) that the company pay compensation to the owners of the land required for the diverted highway; (3) that the owners be given the right of crossing on foot and to maintain landings and net-houses on the company's right of way next the river opposite the lands of each owner: The application should be granted, subject to the condition as to foot crossings. Ry B., 1907, Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway and Navigation Co. vs Municipality of Delta, 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 354.

295. Under section 159 of the Railway Act, 1903, if the owner of land sought to be expropriated by the railway company does not accept the offer of the railway company within ten days, the company may at once proceed to have the amount of the compensation payable determined by arbitration; but the owner may accept the offer at any time after the expiration of ten days if in the meantime the company has taken no further proceedings, and such offer and acceptance will constitute a binding contract between the parties upon which the owner may proceed in an action to recover the amount offered. Supr. C., 1908, Manitoba, Bennetto vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 223; 18 Man. L. R., 13.

296. A railway company under its compulsory powers of expropriation acquired from the owner a certain portion of his land for the purposes of their undertaking. A majority of arbitrators by their award allowed compensation for depreciation to the remainder of his land resulting from the operation of the railway elsewhere than on the land so taken. It was held upon appeal that the award must be set aside and the question referred back to the arbitrators for further consideration and award.

297. That the plaintiff is entitled to compensation for the depreciation of the value of his other lands, in so far as such depreciation is due to the anticipated legal use of works to be constructed upon the lands which have been taken from him under the Railway Act.

298. That the arbitrators may take into consideration the fact that the lands sought adjoin the railway premises and are convenient for extension of their yard. H. C., 1908, Ontario, Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs Gordon, 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 53.

299. Under section 159 of the Railway Act, 1903, if the owner of land sought to be expropriated by the railway company does not accept the offer of the railway company within ten days, the company may at once proceed to have the amount of the compensation payable determined by arbitration.

300. But the owner may accept the offer at any time after the expiration of ten days if in the meantime the company has taken no further proceedings, and such offer and acceptance will constitute a binding contract between the parties upon which the owner may proceed in an action to recover the amount offered. K. B., 1908, Manitoba, Bennetto vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 18 Man. L. R., 13.

301. Arbitrators appointed under the Railway Act to determine the value of lands expropriated by the railway must base their award on the evidence given and, while authorized under section 201 of the Railway Act to view the land expropriated, they may not disregard the evidence and substitute their own opinion of the value for the evidence of the witnesses, the proper purpose of the view being to enable the arbitrators to better understand the evidence. The award of arbitrators stated: "We have been thrown very considerably upon our own judgment in arriving at this decision. Reasoning from our own judgment and a view of the actual facts submitted in evidence we are convinced that the sum of $2,900 is a fair and just valuation of the land under dispute": The award should be set aside and the value fixed by the court on the evidence given pursuant to the authority contained in the Railway Act, sect. 209.

302. This judgment was reversed by the Supreme court: In expropriation proceedings, under the Railway Act, the arbitrators in making their award stated that they had not found the expert evidence a valuable factor in assisting them in their conclusions and that, after viewing the property in question, they had reached their conclusions by "reasoning from their own judgment and a few actual facts submitted in evidence." On appeal from the judgment of the Supreme court of Alberta setting aside the award and increasing the damages: It did not appear from the language used that the arbitrators had proceeded without proper consideration of the evidence adduced or upon what was not properly evidence and therefore, the award should not have been interfered with. Supr. C., 1909, Canada, In re Calgary and Edmonton Railway Co., and McKinnon, 2 A. L. R., 438; 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 27; 43 Supr. C. R., 379.

303. Certain premises situated on a city street were expropriated by the Crown for the erection thereon of public buildings. The house although not a new one was well and solidly built, and the owner claimed that it possessed special adaptability for the purpose of being used as apartments or flats: The compensation for the property was to be assessed in respect of its market value, and upon the facts the alleged special adaptability was not an element of such value. Ex. C., 1909, The King vs Hayes, 12 Ex. C. R., 365.

304. In assessing compensation in a case of expropriation of land, the sales of adjoining properties affords a safe primâ facie basis of valuation. Ex. C., 1909, The King vs Murphy, 12 Ex. C. R., 401.

305. For the purpose of forming a public harbour certain up-lands together with certain beach lands were expropriated from the defendants by the Crown. Some years before, the defendants had constructed two piers, and had dredges an entrance from tide-water to the pond where such piers were situated; but at the time of the expropriation both of the piers had been allowed to fall into disrepair and the entrance or channel had been completely filled up with sand. The defendants claimed compensation amongst other things, for the land had been taken by the Crown, or that there was any possibility of the defendants obtaining a purchaser who would use the land for that purpose: The defendants had not made out a case for compensation in respect of their claim for special adaptability. The value of the stone could not be taken into account. Ex. C., 1909, The King vs The Inverness Railway and Coal Co., 12 Ex. C. R., 383.

306. In addition to full and fair compensation for the value of lands and premises expropriated the owner carrying on business thereon is entitled to compensation for the goodwill of such business. The market price of the lands taken ought to be regarded as the primâ facie basis of valuation in awarding compensation for land. In this case there was a passage from a street in the rear of the premises where one of the defendants carried on a licensed liquor business, by which customers who desired to visit the bar without attracting notice could do so: Such passage enhanced the value of the property for the purposes of a bar, and so constituted an element of compensation. Ex. C., 1909, The King vs Condon, 12 Ex. C. R., 275.

307. In assessing compensation the whole of the property should be considered as comprising land suitable for ranching purposes, and the market value (an element of which was its potential value) together with that of the house and barn thereon, ascertained as of the date of the expropriation, then by ascertaining the market value of what was left and deducting the same from the value of the part expropriated, the difference would represent suppliant's loss. Ex. C., 1909, Brown vs The King, 12 Ex. C. R., 463.

308. In this case certain lands which fronted on a public harbour owned by the Crown in right of the Dominion of Canada were expropriated for the purpose of forming the shore end of a wharf extending out into such harbour: The suppliants had no grant and claimed no title to the beach or the land covered with water at medium high tide.

309. The suppliants claimed that the special adaptability of the lands for wharf purposes should be considered as adding a very large value to the same in assessing compensation: As the suppliants did not own the land covered by water nor the beach, that such special adaptability was not to be considered. Ex. C., 1909, Gillespie vs The King, 12 Ex. C. R., 406.

310. The arbitrators not having stated the principles by which they were guided in coming to their conclusions, and not having separated the amount allowed for the land actually taken and the amount awarded as damages for lands injuriously affected, the course taken by the court on the appeal was that commended by the Judicial Committee in James Bay Railway Co. vs Armstrong, viz., to go through all the evidence, and, having due regard to the findings of the arbitrators, so far as they could be ascertained, to examine into the justice of the award.

311. The measure of the damage to which the claimant was entitled was the value of the land taken and the depreciation occasioned to the remainder by the construction and user of the railway upon the part taken; and justice to the contestants required that the award should shew on its face what amount was allowed in respect of each of these items.

312. The principle on which the inquiry as to the compensation when some land is taken and some injuriously affected should be proceeded with is to ascertain the value to the claimant of his property before the taking, and its value after the part has been taken, having regard to all the directions of section 198 of the Railway Act, and deduct the one sum from the other.

313. Section 153 (2) of the Act 3 Ed. VII, ch. 58, now section 192 (2) of the Railway Act, was enacted for the purpose of fixing the time as of which the value and damage are to be ascertained; the question of interest is not dealt with in terms, and there is nothing in the words to interfere with the operation of the general law, which, as between vendor and purchaser, fixes the time at which interest commences as that at which the purchaser takes or may safely take possession.

314. When some land is taken, and other land is injuriously affected, the amounts awarded in respect of both are to be treated as purchase money. C. A., 1909, Ontario, In re Davies and James Bay Railway Co., 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 225; 20 O. L. R., 534.—P. C., 1909, James Bay Railway Co. vs Armstrong, L. R., App. Cas., 624.

315. The power conferred on arbitrators appointed under the Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37, to award compensation for lands taken by a railway company is limited to determining the amount of such compensation merely; and, therefore, they exceeded their jurisdiction in awarding interest on the amounts allowed as compensation from the date with reference to which the same were ascertained namely, the date of the filing of the plan, etc. H. C., 1909, Ontario, In re Clarke and Toronto Grey and Bruce Railway Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 290; 18 O. L. R., 628.

316. Lessees under a renewable lease, or their assignees, where the lessors have an option to renew or to pay for improvements, who remain in possession after expiration of the term, but to whom no renewal lease is granted, although demanded, are in occupation as tenants at will merely, and are not "persons interested" in the land within the meaning of section 155 of the Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37, and therefore are not entitled to compensation for expropriation of any part of the lands demised. A. C., 1909, Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs Alexander Brown Milling and Elevator Co., 18 O. L. R., 85.

317. Une compagnie de chemin de fer qui donne un avis d'expropriation d'un terrain pour y faire passer un chemin de fer électrique et qui paie au propriétaire l'indemnité fixée par sentence arbitrale peut, néanmoins, être condamnée à payer des dommages additionnels si elle y construit un chemin de fer mû par la vapeur.

318. Il n'y a, dans ce cas, chose jugée que sur les dommages contenus dans la sentence arbitrale, et sur la demande de la compagnie contenue dans son avis d'expropriation.

319. De ce chef, le demandeur a droit aux dommages actuels, certains et directs, et non éventuels, c'est-à-dire, les frais additionnels et l'excédent des dépenses que la construction du chemin de fer mu par la vapeur lui a occasionnés, mais il ne peut demander une somme totale pour ses dommages passés, présents et futurs. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Lapointe vs Compagnie du chemin de fer Châteauguay et Nord, 16 R. L., n. s., 109.

320. In fixing compensation, regard should be had to the prospective capabilities of the property, arising from its character and situation.

321. When the evidence is deficient on an element of damage (v. g. the severance of the property into two blocks by the railway), which the arbitrators were enabled to appreciate by inspection, their finding in that regard will not be disturbed in appeal.

322. The benefit derivable from the railway that can be set off against the damage caused by the expropriation, must be such as is "beyond the increased value, common to all lands in the locality."

323. If the property be a mill site, with a water power available, it cannot be urged that its only value is given it by the railway, inasmuch as the owner of a rival mill-site in the locality, not touched by the railway, would presumably derive the same benefit from it. K. B., 1909, Quebec, The Quebec, Montreal and Southern Railway Co. vs Landry, Q. J. R., 19 K. B., 82.

324. In an action brought by plaintiff claiming damages for lands taken for railway purposes, part of plaintiff's claim had been the subject of arbitration and award, but it appeared that part of the work of construction preceded the filing of the expropriation plans: Plaintiff was entitled to recover for all damage, which could have been legitimately excluded from the considerarion of the arbitrators, and plaintiff's claim could not be deemed to have been satisfied by an award for injuries which would not have formed a legitimate subject for the consideration of the arbitrators. Supr. C., 1909, Nova Scotia, Beaton vs Mabou and Gulf Railway Co., 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 251; 41 N. S. R., 429.

325. It having been agreed between the parties in this case that the question of damages which might possibly arise in the future from any flooding of the defendant's lands should not be dealt with in the present action, the court took cognizance of such agreement in pronouncing judgment.

326. In respect to the lands taken the court declined to assess compensation based upon the consideration that the lands were of more value to the Crown than they were to the defendants at the time of the taking. Ex. C., 1909, The Queen vs Harwood, 6 Ex. C. R., 420.

327. Upon an appeal, under section 209 of the Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37 from an award of arbitrators determining the compensation to be paid to an owner for the compulsory taking of his lands by a railway company, the court will not assume the function of the arbitrators and make an independent award, but will rather treat the matter as it would an appeal from the decision or verdict of a judge, and the award will not be disturbed, unless the arbitrators manifestly erred in some principle in arriving at their conclusion.

328. It is proper that the claimant should be allowed the actual value of the property to him, and not merely the market value as on a sale.

329. The arbitrators are not bound to allow ten per cent. extra on the amount of the compensation for the compulsory taking, although that is frequently done, and the court will not interfere with their refusal to allow such percentage. C. A., 1909, Manitoba, Canadian Northern Railway vs Robinson, 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 226; 17 Man. L. R., 396.

330. L'indemnitaire n'a droit qu'aux dommages qui résultent directement et exclusivement du fait de l'expropriation. Les arbitres ne peuvent lui tenir compte des inconvénients qu'il subit, en outre, avec le reste du public, tels que ceux causés par le bruit et la fumée, les difficultés plus grandes d'accès au dehors, etc.

331. Les riverains des canaux publics, ne pouvant être propriétaires des rives, ni de l'eau, sont en conséquence exclus de tous droits de riveraineté, soit à titre de propriété, soit à titre de servitude

332. La cour Supérieure, en décidant de l'appel, doit fixer elle-même, d'après la preuve faite devant les arbitres, l'indemnité due pour l'expropriation. C. S., 1909, Montréal, The Ontario and Quebec Railway Co. vs Vallières, R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 349; 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 1.

333. In a case of public expropriation, the owners were not entitled to compensation based on the enhanced value that could be given to the water lot by the erection of wharves and piers and the expectation that a license would be granted therefor, and if they were the amount tendered was, in the circumstances, sufficient. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, Cunard et al. vs The King, 43 Supr. C. R., 88; 12 Ex. C. R., 414.

334. Le demandeur a droit aux dommages actuels, certains et non éventuels, c'est-à-dire les frais additionnels et l'excédent des dépenses que la construction du chemin de fer mû par la vapeur lui a occasionnés, lorsque dans une expropriation précédente il avait été indemnisé pour le passage d'un chemin de fer électrique, mais il ne peut demander une somme totale pour ses dommages passés, présents et futurs. B. R., 1911, Montréal, Chateauguay and Northern Railway Co. vs Lapointe, 17 R. L., n. s., 289.

335. L'exproprié pour cause d'utilité publique a droit à tous les frais et dépenses raisonnables par lui encourus pour mener sa cause à sa fin, de manière à ce que l'indemnité qui lui est accordée par les arbitres lui reste entière. C. S., 1912, Joliette, The Shawinigan Water and Power Co. vs Magnan, 13 R. P. Q., 365.

336. In assessing compensation for lands taken for the purposes of a public work, primâ facie the market price governs, but the "prospective capabilities" of the property must be taken into account. Usually such capabilities form an element in fixing the market price. Ex. C., 1912, Canada, The King vs The Moncton Land Co. and Govang and Breau, 13 Ex. C. R., 521; 1 D. L. R., 279.

337. In an action for infringement the company would not be estopped from asserting the invalidity of the title. Ex. C., 1912, Canada, The Imperial Supply Co. vs Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 13 Ex. C. R., 507.

338. The market price of lands expropriated by the Crown for public works is primâ facie the basis of evaluation in eminent domain proceedings, but where a use for a special purpose is shewn on the part of the owner a reasonable allowance must be added in respect thereof. Ex. C., 1912, Canada, The King vs Rivers and Taggart, 1 D. L. R., 505.

339. The rental value of land is not to be adopted as the measure of damages for a trespass thereon if special damage is alleged and proved, and the trespasser will be liable for loss shewn to have been suffered by the owner by reason of his being deprived of an actually intended and natural and probable use of his land.

340. A trespasser on lands is to be dealt with as having notice or knowledge that the owner of the land will try to use it in any reasonable and usual way which may be profitable to him, and is accountable for damages accordingly.

341. The extension by the owner of land of an existing pig corral is not such a peculiar and unusual use of the land as will relieve a trespasser from the duty of anticipating the probability of it, and being charged in damages for the interference with the owner's intended exercise of his right in that respect.

342. The owner of land cannot recover as special damage resulting from the service of a notice of expropriation, by a railway company, which was abandoned the anticipated profit on a crop which the owner desisted from raising because of the notice having been served.

343. Where excavations and other trespasses by a railway company prevented the landowner from extending his pig corral so as to keep the increase of the pigs and the corral thereby became crowded and unhealthy, resulting in the death of some of the pigs and the depreciation of others in value, the owner will be limited to such damage as would have resulted had he reduced the number of his pigs to what he had theretofore safely kept, and he cannot recover as special damage more than the difference in the selling value, at the time of the trespass of the pigs he should have removed and sold for lack of accommodation to keep them and their value at the time when they would have been the most fit to sell less the saving in feed and labour by reason of the reduced number. S. C., 1912, Alberta, Marson vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 1 D. L. R., 850.

343a. In assessing compensation for the expropriation of lands for the purpose of a public work, damages must be measured by the market value of the lands as a whole at the time of expropriation. While certain material in the soil of the lands expropriated may largely increase the potential value of such lands, the court will not go into abstract calculations with respect to the quantity of such material in situ, but will treat the lands as possessing a value that is entire and indivisible. Ex. C., 1912, Canada, The King vs Kendall, 14 Ex. C. R., 71.

343b. Les dispositions du titre 8, C. m., touchant l'expropriation pour les fins municipales, ne sont pas exclusives de celles de l'article 407 C. c., qui doit recevoir son application quant aux dommages qui sont la suite de toute expropriation.

343c. L'indemnité est fixée par les estimateurs de la municipalité, tel que prévu à l'article 908 C. m. Par suite, la résolution du conseil, nommant un arbitre, l'avis donné à l'exproprié d'en faire autant et l'arbitrage qui s'en suit, sont nuls; surtout si les règles exigées à peine de nullité pour les arbitrages de droit commun, ne sont pas observées.

343d. La déclaration de l'exproprié qu'il est satisfait, "sous réserve des dommages qui n'ont pas été évalués," n'est pas un acquiescement qui couvre ces nullités, et ne fait pas obstacle à l'exercice des recours légaux auxquels elles donnent ouverture. C. R., 1912, Québec, Thibeaudeau vs La Corporation de la paroisse Ste-Thècle, R. J. Q., 43 C. S., 207.

344. Intérêts.—Une compagnie de chemin de fer qui prend possession d'un terrain durant les procédés de l'expropriation, doit au propriétaire les intérêts sur le prix qui lui sera adjugé par l'arbitrage à dater du moment qu'il aura été dépossédé de son terrain. C. S. 1885. Montréal, Atlantic and North-West Railway Co. vs Prud'homme, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 21; 9 L. N., 42; 18 R. L., 143.—B. R., 1894, Montréal, Atlantic North-West Railway Co. vs Leeming et al., R. J. Q., 3 B. R., 165.

345. Le propriétaire a droit aux intérêts sur le montant de l'indemnité à lui accordée par les arbitres sous l'Acte des chemins de fer, depuis la date de la prise de possession par la compagnie.

346. Mais les arbitres ne peuvent comprendre ces intérêts dans le montant de l'indemnité, vu que la question des intérêts comprend une question de droit qui n'est pas de la compétence des arbitres. C. S., 1889, Montréal, La Compagnie du chemin de fer de l'Atlantique au Nord-Ouest vs Gouvernement de la province de Québec, 17 R. L., 317.

347. Where a railway company obtained possession of land on making a deposit, and the arbitrators subsequently made an award of a sum of money for the value of the land, and "in full payment and satisfaction of all damages resulting from the taking and using of the said piece of land for the purpose of said railway", the company is liable for interest on the amount of the award only from the date thereof, and not from the date when the company obtained possession of the land. It will be presumed that the arbitrators included in their award compensation for the company's occupation of the land prior to the date of the award. Q. B., 1890, Montreal, Reburn vs Ontario and Quebec Railway Co., M. L. R., 5 S. C., 211; M. L. R., 6 Q. B., 381; 12 L. N., 402; 14 L. N., 114; 34 J., 299.

348. On a petition to the Superior court, praying that a railway company be ordered to pay into the hands of the prothonotary of the Superior court a sum equivalent to six per cent. on the amount of an award previously deposited in court under section 170 of the Railway Act, and praying further that the company should be enjoined and ordered to proceed to confirmation of title, with a view to the distribution of the money, the company pleaded that the court had no power to grant such an order, and that the delays in proceeding to confirmation of title had been caused by the petitioner, who had unsuccessfully appealed to the higher courts for an increased amount: By the terms of section 172 of the Railway Act it is only by the judgment of confirmation that the question of additional interest can be adjudicated upon.

349. Assuming the court had jurisdiction until a final determination of the controversy as to the amount to be distributed, the railway company could not be said to be guilty of negligence in not obtaining a judgment in confirmation of title. Supr. C., 1894, Canada, Atlantic and North-West Railway Co. vs Judah, 23 Supr. C. R., 231; 17 L. N., 200.

350. Interest may be allowed from the date of the taking of possession of any property expropriated by the Crown, even if the plan and description be not filed on that date. Ex. C., 1898, Drury vs The Queen, 6 Ex. C. R., 204.

351. La défenderesse-requérante en expropriation était tenue aux intérêts envers l'exproprié, non sur le montant fixé par la sentence arbitrale, mise de côté pour fraude et illégalités, mais sur la somme par elle offerte, le terrain exproprié étant de nature à produire des fruits. C. S., 1899, Beauharnois, Brunet vs Compagnie du chemin de fer du St-Laurent et Adirondack, 5 R. J., 232.

352. Un propriétaire exproprié par la cité de Montréal, et auquel la cour a accordé une indemnité plus forte que celle que lui accordait la sentence arbitrale, a droit à une action en recouvrement des intérêts produits par la somme constituant la différence entre les deux indemnités, du jour du prononcé de la sentence arbitrale à celui du jugement de la cour. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Compagnie de chemin de fer du Grand Tronc du Canada vs Cité de Montréal, 3 R. P. Q., 322; R. J. Q., 18 C. S., 534.

353. Les arbitres peuvent accorder l'intérêt sur le montant de l'indemnité accordé, quand même l'acte de compromis ne le mentionerait pas, surtout s'ils sont amiables compositeurs. C. S., 1905, Québec, The Quebec Improvement Co. vs The Quebec Bridge Co., B. C. J., 245.

354. Interest on the amount of compensation awarded is properly allowable from the date of the taking of the land, which in this case was the filing of the plan shewing the land expropriated, and the order of the railway commission authorizing the taking. H. C., 1907, Ontario, Cavanagh vs The Canada Atlantic Railway Co., 14 O. L. R., 523.

355. Interest on the amount awarded should not be added by the arbitrators, especially in a case where the claimant remains in possession of the property until after the date of the award. Q. B., 1908, Manitoba, In re Canadian Northern Railway and Robinson, 17 Man. L. R., 396.

356. In a case of expropriation by a railway company, prior to the making of the awards, possession of the lands was taken by the railway company under warrants of possession issued by a judge, payment into court being then made by the company of sums deemed sufficient to satisfy the compensation to be awarded: The owners were entitled to have paid to them, out of the moneys in court, not only the amounts of the compensation awarded, but also interest thereon, not limited to such interest as, according to the practice of the court, is payable on moneys in court, but at the legal rate of interest, namely, five per cent., payable from the date of the warrants of possession until the date of the payment out. H. C., 1909, Clarke and Toronto Grey vs Bruce Railway Co., 18 O. L. R., 628.

357. Intervention.—Une partie qui se prétend propriétaire d'un terrain exproprié par une compagnie de chemin de fer peut intervenir au cours de l'expropriation; mais cette intervention n'affectera pas la validité des procédures faites jusqu'alors sur le propriétaire enregistré.

358. La cour Supérieure est le tribunal compétent pour recevoir cette intervention. C. S., 1909, Montréal, The Montreal and Southern Counties Railway Co. vs Woodrow and Cameron, 16 R. J., 458; 11 R. P. Q., 230; 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 496.

359. Ligne homologuée de rue. — Le droit que possède la cité de Montréal, en vertu de sa charte, 52 Vict., ch. 79, art. 207, après homologation et confirmation d'un plan montrant le tracé d'une rue projetée, d'exproprier le terrain de telle rue, sans payer les améliorations et constructions qui y ont été faites depuis la confirmation du plan, constitue, non pas un droit de servitude, mais un droit éventuel d'éviction.

360. L'existence d'un tel droit sur un terrain vendu avec garantie à un acquéreur qui en paie le prix, ne donne pas à cet acquéreur le droit, pour la seule crainte d'éviction et tant qu'il n'a pas été évincé, de demander la résiliation de la vente. B. R., 1897, Montréal, Desloges vs Desmarteau, ès-qual., R. J. Q., 6 B. R., 485.

361. Locataire.—Under the Quebec Railway Act a lessee is an occupier of land and a party interested therein, and is entitled to compensation for property expropriated therein for railway purposes and being so entitled, may demand a writ of injunction to prevent the company from exercising their right of expropriation and possession until the amount of indemnity is determined. Q. B., 1875, Montreal, Bourgouin et al. vs The Montreal Northern Colonization Railway Co., 19 J., 57.

362. The government of Canada, having taken the land of the defendant's testator for the purposes of the Welland canal, paid into court, under the statute, a sum awarded by the valuers, intended to cover all claims which the owner might have of any kind. The owner was to be at liberty to remove buildings, etc., and on payment of the money to convey free from all other incumbrances, including taxes. The plaintiff was lessee of the property so taken, and claimed compensation for disturbance: The plaintiff was entitled to compensation out of the money paid into court; and his claim was one which the owner was liable, under 37 Vict., ch. 13, sect. 1 (D.), to pay. Ch., 1881, Ontario, In re Welland Canal Enlargement, Fitch vs McRae, 29 Gr., 139.

363. Une personne dont les biens sont expropriés pour cause d'utilité publique a une action en justice pour le supplément d'indemnité lorsque les commissaires nommés pour évaluer ces biens ont erré dans leur sentence.

364. Dans l'indemnité à être accordée à un locataire doit être compris (1) un montant proportionné à la jouissance qu'il devait avoir jusqu'à la fin de son bail, les améliorations faites par lui à la maison expropriée, lorsque ces améliorations doivent, à l'expiration du bail, appartenir au locateur; (2) les frais de déménagement occasionnés par l'expropriation; (3) les frais de réparations faites par lui et qui deviennent inutiles; (4) les dommages que le déplacement lui occasionne, soit perte de contrat ou pratique; (5) la différence de loyer qu'il est tenu de payer jusqu'à la fin de son bail. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Ouimet vs Cité de Montréal, M. L. R., 7 C. S., 193; 35 J., 45.

365. Le locataire qui, par une clause du bail, a le droit de devenir propriétaire de l'immeuble qu'il a loué, sur paiement d'une somme fixe, n'est pas privé du droit de se faire indemniser de la perte de son bail par suite de l'expropriation de l'immeuble, pour le motif qu'ayant payé une partie du prix de vente stipulé, et déboursé une somme considérable sur l'immeuble, il n'est pas à présumer qu'il renoncerait à ce capital et à ses droits contre le propriétaire pour demeurer simple locataire. C. R., 1895, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Mathieu, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 500.

366. Where land is expropriated by a municipality for the purpose of a public work, a tenant who alleges that he is damaged by such expropriation should make his claim against the municipality at the time of the expropriation, so that the same, if proved, may be included in the special assessment roll made for the cost of the work. Moreover, in this case no damage was established. S. C., 1896, Montreal, Hughes vs Corporation of the village of Verdun, Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 95.

367. The city of Montreal is not obliged to indemnify proprietors or tenants no part of whose property or premises is actually taken, for the inconvenience and damage caused to them by the execution of works of public utility, under the expropriation clauses of the city charter, where the proceedings are carried out under the formalities prescribed by the statute and are completed within a reasonable time, and without abuse of the powers conferred and exercised.

368. The expression "damages caused by the expropriation," in 52 Vict., ch. 79, sect. 213, § 14, means damages to the parties expropriated, and not to any others.

369. In order to hold the city liable for damage to adjoining proprietors or tenants who are not expropriated, under article 1053 of the civil Code, it must be established that there was fault, negligence, want of skill, or unnecessary delay in the execution of the work. Q. B., 1896, Montreal, Cité de Montréal vs Robillard, Q. J. R., 5 Q. B., 292.

370. Un simple permis d'occupation ne peut, en matière d'expropriation, avoir la valeur d'un bail par écrit et ne peut être tout au plus regardé que comme un bail annuel expirant au premier de mai chaque année. Un tel titre ne peut donner droit à des dommages vu qu'il est incertain quant à sa durée. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Gravel et al. vs Cité de Montréal, 4 R. J., 143.

371. In an action of damages by a lessee against an alleged trespasser on his property, the question of the validity or regularity of the plaintiff's lease cannot be raised by the defendant.

372. The lessee of land expropriated for public purposes has a recourse for indemnity against the expropriating party, independently of the proprietor. Such recourse may be exercised by a common law action independently of the expropriation proceedings, the common law remedy always existing unless specially excluded.

373. Article 2128 c. C. does not deprive a tenant under an unregistered lease of such recourse against a subsequent acquirer of the property, in a case where there is no question of possession in issue. Q. B., 1898, Montreal, Corporation of the village of Verdun vs Grand Trunk Boating Club, Q. J. R., 7 Q. B., 185.

374. The suppliants were lessees of certain land and premises expropriated for the Intercolonial Railway. The premises had been fitted up and were used by them for the purposes of their business as coal merchants. By the terms of the lease under which they were in possession, the term for which they held could at any time be determined by the lessors by giving six months' notice in writing, in which event the suppliants were to be paid two thousand five hundred dollars for the improvements they had made. It was held that the measure of compensation to be paid to the suppliants was the value at the time of the expropriation of their leasehold interest in the lands and premises.

375. Apart from the sum payable for improvements there was no direct evidence to show what the value was. But it appeared that the suppliants had procured other premises in which to carry on their business, and that in doing so they had of necessity been at some loss and that the cost of carrying on their business had been increased.

376. The amount of the loss and of increased cost of carrying on business during the six months succeeding the expropriation proceedings was in addition to the sum mentioned taken to represent the value to them or to any person in a like position of their interest in the premises.

377. The suppliants also contended that if they had not been disturbed in their possession they would have increased their business, and so have made additional profits, and they claimed compensation for the loss of such profits, but this claim was not allowed. Ex. C., 1900, Gibbon vs The Queen, and The Saint John Terminal Railway Co., 6 Ex. C. R., 430.

378. When a lessee is under covenant to build upon the demised premises, and a part of the said premises are expropriated by the Crown for the purposes of a public work, the fact that by the expropriation the lessee is relieved from his covenant, and the further fact that his rent is reduced by reason of the taking of a part of the premises, will be taken into consideration by the court in fixing the amount of compensation to be paid to such lessee. Ex. C., 1901, The Queen vs Young, 7 Ex. C. R., 282.

379. The suppliant was tenant of certain buildings and wharves erected upon the lands of which he had acquired possession as assignee of two leases. He there carried on business in a junk-dealer. The terms for which these leases were made had expired at the time of the expropriation of the said lands by the Crown; but the leases contained a proviso that the buildings and other erections put on the demised premises should be valued by appraisers, and that the lessor or reversioner should have the option of resuming possession upon payment of the amount of such appraisement, or of renewing the leases on the same conditions for a further term not less than three years. No such appraisement had been made, and the suppliant continued in possession of the property as tenant from year to year. The evidence showed that the lessor had no present intention of paying for the improvements and resuming possession of the property: In addition to the value of his improvements, the suppliant should be allowed compensation for the value, under all the circumstances, of his possession under the leases at the date of the expropriation. Ex. C., 1902, McGoldrick vs The King, 8 Ex. C. R., 169.

380. Le locataire, dont le bail a pris fin par l'expiration du terme fixé et qui, bien que la loi décrétant l'expropriation ait été sanctionnée et les avis publics aient été affichés près d'un an avant telle expropriation, continue cependant à occuper les lieux à titre de simple occupant au jour le jour et par pure tolérance du propriétaire, lequel, menacé d'expropriation, n'avait pas voulu renouveler le bail, n'a qu'une occupation précaire de l'immeuble sujette à cessation d'un jour à l'autre; conséquemment, il ne peut être considéré comme un occupant aux termes de l'article 1608 C. c., et ne peut demander une indemnité, parce que l'expropriation aurait interrompu son occupation.

381. Un tel occupant n'a de recours que pour les dommages consistant en perte de profits depuis la sanction de la loi jusqu'à l'expiration du bail, et, partant, il n'a pas droit aux frais de déménagement, au coût du transport d'une licence d'hôtel et aux dommages résultant de la détérioration du mobilier, lesquelles pertes ne sont pas occasionnées par l'expropriation, mais proviennent uniquement de l'expiration du terme d'une occupation précaire. C. R., 1904, Montréal, La Cité de Montréal vs Poulin, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 367; 11 R. L., n. s., 124, 505.

382. Lessees under a renewable lease, or their assignees, where the lessors have an option to renew or to pay for improvements, who remain in possession after expiration of the term, but to whom no renewal lease is granted, although demanded, are in occupation as tenants at will merely, and are not "persons interested" in the land within the meaning of section 155 of the Railway Act, R. S. C. 1906, ch. 37, and therefore are not entitled to compensation for expropriation of any part of the lands demised. C. A., 1908, Ontario, Canadian Pacific Railway Co., vs Brown Milling and Elevator Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 56; 18 O. L. R., 85.

383. Mine .—Placer miners are owners within the meaning of the Railway Act, 1903, and entitled to compensation.

384. A placer mine is an open mine within section 132 of the Railway Act, 1903. Supr. C., 1905, Yukon, Territory, Day vs Klondike Mines Railway Co., 6 Can. Ry. Cas., 203; 2 W. L. R., 205.

385. Plan homologué.—Un statut qui homologue le plan d'une ville en indiquant les lignes des rues au-delà desquelles les propriétaires ne peuvent bâtir, mais qui contient la disposition suivante: "pourvu que l'expropriation puisse être demandée par les intéressés après un délai de dix ans, à compter de la date de l'homologation du dit plan," doit être interprété comme conférant à chaque intéressé le droit, à l'expiration du délai y mentionné et après mise en demeure, de faire condamner la corporation municipale à procéder à l'expropriation de la lisière de terrain au-delà de la ligne homologuée. B. R., 1911, Montréal, Ville de Maisonneuve vs Charpentier et vir, 17 R. L., n. s., 216; 17 R. J., 383.

386. Possession.—Dans toute expropriation sous l'Acte des chemins de fer et sous l'article 407 du Code civil, le paiement de l'indemnité doit être préalable à la possession. B. R., 1878, Montréal, La Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal, Ottawa et Occidental vs Bourgouin et al., 9 R. L., 636; 23 J., 96; 24 J., 195; 2 L. N., 131; 3 L. N., 178, 185; L. R., 5 App. Cas., 381; 49 L. J., P. C., 68; 42 L. T., 414; 7 B. J. P. C., 127, 488.

387. Les propriétaires qui ont volontairement laissé la compagnie prendre possession de leur terrain et y construire un chemin de fer ne peuvent plus en réclamer la propriété et s'en faire restituer la possession, mais ils peuvent en justice réclamer l'indemnité représentant leur propriété.

388. Même dans le cas où les propriétaires ou l'entrepreneur auraient le droit de rentrer en possession des dits terrains sans avoir offert à la compagnie de lui laisser enlever le chemin de fer construit sur ces terrains par elle ou ses créanciers ou sans offrir d'en payer la valeur. C. R., 1882, Montréal, Banque d'Hochelaga vs Montreal Portland and Boston Railway Co., et Hibbard, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 150; 8 L. N., 100; 12 R. L., 575; 15 R. L., 67.

389. A petition by a railway company to obtain a writ of possession of property required for the construction for their right of way, will be granted upon security being given to the satisfaction of the judge, when by affidavit to the judge's satisfaction the railway company establishes that the possession of the property is immediately required for the purposes of the railway.

390. But, where the railway company has allowed the delays required by the Railway Act to expire before making the application, no further delay can be demanded by the proprietors.

391. The railway company is serving a notice of expropriation is merely bound to give the name of their arbitrator, without any indication as to his residence or occupation. S. C., 1886, Iberville, Ex parte Atlantic and Northwest Railway Co. vs Dunn et al., 10 L. N., 26.

392. The statutory provisions that land required for a railway shall be indicated on a map or plan filed in the Department of Railways before it can be expropriated, applies as well to a deviation from the original line as to the line itself, and if the company, failed to shew any statutory authority therefor, it cannot take the said land against the owners' consent. Supr. C., 1889, Canada, Kingston and Pembroke Railway Co. vs Murphy, 17 Supr. C. R., 582; 11 O. L. R., 330, 582.

393. The sections of the Dominion Railway Act, 1888, under the headings "Plans and Surveys," and "Lands and their valuations," apply as well to lands "Injuriously Affected," as to lands taken for the purposes of the railway.

394. It is no answer to a complaint by a land owner that the company is proceeding without having taken the necessary steps under these sections, that they have the authority of the railway committee of the Privy council for the execution of the works. Q. B., 1895, Ontario, Hendrie vs Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Co., 26 O. R., 667; 27 O. R., 46.

395. Lorsque deux compagnies de chemin de fer ont demandé l'expropriation d'un même terrain, celle qui, la première, a déposé ses plan et livre de renvoi et donné ses avis, aura la préférence, et cela quoique la compagnie qui obtient la préférence soit une compagnie provinciale et l'autre une compagnie fédérale, et quoique, à cause de la différence du délai pour la demande d'expropriation prescrit par les Actes des chemins de fer fédéral et provincial, respectivement, lequel est de dix jours dans l'Acte fédéral et d'un mois dans l'Acte provincial, la compagnie fédérale, qui a fait le dépôt et donné l'avis après la compagnie provinciale, ait pu former avant celle-ci sa demande d'expropriation. C. S., 1897, Hull, Pontiac Pacific Railway Co. vs Hull Electric Co., R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 140.

396. Pour être autorisée à prendre possession d'un terrain exproprié, une compagnie de chemin de fer doit déposer en cour le montant de la sentence arbitrale plus les intérêts pour les six mois à venir.

397. Le défaut d'avoir déposé les intérêts avec le dépôt, rend celui-ci insuffisant. B. R., 1897, Québec, Compagnie du chemin de fer Drummond vs Ollivier, R. J. Q., 7 B. R., 41.

398. La cité de Montréal avait fait homologuer un plan indiquant sur un terrain de l'intimé une lisière dont elle avait besoin pour l'élargissement de la rue Notre-Dame. L'intimé a demandé à la cité de l'exproprier en conformité de ce plan et a reculé sa clôture jusqu'à la nouvelle ligne. De son côté, la cité commença les procédures en expropriation, et, sans attendre davantage, l'inspecteur, avec l'assentiment de la commission de la voirie, prit possession de la lisière en question, mit le trottoir dans la nouvelle ligne, macadamisa le terrain et l'incorpora à la rue Notre-Dame. Les procédés en expropriation furent ensuite abandonnés en vertu d'un statut subséquent qui permit à la cité d'abandonner les procédures en expropriation, sauf le recours en dommages-intérêts des expropriés.

399. Dans ces circonstances l'intimé pouvait réclamer de la cité de Montréal la valeur du terrain dont celle-ci avait ainsi pris possession. B. R., 1899, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Hogan, R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 534.

400. The filing of a plan, profile and book of reference under the Railway Act, 1903, showing the land required for the railway, does not warrant the company in taking possession of it before proceedings for expropriation are commenced, unless by agreement with the owner; and, if such possession is taken, the company is a trespasser, and the owner is not limited to the remedy by arbitration provided by the Act, but may proceed by an ordinary action at law against the company. K. B., 1906, Manitoba, Wicher vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 16 Man. L. R., 343.

401. A railway company having obtained an order from the board authorizing it to take the lands of the owner for the purposes of a station, the company made a motion under section 170 of the Railway Act, 1903, for an order for immediate possession of the said lands: As the affidavits failed to shew that the railway company was ready forthwith to proceed with the erection of the station, the motion must be dismissed but without prejudice to the right of the railway company to renew the motion when the conditions have changed. H. C., 1906, Ontario, Williams vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 6 Can. Ry. Cas., 200; 8 O. W. R., 277.

402. The commissioners acting under the National Transcontinental Railway (3 Ed. VII, ch. 71) are entitled to apply for and obtain under the Expropriation Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 143, sect. 21, a warrant for the possession of land expropriated for the purposes of the railway, irrespective of whether the damages have been paid or not. Supr. C., 1907, New Brunswick, In re The National Transcontinental Railway, Ex parte Bouchard, 38 N. B. R., 546.

403. Where a railway company, under its powers to expropriate land obtained a warrant for possession and the amount awarded the owner in subsequent arbitration proceedings is less than the amount at first offered by the company the costs of obtaining the warrant for possession shall be borne by the owner. Supr. C., 1907, British Columbia, Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway and Navigation Co et Milsted, 7 Can. Ry. Cas., 257; 13 B. C. R., 187.

404. While a substantial compliance only is needed with the provisions of section 158 of the Railway Act with respect to plans, profiles and books of reference to be filed prior to expropriation proceedings being taken, it must clearly appear from the plans, profiles and books of reference filed, exactly what portion of the land of each separate owner the railway company requires, and the mere indication of the centre line of the proposed railway is not sufficient; the book of reference is a necessary part of the filings to substantially comply with the provisions; if the first definite information of the owner as to the quantity of land to be taken is obtainable only from the notice served, there has not been substantial compliance with the Act.

405. In the absence of evidence that the company has been oppressive or high-handed, an injunction will not be granted to restrain the railway company from proceeding with the railway, even if there has not been substantial compliance with the Act, provided the railway company will enter into an undertaking to comply forthwith with the requirements of the Act and to facilitate the proceedings for determining the amount of compensation to be paid.

406. Warrants of possession improperly granted to a railway company which has not complied with the provisions of the Act will not prevent or render invalid the registration of a plan subdividing the lands required by the railway company, but, held that in the absence of acceptance by the municipality of the streets, and evidence of a user of the streets by the public, or of evidence of the sale of lands in the subdivision, the streets shown on the plan do not become highways. Supr. C., 1909, Alberta, Marsan vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 2 A. L. R., 44.

407. While a substantial compliance only is needed with the provisions of section 158 of the Railway Act with respect to plans, profiles and books of reference to be filed prior to expropriation proceedings being taken, it must clearly appear from the plans, profiles and books of reference filed, exactly what portion of the land of each separate owner the railway company requires, and the mere indication of the centre line of the proposed railway is not sufficient; the book of reference is a necessary part of the filings to substantially comply with the provisions; if the first definite information of the owner as to the quantity of land to be taken is obtainable only from the notice served, there has not been substantial compliance with the Act. Supr. C., 1909, Alberta, Marsan vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 341; 2 Alta. L. R., 43.

408. The charter of the company does not authorize it to register plans upon the lands of private persons and then take no steps to acquire title to such lands during the life of the charter. If the company is willing to expropriate the lands in question upon the basis of the present value of such lands, no order need issue. If not an order should be made cancelling the location shewn by such plan, etc., through the lots in question. Ry B., 1909, Canada, McDougall and Secord vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 201.

408a. Propriétaire riverain. — Where the Crown erects an ice pier on land of a riparian owner, the measure of damages, under the Expropriation Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 143, in addition to the value of the land taken, is compensation for injurious affection to the remainder of the property. Where the owner of riparian land upon whose land the Crown erects an ice pier becomes entitled to damages under the Expropriation Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 143, for injurious affection to the reaminder of his property, he cannot claim as one of the items, damages sustained by reason of a collision of one of his vessels with the pier in question while the vessel was being launched, where it appears from the evidence that due care was not exercised in the launching. A riparian owner, ex jure naturæ, is entitled not only to the use of the water for domestic purposes, but to the right of access to and from the river from his property or wharves erected thereon, and if piers are erected on or about his property, and his riparian rights are abridged or taken away, he is entitled to compensation for the injury. Where the owner of riparian land becomes entitled, under the Expropriation Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 143, to compensation for injurious affection to his property, because of the erection of an ice pier upon his land, the damages that he is entitled to recover are such as are inherent to the land and not to the person or to the business of the owner. Ex. C., 1912, Canada, Pickels vs The King, 7 D. L. R., 698.

409. Propriété.—Where at the time the right of way map and plans are deposited by the railway company, the property to be taken for the railway is held by another person for and in the interest of the real owner (the transfer to the latter not having been executed through inadvertence), the real owner may be considered for expropriation purposes the proprietor at the time. P.C.,1893, Montreal,Wood et al. vs The Atlantic and North-West Railway Co., Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 335; 18 L. N., 140; L. R., 1895, App. Cas., 257; 64 L. J., P. C., 116; 72 L. T., 238; 11 R., 407; 2 B. J. P. C., 54, 346.

410. In matters of expropriation where the railway company has complied with the directions and conditions of articles 5163 and 5164, R. S. Q., as to deposit of plans and books of reference, notice and settlement of indemnity with the owners, or with at least one-third of the owners par indivis, of lands taken for railway purposes, the title to the lands passes forthwith to the company for the whole of the property by mere operation of the statute, even without the consent of the other owners par indivis, and without the necessity of formal conveyance by deed or compliance with the formalities prescribed by the civil Code as to registration of real rights.

411. Where deeds were passed with a railway company selling land for the object of passing their line of railway for a nominal consideration of $1 and $5, and a petitory action was taken to recover the property taken by the railway company, alleging that these deeds constituted a donation of the lands and did not come within the operation of the base articles: It was held that the terms of sub-section 10 of article 5164, R. S. Q., were sufficiently wide to include and apply to donations; that the instrument in question was not properly a donation, but a valid agreement or accord within the provisions of said tenth sub-section, under onerous conditions of indemnity which appeared to have been satisfied by the company; that, as the agreement stipulated no time within which the new plan should be filed and the location appeared to have been made to the satisfaction of the required proportion of the owners, it was sufficient for the company to file the amended plan and book of reference at any time thereafter; and that, as the indemnity agreed upon by six out of nine of the owners par indivis had been satisfied by changing the location of the railway line as desired, the requirements of article 5164 R. S. Q., had been fully complied with and the plaintiff's action could not under the circumstances, be maintained. Supr. C., 1899, Canada, Quebec, Montmorency and Charlevoix Railway Co. vs Gibsone et al., Gibsone et al. vs Quebec, Montmorency and Charlevoix Railway Co., 29 Supr. C. R., 340; Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 74.

412. A bare trustee of land is not "the owner of the land or the person empowered to convey the land, or interested in the land sought to be taken," within the meaning of section 71 of the Dominion Railway Act, 1903; and notice under that section must be served upon all the cestuis que trust. H. C., 1905, James Bay Railway Co. vs Worrell et al., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 21; 6 O. W. R., 473.

413. Sous le régime municipal du chapitre 24 S. R. B. C., l'adoption d'un règlement qui ordonnait l'expropriation d'un terrain pour des fins municipales, n'opérait pas la translation de la propriété; ce n'était que par le paiement de l'indemnité et la délivrance du reçu du secrétaire-trésorier, que le titre légal en était dévolu à la corporation municipale. B. R., 1909, Québec, Price Brothers and Co. vs Tremblay, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 375.

414. Révision.—La charte de la cité de Montréal, en prescrivant que des procédures en expropriation seront faites suivant une loi précédente, qui ne reconnaît pas d'appel, n'enlève pas le recours en révision réservé tant par les amendements à cette ancienne loi que par la charte actuelle. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Côte St-Lambert et Poulin, 6 R. P. Q., 457.

415. Servitude.—The expropriation of an overhead passage by a railway company gives the right to the enforcement of all the statutory rights which would follow from expropriation of subterranean or surface rights. Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Wood et al. vs The Atlantic and North-West Railway Co., Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 335; 18 L. N., 140; L. R., 1895, App. Cas., 257; 64 L. J., P. C., 116; 72 L. T., 238; 11 R., 407; 2 B. J. P. C., 54, 256.

416. A riparian proprietor on a navigable river is entitled to damages against a railway company for any obstruction to his rights of accès et sortie, and such obstruction without parliamentary authority is an actionable wrong. P. C., 1887, Quebec, North Shore Railway Co. vs Pion, 1 B. J. P. C., 687, 697; L. R., 14 App. Cas., 612.—Supr. C., 1889, Canada, Bigaouette vs North Shore Railway Co., 17 Supr. C. R., 363; 19 R. L., 488.

417. Even if the riparian proprietor expropriated possessed such easement or servitude, the functions of the arbitrators would not extend to the valuation of such right, unless it were included in the notice or demand of expropriation. Q. B., 1885, Montreal, Starnes, ès-qual., vs Molson, M. L. R., 1 Q. B., 425; 8 L. N., 354; 29 J., 278.

418. An expropriated party must abide by the easements and servitudes over and upon the property created by his grantor (auteur), and the claim for damages arising out of the exercise of such rights by the government was not well founded. Ex. C., 1886, Jackson vs The Queen, 1 Ex. C. R., 144.

419. Where, under authority of a statute, authorizing the extension of a street, a servitude for public utility was established on private land which was not expropriated and the extension was subsequently abandoned, the owner of the land was not, in the absence of any statutory authority therefor, entitled to damages for loss of proprietary rights while the servitude existed. Supr. C., 1899, Canada Hollester et vir vs City of Montreal, 29 Supr. C. R., 402.

V. Acquiescement, Action possessoire, Appel, Appel (C. Supr.), Arbitrage, Chemin de fer, Chose jugée, Cité de Montréal, Diffamation et injure, Dommage, Droit municipal, Enregistrement, Frais, Injonction, Intérêt, Juridiction, Loi, Mandamus, Preuve, Prohibition, Rente constituée, Responsabilité, Révision, Servitude, Tierce-opposition.

EXTRADITION

Déf.—Remise par un État d'une personne accusée d'une offense criminelle, commise hors de son territoire, aux autorités étrangères compétentes, conformément aux traités intervenus entr'eux.

INDEX

Acte d'accusation étranger..... 106
Acte impérial.....9 et s.
Affidavit.....127 et s., 155
Amendement.....11 et s.
Angleterre.....96, 169
Arrestation..... , 14 et s.
Arrestation illégale... 31
Arrestation nouvelle, 22, 24, 26 et s., 32
Assaut grave..... 42
Avortement..... 43
Banque, 99, 106, 116, 119 et s.
Billet promissoire, 97 et s., 108, 110, 120, 124
Blanc seing.....98 et s.
Cautionnement....44 t s.
Chèque..... 116
Collusion..... 79
Commis de banque... 99
Commissaire en extr., 48 et s., 51 et s., 70 et s.,75
Compagnie incorporée 111
Complice 58
Connaissance d'office. 141
Conspiration.....59 et s.
Constitutionalité..... 55
Consul de France..... 61
Copie de mandat..... 29
Copie de procédure... 125
Débenture..... 105
Défense..... 3
Délai..... 4
Demande.....64 et s.
Dénonciation, 30, 34, 64 et s., 77
Déposition..... 123
Description de l'offense, 25, 38, 41, 85 et s., 124
Détournement, 120, 160 et s., 167 et s.
Devoir du juge ou commissaire.....52, 56 et s.
Divorce..... 79
Document écrit..... 118
Emprisonnement, 3, 5, 16, 80 et s., 131
Enlèvement d'enfant, 89 et s.
Enquête préliminaire, 16, 56, 113 et s.
Entrée fausse.....102, 106
Erreur..... 18
Etat étranger..... 95
Etats-Unis, 14, 44, 51, 64, 89 et s., 97, 101, 103, 106, 112, 129, 131 et s., 135 et s., 139, 159, 162 et s.
Exécution de mandat. 33
Faillite, 94a, 94b, 151 et s.
Faux 12 et s., 44, 82 et s., 96 et s., 124
Faux monnayeur..... 101
Faux prétexte..... 162
Faux rapport.....119 et s.
Formalités, 82 et s., 121 et s.
France..... 160
"Fraude par agent," 129, 168
Fugitif.....130 et s., 169
Garde de mineur, 92 et s.
"Habeas corpus", 11, 21, 26 et s., 32 et s., 40, 46, 71 et s., 76, 103, 126 et s., 149
Incendie..... 60
Intérêts..... 12
Interprétation..... 134
Juge de la C.S., 50 et s., 71 et s., 76
Juge des Sessions, 15 et s.
Juridiction, 9 et s., 15 et s., 30, 47 et s., 53 et s., 65, 70 et s.
Lois.....10 et s.,134 et s.
Mandat..... 60
Mandat d'arrestation, 17 et s., 28 et s., 40
Mandat d'emprisonnement, 13, 19 et s., 81 et s., 103, 124, 130
Mari et femme..... 79
Meurtre..... 42
Nouveau Brunswick.. 22
Nouvelle Ecosse..... 22
Offense, 7, 89 et s., 142 et s., 158
Offense politique.... 149
Parjure.....155 et s.
Père..... 91
Plainte, 30, 34, 64 et s., 77
Preuve, 16, 28 et s., 35 et s., 40, 43, 60, 63, 66 et s., 80, 89 et s., 100, 110, 112 et s., 125, 127 et s., 133, 147 et s., 168
Procédure..... 157
Procès..... 158
Recel, 94a, 94b, 151 et s.,166
Refus d'extradition... 6
Résolution municipale 105
Russie..... 39
Secrétaire de comp. incorp..... 111
Suspension..... 138
Télégramme.....34, 78
Traités, 7, 8, 39, 51, 104, 112, 117, 134 et s., 159
Vol.....159 et s.

LOIS

1. La "Loi d'extradition" se trouve aux S. R. C., ch. 155. Elle se divise en deux parties.

La première partie se rapporte aux extraditions faites en vertu d'un traité. Elle contient les règles relativement à son application, à l'extradition du Canada et à celle d'un Etat étranger.

2. Arrestation.—"Lorsque la présente partie s'applique, un juge peut lancer son mandat pour l'arrestation d'un fugitif sur un mandat d'arrestation étranger, ou sur une dénonciation ou plainte portée devant lui, sur toute preuve ou après toutes procédures qui, à son avis, et sauf les dispositions de la présente partie, justifieraient l'émission de son mandat si le crime dont le fugitif est accusé, ou dont on prétend qu'il a été convaincu, eût été commis en Canada.

"2. Le juge transmet aussitôt un rapport du fait qu'il a lancé son mandat, avec copie certifiée des témoignages et du mandat étranger, ou de la dénonciation ou plainte, au ministre de la justice." S. R. C., ch. 155, art. 10.

3. Défense.—"Le juge reçoit également tout témoignage offert pour prouver que le crime dont le fugitif est accusé, ou dont on prétend qu'il a été convaincu, est une infraction d'une nature politique, ou n'est pas, pour quelqu'autre motif, un crime qui entraîne l'extradition; ou que les procédures sont adoptées dans le but de le poursuivre ou de le punir pour une infraction d'une nature politique." S. R. C., ch. 155, art. 15. V. arts 16, 17.

"Si le juge fait incarcérer un fugitif, il doit, lors de cette incarcération,—(a) l'informer qu'il ne peut être extradé avant l'expiration de quinze jours, et qu'il a le droit de demander un bref d'habeas corpus; et, (b) transmettre au ministre de la Justice un certificat de cette incarcération, avec copie de la preuve reçue par lui et non déjà transmise, et tel rapport sur l'affaire qu'il juge à propos." Art. 19.

4. Délai.—"Un fugitif ne peut être extradé avant l'expiration de quinze jours à compter de la date de son incarcération pour extradition; ni, s'il est décerné un bref d'habeas corpus, avant la décision de la cour qui l'a renvoyé en prison." S. R. C., ch. 155, art. 23.

5. Incarcération.—"(a) Dans le cas d'un fugitif que l'on prétend avoir été convaincu d'un crime qui entraîne l'extradition, si l'on produit des preuves qui, d'après la loi du Canada, sauf les dispositions de la présente partie, établissent qu'il a été convaincu de ce crime; et (b) si, dans le cas d'un fugitif accusé d'un crime qui entraîne l'extradition, l'on produit des preuves qui, d'après la loi du Canada, sauf les dispositions de la présente partie, justifieraient sa mise en accusation, si le crime eût été commis en Canada; le juge lance son mandat pour faire incarcérer le fugitif dans la prison la plus rapprochée, afin qu'il y soit détenu jusqu'à ce qu'il ait été livré à l'Etat étranger ou élargi conformément à la loi.

"2. Si cette preuve n'est pas produite, le juge ordonne qu'il soit élargi," S. R. C., ch. 155, art. 18.

6. Refus d'extradition.—"Nul fugitif ne peut être extradé en vertu de la présente partie, s'il appert,—(a) que le crime au sujet duquel des procédures sont instituées, en vertu de la présente partie, présente un caractère politique; ou (b) que ces procédures sont adoptées dans le but de le remettre en jugement ou de le punir pour une infraction qui a un caractère politique." S. R. C., ch. 155, art. 21.

"Si le ministre de la Justice décide, à quelque moment,—(a) que l'infraction au sujet de laquelle les procédures sont adoptées en vertu de la présente partie, est de nature politique; ou, (b) que les procédures sont en réalité adoptées dans le but de poursuivre ou de punir le fugitif pour une infraction d'une nature politique; ou, (c) que l'Etat étranger n'a pas l'intention de faire une demande d'extradition; il peut refuser de donner l'ordre de livrer le fugitif, et peut par ordre sous ses seing et sceau, annuler tout ordre donné par lui, ou tout mandat lancé par un juge en vertu de la présente partie, et ordonner que le fugitif soit relâché et libéré de tout mandat d'incarcération lancé en vertu de la présente partie; et le fugitif est élargi en conséquence." Art. 22.

7. La seconde partie se rapporte aux extraditions sans traité. Cette extradition ne peut avoir lieu pour les crimes suivants: meurtre, tentative ou complot de meurtre; homicide non prémédité; contrefaçon ou altération de monnaie, et mise en circulation de monnaie contrefaite ou altérée; faux, contrefaçon, ou altération, ou mise en circulation de ce qui est falsifié, contrefait ou altéré; larcin, détournement; obtention d'argent, de valeurs ou de marchandises sous de faux prétextes; viol; enlèvement de personne (abduction); attentat à la pudeur; vol d'enfant; enlèvement de personne dans l'intention de la priver de quelque droit (kidnapping); effraction nocturne ou diurne dans une maison d'habitation ou dans un magasin ou une boutique; incendie; vol sur la personne avec violence; fraude commise par un dépositaire, banquier, agent, facteur, fiduciaire, membre ou officier d'une compagnie ou d'une corporation municipale, qualifiée criminelle par toute loi alors en vigueur: tout acte malicieux commis avec intention de mettre en danger les personnes voyageant sur un train de chemin de fer; piraterie suivant la loi municipale ou le droit des gens, commise à bord d'un navire ou contre un navire d'un état étranger; saboter ou détruire criminellement un pareil navire en mer, soit sur les hautes mers soit sur les grands lacs de l'Amérique du Nord, ou tentative ou complot à cet effet; voies de fait à bord d'un pareil navire en mer, soit sur les hautes mers, soit sur les grands lacs de l'Amérique du Nord, avec intention de tuer ou d'infliger des blessures graves; révolte ou complot de révolte par deux personnes ou plus à bord d'un pareil navire en mer, soit sur les hautes mers soit sur les grands lacs de l'Amérique du Nord, contre l'autorité du capitaine; administration de drogues ou application d'instruments dans l'intention de procurer l'avortement d'une femme; tout crime qui, dans le cas du principal coupable, est compris dans quelque partie précédente de la présente annexe, et pour lequel le fugitif, bien qu'il ne soit pas le principal coupable, est passible d'être poursuivi ou puni comme s'il était le principal auteur du crime." S. R. C., ch. 155, troisième annexe.

8. Traités d'extradition entre l'Angleterre et divers pays étrangers, en force en Canada:

Allemagne, 8 juil. 1872, V. Piggott app. 106.
Allemagne, 5 mai 1894, Conv. sup., St. Can., 1895, XII.
Argentine, 9 fév. 1894, St. Can., 1894, XLIII,
Autriche-Hongrie, 30 mars 1874, St. Can., 1875, XVIII.
Autriche-Hongrie, 26 juin 1901, Decl., St. Can., 1903, IX.
Belgique, 29 oct. 1910, V. Piggott app. 40.
Belgique, 8 août 1912, Conv. sup., St. Can., 1912, LXI.
Bolivie, 4 nov. 1898, St. Can., 1899, VII.
Brésil, 1er déc. 1873, St. Can., 1875, XI.
Chili, 22 août, 1898, St. Can., 1898, VI.
Chine, 1er mars 1894, St. Can.
Colombie, 9 déc. 1889, St. Can., 1890, XXX.
Cuba, 22 mai 1905, St. Can., 1905, VI,
Danemark, 7 juil. 1873, V. Piggott app. 82.
Equateur, 2 juil. 1886, St. Can., 1887, XXXV.
Espagne, 9 déc. 1878, St. Can., 1879, XVIIII.
Espagne, 19 fév. 1889, Conv. sup., St. Can., 1890, XXVI.
Etats-Unis, 4 avril 1890, St. Can., 1890, XLII.
Etats-Unis, 13 déc. 1900, Conv. sup., St. Can., 1902, XV.
Etats-Unis, 12 avril 1905, Conv. sup., St. Can.
Etats-Unis, 11 fév. 1907, Conv. sup., St. Can. 1907, LXXI.
France, 31 mai 1878, St. Can., 1879, IX.
France, 13 fév. 1896, Conv. sup., St. Can.
France, 2 déc. 1909, St. Can. 1910, LXX.
Guatémala, 13 déc. 1886, St. Can., 1887, XCII.
Hollande ou Pays-Bas, 14 mars 1899, St. Can., 1899, XIX.
Haïti, 21 fév. 1876, St. Can., 1876, LVIII.
Honduras, 1876, St. Can., 1876, LXIII.
Italie, 11 avril, 1873, V. Piggott app. 124.
Libéria, 23 mars 1894, St. Can., 1894, LVII.
Luxembourg, 15 mars 1881, St. Can., 1882, III.
Mexique, 19 avril 1889, St. Can., 1889, XVI et s.
Monaco, 19 avril 1889, St. Can., 1892, XV.
Nicaragua, 25 mai 1906, St. Can., 1906, LXI.
Norvège, 17 oct. 1873, St. Can., 1908, XVIII.
Orange, 1891, St. Can., 1891, I.
Possessions Britanniques, 1882, St. Can., 1883, XV.
Panama, 26 août 1907, St. Can., 1908, XLII.
Paraguay, 5 juil. 1911, St. Can., 1911, LII.
Pérou, 20 mai 1907, St. Can., 1908, XI.
Portugal, 19 mars 1894, St. Can., 1894, I.
Roumanie, 21 mai, 1894, St. Can., 1894, LXIV.
Russie, 21 mars 1887, St. Can., 1887, XCIX.
Salvador, 13 janv. 1883, St. Can., 1883, XXVIII.
San Marino, 19 mars 1900, St. Can., 1900, X et s..
Servie, 13 août 1901, St. Can., 1902, XVIII.
Suède, 2 juil. 1907, St. Can., 1907, XL.
Suisse, 30 mai 1881, St. Can., 1882, IX.
Suisse, 29 juin 1904, St. Can.
Siam, 10 nov. 1911, St. Can., 1912, XXV.
Tunis, 1891, St. Can., 1891, XLIX.
Tonga, 30 nov. 1882, St. Can., 1883, XV.
Uruguay, 20 mars 1885, St. Can., 1884-5, XXXVII.
Uruguay, 1892, St. Can., 1892, IX.

JURISPRUDENCE

9. Acte Impérial.—The Imperial Extradition Act of 1870 is in force in Canada, notwithstanding that the B. N. A. Act, previously passed, gives to the Canadian parliament jurisdiction to carry out obligations resulting from extradition treaties. Q. B., 1876, Ontario, Ex parte Worms, 22 J., 109; 2 Cart., 315.

10. Since the Imperial order in council of 28th December, 1882, published in the Canada Gazette of 3rd March, 1883, the operation of the Imperial Extradition Act of 1870 has been suspended in Canada, quoad the extradition of fugitive offenders from the United States, and the Dominion Act 40 Vict., ch. 25, is applicable in such case to the extent at least of the extradition arrangements in force with that country. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Ex parte Phelan, 6 L. N., 261.

11 Amendement.—A magistrate, acting under the treaty and statute, after issue of a writ of habeas corpus, but before its return, might deliver to the gaoler a second or amended warrant, which, if returned in obedience to the writ, must be looked at by the court or judge before whom the prisoner is brought. Ch., 1865, Ontario, In re Warner, 1 J., 16.

12. The information charged the accused with forgery and uttering forged paper. After a large part of the evidence was given the information was amended by changing the words "to the intent thereby then to defraud," in the charge of uttering, to "with intent thereby then to defraud," and the information was then resworn. There was no new jurat. Further evidence was then taken, but insufficient in itself to warrant a committal: The amendment was on a wholly immaterial point, and the extradition judge could proceed with the inquiry under the original and amended information, as one into really the same charges, and use all the evidence thus taken in deciding whether there were sufficient grounds for committal. Q. B., 1891, Manitoba, In re McCartney, 8 Man. L. R., 367.

13. Where the warrant of commitment stated that the prisoner had been "committed" for an extraditable offence, instead of his having been "accused" thereof, the fact that the evidence shewed such an offence will not warrant the court in remanding the prisoner for extradition; but the court may, if necessary, permit the return to be amended, and for such purpose allow it to be taken off the files and refiled. C. P., 1894, Ontario, In re Murphy, 26 O. R., 163; 22 A. R., 386; 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 578.

14. It is not necessary under the Extradition Treaty and Act, 31 Vict., ch. 94 (D.), that an original warrant should have been granted in the United States for the apprehension in this country of the person accused, to enable proceedings to be effectually taken against him in this province for an offence within the treaty. P. C., 1870, Ontario, In re Caldwell, 5 P. R., 217.

15. Le juge des sessions a, sous l'Acte Impérial intitulé: "Acte pour amender la loi concernant l'extradition des malfaiteurs," 33-34 Vict., ch. 52, le pouvoir de prendre l'enquête préliminaire et d'arrêter l'accusé dont on demande l'extradition.

16. Dans cette cause, le juge des Sessions ayant par devers lui plusieurs télégrammes envoyés de France et d'Angleterre émanant de hauts personnages dans la direction des affaires d'Etat et dans l'administration de la justice, informant la police et les conseils de France et d'Allemagne de l'évasion d'un individu, dont ils donnent le nom et le signalement et qu'ils accusent d'un crime énorme, et l'affidavit du consul d'Allemagne déclarant qu'il a tout sujet de croire à la culpabilité de l'accusé, était justifiable de détenir l'accusé jusqu'à l'arrivée des témoins pour l'identifier. B. R., 1874, Québec, In re Kolligs, 6 R. L., 213.

17. Un mandat du gouverneur général n'est pas nécessaire pour autoriser l'arrestation. B. R., 1876, Montréal, In re Worms, 7 R. L., 319.

18. An error in the warrant of arrest in an extradition case does not affect the warrant of commitment, if the latter be in accordance with the charge and the evidence adduced. Q. B., 1876, Montreal, In re Worms, 22 J., 109.

19. A warrant of commitment in extradition matters should in its terms conform to the requirements of section 1 of the Dominion Statute 31 Vict., ch. 94, in directing the person accused to be committed until surrendered on the requisition of the proper authority or duly discharged according to law.

20. And where a person charged with crime is committed in pursuance of a special authority, the commitment must be special and must exactly pursue that authority.

21. And if the commitment does not on its face show that the case of the accused falls within the terms of the extradition treaty and the statutes authorizing the proceedings in extradition, or fails to contain the proper statutory conclusions, no sufficient cause of detention will have been shown, and he will be liberated on habeas corpus. Q. B., 1880, Quebec, Ex parte Zink, 6 Q. L. R., 260; 4 L. N., 64.

22. A fugitive criminal arrested in Nova Scotia under an extradition warrant and improperly brought into this province, while the proceedings were pending, by the officer having him in charge, was discharged from custody here by a judge's order. Held, that being out of the jurisdiction of Nova Scotia he might afterwards be arrested in New Brunswick for the same offence; and that his arrest in this province was not a violation of section 6 of the Habeas Corpus Act. (31 Car. 2, ch. 2.) Supr. C., 1886, New Brunswick, Ex parte Cadby, 26 N. B. R., 452.

23. It is not necessary to obtain a warrant prior to arrest in cases under the Extradition Act. Q. B., 1887, Montreal, In re Hoke, 15 R. L., 92.—Contra: S. C., 1902, Montreal, Ex parte Cohen, 11 R. L., n. s., 141; 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 141.

24. Where an arrest has been illegally made without warrant for an extraditable offence and the prisoner is then released he may be immediately re-arrested upon an extradition warrant of arrest upon the same charge. Supr. C., 1908, Nova Scotia, The King vs Rudland, Ex parte Kalke, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 22.

25. A warrant of arrest issued by an extradition commissioner may properly describe the offence by the phraseology of the country in which it issues. Supr. C., 1897, North-West Territories, In re Martin, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 326.

26. The question whether a proceeding subsequent to an adjudication on habeas corpus is barred by such adjudication, is to be determined by the identity or non-identity of the question before the court or magistrate with the question adjudicated upon on habeas corpus. A prisoner who has been liberated upon the merits of the charge laid against him, when the conviction or order of detention founded on the charge is set aside as unfounded in law, cannot be lawfully arrested and imprisoned again for the same offence, upon the same state of facts; but when he is discharged merely by reason of a defect in the commitment or in consequence of the want or excess of jurisdiction in the committing court or in the committing magistrate, he can be again arrested and tried for the same cause before a competent court or a competent magistrate.

27. A prisoner who has been discharged upon habeas corpus because the extradition commissioner had no jurisdiction to act judicially on the complaint laid before him, may be again arrested and tried before a commissioner having jurisdiction over the complaint. For an extradition commissioner to decline to exercise his jurisdiction, the fraudulent device by which the prisoner was brought within the jurisdiction must be chargeable to the adverse party. Q. B., 1899, Montreal, Ex parte Seiz, Q. J. R., 8 Q. B., 345, 392; 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 54, 127.

28. An extradition judge may issue a warrant for apprehension either upon a complaint laid before himself or upon proof of a foreign warrant of arrest, but, in the latter case, the original must be produced and it must appear that it is still in force.

29. An authenticated copy of a foreign bench warrant, and of a return thereto that the accused could not be found within the jurisdiction of the sheriff, is insufficient proof of a warrant outstanding and in full force, unless there be evidence of a valid re-issue of such foreign warrant.

30. An extradition judge has no jurisdiction to issue a warrant for apprehension without an information or complaint laid before him or proof made of a valid outstanding foreign warrant; nor does jurisdiction attach upon the appearance before him of the accused under arrest upon a warrant improperly issued without such requirements having been complied with. Supr. C., 1900, North-West Territories, In re Bougard, 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 74.

31. Where the accused is in custody under an illegal arrest without warrant a subsequent warrant will not validate his further detention unless the accused has first been liberated from the illegal imprisonment.

32. After the service of a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a prisoner, the prisoner is deemed to be under the protection of the court issuing such writ, and is not liable to re-arrest without the permission of such court until it has disposed of the habeas corpus application. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Ex parte Cohen, 11 R. L., n. s., 141; 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 312.

33. A warrant of arrest in extradition proceedings must not be executed by the constable by whom the information was laid to obtain the same, and the person so arrested is entitled to be discharged on habeas corpus. An information laid to obtain an extradition warrant of arrest must disclose that the accused is in Canada or is suspected of being in Canada. An information taken to lead a warrant of arrest in extradition is insufficient if made upon information and belief only, without disclosing the facts upon which the informant's belief is founded.

34. But an arrest in Canada for extradition cannot legally be made upon a mere telegraphic or other request from the authorities of the foreign country without a warrant issued in Canada. Supr. C., 1904, Nova Scotia, In re Dickey, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 318, 321.

35. Upon a extradition enquiry, if the accused is dismissed because of the insufficiency of the evidence, or is discharged on habeas corpus on that ground after an order of committal made by the extradition judge, fresh extradition proceedings may be begun de novo with respect to the same offence.

36. The want of evidence may be supplied upon a subsequent re-arrest for the same extraditable offence, and the former jeopardy do not apply.

37. If the accused is discharged upon the merits and upon the ground that what is charged against him does not constitute an indictable offence such discharge is final. H. C., 1906, Ontario, In re Harsha, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 62.

38. It is no objection to an extradition warrant that two offences of a cognate character are stated therein. Supr. C., 1908, Nova Scotia, The King vs Rudland, Ex parte Kalke, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 22.

39. There is no inconsistency between the provisions of the Canadian Extradition Act and the provisions of the treaty with Russia, and treaty article 9 does not involve that there can be no arrest of a fugitive for the purpose of extradition until there has been a formal requisition under article 8. P. C.,

1911, Manitoba, In re Fedorenko, attorney-general for Canada, vs Fedorenko, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 268, 271; 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 256; L. R., 1911, P. C., 735; 20 Man. L. R., 221, 224.

40. A warrant issued by an extradition commissioner is not open to the objection, on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, that he acted merely upon the complaint, without taking any evidence, where, in his reason for his judgment, he sets out the various steps taken by him, since, under the statute, all that is necessary is that as a result of such proceedings, he shall be of the opinion that the warrant should issue.

41. It is no objection to a warrant of extradition that it contains more than one charge. Supr. C., 1912, British Columbia, In re O'Neill, 5 D. L. R., 646; 19 Can. Cr. Cas., 410.

42. Assaut grave.—In extradition proceedings for the offence of assault with intent to commit murder, the prosecution must prove such intent as well as the assault, and a committal for extradition is only authorized where the evidence, had the crime been committed in Canada, would have justified a "committal for trial" for the extradition crime charged and not merely for a less serious offence included therein. Supr. C., 1902, New Brunswick, In re Kelly, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 541.

43. Avortement.—In extradition proceedings for abortion alleged to have been committed by a physician at the instigation of the accused, it is necessary to produce evidence to prove both that the physicians' operation was unnecessary and unlawful, and that the accused procured or abetted such unlawful operation. Supr. C., 1909, Saskatchewan, In re McCready, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 481.

44. Cautionnement.—A prisoner charge with forgery in Canada was arrested and surrendered by the government of the United States under the Ashburton Treaty. Upon application for bail on the ground that there was no evidence of the corpus delicti: The surrender of the prisoner by the United States government was sufficient evidence. C. P., 1855, Ontario, Regina vs Van Aerman, 4 C. P., 288.

45. Under ordinary circumstances bail should not be granted to a person committed for extradition.

46. Where bail was granted to the accused in extradition proceedings pending a habeas corpus application on his behalf, and afterwards the application for his discharge under habeas corpus was refused, the accused must surrender himself into close custody before a fresh application will be entertained to bail him pending an appeal from the order refusing his discharge. C. A., 1902, Ontario, In re Watts, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 538.

47. A county judge exercising the powers of an extradition judge under the Extradition Act (Can.) has no power to bail the accused pending the enquiry before him. Cty C., 1903, Ontario, In re Stern, 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 191.

48. An extradition commissioner should not, under ordinary circumstances, admit the accused person to bail pending the reasonable delay required by the prosecution to bring witnesses from the foreign country to prove the alleged offence. K. B., 1904, Quebec, United States vs Weiss, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 62; 10 R. L., n. s., 456.

49. Un commissaire en extradition a le pouvoir à sa discrétion d'admettre le prisonnier à caution. B. R., 1905, Québec, Gagnon et al. vs Lafontaine, B. C. J., 14.

50. A judge of a Superior court may grant bail after commitment by an extradition commissioner, but the power should not be exercised except under exceptional circumstances, such as the life of the fugitive being endangered by his close confinement. K. B., 1905, Quebec, In re Gaynor and Greene, 9 Can. Cr. Cas., 542.

51. Commissaire et juge.—The prisoner who had been arrested under a warrant issued under the provisions of the Ashburton Treaty, claimed to be released from custody on the ground that the judge had no jurisdiction in the premises: The Imperial Statute 6 and 7 Vict., ch. 76, which was suspended in this colony by the Queen's proclamation of the 28th day of March, 1850, was not revived by the passing of either of the provincial Acts, 22 Vict., ch. 29, and 24 Vict., ch. 6, and, consequently, a judge of the Superior court of Lower Canada had jurisdiction over the several classes of offences enumerated in the treaty between Great Britain and the United States, commonly known as the Ashburton Treaty. S. C., 1865, Montreal, Regina vs Bennet H. Young et al., 9 J., 29; 14 R. J. R. Q., 135.

52. Under 31 Vict., ch. 94 (D.), all that the committing magistrate or the court or a judge has to do is, to determine whether the evidence of criminality would, according to the laws of Ontario, justify the apprehension and committal for trial of the accused if the crime had been committed therein. Such decision, if adverse to the prisoner, does not conclude him; as the question of extradition or discharge exclusively rests with the governor-general. P. C., 1868, Ontario, Regina vs Reno, 4 P. R., 281.

53. Where a commissioner has been appointed under the Great Seal of Canada (section 5 of the Extradition Act, R. S., ch. 142), and his appointment as such commissioner has appeared in the Official Gazette, and he is thereby "authorized to act judicially in extradition matters, under the Extradition Act, within the province" and he describes himself in a warrant of commitment, as "a judge under the Extradition Act," that this jurisdiction is sufficiently disclosed.

54. A commissioner under section 5, ch. 142, R. S. C., and all judges of the Superior court and court of Queen's Bench have concurrent jurisdiction in extradition proceedings under said Act. Q. B., 1888, Montreal, Ex parte Baun, M. L. R., 4 Q. B., 145; 32 J., 281; 11 L. N., 323, 329, 399.

55. The Extradition Act, R. S. C., ch. 142, in so far as it enacts that the governor general in council may appoint extradition-commissioner other than members of a court already constituted and organized by the provincial authorities is constitutional and within the powers of the federal parliament. P. C., 1905, Montreal, In the matter of John F. Gaynor, 7 Q. P. R., 115; 8 R. L., n. s., 326; 9 R. L., n. s., 45, 133; 11 R. L., n. s., 523; 7 Can Cr. Cas., 375, 389; 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 154; Q. J. R., 22 S. C., 91; 109; 2 B. J. P. C., 142, 186; 92 L. T. R., 276.

56. The duty of an extradition judge in hearing an information for an extraditable offence is to order extradition if the evidence adduced, in the absence of contradiction, is such that a magistrate holding a preliminary enquiry in a similar case should commit for trial. The extradition judge must be satisfied that the offence disclosed in the information is criminal both under Canadian law and under the law of the demanding country and that it is within the extradition treaty. Supr. C., 1906, North-West Territories, In re Latimer, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 244.

57. The function of a judge upon the return of a writ of habeas corpus in the case of one who has been committed for extradition is not to sit in appeal from the Extradition commissioner, but simply to decem whether he had jurisdiction to order idthe committal, and evidence offering reasonable grounds of suspicion against the accused will be sufficient for a refusal of his discharge. Supr. C., 1912, Nova Scotia, United States vs Webber, 22 Can. Cr. Cas., 6.

58. Complice.—An accessory before the fact is liable to extradition, but an accessory after the fact is not. C. A., 1881, Ontario, Regina vs Browne, 6 A. R., 386; 31 C. P., 484.

59. Conspiration.—The offence or crime of conspiracy to defraud is not an extraditable crime under the extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

60. Evidence of a conviction in the United States of conspiracy to defraud and consisting of copies of an indictment for that offence, of a verdict of guilty and of the sentence to fine and imprisonment in consequence, affords no grounds for a committal for extradition on a charge of fraud by an agent, even though overt acts of fraud by the prisoner as an agent be set out in the indictment, in conformity with the rules of criminal procedure in the United States. K. B., 1906, Montreal, Ex parte Brown, Q. J. R., 16 K. B., 10.

61. Consul de France.—The consul general of France is not competent to ask for the extradition of a fugitive criminal, such consul general not being an accredited diplomatic agent under the Imperial Statute 6 and 7 Vict., ch. 75. Q. B., 1866, Montreal, Ex parte Lamirande, 10 J., 280; 16 R. J. R. Q., 62.

62. Défense.—It is the discretion of the magistrate investigating into a charge under the treaty against a person accused of one of the crimes mentioned in the treaty, to receive evidence for the defence. Ch., 1865, Ontario, In re Burley, 1 C. L. J., 20.

63. The extradition of the accused was demanded by the United States on a charge of arson. The prisoner applied for leave to produce evidence generally on his behalf: The judge or magistrate acting in such case had no authority to hear the prisoner's defence, though, in the exercise of his discretion, he may hear any evidence which may be tendered to show that the offence was of a political character, or one not comprised in the treaty, or that the accuser was not to be believed on oath, or that the demand for the prisoner's extradition was the result of a conspiracy. Q. B., 1874, Montreal, In re Rosenbaum, 20 J., 165.

64. Demande.—Under the Extradition Act, 1877, a requisition from the United States Government is not necessary as a preliminary condition to the arrest and commitment of a person charged with an extraditable offence.

65. In order to give jurisdiction to issue a warrant to arrest a person under the Extradition Act, 1877, it is not necessary that the information should state that he was then within the province. Supr. C., 1886, New Brunswick, Ex parte Cadby, 26 N. B. R., 452.

66. The Extradition Act of Canada, 40 Vict., ch. 25, amended by 52 Vict., ch. 36, and consolidated in the R. S. C., ch. 142, being in full force and effect, a commitment thereunder which follows the form therein provided is valid.

67. The judge before whom the extradition proceedings are first taken, while he may and should hear evidence which the accused brings forward to establish his innocence of the charge, is only called upon to decide if such a primâ facie case has been made out against him that he should be held for extradition. Q. B., 1896, Montreal, Ex parte Lanctot, Q. J. R., 5 Q. B., 422.

68. Proceedings in extradition may be regularly initiated in Canada before any requisition is made by the country entitled to make the demand for extradition

69. Extradition proceedings in Canada are not void because, during the course of same, no proof was adduced to shew that the extradition complaint was laid under the direction or authorization of the country in which the alleged offence was committed: and it is sufficient that the requisition of the demanding country be made in due time after the commitment for surrender. C. A., 1899, Ontario, In re Lazier, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 167; 30 O. R., 419.

70. A commissioner of extradition, acting under the authority of the Extradition Act, has equal authority with a judge of the Superior court; and it is only when, assuming to act as a commissioner, he does something which is ultra vires of his powers, or otherwise acts illegally, that Superior courts, or judges thereof, become seized with revisory, amendatory or appellate powers over his acts.

71. When a prisoner, whose extradition is sought, has been brought before a judge of the Superior court, on a writ of habeas corpus issued before the committal of the accused, and before the conclusion of the enquiry before the commissioner, the powers of the judge are limited to determining whether the commissioner has jurisdiction to make the enquiry, i. e. whether he is legally seized of the case; when, however, the writ of habeas corpus was issued after the committal of the accused, the judge has the power to review the case against him.

72. The jurisdiction of an extradition judge or commissioner extends over the whole province for which he has been appointed; he may therefore order a prisoner to be brought before him from any part of the province in which he has been arrested.

73. A judge of the Superior court before whom a prisoner, whose extradition is sought, has been brought on a writ of habeas corpus, has absolute control over him until he has passed from the hands of such judge; and until then no other judge has the right to interfere in the matter by habeas corpus or otherwise. P. C., 1902, Quebec, Greene and Gaynor vs The United States of America, Q. J. R., 22 S. C., 91, 109; 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 375, 389; 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 154; 8 R. L., n. s., 326; 9 R. L., n. s., 45, 133; 11 R. L., n. s., 523; 7 Q. P. R., 115; 2 B. J. P. C., 142, 186; 92 L. T. R., 276.

74. The order of committal for the extradition of fugitives is sufficient, if made in the form given in the schedule to the extradition Act, section 20 of which declares expressly that a committal so made is to be deemed valid. As a consequence, it need not state that the charges laid have been inquired into, that they relate to extradition crimes, that prima facie proof of guilt has been made, nor provide specifically for the discharge or surrender of the prisoner.

75. The commissioner for extradition, in dealing with the information and evidence in the case, is governed by the same rules as the magistrate before whom a preliminary investigation in respect of an indictable offence is held; he issues his warrant for committal upon evidence that would justify the magistrate in committing for trial, and, as the latter may commit for an offence or offences different from those for which the accused was arrested, so also a variance between the charge in the information and the crime or crimes (whether one or more is of no consequence) stated in the committal as the ground for extradition, provided they are extraditable, is immaterial.

76. The judge, to whom application is made for habeas corpus on behalf of the fugitive committed for surrender, has no power to review the decision of the extradition commissioner as the sufficientcy of the evidence adduced before him. K. B., 1905, Montreal, Greene et al. vs Vallée, Q. J. R., 14 K. B., 261.

77. Dénonciation.—An extradition information, upon which a warrant of arrest is issued, may be valid although it is made on information and belief only and does not disclose the grounds of belief. H. C., 1906, Ontario, In re Harsha, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 62.

78. An information in extradition may be based upon telegraphic information and belief thereof if the grounds of belief are sufficiently stated and satisfy the extradition judge that a warrant of arrest should issue. Supr. C., 1908, Nova Scotia, The King vs Rudland, Ex parte Kalke, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 22.

79. Divorce.—An objection by the husband to the validity of the divorce on the ground of collusion cannot, where the collusion is denied on oath, be adjudicated upon by the extradition commissioner, but extradition should be ordered notwithstanding such objection and the prisoner left to his right to contest the divorce decree at his trial by the foreign court. H. C., 1902, Ontario, The King vs Watts, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 246.

80. Emprisonnement. — The warrant for committal till surrendered under the treaty need not set out the evidence taken before the committing magistrate, nor shew any previous charge made in the foreign country, or requisition from the government of that country, or warrant from the governor-general of Canada, authorizing and requiring the magistrate to act. The adjudication of the committing magistrate as to the sufficiency of the evidence for committal may be by way of recital in the warrant of commitment. Ch., 1865, In re Burley, 1 C. L. J., 34.

81. A warrant of commitment under the Extradition Treaty, which omits to state that the accused was brought before the magistrate, or that the witnesses against him were examined in his presence, is bad upon the face of it and must be set aside. Q. B., 1866, Montreal, Ex parte Milton Brown, 2 L. C. L. J., 23; 18 R. J. R. Q., 219, 561

82. A warrant of commitment under the Extradition Act, may state the crime generally as "forgery" according to the prescribed form; without setting forth the acts constituting the offence. Supr. C., 1886, New Brunswick, Ex parte Cadly, 26 N. B. R., 452.

83. A commitment for extradition on a charge of forging admission tickets is improperly made where no genuine or forged ticket is in evidence on the extradition enquiry, and no facts are shewn to legally excuse the non production. C. A., 1905, Ontario, In re Harsha, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 433

84. A warrant of committal for extradition following the statutory form is not objectionable for a failure to shew on its face that the statutory pre-requisites of the commissioner's jurisdiction have been complied with. Supr. C., 1905, British Columbia, In re Collins, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 80

85. A warrant of commitment for extradition is valid as to form if it follows the form provided by the Extradition Act (Can.), sect. 20, without reciting specifically that the commissioner finds upon the evidence a primâ facie case.

86. A committal for extradition may properly include a new charge for which a supplementary information was laid pending the extradition enquiry, if the additional charge relates to the same transaction and a primâ facie case in respect thereof is made out upon the evidence.

87. Where an information for an extraditable offence is laid in Canada, the commissioner may commit for a higher or lower extraditable offence proved by the evidence and relating to the same subject matter as that for which the information was laid. Various cognate offences arising from the same transaction may be included in one commitment for extradition.

88. It is not essential to an extraditable offence that it should be described in identically the same terms in both the demanding and the surrendering country, but there must be the essential elements of a like extradition crime in each country. K. B., 1905, Quebec, In re Gaynor and Greene, 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 375, 389; 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 154; Q. J. R., 14 K. B., 261; Q. J. R., 22 S. C., 91; 8 R. L., n. s., 326; 9 R. L., n. s., 45, 133; 11 R. L., n. s., 107; 7 Q. P. R., 115; 2 B. J. P. C., 142, 186; 92 L. T. R., 276.

89. Enlèvement d'enfant.—In the absence of evidence to the contrary, it should be assumed that the crime of "child stealing" referred to in the extradition convention between Great Britain and the United States is identical with the offence so designated by Canadian law.

90. It is competent for the prisoner in extradition proceedings to shew that the crime of "child stealing" under the foreign law was not covered by the facts disclosed on the depositions, and where such is shewn the prisoner should be discharged.

91. The child's own father may be guilty of child stealing within section 284 of the Code, if after a divorce by a court of competent jurisdiction and the award thereon of the custody of the child to the mother, the father wilfully removes the child from her custody. H. C., 1902, Ontario, The King vs Watts, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 246.

92. When the custody of a child has been assigned by competent judicial authority to one of its parents to the exclusion of the other, the latter is guilty of the crime of kidnapping or child stealing in taking it away from the control and possession of such parent.

93. The crime of kidnapping or child stealing is committed by one who takes and removes a child under the age of fourteen years, so as to keep or conceal it from the person to whom the lawful charge of it is judicially assigned even though such person has not, nor has had, the actual possession of it.

94. The offence of kidnapping or child stealing, as above described is an extraditable crime under the extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States. K. B., 1905, Montreal, Ex parte Lorenz, Q. J. R., 14 K. B., 273; 9 Can. Cr. Cas., 158; 7 Q. P. R., 101; 11 R. L., n. s., 395.

94a. Faillite.—The essence of the offence of fraudulent concealment of assets by a bankrupt under the law of the United States is the continuance of the concealment after adjudication of bankruptcy and the appointment of a trustee, whose title relates back to the of the date of the adjudication, and extradition will not be refused merely on the ground that the act of concealment is alleged to have taken place before the date of the adjudication.

94b. The offence of fraudulent concealment of property by a bankrupt committed in the United States of America and for which extradition may be had from Canada is a continuing offence which may be begun before the date of the bankruptcy adjudication and continued to completion thereafter. Cty C., 1912, Nova Scotia, United States vs Webber, 22 Can. Cr. Cas., 1.

95. Etat étranger.—Foreign sovereigns and States have the right to appear and intervene in cases before the courts of the province of Quebec. P. C., 1902, Quebec, Greene and Gaynor vs United States of America, Q. J. R., 22 S. C., 91; 7 Q. P. R., 115; 8 R. L., n. s., 326; 9 R. L., n. s., 45, 133; 11 R. L., n. s., 523; 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 375, 389; 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 154; 2 B. J. P. C., 142, 186; 92 L. T. R., 276.

96. Faux.—Making false entries in a book does not constitute the crime of forgery according to the laws of England and Canada. Q. B., 1866, Montreal, Ex parte Lamirande, 10 J., 280; 16 R. J. R. Q., 62.

97. A fugitive from Canada was surrended by the United States authorities on a charge of forgery, that being one of the offences enumerated in the treaty. The prisoner was put on his trial and convicted on an indictment for feloniously uttering a forged promissory note for the payment of money. The case being reserved on an objection that the prisoner could not be tried for any offence but that for which he had been extradited: The charge of forgery included the lesser charge, and conviction maintained. Q. B., 1867, Montreal, La Reine vs Paxton, 3 L. C. L. J., 117; 15 R. J. R. Q., 507.

98. Remplir frauduleusement, avec l'intention de frauder, une lettre de change signée en blanc, est un faux.

99. Lorsqu'un commis de banque, sachant ou croyant honnêtement qu'il a le pouvoir de remplir les lettres de change signées en blanc par le caissier de la banque, remplit ces blancs pour un tout autre objet que celui pour lequel les lettres de change avaient été, à sa connaissance, signée en blanc, avec l'intention de frauder, il commet un faux.

100. L'intention frauduleuse doit avoir précédé et accompagné l'accomplissement du faux, et la répétition de l'acte sera admise comme preuve de cette intention. M. P., 1886, Montréal, In re Hoke, 14 R. L., 795; 15 R. L., 99.

101. A prisoner was arrested in Upper Canada for having committed in the United States the crime of forgery, by forging, coining, etc., spurious silver coin, etc. The offence as above charged does not constitute the crime of "forgery" within the meaning of the Extradition Treaty or Act; It certainly is not the crime of forgery under our law, and therefore the prisoner could not be extradited. C. P., 1868, Ontario, In re Trueman B. Smith, 4 L. C. L. J., 62; 4 P. R., 215.

102. It has been held that making false entries, by a clerk in the employ of a municipality, in his books and by this mean, abstracting a sum of money is forgery. Ontario, In re Hall, 8 A. R., 31.—C. P., 1875, Ontario, In re Jarrard, 4 O. R., 265; 2 C. L. J., 145.

103. Dans un cas d'extradition pour faux, le prisonnier ne sera pas libéré sur habeas corpus, parce que le mandat d'emprisonnement ne contient pas le mot félonieusement qui se trouve dans le mandat d'arrestation émané dans les Etats-Unis, ni parce que le juge qui a émané le mandat d'emprisonnement y a inséré les mots: well knowing the same to be forged, qui ne se trouvaient pas dans l'accusation. B. R., 1876, Montréal, In re Worms, 7 R. L., 319.

104. And the expressions "forgery" and "utterance of forged paper" in the extradition treaty include every crime falling under that description, whether it amounts to a felony or is only a simple misdemeanor. Q. B., 1876, Montreal, In re Worms, 22 J., 109.

105. A prisoner was committed for extradition to the United States, on a charge of having forged a resolution of a city council relating to the issue of bonds, of having forged a bond of said city, and of uttering the same: On an application for his discharge, the resolution being an essential preliminary to the issue of the bond, and the bond being an instrument which might be the subject of forgery, although not executed in strict accordance with the Code of the State in which the bond was issued, there was a primâ facie case made out against the prisoner, and he should be remanded as to the charge of forgery. P. C., 1880, Regina vs Hovey, 8 P. R., 345.

106. Sur une demande d'extradition pour faux, basée sur des copies d'actes d'accusation du grand jury de l'Etat de New York, ne peuvent être admis en Canada comme preuve primâ facie à l'encontre du prévenu, sur une demande d'extradition.

107. D'après ces actes, le forgery est le "making or altering a writing so as to make the writing or alteration purport to be the act of some other person which it is not; it is not the making of an instrument which purports to be what it really is, but which contains false statements." De fausses entrées dans les livres d'une banque, par son caissier, ne constituent pas l'offence de forgery, d'après le Traité d'Extradition de 1842. C. S., 1884, Québec, In re Eno, 10 R. J. Q., 194; 7 L. N., 360.

108. Forgery of an instrument purporting to be a promissory note, may be committed whether the name signed to it is that of an existing, or a fictitious person; provided the name is assumed for a fraudulent purpose. Supr. C., 1886, New Brunswick, Ex parte Cadly, 26 N. B. R., 452.

109. A commitment for extradition for "forgery" is sufficient, and no further particularity is necessary. Q. B., 1887, Montreal, In re Hoke, 15 R. L., 92.

110. The depositions produced and acted upon before the committing judge failed to shew that the note, alleged to be forged, was produced and identified by the deponents or any of them: This constituted a valid ground for refusing extradition; and there was no power to remand the accused to have further evidence taken before the extradition judge as to such identification. C. P., 1890, Ontario, In re Parker, 19 O. R., 612.

111. Where the secretary of an incorporated company having nothing to do with the buying and selling of the company, discounted at a bank two notes and indorsed warehouse receipts as security for the payment thereof with authority to sell, it was held that the indorsement to the bank of the receipts did not constitute a forgery. C. P., 1890, Ontario, In re Sherman, 19 O. R., 315.

112. The accused was charged with the offences of forgery and uttering forged paper at the city of Toledo in the State of Ohio, one of the United States of America. The evidence showed that these offences were crimes under the statute law of the State of Ohio, but that there was no law of the United States as a whole under which these offences would be crimes: These offences were within the meaning of the extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States. Q. B., 1891, Manitoba, In re McCartney, 8 Man. L. R., 367.

113. If such a primâ facie case is made out in extradition proceedings as would warrant a committal for trial upon a preliminary enquiry before a magistrate under the law of Canada, had the charge been that the accused had committed in Canada an offence known by the same name as the extradition crime charged, the prisoner must be extradited, although it is not proved by the prosecution that the alleged offence is a crime under the law of the demanding country.

114. It is necessary for the prosecution to make out a primâ facie case that the alleged offence is a crime according to the law of the demanding country as well as under Canadian law.

115. Where the facts shewn, in extradition proceedings for forgery, disclose a primâ facie case in respect of an offence which is forgery only by virtue of the extended meaning given to that term by Canadian statutes, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove that the same is also forgery under the law of the foreign country in which the alleged offence was committed.

116. The prisoner's brother opened a bank account in an assumed name and drew cheques from time to time thereon. Several of these cheques were paid, but the last one the prisoner cashed at his own bank, knowing that there were no funds to meet it: There was evidence from which it might reasonably be inferred that the opening of the account in the assumed name was part of a conspiracy between the prisoner and his brother to defraud and that there was, therefore, the fraudulent uttering of a false document which would constitute forgery. C. A., 1895, Ontario, In re Murphy, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 578; 26 O. R., 163; 22 A. R., 386.

117. Where a person passing under an assumed name falsely represents that he is in the employment of a certain firm, and that he is authorized to make a draft upon such firm, his signature in such assumed name to a draft upon the firm, and his fraudulent negotiation of it, constitute forgery, if the credit obtained in negotiating the bill was not personal to himself alone, without relation to his supposed employers, and if the false name, although that of a non-existent person, was assumed for the very purpose of perpetrating the fraud. Ch., 1865, Ontario, In re Burley, 1 C. L. J., 34.—C. P., 1868, Ontario, Regina vs Morton, 19 C. P., 9; 30 O. R., 419.—C. A., 1899, Ontario, In re Lazier, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 167; 26 A. R., 260.

118. Where the basis of a charge of extradition is an alleged falsification of a written document, either the document itself must be produced or a foundation must be laid for secondary evidence of its contents; and a commitment for extradition is invalid as not disclosing a prima facie case unless this has been done. Supr. C., 1907, British Columbia, In re Johnston, 12 Can. Cr. Cas., 559.

119. Faux rapports.—The fraudulent compilation and filing of bank returns, is an extraditable offence, under sub-section 1 of section 153 of the Bank Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 29, making any wilful, false, or deceptive statements in such documents indictable

120. It is no objection to a warrant for the extradition to a foreign state of a bank officer on a charge of embezzlement of money from the bank, who caused a note endorsed by him to be marked "paid" and to be surrendered upon a part payment of the amount due thereon charging the balance to the bank's interest and discount account, which act was undoubtedly embezzlement under the law of the State to which extradition was demanded, that by sub-section (b) of section 359 cr. C., 1906, such method of getting a note from a bank was theft and not embezzlement. A warrant for the extradition to a foreign State of a bank officer for receiving deposits with knowledge of the insolvency of the bank may be sustained under section 405, cr. C., 1906, providing that everyone is guilty of an indictable offence who, with intent to defraud, by any false pretence, either directly or through the medium of any contract obtained by such false pretence, obtains anything capable of being stolen to be delivered to any other person than himself, and under section 405a of the Code, section 6 of 7-8 Ed. VII (Can.), ch. 18, making everyone guilty of an indictable offence who, in incurring any debt or liability, obtains credit under false pretences, or by means of any fraud, though that part of the foreign statute pertaining to the receipt of deposits with such knowledge was amended by striking out the words: "fraudulently and with intent to cheat and defraud any person." Supr. C., 1912, British Columbia, In re O'Neill, 5 D. L. R., 646; 19 Can. Cr. Cas., 410.

121. Formalités—The Extradition Act merely requires that the fugitive be charged with having committed, within the foreign jurisdiction, one of the crimes enumerated in the treaty, and that the evidence of criminality be such as according to the laws of this country would justify his apprehension and trial if the crime had been committed here, and when the authorities in the country where the offence was committed have declared by the issue of a warrant for the apprehension of an offender that the acts complained of constitute an extradition offence, according to their law, it only remains for the authorities here to examine whether the same acts if committed here would under our law justify the arrest and trial of the accused for the same offence.

122. Nor is it necessary that the depositions be taken before the magistrate who issued the original warrant. Q. B., 1876, Montreal, In re Worms, 22 J., 109.

123. The omission in the jurat, of the place where the depositions were taken, is not material, where the place is mentioned in the heading or margin, and is otherwise certified to. C. M., 1888, Sherbrooke, In re Debaun, 32 J., 281; 11 L. N., 323, 329, 399.

124. A warrant of committal, under the extradition Act, of a fugitive to await surrender to the foreign State, after reciting the apprehension of the accused, that he had been brought before the judge, and that the judge had determined that he should be surrendered, continued on the ground of his being accused of the crime of forgery and also of the crime of uttering what was forged within the jurisdiction of the State of Ohio, one of the United States of America, and of the United States of America: This was a sufficient description of the offences to show a ground of detention under the statute. The information charged the accused both with the forgery of a promissory note and with the uttering of a forged note. The information was not bad for duplicity. Q. B., 1991, Manitoba, In re McCartney, 8 Man. L. R., 367.

125. A duly authenticated copy of the record must be fyled and the identity of the accused must be established. Q. B., 1897, Montreal, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs Levi, 3 R. J., 493; Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 151.

126. The omission to mark a writ of habeas corpus in the manner prescribed in section 3, ch. 95, C. S. L. C., is not a ground of objection that can be taken by the party prosecuting the prisoner or opposing his discharge, more particularly after the merits of the cause of detention have been inquired into. The formality is one required for the instruction of the sheriff, gaoler or officer detaining the prisoner.

127. Affidavits taken ex parte in the manner provided in section 10 of the Extradition Act, R. S. C., ch. 142, are admissible as evidence in support of the charge for which the extradition of a fugitive is sought. The sufficiency of such evidence is a matter for the judicial discretion of the extradition commissioner and his decision thereon is not subject to review in habeas corpus proceedings.

128. The expression "fraud by an agent" in § 4 of article 1 of the Extradition Treaty between Great Britain and the United States (Convention of 1889-90) is not confined to agents who misapply trust moneys, but is of general purport and extends to servants or employees of the government, such as appraisers of imported goods subject to customs' duties. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Browne vs The United States of America, Q. J. R., 30 S. C., 363; 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 167.

129. Where two countries have enacted criminal legislation to prevent a certain crime, in respect of which extradition proceedings are instituted in manifest good faith by one of such countries, too much regard should not be paid by the other country in such proceedings to the ordinary technicalities of criminal procedure; and extradition may be ordered notwithstanding a discrepancy between the date of the alleged offence in the information and the date proved by the evidence. Cty C., 1912, Nova Scotia, United States vs Webber, 22 Can. Cr. Cas., 1.

130. Fugitif.—The executive government may deliver up to a foreign state, for trial, any fugitive from justice charged with having committed any crime within its jurisdiction. K. B., 1827, Montreal, Fisher, S. R. C., 245; 1 R. J. R. Q., 238, 504.

131. A person imprisoned in this province on a charge of having committed the crime of arson (an extraditable crime), escaped, and fled to the States, and on requisition, made to the government of that country, under the Treaty of Washington, was surrendered to this province, the warrant of surrender stating that he was to be tried for the crime of which he was so accused. He was convicted here of the crime charged, and while he was a prisoner under that conviction, was tried for the breach of prison (not an extraditable offence) committed before he escaped to the United States. There being no provision in the Treaty of Washington on the subject, such trial was not "in contravention of any terms of the arrangement" for the surrender of fugitives, between Great Britain and the United States.

132. The warrant stating that the fugitive was surrendered to be tried for the crime of which he was accused, was the act of the United States authorities only, and was not an "arrangement" within the Canadian Extradition Act, 1877, and therefore the trial for prison breach was sustainable. Supr. C., 1885, Regina vs Waddell, 25 N. B. R., 93.

133. To obtain the extradition of a fugitive, under the Ashburton Treaty of 1842 and the Convention of 1890,, such evidence must be adduced as would justify the committal of the accused for trial as if the crime had been committed in Canada. Q. B., 1897, Montreal, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs Levi, 3 R. J., 493; Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 151.

134. Lois et traités.—Judges are bound to construe the treaty in a liberal and just spirit, not labouring with legal astuteness to find flaws or doubtful meanings in its words, or in those of the legal forms required for carrying it into effect.

135. The Ashburton Treaty as to the extradition of fugitive felons, and our Acts passed to give effect to it, extend to British subjects committing the offences named in the treaty in the territory of the United States and becoming fugitives to Canada. Ch., 1865, In re Burley, 1 C. L. J., 20, 34.

136. The only existing law as to the extradition of criminals between the United States and Canada is the Imperial Act of 1870 (33-34 Vict., ch. 53), modified by 31 Vict., ch. 91 (D.), and 33 Vict., ch. 25 (D.). The Canadian Extradition Act of 1877, 40 Vict., ch. 25 (D.), does not apply to criminals from the United States, as the operation of the Imperial Act of 1870 has not "ceased or been suspended within Canada." Proceedings taken for the extradition of the prisoner under 40 Vict., ch. 25 (D.), and a warrant committing him under that Act, were therefore set aside and the prisoner discharged. P. C., 1878, Ontario, In re Williams, 7 P. R., 275.

137. The 40 Vict., ch. 25 (D.), is not in force, but the law and practice relating to the extradition of fugitive criminals between the United States and Canada, is to be found in the Ashburton Treaty, art. 10, 31 Vict., ch. 94 (D.), 33 Vict., ch. 25 (D.), and the Imperial Acts, 33-34 Vict., ch. 52, and 36-37 Vict., ch. 60. P. C., 1878, Ontario, In re Williams, 7 P. R., 275.—C. A., 1881, Ontario, Regina vs Browne, 31 C. P., 484; 6 A. R., 386.

138. By an order of the the Queen in Council in December, 1882, the operation of the Extradition Act, 1870, was suspended in Canada, so far as related to a foreign State with which there was an extradition arrangement: Under this suspending order, the provisions of the Canadian Extradition Act, 1877, were made applicable to fugitive criminals from the United States under the provisions of the Treaty of Washington, 1842. Supr. C., 1886, New Brunswick, Ex parte Cadby, 26 N. B. R., 452.

139. The Ashburton Treaty contains the whole of the law of surrender as between Canada and the United States, 3 Will. IV, ch. 6, being superseded by it, and the Imperial Act 6-7 Vict., ch. 76, and provincial statute 12 Vict., ch. 19, though in relation to other foreign powers, with whom no treaty or conventional arrangement existed, 3 Will. IV, ch. 6, is still in force.

140. Although the surrender must be by the executive government, yet a party committed under a magistrate's warrant may apply for a habeas corpus, and the court or judge may determine whether the case be within the treaty. Ch., 1896, Ontario, Regina vs Tubbee, 1 P. R., 98.

141. Judicial notice is to be taken under section 8 of the Extradition Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 155 of extradition, treaties and extradition orders-in-council published in the Canada Gazette, the official paper of the government of Canada, without production in evidence of a copy of the Gazette. S. C., 1912, Saskatchewan, Republic of France vs Peugnet, 1 D. L. R., 204.

142. Offenses.—It is not necessary for purposes of extradition that the crime charged should have been such an act as would have constituted that crime at the date of the Ashburton Treaty. It is sufficient if it constituted the crime in question at the date of its alleged commission. Ch., 1882, In re Hall, 3 O. R., 331.

143. Under the Extradition Act, 1877, 40 Vict., ch. 25 (D.), it is essential that the offence charged should be such as if committed here would be an offence against the laws of this country. C. P., 1883, Ontario, In re Jarrard, 4 O. R., 265.—C. A., 1895, Ontario, In re Murphy, 26 O. R., 163; 22 A. R., 386.

144. L'extradition peut être demandée pour une offense, quand même les grands jurés, dans le pays qui demande l'extradition, auraient rapporté un acte d'accusation comme fondé, pour une autre offense, sur ces mêmes faits.

145. Si, dans l'examen d'une accusation, devant un magistrat pour une certaine offense, une offense plus grave est constatée par la preuve, le prisonnier sera détenu pour la plus grave offense. C. M., 1888, Sherbrooke, Le peuple des Etats-Unis vs Debaun, 16 R. L., 612.

146. When such a state of facts is established in an extradition proceeding under the Extradition Act of Canada, as would, if their occurrence had taken place in Canada, have demanded a committal for trial, the duty to commit for extradition arises under the Extradition Act, R. S. C., 1886, ch. 142, sect. 11, if the offence charged be one of the offences covered by the treaty with the foreign country.

147. It is unnecessary in such case for the prosecutor to prove that by the law of the foreign country the alleged offence is there a crime of a like designation and within the treaty. H. C., 1894, Ontario, In re Murphy, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 562.

148. It is not the duty of the judge to revise the evidence given at the trial of the fugitive, but he must examine if the offence is an extradition offence, and if, after a regular trial, the conviction has been duly established and the accused duly identified.

149. If it is proved that the offence charged is a political offence, or is not one for which extradition can be demanded, the accused, on habeas corpus, must be discharged. Q. B., 1897, Montreal, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs Levi, 3 R. J., 493; Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 151.

150. Where there is evidence of the commission of an act which is recognized as a crime by the law of Canada and by the law of the country demanding the extradition of the accused person, extradition will lie, although, in the proceedings therefor, the offence is referred to by a wrong name. C. A., 1898, Ontario, In re Gross, 35 A. R., 83.

151. Extradition will be ordered for an offence under the Federal Bankruptcy Act of the United States, section 29b, which enacts that "a person shall be punished by imprisonment for a period not to exceed two years, upon conviction of the offence of having knowingly and fraudulently, while a bankrupt, or after his discharge, concealed from his trustee any of the property belonging to his estate in bankruptcy," such enactment being similar in its terms to section 417 of the Canadian Criminal Code, sub-section 2, which is in effect a bankruptcy law. Ex. C., 1911, Montreal, The King vs Stone, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 249, 377.

152. Where two countries have enacted criminal legislation to prevent a certain crime, in respect of which extradition proceedings are instituted in manifest good faith by one of such countries, too much regards could not be paid by the other country in such proceedings to the ordinary technicalities of criminal procedure; and extradition may be ordered notwithstanding a discrepancy between the date of the alleged offence in the information and the date proved by the evidence.

153. The essence of the offence of fraudulent concealment of assets by a bankrupt under the law of the United States is the continuance of the concealment after adjudication of bankruptcy and the appointment of a trustee, whose title relates back to the date of the adjudication and extradition will not be refused merely on the ground that the act of concealment is alleged to have taken place before the date of the adjudication.

154. The offence of fraudulent concealment of property by a bankrupt committed in the United States of America and for which extradition may be had from Canada is a continuing offence which may be begun before the date of the bankruptcy adjudication and continued to completion thereafter. C. C., 1912, Nova Scotia, United States vs Webber, 5 D. L. R., 863.

155. Parjure.—Falsely swearing in the foreign country to an affidavit verifying a plea in a court proceeding there, is extraditable as perjury, although it is not shewn that such an affidavit is either permitted or required under Canadian law.

156. The question of probability of conviction is not one for the consideration of an extradition commissioner if he finds sufficient evidence of guilt to justify a committal. Cty C., 1905, Victoria, B. C., In re Collins, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 73.

157. Procédure.—The procedure of the Extradition Act, R. S. C., 1886, ch. 142, applies to offence made extraditable by a treaty subsequent to the passing of the Act. Cty C., 1905, Victoria, B. C., In re Collins, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 70.

158. Procès.—When surrendered to the government of the country from which he fled, the government of the latter are bound to try the accused for the offence for which he is surrendered, and not for any other or different offence. Ch., 1865, Ontario, In re Burley, 1 C. L. J., 24.

159. Vol.—Burglary is not an offence within the Ashburton Treaty or the statutes of Canada passed to give effect to it. P. C., 1863, Ontario, In re Beebe, 3 P. R., 273.

160. Le gouvernement français ne peut obtenir l'extradition d'une personne accusée de détournement. C. S., 1874, Québec, Ex parte Taschemacher, 6 R. L., 328.

161. The fact that an indictment for embezzlement has been found against the accused, in the State from which he fled, does not prevent a demand being made for his surrender for forgery. Q. B., 1888, Montreal, In re Debaun, 32 J., 281; 11 L. N., 323, 329, 399; M. L. R., 4 Q. B., 145.

162. The offence known in Canada as obtaining goods by false pretences and in the State of Minnesota as grand larceny in the second degree is one for which extradition lies from Canada to that State under the Convention of 1889, sect. 3. Supr. C., 1897, North-West Territories, In re Martin, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 326.

163. Under the Extradition Convention of 1889 between Great Britain and the United States by which "larceny" was made an extraditable crime, whatever was then larceny both in Canada and in the State in which the alleged crime was committed was thereby made an extradition offence.

164. The abandonment of the term "larceny" in Canadian jurisprudence on the enactment of the criminal Code of Canada subsequent to an extradition convention including such offence, does not affect the liability to extradition of a person charged with what was larceny at common law and is by the criminal Code still an offence in Canada under the name of "theft" or "stealing." A. C., 1898, Ontario, In re Gross, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 67.

165. A charge of "grand larceny" is within the extradition arrangement with the United States as a species of "larceny." Supr. C., 1904, North-West Territories, In re Lewis, 9 Can. Cr. Cas., 233.—K. B., 1910, Manitoba, In re Moore, 16 Can. Cr. Cas., 264.

166. Extradition does not lie for the offence of receiving an article of merchandise knowing it to have been stolen. H. C., 1904, Ontario, In re Cohen, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 251.

167. Participation in fraud by an agent, participation in embezzlement, and the receiving of moneys knowing the same to have been fraudulently obtained, are extraditable crimes. K. B., 1905, Montreal, Greene et al. vs Vallée, Q. J. R., 14 K. B., 261.

168. A committal for extradition on a charge of embezzlement is not justified on evidence only for errors or irregularities in bookkeeping in books kept by the accused for his employers, such evidence alone not being sufficient to establish a primâ facie case of theft or conversion of money. Cty C., 1908, Halifax, N.S., In re Kalke, 13 Can. Cr. Cas., 253.

169. The prisoner had not undergone the whole of his punishment, and the demand for extradition was for the offence of larceny and not for a mere violation of the parole agreement which latter would not be an extradition crime. The objection made to the effect that the offence was trivial, might be well founded in cases under the Fugitive Offender's Act to Great Britain, was not well founded in extradition matters. Q. B., 1910, Montreal, Duders vs Guérin, 16 R. J., 475.

V. Droit constitutionnel, Droit criminel, Habeas Corpus, Juridiction, Loi, Preuve, Preuve (Au cr.)

F

FAILLITE

Déf.—La faillite est l'état d'un commerçant qui a cessé ses paiements. C. c. 17, § 23.

Le premier Acte de Faillite a été passé en 1864. Il a été remplacé par celui de 1869. En 1875, il a été refondu avec de grandes modifications. Ce dernier Acte a été aboli en 1880.

Dans la province de Québec, la distribution en justice des biens d'un débiteur insolvable se fait par une cession judiciaire de biens pour le bénéfice des créanciers. C. p. c. 853.

La différence entre l'insolvabilité, la déconfiture et la faillite est que l'insolvabilité est l'état de celui dont le passif excède l'actif; la déconfiture est l'état du non-commerçant insolvable; la faillite est une insolvabilité définie par la loi.

INDEX

Abandon d'affaires... 90
Abrogation.....3 et s.
Achat à crédit, 135, 139 et s., 155
Achat de créance..... 124
A compte..... 219
Acquiescement, 93, 220 et s
Action..... 137
Action hypothécaire.. 277
Action paulienne..... 168
Adjudicataire..... 307
Affidavit, 1 et s., 105, 209, 249
Ajournement.....17, 26
Annonces.....308, 316
Appel.....14, 177
Application de la loi.. 16

Assemblée de créanciers, 8, 17 et s., 20, 22, 26, 185 et s., 230
Assurance.....27 et s.
Avances aux créanciers 131
Avis, 12 et s., 15, 30 et s., 44, 200, 211
Avocat.....32 et s.
Banque..... 187
Banquier..... 92
Barbier..... 91
Bâtiments marchands 35
Biens dans d'autres prov..... 42
Biens du failli, 36 et s., 171, 203 et s., 215, 300 et s., 305 et s.
Bilan.....60 et s.
Billet promissoire, 64 et s., 120, 135, 141 et s., 164, 189, 192 et s., 195, 199, 203, 219, 232 et s.
Bonne foi.....113, 166 et s.
"Capias"..... 190
Cause probable, 117, 190 et s.
Cautionnement, 67 et s., 108 et s., 251 et s.
Caut. pour frais..... 15
Cessation de paiement, 73 et s.
Cession de biens...77 et s.
Cession volontaire, 79, 87, 100, 150, 278
Chose jugée..... 252
Collusion 153 et s., 161 et s.
Commerçant, 34, 89 et s., 160
Commission du gouv. 95
Commission du syndic 310
Comparution..... 96
Compensation.....97, 314
Composition, 258 et s., 313 et s.
Confession de jugement 36
Connaissance.....190 et s.
Consignation.....98 et s.
Contestation, 100 et s., 234 et s., 240, 290 et s.
Continuation des affaires 108 et s.
Contrat de mariage... 244
Courtier..... 92
Créancier, 207, 213, 230, 247, 290 et s.
Créanciers subséquents, 62 et s.
Décharge, 51 et s., 107, 149, 249, 258, 261 et s., 284, 294, 313 et s.
Déclaration..... 84
Défense..... 206
Délai, 12 et s., 15, 93, 96, 106, 111 et s., 118 et s., 123, 190 et s., 203, 225, 265 et s.
Demande de cession, 113 et s.
Dépôt..... 49
Dépôt judiciaire..... 38
Désistement, 122 et s., 127
Destitution de syndic, 276, 287, 295
Dettes du failli, 114, 116
Distribution de deniers, 128 et s., 217, 236
Dividende, 128 et s., 217 et s., 279
Dol.....36 et s.
Dommage..... 282 et s.
Donation à cause de mort..... 236
Donation entrevifs... 41
Droits du failli.....58 et s.
Effet..... 132
Emprisonnement.133 et s.
Emprunt..... 145
Enregistrement...169, 244
Erreur..... 146
Etat d'affaires..... 8
Examen du failli, 146 et s.
Exécuteur test.....48, 152
Exhibit.....224, 227
Forgeron..... 94
Frais. 33, 117, 133, 294, 296
Fraude, 36 et s., 134 et s., 139 et s., 141 et s., 153 et s.
Gage..... 164
Garantie, 25, 228, 238, 241, 248
Gardien judiciaire.... 165
Hôtelier..... 89
Huissier..... 165
Hypothèque....1, 166 et s.
Immeuble.....168 et s.
Inscription en droit... 178
"Insolvency legislation" 2
Inspecteur, 170 et s., 234
Intervention, 172 et s., 175 et s.
Jugement, 177 et s., 271, 297
Lieu de la cession, 80, 88, 121, 285, 287
Liste des créanciers, 60 et s., 79
Livres de compte..... 304
Loi applicable..... 179
Loi de Faillite, 3, 295 et s.
Loi étrangère..... 180
Louage des choses, 99, 181 et s.
Mandat.....185 et s.
Marchandise en entrepôt, 55 et s.
Menace..... 46 et s.
Montre.....53 et s.
Navire..... 188
Offres réelles..... 256
Opposition, 168, 211, 282
Ouvrages canadiens... 2a
Ouvrier..... 217
Paiement.....314 et s.
Paiement de comp. 259 et s
Paiement préférentiel, 73, 156, 189 et s.
Permission de la cour, 210, 214 et s., 282 et s
Possession des biens, 51 et s., 99, 160, 204, 215, 255 et s., 260 et s.
Poursuite, 28, 45, 175 et s., 200 et s., 282 et s.
Président d'assemblée 22
Présomption, 130, 143, 190 et s.
Prête-nom..... 104
Preuve, 115, 117, 179, 217, 231, 237, 250, 300, 313
Privilège.....216 et s.
Réclamation.....218 et s.
Réclamation étrangère, 229
Récusation de syndic, 286, 289
Reddition de compte, 48, 253
Répétition..... 46
Résignation de syndic 276
Résiliation d'acte..... 254
Résiliation de bail, 181 et s.
Rétrocession de biens, 255 et s., 293
S. a. après jugement.. 271
Saisie arrêt, 6 et s., 38, 98, 113 et s.
Saisie conservatoire... 212
Saisie-revendication, 165, 173, 202 et s., 208, 216, 264 et
Salaire..... 217
Salaire du failli..... 57
Seconde faillite..... 222
Séquestre..... 272
Société, 18, 43, 125, 150, 223, 226 et s., 239 et s., 273 et s.
'Stoppage in transitu', 264
Suspension de procéd., 86
Syndic, 21 et s., 28, 51 et s., 58 et s., 65 et s., 70 et s., 80, 88, 111 et s., 131, 145, 168, 172 et s., 201, 213, 234 et s., 253, 276 et s.
Syndic par interim.... 288
Taxes municipales..... 298
Transport, 37 et s., 45, 159, 258
Transquestion....148 et s.
Vente, 37 et s., 130, 208, 264 et s., 299 et s.
Vente de créances, 300 et s.
Vente de l'actif...305 et s.
Vente d'immeuble, 307 et s.
Votation, 18 et s., 23 et s., 185 et s.

ECRITS

1. Hypothèque. — Enregistrement des hypothèques en cas de faillite.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 9 R. Not., 231.

2. Insolvency legislation.—Written by C. H. Stephens, K. C., advocate. 2 R. L., n. s., 298.

2a. Ouvrages canadiens.—Clarke, 1877, Popham; Wootherspoon, 1875, Insolvent Act; Maclaren, Insolvency; Perron, Manuel des Faillites, 1898.

JURISPRUDENCE

3. Abrogation de la loi.—The repeal of the Insolvent Act does not affect any insolvent whose estate has vested in the assignee prior to the repeal. P. C., 1879, Ontario, Cooper vs Kirkpatrick, 8 P. R., 248.—Q. B., 1882, Ontario, Clarkson vs White, 40 R., 663.

4. Where a writ of attachment under the Insolvent Act, 1875, was taken out against the defendant, and delivered to the assignee to whom it was addressed on 1st April, before three o'clock p.m.; and a quarter past three the Act was assented to which repealed the Insolvent Act, the writ having been served upon the defendant until between five and six the same evening: The statute having come into force on the first, its operation began in the morning and covered all acts done during that day. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Rickaby vs Bell and Bell, 25 J., 91; 3 L. N., 135.

5. An action by assignee of an insolvent estate, under section 133 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, alleging that certain goods of the insolvent had been delivered to the defendants, creditors of the insolvent, by way of illegal preference, may still be brought in any case in which the estate become vested in an official assignee before the passing of the Act repealing the Insolvent Act. Q. B., 1880, Montreal, Darling, ès-qual., vs McIntyre et al., 3 L. N., 381.

6. Affidavit.—Un bref de saisie-arrêt émané en vertu de l'Acte de faillite sur l'affidavit d'une personne non autorisée par le demandeur est nul et doit être cassé. C. S., 1872, Montréal, Peckett vs Plinguet et al., et Plinguet et al., 4 R. L., 544.

7. The affidavit required for a writ of attachment under the Insolvent Act may be sworn before the prothonotary or his deputy, notwithstanding the omission to include this officer in the enumeration in section 105 of the Act. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Hilyard vs Harmburger, 1 L. N., 100.

8. Plaintiff's affidavit for the issue of a writ of attachment under the Insolvent Act of 1875, followed the requirements of the statute, section 9, setting out as grounds for the belief that the defendant was insolvent, the facts that he had called a meeting to compound with his creditors, had exhibited a statement showing his inability to meet his liabilities, and had otherwise acknowledged his insolvency: The affidavit was sufficient. Supr. C., 1878, Nova Scotia, Foster vs Roome, 12 N. S., L. R., 3 Russ. and Ches., 344.

9. The affidavit for compulsory liquidation is sufficient if it follow the statutory form, and it is not necessary for the plaintiffs to state in such affidavit what guarantees they hold for the payment of their claim, or that the debt is not secured. C. R., 1878, Montreal, Thibodeau et al. vs Jasmin et al., 22 J., 228; 1 L. N., 242.

10. The affidavit for attachment was insufficient and irregular, and the writ issued thereunder would be quashed, and the attachment set aside, when such affidavit merely states the alleged debt to be "for the balance due on a note of $440," without showing whether the note referred to is or is not a negotiable instrument, nor disclosing the nature of the defendant's liability thereon. S. C., 1879, Quebec, Home vs Connolly, 5 Q. L. R., 259.

11. Upon an application to set aside a writ of attachment, it appeared that the affidavit on which the order for the attachment was granted made no reference to the debtor's occupation or business, except that it described him in the style of cause as a merchant, and afterwards stated that the deponent believed the debtor was insolvent within the meaning of the Act of 1875: The heading of an affidavit is merely descriptive, and not an allegation of fact. Held, also, that the affidavit in question was defective in not stating facts sufficient to satisfy the judge who granted the order that the debtor was a trader within the meaning of the Act. Cty C., 1879, Ontario, In re Creen, 15 C. L. J., 35.

12. Appel.—Notice of application for allowance of an appeal must be served within eight days from the day on which the judgment appealed from is pronounced, but the application itself may be after the eight days.

13. Where the notice was served in time, but named a day for the application which did not give the time the insolvent was entitled to, and was irregular in some other respects, the notice was held amendable.

14. Objections to the security on an appeal from the county court judge, under the Insolvent Act, 1864, are to be made to such judge. Ch., 1866, Ontario, In re Owens, 12 Gr., 446, 560.

15. Under sections 83, 84, of the Act of 1869, the application in appeal must be served upon respondent, and security for costs given, within five days from the day on which judgment is rendered. It is not enough to serve notice and file bond. Ch., 1875, Ontario, In re Thomas, 6 P. R., 252.

16. Application de nouvel acte.—The Act of 1869 regulates the procedure, after its passage, in insolvency proceedings commenced under the Act of 1864, and consequently the discharge of an insolvent, who had made an assignment under the Act of 1864, intituled "The Insolvent Act, 1869," was valid. P. C., 1874, Ontario, Carnegie vs Tuer, 6 P. R., 165.

17. Assemblée des créanciers.—A meeting of creditors duly convened under the Insolvent Act may be lawfully adjourned to a subsequent day without repeating the advertisement and notices required by the Insolvent Act for meetings of creditors. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Macfarlane et al. vs Stewart and Macfarlane et al., 12 J., 241; 17 R. J. R. Q., 491, 518.

18. An insolvent debtor, partner in a commercial firm, composed of himself and another person, may vote in the appointment of an assignee to the estate of his firm, such estate being in insolvency under a writ of attachment directed against both partners, although his only claim being advances made by his, as a partner, to his own firm. Q. B., 1872, Montreal, Glasgow Bank vs Thomson, 3 R. C., 47.

19. A judge in insolvency will not interfere to rescind a vote of a majority of creditors past at a meeting legally called and held for the purpose, unless fraud be proved. S. C., 1874, Montreal, McCarville vs Lajoie and Hudon et al., 18 J., 139.

20. When the majority of creditors in number vote one way as to the appointment of an assignee, and the majority in value another way, there is not a "default of appointment," and under the circumstances of this case it was properly brought before the judge, under section 102 of the Act of 1875, to decide as to who should be assignee.

21. A person properly selected as assignee is not ineligible because he is not an official assignee, or a resident of the county. Ch., 1876, Ontario, In re Harris, 12 C. L. J., 251.

22. It is improper for the official assignee at the first meeting of creditors to act as chairman. Ch., 1876, Ontario, In re Harris, 12 C. L. J., 251.

23. A creditor who had proved his claim according to section 104 of the Insolvent Act, 1875, was entitled to vote for the appointment of an assignee, although his claim was still under contestation.

24. A creditor who has proved his claim as being unsecured, and who has not claimed any privilege, is entitled to vote for the appointment of assignee as an ordinary creditor, more particularly if the claim does not appear on its face to be a privileged claim.

25. Where a part of a creditor's claim was secured, and he had specified the value of the securities he held, as required by section 84, he was entitled to vote as a creditor on that portion of his claim which was in excess of the value of such securities. Q. B., 1878, Quebec, Murphy and Connolly et al. vs Dinning, 4 Q. L. R., 368.

26. Where a meeting of creditors was adjourned at the call of the assignee: This was equivalent to an adjournment sine die, and new notices were necessary to meet again. But a creditor whose claim was on notes which were not filed had no status to object. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Consolidated Bank of Canada vs Davidson et al. and Riddell and Stanley, 2 L. N., 348.

27. Assurance.—Une police d'assurance effectuée sur la vie d'un homme pour le bénéfice de sa femme ne peut être réclamée par les créanciers de cette dernière en cas de faillite. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Brossard vs Marsouin et Vilbon, 17 J., 270; 18 J., 249.

28. Le syndic à la faillite peut recouvrer le montant d'une police effectuée à la demande du syndic précédent.

29. La perte peut être recouvrée quoique le feu ait eu lieu après la nomination du second syndic, et que sa nomination n'ait pas été spécialement communiquée à la compagnie d'assurance avant le feu. Dans les circonstances de cette cause, il n'y avait aucun changement dans la propriété ou la possession. B. R., 1878, Montréal, Elliott vs La Compagnie d'assurance nationale, 9 R. L., 615; 21 J., 242; 23 J., 12; 1 L. N., 208, 450.

30. Avis.—The notice required by the section 101 of the Insolvent Act of 1865 cannot be given by advertisement in the weekly edition of a newspaper. Q. B., 1873, Montreal, Hope vs Frank, 18 J., 28; 23 R. J. R. Q., 319, 536.

31. The notice required by section 105 of the Insolvent Act of 1869 does not include the necessity of a notice to each individual creditor required by section 117. C. R., 1874, Montreal, Starke vs Shaw, 18 J., 288.

32. Avocat.—The assignee has the sole right to select his own professional adviser, and cannot be made to change him, except upon reasonable ground. C. P., 1868, Ontario, In re Lamb, 17 C. P., 173.

33. The plaintiff, an attorney, was the official assignee of an insolvent estate. He brought an action on behalf of the estate and used his own name as the attorney on the record. The plaintiff obtained a verdict: Under section 32 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, he was entitled to tax disbursements only against the defendants. P. C., 1879, Ontario, Agnew vs Ross, 8 P. R., 67.

34. A practising barrister, dealt largely in land transactions, but it was not shewn that he depended thereon for his living. Becoming insolvent, proceedings under the Insolvent Act of 1875 were taken against him: He was not a trader within the meaning of the Insolvent Act and nothing passed to the assignee in the insolvency proceedings. Ch., 1881, Ontario, Joseph vs Haffner, 29 Gr., 421.

35. Bâtiments marchands.—The provisions of the Insolvent Act of 1875, with respect to conveyances made in contemplation of insolvency, apply to mortgages on ships, notwithstanding the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act as to such mortgages, and the provisions of the said Act and the Imperial Act to remove doubts as to the validity of Colonial laws. Supr. C., 1884, Canada, Kinney vs Jones et al., 17 N. S., L. R.; 5 Russ. and Geld., 244; 11 Supr. C. R., 708.

36. Biens du failli.—Au moment de la faillite, les biens du failli deviennent la propriété absolue de ses créanciers d'alors; la reconnaissance d'une dette ou la confession de jugement de ce failli en faveur d'une personne ne font pas preuve de la dette à l'encontre des créanciers, et sur leur contestation de cette réclamation sur allégué de fraude et collusion, ce demandeur est tenu de faire preuve de sa dette et des considérations de cette dette, lors de l'inscription de la cause à l'enquête. B. R., 1853, Montréal, Bryson et al. vs Dickson, 3 D. T. B. C., 65; 3 R. J. R. Q., 426; 22 R. J. R. Q., 298.

37. An assignment by an insolvent, under the Insolvent Act of 1864, transfers to the assignee effects already under seizure, and an opposition fyled by the assignee claiming the effects seized to be divided among the creditors under the Insolvent Act, will be maintained. C. C., 1865, Montreal, Bacon et al. vs Douglas et al., and Converse, 15 L. C. R., 456.

38. Where moneys attached by a writ of saisie arrêt avant jugement have been deposited in the hands of the prothonotary, an official assignee has a right to claim them as tiers opposant, in which case the plaintiff has only a lien for costs up to the date of the publication of the attachment in insolvency under which the assignee was appointed. S. C., 1865, Montreal, Macfarlane et al. vs Bell and Dougall et al., and Burns, 10 J., 26; 14 R. J. R. Q., 410.

39. The Act of 1864 does not invalidate conveyances previously executed, and valid when executed. Ch., 1866, Ontario, Gordon vs Young, 12 Gr., 318.

40. Une vente faite par un failli, après l'émanation d'un bref en liquidation forcée et la publication des avis de faillite, est radicalement nulle, et dans le cas de telle vente, l'acquéreur ne peut invoquer sa bonne foi, et demander le remboursement du prix d'achat en vertu de l'article 1480 du Code civil. B. R., 1868, Montréal, Mallette vs White, 1 R. L., 711; 12 J., 229; 2 La Thémis, 346; 17 R. J. R. Q., 477, 551.

41. Un acte de donation fait par un père à sa fille, lorsqu'il est solvable, mais dans la vue d'entrer dans les affaires, et de soustraire les biens donnés aux dettes qu'il pourrait contracter, sera annulé sur la poursuite du syndic à la faillite du donateur, quoique les créanciers portés au bilan du failli soient tous postérieurs à la donation. B. R., 1868, Montréal, Murphy et al. vs Stewart, ès-qual., 12 R. L., 501.

42. Where a trader in Ontario becomes insolvent and an attachment in insolvency is issued to the sheriff of the county in which he resides, the county judge can issue another attachment to the sheriff of any county in Ontario, or of any district in Quebec, in which the insolvent has property. Ch., 1868, Ontario, In re Board, 15 Gr., 441.

43. An assignment made by a co-partnership vests in the assignee the separate estates of the partners, as well as the co-partnership estate, and the removal of the assignee, at a meeting of the creditors, has the effect of removing him with respect to the separate estates of the individual partners as well as the co-partnership estate. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Macfarlane et al. vs Court and Stewart, 12 J., 239; 17 R. J. R. Q., 489, 530.

44. The insolvent gave the usual notices of a meeting of creditors to appoint an assignee and, before the meeting took place, had received in the course of his business the sum of $176, a part of which, $143, he refused to pay over to the assignee after he was appointed. It was admitted that he had received this sum, but the insolvent claimed that, because he had received it before the apointment of the assignee, he was not bound to pay it over, but: This pretension was unfounded, and the insolvent was ordered to pay over the money on pain of imprisonment. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Warminton et al. vs Jones, 12 J., 237; 17 R. J. R. Q., 486, 544.

45. Transfer of action by a third party, which was only signified upon the debtor several days after a demand of assignment has been made cannot avail in support thereof. S. C., 1869, Montreal, Turgeon et al. vs Taillon et Taillon, 13 J., 19; 19 R. J. R. Q., 66, 578, 598.

46. An insolvent absconded to the United States, taking money with him. He was followed there by the agent of a person in this country who had become surety for him, and, by the threats of criminal proceedings, induced to pay the amount of the security. A bill, by the official assignee, to recover the money from the surety, was dismissed with costs. Ch., 1869, Ontario, Roe vs Smith, 15 Gr., 344.

47. A preference which a debtor is induced to give by threats of criminal or other proceedings, is not void under the Insolvent Act of 1864. Ch., 1869, Ontario, Clemmow vs Converse, 16 Gr., 547.

48. Where certain creditors of a deceased insolvent sued his executor, recovered judgment and sold his real estate, and got paid in full: Held, that they were still bound to account, and that the other creditors of the insolvent were entitled to have the whole estate distributed pro rata under the Act 29 Vict., ch. 28. Ch., 1870, Ontario, Bank of British North America vs Mallory, 17 Gr., 102.

49. The insolvent had deposited a sum with the plaintiffs, and soon afterwards absconded. The plaintiffs had given him a receipt, stating the money was payable on the production of that document.

50. The assignee demanded the money without producing the receipt, which never came into his possession, but the plaintiffs had notice of the attachment and of his appointment. He then sued the plaintiffs for the money. The action was restrained by an interim injunction issued in this suit, in which the plaintiffs required the assignee and another claimant of the money, whose claim accrued after the attachment, to interplead: The court, under the circumstances, held that the plaintiffs ought to have paid over the money to the assignee, and decreed that they should pay it, with the costs occasioned to the estate by their refusal. Ch., 1870, Ontario, Bank of Montreal, vs Little, 17 Gr., 313.

51. Il n'est pas nécessaire qu'un syndic à une cession ait pris possession des effets cédés pour en être considéré propriétaire en sa qualité de syndic, mais il suffit que ces effets aient été cédés comme appartenant au failli lors de la cession.

52. Il en reste propriétaire jusqu'à la rétrocession régulière, et la décharge qu'obtient le failli, par jugement le libérant de ses dettes, n'a pas pour effet de rétrocéder les biens au failli. C. R., 1872, Montréal, Ste-Marie vs Brown, ès-qual., et al., et Brown, ès-qual., 4 R. L., 527.

53. An insolvent has no right to retain a valuable and expensive watch from his assignee on the ground that it is necessary and ordinary wearing apparel. Cty C., 1878, Ontario, In re Sanborn, 14 C. L. J., 241.

54. But a watch and chain which an insolvent had been in the habit of wearing, and of no great value, were not ordered to be given up to the assignee. M. C., 1879, Ontario, In re Robinson, 15 C. L. J., 287.

55. Des effets ou marchandises, dans l'espèce du bois de sciage, transportés par reçus de gardiens d'entrepôts comme garantie d'avances faites, ne se trouvent pas en la possession actuelle du créancier jusqu'à ce que ce créancier exerce le droit de vendre ce qui lui est donné par les reçus, et si le débiteur fait faillite avant la vente de ces effets ou marchandises le surplus du produit de la vente après paiement de la somme garantie, doit être remis au syndic du failli.

56. Par la loi permettant cette transaction, il n'est pas loisible à un propriétaire d'effets de les transporter comme sûreté par reçus de gardiens d'entrepôts, pour d'autres avances que celles qui sont faites au temps du transport. B. R., 1880, Québec, Perkins vs Ross, 10 R. L., 263; 6 R. J. Q., 65.

57. An assignee in insolvency is entitled to all the earnings of an insolvent which are earned after the assignment in insolvency, and before discharge, over and above what is necessary for the reasonable maintenance of the insolvent and his family. Therefore, where an insolvent, pending his discharge, applied part of his earnings in the purchase of land for the benefit of his wife: To the extent of earnings so applied, the assignee was entitled to a lien on the land. Q. B., 1883, Ontario, Clarkson vs White, 4 O. R., 663.

58. Le syndic nommé à la faillite n'est que le mandataire des parties; la cession faite par le failli ne le prive pas de l'intérêt dans ses propriétés; il reste responsable envers ses créanciers pour le total de ses dettes, et, d'accord avec eux, il a un intérêt que la valeur de ses effets soit réalisée.

59. Ainsi, dans le cas où le syndic n'agit pas pour recouvrer les propriétés appartenant au failli, ce dernier a le droit, comme il a l'intérêt, de poursuivre de tels droits en son propre nom. B. R., 1892, Québec, Lemay vs Martel, R. J. Q., 1 B. R., 160.

60. Bilan et liste des créanciers. — A list of creditors need not be appended to an assignment to an official assignee. C. L. Ch., 1866, Ontario, Hingston, vs Campbell, 2 C. L. J., 299.

61. The fact that an insolvent has included a claim in his list of liabilities does not prejudice his defence to such claim. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Hood vs Barsalou, 1 L. N., 621.

62. Le failli, sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, n'est tenu de mentionner dans son bilan que les créanciers lors de la faillite, et non ceux subséquents, tel qu'un avocat pour ses frais sur un jugement obtenu après la cession.

63. L'insertion au bilan du demandeur dans la cause permet au débiteur d'invoquer contre l'avocat le bénéfice de la section 61 de l'Acte des Faillites. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Desmarteau et al. vs Mills et Girard, 13 R. L., 54.

64. Billet promissoire.—A note indorsed by the bankrupt before commission issued though not due until after, may be proved as a debt, and the plea of bankruptcy is a defence to it. Q. B., 1853, Ontario, Wood vs Hutt, 9 U. C. R., 344.

65. An assignee under the Insolvent Act of 1875 took négotiable notes payable to himself, from a debtor of the estate, and after they fell due, sold and endorsed them to the plaintiff, together with other notes, for much less than their nominal value, without any authority from the creditors or the inspector:

66. The assignee had no power to sell the notes without such authority under section 67 of the Act, and no title vested in the plaintiff as indorsed. Supr. C., 1885, New Brunswick, Rose vs Schofield, 25 N. B. R., 127.

67. Cautionnement. — Le cautionnement mentionné dans la section 42 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1869, ne peut être ordonné que par le tribunal et non par un juge. C. S., 1874, Beauharnois, Lynch et al. vs St-Amour, 5 R. L., 414.

68. Le requérant étant caution solidaire du failli pour $450, avec l'entente que le créancier pourrait réclamer le montant entier de sa créance contre le failli, et revenir contre le requérant pour la balance jusqu'à $450, le requérant après avoir payé au créancier $450, ne peut réclamer ce montant contre la succession du failli avant le paiement total du créancier par la succession. C. S., 1877, Montréal, Duclos vs Doutre et al., 7 R. L., 620.

69. L'appelant, dans une cause où l'intimé est devenu en faillite, n'a pas le droit d'obliger l'intimé à donner caution sous la section 39 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875. B. R., 1788, Montréal, McKinnon vs Thompson, 9 R. L., 635; 23 J., 95; 1 L. N., 494.

70. Le cautionnement donné par un syndic officiel en vertu de la section 28 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, vaut en faveur des créanciers du failli, dans le cas où le syndic officiel aurait été nommé syndic à la faillite par les créanciers et n'aurait pas donné un cautionnement spécial. C. S., 1880, Montréal, Delisle et al. vs Létourneux, 10 R. L., 288; 3 L. N., 207.

71. Where an official assignee, under the Insolvent Act of 1875, has taken possession of an insolvent estate in that capacity, and subsequently the creditors have appointed him assignee to the estate without exacting any further security, and while acting as assignee of the creditors, he makes default to account for monies of the estate, the creditors have recourse upon the bond given for the due performance of his duties as official assignee. Supr. C., 1881, Montreal, Canada Guarantee Co. vs McNichols, ès-qual., 4 L. N., 78; 6 L. N., 323.—Supr. C., 1885, Montreal, Dansereau, ès-qual., vs Létourneux, M. L. R., 1 Q. B., 357; 5 L. N., 339; 8 L. N., 275; 4 D. C. A., 220; 12 Supr. C. R., 307.

72. La caution du syndic défalcataire poursuivie sous la section 68, par un créancier réclamant qui, aux termes de cette section, doit avoir le bénéfice exclusif de la poursuite, n'est pas admise à plaider que le montant de son cautionnement ($5,000 dans l'espèce) serait absorbé par les créances privilégiées de la faillite, si elle le payait. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Kent, ès-qual., vs Létourneux, R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 60.

73. Cessation de paiements.—Lorsqu'un commerçant a cessé ses paiements et ses affaires, il doit être considéré comme en faillite, et il n'a pas le droit de faire des paiements à quelques-uns de ses créanciers chirographaires de préférence aux autres. B. R., 1830, McKensie vs Quebec Bank, 3 R. L., 457; 1 R. C., 482.

74. Un créancier a le droit de faire une demande de cession à son débiteur qui ne paie pas un compte dû à son échéance, à moins que celui-ci établisse que sa gêne n'est que temporaire et qu'il est en état de payer généralement ses dettes. B. R., 1876, Québec, Fontaine vs Rooney, 8 R. L., 415.

75. A demand of assignment would be set aside unless it were distinctly proved that the defendant had failed to meet his liabilities generally as they became due. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Beard vs Thomson and Thomson, 21 J., 299; 1 L. N., 208.

76. L'inhabilité à payer une dette particulière n'est pas, pour un commerçant, l'état de faillite, qui n'existe, aux termes du no 23, de l'article 17 du Code civil, que lorsqu'il a cessé ses paiements en général. C. R., 1887, Québec, Sirois vs Beaulieu, 13 R. J. Q., 293; 11 L. N., 71.

77. Cession de biens.—An assignment for the benefit of creditors, not made in accordance with the Act, is an act of insolvency, and void as against an execution creditor, or the official assignee appointed in compulsory proceedings under that Act, after such proceedings are taken, if finally sustained.

78. Such proceedings render the assignment absolutely void as against creditors of the insolvent, so as to let in intermediate execution creditors. C. P., 1866, Thorne vs Torrance, 16 C. P., 445; 18 C. P., 29.

79. A list of creditors of the insolvent need not be appended to an assignment made to an official assignee. A voluntary assignment must be made to an official assignee resident in the county in which the insolvent resides, and carries on his business; and the amending Act, 1865, makes no change in this respect. Ch., 1866, Upper Canada, Hingston vs Campbell, 11 J., 315.

80. According to the Act of 1869 assignments in insolvency can only be made to official assignees resident in the county where the insolvent has his domicile, and an official assignee resident in the city of Montreal who was, under the Act of 1864, appointed such for the judicial district of Montreal, and continues in the office under the Act of 1869, has not, under section 2 of the latter Act, a right to receive an assignment from an insolvent having his domicile in the county, being part of said district, when an official assignee has been appointed under the Act of 1869 for that county, and is a resident there. Q. B., 1868, Montreal, Douglas vs Wright and Brown, 11 J., 310; 13 J., 29; 4 L. C. L. J., 12; 18 R. J. R. Q., 488, 533.

81. Un créancier qui a consenti à ce que son débiteur fasse une cession autrement que de la manière prescrite par l'Acte de Faillite, 1864, ne peut se prévaloir de cette cession pour assujettir les biens de ce débiteur à la liquidation forcée. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Whyte vs Cohen et le dit Cohen, 14 J., 83; 20 R. J. R. Q., 28, 544.

82. The acceptance of an assignment under the Insolvent Act of 1869 must be made by the official assignee in person, and cannot be made by attorney. S. C., 1869, Montreal, Hervey vs Rimmer and Lindsay, 14 J., 24; 19 R. J. R. Q., 497, 564, 567, 594, 601.

83. Une cession faite autrement que de la manière prescrite par l'Acte de Faillite, n'assujettit les biens du débiteur à la liquidation forcée, que pendant les trois mois qui suivent telle cession et non après. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Hutchins et al. vs Cohen et le dit Cohen, 14 J., 85; 15 R. J. R. Q., 190.

84. The filing of a declaration with a writ of attachment in compulsory liquidation under the Insolvent Act of 1869 is irregular. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Macintosh vs Davis et al., 14 J., 235.

85. Under the Act of 1864: An assignment to trustees, not made in accordance with the Act, is a fraudulent conveyance, according to section 3, sub-section 1, of said Act. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Calvin et al. vs Tranchemontagne et al., and Thomas et al., 14 J., 210; 20 R. J. R. Q., 134, 533, 540.

86. A petition to stay proceedings filed by an insolvent after the expiration of the five days from the demand of assignment, on the ground that he has assigned to an official assignee, is too late.

87. An insolvent under the Act has no legal interest to plead an assignment made by him under the Act in bar of proceedings in compulsory liquidation. Q. B., 1871, Montreal, Martin vs Thomas dit Tranchemontagne, 15 J., 236; 17 J., 11; 2 R. C., 230; 20 R. J. R. Q., 447, 449, 504.

88. Under the Act of 1869, assignments in insolvency may be made only to an official assignee resident within the county where the insolvent has his domicile. S. C., 1873, Montreal, Gravel vs Stewart and Vilbon, 17 J., 326.

89. Commerçant.—An innkeeper is not a trader within the meaning of the Insolvent Act of 1869. C. P., 1872, Ontario, Harman vs Clarkson, 22 C. P., 291.

90. A person who has not engaged in trade for three years is still subject to the provisions of the Insolvent Act in respect to debts contracted in trade, and which are still unsettled. Q. B., 1873, Montreal, Buchanan et al. vs McCormick et vir, 19 J., 29; 19 R. J. R. Q., 472, 537.

91. A barber is not a trader within the Act of 1869. And the sale of perfumery, being merely incidental to his business; and a purchase of tobacco nine months before his assignment, which he sold again immediately, being an isolated transaction, were held, upon the evidence, insufficient to bring him within the Act. P. C., 1874, Ontario, Thomas vs Hall, 6 P. R., 172.

92. A banker, an exchange and money broker, and a dealer in foreign and uncurrent money, buying and selling stocks, is a trader within the Act of 1869. Q. B., 1875, Ontario, Duncan vs Smart, 35 U. C. R., 532.—Q. B., 1875, Ontario, Bagnett vs Hamilton, 10 L. J., 305.

93. An insolvent is too late, six months after his insolvency, to petition to have the proceedings in insolvency set aside, on the ground that he had never been a trader. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Fulton vs Lefebvre and Lefebvre, 21 J., 23; 1 L. N., 204.

94. Le forgeron qui fournit le fer qu'il forge est un commerçant. C. R., 1887, Québec, Sirois vs Beaulieu, 13 R. J. Q., 293; 11 L. N., 71.

95. Commission du gouvernement.—By section 145 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, it was provided that one per cent. should be payable by the assignees in insolvency on all moneys realized by them on real estate in their hands: It was the duty of the assignee to retain that amount out of the first payment on account of the price of sale, though a term had been given for the balance. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Chauveau vs Evans, ès-qual., 24 J., 343; 3 L. N., 78.

96. Comparution.—Where a writ of attachment had issued under the Insolvent Act of 1864: The defendant would not be allowed to appear in the case after five days from the return day of the writ, even although his motion to that effect is supported by affidavits showing that it was through an error on the part of his attorneys that the appearance was not filed before the expiration of five days. S. C., 1865, Montreal, May vs Larue et al., 10 J., 113; 1 L. C. L. J., 97.

97. Compensation. — Conformément à la section 107 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, la compensation a lieu au sujet des dettes devenant dues après la faillite, pour des transactions commencées avant. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Minner vs Shaw et al., 9 R. L., 643; 23 J., 150.

98. Consignation. — Les marchandises, consignées à une société pour être vendues à commission, constituent, en vertu de l'Acte de Faillite de 1864, une propriété commise en main tierce, qui en vertu de cet acte n'est pas dévolue au syndic appointé.

99. Il ne saurait les retenir à l'encontre du propriétaire, quoiqu'antérieurement à sa prise de possession, le locateur les eût saisies sur les lieux par lui loués à telle société, et eût produit sa réclamation invoquant son privilège sur iceux pour son loyer. C. S., 1867, Québec, Lawlor vs Walker, 17 D. T. B. C., 349; 16 R. J. R. Q., 313.

100. Contestation.—The right to petition to set aside a writ of attachment in insolvency is purely personal to the insolvent, and cannot be exercised by a third person to whom he has made a voluntary asignment. Q. B., 1870, Montreal, Watson, ès-qual., vs The City of Glasgow Bank, 14 J., 309; 20 R. J. R. Q., 267, 536.

101. Sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1869, les pièces de procédure relativement à la contestation d'une collocation devaient se faire à la personne ou au domicile et non au bureau du syndic officiel. C. R., 1871, Montréal, Martin et al. et St-Amour vs Stewart et Charland, 3 R. L., 382; 2 R. C., 107; 23 R. J. R. Q., 413, 578.

102. A petition calling in question the validity of an assignment under the Insolvent Act of 1869, to an official assignee must be served upon the insolvent as well as upon the assignee. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Gravel vs Stewart and Vilbon, 17 J., 23; 22 R. J. R. Q., 511, 549.

103. A creditor desiring to attack an attachment under section 14 of the Insolvent Act, 1875, does not require to allege that he is an unsecured creditor for an amount exceeding $100. Q. B., 1876, Montreal, Langevin vs Grothé et al., 21 J., 237; 1 L. N., 208.

104. Where the proof showed that the claim upon which the attaching creditor had founded his demand for a writ was trumped up for the purpose and that the creditor was only a prête nom, the writ was set aside. C. R., 1879, Montreal, Logan vs Kearney et al., 2 L. N., 386.

105. Under the Insolvent Act of 1875, where the writ was contested on the ground of the insufficiency of the affidavit, an acknowledgment by the defendant of his inability to pay his liabilities in cash was insufficient to justify the writ, which was therefore quashed. C. R., 1880, Montreal, Milloy vs O'Brien, 3 L. N., 101.

106. An application under section 18 to set aside a writ of attachment for a substantial insufficiency in the affidavit must be made within five days from the issue of the writ. C. A., 1880, Ontario, Carrier vs Allin, 2 A. R., 15.

107. The validity of an assignment in insolvency may be contested on the application of the insolvent for his discharge. S. C., 1883, Montreal, Dillon vs Beard, 7 L. N., 103.

108. Continuation des affaires.—It is within the power of a majority of the creditors to allow insolvent to carry on his business without giving security or inventory taken, but the court will grant to a creditor petitioning against such a proceeding "act of his petition to avail as a formal protest against insolvent, assignee and all others concerned, in so far as the proceedings complained of have any tendency to bind petitioner to any greater extent than he can legally be bound by the same." S. C., 1875, Quebec, In the matter of Lamontagne, 2 Q. L. R., 160.

109. On a petition by an insolvent, praying to be allowed to continue his business pending the contestation of the writ: The court or a judge might permit him to do so on giving security for the value of his stock in trade and assets. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Fisher et al. vs Malo, 22 J., 276.—C. R., 1878, Montreal, Anderson vs Gervais, 22 J., 277; 1 L. N., 566, 579.

110. Application under Insolvent Act 1875 by an insolvent, alleging injury to the estate pending the contestation of the writ, to be allowed to manage the property, to reap crops, etc., and for an allowance of $20 a week maintenance: The court had no power to grant such an order. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Milloy vs O'Brien and O'Brien, 2 L. N., 372.

111. Délai.—Le syndic a le droit d'accorder du délai au débiteur du failli pour le paiement d'un jugement en voie d'exécution par le shérif, à la poursuite du failli. B. R., 1870, Montréal, Sénécal vs Collette, 15 J., 21; 21 R. J. R. Q., 153, 551.

112. The return day of a writ of attachment under the Insolvent Act must not be later than five days after service of the writ. S. C., 1877, Sweetsburg, Brockville and Ottawa Railway Co. vs Foster, 21 J., 107; 1 L. N., 207.

113. Demande de cession et saisie-arrêt.—A demand made upon a trader, under the Insolvent Act of 1864, solely in order to obtain payment of the amount due him, is made without reasonable ground, and contrary to the Insolvent Act, and will be set aside. C. R., 1865, Montreal, Lacombe et al. vs Lanctot, 1 L. C. L. J., 110; 16 L. C. R., 166.

114. Under the Insolvent Acts, a creditor, whose debt is immatured, may commence proceedings against his debtor, who is insolvent in like manner as he might have done if his debt had been overdue at the time. But in this case, it appearing that the debtor did not owe more than $100 beyond the creditor's debt none of which was at the time due, and a portion not payable for several years to come, the court directed that he should be allowed further time to shew, if he could, that he was not in fact, insolvent, and so not liable to have his estate placed in compulsory liquidation. C. P., 1868, Ontario, Moore vs Luce, 13 J., 113.

115. On a joint demand by two creditors for over $500 against a debtor to make an assignment under the Act, one creditor cannot make proof for another under article 251 of the Code of civil procedure. S. C., 1869, Montreal, Turgeon et al. vs Taillon and Taillon, 13 J., 19;19 R. J. R. Q., 66, 578, 598.

116. A creditor of a debt of a non-commercial nature may demand an assignment from a trader under the Insolvent Act of 1869; nor does the fact of the debt being a non-commercial one prevent the creditor from taking proceedings in insolvency against his debtor, founded upon such debt. Q. B., 1873, Montreal, Buchanan et al. vs McCormick et vir, 19 J., 29; 19 R. J. R. Q., 472, 537.

117. Un débiteur à qui un créancier a fait signifier une demande de cession, en vertu de la section 14 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1869, a, contre ce créancier, outre la condamnation à triples frais en vertu de la section 1 du même acte, une action en dommages, si cette demande a été faite seulement comme moyen de forcer le débiteur à payer. En ce cas, c'est au débiteur à prouver l'absence de cause probable. C. S., 1874, Richelieu, Sénécal vs Beauchemin, 6 R. L., 71.

118. La demande de cession peut être faite après les trois mois qui ont suivi le protêt des billets.

119. Une demande de cession pendante ne peut empêcher un autre créancier de faire une autre demande semblable.

120. Une demande de cession basée sur billets échus avant l'Acte de Faillite doit néanmoins être faite sous l'Acte actuellement en force. B. R., 1876, Québec, Knight vs La Banque Nationale, 9 R. L., 724.

121. Where a trader carries on business in more places than one, a writ of attachment under the Insolvent Act can only issue at his chief or one of his principal places of business. S. C., 1877, Sweetsburg, Brockville and Ottawa Railway Co. vs Foster, 21 J., 107; 1 L. N., 207.

122. An attachment in insolvency is for the benefit of the creditors generally, and a plaintiff cannot discontinue at will as in an ordinary action.

123. Where an attachment issued against the petitioner under the Insolvent Act, and he petitioned within five days that the attachment be quashed, and the plaintiff afterwards filed a discontinuance: The petitioner having proved his petition was entitled to a judgment on it. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Ford vs Short, 21 J., 198; 1 L. N., 207.

124. A bonâ fide purchase for value of a claim against an insolvent, made by a creditor for the express purpose of increasing such creditor's demand to an amount sufficient to issue a writ of attachment under section 9 of the Act of 1875, is valid. C. A., 1877, Ontario, Carrier vs Allin, 2 A. R., 15.

125. Where a writ of compulsory liquidation issues against a firm, the individual estates of the co-partners vest in the assignee as well as the co-partnership estate. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Hamilton et al. vs Roy et al., 1 L. N., 592.

126. Under the Insolvent Act, 1875, a writ of attachment in insolvency, which was not returned, must be treated as a nullity, and no other creditor of defendant could found any proceedings on it. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Quebec Bank vs Kapp and Kapp, 2 L. N., 412.

127. A creditor issuing an attachment under the Act of 1864, cannot after five days from the return day of the writ withdraw the attachment, so as to prevent another creditor from intervening for the prosecution of the cause. Ch., 1894, Ontario, Worthington vs Taylor, 10 L. J., 333.

128. Distribution de deniers. — Le défaut de publication d'un bordereau de dividende, suivant l'acte concernant la faillite de 1864, le rend complétement nul; il reste dans l'état de projet, et le syndic peut le mettre de côté. C. S., 1867, Montréal, Larivière vs Whyte et McEvila et Angers, 11 J., 265; 4 L. C. L. J., 42; 17 R. J. R. Q., 157, 541.

129. An action may be brought against an assignee for a dividend on a duly collocated and advertised claim which has not been objected to. Ch., 1868, Ontario, Simpson vs Newton, 4 C. L. J., 46.

130. Where an insolvent transfers an immoveable the day previous to his assignment to one of his creditors with right of redemption in payment of a loan, there is no public knowledge of the insolvency, so as to found a presomption of fraud on the part of the creditor, but the deed may be annulled as reimbursing the buyer of the price he had pay with intent without costs. S. C., 1874, Richelieu, Mayrand vs Salvas, 6 R. L., 60.

131. Un syndic qui fait des avances à un réclamant avec l'entente qu'il sera payé de telles avances sur les dividendes, le fait à son propre risque, et au cas où tel réclamant devient en faillite avant la réclamation de tels dividendes, le syndic doit payer les dividendes de nouveau au syndic de réclamant. C. S., 1878, Montréal, Garreau vs Perkins et Court, 9 R. L., 629; 23 J., 64.

132. Effet de l'Acte de Faillite, 1875.— There being nothing either in the language or object of section 136 of the Insolvent Act to warrant the implication that it was to have any effect out of Canada, it must be held not to extend to the purchase of goods in England by defendant, stated in the second count of the declaration. In this view it is unnecessary to decide as to the constitutional validity of the enactment in question, and the appeal should be allowed. Supr. C., 1882, Canada, Shields vs Peak et al., 8 Supr. C. R., 579.

133. Emprisonnement du failli. — In ordering imprisonment under the Insolvent Act of 1869, sect. 92, the court is bound to limit the payment in order to obtain release to the debt or costs. S. C., 1873, Montreal, Warner vs Buss, 18 J., 184.

134. If the court is satisfied that the fraud charged has been proved, the insolvent will be ordered to be imprisoned in default of payment of costs as well as debt. Q. B., 1873, Montreal, Rogers et al. vs Saucer et al., 18 J., 57; 23 R. J. R. Q., 342, 547.

135. A debtor who, having failed to meet his liabilities, gives accommodation notes knowing his insolvency, buys goods on credit without disclosing these facts to his creditors, and having become insolvent afterwards, within the meaning of the Insolvent Act, 1875, is presumed to have done so with the intent to defraud his creditors, and must be held to be guilty of fraud and liable to imprisonment for such time as the court may order, not exceeding two years, unless the debt and costs be sooner paid. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Watson et al. vs Grant, 21 J., 222; 1 L. N., 65.

136. In an action for imprisonment, under section 136 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, it is not necessary to bring a separate action on each separate invoice of goods, but one action will suffice as respects all the purchases. Q. B., 1877, Montreal, Caldwell vs Macfarlane, 22 J., 78; 1 L. N., 4.

137. The demand for the imprisonment of the insolvent, under section 136 of the Insolvent Act, 1875, should be made by ordinary suit and not by petition in insolvency. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Gear vs Sinclair et Furniss, 21 J., 279; 1 L. N., 208.

138. In an action against a trader, under the Insolvent Act, 1875, for obtaining goods on credit, knowing himself to be insolvent, two years was ordered unless the debt was sooner paid. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Wilkes vs Beaudry, 2 L. N., 157.

139. Un commerçant qui achète des marchandises dans un temps où il sait qu'il est incapable de les payer, sera condamné à l'emprisonnement sous la section 136 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Gault et al. vs Fauteux, 10 R. L., 62.

140. Un commerçant qui achète des marchandises en mars et avril 1878, lorsque, par un inventaire fait en janvier 1876, il constate un déficit de $2,300, doit être traité comme ayant acheté des marchandises connaissant qu'il était alors insolvable et condamné à l'emprisonnement jusqu'au paiement sous la section 136 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875. C.S., 1879, Montréal, Leclaire et al. vs Fauteux, 10 R. L., 109.

141. Dans le cours du printemps de 1875, l'appelant fit endosser plusieurs billets et accepter plusieurs lettres de change par l'intimé. Dans le mois d'août suivant, l'appelant a failli, sans éteindre les obligations que l'intimé avait assumées pour lui.

142. L'intimé alléguant que lorsque l'appelant a obtenu ses endossements et l'acceptation de ses traites, il savait qu'il était incapable de remplir ses engagements, demande par cette action à ce que l'appelant soit condamné à lui payer sa dette et à ce qu'il soit emprisonné, en vertu de la section 136 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875:

143. L'appelant n'a pas caché à l'intimé l'état de gêne dans lequel il se trouvait, lorsqu'il lui a demandé de l'aider de son crédit; et l'intimité qui a continué d'exister entre les parties, pendant plus de dix mois après la faillite de l'appelant, sans que l'intimé ait porté aucune plainte, et le fait que l'appelant a, depuis sa faillite, payé plus du tiers de la dette, à même ses revenus personnels, qui étaient insaisissables, excluent toute présomption de fraude de la part de l'appelant, et il n'y a pas lieu d'appliquer la pénalité imposée par la section 136 de l'Acte de Faillite. B. R., 1880, Montréal, Boyer vs Barthe, 1 D. C. A., 120.

144. Le failli qui ne rend pas compte de marchandises qui sont disparues est censé les avoir recelées en fraude des ses créanciers. Il ne lui suffit pas de dire qu'il ne sait pas ce qu'elles sont devenues, il faut qu'il explique leur disparition. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Boileau vs Desmarteau, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 8.

145. Emprunts.—Lorsque des syndics à une faillite sont autorisés à engager, affecter et hypothéquer, s'ils le jugent à propos, tout ou partie des biens à eux transportés, pour obtenir des fonds pour continuer les affaires des cédants jusqu'à la liquidation, ils ne sont pas par là autorisés à emprunter, sur leur garantie personnelle, des sommes considérables, et à engager la responsabilité des créanciers des cédants de manière à pouvoir recouvrer d'eux le déficit après la liquidation des biens. B. R., 1882, Québec, Hon. Chinic et al. vs Hon. Garneau, 7 L. N., 210; 13 R. L., 705.

146. Examen du failli.—Le banqueroutier découvrant une erreur dans la rédaction de son examen, doit, même au jour fixé pour l'octroi ou refus du certificat, être admis à la corriger, sauf l'ouverture de novo, de l'enquête.

147. Le banqueroutier doit également être astreint à déclarer (malgré son examen) s'il a retenu quelque chose. C. des Banq., 1845, Montréal, Lippé vs Perrin et al., 1 R. de L., 236.

148. An insolvent, or party who has been summoned under the Insolvent Act for examination, cannot be cross-examined. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Fraser vs Sauvageau and Winning et al., 12 J., 272; 18 R. J. R. Q., 11, 541.

149. Le failli n'est pas tenu de subir un examen devant le syndic, après avoir obtenu un acte de composition et de décharge de ses créanciers. C. S., 1871, Montréal, Johnston vs Brown, 3 R. L., 431.

150. An order for the examination of witnesses in insolvency made on the day of a voluntary assignment of a partnership estate by two out of three partners, is irregular, and the petition for such examination should set forth satisfactory reasons for the order. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Lusk et al. vs Foot, 17 J., 47; 19 J., 104; 23 R. J. R. Q., 73, 543.

151. An insolvent cannot be cross-examined by his counsel on his examination by the creditors in court. S. C., 1876, Quebec, Lamontagne vs Ollendorff et al., 2 Q. L. R., 156.

152. Exécuteur testamentaire.—Section 27 of the Insolvent Act of 1865, does not enable the creditors of a deceased person to put his executors or administrators into insolvency in their representative character. C. P., 1870, Ontario, In re Sharpe, 20 C. P., 82.

153. Fraude et collusion.—Insolvents cannot of themselves do any act whereby the rights or position of their creditors will be affected.

154. The estate of the insolvent being the proper gage of his creditors. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Molsons Bank vs Leslie et al. and Leslie et al., 8 J., 8; 12 R. J. R. Q., 286; 13 R. J. R. Q., 271; 17 R. J. R. Q., 468, 566.

155. Where a trader purchased goods for cash knowing he could not meet his liabilities, and converted the goods into money, and declared himself insolvent without having paid for them: He was guilty of fraud within the meaning of the Insolvent Act of 1864, and his discharge was suspended for five years. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Freer et al. vs Freer and Gilmour et al., 12 J., 315; 18 R. J. R. Q., 58, 545.

156. L'offre inacceptée d'une préférence, faite par un tiers à un créancier, sans la participation du failli, n'est pas une fraude du failli. B. R., 1874, Québec, Toussaint vs Wurtele, 1 Q. R. L., 89, 127.

157. Where a trader before insolvency went to England, taking with him a sum of his own money and a sum belonging to his wife, and purchased goods there in connection with his trade: In the absence of any account of the money so taken from his assets it must be assumed that the purchase of goods was made with such funds. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Stevens vs Perkins, 1 L. N., 290.

158. Where a writ of attachment was sued out by a father against his son, who was not a trader, and a creditor intervened: The insolvency proceedings were evidently in fraud of the other creditors and were set aside. C. R., 1878, Montreal, Turgeon vs Coupal, 1 L. N., 77.

159. Where an insolvent, just before he called a meeting of creditors, transferred the bulk of his property to different parties, some of whom were his relations, the transfers were presumed to be fraudulent and set aside. C. R., 1878, Montreal, Fair vs Baldwin, 1 L. N., 77.

160. Where a person who was sued made an assignment in insolvency, and judgment having gone against him, and his effects having been sold by the sheriff, the assignee petitioned that the sheriff be ordered to deliver over to him the moneys levied by the sale: As it was plain that the defendant was not a trader, and the other creditors ignored the assignment, the assignment was clearly a fraud and the petition of the assignee was dismissed. C. R., 1878, Montreal, Mongeau et vir vs Larocque, and Gigault, 1 L. N., 78.

161. On evidence of collusion, writ of attachment under Insolvent Act, 1875, quashed and set aside. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Nowell vs Reeves, and Kilby, 2 L. N., 301.

162. Lorsqu'il est clairement établi que la nomination d'un syndic à une faillite a eu lieu par fraude, le juge peut, en vertu de la section 37 de l'Acte de Faillite, déclarer dûment élu le syndic des créanciers qui avaient le droit de voter à l'assemblée. B. R., 1880, Québec, Lemieux et al. vs Quebec Bank, 1 D. C. A., 91.

163. A writ of attachment issued under the Insolvent Act, 1875, upon information given by the insolvent himself was held not to constitute a fraudulent collusion entitling the other creditors to ask that the proceedings in insolvency be quashed. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Davidson et al. vs Lajoie, 1 D. C. A., 285.

164. Gage.—Le porteur d'un billet, donné en garantie collatérale (gage), a droit de prendre un bref de saisie, sous l'acte de 1864, pour mettre les biens du faiseur de ce billet en liquidation forcée. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Hutchins et al. vs Cohen et le dit Cohen, 14 J., 85; 15 R. J. R. Q., 190.

165. Gardien judiciaire.—Un gardien en vertu d'un bref pour cession compulsoire, sous l'Acte de Faillite, a le droit de prendre une saisie-revendication avec dépens contre l'huissier saisissant et le créancier qui, quoique connaissant l'émanation du bref en liquidation, persiste à retenir les biens de l'insolvable qu'il a fait saisir par un bref d'exécution ordinaire. La cour, suo et proprio motu, ordonna que Mercier fût rayé de la liste des huissiers de la cour Supérieure. C. R., 1871, Montréal, Whyte vs Bisson et al., 3 R. L., 449; 1 R. C., 474.

166. Hypothèque.—The Insolvent Act, 1864, forbids mortgages of real estate to a creditor by way of preference.

167. But where the mortgagor did not believe he was insolvent (though the mortgagee feared he was so) and made a mortgage of real estate under pressure on the part of the mortgagee, and in the belief that he (the mortgagor) would thereby be enabled to continue his business and pay his liabilities in full, the mortgage was held valid as against his assignee in insolvency. Curtis vs Dale, 2 Ch. Ch., 184.

168. Immeuble. — Lorsqu'un opposant réclame d'un syndic une propriété que ce dernier détient en vertu d'acte de vente, et que les vendeurs ne sont pas en cause, il doit recourir à l'action révocatoire, et appeler toutes les parties concernées. C. S., 1878, Montréal, Woods and Co. vs Lajoie et Laurin, 9 R. L., 630; 23 J., 65.

169. Celui qui a obtenu du failli, longtemps avant la faillite, un bon titre à un immeuble, mais qui n'a pas fait enregistrer son titre avant la faillite, peut cependant empêcher la vente du dit immeuble par le syndic, et obtenir distraction de cet immeuble. C. S., 1882, Montréal, Grothé vs Stewart et Dame Bruneau et al., 12 R. L., 218.

170. Inspecteur.—Section 34 of the Insolvent Act of 1869, providing that the inspectors shall superintend and direct the assignee in the performance of his duty under the Act, etc., does not render the inspector liable for the wrongful act of the assignee, in the absence of evidence showing that they authorized the act complained of. Costs directed to be paid out of the estate. Supr. C., 1877, Nova Scotia, Durkee vs Cox et al., 12 N. S., L. R., 3 Russ. and Ches., 17.

171. The inspectors of an insolvent estate have no power, unless specially authorized by the creditors, to bind the latter by anything they do in disposing of the estate. The disposal of it is in the hands of the creditors, and in default of directions by them, in the hands of the judge of the county court. C. A. 1892, Ontario, Morrisson vs Watts, 19 A. R., 622.

172. Intervention.—Une partie dans une cause peut intervenir en une autre qualité que celle qu'elle a déjà: Partant un syndic étant défendeur ès-qualité de syndic à une faillite peut intervenir ès-qualité de syndic à une autre faillite.

173. Un syndic peut aussi intervenir dans une revendication par son failli, d'objets qui ont été cédés et non retrocédés et obtenir le bénéfice de l'action du dit failli; dans cette cause il s'agit d'obtenir le bénéfice des conclusions d'une saisie-revendication. C. R., 1872, Montréal, Ste-Marie vs Brown, ès-qual., et al., et Brown, ès-qual., 4 R. L., 527.

174. An intervention in insolvency, filed without application to be admitted, rejected sans recours. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Merino vs Ouimet, Bonin et al., 2 L. N., 346.

175. Le syndic à la faillite ne peut intervenir dans les poursuites prises, après sa nomination, contre le failli que dans l'intérêt de tous les créanciers; et, si ces poursuites n'intéressent que quelques-uns des créanciers, eux seuls peuvent y intervenir en leur nom.

176. Les poursuites prises contre le failli après cession ou saisie de ses biens et nomination du syndic, ne pouvant pas affecter la masse, il ne suffit pas, pour être admis à intervenir, d'alléguer que l'on est syndic ou créancier et qu'une bonne défense peut être opposée à la demande, mais il faut alléguer spécialement en quoi consiste l'intérêt direct que prétend y avoir l'intervenant. C. R., 1882, Québec, Roche et vir vs Woods, 8 R. J. Q., 122.

177. Jugement.—A creditor has a right to sue and recover judgment against his debtor, notwithstanding that the estate of the debtor may have been placed in compulsory liquidation under the Insolvent Act, so long as the debtor has not been discharged under the Act; and, consequently, proceedings in appeal, to which the debtor is a party, cannot be suspended on the ground that the debtor has made an assignment under the Insolvent Act. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Archambault et al. vs Westcott et vir, 23 J., 292.

178. Rien n'empêche un créancier de prendre un jugement contre son débiteur, quand même celui-ci serait sous l'effet d'une loi de faillite et n'aurait pas encore obtenu sa décharge, et un plaidoyer à l'encontre de l'action du créancier ne contenant que l'allégation de cet état de faillite sera rejeté sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Canadian Mutual Fire Insurance Co. vs Blanchard, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 61; 9 L. N., 67.—C. S., 1889, Montréal, Laurent vs Thériault, 4 L. N., 373.

179. Loi applicable.—In bankruptcy, contested claims to be governed either by the English rule of evidence or by the Ordinance of Moulins, and 1667, according as they are of a mercantile nature or not. C. des B., 1845, Montreal, Bates vs Beaudry, Taaffe, 1 R. de L., 187.

180. Loi étrangère.—An assignment and conveyance in pursuance of foreign bankruptcy proceedings is ineffectual to pass title to lands in Canada. Supr. C., 1878, Canada, Macdonald vs Georgian Bay Lumber Co., 2 Supr. C. R., 364.

181. Louage des choses.—Il n'y a pas d'action contre un failli, sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1869, pour résilier un bail fait au failli, avant sa faillite, parce que les lieux ne sont pas garnis de meubles suffisants pour répondre du loyer. C. S., 1871, Québec, Anderson vs Wurtele, 3 R. L., 447; 2 R. C., 111.

182. A tenant became insolvent, and the leased premises, which were vacant, subsequently becoming uninhabitable the landlord proceeded to execute certain repairs: In default of a demand by the lessee or his representative, the assignee, to rescind the lease it continued to subsist, and the lessor was entitled to rent, less the time occupied in making repairs. Q. B., 1877, Montreal, Rolland et al. vs Tiffin et al., 22 J., 164.

183. Les clauses 78 et 125 de l'Acte des Faillites de 1875, qui donnent au locateur un recours sommaire pour le recouvrement de ses loyers et pour exercer ses privilèges sur les meubles de son locataire, excluent tout recours par voie d'action et de saisie-gagerie. B. R., 1880, Québec, Beausoleil vs Frigon, 1 D. C. A., 70.

184. The notice by the assignee for the termination of a lease ought to be in writing and authorized by the creditors. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Seybold vs Evans, 4 L. N., 138.

185. Mandat.—Appointment of agent for a creditor claiming to advise in the choice of an assignee must be in writing, and filed of record. Cty C., 1865, Ontario, In re Campbell, 1 L. J., 135.

186. Une autorisation générale, donnée par un créancier demeurant à l'étranger, de le représenter à toutes fins que le droit à une assemblée de créanciers convoquée par un insolvable, pour leur communiquer ses affaires et prendre leur avis sur ce qu'il doit faire dans l'intérêt commun, est une autorisation suffisante pour signer postérieurement un acte de cession qui aurait été approuvée à telle assemblée. C. S., 1872, Montréal, Peckett vs Plinguet et al., et Plinguet et al., 4 R. L., 544.

187. A power of attorney by a president, cashier or manager of a bank to a person not an employee of the bank is invalid in the absence of anything to show the power of those officers to grant the same. S. C., 1877, Quebec, Dinning vs Samson et al., 4 Q. L. R., 26; 18 R. L., 606.

188. Navire.—The provisions of the Imperial Merchants Shipping Act did not prevent the property in the ship passing to the assignee under the Insolvent Act, 1876. Supr. C., 1884, Canada, Jones vs Kinney, 11 Supr. C. R., 708.

189. Paiement frauduleux.—The insolvent, some months before his insolvency, obtained from one Muir accommodation notes amounting to $12,000, for which he gave receipts, and seven days before his insolvency, at the request of Muir, exchanged the receipts for promissory notes of his own, dated and drawn to correspond exactly with the accommodation notes, and Muir transferred some of the notes to parties to whom he was indebted as collateral security, and these parties claimed to rank on the estate of the insolvent to the amount of the notes: Such notes were given in violation or paragraph 3, section 8 of Insurance Act of 1864, and were absolutely null and void, ab initio, even in the hands of an innocent holder for value before maturity. S. C., 1869, Montreal, Davis et al. vs Muir and Chamberlin et al., 13 J., 184; 19 R. J. R. Q., 248, 573.

190. Le paiement fait dans les trente jours précédant l'exécution d'un acte de cession, par suite de l'émanation d'un bref de capias contre le failli, n'est nul que dans le cas seulement où le créancier qui reçoit tel paiement connaissait cette incapacité, ou avait raison probable de croire qu'elle existait. B. R., 1870, Montréal, Larivière vs Sauvageau, 2 R. L., 186; 13 J., 210; 14 J., 139; 19 R. J. R. Q., 292, 561.

191. A trader being in embarrassed circumstances, sold out his business, and out of the proceeds satisfied a promissory note on which his brother was indorser, before it had become due, and shortly afterwards went into insolvency. The evidence did not shew that the indorser was aware or was a party to the payment in any way, and it was by no act of his that the note was so paid: Under the circumstances, the assignee in insolvency had no right to call upon the indorser to refund the amount of such note. But, where the payment of a note had been procured by the indorser, he was, under section 89 of the Insolvent Act of 1869, (in effect the same as section 133 of the Act of 1875), held liable to make good the amount thereof. Ch., 1876, Ontario, Botham vs Armstrong, 24 Gr., 216.

193. The insolvent paid a note to the holder at the request of his sureties, who had given a mortgage to secure the amount of the note, within thirty days of his being placed in insolvency. It appeared that when the sureties made this request neither they nor the creditor who held the note and mortgage knew or had probable cause for believing that the insolvent was unable to meet his engagements in full: The payment was not void within section 134 of the Act of 1875, and the assignee had no right to have the mortgage reinstated as against the sureties. C. A., 1879, Ontario, Nelles vs Paul, 4 A. R., 1.

194. In an action to recover $149.86, as having been paid by the insolvent within the thirty days next previous to his assignment: It was sufficient to void the payment, if, within thirty days thereafter, the debtor is unable to meet his engagements to the knowledge of the creditor, or if the latter has probable cause to believe such inability. Q. B., 1879, Montreal, McArthur et al. vs Mulholland, 2 L. N., 211.

195. L'endosseur d'un billet promissoire dû par un insolvable et payé par ce dernier à la veille de faire cession de ses biens, qui ignorait l'insolvabilité du failli n'est pas responsable vis-à-vis du curateur de la succession du failli. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Craig, ès-qual., vs Quintal, 2 L. N., 163.

196. The defendants received from D. a payment of money within thirty days next preceding the issue of a writ of attachment in insolvency against him. They knew that D. had, during the previous two months, obtained large advances of money from them on forged warehouse receipts, and they had compelled him to take up certain paper long before maturity. In view of these facts, and of all the circumstances of the case as disclosed by the evidence: The defendants had reason to presume that the finances of their debtor were in a bad condition, and they had, therefore, probable cause for believing that he was unable to meet his engagements in full within the meaning of section 134 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, and the payment in question was consequently void. S. C., 1879, Quebec, Murphy, ès-qual., vs Stadacona Bank, 5 Q. L. R, 321.

197. Where a commercial firm being creditors of an insolvent took action under section 68 of the Insolvent Act, 1875, to recover money paid to the appellants after the insolvency:

198. As the appellants had received the amount on conservatory process, there was no fraud and they had as great a right to it as the respondents. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Beausoleil, ès-qual., 1 D. C. A., 151; 2 L. N., 253; 4 L. N., 116.

199. The defendants discounted at a bank a promissory note which A. had given them, and on maturity it was paid to the bank out of A's moneys within thirty days of his insolvency. In an action by the assignee to recover the amount from the defendants as being a payment within section 134 of the Insolvent Act of 1875: They were not liable, as the payment was not made to them, but to the bank, who were the actual creditors. C. A., 1881, Ontario, Miller vs Harvey, 6 A. R., 203.

200. Poursuite. — An assignment of bankrupt estate vests in the assignees, who may bring action thereon in their own name without notice. No notice of assignment necessary, when debt remains due and not attached by other creditors, even on common assignments. K. B., 1828, In re Gates et al., 3 R. L., 456; 1 R. C., 481.

201. Sous l'opération de l'Acte concernant la faillite 1864, et d'après la loi, le syndic ne peut, en sa qualité de syndic à la faillite, être poursuivi pour les dettes, même hypothécaires, du failli. C. S., 1865, Montréal, Kuper vs Stewart et al., 11 J., 85.

202. Le syndic à une faillite poursuivi par une demande en saisie-revendication, est bien fondé à repousser cette action par une défense au fond en droit, en autant qu'en vertu de l'Acte de Faillite, aucune demande en saisie-revendication ne peut être portée. C. S., 1872, Montréal, Larocque vs Lajoie, 17 J., 41; 2 R. C., 477; 23 R. J. R. Q., 64, 568.

203. La vente d'effets dont une partie du prix est payée par billet et l'autre partie doit être payée comptant, mais dont les obligés au billet ont fait faillite ainsi que l'acheteur avant que les billets soient payés, peut être annulée par le vendeur tout comme si le prix n'avait nullement été payé, et les effets peuvent être revendiqués, même sur un second acheteur, si cette seconde vente a eu lieu dans les quinze jours précédant la faillite. C. R., 1872, Montréal, Ste-Marie vs Brown, ès-qual., et al., et Brown, ès-qual., 4 R. L., 527.

204. Des effets en la possession d'un syndic à une faillite ne peuvent être revendiqués, par voie de saisie-revendication, mais en ce cas, il doit être procédé conformément à la section 50 de l'Acte de Faillite, 1869. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Ouimet vs Tees et al., 5 R. L., 483.

205. Un syndic à une faillite poursuivant la révocation d'un acte de donation du failli, peut joindre à son action la saisie-revendication des meubles et effets donnés. C. S., 1874, Trois-Rivières, Méthot vs Perrin et al., 5 R. L., 695.

206. An assignment in insolvency does not deprive the defendant in a suit of the right to continue his defence in his own name. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Morin vs Henderson, 21 J., 83; 1 L. N., 204, 211.

207. Section 68 of the Insolvent Act requires, in order that a creditor may take proceedings in his own name, first a demand upon and refusal by the assignee to take the proceeding, and then the permission of a judge to do so; such conditions are to enable the creditor to secure for himself all the advantages derived from these proceedings; but by the common law any creditor may take, at his own risk, in the common interest of the creditors, all such proceedings as will tend to bring into the common fund anything which it is attempted to direct from it, and there is nothing in the Insolvent law differing from the common law on this point. S. C., 1877, Quebec, Dinning vs Wurtele et al., 4 Q. L. R., 37; 1 L. N., 33.

208. Des marchandises vendues en Angleterre et transmises à l'agent de l'acheteur à Liverpool et par ce dernier transmises à ses mandants à Montréal, où elles sont déposées à la douane, les acheteurs dans le même temps ayant fait faillite, peuvent être revendiquées si elles ne sont pas payées. C. S., 1877, Malbaie, Thomson, Whitehead et Cie vs Darling et Greenwood, 9 R. L., 379.

209. It is not necessary that the affidavit, under section 9 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, should state that the debt is not secured, provided the affidavit is in the form given by the Act. S. C., 1877, Quebec, Barbeau vs Larochelle et al. and Scott, 3 Q. L. R., 31, 187; 1 L. N., 178.

210. An interim assignee, under the Insolvent Act of 1875, did not possess the power of bringing suit on behalf of the insolvent estate without permission of the court or judge. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Evans, ès-qual., vs Généreux, 2 L. N., 194.

211. An opposition by an assignee under the Insolvent Act of 1875 to a sale of effects seized in execution prior to the assignment in insolvency is null, when the order of the judge to stay proceedings is obtained without notice having been given to plaintiff in conformity with section 97. C. R., 1879, Montreal, Gagnon vs Sorel Gas Co. et al., and Fulton, 2 L. N., 116.

212. Un bref de saisie conservatoire émané à la poursuite d'un vendeur non payé et une saisie pratiquée en vertu de ce bref contre l'acquéreur, alors en faillite sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, sont illégaux, et un jugement obtenu déclarant telles saisies bonnes et valables, sera mis de côté sur tierce opposition produite par le syndic. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Robertson et al. vs Smith et al., 9 R. L., 687; 23 J., 207; 2 L. N., 141.

213. Under the Insolvent Act, 1875, an assignee had no power to bind creditors personally for the costs of an action which he had caused to be discontinued. He was subject to certain limitations, and for certain purposes the agent of the estate of the insolvent, but he is not for any purpose the agent of the creditors individually, and therefore cannot bind them. C. R., 1879, Quebec, Crépeau vs Glover et al., 5 Q. L. R., 235.

214. En vertu de la section 50 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1869 et de la section 125 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, tout recours ou demande pour réclamer un droit de propriété quelconque sur des biens en la possession d'un syndic, en vertu de la cession que le failli lui a faite, ou d'un bref de saisie émané en vertu de l'Acte de Faillite, doit être exercé par un ordre d'un juge ou de la cour, sur requête sommaire, et non par action ou autre procédé ordinaire. B. R., 1881, Montréal, Fair, ès-qual., et al. vs Désilets, 1 D. C. A., 212; 4 L. N., 84.

215. Section 125 of the Insolvent Act of 1875 does not prevent an action in revendication against an assignee in insolvency to recover possession of goods conveyed under a bill of sale. The summary proceedings therein provided for are obligatory only in the case of duties devolving on the assignee by virtue of the Act. Supr. C., 1885, Nova Scotia, Pineo vs Gavaza et al., 6 N. S. R., Russ, and Geld., 487.

216. Privilège.—Suivant les articles 1998 et 1999 du Code civil, dans les cas de faillite, la revendication doit se faire dans les quinze jours qui suivent la vente et dans les huit jours qui suivent le jour de la livraison des effets revendiqués. C. S., 1871, Québec, Sylvestre vs Saunders et al., 3 R. L., 281; 15 J., 303.

217. L'Acte de Faillite de 1875 n'a point changé les lois en force en cette province, quant aux droits et privilèges des employés du failli, et des compagnons à l'emploi du failli ne doivent pas, dans une feuille de dividende, être colloqués par privilège sur le produit des dettes actives, mais seulement comme créanciers ordinaires. C. R., 1877, Montréal, Beaulieu et Dupuis vs Beaulieu et al., 9 R. L., 380; 21 J., 304; 1 L. N., 208.

218. Réclamation. — Debts must be proved before the assignee and not before the judge. Ch., 1865, Ontario, In re Stevenson, 1 C. L. J., 52.

219. Where a claimant in insolvency had received, as holder of a promissory note, a composition on the amount of his claim from an endorser, in consideration of which he had released the endorser, reserving his recourse against the other parties to the note: Whatever the claimant had received from the endorser must be deducted from his claim agains the maker's estate. C. R., 1870, Montreal, Bessette et al. vs La Banque du Peuple and Quevillon, 14 J., 21; 15 J., 126; 19 R. J. R. Q., 493, 550.

220. Where in contestation of a claim in insolvency, the assignee first verbally having fixed upon a convenient day for hearing and taking evidence, and the contestant inscribed the matter with due notice, and all the parties interested, including the assignee, appeared on the day fixed and shewed their acquiescence as to the regularity of the proceeding, by allowing the assignee to give an award without an objection.

221. The proceedings were illegal, because under section 71 of the Insolvent Act of 1869 the day for proceeding to take evidence should have been fixed by the assignee in writing, and the assent of the parties to the irregular mode of proceeding was not a waiver of the irregularities. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Davis vs Clarke and Molson, 15 J., 131; 21 R. J. R. Q., 426, 454.

222. Un créancier peut réclamer d'un débiteur, lors d'une seconde faillite de ce dernier, le montant de la réclamation qu'il avait contre lui, lors d'une première faillite, lorsqu'il y a eu concordat et que le débiteur n'en a pas accompli les conditions. C. S., 1872, Montréal, Clark et Clayton vs Molsons Bank et Buchanan et al., 4 R. L., 225.

223. Un associé ne peut produire une réclamation contre la faillite personnelle de son co-associé, pour ce qu'il lui doit pour reliquat de compte non liquidé. C. S., 1874, Montréal, Rapin vs Craig et Meloche, 5 R. L., 451.

224. The vouchers upon which the claim of a petitioner for the appointment of the curator is based should be produced, otherwise, the petitioner is not entitled to petition as legally proved creditor, and the claim must be accompanied and explained by the giving of sufficient particulars. S. C., 1876, Quebec Côté vs Greene and Roy, 1 Q. L. R., 200.

225. Une réclamation ne peut être reçue après le délai fixé par l'article 720 du Code de procédure qu'avec la permission de la cour. B. R., 1877, Montréal, Shortis vs Normand, 3 R. L. Q., 382; 1 L. N., 86, 174.

226. In the case of a claim by a firm, the name of the partners must be given in full, but where an individual trades alone under the assumed name of a partnership, it need not be specially stated that he has no partners, unless the plural be used to designate the claimant in the body of the claim.

227. A claim should contain a sufficient exposure of the cause of demand within the meaning of article 50 of the Code of procedure, but need not allege more than an action in the Circuit court and must be accompanied by the vouchers on which they are based or other evidence to justify the absence of such vouchers.

228. Secured creditors must specify the nature of their security, and give a description of the several properties and effects, not en bloc but separately, and a claim not giving such description is irregular and informal and should be rejected.

229. A claim made in Great Britain, and there attested under the provisions of the loss substituting attestation for an oath in certain cases, is not a proved claim under our statute, saving the case of a person objecting to be sworn from conscientious motives.

230. A creditor who, by reason of informalities in his claim, has no legal status at a meeting of creditors, cannot petition against resolution there adopted, and his petition will be dismissed with costs. S. C., 1877, Quebec, Dinning vs Samson et al., 4 Q. L. R., 26; 18 R. L., 606.

231. A claim (attested under oath and accompanied by vouchers), if contested, must be substantiated by legal evidence on the points raised, and if claimant requires further particulars of contestation than those stated, he must demand them before evidence gone into, but a mere plea of general issue will not throw the onus probandi on the claimant. Q. B., 1878, Quebec, Watson et al. vs Samson, In re Dinning, 4 Q. L. R., 365.

232. Dans le cas d'un billet promissoire, la créance du porteur suffisamment indiquée dans l'état fourni au syndic par le failli, si telle créance est au nom d'un tiers, endosseur du dit billet.

233. Dans ce cas, le porteur qui n'a pas reçu d'avis ni produit de réclamation, est représenté, pour toutes les fins de l'Acte de Faillite, par l'endosseur dont le nom est ainsi porté en son lieu et place comme créancier du failli, et la signature du dit endosseur à l'acte de composition et décharge lie le porteur à toutes fins que de droit. C. S., 1878, Québec, Banque des Marchands du Canada vs Samson, 4 R. L. Q., 375.

234. Le syndic n'a pas besoin d'être autorisé par les inspecteurs pour contester la réclamation d'un créancier.

235. Le défaut d'autorisation d'un syndic pour contester une telle réclamation ne pourrait d'ailleurs être mis en question que par un plaidoyer préliminaire et en temps utile. C. R., 1879, Montréal, Stafford vs Darling, 10 R. L., 24.

236. La donation, par contrat de mariage, du futur époux à la future épouse du tiers des biens meubles et immeubles qui appartiendraient à l'époux lors de son décès, si la future épouse lui survit, ne peut faire l'objet d'une réclamation lors de la faillite du mari. B. R., 1879, Montréal, Dame Workman et vir vs Baker et Fair et Benny et al., 10 R. L., 412; 23 J., 324; 2 L. N., 82.

237. Where a claim in insolvency was contested, the only proof of which claim was a debtor and creditor account produced by the plaintiff showing a balance against the insolvent: Insufficient and claim dismissed. C. R., 1880, Montreal, Davidson et al. vs Riddell, and Stanley, 3 L. N., 55.

238. Under the Insolvent Act of 1875, a creditor holding security at the time of the insolvency, cannot realize the security, and prove on the estate for the balance. C. A., 1880, Ontario, In re Beatty, 6 A. R., 40; 6 R. Hurst, 31 U. C. R., 116.

239. Where a creditor holds security on the partnership estate for the individual liability of an insolvent member of the firm, he is entitled to prove against the separate estate without putting a value on such security. C. A., 1880, Ontario, In re Jones, Ex parte Consolidated Bank, 2 A. R., 626.

240. The Consolidated Bank of Canada proved a claim for $153,464.62 against the insolvent estate of Mulholland and Baker, secured by the individual liability of Henry Mulholland and Joel C. Baker, two of the members of the firm, under a letter of guarantee of the 20th of January, 1876, this security valued in the claim at $75,000, and also by a transfer from M. and B. of two mortgages on the property of William P. Bartley for $25,000 each and valued at $45,000. The Merchants Bank proved its claim secured by a transfer of another mortgage on William P. Bartley's property for $25,000 and which the Bank valued at $13,000. On the claim made by the Consolidated Bank, Leslie, a creditor of Mulholland and Baker, contested the transfer made by M. and B. to the Bank of the two mortgages against Bartley's property and asked that this transfer be set aside as having been made in fraud of the creditors. On the claim of the Merchants Bank, Leslie, on the same grounds, contested the transfer made to the Bank by M. and B. of their other mortgage on William P. Bartley's property. Rodgers and others, also creditors of M. and B., contested, on the claim made by the Consolidated Bank, the validity and effect of the letter of guarantee given by Henry Mulholland and Joel C. Baker on their private estates, as being in fraud of the creditors of the firm: As these contestations could not affect the claims of the Consolidated Bank and of the Merchants Bank against the estate of M. and B., the contestants had shown no interest in their contestations, and the creditors could only challenge the validity of the security held by the Banks by a direct action in the Superior court or by contesting the claims which might be made upon such security on the individual estates of Henry Mulholland and of Joel C. Baker, or of William P. Bartley, respectively. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Consolidated Bank of Canada vs Leslie, and Merchants Bank, and Leslie, and Rogers et al., 1 D. C. A., 198.

241. In May, 1879, the appellant proved a claim against the insolvent estate of A. S., with a declaration that the bank held security which could not then be valued. In September following, the bank filed an amended claim which was withdrawn on the 4th of December, when the bank filed another amended claim. In the meantime the bank had received from parties primarily liable, on negotiable instruments endorsed by the insolvent, various sums on account amounting in all to $1423: The appellant was bound to deduct that sum from the amount of its claim, and also a further sum of $500 for rebate of interest on notes which were current when the writ of attachment issued against the insolvent. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Bank of Toronto vs Fair, 1 D. C. A., 230.

242. Appellant assignee to the insolvent estate of the Morris Run Coal Co., filed a claim on the insolvent estate of the Moisie Iron Co., for a balance of $330,214.79. The respondents contested the claim alleging that $36,129.18 was not due by the Moisie Iron Co., but by a former company to whom the balance had been advanced, it should be imputed in payment of $250,000 of stock transferred as paid up stock, by Mr. W. M. to other parties, but in reality for the Morris Run Coal Co., and which was never paid:

243. Out of the sums claimed, that of $36,129.18 was due by the Moisie Co., and not by the Moisie Iron Co., The Morris Run Coal Co. owed $200,000 of the stock of the Moisie Iron Co., which has never been paid for, and the balance of their claim must be imputed in payment of their stock. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Lynch, ès-qual., vs Henshaw et al., ès-qual., 1 D. C. A., 242.

244. L'enregistrement du contrat de mariage requis, par l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, pour permettre à la femme d'un commerçant un recours contre les biens de son mari pour les avantages que lui faisait son contrat, n'était que pour le cas de mise en faillite du mari et de distribution de ses biens en vertu de l'Acte même, et, pour, tout autre recours, ses droits étaient régis par le Code civil.

245. L'Acte de Faillite de 1869 d'abord, puis celui de 1875, n'ont conservé les dispositions sous ce rapport de l'Acte de 1864 que pour les contrats qui auraient dû être enregistrés pendant qu'il était en force et non pour ceux faits depuis.

246. Le rappel de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875 laisse à la femme, qui n'a pas enregistré son contrat dans les délais voulus par cette loi, tous les recours que lui permet le Code civil. C. S., 1881, Québec, Joseph et al. vs Fortin et al., Nugent et Thompson et al., 7 R. L. Q., 87; 4 L. N., 247.

247. Le créancier d'un failli, pour une somme moindre que $100, et dont le nom et la créance n'ont jamais figuré au bilan de ce failli, peut exercer ses recours contre lui et le contraindre à payer, bien qu'il ait obtenu sa décharge. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Bergeron vs Roy et Durand, 7 L. N., 414.

248. When an assignee in insolvency elects under section 84 of the Insolvent Act, 1875, to allow a creditor to retain, at a valuation, the property which he holds as security for his debt, the creditor becomes a purchaser at that valuation, freed from any right or equity to redeem on the part of the insolvent or his estate. C. A., 1885, Ontario, Bell vs Ross, 11 A. R., 458.

249. The claim filed by the respondent on the insolvent estate of John Stephen was not legally established by the evidence which was as follows: (1) that the claim was mentioned by the insolvent in his bilan, but under a different name; (2) affidavit of claimant filed with his claim, and copy of transfer to him from Francis Stephen; (3) evidence that claimant consigned goods to Francis Stephen who handed them over to John Stephen, the insolvent. Supr. C., 1890, Montreal, Hagar vs Seath, M. L. R., 6 Q. B., 394; M. L. R., 5 S. C., 426; 14 L. N., 127; 18 Supr. C. R., 715.

250. A creditor is confined, in an action to establish his contested claim, to the quantum and items set out in the affidavit of claim filed with the assignee. C. A., 1896, Grant vs West, 23 A. R., 533.

251. Sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, une réclamation produite en conformité de la section 104 et qui n'est pas contestée, est par là même établie contre tous les intéressés, dans la faillite, avec l'effet d'un jugement rendu en faveur des réclamants.

252. Une telle réclamation est établie contre la caution du syndic avec l'effet de la chose jugée, et sans nécessité d'en renouveler la preuve, et elle n'est plus sujette qu'à la prescription trentenaire. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Kent, ès-qual., vs Letourneux, R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 60.

253. Reddition de compte.—The insolvent has no action against the assignee to his insolvent estate to compel him to render an account of his administration. His only recourse is by petition or motion, and if he claims under a deed of composition and discharge, these must have been first deposited with the assignee to enable him to give notice of the same under the Insolvent Act. Q. B., 1871, Fraser vs Patterson, 1 R. C., 248.

254. Résiliation d'acte.—Sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, un juge a le pouvoir de prononcer la résiliation d'un acte. C. S., 1881, Québec, Levy et Bouchard vs Connolly, 7 R. J. Q., 224; 4 L. N., 352.

255. Rétrocession des biens.—Un transport fait par un débiteur à des syndics pour le profit de ses créanciers, ayant été depuis résilié à la suite du paiement des dettes, ce débiteur est rentré en pleine possession de tout ce qui pouvait rester des biens par lui transportés, soit en nature, soit en deniers réalisés ou en créances en provenant; et il peut en obtenir le recouvrement en justice, même contre les tiers, sans avoir signifié le jugement de rétrocession, sauf la question des frais sur cette demande.

256. Dans l'espèce, le défendeur qui avait acquis des syndics et redevait une balance, ayant contesté entièrement la demande, sans faire aucune offre réelle, doit être condamné aux dépens. B. R., 1860, Montréal, Hagan vs Wright, 11 D. T. B. C., 92; 9 R. J. R. Q., 396.

257. La mise en possession des biens du failli par le syndic après le dépôt d'un acte de composition, malgré l'opposition d'un créancier en vertu de la section 97, n'est pas un motif pour refuser la ratification par la cour de cet acte. B. R., 1874, Québec, Toussaint vs Wurtele, 1 R. J. Q., 89, 127.

258. Le syndic qui a reçu du failli un acte de composition et décharge, signé par la majorité en nombre, et les trois-quarts en valeur de ses créanciers, peut rétrocéder les biens au failli, après que cet acte de composition et décharge a été ratifié à une assemblée des créanciers, et il n'est pas nécessaire qu'il attende que cet acte soit ratifié par la cour. C. S., 1878, Montréal, Fabre vs Perrault et Leslie, 8 R. L., 629.

259. Le syndic ne peut refuser de rétrocéder leurs biens aux faillis, à raison de ce qu'ils n'ont pas encore payé les versements dus et échus sur leur composition.

260. Ces paiements ne sont pas exigibles tant que les faillis n'ont pas été mis en possession de leurs biens, aux termes de leur acte de composition et de la loi. C. S., 1879, Québec, In re Piton et al., 6 R. J. Q., 15.

261. Le syndic n'aura pas le droit de reprendre possession des biens du failli à raison de non-paiement des versements dus sur l'acte de composition, à moins que la décharge contenue au dit acte ne soit conditionnelle.

262. En l'absence d'une stipulation expresse, la décharge contenue en un acte de composition est absolue et a son effet nonobstant le défaut du failli de payer le montant de la composition.

263. Dans l'espèce, les termes de l'acte de composition et décharge ne comportent pas la condition que la composition sera payée. C. S., 1880, Québec, In re Piton et al., et Murphy, 6 R. J. Q., 33.

264. Revendication.—Where goods are sold in England to a merchant of Montreal, a delivery to the agent of the vendee in England is not such a delivery as is contemplated by the 12th section of the Insolvent Act, 1864, and such goods may legally be revendicated by the unpaid vendors in the hands of the Grand Trunk Railway Co. here, although more than fifteen days have elapsed since such delivery to the shipping agent. S. C., 1868, Montreal, The Bank of Toronto vs Hingston et al., and Allan et al., 10 J., 216; 17 R. J. R. Q., 449, 550, 567.

265. En vertu des articles 1998 et 1999 du Code civil, dans une cause de faillite, la revendication doit être faite dans les quinze jours après la vente, et aussi dans les huit jours de la livraison des effets revendiqués. C. S., 1871, Québec, Sylvestre vs Sanders et al., 3 R. L., 446; 2 R. C., 111; 22 R. J. R. Q., 141, 552.

266. The 82nd section of the Insolvent Act of 1875 has not taken away the right of the vendor to revendicate goods sold by him to the insolvent, and the price whereof has not been paid. S. C., 1887, Montreal, Hatchette et al. vs Gooderham et al., 21 J., 165; 1 L. N., 214.

267. Sous la section 82 de la loi de Faillite de 1875, les marchandises vendues à une personne devenant ensuite en faillite, ne peuvent être revendiquées contre les syndics par les vendeurs non payés. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Fauteux vs Fisher et al., 9 R. L., 690; 23 J., 211; 2 L. N., 132.

268. Les créanciers d'un débiteur insolvable qui a remis des marchandises au vendeur non payé, ne peuvent obliger les vendeurs qui ont repris leurs marchandises, de les remettre à la masse, vu que ces créanciers ne peuvent se plaindre de cette remise, attendu que ces marchandises n'ont pas été payées et que les vendeurs avaient un privilège sur icelles pour le prix de vente. B. R., 1884, Montréal, Boisseau et al. vs Thibodeau et al., 12 R. L., 672; 7 L. N., 274.

269. La livraison de marchandises faite de bonne foi par le failli à un tiers dans les trente jours qui précèdent la faillite, mais en vertu d'un contrat antérieur régulier et sans fraude, sera maintenue à l'encontre d'une saisie-revendication du curateur à la cession de biens.

270. L'acheteur qui a fait des avances à son vendeur, en vertu d'un contrat régulier et de bonne foi, pour des marchandises à être livrées plus tard, a droit, advenant la faillite du vendeur, d'être crédité du plein montant de ses avances et jusqu'à concurrence du prix des effets livrés et reçus de bonne foi dans les trente jours qui précèdent la faillite, et non pas seulement au marc la livre. C. S., 1903, Rimouski, Paradis, ès-qual., vs Mair, et Shives Lumber Co., 9 R. J., 535.

271. Saisie-arrêt après jugement. — Une personne qui a obtenu jugement contre le créancier d'un failli, n'a pas le droit de saisir entre les mains du syndic pour lui faire déclarer ce qu'il a en mains appartenant à son débiteur, mais il doit procéder sous l'Acte de Faillite. C. S., 1872, Montréal, Clementson vs Brown et al., 4 R. L., 658.

272. Séquestre.—The appointment of an assignee, under the Insolvent Act, to a defendant against whom a hypothecary action was pending, was held not to revoke the power of a sequestrator appointed during such hypothecary action. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Heritable Securities and Mortgage Investment Association vs Racine, and Bourbonnière, and Gilmour, 3 L. N., 199.

273. Société.—One of two partners, a few days before an attachment against both under the Act of 1864 had issued, assigned his estate for the benefit of his creditors: Held void as against the official assignee. Ch., 1866, Ontario, Wilson vs Stevenson, 12 Gr., 239.

274. Un membre d'une société commerciale a le droit de faire cession de biens tant en son nom qu'au nom de la société, sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1869, et de mettre ainsi la société en faillite. C. S., 1873, Richelieu, Tranchemontagne et Anrichon vs Barthe, 4 R. L., 717.—Contra: C. R., 1874, Montréal, Cournoyer vs Tranchemontagne et al. vs Barthe, 18 J., 335; 5 R. L., 327.

275. An assignment of a firm involves an assignment of the estate of the individual partners. S. C., 1874, Montreal, Lewis et al. vs Jeffrey et al., 18 J., 132; 5 R. L., 462; M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 141; 14 L. N., 412.—Q. B., 1876, Quebec, Knight vs Ross, 10 R. L., 208; Ramsay, 1 App. Cas., 514, 515.

276. Syndic.—Assignee in case of removal or resignation of a former one, to be appointed by the creditors whose claims have been admitted. S. C., 1845, Montreal, Gibeau et al., 1 R. de L., 188.

277. Les syndics à la masse en déconfiture d'un insolvable, ne sont pas des tiers-détenteurs possesseurs civils contre lesquels une action hypothécaire puisse être exercée. C. S., 1864, Montréal, Ward vs Robertson et al., 8 J., 180; 13 R. J. R. Q., 354.

278. A voluntary assignment made by an insolvent under 29 Vict., ch. 18, § 2, to a duly appointed official assignee is valid although the assignee is not resident within the district within which the insolvent has his place of business. S. C., 1867, Sherbrooke, Ex parte Smith vs Robertson and Co., 12 J., 51; 4 L. C. L. J., 61.

279. La décision du syndic, sur une contestation d'un bordereau de dividende, est finale à moins qu'appel ne soit interjeté dans les trois jours, par une signification à la partie elle-même. C. S., 1867, Montréal, Larivière vs Whyte et McEvila et Angers, 11 J., 265, 4 L. C. L. J., 42; 17 R. J. R. Q., 157, 541.

280. The title of the official assignee appointed under compulsory proceedings does not, under the Act of 1864, relate back to the assignment, which is held to be the act of insolvency; his appointment vests in him only the estate and effects of the insolvent "as existing at the date of the issue of the writ of attachment, in the same manner and to the same extent as if a voluntary assignment under the provisions of the Act had been at that date executed in his favour by the insolvent." C. P., 1868, Ontario, Thorne vs Torrance, 16 C. P., 445; 18 C. P., 29.

281. The removal of the assignee to a partnership estate at a meeting of creditors removes him also with regard to the separate estates of each partner. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Macfarlane et al. vs Court and Stewart, 12 J., 239; 17 R. J. R. Q., 489, 530.

282. Un syndic a droit d'action en recouvrement des dommages causés à la succession d'un failli, par une opposition fondée sur une vente simulée du failli à l'opposant.

283. Le syndic n'a pas besoin d'une autorisation spéciale de la part des créanciers hypothécaires pour intenter cette action. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Brown vs Smith, 1 R. L., 436; 13 J., 288; 19 R. J. R. Q., 403, 594.

284. The plaintiff having proved his claim before the assignee and having obtained an order in this court to set aside the insolvents' discharge in the insolvent court, with costs to be paid to him out of their estate, was precluded from objecting that the assignee was not duly appointed. Q. B., 1871, Ontario, Allan vs Garratt, 30 U. C. R., 165.

285. An official assignee resident in the city of Montreal, who was under the Act of 1864 appointed such "for the judicial district of Montreal" and continued in the office under section 31 (last clause) of the Act of 1869, has not in view of section 2 of the latter Act, the right to receive an assignment from an insolvent, having his domicile in a county, part of said district, when an official assignee has been appointed under the Act of 1869 for that county and is resident therein. S. C., Montreal, Gravel vs Stewart et Vilbon, 17 J., 326.

286. Sur la requête de la part d'un réclamant, alléguant des faits qu'il prétend être des moyens légaux de récusation du syndic, et demandant qu'il lui soit permis de récuser le syndic, le juge ordonnera au syndic de suspendre tous procédés ultérieurs, et au réclamant de procéder à la preuve des faits allégués dans la requête. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Worthington vs The Mechanics Bank, et Ball et al., 4 R. L., 680; 17 J., 169; 3 R. C., 90; 23 R. J. R. Q., 143, 572.

287. Une cession de biens, sous l'Acte de Faillite de 1869, à un syndic officiel qui ne réside pas dans le comté, où se trouve le domicile du débiteur, ne sera pas annulée après la nomination du syndic. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Martin et al. vs Gravel et Roy, 5 R. L., 478.

288. Les pouvoirs du syndic par intérim cessent d'exister du moment du transport fait au syndic officiel nommé par les créanciers, et le syndic par intérim cesse alors d'être un officier de la cour et perd tous les privilèges et obligations qui en résultent. Si ce syndic conserve subséquemment la garde des effets du failli, il ne peut réclamer aucun honoraire comme gardien judiciaire. C. S., 1874, Beauharnois, Semple et al. vs Lynch et St-Amour et al., 5 R. L., 552.

289. An assignee to an insolvent estate is not a judge within the meaning of the Code of civil procedure, art. 176, and, therefore cannot be recused in the mode prescribed in the Code, for the recusation of the judge, and proceedings to disqualify him must be taken in the manner prescribed by the Insolvent Act. Q. B., 1874, Montreal, The Mechanics Bank vs Brown, 19 J., 295.

290. A creditor under $500 is without quality to petition against resolutions passed at meetings of creditors, or against the appointment of an assignee. S. C., 1877, Quebec, In re Morgan and Sons, 3 Q. L. R., 376; 1 L. N., 179.

291. Les créanciers dont les créances dépassent $500 en tout, qui sont mécontents d'une résolution des créanciers du failli nommant un syndic, peuvent, en vertu de la section 37 de l'Acte de Faillite de 1875, s'adresser à un juge de la cour Supérieure, en chambre, pour demander que cette résolution soit annulée, et le juge peut rejeter les votes de certains créanciers dont les réclamations n'avaient pas été contestées avant le vote, ou dont les réclamations avaient été contestées pour d'autres raisons que celles pour lesquelles le juge les rejette. La cour peut déclarer l'élection du syndic nulle, et ordonner une nouvelle assemblée des créanciers du failli, pour nommer un autre syndic. B. R., 1877, Québec, Watson vs Samson et al., 8 R. L., 606.

292. The official assignee of an insolvent's estate is appointed for the conservation of the estate, and his powers and duties are only those pointed out in section 16 of the Act of 1875. Where, therefore, a person claiming to be a purchaser of the assets petitioned the judge in insolvency to have them restored to him, to which petition the official assignee appeared, and on discussion the judge ordered a restoration of the estate to the alleged purchaser: The insolvent estate was not represented in such proceeding, and there had not been any valid adjudication upon the questions raised in this suit. Ch., 1879, Ontario, Smith vs McMillan, 26 Gr., 300.

293. Under Insolvent Act, 1875, the assignee could not be compelled to re-convey the estate to the insolvent until confirmation of the deed of composition by a meeting of creditors. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Beattie vs Riddell and Beattie, 2 L. N., 302.

294. Un syndic qui a obtenu sa décharge, ne peut être tenu de payer une somme d'argent pour les frais de la décharge du failli, s'il n'a pas retenu cette somme. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Lortie vs Evans et Lortie, 9 R. L., 623; 23 J., 56; 2 L. N., 126.

295. The power given to the court or judge by section 125 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, to remove an assignee, is confined to the case of an assignee disobeying an order made under said section, and does not extend to other misconduct on the part of the assignee, the general power of removal being committed to the creditors. Supr. C., 1880, Nova Scotia, In re Estate of Evans; Ex parte Falconer, 13 N. S., L. R., 1 Russ. and Gel., 326.

296. The assignee is entitled to the costs of obtaining his discharge as assignee, even where the insolvent has obtained from his creditors a deed of composition and discharge. C. R., 1880, Montreal, De la Durantaye vs Beausoleil and De la Durantaye. 3 L. N., 355.

297. Where an insolvent estate has no assets, the creditors cannot be called upon to pay in proportion to the amount of their claims, a judgment obtained against the assignee of such estate. C. C., 1882, Montreal, Dupuy, ès-qual., vs Union Bank of L. C.; Dupuy, ès-qual., vs Walters; Dupuy, ès-qual., vs others, 5 L. N., 371.

298. Taxes municipales.—Where the debtor of a corporation becomes insolvent, and the property, subject to the debt, is sold by the assignee to the insolvent estate: The claim of the corporation is thereby extinguished as regards the debtor. C. R., 1873, Montreal, Blain vs The Corporation of the village of Granby, 18 J., 182; 5 R. L., 180.

299. Vente.—La position du vendeur sous promesse de vente n'est nullement changée par la faillite de celui à qui il a promis de vendre. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Renaud vs Arcand et al., 14 J., 102; 15 R. J. R. Q., 210.

300. Vente de créances.—L'adjudicataire des créances d'un failli, à une vente faite par un syndic, doit alléguer et prouver dans son action contre un débiteur de ce failli, que toutes les formalités requises par la loi, pour procéder à cette vente ont été observées; et à défaut de telle allégation, l'action de cet adjudicataire sera déboutée sur défense en droit. C. R., 1870, Montréal, Ste-Marie vs Ostell, 2 R. L., 624; 1 R. C., 120; 23 R. J. R. Q., 320, 584.

301. L'adjudicataire des créances d'un failli vendues à l'encan, ne peut se plaindre que quelques-unes d'elles aient été collectées par le syndic avant la vente, quoique la liste fournie le jour de la vente ne les indique pas. C. S., 1871, Montréal, Lafond vs Rankin, 3 R. L., 449; 18 J., 62; 1 R. C., 474; 2 R. C., 107; 3 R. C., 223; 23 R. J. R. Q., 348, 584.

302. Un syndic à une faillite qui vend des dettes du failli mentionnées dans une liste annexée à la vente n'est pas censé vendre les créances qui ne sont pas mentionnées dans cette liste. B. R., 1877, Québec, Dorais vs Les Commissaires d'écoles de Warwick, 9 R. L., 161.

303. Under section 67 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, all debts exceeding $100 must be sold separately, unless where there is a sale of the whole estate en bloc; and the purchaser of such a debt, otherwise than the section directs, cannot recover against the debtor. C. A., 1881, Ontario, Fisken vs O'Neill, 6 A. R., 99.

304. La vente des dettes actives ou book debts d'un commerçant en faillite à l'encan public, ne comprend pas les livres de compte eux-mêmes, mais simplement la vente des créances du failli. C. R., 1887, Montréal, Guindon vs Fatt, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 79; 10 L. N., 165; 17 R. L., 63.

305. Vente de l'actif.—Where the estate of the insolvent is sold en bloc the creditors are not bound to acept the highest tender under the Insolvent Act, 1869, sect. 41. S. C., 1874, Montreal, McCarville vs Lajoie and Hudon et al., 18 J., 139.

306. Where the assigner of an insolvent estate under the Insolvent Act, 1875, sold it en bloc by inventory, in which certain shares of a company were set down at $5642.76, and the purchaser paying the total amount of the purchase money, on the condition that the assignee would make up deficiency in the assets sold according to the pencil estimate on the inventory, and it appeared that the $5642.76 represented the amount paid on $15,000 of stock, that the balance was unpaid, and that paid up stock could not be delivered to the purchaser: The assignee was bound to return the proportionate value of paid up stock to the amount of $5642.76, and in the absence of any allegation that $2,000, the pencil estimate on the inventory, was not a fair estimate, the assignee was condemned to return that sum. Q. B., 1880, Montreal, Dizon et al. vs Perkins, 25 J., 117; 3 L. N., 364; 1 D. C. A., 1.

307. Vente d'immeuble.—Un syndic peut accepter d'un adjudicataire des cautions ou une obligation pour le prix de vente d'un immeuble décrété par lui; et il a droit de poursuivre l'adjudicataire et ses cautions pour le recouvrement de l'obligation, il n'est pas obligé de procéder par une

folle-enchère. C. S., 1869, Richelieu, Barthe vs Armstrong, 1 R. L., 47; 20 R. J. R. Q., 291, 581.

308. Advertisements by assignees in insolvency for the sale of property of the insolvent should describe the property and state the title with the distinctness required in equity in the case of advertisements by trustees and other officials. Ch., 1871, Ontario, O'Rielly vs Rose, 18 Gr., 33.

309. Where an assignee proceeded to the sale of the real estate of the insolvent, the terms being one-fourth cash at the passing of the deed, that is fifteen days after sale, and the bid of the petitioner was refused at the sale unless he paid $100 down, which he was unable to do, and the property was adjudged to the next highest bidder: The action of the assignee was illegal, and the adjudication was set aside with costs against the assignee personally. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Léger dit Parisien, and Stewart, vs Reither, 17 J., 84; 23 R. J. R. Q., 108, 587.

310. Le syndic est en droit d'exiger sa commission sur le montant de l'hypothèque à la charge de laquelle l'immeuble du failli est vendu, aussi bien que sur la somme additionnelle offerte à l'enchère pour parfaire le prix. La commission est également exigible sur la totalité du prix de vente lorsque l'adjudicataire est le créancier hypothécaire. C. R., 1880, Montréal, David vs Beausoleil et Trust and Loan Co. of Canada, 25 J., 156; 4 L. N., 107.

311. Under the Insolvent Act, an assignee to an insolvent estate might sell the property of the estate by deputy. C. R., 1880, Montreal, Bénard vs Dupuy and Bury, 3 L. N., 93.

312. Une vente d'immeuble par un syndic à une personne qui ne possédait pas cet immeuble animo domini dans le sens de l'article 632 du Code de procédure civile, sera annulée à la demande du propriétaire réel de cet immeuble. B. R., 1882, Québec, Shortis vs Luckerhoff et al., 11 R. L., 537.

313. The title of an assignee to real estate, under the Insolvent Act of 1869, is only statutory; and a purchaser from him under the authority of a deed of composition and discharge executed by the insolvent and his creditors, in order to establish his title, must prove the execution of the deed of composition and discharge, and that the conveyance was conformable to its terms. Supr. C., 1883, New Brunswick, Rankin vs Andrews, 22 N. B. R., 425.

314. Dans un acte de vente, où il est énoncé que le vendeur, ès-qualité de syndic à une faillite, a reçu de l'acheteur le prix de la vente, il ne peut ensuite, si cette énonciation a été faite faussement, être prétendu que le dit vendeur, ès-qualité, étant endetté personnellement envers le mandant de l'acheteur, il y avait eu compensation pour autant.

315. Dans ce cas, l'acheteur est redevable envers la faillite de tout le prix de vente, et il ne peut invoquer que le paiement réel des sommes d'argent qui ont été, à l'acquit de tel prix de vente, données au vendeur, en sa dite qualité de syndic. B. R., 1885, Québec, Savoie vs Rainville, 14 R. L., 364.

316. In 1876, D., a trader, mortgaged to plaintiff an immovable situate in Fraserville, as security for a loan. In 1879, D. became insolvent and assigned; the immovable, as part of his estate, was duly advertised by the assignee and put up to auction at Fraserville, but withdrawn, and at a subsequent auction held in Quebec, in 1881, after advertisement in local papers only, was sold and adjudicated by the assignee to the present defendant, who paid the price and received a deed of sale. After the first attempted auction, viz, in 1880, the plaintiff had obtained an order of court upon the assignee to proceed to immediate sale. In 1885, the plaintiff brought the present hypothecary action against the defendant as détenteur of the immovable for a balance of the loan made to D. The defendant pleaded his deed, to which the plaintiff replied specially that the pretended sale had been unaccompanied by the formalities required by the Insolvent Act of 1875. To this the defendant demurred, contending that the sale could only be attacked by a direct proceeding or petition in the insolvency record: Held, dismissing the demurrer, that if, as averred by plaintiff, the legal formalities had not been observed, the assignee's sale could have no more effect against plaintiff, than a sale made by the insolvent himself prior to his insolvency, and the special answer was therefore good in law. C. R., 1886, Quebec, McDonald et vir vs Roy, 12 Q. J. R., 37.

V. Action pétitoire, Appel, Appel (C. P.), Appel (C. Supr.), Architecte et Entrepreneur, Assurance (vie), Banque, Capias, Cautionnement, Cautionnement pour frais, Cession judiciaire de biens, Chemin de fer, Chose jugée, Compagnie incorporée, Compensation, Composition et décharge, Contrainte par corps, Distribution de deniers, Douaire, Droit constitutionnel, Droit international privé, Frais, Garantie, Hypothèque, Insolvabilité, Juridiction, Lettre de change et billet promissoire, Louage des choses, Obligation, Preuve, Révision, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Vente, Vente de créance.

FAITS ET ARTICLES

Déf.—Interrogatoire qu'une partie dans un procès fait subir à son adversaire pour en obtenir des aveux. Si celui-ci ne répond pas ou si ses réponses sont indirectes, non catégoriques ni précises, les questions sont tenues pour avérées. C. p. c. 359 et s.

V. Enquête, Preuve.

FAUX

Déf.—En droit, le mot faux est employé pour désigner une imitation, ou une altération non autorisée d'un acte ou d'une signature pour en retirer profit au détriment d'une autre personne. Falsum est fraudulenta veritatis mutatio vel suppressio in præjudicium alterius facta. Pand., lib. 48, tit. 10. C. c. 1211.

ÉCRIT

Notaire.—Notaire accusé de faux.—Article écrit par J. E., Roy, notaire. 14 R. Not., 335.

V. Appel, Droit criminel, Droit municipal, Expertise, Extradition, Inscription en faux, Preuve (au crim.).

FEMME MARIÉE

Déf.—En droit, l'on désigne sous ces mots la femme qui est sous puissance de mari.

V. Acte authentique, Action pénale, Droit criminel, Loi des licences, Mariage, Mari et femme, Minorité, Procédure, Responsabilité, Vente.

FIDUCIE ET FIDÉICOMMIS

Déf.—La fiducie est la disposition par laquelle une personne transporte ses biens à une autre, soit par testament ou par donation entrevifs, en la chargeant de les administrer jusqu'à ce qu'elle les remette aux personnes désignées par le donateur ou le testateur. Fideicommissum est quod non civilibus verbis, sed precative relinquitur; nec ex rigore juris civilis proficiscitur, sed ex voluntate datur relinquentis. Pand. ,lib. 30, tit. 1. C. c. 981a et s.

Le fidéicommis a lieu lorsqu'un donateur ou un testateur charge ses héritiers ou ses légataires de restituer, à leur décès ou dans un temps déterminé, tout ou partie de ses biens à lui donnés ou laissés, à d'autres personnes qu'il leur substitue. Fideicommissum universale est illud suo heres hereditatem sibi relictam vel hereditatis portionem alteri rogatur restituere. Pand., lib. 36, tit. 4.

INDEX

Actions de banque, 3, 9, 29 et s.
Actions de ch. de fer.. 3
Administration..3, 10 et s.
Assurance (vie)..... 2
Banque..... 3, 9, 29 et s.
Billet promissoire..... 34
Capitaux..... 11
Chemin de fer.....4 et s
Commission..... 13
Compagnie de fidéicommis..... 6
Compagnie de prêt... 7
Compagnie incorporée 8
Contrat.....26 et s.
Curateur..... 3
Destitution..... 15
Dettes du testateur... 14
Donation "in trust", 3, 8 et s.
Emprunt..... 11
Exécuteur testamentaire 3
Fonds de secours..... 16
Legs fiduciaire..... 17
Licitation..... 20 et s.
Lois.....2 et s.
Louage des choses..22 et s.
Mandat.....22 et s.
Obligation conjointe, 25 et s., 32
Obligation des fiduciaires, 24, 34
Placement..... 28 et s.
Poursuite..31 et s., 35 et s.
Pouvoirs du fiduciaire, 1,34
Preuve..... 36
Rente viagère..... 10
Réparation 37
Rétrocession.....38 et s.
Revenus..... 12
Séquestre..... 3
Signature.....40
Survivant.....32, 41
Testament.....14, 18 et s.
Tuteur 3
Vente pour taxes..... 33

ÉCRIT

1. Pouvoirs du fiduciaire.—Article écrit par L. Bélanger, notaire. 1 R. L., n. s., 451.

LOIS

2. Assurance (Vie).—Dans le cas où une police d'assurance prise par un père ou une mère en faveur de leurs enfants est payée à des exécuteurs testamentaires ou à des fiduciaires ou à des tuteurs, ils doivent placer ces fonds conformément aux S. R. Q., art. 7395.

"Selon que les fiduciaires, les exécuteurs testamentaires, tuteurs ou curateurs le jugent à propos, le revenu annuel provenant du placement de l'assurance peut être employé, en tout ou en partie, à l'entretien et à l'éducation des enfants mineurs, ou à l'entretien des personnes incapables pour d'autres raisons que la minorité d'exercer leurs droits

"Au cas de non-emploi de la totalité du revenu annuel le surplus doit être capitalisé et placé de la même manière que le montant de l'assurance." Art. 7396.

"A moins de stipulations et conditions particulières lesquelles doivent être exécutées, les placements sont transportés par les fiduciaires, les exécuteurs testamentaires, les tuteurs ou curateurs:

"1. Dans le cas d'un mineur, au mineur lui-même quand il a atteint son âge de majorité;

"2. Dans le cas de personnes incapables, pour d'autres raisons que la minorité d'exercer leurs droits, lorsqu'elles acquièrent cette capacité et à leurs héritiers lorsqu'elles meurent avant de reprendre l'exercice de leurs droits.

"Il est cependant loisible aux fiduciaires, exécuteurs testamentaires ou tuteurs, d'avancer, s'ils le jugent à propos, le montant de l'assurance ou de disposer des placements et d'en avancer le produit à tout enfant mineur pendant sa minorité pour son établissement, son avancement ou pour lui procurer une position avantageuse dans le monde ou le pourvoir en mariage." Art. 7397.

3. Banque.—"La banque ne doit pas être tenue de veiller à l'exécution d'aucune fiducie formelle, implicite ou d'induction à laquelle une action de son capital est assujettie.

"2. La quittance de la personne au nom de laquelle cette action est inscrite dans les livres de la banque, ou, si l'action est inscrite au nom de plus d'une personne, la quittance de l'une d'elles, doit être, en faveur de la banque, une libération suffisante de tout dividende ou de toute autre autre somme payable à l'égard de cette action, à moins qu'un avis préalable au contraire n'ait été expressément donné à la banque.

"3. La banque n'est pas tenue de veiller à l'emploi des fonds payés contre cette quittance, qu'elle ait été donnée par toutes ces personnes ou par l'une d'elle." 3-4 Geo. V (F.), ch. 9, art. 52 (1913).

"Nulle personne qui possède des actions de la banque en qualité d'exécuteur testamentaire, d'administrateur, de séquestre, de fiduciaire, de tuteur ou de curateur,—(a) d'une succession ou pour une succession, ou fiducie ou d'un individu ou par un individu dont le nom figure dans les livres de la banque comme représenté par elle, ou (b) si le testament ou autre instrument sous l'autorité ou en vertu duquel les actions ainsi possédées est mentionné dans les livres de la banque relativement à cette possession, ne doit être personnellement assujettie à aucune obligation ni responsabilité à titre d'actionnaire; mais les biens et fonds dont elle a la possession sont responsables de la même manière et au même degré que le seraient le testateur, l'intestat, le pupille ou l'individu qui a un intérêt dans ces biens et fonds en fiducie, s'il vivait et s'il était habile à posséder ces actions en son propre nom

"2. Si la fiducie est tenue pour une personne vivante ou une corporation, cette personne ou corporation doivent être aussi elles-mêmes responsables comme actionnaire jusqu'à concurrence de leurs intérêts respectifs dans les actions.

"3. Si la succession, la fiducie ou la personne ainsi représentée ou le testament ou autre instrument ne sont pas ainsi désignés dans les livres de la banque, l'exécuteur testamentaire, l'administrateur, le séquestre, le fiduciaire, le tuteur ou le curateur doivent être personnellement responsables à l'égard de ces actions, tout comme s'ils les possédaient en leur propre nom à titre de propriétaire." Art. 53.

4. Chemin de fer (F.)—Une compagnie de chemin de fer n'est tenue de veiller à l'exécution d'aucune fiducie formelle, implicite ou d'induction, à laquelle est assujettie une action ou une valeur émise par elle, que la compagnie en ait reçu avis ou non. R. S. C., ch. 37, art. 92.

5. Chemin de fer (P.).—"La compagnie n'est pas tenue de veiller à l'exécution d'un fidéicommis formel, tacite ou implicite, auquel les actions peuvent être assujetties." S. R. Q., art. 6509.

"La compagnie n'est pas responsable de l'emploi du prix d'achat de terrains pris par elle pour ses fins, s'il est payé au propriétaire de ces terrains, ou consigné en cour pour lui, tel que ci-après prévu." Art. 6558.

6. Compagnie de fidéicommis. — Le lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil peut, au moyen de lettres patentes, accorder une charte à au moins neuf personnes qui lui en font la demande par requête dans le but de s' ncorporer pour exécuter des fidéicommis, transiger et faire toute vente, achat, administration, construction, placement, perception et obtenir tous les pouvoirs que la loi accorde aux compagnies de fidéicommis. 3 Geo. V, ch. 34 (1912).

Cette loi contient les dispositions interprétatives, la constitution et les pouvoirs de la corporation, l'enregistrement, les inspections, les rectifications, les droits et honoraires.

7. Compagnie de prêt (F.)—"La compagnie n'est tenue de veiller à l'exécution d'aucune fiducie, qu'elle soit expresse, tacite ou implicite, à laquelle une ou des actions de son capital, ou de ses débentures-actions ou un dépôt ou des deniers remboursables par elle ou à elle confiés, pourraient être sujets." S. R. C., ch. 79, art, 217

8 Compagnie incorporée (F.) — "La compagnie n'est tenue de veiller à l'exécution d'aucune fiducie, formelle, implicite ou d'induction qui pourrait exister à l'égard de quelque action.

"2. Le reçu donné par l'actionnaire au nom duquel l'action est inscrite dans les livres de la compagnie, est, pour cette dernière, une libération valable et efficace de tous dividendes ou deniers payables à raison de la dite action, qu'elle ait ou non été notifiée de l'existence de la fiducie.

"3. Elle n'est pas tenue de veiller à l'emploi des deniers payés sur ce reçu." S. R. C., ch. 79, art. 50.

JURISPRUDENCE

9. Actions.—Where A. entrusted a sum of money to B. to be invested to A.'s benefit, and B. employed the money in the purchase of shares of a certain stock, which he held in his own name "in trust" and subsequently transferred these shares with others belonging to himself, to a bank as collateral security for a personal debt: A. could not claim the shares nor the value thereof from the bank; B.'s admission of the deposit and of A.'s title to the shares did not make proof as against a third party who received them in good faith and in ignorance of the trust and the facts that the words "in trust" appeared after B.'s name in the certificate of stock, without any indication of identification of the owner was not notice to the bank that B. was dealing with property not his own so as to make the bank liable. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Sweeney vs Buchanan et al., 5 L. N., 66.

10. Administration.—When a trust fund has been entrusted to a corporation, subject to the payment of life annuities to its founders and others, each founder has an interest beyond the mere reception of his annuity, and can claim that the fund be administered in strict accordance with law. And he has also the right to enforce in law the performance of the agreed conditions of the foundation. P. C., 1882, Quebec, Rev. Dobie vs Board for the management of Presbyterian Church of Canada, 1 B. J. P. C., 209, 258, 504; 26 J., 170; 3 L. N., 244, 250; 4 L. N., 258; 5 L. N., 68; L. R., 7 App. Cas., 136; 46 L. T., 1; 51 L. J., P. C., 26.

11. Les fiduciaires sont tenus d'apporter à leur gestion les soins d'un bon père de famille. Par suite, lorsqu'un placement sur hypothèque entraîne la vente en justice de l'immeuble hypothéqué et son rachat dans l'intérêt de la fiducie, ils peuvent, si son mauvais état l'exige, contracter un emprunt pour le réparer et le rendre productif de revenus, ou prendre les fonds nécessaires pour cet objet sur les capitaux qu'ils ont en mains.

12. Ils doivent, dans ce cas, employer les revenus de l'immeuble au remboursement intégral de l'emprunt ou de la somme prise sur les capitaux de la fiducie, avant d'en remettre au bénéficiaire, même lorsque le titre constitutif de la fiducie déclare que "les revenus lui seront payés comme aliments, après déduction des primes d'assurance et des taxes." C. R., 1910, Montreal, Arnton vs Stevenson et al. et Arnton, R. J. Q., 38 C. S., 213.

13. Commission.—Bien que la charge de fiduciaire soit gratuite, il peut être légalement convenu que le fiduciaire se chargera des frais d'administration et de bureau de la succession, moyennent une certaine commission qui lui sera payée sur les revenus perçus et le capital encaissé, lorsque cette commission est en rapport avec les dépenses que ce fiduciaire devra encourir pour veiller à la dite administration. B. R., 1897, Montréal, Brunet vs Brazier et al., R. J. Q., 7 B. R., 166.

14. Dettes du testateur.—Lorsque par testament une personne laisse tous ses biens à un fidéicommissaire avec entr'autres obligations celle de les diviser ou de les léguer quand bon lui semblera à ses enfants, savoir, ceux du testateur, ou à l'un d'eux, par parts inégales ou égales, le fidéicommissaire devant avoir en attendant la jouissance et la saisine de ses biens, les créanciers de la succession n'ont pas d'action contre les futurs héritiers, enfants du testateur, aussi longtemps que les biens n'ont pas été partagés ou légués par le fidéicommissaire. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Martin dit Ladouceur vs Lionais, M. L. R., 6 C. S., 189: 13 L. N., 227.

15. Destitution des fiduciaires.—Il ne suffit pas qu'il y ait des différences d'opinion entre les fiduciaires, même lorsque le testament exige qu'ils soient unanimes dans toutes décisions concernant les biens de la succession, pour autoriser le tribunal à destituer l'un d'eux au hasard, et le concours constant de deux fiduciaires contre le troisième, sans une preuve qu'il a pour résultat de nuire aux intérêts de la succession, n'est pas une cause suffisante de destitution de l'un de ces deux fiduciaires. B. R., 1897, Montréal, Brunet vs Brazier et al., R. J. Q., 7 B. R., 166.

16. Fonds de secours.—Lorsque, à la suite d'une catastrophe, des montants sont souscrits, sans aucune réserve ni condition, pour venir en aide aux victimes, et sont déposés entre les mains d'un comité de citoyens, ces derniers sont tenus de répartir le montant de ces souscriptions et n'ont point le droit d'en faire des placements ni d'en retarder la distribution. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Ménard et al. vs Godin et al., 15 R. J., 477.

17. Legs fiduciaire.—Requests in trust are valid in Lower Canada. Q. B., 1855, Montreal, Freight vs Seymour, 5 L. C. R., 492; 19 R. J. R. Q., 245, 597.

18. A bequest in the following words: "I hereby will and bequeath all my property, assets or means of any kind, to my brother Frank, who will use one-half of them for public Protestant charities in Quebec and Carluke, say the Protestant Hospital Home, French Canadian mission, and amongst poor relatives as he may judge best," is not void for vagueness or uncertainty.

19. By this will, a trust was created in favor of public Protestant charities and poor relations. Supr. C., 1892, Quebec, Ross vs Ross et al., Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 413; Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 115; 16 L. N., 307; 25 Supr. C. R., 307.

20. Licitation.—La convention de copropriétaires indivis d'immeubles d'en faire décréter la vente par voie de licitation forcée, à laquelle l'un d'eux se rendra adjudicataire à un prix nominal, en acquerra la propriété et les administrera en fidéicommis pour tous, est licite et n'offre rien de contraire à l'ordre public.

21. Par suite, le recours de l'action en reddition de compte contre les héritiers de celui qui s'est ainsi porté adjudicataire est ouvert en faveur de ceux qui étaient originairement ses co-propriétéaires. C. R., 1907, Anderson vs Anderson et al., R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 143.

22. Louage des choses.—The creation of a trust by co-owners of property, in a power of attorney to the trustees, to receive the revenues of the property and apply them to certain uses, but without any conveyance of title or ownership, can have no effect on a lease, made subsequently by one of such co-owners of his share of the property, or on the relations between him and his lessee.

23. Hence, an attachment of the rent by his judgment creditor cannot be attacked or set aside at the instance of one of his co-owners on the ground of the trust created as stated above. K. B., 1907, Montreal, Nelson et al. vs Resther, Q. J. R., 16 K. B., 550.

24. Obligations du fiduciaire.—There is power in the court, where a trustee empowered to select beneficiaires under a legacy from a class, fails to do so, to order an equal distribution of the amount of the legacy among those who compose the class. Supr. C., 1892, Quebec, Ross vs Ross et al., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 115; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 413; 16 L. N., 307; 25 Supr. C. R., 307.

25. Dans un contrat où des créanciers ont chargé l'un d'eux de leur distribuer une somme d'argent lorsqu'il l'aura touchée, et où il est stipulé que ce fidéicommis est fait pour l'avantage conjoint des créanciers nommés, l'obligation est conjointe et les créanciers peuvent en poursuivre l'exécution conjointement par une seule action. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Leggat et al. vs McIndoe, 5 R. L., n. s., 491.

26. The firm of W. and F., being financially embarrassed, the creditors on the 19th November, 1892, appointed an advisory committee, and the defendants, a firm of accountants, were named trustees and administrators of the estate. The plaintiff, who had a contract for the plastering of two houses belonging to W. and F., refused to proceed with the work unless he obtained a guarantee for the payment of the amount of his contract, which the trustees gave him on the 10th January, 1893, in the following terms: "Dear Sir: With reference to your contract for finishing the plastering work on Emily street block, amounting to $1,194, we shall pay as follows: half the amount ($597) when the last coat is put on, and the balance three months after. You are requested to begin work at once. Yours truly, Denoon and Fair, trustees for Wilson and Frost." Subsequently, W. and F. made a formal abandonment of their estate, and a curator was appointed. The trustees paid half the amount mentioned in their letter, for which the plaintiff signed a receipt, drawn by them, by which he acknowledged to have received said instalment from them as trustees. The action was to recover the balance: Under the circumstances, the defendants were personally liable.

27. The addition of the words "Trustees Wilson and Frost" did not exclude the personal liability of defendants under the circumstances. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Contant vs Denoon et al., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 456.

28. Placement des fonds.—Trustees have the right to deposit the bonds or their proceeds in the hands of a depositary, who was bound to return the same on the order of the trustees and he could not be held liable for breach of trust, even though he knew of the nature of the trust and the terms of the will unless fraud and collusion were proved. S. C., 1874, Montreal, Noad vs Noad, 21 J., 312; 1 L. N., 204, 214.

29. At the time of defendant's appointment as executor and trustee, he received certain shares in a bank, which shares had been purchased by the testatrix, and reserved by the executor and trustor who preceded defendant, for the purpose of an investment to secure the plaintiff interest which she was entitled to receive under the will. Article 981o c. C., under which trustees are bound to invest monies held by them as administrators in certain securities, amongst which bank stock is not included was in force at the time of defendant's appointment.

30. As defendant when appointed did not receive or hold any monies for the benefit of the plaintiff, but merely shares of stock standing in the name of the executors, he was not bound under the circumstances to change the investment, and could not be held responsible for the loss occasioned by the insolvency of the bank. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Dame Hill et vir vs Campbell, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 125.

31. Poursuite judiciaire. — The fact of plaintiffs having styled themselves the "duly named trustees to S.'s creditors." did not give him the right to bring a personal action for S.'s creditors, the action, if any, belonging to the individual creditors of S. under article 19 C. c. p. Supr. C., 1879, Canada, Brown vs Pinsoneault, 3 Supr. C. R., 102.—Supr. C., 1887, Canada, Burland vs Moffat, 11 Supr. C. R., 76.—Contra: P. C., 1887, Quebec, Porteous vs Reynar, L. R., 13 App. Cas., 120.

32. Lorsqu'il y a eu une administration conjointe par plusieurs fiduciaires et que l'un d'eux vient à décéder, l'action instituée par les quatre fiduciaires survivants et par les exécuteurs testamentaires et fiduciaires du cinquième fiduciaire est bien portée quant à la forme, vu que leur administration a été conjointe comme celle des membres d'un syndicat. C. S., 1900, Québec, Kennedy et al. vs Housman et al., R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 311.

33. Le fiduciaire a qualité pour poursuivre en nullité de la vente pour taxes, faite par l'autorité municipale, d'un immeuble de la fiducie. C. R., 1910, Montréal, McConnell vs La Cité de Hull, R. J. Q., 38 C. S., 434.

34. Where several persons, trustees of an insolvent estate, under a deed of composition, which gave them no power to draw or accept bills, signed promissory notes with the words "trustees to estate C. D. Edwards," after their signatures: They were personally liable. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Brown et al. vs Archibald et al., 22 J., 126; 24 J., 85; 1 L. N., 327; 3 L. N., 43.

35. Article 81 C. c. p. is applicable to mere agents or mandataries. It is not applicable to trustees in whom the subject of the trust has been vested in property and is possessed for the benefit of third parties, and who have duties to perform in the protection or realization of the trust estate.

36. The deeds creating the trust are legal evidence to rebut inferences drawn from other deeds and from affirmations contained in defendant's pleadings. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Fyshe et al. vs Tombyll, 6 R. J., 556.

37. Réparations.—Le fidéi-commissaire à qui on remet la possession d'un immeuble affecté à une créance appartenant à un créancier qu'il représente, n'est pas tenu de payer le prix des choses vendues au débiteur, ou des travaux faits pour lui lorsqu'il était encore en possession de l'immeuble, mais depuis l'acte de fidéicommis, et qui ont été incorporées à l'immeuble. B. R., 1889, Montréal, Farwell vs Walbridge and The Ontario Car and Foundry Co. vs Farwell et al., 17 R. L., 630, 639; M. L. R., 6 B. R., 77, 91; M. L. R., 3 C. S., 238; 11 L. N., 39; 13 L. N., 210, 226; 35 J., 85, 126, 311; 18 R. C. Supr., 1.

38. Rétrocession.—Where by deed of donation a property is given in trust for the express purpose that a parsonage shall be erected thereon for the use of the incumbent of the parish, that where the incumbent and churchwardens have accepted the benefit of the trust by erecting on the property donated a parsonage, which was occupied by the successive incumbents and afterwards destroyed by fire, and that where subsequently another parsonage was erected on other property and occupied by the incumbent, a presumption arises that the beneficiaries under the trust have abandoned the benefit so conferred on them.

39. Under such circumstances another trust has resulted in favor of the grantor, who has a right to ask that the property donated be reconveyed to her. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Mathison vs Shepherd et al., ès-qual., and The Incumbent and Church wardens of St. James Church et al., 14 R. J., 146.

40. Signature.—A person who adds the word "trustee" or other quality to his signature, is personally bound thereby, unless he can show that he signed for a principal, or for an estate. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Court, ès-qual., vs Stewart, 3 L. N., 414.

41. Survivant.—A person claiming to be sole surviving and remaining trustee had no right of action to got back the property from alleged inlawful holders, where no right of survivorship was referred to in the deed of conveyance. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Morrison, ès-qual., vs McCraig, 4 L. N., 151.

V. Banque, Chemin de fer, Donation entre-vifs, Exécuteur testamentaire, Injonction, Lettre de change et billet promissoire, Louage des choses, Obligations, Preuve, Procédure, Responsabilité, Substitution, Testament.

FILIATION

Déf.—La filiation est la relation qui établit entre deux personnes le fait que l'une est née de l'autre. Elle établit l'état de l'enfant vis-à-vis ses père et mère et vice versa.

INDEX

Absence..... 7
Acte de naissance, 16 et s., 20 et s.
Aïeul..... 3
Aliment.....2 et s., 11
Cohabitation impossible..... 13
Cohabitation publique 17
Déclaration de paternité, 2 et s.
Enfant adultérin. 1, 14 et s.
Enfant naturel..... 12
Exception à la forme.. 25
Faits constants.....8 et s.
Légitimation.....14 et s.
Loi applicable..... 19
Mariage étranger..... 19
Mère.....3 et s., 11 et s.
Parenté..... 1
Père.....7, 12 et s.
Possession d'état, 14 et s., 17 et s.
Présomption....8 et s., 22
Preuve....6, 8 et s., 16, 19
Preuve testimoniale, 8, 15 et s.
Recel de naissance.... 13
Relation charnelle, 5 et s., 8, 13
Séduction.....4, 11, 24
Statut personnel..... 18
Tuteur.....3 et s.
Tuteur ad hoc,....24 et s.

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Enfant adultérin.—La relation de parenté en ligne directe existe entre un père et ses enfants naturels, même s'ils sont adultérins. Par suite, s'il leur lègue sa succession, elle n'est frappée que des droits prévus au § 1 de l'article 1375, S. R. Q., 1909. C. R., 1911, Montréal, McLaren vs Fortier, R. J. Q., 41 C. S., 315.

2. Déclaration de paternité.—L'épouse du demandeur était accouchée cinq mois après son mariage. Le demandeur porte une action pour nourriture de bâtard et en déclaration de paternité contre le défendeur réputé père de l'enfant: Le demandeur n'avait pas en loi, une action de cette nature contre le défendeur. C. S., 1853, Montréal, Lamirande et uxor vs Dupuis, 1 M. C. R., 71; 2 R. J. R. Q., 368.

3. La demande en déclaration de paternité peut être portée par l'aïeul, sans qu'il y ait tutelle à l'enfant, la mère étant mineure; et la cour peut sur telle demande accorder des aliments, tant pour le passé que pour l'avenir, et sans qu'il soit besoin de nouvelle action pour les aliments futurs. B. R., 1865, Montréal, Patoille vs Desmarais, 1 L. C. L. J., 58; 16 D. T. B. C., 189; 15 R. J. R. Q., 77.

4. An action in declaration of paternity and for maintenance for the child may be joined with an action of damages for the mother resulting from the seduction. Such action may be brought by the mother in her own name. Q. B., 1878, Quebec, Kingsborough vs Pound, 1 L. N., 115; 4 Q. L. R., 11.

5. An action en déclaration de paternité may be maintained where it is proved that the defendant had connection with the mother at the time, though it also appear that the girl's conduct was loose and others were guilty with him. C. R., 1883, Montreal, Lizotte, ès-qual., vs Descheneau, 6 L. N., 170; 33 J., 286.

6. In an action en déclaration de paternité, where the defendant admitted the connection with the mother, but assigned a date which would disprove his paternity of the child and there was no evidence of improper conduct of the mother otherwise: The court would give weight to the declaration on oath that the defendant was the father. Absolute certainty in such cases is not required; it is sufficient to establish a strong probability that the defendant is the father. S. C., 1884, Montreal, Denault, ès-qaul., vs Banville, 7 L. N., 149.

7. L'enfant né d'une femme dont le mari est absent depuis longtemps, peut, sous l'article 241 du Code civil, réclamer pour son père un autre homme que le mari de sa mère, cet article ne distinguant pas si l'enfant naturel est né d'un commerce adultérin ou non. C. S., 1887, Montréal, McKercher et Harry alias Charles Henri vs Mercier, 20 R. L., 153.

8. Il n'est pas nécessaire que les "faits constants," dont parle l'article 232 du Code civil et qui établissent une présomption suffisante pour autoriser la preuve par témoins de la paternité, soient constatés avant l'enquête. Cet article signifie, qu'avant d'admettre la preuve testimoniale de la connaissance charnelle ou de faits particuliers tendant à l'établir, on doit prouver ou constater des faits autres que ceux qui établissent la connaissance charnelle, mais dont il résulterait des indices ou des présomptions que la personne en question est le père de l'enfant.

9. Par "faits constants" on entend des faits établis, même par témoins d'une telle manière qu'on ne peut pas supposer que la preuve contraire puisse être faite.

10. Le seul fait constant et avéré dans l'espèce, les visites du défendeur à la maison de la mère de l'enfant, ne fait pas naître une présomption suffisante pour autoriser la preuve testimoniale de la paternité. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Claude vs Trépanier, R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 257.—C. R., 1881, Québec, Turcotte vs Mackie, 7 R. J. Q., 196; 4 L. N., 352; 33 J., 286; 15 R. L., 254.—C. R., 1889, Montréal, Miller vs Lepitre, 33 J., 280; 13 L. N., 42; M. L. R., 5 C.S., 346.—C. S., 1897, Valiquette vs Savage, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 421—C. S., 1901, Sherbrooke, McAulay vs McLennan, R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 205. — C. R., 1904, Montréa,, Rattican vs Robillard, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 222.

11. L'action en déclaration de paternité et pour des aliments est un droit exclusif de l'enfant, qui ne peut pas être exercé par la mère ni par le tuteur nommé à la mère mineure, les droits de la mère n'étant qu'aux dommages que lui a causés la séduction.

12. L'enfant naturel ne peut faire condamner à lui fournir des aliments l'auteur réel ou supposé de la grossesse de sa mère, qu'en le faisant déclarer son père. C. R., 1893, Québec, Mullin, ès-qual., vs Bogie, R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 34; 13 L. N., 172.

13. Désaveu de paternité.—L'enfant conçu pendant le mariage est légitime et a pour père le mari, excepté lorsque le mari prouve l'impossibilité physique de cohabitation, ou lorsque la femme étant adultère, la naissance de l'enfant a été cachée au mari et la cohabitation a été moralement impossible. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Hickey vs Bidard et Flanigan, 17 R. L., n. s., 339.

14. Légitimation.—Si le mariage d'un homme et d'une femme légitime les enfants qu'ils ont eus précédemment hors mariage, il ne peut faire entrer dans la famille des enfants qui ne leur appartiennent pas; ce serait contraire à l'ordre public et aux bonnes mœurs et la reconnaissance que le mari aurait faite d'un enfant, même par l'acte de baptême de cet enfant, est sans effet lorsqu'il est constant que cet enfant est né de l'union de la femme avec un autre homme, ou dans un temps où cette femme se prostituait, et qu'il n'a jamais eu la possession d'état d'enfant du mari.

15. Le mariage ne légitime que les enfants dont le père est certain.

16. La preuve de la filiation n'est complète qu'autant que le titre de l'enfant, c'est-à-dire son acte de naissance, est accompagné de la possession d'état; quand celle-ci manque ou est contraire au titre, cette preuve est incomplète et l'enfant est obligé de prouver sa filiation. Celui à qui on oppose un titre de naissance, ainsi contredit par l'état de l'enfant, est admis à faire la preuve contraire par tous les moyens propres à établir que l'enfant n'a pas la filiation qu'il réclame, et il peut faire cette preuve, même dans le cas où il aurait lui-même signé l'acte de naissance de l'enfant. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Lahay vs Lahay, R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 261; R. J. Q., 6 C. S. 366.

17. Possession d'état.—Lorsque l'acte de célébration du mariage des père et mère n'est pas produit, mais qu'il est prouvé qu'ils ont vécu publiquement comme mari et femme, la légitimité des enfants ne peut être contestée pour défaut de représentation de l'acte de célébration du mariage; cette légitimité étant appuyée sur une possession d'état qui n'est pas contredite par l'acte de naissance. B. R., 1887, Montréal, La Compagnie de prêt et de dépôt du Canada vs Chevalier et La Cité de Montréal et al., 16 R. L., 222.

18. La qualité du père et d'enfant légitime est irrévocablement régie par les statuts personnels du temps où elle a été acquise, et ces statuts régissent aussi le mode par lequel cette qualité peut être prouvée.

19. Dans le cas d'enfants nés au Vermont de parents prétendus mariés dans cet Etat, dans le silence des lois de cet Etat pour régler le mode de preuve du mariage et de la filiation, ou pour défendre de justifier autrement que par les actes d'état civil, la filiation et la légitimité de tels enfants, on doit avoir recours aux lois et à la jurisprudence de cette province pour la décision du litige devant nos cours.

20. Après les termes de l'article 162 du C.c. qui reproduit une jurisprudence constante, l'enfant dont le père et la mère sont décédés, n'est obligé de prouver que sa possession d'état d'enfant légitime et celle de ses père et mère d'époux légitimes pour établir sa légitimité et sa filiation, pourvu que sa possession d'état ne soit pas contredite par son acte de naissance.

21. L'enfant n'est pas obligé de représenter son acte de naissance pour montrer qu'il ne contredit pas sa possession d'état; c'est à ceux qui le prétendent à le faire.

22. Lorsque l'enfant a établi sa filiation légitime par la preuve de cette double possession d'état, il s'établit en sa faveur une présomption légale de légitimité qui ne peut être détruite par des présomptions contraires. Il faut pour la détruire la preuve que ses père et mère n'étaient pas ou n'avaient pu être valablement mariés.

23. Dans l'espèce, la double possession d'état des intervenants d'enfants légitimes et de leurs père et mère d'époux légitimes est établie d'une manière incontestable et la requête pour envoi en possession doit être renvoyée. C. S., 1894, Bedford, Lefebvre vs Digman et al., 3 R. J., 194.—C. S., 1908, Richelieu, Descoteaux vs Descoteaux et al., R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 269.

24. Séduction.—Dans une action pour séduction, la mère ne peut demander que le défendeur soit reconnu comme le père de son enfant. Celui-ci seul peut, par un tuteur ad hoc, poursuivre en déclaration de paternité. C. S., 1874, Montréal, Giroux vs Herbert, 5 R. L., 439.

25. Tuteur ad hoc.—Un tuteur ad hoc nommé pour intenter une action en déclaration de paternité peut intenter cette action en sa qualité, et une exception à la forme alléguant que cette action doit être intentée par un tuteur ordinaire seulement sera renvoyée. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Auger vs Dionne, 13 R. L., 332.

V. Action en déclaration de paternité et de maternité, Aliment, Juridiction, Preuve, Preuve testimoniale, Procédure, Procès par jury, Puissance paternelle, Responsabilité.

FINANCES PUBLIQUES

INDEX

Auditeur..... 1
Banque..... 7
Billet..... 2
Cours monétaire 3
Deniers publics..... 9
Dettes publiques.....3, 9
Emprunt..... 1
Etalon..... 4
Frais d'administration 3
Frappe..... 3
Garantie..... 2
Gouverneur en Conseil, 3
Licence..... 9
Monnaie..... 3
Offres légales..... 3
Paiement..... 2
Revenu consolidé.... 1
Subventions provinciales..... 6
Taxe..... 9
Trésor.....1, 7
Trésorier de la province, 9

LOIS

1. La "Loi du revenu consolidé et de l'audition" crée, pour le Canada, un fonds consolidé composé de tous les deniers publics dont le parlement fédéral peut disposer, lequel est affecté au service public du Canada. Elle pourvoit aussi aux emprunts autorisés par le parlement, à l'émission des obligations, effets publics et bons du Trésor, et à la perception du revenu. Elle pourvoit aussi à l'organisation et au fonctionnement du bureau de l'auditeur. S. R. C., ch. 24.

2. Billets de la Puissance.—Le gouvernement de la Puissance a le droit d'émettre en cours, à toute époque et sans limite, des billets du Canada dans la forme et de la dénomination qu'ordonne le ministre des Finances. Ces billets sont remboursables en espèces sur présentation aux banques autorisées à cette fin. S. R. C., ch. 27, arts 3, 4.

"Pour garantir cette circulation, le ministre des Finances doit tenir une réserve de trente millions en or ou en effets publics du Canada garantis, quant au principal et à l'intérêt, par le gouvernement du Royaume-Uni, égale à vingt-cinq pour cent au moins du montant de ces billets ainsi émis et en court." Art. 5.

3. Cours monétaire.—La "Loi du cours monétaire, 1910," se trouve dans 9-10 Ed. VII (F.), ch. 14 (1910). Elle détermine les dénominations et la frappe des monnaies, les offres légales, les comptes, dettes et obligations, les billets de la Puissance et des banques, les pouvoirs du gouverneur en conseil à ce sujet, les vérifications, essais et destructions des pièces, et les frais d'administration.

4. L'étalon des pièces d'or sur un poids de mille parties doit être au titre de neuf cents parties d'or fin et de cent parties d'alliage; pour les pièces d'argent, il sera de neuf cent vingt-cinq d'argent fin et soixante-quinze d'alliage.

5. Monnaie Royale.—La loi concernant la succursale de la Monnaie Royale à Ottawa se trouve aux S. R. C., ch. 26; 3-4 Geo. V, ch. 31, (1913).

6. Subventions provinciales. — Pour compenser la perte que les provinces ont faite lorsque, lors de la Confédération, en 1867, les revenus prélevés indirectement, comme les douanes, les pêcheries, etc., ont été attribués au gouvernement fédéral, celui-ci paie annuellement aux provinces une subvention dont l'étendue est basée sur la population respective de chacune d'elles et sur leur dette au moment de l'Union. S. R. C., ch. 28.

7. Trésor.—On nomme ainsi un conseil composé du ministre des Finances et de cinq quelconques des ministres qui font partie du conseil privé du Roi pour le Canada, nommés au besoin par le gouverneur en conseil. Ses fonctions et les dispositions qui s'y rapportent sont aux S. R. C., ch. 23.

8. C'est lui qui délivre à une banque en formation, le certificat qui lui permet de commencer ses opérations financières, et qui approuve ses règlements. 3-4 Geo. V, ch. 9, arts 33 et s.

9. Dans la province de Québec, les finances, le budget, la direction et l'administration du Trésor sont confiés au Trésorier de la province.

Les dispositions qui s'y rapportent sont les arts 796 à 902 des S. R. Q. Ce sont le fonds consolidé du Revenu, la dette publique, les perceptions, le contrôle des deniers publics, les comptes publics, les comptables, les licences les taxes et les impôts.

FOLLE ENCHÈRE

Déf.—On appelle folle enchère, l'enchère faite par un acquéreur à une vente judiciaire qui ne paie pas son prix d'acquisition. C. p. c. 961 et s.

V. Distribution de deniers, Saisie et vente de meuble, Saisie et vente d'immeuble.

FORCE MAJEURE ET CAS FORTUIT

Déf.—La "force majeure" est celle à laquelle on ne peut résister soit de fait, soit de droit.

Le "cas fortuit" est un événement imprévu causé par une force majeure à laquelle il était impossible de résister. Casus fortuito est vis divinas, et fatale damnum, cui nemo resistere potest. Viennius, lib. 2, ch. 64. C. c. 17, § 24, 1050, 1072, 1200.

V. Droit municipal, Enregistrement, Preuve, Responsabilité.

FORMÂ PAUPERIS

Déf.—Celui qui est trop pauvre pour faire les déboursés d'un procès peut procéder in forma pauperis, c'est-à-dire en être exempté en justifiant qu'il a une bonne défense. Néanmoins cette exemption n'a pas lieu pour certains déboursés comme la taxe du gouvernement, les frais des huissiers; ni dans les actions en recouvrement de pénalités ou de dommages-intérêts à raison de diffamation verbale ou écrite. C. p. c. 89 et s.

V. Appel, Appel (C. P.), Appel (C.Supr.), Cautionnement pour frais, Frais, Procédure, Procédure (C. Supr.), Révision.

FOURNISSEUR

Déf.—On nomme ainsi ceux qui fournissent les matériaux pour une construction ou ceux qui vendent à quelqu'un les choses nécessaires à la vie. Ils ont un privilège sur les meubles et les immeubles de leur débiteur. C. c. 1994 et s., 2006, 2013 et s.

V. Distribution de deniers, Privilège.

FRAIS

Déf.—Le mot frais comprend le coût total des dépenses encourues pour poursuivre ou défendre ses droits dans un procès ou instance devant les tribunaux.

Suivant les principes suivis dans notre province, "la partie qui succombe doit supporter les dépens à moins que, pour les causes spéciales, le tribunal ne les mitige, ne les compense ou n'en ordonne autrement." C. p. c. 549 et s. V. l'amendement fait à cet art. 549, par. 2, Geo. V, ch. 48 (1912), pour les causes au-dessous de $25.00.

INDEX

Absent.....356, 758 et s.
Accident du travail.. 841
Acquiescement, 11, 64, 87, 969, 1106
Acte de vente..... 1
Action alimentaire, 11 et s.
Action contestée..... 23
Action en expulsion, 24 et s., 1191
Action en garantie, 33a, 33b
Action en nullité..... 34
Action en rad. d'hypothèque..... 76
Action hypothécaire, 35 et s., 428 et s., 1055
Action inutile..... 42
Action paulienne, 43, 1202
Action pénale, 44 et s., 790
Action personnelle.... 38
Action pétitoire..... 356
Action possessoire.... 53
Action réelle..... 54
Action sur faux billet, 33 et s.
Adjudicataire, 1133, 1144
Administrateur étranger, 57
Admission, 304, 579 et s.
Affaire criminelle..... 739
Affidavit, 58, 577, 710 et s., 768
Ajournement.....59 et s.
Aliment..... 775
Amende.....740 et s.
Amendement, 61 et s., 898, 932, 972
Appel, 70 et s., 252, 324, 371, 456, 478, 481, 702 et s., 818 et s., 917, 937, 1016, 1107
Appel (C.P.).... 89a, 89b
Appel (C.Supr.)89c, 89d, 134, 158a, 486.
Appel (Droit scolaire). 91
Arbitrage, 93 et s., 676 et s., 688 et s., 881
Arrestation illégale... 542
Art. de fait, 99 et s., 589, 1108
Assignation illégale... 102
Assurance..... 104
Audition au mérite, 47, 104 et s., 232, 370, 426, 589, 787, 875
Avant l'assignation, 114 et s., 541
Avis, 381, 489, 676 et s., 806, 1179, 1183 et s., 1187 et s.
Avocat, 380, 454, 715, 747, 753, 1050
Avocat et client, 121 et s.
Banque (Liquid.) 286
Billet promissoire, 112, 150 et s., 342, 367 et s.
Bonne foi..... 460
Bornage.....153 et s.
Bref de prérogative... 178
Brevet d'invention, 179 et s.
Bureau des délégués.. 81

"Capias," 181 et s., 576, 120
Cas non prévus..... 43
Cause appelable c. C. 185
Cause personnelle, 186 et s.
Cause renvoyée en c.S., 191
Cause réunie.....192 et s.
"Causes spéciales", 470 et s., 473, 600
Caution..... 480
Cautionnement..... 201
Cautionnement pour frais, 23, 82, 202 et s., 370, 629, 736, 882, 956, 974
Certificat d'enrég. 1012 et s.
"Certiorari", 228 et s., 742, 788
Cession jud. de biens, 235 et s., 814
Cession volontaire de biens,..... 255
Chemin de fer, 97 et s., 670, 676 et s., 688 et s.
Chirurgien..... 9
Cité de Montréal, 675, 687, 699, 730
Classe d'action, 11, 29 et s., 34 et s., 45 et s., 53, 84, 86, 95, 152, 178, 230, 244 et s., 249 et s., 256 et s., 288, 290, 318 et s., 322 et s., 332 et s., 433 et s., 519, 533 et s., 569, 572 et s., 618 et s., 636, 725 et s., 769 et s., 805, 816, 900, 918, 920, 923, 1072, 1075, 1095, 1116, 1172
Collecteur..... 830
Collision, 223 et s., 270 et s.
Collocation par erreur, 514, 523 et s.
Commissaire-enquêteur, 275 et s.
Commission du gouv., 1132, 1208
Commission rogatoire, 278 et s.
Communauté....1153 et s.
Compagnie incorporée, (Liquid.) .....284 et s.
Comparution, 233, 308, 995
Compensation, 294 et s., 392, 944
Comptables incorporés, 299 et s.
Condamnation conjointe, 302
Confession de jugement, 170, 303 et s., 1049
Congé-défaut, 306 et s., 866, 942, 970, 1121
Connaissament.....1032
Conseil..... 309
Conseil à l'enquête, 310 et s., 578 et s., 1108
Conseil de comté..... 81
Conseil de famille, 315 et s.
Conseil du Barreau....89b
Conseil en appel .. 313 et s.
Conseiller mun., 451, 565 et s.
Consignation, 317, 431, 675, 684, 878 et s., 979
Consultation en voyage, 139
Cont. de cession de biens, 249, 251, 253 et s., 578
Cont. de S.a..... 339
Contestant..... 535
Contest. d'actes municipaux.....318 et s.
Contest. de décl. de t. s., 332 et s.
Contest. de demande d'interdiction 338
Contrainte par corps, 340, 575, 1195
Copie de bref..... 1212
Copie de jugement, 342 et s.
Copie de subpoena, 1204a
Copie pour le juge.... 344
Corporation mun., 130, 468, 565 et s.
Correspondant....134 et s.
Corruption électorale, 550 et s.
Cour d'amirauté, 270 et s., 1147 et s., 1220 et s.
Cour de Circuit, 345, 398, 624, 627, 917, 1114, 1186
Cour de l'Echiquier, 223 et s., 351 et s., 458, 466
Cour des Commissaires, 345
Cour des magistrats. 914
Cour du Recorder... 1008
Cour du Recorder (M.) 346 et s.
Couronne, 4 et s . 349a et s., 673 et s.
Crainte de trouble, 352 et s.
Créancier hypothécaire, 674
Crieur..... 354
Curateur, 235, 238 et s., 355 et s., 792 et s., 798, 1064
Débiteurs solidaires, 361 et s.
Déboursés, 125, 144, 187, 636, 767, 776, 873, 1063, 1195 et s.
Décret.....1134, 1136, 1144
Défaut d'autorisation 364
Défense, 22, 33 et s., 147 et s., 352, 365 et s., 997, 1198 et s.
Défense séparée, 368 et s., 418
Définition de faits, 100 et s., 1005
Délai, 211, 365 et s., 371, 866, 971, 1008, 1109 et s.
Délibéré déchargé. 105, 109
Demande conjointe.. 758
Demande de bornage, 155 et s., 158
Demande de frais.... 373
Demande de paiement 151
Demande incidente, 374 et s.
Demandeur conjoint 372
Démolition..... 54
Dénégation..... 379
Dépenses de témoin, 380 et s., 715
Déposition, 587 et s., 596 e s., 601, 1197
Dépôt.....930b et s., 974
Député-protonotaire 275
Désaveu..... 1122
Désistement, 308, 404 et s., 591, 593, 617, 941 et s., 958 et s., 973, 975 et s., 1094, 1096
Destitution d'huissier, 312 433 et s.
Diffamation..... 432
Différence de frais de cont.....435 et s.
Discrétion du tribunal, 325, 353, 451 et s., 1087, 1098
Distraction de frais, 342, 474 et s., 939, 1027, 1031, 1033 et s., 1037 et s., 1124
Distribution de deniers, 511 et s., 683 et s., 757, 999, 1011, 1123
Dommage, 29 et s., 54, 158, 162, 256 et s., 269 et s., 351, 379, 432, 435 et s., 458, 539 et s., 542 et s., 730, 772, 857, 1002
Dommage n'excédant pas $8.00....540, 543 et s.
Dossier..... 1057
Douane..... 5
Echiquier, 223 et s., 351 et s., 458, 466
Effet insaisissable... 922
Election féd. contestée, 390, 549 et s.,1208
Election mun. contestée, 565 et s.
Election prov. contestée, 570 et s,
Emprisonnement.... 574
Endosseur.....362 et s.
Enquête, 370, 575 et s., 620
Enquête commune, 193, 195 et s., 602 et s.
Enrégistrement..... 901
Enrégistrement de jug., 604 et s.
Enrégistrement de privilège.....606
Entrée du bref, 406, 1022, 1196, 1206
Erreur, 89a, 514, 523 et s., 1082
Erreur cléricale..... 70
Etat de fortune..... 460
Evaluation..... 240
Examen de l'opposant, 607 et s.
Examen préalable, 608 et s.
Exception à la forme, 41, 62, 419 et s., 573, 594, 611 et s., 1052 et s., 1198 et s., 1205
Exception déclinatoire, 216, 622 et s., 727
Exception dilatoire, 202 et s., 208, 221, 585, 628 et s., 934, 957, 960, 971
Exception préliminaire, 632 et s., 1199
Exécuteur test., 316, 635
Exécution de jugement, 289, 371, 479, 485 et s., 636 et s., 1175 et s., 1178 et s., 1184
Exécution de taxes, 383, 385 et s., 391, 400
Exécution par la partie, 479, 485 et s., 499 et s., 501 et s.
Exécution provisoire 637
Exhibit.....638 et s.
Expert, 646, 648 et s., 657 et s.
Expertise, 173, 393 et s., 647, 655 et s.
Expropriation, 94, 669 et s., 1092
Factum, 700 et s., 874 et s., 1017
Faillite.....704 et s.
Faute commune, 707 et s.
Femme mariée, 595, 902 et s.
Fiat.....115, 226, 491
Folle enchère..... 709
Forclusion.....947, 968
"Forma pauperis", 141, 710 et s., 963
Frais de voyage, 715, 1174
Frais inutiles, 231, 361 et s., 885
Frais réservés..... 716
Fraude..... 717
Gage..... 718
Garantie, 268, 719, 755, 1041
Gardien judiciaire, 737 et s.
Gardien provisoire.. 242
"Habeas corpus", 739 et s.
Héritier..... 989
Homme de profession 387
Honoraire..... 6
Honoraire additionnel 744
Honoraire d'office... 745
Honoraire spécial.... 1099
Huissier, 90, 312, 746 et s., 1126 et s., 1138 et s.
Huissier (corp.)..... 91
Hypothèque..... 1010
Hypothèque judiciaire, 760 et s.
Impression..... 761
Immeuble, 1138 et s., 1141
Injonction, 179, 370, 763 et s.
Injustice..... 1090
Insaisissabilité, 775, 983, 1118
Inscription en droit, 777 et s., 959, 1062 et s., 1210

Insolvabilité.....962, 1034
Inspecteur agraire.... 788
Inspecteur du revenu 790
Interdiction.....790 et s.
Intérêts, 5a, 263, 266, 671 et s., 800
Interprétation, 801, 1002 et s.
Interprète..... 1006
Intervention, 412, 723, 732 et s., 802 et s., 1114
Intimé conjoint, 818 et s.
Inventaire..... 240
Juge en chambre, 1111 et s., 1177
Jugement, 405, 409, 604 et s.
Jugement conjoint.. 855
Jugement incident... 225
Jugement interlocutoire..... 268
Jugement pour frais. 827
Juge et magistrat.... 7
Juridiction, 821 et s., 821 et s., 874, 1004, 1078, 1111 et s., 1176
Lettre d'avocat, 118, 826 et s.
Libelle.....432, 839
Libération de pension 18 et s.
Licence.....252, 842
Licitation, 840, 921, 982 et s.
Liquidateur, 284, 287, 291 et s., 538
Liste électorale..... 572
Loi applicable..... 130
Loi des licences..... 7
Lois.....3 et s.
Louage des choses, 349, 1191
"Mandamus"..... 471
Mandat.....843, 1040
Mandataire 42
Mandat d'emprisonnement.....740 et s.
Marchande publique, 902 et s.
Mariage..... 1015
Mari et femme, 844 et s., 1015
Mémoire .....848 et s.
Mémoire séparé...850 et s.
Mémoire taxé.....131 et s.
Mépris de cour....853 et s.
Ministre d'agriculture 180
Minorité....856 et s., 1214
Mis en cause, 321, 720 et s., 772, 859 et s.
Montant applicable.. 89d
Motion, 23, 65, 85, 88, 96, 108, 207, 209 et s., 213 et s., 218 et s., 296, 413, 710 et s., 850, 862 et s., 898, 918 et s., 987 et s., 1007, 1051 et s., 1121
Moyen nouveau, 75, 874 et s., 1016
"Negotiorum gestor" 798
Nomination de tuteur 856
Notaire.....8, 642 et s.
Nouvelle opposition. 946
Nullité de décret, 1134, 1136, 1144
Nullité de testament, 1192 et s.
Obligation indivisible 876
Officier public..... 877
Offres réelles, 875 et s., 979
Opp. afin d'annuler, 2, 265, 302, 494, 508, 807, 846, 888 et s., 1167
Opp. afin de conserver, 522, 895 et s., 1127
Opp. afin de distraire, 897 et s., 967 et s., 1070
Opp. à jugement, 930 et s.
Opposant 520
Ordre de faire travaux 819
Paiement..... 8a
Paiement partiel, 889, 891
Paiement préalable, 82, 408, 430 et s., 797, 932 et s.
Parenté..... 460
Partage.....921, 982 et s.
Particularités, 551, 869 et s., 986 et s.
Partie en qualité..987 et s.
Partie en cause... 396 et s.
Péremption d'instance, 984 et s., 990 et s.
Pétition de droit..... 996
Plan.....644 et s.
Police d'assurance... 103
Porteur de pièces.... 140
Possession de biens, 238, 285, 718
Poursuite pour frais, 131 et s.
Praticien.....998 et s.
Preuve, 131 et s., 138, 720, 924
Preuve avant faire droit, 780, 782
Privilège, 238, 511 et s., 532, 606, 775, 982 et s., 998 et s.
Procès par jury, 259 et s., 1002 et s., 1218 et s.
Procès-verbaux, 320, 322
Procuration, 210, 212 et s., 217 et s., 226 et s.
Procureur-général, 351a, 803
Prohibition 1008
Propre de la femme.. 847
Propriété litt. et art.. 1025
Protêt 1009
Protonotaire, 48, 250, 297, 695, 999, 1010 et s., 1063, 1176
Provision de frais.... 1014
"Puis darein continuance"..... 997
"Quantum meruit," 121 et s., 143 et s.
Quittance..... 1018
Radiation d'enrég., 876, 1019
Radiation d'insc. en R., 1020
Rapport à justice, 329, 1021
Rapport d'action, 406, 1022, 1196, 1206
Réclamation de douane, 1023
Réclamation en faillite, 237, 1211
Reddition de compte, 1024 et s., 1205
Réduction de pension 17
Régistres des cours . 483
Règlement de cause, 110, 590
Règlement des parties, 1027 et s.
Règlement municipal, 320, 325, 327 et s.
Relevé d'interdiction 794 et s.
Rente constituée, 1054 et s.
Rente viagère 1019
Renvoi au trib. compétent.....1056 et s.
Renvoi sur motion, 918 et s., 931, 969, 972, 1051 et s.
Répétition de l'indu, 665 et s., 1013
Réponse.....969, 997
Reprise d'instance, 1059 et s.
Requête civile...1068 et s.
Requête libellée..... 1067
Résolution..... 326
Résolution de contrat, 1070 et s
Restitution....1073 et s.
Rétention de titres... 1074
Retenue.....128 et s.
"Retraxit"..... 1075
Rétroactivité..... 795
Révision, 51 et s. 95, 194, 200, 264, 298, 366 et s., 484, 671 et s., 705, 823 et s., 849, 899 et s., 917, 924 et s., 980, 1020, 1076 et s., 1097, 1106 et s., 1116, 1155, 1159 et s., 1177, 1189 et s.
Révision de liste élect. 1105
Révision de taxes de témoin, 381, 393 et s., 403
Révision ex-parte.... 1093
Route, 746, 749 et s., 759, 1137
S.a. après jugement, 248, 487, 496, 502, 977, 1041, 1113 et s.
S.a. avant jugement, 812, 1125
Saisie conservatoire, 810 et s., 815
Saisie de meubles, 1126 et s., 1141
Saisie d'immeuble, 807, 1129 et s.
Saisie-gagerie, 805, 818, 1145 et s.
Saisie revendication, 103, 802, 1032
Salaire des matelots, 1147 et s., 1221
Sauvetage 10, 1150
Sentence arbitrale, 683, 1151
Séparation de corps, 1014, 1152 et s.
Sequestre, 292 et s., 538, 1155 et s.
Shérif, 564, 1126 et s., 1129 et s., 1137 et s., 1143
Signification de transport 490, 503
Société 408, 1050
Solidarité, 662 et s., 845 et s., 1157
Sténographie, 16 et s., 198, 398, 596 et s., 601, 892, 1158 et s.
Subpoena, 749 et s., 892, 1160, 1204a
Subrogation, 500, 503, 1161
Substitution 984
Substitution d'avocat, 1162 et s.
Succès partiel, 459, 461, 465, 469, 929
Succession.....315 et s.
Suspension de délai.. 1190
Suspension de proc., 938, 941 et s., 945, 947, 952 et s.
Syndic officiel.... 705 et s.
Tarif .....696 et s., 1167
Taxation, 28, 97 et s., 315 et s., 489, 671 et s., 995, 1001, 1175 et s.
Taxe de témoin, 198 et s., 380 et s., 892
Témoin.....380 et s.
Témoin de mauvaise foi 368
Testament ....1192 et s.
Tierce opposition.... 1194
Tiers..... 136
Tiers-détenteur, 31, 40 et s.
Timbre judiciaire, 31 et s., 125, 144, 187, 636, 767, 776, 873, 1063, 1195 et s.
Traduction 1007
Transport, 488 et s., 497 et s., 503
Transport à la prison 741
Traverse de ch. de fer 1213
Trésorier provincial. 884
Triples frais, 49 et s., 179
Trottoir..... 730
Tuteur.....384 et s., 856
Tuteur "ad hoc".... 1214
Vacation à domicile, 796 et s.
"Venditioni exponas" 946
Vente..... 1071
Vente de créance, 1215 et s.
Vente de meubles.... 243
Vente d'immeubles, 239 et s., 1129 et s.
Vente judiciaire....757, 1129 et s.
Verdict.....1218 et s.
Vice Amirauté, 270 et s., 1147 et s., 1220
Voiturier..... 1222
Voyage..... 281

ÉCRITS

1. Acte de vente et accessoires. — Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 7 R. Not., 360.

2. Opposition afin d'annuler.—Comment doivent être taxés, à la cour Supérieure, les frais d'une opposition afin d'annuler une saisie immobilière, quand il y a contestation? Article écrit par S. C. Riou, C. R., avocat. 5 R. L., n. s., 193.

LOIS

3. Avocat.—"Les avocats ont droit à des honoraires et rémunérations pour les services professionnels qu'ils rendent.

"Parmi les services professionnels susceptibles d'honoraires et rémunérations sont compris les voyages, les vacations, lettres d'avocat, consultations écrites ou verbales et l'examen des pièces et papiers.

"Le coût, tel que fixé par le tarif, de la lettre d'avocat, quand il n'y a pas de poursuite et après mise en demeure de payer par le créancier, est exigible du débiteur à qui elle est écrite." S. R. Q., art. 4562.

4. Couronne.—"Dans toute poursuite ou procédure en matière civile, intentée par ou au nom de la Couronne, devant un tribunal ou un juge, dont l'objet est d'obtenir le recouvrement, ou de prévenir la perte de quelque propriété mobilière ou immobilière, loyer ou rente, droit, péage ou somme d'argent, ou de maintenir, exercer ou conserver un droit, un privilège ou une hypothèque sur iceux, ce tribunal ou ce juge peut accorder à la Couronne, si elle réussit dans la poursuite ou la procédure, les mêmes dépens qui seraient accordés à tout particulier en pareil cas.

"La Couronne a le même recours pour recouvrer les dépens qu'aurait ce particulier." S. R. Q., art. 7542.

"Si, dans ces poursuites ou procédures, la Couronne est déboutée, le lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil peut ordonner, s'il le juge convenable, que paiement soit fait à la partie qui a obtenu gain de cause, des dépens qu'elle aurait recouvrés en pareil cas contre toute autre partie déboutée." Art. 7543.

5. Douane.—"Dans toute poursuite, plainte, action ou procédure intentée sous l'autorité de la présente loi, pour recouvrer une amende ou pour faire déclarer ou opérer une confiscation, ou pour l'application de la clause pénale de l'obligation donnée sous son empire, ou pour toute matière se rattachant aux douanes, ou au commerce ou à la navigation, Sa Majesté, ou ceux qui poursuivent pour recouvrer l'amende ou opérer la confiscation, ou pour l'application de la clause pénale de l'obligation, s'ils obtiennent jugement, ont également droit à tous les frais de poursuite.

"2. Les dites amendes et les frais, s'ils ne sont pas payés, peuvent être prélevés sur les meubles et effets, terres et tenements du défendeur, de la même manière que toute somme recouvrée par jugement de la cour devant laquelle la poursuite a été intentée peut être prélevée par saisie-exécution, ou l'on peut en exiger le paiement par voie de capias ad satisfaciendum contre la personne du défendeur, en la même manière et d'après les mêmes conditions." S. R. C., ch. 48, art. 272.

5a. Intérêts.—Le ministre des Finances peut allouer et payer à toute personne qui a droit, d'après le jugement de la cour, à des deniers ou dépens l'intérêt sur ces sommes à un taux n'excédant pas quatre pour cent à compter de la date du jugement jusqu'à ce que ces deniers ou dépens soient payés. S. R. C., ch. 140, art. 53.

6. Juge et magistrat.—"Si dans une action contre un juge des sessions, magistrat de police, juge de paix ou officier quelconque à raison d'un acte fait en vertu d'une disposition statutaire du Canada ou de la province, pour le motif que cette disposition est inconstitutionnelle, jugement est rendu en faveur du défendeur, ou si le demandeur discontinue son action, le défendeur a droit de recouvrer du demandeur ses frais comme entre avocat et client; mais, en aucun cas, il ne doit être alloué ou taxé contre le demandeur des frais doubles ou triples." S. R. Q., art. 3386.

7. Loi des licences.—"Dans toutes les poursuites ou actions intentées devant la cour de Circuit, les honoraires du greffier de ce tribunal, de l'avocat et de l'huissier, sont les mêmes que ceux qui sont présentement alloués dans le tarif des honoraires, pour la classe d'actions de vingt-cinq à quarante piastres.

"Dons toutes les autres poursuites ou actions, les honoraires suivants sont accordés:" S. R. Q., art. 1151. (Voir le tarif contenu dans l'art. 1151, amendé par 4 Geo V, ch. 7, (1914).

8. Notaire.—Les notaires ont droit à des honoraires pour leurs actes et services professionnels en sus de frais et déboursés. S. R. Q., arts 4581, 4582, 4583 et s.

"Personne autre qu'un notaire pratiquant, ne peut demander en justice le paiement des services rendus pour dresser et rédiger des actes sous seing privé affectant les immeubles et requérant l'enregistrement, et passés dans une municipalité où il y a un notaire pratiquant y résidant depuis six mois." S. R. Q., art. 4585.

8a. Paiement.—Les deniers ou les frais adjugés à la Couronne sont versés à la caisse du ministre des Finances; et celui-ci paie, à même les deniers qui n'ont pas reçu de disposition spéciale et qui font partie du fonds du revenu consolidé du Canada, les sommes d'argent ou les frais que la Couronne a été condamnés à payer à une personne." Art. 79.

9. Poursuite par le collège des chirurgiens-dentistes.— Dans les poursuites pour recouvrement d'amendes, "tel fonctionnaire peut accorder à l'avocat de la partie gagnante un honoraire conforme au tarif de la cour civile du district où la cause est plaidée, comme dans une action ordinaire de soixante piastres." S. R. Q., art. 5071.

10. Sauvetage.—"Si, dans une procédure ou poursuite pour droit de sauvetage devant un tribunal, le demandeur recouvre une somme moindre que le maximum de la somme qu'il aurait pu réclamer devant le receveur, alors, à moins que la cour ne certifie que cette poursuite ou procédure ne pouvait pas être jugée par le receveur, le demandeur ne recouvre ni frais, ni charges, ni dépenses faites par lui pour recouvrer sa réclamation, et paie à la partie adverse tels frais, charges et dépenses, s'il en est, que la cour adjuge." S. R. C., ch. 113, art. 764.

JURISPRUDENCE

11. Acquiescement. — Where certain costs were ordered to be paid by defendant as a condition of his filing a plea; but the plea was, in fact, filed without payment of said costs, the plaintiff by not excepting to the regularity of the filing of the plea, but, on the contrary, answering the same, acquiesced in the filing thereof, and it was too late, a month afterwards, to question the regularity of the filing of the plea by moving for its rejection. S. C., 1898, Montreal, McGreevy vs Lapalme, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 61.

12. Action alimentaire. — Une action pour pension alimentaire, dans laquelle le demandeur réclame du défendeur $15 par mois ou $180 par année, sa vie durante, est de la classe des actions de $400 à $1,000.

13. Et le montant payable sur le plaidoyer du défendeur est de $7.30 au lieu de $3.30. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Barry vs Kelly, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 79.

12. L'article premier du tarif des honoraires des avocats sur actions personnelles instituées devant la cour Supérieure, ne s'applique pas aux actions et jugements pour pension alimentaire, vu que le montant en est toujours indéterminé quant à la durée du paiement de la pension.

13. Le paragraphe 7 du tarif relatif aux actions de deuxième classe est applicable à l'espèce. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Forget vs Bélanger, 3 R. J., 219.

14. La règle posée par l'article 551 du Code de procédure civile quant aux frais sur poursuites pour pension alimentaire, ne s'applique que si la pension est due en vertu de la loi.

15. Si la pension est due en vertu d'un contrat, savoir: un acte de donation, les frais seront taxés comme dans une cause en cour Supérieure suivant le montant réclamé. C. S., 1898, Saguenay, D'Auteuil vs Maltais et Maltais, 4 R. L., n. s., 445; 1 R. P. Q., 589; 2 R. P. Q., 79.

16. Dans une action où l'on réclame d'un défendeur $20 par mois de pension alimentaire, si ce défendeur offre de payer $9 par mois, et est condamné à $10, il ne sera pas condamné à payer les frais des sténographes. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Almour vs Sheppard, 1 R. P. Q., 422.

17. Une action en réduction de pension alimentaire est classée, quant aux honoraires, d'après le montant des versements mensuels de la pension que l'on veut faire réduire. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Lavigne vs Dame Pouliot, 6 R. P. Q., 138.

18. L'article 551 C. p. est applicable aux actions en réduction ou libération de pension alimentaire.

19. Dans une telle action, les dispositions de l'article 551 sont applicables tant aux frais auxquels le demandeur peut avoir droit, s'il réussit dans son action, qu'aux frais auxquels la partie défenderesse peut avoir droit, si l'action du demandeur est renvoyée ou n'est maintenue que partiellement et avec dépens contre le demandeur. C. S., 1908, Montréal, The Canadian Rubber Co. of Montreal, Ltd., vs Porter, 10 R. P. Q., 184.

20. L'action en réduction ou en libération de la pension alimentaire doit être assimilée, quant aux frais, à l'action même pour pension alimentaire, et est soumise à l'article 551 du Code de procédure civile. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Moreau vs Dame Michaud et Banque Nationale, 15 R. L., n. s., 174.

21. L'article 551 du Code de procédure civile qui est à l'effet que dans les actions alimentaires, il ne peut être accordé plus de dépens au demandeur, qu'il n'en serait accordé dans une action pour le montant de la pension mensuelle adjugée, est applicable aux actions en réduction ou libération de pensions.

22. Ces dispositions s'appliquent tant aux frais auxquels le demandeur peut avoir droit s'il réussit sur son action, qu'à ceux de la partie défenderesse, si l'action est renvoyée ou maintenue partiellement avec dépens contre le demandeur. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Moreau vs Michaud et Banque Nationale, 17 R. L., n. s., 12.

23. Action contestée.—Une action est censée contestée, d'après le tarif, après la production d'une motion pour cautionnement pour frais et procuration, et si elle est alors discontinuée, l'article 7 du tarif s'y applique. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Robertson vs Waterbury, 2 R. P. Q., 152.

24. Action en expulsion et résiliation de bail.—In an action of ejectment, where no rent is due, the costs will be taxed according to the amount of the annual rent. C. R., 1866, Montreal, Smith vs Noad, 1 L. C. L. J., 67.

25. Dans une action en expulsion intentée le quatre, le défendeur ne sera pas condamné aux frais, s'il est prouvé que la clef des lieux loués a été demandée le quatre mai, et qu'à la demande du défendeur, le demandeur a consenti à ce qu'il garde la clef jusqu'au lendemain. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Bell vs The Burland, Desbarats Lithographic Co., 9 R. L., 540.

26. Les frais dans une action en résiliation ou rescision de bail pour l'inexécution des obligations qui en découlent, doivent être taxés suivant le montant réclamé. C. C., 1881, Joliette, McConville vs La Banque d'Hochelaga, 11 R. L., 99.

27. The costs on a judgment annulling a lease are governed by the amount of the rent of the unexpired term, and not by that of the whole yearly rental.

28. The prothonotary, when taxing costs, may lawfully consider the pleadings of record, in connection with and for the purpose of interpreting the judgment as to the costs intended to be awarded. S. C., 1894, Quebec, Benson vs Vallière, Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 513.

29. Les frais d'une action dans laquelle jugement est rendu résiliant un bail et accordant des dommages, sont ceux d'une action pour le montant du loyer restant dû en vertu du bail. Ainsi, dans une action en résiliation d'un bail annuel dont la balance du loyer à écheoir est de $81, lorsque le jugement final accorde la résiliation du bail avec $24 de dommages, le mémoire de frais de l'avocat du demandeur devra être taxé comme dans une action de $81. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Chartrand vs Ouimet, 2 R. P. Q., 448; 6 R. L., n. s., 217; R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 164.

30. Dans une action en résiliation d'un bail d'une valeur annuelle de $300 accompagnée d'une demande en dommages au montant de $1100, les frais du demandeur seront ceux de la première classe, s'il réussit à faire annuler le bail, quand même la question des dommages serait mise de coté. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Fecteau vs Vanier, 9 R. P. Q., 223.

31. In an action for the cancellation of a lease, the consideration price of which is $252 a year, the fact that no rent is asked, but only $50 damages, does not prevent the class of the action to be regulated by the value of the rental for the year during which the action was taken, id est, in the present case, of the third class.

32. If court fees have been paid as in a fourth class action, the winning party will be ordered to affix in the various proceedings filed by him such increase of stamps as the tariff requires. S. C., 1909, Quebec, Gilbert vs Bowen, 10 Q. P. R., 358.

33. In an action for rescission of a lease, with a demand for damages, costs are due and should be adjudged according to the amount of damages awarded. C. R., 1910, Montreal, Théoret vs Trudeau, Q. J. R., 38 S. C., 520; 12 Q. P. R., 92.

33a. Action en garantie.—It is only as regards the principal action that the action in warranty is an incidental demand. Between the warrantee and the warrantor it is a principal action, and may be brought after judgment on the principal action, and the defendant in warranty has no interest to object to the manner in which he is called in where no question of jurisdiction arises and he suffers no prejudice thereby.

33b. But if a warrantee elect to take proceedings against his warrantors before he has himself been condemned he does so at his own risk, and if an unfounded action has been taken against the warrantee, and the warrantee does not get the costs of the action in warranty included in the judgment of dismissal of the action against the principal plaintiff, he must bear the consequences. Supr. C., 1895, Canada, Archbald et al. vs Delisle and Baker et al., 25 Supr. C. R., 1.

34. Action en nullité.—Dans une action instituée pour faire annuler la vente d'un immeuble dont le prix total est de $411.50 et dont le défendeur est propriétaire pour un quart, le mémoire des frais d'avocats doit être taxé, suivant le tarif, comme dans une action de quatrième classe de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Charette vs Savage et al. et Savage, ès-qual., et al., 12 R. J., 45.

35. Action hypothécaire.—An action hypothécaire the defendant makes default and does not appear he will be condemned to pay cost. For it is he that drives the plaintiff to proof in consequence of the ordinance which requires evidence of the demand in all default actions. K. B., 1819, Quebec, Taschereau vs Bélanger, 3 R. de L., 351, 393.

36. In an hypothecary action taken super non domino, the defendant could be compelled to pay costs up to the filing of his plea, and the proper course of the plaintiff would then be to call in the tiers détenteur, Q. B., 1875, Montreal, Lalonde vs Lynch et al., 17 J., 38; 20 J., 158; 23 R. J. R. Q., 56, 529, 551.

37. Les frais, dans une action hypothécaire de $13.80, seront taxés comme dans une action appelable de dernière classe. C. C., 1875, Terrebonne, Leclair vs Filion, 7 R. L., 428.

38. Le créancier d'une obligation hypothécaire qui poursuit son débiteur personnellement ne peut subséquemment, dans une action en déclaration d'hypothèque contre un tiers détenteur, réclamer les frais qu'il a faits dans l'action personnelle si ces frais n'ont pas été enregistrés contre l'immeuble portant l'hypothèque. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Sancer vs Thibeau, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 473; 12 L. N., 206.

39. Les frais d'une action hypothécaire intentée en cour Supérieure pour moins de $100, doivent être taxés, quant aux honoraires et déboursés, comme dans une cause de $100 à $200. C. S., 1898, Saguenay, Péduand vs Chesholm, 4 R. L., n. s., 445.

40. Le demandeur avait poursuivi hypothécairement le défendeur, tiers détenteur d'un immeuble hypothéqué, concluant à ce qu'il fût condamné à délaisser ou à payer la dette du demandeur, avec dépens contre lui personnellement s'il contestait l'action. Le défendeur ayant contesté l'action, son plaidoyer fut rejeté, mais le jugement ne le condamna qu'à délaisser, ou à payer la dette en capital, intérêts et frais, faute par lui de délaisser dans le délai fixé. Le défendeur délaissa et le demandeur demanda, par motion, qu'il fût condamné personnellement aux dépens:

41. Le demandeur pouvait obtenir cette condamnation aux dépens contre le défendeur, même après que le jugement final eût été rendu. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Marchand vs Chaput, R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 322.

42. Action inutile.—While a creditor has a right of action against the agent of his debtor, in whose name real estate of the debtor is registered, to have it declared that such property really belongs to the debtor, yet where it appears that the action is unnecessary, the judgment maintaining it will be confirmed without costs in either court. Q. B., 1886, Montreal, Schwob vs Baker et al., ès-qual., M. L. R., 3 Q. B., 191; 10 L. N., 372.

43. Action paulienue ou révocatoire. La classe de l'action et le montant des dépens, dans une action paulienne, sont déterminés, non par le montant de la créance du demandeur, mais par la valeur de l'immeuble qu'on veut faire rentrer dans le patrimoine du défendeur. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Labelle vé Meunier et al., R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 256.

44. Action pénale.—Costs may be awarded in a qui tam action, and two witnesses to different acts in breach of the statute are sufficient. Q. B., 1812, Quebec, Piuse vs Fay, 1 R. de L., 508; 2 R. de L., 280; 2 R. J. R. Q., 124.

45. Une action pénale au montant de $200, avec conclusion à l'emprisonnement, doit être considérée comme de la seconde classe de la cour Supérieure.

46. Dans l'espèce, le défendeur après avoir plaidé à la forme plaida au mérite sur réquisition à cet effet, en produisant une défense en droit et une défense en fait; la cause ayant été inscrite le même jour sur l'exception à la forme et sur la défense en droit, fut renvoyée pour défaut de forme, sans adjudication sur les autres plaidoyers. Dans ce cas c'est l'item 10 et non l'item 8 du tarif qui doit s'appliquer dans la taxation des frais.

47. L'honoraire de l'audition au mérite prévu par l'item 36 du tarif devra être accordé parce que la cause avait aussi été plaidée sur la défense en droit.

48. Dans l'espèce le protonotaire avait le droit de charger l'honoraire qui lui est accordé pour toute copie de document, sur la production au dossier d'une copie du cautionnement fourni par le demandeur pour aller en appel. C. S., 1897, Montmagny, Bernatchez vs Vézina, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 495.

49. Les triples frais auxquels le poursuivant malheureux dans une action sous l'article 2555 S. R. Q. doit être condamné ne comprennent pas triples frais de révision, non plus que triple taxe de témoins.

50. Le juge n'a pas de discrétion à exercer sur cette disposition de la loi, et quand il juge l'action pénale contre le juge de paix non fondée, et la renvoie, il doit accorder les triples dépens au défendeur.

51. Lorsque, dans une cause, le jugement de première instance a renvoyé l'action avec dépens, et que le demandeur seul ayant appelé de ce jugement, la cour de Révision a simplement confirmé le jugement avec dépens, les triples dépens ne doivent pas être taxés par le protonotaire. (Voir les raisons données par M. le juge Routhier.)

52. Mais lorsque le jugement de première instance a renvoyé l'action sans frais, et que le défendeur appelle de ce jugement et réclame les triples dépens, la cour de Révision les lui accordera, et le protonotaire devra les faire entrer en taxe. C. R., 1901, Québec, Luneau vs Juneau, 2 R. P. Q., 454; 3 R. P. Q., 505; 7 R. J., 87.

53. Action possessoire. — Possessory actions are second class actions, although the value of the immovable is over $1,000, specially when plaintiff only seeks to be relieved of the disturbance in the enjoyment of his property, which defendant commits in cutting wood on a part of it. S. C., 1907, Quebec, Lefrançois vs Morel, 10 Q. P. R., 80.

54. Action réelle.—Celui qui réclame des dommages causés par la chaussée d'un moulin et qui, comme la loi lui en donne le droit, conclut à la démolition de la chaussée faute de paiement, exerce une action réelle qui est de la compétence exclusive de la cour Supérieure, et, partant, il a droit aux frais d'une action en cour Supérieure. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Houle vs Poitras, R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 89.

55. Action sur un faux billet.—Une action basée sur billet faux sera maintenue quant aux frais jusqu'à production de la défense alléguant ce faux, si le défendeur par ses actes et en refusant ou négligeant de montrer ce billet a été cause que le deamndeur a été obligé d'instituer telle action.

56. Le demandeur, sur production d'une telle défense, sera condamné aux frais subséquents, s'il conteste mal à propos cette défense, et néglige de metttre en cause celui qui a cédé ce billet faux. C. C., 1899, Ottawa, Charrette vs Ross et al., 7 R. J., 142.

57. Administrateur étranger.—An action whereby the plaintiff, appointed by a foreign tribunal, administrator to a decedent estate, seeks to have his quality recognized in this country, against a sequestrator appointed by our courts to the property situate in this country, will be considered a second class action for taxation purposes, no matter what the amount of the estate may be. K. B., 1900, Montreal, Lavoignat, ès-qual., vs Mackay, ès-qual., and Boudreau et al., 3 Q. P. R., 478, 479.

58. Affidavit.—In the absence of any objection of the adverse party or of any remark of the judge to the number of affidavits filed in support of or against a petition for interim injonction, the successful party is entitled to a fee upon each affidavit. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Brault et al. vs Lambert, 6 Q. P. R., 402.

59. Ajournement.—En accordant une application pour remettre un procès par jurés, lorsqu'il appert de mauvaise foi, la cour condamnera aux dépens la partie agissant de mauvaise foi, quoique la motion pour ajournement soit faite par l'autre partie. C. S., 1863, Québec, Quebec Bank vs Roland et al., 15 D. T. B. C., 23; 13 R. J. R. Q., 411.

60. Quand l'audition sur une défense, une motion, une requête, ou sur une procédure incidente a été remise du consentement des deux parties, leurs procureurs ne peuvent exiger pour telle remise l'honoraire fixé par l'article 49 du tarif. Les mots "la partie tenue de procéder n'étant pas prête, à la partie adverse," de l'article 48 du tarif doivent être sous-entendus dans l'interprétation de l'article 49. Articles 48 et 49, tarif. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Marien vs Huot, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 428; 1 R. P. Q., 580.

61. Amendement.—The amount of costs payable on the amendment of a declaration is within the discretion of the court. S. C., 1854, Montreal, Daoust vs Deschamps, 4 L. C. R., 425.

62. Un demandeur qui obtient permission d'amender sa déclaration, après l'enfilure d'une exception à la forme, est tenu de payer tous les frais d'action. C. S., 1856, Montréal, Boudreau vs Richer, 6 D. T. B. C., 474; 6 R. J. R. Q., 143.

63. And in case where the plaintiffs moved to amend their declaration during the enquête, the motion was granted on payment of full costs, as in an action settled at the stage where the action then was, viz., after the inscription for enquête. S. C., 1856, Montreal, Syme et al. vs Heward, 6 J., 311; 10 R. J. R. Q., 380.

64. Plaintiff moved and was allowed to amend his declaration after plea filed. Defendant declined to plead de novo, and after judgment against him for debt and costs, complained of being condemned to pay costs of contestation on the ground that he had not pleaded to the declaration as amended: This did not constitute an acquiescence sufficient to relieve him from the costs of contestation. C. R., 1879, Montreal, Archambault vs Pangman, 2 L. N., 246.

65. Lorsqu'un amendement est fait, mais non signifié, la motion pour rejeter la déclaration du dossier sera renvoyée, mais avec dépens, et l'autre motion pour faire rester au dossier la dite déclaration amendée sera accordée sans frais. C. S., 1899, Québec, Linahan vs Plock, 2 R. P. Q., 332.

66. Les frais de cet amendement seront ceux d'une motion et il sera adjugé plus tard sur les frais résultant de l'amendement. C. C., 1900, Montréal, Longpré vs Brien, 2 R. P. Q., 446.

67. Le défendeur qui amende son plaidoyer après production de l'inscription pour enquête et mérite, doit payer la différence entre les items 7 et 8 du tarif. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Union Bank of Halifax vs Vipond et al., 3 R. P. Q., 490.

68. Si le demandeur, en amendant, change sa demande en la réduisant, en payent les frais de motion, les autres frais étant réservés, le coût de la production d'une nouvelle défense ne pourra être adjugé contre le demandeur qu'au procès, le juge du fond pouvant décider si telle nouvelle défense était nécessaire. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Dame Quinn et vir vs Imperial Bank of Canada, 6 R. P. Q., 352.

69. If, after contestation filed, the opposant is allowed to file an amendment to his opposition, necessitating the filing of a new contestation, the opposant will not be entitled thereby to two fees on contestation and two additional fees, but only to such fee as the court will allow him, the costs of the amendment having been reserved. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Canada Insdutrial Co. vs Kensington Land Co., and Gnaedinger, 6 Q. P. R., 237.

70. L'adjudication sur les frais causés par l'amendement d'une erreur cléricale est au pouvoir discrétionnaire du tribunal de première instance, et, à moins d'abus, n'a pas lieu d'être réformée par la cour d'Appel. C. c. 3174. B. R., 1907, Québec, Forcier vs Bélanger, R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 289.

71. Appel.—Lorsque le jugement de première instance a omis une partie des conclusions de la demande et que ces conclusions sont accordées en appel, l'intimé sera condamné aux frais de l'appel. Con. Sup., 1733, Jayat et al. vs Massol, Con. Sup., 21; Veyssière vs Butteau, Con. Sup., 27.

72. Where in appeal an action brought in the name of the municipal council of Westchester was set aside on the ground that such a body had no legal existence: No costs of appeal could be granted the appellant upon reversal of the judgment. Q. B., 1862, Quebec, Le Mesurier vs Municipal Council of the township of Chester West, 12 L. C. R., 314; 11 R. J. R. Q., 90; 16 R. L., 90.

73. Lorsque le défendeur a consenti à plaider comme appelable, une cause qui ne l'est pas, il devra payer les frais d'une cause appelable. C. C., 1868, Richelieu, La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Aimé vs Comtois, 1 R. L., 666; 20 R. J. R. Q., 421, 528.

74. Where a party has only raised objection to the irregularity of a proceedings by his factum and argument on the appeal, no costs will be allowed to him on the dismissal of the appeal on this ground only. Q. B., 1889, Montreal, Greene and Turner vs Mappin, M. L. R., 5 Q. B., 108; M. L. R., 3 S. C., 393; 11 L. N., 132; 12 L. N., 378; 31 J., 163; 33 J., 156; 16 R. L., 548; 17 R. L., 584.

75. Lorsqu'un défendeur n'invoque pas en cour de première instance un moyen de droit qui le fait réussir en appel, il n'obtiendra pas de dépens contre le demandeur. B. R., 1890, Montréal, La Banque d'Echange du Canada vs Gilman, 19 R. L., 194; 34 J., 120.

76. Where appellant had agreed to discharge a hypothec in his favor, registered against an immovable, and it appeared that he had instructed his notary to prepare the discharge, but through inadvertence no discharge was executed or registered until after the institution of an action against him en radiation d'hypothèque, the court of Appeal will not interfere with the discretion exercised by the court below in condemning the appellant to pay the costs of such action, more especially as the hypothec in question was not in fact included in the registered transfer of his right pleaded by the appellant. Q. B., 1892, Montreal, Maclaren vs Laperrière, Q. J. R., 1 Q. B., 359; 16 L. N., 55.

77. Sur requête en révision de la taxe de trois mémoires de frais dans trois appels de jugements déclarant suffisantes les particularités fournies par les intimés, jugements renversés en appel. Les appelants ont droit à leurs déboursés et honoraires relatifs à l'inscription en appel, laquelle est nécessaire pour ces appels comme pour ceux d'un jugement final.

78. Ils ont également droit aux déboursés et honoraires relatifs aux factums, s'il y a eu des factums de produits.

79. Ils ont également droit à tous les honoraires pour vacations au greffe.

80. Quære.—Si plusieurs causes ont été consolidées pour les fins de la plaidoirie et des factums, y a-t-il lieu à plusieurs honoraires, ou à un seul? B. R., 1898, Québec, Paquet vs Taché, 2 R. P. Q., 380.

81. The county corporations are liable for the costs of an appeal from a decision of their board of delegates acting on its own motion. S. C., 1899, Sherbrooke, The Corporation of the village of Megantic et al. and The Corporation of the county of Compton et al., Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 281.

82. Lorsque vu le défaut de l'appelant de fournir cautionnement au jour fixé, l'appel a été déclaré déserté, l'appelant ne peut porter un nouvel appel du même jugement avant de payer les frais du premier appel. B. R., 1899, Montréal, Cain vs Bartels, R. J. Q., 10 B. R., 323.

83. Dans l'espèce, l'appelant ayant réussi à faire retrancher du jugement un motif qu'il avait intérêt à attaquer, parce que ce motif déclarait prescrite une créance qu'il opposait en compensation et qu'on aurait pu invoquer ce motif contre lui dans une action où il réclamait le paiement de cette créance, a droit contre l'intimée à ses frais et dépens en appel. B. R., 1899, Montréal, Naud vs Marcotte, R. J. Q., 9 B. R., 123; 5 R. L., n. s., 57.

84. The costs on an appeal from a judgment for $200 with interest and costs, which is reversed, the action being dismissed by the court of Appeals, are costs of an action of the fourth, and not of the third class. K. B., 1901, Montreal, Sauriol vs Clermont, 3 Q. P. R., 477.

85. Si l'appel est renvoyé sur motion quant à une des parties seulement, l'honoraire de l'avocat sera l'honoraire entier fixé par le tarif et non pas seulement la moitié de cet honoraire. B. R., 1903, Montréal, Leduc et al. vs Corporation St-Louis de Gonzague, 5 R. P. Q., 448.

86. When an appeal is taken by the plaintiff from a judgment dismissing his action, which was one of the first class, but ordering the defendant to return him some effects claimed, the class of action is determined by the amount for which the action was brought. K. B., 1903, Montreal, Armstrong vs Beauchemin, 6 Q. P. R., 51.

87. If one of two defendants acquiesced in the judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff by the Supreme court, and the case is taken to appeal by the other defendant, who succeeds in obtaining the dismissal of the action, he can only tax against the plaintiff one half of the Superior court costs, plus the costs of judgment, bill and taxation. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Marsan et al. vs Guay et al., 8 Q. P. R., 162.

88. L'intimé n'ayant présenté sa motion pour le rejet de l'appel qu'à l'audition au mérite, n'a droit qu'à ses frais de motion, plus les frais encourus pour l'impression et la production des factums additionnels produits à la demande du tribunal sur cette question préliminaire. B. R., 1907, Montréal, Migneron vs La Ville de St-Laurent, 9 R. P. Q., 43.

89. The respondent in appeal, who does move a limine for the dismissal of the appeal, for want of jurisdiction, is not entitled to more costs than those which would have been incurred on a motion to dismiss said appeal. K. B., 1907, Montreal, Nichol et al. vs Corporation of the town of Waterloo, 8 Q. P. R., 361; Q. J. R., 16 K. B., 509.

89a. Appel (C. P.).—The tariff of fees made by the judges of the P. C. for proceedings in appeals to the Queen in council only applies to costs incurred in England. The general council of the Bar of the province of Quebec has power to make, and in fact has made, a tariff for the costs incurred in this country in appeals to the Queen in council, and items not mentioned in the said tariff, such as attendances, etc., will not be allowed.

89b. If an appeal as of right to the Privy Council from a judgment of the court of Queen's Bench was refused by the said court, and special leave to appeal was obtained from the Privy Council, and the judgment of the court of Queen's Bench was reversed on such appeal, the appellant has a right to recover and have the fee and disbursements on his motion for leave to appeal, the cost of a copy of the judgment rejecting his motion, and of the service of his bill of costs on the respondent. Q. B., 1899, Montreal, England vs Kerry et al., 1 Q. P. R., 554.

89c. Appel (C. Supr.).—Either through erroneous views held in common by both parties or by mutual agreement to let the matter pass in silence, a question as to the jurisdiction of the court to hear an appeal was not raised but the case was argued on the merits. The court raised the question proprio motu and quashed the appeal without costs. Supr. C., 1885, Canada, Bank of Toronto vs Curé et Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et Fabrique de la paroisse de la Nativité de la Sainte-Vierge, 12 Supr. C. R., 25.

89d. On a motion to quash an appeal where the respondents filed affidavits stating that the amount in controversy was less than the amount fixed by the statute as necessary to give jurisdiction to the appellate court, and affidavits were also filed by the appellants, shewing that the amount in controversy was sufficient to give jurisdiction under the statute, the motion to quash was dismissed, but the appellants were ordered to pay the costs, as the jurisdiction of the court to hear the appeal did not appear until the filing of the appellants' affidavits in answer to the motion. Supr. C., 1898, Canada, Dreschel and Melick, vs Auer Incandescent Light Manufacturing Co., 28 Supr. C. R., 268; 6 Ex. C. R., 55.

90. Appel de la corporation des huissiers.—Les honoraires sur une requête appelant d'une décision de la corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal, qui avait refusé d'admettre un candidat à la charge d'huissier, doivent être ceux accordés pour un certiorari. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Cuisset vs Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal, 4 L. R., n. s., 332; 1 R. P. Q., 340.

91. Appel (Droit scolaire).— Dans un appel en vertu de l'article 482 de la loi de l'Instruction Publique, les honoraires des avocats doivent être taxés suivant l'article 105 du tarif de la cour Supérieure, pour l'honoraire général,

92. Et, pour les autres honoraires, comme pour une action de quatrième classe en cour Supérieure. C. C., 1902, St-Jérome, Guay et al. vs Commissaires d'Ecoles pour l'arrondissement no 4, pour la municipalité des paroisses de St-Jérome et Ste-Monique, dans les comtés de Terrebonne et de Deux-Montagnes, 5 R. P. Q., 124.

93. Arbitrage.—In an action wherein the matter in dispute was referred to arbitrators, who found so much due to the plaintiff, and reported that each party should pay his own costs: Supporting the pretensions of the plaintiff, so much of the award as pretended to decide on the question of costs would be rejected. C. C., 1858, Montreal, McKenna vs Tabb, 2 J., 190.

94. Les juges peuvent, dans les arbitrages pour expropriation du terrain requis pour un chemin de fer, accorder des honoraires aux avocats.

95. La taxation de ces honoraires n'est pas sujette à révision. B. R., 1884, Montréal, La Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal et Sorel vs Vincent et al., 17 R. L., 36; 12 L. N., 168.

96. Les dépens sur une motion pour taxer les frais d'un arbitre sont établis par le montant de la sentence arbitrale et non par le montant des honoraires dus à l'arbitre, vu que la taxation des frais de l'arbitre n'est qu'un incident de telle sentence arbitrale. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Provincial Light, Heat and Power Co. vs Lafleur et Monet, 10 R. P. Q., 51; 14 R. J., 526.

97. The costs of an owner who succeeds in an arbitration under the Railway Act shall be taxed as between solicitor and client.

98. The tariff of costs prescribed for ordinary litigation may be accepted as a general guide for taxing the costs of such an arbitration. S. C., 1909, Quebec, The Canadian Northern Quebec Railway Co. vs Paquin, 11 Q. P. R., 237.

99. Articulations de faits. — Aucun frais ne seront accordés sur les articulations de faits et les réponses à icelles lorsque ces articulations de faits sont générales et partant irrégulières. C. R., 1871, Montréal, Désautels

et vir vs Ethier, 15 J., 301; 22 R. J. R. Q., 138, 543.—C. R., 1871, Montréal, Guérin vs Mathe, 15 J., 253; 22 R. J. R. Q., 75, 553.

100. Aucun honoraire ne sera accordé pour des définitions de faits qui ne sont autre chose que les anciennes articulations de faits pour lesquelles il n'est rien accordé par le nouveau tarif. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Bagg vs Duchesneau, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 350; 16 L. N., 156.

101. L'honoraire sera accordé sur des articulations de faits produites sous l'ancien Code dans un procès par jury. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Gaffney vs Montreal Gas Co., 1 R. P. Q., 569.

102. Assignation illégale.—Un défendeur ne peut être condamné à payer les frais d'une assignation nulle et illégale. C. C., 1886, Montréal, Valiquette vs Nicholson, 9 L. N., 106.

103. Assurance.—In an action of revendication of insurance policies, which represented the face value of over $200, the costs should be granted according to the actual value of the titles, not according to the value which the titles represented. S. C., 1903, Iberville, Bouchard vs Hétu, 6 Q. P. R., 44.—S. C., 1903, Montreal, McDuff et al. vs Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., 6 Q. P. R., 133.

104. Audition et ré-audition.—Il ne sera accordé aucun honoraire pour ré-audition, à moins que telle ré-audition n'ait lieu par un ordre spécial de cour et pour mettre la cour à portée de connaître plus amplement la cause. C. S., 1862, Québec, Boswell vs Lloyd, 13 D. T. B. C., 18; 11 R. J. R. Q., 150.

105. L'honoraire, article 32 du tarif, sera accordé pour ré-audition, quand le délibéré est déchargé, sans la faute des procureurs, et la cause est plaidée de nouveau au mérite. C. S., 1878, Québec, Grosleau vs Q. N. S. T. Road Trustees, 1 R. J. Q., 203.

106. L'article 49 du tarif de la cour Supérieure accordant un honoraire "pour remise de l'audition au mérite sur une défense, une motion, une requête et les procédures incidentes," doit s'interpréter comme l'article 48 précédent, en y ajoutant les mots: "la partie tenue de procéder n'étant pas prête, à la partie adverse." C. S., 1899, Montréal, Marien vs Huot, 5 R. L., n. s., 34.

107. Il n'est pas nécessaire pour qu'un procureur ait droit à l'honoraire d'une ré-audition, qu'elle ait été ordonnée en termes exprès.

108. Si une motion conclut à une condamnation pour le cas ou la partie adverse ne se conformerait pas à un ordre du tribunal, et que cet ordre est donné, il y a lieu de présenter de nouveau la motion au cas où l'ordre n'est pas exécuté, et par conséquent de réclamer un honoraire de ré-audition. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Werthemer vs Boulanger, 8 R. J., 570; 5 R. P. Q., 293.

109. Quand une cause est déchargée du délibéré, les parties ont droit à un honoraire de ré-audition, mais non à un second honoraire d'enquête. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Dame Coke et vir vs Dlle Arnold, 6 R. P. Q., 238.

110. L'honoraire d'audition n'est pas accordé dans une cause déclarée réglée entre les parties, le jour où elle est appelée pour être référée. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Sessenwein vs Pillow Hersey Manufacturing Co., 6 R. P. Q., 320.

111. L'avocat qui est présent en cour et attend que sa cause soit appelée, a droit à l'honoraire pour audition si, lorsque cette cause est appelée, il demande jugement suivant le billet promissoire qui fait la base de telle action.

112. Il a droit à cet honoraire même alors que le procureur du défendeur déclare qu'il n'a aucune objection à ce que jugement soit ainsi rendu en faveur du demandeur. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Tougas vs Quinn et vir, 11 R. J., 360.

113. Le fait de la présence d'un avocat en cour pour obtenir un jugement est suffisant pour lui faire obtenir les honoraires d'audition, quand même il n'y aurait réellement pas eu d'audition. C. S., 1911, Montréal,, Taylor ès-qual., vs Paradis et vir, 12 R. P. Q., 358.

114. Avant l'assignation.—L'avocat du demandeur n'a droit de réclamer aucun frais du défendeur pour procédures avant l'émanation d'un bref.

115. Le fait de loger un fiat au greffe ne lui donne lieu à aucun frais contre la partie adverse, vu que le tarif n'a aucun item à cette fin.

116. Le premier étage de la procédure qui donne droit aux frais est l'émanation du bref, et ce n'est qu'alors qu'on peut dire qu'il y a une action.

117. L'item premier du tarif de la cour de Circuit, qui accorde des frais pour toutes procédures dans les actions réglées avant retour, ne peut se rapporter aux procédés avant l'institution d'une action. C. C., 1872, Montréal, White vs Foster, 4 R. L., 565.

118. Le paiement de la dette après l'institution, mais avant la signification de l'action, ne libère pas le défendeur des frais encourus, alors que ce dernier a été mis en demeure de payer par lettre d'avocat, et qu'il affirme, lors du paiement de telle dette, qu'aucune action n'a encore été instituée contre lui. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Hurteau vs Hurtubise, 1 R. J., 227.

119. Pour qu'un demandeur ait droit à ses frais, il n'est pas nécessaire que l'action soit signifiée, il suffit que ces frais aient été encourus légitimement avant les offres. C. C., 1907, Montréal, Kearney vs Morin, 8 R. P. Q., 288.

120. Une corporation, dont le conseil annule un procès-verbal, entre l'institution et la signification d'une action en cassation de tel procès-verbal, dont la nullité est admise, doit être condamnée aux frais si elle plaide purement et simplement que l'action est mal fondée de ce chef, au lieu de consentir à jugement ou de s'en rapporter à justice et d'offrir les frais à date. C. S., 1908, Ottawa, Bourque vs Corporation des Cantons Unis de Moreau, Wurtelle et Gravel, 14 R. J., 295.

121. Avocat et client.—Le procureur ad litem pour recouvrer ses honoraires et déboursés de son client, n'a pas besoin de produire un mémoire de frais taxé. B. R., 1851, Montréal, Cherrier vs Titus, 1 D. T. B. C., 402; 3 R. J. R. Q., 62; R. J. Q., 2 B. R., 155; 18 R. L., 22.—C. C., 1885, Montréal, Lebœuf vs Lauzon, 14 R. L., 23.

122. An action for professional fees and disbursement in a case of which the number and the title are given, unaccompanied, either at the time of the service, or at the time of the return, with any account of details, is not an action "founded upon detailed account," within the meaning of article 91 C. c. p., although a bill of costs be subsequently filed in the case; and even if it were brought upon, and accompanied with, the bill of costs, it still would not come under the terms of the article, and the clerk of the court has therefore no right to render judgment forthwith upon production of the affidavit mentioned in that article. C. R., 1883, Quebec, Langlois vs St-Pierre et al., St-Pierre et al., and Langlais, 9 Q. L. R., 95.

123. An advocate may recover by action on the quantum meruit fees for professional services which are of a nature sufficiently defined to come under a regular rate of charges, but not for services of an indefinite kind, such as consultations, for which the rate of charge is arbitrary. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Devlin vs Tumblety, 2 J., 182; 6 R. J. R. Q., 464; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 149, 155; 10 R. J. R. Q., 291.

124. An advocate has no right of action for his fees, until the cause wherein he claims them has been terminated by judgment, settlement, or discontinuance, or until his client has withdrawn his mandate from him.

125. But an advocate is not bound to advance moneys as disbursements in a cause, and where he does so he is not obliged to await the result of the suit before he is entitled to sue for the reimbursement of such advances. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Atwell vs Brown, 9 J., 155; 14 R. J. R. Q., 280.—C. C., 1877, Quebec, Malony vs Fitzgerald, 3 Q. L. R., 381; 1 L. N., 174.—S. C., 1892, Montreal, Loranger et al. vs Filiatrault et al., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 356; 16 L. N., 159.—Q. B., 1906, Montreal, Bernard vs Carbonneau, Q. J. R., 1 Q. B., 329.

126. Néanmoins, la formalité d'un jugement déclarant une cause terminée n'est pas nécessaire pour donner droit à un procureur au recouvrement de ses justes honoraires et déboursés contre son client, si la preuve et les circonstances constatent qu'il y a eu règlement hors de cour et que le litige a pris fin. C. R., 1869, Québec, O'Farrell et al. vs Reciprocity Mining Co., 4 R. J. Q., 198.

127. Where a client supplied his attorney ad litem with money to carry on his suit, and at the termination of the suit brought a demand to recover the money, the attorney having been paid his taxed costs by the other side. The attorney had a right to off-set such demand by the value of his service rendered in the case, over and above the taxed costs.

128. The declaration of the client that he would be liberal, and that he wished his case carried on with diligence, coûte que coûte, and that he would pay all necessary expenses, gives to the attorney a right to a retainer, the value of which may be proved by witnesses. C. R., 1865, Montreal, Beaudry vs Ouimet et al., 9 J., 158; 12 R. J. R. Q., 291.

129. Un avocat auquel le client a promis une retenue, en considération des services qu'il attend de lui, dans la cause qu'il a intentée, n'a pas le droit de recouvrer en justice le montant de cette retenue, en sus de ses honoraires, si l'action est réglée avant retour. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Mousseau et al. vs Picard et al. et Lauzon, 5 R. L., 480; 22 R. J. R. Q., 497, 519.

130. The official tariff of attorneys' fees was never intended to govern, and does not govern, the question of remuneration for services between lawyer and client, but the same is adopted on grounds of public policy as a reasonable average, taxable upon a judgment against the losing party, in all cases without regard to their difficulty or the length of time they consume in preparation and conduct.

131. The right of the lawyer to recover from his client the value of his services has been established by jurisprudence, and the amount to be recovered, in the absence of contract is to be determined by verbal proof of quantum meruit.

132. In the absence of a special agreement between advocate and client there may be a presumption that the tariff shall govern as to the advocate's remuneration, but this presumption may be rebutted by evidence as to the unusual or unexpected importance or duration of the litigation. Q. B., 1876, Quebec, Amyot vs Gugy, 2 Q. L. R., 201; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 156.—S. C., 1879, Montreal, Desjardins vs Ducasse, 2 L. N., 270.—Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Christin et al. vs Lacoste et al., Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 142; 16 L. N., 151.—S. C., 1903, Montreal, Valiquette vs Beaubien et al., 10 R. J., 416.—Contra: Q. B., 1867, Montreal, Grimard vs Burroughs, 11 J., 275; 3 L. C. L. J., 85; 17 R. J. R. Q., 163; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 156.—S. C., 1900, Montreal, Surveyor vs Draincville, Q. J. R., 18 S. C., 527.

133. During the progress of an action the client paid his attorneys $239.75 on account of costs. The case was won and carried to appeal, where the judgment was confirmed. The attorneys having been paid their costs by the losing party, the appellant brought action to recover his $239. The attorneys had had an unusual amount of labor in connection with the case, and there was evidence that they were to be paid some $50 extra, which, in fact, they had received and given a receipt for as in full. The action in the first instance was maintained, except as to the fifty dollars. In review this judgment was reversed, and the action was dismissed altogether, and in appeal the judgment of the first instance was restored, cost of appeals divided. C. R., 1879, Montreal, Larue vs Loranger et al., 2 L. N., 155; 3 L. N., 284; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 156.

134. An application for an order directing registrar to tax costs between solicitor and client was refused, the chief justice stating that the question was duly considered by the judges at the organization of the Supreme court, and it was not thought advisable to regulate costs between solicitor and client. Supr. C., 1879, Canada, Boak vs Merchants Marine Insurance Co., Cass. Dig. (2 ed.), 677.

135. Where an attorney in Quebec receives instructions from an attorney in Ontario to take action, and does so, he cannot come upon the client of his correspondent for his fees and costs. C. C., 1879, Montreal, Keller et al. vs Watson, 2 L. N., 400.

136. Mais l'avocat qui devient porteur de pièces bona fide, par l'entremise d'un tiers, a droit à ses frais contre son client, quelqu'aient été les arrangements de ce dernier avec ce tiers. C. M., 1889, Montréal, Bernard vs Elliott, 12 L. N., 146.

137. An advocate in the province of Quebec, retained to render professional services outside of his province, can recover as a quantum meruit according to services rendered; and may also lawfully contract for any rate of remuneration which is not contra bonos mores, or in violation of the rules of the Bar.

138. The law applicable is not the law of the province where the contract was made or where the services were rendered, but the law of the province where he is practising as an advocate, that of his own Bar. P. C., 1884, Quebec, The Queen vs Doutre, 28 J., 209; 3 L. N., 297; 4 L. N., 34; 5 L. N., 153, 184; 7 L. N., 225, 241, 242, 265, 270, 287, 298; 18 R. L., 22; Ramsay's A. C., 1045; 51 L. T., 669; 1 B. J. P. C., 151; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 153, 156; 5 L. J., P. C., 85; 6 Supr. C. R., 342; L. R., 9 App. Cas., 745.

139. The defendant when examined in court admitted the advice that it was given in answer to questions asked by him and he did not dispute the charge for the services rendered, but rested his defence on the contention that the consultation in question having taken place in the course of a casual conversation on board of a railroad car on which he and one of the plaintiffs were passengers, there was no right of action. It was elicited that the defendant was at the time actually on his way to Montreal to obtain advice on the point concerning which he consulted the plaintiff: Judgment for plaintiff. C. C., 1884, Richmond, Cooke et al. vs Penfold, 7 L. N., 176.

140. The plaintiffs, attorneys at law, obtained judgment by default against the defendant on the amount of their costs taxed in two suits, defended by them for the defendant, and of which they secured the dismissal. The defendant fyled an opposition to judgment, denying that he had retained the plaintiffs, but alleging that they had been employed by one M., who as defendant's, garant, was bound to defend him against the suits in question; and further that he had not pleaded to the present action, because he had been informed that plaintiffs had abandoned it. The proof established that M. had handed the copies of writs to plaintiffs, with instructions to defend; also that he told defendant the present suit had not been entered into court: It was held that the plaintiffs as porteurs de pièces, could recover from the defendant the amount of their costs sued for, being the value of services by which he had profited, the two actions against him having been dismissed on their pleas. C. R., 1885, Quebec, Tousignant et al. vs Badeau, 11 Q. L. R., 349.

141. L'avocat qui agit pour une personne pauvre et incapable de faire valoir ses droits, sans l'assistance gratuite des officiers de la justice, est censé fournir lui-même gratuitement ses services et son ministère. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Mathieu et al. vs Beauchamp et Gagné, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 307; 3 R. J., 233.

142. L'avocat ne peut réclamer de son client que le montant du mémoire taxé, à moins de conventions contraires ou de services extraordinaires rendus dans la cause. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Surveyer vs Drainville, 6 R. J., 572.

143. The services of an attorney in procuring an option on, and purchase of an immovable, for a client, are purely a matter of quantum meruit, which the court will fix at five per cent. upon the price. S. C., 1903, Hull, Aylen vs Lindsay, Q. J. R., 23 S. C., 345; 9 R. L., n. s., 520.

144. A l'égard de son propre client, l'avocat est présumé avoir fait lui-même les déboursés constatés dans un mémoire de frais, certifié par le protonotaire de la cour, y compris la taxe des témoins et le coût des exhibits, jusqu'à preuve du contraire par son client. C. S., 1904, Kamouraska, Pelletier vs Riou, 10 10 R. J., 247.

145. La valeur des services d'un avocat est recouvrable par action. Elle dépend: (a) de l'âge, de l'expérience et de la réputation de l'avocat; (b) de l'importance de l'affaire où les services sont rendus; (c) du travail et des études qu'elle exige; (d) de ce qu'il est d'usage de payer pour des services de même nature. La fortune du client n'est pas un élément dont on doit tenir compte.

146. Le tribunal a le pouvoir d'apprécier souverainement et de fixer cette valeur sans être astreint à suivre les tarifs ou les opinions exprimées par les témoins à l'instruction. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Patlle et vir vs Holt, R. J. Q., 32 C. S., 323.

147. Le recours d'une action est ouvert en faveur de l'avocat pour le recouvrement de ses frais contre le client avec qui il a traité et au nom de qui la procédure a été faite. Vainement, le plaideur oppose-t-il la prétention que cette procédure a été faite nominalement par lui mais réellement pour le profit de tiers, s'il ne peut administrer la preuve que ceux-ci s'étaient portés garants des frais à sa décharge, du consentement de l'avocat réclamant.

148. Est également inadmissible la défense que l'adoption d'un recours dont la réussite dépend de l'aveu judiciaire de la partie adverse est une faute de l'avocat qui entraîne la déchéance de son droit aux frais. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Mount vs Provencher, R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 144.

149. Les avocats ont le droit de réclamer de leurs clients, non seulement le remboursement des avances et les émoluments qui leur sont alloués par le tarif, mais aussi des honoraires à raison des peines qu'ils ont prises et des démarches extraordinaires qu'ils ont pu faire pour eux. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Baumar vs Carbonneau et Bernard et Pélissier et al., 12 R. P. Q., 47; 12 R. L., n. s., 431.

150. Billet promissoire.—Le faiseur d'un billet promissoire n'est pas tenu au paiement des frais d'une action contre un endosseur. C. S., 1855, Montréal, McDonald et al. vs Seymour, 6 D. T. B. C., 102; 5 R. J. R. Q., 31; 22 R. J. R. Q., 87.

151. When no demand of payment of a promissory note had been made, the defendant was not in default at the time of action brought, and the plaintiff should therefore pay costs, if the defendant tender the debt and interest, and bring the money into court before plea fyled. C. R., 1877, Quebec, Archer vs Lortie, 3 Q. L. R., 159; 1 L. N., 179, 182.

152. Dans une action intentée le 15 novembre 1898, et basée sur un billet promissoire de $200 réclamé "avec intérêt du 28 octobre 1898," l'honoraire des avocats est celui d'une action de troisième classe, savoir, au-dessus de $200. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Taché et al. vs Evans et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 306.

153. Bornage.—In an action en bornage the defendant pleaded thirty years prescription and filed an incidental demande en bornage, on the same ground, viz., of title by prescription to which the incidental defendant took no exception, the incidental demand was dismissed as an unnecessary pleading, each party paying their own costs. K. B., 1816, Quebec, Dussault vs Stuart et vice versa, 3 R. de L., 392; 2 R. J. R. Q., 309.

154. Si dans une action de bornage, le défendeur nie au demandeur son droit d'action, il doit être condamné aux dépens. B. R., 1852, Québec, Weymess et al. vs Cook, 2 D. T. B. C., 486; 3 R. J. R. Q., 329; 16 R. L., 288.

155. In an action en bornage where the defendant pleads that he had been always ready to have the boundaries established, and prays acte of his willingness to do so, and prays also that plaintiff's action may be dismissed with costs, the defendant will be condemned to pay the costs of the suit, although the costs of the bornage be divided. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Dansereau et al. vs Privé, 1 J., 283; 6 R. J. R. Q., 83.

156. Where it is established by the surveyor's report that the wall and fence encroach on the plaintiff's property, the defendant must pay the costs of the action, and the cost of the survey be equally borne by both parties. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Macfarlane vs Thayer, 2 J., 204; 7 R. J. R. Q., 5.

157. Un défendeur poursuivi en bornage qui conclut au débouté de l'action du demandeur tout en offrant de refaire l'ancien bornage, sera condamné à payer les frais de l'action. C. S., 1874, Richelieu, Thibault vs Lavallée, 6 R. L., 80.

158. Where a person brings an action en bornage without previous demand, and joins with it a claim for damages, of which no proof is made, he will be condemned to pay the costs of suit. Q. B., 1857, Quebec, Slack vs Short, 2 J., 81; 6 R. J. R. Q., 382; — S. C., 1877, Montreal, Rochon vs Côté, 21 J., 273; 1 L. N., 201.

159. Un défendeur qui, dans une action en bornage, plaide d'abord par une défense en droit, puis par une défense en fait, et subsidiairement par une exception péremptoire dans laquelle, tout en se disant prêt à borner, il émet des prétentions qui sont rejetées par la cour, sera condamné à payer les frais de l'action. C. S., 1881, Joliette, Forest vs Heathers et Hoey, 11 R. L., 7.

160. Tous les dépens de l'instance en bornage rendus nécessaires, par les prétentions de l'une des parties, doivent être mis exclusivement à sa charge, quoiqu'elle ne se soit pas autrement refusée au bornage, et qu'elle n'ait pas plaidé à l'action; et, les frais d'expertise de bornage sont les seuls qui doivent être également partagés. C. R., 1881, Québec, Roy vs Gagnon, 7 R. J. Q., 207; 4 L. N., 352.

161. Les frais de l'instance en bornage ne doivent pas être partagés entre les parties au litige; mais ils doivent être supportés en entier par celle qui s'est refusée à un bornage à l'amiable, ou qui l'a rendu impossible par des prétentions que rejette le jugement. C. S., 1883, Québec, Bélanger vs Giroux, 9 R. J. Q., 249.

162. Dans une action en bornage, où il est aussi demandé des dommages qui n'ont pas été accordés, les frais du litige, ex parte, seront supportés par le défendeur, lorsque celui-ci, répondant à une demande de borner à l'amiable, a de beaucoup dépassé l'époque fixée pour procéder à tel bornage; les frais du bornage devant être supportés par moitié. B. R., 1886, Québec, Delles Thornton et al. vs Trudel, 14 R. L., 286; 30 J., 202.

163. Lorsque dans une action en bornage, il est constaté que les parties n'ont pu s'entendre et qu'il a été nécessaire, dans l'intérêt des deux, d'avoir recours à l'action en bornage, les frais de l'action doivent être également divisés. B. R., 1881, Montréal, Loiselle vs Paradis, 1 D. C. A., 264; 16 R. L., 290.—B. R., 1888, Québec, Cormier vs Leblanc, 16 R. L., 288; 14 R. J. Q., 247; 11 L. N., 359.

164. Aux termes de l'article 504 C. c., non seulement les frais de bornage, mais aussi les frais de la demande, doivent être communs aux intéressés, lorsque cette dernière n'est pas contestée; s'il y a contestation, les frais sont à la discrétion du tribunal. B. R., 1890, Montréal, Tarte dit Larivière vs Taillefer et Desvoyeaux dit Laframboise et uxor, 19 R. L., 407; M. L. R., 6 B. R., 477; 14 L. N., 194; 20 L. N., 75.

165. Le demandeur qui poursuit en bornage, et émet des prétentions exagérées, quant à l'étendue du terrain qu'il réclame, devra payer les frais de la contestation, si le défendeur, dont les prétentions sont maintenues, déclare qu'il est prêt à borner suivant ses titres, mais demande le renvoi de l'action pour le surplus; les frais d'arpentage et de bornage devant être communs. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Tétrault vs Paquette dit Lavallée, 21 R. L., 62.

166. La cour ne doit adjuger sur l'action et les frais que lors de l'adjudication finale sur le bornage. C. Supr., 1895, Montréal; Spratt vs The E. B. Eddy Co., R. J. Q., 4 B. R., 534; 29 R. C. Supr., 411.

167. Un voisin ne peut assigner le propriétaire du terrain contigu pour le contraindre à borner, que lorsque celui-ci s'y refuse.

168. Lorsque les parties ont toujours consenti à borner, et que l'action en bornage n'a été rendu nécessaire que par le refus mal fondé du demandeur d'accepter la ligne proposée par le défendeur, laquelle est reconnue comme étant la véritable ligne de séparation entre les héritages des parties, le demandeur doit être condamné à payer les frais de l'action, les frais de la plantation des bornes, du procès-verbal et du bornage restant communs.

169. Par "frais du litige au cas de contestation," l'article 504 du Code civil entend non seulement les frais de la contestation du droit de borner, mais encore de toute contestation entre les parties au sujet de l'endroit où les bornes devront être placées. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Dauphin vs Beaugrand dit Champagne, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 338.

170. Sur une action en bornage, le défendeur peut confesser jugement consentant au bornage pourvu que les frais soient communs, et si le demandeur accepte cette confession de jugement, les frais du procureur du défendeur, comme ceux du procureur du demandeur, seront considérés comme faisant partie des frais communs de la cause. C. S., 1898, Joliette, Lacas vs Croteau, 4 R. J., 210; 1 R. P. Q., 238.

171. Lorsque le défendeur a été mis en demeure de borner par un protêt et qu'il refuse de borner à l'amiable, forçant le demandeur à instituer une poursuite en bornage, il doit supporter les frais de cette action. C. S., 1898, Trois-Rivières, Michaud vs Ross, 1 R. P. Q., 565.

172. Dans une action en bornage, lorsque le demandeur a préalablement protesté le défendeur de borner à l'amiable, et que le défendeur ne répond pas au protêt, le défendeur sera condamné aux frais de l'action, si le bornage pouvait se faire facilement, et si l'action en bornage n'est devenue nécessaire que par suite du refus et de l'obstination injuste de tel défendeur. C. S., 1899, Terrebonne, Gould et vir vs McQuat, 5 R. J., 493.

173. Where both parties set up pretensions which are unfounded, they will each be condemned to bear one-half of all the costs of suit and of the expertise. S. C., 1899, Hull, Sicard vs McKenzie and Pouliot, Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 87.

174. Le demandeur, qui poursuit pour bornage, après un protêt de la part du défendeur lui demandant de convenir d'un arpenteur pour rectifier et établir définitivement la ligne tirée l'automne précédent entre leurs propriétés, par un arpenteur convenu par les deux parties, mais laquelle ligne le demandeur refusa à la fin d'accepter, sera condamné aux frais du litige, les frais de l'arpenteur expert et du bornage étant seuls divisés par moitié; et ce, bien que la ligne refusée par le demandeur fût reconnue erronée. C. S., 1903, Gaspé, Soucy vs Thibault, 10 R. J., 16; 10 R. L., n. s., 59.

175. The costs of suit in an action of boundary are subject to the rule which applies to litigation in other matters and should be awarded to the party whose pretensions, as set forth in the pleadings, are upheld by the judgment. Supr. C., 1907, Canada, The Laurentides Mica Co. vs Fortin et al., Q. J. R., 15 K. B., 432; 39 Supr. C. R., 680.

176. Dans une action en bornage, chaque partie paiera ses frais, le demandeur ayant eu tort de contester toutes les prétentions de la partie défenderesse, et cette dernière ayant eu tort de contester le droit même du demandeur de demander un bornage des dites propriétés. C. S., 1910, Beauharnois, McKay vs McCuaig, 17 R. J., 169.

177. Lorsqu'un bornage a été fait entre voisins, dont l'un refusant de l'accepter, intente une action pour le faire déclarer erroné et en faire faire de nouveau, et l'autre conteste l'action pour le motif que le bornage fait est correct, demande acte de l'acceptation qu'il a toujours été prêt à en faire et conclut au rejet de l'action; le tribunal, qui trouve les prétentions du demandeur mal fondées, doit rejeter son action, chaque partie payant ses frais, attendu que la contestation du défendeur était inutile. C. R., 1912, Québec, Mathieu vs Morin, R. J. Q., 42 C. S., 484.

178. Bref de prérogative.—An action praying "à ce que les défendeurs soient condamnés à faire cesser immédiatement l'émanation des odeurs malsaines et la fumée qui s'exhalent de leurs dits établissements, à ce qu'à défaut par les défendeurs de faire cesser immédiatement l'émanation des dites odeurs et fumée de leurs dits établissements, la demanderesse soit autorisée à la faire cesser aux dépens des défendeurs, en employant les moyens nécessaires pour arriver à cette fin; et à ce que les défendeurs soient condamnés à payer la dite somme de cent piastres avec dépens" is similar as regards costs in the court of King's Bench to proceedings by writs of prerogative and is consequently a first class action. B. R., 1903, Montreal, Ville de St-Paul vs Cooke et al., 6 R. P. Q., 48.

179. Brevet d'invention.—The C. S. C., ch. 34, sect. 23, which gives to a party whose patent for an invention has been infringed, besides damages, "treble costs to be taxed according to the course and practice of the court," does not entitle a plaintiff who has availed himself of the provisions of the C. L. P. Act, and claimed an injunction, to tax treble costs of his application for the injunction. Q. B., Ontario, Huntingdon vs Lutz, 10 L. J., 46.

180. No costs are allowed in cases before the minister of Agriculture under the Patent Act of 1872. Ministre, 1872, Canada, Mitchell vs The Hancock Inspiration Co., 9 L. N., 50.

181. Capias.—In cases in the Superior court between $100 and $200, instituted by writ of capias ad respondendum, the advocates' and bailiffs' fees on the action are to be taxed as in a case in the Circuit court over $100, and the prothonotary's and sheriff's fees as in a case in the Superior court under $400.

182. In such cases the costs on a petition to quash the writ of capias are to be taxed according to the tariffs for the Superior court.

183. In such incidental proceedings, when the contestation is founded upon the falsity of the allegations of the affidavit, the advocates are entitled to fees on articulations of facts. S. C., 1887, Ottawa, Gilmour et al. vs Monette, 10 L. N., 385.

184. Le débiteur qui a été arrêté sous capias par suite de ses propos imprudents, qui ont fait croire au demandeur qu'il était sur le point de quitter le pays dans le but de le frauder, sera condamné aux frais du capias et de sa contestation. et cela malgré qu'il ait été libéré sur sa contestation du bref. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Beaudry vs Cadieux, R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 327.

185. Causes appelables en C. C.—Dans les districts autres que Québec et Montréal, les avocats ont droit, pour les actions qui étaient ci-devant de la juridiction de la cour de Circuit appelable et qui sont maintenant prises à la cour Supérieure, aux honoraires des actions de la seconde classe à la cour Supérieure; et il en était de même pour le protonotaire, qui, avant l'ordre en conseil du 9 mars 1888, avait droit à l'honoraire accordé par le tarif du protonotaire; l'ordre des juges de décembre 1868 modifiant le tarif des avocats pratiquant en la cour Supérieure sur ce sujet quant aux districts de Québec et de Montréal, n'a pas été promulgué dans les autres districts et n'y est pas en force. C. S., 1888, Saguenay, Du Berger vs Angers, 11 L. N., 51.

186. Cause personnelle.—An attorney prosecuting his own action for costs due in a former cause cannot have judgment for costs, he is entitled to the amount of his disbursements and no more. K. B., 1819, Quebec, Vallières vs Duhamel et al., 3 R. de L., 392; 2 R. J. R. Q., 309.

187. Un procureur, partie à une action, conduisant sa propre cause, ne peut recouvrer ses honoraires de la partie adverse de même que s'il agissait comme procureur d'une autre personne. B. R., 1861, Québec, Gugy vs Ferguson, 11 D. T. B. C., 409; 10 R. J. R. Q., 84, 518, 524; 10 R. L., 106; 20 R. L., 106.

188. By the old French law prevailing in Lower Canada, an attorney acting as such in his own cause is entitled under a judgment in his favour, avec dépens upon taxation of costs, to the same fees as are allowed by the tariff to attorneys in all ordinary cases. P. C., 1867, Lower Canada, Gugy vs Brown, 1 B. J. P. C., 52, 271, 629, 674; 4 Moore, n. s., 315; L. R., 1 P. C. A., 411; 36 L. J., D. C., 38; 11 L. C. R., 483; 17 L. C. R., 33; 11 J., 141; 2 L. C. L. J., 222; 10 R. J. R. Q., 92; C. R., 5 App. Cas., 66; 15 W. R., 721; 16 Eng. Repr., 336.

188a. The respondent, who was an advocate, argued his appeal in person. Motion to tax counsel fee was refused. Supr. C., 1880, Canada, Charlevoix Election Case, Valin vs Langlois, Cas. S. C. Prac. (2 ed.), 677.

189. Where an advocate appears personally in his own case and conducts it as attorney of record, he is entitled to the usual attorney's fees as well as the disbursements. S. C., 1895. Montreal, Banks vs Burroughs et al., Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 184.

190. Un demandeur qui poursuit sans requérir les services d'un avocat n'a droit, s'il réussit, qu'à ses déboursés. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Tapley vs Marks, 11 R. L., n. s., 42.

191. Cause renvoyée à la C. S.—Lorsqu'une cause intentée à la cour de Circuit est renvoyée d'office par le tribunal, à la cour Supérieure, en vertu de l'article 171 C. p., c., les honoraires de l'avocat suivent le montant en contestation dans l'action, et il n'y a pas lieu d'appliquer l'item 108 du tarif, vu que ce n'est pas une évocation. C. S., 1901, Arthabaska, Duval vs Moffatt 7 R. J., 45.

192. Causes réunies.—Lorsque plusieurs causes de premières classe sont réunies, après qu'un plaidoyer au mérite a été produit dans l'une d'elles, et une déclaration dans les autres à l'effet que le défendeur entend plaider les mêmes moyens et que des jugements séparés devront être rendus, le procureur du demandeur aura droit, dans chaque cause, à l'honoraire de $100. C. R., 1887, Montréal, Lambe, ès-qual., vs La Compagnie d'assurance contre le feu de la Cité de Londres, 13 R. L., 491.

193. Lorsque les défendeurs plaident séparément à l'action, mais que toutes les parties consentent ensuite à une enquête commune, tel consentement n'affecte que l'assignation et la taxe des témoins et le coût des dépositions, mais n'affecte pas les honoraires des avocats qui représentent les parties respectivement, partant, tels avocats sont droit à leurs honoraires de transquestion des témoins, d'enquête et d'audition. C. S., 1896, Joliette, Archambault vs Robillard et al., 6 R. J., 562.

194. Dans une demande principale et demande incidente réunies en cour de première instance décidées par un seul et même jugement, et où il n'y a qu'une seule inscription en Révision, les mémoires de frais doivent être taxés, en cour de Révision, comme pour une seule contestation. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Legault vs L'Allemand et Cintras, 4 R. L., n. s., 326; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 149; 1 R. P. Q., 287.

195. When several issues are united for trial and there is only one enquête and examination of witnesses, one argument and one judgment on the several issues, the attorney is not entitled to fees of enquête and argument as if there had been separate trials. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Demers vs Sanche and Provost and Provost and Baucage, 6 Q. P. R., 241.

196. Lorsqu'une cause est réunie à une ou plusieurs autres pour que l'enquête et l'audition aient lieu en même temps, et qu'il ressort des circonstances que les faits à prouver ne sont pas les mêmes dans toutes les causes, les procureurs du demandeur ont droit à leurs honoraires d'enquête et d'audition sur chaque cause, et ce bien que l'enquête dans toutes les causes ait lieu en même temps. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Ritson vs Dougall, 10 R. J., 264.

197. Si plusieurs actions en dommages ont été réunies pour les fins de l'enquête et de l'audition, et que les jugements sont rendus pour différents montants, on ne peut dire que l'enquête et l'audition aient été absolument les mêmes dans les différentes causes, et par conséquent il y a lieu d'accorder un honoraire distinct dans chacune. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Montréal, Ritson vs Dlle Arnold, 6 R. P. Q., 239.

198. La réunion de plusieurs causes pour les fins d'enquête et d'audition n'empêche pas les avocats de recevoir l'honoraire d'enquête et d'audition pour chacune de ces causes, mais réduit seulement les frais de sténographie et la taxe des témoins. C. S., 1904, Trois-Rivières, Henry vs Sanderson et al., 6 R. P. Q., 191.

199. The consent that the evidence adduced in a case be made available in another case does not deprive a successful party to recover for the full expense of witnesses and depositions, chargeable by the witnesses and stenographers against him and for which he is liable. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Leclair vs Mayrand, 8 Q. P. R., 248.

200. La cour n'accordera qu'un seul mémoire de frais en cour de Révision, lorsque les parties, par leur consentement tacite, sinon formel, ont traité deux causes comme une seule, et que la cour de Révision comme la cour Supérieure n'a rendu qu'un seul jugement. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Beaudry vs Lavigne et contra, 13 R. P. Q., 229.

201. Cautionnement.—D'après l'article 1936 du C. c. conforme à l'ancienne jurisprudence, la caution à qui les poursuites contre le débiteur principal n'ont pas été dénoncées, n'est, comme le garant, responsable que des frais de l'exploit originaire jusqu'au rapport de l'action inclusivement et non des frais subséquents. B. R., 1881, Québec, Lamy vs Drapeau, 1 D. C. A., 237; 7 R. J. Q., 383; 5 L. N., 136.

202. Cautionnement pour frais et procuration.—The costs of a dilatory exception asking for security for costs, which is furnished as demanded, will be reserved to abide the issue of the suit. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Akin vs Hood, 21 J., 47; 1 L. N., 202.

203. The costs in dilatory exceptions calling for power of attorney and security for costs from plaintiff must abide the final judgment in the cause. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Symes et vir vs Voligny, 22 J., 246; 1 L. N., 542.—S. C., 1879, Montreal, Martin vs Foley et al., 2 L. N., 182.

204. Where the defendant by dilatory exception asks for security for costs which is put in accordingly, he is entitled to costs of his exception independently of the result of the action. S. C., 1881, Montreal, McLennan vs Grange, 4 L. N., 170.

205. Where a defendant sued by a foreign plaintiff demands security which is put in and the action is adjudged against him, he will have to pay all costs including the costs occasioned by such demand. S. C., 1885, Montreal, Goodall vs McGinnis, 31 J., 253.

206. The disbursement and fee for putting in security for costs form part of the costs of suit and follow the issue of the cause.

207. But the fee allowed by the tariff to the plaintiff's attorney on the motion for security for costs does not form part of such costs of suit. S. C., 1887, Ottawa, Egan et al. vs Thomson, 10 L. N., 210.

208. Le jugement qui maintient une exception dilatoire, et ordonne au demandeur, résidant à l'étranger, de fournir caution pour les frais, ne doit pas statuer sur les dépens, qui doivent rester à la charge de la partie qui succombe sur le fond du procès, à moins que le demandeur, sur la demande de cautionnement, n'ait fait une contestation mal fondée. C. S., 1891, Montréal, The American Rattan Co. vs Charlebois et vir, 21 R. L., 324.

209. Costs on motion for power of attorney must be paid by a non-resident plaintiff, who should have produced such power with his action. But costs on motion for security abide the issue of the suit. S. C., 1895, Quebec, Bank of Hamilton vs Guay, Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 150.

210. Les dépens d'une motion pour cautionnement pour frais et procuration doivent dans tous les cas suivre le sort du procès. C. S., 1887, Montréal, The Citizens Insurance Co. of Pittsburg vs The Sincennes McNaughton Line, 15 R. L., 274.—C. S., 1897, Montréal, Lee vé Ewan, 1 R. P. Q., 92; R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 215.

211. Lorsque l'opposant qui a été condamné à fournir cautionnement pour les frais, en vertu de l'article 179 du Code de procédure civile, sous un mois de délai, et qui, étant revenu au pays pour y rester avant l'expiration du délai d'un mois, a été relevé de cette obligation de fournir cautionnement, les frais encourus sur ces procédures suivent le sort de la cause. C. C., 1898, Arthabaska, Vézina vs Richer et Richer et al., 4 R. L., n. s., 238.

212. The costs of a motion for security for costs and power of attorney will be granted to the moving party. C. C., 1898, Montreal, Fanning Co., Ltd., vs Hughes, 1 Q. P. R., 414.

213. The costs of a motion for security for costs and power of attorney will only be awarded to defendant if the motion has been contested by plaintiff; otherwise they follow the suit. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Gallagher vs Barbeau, 1 Q. P. R., 430.—S. C., 1898, Montreal, Taylor et al. vs Lewis, 2 Q. P. R., 187.

214. Le demandeur, absent de la province, qui fait défaut de produire une procuration avec le retour de son action, doit payer les frais d'une motion pour telle production, à tout événement. C. S., 1899, Bedford, Glines vs Truax, 2 R. P. Q., 291.

215. Le défendeur a droit aux frais de sa motion s'il demande la production d'une procuration en même temps qu'un cautionnement pour les frais. Les frais suivent l'événement du procès dans le cas où le défendeur ne demande qu'un cautionnemenet pour les frais sans procuration. C. S., 1900, Québec, Steinfeld vs Marquis, 13 R. P. Q., 237.

216. When a motion for security for costs is granted, costs to follow suit, and the record is subsequently transmitted to another district, the costs will follow the final judgment on the case, and not the judgment maintaining the declinatory exception and ordering the transmission of the record. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Canadian Mutual Loan and Investment Co. vs Tanguay et vir, 3 Q. P. R., 436.

217. La partie demanderesse qui conteste la demande de cautionnement et de procuration, sera condamnée aux dépens. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Slater Shoe Co. et al. vs Trudeau et Trudeau, 5 R. P. Q., 120.

218. Si la demande pour cautionnement pour frais est faite par voie de simple motion, et non par exception préliminaire, l'honoraire de l'avocat sera celui d'une motion. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Tisé vs Cordasco, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 36.

219. Security for costs, as well as a power of attorney, having been asked by the same motion and such security having been ordered, the costs will follow the fate of the case. S. C., 1904, Sweetsburg, Kitts vs Gosselin, Q. J. R., 25 S. C., 22; 6 Q. P. R., 154; 10 R. L., n. s., 191.

220. If a judgment permits an appellant to complete a security bond which has been declared illegal, the costs of the respondent comprise the attendance when the security was given, unless the judgment specifies that costs of motion only are granted. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Gélinas vs Compagnie du Magasin du Peuple, 7 Q. P. R., 98; 11 R. L., n. s., 496.

221. Le défendeur a droit à ses frais, quel que soit l'événement du procès, sur la motion d'exception dilatoire tirée à la fois des paragraphes 2 et 7 de l'article 177 C. p. c. touchant le cautionnement pour frais, et la procuration que les demandeurs résidant hors de la juridiction sont tenus de fournir et de produire. C. S., 1905, Québec, Block et al. vs Carrier et al., R. J. Q., 28 C. S., 49.

222. Sur une demande de cautionnement de frais ou de production de procuration, il y a lieu d'ordonner que les frais suivront le sort de la cause, à moins que le demandeur n'ait contesté mal à propos cette demande; dans ce dernier cas, le demandeur peut être condamné aux frais de cette contestation. C. S., 1906, Joliette, Léonard et al. vs Laurin, 12 R. J., 495.

223. The defendant was entitled to have the costs of the bond of a guarantee company, given as bail in a collision action, taxed in the bill of costs against plaintiff at the rate of one per cent. on the total amount of security given in said bond. Ex. C., 1907, Quebec, The Harbour Commissioners of Montreal vs Steamship "Universe," 11 Ex. C. R., 229.

224. A party putting in bail in a collision action in the form of a guarantee company's bond was entitled to a commission of fee thereon not exceeding ten per cent. of the total amount of the bond. Ex. C., 1907, Quebec, The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. vs Steamship "Cape Breton." 11 Ex. C. R., 227.

225. Le jugement définitif rendu sur un incident, v. g., sur la caution judicatum solvi, sur la production du mandat ad litem de la part du demandeur qui ne réside pas dans la province, doit statuer sur les dépens sans les réserver à la décision du fond. C. S., 1907, St-Hyacinthe, Renaud et vir vs Beauchemin et al., R. J. Q., 31 C. S., 156.

226. Aucune disposition dans la loi n'oblige un demandeur non résidant à produire, soit avec le fiat, soit avec le rapport de l'action, une procuration conférant soit à un procureur ad litem ou à une autre personne l'autorisation d'intenter telle action.

227. La pratique à Montréal est de réserver les frais sur les motions pour production de procuration comme sur les motions pour demande de cautionnement pour frais, et dans les deux cas il s'agit d'une faculté que le défendeur peut exercer ou ne pas exercer. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Dill vs Cardinal, 13 R. J., 283; 8 R. P. Q., 167.—C. S., 1907, Montréal, Société de propriétaires vinicoles de Cognac Monnet et Cie vs Béland, 8 R. P. Q., 256.

228. Certiorari. — Commissioners to whom a writ of certiorari has been addressed, and who have failed to make a proper return within the proper time, will be mulcted in costs. S. C., 1866, Montreal, Ex parte Lerouz, 10 J., 193; 15 R. J. R. Q., 151.

229. The prosecutor cannot, on a petition for certiorari, be condemned to pay costs, unless he has been made a party to the proceedings. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Ex parte McLaughlin vs Lalonde et al., and McMaster et al., and Souchereau, 3 L. N., 367.

230. Les honoraires des avocats ou procureurs dans les cas de certiorari sont taxés comme dans une cause de seconde classe en cour Supérieure.

231. Il n'y a pas d'honoraire sur le jugement ordonnant l'émission du certiorari. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Arcand vs Commissaires du Havre de Montréal, 5 R. P. Q., 410.

232. Il n'y a pas lieu d'accorder à l'intimé ou au mis en cause sur un certiorari un honoraire sur la requête pour certiorari. Il n'y a pas lieu sur certiorari à un honoraire d'audition.

233. L'intimé qui ne conteste pas n'a pas droit à un honoraire de comparution. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Tee vs Choquet et Lambe, 6 R. P. Q., 305.

234. Cost will not be granted against the informant and the magistrate on quashing a summary conviction in certiorari proceedings, unless misconduct is proved against them. S. C., 1911, Quebec, Kokaliades vs Kennedy, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 495; Q. J. R., 40 S. C., 306; 18 Q. P. R., 20.

235. Cession judiciaire de biens.—Sur la contestation du mémoire de frais du curateur à une cession de biens faite sous le Code de procédure civile, les frais des procureurs du contestant doivent être taxés conformément aux articles 51 à 55 du tariff des avocats de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Bouthillier vs Desmarteau et Letourneux et al., 16 R. L., 48.

236. Des frais faits par le protonotaire sur une demande de cession radicalement nulle, dans l'espèce, vu l'absence d'un état assermenté de la créance du demandeur, ne peuvent être réclamés des créanciers du failli. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Ethier vs Walker, R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 165.

237. Le protonotaire de la cour Supérieure a droit de charger un honoraire d'une piastre, par chaque réclamation de créancier produite entre ses mains, en matière de cession de biens. C. S., 1896, Beauharnois, In re Blouin et Hams, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 143.

238. Where the curator to an insolvent estate refuses to deliver, without a judgment, goods of which he is in possession as curator, and costs are incurred in proceedings instituted for the purpose of obtaining possession of the property, such costs, being expenses incurred in the interest of the mass of the creditors within the meaning of paragraphe 1, article 1994, C. c., are the first privileged claim against the estate, and take precedence of the landlord's claim for rent. Where the curator, without giving any notice of the dividend sheet, irregularly pays away the whole available assets of the estate, he is personally liable for the costs where a contestation of such dividend sheet is maintained. S. C., 1896, Montreal, In re Sasseville, Desmarteau vs Chabot and McGoun and England, Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 187.

239. Le curateur à une faillite n'a pas le droit de charger $10 pour honoraires sur émanation d'un mandat pour la vente des immeubles, sa rétribution est comprise dans son salaire général.

240. Le curateur n'a pas le droit de charger pour évaluation et inventaire d'immeubles lorsqu'il reçoit un ordre d'émettre son mandat pour la vente au shérif de tels immeubles.

241. Le curateur n'a droit à aucun salaire spécial pour assistance à la vente des immeubles au shérif.

242. Le curateur n'a pas le droit de charger le salaire d'un gardien provisoire, surtout lorsqu'il y a déjà un gardien judiciaire.

243. Le curateur n'a droit à aucun salaire pour la vente et la livraison des meubles, surtout lorsqu'il y a une charge faite par un encanteur pour telles vente et livraison. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Vineberg vs Rosebinge et Mathieu et al., 5 R. J., 360.

244. Les frais d'une requête en contestation d'une demande de cession doivent être taxés en vertu de l'article 125 du tarif de 1891 de la cour Supérieure.

245. Lorsque la cause est réglée, après la signification et la production de la requête en contestation, l'honoraire des procureurs est celui déterminé par l'item 8 du tarif de la cour Supérieure.

246. Lorsque dans sa demande de cession le créancier dit qu'il est créancier pour une somme d'au delà de $1,200, dont $200 non garantis, sa demande est de première classe à la cour Supérieure.

247. La demande de cession est une véritable action et quand elle est contestée on doit appliquer le tarif des actions ordinaires de même classe. C. S., 1898, Kamouraska, Riou vs Massé et Massé, 4 R. L., n. s., 449.— C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lunn et al. vs Schloman et al., 3 R. P. Q., 363.

248. Des avocats, créanciers d'un curateur à une faillite, ne peuvent prendre des saisies-arrêts entre les mains des débiteurs de la faillite, mais ils doivent s'adresser au juge pour obtenir un ordre enjoignant au curateur de payer ces frais comme dépenses d'administration. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Dancone et al. vs Bissonette et Walker et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 137; R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 461.

249. Les honoraires de l'avocat sur une requête en vertu de l'article 876 C. p. c. sur laquelle il y a eu contestation par écrit, inscription, enquête et audition, sont les honoraires d'avocat dans une action de deuxième classe, mais sans honoraire d'audition. C. S., 1902, Trois-Rivières, In re Moreau et al., vs Gélinas et Auger et al., 4 R. P. Q., 380; 8 R. L., n. s., 210.

250. En vertu de l'article 44 du tarif des protonotaires, celui-ci a droit de charger un honoraire sur toute réclamation assermentée et produite entre ses mains, autorisant le créancier la produisant à voter à l'assemblée tenue pour la nomination du curateur, etc., suivant l'article 867. C. S., 1903, Arthabaska, Beaudoin et al. vs McLimont et al., R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 179; 9 R. J., 302; 9 L. R., n. s., 255; 5 R. P. Q., 291.

251. When a demand of assignment is successful by contested, the costs will be of the class of action of the amount of the debt insolved. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Imperial Laundry Co. vs Dame Hurtubise and Dame Hurtubise, 8 Q. P. R., 209.

252. Les honoraires sur une requête non contestée pour être déclaré propriétaire d'une licence d'hôtel comprise dans la cession de biens du failli sont de $6 conformément au paragraphe 3 de l'article 76 du tarif. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Monette vs Chartrand et al., et St-Charles et al., 8 R. P. Q., 416.

253. Article 76 of the tariff of fees of attorneys does not determine such fees as regards the contestation of the statement abandonment of insolvent debtors. Nor does the general tariff provide for such case. Under such circumstances, article 6 of the tariff confers upon the judge the power of determining what such fees shall be.

254. Attorneys fees in second class actions seem to offer a reasonable compensation in such cases of contestation of statement, and in this case, it is ordered that the fees of the contestants' attorneys be taxed as those of an action of the second class in said Superior court, including the costs of petition for taxation of said costs. S. C., 1909, Bedford, McManamy and Co. (Incorporated) vs Glascott and McManamy and Co. (Incorporated), 16 R. J., 2; 11 Q. P. R., 162.

255. Cession volontaire de biens.—Les frais encourus sur un jugement maintenant, pour les frais, une action en revendication instituée par une personne qui prétend avoir fait une cession de biens volontaire contrairement aux dispositions de l'article 763 C. p. c., contre celui qui a accepté cette cession, ce dernier étant désigné à l'action comme "le prétendu cessionnaire et fidéi-commissaire des biens du demandeur," sont des frais dus personnellement par ce cessionnaire, défendeur, et qui ne peuvent être ensuite colloqués sur le produit de la vente des biens cédés. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Hardy dit Lesage et Lamarche et Turcotte, 3 R. J., 530.

256. Classe d'actions.—Lorsque la cour d'Appel, dans une action en dommage pour la somme de £5,000, accorde au demandeur la somme de £2 10, avec dépens, le demandeur n'a droit qu'aux frais comme dans une action de la cour de Circuit pour ce montant.

257. Les frais accordés seront, sous la 12e Vict., ch. 38, sect. 82, réglés par le montant du jugement rendu, à moins que par les termes du jugement il n'apparaisse qu'il était de l'intention de la cour d'accorder des frais plus considérables. C. S., 1860, Québec, Kerr vs Gugy, 10 D. T. B. C., 478; 8 R. J. R. Q., 474; 13 R. J. R. Q., 386.

258. Lorsque l'action est portée pour une somme au-dessus de £50, et le jugement est rendu pour la somme de £50 avec intérêt, le demandeur n'a droit qu'aux frais d'une action de la première classe dans la cour de Circuit, et une motion pour réviser la taxe du protonotaire accordant les frais de seconde classe dans la cour Supérieure, sera accordée. C. S., 1860, Québec, Vallée vs Latouche, 10 D. T. B. C., 433; 8 R. J. R. Q., 446..

259. Le montant du verdict d'un jury, même lorsqu'il est pour plus de 40 chelins sterling règle la classe des frais d'action, si le jugement de la cour, ratifiant ce verdict, n'a pas statué sur les frais.

260. Dans ce cas, quoique les frais ordinaires d'action soient réductibles au tarif de la cour de Circuit, les déboursés nécessités par le procès par jury seront accordés au demandeur. C. S., 1864, Montréal, Dessaulle vs Taché, 8 J., 342; 13 R. J. R. Q., 385.

261. Sur un jugement de la cour de Circuit pour vingt-cinq piastres, dans une cause en dommages pour tort personnel, condamnant à une piastre de dommages et les frais, ces derniers ne peuvent être taxés qu'à une piastre. C. S., 1882, Joliette, Laurence vs Hubert, 12 R. L., 109.

262. Where the judgment appealed from was against the appellant for a specific amount and the respondent did not take a cross-appeal, the "value in contest" for the purpose of determining the class for taxation of costs, is the amount for which judgment was rendered against the appellant by the court below. Q. B., 1894, Montreal, McGarvey vs Dougall, Q. J. R., 10 Q. B., 217.

263. Neither interest nor costs can be added to the amount in litigation, to determine the class of action for the purpose of taxation of costs. Q. B., 1895, Montreal, The Barber Ellis Co. vs Burland, Q. J. R., 10 Q. B., 218.—K. B., 1901, Montréal, Sauriol vs Clermont, Q. J. R., 10 K. B., 219.

264. Lorsque le défendeur, poursuivi pour un montant excédant $400 et condamné à payer au demandeur une somme inférieure à ce chiffre, inscrit en révision du jugement obtenu contre lui, le montant en litige, devant la cour de Révision, est de moins de $400, et partant les honoraires de l'avocat du demandeur seront taxés suivant le montant du jugement. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Mallet vs Martineau, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 240.

265. Les frais de contestation d'une opposition à une saisie d'immeubles faite en vertu d'un jugement de la cour de Magistrat, sont ceux d'une action de 4e classe en cour Supérieure, et non ceux d'une action en cour de Circuit pour le montant réclamé par le demandeur. C. S., 1898, Percé, Cassivi vs Kirouack et Kirouack, 1 R. P. Q., 354; 4 R. J., 352.—C. S., 1898, Arthabaskaville, Lachance vs Routhier et al., 1 R. P. Q., 525.

266. The costs of an action for $200 and interest from service of process, will be taxed as upon an action between $200 and $400. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Taché vs Evans, 2 Q. P. R., 119.

267. D'après l'article 554 C. p. c., pour les fins de la taxation, la classe de l'action est déterminée par le montant du jugement final, et ce pour toutes les procédures dans la cause, y compris les jugements interlocutoires. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Poirier vs Ouimet et al., 10 R. P. Q., 40.

268. Quand le jugement maintient pour partie une action principale et une action en garantie, les frais dus à l'avocat du demandeur en garantie seront de la classe pourvue pour le montant réuni de la dette et des frais dus au demandeur principal. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Mercure vs La Ville d'Outremont et La Ville d'Outremont et Duquette, 1 R. P. Q., 172.

269. Si le jugement rendu par la cour Supérieure annule un bail ou des contrats modifiant un bail, et condamne les défendeurs à vingt-cinq dollars de dommages-intérêts, et aux dépens, ces dépens seront ceux d'une action de $25. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Smith et al. vs Rosenberg et al., 13 R. P. Q., 170.

270. Collision.—The court will not give costs where a collision has occurred from inevitable accident. V. A., 1859, Lower Canada, In re The "Margaret," 2 S. V. A., 19.—V. A., 1869, Lower Canada, In re The "McLeod," 2 S. V. A., 140.—V. A., 1874, Quebec, In re The Harold "Haorfager" Hellieson, 18 J., 303.

271. It is the practice of the Admiralty courts not to give costs on either side where the damages have been found to proceed from the fault of the pilot alone. V. A., 1861, Lower Canada, In re The "Lotus," 2 S. V. A., 58.

272. As respects costs, the court has no discretion to exercise in a case of collision when no fault is imputable to the injured party and his adversary is solely to blame. V. A., 1876, Quebec, In re The "Union" Hammond, 2 Q. L. R., 186.

273. In a case of collision, the registrar and merchants having found that there was a total and not a partial loss for which the claim was made, by reason of a reduction of the claim, either as preferred or amended, the costs of reference must be paid by the promoters. V. A., 1878, Lower Canada, In re The "Quebec," Bennet Master, 4 Q. L. R., 101.

274. Where a claim for damages awarded in a case of collision was reduced by more than one-third, the costs of reference to the registrar and merchants should be borne by the claimant, although his suit was for a smaller sum of which the amount allowed and interest thereon would be less than a third. V. A., 1878, Lower Canada, In re The "Normanton," Curwen et al., 4 Q. L. R., 15; Cook V. A. Cas., 65.

275. Commissaire enquêteur.—Le député-protonotaire qui a rempli les fonctions de commissaire enquêteur a droit à l'honoraire fixé par le tarif. C. S., 1900. Montréal, McDonald et vir vs Migneron, 3 R. P. Q., 156.

276. Il n'y a pas de tarif pour les commissaires enquêteurs en dehors de la province.

277. Un honoraire de $50 pour un commissaire enquêteur dans une action de première classe n'est pas exagéré. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Hersey vs Chapman, 6 R. P. Q., 273.

278. Commission rogatoire.—Les frais d'une commission rogatoire, émanée à la poursuite des défendeurs, pour constater le fait d'un premier mariage et la naissance d'un enfant de ce mariage, devaient être à la charge des demandeurs, en autant que ces faits étaient à leur connaissance et qu'ils auraient dû les admettre. C. S., 1864, Québec, Cathcart et al. vs Union Building Society, 15 D. T. B. C., 467; 14 R. J. R. Q., 110.

279. A fee paid to counsel for examining witnesses under an open commission issued from the Superior court to a foreign country, cannot be taxed against the losing party as costs in the cause. The only fee established by the tariff as regards the examination of witnesses on commissions rogatoires is fixed by no 80, and allow $2 to the attorneys of record for the examination and cross-examination of each witness. S. C., 1889, Montreal, Young vs Accident Insurance Co. of N. A., M. L. R., 5 S. C., 223; 12 L. N., 402.

280. Where the parties consent to the substitution of an open commission for the examination of witnesses at distance, in lieu of a commission in the ordinary form, the fees of the counsel conducting the enquête before the commissioner will be taxed as costs in the case. S. C., 1889, Montreal, Picton Bank vs Anderson and defendant, M. L. R., 5 S. C., 260; 13 L. N., 3.

281. Une partie n'a pas le droit de faire taxer dans son mémoire de frais ses dépenses de voyage et celles de son avocat pour se rendre au lieu où des témoins sont examinés en vertu d'une commission rogatoire. Mais elle peut réclamer un honoraire sur l'admission par le juge des interrogatoires, et le coût d'un plan nécessaire des lieux où l'accident

qui fait la base de l'action a eu lieu. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Wetzlar vs Richelieu and Britain Navigation Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 302; 1 R. P. Q., 257.

282. The tariff provides for no fee on an open rogatory commission, when that mode of examining witness is selected. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Magann vs Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 4 Q. P. R., 348.

283. L'avocat d'une partie qui ne se joint pas à une commission rogatoire a cependant droit à l'honoraire prévu par l'article 98 du tarif, s'il a reçu des instructions, examiné les pièces, etc. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Sessenwein vs Pillow Hersey Manufacturing Co., 6 R. P. Q., 320.

284. Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.). Under an order for winding-up an insolvent company under 45 Vict., ch. 23 (D.), the proceedings to enforce the liability of shareholders must be taken by the liquidators, and not by the petitioner for the winding-up order. When proceedings are so taken by the liquidator, and are unsuccessful, costs may be awarded against him personally, leaving him to apply to be allowed such costs out of the assets of the company. P. C., 1884, Ontario, In re Bolt and Iron Co., Hovenden's Case, 10 P. R., 434.

285. Numbers 41 and 42 of the tariff of fees are applicable to a petition praying that liquidators under liquidation Act of 1882 be ordered to deliver all property in their possession. S. C., 1887, Montreal, Adams Tobacco Co. vs Plummer et al., and Henshaw, M. L. R., 3 S. C., 153; 10 L. N., 302.

286. One set of costs should be allowed to the shareholders and one to the creditors appearing on the petition, not including, however, any costs occasioned, by the contest, and costs must also be allowed to the bank and to the petitioning creditor, those of the latter to include all reasonable disbursements connected with the holding of the meetings. Q. B., 1893, Manitoba, In re Commercial Bank of Manitoba, 9 Man. L. R., 342.

287 Where an action is brought by the liquidator of a company in liquidation, in the name of the company, and he is not otherwise a party to it, he cannot be ordered personally to pay the costs of it. P. C., 1896, Ontario, Ontario Forge and Bolt Co. vs Comet Cycle Co., 17 P. R., 156.

288. The fees on proceedings for the winding-up of a company, under the Winding-up Act, are the fees of a first-class action, and do not fall under the general article of the tariff declaring all actions not otherwise provided for to be second class actions. Q. B., 1898, Montreal, Bogue vs Promotive of Arts Association, Ltd., 1 Q. P. R., 519.

289. Celui qui veut exécuter un jugement contre les biens d'une compagnie en liquidation, sera condamné aux dépens encourus sur l'opposition faite contre cette exécution par le liquidateur. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Great North Western Telegraph Co. of Canada vs Compagnie du Journal "Le Monde" et Caruel et Kent et al., 5 R. P. Q., 379.

290. The allowance of costs, being a matter of statutory declaration and not of right, cannot exceed the limits defined by the text of the statute. Therefore subdivision 7 of the second class of the tariff must apply to the allowance of costs in an action praying for the rescission of a winding-up order and appointment of a liquidator to a company, although financial interests may be involved in the suit, which, if they formed the subject of the conclusions of the action, would bring it within the first class for purposes of taxation. K. B., 1903, Montreal, Stimson vs The North West Cattle Co., and Allan, Q. J. R., 12 K. B., 365; 5 Q. P. R., 239.

291. On the application of the liquidators of a company directed to be wound up, an order was made by a local judge directing two persons to be placed on the list of contributories, which was affirmed by a judge of the High court and by the court of Appeal, but was reversed by the Supreme court of Canada with costs to be paid by the liquidators as well of that court as of the prior appeals: The successful appellants were entitled to their costs out of the assets of the estate in priority to those incurred by the liquidators, the reasonableness of the liquidator's claim forming no element in the matter, but subject to certain costs payable by the liquidator to the petitioning creditors, and to such costs of litigation as were incurred by the liquidator in the realization of certain assets, as well as a reasonable sum as compensation for his care and trouble in such realization, payable out of the assets so realized. Ch., 1906, In re Baden Machinery Co., Ltd., 10 O. L. R., 634.

292. Un liquidateur ou séquestre ne peut être condamné personnellement aux frais, lorsque cette condamnation n'est pas demandée, et qu'il n'y a pas eu chez lui une négligence ou inconduite qui puisse justifier une telle condamnation. Les frais et dépenses du séquestre et liquidateur ainsi que ceux de ses avocats doivent être acquittés de préférence à la réclamation du propriétaire sur les argents représentant les loyers des sous-locataires. B. R., 1906, Montréal, Bédard, ès-qual., vs Owens, 8 R. P. Q., 81.

293. L'avocat du liquidateur d'une compagnie insolvable, n'a pas de recours pour ses honoraires contre les créanciers de la faillite, pour le cas où l'actif de la faillite aurait été épuisé. C. C., 1912, Québec, Beaubien vs The Corticelli Silk Co., 19 R. P. Q., 194.

294. Compensation.—Lorsque le défendeur plaide compensation par demande incidente et réussit à prouver un montant suffisant pour compenser la somme réclamée par le demandeur, il ne peut obtenir le renvoi avec dépens de l'action de ce dernier, mais la cour, procédant à déclarer la compensation entre les deux demandes, accordera au demandeur les frais de son action et au défendeur les frais de sa demande incidente. C. R., 1895, Montréal, Lecavalier et al. vs Lecavalier, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 366.

295. La compensation des dépens n'a lieu que sur déclaration du tribunal à cet effet. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Gaffney vs Montreal Gas Co., 1 R. P. Q., 569.

296. Il y a lieu à compenser les frais des avocats jusqu'à concurrence, si une partie obtient un même jour les dépens sur une réponse en droit et l'autre sur une motion pour particularités. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Caron vs Forest, 1 R. P. Q., 308; 4 R. L., n. s., 153.

297. Dans le cas où les deux parties ont été condamnées à des frais l'une envers l'autre, le protonotaire ne peut compenser ces frais, mais, s'ils ne l'ont pas été par le jugement, ils doivent être taxés. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Gaffrey, ès-qual., vs Montreal Gas Co., 5 R. L., n. s., 80.

298. La cour de Révision peut confirmer le dispositif d'un jugement dont est appel, sauf quant aux frais et dépens tel qu'adjugés, et, suivant les circonstances, déclarer les frais de révision compensés, lorsque les deux parties succombent dans leurs prétentions respectives. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Paquin vs Miller, 16 R. J., 348.

299. Comptables incorporés. — The tariff of chartered accountants contains no provision allowing fees for attendances at court to be sworn, or attendances at their offices to receive papers, etc.

300. Chartered accountants are only allowed a fee of $10 for attendance at a meeting for hearing parties or to take evidence, when the duration of the session is over an hour and a half.

301. Chartered accountant is not entitled to any fee upon a provisional report prepared by him. S. C., 1903, Montreal, Singer Manufacturing Co. vs Pinsonnault and Hyde, 6 Q. P. R., 112.

302. Condamnation conjointe.—Une partie condamnée conjointement avec d'autres au paiement des frais d'une procédure, peut s'opposer à une exécution contre elle pour tous les frais; une telle opposition, accompagnée de consignation d'une part divise des frais, ne sera pas rejetée sur motion. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Paplinger vs Dame Muir et al. et Gareau et al. et Stephens et al. et Gareau, 6 R. P. Q., 445.

303. Confession de jugement.—Where the defendant confessed judgment for a part of the amount claimed which he tendered with his plea, and the court after contestation gave judgment for a larger sum than that tendered, but not for the full amount of plaintiff's demand: The plaintiff must pay the costs of contestation from the time of filing the plea. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Routh vs Dougall, 2 J., 286; 7 R. J. R. Q., 41; 14 R. J. R. Q., 192.

304. An admission in a plea of a portion of plaintiff's demand, unaccompanied by an actual confession of judgment, will not entitle the defendant to the costs of contestation, in case the plaintiffs do not obtain judgment for more than the amount admitted to be due, and under any circumstances a prayer in such plea that the defendant be condemned to pay costs as in an uncontested action only, is irregular. C. R., 1874, Montreal, Latham vs Martin, 18 J., 287.

305. Where the plaintiff suing for $109.59 accept the plea of defendant for $28.64, he, the plaintiff should pay costs of defendant's plea, and obtain costs as in a Circuit court, action for $28.64. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Olivier et al. vs De Montigny, 2 L. N., 158.

306. Congé-défaut.—Congé-défaut on a rule will be granted without costs. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Larin vs Deslorges et Séré, 21 J., 206; 1 L. N., 202.

307. Costs on a congé-défaut awarded, by way of distraction to the attorney, are exclusively due and payable to him; and, therefore, in another suit brought by the same plaintiff against the same defendant, for an amount including the amount of the first demand, the defendant cannot set up, as a ground of temporary exception, the precedent non-payment of such costs to the defendant. C. R., 1886, Quebec, X vs X, 10 L. N., 90.

308. Dans une action dont le demandeur s'est désisté avant le jour fixé pour le rapport, les procureurs du défendeur ont droit de comparaître et de demander acte du désistement et congé-défaut de l'action, avec dépens contre le demandeur. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Limoges vs Beauvais, 1 R. P. Q., 574.

309. Conseil.—No action can be maintained for a fee paid to counsel. K. B., 1809, Quebec, Bergeron vs Panet, 1 R. de L., 345; 2 R. de L., 205, 471; 2 R. J. R. Q., 48.

310. La comparution d'un conseil à l'enquête au dossier donne droit à ce dernier à l'honoraire de $10 contre la partie adverse perdante, et cet honoraire sera accordé s'il n'y a des affidavits satisfaisants de produits pour établir que ce conseil à l'enquête n'a pas agi comme tel. C. S., 1880, Lalïberté vs Paris, 6 R. J. Q., 201.

311. The case was inscribed on the roll for enquête and merits. The plaintiff failing to proceed, his action was dismissed with costs. In the bill of defendant's attorneys, taxed against plaintiff, was an item of $10 for counsel fee at enquête. The plaintiff moved to revise the taxation, objecting to the item on the ground that no enquête having been made, a counsel fee could not be taxed against him: Held, the case having been inscribed upon the roll, the fee was properly taxable. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Thayer vs Ross, 8 L. N., 90.

312. L'item de $10, pour conseil à l'enquête, ne doit pas être accordé sur des procédures pour destitution d'un huissier, mais seulement la somme de $8.00. C. S., 1890, Montréal, La Corporation des Huissiers de Montréal vs Caisse, 19 R. L., 619; M. L. R., 6 C. S., 32; 13 L. N., 155.

313. L'honoraire pour un second conseil prévu par l'article 25 du tarif de la cour d'Appel doit être demandé avant la taxation du mémoire de frais et le paiement des frais par la partie adverse. B. R., 1893, Montréal, Ritchot vs Cardinal, R. J. Q., 3 B. R., 73.

314. Si une cause est soumise sur factum, du consentement des parties, il ne sera pas accordé d'honoraire de second conseil, même si lors de la déclaration faite par les parties, à la cour, à l'effet de soumettre la cause de cette façon, l'avocat et le conseil étaient tous les deux présents en toge. B. R., 1903, Montréal, Société des Artisans Canadiens-Français vs Hébert, 5 R. P. Q., 372.

315. Conseil de famille.—Les frais de convocation du conseil de famille, y compris les frais de déplacement des parents qui y ont été convoqués, sont à la charge de la succession et sont défrayés par les représentants de cette succession comme dépenses d'administration. Toutefois, la taxation du mémoire de frais ne donne à ce mémoire ou à ces frais aucun caractère exécutoire et le montant de ces frais ne peut être recouvré de la succession que par voie d'action ordinaire.

316. Les frais qu'un parent ou exécuteur testamentaire a pu encourir dans une demande pour convocation du conseil de famille, à laquelle il n'a pas donné suite, ou qu'il a faits pour opposer ou pour promouvoir la nomination d'une personne à la charge d'exécuteur testamentaire, alors que le dissentiment ne portait pas sur le remplacement de l'exécuteur testamentaire décédé, mais uniquement sur le choix de la personne qui serait appelée à le remplacer, ne sont pas à la charge de la succession. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Ex parte Gagnon, ès-qual., R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 288.

317. Consignation.—Le demandeur qui, avant d'instituer une action en revendication d'objets mobiliers lui appartenant, a également offert au défendeur le montant qu'il reconnaît lui devoir pour le désintéresser de la rétention de ces objets, peut renouveler ces offres, consigner la somme offerte et demander, par les conclusions de son action, que sur cette somme les frais occasionnés par telle action soient déduits et payés par préférence. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Boisseau vs Généreux et vir, 7 R. J., 388.

318. Contestation d'actes municipaux. Les frais dans une demande, par voie de requête en cassation de règlement municipal, doivent être taxés, comme dans une cause de première classe, non appelable, de la cour de Circuit. C. C., 1872, Montréal, Bourbonnais et al. vs La Corporation du comté de Soulanges, 17 J., 69; 23 R. J. R. Q., 99, 556.

319. Le mémoire de frais des honoraires des procureurs, dans une cause prise à la cour de Circuit, sous l'article 100 du Code municipal, doit être taxé suivant le tarif s'appliquant aux causes appelables de la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Desroches vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Basile-le-Grand, 17 R. L., 618.

320. Les actions directes à la cour Supérieure en nullité de procès-verbaux et de règlements municipaux sont des actions de dernière classe de la cour Supérieure, c'est-à-dire de la cour de Circuit appelable.

321. Une mise-en-cause est considérée comme une défenderesse et les procureurs des demandeurs n'ont droit qu'à un demi-honoraire sur la contestation avec la mise-en-cause, suivant l'item 19 du tarif. C. S., 1898, Arthabaska, Royer vs Inverness et Megantic, 1 R. P. Q., 242.

322. Nonobstant l'amendement fait à l'article 100 de notre Code municipal, par la 56 Vict., ch. 43, sect. 1, les frais d'une requête en cassation d'un procès-verbal, alléguant que le conseil a non seulement agi illégalement, mais a outrepassé ses droits et a agi ultra vires de ses prérogatives, doivent être taxés comme dans une action à la cour Supérieure de quatrième classe, à moins de circonstances spéciales. C. S., 1899, Arthabaska, Dureault vs Corporation du township de Tingwick, 2 R. P. Q., 250.

323. L'article 107 du tarif des avocats en cour Supérieure déclarant que: "pour requête dans les affaires municipales ou scolaires, telles que les rôles d'évaluations ou de cotisations, listes électorales et procédures du même genre, mêmes honoraires que dans les causes de troisième classe," se trouve abrogé par la section 53 du chapitre 9 des statuts de Québec de 1895, amendé par la section 27 du chapitre 21 des statuts de Québec de 1897, mais, l'article 55 du tariff de la cour de Circuit se rapportant au même sujet est resté en vigueur.

324. Dans une requête en appel de la décision d'un conseil municipal, les frais doivent être taxés sous le dit article 55 du tarif de la cour de Circuit, savoir, comme ceux d'une action de quatrième classe de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Bourbonnais vs Corporation du Coteau Landing, 5 R. L., n. s., 359; 2 R. P. Q., 231.

325. Sur une action par un contribuable aux fins de faire déclarer un règlement inexistant, si la corporation municipale défenderesse plaide, par ses défenses, que tel règlement est en vigueur, mais succombe dans ses prétentions, le tribunal doit appliquer la règle générale quant aux frais, savoir, que la partie dont les prétentions sont renvoyées doit être condamnée aux frais. C. S., 1904, Saguenay, Guay vs Corporation du village de la Malbaie, 11 R. J., 29.

326. When a direct action is taken to set aside a resolution of a municipal corporation, the costs should be taxed as in a contested action of the third class, although the disbursements are those of an action of the fourth class of the Superior court. S. C., 1906, Sherbrooke, Ledoux et al. vs Corporation of St. Edwidge of Clifton, 7 Q. P. R., 353.

327. Si une action en cassation de règlement municipal intentée devant la cour Supérieure, est renvoyée, le procureur de la corporation défenderesse aura droit à l'honoraire d'une action de troisième classe de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1906, Joliette, Caillaux vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Félix de Valois, 8 R. P. Q., 33.

328. Les honoraires sur une demande en cassation d'un règlement municipal, sont les mêmes que ceux d'une action de troisième classe, quand même il y aurait eu allégation d'inconstitutionnalité du règlement à l'appui de la demande.

329. Si la partie défenderesse s'en rapporte à la justice, et que la contestation se fasse entre le demandeur et l'intervenant, ce dernier qui réussit a droit à un mémoire de frais complet sur l'intervention comme dans une cause ordinaire, mais non pas à doubles honoraires comme s'il y avait eu deux instances entre les parties. C. S., 1908, Richelieu, Paul et al. vs La Cité de Sorel, et Lacouture, 9 R. P. Q., 284; R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 70.

330. Les honoraires d'une action en cassation d'un règlement municipal intentée en vertu de l'article 50 C. p. sont de deuxième classe.

331. Il en est de même des honoraires d'une intervention dans la même action. C. S., 1910, Richelieu, Bernier et al. vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Marcel et Laramée et al., 11 R. P. Q., 326; 16 R. J., 294.

332. Contestation de déclaration de tiers-saisi.—Les frais sur une contestation de déclaration du tiers-saisi sont les mêmes que sur une action personnelle, et la cause est déterminée par le montant du jugement prononcé contre le tiers-saisi.

333. Lorsque sur contestation de la déclaration du tiers-saisi ce dernier ne répond pas à cette contestation et qu'il est condamné comme débiteur du défendeur à payer $235 au demandeur contestant, et qu'il est condamné aux dépens personnellement, l'honoraire de l'avocat du demandeur contestant est réglé par l'item 4 du tarif comme dans une cause non contestée. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Ettenberg vs Kelly et Sutherland, 7 R. J., 231; 9 R. L., n. s., 402; R. J Q., 19 C. S., 143; 5 R P. Q., 428.

334. Lorsque par la contestation d'une déclaration du tiers-saisi, le demandeur contestant prétend que le tiers-saisi doit au dé-fendeur $106.25 et qu'il a droit de saisir un cinquième de cette somme, c'est-à-dire $21.25, si cette contestation est ensuite déclarée mal fondée, les frais de l'avocat du tiers-saisi devront être taxés, non comme sur une action de $21.25, devant la cour de Circuit, mais bien comme sur une contestation demandant la condamnation du tiers-saisi à payer la somme de $106.25. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Sieyès et al. vs Painchaud et Alliance Assurance Co., 7 R. J., 458; 9 R. L., n. s., 402; 6 R. P. Q., 369.

335. La classe d'action quant aux frais, sur contestation de la déclaration d'un tiers-saisi en matière de saisie-arrêt après jugement, est déterminée par le montant du jugement prononcé contre le tiers-saisi, s'il est condamné aux frais, et suivant le montant réclamé dans la contestation, si le contestant est condamné aux frais. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Partenope vs Fortin et Lamothe et al. et Carbana et vir, 8 R. J., 334; 8 R. L., n. s., 388.

336. Lorsqu'il y a contestation de la déclaration de tiers-saisis, la classe est déterminée par le montant du jugement prononcé contre les tiers-saisis, s'ils sont condamnés aux frais.

337. Si le jugement rendu sur une telle contestation annule un acte de donation d'immeubles, et condamne les tiers-saisis à payer chacun une somme de $122.66, ce jugement devra être considéré comme rendu sur une action de deuxième classe dans la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Brunet vs Bergeron et Brunet et al., 4 R. P. Q., 419; 9 R. J., 119.

338. Contestation de demande d'interdiction.—Lorsqu'une demande en interdiction est contestée, les mêmes honoraires d'avocats sont accordés que dans une action contestée de troisième classe, conformément à l'article 102 du tarif. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Shorey vs Stevenson, 11 R. J., 468.

339. Contestation de saisie-arrêt.—The costs awarded upon a contestation of attachment maintained as far as costs are concerned, will be governed by the amount of the costs for which attachment was improperly issued. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Montreal Loan and Mortgage Co. vs Heirs of the late Mathieu and Miss Savary et al., 6 Q. P. R., 329.

340. Contrainte par corps.—L'oubli, dans un bref de contrainte par corps, de certains frais, ne délie pas le débiteur de l'obligation de les payer plus tard. C. C., 1869, Arthabaskaville, Beauchêne vs Pacaud, 13 J., 135; 1 R. L., 740; 19 R. J. R. Q., 200, 530, 544, 556, 559.

341. Les frais n'étant que les accessoires de la dette principale, il y a lieu à la contrainte par corps pour les recouvrer quand celle-ci peut s'obtenir pour la dette même. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Peltier vs Martin, 4 R. L., n. s., 373; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 223; 1 R. P. Q., 289.

342. Convention.—Costs were allowed defendant in an action upon a promissory note, upon proof that plaintiff agreed, after the institution of the action, to withdraw the same, on payment of debt alone, although the debt was not paid at the rendering of judgment, and under circumstances, plaintiff's attorney was not allowed distraction de frais. C. C., 1867, Brome, Eastman vs Rolland alias Rolins, 2 L. C. L. J., 216; 18 R. J. R. Q., 379, 539, 567.

342a. Copie de jugement.—La partie qui, par jugement interlocutoire, obtient adjudication de frais en sa faveur, a droit d'inclure dans son mémoire le coût de la copie du jugement et l'honoraire pour préparation du mémoire. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Paquette vs Rhéaume, 3 R. J., 311.

343. Dans le district de Montréal, la pratique est de mettre au dossier copie de tous jugements rendus au cours de l'instruction d'une cause, et le coût de cette copie entre en taxe. C. S., 1900, Arthabaska, Luneau vs Luneau, R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 146.—C. S., 1902, Montréal, de Werthemer vs Boulanger, 5 R. P. Q., 293.

344. Copie pour le juge.—L'avocat qui produit des copies de sa déclaration et de sa réponse, dans une action de deuxième classe, a droit à un honoraire de $4. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Coz vs Lecavalier, 2 R. P. Q., 81.

345. Cour des commissaires.—La cour de Circuit, dans une action de la juridiction de la cour des commissaires, n'accordera, sur la confession de jugement du défendeur faite et produite avec les frais de ladite cour des commissaires, que les frais de cette dernière cour, particulièrement lorsqu'il existe et fonctionne une telle cour dans le canton où le défendeur réside. C. C., 1865, Arthabaska, Pacaud vs St-Hilaire, 15 D. T. B. C., 211; 14 R. J. R. Q., 23.

346. Cour du Recorder (Montréal).—Experts' costs are not taxable in the Recorder's court. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Riopelle vs Desrosiers and Cité de Montréal, 3 Q. P. R., 195.

347. Le greffier de la cour du Recorder qui est avocat, peut charger à l'accusé condamné, l'honoraire de huit piastres, mentionné dans l'article 1060 des Statuts Refondus de Québec. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Pepin vs Cité de Montréal et Weir, 2 R. P. Q., 565.

348. There being no provision of law by which an advocate appearing in a cause before the Recorder's court of Montreal, is granted distraction of costs awarded to his client, there is no lien de droit between him and the city of Montreal, the other party to the cause, and he, therefore, has no action in his own name against the city for the costs of a cause in which costs were awarded in favor of his client. C. R., 1901, Montreal, Beaudin et al. vs The City of Montreal, Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 32.

349. Les frais du procès dans les causes entre locateurs et locataires, devant la cour du Recorder, ne comprennent pas les honoraires des avocats. C. C., 1906, Montréal, Blouin vs Parent, 7 R. P. Q., 479.

349a. Couronne.—The Crown does not receive nor pay costs. P. C., 1835, Chandler and Lozeau et al. vs Attorney-General, Pro Rege and Gauron dit Granbois, 3 R. de L., 371; 2 R. J. R. Q., 304; 22 R. J. R. Q., 84; C. R., 3 App. Cas., 1.—Contra: Supr. C., 1908, British Columbia, In re Marain Singh, 13 B. C. R., 477.

350. In an action of damages for illegal detention of a vessel under the Foreign Enlistment Act, 1870, the costs may be allowed against the Crown, if the action is maintained. V. A., 1880, Lower Canada, In re The "Atalaya," Cook V. A. Cas., 215; 6 Q. L. R., 174.

351. Although the of the Behing Sea Award Act, 1894, which the court resolved in favour of the vessel, yet it was held that the circumstances created sufficient suspicion to warrant the arrest, and no costs were given against the Crown in dismissing the petition. Ex. C., 1895, Canada, The Queen vs The Ship "E. B. Marvin," 4 Ex. C. R., 453.

351a. As the statutes of Canada defining the duties and salaries of the attorney-general and his deputy deny additional compensation for services rendered by them in connection with litigation affecting the Crown, it is improper to allow counsel fees or solicitor's fees in respect of services rendered in such capacities by either of these officers on the taxation of costs awarded in favour of the Crown. Supr. C., 1907, Canada, Hamburg-American Packet Co. vs The King, 39 Supr. C. R., 621.

351b. Rule 36 of the English rules providing that in cases of judgment by default either for non-appearance or for want of pleading to informations for intrusion no costs are to be allowed to the Crown, is still in force in the Exchequer court of Canada. Ex. C., 1897, The Queen vs Kilroe, 6 Ex. C. R., 80.

352. Crainte de troubles.—Dans une action par un vendeur, lorsque l'acheteur plaide crainte de trouble, le vendeur n'ayant pas offert de fournir cautionnement dans le cours de l'instance, doit payer les frais de l'action. C. S., 1862, Montréal, Bernesse dit Blondin vs Madon, 7 J., 32; 12 R. J. R. Q., 5.—C. S., 1862, Montréal, Bruneau vs Robert, 6 J., 247, 10 R. J. R. Q., 326; 12 R. J. R. Q., 5.

353. Where the defendant pleads trouble to an action for instalments of purchase money, and offers to pay on security being given, the plaintiff should be condemned to pay the costs of the contestation. C. R., 1865, Montreal, McDonald et al. vs Molleur, 1 L. C. L. J., 108; 18 R. J. R. Q., 184, 589.

354. Crieurs.—Les honoraires des crieurs dans ces contestations d'élections, entrent en taxe. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Bergeron vs Brunet, 5 R. P. Q., 433.

355. Curateur.—A curator to the estate of an absentee, who contests and defends an action, is personally liable for the costs of an action. S. C., 1855, Montreal, Whitney vs Brewster, 4 J., 298, 8 R. J. R. Q., 251.

356. Un curateur à l'absent qui intente ès-qualité une action pétitoire qui est déboutée parce qu'il n'a pas en loi le droit d'intenter une telle demande qui est une action réelle, peut être condamné personnellement aux dépens de cette action. C. C., 1868, Richelieu, Jacques vs Parent, 2 R. L., 95; 20 R. J. R. Q., 500, 527.

357. Le curateur, qui conteste mal à propos la requête en révision de la sentence, peut être condamné personnellement aux dépens. C. S., 1899, Terrebonne, Léveillé vs Léveillé, 5 R. J., 379.

358. Curateur à cession de biens.—Sur une intervention faite par le curateur à la faillite des défendeurs sur une saisie conservatoire et où ce curateur conteste, non la créance du demandeur, mais seulement son droit sur les effets saisis, le mémoire du curateur, dont l'intervention a été maintenue, sera taxé suivant l'article 60 du tarif, et non pas seulement comme s'il s'agissait d'une requête pour faire annuler la saisie (art. 47). C. S., 1902, Trois-Rivières, Auger et al. vs Montambault et al. et Perusse et al. et Gelinas, 5 R. P. Q., 21.

359. Aucune disposition de la loi ne permet à la cour Supérieure, ou à un des juges de cette cour, de taxer les honoraires du curateur à une cession de biens. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Beaudry vs Henderson et Bousquet, 9 R. P. Q., 232; 14 R. J., 307.

360. Le curateur à une cession de biens qui intente une action ou instance avec la permission du juge, mais sans avoir pris l'avis des créanciers ou des inspecteurs, se rend personnellement responsable des frais. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Poirier vs Fulton, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 347.

361. Débiteurs solidaires.—Les débiteurs solidaires, assignés par une même action, peuvent permettre à l'un d'eux, qui est insolvable, de faire à leur créancier commun des faux frais, dans cette même action, sans en être responsable eux-mêmes.

362. Les endosseurs d'un billet promissoire, poursuivis avec le tireur par une action et comparaissant tous, tireur et endosseurs, par le même avocat et plaidant tous aussi (mais séparément) par le même avocat, ne sont pas considérés comme ayant une connaissance légale des moyens de défense employés par le tireur, leur co-défendeur, et ne sont pas censés connaître légalement les incidents, procédés, jugements, ni appels intervenus sur les moyens de défense du tireur.

363. Il faut pour rendre les endosseurs responsables des faux frais occasionnés par le tireur, leur dénoncer les incidents intervenus sur la défense du tireur, et spécialement les appels auxquels cette défense donne lieu. B. R., 1862, Montréal, Boucher vs Latour et al., 6 J., 269; 10 R. J. R. Q., 338; 18 R. J. R. Q., 39, 528, 531, 568.

364. Défaut d'autorisation.—La procédure faite par une partie qui n'a pas la capacité d'ester en justice sera renvoyée sans frais. C. S., 1912, Arthabaska, Adams vs Doyle, et al., 14 R. P. Q., 131.

365. Défense après délai.—Si un plaidoyer est produit après les délais fixés, sans le consentement de la partie adverse ou la permission du juge, la cour, sur motion du demandeur, ordonnera au défendeur de payer, sous un certain délai, les frais occasionnés par son défaut, faute de quoi son plaidoyer sera censé non produit. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada vs Daveluy, 6 R. P. Q., 346.

366. Si la production tardive de la défense a eu lieu à la suite d'un malentendu entre les parties, et a été occasionnée par des irrégularités dans la déclaration, la cour de Révision n'accordera pas de frais sur un jugement infirmatif refusant telle permission.

367. Dans ces circonstances, la cour réservera à la partie ainsi mise en cause, le droit de plaider, à l'action, ou de faire telle autre procédure qu'elle jugera à propos. C. R., 1906, Montréal, Hébert et al. vs Roy et al., 8 R. P. Q., 89.

368. Défenses séparées.—Trois défenses séparées par trois défendeurs qui invoquent les mêmes moyens, mais qui ont comparu et plaidé par le même procureur, donnaient à ce dernier droit à trois honoraires. C. S., 1886, Saguenay, Gauthier vs Gauthier et al., 10 L. N., 394.

369. En vertu de l'item 37 du tarif de la cour de Circuit ou 19 de la cour Supérieure, lorsqu'il y a deux défendeurs comparaissant séparément par procureurs, et qu'un seul des deux file un plaidoyer, le procureur des demandeurs, s'il réussit à obtenir jugement sur chaque issue, aura droit au plein montant de ses honoraires contre celui qui n'a pas contesté. C. C., 1902, Arthabaska, Descormiers vs Hyland et Hyland, 5 R. P. Q., 112.

370. Si le même avocat a produit un plaidoyer séparé et différent pour plusieurs défendeurs et que le demandeur a lié contestation sur chaque défense, cet avocat aura droit dans chaque contestation à un honoraire distinct pour l'assistance au cautionnement, pour l'enquête en général, pour chaque jour additionnel d'enquête, pour audition au mérite, pour la contestation de la demande d'injonction interlocutoire, et pour la contestation au mérite. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Lavergne dit Renaud vs Larivière et al., 12 R. P. Q., 149.

371. Délai.—Un jugement qui ne donne que huit jours à une partie pour payer les dépens auxquels elle est condamnée, en dépit de l'article 4598 S. R. Q. sera cassé et annulé sur appel à la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Tassé vs Beaubien, 4 R. P. Q., 372; 8 R. L., n. s., 210.

372. Demandeurs conjoints.—Si une action prise par deux demandeurs est renvoyée sur défense en droit quant à l'un d'eux, chacun des défendeurs n'aura droit qu'à la moitié des frais d'une action jugée après la production d'un plaidoyer au mérite. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Dame Major et vir vs Paquet et al., 6 R. P. Q., 210.

373. Demande de frais.—Lorsqu'un défendeur comparaît personnellement et plaide par écrit en faisant une dénégation générale, sans conclusion, ce plaidoyer est suffisant comme défense, mais le défendeur n'a droit à aucun frais. C. M., 1889, Montréal, Flanagan vs Doyle, 12 L. N., 67.

374. Demande incidente.—The attorney of an incidental defendant, upon an incidental demand brought by the plaintiff under article 149 of the Code of procedure for the addition of new grounds of action and dismissed upon a demurrer of the incidental defendant, has no right to fees. C. C., 1879, Quebec, Bouge vs Bonnet, 5 Q. L. R., 72.

375. If an action or an incidental demand is maintained for a certain amount only, with costs, and the judgment declares that the amount granted would have been larger but for plaintiff's consent, the costs of such action will nevertheless, in the absence of any adjudication to the contrary, be taxed as in an action for the amount of the condemnation. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Collins vs Clare and Clare and Collins, 6 Q. P. R., 381.

376. A party, who lost as defendant, and as plaintiff in a cross-action, when the issues could have been determined, by means of one action, must pay the costs of both issues. S. C., 1906, Montreal, North American Life Assurance Co. vs Lamothe, 7 Q. P. R., 439.

377. The plaintiff in an incidental action brought to compel the representatives of a deceased party to continue the suit, is entitled, if successful, to a condemnation for costs independently of the result of the principal demand.

378. Adjudication thereof should not be reserved to be made by the final judgment in the case. S. C., 1908, Sweetsburg, MacGowan vs Stone et al., Q. J. R., 34 S. C., 164; 14 R. J., 37.

379. Dénégation du droit.—Lorsque le défendeur nie le droit du demandeur, les frais doivent être régis par la nature de l'action, et non par le montant des dommages alloués. C. S., 1864, Montréal, Monastesse vs Christie, 8 J., 154; 1 L. C. L. J., 54; 13 R. J. R. Q., 322.

380. Dépenses et taxes de témoins. Un procureur ad lites n'est pas responsable des salaires des témoins qu'il a fait assigner à la requête de son client. C. C., 1853, Québec, Laroche vs Holt et al., 3 D. T. B. C., 109; 3 R. J. R. Q., 453.

381. Witnesses to whose taxation objection is made are entitled to notice of the demand for revision. S. C., 1857, Montreal, The Grand Trunk Railway Co. vs Webster, 1 J., 251; 6 R. J. R. Q., 51.—S. C., 1895, Montreal, Henderson et al. vs Craig et al., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 516.—S. C., 1896, Montreal, The Bell Telephone Co. vs The Montreal Street Railway Co., 3 R. J., 6.

382. Le droit d'un témoin est de se faire taxer par la cour devant laquelle il est examiné et non de porter une action devant une autre cour pour un quantum meruit pour comparutions et perte de temps comme témoin. C. S., 1858, Montréal, Gorrie vs Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of Montreal, 8 D. T. B. C., 236; 9 D. T. B. C., 375; 6 R. J. R. Q., 225.

383. Un témoin ne peut poursuivre pour le montant de sa taxe, mais il doit procéder par voie d'exécution pour en prélever le montant sur les effets de la partie qui l'a sommé, en vertu des dispositions de la 22 Vict., ch. 5, sect. 9. C. C., 1858, Québec, Veilleux vs Ryan, 9 D. T. B. C., 6; 7 R. J. R. Q., 69.

384. Un témoin, sommé pour rendre témoignage dans une cause dans laquelle le défendeur était partie, en sa qualité de tuteur à une substitution, ne peut recouvrer le montant de sa taxe dans une action portée contre le tuteur personnellement. C. C., 1861, Montréal, Dagenais vs Gauthier, 11 D. T. B. C., 281; 9 R. J. R. Q., 424.

385. Le procureur a droit d'inclure dans son mémoire la taxe des témoins de sa partie, lorsqu'il a obtenu distraction de dépens, de s'en faire payer par la partie condamnée aux dépens.

386. Il peut même prendre exécution en son nom pour cette allocation. C. S., 1865, Arthabaska, Beauchêne vs Pacaud et Després et Leclerc, 15 D. T. B. C., 193; 14 R. J. R. Q., 11; 17 R. L., 558; 20 R. L., 317.—C. R., 1909, Québec, Bégin vs Breton, R. J. Q., 35 C. S., 380.

387. Any one in public employ is entitled to be taxed as a witness; and, if he is a professional man, he must be taxed at the rate which the tariff allows to practicising members of his profession. C. C., 1866, Québec, Rochette vs Forgues, 2 L. C. L. J., 185; 18 R. J. R. Q., 371, 582.

388. Where the evidence shows that the suit has been maliciously instigated and urged on by a witness, the taxation of such witness will be struck off. S. C., 1866, Montreal, Lighthall vs Walkers, 2 L. C. L. J., 43; 18 R. J. R. Q., 227, 575, 582.

389. The judge at the trial declined to decide what witness fees should be paid by the respondent, thinking it to be the province of the taxing master on taxation, after hearing both parties, to decide what witnesses to allow or disallow, as in ordinary cases. E. C., 1874, Ontario, Niagara Election, 10 C. L. J., 317.

390. A candidate, when examined as a witness at an election trial, may be asked his expenditure at former provincial and Dominion elections at which he was a candidate. E. C., 1874, Ontario, North Simcoe, H. E. C., 624.

391. A witness of one party may levy the amount of his taxed expenses on the opposite party condemned to pay them, even after the final judgment has been rendered in favor of the latter, awarding him against the former costs to a much larger amount.

392. Compensation does not take place in such a case as to bring it within the exception in art. 281 C. c. p., "that the amount allowed the witness has not already been paid to such party or his attorney in virtue of a duly receipted bill of costs." S. C., 1895, Quebec, Brousseau vs Trottier et Lépine, Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 111.

393. The plaintiff, in an action of damages against the city of Montreal, for the flooding of his premises, had, before action brought, caused the premises to be examined by experts who gave evidence in the cause, and were taxed as witnesses. He now moved, before a judge in chambers, for the revision of the bill of costs, so as to include therein the value of the services of the experts in making their examination of the premises.

394. It was held that there being no basis upon which a judge in chambers could estimate such services without another enquête, and there being no provision of law authorizing such enquête, the motion for revision of the bill of costs could not be entertained.

395. Such services should be included in the statement of claim, and proved like any other fact in the case. S. C., 1896, Montreal, Hickey vs City of Montreal, Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 195.

396. La loi permet aux parties de se faire entendre comme témoins, mais elles n'ont pas le droit d'être taxées.

397. Cependant, si l'une d'elle demande la remise de la cause parce qu'elle n'est pas prête, dans ce cas, l'autre aura droit d'être taxée comme un témoin ordinaire. C. S., 1899, Québec, Gagnon vs Simard, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 336.

398. The cost of a deposition taken with consent of parties by stenography, cannot be taxed in the Circuit court. C. C., 1903, Montreal, Lewis vs Hudson's Bay Co., 6 Q. P. R., 97.

399. Le dénonciateur d'un acte criminel qui, à l'enquête préliminaire, fait assigner un témoin, comme témoin important dans la cause et qui ne le produit même pas ensuite, est responsable envers ce témoin des dépenses que ce dernier a été obligé de faire en obéissance à l'assignation. C. C., 1905, Joliette, Jobin vs Compagnie d'Assurance Mutuelle du Canada contre le feu, 12 R. J., 180.

400. Le témoin a une exécution contre la partie qui l'a assigné, bien que le montant des frais ait été payé par la partie adverse à l'avocat de cette partie. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Lacroix vs La Cie de Publication de la Presse et Goodall, 9 R. P. Q., 259.

401. The taxation of a witness who has not been heard, made in the absence of the opposite party will be annulled, when no evidence is adduced to show the possible usefulness of such witness.

402. The taxation of witnesses who have been heard, whether it has taken place ex-parte or after objections by the adverse party, will not be revised by the judge. C. C., 1908, Montreal, Clough vs Fabre et vir., 9 Q. P. R., 276.

404. Désistement.—As a general rule, a plaintiff can discontinue his action only on payment of costs. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Greenshields vs Leblanc et al., 12 J., 343; 17 R. J. R. Q., 454, 541.

405. Where there has been a désistement of the judgment without a tender of costs the court of Appeals will condemn the respondent in the costs of both courts. Q. B., 1874, Quebec, Bellay vs Guay, 4 Q. L. R., 91; 1 Q. J. R., 1 Q. B., 386.

406. The failure to return a writ of summons is not a discontinuance within the terms of article 453 of the Code of procedure which requires that the costs of the first action be paid before a second one can be brought. C. R., 1881, Quebec, Hossack et al. vs Paradis, 7 Q. L. R., 234; 4 L. N., 375.

407. As to proportion of costs taxable against plaintiff on discontinuance of proceedings against one of three defendants, who has severed in his defense from the other two defendants who plead jointly, these costs are divisible according to their interest and not by portions visibles. S. C., 1883, Montreal, Ives vs Seegmiller et al., 6 L. N., 84.

408. Lorsqu'un demandeur intente une action contre deux personnes faisant affaires en société, et ensuite se désiste de son action et déclare ne la poursuivre que contre l'un d'eux personnellement, le défendeur pourra sur motion obtenir la permission de plaider de novo, et l'instance sera suspendue jusqu'à ce que le demandeur ait payé les frais taxés sur le désistement. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Chisholm vs Langlois, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 192; 8 L. N., 101.

409. Where the plaintiff desisted from part of judgment, and obtained acte of désistement, pending an appeal by the defendant from the judgment, the respondent should be held only for the costs of the appeal up to the time when he obtained acte of désistement as aforesaid, and the appellant having failed on the other grounds of appeal, should be condemned to pay the costs o fthe appeal from the date when acte was obtained. Q. B., 1891, Montreal, Stephens vs Gillespie, ès-qual., M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 289; 15 L. N., 58.

410. Le 6 juin, les mis en cause avaient fourni copies d'un plaidoyer et d'articulations de faits aux avocats du demandeur, mais ce plaidoyer et ces articulations de faits n'étaient pas produits lorsque, le 30 juin, le demandeur s'est désisté de sa demande contre les mis en cause. Sous ces circonstances: Les procureurs des mis en cause n'avaient droit qu'aux honoraires d'une action discontinuée après comparution. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Lancaster vs Doran et al. et Charlebois, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 304; 16 L. N., 148.

411. Where the plaintiff discontinues his action after the defendant had been regularly foreclosed from pleading and had not been relieved from foreclosure, the only costs taxable against plaintiff on the discontinuance are those regularly and legally incurred by defendant at the time of discontinuance, that is to say, the costs of an action discontinued before contestation, and the defendant is not entitled to the costs of a plea illegally filed by him after he had been foreclosed. S. C., 1895, Alley vs Montreal Street Railway Co., Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 526; 1 R. J., 556.

412. Dans le cas où un intervenant sur une opposition se désiste de son intervention ou contestation d'opposition, l'honoraire de l'avocat de l'opposant, recouvrable de l'intervenant, est l'honoraire d'une opposition maintenue après contestation, moins l'honoraire de l'opposant sur une opposition non contestée, lequel est payable par le défendeur, ou par l'opposant. C. S., 1898, Joliette, Prud'homme vs Marion et Marion et Rivard, 2 R. P. Q., 2.

413. Si, après s'être opposé à une motion pour permission de produire un plaidoyer après forclusion, un demandeur se désiste de son action avant qu'il ne soit adjugé sur la motion, il sera condamné à payer les frais de la motion du défendeur, qui sera renvoyée, vu ce désistement. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Withell vs Welsh et McCuaig, 2 R. P. Q., 295.

414. Lorsqu'un demandeur se désiste de son action contre un des défendeurs et que ce dernier fait renvoyer l'action quant à lui, son avocat a droit à la moitié des honoraires dans la cause. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Gault Brothers Co. vs Léveillé et al., 4 R. L., n. s., 409; 1 R. P. Q., 319.

415. Un désistement, sans condition, entraîne le paiement des frais, et la partie adverse est sans intérêt à continuer les procédés pour faire rejeter ce désistement, parce que le désistant n'a pas offert de payer les frais.

416. Sur ce désistement, l'action doit être renvoyée avec dépens contre le demandeur.

417. Dans le cas où le demandeur se désiste de son action, et que le désistement et l'avis au défendeur est produit au greffe le même jour que le défendeur a fait signifier sa défense, bien que cette dernière ne soit produite que le lendemain, l'avocat du défendeur a droit à ses honoraires comme dans une action contestée. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Brown vs Belleville, 5 R. L., n. s., 175.

418. If several defendants file distinct defences, and the plaintiff desists from his action, he is bound to pay the costs of all such defences, whether separate defences were necessary or not. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Protestant Board of School Commissioners of Outremont vs Cooke et al., 2 Q. P. R., 251.

419. Si le demandeur se désiste de son action après la signification d'une motion de la nature d'une exception à la forme avec le dépôt requis par la loi, mais avant la présentation de cette motion, il faudra appliquer l'art. 6 du tarif pour la comparution et l'article 23 pour l'honoraire, l'article 13 n'ayant pas d'application.

420. L'exception à la forme sera censée avoir été renvoyée et le tarif à être employé dans ce cas sera celui pour les causes de seconde classe de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1899, Québec, Maranda vs Corporation de Lévis, 2 R. P. Q., 151.

421. One of two plaintiffs who desists from his action as to himself is responsible only for one-half of the costs of the action up to date. S. C., 1899, Montréal, Coallier et vir vs Filiatrault, 2 Q. P. R., 220.

422. Dans une action dont le demandeur se désiste avant que le plaidoyer ne soit dû, mais après qu'il a été préparé, à la connaissance de ses avocats, il sera condamné à payer les honoraires et déboursés sur ce plaidoyer. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Brown vs Belleville, 2 R. P. Q., 37.

423. Lorsqu'une partie qui se désiste ne paie pas les frais lors de la production du désistement, la partie adverse a droit, sur inscription, à un jugement pour les dépens. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Star Iron Co. vs Baxter et Dame Chaput, 3 R. P. Q., 178.

424. Lorsqu'une cause inscrite pour enquête et mérite est, séance tenante, retirée avec dépens, par le demandeur, le défendeur a droit aux mêmes honoraires que si l'action avait été déboutée (item 9 tarif C. C.); mais sans honoraire d'enquête (items 10 et 11 C. C.), si aucun témoin n'est présent en cour, le défendeur ayant été notifié que l'action serait ainsi retirée. C. C., 1900, Arthabaska, Gosselin vs Giroux et al., 3 R. P. Q., 370; R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 145.

425. Le fait qu'un demandeur comparaît au bureau du protonotaire et, par déclaration écrite, se désiste de son action, empêche que cette action puisse être inscrite pour jugement pour les frais et pour les frais de nomination de tuteur; l'avocat, en ce cas, doit prendre une action directe pour le recouvrement de tels frais. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Skelly vs Thibault, 7 R. J., 478.

426. Lorsque le demandeur se désiste de sa demande après l'inscription pour enquête et mérite, le défendeur n'a pas droit à l'honoraire d'audition établi par l'article 36 du tarif. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Bigras vs Viau, 6 R. P. Q., 332.

427. Une requête pour permission de se désister d'une action ne sera pas accordée tant qu'il ne sera pas mentionné que ce désistement est fait avec dépens. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Dame Ormiston vs Dick, 7 R. P. Q., 304.

428. A plaintiff in a hypothecary action cannot, on production of a plea by the defendant that he is not in possession of the hypothecated immovable, file a discontinuance as to his principal demand and move for costs against the defendant on the ground that the date of time of the institution of the action, the latter was, according to the cadastre, the apparent proprietor in possession of the property: This fact must be established in the regular way and the plaintiff must therefore proceed to trial for that purpose.

429. Nor can the defendant, by motion, seek a condemnation for costs against the plaintiff who files a discontinuance under the above circumstances. S. C., 1907, Quebec, Pilon vs Cantin, Q. J. R., 31 S. C., 51.

430. Si, lors du désistement, les frais ne sont pas payés, le défendeur a droit de demander au tribunal acte du désistement, et, de plus, un jugement sur ce désistement, afin de pouvoir exécuter pour les frais.

431. Le demandeur ne doit pas se contenter d'offrir les frais; il doit démontrer que son offre a été suivie de paiement; si cette offre est refusée, il doit consigner le montant en cour. C.S., 1909, Québec, Turgeon vs Sérigny, 10 R. P. Q., 205.

432. Dans le cas où un demandeur qui poursuit en dommages pour libelle et diffamation, et qui, après l'enquête commencée, se désiste de son action avec dépens, il n'est tenu de payer que les frais taxés de l'action, et il n'est pas obligé de payer, sur poursuite subséquente du défendeur, les déboursés et frais que celui-ci a faits pour consultation d'avocat, de témoins et d'experts. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Presseau dit Fabien vs Matheus et al., 17 R. L., n. s., 36.

433. Destitution d'huissier.—Les cas non prévus par le tarif doivent être décidés par analogie avec les cas semblables prévus par le tarif.

343. Le tarif n'ayant pas prévu quels sont les droits dus au pétitionnaire et les honoraires dus au procureur sur une requête en destitution d'huissier, et sur les procédures relatives, c'est l'article 83 du tarif des avocats relatifs aux nominations de tuteur, curateurs, émancipation, etc., qui doit régler les honoraires des procureurs et, comme conséquence, ce sont les articles 8, 9 et 114 du tarif du protonotaire qui doivent régler ces honoraires. C. S., Montréal, Corporation de Huissiers des Montréal vs Caisse, M. L. R., 6 C. S., 32; 13 L. N., 155; 19 R. L., 619.

435. Différence de frais de contestation.—Un demandeur qui n'obtient jugement que pour partie de sa demande n'obtiendra des dépens que suivant le montant du jugement, et sera condamné à payer au défendeur la différence des frais de contestation. B. R., 1832, Montréal, Sanguinet et al. vs Lécuyer, 1 R. de L., 230; 2 R. J. R. Q., 20.

436. Le principe de la condamnation du demandeur au paiement des frais sur la partie de son action sur laquelle il ne réussit pas,admis dans la décision rapportée ci-dessus, a été maintenu de nouveau dans les causes suivantes:

437. La condamnation aux dépens doit être proportionnée aux torts de celui qui perd, et lorsqu'un tribunal rejette plus de prétentions d'une partie que de celles de l'autre, il est juste de lui faire supporter une portion des dépens déterminée sur les torts qu'elle a, ou sur l'importance des prétentions rejetées. C. R., 1886, Montréal, Bélanger vs Pacton, 14 R. L., 526.

438. Where a distinct portion of the demand is wholly unfounded, the plaintiff in such case should be condemned to payment of the difference of costs. C. C., 1886, Bedford, Hogle vs Racine, 9 L. N., 170.

439. The plaintiff having sued for $1000 and obtained $260, he would be awarded the costs of an action of$200 and be condemned to pay defendant difference between the costs of an action of $1000 and one of $200, the court ordering compensation pro tanto. S. C., 1888, Montreal, Guénette vs City of Montreal, M. L. R., 4 S. C., 69; 11 L. N., 267.

440. Contra;—Mais la cour de Révision et la cour d'Appel ont refusé d'admettre ce principe comme étant une application erronée de la discrétion qu'a le tribunal dans la condamnation aux frais:

441. Un jugement accordant au demandeur $20.00 de dommages et $20.00 de frais, mais condamnant le dit demandeur à payer au défendeur la différence des frais, c'est-à-dire, tous ses frais moins $40.00 est erroné en autant qu'il détruit virtuellement l'effet du jugement prononcé en faveur du demandeur. C. R., 1885, Montréal, Primeau vs Dmers, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 88; 10 L. N., 165; 14 R. L., 529; 20 R. L., 488.

442. In an action for damages, for personal injuries sustained, where the plaintiff obtains judgment for only a portion of the amount demanded, he will not, where the defendant made no tender, or an insufficient tender be condemned to pay the difference between the costs of the contestation of an action for the amount recovered and of the action as brought. Q. B., 1888, Montreal, Charron et uxor vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Hubert, M. L. R., 4 S. C., 431; 12 L. N., 158; 32 J., 304; 16 R. L., 490.

443. Where the plaintiff sued for $774, and the defendant tendered $334, but without costs, and the tender was held sufficient as to the principal, but the plaintiff proceeded with the suit for the whole amount, the plaintiff should be condemned to pay all costs after filing plea, including costs of enquête.

444. A judgment which condemns a plaintiff who succeeds for part of the amount sued for and the amount recovered, is erroneous in principle, and such an adjudication as to costs is not within the discretion allowed the court by article 478, C. c. p. Q. B., 1888, Montreal, McCartney vs Linsley, M. L. R., 5 Q. B., 455; 13 L. N., 123; 20 R. L., 478, 483.

445. A judgment will be revised and reformed by the court of Review on a question of costs, acted upon a wrong principle.

446. Where the action is brought to recover a claim not composed of distinct parts, or where the plaintiff cannot with some exactitude foresee the amount for which he can obtain judgment (as in actions of damages and cases of like nature) and the plaintiff's right of action is maintained, but the court awards him less than the amount demanded, it is error for the court to condemn him to pay the defendant (who has made no tender) the difference of costs of contestation, between an action of the amount recovered and the action as brought, and such an award of costs is not within the discretion allowed the court by article 478 C. p. c. and will be reveresd on appeal to the court of Review. C. R., 1889, Montreal, Clermont vs McLeod, M. L. R., 6 S. C., 36; 13 L. N., 155; 20 R. L., 479.

447. Lorsqu'un demandeur obtient jugement pour partie de sa demande qui est contestée pour le tout, il doit avoir ses frais comme dans une action du montant pour lequel il obtient jugement, et ne doit pas payer de frais au défendeur; autrement ce serait le punir pour avoir exercé le droit que le jugement lui reconnait. C. R., 1889, Montréal, State vs McNally et al., 33 J., 136.—C. R., 1890, Montréal, Burroughs vs Wilson, 19 R. L., 166.—C. R., 1890, Montréal, Lapensée vs Wright, 20 R. L., 482.

448. Where the plaintiff's demand is maintained in part only, it is error for the court, if the amount of the demand was not exaggerated in bad faith and no offer was made by the defendant, to condemn the plaintiff to pay the defendant the difference of costs of contestation of an action for the amount awarded by the judgment and the amount claimed by the action. Such an adjudication as to costs is not within the discretion allowed the court under article 478,

C. c. p. Q. B., 1892, Montreal, Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs Couture, Q. J. R., Q. B., 602; M. L. R., 7 S. C., 431; 20 R. L., 477; 2 R., 1892, Montréal, Huot vs Noiseux, Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 521; 18 R. L., 705.

449. Le demandeur poursuivait en résiliation d'un bail au montant de $240 de loyer annuel et réclamait $112 de dommages. Le défendeur contesta la demande, et pour la résiliation du bail, et pour les dommages réclamés. La cour Supérieure prononça la résiliation du bail et condamna le défendeur à payer $38 à titre de dommages avec les dépens d'une action de ce montant, mais elle mit à la charge du demandeur la différence des frais de contestation entre le montant réclamé et la somme accordée.

450. Dans ces circonstances, la cour Supérieure n'a pas fait une juste application de la discrétion laissée au juge sur la question des frais par l'article 478 du Code de procédure civile. C. R., 1984, Montréal, Ruffin de Chirée vs Hayes, R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 80.

451. Discrétion du juge.—La cour ne peut, en vertu de l'article 1007 du Code de procédure, ordonner que les anciens conseillers qui ont passé des résolutions convaincues d'illégalité, paieront les frais de l'instance, qu'après les avoir entendus, lorsqu'ils ont été mis en cause pour cet objet. C. S., 1874, St-Jean, Irvine, procureur-général vs Le Maire et Conseil de ville de la ville d'Iberville, 6 R. L., 241.

452. The questions of costs is entirely in the discretion of the court, except in such cases as are specially provided for by statute, and the court of Queen's Bench, sitting in appeal, will not, as a general rule, interfere with the award of costs by the inferior court; and where a judgment is confirmed as to the dispositif, the appellant may be condemned to pay costs on the appeal, though the judgment appealed from was based on erroneous grounds, Q. B., 1880, Montreal, McClanaghan vs The St. Ann's Mutual Building Society et al., 24 J., 162; 2 L. N., 413; 3 L. N., 61; 10 R. L., 23.

453. Where a claim in bankruptcy is based on a note given under suspicious circumstances, and is contested, the contestation may be dismissed, if consideration is proved, but without costs. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Garon vs Globensky, 3 L. N., 182.

454. Pour priver un avocat de ses honoraires, il faut prouver qu'il a agi avec fraude ou avec une ignorance grossière des devoirs de sa profession. B. R., 1881, Québec, Davidson vs Laurier et al., 1 D. C. A., 366.

455. Quand le jugement est pour capital et frais et que le capital est moindre que cent piastres, le montant des frais sera déterminé d'après le montant de la créance due en capital et intérêt, et non d'après le capital seul, bien que les dits intérêts ne soient pas déterminés ou calculés par le jugement. C. S., 1883, Québec, Lemay vs Boissinat, 10 R. J. Q., 90.

456. La condamnation aux dépens est discrétionnaire et ne peut, surtout lorsqu'il ne s'agit que de la division ou répartition des dépens, donner lieu à un appel. B. R., 1887, Montréal, Nadeau vs Cheval dit St-Jacques, 13 R. L., 321; 15 R. L., 232.

457. Le défendeur qui fait une contestation mal fondée doit payer les frais de cette contestation. C. R., 1888, Montréal, Kent et al. vs Ross et al. et Regis alias Brisebois, 16 R. L., 209; 10 L. N., 146.

458. Where an offer to do certain work, which would abate an injury to suppliant's property caused by a public work, was made in writing by the Crown and its receipt acknowledged by the suppliant before action brought but such offer was not repeated in the statement of defence (although filed subsequently pursuant to leave given), the court, in decreeing the suppliant relief in the terms of the undertaking refused costs to either party. Ex. C., 1894, Canada, Fairbanks vs the Queen, 4 Ex. C. R., 130.

459. Where the plaintiff succeeds only for a very small portion of his demand of damages (in this case for less than one-sixth), and fails as to a distinct head of his claim, he being in a position to know the precise extent of damage before suit was entered, while the defendant was not in a position to know it, he is not entitled to costs. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Migneron vs Brunet et al., Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 120.

460. La parenté des parties, leur état de fortune (v. g., pauvreté de la partie perdante et richesse de la partie adverse), et la bonne foi de la partie qui succombe, ne sont pas des raisons suffisantes pour soustraire celle-ci à la condamnation aux dépens. C. R., 1899, Montréal, Claude vs Claude et al., R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 130.

461. Si un défendeur soulève une contestation mal fondée, il ne doit pas avoir de frais de contestation, lors même qu'il réussit à faire renvoyer l'action. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Contant vs Demers, 6 R. J., 476.

462. Lorsque le demandeur n'établit aucune cause d'action, par les allégations même de la demande, il ne peut y avoir lieu à l'exercice de la discrétion que le juge possède en matière de frais.

463. Le défendeur qui a contesté une telle action a droit à ses frais aux termes de l'article 478 C. p. c. C. R., 1900, St-François et Montréal, Trudeau vs Paquet, 7 R. J., 145.

464. A party who prays that the costs of an application be borne by another party, who is under no obligation to him, thereby forcing the latter to appear and contest, will be condemned to pay the costs of such contestation. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Gingras vs Boon and Caisse, 6 Q. P. R., 37.

465. Un défendeur qui conteste une action in toto et nie les droits du demandeur, mais qui ne réussit que sur une partie de ses prétentions, sera passible de tous les frais du litige, sauf à diviser les frais d'enquête suivant les circonstances. C. S., 1902, Terrebonne, Lajeunesse vs Lecompte et vir., 10 R. J., 197.

466. Costs were witheld because the judgment proceeded upon a defence not raised in the pleadings, but in respect of which defendant was allowed to amend the statement of defence after trial. Ex. C., 1904, The Servis Railroad Tie Plate Co. vs The Hamilton Steel and Iron Co., 8 Ex. C. R., 381.

467. La règle que la partie qui succombe doit supporter les dépens est impérative et le tribunal n'a le pouvoir discrétionnaire de les mitiger ou de les compenser que pour des causes spéciales, qui doivent apparaître au jugement. C. R., 1907, Québec, Croteau vs The Arthabaska Water and Power Co., R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 128; R. J. Q., 31 C. S., 516.

468. Une corporation municipale poursuivie pour le mauvais état de ses chemins, et qui affirme dans son plaidoyer que ces chemins étaient bien entretenus, sera néanmoins condamnée à payer ses propres frais, si la preuve démontre que ces chemins étaient en mauvais état et quoique l'action du demandeur soit renvoyée pour un autre motif. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Lauzon vs La Corporation du canton la Minerve, R. P. Q., 9 C. S., 255; R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 214.

469. Lorsqu'une demande, formée de deux chefs d'action, est maintenue quant à l'un et rejetée quant à l'autre, l'adjudication des frais de contestation contre le demandeur, pour le chef sur lequel il succombe, excède le pouvoir discrétionnaire laissé aux tribunaux en matière de frais. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Boursier vs Bergevin, R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 97.

470. Le défaut du défendeur, qui réussit à faire rejeter la demande formée contre lui, d'établir un de deux, ou de plusieurs, moyens de défense invoqués par lui, ne saurait être une des "causes spéciales" pour lesquelles le tribunal peut, en vertu de l'article 549 C. p., refuser de lui adjuger les dépens. B. R., 1909, Québec, Daigle vs Noël, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 573; R. J. Q., 35 C. S., 341.

471. Lorsqu'un membre suspendu exerce le recours du mandamus pour se faire relever, pour le motif que le règlement qui impose la contribution à peine de suspension est ultra vires, et que la corporation lui oppose, non seulement la validité du règlement, mais aussi une prétendue obligation de faire une demande formelle de rétablissement et de payer un honoraire, le tribunal, en adjugeant sur le fond, a une "cause spécial, (art. 549 C. p. c.)" suffisante, pour condamner chaque partie à payer ses frais. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Lavery vs La Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal et al., R. J. Q., 38 C. S., 236; 16 R. L., n. s., 137.

472. In this action as the defendant had acted in good faith and with probable cause, and that the plaintiff has been put to large expenses in defending himself, each party should pay its own costs in both courts. K. B., 1911, Montreal, Lake of the Woods Milling Co. Ltd. vs Rolston, 17 R. L., n. s., 226.

473. Lorsque les parties succombent respectivement sur quelques prétentions de droit ou de fait, il y a là une cause spéciale suffisante autorisant le tribunal à compenser les dépens. C. S., 1912, Richelieu, Dame Dagenais vs Cardin, 18 R. L., n. s., 175.

473a. The court may restrict the costs of the successful defendants to those of one contestation where each filed a separate defence in identical form instead of a single defence for all, when all of the defendants were in the same interest. K. B., 1912, Montreal, Blaca et al. vs Carson et al., 7 D. L. R., 484.

474. Distraction de frais.—Si la distraction de frais n'est pas demandée lors du prononcé du jugement, elle ne peut plus s'obtenir ensuite, qu'en présence des parties. B. R., 1819, Québec, Ireland vs Stephens, 2 R. de L., 62; 3 R. de L., 392; 2 R. J. R. Q., 152.

475. La demande pour distraction de dépens par les conclusions de la déclaration n'a pas l'effet de priver le demandeur de son droit de compromettre.

476. Nulle distraction de dépens n'existe, ou ne peut avoir lieu, sans être ordonnée par un jugement de la cour. B. R., 1861, Montréal, Hébert dit Lecompte vs Fabrique de St-Jean, 13 D. T. B. C., 66, 451; 11 R. J. R. Q., 264; 20 R. J. R. Q., 263, 576.

477. Distraction of costs is equivalent to a transfer duly signified, and an attorney claiming distraction of costs can sue upon a bond given to secure the payment of such costs. Q. B., 1861, Quebec, Fournier et al. vs Cannon et al., 6 Q. L. R., 228; 17 R. L., 555.

478. Une motion faite en appel pour distraction des dépens encourus en cour inférieure sera accordée. B. R., 1862, Montréal, Converse vs Clarke, 12 D. T. B. C., 402; 11 R. J. R. Q., 113; 18 R. J. R. Q., 380, 539.

479. La partie qui a obtenu gain de cause peut prendre exécution pour les dépens distraits à son procureur, s'il apparaît d'un paiement par lui fait à tel procureur, ou d'un désistement de celui-ci, ou de son consentement à ce qu'une telle exécution soit prise au nom de son client. C. S., 1865, Arthabaska, Beauchêne vs Pacaud et Després et Leclerc, 15 D. T. B. C., 193; 14 R. J. R. Q., 11; 17 R. L., 558; 20 R. L., 317.

480. La distraction des frais accordée à l'avocat ne peut pas être opposée par les cautions, sur une action pour leur recouvrement portée par le demandeur qui a réussi en appel et instituée en son nom par les avocats distrayants. B. R., 1871, Montréal, Larose vs Wilson, 4 R. L., 62.

481. Where the counsel for respondent omitted to move for distraction of costs in appeal until the following term: Distraction would nevertheless be granted, and it was for the appellant to prove that the respondent had received the costs personally, if such were the case. Q. B., 1874, Quebec, The Water Works Co. of Three Rivers vs Dostaler, 18 J., 196.

482. The attorney has not an incontestable right to distraction of costs, unless he moves for it on or before the day on which judgment is given, and therefore the costs due by one side may be set off by an amount due by the principal on the other side. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Latour vs Campbell, 1 L. N., 163.

483. Lorsque l'avocat de l'une des parties demande par sa déclaration ou par les plaidoyers, distraction de dépens, cette distraction suit of course le jugement rendu en faveur de sa partie pour les frais, quand même le projet du jugement délivré au protonotaire, n'en ferait pas mention. Dans ce cas, une entrée en marge du registre des jugements, faite subséquemment à l'enregistrement du dit jugement pour y insérer la distraction de frais omise, ne sera pas considérée comme une altération du jugement.

484. Une demande pour distraction de frais contenue dans les pièces de procédure, devant la cour inférieure, donne droit à la distraction des frais de révision, sans demande spéciale à cet effet. C. R., 1880, Québec, Morency vs Fournier et Morency, 7 R. J. Q., 9; 4 L. N., 191; 21 R. L., 204.

485. La distraction de dépens au profit des procureurs n'empêche pas la partie qu'ils représentaient d'être créancière de la partie condamnée aux dépens et d'agir contre cette dernière si les dits procureurs ne le font pas eux-mêmes, et plus particulièrement s'ils ont été payés de leurs frais par la partie qui les employait, alors il y a subrogation de tels dépens en faveur de la partie. La partie condamnée peut exciper de la distraction pour se dispenser de payer tant que les dits procureurs n'ont pas eux-mêmes fait modifier l'exécutoire en leur nom. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Bissonnette vs Dunn et, McDonald et Bissonnette, 29 J., 155; M. L. R., 1 C. S., 235; 8 L. N., 134; 17 R. L., 601.

486. In appeal, where distraction of costs has not been asked for by the pleadings, or by the factum, it should be asked for when judgment is rendered. If not then asked for, any subsequent application must be made to the court upon notice to the other side. Q. B., 1862, Montréal, Converse vs Clarke, 12 L. C. R., 402; 11 R. J. R. Q., 113; 18 R. J. R. Q., 380; 12 L. C. R., 402.—Q. B., 1874, Three Rivers, The Waterworks Co. of Three Rivers vs Dostaler, 18 L. C. J., 196.—C. S., 1878, Montréal, Latour vs Campbell, 11 Legal News, 163.—Sup. C., 1886, Canada, Letourneux vs Dansereau, Cass. Dig. (2 ed.), 677; Cass. S. C. Prac., (2 ed.), 84.

487. Where the plaintiff had obtained judgment for the amount of his claim with costs distraits in favor of his attorneys, and had given the defendant a discharge for the debt, he still retains sufficient interest in the suit to entitle him to take proceedings in execution of the judgment of distraction in favor of his attorneys (more especially when the attorneys signed the fiat for the writ) and a saisie-arrêt après jugement for the costs, issued in the plaintiff's name, was maintained. C. R., 1886, Montreal, Morin et al. vs Langlois et al., M. L. R., 2 S. C., 400; 10 L. N., 35.

488. Distraction of costs granted to a party 's attorney vests the attorney alone with the right to claim such costs, as long as the client has not obtained from the attorney a transfer followed by service on the adverse party.

489. The bill of costs must be taxed after due notice given the adverse party. Q. B., 1889, Montreal, Milette vs Gibson et al., M. L. R., 5 Q. B., 239; 13 L. N., 10; 17 R. L., 600.

490. An attorney to whom distraction of costs has been awarded, is the personal creditor for such costs, and if his client pays them and obtains a transfer, the transfer must be served upon the debtor before action can be brought therefor. S. C., 1887, Montreal, Bury vs Corriveau Silk Mills Co. and Morrice et al., M. L. R., 3 S. C., 218; 10 L. N., 411; 17 R. L., 541.

491. La distraction de frais, au profit d'un avocat, n'empêche pas la partie d'être débitrice de l'avocat et créancière de la partie condamnée avec dépens, et celle-ci ne peut exciper de la distraction pour se dispenser de payer, lorsque cet avocat a, sur son fiat, fait émaner, au nom de sa partie, une exécution pour la dette et les frais, sans faire mention de la distraction, à moins que l'avocat n'ait fait saisir personnellement ou n'ait notifié le débiteur de ne payer qu'à lui seul. C. R., 1889, Montréal, Charby et vir vs Charby, 17 R. L., 374.

492. Le demandeur dans une cause ne peut, en son nom, exécuter un jugement pour les frais de la cause, au lieu et place de son procureur, alors que, par le jugement, distraction de ces frais a été accordée au procureur.

493. Il le peut néanmoins s'il fait voir qu'il a été subrogé de quelque manière aux droits de ce procureur, ou que ce dernier acquiesce formellement à ces procédures. C. S., 1889, Joliette, Latour vs Champagne et Champagne, 19 R. L., 283.

494. Malgré la distraction des dépens, la partie demeure obligée vis-à-vis de son avocat au paiement de ses frais; et cette obligation lui donne un intérêt suffisant pour contester une opposition faite à une saisie pour prélever le montant de ces frais ainsi distraits à ses avocats. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Craig vs Peatman et Busteid et Lane et al., 20 R. L., 315.

495. L'avocat, qui a obtenu distraction de frais et qui a fait émaner, au nom de son client, un bref d'exécution pour le montant du jugement, en capital, intérêt et frais, peut, néanmoins, faire exécuter ensuite son jugement pour le montant des frais qui lui ont été accordés par distraction, en son nom propre, et l'émanation du premier bref d'exécution au nom du client, ne peut être considérée comme une renonciation à la distraction. C. S., 1892, Montréal, McNamara vs Gauthier, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 131; 16 L. N., 123.

496. Le demandeur dont le procureur a obtenu distraction de dépens en sa faveur peut prendre une saisie-arrêt en son propre nom pour ces mêmes dépens, si, avant de pratiquer cette saisie-arrêt, il a obtenu de son procureur un transport du jugement par lui obtenu, et l'a fait signifier au défendeur, les parties se trouvant alors remises comme elles auraient été s'il n'y avait pas eu de distraction. C. S., 1893, Québec, McGreevy vs Langelier, Hough, et Langelier, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 447.

497. La distraction de dépens accordée au procureur de la partie équivaut à un transport signifié, et le procureur qui l'a obtenue en est saisi contre la partie condamnée.

498. La distraction transporte directement au procureur le bénéfice de la condamnation, et ce bénéfice est censé n'avoir jamais résidé en la personne du client, la distraction conférant au procureur un droit de créance propre en sa personne et non dans celle de son client.

499. L'exécution pour les frais distraits à son procureur ne peut être prise par le client que lorsqu'il les a payés, ou que le bref mentionne la distraction et indique le procureur qui l'a obtenue.

500. Le client et le condamné aux dépens, qui ont été distraits, sont tous deux débiteurs de la même dette; le client a intérêt à l'acquitter, et, s'il l'acquitte, il est subrogé par le seul effet de la loi (C. c., 1156, par. 3) aux droits de son procureur, et peut exécuter pour ses frais en son propre nom, et ce sans une signification ou sommation préalable au débiteur, qui n'est pas requise dans la subrogation légale. C. R., 1896, Québec, Macnider vs Myrand, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 232.

501. La distraction de frais accordée au procureur ad litem est pour le protéger contre tout arrangement que les parties pourraient faire à son préjudice; elle confère au procureur un droit de créance personnelle contre la partie condamnée, et le client du procureur, qui reste responsable de cette créance envers ce dernier, comme client à son procureur, n'est plus qu'un créancier indirect de la partie condamnée.

502. Le bref d'exécution ou de saisie-arrêt après jugement, qui n'est qu'un mode d'exécution, émané pour recouvrer les frais distraits à tel procureur, doit être émis au nom de ce procureur, mais il peut aussi émaner au nom du client, s'il appert à ce bref que le client a payé ces frais à son procureur.

503. Le client qui, dans ces circonstances, paie à son procureur les frais dont il est également tenu, acquitte une dette dont il est débiteur; il est subrogé de plein droit et par le seul effet de la loi, aux droits de son procureur distrayant, et dans ce cas, ce client peut exécuter pour ces frais la partie condamnée, en mentionnant le fait du paiement dans le bref, sans signification ou sommation préalable au débiteur ainsi condamné, vu que telle signification n'est pas requise en matière de subrogation légale. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Scheffer vs Demers, et Paré et Scheffer, 3 R. J., 371.

504. Quand une partie, dont le procureur a un jugement de distraction pour ses frais, exécute ce jugement en son propre nom, en vertu de l'article 555 C. p. c., le débiteur peut opposer à la saisie tous les moyens qu'il peut faire valoir à l'encontre de la partie saisissante, nonobstant la distraction de frais. C. C., 1898, Québec, Bélanger vs Dugal, 1 R. P. Q., 64.

505. La distraction des frais en faveur des procureurs n'empêche pas la partie qu'ils représentent d'être créancière de la partie condamnée aux dépens, d'agir même en son nom si les procureurs ne le font pas eux-mêmes.

506. La partie condamnée ne peut exciper de la distraction pour se dispenser de payer, tant que les dits procureurs n'ont pas eux-mêmes fait émaner l'exécution en leur nom.

507. Il n'est pas nécessaire que le défendeur allègue avoir payé son procureur pour agir en son nom, contre la partie condamnée. C. C., 1898, Terrebonne, McNish vs Lacombe, 1 R. P. Q., 309.

508. Si l'opposition à une exécution qui a été émise à la requête du procureur distrayant et de sa partie est mal fondée par rapport au procureur, celui-ci peut demander le renvoi quant à lui. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Laramée, ès-qual., vs Dlle Hubert et al., et Mtre Charbonneau et Ouimet, 3 R. P. Q., 167.

509. Pour qu'une partie puisse exécuter la partie adverse pour les frais, distraits de plein droit en faveur de l'avocat de la partie saisissante, il faut que le consentement de cet avocat apparaisse par écrit et au fiat et au bref d'exécution et au procès-verbal de saisie.

510. Si ce consentement par écrit n'apparaît pas tel que dit ci-dessus, la partie exécutante alors n'étant pas créancière de ces frais, ne peut saisir en son nom, et partant une opposition à la saisie exécution, basée sur ce défaut est bien fondée et sera maintenue. C. R., Québec, 1903, Martin vs Corporation du Comté d'Arthabaska et Martin, R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 297; 9 R. L., n. s., 487.— C. S., 1907, Montréal, Rennie vs Mace et vir et McNamara, 14 R. J. ,184; R. J. Q., 33 C. S. 136; 9 R. P. Q., 169.

511. Distribution de deniers.—Un créancier saisissant n'a droit d'être colloqué, par privilège, sur le produit d'une vente judiciaire, que pour les frais d'une action ordinaire, jugée par défaut, taxé à £4 9 0. C. S., 1855, Québec, Denis vs St-Hilaire et al., 5 D. T. B. C., 386; 6 D. T. B. C., 96, 96bis; 4 R. J. R. Q., 385; 5 R. J. R. Q., 27; 12 R. J. R. Q., 352; 15 R. L., 300.

512. Les frais de la demande ne sont pas privilégiés, si la créance réclamée ne l'est pas; ils doivent suivre le sort de la créance. C. S., 1856, Montréal, Lalande vs Rowley et la Banque du Peuple et La Frenaye et Papin, 1 J., 274; 6 R. J. R. Q., 59.

513. The real estate belonging to the community, formerly existing between the defendant and his late wife, was sold by the sheriff in an action brought by the plaintiff, as representing the bailleur de fonds, in which action the defendant was condemned personally and as tutor to his minor children, jointly and severally, to pay to the plaintiff £45 10s, one-half of the capital of the bailleur de fonds claim. The children, as representing their mother, intervened by their tutor ad hoc, and contested the collocation of the plaintiff, on the ground that one-half of the moneys belonged to them, and that they were only liable for one-half of the capital and interest, and not for any costs: It was held that the contestation was unfounded. S. C., 1860, Montreal, Doutre vs Green and Pollico, ès-qual., 11 L. C. R., 79.

514. Une partie colloquée par erreur, ultra petita, doit payer les frais de contestation de telle collocation, quoiqu'en la recevant, il eut donné immédiatement avis qu'il y acquiesçait, avec un consentement que jugement fût rendu suivant les conclusions de telle contestation, mais sans frais contre lui. C. S., 1861, Québec, Adams vs Hunter and Evans and Mackenzie, 11 D. T. B. C., 172; 9 R. J. R. Q., 418.

515. Sur contestation du certificat du régistrateur, la partie colloquée par le protonotaire sera condamnée aux frais de contestation, à moins qu'elle ne produise un remittitur pour le montant sur-colloqué. C. S., 1861, Québec, Marois vs Bernier et Larivière, 12 D. T. B. C., 174; 11 R. J. R. Q., 4.

516. Upon the distribution of money levied in execution: The attorney of the seizing creditor was entitled to the fee allowed upon homologation of the report of distribution. C. C., 1862, Montreal, Kerry et al. vs Pelly et al. and Dame Watson, 6 J., 293; 13 L. C. R., 163.

517. Les frais de distribution d'argent, provenant de la vente d'immeubles sont payés au prorata des sommes pour lesquelles les immeubles ont été vendus. C. S., 1862, Arthabaska, Pacaud vs Dubé et les Syndics, etc., 7 J., 279; 11 R. J. R. Q., 107.

518. Lorsque, dans la contestation d'un article de collocation ou distribubion, le titre sur lequel l'opposant a été colloqué est contesté, les frais seront accordés, comme si l'opposition elle-même eut été contestée.

519. La classe des frais dans ce cas est réglée non par le montant de la collocation, mais par la somme réclamée par l'opposant.

520. L'opposant est considéré comme demandeur et le contestant comme défendeur, pour déterminer les frais dus à chacune des parties. C. S., 1863, Montréal, Doutre vs Gosselin et Gabouriault, 7 J., 290, 12 R. J. R. Q., 187.

521. A report of distribution of moneys arising from the sale of different lots of land is irregular, which does not show the proportion of the costs each lot sold is to bear. Q. B., 1866, Montreal, Eastern Townships Bank vs Pacaud, 9 J., 156; 17 L. C. R., 126; 2 L. C. L. J., 270.

522. Sur distribution des deniers provenant du décret d'immeubles, le cessionnaire d'un créancier porté au certificat des hypothèques, a droit à ses frais d'opposition, quoique son transport n'ait pas été enregistré. C. S., 1866, Montréal, Lacoste vs Jodoin, 2 L. C. L. J., 41; 15 R. J. R. Q.,300; 16 D. T. B. C., 393.

523. Les frais de contestation de créances colloquées erronément, lorsque le créancier colloqué n'a pas eu connaissance de la collocation et admet la contestation, doivent être payés par la masse.

524. Lorsque plusieurs intéressés ont contesté en même temps la collocation de ces créances, ils ne peuvent avoir que les frais d'une seule contestation, lesquels devront être également partagés entre eux. C. S., 1869, Richelieu, Cournoyer vs Plante, 1 R. L., 38; 20 R. J. R. Q., 286, 528.

525. Un créancier hypothécaire, colloqué pour plus qu'il ne lui reste dû sur sa créance originaire, le surplus lui ayant été payé en vertu d'un jugement de distribution précédent, ne peut être condamné aux frais de contestation soulevée par un créancier postérieur, lorsque ce créancier colloqué a produit au greffe, après la contestation, une déclaration de la balance lui restant due.

526. La contestation sera maintenue sans frais contre le créancier ainsi colloqué, et le projet de jugement de distribution sera en conséquence réformé. L'article 2178 du Code civil ne s'applique pas au cas actuel. C.S., 1870, Ste-Scholastique, Globensky vs Daoust et Moreau, 2 R. L., 608; 21 R. J. R. Q., 97, 533.

527. Lorsqu'une collocation d'au-dessous de $60, dans un jugement de distribution, forme partie d'une créance d'au-delà de mille piastres, et que le contestant pour faire disparaître cette collocation attaque comme frauduleux l'acte constitutif de toute la créance, les frais sur cette contestation seront taxés comme dans une cause du montant de toute la créance et non seulement du montant de la collocation qui comprend la balance des deniers à distribuer. C. S., 1882, Joliette, Leblanc vs Tellier et al., 11 R. L., 352.

528. Where a defendant in an action of damages which has been dismissed with costs, causes an immoveable belonging to the plaintiff to be taken in execution and sold by the sheriff, he has a right to be collocated by privilege on the proceeds of sale for his costs of suit, as well as for the costs subsequent to judgment. Q. B., 1884, Montreal, Tansy vs Bethune et al., 28 J., 5; M. L. R., 1 Q. B., 28; 7 L. N., 133; 3 D. C. A., 333; 1 R. L., 302, 548.

529. The plaintiffs who were collocated by privilege (under C. c. p. article 606) for the costs of a suit in the Superior court, desisted from the greater part of the collocation in their favor, and the money was then distributed au marc la livre among the creditors. The plaintiffs afterwards instituted suits against the defendant's sureties in appeal for the costs in both courts, the judgment having been confirmed in appeal.

530. As the effect of the desistement, made without notice to the sureties, was that the sureties could no longer be subrogated in the rights of the plaintiffs for the amount collocated by privilege, the surety was extinguished to the extent of the amount for which the plaintiffs had filed a retraxit. (0959 C.)

531. A sum of $315 paid by the sureties, for which the plaintiffs gave a receipt without making any special imputation of payment, should be imputed on account of the costs in the court of Queen's Bench, that being the debt which the defendant had the greatest interest in paying (C. c. 1161). S. C., 1887. Montreal, Macmaster et al., vs Hannah, M. L. R., 3 S. C., 459; 11 L. N., 159.

532. Les frais faits par le premier saisissant, pour saisir et contester une opposition faite à sa saisie, doivent être préférés à ceux d'un second saisissant, quand même la vente a eu lieu sur la saisie du second saisissant. C. R., 1887, Montréal, L'Hon. Lacoste et al., ès-qualité vs Levingston et Laurence, 17 R. L., 16; 33 J., 67.

533. Lorsque la contestation d'un bordereau de collocation nécessite une instruction complète, avec enquête, les frais seront taxés comme sur contestation d'une opposition afin de conserver. C. S., 1888, Québec, Beaudet et al., vs Lefaivre et Rattray et al., 14 R. J. R. 139; 11 L. N., 318.

534. Les frais sur la contestation d'une créance colloquée, alléguant que le créancier colloqué n'a pas d'hypothèque, vu que celle qu'il réclame lui a été consentie dans un temps où le débiteur était notoirement insolvable, doivent être taxés conformément à l'article 67 du tarif des avocats. C. S., 1889, Joliette, Chevalier vs Rivest et al., 17 R. L., 528.

535. La partie qui conteste une opposition colloquée à l'ordre, doit être considérée comme un demandeur aux termes de l'article 55 du tarif. C. S., 1897, Joliette Lavallée vs Lafrenière et Demers, 1 R. P. Q., 346.

536. Les frais d'une contestation de rapport de distribution seront mis à la charge du défendeur quand les circonstances de l'espèce démontrent que telle contestation a été provoquée par sa faute plutôt que par l'erreur des autres parties. C. S., 1901, Québec, Belgarde vs Carrier et Brochu, 3 R.P.Q., 513.

537. Aux termes de l'article 676 § 3, C. p. c., le créancier a droit d'être colloqué, sur le produit de l'immeuble par lui saisi et vendu, des frais de l'action, et ces frais comprennent même ceux de contestation et d'enquête lorsque l'action a été contestée. C. S., 1903, Joliette, Roberge vs Charbonneau et Tellier et Bazinet, 9 R. J., 475.

538. Le séquestre et liquidateur nommé en vertu de l'article 1896*a* C. c., qui retire les sommes dues à la société et les distribue de bonne foi en conformité d'ordonnances rendues par le tribunal ne saurait être tenu personnellement des frais d'une opposition formée à ces ordonnances. B. R., 1906, Montréal, Bédard vs Owens, R. J. Q., 15 B. R., 553; 12 R. L., n. s., 449.

539. Dommage. — In an action of damages for personal wrong, instituted in the Superior court, where judgment is rendered £10 and costs, the costs are taxed as in a judgment for that amount in the Circuit court. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Wilson vs Morris et Ravaria, 1 J., 237; 6 R. J. R. Q., 32.

540. In an action of damages for personal wrong, where judgment is given in favor of the plaintiff for costs only, in consideration of defendant's apology and confession of judgment for costs, article 550 C. c. p., does not apply to prevent the costs of the cause being taxed against the defendant. S. C., 1897, Montreal, Cooke vs Hart, Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 348; 1 Q. P. R., 141.

541. Si le demandeur a occasionné par son action des frais qui ne peuvent être taxés par le tarif, et qui ne peuvent être liquidés à cet étage de la procédure (avant le rapport de l'action), le défendeur peut en recouvrer le montant à titre de dommages-intérêts, par une action directe contre le demandeur, si sa réclamation est bien fondée. C. S., 1907, Richelieu, Lussier vs Tellier et al. et la Cité de Sorel, 9 R. P. Q., 113.

542. Where it is proven that the defendant acted under an improper motive and with a spirit of revenge in causing plaintiff's arrest, the plaintiff suing for false arrest in the province of Quebec should be awarded an amount sufficient to carry costs on the scale of the Superior court of that province and not merely the costs on the scale of the circuit court. C. R., 1912, Montreal, Kalmanovitch vs Muller, 1 D. L. R., 628.

543. Dommage n'excédant pas $8.00. — A plaintiff may in some cases recover the costs of the superior term, though his judgment is for £5 only. K. B., 1816, Quebec, Godbout vs Giroux, 3 R. de L., 391; 2 R. J. R. Q., 309.

544. In a case of damages for personal wrongs in which the court has awarded only $5 for the damages, no greater amount that $5 for the costs can be allowed. C. R., 1873, Montreal, Warner et al. vs Rolf, 17 J., 293; 23 R. J. R. Q., 243, 551.

545. Dans une action en dommages au montant de $25, si $2 seulement sont accordées, la cour peut accorder plus de $2 de frais. Et la règle, si les dommages accordés s'élèvent à moins de £2.0.0 sterling, les frais ne pourront être plus élevés, ne s'applique pas dans les causes de $25 et au-dessous, où le juge a droit de juger suivant l'équité. C. C., 1881, Malbaie, Bouchard vs Girard, 10 L. N., 250.

546. Article 478 C. c. p., which provides that in actions of damages for personal wrongs if damages awarded do not exceed forty shillings sterling, no greater sum can be allowed for costs than the amount of such damages, deprives the court of power to allow the plaintiff the costs of the action where no damages whatever are awarded.

547. And this restriction exists even where it appears that the plaintiff, by a statement in writing, waived his claim to any condemnation in his favor, except for the costs of the suit. C. R., 1891, Montreal, Browning vs Spackman, M. L. R., 7 S. C., 369; 12 L. N., 394; 35 J., 34.

548. Quelle que soit la gravité des dommages et l'appréciation du tribunal à ce sujet, si ce dernier ne juge pas a propos d'accorder des dommages pour un montant plus élevé que $8, v. g., $5, il ne peut alors accorder plus de frais qu'il n'accorde de capital; partant un jugement condamnant le défendeur à payer la somme de $5.00 de dommages et les frais d'une action de $60 à $100 et les frais de sténographie devra être cassé, le tribunal ne pouvait, dans ce cas, condamner la partie à plus de $5 de frais. C. R., 1908, Québec, Dourille vs Ouellette, R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 385.

549. Election fédérale contestée.—The petitioners in the case of a contested election are jointly, not severally, liable to the sitting member for their half of the commissioner's fees paid by the sitting member. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Lamère et al. vs Guèvremont, 1 L. C. L. J., 59; 18 R. J. R. Q., 119, 534.

550. Where bribery by an agent is proved, costs follow the event, even though personal charges made against the respondent have not been proved, there having been no additional expense occasioned to the respondent by such personal charges. E. C., 1871, Ontario, South Grey, H. E. C., 52.

551. The particulars not having been properly prepared, the petitioner, while obtaining the costs of the proceedings, was disallowed the costs of the particulars. E. C., 1874, Ontario, East Northumberland, H. E. C., 577.

552. Various acts of bribery and of colourable charity having been proved against the agents and sub-agents of the respondent, the election was set aside, with costs, including the costs of the evidence on the personal charges against the respondent. E. C., 1874, Ontario, Cornwall, H. E. C., 547.

553. The petitioner, having been warranted in continuing the inquiry as to the personal al complicity of the respondent with the illegal acts of his agents, was held entitled to the full costs of the trial. E. C., 1874, Ontario, Kingston, H. E. C., 625.

554. Costs should follow the event, although the personal charges against the respondent fail, unless put in wantonly, or unless the expense of the trial has been thereby increased. E. C., 1874, Ontario, Cornwall, 10 C. L. J., 313.

555. The petitioners, after a notice from the respondent admitting bribery by one of his agents, examined witnesses on the personal charges, which were not proved, and in determing the question of costs, it was held, that as the petitioners might have come to the court on the notice served by the respondent, and have asked to have the election set aside, and as they had attempted, but had failed, to establish the personal charges, the respondent should only pay such costs as he would have had to pay had the petitioners accepted the notice served upon them before the trial. E. C., 1874, Ontario, West Northumberland, H. E. C., 562.

556. The election was set aside with costs, except as to the costs of certain charges which were unwarranted. A party, though successful, is not entitled to the costs of the witnesses he may subpœna, nor is the fact of them being called or not called the test of such costs being taxable. E. C., 1874, Ontario, Niagara, H. E. C., 568.

557. The returning officer having acted honestly and fairly in rejecting the nomination paper, each party to the petition was left to bear his own costs. E. C., 1875, Ontario, South Renfrew (2), H. E. C., 705.

558. The petitioner was held entitled to costs of the charges on which he succeeded, and the respondent to the costs of the charges on which the petitioner failed. E. C., 1875, Ontario, North Renfrew H. E. C., 710.—E. C., 1879, Ontario, Cornwall, H. E. C., 803.

559. At the trial of an election petition, and on appeal from the judgment, the petitioner, a barrister, appeared in person, but was assisted by a junior counsel. On taxation, the petition having been dismissed, counsel fees were charged, to the first counsel at the trial $300, and to second counsel $150; and on argument of the appeal, to first counsel $150, second counsel $100. The master disallowed fees to the first counsel, but allowed $200 to the second counsel at the trial, and the $100 on appeal; there being no affidavit of payment or receipt for such fees, though it was called for and insisted upon for the respondent. On an application for revision: The fees should not, under the circumstances, have been allowed without proof of payment; and no more than $150 should have been taxed for the second counsel at the trial.

560. A revision was therefore ordered, with an intimation that the $150 and $100 might be allowed on satisfactory proof of payment. Q. B., 1877, Ontario, North Victoria, 39 U. C. R., 147.

561. Where an election had been avoided on the trial of an election petition, but the petitioners had examined a large number of witnesses from many of whom nothing was elicited in support of their charges and they also examined many of such witnesses at very great length, thereby causing great expense, the respondent should pay the costs of the proceedings, but the petitioners should pay one half of the costs of the enquête. S. C., 1881, Lachute, Hickson et al. vs Abbott, 25 J., 289.

562. L'avocat ou conseil sur une contestation d'élection ne peut excéder, pour l'instruction sur le fonds, les montants prévus par la 54-55 Vict. (Can.), ch. 20, sect. 15.

563. L'honoraire accordé par cette section ne comprend ni les déboursés dans la cause, ni les honoraires sur les procédures préliminaires. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Bergeron vs Brunet, 5 R. P. Q., 434.

564. Le shérif n'a droit à un honoraire, dans une contestation d'élection fédérale, que si sa présence au procès a été requise. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Bergeron vs Brunet, 5 R. P. Q., 433.

565. Election municipale contestée.— En cas de nomination illégale de conseiller municipal par le conseil, tous les frais, y compris ceux d'enquête, doivent retomber sur la municipalité, bien qu'elle n'ait point contesté la requête quant à la validité de l'élection, mais qu'elle ait seulement défendu la nomination du conseil, nonobstant le fait qu'elle n'a point assigné de témoins. C. C., 1887, Sherbrooke, Charland et al. vs Stenson et Municipalité de Wotton, 10 L. N., 306.

566. Le conseiller municipal dont l'élection a été annulée à raison de l'illégalité de la résolution du conseil municipal le nommant à cette charge, a un recours contre la corporation municipale pour le recouvrement des frais qu'il a été condamné à payer sur la contestation de son élection. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Filiatrault vs Corporation du village du Coteau Landing, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 404.

567. L'article 279 de la charte de la cité de Montréal qualifie de requête libellée, la requête par laquelle commence la contestation de l'élection d'un échevin de la cité de Montréal, et il faut prendre cette expression "requête libellée" pour ce qu'elle est, quand il s'agit d'appliquer le tarif des honoraires dus au protonotaire sur telle requête. L'honoraire du protonotaire est de $8 et non pas deux piastres seulement.

568. La cour, sur motion, accordera à un requérant de bonne foi, qui a apposé des timbres insuffisants sur une telle requête, le droit d'apposer de nouveaux timbres au montant requis et aux conditions énoncées en l'article 1177 des Statuts Refondus de la province de Québec, et sur paiement, au préalable, des frais de telle motion. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Labossière vs Hébert, 9 R. J., 72.

569. Les contestations d'élections municipales dans les cités et villes sont des actions de troisième classe. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Masson et al. vs Hébert, 6 R. P. Q., 342.

570. Election provinciale contestée.— Même si le pétitionnaire réussit, chaque partie doit payer ses frais, si le défendeur réussit dans une procédure récriminatoire prise par lui en vertu de la clause 55 de l'Acte Electoral. C. E., 1876, Québec, Hamilton vs Beauchesne, 3 R. J. Q., 75; 1 L. N., 175.

571. Lorsqu'après le renvoi des objections préliminaires et avant la production d'une défense au mérite, le pétitionnaire discontinue sa pétition, le procureur du défendeur a droit à l'honoraire de cent piastres, porté au deuxième item du tarif des honoraires accordés aux

avocats, dans les contestations d'élection. C. S., 1887, Montréal, Lambert vs Villeneuve, 15 R. L., 521.

572. Les frais sur contestation des listes électorales doivent être taxés comme dans une cause de la cour de Circuit de $60 à $100.

573. Les frais sur motion de la nature d'une exception à la forme avec dépôt, sont ceux accordés par le tarif sur exception à la forme. C. S., 1900, Joliette, Bolduc vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Ambroise de Kildare, 6 R. J., 397.

574. Emprisonnement.—Where the imprisonment of the defendant was demanded under section 136 of the Insolvent Act, 1875, and judgment was obtained for the defendant simply, costs as in an exparte case only were granted. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Brown vs Mullin, 2 L. N., 344.

575. Enquête.—Lorsque des procédés sur une règle de contrainte par corps nécessitent une enquête, et que des admissions écrites sont produites au soutien de la règle, l'honoraire de $8.00, mentionné en l'article 42 du tarif d'honoraire des avocats, à la cour Supérieure, doit entrer en taxe. C. S., 1870, Joliette, Archambault vs La Corporation du village de l'Assomption, 2 R. L., 105; 21 R. J. R. Q., 1, 556, 560.

576. On a petition to quash a capias, the defendant, though he succeed, will not be entitled to costs of enquête unless he have filed articulation of facts. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Ogilvy et al. vs Jones, 17 J., 25.

577. Dans toutes cause où jugement aura ainsi été obtenu sur affidavit, l'honoraire de l'avocat sera le même que si tel jugement eût été rendu sur la déposition d'un témoin en cour. C. C., 1873, Montréal, D'Amour et al. vs Bourdon, 17 J., 85; 23 R. J. R. Q., 109, 565, 581.

578. A l'enquête sur requête pour faire annuler l'acte de cession, les parties ont droit à un conseil, et l'honoraire de ce conseil doit être taxé à dix piastres comme dans les causes ordinaires. C. S., 1878, Québec, In Re Piton et al., 4 R. J. Q., 199.

579. Lorsqu'une cause est inscrite à l'enquête, une admission de faits produite équivaut à l'audition de témoins.

580. La signature d'une admission de faits par un conseil à l'enquête, même contresignée par les procureurs ad litem, donne droit à l'honoraire item 29 du tarif. C. S., 1879, Québec, Corporation de Québec vs Piton et al., 5 R. J. Q., 239.

581. Contra:—The production of an admission of facts in a case inscribed for proof and hearing is not equivalent to an examination of witnesses.

582. The enquête fee allowed by article 29 of the tariff of advocates' fees is only chargeable when counsel other than the attorney of record conducted the enquête.

583. A counsel who does not conduct an enquête, but merely countersigns an admission of facts, is therefore not entitled to the fee. S. C., 1886, Aylmer, Larmonth vs Moreau and Mullin, 9 L. N., 386.

584. Lorsqu'une des parties succombe sur tous les faits qui ont fait la matière de l'enquête, quoiqu'elle puisse réussir, d'ailleurs, à obtenir jugement, les frais d'enquête doivent être mis à sa charge. C. S., 1884, Montréal, Filiatrault vs Elie, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 66; 7 L. N., 378; 20 R. L., 477, 491.

585. If the facts alleged in a dilatory exception are sufficiently established by the deeds filed in support of the motion or exception, the plaintiff who answers in writing and provokes an enquête upon the facts so established and succeeds on the motion will pay his costs subsequent to the presentation of the motion.

586. Costs of enquête will not be allowed when testimony is unnecessary. S. C., 1887, Ottawa, Folcher vs Lablouglie, 10 L. N., 138.—S. C., 1899, St. Francis, Gaudet vs Bisson, 2 Q. P. R., 90.

587. Lorsque les dépositions déjà prises dans une cause sont produites dans une autre cause et portent le titre de cette dernière cause somme si elles eussent été prises en icelle, le procureur de la partie adverse a droit aux honoraires pourvus par le tarif pour transquestionner plus de cinq témoins; il en serait autrement, si les dépositions eussent été copiées dans la cause même où elles avaient été prises et eussent été produites dans la dernière cause avec un consentement à ce qu'elles servent.

588. Un conseil à l'enquête doit être accordé dans tous les cas où il y a eu enquête, quand bien même elle ne consisterait qu'en consentement ou admission écrits. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Banque d'Hochelaga vs Ewing et al. et Darling et al., M. L. R., 7 C. S., 40; 14 L. N., 52.

589. Le défendeur qui nie toutes les allégations de la demande, et force le demandeur à prouver les faits par lui allégués, peut être tenu aux frais d'articulation de faits et d'enquête sur motion à cet effet, lors même que le jugement ne serait que pour une somme de la dernière classe à la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1891, Saguenay, Boudreau vs Harvey, 14 L. N., 385.

590. L'avocat a droit à l'honoraire d'enquête, lorsque la cause est réglée à l'audience, les témoins présents mais non entendus. C. C., 1892, Québec, Fleming vs Brown, 1 R. P. Q., 468.

591. Le procureur du défendeur n'a pas droit aux honoraires de l'article 36 du tarif pour audition au mérite dans une cause contestée, lorsque le demandeur se désiste de son action après inscription pour enquête au mérite, mais avant l'audition au mérite. C. S., 1899, Montreal, Protestant Board of School Commissioners of Outremont vs Cooke et al., 2 R. P. Q., 251.—C. S., 1904, Montréal, Bigras vs Viau, 10 R. J., 222.

592. L'honoraire d'enquête n'est accordé que lorsqu'il y a eu une enquête. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Odell vs Bell, 2 R. P. Q., 202.—C. S., 1900, Montreal, Walker vs Banque Nationale et al. et Bruneau et al., 3 R. P. Q., 47.

593. Si une action est discontinuée avec dépens avant le jour fixé pour l'audition, le demandeur demandant acte de son désistement lors de l'appel de la cause, le défendeur n'a pas droit à l'honoraire d'enquête fixé par l'article 32 du tarif. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lee Chu et al. vs Carpenter, 3 R. P. Q., 70; 6 R. L., n. s., 298.

594. Lorsqu'une action a été renvoyée sur une exception à la forme sur laquelle il y a eu enquête et audition, le défendeur a droit aux honoraires d'enquête et d'audition, en sus de l'honoraire prévu par l'article 7 du tarif. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lapointe vs St-Onge, 3 R. P. Q., 314.

595. Si la nullité d'une action prise par une femme mariée n'est invoquée qu'à la plaidoirie orale, l'action sera renvoyée, mais sans frais d'enquête. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lefebvre vs Dominion Wire Manufacturing Co., 3 R. P. Q., 224.

596. Lorsque les frais de transcription des dépositions sont causés par une inscription de la cause en révision ou en appel, ils doivent être payés par la partie qui succombe, car ils font partie des frais de la cause. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Lauzon vs La Corporation du canton de La Minerve, 9 R. P. Q., 151; R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 214.

597. The tariff of justice's fees under Code section 770 does not permit a charge per folio for taking down the evidence, the original depositions not being a "copy "under item 13. Sup. C., Nova Scotia, 1910, The King vs Crowley, 16 Can. Cr. Cas., 373.

598. Le 13 mai dernier, le demandeur entreprit de transporter de Ste-Anne des Monts et Matane à Lévis, une cargaison de patates, de pas moins de 2000 minots à huit cents per minot. Il reçut à bord de sa goëlette 1892 minots. Ces patates avaient été achetées par l'agent du défendeur. La goëlette qui portait ces patates n'arriva à Lévis que le 5 juin, et une partie de la cargaison était gâtée. En conséquence, le défendeur ne voulait payer que sept cents de fret, et il déposa $110. Le demandeur refusa de décharger ou de laisser décharger les patates sur le quai et prit une action pour le prix de son fret. De son côté, le défendeur, par une demande incidente, réclama $30 pour les dommages que les patates avaient éprouvés: Le demandeur ayant gardé les patates dans sa goëlette, faute de paiement du fret, lorsqu'il a pris son action, le défendeur ne doit être condamné qu'aux frais d'enquête, lesquels ont été nécessités par sa contestation. C. S., Québec, 1899, Trépanier vs Gaudreau, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 23.

599. When a party does not prove the greater part of his allegations, he must bear the expenses of the days of trial occupied by his useless enquête. S. C., 1906, Montreal, North American Life Assurance Co. vs Lamothe, 7 Q. P. R., 439.

600. La dénégation par une partie d'allégations fondées en fait, qui entraîne une enquête coûteuse et inutile, est une cause spéciale pour laquelle le tribunal peut, par application de l'article 549 C. p. en lui donnant gain de cause, refuser de lui accorder les dépens. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Lauzon vs La Corporation du canton La Minerve, R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 214.

601. Le demandeur qui a obtenu jugement pour une somme moindre que celle de $100 avec les frais d'une action de ce montant, a droit au coût de la transcription des dépositions, quand elle a été nécessitée par une inscription en révision du défendeur et que le jugement a été confirmé. Mais il n'a pas le droit au coût des notes sténographiques sans transcription qui reste à sa charge. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dupont vs Rigler, 12 R. P. Q., 381.

602. Enquête commune. — Lorsque toutes les parties qui ont contesté séparément une action, consentent à une enquête commune, ce consentement n'affecte que les frais relatifs à l'assignation, la taxe des témoins, le coût des dépositions, mais n'affecte point les honoraires des avocats qui représentent les parties respectivement, tels avocats ont, en conséquence, droit à un mémoire de frais intégral pour honoraires d'enquête, d'audition et autres charges allouées par le tarif. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Renaud vs Larivière et al., 17 R. J., 175; 12 R. P. Q., 148.—C. S., 1910, Montréal, Lavergne dit Renaud vs Larivière et al., 17 R. L., n. s., 33.

603. Lorsque les défendeurs plaident séparément à l'action, mais que toutes les parties consentent ensuite à une enquête commune, tel consentement n'affecte que l'assignation et la taxe des témoins et le coût des dispositions, mais n'affecte pas les honoraires des avocats qui représentent les parties respectivement, partant tels avocats ont droit à leurs honoraires de transquestions des témoins, d'enquête et d'audition. C. S., 1866, Montréal, Archambault vs Robillard et al., 6 R. J., 562.

603a. When several issues are united for trial and there is only one enquête and examination of witnesses, one argument and one judgment on the several issues, the attorney is not entitled to fees of enquête and argument as if there had been separate trials. C. S., 1899, Montreal, Demers vs Sanche et Provost, 6 Q. P. R., 241.

603b. A judgment granting a motion for the union of the principal action with the intervention and the requête en faux, for enquête and hearing, made after issue joined separately and after the conclusion of the evidence, has not the effect of depriving the plaintiff of his costs already earned on such proceedings. C. S., 1903, Montreal, Préfontaine vs South Eastern Railway Co., 9 R. J., 491.

603c. Lorsque par une même et seule intervention, dans une action accompagnée de saisie-arrêt avant jugement, un intervenant conteste la saisie-arrêt et l'action, et que les prétentions du demandeur sont maintenues et l'intervention est renvoyée avec dépens, les frais du demandeur seront taxés contre tel intervenant comme dans une seule instance. C. S., 1904, Québec, Ouray vs Veilleux et Quebec Bank, 10 R. J., 90.

603d. Si plusieurs actions en dommages ont été réunies pour les fins de l'enquête et de l'audition, et que les jugements sont rendus pour différents montants, on ne peut dire que l'enquête et l'audition aient été absolument les mêmes dans les différentes causes, et par conséquent il y a lieu d'accorder un honoraire distinct dans chacune. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Ritson vs Arnold, 10 R. J., 264; 6 R. P. Q., 289.

603e. La réunion de plusieurs causes pour les fins d'enquête et d'audition n'empêche pas les avocats de recevoir l'honoraire d'enquête et l'audition pour chacune de ces causes, mais réduit seulement les frais de sténographie et la taxe des témoins. C. S., 1904, Trois-Rivières, Henry vs Sanderson et al., 6 R. P. Q., 241.

604. Enregistrement de jugement.— Le tarif des frais et honoraires des avocats pratiquant devant les tribunaux ne détermine ces frais et honoraires dans les causes, que relativement aux procédures qui sont du ressort exclusif des avocats.

605. Le protonotaire ne peut en conséquence taxer et porter au mémoire d'un avocat les montants que ce dernier réclame pour enregistrement de jugement, pour honoraires sur l'avis d'enregistrement de ce jugement et pour vacations relatives à cet enregistrement: Sur demande révision la cour retranchera, avec dépens, ces items ainsi taxés par le protonotaire. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Compagnie de publication commerciale vs Paquette et al., 15 R. J., 110.

606. Enregistrement de privilège.— Les frais encourus pour faire enregistrer un privilège, sont exigibles du débiteur de la créance enregistrée. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Turcot vs Lebeau, 2 R. P. Q., 208.

607. Examen de l'opposant.—Lorsque le procureur de l'opposant a assisté à l'examen de ce dernier et l'a transquestionné, il a droit à l'honoraire accordé par l'article 41 du tarif. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Lafontaine vs Seney et Dame Marcille, 8 R. P. Q., 320.

608. Examen préalable.—No fee will be allowed on an examination on discovery which was dispensed with after the issuing of a subpœna.

609. When a party is examined on discovery, the adverse party has no right to charge in his bill of costs, the cost of a copy of such examination. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Clough vs Fabre et vir, 9 Q. P. R., 276.

610. Le fait de préparer les procédures pour un examen préalable est suffisant pour en faire obtenir les honoraires, quand même la partie assignée ferait défaut. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Taylor, ès-qual vs Paradis et vir, 12 R. P. Q., 358.

611. Exception à la forme.—Where before the exception to the form has been disposed of, the parties by consent have proceeded to the merits, the court, in dismissing the action upon the exception will order each party to bear his own costs of the contestation on the merits. S. C., 1885, Iberville, Gadoua et al. vs Rev. Tassé, 8 L. N., 385.

612. La discontinuation par le demandeur, de son action, ne donne pas au défendeur, qui a fait une exception à la forme qui a été renvoyée, droit à des frais, comme si l'action avait été renvoyée sur exception à la forme. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Dessaulles et vir vs Stanley, 21 R. L., 480.

613. Dans le cas où une exception à la forme est maintenue pour frais seulement et renvoyée pour le surplus, vu le jugement accordant en même temps une motion pour amender, l'honoraire de l'avocat du défendeur sera celui d'une exception à la forme renvoyée. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Nordheimer et al. vs Purcell et vir, 4 R. L., n. s., 234.

614. If an exception to the form is maintained for costs only, the fee of the defendant's attorney will be that of an exception to the form dismissed, and not of an exception to the form maintained. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Nordheimer vs Farrell, 1 Q. P. R., 287.

615. Le demandeur qui par motion demande le rejet d'une allégation de la défense fait une procédure de la nature d'une exception à la forme, et les frais sur cette motion doivent être ceux de l'exception à la forme.

616. Celui qui fait l'exception à la forme doit être considéré comme le défendeur, dans le sens de l'article 23 du tarif de frais, le demandeur étant celui contre la procédure duquel cette procédure est dirigée. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Harvey vs Mowat et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 279; 2 R. P. Q., 228.

617. Lorsque le demandeur se désiste de son action après la signification d'une motion de la nature d'une exception à la forme, et après le dépôt de la somme requise en pareil cas, mais avant la présentation de la dite motion, l'article 13 du tarif n'aura pas d'application, mais il faudra appliquer l'article 6 pour l'honoraire sur la comparution, et l'article 23 pour l'honoraire sur l'exception à la forme, considérant celle-ci comme ayant été renvoyée.

618. Dans l'espèce, le tarif qui s'applique est celui fait pour les causes de seconde classe à la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1899, Québec, Maranda vs La Corporation de Lévis, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 33.

619. Si une action est renvoyée sur exception à la forme, l'honoraire de l'avocat du défendeur pour une action renvoyée après production d'un plaidoyer autre qu'un plaidoyer au mérite et sans enquête, sera celui mentionné à l'article 7 du tarif de la cour Supérieure, et non l'honoraire d'une simple motion. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Plourde, ès-qual. vs Banque de Montréal, 2 R. P. Q., 496; R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 291; 6 R. L., n. s., 302.

620. Dans une action renvoyée sur exception à la forme, avec enquête, l'avocat a droit à l'honoraire au mérite, article 36 du tarif, et à l'honoraire pour enquête, article 46 du dit tarif. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Dlle Lapointe vs St-Onge, 6 R. L., n. s., 303.

621. Les honoraires de l'avocat sur exception à la forme renvoyée sont ceux mentionnés à l'item 23 du tarif de la cour Supérieure, et non les honoraires d'une simple motion. C. S., 1901, Arthabaska, Fonderie de Drummondville vs Robillard et al., et Hébert, 3 R. P. Q., 378.

622. Exception déclinatoire. — Lorsqu'une action est renvoyée, sur un plaidoyer produit comme plaidoyer au fond, déclinant la juridiction de la cour pour incompétence ratione materiæ, le mémoire de frais du procureur du défendeur sera taxé, conformément à l'article 7 du tarif des honoraires des avocats, à la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Saxton vs Paradis, 13 R. L., 40; M. L. R., 1 C. S., 437; 8 L. N., 341.

623. L'honoraire du défendeur sur exception déclinatoire maintenue et transmission du dossier ordonnée, sera celui d'une action renvoyée après contestation. C. C., 1899, Montréal, Montreal Brewing Company vs St-Vincent, 2 R. P. Q., 363.

624. En vertu de l'item 40 du tarif, de la cour de Circuit, l'honoraire d'un procureur qui réussit à faire rejeter une exception déclinatoire, est de $3.00 et non de $1.00 tel que mentionné à l'item 36. C. S., 1900, Arthabaska, Robillard et al. vs Wilson, 7 R. J., 109.

625. The fee of the defendant's attorney on a declinatory exception which was maintained, the court ordering the transmission of the record to another district, is that provided for by article 7 of the tariff. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Canadian Mutual Loan and Investment Co. vs Tanguay et vir., 3 Q. P. R., 436.

626. An action dismissed on declinatory exception is a contested action for the purpose of taxation under the old tariff of advocates' fees which was in force at the time of the action. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Hodge vs Hon. Béique and Hon. Emmerson, ès-qual., et al., 10 Q. P. R., 216.

627. Lorsque, dans une action de première classe à la Cour de circuit non appelable, une exception déclinatoire est maintenue et que le dossier est transmis dans un autre district pour adjudication au mérite, les honoraires des avocats de la défense sont de $3.00 suivant l'article 39 du tarif de la cour de Circuit. C. C., 1910, Joliette, Courchesne vs The Maritime Nail Co., 12 R. P. Q., 136.

628. Exception dilatoire.—Costs will be awarded on a dilatory exception if the power of attorney asked for thereby has not been filed before the exception. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Westcott et vir vs Archambault et ak., 21 J., 307; 1 L. N., 211.

629. Si une exception dilatoire demandant le cautionnement judicatum solvi est fondée, le demandeur devra en payer les frais, qui ne doivent pas suivre l'issue du procès. C. S., 1885, Joliette, Galarneau et al. vs Guilbault, 9 L. N., 62.

630. Les demandeurs n'ayant pas contesté l'exception dilatoire faite par des héritiers dans les délais pour faire inventaire et délibérer, les frais de cette exception seront mis à la charge de la succession, c'est-à-dire, dans le présent cas, à la charge de la défenderesse ès-qualité de légataire universel sous bénéfice d'inventaire. C. S., 1892, Fraserville, Massé et al. vs Lainé, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 269; 16 L. N., 140.

631. Lorsque des moyens qui auraient pu être soulevés par motion le sont par exception dilatoire, les frais accordés seront ceux d'une motion. C. S., 1909, Trois-Rivières, Légaré vs Tranchemontagne, 10 R. P. Q., 307.

632. Exception préliminaire. — Les honoraires de protonotaire et du procureur sur motion comportant exception préliminaire (à la forme, déclinatoire, dilatoire), même lorsque telle motion est maintenue et l'action renvoyée, doivent être les honoraires d'une simple motion ordinaire, d'après la classe de l'action, article 28 du tarif des honoraires des avocats (voir règle de pratique, no 40). C. S., 1899, Québec, Vézina vs Martin, 2 R. P. Q., 361.

633. If several preliminary exceptions are filed concurrently, and the action is dismissed on one of them, the defendant is not entitled to the costs of the other exceptions, if these have not been urged to judgment.

634. A motion by plaintiff to have defendants' bill of costs revised accordingly will be granted. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Bourbonnais vs Lortie, 11 Q. P. R., 17.

635. Exécuteur testamentaire. — Les articles 478 et 479 du Code de procédure qui déclarent que la partie qui succombe doit supporter les dépens et que ces dépens sont taxés par le protonotaire, sauf la révision du juge, ne s'appliquent pas à des procédures non contentieuses adoptées pour la nomination, par le tribunal ou le juge, d'un exécuteur testamentaire pour remplacer un exécuteur décédé. Par conséquent, il n'y a pas lieu de taxer le mémoire de frais dans une semblable affaire, et si telle taxation a eu lieu, elle a été faite sans juridiction et il n'y a pas lieu à la réviser puisqu'elle n'existe pas. C.S., 1893, Montréal, exparte Gagnon, R.J.Q., 3 C. S., 288.

636. Exécution.—Lorsqu'un bref d'exécution est émané de la cour Supérieure, les déboursés doivent être suivant le montant pour lequel le bref est émis, mais si le montant est au-dessous de $100, alors c'est le tarif de la quatrième classe de la cour Supérieure qui doit être appliqué; mais lorsque l'exécution de ce bref est rencontrée par une opposition afin d'annuler alléguant paiement et qui est maintenue avec dépens, les honoraires du procureur suivent le montant réclamé par le bref. C. S., 1901, Arthabaska, Morinville vs Baril et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 327.

637. Exécution provisoire.—While motion for leave to appeal from a judgment, maintaining a demurrer was pending, the successful party applied for execution for his costs which after argument was refused by the prothonotary. S. C., 1882, Montreal, Payette vs Hatton, 5 L. N., 239.

638. Exhibit. — Les copies de vieux plans produites par une partie au soutien de ses prétentions, seront considérées comme exhibits, et taxées comme tels. C. S., 1862, Québec, Brown vs Gugy, 12 D. T. B. C., 413; 10 R. J. R. Q., 109, 519.

639. Le coût des pièces n'entre en taxe contre la partie condamnée aux dépens, que lorsqu'elles étaient nécessaires à la cause, et, en outre, que lorsque la partie qui les a produites n'était pas présumée les avoir en sa possession.

640. Pour en obtenir la taxation, il n'est pas nécessaire d'en avoir démandé le coût spécialement, la conclusion générale aux dépens étant suffisante. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Mainville vs Legault, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 452; 8 L. N., 347.

641. Une partie ne peut faire entrer en taxes le coût des exhibits qui n'ont pas été encourus à l'occasion du procès. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Coggins vs Gleason alias Carrick et al., 4 R. L., n. s., 240; 1 R. P. Q., 345.

642. Le coût d'une copie d'acte qui fait partie des titres de celui qui la produit, ne peut être taxé contre la partie adverse, que si cette copie a été préparée dans le but de la produire au procès.

643. Les pas et démarches du notaire pour la recherche des pièces à produire ne peuvent entrer en taxe. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lavoignat vs Mackay et Boudreau et al., R.J. Q., 17 C. S., 382; 6 R. L., n. s., 304; 5 R. P. Q., 408.

644. Le coût d'un plan produit par le demandeur ne sera pas entré au mémoire de frais que lorsque tel plan n'était pas nécessaire à l'instruction de la cause et de plus n'était pas exact en tous points. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Thériault vs Cité de Montréal, 12 R. J., 262.

645. The prothonotary has not the discretionary power to strike the cost of a surveyor's plan from the bill, when the judge who rendered the final judgment did not do so. S. C., 1907, Quebec, Lefrançois vs Morel, 10 Q. P. R., 80.

646. Expert. — Experts cannot detain their report until their fees are paid, but they may move that a sum shall be paid into court to secure their fees and expenses before they begin to report. K. B., 1809, Quebec, Hoyt vs Todd, 3 R. de L., 357.

647. In an action on assumpsit where an expertise was ordered: The costs of such expertise were in the discretion of the court, and they would be divided, where the report has the effect of materially reducing the plaintiff's demand. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Gardner vs McDonald, 2 J., 208; 7 R. J. R. Q., 13.

648. Nonobstant la défense opposée par des experts sur leur rapport de ne pas l'ouvrir avant le paiement de leurs frais, la cour a le droit de l'ouvrir, quoique leur compte détaillé soit produit avec ce rapport. C. S., 1859, Montréal, Duchesnay vs Giard, 4 J., 9.

649. L'expert nommé par une partie ou nommé par la cour, sur le choix de la partie, n'a de recours, pour le paiement de ses frais, honoraires ou émoluments, que contre telle partie, l'autre partie, ou les autres parties au litige, n'étant pas tenues et obligées solidairement envers tel expert. B. R., 1860, Québec, Brown vs Wallace, 5 J., 60; 10 D. T. B. C., 189; 11 D. T. B. C., 182.

650. A surveyor is entitled to his fees and disbursements from the party who named him expert, though the report has been set aside by the court on the ground that the experts were not sworn.

651. The tariff established by C. S. C., ch. 77, sect. 108, sub-sect. 5, by which the time of a provincial land surveyor attending a court in his professional capacity is valued and taxed at $4 per day, may be disregarded by the court, and the sum reduced at the discretion of the judge.

652. Although a written promise to pay the action sued on, acknowledge by the defendant on oath, is the only evidence adduced, such written promise may be taken as proof of part of the account, and not of the whole. C. C., 1865, Montreal, Brady vs Aitchison, 1 L. C. L. J., 112; 18 R. J. R. Q., 197, 523.

653. When a surveyor filed his report with a prohibition endorsed thereon to its being opened until his fee was paid, he is entitled to protection under article 344 C. c. p., but the report may be nevertheless opened and the bill taxed, but no use can be made of it until paid. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Décary vs Poirier, 21 J., 27; 1 L. N., 211.

654. Le procureur distrayant a droit d'inclure dans son mémoire, et de réclamer par exécution le montant des frais d'un expert sans taxation spéciale, même quand il appert qu'il n'a point payé tel expert, ni fait de déboursé à son sujet. C. S., 1886, Saguenay, Gauthier vs Gauthier et al., 10 L. N., 394.

655. The plaintiffs moved that an expertise, ordered by an interlocutory judgment, be referred to experts in England, on the ground that competent experts could not be obtained in Canada or the United States.

656. Apart from the inconvenience and expense of such a reference, the requirements of articles 325, 333 and 334 C. c. p. appear to place insuperable difficulties in the way of executing an expertise abroad. S. C., 1889, Montreal, Muir et al. vs Providence Insurance Co., M. L. R., 5 S. C., 158; 12 L. N., 349; 18 R. L., 703.

657. Des experts nommés en justice ne sont pas obligés d'attendre l'issue du procès pour le paiement de leurs frais et honoraires; mais ils peuvent, dès que le montant en a été contradictoirement établi, le recouvrer des parties, lorsqu'aucun dépôt n'a été fait en cour.

658. Une partie ne peut se soustraire à ce paiement qu'en démontrant que le rapport des experts est nul et sans utilité dans la cause. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Quirk vs New Rockland Slate Co. et al., R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 312; 16 L. N., 155.

659. Experts have a recourse for the fees due to them in connection with a pending cause, against a defendant en arrière garantie, and more particularly when the said defendant availed itself of the report of the experts by taking communication thereof. S. C., 1896, Montreal, Beaudry et al. vs Town of St. Henri, Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 406.

660. Lorsque les experts n'exigent pas le dépôt de leurs émoluments, frais et déboursés avant l'ouverture de leur rapport, ils ont leur recours solidaire contre toutes les parties.

661. Ce recours doit être exercé par action en loi et non par requête. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Deslongchamps vs Lamarche et al. et Perrault et al., ès-qual., 4 R. J., 530.

662. Les parties sont solidairement tenues au paiement des experts, sans distinction de la partie qui a demandé l'expertise, ni du cas où elle a été ordonnée d'office par le tribunal.

663. Cette solidarité couvre aussi le dépôt requis pour les payer, lorsque ce dépôt est exigé par les experts, et, par suite, une partie ne se libère pas de son obligation solidaire en déposant en cour sa partie du compte des experts. C. S., 1899, Québec, Berlinguet vs Beaucage et al., R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 563.

664. L'on ne peut faire taxer parmi les dépens d'une cause les honoraires d'experts entendus pour prouver la réclamation du demandeur; ces experts peuvent être taxés comme témoins, sauf au demandeur à réclamer, parmi ses dommages, les honoraires qu'il a du leur payer. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Crawford vs La Cité de Montréal, R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 323.

665. La partie dans une cause qui a été obligée de déposer sous protêt entre les mains du protonotaire de la cour, le montant exigé illégalement des experts pour avoir communication de leur rapport, a une action contre tels experts en répétition du montant ainsi payé, si ensuite ce rapport est mis de côté par suite d'informalités graves.

666. Dans ces circonstances, le jugement ne doit pas adjuger sur le droit que les experts peuvent avoir ultérieurement de se faire payer leur salaire. C. S., 1905, Richelieu, Commissaires d'écoles pour la municipalité de Ste-Anne de Noue vs Provost et al. et Cardin et al., 12 R. J., 140.

667. Witnesses (mechanics) summoned to give expert evidence touching the working of a machine will be taxed at the rate of $4.00 per day. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Mills vs The Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning, 9 Q. P. R., 368.

668. Le témoin expert est celui qui, ayant acquis une grande habileté dans une science, un art ou un métier, est appelé à donner à la cour le résultat de son expérience dans l'appréciation des faits qui lui sont soumis. Dans l'espèce actuelle, les témoins dont on conteste la taxe, sont des entrepreneurs; ils ont été entendus pour témoigner sur la nature, qualité et quantité d'ouvrages en bois faits par la partie demanderesse; ils ont droit à la somme de $4.00 par jour. C. S., 1908, Montréal, St-Jean et vir vs Bergeron, 10 R. P. Q., 304.

669. Expropriation.—In a matter of expropriation, where $600 was awarded by judgment in excess of that offered by the commissioners, the attorney's bill was taxed as in a first class case in the Superior court. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Grace vs Government of the Province of Quebec and Duhamel, 5 L. N., 119.

670. Where a railway company, having a right to expropriate land, obtain under sect. 163 of the Railway Act, 51 Vict., ch. 29 (D), a warrant for immediate possession, and the amount subsequently awarded to the land owner is not more than he was previously offered by the company as compensation, the costs of the application for the warrant should, under sect. 165, be paid by the land owner. P. C., 1889, Ontario, Shibley vs Napanee ,Tamworth and Quebec Railway Co., 13 P. R., 237.

671. La taxation d'un mémoire de frais par un juge de la cour Supérieure, dans une cause en expropriation sous les dispositions de l'Acte des chemins de fer, 1888 (Canada), est finale et sans appel, et détermine le montant dû par la partie perdante; cette taxation ne peut être revisée, ni sur appel, ni sur une action portée pour en recouvrer le montant, la cour étant incompétente pour en retrancher aucune partie.

672. La taxation du mémoire de frais détermine seulement le montant à payer par la partie perdante et ne contient aucune condamnation; partant, l'intérêt sur ces frais ne court qu'à compter de l'action que l'on intente pour en recouvrer le montant. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Wood et al., ès-qual., vs Atlantic and North-West Railway Co., Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 297.

673. Where the amount of compensation tendered by the Crown in an expropriation proceedings was found by the court to be sufficient, and there was no dispute about the amount of interest to which the defendant was entitled but the same was not tendered by the Crown although allowed by the court, costs were refused to either party.

674. Where mortgagees were made parties to an expropriation proceeding and they had appeared and were represented at the trial by counsel, although they did not dispute the amount of compensation, they were allowed their costs. Q. B., 1899, The Queen vs Wallace, 6 Ex. C. R., 264.

675. La cité de Montréal ne peut être condamnée à payer les frais d'une requête pour retirer les deniers déposés entre les mains du protonotaire de la cour Supérieure, à la suite d'une expropriation. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Cité de Montréal (Rue St-Laurent) vs Collins, 6 R. P. Q., 264.

676. Under sub-section 5 of section 2 of the Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37, interpreting the word "costs" used in section 199 of the Act, as including fees, counsel fees and expenses, the costs of an owner who succeeds in an arbitration under the Railway Act should be taxed as between solicitor and client.

677. The tariff of costs prescribed for ordinary litigation may be accepted as a general guide for taxing the costs of such an arbitration; but when, in the opinion of the taxing officer, the fees fixed by that tariff are inadequate compensation for the services necessarily and reasonably rendered, he is not bound by it and should not follow it.

678. For the purposes of the taxation of such costs the arbitration began when the company served notice upon the owner offering an amount which they were willing to pay and naming its arbitrator, and items for work done even before that date should be allowed if they were for work that would properly be costs of the arbitration if done after that date; for example, fee perusing the order of the Railway Commissioners giving leave to expropriate, and taking instructions.

679. The owner was entitled to tax the fees paid to the arbitrators on taking up the award.

680. Counsel fees allowed by the taxing officer were reduced to $100 per day for first counsel and $75 per day for second counsel.

681. The fees actually paid to expert witnesses should not necessarily be allowed, but only fair and reasonable fees for the time occupied in attending before the arbitrators and in qualifying themselves to give evidence.

682. The costs of the taxation, including a fee of $25 for the argument before the judge, should be borne by the company. Q. B., 1905, Manitoba, Canadian Northern Railway Co. vs Robinson, 8 C. Ry. Cas., 244; 17 Man. L. R., 579.

683. La requête en ratification de sentence arbitrale provoquée par une expropriation par une compagnie ce chemin de fer pour la construction de sa ligne est présentée dans le seul intérêt de cette dernière; celle-ci paiera les frais de comparution sur cette requête ainsi que les frais des procureurs de l'exproprié sur cette requête, mais non les frais d'une réponse à cette requête.

684. Les frais nécessaires pour la distribution de la somme déposée en cour par la compagnie requérante seront prélevés sur et à même cette somme, suivant le cours ordinaire de la loi. C. S., 1906, Joliette, La Compagnie de chemin de fer Chateauguay et Nord vs Laurier, 9 R. P. Q., 245; 9 C. Ry. Cas., 51.

685. The award made by the arbitrators does not constitute a judgment for costs and therefore the latter cannot be recovered against the losing party by way of execution.

686. By section 162 of the Railway Act, the judge in taxing the costs is exercising a function merely ministerial; and such taxation has not the effect of giving to the party in favor of whom the costs have thus been taxed, a judgment upon which he might proceed to recover the costs. The only means to recover the costs under the Railway Act would be by way of an ordinary action. S. C., 1907, St-Jérome, The Canadian Northern Quebec Railway Co. vs Touchette et Fortier, 9 C. Ry. Cas., 53; 9 Q. P. R., 125.

687. Les frais des commissaires nommés sous les dispositions de la charte de la cité de Montréal, 62 Vict., ch. 58, sect. 29, pour procéder aux expropriations en vertu de cette loi, qui ont exécuté leur charge, peuvent, par voie de requête à la cour Supérieure, ou aux juges d'icelle, demander que ces frais soient taxés en conformité du Statut 4, Ed. VII, ch. 49, section 21. Pour les fins de taxer ces frais, incident dans l'instance en expropriation, il n'est pas nécessaire pour le commissaire de procéder par voie d'action ordinaire. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Rue St-Antoine et Parent, 15 R. J., 229.

688. Application by the Railway Company under section 199 of the Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37, to have its costs of an arbitration to determine the amount of compensation to be paid for land taken taxed by the judge, the board of arbitrators having awarded only sum previously offered by the company.

689. Mr. Johnson, one of the arbitrators first appointed, resigned before the award was made and a new arbitrator was appointed in his stead. The owner took up the award, paying the fees of all the arbitrators but Mr. Johnson, who came in on this application and asked that his fees be paid: He could have no relief on this application, but must be left to his remedy, if any, against the owner by action.

690. In taxing the costs of the arbitration under the statute, the judge acts ministerially and cannot decide anything as to the right to costs. Q. B., 1910, Manitoba, Blackwood vs Canadian Northern Railway Co., 20 Man. L. R., 161.

691. The costs of a successful attorney in a railway expropriation over $10,000 include the sum of $25 for the first sitting at enquête, instead of $10; $70 as attorney's fee, $15 hearing fee, $20 for filing factums and an additional fee of $50, the amount of the case being over $10,000; but the sum of $25 for the special enquête fee will not be allowed. S. C., 1910, Montreal, The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs Oligny et al., 12 Q. P. R., 11.

692. When a sum of $17000 has been granted to an expropriated party on an appeal confirming the decision of the arbitrators, such party's solicitor is entitled to a sum of $200 besides the taxable costs, which, in this case, amount to $115.00. S. C., 1911, Montreal, La Compagnie du Grand Tronc vs Garceau, 12 Q. P. R., 337.

693. Dans une expropriation en vertu de la loi de Québec, la cour doit non seulement taxer les dépens accordés par l'article 79 du tarif des avocats, mais aussi les frais d'arbitrage qui comprennent les dépenses et les autres frais raisonnables encourus par l'exproprié.

694. Partant les avocats de ce dernier, quoiqu'ils aient occupé dans plusieurs causes en expropriation simultanément ont droit aux honoraires mentionnés aux articles 24, 43 et 44 du tarif et à la somme de $15 pour la préparation d'un factum pour les arbitres.

695. Le protonotaire a aussi droit, sur la production de la réponse ou défense du propriétaire, à l'honoraire habituel des causes ordinaires. C. S., 1912, Joliette, The Shawinigan Water and Power Co. vs Magnan, 13 R. P. Q., 365.

696. En vertu de la loi de Québec concernant les expropriations par les compagnies de chemin de fer, les avocats n'ont droit qu'aux frais entre partie et partie, et non aux frais entre avocat et client.

697. L'article 79 du tarif règle les honoraires des avocats dans les causes en expropriation, lorsqu'il n'y a aucune disposition spéciale de la loi qui fixe ces honoraires.

698. Une compagnie de chemin de fer qui se désiste d'une expropriation sera tenue de payer les frais de sténographie, si elle a consenti à ce que les dépositions soient ainsi prises. L'avocat de l'exproprié, lorsque la compagnie se désiste de son expropriation, n'a pas droit à l'honoraire de $80.00 prévu par l'article 24 du tarif pour contestation, ni à celui de $25, prévu par l'article 43, pour honoraire général d'enquête, ni à celui de $50, pour honoraire additionnel dans une cause excédant $10,000, tel que prévu par l'article 5 du tarif. C. S., 1912, Montréal, The Lachine, Jacques Cartier and Maisonneuve Railway Co. vs McArthur & Co. Ltd., 13 R. P. Q., 254.

699. Sur la question des dépens, il n'y a pas lieu de faire de différence entre une expropriation en vertu de l'Acte fédéral ou provincial des chemins de fer ou de l'Acte des cités et villes, du moment que le quantum des frais est seul en contestation, et le tarif des avocats est le meilleur guide à suivre pour déterminer ce quantum. Dans les expropriations faites en vertu de la charte de la cité de Montréal, les avocats ont droit non-seulement aux frais entre partie et partie, mais encore aux frais

entre avocat et client. C. S., 1912, Montréal, La Cité de Montréal vs Malley, 19 R. P. Q., 180; 19 R. L., n. s., 392.

700. Factum.—A party is entitled to have his costs for printing in appeal taxed at the rate of two dollars per page, even although he may have paid a less sum per page to his printer. Q. B., 1872, Montreal, Ogilvy et al. vs Jones, 17 J., 25; 23 R. J. R. Q., 31, 556.

701. Un avocat et procureur en loi a le droit de réclamer de son client le coût de copie d'un factum fait dans son intérêt et soumis au juge en première instance, item non prévu par le tarif; mais il n'a pas droit d'être payé pour la confection de ce factum. C. C., 1873, Richelieu, Vandale vs Gauthier, 5 R. L., 132.

702. Where, upon an appeal and cross appeal in the same case, the factum of a party, filed in one case, has, by permission of the court, been made common to both appeals, and said party has been successful in both appeals, the amount of the disbursements of the factum should, on taxation of costs, be divided between the two appeals, the factum, although filed in one case only, having served the purpose of the parties upon the other appeal. Q. B., 1896, Montreal, Esplin vs McLaren, Q. J. R., 5 Q. B., 420.

703. If it is proved that a joint case has been prepared, printed and paid by one party only, these costs shall be allowed to the attorneys of this party. K. B., 1907, Montreal, Gilckman et al. vs Stevenson and MacPhall, 9 Q. P. R., 224.

704. Faillite.—An offer by a creditor to purchase the estate at twenty cents in the dollar, exclusive of the claim of a bank, was accepted. The bank was fully secured by the purchaser's indorsation: Held that the assignee was not entitled to a commission on the bank's claim. C. A., 1877, Ontario, In re and Co., 1 A. R., 480.

705. Le juge a le droit, en matière de faillite, sur requête des créanciers, et après audition des parties, de réviser la taxe des frais du syndic obtenue frauduleusement. B. R., 1880, Québec, Fraser vs Darling, 1 D. C. A., 217.

706. Where proceedings were taken by the assignee to an estate under the Insolvent Act and which was dismissed and there was nothing in the estate to pay the defendant's costs, an action against one of the creditors for his proportion of such costs was maintained. C. C., 1881, Montreal, Poulin vs Falardeau, 4 L. N., 317, 336.

707. Faute commune.—S'il y a faute commune des parties à mettre à exécution la convention de mettre fin au procès, chaque partie paiera ses frais. B. R., 1880, Québec, Chenard vs Lafond et Desroberts dit Jacques, 6 R. J. Q., 96.

708. Lorsque le recours exercé par un demandeur n'est pas celui prévu par la loi et que le défendeur produit une contestation au fond, sans opposer préliminairement le moyen à tirer de cette erreur, il y a faute commune des parties en poursuivant ces errements, et le jugement qui déboute le demandeur de son action comme mal formée, ne doit pas accorder au défendeur les frais d'une contestation au fond, lorsqu'une inscription en droit eût suffi pour les fins de la défense. B. R., 1907, Montréal, McDonell vs Wilcock, R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 459.

709. Folle-enchère.—Dans le cas de folle-enchère il n'est pas nécessaire que le montant des frais que doit payer le fol enchérisseur soit taxé préalablement. C. R., 1896, Québec, Dupuis vs Béland et Brousseau et al., R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 185.

710. Formâ pauperis.—Les frais d'une requête pour plaider in forma pauperis, qui est accordée, font partie des frais de la cause.

711. Il en est de même des frais d'une motion pour faire examiner un engin en question dans la cause, et de l'affidavit accompagnant cette motion, ces frais étant déclarés devoir suivre le sort du procès et des frais d'une motion pour obtenir la permission de faire prendre la preuve in forma pauperis par un sténographe, accordée avec la même réserve.

712. Un affidavit au soutien d'une telle motion est nécessaire, et un honoraire sera accordé sur tel affidavit. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Gaffney vs Montreal Gas Co., 1 R. P. Q., 569.

713. In an action in forma pauperis for an alimentary allowance, and subsequent proceedings connected therewith, the plaintiff's attorneys are entitled to recover from their client the full amount of their costs on proceedings taken to protect and secure his or her rights in respect of the alimentary allowance, and also any costs beyond what they have recovered from the defendant in the suit for aliment on their taxed bill. S. C., 1897, Montreal, Bastien et al. vs Forget, in-qual., Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 425; 4 R. J., 58.

714. Les avocats du demandeur ont droit de faire taxer dans leur mémoire de frais ceux de la requête pour procéder in forma pauperis présentée spécialement pour la cause. C. S., Montréal, Godfrey, ès-qual., vs Montreal Gas Co., 5 R. L., n. s., 800.

715. Frais de voyage.—Un avocat résidant à Montréal et y plaidant en révision une cause d'un district étranger, n'a pas droit aux frais de voyage prévus par le paragraphe 7 de l'article 72 du tarif des avocats qui ne sont accordés que pour le transport des avocats d'un district à Montréal. C. S., 1911, Montréal, La Banque de St-Jean vs Bienvenu et La Succession N. Cadudal, 12 R. P. Q., 423.

716. Frais réservés.—Lorsqu'un jugement sur une motion ordonne que les frais suivront le sort de la cause, il n'est pas nécessaire qu'il y ait aucune adjudication subséquente. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Godfrey, ès-qual., vs Montreal Gas Co., 5 R. L., n. s., 80.

717. Fraude.—Même si une partie qui a réussi en première instance réussit en révision, la cour lui refusera ses frais de révision, si elle est d'avis que la fraude a été prouvée contre elle, et qu'elle ne réussit que pour une raison technique. C. R., 1877, Montréal, Blouin vs Langelier et Langelier, 3 R. J. Q., 272; 1 L. N., 174, 180; 34 J., 200.

718. Celui qui a droit à la possession d'une chose, comme gagiste, ne doit pas être condamné aux dépens de la revendication qui en est indûment pratiquée, parce qu'il l'a déposée en cour avec son plaidoyer. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Picard vs Anderson, R. J. Q., 32 C. S., 355.

719. Garantie.—Where a defendant en garantie confesses judgment for a portion only of the principal demand, and contests the principal action as regards the balance and judgment is rendered for the amount confessed, the defendant en garantie must nevertheless pay all the costs of both demands, including those of contestation, and according to the class of the original demand. S. C., 1864, Montreal, Mongenais vs Pilon, and Pilon vs Brasseur, 9 J., 88; 14 R. J. R. Q., 191.

720. Le garant peut se charger des risques de la contestation et dispenser le garanti de prendre les procédés nécessaires pour le mettre en cause, mais le fait seul qu'un garant a fourni au garanti les noms des témoins nécessaires pour prouver l'existence de la dette garantie, n'est pas une preuve suffisante que le garant a entendu se charger de la contestation. Si un garant néglige de mettre en cause son garant, il doit payer tous les frais encourus, après le procédé qui exige cette mise en cause. B. R., 1880, Montréal, Carreau vs McGinnis, 1 D. C. A., 12; 3 L. N., 362.

721. L'appelant ayant été condamné par jugement de la cour Supérieure à payer à un nommé Francis McCaffrey le montant d'un billet fait à l'ordre de l'intimé et endossé par ce dernier en faveur de l'appelant; pour recouvrer de l'intimé les frais payés à son procureur par l'appelant dans l'action intentée contre lui, par McCaffrey, l'appelant aurait dû appeler l'intimé en garantie. B. R., 1881, Québec, Huot vs Beauchemin, 1 D. C. A., 307.

722. Le garant, qui n'est poursuivi en garantie qu'après le jugement sur l'affaire dont il est garant, n'est responsable des frais sur l'action principale, que jusqu'au temps où il aurait pu être mis en cause, dans la dite action. B. R., 1889, Québec, Gagné dit Bellavance vs Hall et al., 20 R. L., 148; 15 R.J. Q., 179; 12 L. N., 280.

723. Le défendeur en garantie qui intervient, dans la demande principale, pour la contester, et qui conteste cependant la demande en garantie, devra payer les frais de l'action en garantie. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Béique vs La Cité de Montréal et La Cité de Montréal vs Perrault et al., 20 R. L., 306.

724. Son action étant renvoyée, le demandeur principal peut être condamné aux frais tant de l'action principale que de l'action en garantie. C. S., 1894, Chicoutimi, Bergeron vs Tremblay et Talbot, 2 R. J., 487.

725. Si une action en garantie est renvoyée après que le demandeur principal a fait défaut de procéder sur sa demande, la classe de l'action en garantie, portée en révision, et également renvoyée par cette cour, sera celle de la demande principale.

726. La classe de cette action ne peut être celle pour le montant des frais que le demandeur en garantie doit payer en conséquence du renvoi de son action. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Walker vs Banque Nationale et al., et Bruneau vs Pease et Walker, 3 R. P. Q., 47.

727. Le demandeur dont l'action a été renvoyée avec dépens, "sauf cependant les frais occasionnés par l'appel en garantie," est cependant responsable des frais de l'exception déclinatoire, faite par le défendeur principal, dont l'action en garantie a été également déboutée, pour mettre en cause son garant. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Robert vs Rocheleau, 4 R. P. Q., 39.

728. The warrantor, who is only sued in warranty after the judgment in the case wherein he might have been called in warranty has been rendered, is only liable to the costs of the original action incurred up to the time when he might have been called into the case. S. C., 1907, Montréal, City of Montreal vs Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co., 8 Q. P. R., 430.

729. Si le plaidoyer d'un défendeur en garantie est mal fondé en droit et en faits, ce dernier sera condamné aux dépens de l'action en garantie, quoique l'action principale ait été renvoyée avec dépens, et que l'action en garantie ait été nécessairement déboutée en même temps. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Monette vs La Cité de Montréal et La Cité de Montréal vs Ellison et al., 9 R. P. Q., 377.

730. Si le propriétaire obligé à l'entretien du trottoir et qui est poursuivi en garantie par la cité de Montréal, fait une contestation séparée, il sera tenu de payer, ses propres frais, quand même le demandeur succomberait dans son action, ce dernier n'étant pas tenu de payer deux contestations, lorsqu'une aurait suffi. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Bray vs La Cité de Montréal et Gascon, 9 R. P. Q., 167; R. J. Q., 32 C. S., 115.

731. When a principal defendant, plaintiff in warranty has paid the costs of the principal action, he can recover them from the defendant in warranty who has been condemned to pay, after these costs had been regularly taxed and the notice given to said defendant in warranty by principal plaintiff. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Malo vs Monette and Monette vs Lamarche, 9 Q. P. R., 315.

732. Lorsque le garanti demande l'intervention de son prétendu garant, sans attendre la décision de l'action principale, il le fait à ses risques et périls.

733. Si la demande originaire est renvoyée avec dépens ou si la demande en garantie même est injuste en faits et non fondée en droit, le demandeur en garantie doit supporter les frais auxquels il s'est imprudemment exposé. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Compagnie du chemin de fer urbain de Montréal vs Ville de St-Louis et Bourdeau, 10 R. P. Q., 133.

734. If a defendant in warranty's plea is bad in law and in fact, this defendant will be condemned to the costs of the action in warranty, although the principal action has been dismissed with costs and that the action in warranty has also been dismissed at the same time. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Monette vs The City of Montreal and The City of Montreal vs Ellison et al., 11 Q. P. R., 177; 16 R. L., n. s., 176.

735. Le demandeur, qui succombe au principal, peut être condamné aux frais de l'action en garantie, sur le seul motif qu'elle a eu pour cause la demande principale, sans que la cour soit tenue d'apprécier le mérite de cette action en garantie. C. S., 1909, Richelieu, Houle vs Hébert, 10 R. P. Q., 238.

736. Le demandeur qui succombe au principal, faute de fournir le cautionnement judicatum solvi, doit être condamné aux frais des actions en garantie et en arrière-garantie, sur le seul motif qu'elles ont eu pour cause la demande principale, sans que la cour soit tenue d'en apprécier le mérite. C. S., Richelieu, Houle vs M. Hébert et L. Hébert et G. Hébert, R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 21.

737. Gardien judiciaire.—The costs to be paid under a judgment, ordering the payment by plaintiff of the costs of a former action, as a condition precedent to proceeding with a new suit, are the taxed costs, and a guardian's fees not being by law claimable from defendant, cannot be included in such costs. C. C., 1872, Quebec, Dooly vs Ryanson, 1 Q. L. R., 219.

738. Il ne sera pas accordé de frais au gardien judiciaire qui fait renvoyer une règle nisi sur une formalité, mais qui n'offre pas par sa contestation de représenter les effets dont il a la garde. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Bailey vs Fortin et Sévigny, 11 R. P. Q., 167.

739. Habeas corpus.—A person made a respondent to an application for a habeas corpus in a criminal matter who does not appear of record to be the prosecutor, and who does not appear on the application, is not liable in Nova Scotia for costs on the discharge of the prisoner in the habeas corpus proceedings, although the conviction in question was for stealing his property. Sup. C., Nova Scotia, 1900, The Queen vs Bowers, 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 100.

740. La partie condamnée à payer une amende de $100, les frais compris, a intérêt de pouvoir constater par le mandat d'emprisonnement, quel montant il aura à payer pour les frais, et à qui il aura à les payer, le mandat qui ne fera pas telle distinction sera déclaré illégal et le prisonnier libéré.

741. Le mandat doit également indiquer le montant que le prisonnier aura à payer pour son transport à la prison commune. C. S., 1901, Beauharnois, exparte Benoit, 7 R. J., 363.

742. Where concurrent proceedings are taken by certiorari and habeas corpus in the province of Quebec, and the writ of habeas corpus is maintained upon an objection appearing upon the face of the commitment, the order for costs against the prosecutor in respect thereof should not include the costs incurred upon the writ of certiorari. S.C., 1903, Quebec, The King vs Côté, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 393.

743. The inclusion in a summary conviction of items of costs not allowed under Code section 770 in default of payment of which the accused is committed to gaol is a ground for discharge on habeas corpus. Supr. C., 1910, Nova Scotia, The King vs Crowley, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 373.

744. Honoraire additionnel. — L'honoraire additionnel alloué à chaque procureur par le paragraphe 8 de l'article 72 du tarif s'applique aux causes entendues au mérite et non à celles renvoyées sur motion. C. S., 1911, Montréal, La Banque de St-Jean vs Bienvenu et La Succession T. Catudal, 12 R. P. Q., 423.

745. Honoraire d'office.—No fee of office can be exacted by a public officer, unless established by legislative enactment, or by ancient usage which presupposes the sanction of legislative authority. Q. B., 1825, Quebec, Price vs Perceval, S. R. C., 189; 1 R. J. R. Q., 204, 511, 522.

746. Huissier.—Il ne sera pas permis à un huissier de charger un transport du lieu de sa résidence à l'endroit où un bref signifié par lui est rapportable; et il ne lui sera pas permis non plus de charger pareil transport pour remettre des argents prélevés sous exécution, tel huissier étant tenu, dans le premier cas, de transmettre son rapport par la malle et, dans le second, de faire remise des argents par un ordre du bureau de poste. C. C., 1864, Quebec, Boswell vs Belfian, 15 D. T. B. C., 22; 13 R. J. R. Q., 410.

747. In an action by a bailiff for his fees the attorney and his client were held jointly and severally liable. Q. B., 1864, Montreal, Devlin vs Bibeau, 30 J., 101.

748. Un huissier chargé d'un bref d'exécution qui, pour des raisons insuffisantes, ne procède pas sur icelui, n'a pas le droit de récolmer ses honoraires. C. C., 1864, Québec, Croteau vs Gingras, 15 D. T. B. C., 204; 14 R. J. R. Q., 19.

749. Les huissiers résidant dans les paroisses du district, ne peuvent, pour signification de subpœnas faite dans leur paroisse, charger la route depuis le palais de justice jusqu'au lieu de la signification, ils ne peuvent charger la route que de leur domicile.

750. Il pourrait en être autrement pour la signification d'une action ou autre procédure qui nécessiterait la présence de l'huissier au chef-lieu, pour y recevoir des instructions. Les subpœnas doivent leur être envoyés par la malle, et s'ils font la route au chef-lieu, cette route doit leur être payée par la partie, qui les emploie. C. S., 1869, Richelieu, Lozeau vs Côté, 1 R. L., 49; 20 R. J. R. Q., 292, 507.

751. Un huissier a le droit de se faire payer deux routes, quand il est obligé de retourner une seconde fois pour faire la signification d'un bref, à raison de l'absence du défendeur de son domicile, pourvu qu'il l'attende un temps raisonnable. C. C., 1870, St-Hyacinthe, Brunelle vs Chagnon, 2 R. L., 129; 21 R. J. R. Q., 10, 521.

752. Un huissier ne résidant pas au chef-lieu du district n'a pas le droit de charger la route, à partir du chef-lieu jusqu'à la résidence plus rapprochée du lieu de la signification. C. S., 1878, Richelieu, La liste électorale de la paroisse de Berthier vs Ralston et La Corporation de la paroisse de Berthier, 8 R. L., 748.

753. Where an attorney ad litem employs a bailiff to execute a writ and makes a special agreement with him as to charges, without stipulating that he is not contracting for himself he makes himself personally liable. C. C., 1880, Three Rivers, Panneton vs Guillet, 7 Q. L. R., 250; 4 L. N., 375.

754. Lorsqu'il n'y a pas de distraction de dépens dans une cause en faveur d'un procureur ad litem, ce procureur n'a pas le droit de recevoir de sa partie, les frais dus à l'huissier pour service; mais sa partie doit payer à l'huissier. C. C., 1883, Arthabaska, Théroux vs Greer, 7 L. N., 7.

755. L'huissier employé par un avocat a un recours contre la partie représentée par cet avocat pour ses frais de signification, et ce malgré que la partie ait payé ces frais de signification à son avocat. C. C., 1893, Montréal, Daoust vs Grondin, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 230.

756. Contra: — L'huissier n'a pas de recours contre le client qui a payé à son avocat le mémoire de frais taxé de ce dernier, y compris les émoluments de tel huissier. C. C., 1900, Montréal, Decelles vs Paquette, R. J. Q., 18 C. S., 124.

757. Qu'il y ait ou non opposition à fin de conserver, l'huissier qui a fait une vente judiciaire a le droit de garder ses frais sur les deniers qu'il rapporte, pourvu que ces frais aient été taxés. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Turgeon vs Shannon, ès-qual., et al., et Shannon et Breux, 4 R. P. Q., 274.

758. Si un défendeur est désigné comme absent dans le bref de sommation, l'huissier ne pourra pas se faire payer pour les prétendues recherches qu'il aurait faites pour trouver cet absent. C. S., 1904, Trois-Rivières, Henry vs Sanderson et al., 6 R. P. Q., 191.

759. L'huissier n'a droit qu'à des frais de route, non à des frais de recherches ; il n'a même droit à aucun émolument pour le procès-verbal de non est inventus. C. C., 1907, Montréal, Mayrand vs Gingras, 9 R. P. Q., 396.

760. Hypothèque judiciaire. — Les frais d'enregistrement d'un jugement sont toujours à la charge du débiteur. C. C., 1869, Arthabaska, Beauchêne vs Pacaud, 13 J., 135; 1 R. L., 740; 19 R. J. R. Q., 200, 530, 544, 556, 559.

761. Une partie qui obtient jugement a droit d'en avoir une copie et de la faire enregistrer, et le coût fait partie des frais de la cause et peut être recouvré de la partie adverse. C. S., 1900, Arthabaska, Luneau vs Luneau et al., R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 146.

762. Le tarif d'honoraires et de déboursés n'accorde aucun montant pour les frais d'impression des questions soumises au jury. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Bienette vs The Dominion Bridge Co., Limited, 11 R. P. Q., 211.

763. Injonction.—Les frais des avocats de l'intimée sur une requête pour injonction renvoyée avant l'émanation du bref est de $50.00, d'après l'article 28 du tarif, et non pas de $70.00. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Commissaires d'Ecoles de St-Henri vs Montreal Water and Power Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 331; 1 R. P. Q., 337.

764. Les honoraires des avocats de l'intimé sur un jugement renvoyant, après enquête, une requête pour bref d'injonction, sont fixés, sur requête au juge, à $50. C. S., 1902, Montréal, National Typographic Co. vs Dougall et Smith, Markey et Montgomery, 5 R. P. Q., 162.

765. Sur une injonction interlocutoire qui est un incident d'une requête pour annuler un règlement fait en vertu de l'article 4389, S. R. Q., la cour accordera un honoraire général de $50.00 sans honoraire supplémentaire d'audition.

766. Une injonction interlocutoire greffée sur une action de cette nature participe de la nature même de cette action et doit être taxée comme de seconde classe.

767. Le montant dû au protonotaire sur la réponse à une requête pour injonction interlocutoire est celui de $1.00 fixé par l'article 24 du tarif et non le montant dû sur un plaidoyer au mérite.

768. La cour ne peut, lors de la taxe du mémoire, refuser l'honoraire dû sur chaque affidavit produit au soutien de la requête ou pour la contester. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Duncan Cameron vs Town of Westmount et al., 7 R. P. Q., 58; 11 R. L., n. s., 526.

769. The costs of an interlocutory injunction will be taxed as in an action of the same class as is the action of which it is an incident.

770. The fees upon a petition for interlocutory injunction in an action to set aside a municipal by-law, are fees of second, not of first class action. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Jodoin vs Corporation du Village de Bélœil et Compagnie d'aqueduc et d'éclairage de Bélœil, 7 Q. P. R., 77, 222; 11 R. L., n. s., 529.

771. Avant de présenter une motion pour adjudication sur les frais réservés d'une requête pour bref d'injonction, le défendeur doit procéder en vertu de l'article 150 C. p. c., pour forcer le demandeur à faire signifier le dit bref d'injonction. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Gauvreau vs Hauterive, 7 R. P. Q., 483.

772. A plaintiff, in an action of damages for a wrongful publication against the author of it, who obtains an injunction ordering the publisher, mis en cause but not as a joint tortfeasor, to suppress the publication, and who, having attained his object by the execution of the order, discontinues his suit and pays the cost, is further liable to the publisher for the expense of so complying with the injunction. K. B., 1906, Montreal, The Bell Telephone Co. vs The Canada Asbestos Co., Q. J. R., 29 S. C., 104.

773. Le tarif actuel qui contient une disposition expresse sur la matière, item no 37, doit servir de règle pour taxer les requêtes pour injonction interlocutoire présentées sous l'opération de l'ancien tarif qui laissait cette taxation à la discrétion du juge. C. S., 1908, St-Jean, Roy vs Lord, 9 R. P. Q., 314.

774. L'honoraire de l'avocat de l'intimé ou du mis-en-cause sur une requête pour injonction interlocutoire qui est rejetée avant l'émission du bref est l'honoraire du défendeur ou de l'intimé sur comparution en vertu de l'article 21 du tarif. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Robillard vs La Commission scolaire catholique de la Longue-Pointe et Tessier, 13 R. P. Q., 191.

775. Insaisissabilité.—Des effets mobiliers donnés comme aliments, et déclarés insaisissables, sont cependant soumis à un privilège, pour les frais faits pour leur conservation. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Benoit vs Benoit et al., 19 R. L., 237.

776. Inscription.—L'avocat du demandeur a droit, sur un jugement permettant avec dépens la production d'un plaidoyer après que la cause a été inscrite pour enquête et mérite, d'inclure dans son mémoire de frais la taxe qu'il a payée sur son inscription, ainsi que l'honoraire au mérite alloué par le tarif. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Migneault vs Corporation du village de Roberval, 5 R. L., n. s., 274.

777. Inscription en droit.—Une motion pour réviser la taxe du protonotaire, pour la raison que le procureur du demandeur n'a pas droit à l'honoraire en entier d'une cause contestée au mérite, le seul plaidoyer filé étant une défense au fond en droit, doit être rejeté, tel plaidoyer étant un plaidoyer au mérite. C. S., 1859, Québec, Normand vs Huot dit St-Laurent, 9 D.T.B.C., 405; 7 R. J. R. Q., 297.—C. S., 1884, Saguenay, McNicholl et vir vs Laberge et Laberge, 10 L. N., 186.

778. Where demurrer is pleaded to a portion of the demand and maintained as pleaded, the action being good for the balance, a fee of $8.00 was allowed as on a demurrer dismissed. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Chevallier vs Cuvillier et al., 4 L. N., 306.

779. The attorney's fee, on an action dismissed on a demurrer, is the same as on an action dismissed on a preliminary plea. S. C., 1887, Ottawa, Major et vir vs McClelland, 10 L. N., 116.

780. Si preuve avant faire droit est ordonnée sur un appointement en droit et que cet appointement en droit est ensuite maintenu à l'audition finale, il ne sera accordé que l'honoraire fixé par l'article 23 du tarif. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Cok vs Lecavalier, 2 R. P. Q., 81.

781. The costs of an inscription in law against the action of the wife as joint plaintiff will be those of a demurrer only. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Tondreau et vir vs Semple, 2 Q. P. R., 296.

782. Il n'y a qu'un seul honoraire sur une réponse en droit où il y a été ordonné preuve avant faire droit et qui a été finalement maintenue. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Cox et vir vs Lecavelier, 5 R. L., n. s., 140.

783. Lorsqu'il y a audition en même temps sur une inscription en droit à l'action et sur une autre par le demandeur à partie de la défense, et que la première est renvoyée et la seconde maintenue, le demandeur a droit à deux honoraires, les deux appointements en droit étant différents. C. S., 1900, Arthabaska, Luneau vs Luneau et al., R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 146.

784. An inscription in law which is well founded only as to one of the allegation of the pleading attacked will be maintained with costs. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Thornelæ vs Ivey et al., 8 R. J., 61.

785. Lorsque sur une action instituée par deux demandeurs (dans l'espèce l'époux et l'épouse) contre deux défendeurs, et que ces derniers produisent chacun une inscription en droit qui est maintenue, quant à l'un des demandeurs seulement (dans l'espèce quant à l'épouse seulement), les procureurs de chacun des défendeurs ont droit à la moitié des honoraires taxés comme après la production d'un plaidoyer au mérite sans enquête, moins toutefois le coût de la production de la défense. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Major et vir vs Paquet et al., 12 R. J., 2.

786. L'item 10e du tarif des honoraires des avocats à la cour Supérieure est applicable à l'honoraire sur inscription en droit.

787. L'honoraire d'audition finale ne doit pas être accordé lorsqu'il n'y a pas eu de vacation corrrespondante distincte de l'audition en droit. C. S., 1904, Richelieu, Charland vs Charland, 10 R. J., 497.

788. Inspecteur agraire.—Les inspecteurs de clôtures et fossés ne seront pas déchargés du paiement des frais résultant de la mise de côté par certiorari d'un jugement de juges de paix homologuant, sur la requête de tels inspecteurs, un procès-verbal relatif à un cours d'eau, et ce malgré que les inspecteurs aient, par l'entremise de notaires, offert au requérant les frais des procédures avant le rapport du bref de certiorari, et que par la dite offre ils aient promis au requérant qu'il ne serait plus troublé à l'avenir à l'occasion du procès-verbal. C. S., 1856, Montréal, Ex parte Dagenais, 6 D. T. B. C., 112; 5 R. J. R. Q., 38.

789. Inspecteur du revenu.—Un inspecteur du revenu poursuivant au nom de la Reine le recouvrement de pénalités imposées sous l'opération de l'Acte des 14 et 15 Vict., ch. 100, ne peut être passible de frais et dépens. C. S., 1852, Montréal, Ex parte Hogue et Murray, 3 D. T. B. C., 287; 4 R. J. R. Q., 14.

790. Interdiction. — Les demandeurs, avocats, avaient fait au nom d'un interdit une demande de mainlevée d'interdiction. Après preuve faite, la cour n'a pas considéré la guérison de l'interdit assez avancée pour pouvoir le relever de l'interdiction, mais, sur le consentement des parties, elle a ordonné la convocation du conseil de famille aux fins de nommer un nouveau curateur à l'interdit, en vue d'avancer sa guérison, donnant acte aux parties qu'elles semblaient s'accorder sur la personne à être nommée. La cour s'est également, sur la demande des parties, réservée d'adjuger à une époque ultérieure sur la requête en mainlevée d'interdiction.

791. Quant aux demandeurs, procureurs ad litem de l'interdit, le jugement en question avait un caractère final, les procédures à suivre devant nécessairement rester suspendues durant un temps suffisamment long pour permettre de juger d'une manière parfaite de l'état de santé de l'interdit, et les demandeurs pouvaient exiger, du curateur de l'interdit, le paiement de leurs honoraires et déboursés, ces procédures ayant été utiles à l'interdit. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Taillon et al. vs Mailloux, ès-qual., R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 294.

792. Les frais de la nomination d'un curateurs à un interdit ne seront pas taxés dans une action prise par ce curateur ès-qualité, cette nomination étant nécessaire indépendamment de la poursuite. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Gaffney vs Montreal Gas Co., 1 R. P. Q., 569.

793. Les frais de la nomination d'un curateur à un interdit pour démence ne peuvent entrer en taxe, parce que cette nomination était nécessaire aussi bien pour prendre soin de la personne et des biens de l'interdit que pour l'institution de l'action. · C. S., 1898, Montréal, Gaffney, ès-qual., vs Montreal Gas Co., 5 R. L., n. s., 80.

794. An advocate or notary, acting upon the instructions of an interdict for insanity, and in good faith believing that the cause of interdiction has ceased, is not entitled to recover from the curator the costs of proceedings unauthorized by him for the removal of the interdiction, which proceedings failed on the ground that the cause of interdiction had not ceased.

795. Semble:—A judgment setting aside the interdiction would have a retroactive effect to the date of the cessation of the cause of interdiction, and would necessarily validate an agreement by the interdict to pay the costs of the proceedings to obtain the removal of the interdiction. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Bouchard vs Bastien, ès-qual., Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 565.—S. C., 1900, Montreal, Latour vs Latour, Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 159.

796. Un avocat a droit, à part son mémoire de frais taxé, à des honoraires pour vacations à domicile, pour consulter son client relativement à l'action à être intentée.

797. Un avocat a aussi droit à ses honoraires pour services rendus, pendant l'instance, à la demande d'un negotiorum gestor, concernant l'interdiction de son client pour démence prononcée pendant la dite instance.

798. La nomination du curateur met fin au mandat de l'avocat. C. S., 1906, Richelieu, Brosseau vs Beauchemin, 12 R. J., 267.

799. Proceedings upon a petition for the interdiction of an habitant drunkard will be suspended until the costs on a previous petition to the same effect which was dismissed for irregularities, have been paid. S. C., 1910, Montreal, Monti vs Amyot et al., 11 Q. P. R., 298.

800. Intérêts.—Judgment was rendered in February, 1889, in favor of plaintiff in the Superior court, costs reserved. Upon appeal to the court of Queen's Bench, the judgment was reversed in November 1889 and the action was dismissed with costs of both courts in favor of the defendants. Upon taxation of the bill, defendants pretended that under articles 3598 et 5904 R. S. Q. interest was due on the Superior court costs from the date of the judgment of the Superior court, on the ground that the Queen's Bench judgment reversing was the judgment which the Superior court ought to have rendered, and should be taken nunc pro tunc: The interest was due on the Superior court costs only from the date of the judgment of the court of Queen's Bench. S. C., 1890, Montreal, Fraser vs McTavish, M. L. R., 6 S. C., 436; 13 L. N., 371.

800a. La taxation d'un mémoire de frais dans une cause en expropriation sous l'Acte des Chemins de Fer du Canada, détermine seulement le montant à payer par la partie perdante, et ne contient aucune condamnation ; partant, l'intérêt sur ces frais ne court qu'à compter de l'action que l'on intente pour en recouvrer le montant. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Wood vs Atlantic & Northwest Railway Co., R. J., 9 C. S., 297.

800b. Les intérêts ne courent sur les frais dus par un client à ses avocats que du jour du jugement pris par les avocats pour ces frais. C. S., 1899, Montréal, St-Pierre vs Chartrand, 2 R. P., 290.

801. Interprétation.—Les mots "dépens de l'action" dans un jugement portant condamnation aux dépens, n'expriment pas les frais de l'action telle qu'introduite mais seulement les frais du montant recouvré. C. S., 1853, Montréal, Laurier vs Corporation du petit seminaire de Ste-Thérèse, 1 M. C. R., 6, 1 R. J. R. Q., 321.

802. Intervention.—Un tiers qui intervient dans cette saisie-revendication pour réclamer la propriété de certains effets, n'a droit à aucun frais contre le demandeur qui admet son intervention excepté quant aux frais; le défendeur devra payer les frais de l'intervention et les intervenants ceux de contestation. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Dupaul vs Wheeler et Wheeler, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 147; 8 L. N., 99; 29 J., 136; 15 R. L., 564; 21 R. L., 81.

803. When the intervention of the Attorney General is rendered necessary by the allegations of the pleas, which alleged that an act is ultra vires, the said intervention should be maintained for costs only, it being unnecessary to pronounce on the constitutionality of the said act. Supr. C., 1889, Montreal, McCaffrey vs Hall et al. et Hon. Turcotte, ès-qual., 34 J., 91; 15 L. N., 164; 20 Supr. C. R., 319.

804. La partie qui conteste le droit d'un intervenant d'intervenir dans la cause, a droit aux mêmes frais que sur la demande originaire. C. S., 1890, Montréal, St-Cyr vs Mathon et vir. et Chevalier, M. L. R., 6 C. S., 100; 13 L. N., 188.

805. Lorsqu'une partie intervenante fait une défense à la demande du demandeur et n'obtient rien sur son intervention, si ce n'est le maintien de sa défense à l'action du demandeur contre le défendeur, les frais sur l'intervention doivent être taxés comme dans une action de la classe de la demande principale, et non pas comme dans une action de la classe de la réclamation de l'intervenant. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Henderson et al. vs Pengelly et Wallace. R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 204.

806, Where the lessor seizes, as belonging to the lessee, effects which are not in the premises leased, and after notice given to him that the effects are not the property of the lessee, he will be condemned to pay the costs of the intervention which was rendered necessary by such seizure, and which subsequently he did no contest. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Murray vs Clouston and Grand Trunk Railway Co., Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 356.

807. Les frais d'une intervention faite sur opposition à une saisie d'immeubles à la cour de Circuit, et équivalant à une contestation de cette opposition, sont ceux d'une action de quatrième classe en cour Supérieure. C. S., 1898, Joliette, Prud'homme vs Marion et Marion et Rivard, 2 R. P. Q., 2.

808. The costs on an intervention claiming goods, should be taxed as in an action for the amount alleged to be the value of the goods claimed by the intervention. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Delorme vs Creisser et al., Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 224.

809. Les frais de contestation d'une intervention en appel seront taxés conformément au tarif de la cour supérieure qui s'appliquerait à cette contestation d'intervention si elle avait été faite à la cour Supérieure. B. R., 1901, Montréal, McNally vs Préfontaine et Picken et al., 4 R. P. Q., 125.

810. Dans une saisie-conservatoire où le demandeur se prétend propriétaire des effets saisi, et les fait mettre sous la main de la justice pour assurer l'exercice de ses droits sur iceux, l'intervention faite par le curateur à la faillite des défendeurs, qui conteste seulement le droit de propriété du demandeur sur les effets saisis, sera taxée suivant l'article 60 du tarif, et non comme une requête en cassation de saisie-conservatoire.

811. Les frais d'intervention par le curateur seront taxés contre la partie qui succombe, et non pas contre la faillite. C. S., 1902, Trois-Rivières, Auger et al. vs Montambault et al. et Perusse et al., et Gélinas, ès-qual., 4 R. P. Q., 457; 8 R. L., n. s., 403.

812. Lorsque par une même et seule intervention, dans une action accompagnée de saisie-arrêt avant jugement, un intervenant conteste la saisie-arrêt et l'action, et que les prétentions du demandeur sont maintenues et l'intervention est renvoyée avec dépens, les frais du demandeur seront taxés contre tel intervenant comme dans une seule instance. C. S., 1904, Québec, Orway vs Veilleux et Quebec Bank et Price, 10 R. J., 90.

813. Le demandeur principal, qui obtient la permission de contester, après inscription ex-parte, une intervention conservatoire, sera tenu de payer la différence entre les honoraires prévus par les articles 8 et 10 du tarif. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Williamson et al. vs Bradshaw et al., et Dame Turner, 6 R. P. Q., 385.

814. On an intervention against a demand of abandonment, based upon the fact that a prior abandonment has already been made and a curator appointed thereto, the value in contest is the value of the insolvent estate. K. B., 1906, Montreal, Henderson, ès-qual., vs Harbec, 8 Q. P. R., 126.

815. Si, à la suite d'une saisie conservatoire, un tiers intervient pour réclamer comme siens partie des effets saisis, et en obtient ensuite la possession en donnant caution au demandeur pour sa réclamation, la classe de l'action, sur la contestation de l'intervention par le demandeur, ne peut excéder celle de la réclamation du demandeur. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Boulet vs Heirs of St. John et Carpenter et al., et Seifter, 8 R. P. Q., 159.

816. La classe d'une intervention qui a été renvoyée, est déterminée par la valeur en litige dans l'action principale, et non par le montant de la créance de l'intervenant. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Gariépy vs Chartrand et Desmarteau, 10 R. P. Q., 155.

817. En vertu du § 13 de l'article 46 du tarif, les honoraires sur une intervention suivent le montant réclamé par cette procédure. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Gélinas vs Finkelstein et al., et Lafond et Garsenson, 16 R. J., 527.

818. Les frais sur une intervention par le propriétaire d'effets saisis-gagés, lorsqu'elle est renvoyée, doivent être taxés contre l'intervenant, comme sur une défense renvoyée, et suivant la classe du montant pour lequel la saisie-gagerie est déclarée valable. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Gosselin vs Morin et Lavoie et Ethier, 16 R. J., 123.

818a. Intimé conjoint.—Where an appellant has been awarded costs of the appeal against three respondents, one of whom appeared jointly with three other respondents and joined with them in their factum, and the other two of whom appeared jointly with seven other respondents and joined with them in their factum, the appellant's attorneys are entitled to charge the hearing fee twice, viz: once against the respondent in the group of four and once against the two respondents in the group of seven, and their bill against the three unsuccessful respondents is not limited to three twelfths of a full bill.

818b. When costs have been awarded to nine of twelve respondents and eight of these respondent had appeared and pleaded jointly with other respondents, who had been unsuccessful, against whom this appellant had been awarded costs, the fact of such joint appearance and pleading does not prevent costs from being taxed against the appellant in favour of the eight prevailing respondents.

818c. Where three of a group of four respondents prevail, and are awarded costs of appeal against the appellant, but the fourth respondent fails and is adjuged to pay costs to the appellant, the costs of the three prevailing respondents against the appellant are three fourths of a full bill.

819d. Where defendants have severed in their pleadings in the court of first instance but where there has been only one trial and th evidence was common to all the parties, and when in appeal the respondents separated themselves into three groups, each group filing a separate appearance and binding the printed evidence in an appendix to its factum, the cost of printing such evidence will be taxed once only, and not three times. K. B., 1912, Montreal, Lord vs Bergeron et al., 7 D. L. R., 809; 19 R. J., 167.

819. Jugement ordonnant de faire des travaux.—Une action est intentée contre un défendeur pour le contraindre à faire certains travaux qu'il est tenu de faire, et le jugement est rendu le condamnant à faire ses travaux dans un délai déterminé, et, à son défaut, autorisant le demandeur à les faire à ses dépens, le mémoire de frais doit être taxé comme dans une cause du montant du coût des travaux, ordonnés par le jugement. C.

S., 1902, Montréal, Dlle Bassinet vs Collerette et vir, 7 R. P. Q., 27; 11 R. L., n. s., 258.

820. Jugement pour frais seulement. Si un jugement est rendu contre un défendeur dans une action en dommages pour torts personnels, mais pour les frais seulement, le défendeur ayant fait des excuses, les frais seront de l'action, et ce nonobstant l'article 550 C. p. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Cooke vs Hart, 1 R. P. Q., 141; R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 348.

821. Juridiction.—The plaintiff, having selected a tribunal without jurisdiction to try contestations of the garnishees' declarations, involving an amount exceeding $200, should be condemned to pay the costs of such contestations.

822. But, since the garnishees had not invoked, either in the Circuit court or in the Review, the question of jurisdiction, each party should be condemned to pay his own costs in review. C. R., 1883, Quebec, Guillet vs L'Heureux and Lamarche et al., 9 L. N., 371.

823. Dans l'espèce, l'action du demandeur ayant été déclarée mal fondée par le tribunal de première instance, le demandeur devait supporter les dépens de contestation en cour Supérieure, ainsi que les dépens de la révision, quoique l'incompétence du tribunal n'eût pas été plaidée. C. R., 1901, Montréal, Lafranchise vs Caty, R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 185.

824. Lorsqu'un appel à la cour de Révision est renvoyé faute de juridiction, il le sera sans frais, si ce défaut de juridiction a été soulevé par la cour elle-même. C. S., 1909, Québec, Martel vs La Corporation de Marston, 11 R. P. Q., 11; 16 R. J., 146.

825. Si c'est la cour elle-même qui soulève son défaut de juridiction, elle n'accordera pas de frais. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Létang vs Décarie, 11 R. P. Q., 87.

826. Lettre d'avocat.—L'avocat n'a pas le droit de se faire payer un honoraire par le débiteur auquel il a écrit une lettre lui réclamant une somme d'argent, même dans le cas où ce dernier paie la somme réclamée. B. R., 1812, Québec, Bowen vs Lee, 3 R. de L., 391; 2 R. J. R. Q., 309.—C. C., 1887, Montréal, Desmarchais vs Doyle, 10 L. N., 131.—C. C., 1901, St-François, Rioux vs Plaisance, 8 R. J., 140; R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 574.—C. C., 1903, Montréal, Dame Robson vs Smith, 5 R. P. Q., 252.—C. C., 1904, Montréal, Québec, Davidson et al. vs Drolet, 9 R. P. Q., 372.

827. Le coût d'une lettre d'avocat, savoir $1.50, est exigible et peut être recouvré en justice du débiteur à qui elle a été écrite pour lui demander le paiement de sa dette.

828. Dans ce cas, l'action peut être instituée au nom du créancier. C. C., 1879, Montréal, Ligthall vs Jackson, 3 L. N., 37.—C. C., 1880, Richelieu, Héroux vs Clément, 10 R. L., 589.—C. C., 1883, Montréal, Michaels vs Plimsoll, 27 J., 29; 6 L. N., 61.

829. L'avocat n'a pas d'action pour recouvrer les frais de lettre écrite au défendeur, si ce dernier règle la dette avec son créancier, même en promettant de régler la dite lettre avec l'avocat; cette promesse ne pouvait le lier vis-à-vis l'avocat, puisqu'il s'engageait à une chose à laquelle il n'était pas légalement tenu. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Ouimet vs Gravel, 7 L. N., 383.—C. C., 1885, Montréal, Lareau vs Leclerc, 8 L. N., 344.

830. Un agent collecteur n'a pas droit d'exiger $1.50, ni aucune autre somme pour le coût d'une lettre écrite à un débiteur lui réclamant sa dette, et dans le cas actuel, le défendeur sera condamné à rembourser au demandeur $1.50, coût d'une prétendue lettre d'avocat par lui écrite au demandeur et qu'il s'était fait payer en qualité d'agent. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Lachapelle vs Larose, 7 L. N., 353.

831. La lettre d'avocat est exigible du débiteur lorsqu'elle a été précédée d'une mise en demeure de payer, mais la loi ne dit pas si c'est l'avocat ou le client qui a droit de la réclamer.

832. Hors le cas de concert frauduleux entre le créancier et le débiteur, le créancier a le droit de disposer de sa cause comme il l'entend, aussi bien pour la dette que pour les frais qui ne sont que l'accessoire de la dette. Dans ces circonstances, si le créancier reçoit la dette et donne au débiteur reçu de tout compte, ce reçu comprend les frais comme accessoires de la dette. C. C., 1905, Montréal, Coderre et al. vs Champagne, 12 R. J., 486.

833. Le tarif des avocats concernant le coût d'une lettre d'avocat qu'un créancier fait écrire à un débiteur ne couvre pas les frais d'une lettre d'avocat qu'un propriétaire d'une chose fait écrire à celui qui détient cette chose contre son gré et le menaçant de poursuite s'il ne la restituait pas. C. C., 1905, Québec, Davidson et al. vs Drolet, B. C. J., 93.

834. Depuis la passation de la loi 3 Edouard VII, chapitre 34, section 9, le débiteur qui reçoit une lettre d'avocat, est tenu d'en payer l'honoraire, et les offres qu'il fait à son créancier du paiement de sa dette seulement, sont insuffisantes. C. C., 1905, Sherbrooke, Royer vs Bélanger, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 95; 7 R. P. Q., 97; 11 R. L., n. s., 534.

835. D'après le Statut 3 Ed. VII, ch. 34, art. 9, le coût de la lettre d'avocat est exigible du débiteur à qui elle est écrite, quand le débiteur, après la réception de la lettre, paie au créancier le montant de la dette sans qu'il soit question du paiement de la lettre d'avocat.

836. L'avocat peut poursuivre le débiteur en son propre nom. C. C., 1906, Montréal, Patterson et al. vs Boucher, 12 R. J., 487.

837. Contra:—L'avocat n'a pas de recours direct contre le débiteur auquel il a écrit pour exiger le paiement d'une somme due à son client, et cela, malgré que le débiteur reconnaisse devoir le montant réclamé et l'ait payé.

838. Le recours pour le paiement de la lettre d'avocat doit être exercé par le client lui-même, vu que l'avocat n'a pas obtenu distraction pour ses frais de lettre et que la loi 3 Ed. VII, ch. 34, ne l'autorise pas à porter l'action en son nom. C. C., 1906, Québec, Demers vs Gendreau, 9 R. P. Q., 426.

839. In an action for libel, where the plaintiff obtains judgment for part of the amount claimed, it cannot be charged with any part of the costs unless there has been a tender by the defendant. C. R., 1891, Montreal, Turgeon vs Wurtele, M. L. R., 7 S. C., 409; M. L. R., 6 S. C., 390; 13 L. N., 355; 15 L. N., 141.

840. Licitation.—Le procureur des demandeurs en licitation qui a été payé de la somme de $40, mentionnée à l'article 61 du tarif, par l'adjudicataire des premiers immeubles vendus, a droit à la même somme sur la vente des autres immeubles dont la vente avait été retardée par des oppositions. C. S., 1875, Richelieu, Brunet et al. vs Péloquin dit Felix et al. et Millet et Gill, 6 R. L., 726.

841. Loi des accidents du travail.—Une action prise en vertu de la loi des accidents du travail, lorsque le montant est indéterminé, est de la deuxième classe, quand même le défendeur serait condamné à payer une somme de $300, et en outre une somme de $32.50 par mois pendant 24 mois. C. S., 1912, Rivet vs The Grand Trunk Railway Co., 13 R. P. Q., 334.

842. Loi des licences.—Lorsqu'un percepteur de revenu est exempt de tout blâme, il n'y a pas lieu de recommander au trésorier de la province de payer au poursuivant ses frais ou une indemnité. C. R., 1912, Québec, Rousseau vs Jolin et al., 18 R. L., n. s., 404.

843. Mandat.—Le demandeur qui aura vendu un objet au défendeur par son agent lorsque le défendeur aura eu raison de croire que cet objet appartenait à l'agent, sera condamné à payer les frais de la défense, et n'aura jugement que pour le capital même au cas où le défendeur n'aura pas déposé le montant réclamé. C. C., 1873, Richelieu, Labelle vs Patris, 4 R. L., 530.

844. Mari et femme.—Dans une action entre mari et femme, lorsqu'il ne s'agit plus que d'une question de frais, chaque partie devra payer les siens. B. R., 1889, Montréal, Mainville vs Corbeil, 18 R. L., 30; 33 J., 179.

845. L'obligation de la femme séparée de biens de contribuer proportionnellement à ses facultés et à celles de son mari, tant aux frais du ménage qu'à ceux d'éducation des enfants communs n'est pas une obligation solidaire avec le mari. Ainsi le créancier qui poursuit la femme séparée de biens pour des réclamations de la nature susdite, après avoir obtenu un jugement contre le mari insolvable, ne peut demander les frais faits sur cette première poursuite, ni les intérêts qui ont couru sur le dit jugement. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Piché vs Morse et vir, 4 R. J., 277, 566; 1 R. P. Q., 220; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 165; 4 R. L., n. s., 334.

846. Bien que les frais dus aient été faits pour revendiquer un propre de la femme, il ne s'en suit pas, par le fait même, que la femme soit obligée au paiement d'iceux en d'autre qualité que comme commune, lorsque le jugement qui a été prononcé contre elle sur ces frais n'a pas déterminé en quelle qualité elle y serait tenue.

847. Partant, on ne peut prétendre, à l'encontre d'une opposition afin d'annuler par une femme commune en bien, qu'elle n'est tenue aux frais qu'en sa qualité de commune, que, vu le jugement sur l'instance principale dans laquelle elle a été ainsi condamnée aux frais conjointement et solidairement avec son mari, il y a chose jugée quant à sa responsabilité à ce sujet; et un semblable motif d'opposition ne peut être rejeté comme frivole sur motion à cet effet. C. S., 1902, Québec, Vidal et al. vs Latulippe et al., R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 219.

848. Mémoire.—L'honoraire de préparation, de rédaction et d'avis de taxation des frais n'est accordé que pour le jugement final dans la cause.

849. Il ne sera donc pas accordé sur une motion demandant la révision du mémoire de frais. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Jubinville vs Kee Foo et Goon Foom et al., 13 R. P. Q., 39.

850. Mémoire séparé. — Lorsque des frais ont été encourus sur deux incidents, pour motion pour particularités et inscription en droit, il sera loisible au procureur de la partie qui a réussi de faire deux mémoires distincts portant la même date et présentés pour taxe le même jour.

851. En pareil cas, les honoraires pour rédaction des mémoires et vacation à la taxe, ainsi que les déboursés, sont alloués sur chaque mémoire.

852. Il en serait autrement, s'il s'agissait des mémoires de frais dans la cause après jugement final, alors qu'il faudrait inclure les frais sur ces différents incidents dans un seul mémoire. C. S., 1907, St-François, Dame Baron vs Benoit, 8 R. P. Q., 303.

853. Mépris de cour.—Where a party is in prison for contempt, and has apologized, but has not paid the costs of his committal, etc., the proper order to make upon a motion for his discharge, is that he be continued in prison for his contempt for a time certain, unless the costs of the proceedings against him are sooner paid. P. C., 1886, Ontario, Campbell vs Martin, 11 P. R., 509.

854. Though fine and imprisonment are both imposed as a penalty for contempt of court, payment of the prosecutor's costs, as between attorney and client, may be ordered. Supr. C., New Brunswick, 1894, Regina, vs Ellis, ex-parte Baird,32 N. B. R., 561.

855. L'adjudication des frais, dans une condamnation pénale de deux ou plusieurs défendeurs, peut être valablement faite contre eux sans spécification de la part que chacun devra payer. C. R., 1910, Québec, Bernier vs Quebec et Levis Ferry Co. Ltd. et al., R. J. Q, 39 C. S., 133.

856. Minorité.—The costs of appointing a tutor to a minor for the purpose of instituting an action on his behalf, do not form part of the costs of the action. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Hawkins ès-qual., vs Roberts, 1 Q. P. R., 261.

857. In an action instituted by a tutor claiming damages inflicted on plaintiff's minor son by a dog owned and kept by defendants, the costs of tutelle are not taxable costs to be allowed in the bill of costs, they must form part of the condemnation. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Robert, ès-qual., vs Denault et al., 9 R. J., 60.

858. Le mineur dont l'action est renvoyée à cause de sa minorité peut être condamné aux dépens. C. S., 1904, Québec, St-Laurent vs Fortier, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 463.

859. Mis en cause.—Il ne peut être accordé de frais contre un mis-en-cause que s'il a lié contestation avec le demandeur et demande le rejet de toutes ou partie de ses conclusions. B. R., 1903, Québec, Paquet et al. vs La Corporation de St-Nicolas et al., R. J. Q., 13 B. R., 1.—C. S., 1903, Montréal, Gauthier vs Desjardins, 9 R. J., 488.

860. The mis en cause, who has no interest in the case, has the right to recover from the plaintiff his costs of appearance and declaration, and the plaintiff who succeeds against the defendant may in turn have them taxed against him. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Jacobs vs Hagerman Co. and Dominion Express Co., 8 Q. P. R., 281.

861. On ne peut, par action directe, recouvrer des frais d'une partie que l'on s'est contenté d'assigner comme mis-en-cause et contre laquelle on a demandé des frais au cas de contestation de sa part, notamment, alors que cette dernière n'a pas jugé à propos de constater l'action. C. R., 1908, Québec, Michaud vs Roy, R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 352..

862. Motion.—Il ne sera pas accordé d'honoraires sur une motion pour maintien des objections, si cette motion ne se retrouve pas au dossier. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Gafney vs Montreal Gas Co., 1 R. P. Q., 569.

863. Si une motion pour retrancher un allégué d'un plaidoyer, dans une action de deuxième classe est renvoyée, le défendeur aura sur cette motion l'honoraire accordé au défendeur par l'article 23 du tarif sur exception à la forme rejetée dans une action de cette classe. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Harvey vs Mowat, 2 R. P. Q., 228.

864. L'honoraire d'une motion demandant qu'il soit ordonné à la partie adverse de déclarer pourquoi un jugement rendu contre elle par les arbitres de l'Association de la Halle aux Blés, n'aurait pas l'effet d'un jugement de la cour, est celui prévu par l'article 28 du tarif de la cour Supérieure, et non celui mentionné par l'article 4. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Ward vs Goodall,2 R. P. Q., 444.

865. Une motion renvoyée pour une raison non invoquée par les parties, sera renvoyée sans frais. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Lamothe vs Piché et Brown, 5 R. P. Q., 172.

866. A motion to authorize a plaintiff to return a writ after the delays will be granted with costs of motion against the plaintiff.

867. In such case, a motion for congé-défaut, made after a motion for leave to return after the delays, shall be dismissed without costs. S. C., 1903, Montreal, Boiteau vs Boiteau, 5 Q. P. R., 301.

868. The fee on a motion to dismiss an opposition is the fee of an ordinary motion and not of a preliminary exception. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Dame Giguère vs Payette et Proulx, 6 Q. P. R., 178.

869. Motion pour particularités.—La motion pour particularités n'est pas une exception préliminaire, et ne doit être taxée que comme une motion ordinaire, même si elle avait été accompagnée d'un dépôt par la partie qui l'a faite et perdue. C. C., 1899, Terrebonne, Larivé vs St-Jacques, 2 R. P. Q., 160.

870. En règle générale, les frais d'une motion pour particularités doivent suivre suivre l'issue du procès; mais si la déclaration, la défense, ou toute autre pièce de plaidoirie n'est pas suffisamment libellée pour permettre à la partie adverse de plaider, ou de répondre, etc., à moins d'avoir des particularités, alors les frais de la motion devront être accordés. C. S., 1899, Arthabaska, Luneau vs Juneau, 2 R. P. Q., 74.

870a. Celui qui obtient partie seulement des conclusions de sa motion pour particularités n'a pas droit aux dépens. C. S., 1898, Montréal, McDonald vs Vineberg, 3 R. P. Q., 206.—C. S., 1900, Montréal, Matthews vs Cité de Montréal, 3 R. P. Q., 349.

870b. Les frais seront accordés sur une motion demandant le rejet d'un paragraphe de plaidoyer sur lequel des particularités ont été ordonnées et n'ont pas été produites. C. S., 1900, Québec, Codville vs Woods, 3 R. P. Q., 233.

871. Les frais de motion pour particularités, depuis le statut 1 Edouard VII, ch. 30, sect. 1, doivent être taxées comme sur motion et non comme sur une exception dilatoire ou à la forme. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Geoffrion vs Dufresne, 8 R. J., 553.

872. Si une action est discontinuée après une motion pour particularités, les honoraires de l'avocat du défendeur seront ceux de comparution et de motion, et non ceux de l'article 7 du tarif.

873. L'honoraire du protonotaire est est aussi celui d'une motion, et non d'une exception. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Gingras vs Finley, 5 R. P. Q., 118.

873a. Les frais d'une motion pour particularités doivent suivre le sort de la cause. C. S., 1904, Québec, La Compagnie de Pulpe de Chicoutimi vs Price et al., R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 351.—C. S., 1907, Richelieu, Dubeau vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Norbert, 13 R. J., 334.

873b. Lorsque le défendeur présente une motion pour particularités relativement à certaines allégations insuffisantes de la déclaration, et que le demandeur produit ensuite les particularités requises de manière à permettre au défendeur de plaider à l'action, la cour en refusant la motion devenue inutile, accordera cependant les frais de cette motion contre le demandeur. C. S. 1904, Montréal, Pouliot vs Lavigne, 11 R. J., 435.

874. Moyens invoqués dans le factum.—Lorsque la partie défenderesse ou intimée n'invoque l'absence de juridiction de la cour de Révisionque dans son factum au mérite au lieu de l'invoquer par motion, la cour n'accordera que les frais qui auraient été accordés si l'appel avait été rejeté sur motion avant de soumettre la cause au mérite. C. S., 1908, Québec, Gérard et al. vs Corporation des cantons unis de Ditchfield et Spaulding, 14 R. J., 426.

874a. Lorsqu'une partie, inscrivant en révision, fait des observations irrespectueuses à l'égard du juge en première instance, elle n'aura pas les frais de son factum. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Nadeau vs St-Jacques, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 302.

875. Moyens soulevés à l'audition.—La défenderesse n'ayant soulevé le moyen des défenses sur lequel elle réussit qu'à l'audition et non par les plaidoyers, elle n'aura droit qu'aux frais d'une cause réglée après la production du plaidoyer. C. S., Chicoutimi, 1900, Perron vs Duguay et al., R. J. Q., 17 C. S. 192.

876. Obligation indivisible.—Les défendeurs avaient fait enregistrer, sur l'immeuble du demandeur, une créance hypothécaire qu'ils avaient contre un tiers. Sur poursuite du demandeur cet enregistrement fut radié et les défendeurs furent condamnés aux dépens, sans mention de solidarité. En exécution de ce jugement, les avocats distrayants du demandeur firent saisir l'immeuble de l'opposant pour la totalité de leurs frais: La radiation de l'enregistrement n'étant pas susceptible de division, l'obligation de chacun des défendeurs était indivisible, et partant ils étaient tenus solidairement aux frais de l'action en radiation. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Filiatrault vs Bélair et al., R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 449.

877. Officier public.—La cour n'accorde pas de frais contre un officier public. C. S., 1856, Montréal, Ex-parte DeBeaujeu, 1 J., 15; 5 R. J. R. Q., 371; 11 R. J. R. Q., 493.

878. Offres réelles et consignation.—When a plaintiff recovers no more than is paid into court, and the sum so paid in was tendered before the action was instuted, the action must be dismissed with costs against the plaintiff. K. B., 1820, Quebec, Woodrington vs Taylor, 3 R. de L., 393.

879. The defendant who tenders the principal and interest claimed, after issue of a writ of summons, but before service, is still liable for the costs incurred. S. C., 1860, Montreal, Boucher vs Lemoine et al., 4 J., 300; 8 R. J. R. Q., 258.

880. Where a defendant brings into court a sum of money tendered before the action and another amount which he acknowledges to owe for costs not tendered before, he is liable for costs of the court of first instance. Sup. C., 1877, Canada, The Aetna Life Insurance Co. vs Brodie, 5 Supr. C. R., 1; 8 R. L., 91; 20 J., 286.

881. In an insurance case where there had been a reference to arbitration. and the sum of $646.10 found to be due, the plaintiff sued for $1173, and the defendant pleaded acknowledging the amount found on the arbitration but made no deposit, the judgment was given for the amount admitted by plea with costs against plaintiff after plea filed. S. C., 1879, Montreal, DeMontigny vs Watertown Agricultural Insurance Co., 4 L. N., 132.

882. The defendants being sureties in appeal, and liable for costs under their bond, on the 30th December 1880, made a tender "on condition that if the judgment rendered in the said matter be reversed, the money will be returned to them who now pay as Molson's sureties." Action was taken out and the defendants pleaded an unconditional tender, and made an unconditional consignation of the money with their plea. Judgment condemning them unconditionally to pay all costs confirmed on the ground that they had not right to attach a condition to their tender. C. R., 1881, Montreal, Carter vs Ford et al., 3 L. N., 418; 4 L. N., 77.

883. Règle générale, celui qui est jugé débiteur et qui n'a pas fait d'offre est passible des dépens, bien que la réclamation formée contre lui soit susceptible de réduction. C. R., 1886, Montréal, Royal vs Lajeunesse, 30 J., 224.

884. Sur une requête pour retirer une somme de deniers déposés entre les mains du trésorier provincial suivant l'article 1198 S.R. Q., l'honoraire accordé sera celui d'une requête et le mémoire de frais ne sera pas taxé comme sur une action.

885. Les motions pour faire déchoir une partie de plaider, pour faire fixer une cause, pour faire mettre la cause en délibéré suivant ses errements, sont des procédures inutiles sur une telle requête. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Dauphinais vs Bousquet, 2 R. P. Q., 511.

886. Lorsque, sur une action de $300, le défendeur offre la somme de $100, mais que ces offres sont déclarées insuffisantes quant aux frais et que le défendeur est condamné aux frais de l'action jusqu'au plaidoyer et le demandeur aux frais de contestation, le demandeur a droit aux frais d'une action de $100 comme si la cause avait été réglée avant la production de la défense.

887. Les frais de contestation dus au défendeur sont la différence des honoraires dans une action de $300 entre une action réglée après la défense au mérite (item 23 du tarif) et une action réglée après enquête et audition (item 24), plus les frais d'enquête et audition. C. S., St-Hyacinthe, 1910, Robert vs Végiard et al., 12 R. P. Q., 61.

888. Opposition afin d'annuler. — Where a defendant to a writ of execution for principal, interest aad costs files an opposition, under which he proves that the costs were paid before seizure, he is entitled to costs on his opposition. C. C., 1869, Montreal, Berthelot vs Lalonde and Lalonde, 14 J., 28; 19 R. J. R. Q., 504, 548.

889. Where an opposition founded on partial payments was maintained as to such payments and judgment reduced accordingly, each party would pay his own costs. C. R., 1871, Montreal, Grange vs McDonald and McDonald, 15 J., 252.—S. C., 1881, Quebec, Thibault vs Fontaine and Fontaine, 7 Q. L. R., 320, 5 L. N., 64.

890. Where it appeared that certain immoveables seized had been previously sold by defendant, and the deed of sale duly registered, the opposition was maintained with costs against plaintiff. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Robert vs Fortin et La Société Permanente de Construction Jacques-Cartier, 21 J., 219; 22 J., 106; 1 L. N., 211.

891. L'opposition afin d'annuler basée sur des paiements partiels ayant été occasionnée par la faute du demandeur, et par lui contestée, il doit, dans tous les cas, en supporter les frais. C. C., 1878, Montréal, Patenaude vs Guertin et Guertin, 22 J., 57; 1 L. N., 131.

892. Lorsqu'une opposition contenant des allégations de droit et de fait est renvoyée sur les moyens de droit seulement, l'opposant ayant déclaré à l'audition s'en rapporter à ces questions de droit, les frais de subpœnas, de sténographes et de taxes de témoins n'en devront pas moins entrer en taxe dans le mémoire de frais de l'opposant. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Dame Quintin dit Dubois vs Charron, 5 R. L., n. s., 183.

893. An opposant is entitled to have costs from plaintiff when the procès-verbal of seizure itself refers to opposant's title, and plaintiff therefore well knew the dispositions contained in said title, whereby the property seized is declared "incessible, insaisissable," and given "à titre de pension alimentaire," and when plaintiff's debt is not alimentary. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Reeves vs Bastien and Bastien et al., 12 R. J., 348.

894. Les honoraires de la contestation d'une opposition afin d'annuler seront comme ceux de la première action, que la contestation ait été faite par le demandeur, par une autre partie ou par un tiers. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Sun Life Assurance Co. vs Palliser et Corporation of the township of Wentworth et Palliser, 7 R. P. Q., 455.

895. Opposition afin de conserver.— Costs will not be awarded against an opposant claiming under a general mortgage, who restricts the conclusions of his opposition so soon as he discovers that part of the property upon which he claims is held in free and common soccage. S. C., 1862, Quebec, Quebec Building Society vs Jones, 12 L. C. R., 170.

896. L'opposant afin de conserver, joue le rôle de demandeur et le contestant celui de défendeur, partant, l'opposant a droit aux frais d'opposition du montant qui lui est accordé. C. R., 1871, Montréal, Beaudry vs Desjardins et Desjardins et vir et Thomas et al., 4 R. L., 555; 22 R. J. R. Q., 100, 552.

897. Opposition afin de distraire.— Where plaintiffs declare that they do not contest an opposition afin de distraire, mainlevée of the seizure will be granted without costs against the plaintiffs, but with costs against the defendant. C. C., 1859, Montreal, Corse vs Taylor and Taylor, 3 J., 167.

898. Une opposition qui, par un amendement subséquent des procédés qu'elle attaque, n'a plus aucune raison d'être, doit être renvoyée sur une motion, mais sans frais. C. S., 1859, Montréal, La Compagnie de Prêt et d'Emprunt du Haut-Canada vs Doyle et Stanley, 3 J., 138; 7 R. J. R. Q., 406.

899. Le demandeur institua une action au montant de $47.50 et obtint jugement pour $23.17. Les meubles des défendeurs furent saisis et Rivard produisit une opposition afin de distraire qui fut par la suite maintenue.

900. Sur révision du mémoire de frais de l'opposant, qui avait d'abord été taxé par les greffiers de la cour de Circuit, suivant le montant de l'action, c'est-à-dire comme dans une cause au-dessus de $40.00, il fut décidé que ce mémoire était incorrect, et qu'il aurait dû être taxé non pas d'après le montant de l'action originaire, mais d'après le montant du jugement, c'est-à-dire comme dans une cause d'au-dessous de $25.00. C. C., 1879, Trois-Rivières, Rocheleau vs Sinclair et al., 5 R. J. Q., 308.

901. The seizure was of date 1st April, 1880, and the opposant's title was not registered until 21st July of same year, though executed some two years previously: The opposition was maintained, but with costs against opposant, on the ground that plaintiff was justified in seizing so long as the opposant's title was not registered. S. C., 1881, Quebec, Dorval vs Bourassa and Bourassa, 7 Q. L. R., 303; 5 L. N., 55.

902. Un créancier est justifiable de contester une opposition faite par une femme mariée qui fait le commerce sous le nom de son mari, à une saisie pratiquée contre ce dernier.

903. Dans le cas où l'opposition serait maintenue, chaque partie devra payer ses frais, le créancier ayant pu être trompé et croire à la fraude. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Van de Vliet vs Fénion et Bergevin, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 216; 8 L. N., 133; 29 J., 147.

904. Lorsque sur exécution d'un jugement de $95.00, rendu par la cour Supérieure dans une cause ou un capias avait été pris, les frais d'une opposition afin de distraire un immeuble valant $8,000 devront être taxés comme dans une cause de $200.00 à $400.00. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Kinloch et al. vs Robichon, 8 L. N., 170.

905. An action having been dismissed with costs, one of the defendants, in order to recover his costs, cause an execution to issue and seize the movables in plaintiff's domicile.

The plaintiff's wife filed an opposition claiming the effects as her property, and asked costs against the defendant seizing.

906. The opposant was not entitled to ask costs against the creditor seizing (here the defendant) but only (C. c. p. art. 586) against the judgment debtor (here the plaintiff) and a mere notice in writing of her claim to the effects, transmitted to the seizing party, did not entitle her to costs against him. S. C., 1886, Montreal, Brown vs Ross et al., and Howard and Schneider, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 372; 10 L. N., 34.

907. Des créanciers qui saisissent sur leur débiteur, en vertu d'un jugement obtenu contre lui, un immeuble appartenant à un tiers, qui en est propriétaire par bons et valables titres, alors dûment enregistrés, sont responsables envers le tiers, opposant, des frais d'une opposition afin de distraire, que ce dernier a été obligé de faire, aux fins de protéger son immeuble, même si les créanciers déclarent ne point contester la dite opposition. C. S., 1890, Joliette, Allard et al. vs Marion et Lacaille, 34 J., 314.

908. Le créancier qui saisit imprudemment des biens qui appartiennent à un tiers, sera, malgré sa bonne foi, condamné à payer les frais de l'opposition faite par ce dernier. C. S., 1892, Montréal, McNamara vs Gauthier et Carle, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 407; 16 L. N., 175.

909. Until proof to the contrary, the judgment creditor is entitled to regard property furnishing the premises of his debtor as belonging to the latter, and a written notice by the debtor that such property does not belong to him, but to a third party, will not prevent the judgment creditor from seizing the property without incurring responsibility toward the debtor nor toward the opposant for his costs. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Bellingham vs Robb and McMartin, 1 Q. P. R., 255; Q. J. R., 13 S. C., 248.

910. Un demandeur est bien fondé à saisir une exécution d'un jugement contre le défendeur, les biens mobiliers en la possession et au domicile de ce dernier, et l'officier saisissant n'est pas tenu d'accepter l'affirmation du défendeur à l'effet que ces biens mobiliers sont la propriété de tierces personnes.

911. En l'absence de preuve tendant à démontrer que le demandeur savait, lors de cette saisie, que les biens ainsi saisis, appartenaient à l'opposant, l'opposition de ce dernier, sera maintenue mais avec dépens contre le défendeur. C. S., 1906, Montmagny, Paradis et al. vs Vézina et al. et Vidal, 14 R. J., 383.

912. Le défaut du demandeur de déclarer s'il entend ou non contester une opposition afin de distraire ne constitue qu'une admission des faits allégués en icelle, et en l'absence d'une allégation impliquant faute de sa part il ne peut être condamné aux dépens de l'opposition. C. R., 1895, Québec, Grenier vs Desroches and Armstrong et vir, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 116.

913. Lorsque la contestation d'une opposition afin de distraire, sans mettre en question le droit de propriété de l'opposant, porte uniquement sur la question de savoir si les effets saisis, et dont l'opposant demande la distraction, sont sujets au privilège du locateur, le demandeur dans l'espèce, ce dernier ne peut faire taxer ses frais suivant la valeur des choses réclamées par l'opposant, mais seulement d'après la classe de son action, l'article 70 du tarif des avocats (cour Supérieure) ne s'appliquant pas dans l'espèce. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Labreeque vs Talioretti et Tufts, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 190.

914. Les frais sur la contestation d'une opposition afin de distraire à la saisie immobilière, en vertu d'un jugement de la cour de magistrat, sont ceux d'une cause de quatrième classe en cour Supérieure. C. S., 1897, Gaspé, Cassivi et al. vs Kirouack, 4 R. J., 352; 1 R. P. Q., 354.

915. Il y a a lieu à maintenir une opposition non contestée, mais avec dépens contre le demandeur, dans les circonstances suivantes: Lors de la saisie l'opposant s'était déclaré à l'huissier propriétaire d'un certain pupitre, qui lui aurait été donné en cadeau par ses parents et amis, et aurait là et alors montré à l'huissier une adresse signée, accompagnant cette présentation. L'huissier n'en avait pas moins persisté dans sa saisie, ce qui avait forcé le demandeur à produire une opposition afin de distraire. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Kyle vs Gaguon et Beaulieu, 1 R. P. Q., 336; R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 468.

916. Dans son opposition, l'opposant alléguait spécialement que le demandeur savait que les effets saisis n'appartenaient pas au défendeur. Le demandeur ne contesta l'opposition que quant aux frais, alléguant qu'il avait saisi de bonne foi, et prouva que le défendeur s'était déclaré propriétaire d'un des effets saisi: Dans ces circonstances, le demandeur devait être condamné aux dépens de cette opposition. C. C., 1899, Richelieu, Descheneau vs Grandmont et Grandmont, 2 R. P. Q., 419.

917. L'article 16 du tarif de la cour de Circuit ne s'applique qu'à cette cour, et ne s'applique pas aux procédures faites en cour de Révision sur appel d'un jugement de la cour de Circuit; par conséquent, s'il y a contestation sur une opposition, et que la valeur des meubles soit établie, les honoraires en révision seront ceux d'une action pour la valeur de ces meubles, quand même cette valeur dépasserait le montant de la poursuite originaire.

918. Ainsi dans une opposition afin de distraire, faite à la cour de Circuit, dans une cause au montant de $130.43, où la valeur des meubles saisis était établie par la preuve être au-dessus de $1,000.00, les frais de l'opposition maintenue par la cour de Circuit et par la cour de Révision doivent être taxés comme dans une cause pour plus de $1,000.00. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Constant vs Dewitt et Charlebois, 2 R. P. Q., 241; 5 R. L., n. s., 518; 6 R. L., n. s., 205.

919. Si une opposition est renvoyée sur motion, le procureur du demandeur qui n'a pas produit de comparution par écrit sur l'opposition, n'a pas droit à un honoraire de comparution.

919a. L'honoraire sur une opposition renvoyée sur motion est celui d'une action renvoyée sur exception préliminaire.

920. La classe d'action d'une opposition se règle par la valeur des effets réclamés par l'opposition, et, en l'absence d'autre preuve, le montant porté dans l'opposition comme représentant la valeur des effets revendiqués par l'opposition doit être regardé comme exact. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Curé et Marguilliers de Laprairie vs Proulx et Dlle Proulx, 4 R. P. Q., 33.

921. Quand, à la suite d'une action en partage et licitation, il a été vendu un immeuble pour un prix excédant $4,000 et qu'une opposition afin de distraire partie de cet immeuble a été renvoyée quant à l'adjudication, ce dernier a droit aux frais d'une action de première classe et à l'honoraire additionnel de $30. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Latour vs Latour et al., et Dame Paradis et vir., et Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 3 R. P. Q., 418; R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 159.

922. L'ouvrier qui demande à distraire d'une saisie ses outils nécessaires, ne peut conclure à des frais contre le saisissant, l'huissier instrumentant ne peuvant faire la distinction entre les outils que la saisie peut réclamer et les autres. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Cunningham vs Guilbault et al., et Major, 6 R. P. Q., 75.

923. Les frais sur contestation d'opposition afin de distraire, dans une saisie mobilière devant la cour Supérieure, seront taxés comme ceux d'une action de première classe à la cour de Circuit, plus les frais de sténographie, quand la valeur des meubles en litige est au-dessous de $60.00.

924. Il ne sera pas permis à l'opposante, qui a réussi, sur la contestation, de prouver par des dépositions, sur motion pour révision de son mémoire de frais, la valeur de ses meubles quand cette valeur est constatée par la preuve au dossier; ce n'est que dans le cas où telle preuve n'existe pas, que l'on peut prouver la valeur par des dépositions.

925. Les frais de cette motion seront accordés contre l'opposante. C. S., 1904, Terrebonne, Scheiner vs Vigneau et Dubois et vir, 10 R. J., 299.

926. On an opposition to the sale of personal and real property, the fees, in the court of King's Bench, will be the same as on the original action, that being the limit of plaintiff's interest, and consequently, the value in contest. K. B., 1906, Montreal, Henderson, ès-qual., vs Harbec, 8 Q. P. R., 126,

927. L'opposant qui demande la distraction d'un meuble saisi qu'il avait laissé entre les mains du saisi, et sans avertir le saisissant de son droit de propriété sur ce meuble, ne peut, dans son opposition, conclure à ce que le demandeur soit condamné à payer les frais de l'opposition.

928. Le demandeur aura raison de contester cette partie des conclusions de l'opposition. C. S., 1909, Richelieu, St-Charles et Cie, Limitée, vs Dupré et Dépatie, 10 R. P. Q., 287.

929. When an opposition is maintained only in part, the seizure of the remainder being declared good, each party will be condemned to pay his own costs. S. C., 1912, Quebec, Plamondon vs Larue & Angers, 14 Q. P. R., 106.

930. Opposition à jugement.—Dans les causes au-dessous de $60.00, le défendeur qui fait une opposition à jugement n'est pas tenu de faire un dépôt en cour pour payer les frais de l'avocat du demandeur. C. C., 1886, Montréal, Newbury vs McHale, 9 L. N., 114.

930a. The costs to be reimbursed, and for which a deposit must be made on the filing of an oppositien to a judgment rendered on a default, do not include any fee to the plaintiff's attorney, but include the prothonotary's fee and the law stamp for taxing such costs. S. C., 1887, Montreal, Côté vs Brock, 10 L. N., 383.

930b. Lorsque, malgré la production d'un plaidoyer dans un cause, l'action a été maintenue, sur le défaut du procureur du défendeur de comparaître lors de l'audition, et lorsque subséquemment une opposition à jugement est produite par le défendeur, et renvoyée avec dépens, le demandeur a droit à deux honoraires d'action contestée. C. C., 1898, Québec, Fournier vs Poitras, 1 R. P. Q., 114.

931. La motion pour renvoi d'une opposition à jugement comme frivole n'est pas une contestation, mais un moyen d'exception préliminaire, donnant droit, dans une action de troisième classe, à un honoraire de $6; en outre d'un honoraire de $6 pour comparution. C. S., 1912, Arthabaska, Courchesne vs Talbot, 13 R. P. Q., 197.

932. Paiement préalable.—On a motion to amend a declaration on payment of costs, the court (if it is allowed) will stay all proceedings, upon motion to that effect until the costs are paid. K. B., 1817, Quebec, Miville vs Caron, 3 R. de L., 392; 2 R. J. R. Q., 309.

933. Non-payment of costs in a former action is not the subject of an exception péremptoire. The party may move to stay proceedings, or to take out his execution or sue, by a new action in another court if necessary. K. B., 1817, Quebec, Robichaud vs Fraser, 3 R. de L., 392, 71; 14 R. L., 597; 2 R. J. R. Q., 309.—K. B., 1821, Quebec, Charlier vs McLeish, 3 R. de L., 70; 2 R. J. R. Q., 270.

934. Non-payment of costs in a former action cannot form the subject of an exception dilatoire. S. C., 1854, Montreal, Lynch vs Papin, 1 M. C. R., 33; 2 R. J. R. Q., 347.

935. Les frais sur une demande antérieure, mais non rapportée en cour, sont dus au demandeur, quoique son procureur ad litem en eût demandé la distraction par la déclaration précédente. C. S., 1857, Montréal, Rolland vs Larivière, 1 J., 82; 5 R. J. R. Q., 442.

936. Where motion was made to have all the proceedings in a case suspended until the costs in a former action, which was dismissed on demurrer, and wherein the plaintiff in the present cause was only one out of a number of plaintiffs, and wherein the causes of action were not identical were paid: The motion could not be granted, unless an identity of parties and causes could be shown. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Lalonde vs Lalonde, 1 J., 290; 6 R. J. R. Q., 92.

937. The proceedings in a second appeal will be suspended until the costs in a previous appeal are paid, and if such costs be not paid on a day certain, the second appeal will be dismissed with costs. Q. B., 1863, Montreal, Bouvier vs Dame Reeves, 12 J., 291; 13 L. C. R., 479; 11 R. J. R. Q., 469.

938. Une motion pour suspendre la procédure, parce que le demandeur a fait défaut de payer les frais d'une première action qu'il a retirée ne sera pas accordée. Une pareille objection, étant par le statut une fin de non recevoir, doit être présentée par un plaidoyer à l'action. C. C., 1864, Québec, Lambert vs Bergeron, 14 D. T. B. C., 413; 13 R. J. R. Q., 163.

939. Le paiement de dépens à un procureur ad litem, qui n'avait pas obtenu distraction de dépens, et qui n'avait aucune autorité spéciale pour les recevoir, est néanmoins valable. C. S., 1865, Québec, Young vs Baldwin, 16 D. T. B. C., 70; 14 R. J. R. Q., 458.

940. Where an action brought by a foreign plaintiff had been dismissed in consequence of security for costs not having been given within the delay fixed, and a second action was afterwards brought by the same plaintiff in the same cause: The proceeding in the latter action would be ordered to be suspended until the costs of the former were paid. S. C., 1867, Montreal, Dunlop et al. vs Jones, 11 J., 316; 4 L. C. L. J., 42; 17 R. J. R. Q., 194, 543.

941. Celui qui a été débouté d'une demande ou d'une procédure, ou qui s'en est désisté, peut la recommencer avant d'avoir payé les frais de la première, et sa seconde demande ou procédure ne sera pas déboutée pour cela, mais la partie adverse pourra, sur motion à cet effet, arrêter les procédés jusqu'à ce que le demandeur ait payé les frais de la première demande ou procédure, ou faire renvoyer la seconde demande ou procédure, si les frais de la première ne sont pas payés dans un délai fixé par la cour. C. S., 1869, Arthabaska, Gaudette vs Laliberté, 1 R. L., 747; 20 R. J. R. Q., 481, 507, 513, 514, 535.

942. Un défendeur qui a obtenu congé défaut d'une demande avec dépens, peut par une requête, dans une nouvelle poursuite pour les mêmes causes, demander à être dispensé de plaider, avant qu'il ne soit remboursé de ses frais sur la demande de congé défaut. C. C., 1871, Joliette, Moisan vs Bourgeois, 11 R. L., 120.

943. Sous l'article 453 du Code de procédure civile, une partie poursuivante qui a discontinué ses procédés, ne peut les recommencer sans payer les frais de la poursuite discontinuée.

944. Ce paiement doit se faire réellement, et non par la compensation. C. R., 1871, Québec, Sheppard vs Dawson et Dawson, 3 R. L., 454; 1 R. C., 480.

945. The non-payment of costs on an incidental proceeding in a suit cannot entitle the party to whom the costs are due to a stay of proceedings until the costs are paid. Q. B., 1875, Montreal, Cutting vs Jordan, 19 J., 139.

946. Si une opposition à la vente des meubles saisis en vertu d'un bref de fieri facias a été déboutée avec dépens, il ne sera pas permis à l'opposant de faire une nouvelle opposition, dans le but d'arrêter une deuxième fois la vente, sur venditioni exponas, à moins qu'il n'ait payé au préalable les frais encourus par la partie adverse sur la première opposition. Et cette seconde opposition sera déboutée avec dépens, sur motion, si les frais ne sont pas payés dans le délai fixé par la cour. C. S., 1878, Montréal, Dalton vs Doran et Doran, 8 R. L., 372; 22 J., 103; 1 L. N., 220.

947. La partie demanderesse qui poursuit de nouveau lorsque sa première action a été déboutée sur un plaidoyer préliminaire, et qui est arrêtée dans sa procédure par une motion du défendeur demandant à ce qu'elle soit tenue de payer des frais encourus sur la première action, avant de pouvoir procéder sur la deuxième, n'est pas tenue de notifier le défendeur qu'elle a payé les frais dont il demande le paiement par sa motion; et les frais de la motion du défendeur pour forcer le demandeur à suspendre sa procédure jusqu'à ce qu'il ait payé les frais dans l'action antérieure, doivent être aussi payés avant qu'il puisse continuer ses procédés sur la deuxième action et qu'il puisse continuer ses procédés et qu'il puisse forclore le défendeur. C. C., 1879, Berthier, Laferrière vs Provost, 10 R. L., 26.

948. L'obligation de payer les frais de la partie adverse est une condition préalable au renouvellement de la même procédure, et qui, si elle n'est pas accomplie, peut justifier le renvoi de cette dernière. C. R., 1879, Québec, Bell vs Rickaby, 5 R. J. Q., 222.

949. Costs due in respect to a former contestation, must be first paid before a petitioner for discharge in insolvency can proceed, where, the causes of both proceedings are identical, and the parties are also identical. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Gohier vs Perkins, 4 L. N., 299.

950. Le défendeur qui a été condamné à payer des dépens distraits aux procureurs du demandeur, n'a pas le droit de payer au demandeur lui-même.

951. Si le demandeur a reçu du défendeur les dépens que ce dernier était condamné à payer à ses procureurs, ce demandeur ne pourra, en son propre nom, contester l'opposition de l'opposant alléguant ce paiement, mais la contestation de l'opposition devra être faite par les procureurs distrayants. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Préseau vs Campeau, et al., 13 R. L., 586.

952. Lorsqu'une action a été déboutée sur des moyens de forme et qu'une nouvelle action est intentée, le défendeur ne peut par motion demander à ce que l'action soit suspendue jusqu'à ce que les frais de la première action soient payés. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Vallée, ès-qual., et al. vs Leroux, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 359; 9 L. N., 412; 14 R. L., 597.

953. Une partie dont la demande ou procédure a été rejetée par le tribunal, peut recommencer avant d'avoir préalablement payé les frais encourus par la partie adverse sur la demande au procédure rejetée. C. S., 1888, Québec, Leclerc vs Compagnie du gaz de Québec, et Voyer, 14 R. J. Q., 367; 12 L. N., 47.

954. Le non-paiement des frais incidents, même d'appel, dans une cause, ne peut pas suspendre la continuation de cette même cause, lorsque le tribunal qui a condamné aux frais n'a pas imposé le paiement comme condition préalable à la continuation. B. R., 1888, Montréal, Robinson vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., M. L. R., 4 B. R., 344; 12 L. N., 123.

955. L'article 278 du Code de procédure civile, qui dit que la partie qui s'est désistée ne peut recommencer avant d'avoir préalablement payé les frais de la partie adverse sur la demande ou procédure abandonnée, ne s'applique pas au cas où la première poursuite a été renvoyée. Dans l'espèce, la première poursuite était destinée au défendeur actuel et lui avait été signifiée, mais le demandeur s'était trompé sur son nom. C. S., 1899,

Montréal, Girard vs Brais, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 409.

956. Contra:—Les articles 450 et 453 du C. p. c. (ancien) qui déclarent que toute partie peut se désister de sa demande à la condition de payer les frais, et qu'elle ne peut recommencer avant d'avoir préalablement payé les frais encourus par la partie adverse sur la demande abandonnée, s'appliquent également et même avec plus de raison à une action renvoyée, sur le défaut du demandeur d'avoir fourni le cautionnement pour sûreté des frais, qu'à une action discontinuée.

957. Dans ce cas le défendeur a une exception dilatoire pour faire suspendre les procédés sur la deuxième action jusqu'à ce que les frais de la première soient payés. C. S., 1880, Montréal, Sauriol vs Lupien, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 495; 10 L. N., 87.—C. S., 1888, Montréal, Lusignan vs Rielle et Poitevin, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 467; 12 L. N., 206.—C. S., 1896, St-Hyacinthe, Plamondon vs Corporation du séminaire de St-Hyacinthe d'Yamaska, 2 R. J., 60.

958. L'article 453 du C. p. c. (ancien), en vertu duquel la partie qui s'est désistée d'une première action ne peut en instituer une deuxième contre le même défendeur et pour les mêmes motifs, sans avoir préalablement payé les frais encourus sur la première action, confère un privilège de droit strict que les tribunaux ne peuvent étendre aux autres cas non prévus, et entr'autres à celui où la première action a été renvoyée sur défaut de procéder. Si un demandeur règle les frais sur une première action en payant partie de ces frais comptant et la balance par un billet promissoire endossé à trois mois de date, le défendeur poursuivi de nouveau par le même demandeur, avant l'expiration de ces trois mois, ne sera pas recevable à opposer une exception dilatoire basée sur le dit article 453 C. p. c., à moins d'alléguer quelque motif suffisant pour faire déchoir le demandeur du bénéfice du terme accordé, et de plus sans offrir de remettre les garanties acceptées. C. S., 1890, Joliette, Landry vs Beauchamp, 13 L. N., 169.

959. Under article 453, C. c. p. (ancien), the nonpayment of the costs due upon the discontinuance of a previous action is a bar, if pleaded, to the renewal of a similar action between the same parties. Hence a peremptory exception alleging non-payment of costs (after discontinuance of the former action) previous to the institution of the second action, is not demurrable.

960. The defendant in such case may, if he prefer, stay the suit by dilatory exception, as provided by article 120, par. 2, C. c. p. Q. B., 1896, Montreal, Montreal Street Railway Co. vs Alley, Q. J. R., 5 Q. B., 179.

961. Le paiement préalable des frais ne peut être exigé que dans le cas de procédures qu'une partie recommence après s'en être désistée, non pas si ces procédures antérieures ont été rejetées par un jugement de la cour.

962. Dans l'espèce, une motion demandant le paiement préalable des frais d'une action entre les mêmes parties, relativement au même objet, et qui avait été renvoyée par la cour, alléguant insolvabilité de la partie demanderesse, sera renvoyée. C. S., 1897, Québec, Lefrançois vs Compagnie de Québec, Montmorency et Charlevoix, 1 R. P. Q., 175.

963. La demanderesse, poursuivant pour aliments in forma pauperis, avait été déboutée d'une première action, sur exception à la forme, sauf à se pourvoir. Sur une seconde, action, également intentée in forma pauperis et pour les mêmes causes que la première, le défendeur demanda qu'il ne fût pas tenu de plaider avant le paiement de ses frais sur la première action: Dans les circonstances et vu la nature de l'action, il n'y avait pas lieu d'accorder la demande du défendeur, car forcer la demanderesse de payer les frais sur la première action avant de pouvoir procéder sur la seconde, rendrait inutile l'autorisation qu'elle avait obtenue de plaider in forma pauperis. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Werton vs Vézina, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 172.

964. Le défendeur qui a présenté une motion pour péremption d'instance et qui l'a ensuite retirée avec dépens contre lui ne peut en présenter une dernière sans avoir préalablement payé les frais de la première. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Ward vs Chagnon, 5 R. L., n. s., 56.

965. La partie qui fait une demande en péremption, renvoyée comme prématurée, ne peut être obligée de payer les frais encourus sur telle motion, avant de faire une nouvelle motion de péremption. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Clifford vs Compagnie de Brasserie de Beauport, 4 R. P. Q., 295; 8 R. L., n. s., 172.

966. Dans le cas où une première opposition a été renvoyée sur des points techniques et que l'opposant fait une nouvelle opposition, il n'est pas nécessaire qu'il paie au préalable les frais de la première opposition.

967. Néanmoins il doit obtenir l'autorisation d'un juge avant de produire cette dernière opposition, et s'il ne l'obtient pas et que le demandeur fasse une motion pour faire rejeter l'opposition pour cette raison, la cour lui donnera la permission de la continuer en payant les frais de la motion. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Tufts vs Girouard et Fournier, 5 R. L., n. s., 37; 1 R. P. Q., 559.

968. Un défendeur qui a été forclos de plaider et a ensuite obtenu la permission de ce faire en payant, au préalable, les frais occasionnés par son défaut, ne peut produire de plaidoyer avant d'avoir payé ces frais. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Institut Catholique des Sourds-Muets vs Mathieu, 1 R. P. Q., 240.

969. Mais le demandeur ne peut, sur motion, faire rejeter le défendeur du dossier pour cette raison si, avant la motion, il avait répondu au plaidoyer sans aucune réserve. C. S., 1898, Montréal, McGreevy vs Lapalme, 4 R. L., n. s., 483.

970. L'obligation pour le demandeur de payer les frais adjugés contre lui sur un congé-défaut, avant de se pourvoir pour la même cause d'action, n'existe qu'en autant que le congé-défaut a été prononcé et les frais adjugés sur icelui avant la prise de la nouvelle action; mais si la nouvelle action a été intentée et signifiée avant qu'aucun congé-défaut n'ait été prononcé ni aucuns frais adjugés sur la première action, le défendeur ne peut demander le renvoi de la deuxième action parce qu'il avait subséquemment obtenu congé-défaut de la première action. C. C., 1898, Saguenay, Desbiens vs Girard, 1 R. P. Q., 355; 4 R. L., n. s., 416.

971. Une motion demandant la suspension de l'action jusqu'à ce que le demandeur ait payé les frais d'une action semblable à celle pendante, préalablement intentée par le demandeur et renvoyée sur défaut de procéder, est de la nature d'une exception dilatoire, et doit être faite dans les trois jours de l'entrée de la cause, avec un dépôt, et être accompagné d'un affidavit si les frais n'apparaissent pas au dossier. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Jolicœur vs Jolicœur, 6 R. L., n. s., 74.

972. Les frais qui sont accordés à la partie adverse dans le cas d'amendement d'une pièce de procédure doivent être payés préalablement, sinon l'amendement sera considéré comme irrégulier et renvoyé sur motion. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Paré vs Riendeau, 6 R. L., n. s., 83.

973. La partie qui a été condamnée à payer les dépens sur une procédure n'est obligée au paiement préalable que si la nouvelle procédure est identique à la première et si elle s'est désistée de la première procédure. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Christin vs Christin, 3 R. P. Q., 203.

974. Un demandeur ne peut se prévaloir de la permission que le tribunal lui a accordée de remplacer un cautionnement par un dépôt, sans remplir l'obligation adjointe à cette permission, savoir, celui de payer les frais adjugés contre lui par tel jugement. C. S., 1902, Joliette, Grenier vs Renaud et al., 15 R. J., 471.

975. Une partie qui s'est désistée d'une action contre un défendeur unique, n'est pas tenue de payer les frais de cette action avant d'en prendre une seconde basée sur la même réclamation, contre une société commerciale dont le défendeur originaire fait partie. C. S., 1903, Montréal, St-Laurent vs Doran et al., 5 R. P. Q., 449.

976. Le paiement des frais d'une première action lorsqu'une seconde semblable est intentée, ne doit être fait que lorsqu'il y a eu désistement de la première et un jugement final. B. R., 1905, Québec, Taché et al. vs La Ville de Roberval, B. C. J., 11.

977. Si une deuxième saisie-arrêt après jugement a été prise et signifiée avant qu'aucun congé-défaut n'ait été prononcé, ni aucuns frais adjugés sur la première saisie-arrêt, le défendeur ne peut demander le renvoi de cette deuxième saisie parce que les frais de la première ne lui ont pas été payés. C. S., 1906, Richelieu, Coulombe et al. vs Lavallée et Cardin et al., 8 R. P. Q., 214.

978. Le paiement des frais d'une première action rejetée avec dépens n'est pas exigible comme condition préalable à l'institution d'une deuxième action. C. R., 1907, Québec, Les Commissaires d'école de la paroisse de St-Boniface de Shawinigan vs The Shawinigan Water and Power Co., R. J. Q., 31 C.S., 81.

979. Lorsque les frais d'une première action qui a été discontinuée ont été offerts aux avocats du défendeur, et déposés en cour, sur le refus de ces derniers de les accepter, le défendeur ne peut objecter à l'institution d'une seconde action, en alléguant que les frais de la première n'ont pas été payés. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Agnew et uxor vs Dame Gober et vir., 8 R. P. Q., 217.

980. Lorsqu'un jugement ex-parte est infirmé en cour de Révision avec la simple mention que le demandeur est condamné aux frais de révision, ce dernier peut procéder de nouveau en cour de première instance sans au préalable payer les frais auxquels il est condamné. C. S., 1911, Richelieu, Tremblay vs Dépatie, 12 R. P. Q., 356.

981. Une partie dont la demande ou procédure a été rejetée par le tribunal peut recommencer avant d'avoir préalablement payé les frais encourus par la partie adverse sur la demande ou procédure rejetée. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Mercure vs Bassinet et al., 13 R. P. Q., 379.

982. Partage.—Lorsque dans une action en partage les immeubles sont partagés en nature au lieu d'être vendus sur licitation, les frais, qui sont à la charge de chaque copartageant, en proportion de sa part, sont privilégiés sur les biens partagés dans la même proportion.

983. Ces frais peuvent être recouvrés par la saisie et vente de ces biens en justice, nonobstant toute substitution ou clause d'insaisissabilité les affectant, absolument de la même manière que s'il y avait eu vente en licitation.

984. Le fait que le défendeur, grevé de substitution, aurait été seul condamné aux frais, n'est pas un obstacle à la saisie et vente de ces biens, pour ces frais, lorsque le curateur à la substitution était en cause sur l'action en partage. C. S., 1899, Kamouraska, Sirois vs Michaud et Rioux, 5 R. J., 351; 2 D. T. B. C., 177.

985. Si, dans une action en partage et licitation, les défendeurs (au nombre de sept), font une seule et même défense, laquelle est renvoyée, le demandeur n'aura droit qu'à un seul mémoire de frais.

986. Mais ce mémoire de frais sera exécutoire contre chaque défendeur pour un septième. C. S., 1899, Terrebonne, Boisseau vs Williams et al., 2 R. P. Q., 134.

987. Partie ès-qualité.—Lorsque des procédures sont faites par une partie dans la cause, en sa qualité d'héritier sous bénéfice d'inventaire, et que cette partie est condamnée aux dépens, cette condamnation doit s'entendre, contre elle, dans la qualité qu'elle a dans la poursuite.

988. Elle n'est pas censée condamnée personnellement aux dépens.

989. A moins d'une disposition formelle du jugement pour des raisons spéciales, comme pénalité ou autres. B. R., 1885, Québec, Ogden vs Dawson, 13 R. L., 448; 11 R. J. Q., 159; 8 L. N., 253.

990. Péremption d'instance.—In cases where peremption is granted, no costs will be awarded. S. C., 1860, Quebec, Turner vs Lomas, 10 L. C. R., 382; 8 R. J. R. Q., 429.

991. Dans le cas de péremption d'instance l'action doit être déboutée, chaque partie payant ses frais. C. S., 1856, Québec, Fournier vs Quebec Fire Insurance Co., 6 D. D. T. B. C., 97; 5 R. J. R. Q., 28; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 359; 15 R. L., 7.

992. La péremption d'instance doit toujours être accordée avec dépens, excepté lorsque, sous des circonstances spéciales, la cour croit devoir exercer sa discrétion en refusant ces frais. C. S., 1857, Montréal, Mongeon et uxor vs Turenne dit Blanchard, 1 J., 264; 6 R. J. R. Q., 55; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 359.—B. R., 1858, Montréal, Gore vs Guay, 1 J., 264; 8 D.T.B.C., 454; 6 R. J.R.Q., 57.—C. S., 1877, Montréal, Sinclair vs McLean et al., 22 J., 107.—C. S.,1877 , Trois-Rivières, Germain vs Lacoursière, 3 R. J. Q., 271; 1 L. N., 180.—C. S., 1886, Montréal, Cuvillier et al. vs La Compagnie de chemin de fer du Grand Tronc du Canada, 15 R. L., 7.—C. S., 1892, Québec, Radford vs Poitras, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 359.—C. R., 1895, Montréal, Goldberg vs Cortelli, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 323.

993. Les frais sur le maintien de la péremption d'instance sont à la discrétion de la cour. C. S., 1861, Montréal, DeBleury vs Gauthier et Paris, 5 J., 330; 11 D. T. B. C., 494; 10 R. J. R. Q., 108; 523; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 359.

994. Dans le cas où l'action est renvoyée sur motion pour péremption d'instance, et ce après la production au dossier d'un plaidoyer au mérite, c'est l'article 8 du tarif des honoraires des avocats en cour de Circuit qu'il faut appliquer pour la taxation du mémoire de frais, et non l'article 9 du même tarif. C. S., 1903, Chicoutimi, Moody et al. vs Lachance, 6 R. P. Q. 99.

995. Lorsqu'une instance est périmée, après la production d'une exception préliminaire et que le demandeur a payé les frais de cette exception qui a été renvoyée avec dépens contre le demandeur, le défendeur n'aura droit qu'à l'honoraire de comparution; il n'aura pas non plus droit à l'honoraire pour vacation à la taxation. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Atkinson vs Cadieux, 10 R. P. Q., 100.

996. Pétition de droit.—In dealing with the question of costs upon a petition of right, the same rule will be applied as if the question was one between subject and subject; therefore, where on a petition of right, the Crown, instead of demurring, went to a hearing, the court, in dismissing the petition, allowed to the Crown such costs only as would have been taxed had the liability of the Crown been raised by demurrer. Ch., 1881, Ontario, Muskoka Mill Co. vs The Queen, 28 Gr. 563.

997. Plaidoyer puis darein continuance.—Il ne doit être accordé aucun honoraire spécial pour la production d'une plaidoyer puis darein continuance. C. S., 1908, St-Jean, Roy vs Lord, 9 R. P. Q., 314.

998. Praticien.—Les frais d'un praticien nommé par le tribunal pour liquider les biens-meubles des parties dans une action en séparation de biens ne sont pas privilégiés à l'encontre des créanciers hypothécaires.

999. Le protonotaire, en préparant un rapport de distribution, peut ne tenir aucun compte d'une opposition, lors même qu'elle ne serait pas contestée.

1000. Le protonotaire n'aurait pas été tenu de considérer les frais du praticien comme privilégiés, même s'ils avaient été inclus dans le mémoire des frais d'action de la demanderesse. C. S., 1900, Montmagny, Tremblay vs Lemieux et Lemieux et Pion, 10 R. J., 412.

1001. La taxation du compte du praticien par le tribunal, contradictoirement et après objections des parties en cause, n'a que l'effet de déterminer le montant du compte et non pas d'en rendre les parties responsables. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Germano vs Mussen et al., R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 525; 6 R. P. Q., 472; 10 R. L., n. s., 468; 11 R. L., n. s., 541.

1002. Procès par jury.—Sur le verdict d'un jury rendu dans une action en dommages, pour une somme au-dessous de 40s. sterling, la condamnation aux dépens prononcée par la cour sans restriction ni limitation doit être interprétée comme ne comprenant quant à ces dépens, qu'une somme équivalente à celle accordée par le jury pour le montant des dommages réclamés. B. R., 1857, Montréal, Leduc vs Busseau, 1 J., 191; 6 R. J. R. Q., 23; 13 R. J. R. Q., 386.

1003. Un jugement qui met au néant le verdict ou rapport d'un jury et condamne l'intimé à payer les frais en cour inférieure, comprend tous les frais du procès par jury, et non pas seulement les frais sur la motion pour mettre le verdict au néant. B. R., 1859, Montréal, Ouimet et al. vs Papin, 9 D. T. B. C., 268; 7 R. J. R. Q., 231; 13 R. J. R. Q., 386.

1004. Lorsque le défaut de juridiction du jury est soulevée pour la première fois en réponse à une motion pour fixer les frais, cette motion sera renvoyée sans frais. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Montreal Coal and Towing Co. vs British Empire Mutual Assurance Co., 5 R. P. Q., 283.

1005. At a second trial by jury made necessary by reason of the disagreement of the first jury, no additional fee will be accorded to plaintiff's attorney for the statement of facts required under article 425 C. p. c.

1006. The case having been settled and withdrawn from the jury immediately after the re-assembling of the court for the afternoon session, the sum of $10 for one day's session taxed in favor of the interpreter from French into English is reduced to $5. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Mills vs The Royal Institute for the Advancement of Learning, 9 Q. P. R., 368.

1007. If a jury's verdict awards a plaintiff a sum inferior to $400 (in this case, $140), and judgment is rendered according to verdict, with costs, such costs include the costs of the jury, the translation of evidence, and the fees and disbursements, as in an action for the amount awarded, on the various motions and proceedings peculiar to jury trials. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Clough vs Fabre et vir., 9 Q. P. R., 276; 15 R. J., 480.

1008. Prohibition.—No costs will be granted to the petitioner for writ of prohibition who succeeds in having the proceedings against him in a Recorder's court quashed because there was an adjournment of the case of more than eight days, if said plaintiff was not himself ready at the time fixed for the trial. S. C., 1910, Quebec, Donohue vs La Cour du Recorder et al., 12 Q. P. R., 267.

1009. Protêt.—Celui qui est obligé de faire signifier à son adversaire un protêt notarié a le droit, si le protêt est utile, de lui en faire payer le coût. C. R., 1909, Montréal, Lespérance vs Dame Ledoux et vir, 15 R. L., n. s., 438.—B. R., 1865, Montréal, Lecours vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Laurent, 10 J., 84;, 1 L. C. L. J., 106; 15 R. J. R. Q., 424.—C. S., 1885, Montréal, Poitevin vs Etienne et al., 8 L. M., 157.—C. C., 1889, Montréal, Lalumière vs Roy, 13 L. N., 322.

1010. Protonotaire. — Le protonotaire n'a pas le droit d'exiger le paiement de ses honoraires avant de rendre les services pour

lesquels ces honoraires sont dus. C. S., 1861, Québec, Plamondon et al. vs Sauvageau, 12 D. T. B. C., 333; 11 R. J. R. Q., 95.

1011. Le protonotaire n'a pas droit à l'honoraire de $2 pour collocations sur rapports de distribution, si telles collocations ont été mises de côté sur contestation, et un autre rapport préparé. C. S., 1862, Québec, Ex parte Dawson, 12 D. T. B. C., 414; 10 R. J. R. Q., 110, 529.

1012. Le protonotaire n'a pas droit de demander aucun honoraire sur la contestation certificat d'un registrateur produit suivant la loi.

1013. Le protonotaire ayant demandé et reçu tel honoraire, la partie qui en a fait paiement a droit de s'en faire repayer, et la cour sur motion ordonnera au protonotaire de remettre le montant ainsi reçu. C. S., 1862, Québec, Ninteau vs Tremain, et Hunt, 12 D. T. B. C., 209; 10 R. J. R. Q., 472, 526.—C. S., 1862, Québec, Langlois vs Walton, 12 D. T. B. C., 236; 10 R. J. R. Q., 492.

1014. Provision de frais.—La femme qui poursuit en séparation de corps ou en nullité de mariage a droit d'obtenir de son mari une provision d'argent pour les frais du procès, si ce dernier a les moyens de la fournir, et cette provision doit être proportionnée aux besoins de la femme et aux facultés du mari. C. S., 1887, Montréal, Desoliers vs Lynch, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 275.—C. S., 1888, Montréal, Tombyll vs O'Neil, 16 R. L., 415; M. L. R., 5 C. S., 101.

1015. Aucune provision de frais ne sera accordée à la femme dans une action en nullité de mariage. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Dumouchel vs Giguère, 9 R. P. Q., 163; 14 R. J., 99.

1016. Question nouvelle en appel.—Lorsque des irrégularités ont eu lieu dans la procédure devant le tribunal de première instance, la partie est tenue de s'en prévaloir lors de l'audition finale de la cause devant ce tribunal. Une partie négligeant de se prévaloir de telles objections, qui lui étaient connues, devant le tribunal inférieur, les soumettant directement à la considération de la cour d'Appel, ne recouvrera pas ses frais d'appel même si elle réussit. B. R., 1864, Québec, Daigle vs Kimball, 15 D. T. B. C., 138; 13 R. J. R. Q., 507.

1017. Question soumise sur factum. The fee to be allowed attorneys upon questions of law submitted to the court under article 509 C. p. is in the discretion of the court. S. C., 1902, Sweetsburg, Paré vs The Corporation of the county of Shefford, Q. J. R., 24 S. C., 50; 10 R. L., n. s., 22, 29.

1018. Quittance.—Un défendeur dans une cause en poursuite qui acquitte sa dette avec l'autre partie, et obtient quittance sans mention spéciale dans la dite quittance d'une décharge quant aux frais, est tenu de les payer à l'avocat distrayant B. R., 1887, Montréal, Langlois vs Maynard, 34 J., 280.

1019. Radiation d'hypothèque.—Une action en radiation de l'hypothèque résultant d'une rente viagère sera maintenue, mais sans frais, la loi offrant un moyen d'obtenir cette radiation sans action. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Lafontaine fils vs Lafontaine père, ès-qual., 4 R. P. Q., 170.

1020. Radiation d'inscription en révision.—When an inscription in review is dismissed upon motion, the fee will be that of an action settled before hearing, and not that of a motion only. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Kenault vs Gagnon and City of Montreal, 3 Q. P. R., 259.

1021. Rapport à justice.—Where a defendant merely appears and does not plead, but does not put himself in the position of a party qui s'en rapporte à justice, he is liable to costs as in an ex parte proceeding. C. C., 1892, Bedford, Bissonnette et vir vs Mayor and Council of the town of Farnham and Donahue, ès-qual., Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 108.

1022. Rapport d'action. — L'honoraire établi par le deuxième article du tarif des honoraires des avocats, n'est dû, le jour même du rapport de l'action, qu'après que l'action est rapportée. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Pacaud vs Henderson, 8 R. J., 113.

1023. Réclamation de douanes.—Where, in the case of a customs claim referred to the court under the provisions of section 179 of the Customs Act, (R. S., 1906, ch. 48), the judgment was mainly based on evidence which, though it was in their possession at the time, the claimants had neglected to produce to the minister of customs when the claim came before him, the claimants were not allowed the costs of the reference. Ex. C., 1908, The Red Wing Sewer Pipe Co. vs The King, 12 Ex. C. R., 230.

1024. Reddition de compte.—Le tuteur rendant compte n'est point tenu aux frais de la demande en reddition du compte s'il ne l'a pas contestée. Cette question n'est pas laissée à la discrétion de la cour comme sont la plupart de celles qui ont rapport aux dépens. C. R., 1866, Montréal, Loiselle et al. vs Loiselle, 10 J., 258; 16 R. J. R. Q., 46.

1025. Si dans une action intentée en vertu de la loi des droits d'auteur, le défendeur est condamné à rendre compte, ou, à défaut de ce faire, à payer la somme de $100, le demandeur a droit aux honoraires d'une action de deuxième classe. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Beaulac Limitée vs Simard et al., 12 R. P. Q., 363.

1026. Lorsque le défendeur ès-qualité nie au demandeur le droit de réclamer une reddition de compte et demande le renvoi de l'action, il sera personnellement condamné aux dépens si le jugement déclare qu'il devra faire telle reddition de compte. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Hathorn vs O'Borne et Dion, 13 R. P. Q., 200.

1027. Règlement entre les parties.— Quand le procureur a demandé par l'action la distraction de dépens, les parties ne peuvent pas régler entre elles, quant aux frais, et vice versa. B. R., 1842, Québec, Stigny vs Stigny, 2 R. de L., 120; 2 R. J. R. Q., 178; 10 R. J. R. Q., 380, 532, 17 R. L., 600.

1028. Si une action est réglée pour le principal, à la condition que le défendeur paiera les frais, telle action peut être rapportée en cour et continuée pour les frais seulement, si tels frais ne sont pas payés. C. S., 1851, Québec, Darche vs Dubuc et Dubuc, 1 D. T. B. C., 238; 2 R. J. R. Q., 470; 11 R. J. R. Q., 265, 359.

1029. Si les parties demanderesse et défenderesse règlent un procès entre elles, de manière à priver par fraude le procureur de la partie demanderesse de ses frais, l'action sera déboutée en par la partie défenderesse payant les frais. C. S., 1856, Québec, Richards vs Ritchie et al., 6 D. T. B. C., 98; 5 R. J. R. Q., 29; 20 R. J. R. Q., 263, 576.

1030. Dans le cas d'un compromis entre le demandeur et le défendeur, le défendeur se chargeant de payer les frais de l'action avant l'entrée, le demandeur ne peut faire rapport de son action pour les dépens. B. R., 1861, Montréal, Hébert dit Lecompte vs Fabrique de St-Jean, 13 D. T. B. C., 66, 451; 11 R. J. R. Q., 264; 20 R. J. R. Q., 263, 576.

1031. Les frais dont distraction a été demandée, dans les conclusions de la déclaration par le procureur ad litem du demandeur, lui seront adjugés, par jugement de la cour, nonobstant que les parties se soient arrangées après le rapport de l'action par acte notarié et hors la connaissance du procureur du demandeur. B. R., 1863, Montréal, Charlebois vs Coulombe, 7 J., 300; 12 R. J. R. Q.,198; 20 R. J. R. Q., 181, 577.

1032. A shipper had taken out a writ of attachment in revendication against the master of a vessel in consequence of his refusal to sign bills of lading for the goods shipped, and the defendant thereupon signed and delivered the bills of lading but refused to pay costs: The plaintiff had a right to return the action and proceed to judgment for his costs. Q. B., 1863, Quebec, McCulloch et al. vs Hatfield, 7 J., 229; 13 L. C. R., 321; 11 R. J. R. Q., 351; 20 R. J. R. Q., 263, 565.

1033. When plaintiff's attorney has, by the conclusions of his declaration, demanded distraction of costs, and plaintiff's demand is substantially proved, a settlement between the parties, without the attorney's consent, by which a sum of money is paid by defendant to plaintiff, and the latter abandons his action, does not deprive plaintiff's attorney of his right to obtain judgment for costs against the defendant. S. C., 1864, Bedford, Laplante vs Laplante, 3 L. N., 330.

1034. Lorsque les parties ont réglé leur cause hors de cour, le demandeur étant insolvable, l'avocat de celui-ci qui avait demandé distraction de frais, peut demander jugement pour ses frais, vu qu'il y a alors présomption de mauvaise foi. C. C., 1871, Québec, Picard vs Gosselin, 3 R. 4 L.,47; 2 R. C., 112.

1035. Les arrangements faits entre les parties avant le retour d'une action, au sujet du montant de la dette, sans qu'il soit question des frais, lorsque ces arrangements ont pour but de laisser le défendeur sous l'impression que l'affaire est réglée, ôtent au demandeur son recours pour les frais contre le défendeur.

1036. L'avocat même qui a demandé dans une telle action distraction de frais, ne peut obtenir ses conclusions pour ses frais contre le défendeur, il n'a de recours que contre son propre client. C. C., 1872, Montréal, Watkins et al. vs Denman, 4 R. L., 383, 567.—C. R., 1880, Québec, Carrier vs Coté, 6 R. J. Q., 297; 4 L. N., 110.

1037. The plaintiff, after issue, joined agreed to discontinue his action on payment of $300, each party to pay his own costs. The defendants with the permission of the court, then pleaded the arrangement concluding for the dismissal of the action without costs: The plaintiff was not entitled to answer this plea by alleging that the settlement was fraudulent, and made with the view of depriving the attorneys of plaintiff of their costs. S. C., 1882, Montreal, Gosselin vs Gosselin and Mongeau, 5 L. N., 378.

1038. It is not competent to the attorney of record in the court below of the respondent who has been awarded distraction of costs there, to petition to be allowed to intervene for the purpose of compelling the appellant to discontinue his appeal, in consequence of an agreement so to do extended between appellant and respondent. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, McCord vs McCord, 29 J., 77.

1039. Lorsqu'après la production d'une exception préliminaire, le demandeur a signé un reçu reconnaissant avoir reçu le montant de l'action et en donne une quittance complète, sans aucune réserve quant aux frais, l'exception préliminaire sera renvoyée sans frais. Si subséquemment, le défendeur est forcé de produire une défense au mérite, le demandeur sera condamné aux frais. C. C., 1887, Montréal, Fraser vs Nicholson, 10 L. N., 59.

1040. Les parties dans une cause peuvent, avant jugement, régler la cause sans le consentement de leurs avocats; et les avocats ne peuvent continuer la procédure pour leurs frais seulement. Le mandant peut toujours agir seul sans le concours de son mandataire, sauf à indemniser ce dernier s'il y a lieu. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Beaudry vs Lusher, 4 R. L., n. s., 134; R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 294; 1 R. P. Q., 140.

1041. Un arrangement entre le demandeur et le défendeur, par lequel le demandeur s'engage, après jugement, à accepter le paiement de la dette par versements, et se charge de payer les frais de son avocat, ne lie pas ce dernier, et s'il prend une saisie-arrêt après jugement pour ses frais, le défendeur ne sera pas reçu à appeler le demandeur en garantie sur la saisie-arrêt. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Marchand vs Dansereau et Cité de Montréal, 1 R. P. Q., 523.

1042. Le règlement des causes par les parties, avant jugement, même sans consentement des avocats, est valable; et les avocats ne peuvent continuer les procédures pour leurs frais seulement. C. S., 1898, Arthabaska, Garon vs Noël, 4 R. J., 232; 1 R. P. Q., 229.

1043. The parties to a suit have a right to settle the same as they see fit, without the presence or assistance of their attorneys, provided such settlement be not made in fraud of their attorney's rights.

1044. Where an action was settled by the parties themselves without fraudulent intent, and in the settlement no mention was made of costs, a general inscription by the defendant on the whole of the issue as joined was held to be irregular, but the court reserved the right of the defendant's attorney to proceed for his costs, and also the plaintiff's right to file a discontinuance of the action upon such terms as he might be advised. S. C., 1899, Montréal, Delaney et vir. vs Lionais, Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 288.

1045. As a general rule, a settlement of the suit by the parties thereto is valid, unless it be made in fraud of the rights of the plaintiff's attorney, in which case it will be carried out subject to the obligation to pay the plaintiff's attorney his costs.

1046. The mere fact that the settlement was made by the defendant without paying the plaintiff's attorney his costs, although aware that the plaintiff was unable to pay them, does not constitute fraud, more particularly where it appears that the plaintiff's action was unfounded, and that the defendant was induced by her knowledge of the plaintiff's inability to pay costs, and her reluctance to continue the contestation under such circumstances to make a settlement by which the plaintiff profited to some extent. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Lareau vs Marineau, ès-qual., Q. J. R., 21 S. C., 469; 9 R. J., 247.

1047. The attorney for a plaintiff is by the institution of suit placed in the position of incidental plaintiff against defendant for the recovery of his costs, and he has a direct action therefor subject, however, to the same fate as the main action of his client either in the court of instance or in appeal.

1048. A settlement or transaction between the parties entered into without the knowledge and consent of their attorneys cannot affect the rights which the attorneys for plaintiff have for their costs and they will be entitled to have judgment entered for such costs against the defendant notwithstanding such settlement.

1049. Where a defendant to buy his peace pays to plaintiff a certain sum after suit brought, he will also be condemned to pay costs of an action of the amount paid, as such payment is equivalent for this purpose to a confession of judgment; and this, even if on the merits of the case defendant would have obtained the dismissal of the action. A defendant who settles a case directly with the plaintiff prevents the fulfilment of the conditional right of plaintiff's attorney as incidental plaintif to payment of his costs and the fulfilment of such condition being so prevented by the debtor the condition becomes absolute. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Scale vs Bowers and Drouin et al., 1 D. L. R., 632; 21 Q. L. R., 492.

1050. When an advocate has been appointed by a partner to settle the estate of the partnership jointly with another advocate, acting for the other partner, if it appears that he acted not only as an arbitrator, but also in his professionnal quality of advocate, he is entitled to claim from his client the value of services due in his quality of advocate and arbitrator. S. C., 1912, Montreal, Jacobs vs Wener, 19 Q. P. R., 188.

1051. Rejet d'opposition.—L'honoraire de l'avocat du saisissant qui fait renvoyer une opposition sur motion, est l'honoraire d'une opposition renvoyée sur exception préliminaire. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Smith vs Lapointe et Bell Organ and Piano Co., 6 R. P. Q., 216.

1052. Les honoraires d'avocat, sur motion pour rejet d'une opposition afin d'annuler, comme étant frivole et irrégulière, doivent être taxés comme sur un plaidoyer à la forme, et non comme sur une simple motion faite au cours d'une instance. C. S., 1904, St-François, McManamy vs Pelletier et Bélanger, 10 R. J., 158.

1053. Les honoraires d'avocat sur motion pour le rejet d'une opposition, comme étant frivole et irrégulière, doivent être taxés, non comme sur une exception à la forme, mais comme sur une motion ordinaire. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Giguère vs Payette et Proulx, 10 R. J., 166.

1054. Rente constituée.—Le détenteur d'un immeuble grevé d'une rente constituée représentant des droits seigneuriaux est responsable des frais dus sur une action intentée contre le débiteur principal de la rente pour le recouvrement des arrérages.

1055. Le détenteur ne peut cependant être poursuivi pour ces frais par action personnelle; l'action hypothécaire seule peut être intentée contre lui pour ces frais. C. C., 1906, Québec, L'Hôpital Général vs Dufresne et al., 13 R. J., 395.

1056. Renvoi à tribunal compétent.—Lorsqu'une cause intentée à la cour de Circuit est renvoyée par le tribunal, d'office, à la cour Supérieure, en vertu de l'article 171 C. p., les honoraires de l'avocat suivent le montant en issue dans l'action et il n'y a pas lieu d'appliquer l'item 108 du tarif, vu que ce n'est pas une évocation. C. S., 1901, Arthabaskaville, Duval vs Moffatt, 3 R. P. Q., 405.

1057. If a record is transmitted to another court, the defendant's fee will be as on a dilatory exception maintained (art. 25), plus a fee for the transferrence of the record. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Connolly vs Dame McCarron and Aetna Life Insurance Co. et al., 8 Q. P. R., 192.

1058. Lorsqu'une action intentée devant un tribunal incompétent ratione materiæ est renvoyée d'office devant le tribunal compétent, le dépôt du montant réclamé fait par le défendeur avant que le renvoi n'ait eu lieu ne le soustrait pas à l'obligation de payer les frais. C. S., 1906, Québec, L'Hôpital Général vs Dufresne et vir., R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 530.

1059. Reprise d'instance.—Les honoraires de l'avocat requérant, sur requête en reprise d'instance renvoyée sur une fin de non recevoir autre qu'un plaidoyer au mérite, sont réglés par l'article 36 du tarif; en ce cas, l'article 7 du tarif accorde $20 d'honoraire à l'avocat du requérant.

1060. L'article 10 du tarif ne s'applique qu'aux causes dans lesquelles un plaidoyer au mérite a été produit.

1061. L'article 35 du dit tarif ne s'applique qu'au cas où la reprise d'instance n'est pas contestée. C. S., 1889, Joliette, Guilbault vs Desmarais et Desserres, 18 R. L., 516.

1962. La requête du demandeur alléguant le changement d'état des défendeurs et demandant qu'il soit ordonné au défendeur en reprise d'instance de reprendre l'instance dans un délai fixé, est une véritable action intentée sous la forme d'une requête. Ce renvoi sur une inscription en droit, d'une requête du demandeur donne aux avocats des défendeurs par reprise d'instance droit à un honoraire comme "si l'action est réglée après la production d'un plaidoyer au mérite, mais avant l'inscription à l'enquête quand une enquête est nécessaire, ou avant l'inscription pour audition finale quand une enquête n'est pas nécessaire."

1063. L'honoraire du protonotaire sur une défense en droit à une semblable requête est de $6 pour une action de 3e classe. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Riddell, ès-qual., vs Commissaires d'écoles de la ville de la Cote St-Louis et Commissaires d'écoles Catholiques Romaines de la Cité de Montréal, 5 R. L., n. s., 38; 2 R. P. Q., 57.

1064. Les frais faits par un curateur pour reprendre l'instance au nom d'un failli, sont payables par la partie perdante, et non par la faillite, sauf au cas de défaut de la partie perdante de les payer. C. S., 1902, Trois-Rivières, Auger et al. vs Montambault et al., et Perusse et al. et Gélinas, 5 R. P. Q., 21.

1065. Les frais du jugement condamnant une partie à reprendre l'instance seront réservés pour être adjugés au mérite de la cause. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Lecompte ès-qual. vs Lanctôt, 9 R. P. Q., 164.

1066. When continuance of suit is not objected by the party bound to continue the same, the interested and remaining party in the cause, may take an action to compel such party to continue the suit, and is entitled to the costs of such suit. S. C., 1908, Bedford, MacGowan vs Stone, 14 R. J., 376.

1067. Requête.—Dans le cas où le demandeur, pouvant procéder par action ou par requête, choisit de le faire par requête avec procédure sommaire, l'honoraire de son avocat ne peut être que celui accordé pour une requête. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Dame Dauphinais vs Bousquet, ès-qual., 6 R. L., n. s., 77.

1068. Requête civile.—Lorsqu'une partie est mise en cause, dans une requête civile, et qu'elle n'a aucun intérêt à contester cette requête civile, et qu'elle n'est mise en cause que parce qu'elle était partie dans la cause originaire, et que, cependant, elle conteste la requête civile, elle n'obtiendra pas de dépens sur sa contestation, même si elle est maintenue. B. R., 1885, Québec, Brunelle et al. vs Bergeron et Macdougall et Masson, 14 R. L., 501.

1069. Les honoraires de l'avocat sur une requête civile pour faire mettre de côté un jugement accordant une injonction interlocutoire, avant l'émission du bref doivent être ceux d'une requête en révocation de jugement. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Ozone Company of Toronto, Ltd. vs Massicotte, 5 R. P. Q., 176.

1070. Résolution de contrat.—A seller who, by an opposition afin de distraire, asks the dissolution of a sale for non-payment of the price, is entitled to have also the cost of the action instituted for the same object against the purchaser. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Demers vs St-Amour et al., 1 L. C. L. J., 59; 18 R. J. R. Q., 118, 588.

1071. La sentence qui prononce la résolution d'une vente pour défaut du paiement du prix, en vertu d'un pacte commissoire à cet effet, doit mettre à la charge de l'acheteur, défendeur, les frais de poursuite lors même qu'elle lui reconnaît le droit à des impenses au montant de la balance qu'il doit. C. R., 1889, Québec, Plourde vs Brisson, 16 R. J. Q., 229; 13 L. N., 415; 1 R. J., 95.

1072. Une action est de la première classe lorsqu'elle demande la résiliation d'un contrat dont la considération est d'au-delà de $2,000 par année ; le fait que par des conclusions accessoires, le demandeur aurait réclamé des dommages, qui auraient été fixés par le jugement à la somme de $300, ne change pas la classe de telle action. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Lucenti vs The Montreal Brewing Co., 11 R. P. Q., 300.

1073. Restitution.—Un avocat n'est pas tenu de restituer les frais qu'il a reçus au moyen de la distraction qui lui en a été accordée, lors même que l'arrêt en vertu duquel il les aurait reçus serait ensuite rétracté par la cour d'Appel. C. S., 1876, Québec, Hallon vs Andrews et al., 3 R. J. Q., 19; 1 L. N., 174.

1074. Rétention de titres.—Les avocats ne peuvent retenir pour sûreté du paiement de leurs honoraires dans les causes où ils ont été constitués, les pièces et titres que leurs clients leur ont confiés pour faire valoir leurs droits. C. S., 1897, Chicoutimi, Letartre vs Langlais, 3 R. J., 398.

1075. Retraxit.—Le fait que le demandeur qui avait poursuivi la défenderesse en recouvrement de $1,165.28, savoir $776.85, valeur d'effets qui avaient été remis à la défenderesse pour être expédiés, mais n'avaient pas été livrés, et $388.46, dommages causés par le défaut de livraison, a produit un retraxit au cours de l'instance pour $388.73, parce que les effets lui avaient été remis depuis l'action, ne lui enlève pas le droit de faire taxer ses dépens comme dans une action de première classe. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Rotchild vs The Canadian Pacific Railway Co., R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 318; 8 R. J., 159, 267; 8 R. L., n. s., 341; 5 R. P. Q., 39.

1076. Révision.—The court of Review cannot afford relief against a condemnation for costs in the court below.

1077. Although the judgment of the court below be in all respects confirmed, the court of review may nevertheless refuse costs to the party succeeding. C. R., 1868, Montreal, MacDonald et al. vs Molleur, 13 J., 189; 19 R. J. R. Q., 255, 519, 547; 22 R. J. R. Q., 467.

1078. Lorsqu'une partie inscrit en révision un jugement non susceptible de révision, la cour n'ayant aucune juridiction, mettra les parties hors de cour, et condamnera aux dépens la partie qui a inscrit. C. R., 1868, Montréal, Beckett vs Bonnallie, 14 J., 54; 19 R. J. R. Q., 505, 548.

1079. A defendant who succeeds in review in obtaining a reversal in considerable part of the judgment complained of may, nevertheless, be condemned to pay the costs in review. C. R., 1869, Montreal, Lynch vs Bertrand, 13 J., 189; 19 R. J. R. Q., 254, 548.

1080. La partie qui inscrit en cour de Révision, et qui obtient une modification de jugement quant aux frais seulement, n'aura pas les frais de révision, mais en ce cas chaque partie paiera ses frais. C. R., 1873, Montréal, Intercolonial Coal Co. vs Shaw, 4 R. L., 539.

1081. A judgment maintaining the taxation of an assignee's bill by a judge in chambers will not be interfered with by the court of Review, excepton very special grounds. C. R., 1878, Montreal, Marsan et al. vs Magnan and Brouillet et al., 22 J., 147; 1 L. N., 150.

1082. The court of Review will not give costs to parties coming to rectify a trifling error which has already been rectified by retraxit. C. R., 1878, Montreal, Soulière vs Héron, 1 L. N., 87.

1083. Where a party inscribing in review, files a desistement from inscription after appearance and factum has been filed by the respondant, and after the inscription on the rôle for hearing, the respondent is entitled to full fees as in a case settled before hearing. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Milloy vs O'Brien and Bury et al., and Milloy, 27 J., 289; 6 L. N., 336.

1084. Bien qu'en révision, comme en appel, la question de frais soit secondaire, cependant, lorsqu'elle implique la violation d'un principe, les tribunaux ne doivent pas l'écarter et, dans ce cas, un jugement pourra être réformé sur ce point seul. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Lamarche et al. vs Banque Ville-Marie, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 203; 8 L. N., 133; 14 R. L., 56; 20 R. L., 328.

1085. Lorsqu'une inscription en révision est renvoyée pour défaut de qualité de la partie inscrivant en révision, l'avocat qui obtient le renvoi de l'inscription, n'a pas droit à l'honoraire de $15. C. S., 1884, Montréal, Ross, ès-qual., et vir vs Sweeney, et al., 13 R. L., 399.

1086. Le défendeur inscrivant en révision, qui n'y obtient qu'une réduction très minime du jugement en première instance, doit supporter les frais de la révision. C. R., 1886, Québec, Banque Union vs Gibeault et al., 12 R. J. Q., 145.

1087. Where no principle of law is involved, the court of Review will not interfere with the discretion as to costs exercised by the court below, under article 478 C. c. p.; and it is not necessary that the judgment of court below should set forth the "special reasons" for which the losing party is exempted from the payment of costs. C. R., 1888, Montreal, Andrews et vir vs Wulff, M. L. R., 4 S. C., 392; 12 L. N., 140.

1088. On suit brought against an aval and dismissed purely and simply on the ground of non liability, where a defense of delay has been further made out, the plaintiff has an interest and a right to inscribe in review to have the ruling of the court below on the question of liability reversed, and his right to sue de novo reserved, and, in such case, though the judgment be maintained on the ground of delay granted, the plaintiff is entitled to his costs in review. S. C., 1888, Quebec, Norris vs Condon, 14 Q. L. R., 1, 184; 11 L. N., 174, 319.

1089. La partie qui réussit à faire modifier le jugement de première instance, même en n'obtenant qu'une réduction de cinq dollars dans sa condamnation, aura droit aux frais de révision. C. R., 1900, Gamache vs Dechêne, 3 R. P. Q., 399.

1090. La cour de Révision renversera un jugement d'une cour de première instance, quant aux dépens, lorsqu'une injustice aura été commise à cet égard. C. R., 1891, Montréal, Gervais vs Seeley, 21 R. L., 385.

1091. Where the plaintiff has succeeded in the first court and the conclusions of his action have been maintained with costs against the defendant, and, on the inscription of the defendant, the judgment has been afirmed as to the merits by the court of review, it is error for the latter court to deprive the plaintiff of the costs of the action in the court below and to condemn him to pay costs in review, and the court of Queen's Bench sitting in appeal will rectify such judgment, more especially where the court of Review assigned a reason for such condemnation to costs, which the court of Queen's bench considers erroneous. Q. B., 1892, Montreal, Compagnie de chemin de fer Atlantique Canadien vs Trudeau, Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 514.

1092. Lorsqu'un propriétaire exproprié se plaint par quatre inscriptions en révision de l'indemnité que les commissaires lui ont accordée, pour quatre de ses lots expropriés par un seul et même rapport, et que la même question se soulève sur chaque inscription, il ne lui sera accordé, quand il a réussi sur les quatre appels, que les frais d'une seule inscription, et ordre sera donné au protonotaire de remettre aux parties les déboursés par elles faits sur les trois autres inscriptions. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Campbell, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 182.

1093. Lorsque la partie a été condamnée aux frais d'une demande de revision ex parte, comme il n'y a aucun article du tarif qui prévoit ce cas, la cour de Révision, sur une demande subséquente de la partie, fixera le montant des frais que cette partie devra payer. Dans l'espèce, une cause au-dessous de $400, l'honoraire de l'avocat de la partie gagnante fut fixé à $20. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Riverin vs La Compagnie d'Imprimerie et de Publication du Canada et al., R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 342.

1094. Dans ce cas, si la partie qui a inscrit en révision, se désiste de son inscription avant que l'avocat de l'autre ait produit sa comparution, ce dernier aura droit à l'honoraire accordé pour les causes réglées avant audition, (tarif no 116) ; il n'aura pas toutefois droit à l'honoraire pour la comparution, même s'il a comparu le même jour, mais après que le désistement lui a été signifié. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Dunford et al. vs Hannah, 4 R. L., n. s., 81; R. J. Q., 75 C. S., 431; 1 R. P. Q., 18.

1095. Si, sur une action pour $1000, jugement est rendu en faveur du demandeur pour $140,en cour Supérieure, et est confirmé en révision, sur inscription du défendeur, les honoraires de l'avocat du demandeur en révision, seront ceux d'une action de $140. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Mallet vs Martineau, 2 R. P. Q., 46.

1096. Si un désistement est produit par une partie qui a obtenu un jugement, mais, qu'à la même heure et à la même date, une inscription en révision est aussi produite par la partie adverse contre laquelle le jugement avait été obtenu, la cour Supérieure de première instance refusera ensuite d'adjuger sur les frais résultant du désistement, l'inscription en révision ayant eu pour effet de désaisir cette cour, de manière à l'empêcher de décider sur cette question de frais. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Lamothe vs Piché et Brown, 9 R. J., 19.

1097. Le jugement rendu par le juge en chambre sur une question de révision de mémoire de frais, peut être exécuté pour les frais de cette révision accordés par ce dit jugement; le créancier de ces frais n'a pas besoin d'un autre jugement pour s'en faire payer. C. S., 1904, Montmagny, Casault vs Déchêne et Déchêne, 11 R. J., 98.

1098. La cour de Révision ne changera pas l'adjudication des dépens ordonnée par le juge siégeant en première instance, à moins que ce dernier n'ait fait usage déraisonnable de la discrétion que la loi lui laisse. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Hurtubise et al. vs Birks et al., Grier et al., R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 137; 11 R. L., n. s., 410.

1099. The judge will not take organizance of a bill of costs and allow a special fee, until the said bill has been taxed by the prothonotary. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Campbell vs Montreal Street Railway Co., 7 Q. P. R., 79.

1100. La cour siégeant en révision doit infirmer un jugement qui adjuge les dépens contrairement à la loi. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Picard vs Anderson, R. J. Q., 32 C. S., 355.

1101. The additional $3, in cases of judgments rendered elsewhere than at Montreal or Quebec, is a matter between the party and the prothonotary who makes up and transmit the record.

1102. A charge made by the prothonotary against the advocate of the party in an account current between them is a sufficient compliance with the law. C. R., 1908, Quebec, Michaud vs Michaud and Giroux and St-Pierre, Q. J. R., 34 S. C., 88.

1103. Lorsque, par une seule inscription en révision, une partie a demandé la révision d'un jugement rendu tant sur la demande principale que sur la demande incidente et qu'il n'y a eu qu'un seul dépôt en révision, il ne doit y avoir qu'un seul mémoire de frais. C. S., 1910, Montréal, The Federal Can Co. vs Withall, R. Q. J., 17 C. S., 162.

1104. Lorsqu'un défendeur, sur une poursuite de $5,000, a été condamné à la somme de $60, et aux dépens de l'action telle qu'intentée, lesquels s'élèvent à la somme de $900, le demandeur qui réussit à faire confirmer le jugement en révision n'aura droit qu'aux honoraires de deuxième classe en cour de Révision, le montant en litige n'étant que de $960. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Morisette vs Clément et al., 12 R. P. Q., 413.

1105. Révision de liste électorale.—Dans le cas d'une requête en révision de liste électorale qui a été maintenue, l'intimé ayant comparu et transquestionné les témoins, mais n'ayant ni plaidé par écrit ni examiné de témoins, le requérant n'aura pas droit à l'honoraire d'une action contestée, mais seulement à celui d'une cause jugée ex parte. C. S., 1900, Montréal, L'archevêque vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Léonard de Port Maurice, 3 R. P. Q., 293.

1106. Révision de taxation.—Une partie qui fait motion pour réviser certains items taxés par le protonotaire, abandonne le droit d'objecter aux autres items; et une motion pour réviser ces derniers items sera rejetée, quoique la partie faisant cette seconde motion offre d'en payer les frais. C. S., 1860, Québec, Kerr vs Gugy, 10 D. T. B. C., 478; 8 R. J. R. Q., 474; 13 R. J. R. Q., 386.

1107. A rule to revise the taxation of a bill of costs in appeal will be ordered to be struck from the roll and the bill laid before one of the judges in appeal. Q. B., 1863, Montreal, Bouvier vs Dame Reeves, 12 J., 291; 13 L. C. R., 479; 11 R. J. R. Q., 469.

1108. On an application to revise the taxation of a bill of costs: The prothonotary should not allow, on the contestation of the insolvent's application for discharge, a fee on articulations of facts or an appearance as counsel at enquête, under the tariff in force, under the Insolvent Act of 1869. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Inglis vs Prowse et al., 20 J., 184.

1109. The delay of six months for revision of taxation of costs (art. 479, C. c.p.) does not run pending an inscription in review. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Henderson et al. vs Craig et al., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 516.

1110. Les délais pour demander la révision d'un mémoire de frais en cour Supérieure sont suspendus pendant que la cause est en révision. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Odell vs Bell, 2 R. P. Q., 202.—C. S., 1912, Arthabaska, Courchesne vs Talbot, 13 R. P. Q., 197.

1111. When a final judgment has been rendreed in a case condemning one of the parties to pay the costs, a judge in chambers has no power, on a petition to revise the taxation of one of the bills.

1112. He cannot neither strike from it the tax of one of the witnesses, on the ground that his evidence was of no weight or value. S. C., 1908, Bryson, Cains vs Leeder, Q. J. R., 34 S. C., 368.

1113. Saisie-arrêt après jugement.—Dans une saisie-arrêt après jugement, les frais de l'avocat saisissant sont déterminés par le montant du jugement condamnant le tiers-saisi.

1114. L'intervenant qui était intervenu dans une action en séparation de biens, avait été condamné à payer $7.50 de frais sur une procédure incidente. L'avocat distrayant ayant fait émaner une saisie-arrêt pour ce montant, le protonotaire taxa les frais de cette saisie-arrêt comme dans une action de seconde classe en cour Supérieure. Sur demande de révision de taxation: Les frais sur la saisie-arrêt devaient être taxés comme dans une cause en cour de Circuit pour $7.50. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Barrette vs Beaudry, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 209; 3 R. L., n. s., 448; 1 R. P. Q., 17.

1115. Les frais d'une saisie-arrêt après jugement doivent être taxés d'après l'article 554 C. p., et les articles 12,44 et 70 du tarif, d'après la somme demandée ou contestée, ou la nature du jugement, à moins que le tribunal n'ait autrement ordonné. C. S., 1899, Saguenay, Lamarche vs Bhérer et Compagnie de Navigation Richelieu et Ontario, 2 R. P. Q., 38.

1116. Upon the contestation as to the validity of a seizure en mains tierces, the class of action depends upon the amount seized, and the taxation of the bill according to the class of the original action will be revised accordingly. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Jones vs Moodie and City and District Savings Bank, 3 Q. P. R., 354.

1117. The costs on an attachment after judgment must be taxed according to the amount sought to be recovered from the garnishee, and do not follow the costs of the principal action. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Latour vs Latour and Paradis, 5 Q. P. R., 306.

1117a. Where, in an action brought at Montreal, where the transmission of the record to Quebec was ordered, the prothonotary, at Montreal, taxed the defendant's bill of costs, the judges of the district of Montreal are competent to revise such taxation, notwithstanding the judgment ordering the transmission of the record. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Canadian Mutual Loan and Investment Co. vs Tanguay et vir, 3 Q. P. R., 436.

1118. Si une contestation de déclaration de tiers-saisi est renvoyée, la classe de l'action sera fixée par le montant du jugement que le contestant aurait obtenu contre le tiers-saisi s'il avait déclaré devoir, et ce, bien qu'une partie de cette somme soit insaisissable. C. S., 1901, Montréal, de Sieyes et al. vs Painchaud et Alliance Assurance Co. 5 R. P. Q., 363.

1119. Pour obtenir jugement par défaut, pour les frais contre un défendeur, sur une saisie-arrêt en mains tierces, le demandeur doit établir que, lors de la signification de telle saisie-arrêt, le tiers-saisi était endetté envers le défendeur ou avait en mains des biens lui appartenant.

1120. En l'absence de telle preuve, l'inscription pour jugement sera rayée. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Beaubien Produce Milling Co. vs Corbeil et Lafrance, 9 R. J., 59.

1121. Si le défendeur et le tiers-saisi présentent respectivement une motion demandant congé-défaut d'une saisie-arrêt, la cour accordera les deux motions, mais avec moitié des frais sur chaque motion. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Laporte et al. vs Brousseau et al., et Savage et al., 9 R. J., 14.

1122. La saisie-arrêt est une instance nouvelle, et les frais d'un jugement maintenant le désaveu de l'avocat, qui a fait pratiquer la saisie, sont déterminés par le montant pour lequel le bref de saisie-arrêt a été émis. C. S., 1902, Sherbrooke, Lafrance vs Parent et al., R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 415.

1123. Le demandeur saisissant devra payer les frais de la motion pour l'obtention de la mainlevée de la saisie-arrêt. C. S., 1909, Richelieu, Beaucage vs Harpin, 10 R. P. Q., 409.

1124. Les dépens sont censés payés au procureur qui a obtenu distraction de frais, s'ils le sont à un créancier de ce dernier qui les a saisis entre les mains de la partie condamnée à les payer. C. R., 1909, Québec, Bégin et vir vs Breton, R. J. Q., 35 C. S., 380.

1125. Saisie-arrêt avant jugement.— Lorsque le défendeur conteste une saisie-arrêt avant jugement par voie de requête, et l'action par un plaidoyer, et que les prétentions du demandeur sont maintenues et la requête et la défense du défendeur sont renvoyées avec dépens, les frais du demandeur, seront taxés contre tel défendeur tant sur telle requête que sur l'instance principale. C. S., 1904, Québec, Orway vs Veilleux et Quebec Bank et Price, 10 R. J., 90.

1126. Saisie et vente de meuble. — Dans une action émanée de la cour Supérieure, au chef-lieu d'un district, dans une cause de $100 à $200, l'huissier, chargé d'un bref de fieri facias de bonis n'a pas droit contre le défendeur à plus de frais que si tel bref eût été exécuté par l'huissier le plus proche du domicile du défendeur, mais a droit à ses frais de route contre la partie qui l'emploie. C. S., 1888, Québec, Sawyer et al. vs Bohan et al., 12 L. N., 1.

1127. L'article 670 C. p. c. doit être interprété comme permettant au shérif ou à l'huissier de retenir, sur le produit de la vente judiciaire, le montant de ses frais taxés, soit qu'aucune opposition à fin de conserver ait été ou non produite.

1128. Bien que l'article 676 C. p. c. déclare que dans la collocation des frais de justice les frais de saisie et de vente seront en premier lieu colloqués, on doit interpréter cet article comme n'ayant pas pour effet d'obliger le shérif ou l'huissier à faire le dépôt de ses frais taxés, il n'indique que l'ordre de la distribution pour le cas où il y aurait tels frais à payer. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Turgeon vs Shannon, ès-qual., et Shannon et Breux, 7 R. J., 557; 8 R. L., n. s., 115.

1129. Saisie et vente d'immeuble. — Money paid to a bailiff for crying a property taken in execution, is a disbursement to be charged by the sheriff, but the latter cannot charge for his own warrant, or for the draft which he makes of the advertisement of sale. K. B., 1811, Quebec, Hoyt vs Taillon, 3 R. de L., 471.

1130. Les frais de vente d'immeubles par le shérif ne sont pas répartis également sur chaque immeuble, mais au pro rata du prix de vente. C. S., 1862, Arthabaska, Pacaud vs Dubé et les Syndics, etc., 7 J., 279; 11 R. J. R. Q., 107.

1131. Un shérif ne peut exiger que les honoraires d'un contrat pour toutes les propriétés vendues à la même personne, dans le la même vente. C. S., 1871, Québec, Miller vs Lambert, 3 R. L., 447; 2 R. C., 112.

1132. Le shérif a le droit de retenir et d'insérer dans son mémoire de frais, sur la vente d'un immeuble, la taxe de un pour cent imposée par le chapitre 109 des statuts refondus du Bas-Canada, et le chapitre 12 des statuts du Canada, de 1865, 28 Vict. C. S., 1874, Richelieu, Armstrong vs Hus, 5 R. L., 396.

1133. No costs were allowed in a judgment setting aside an adjudication where the adjudicataire was the original vendor and plaintiff at whose suit it was sold. Q. B., 1879, Montreal, La Compagnie de Prêt et Crédit Foncier vs Baker et al., 24 J., 45; 2 L. N., 349.

1134. The costs on a petition to set aside a sheriff's sale on ground of fraud are the same as those allowed in ordinary suits. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Commercial Mutual Building Society vs McIver et vir, 3 L. N., 358.

1135. If a block of land composed of several subdivisional lots is seized and sold as one, the sheriff is not entitled to charge the 50 cents per extra lot provided for by the tariff for extra lots. S. C., 1885, Montreal, Gale et al. vs Canadian Iron and Steel Co., M. L. R., 1 S. C., 442; 8 L. N., 341; 18 R. L., 660.

1136. Lorsqu'une partie, dans une demande en nullité de décret, ne réussit que sur une partie de ses demandes, elle n'aura pas droit aux dépens. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Fairbanks and Co. vs The Pioneer Beet Root Sugar Co. et La Banque des Cantons de l'Est et al., 20 R. L., 99.

1137. Le shérif du district d'Iberville ayant à faire, sur un défendeur qui résidait à Trois-Pistoles,dans le district de Kamouraska, la saisie d'un immeuble situé à St-Blaise, dans le district d'Iberville, envoya son député à Trois-Pistoles faire au défendeur l'interpellation requise par l'article 637 du Code de procédure civile, et chargea pour la route de St-Jean à Trois-Pistoles $86, et pour la route de Trois-Pistoles à St-Blaise $89. Le défendeur offrit le montant de la dette et des frais au shérif, moins ces frais de route, et sur son refus de l'accepter, se pourvut par opposition afin d'annuler: Le shérif devait employer, aux fins de cette interpellation, l'huissier le plus rapproché du domicile du défendeur, et il ne pouvait réclamer de ce dernier les frais de la route que ce dernier avait parcourue. C. R., 1897, Montréal, Carreau vs Hébert et Hébert, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 314; 2 R. J., 408.

1138. Par l'item 6 du tarif des honoraires et taxes payables sur procédure au bureau du shérif, dans la cour Supérieure, il est accordé au shérif $3.00 pour la saisie d'un immeuble, y compris le procès-verbal original et les copies, pour la partie dont la propriété est saisie, et par l'item 7, il est accordé 50 cents pour chaque lot additionnel saisi; par l'article 706 C. p. c., le procès-verbal de saisie doit contenir la description des immeubles indiquant la cité, la ville, le village, la paroisse ou le canton, ainsi que la rue, le rang ou la concession où ils sont situés, et le numéro de chaque immeuble, s'il existe un plan officiel de la localité, sinon les tenants et aboutissants: Il résulte de ces dispositions qu'un immeuble, dans le sens de l'article 706, ne signifie pas nécessairement un lot de cadastre, mais une exploitation.

1139. Si cet article exige la mention du numéro de chaque immeuble, il ne fait que donner un exemple de ce qui a lieu ordinairement, les immeubles n'étant le plus souvent composés que d'un seul numéro.

1140. Un immeuble composé de plusieurs numéros aux plan et livre de renvoi officiels ne constitue qu'un immeuble, s'il ne constitue qu'une exploitation, et il n'y a lieu à l'honoraire additionnel sus-mentionné pour chaque lot additionnel que sur la saisie de chaque immeuble additionnel.

1141. L'huissier du shérif qui, dans la saisie, groupe ensemble plusieurs lots, pour constituer différents immeubles composés d'un seul lot ou de plusieurs lots, suivant leur situation respective, saisit autant d'immeubles que de groupes.

1142. Chaque groupe constitue un immeuble dans le send de l'article 706 C. p. c. et des articles 6 et 7 du tarif des honoraires du shérif,et ce dernier a droit à 50 cents pour chaque groupe de lots ou immeubles additionnels qu'il a saisis. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Gault vs Dufort et Le Shérif de Montréal, 9 R. J., 314; 9 R. L., n. s., 410; R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 17; 5 R. P. Q., 353.

1143. The costs incurred upon a writ of execution against the moveable property of the debtor and upon a seizure by garnishment, may be added to the costs of suit for the purpose of justifying the issuing of a writ against immoveable property. S. C., 1900, Hull, Lamothe vs Wigney, Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 201.

1144. L'adjudicataire poursuivi en nullité de décret par un insolvable, dont l'action a été renvoyée, n'a pas de recours contre le saisi pour les frais dus à ses avocats dans la poursuite en nullité de décret. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Beaudry vs Henderson et Bousquet, 9 R. P. Q., 101; 14 R. J., 307.

1145. Saisie-gagerie.—Dans une saisie-gagerie, le montant des frais sera déterminé par le montant du loyer tant échu qu'à écheoir, et non par le montant du loyer échu au moment de l'action. C. C., 1884, Québec, Simmons vs Gravel, 13 R. J. Q., 263; 10 L. N., 396.

1146. Les locataires qui enlèvent une partie considérable des marchandises garnissant les lieux loués, fermés à clef durant plusieurs jours, après avoir annoncé leur déménagement, doivent supporter les frais d'une saisie-gagerie par droit de suite, vu qu'ils mettaient les propirétaires sous l'impression qu'ils enlevaient entièrement leurs marchandises. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Boucher et al. vs Beauvais et al. et Desroches, 16 R. J., 211.

1147. Salaire des matelots.—Costs are not usually decreed in courts of admiralty against seamen, who are unsuccessful in their suits; a decree for costs would, in most cases, subject the seaman to imprisonment without being productive of any real advantage to the other party. V. A., 1863, Lower-Canada, The Washington Irving, 2 S. V. A., 97; 13 L. C. R., 123.

1148. The costs of an action before the court of Exchequer are in the discretion of the judge trying the cause under rule 132 of the Admiralty Rules of the Exchequer court of Canada.

1149. This was the practice and rule in England on July 25th, 1890, and since according to. Tenant vs Ellis 6 Q. B. D., 46; Rockett vs Clippingdale (1891) 2 Q. B., 293; The Saltburn, (1892) Prob. 333 referred to. Ex. C., 1893, Canada, In re The Ship "W. J. Aikens," 4 Ex. C. R., 7.

1150. Sauvetage.—A salvage service having been rendered a foreign vessel, which had gone ashore near Point Escuminac, near Miramichi Bay, in an action for the recovery of the amount of such service: The costs should be paid first out of the fund in court, then the amount awarded as salvage service, and any balance to the owners, as the seamen had been paid. V. A., 1888, New Brunswick, In re "Nordcap," Stockton, 172.

1151. Sentence arbitrale.—Dans le cas où une sentence arbitrale est produite au bureau du protonotaire et une motion est faite pour la faire homologuer, bien que le statut spécial gouvernant la cause dise que le juge devra examiner si les arbitres ont excédé leurs pouvoirs ou s'il y a eu fraude ou collusion de leur part, l'honoraire du requérant, après l'homologation, est celui d'une motion. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Ward vs Goodall, 6 R. L., n. s., 88.

1152. Séparation de corps. — Lorsqu'une action en séparation de corps et de biens, de la part de l'épouse contre son époux, a été renvoyée avec dépens, après un désistement produit de la part de la demanderesse sur déclaration de réconciliation, l'avocat qui a occupé pour la femme dans telle instance en séparation de corps n'a pas de recours contre le mari pour le paiement des frais auxquels la femme a été condamnée. C. S., 1904, Beauharnois, McCormick et al. vs Mooney, 11 R. J., 69.

1153. The costs incurred by the wife in an action in separation from bed and board for the purpose of realizing her share of the community, having been authorized by the court, can and must be levied upon the assets of the community and the husband must pay them if proceedings are stopped at his request.

1154. When a woman is authorized to sue her husband in separation from bed and board, she is only authorized to oblige herself for the taxable costs in the said action; the extra services which she may require from her lawyer must be considered as requested by her without authorization. K. B., 1908, Montreal, Hannan vs Cooke, 10 Q. P. R., 159; Q. J. R., 18 K. B., 127.

1155. Séquestre.—On the revision of a bill of costs arising out of the appointment of a sequestrator for which the tariff makes no provision it was taxed as in the class of appointments of tutor or curator. 1884, C. S., Montreal, McLean vs Phillips et al., 7 L. N., 246.

1156. L'article 102 du tarif des avocats fixant l'honoraire d'une contestation d'une requête pour la nomination d'un séquestre, s'applique aussi bien à une requête faite incidemment dans la cause qu'à une demande séparée. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Chalmer et al. vs Shoe Wire Gulf Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 493; 5 R. P. Q., 73.

1157. Dans le cas où deux parties se disputent la propriété d'un immeuble, et que la cour, sur la demande d'une partie et malgré l'opposition de l'autre, nomme un séquestre judiciaire, les deux parties sont responsables solidairement des frais de ce séquestre. B. R., 1912, Montréal, Dame Maillet et vir vs Fontaine, 18 R. L., n. s., 277; 18 R. J., 470; R. J. Q., 21 B. R., 426; 2 D. L. R., 218.

1158. Sténographie.—No fee is allowed the stenographer for reading a deposition taken out of court to the jury. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Mills vs The Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning, 9 Q. P. R., 368.

1159. When a judgment of the court of Review, although partially changing the first judgment, does not alter it as to costs, the losing party will have to pay the transcription of the depositions which are costs in the case. S. C., 1912, Montreal, Crowley vs Silverstone, 13 Q. P. R., 332.

1160. Subpœna.—Une motion pour réviser la taxe du protonotaire qui refusait au demandeur les frais de l'huissier pour signification de subpœnas, par la raison que l'on avait inséré plus de quatre noms dans le subpœna original doit être accordée; et l'introduction de plus de quatre noms dans le subpœna original ne peut nullement être préjudiciable. C. S., 1859, Québec, Couillard vs Lemieux, 9 D. T. B. C., 393; 7 R. J. R. Q., 290.

1161. Subrogation.—Lorsqu'une partie, dans une poursuite en première instance, paie à son avocat des frais que l'autre partie a été condamnée à payer, elle est subrogée, de plein droit, au droit de l'avocat contre la partie adverse, sans aucun transport ou signification. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Cameron vs Hainault, 4 R. L, n. s., 85; 1 R. P. Q., 57.

1162. Substitution d'avocat.—The respondent moved for substitution of attorney. The appellant contested, and, as to costs, contended that the costs of the motion should be against the party presenting it: The court held that the costs must be costs in the cause, and follow the event of the suit. Q. B., 1889, Montreal, Robin dit Lapointe vs Brière, 12 L. N., 386.—Q. B., 1898, Montreal, Whelan vs Charette, 1 Q. P. R., 413.

1163. Il ne sera pas accordé de frais à la partie adverse sur une motion pour substitution de procureur. C. C., 1898, Québec, Francœur vs Lortie, 1 R. P. Q., 488.

1164. Un avocat substitué dans une cause, après l'inscription à l'enquête et mérite, a droit à une rémunération raisonnable pour l'examen et l'étude du dossier, instructions, préparation de l'enquête, etc.

1165. Si le demandeur, pour établir sa réclamation, a été forcé par la partie adverse de poursuivre à la cour Supérieure, il aura droit à ses frais sur une action de ce montant, quoiqu'en définitive, il ne soit actuellement créancier que d'une somme du ressort de la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Lafortune vs Marchand, 9 R. P. Q., 36; 14 R. L., n. s., 273.

1166. If a party asks for a substitution of attorneys, not necessitated by the death or by the appointment of any member of the firm to any public office, or any other analagous reason, he has no right to demand costs on said motion. If he does so, the adverse party who appears to oppose such condemnation, will himself be entitled to his costs. S. C., 1908, Quebec, The Sicily Asphaltum Co. vs Grenier, 10 Q. P. R., 61.

1167. Tarif.—La date de l'enfilure d'une opposition, règle le montant des frais; et dans le cas ou l'enfilure a eu lieu avant la promulgation du nouveau tarif, quoique le retour fût subséquent, les frais doivent être taxés d'après l'ancien tarif. C. S., 1850, Montréal, Delery vs Quig, et de Beaujeu et Quig, 1 D. T. B. C., 493; 3 R. J. R. Q., 80.

1168. The 100th section of 12 Vict. ch. 38, which empowers the judges of the Superior court to make a tariff of fees for the advocates and officers of justice, speaks entirely of uniformity in the practice and proceedings of the court, and not in the fees of office, and the uniformity spoken of in the preamble of the section in question directs a general and not such an absolute uniformity to be maintained that the slightest variance would produce a nullity in the whole.

1169. The tariffs relating to the fees of the several officers of justice could be promulgated in different and distinct documents; and the order continuing the tariff of the prothonotaries as valid or invalid could not affect the tariff of the sheriffs, bailiffs and other officers. S. C., 1851, Quebec, Chabot et al., vs Sewell, 1 L. C. R., 436, 466; 10 R. J. R. Q., 99.

1170. Until the promulgation of the tariff for cases in the Superior court under two hundred dollars, the tariff for cases over two hundred dollars governed. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Brennan vs Molson, 16 J., 253; 22 R. J. R. Q., 420, 563.

1171. On a judgment for fifty dollars and costs as of the lowest class of action in the Superior court, the new tariff existing at the date of the judgment for cases under two hundred dollars must apply. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Fortier vs Trudeau, 16 J., 252; 22 R. J. R. Q., 419, 562.

1172. Les frais des avocats, dans une cause de $100, doivent être taxés conformément au tarif de la cour de Circuit dans les causes de première classe, bien que par les termes du tarif, cette première classe ne comprenne que les causes au-dessus de $100. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Varieur vs Rascony, 17 R. L., 461; M. L. R., 5 C. S., 126; 12 L. N., 302.

1173. Lorsqu'une action a été instituée sous l'opération de l'ancien tarif, c'est ce tarif qui règle tous les frais de la cause, même lorsque la contestation a été produite depuis la mise en vigueur du nouveau tarif. C. S., 1850, Montréal, Tunstall vs Robertson, 1 D.

T. B. C., 476; 3 R. J. R. Q., 73.—C. C., 1851, Montréal, Question soumise à la cour, 1 D. T. B. C., 105; 2 R. J. R. Q., 418. — C. S., 1892, Québec, Quebec Bank vs Bryant Powis et Walker, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 100.—C. S., 1908, St-Hyacinthe, Goold, Shapley et Muir Co. Limited vs Gervais, 9 R. P. Q., 290.

1174. An item of $14.00 claimed by the attorney of the successful party as his expense of travel to Montreal, would not be included in the taxation, it appearing that the attorney also practised in Montreal. K. B., 1910, Montreal, Marchand vs Foreman, 16 R. J., 475.

1175. Taxation.—Le mémoire de frais dans une cause contestée doit être taxé avant l'émanation de l'exécution pour les frais. C. C., 1871, Québec, Langevin vs Martin, 3 R. L., 447; 2 R. C., 112.

1176. Le protonotaire a le pouvoir, en l'absence du juge, de taxer un mémoire de frais sujet à la révision par le juge. C. S., 1874, Beauharnois, Lynch et al. vs Tyre et St-Amour, 5 R. L., 417.

1177. La taxation d'un mémoire de frais faite par le juge en chambre sous l'autorité de l'Acte des chemins de fer de Québec, 1869, section 9, § 19, n'est pas sujette à révision par un autre juge siégeant in banco. C. S., 1878, Montréal, Ex parte l'Hon. Malhiot et al., 22 J., 100; 1 L. N., 291.

1178. Une exécution émanée pour le recouvrement d'un certain montant de frais du jour accordé contre le défendeur, lorsqu'une inscription est rayée, sera annulée ainsi que la saisie pratiquée sur icelle, si l'exécution a été émanée sans que le mémoire de frais ait été taxé, conformément aux articles 479 et 105 C. p. c. C. C., 1887, Montréal, Théoret vs Carrière et Carrière, 15 R. L., 511.—C. C., 1887, Montréal, Théoret vs Meloche et Meloche, 10 L. N., 171.

1179. The practice under the ordinance of 1667, tit. 33 requiring notice to the adverse party of taxation of costs, was not affected by the passing of 20 Vict. ch. 44, 90 (C. S. L. C. c. ch. 83, sect. 151) reproduced in article 479 C. c. p., and such notice is still required

1180. An execution must be issued for the whole debt due under the judgment, and when it is illegally issued for part, it is bad for the whole, and so where an execution issued for debt, interest and costs, and it appeared that the costs had not been legally taxed, the execution was annuled on opposition afin d'annuler. C. R., 1888, Montreal, Scott vs McCaffrey et vir, M. L. R., 5 S. C., 202; 12 L. N., 386; 35 J., 123.—C. R., 1880, Québec, Lenoir et al. vs McGinley et al., 6 Q. L. R., 61.

1181. L'avocat n'est pas tenu de faire taxer son mémoire de frais contradictoirement avant de prendre une exécution pour ses frais; et une opposition basée sur ce grief, sans se plaindre de surcharge dans le mémoire de frais sera renvoyée avec dépens. C. M., 1889, Montréal, Martineau vs Brault et Brault, 12 L. N., 251.

1182. Il n'est pas nécessaire que la taxation par le protonotaire des frais encourus sur l'exécution d'un jugement et constatés par les procédures au dossier, soit faite contradictoirement avec la partie condamnée. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Cordeau et uxor vs de Laval et Fontaine et al., R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 482.

1183. Where notice of taxation of a bill of costs has been duly given, but the bill appears from the date of cancellation of the stamps to have been taxed on a subsequent date such taxation will be held to have been done regularly unless the party objecting to it proves that it was irregularly done.

1184. Where an execution issues based on a bill of costs, which has been taxed without notice and such execution is opposed, the opposition will be maintained; and where more than one bill is in question, and a retraxit is produced for the one which has been taxed without notice, costs will be awarded on the opposition up to the date of the retraxit only. Q. B., 1890, Montreal, Wells vs Burroughs, 35 J., 61; M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 451.

1185. Un avocat a droit à un honoraire de trois piastres sur taxation de son mémoire de frais, et cet honoraire est dû à compter de la signification de l'avis de taxation. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Durocher vs Sébastien, 21 R. L., 83.

1186. Dans les causes ex parte de la cour de Circuit, il n'est pas nécessaire de faire taxer contradictoirement le mémoire de frais avant de faire émettre un bref d'exécution. C. C., 1901, Montréal, Dame Poirier vs Dame Girard et vir, 4 R. P. Q., 124.

1187. Si une partie qui a reçu avis qu'un mémoire serait taxé, ne se présente pas au jour fixé dans l'avis, mais fait seulement valoir ses raisons par lettre adressée au protonotaire, la partie qui a donné l'avis, et qui n'a pas fait taxer son mémoire au temps qu'elle a fixé, peut le faire taxer plus tard, à volonté, en l'absence de son adversaire. C S., 1902, Trois-Rivières, Auger et al. vs Montambault et al. et Perusse et al. et Gélinas, 5 R. P. Q, 21.

1188. The taxing officer is bound to tax a bill of costs on production thereon, according to the tariffs in force, upon seeing that the opposite party has had notice, and without consideration of any collateral equities which may exist between the parties. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Dame Ross et vir vs Dame Ross et vir, 8 Q. P. R., 300.

1189. L'inscription en révision a pour effet de suspendre les délais pour la révision de la taxation du mémoire de frais.

1190. Lorsque deux causes ont été réunies pour les fins de l'instruction, de l'enquête, de l'audition et du jugement en cour Supérieure, qu'il n'y a eu qu'une seule inscription et un seul dépôt en cour de Révision, la cour n'accordera qu'un seul mémoire de frais en cour de Révision, bien qu'il y ait eu deux jugements séparés en cour Supérieure.

1191. Lorsque dans une action en résiliation de bail par le locataire, le défendeur consent à réduire à $200 un montant de $500 de loyer, qui lui est ou lui sera dû et consent en même temps à la résiliation du bail, mais avec dépens contre le demandeur, si cette offre est refusée, la cause se continue telle que commencée et les frais seront ceux d'une action de $500, tant en cour Supérieure qu'en cour de Révision. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Woodley vs The Peloquin Hotel Co., 13 R. P. Q., 254.

1192. Testament.—Une action en nullité de testament tombe dans la seconde classe, quand bien même le montant, que la partie demanderesse recevrait si son action était maintenue, dépasse $1,000. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Gaudry vs Dubois et Hotte et al., 2 R. P. Q., 403.

1193. An order to pay costs of litigation respecting a will and its construction out of the estate, will not be made unless it appear clearly to the court that it was instituted and carried on for the benefit of all parties interested. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Bond vs Macfarlane et al., Q. J. R., 29 S. C., 220.

1194. Tierce opposition.—Les frais faits pour obtenir le renvoi d'une tierce-opposition ayant pour objet d'empêcher la vente d'un immeuble par le shérif, sont des frais sur les incidents de la saisie et nécessaires pour arriver à la vente de l'immeuble et comme tels doivent prendre rang par privilège comme frais de justice. Ces mêmes frais sont faits dans l'intérêt commun des créanciers suivant l'article 2009 C. c., paragraphe 6. C. S., 1880, Montréal, Vaillancourt vs Collette et Perrault et Ouimet et al., 24 J., 302; 3 L. N., 406.

1195. Timbre judiciaire. — Where a petition was presented to the Superior court by the petitioner in his quality of curator to a vacant estate, by which he prayed that the curator of the estate might be called in, and the prothonotary refused to file the petition until a fee of £1 3s. 9d. was paid: On a rule for contrainte par corps against the prothonotary, that the prothonotary had no right under the then existing tariff to such entrance fee. S. C., 1861, Quebec, Ex parte Langlois, ès-qual., 11 L. C. R., 463.

1196. Le défaut de la part du demandeur de payer l'honoraire d'entrée le jour du rapport d'un bref ne vicie pas le rapport qui a été fait. C. S., 1863, Québec, Lee et al. vs Kinsman et al., 14 D. T. B. C., 156; 12 R. J. R. Q., 477.

1197. Where a party has failed to stamp certain of his depositions, the prothonotary may refuse to draw, certify or tax such party's bill of costs, while the depositions remain so unpaid. S. C., 1876, Québec vs Emond, Blais, 2 Q, L. R., 184.

1198. Dans les causes de $60 et au-dessous, tout plaidoyer au mérite produit à la suite d'une exception à la forme doit être reçu gratuitement par le greffier lorsque l'honoraire, établi par le tarif pour la contestation des actions de cette classe, a été payé sur l'exception à la forme.

1199. Dans les cause en question, le tarif n'impose aucun honoraire particulier sur les exceptions préliminaires ou les plaidoyers au mérite, mais comporte simplement qu'un honoraire sera payé au greffier sur la contestation de ces actions.

1200. Dans l'espèce actuelle, le seul honoraire pourvu par le tarif ayant été payé sur l'exception à la forme, le greffier était tenu de recevoir le plaidoyer au mérite du défendeur, sans exiger un nouvel honoraire. C. C., 1881, Montréal, Patenaude et al. vs McCulloch, 25 J., 164; 4 L. N., 119.

1201. Le timbre à payer, dans le district de Montréal, sur la production d'une défense à une requête demandant la cassation d'un huissier est de $6.00, et pour l'inscription à l'enquête et au mérite de telle requête $3.00. C. S., 1890, Montréal, La Corporation des huissiers de Montréal vs Caisse, 19 R. L., 619; M. L. R., 6 C. S., 32; 13 L. N., 155.

1202. L'action paulienne ne poursuivant pas la déclaration d'une nullité relative, mais celle d'une nullité absolue, le montant des timbres à apposer sur les procédures doit être réglé, non par la somme demandée, mais par la valeur des biens qu'on cherche à faire rentrer dans le patrimoine du débiteur.

1203. Lorsqu'une pièce du dossier est insuffisamment timbrée, comme la loi ne fixe pas le délai ou la demande pour permission d'y apposer des timbres additionnels doit être faite après la découverte de l'erreur, il suffit que celle-ci existe à la date de la procédure qui n'a pas été revêtue des timbres requis, pour que la partie en faute puisse obtenir permission de la réparer. Il n'est pas nécessaire que le dossier soit transmis au tribunal de première instance pour avoir cette permission; elle peut être accordée, cour séante, par la cour de Révision, lorsque le défaut n'est signalé que devant ce tribunal. C. R., 1893, Québec, Leclaire vs Côté et al., R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 331; 16 L. N., 289.

1204. Le tribunal et le protonotaire ne peuvent exercer le pouvoir conféré à l'article 1177, S. R. Q., d'autoriser l'apposition de timbres sur les documents qui n'en ont pas été régulièrement revêtus, que sur requête par écrit, signifiée à la partie adverse, dans laquelle il est allégué que l'omission à réparer a été involontaire. L'usage suivi jusqu'ici, de faire cette demande verbalement, est irrégulier et illégal. C. S., 1895, Québec, Charlebois vs Pacaud, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 144.

1204a. Il n'est pas nécessaire qu'une copie de subpœna soit revêtue d'un timbre judiciaire lorsqu'elle est certifiée par l'avocat de la partie. Ce timbre n'est requis que sur les copies officielles de subpœna, c'est-à-dire sur celles qui émanent du greffe de la cour. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Ménard vs Laberge, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 321.

1205. L'insuffisance des timbres apposés sur une contestation de compte rendu ne sera pas une raison pour faire renvoyer cette contestation sur exception à la forme si les timbres sont apposés subséquemment, C. S., 1899, Ross vs Ross et Duff, 2 R. P. Q., 256.

1206. The fee chargeable by the prothonotary on the return of an action is a single fee, no matter how many writs are issued and addressed to bailiffs of different districts. S. C., 1901, Sweetsburg, The Eastern Townships Bank vs The Alliance Assurance Co., 13 Q. P. R., 409.

1207. The respondent has no interest in urging that the prothonotary gave credit to the petitioner's attorney, instead of claiming his fee on the election petition at once.

1208. No court house tax is payable upon an election petition. S. C., 1901, Bedford, In re Election of Missisquoi, Morin vs Meigs, 6 Q. P. R., 372.

1209. Sur un capias émis après jugement, il suffit de payer comme sur un alias bref. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Edgerton vs Lapierre, 6 R. P. Q., 434.

1210. L'inscription en droit est un plaidoyer au fonds et le déboursé sur plaidoyer doit être payé comme si toutes les défenses au fonds étaient produites en même temps, ce qui d'ailleurs est obligatoire. C. S., 1904, Richelieu, Charland vs Charland, 10 R. J., 497.

1211. Le montant des timbres à payer sur la contestation d'une réclamation dans une faillite est le même que celui payable pour le montant réclamé dans une action ordinaire. C. S., 1908, Montréal, In re Dodds Co. et Kent et al., et Dodds et Tougas et vir, 10 R. P. Q., 219.

1212. Le tarif n'exige pas de timbres sur les copies du bref d'assignation, lorsque ces copies sont certifiées par le procureur de la partie. C. S., 1911, Montréal, The Laurentian Granite Co. vs McLaughlin, 12 R. P. Q., 414.

1213. Traverse de chemin de fer.—Where the applicant had no absolute legal right to the crossing and it could only be granted by the board in the exercise of the discretion given by section 253 of the Railway Act (sub-sect. 2, sect. 198, Railway Act, 1903), the applicant should, therefore, bear the cost of its construction and maintenance and the company should receive reasonable compensation. Ry. B., 1907, Canada, Wright vs Michigan Central Ry Co., 6 C. Ry Cas., 133.

1214. Tuteur 'ad hoc.'—Un tuteur ad hoc qui intente pour sa pupille une action qui est renvoyée comme nulle et irrégulière sera condamné personnellement aux frais. C. C., 1886, Malbaie, Tremblay vs Castonguay, 12 L. N., 370.

1215. Vente de créance.—Where the transferee of the balance of certain constituted rents brought action against the debtor without notice of the transfer, no costs would be allowed, but on the other hand he would be condemned to pay costs. Where the latter has tendered the amount due and paid it into court. S. C., 1850, Quebec, Paré vs Deronselle, 6 L. C. R., 411; 5 R. J. R. Q., 122; 15 R. J. R. Q., 257; 18 R. J. R. Q., 1, 584.

1216. Lorsqu'un jugement renvoie contre le requérant une requête signifiée et produite plusieurs fois auparavant, le principe et la cause de la créance du défendeur pour le remboursement des frais dont il a obtenu distraction contre le requérant, sont considérés comme antérieurs au transport d'une créance par le requérant fait trois jours avant le jugement qui a disposé de la requête.

1217. Lorsqu'à la date de tel transport, le cédant ne possédait aucun autre bien, à la connaissance du cessionnaire, les droits des tiers ne peuvent en être affectés, si aucune considération n'a été fournie par le cessionnaire, lequel ne peut prétendre que le transport qui lui a été fait, l'a été en considération d'une convention antérieure par laquelle le dit cédant prêtait son nom au cessionnaire pour recouvrer, au profit de celui-ci, le paiement d'une certaine amende. B. R., 1885, Québec, Perreault vs La Corporation de la paroisse de la Malbaie, 14 R. L. 338.

1218. Verdict.—Les frais encourus sur le verdict d'un jury qui a été mis de côté, ne sont pas à la charge de la partie qui a obtenu ce verdict en sa faveur.

1219. Dans un tel cas, la partie contre laquelle le verdict a été rendu, est généralement condamnée aux frais du premier procès. C. S., 1857, Montréal, Beaudry vs Papin et Papin, 3 J., 46; 7 R. J. R. Q., 352.

1220. Vice-Amirauté.—Since the passing of the Imperial Statute, 2 William IV, ch. 51, the establishment of fees in the Vice-Admiralty court here is vested exclusively in the King in council, and the table of fees established under that statute having been revoked without making another, it is not competent to the court to award a quantum meruit to its officers. V. A., 1836, Lower Canada, Re "John and May", 1 S. V. A. R., 64.—V. A., 1837, Lower Canada, In re London, 1 S. V. A. R., 68, 140.

1221. If a suit be brought by a seaman for wages, a settlement without the concurrence of the promoter's proctor does not bar the claim for costs. The court will enquire whether the claims were or were not just, and relieve the proctor if it were not so. V. A., 1856, Lower Canada, In re "Thetis," 1 S. V. A. R., 363.

1222. Voiturier.—Le consignataire étant induit en erreur par les feuilles de route du second voiturier, ce dernier est condamné aux frais de l'action en dommages. C. S., 1891, Québec, Behan Brothers vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 17 R. J. Q., 299.

V. Acquiescement, Action, Action hypothécaire, Aliment, Appel, Appel (C. P.), Appel (C. Supr.), Arbitrage, Arpenteur, Avocat, Bornage, Capias, Cautionnement, Cautionnement pour frais, Certiorari, Cession judiciaire de biens, Chose jugée, Communauté, Compagnie incorporée, Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.), Compensation, Comptable incorporé, Contrainte par corps, Couronne, Distribution de deniers, Dommage, Douaire, Droit criminel, Droit municipal, Droit paroissial, Election provinciale contestée, Enquête, Exécuteur testamentaire, Expertise, Expropriation, Faillite, Habeas corpus, Huissier, Incessibilité, Insaisissabilité, Juge de paix, Jugement, Juridiction, Loi des licences de Québec, Louage des choses, Mari et femme, Marque de commerce, Mépris de cour, Minorité, Obligation, Offres réelles et consignation, Opposition afin d'annuler, Opposition afin de conserver, Opposition afin de distraire, Paiement, Pêche et Pêcheries, Prescription, Preuve, Privilège, Procédure, Procès par jury, Quo Warranto, Ratification de titre, Reddition de compte, Rente viagère, Répétition de l'indu, Requête civile, Responsabilité, Révision, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente de meuble, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Saisie-revendication, Sauvetage, Séparation de corps, Séquestre, Société, Solidarité, Subrogation, Substitution, Succession, Vente.

FRAIS (Au crim.)

INDEX

Ajournement 67
Amendement.... 1, 28, 38
Animaux..... 41
Appel, 2 et s., 23 et s., 72
Avis.....12, 15, 17
Caut. pour garder la paix, 19
"Certiorari".....20 et s.
Chemin public.....6, 40.
Commissaire de police, 30 et s.
Conviction sommaire, 10 et s., 15, 18, 34 et s., 44 et s., 52, 72
Corporation municipale, 39 et s.
"Costs and charges".. 47
Cruauté..... 41
Défendeur conjoint .. 42
Délai.....65 et s.
Dommage.... 6
Emprisonnement, 19, 22, 35, 59 et s., 64
Exécution.....9, 16,22, 36
"Habeas corpus"...43, 64
Honoraire non autorisé,50
Inspecteur de licence. 5
Interprétation 47
Juge de paix ...51, 61, 65
Jugement..... 52
Juridiction, 2, 6 et s., 12. 15, 25 et s., 29, 57, 62
Libelle .....53 et s.
Liqueurs enivrantes (garde)..... 1
Liqueurs enivrantes (vente).....5, 21 et s.
Loi des Licences..... 21
Loi de Tempérance, 22, 57 et s.
Maison de prostitution 63
Mandat d'emprisonnement..... 64
Paiement.....65 et s.
Prohibition.....18, 67
Prostitution..... 63
Réglement municipal, 39, 68
Remboursement, 50 et s., 69
Tarif..... 71
Taxation, 55 et s., 70 et s.
Transport à la prison, 35 et s., 43 et s., 57
Travail des aubains.. 72

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Amendement.—Where the only record of conviction produced before the institution of certiorari proceedings to quash the same is bad, and a valid amended conviction is produced in such proceedings, the costs of opposing the motion to quash should not be awarded against the applicant. Supr. C., 1896, British Columbia, The Queen vs McAnn, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 110.

2. Appel.—On quashing an appeal for want of jurisdiction the court refused costs because a motion to quash had not been made at the earliest convenient opportunity. Supr. C., 1885, Canada, Gendron vs McDougall, Cass. Dig. (2 ed.), 429; Cass. S. C. Prac., (2 ed.).

3. The costs which may be allowed on an appeal under section 9 of the Act as to frauds against cheese factories are in the discretion of the judge apart from the tariffs of cost applicable to other proceedings as to which he has jurisdiction.

4. When such an appeal is taken to a county court judge, his allowance of costs according to the county court tariff should not be interfered with. H. C., 1891, Ontario, The Queen vs McIntosh, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 114.

5. On a proposition under a Liquor License Act by a license inspector and an appeal by the defendant from the conviction obtained, costs will not be awarded to the inspector on the dismissal of the appeal, if by statute he is exempt from liability to pay costs had the decision been against him. Supr. C., 1898, Nova Scotia, The Queen vs Learmont, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 151.

6. The present defendant took an appeal, under the provisions of the criminal Code, to the court of Queen's Bench, Crown side, from a conviction by a district magistrate for failing to keep in repair a certain road. This appeal was quashed for want of jurisdiction. Costs were not granted. The present action was brought by the complainant in the previous proceeding, to recover by way of damages the expenses to which the plaintiff had been subjected by the appeal. The court below awarded $50.

7. The defendant, by bringing an appeal in a case in which the court of Queen's Bench had no jurisdiction, became liable for all legitimate costs and expenses incurred by the present plaintiff in resisting the appeal, including fees of counsel, taxation of witnesses, service of subpœnas, and travelling expenses.

8. Quære as to the power of the court to grant costs where an appeal is quashed for want of jurisdiction. C. R., 1899, Montreal, Beauchesne vs The Corporation of he Town of Scotstown, Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 316.

9. Where an order is made allowing the prosecutor's appeal and convicting the accused, the costs of the appeal may be included in the costs awarded by the conviction, and the payment thereof may be enforced by a distress warrant and imprisonment in default. Supr. C., 1899, Nova Scotia, The Queen vs Hawbolt, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 299.

10. Where an appeal to a court of general sessions of the peace from a summary conviction is not proceeded with, an order giving costs to the respondent can only be made at the same sittings for which notice of appeal was given; but where an appeal is heard, and determined against the appellant, the formal order need not be drawn up at the same sittings, and the respondent's costs may be taxed nunc pro tunc at the next sittings and included in a formal order then issued in pursuance of the direction therefor made at the previous sittings.

11. Where an appeal from a summary conviction has been heard and determined and a minute made by the chairman of the sessions dismissing the same with costs and directing the clerk to tax the same, but no formal order was ever drawn up, the clerk's certificate of taxation and a subsequent order of the court of general sessions directing a distress for the costs taxed are irregular, and will be quashed. H. C., 1900, Ontario, Bothwell vs Burnside, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 450.

12. There is no jurisdiction to award costs against the appellant in respect of the proceedings in appeal at any other sittings than the one for which notice was given (Code sect. 884). Cty C., 1901, British Columbia, McSadden vs Lachance, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 43.

13. Where an appeal from a summary conviction is entered and prosecuted but is dismissed on the ground that it was not lodged in due form, there is no jurisdiction to award costs against the appellant.

14. Code section 884 only applies where the appellant fails to proceed with his appeal without abandoning it according to law. Cty. C., 1902, Vancouver, The King vs Ah Yin, 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 66.

15. The court to which an appeal might properly be taken from a summary conviction has jurisdiction to award costs to the respondent on quashing an appeal for want of jurisdiction through a defect in the notice of appeal. Cty C., 1906, Nova Scotia, The King vs The Doliver Mountain Mining and Milling Co., 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 405.

16. When the costs of an unsuccessful appeal are awarded against the defendant, the payment of such costs may be enforced either by process of the appellate court or by a justice's warrant upon a certificate of default under Code, sect 739. K. B., 1909, Quebec, Collette vs The King, 16 Can. Cr. Cas. 281.

17. Costs are to be allowed to the respondent under Code section 755 only upon proof of notice of the appeal having been given to the persons entitled, and therefore will not be granted where the appeal is quashed for failure to serve all parties. D. C., 1910, Saskatchewan, The King vs Edelston, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 155.

18. Where upon an appeal from a summary conviction the county court judge purports to delegate the taxation of the costs of the appeal to the clerk of the court, instead of himself fixing the costs of the appeal, a superior court on an application for prohibition from collecting the costs taxed by the clerk, may enlarge the motion to allow of an application to the county judge to fix the costs and amend his judgment accordingly. H. C., 1910, Ontario, The King vs Hamhink, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 162.

19. Cautionnement pour garder la paix.—Upon a proceeding under section 959 of the criminal Code to compel the giving of a recognizance to keep the peace, the recovery of costs ordered against the defendant is governed by Code section 870 and imprisonment for non-payment is only authorized in default of distress. Supr. C., 1902, Nova Scotia, The King vs Power, 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 378.

20. Certiorari.—Les frais sur la mise au néant d'une condamnation (conviction) sont à la discrétion de la cour. C. S., 1857, Montréal, Ex parte Léonard, 1 J., 255; 11 R. J. R. Q., 493.

21. Where the defendant had been convicted of retailing fermented liquor without a license, and condemned in a penalty and costs: On petition for certiorari, the convicting magistrate had the right to grant costs either of conviction or dismissal of the prosecution, and even to the attorneys. S. C., 1862, Montreal, Moley vs Bellemare, 7 J., 1; 11 R. J. R. Q., 484.—S. C., 1862, Montreal, Slack vs Bellemare, 7 J., 6.

22. Defendant was convicted for selling intoxicating liquor contrary to the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act, 1878, and adjuged to pay the sum of $50, to be paid and applied according to law, also to pay the informant the sum of $6.14 costs; and, if such sums were not paid forthwith, that the same be levied by distress and sale of defendant's goods; and in default of distress, that defendant be imprisoned in the common jail for the space of 30 days, unless the sums and charges of the distress and commitment, if any, were sooner paid: There was sufficient ground for a certiorari. Supr. C., 1887, Nova Scotia, The Queen vs Ward, 20, N. S. R., Russ. & Geld., 108.

23. The informant in certiorari proceedings in criminal matters is not a party to the record although his name appears and although he is under liability for costs and has given a recognizance for same.

24. Semble: upon quashing a conviction in such a case, no cause of action in respect of its illegality survives against the representatives of the deceased informant.

25. Semble: an appeal under criminal Code, 880, to the general session would not abate under similar circumstances. H. C., 1898, Ontario, The Queen vs Fitzgerald, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 420.

26. Costs awarded against a magistrate in respect of an unsuccessful interlocutory application made by him in certiorari proceedings are not governed by criminal Code, section 897, and should be directed to be paid to the opposite party direct instead of to the clerk of the peace or other officer of the court which made the order.

27. The proceedings for enforcement of an order for costs provided by criminal Code, section 898, apply only to costs dealt with by a court of general sessions on affirming or quashing a conviction or order, on appeal to that court. H. C., 1898, Ontario, The Queen vs Graham, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 405.

28. Where a magistrate returns an amended conviction in certiorari proceedings and the conviction is sustained only by reason of the amendment, costs of the certiorari proceedings should not be awarded against the applicant. Supr. C., 1900, North-West Territories, The Queen vs Whiffin, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 141.

29. There is jurisdiction to award costs against an unsuccessful applicant in certiorari proceedings respecting a purely criminal charge either because of the recognizance of or an inherent power of the court. H. C., 1902, Ontario, The King vs Bennett, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 456.

30. Commissaire de police.—The person filling the office of commissioner of the Dominion police, has, as such, no legal capacity to represent and act on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen, and in laying an information in which he designated himself as such commissioner of the Dominion police, he acted as a private individual, and not as the legal representative of the Crown, although he declared that he was acting as such commissioner on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen.

31. The accused having been discharged and the commissioner, Mr. Sherwood, having bound himself by recognizance to prefer and prosecute an indictment on the charge contained in his information, and the grand jury having thrown out the bill of indictment, Mr. Sherwood was held, under article 595 of the criminal Code, to be personally liable for the costs incurred by the accused on the preliminary inquiry and before the court of Queen's Bench.

32. The costs allowed were not the fees and disbursements paid by the accused St-Louis to his counsel, such payment being a matter between client and counsel, but such costs as were held by analogy with the costs allowed in civil suits to be costs recoverable from a losing party.

33. Such costs should be taxed according to a tariff made for criminal proceedings, and in the absence of such tariff they had to be taxed in the discretion of the judge, by implication, according to the spirit of the provisions contained in article 835 of the criminal Code. Q. B., 1897, Montreal, Regina vs St-Louis, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 141; Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 389.

34. Convictions sommaires.—If costs are awarded on a conviction under the Summary Convictions Act, it is not necessary to state the amount of the costs in the minute of conviction made under section 53, unless the defendant requires it; it is sufficient that the amount is stated in the conviction. Supr. C., 1889, New Brunswick, Ex parte Porter, 28 N. B. R., 587.

35. A conviction under the Summary Convictions Act (Consol. Stat. ch. 62) awarding costs and ordering imprisonment for non-payment of the fine is sufficient under section 31, though it does not follow form (L) and award the costs of commitment and conveying to gaol. Supr. C., 1893, New Brunswick, Ex parte Young, 32 B. N. R., 178.

36. If the justice making a summary conviction adjuges a pecuniary penalty and a distress to realize same, and in default of sufficient distress that the defendant be imprisoned, the costs of the distress and of conveying the defendant to gaol are not in the discretion of the justice, but must be included in the formal conviction.

37. The omission of that provision from the formal conviction in such a case invalidates the conviction. Supr. C., 1894, Nova Scotia, The Queen vs Vantassel, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 133.

38. No costs will be ordered against the defendant applying to quash a summary conviction if the court thereupon amends the conviction by reducing a sentence in excess of the statutory limit, although other objections to the conviction were overruled. H. C., 1908, Ontario, The King vs McKenzie, 13 Can. Cr. Cas., 312.

39. Corporation municipale.—Where a prosecution is instituted by a police officer in his own name as informant, in respect of an offence against a municipal by-law, the police officer is personally a party both to the proceedings before the magistrate and to the appeal from his decision, and the municipal corporation is not properly named as a party to such appeal, nor can costs be awarded in favour of the corporation. H. C., 1900, Ontario, Bothwell vs Burnside, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 450.

40. If a municipality found guilty of maintaining a nuisance by not repairing a highway, makes default under the judgment ordering abatement thereof, but repairs the highway pending a motion for a writ of de nocumento, the court may in its discretion order the costs of the motion to be paid by the defendant. H. C., 1905, Manitoba, The King vs Portage la Prairie, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 125.

41. Cruauté envers les animaux.—En vertu de l'article 512 Code criminel, relatif aux poursuites pour cruauté envers les animaux, l'accusé ne peut être condamné aux frais. B. R., 1899, Ottawa, Beaulieu vs Lemery, 6 R. J., 199.

42. Défendeur conjoint.—Where there are two defendants in an action of trespass, if one be acquitted, he is entitled to his costs against the plaintiff, notwithstanding that his co-defendant be found guilty. K. B., 1817, Quebec, Henderson vs Thompson and Thompson, 3 R. de L., 392.

43. Frais de transport.—The magistrate may by the warrant of commitment order that the defendant shall pay the costs of the warrant and of conveying him to gaol and fix the amount of such costs. The court cannot interfere on a writ of habeas corpus with the taxation of costs. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Ex parte G. B. Jones, 1 D. C. A., 100.

44. If the justice making a summary conviction adjudges a pecuniary penalty and a distress to realize same, and in default of sufficient distress that the defendant be imprisoned, the costs of the distress and of conveying the defendant to gaol are not in the discretion of the justice, but must be included in the formal conviction.

45. It is unnecessary for the justice to insert in the minute of conviction any provision that the defendant shall pay such costs of distress and conveying to gaol, as a pre-requisite to his discharge from custody before the end of the term of imprisonment.

46. The formal conviction may provide under Code section 872 (a) for the payment of the costs both of the distress and of conveying to gaol, although the minute of conviction does not include the costs of distress but merely directs imprisonment unless the penalty and costs and the costs of conveying to gaol are sooner paid.

47. The expression "costs and charges" used in Code forms WW and FFF has the same meaning as the term "expenses" in Code section 872 (a). Supr. C., 1894, Nova Scotia, The Queen vs Vantassel 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 128.

48. The costs of distress and of conveying to gaol are obligatory where a summary conviction imposes a fine and awards distress and imprisonment in default of distress, and therefore the omission of any reference to such costs in the minute of adjudication will not invalidate the formal conviction which includes them. Supr. C., 1902, Nova Scotia, The King vs Beagan, 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 5, 6.

49. A statutory provision for release from imprisonment on paying the fine and costs up to conviction and "subsequent costs" includes under the latter head, the costs of arrest and commitment and conveying to gaol. Supr. C., 1909, Quebec, The King vs Dubuc, 15 Can. Cr. Cas., 353.

50. Honoraire non autorisé.—A "wilful" receiving of unauthorized fees means receiving them intentionally with a knowledge that there is no legal right to collect them.

51. A justice of the peace is not entitled to fees in respect of a preliminary enquiry for an indictable offence, and an action lies against him to recover fees illegally collected. H. C., 1903, Ontario, McGillivray vs Muir, 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 360.

52. Jugement.—On a summary conviction awarding imprisonment, costs may also be awarded, and in default of payment, imprisonment for a further term not exceeding three months. K. B., 1908, Quebec, Ex parte, Tierney, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 194; Q. J. R., 17 K. B., 486.

53. Libelle.—Le demandeur avait été poursuivi par le défendeur pour libelle diffamatoire, devant les assises criminelles, et le jury, saisi de la cause, avait rendu un verdict d'acquittement en sa faveur. Aucune demande ne fut faite lors du verdict pour une condamnation aux dépens contre le défendeur, mais le demandeur réclama plus tard ces dépens par une action ordinaire. Après avoir entendu la cause, la cour Supérieure déchargea le délibéré pour donner l'occasion au demandeur de faire taxer ses frais par le juge qui avait présidé au procès criminel. Cette taxation fut faite, et la cause fut de nouveau entendue au mérite:

54. Le demandeur pouvait réclamer ses frais et dépens du défendeur, par une action ordinaire, bien qu'il n'eût pas demandé une condamnation aux dépens contre ce dernier lors du verdict.

55. Le juge qui avait présidé au procès criminel, pouvait, même après ce procès, taxer ces frais et dépens. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Mackay vs Hughes, R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 367.

56. Where the accused, after his acquittal in a criminal libel action, proceeded to tax his costs and moved before the trial judge for certain costs, and on obtaining an order with which he was dissatisfied abandoned the taxation and commenced a civil action against the prosecutors for his costs, the civil action will be allowed to proceed only on terms of the plaintiff undertaking to abide by such order as may be made therein as to the costs of the abandoned taxation in the criminal case. Supr. C., 1902, British Columbia, Nichol vs Pooley et al., 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 12, 269.

57. Loi de Tempérance.—It is an excess of jurisdiction, in a conviction under the Canada Temperance Act, to award costs other than those provided for by 52 Vict., ch. 45, sect. 2. Supr. C., 1891, New Brunswick, Ex parte Bourque, 31 N. B. R., 509.

58. A conviction under the Canada Temperance Act may include the costs and charges of the commitment and conveying the defendant to gaol in default of distress. Supr. C., 1891, New Brunswick, Ex parte, Shehan, 29 N. B. R., 133.—Supr. C., 1891, New Brunswick, Ex parte Whalen, 29 N. B. R., 144.

59. It is in the discretion of the justice convicting for a violation of the Canada Temperance Act whether they will make an adjudication and insert it in the conviction, requiring the detention of the defendant until the costs of conveying to gaol are paid.

60. Where no such provisions is made in the conviction, it will be assumed that the justices exercised their discretion, and did not make the order as to costs.

61. Justices may in their discretion allow the expenses of witnesses as part of the costs. The items need not be set out in the conviction. It is not ground for setting aside the conviction that the justice have made a mistake and allowed too much costs. Supr. C., 1893, Nova Scotia, Queen vs McDonald et al., 26 N. S. R., Russ. and Geld., 94.

62. It is not an excess of jurisdiction in a conviction under the Canada Temperance Act to award costs other than those provided for by 52 Vict., ch. 45, sect. 2. Supr. C., 1893, New Brunswick, Ex parte Howard, 32 N. B. R., 237.

63. Maison de prostitution.—A conviction adjudging a fine of $100 without any mention of costs upon the summary trial before a police magistrate of a charge of keeping a common bawdy house sufficiently complies with section 781 of the criminal Code, which provides that the magistrate may condemn the party convicted to pay a fine not exceeding, with the costs of the case, one hundred dollars. K. B., 1911, Manitoba, Rex vs Stark, 21 Man. L. R., 345.

64. Mandat d'emprisonnement. — If excessive costs have been included in a warrant of commitment for default in payment of a fine upon summary conviction, the court may on the return of a habeas corpus amend the conviction and commitment by reducing such costs to the proper amount and may remand the prisoner. Supr. C., 1908, Nova Scotia, The King vs Morris, 16 Can. Cr. Cas., 1.

64a. Si une plainte est renvoyée avec dépens et le plaignant condamné à la prison à défaut de paiement des frais, un mandat d'emprisonnement qui mentionne que le plaignant est condamné aux travaux forcés, est illégal, et le requérant sera libéré sur habeas corpus. C. S., 1913, Montréal, Yanofsky vs Vallée, 19 R. P. Q., 198.

65. Paiement.—Le plaignant, dans une action devant la cour des juges de paix, dont la plainte est renvoyée avec dépens, ne peut être condamné à payer ces dépens dans un délai moindre que le délai légal de quinze jours réglé par la section 4598 S. R. Q. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Tassé vs Beaulieu, 8 R. J., 231.

66. The power under Code section 971 to award such costs to be paid "within such period and by such instalments as the court directs" does not make it necessary to divide the costs into instalments. Supr. C., 1905, North West Territories, The King vs McLellan, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 1.

67. Prohibition.—Where prohibition is granted because of an adjournment of the trial of a summary matter having been made for more than eight days contrary to section 722 of the criminal Code, and it appears that an adjournment of the hearing was moved by defendant's counsel, costs of the prohibition motion will be refused the defendant petitioning for the prohibition. S. C., 1910, Quebec, Donohue vs Recorder's Court of Quebec, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 182; 12 Q. P. R., 267.

68. Règlement municipal.—Une conviction qui accorde des frais est nulle, lorsqu'elle est basée sur un règlement qui ne donne aucune juridiction quant aux frais. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Marry vs Sexton et al. et Le Maire et al. de Montréal, 2 R. L., 188; 14 J., 163; 20 R. J. R. Q., 91, 516, 558.

69. Remboursement.—Where the conviction of the magistrate is reversed by the general sessions on appeal, the unauthorized inclusion in the order of the latter court of a direction that the magistrate refund to the appellant the fine and costs collected from him will not vitiate that part of the order which quashed the conviction with costs. H. C., 1905, Ontario, The King vs Tucker, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 217.

70. Taxation.—The taxation of costs against an unsuccessful private prosecutor who has at his own request been bound over to prefer an indictment, is controlled by Code, section 835.

71. The scale of costs in the absence of a tariff for criminal proceedings, is the lowest scale in civil suits in the court in which the indictment is tried. K. B., 1903, Quebec, The King vs Gouillould, 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 432; 10 R. L., n. s., 187.

72. Travail des aubains.—Prosecution under the Alien Labour Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 97, being subject to the summary conviction procedure of the criminal Code, 1906, no costs can be awarded to the successful party on the allowance of an appeal from a summary conviction thereunder, in excess of the costs taxable under the summary convictions clauses, part XV of the criminal Code. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Windsor Hotel Co. Ltd. vs Hinton et al., 5 D. L. R., 228.

V. Appel (Au crim.), Appel (C. P.), Frais.

FRAIS (C. Ech.)

1. Les frais en cour de l'Echiquier sont fixés par les règles et ordonnances refondues le 11 janvier 1909. V. les règles 49, 58, 66, 104, 106, 156, 165, 261, 290, 295, 296, 297, 316, et plus spécialement 178, 295 et 315.

V. 11 R. C. Ech., 311; Cour de l'Echiquier, Frais, Frais (C. Supr.), Appel (C. Supr.)..

FRANCHISE

Déf.—Ce terme, en droit, désigne certains privilèges ou droit d'exemption que l'autorité accorde à une personne ou à une corporation.

V. Droit municipal, Loi,

FRASERVILLE (Ville de)

V. Expropriation.

FRAUDE

V. Dol et Fraude.

FRUITS

V. Produits alimentaires.

FRUITS ET REVENUS

Déf.—On appelle fruits et revenus ce que produit ou rapporte une chose. Ils sont naturels ou industriels et appartiennent au possesseur de bonne foi avec titre apparent. Industriales sunt illi ad quos producendos cultura opus est, ut segetes. Pand., lib. 22, tit. 1.—Naturales sunt quo res ultro fet, ut fœnum pratorum. Pand. lib. 22, tit. 1.—C. c. 378, 409 et s., 447 et s., 1453.

V. Accession, Impenses et améliorations, Propriété, Possession, Reddition de compte.

G

GAGE

Déf.—Le gage est un contrat par lequel une chose mobilière est mise entre les mains du créancier, ou, étant déjà entre ses mains, est par lui retenue, du consentement du propriétaire pour sûreté de sa dette. Pignus est contractus quo res in securitatem debiti possidenda ea lege traditur, ut, soluto debito, ipsa in specie reddatur. Pand., lib. 13, tit. 7. C. c., arts 1966, 1968.

Ce contrat prend aussi le nom de nantissement, et, sous cette désignation, il s'applique aux immeubles comme aux meubles. C. c., article 1967.

Cout. de P., art. 181.—Et n'a lieu la contribution, quand le créancier se trouve saisi du meuble qui lui a été baillé en gage.

INDEX

Abus du gage.....3, 5
Action..... 66
Amélioration.....6 et s.
Avances, 10, 13 et s., 49, 55 et s.
Billet promissoire, 12, 24, 26, 28, 30 et s.
Bois de service 8
Cautionnement jud... 2
Chemin de fer..... 37
Chose d'autrui, 9, 55 et s., 61 et s.
Chose jugée 53
Commission 10
Commis-voyageur ... 11
Compensation 25, 53
Condition, 12, 58 et s., 64
Connaissement, 13 et s., 26
Conservation du gage. 15
Consignation, 13 et s., 16, 33, 55
Contrelettre..... 67
Courtier.....21 et s.
Créance.....17 et s., 39
Créancier, 20, 23, 33, 39 et s., 45, 54
Créancier gagiste..... 1
Débenture, 21 et s., 29, 49
Délai.....47, 64
Dépense d'entretien.. 15
Dette antérieure...24 et s.
Dette nouvelle ...27 et s.
Dommage 42
Encan public.....65 et s.
Endosseur.....30 et s.
Exception dilatoire... 31
Garantie, 5, 22, 26, 29, 31
Grains..... 10
Hypothèque 58
Interprétation, 36, 68 et s.
Licence 27
Livraison..... 33 et s., 37
Louage des choses 32
Loyers..... 18
Mandat..... 22
Offres réelles.....49 et s.
Pacte commissoire, 45 et s.
Paiement partiel..... 53
Possession, 7, 20, 29, 33 et s., 55, 59, 69
Poursuite sur créance 39
Prêt..... 22
Promesse de gage, 40 et s.
Propriété.....19, 43 et s.
Reçu d'entrepôt..... 47
Remise du gage, 6 et s., 24, 29, 48 et s., 55
Révision..... 53
S. a. après jugement.. 60
Saisie exécution..... 54
Saisie-revendication, 16, 22, 55 et s.
Testament..... 19
Tiers.....70 et s.
Transport.....58 et s.
Vente, 20, 33, 36, 43, 60 et s.
Vente simulée.....67 et s.

ÉCRIT

1. Créancier gagiste.—Article écrit par A. Lecolle. 11 R. L., n. s., 438.

LOIS

2. Cautionnement judiciaire.—"Dans le cas d'un cautionnement par nantissement, tous les intérêts provenant des deniers ou des obligations (débentures) donnés en gage, appartiennent et sont remis à la personne qui a fourni ce cautionnement, tant qu'il n'y a pas eu de violation d'icelui." S. R. Q., art. 618.

JURISPRUDENCE

3. Abus du gage. — An action for damages against a pledgee will lie for an unlawful conversion of the property pledged, although the debt for which the pledge was given is not paid nor tendered with the action, and although no option is given to the pledgee to return the property pledged or pay its value. Q. B., 1885, Montreal, Gilman vs Campbell et al., ès-qual., 30 J., 49; M. L. R., 2 Q. B., 291; 9 L. N., 405.

4. The pledgee who applies to his own uses a sum of money pledged as security for the payment of a note, is guilty of an abuse of the pledge, within the meaning of article 1975 of the civil Code, sufficient to justify the pledgor in demanding repayment of such money with interest. S. C., 1893, Quebec, Pacaud vs Banque du Peuple, Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 8; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 424; 16 L. N., 176.

5. As a guarantee of the good faith of the contractor a deposit of money was made: It was held that the deposit so made was a pledge subject to the provisions of the 16th title of the civil Code; which deposit, in the absence of any express stipulation, could not be retained by the pledgee, and as the city had appropriated the thing pledged to its own use without authority, the security was gone by the act of the creditor and the debtor was entitled to its restitution although the obligation for which the security had been given had not been executed. Supr. C., 1902, Canada, Finnie vs City of Montreal, 32 Supr. C. R., 335.

6. Amélioration.—Celui qui fait des améliorations ou augmentations à une chose mobilière, dont il a droit d'être remboursé, ne peut être tenu de livrer ou restituer cette chose jusqu'à ce que tel remboursement ait été effectué.

7. Le privilège attaché à cette créance, aux termes de l'article 1994 C. c., ne subsiste néanmoins qu'en autant que le gage ou droit de rétention lui-même subsiste, c'est-à-dire qu'en autant que telle chose, ainsi améliorée, est retenue en la possession de celui qui a droit au remboursement et au privilège, mais ce, dans tous les cas, sans préjudice à son recours personnel contre celui avec qui il a pu avoir contracté. C. S., 1905, Kamouraska, Morin vs Gagnon, 12 R. J., 245.

8. Bois de service.—By an agreement entered into between the appelant, respondents and one Joseph Gordon, respondents undertook to advance to Gordon a sum of $7,000.00 or so much more as should be necessary to manufacture and put on the track of the Northern Railway, in the province of Ontario, a certain quantity of timber destined for Quebec. Respondents were to have a first lien on this timber for their advances, commission, etc. They now claim from appellant the amount furnished to Gordon for manufacturing and bringing the timber to Quebec. Although according to said agreement respondents undertook to advance only the amount required to put the timber upon the track of the Northern Railway, they have a legal lien for their disbursements, for bringing the timber to Quebec. Q. B., 1883, Quebec, Bew vs Shortreed et al., 3 D. C. A., 188.

9. Chose d'autrui.—The pledge of a movable, not belonging to the pledgor but held by him under lease, is void as against the owner of the movable. C. C., 1885, Montreal, Williams Manufacturing Co. vs Lalonde, 8 L. N., 172.

10. Commission.—The pledgee of grain, pledged as collateral security for advances, is not responsible for commissions on sales made by an agent employed by the pledgor, and acting solely under his instructions as owner, although such sales were made only on such terms as were satisfactory to the pledgee. C. R., 1895, Montreal, Hirschfeld vs Union Bank of Canada et al., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 300.

11. Commis-voyageur.—Le voyageur de commerce ne peut, pour garantir ses dettes personnelles, donner en gage les marchandises échantillons de son patron. C. C., 1905, Richmond, Gilmour vs Snow, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 39.

12. Condition. — Where the return of money pledged as security for the payment of a note is conditioned upon the collection by the pledgee of the amount of such note, the fact that he has been himself the means of preventing the collection of the note (as by releasing one of the parties thereto, the others being insolvent), will make the conditional obligation (to return the money) absolute. S. C., 1893, Quebec, Pacaud vs Banque du Peuple, Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 8; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 424; 16 L. N., 176.

13. Connaissement.—The absence of the indorsement on bills of lading by the consignee therein named is notice of an outstanding interest in the goods represented by the bills and places persons proposing to make advances upon the security of those bills upon inquiry in respect to the circumstances affecting them.

14. On failure to take proper measures in order to ascertain these facts and obtain a clear titled to the bills and goods, any pledge thereof must be assumed to have been made subject to all rights of such consignee. Supr. C., 1905, Canada, Gosselin vs Ontario Bank, 36 Supr. C. R., 406; Q. J. R., 26 S. C., 430.

15. Conservation du gage.—Under article 1973 c. C., the pledgee can only incur the necessary expenses for the preservation of the thing pledged. Supr. C., 1889, Canada, McCaffrey vs Ball and McCaffrey and Hon. Turcotte, ès-qual., 34 J., 91; 15 L. N., 164; 20 Supr. C. R., 319.

16. Consignation.—In an action in revendication of certain goods consigned to the defendant by the plaintiffs, it was held that prior to 10 and 11 Vict., ch. 10, the consignee of goods could not pledge them for his own debt, and that the consignor might revendicate them in the hands of a third party if they were so pledged. K. B., 1848, Quebec, Rostron vs Walker, 1 L. C. R., 318.

17. Créance.—Une dette active peut être donnée en nantissement. C. R., 1879, Québec, In re Farmer et Bell et Trust and Loan Co., 6 R. J. Q., 1.—C. R., 1887, Québec, Léonard et al. vs St-Arnaud, 13 R. J. Q., 317; 11 L. N., 72.

18. Des créances non échues, notamment des loyers, sont susceptibles d'être données en nantissement. C. S., 1885, Montréal, De Bellefeuille vs Ross et vir et Stearns et al. et Moynaugh, 29 J., 145.

19. Le débiteur qui donne en gage une créance à son créancier, reste propriétaire de cette créance, et si le créancier, par son testament donne à son débiteur une quittance de tout ce qu'il peut lui devoir, le débiteur pourra ensuite percevoir lui-même le montant de la créance qu'il avait mise en gage. B. R., 1890, Montréal, L'Hon. Jetté et al. et Beaudry vs Dorion, 19 R. L., 242; M. L. R., 6 B. R., 438; 14 L. N., 180; 34 J., 157.

20. Créancier.—Les créanciers du débiteur qui a mis sa chose en gage, peuvent faire vendre le droit que ce débiteur a dans cette chose, mais ils ne peuvent faire vendre ce gage de manière à enlever au créancier gagiste la possession qu'il en a, et s'ils veulent faire vendre le gage de manière à priver le créancier gagiste de la détention, ils doivent commencer par désintéresser ce créancier gagiste. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Leclerc vs Valin et Dame Berthiaume, 14 R. L., n. s., 236.

21. Débenture.—A broker who accepts from a non trader, in pledge, as security for money advanced or loaned by him, securities payable to bearer and negotiable by delivery, takes them, if they have matured and are past due, subject to any deficiency of right in the borrower to so pledge them.

22. Where, therefore, the agent of an estate (not a trader in similar articles) to whom bonds matured and past due were entrusted for safe keeping and for collection of the interest on the coupons, pledges them to a broker as security for a loand made to himself personally, the representatives of the estate have a right to resume possession of them by revendication in the hands of the broker. Supr. C., 1883, Quebec, Young et al. vs MacNider, Q. J. R., 4 S. C., 208; Q. J. R., 3 Q. B., 539, 24 Supr. C. R., 272.

23. Where bonds find their way into the hands of a creditor as a mere pledge for his debt, not being bought in open market, the creditor can only recover the amount of his debt and not the face value of the bonds. Ex. C., 1908, Canada, The Royal Trust Co. vs The Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway Co., 13 Ex. C. R., 42.

24. Dette antérieure.—Des effets de commerce mis en gage pour garantir une créance déterminée, ne pourront être retenus par le créancier gagiste, jusqu'à ce qu'une dette antérieure à celle pour laquelle les effets ont été mis en gage soit payée, à moins qu'il n'y ait une convention spéciale à cet effet.

25. Sous les mêmes circonstances, lorsque le gage a été réalisé en argent, le créancier gagiste ne pourra offrir en compensation à la demande de la valeur du gage, une créance antérieure. C. S., 1885, Montréal, La Banque d'Echange du Canada vs La Banque d'Epargne de la cité et du district et Buntin et al., 14 R. L., 8; 30 J., 85; M. L. R., 2 C. S., 51; M. L. R., 6 B. R., 196; 9 L. N., 67; 13 L. N., 354.

26. The transfer of goods, then stored in New York, by a debtor apparently solvent, to his creditor, by endorsement of the bill of lading, as security for an antecedent indebtedness as well as for a note at the time discounted by the creditor, is valid, and the creditor may apply the proceeds of the pledge to the antecedent debt, and recover on the note discounted at the time. Q. B., 1890, Montreal, Watson vs Johnson, M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 147; 14 L. N., 412.

27. Dette nouvelle.—Action was brought against the defendant to restore to the plaintiff a timber licence which had been deposited with the defendant as security for moneys due to the Crown and for ground rent, which had been paid or tendered, and the defendant pleaded the plaintiff had since become indebted to him for a further amount of money, and that he had a right to retain the pledge until the further debt was paid: The plea of the defendant was held to be good in law, and maintained with costs. S. C., 1867, Quebec, McDonald vs Hall, 17 L. C. R., 168.

28. The plaintiff received from the defendants a promissory note at four months, dated 21 January, 1895, for $450, as collateral security for an advance of $250 to one of the defendants, M. The plaintiff also received from the defendant M two notes for $125 each, both dated 24 January, 1895, one at three and the other at four months, to cover the $250 advance. On the 8th February, 1895, the plaintiff received from M another note for $150 at four months, for a new advance. The note at three months became due 27 April, 1895, and one of the defendants paid $25 on account and gave a renewal note for $100 at four months: The sum of $100, represented by the renewal note, only became due after the note for $150: And that the plaintiff was not entitled, under the circumstances, to the benefit of the second paragraph of article 1975 c. C., which says that if another debt be contracted after the pledging of the thing and become due before that for which the pledge was given, the creditor is not obliged to restore the thing until both debts are paid. C. R., 1900, Montreal, Brunet vs Cameron et al. (Renversé par la C. A. qui a rétabli le jugement de la C. S. non rapporté). Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 192.

29. Garantie collatérale. — Where a party was personnally liable on bills for which he deposited bonds of a railway company, as collateral security, in a bank, for the accommodation of this company, to be availed of only upon failure of the government to pay a subsidy previously transfererd to the bank, the latter agreed that, on and after the subsidy being paid, he would return the bonds, the subsidy was paid, the first party sued to recover back the bonds, but the railway company were not joined in the action: The depositor was not merely an agent for the railway company, but being a party personnally liable on the bills secured by the subsidy, and having complied with all the necessary conditions, was, as against the bank, the legal owner and entitled to recover possession of the bonds. Supr. C., 1877, Canada, Drummond vs Baylis, 2 Supr. C. R., 61.

30. Lettre de change et billet promissoire.—No action will lie in favour of the pledgee, against the indorsers of notes pledged as security for a loan declared invalid. P. C., 1891, Quebec, Banque du Peuple vs Bryant, Powis and Bryant et al., 17 Q. J. R., 103; 14 L. N., 390; L. R., 1893, A. C., 170; 62 L. J., P. C., 68; 68 L. T., 546; 1 R., 336.

31. Lorsque le faiseur et l'endosseur d'un billet promissoire sont poursuivis conjointement, le faiseur ne peut, par une exception dilatoire, appeler en garantie l'endosseur qui est déjà partie au litige et ne peut être réputé un tiers aux fins de l'action. C. S., 1911, Arthabaska, Banque Molson vs De Courval et al., 12 R. P. Q., 439.

32. Louage des choses.—A person who is in possession of a movable article as lessee is unable to pledge it effectively as against the real owner, for a past due indebtedness of his own. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Carbonneau vs Machabée, Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 92.

33. Possession.—Goods imported from England were consigned to a commercial firm in Quebec, and stored in the Customs warehouse there, according to the customs regulations, for freight, duties, and storage. By a contract in writing they were subsequently pledged by this firm to another one of the same place for advances made to them, and a note of such transaction entered in the book of the chief officer of the customs, specifying the conditions on which the loan was made, with a request to such officer to hold the goods subject to the orders of the latter partnership, they paying the duty and storage charges before removal. A creditor of the first firm obtained a judgment against them and seized the goods in bonds, but the execution was opposed by the pledgee, who asked the court to release the goods from seizure on the ground that by the above contract the property of the goods in question was conveyed to them to secure repayment of the advances made by them: The Superior court maintained the opposition. The judgment was reversed by the court of Review and the last judgment was confirmed in Appeal. The Judicial committee held, that the circumstances of the case and the dealings of the parties constituted a constructive delivery, and that the judgments dismissing the said opposition could not be supported. The judgment of the court of Appeal was reversed and that of the Superior court restored. P. C., 1870, Quebec, Young vs Lambert, 1 B. J. P. C., 609; 6 Moore, n. s., 406; L. R., 3 P. C., 142; 39 L. J., P. C., 21; 22 L. T., 499; 18 R. J. R. Q., 476, 548; C. R., 5 App. Cas., 501.

34. Pledge must be completed by delivery, and can only be continued by actual possession, C. R., 1879, Quebec, In re Lemay et al., 6 Q. L. R., 35.

35. La possession feinte de la chose ne peut pas opérer le nantissement qui, pour être efficace, exige la possession réelle, ou la symbolique dans les cas où la loi l'autorise, et la remise par un marchand, fut-il même garde-magasin (warehouseman), à un tiers d'une liste de marchandises lui appartenant dans ses hangars, ou dans son entrepôt privé, avec une déclaration écrite qu'il les y détient pour le compte de ce tiers auquel il les donne en gage, ne confère au tiers aucun privilège. C. S., 1883, Québec, Ross vs Thompson et al. et Laird, 9 R. J. Q., 365; 10 R. J. Q., 308; 8 L. N., 48.

36. A sale of chattel property may be considered as a mere pledge, instead of an actual sale, and will be declared inoperative as such pledge, for want of delivery to and possession by the pledge. Supr. C., 1884, Montreal, Moffatt, ès-qual., vs Burland, 4 D. C. A., 59; 28 J., 214; 7 L. N., 182; 8 L. N., 147; Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 271; 11 Supr. C. R., 76.

37. The principal owner of the South Eastern Railway Company was in the habit of mingling the moneys of the company with his own. He bought locomotives which were delivered to, and used openly and publicly by the company as their own property for several years. In January and May, 1883, by documents sous seing privé, he sold with the condition to deliver on demand, ten of these locomotives to guarantee an indorsement of his notes for $50,000, made by the buyer, but reserved the right on payment of the notes to have the locomotives re-delivered to him. He became insolvent and the buyer by action against him, the S. E. Railway Company, and trustees of the company under 43 and 44 Vict., ch. 49 (Que.), asked delivery of the locomotives, which were at the time in open possession of the railway company, unless the debt was paid. The railway company and trustees pleaded a general denial, and during the proceedings an intervention was filed by a judgment creditor of the seller alleging him notorious insolvency at the time of the alleged sale: It was held that the transaction amounted only to a pledge not accompanied by delivery, and, therefore, the buyer was not entitled to the possession of the locomotives as against creditors of the company, and that in any case they were not entitled to the property as against a judgment creditor of the insolvent. Supr. C., 1887, Canada, Fairbanks et al. vs Barlow et al. and O'Halloran, 14 Supr. C. R., 217; M. L. R., 2 Q. B., 332; 9 L. N., 406; 10 L. N., 108.

38. Le privilège du gagiste n'existe pas tant que le gage n'est pas mis en la possession du créancier, ou d'un tiers convenu entre les parties. C. R., 1890, Montréal, Murray vs La Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal et Sorel et Murray et al. et La Banque Ontario, 20 R. L., 310, 437.

39. Poursuite sur créance.—Le créancier qui est en possession d'un gage, que son débiteur lui a donné comme sûreté d'une obligation, peut poursuivre en recouvrement de sa créance sans offrir de remettre le gage qu'il a droit de retenir comme garantie de sa créance jusqu'à ce qu'il soit entièrement payé. C. de D., 1843, Terrebonne, Furze vs Wright, 3 R. L., n. s., 156.

40. Promesse de gage.—Le propriétaire d'effets mobiliers qui a promis les donner en nantissement à son créancier, doit les lui remettre comme gage; sur le refus de le faire, le créancier a droit d'action pour l'y contraindre. B. R., 1879, Québec, Cary vs La Compagnie de papier du Canada et al., 10 R. L., 501; 4 R. J. Q., 323.

41. An agreement by which the maker of a note undertakes, in case it is not paid at maturity, to transfer to the payee as security, certain specified movables of which he retains the possession in the mean time, does not give the payee the right to revendicate the movables after the note falls due and remains unpaid.

42. The proper remedy in such a case is a personal action for breach of contract. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Savard vs Tremblay, Q. J. R., 30 S. C., 423; 12 R. L., n. s., 402.

43. Propriété.—Where the plaintiff had given the defendant express authority to sell or dispose of the property pledged in such manner as they might deem advisable without notice, an action would not lie to get it back. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Dempsey vs MacDougall et al., 21 J., 328; 1 L. N., 211.

44. A person in possession, ostensibly as owner, of a thing may validly give it in pawn, when the pledgee receives it in good faith, believing it to belong to his debtor. C. C., 1890, Montreal, Williams Manufacturing Co. vs Willock, 13 L. N., 145.

45. La convention par laquelle un débiteur consent que son créancier devienne propriétaire de valeurs qu'il lui remet comme garantie accessoire, à son défaut de payer la dette, n'est pas un pacte commissoire, mais une extension du contrat de gage.

46. Elle donne au créancier, à l'échéance, le choix de deux alternatives, ou bien de s'approprier le gage en paiement sans recourir à un jugement et à une exécution, ou bien de recouvrer sa créance par les voies ordinaires sur les autres biens de son débiteur, sauf l'obligation de remettre le gage dès qu'il est intégralement payé. B. R., 1906, Québec, Holman vs Scott, R. J. Q., 15 B. R., 193.

47. Reçu d'entrepôt.—Le droit de gage conféré par endossement de reçu de garde-magasin ne dure que six mois. C. S., 1890, Québec, MacNider vs Beaulieu et Allen, 16 R. J. Q., 295; 14 L. N., 59.

48. Remise du gage.—La remise au propriétaire de l'objet donné en gage éteint le droit de gage. B. R., 1888, Québec, La Banque Molson vs Rochette, 17 R. L., 139; 14 R. J. Q., 261; 11 L. N., 364.

49. Where debentures are pledged as security for money advanced, and the debtor tenders the amount of the debt, and the creditor is unable to restore it, having parted with it, and treated it as his own property, the tender cannot be regarded as insufficient, under article 1975 c. C., because the owner owes other debts which became due before the one for which the things were pledged, and the creditor must pay the value of the debentures at the time of the demand, and, unless the contrary is proved, the value to be paid is their nominal or par value. P. C., 1889, Quebec, Senécal vs Pauzé, 1 B. J. P. C., 609; L. R., 14 App. Cas., 637; M. L. R., 5 Q. B., 461; M. L. R., 1 S. C., 465; 7 L. N., 30; 8 L. N., 348; 12 L. N., 330; 28 J., 161.

50. Celui qui a reçu en gage certains effets n'est tenu de les remettre que lorsqu'il est payé du montant de sa créance, il n'est pas tenu de les offrir avec son action. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Timossi vs Diodati, 11 R. P. Q., 290.

51. Total satisfaction of the debt, secured by the pledge, alone entitled the pledgor to obtain the surrender of the thing pledged. S. C., 1911, Montreal, Kloch vs The Molsons Bank et al., Q. J. R., 39 S. C., 435.

52. Le débiteur n'a droit de réclamer de son créancier le gage dont il l'a nanti, que sur paiement intégral de la dette.

53. Lorsque, dans une demande en restitution de gage, la contestation roule sur l'acquittement de la dette, et que le débiteur, sans réussir à la prouver intégralement, établit une réduction par des paiements ou par compensation, le juge peut lui donner le bénéfice de la chose jugée sur ce point, et, partant, en faire l'adjudication dans le dispositif de la sentence. Néanmoins, l'omission de cette adjudication ne donnant pas ouverture à cassation, la cour de Révision, en modifiant le jugement dans le sens ci-haut, tout en le confirmant sur le point principal, alors surtout que la demande d'adjudication sur la dette n'a été faite pour la première fois que devant elle, ne saurait y trouver une cause spéciale pour condamner le défendeur aux dépens. C. R., 1912, Montréal, Klock vs The Molsons Bank, R. J. Q., 39 C. S., 435; R. J. Q., 41 C. S., 370; 2 D. L. R., 445.

54. Saisie-exécution. — Le gage peut être saisi entre les mains du créancier nanti par les autres créanciers du débiteur, quand même il paraîtrait que la saisie et la vente du gage mettraient en péril la créance du gagiste, par le paiement des frais du saisissant qui sont préférables au gage. C. C., 1837, Montréal, Fortier vs Hébert et Hirst et al., 15 R. L., 476.

55. Saisie-revendication.—Where in an attachment in revendication it was proved that the defendant had a lien on the things seized, he could not be compelled to deliver them until the amount of his claim was deposited in court. S. C., 1855, Quebec, Bell vs Wilson, 5 L. C. R., 491; 4 R. J. R. Q., 470.

56. Where an agent to whom goods had been entrusted pledged them to a third party for advances, and an attachment in revendication was sued out to recover the goods from the possession of such third party: The proprietor could not claim the goods while they were in the hands of another for advances made, and the lien of a pledgee was good against the owner under 10 and 11 Vict., ch. 10, sect. 4, when made for the pledgor's private purposes or to carry out a contract between the pledgor and the pledgee, although the pledgee knew that the ownership was not in the pledgor, at least where the pledgee had no notice from the owner, that the pledgor had no authority to pledge. S. C., 1859, Montreal, Clark vs Lomer, and Clark et al., 4 J., 30; 6 J., 77; 8 R. J. R. Q., 76, 82.

57. Celui qui est en possession d'une montre à titre de gage pour des avances qu'il a faites au possesseur de cette montre, et qui ne se trouve dans aucun des cas des articles 1488 et 1489 C. c., ne peut s'opposer à la revendication de cette montre par le véritable propriétaire. C. C., 1901, Montréal, Marcotte vs Fortin, R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 102.

58. Transport.—Le gagiste qui a transporté son droit de gage à un tiers, moyennant une garantie hypothécaire, ne peut, dans une action, conclure à une condamnation hypothécaire et personnelle contre son cessionnaire.

59. Le cessionnaire, dans ce cas, n'est pas tenu personnellement, surtout lorsque le transport était de certains outils dont le créancier n'était gagiste que pour moitié, et lorsqu'une condition du transport n'a pas été observée, et que le gagiste n'a jamais été, non plus que son cessionnaire, en possession des outils sur lesquels il y avait un droit de gage. B. R., 1886, Québec, Rondeau vs Dame Ross et vir, 14 R. L., 439; 12 R. J. Q., 320.

60. Vente du gage.—Le créancier gagiste peut obtenir la vente du gage, en le faisant saisir entre ses mains, par une saisie-arrêt après jugement. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Murray vs La Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal et Sorel, 20 R. L., 433.

61. An obligation having been transferred merely by way of collateral security for a debt, the pledgee sold the obligation so transferred to the defendant who, with knowledge of all the facts, collected the full amount thereof from the debtor: The sale by the pledgee was a nullity under c. C., art. 1487, and the pledgor might maintain an action against the defendant to recover the amount received by him in excess of the debt secured by the pledge.

62. Under the circumstances of the case, it was not essential to allege that the pledgee had been paid the debt secured by the pledge. C. R., 1886, Montreal, Leduc vs Girouard, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 470; 10 L. N., 86.

63. La convention par laquelle le créancier gagiste est autorisé à disposer du gage, pour un prix déterminé, n'empêche pas ce dernier de le faire vendre, s'il ne trouve pas à en disposer de gré à gré pour le prix convenu. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Murray vs La Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal et Sorel, 20 R. L., 435.

64. Le défendeur, en vertu de la stipulation qu'à défaut de paiement sous huit jours, il aurait le droit de vendre le gage, pouvait le faire, et l'action doit être renvoyée. C. C., 1898, Québec, Charrier vs Boutin, R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 384.

65. The pledgee who is authorized by the contract to dispose of the thing pledged in default of payment of the debt and to apply the proceeds thereto, can only do so by a public sale duly advertised.

66. Where a number of shares in a joint stock company were pledged with the above covenant, a sale of them by auction, at which the pledgee bought them for less than their value, of which notice was given by private circular to the other shareholders of the company only, was not such a "disposing" of them as was intended by the contract. C. R., 1906, Montreal, Campbell et al. vs Beyer et al., Q. J. R., 30 S. C., 86.

67. Vente simulée.—Une vente de certains effets mobiliers, et une contre-lettre déclarant que cette vente n'est faite que pour assurer plus amplement le paiement des sommes que le débiteur devait au créancier, avec la condition expresse que le créancier rétrocéderait ces effets dès que le débiteur l'aurait payé, ne constituent pas une vente, mais seulement un droit de nantissement ou de gage sur ces effets avec garantie de fournir et faire valoir. B. R., 1879, Québec, Casey vs La Compagnie de papier du Canada, 10 R. L., 501; 4 R. J. R. Q., 323.

68. D'après les règles d'interprétation, un acte par lequel un débiteur vend à son créancier des meubles, qui sont en la possession d'un tiers, avec la stipulation que s'il ne paie pas ce qu'il doit à son créancier, dans un certain temps, le créancier deviendra propriétaire des meubles, doit être considéré, s'il n'y paraît d'intention contraire, comme conférant au créancier un droit de gage sur ces meubles.

69. La possession qu'avait déjà le tiers suffit pour satisfaire aux exigences de la loi, si ce dernier consent à retenir ces meubles sujets aux droits des créanciers. C. R., 1886, Montréal, Paquette vs Rainville et Papineau, 14 R. L., 319; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 389; M. L. R., 2 C. S., 123; 9 L. N., 134.

70. Un acte qualifié par les parties de vente à réméré est, en réalité, quant à elles, un simple nantissement s'il est constant que l'intention de l'acheteur en le souscrivant n'était que de prendre une garantie pour le remboursement d'une dette et non de faire l'acquisition de l'immeuble.

71. La possession qui en est laissée au soi-disant vendeur au-delà du terme du réméré et la reconnaissance de l'acheteur suffisent pour établir cette intention.

72. Du reste, quelle qu'en soit la portée entre les parties, l'acte simulé vaut ce qu'il est à sa face et prend effet comme tel, vis-à-vis des tiers. C. S., 1906, Québec, Grégoire vs Beaurivage, R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 523.—Supr. C., 1897, Montréal, Vassal vs Salvas, 27 R. C., Supr., 68; R. J. Q., 5 B. R., 349.

V. Action paulienne ou révocatoire, Affrètement, Banque, Cautionnement, Cautionnement pour frais, Chemin de fer, Compagnie incorporée, Distribution de deniers, Entrepôt, Frais, Lettre de change et Billet promissoire, Loi des licences, Louage des choses, Meuble et immeuble, Obligation, Pension et retraite, Possession, Prescription, Prêteur sur gage, Preuve testimoniale, Privilège, Procédure, Reddition de compte, Saisie revendication, Sauvages, Vente, Voiturier.

GAGEURE

V. Jeu et pari.

GARANTIE

Déf.—C'est l'obligation de faire jouir quelqu'un d'une chose ou d'un droit et de le défendre s'il est attaqué. Datio possessionis quæ a venditore fieri debet, talis est, si quis eam possessionem jure avocaverit tradita possessio non intelligatur. Dig., lib. 19, tit. 1.

Il y a la garantie de droit ou légale, qui a lieu simplement par l'effet de la loi, et la garantie de fait ou conventionnelle qui résulte des conventions. C. c., art. 1506.

Notre Code de procédure civile divise encore la garantie en formelle et simple. La garantie formelle est celle qui a lieu lorsqu'une personne a contracté envers une autre l'obligation de la défendre contre tout trouble dans la possession d'une chose. La garantie simple est celle qui a lieu contre celui qui s'est mis dans le cas d'être poursuivi pour la dette d'un autre, comme l'endosseur d'un billet promissoire. C. p. c., arts 180 et s.

INDEX

Abattoir public...307 et s.
Acquiescement, 128, 155, 282
Acte de Faillite, 18, 75, 139 et s.
Action "condictio indebiti"..... 122
Action en décl. de jug. commun..... 283
Action en garantie, 3 et s., 102
Action hypothécaire, 8, 118, 244
Action pénale..... 9
Action pétitoire.....12, 24
Action principale..... 5
Action "quanti minoris," 215, 218, 274, 283
Action "qui tam"..... 9
Action récursoire..... 211
Action redhibitoire... 274
Adjudicataire..... 290
Annonce.....10 et s.
Appel.....12, 147
Architecte.....13 et s.
Arrestation illégale... 70
Arrière-garant, 15, 17, 107
Assurance (feu) 18 et s., 81 et s.
Assurance (vie)....20 et s.
Avis..... 134
Banque.....22, 129, 134
Billet promissoire, 55, 81, 86 et s., 130, 149, 166 et s.
Bornage..23 et s., 318 et s.
Brevet d'invention... 31
Canaux d'égoût, 105 et s., 229 et s.
Caution solidaire..... 32
Charges apparentes, 242, 298 et s.
Chaussée.....294, 296
Chemin de fer.....19, 71
Chemin public, 34 et s., 50, 182, 184 et s., 231
Cheval.....10 et s., 117
Chien..... 120
Chose d'autrui.....33, 120
Cité de Montréal, 2a, 34 et s., 182 et s.
Cités et villes..... 1
Co-garant.....38 et s.
Collection..... 40
Commission..... 40
Commutation.....41 et s.
Compagnie incorporée, 2, 43
Compensation..... 303
Condition....194, 278 et s.
Confession de jugement, 265
Connaissance du garantie,.....44, 171
Connexité....30, 151, 210
Construction de navire 45
Contenance déterminée, 289, 297
Contre-lettre.....259, 291
Corporation mun., 34 et s., 46 et s., 71, 105 et s., 182, 195 et s., 203 et s., 225 et s.
Couronne..... 51
Cours d'eau...85, 294 et s.
Curateur à cess. jud., 252 et s.
Dation en paiement.. 52
Décret....53, 125 et s., 219
Défaut caché, 277, 315 et s.
Défaut inhérent, 300 et s.
Défense, 54 et s., 204, 213, 302 et s., 314
Délai, 58 et s., 155, 170, 209, 249, 263, 270, 276
Délégation de paiement, 66 et s.
Délits et quasi-délits, 70 et s., 231
Délivrance, 270, 289, 297
Demande incidente, 76, 158
Demandeur.....75, 131
Démembrement de municipalité..... 49
Démolition.....77 et s.
Demandeur princip. et garant.....177 et s.
Dépositaire..... 80
Description d'immeuble, 217, 312
Directeur..... 81 et s., 129

Discussion, 83, 247, 257
Divisibilité..... 84
Dommage, 26, 38 et s., 46, 70, 85, 107, 121, 124, 188 et s., 203 et s., 215, 266, 269, 291, 295 et s., 301, 305, 312, 317
Echange..... 229
Echantillon, 262 et s., 274
Effet du jug. ordonnant garantie.. 111 et s.
Encanteur..... 86
Endosseur.....87, 172 et s.
Entrepreneur, 6 et s., 13 et s.
Erreur commune..... 312
Essai.....275, 278 et s.
Etendue.....88, 255 et s.
Eviction.....118 et s.
Examen de marchandises.....263, 268
Exception dilatoire, 61 et s., 67, 82, 129 et s., 152, 155, 174 et s., 187, 244
Exclusion..... 135
Exécuteur testamentaire.....313 et s.
Expropriation, 136 et s., 289
Extinction..... 134
Faillite.....138 et s.
Farine.....141, 262 et s.
Fer..... 268
"Fournir et faire valoir" 246 et s., 259
Frais.....205 et s.
Frais de transport.... 142
"Franc et quitte," 287, 292, 298, 305
Franchise..... 307
Fruits et revenus..... 288
Garant et garanti, 180 et s.
Garantie collatérale... 143
Garantie conventionnelle, 93, 108 et s., 208
Garantie formelle, 15 et s., 56, 132 et s., 144 et s., 313
Garantie légale, 93, 285
Garantie simple, 5, 18 et s., 64, 68, 142 et s., 149 et s.
Graines..... 273
Héritier.....161, 284
Hypothèque, 163, 233 et s., 251, 284, 292, 299, 303 et s.
Indivisibilité..... 284
Inscription en droit... 189
Instrument aratoire.. 110
Intérêt..... 164
Interprétation, 91, 95, 97 et s., 101 et s., 104, 117, 136 et s., 190 et s.
Intervention, 112 et s., 160 et s.
Lettre de garantie, 91, 95, 165, 220
Lettre patente..... 31
Licitation..... 198
Lien de droit, 177 et s., 291
Ligne homologuée 182 et s.
Liquidateur..... 2
Livraison..... 270
Lods et vente..... 187
Lois.....1 et s.
Louage des choses, 6 et s., 78 et s., 188 et s.
Louage d'ouvrage, 6 et s., 189 et s.
Machine, 188, 267, 275, 278 et s., 320
Mandat..20 et s., 250 et s.
Marchandise impropre 271
Marchandise saisie.... 269
Mise en demeure, 193, 258
Moulin..... 296
Mur mitoyen, 77 et s., 139 et s.
Navire..... 45
Numéro officiel....306, 318
Obligation conditionnelle.....194, 278 et s.
Occupant.....34 et s.
Officiers municipaux, 195 et s.
Offres réelles.....262 et s.
Opposition afin de conserver..... 201 et s.
Ouverture de la garantie..... 127
Paiement, 66 et s., 197, 224
Partage.....198, 313 et s.
Plancher..... 192
Possession.....298, 313
Pouvoirs d'eau..... 295
Prescription.....29 et s.
Prête-nom..... 130
Preuve, 162, 257, 292, 317
Radiation d'hyp..292 et s.
Ratification..... 199
Ratification de titre, 200 et s.
Règlement municipal, 227, 232 et s., 307 et s.
Rente constituée ... 212
Répartition.....225 et s.
Réponse 213
Résiliation de vente, 286 et s., 289
Restitution de prix de vente..... 94
Reticence 120
Rétivité..... 117
Rôle de cotisation, 227 et s., 232 et s.
Saisie revendication.. 288
Secrétaire-trésorier... 47
Servitude....25, 214 et s.
Shérif..... 219
Société.....220 et s.
Solidarité.....32, 220
Solvabilité. ...255 et s.
Subrogation.....223 et s.
Succession 284
Suspension de l'action principale..... 153
Syndic officiel....139 et s.
Taxe d'église ....238 et s.
Taxe municipale...225 et s., 310
Taxe scolaire.....237 et s.
Terme.....257
Tiers.....243
Tiers détenteur..... 244
Timbre 172
Travaux publics..... 47
Trottoir, 34 et s., 50, 231
Trouble, 123, 201, 272, 298, 319
Trouble postérieur, 308 et s.
Vente, 8, 10 et s., 16, 33, 41 et s., 65, 94, 97, 104, 108, 118 et s., 135 et s., 144, 163, 183 et s., 199 et s., 212, 214 et s., 223 et s., 234 et s., 262 et s.
Vente de créance, 245 et s., 302
Vente de limites, 260 et s.
Vente d'immeuble, 283 et s.
Vente pour taxes municipales.....48, 290
Voûte.....190 et s.

LOIS

1. Cités et villes.—"Toutes personnes qui, au moyen d'excavation ou d'obstructions dans une rue, qui ne sont pas autorisées par la loi ni par les règlements de la municipalité, rendent cette rue dangereuse pour la circulation, ou qui, par négligence dans la manière de pratiquer les excavations ou de faire des obstructions qui ont été autorisées, ou par défaut de les entourer de garde-fous et d'y placer des lumières, rendent telle rue insuffisante ou dangereuse pour la circulation, sont responsables de tous les dommages résultant de telle obstruction ou négligence, excepté des dommages provenant de la négligence de la personne même qui les a soufferts; et aucune action ne peut être maintenue contre la municipalité pour ces dommages, à moins que telles personnes n'aient été mises en cause, si le demandeur en est requis par la municipalité, laquelle doit donner les noms, résidences et qualités de telles personnes." S. R. Q., art. 5866.

2. Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.).—"Si un créancier a des garanties sur les biens de la compagnie, il doit désigner dans sa réclamation la nature et le montant de ces garanties et y spécifier sous serment la valeur qu'il y attribue." S. R. C., ch. 144, art. 76.

"Le liquidateur, avec l'autorisation de la cour, peut consentir à ce que le créancier retienne les biens et effets qui constituent ces garanties ou sur lesquels elles reposent, à leur valeur spécifiée ou peut exiger de ce créancier la cession et remise de ces garanties, biens et effets à la valeur ainsi spécifiée qu'il doit payer sur la masse dès qu'il a réalisé ces garanties, avec intérêt sur cette valeur depuis le dépôt de la réclamation jusqu'au paiement. Art. 77.

"En cas de rétention, la différence entre la valeur assignée aux garanties retenues et le montant de la réclamation du créancier est la somme pour laquelle celui-ci peut être colloqué, ainsi qu'il est dit ci-dessus." Art. 78.

"Si un créancier a une réclamation basée sur des effets négociables dont la compagnie ne soit qu'indirectement ou subsidiairement responsable et qui ne sont ni échus ni exigibles, ce créancier est réputé posséder une garantie au sens des trois articles qui précèdent, et il doit assigner une valeur à l'engagement du premier obligé qui lui est garant du paiement de ces effets.

"2. Si, lors de son échéance, cet engagement n'est pas acquitté, il peut modifier sa réclamation et y assigner une autre valeur." Art. 79.

2a. Montréal.—"La cité aura son recours en garantie contre toute personne dont la faute et la négligence seront causes de l'accident arrivé et des dommages en résultant. Charte, 62 Vict., ch. 58, art. 536 (1899).

JURISPRUDENCE

3. Action en garantie. — To entitle a party to bring an action in simple warranty, a prima facie case in law against him must be shown by the declaration in chief, for if the allegations of the action in chief are unfounded in law there is no utility or reason to bring in a defendant in warranty.

4. There can be no legal uncertainty as to the legal sufficiency of the allegations of the declaration in chief; every one is bound to know the law, and the defendant in chief can run no risk (legally speaking) in meeting himself an action which will be held bad on his demurrer. S. C., 1893, Quebec, Séguin vs City of Quebec and Drouin, Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 23; 16 L. N., 143.

5. Si l'action principale n'est pas, à sa face même, fondée en droit, elle ne peut donner lieu à une action en garantie simple, parce que l'action principale ne contient aucune chose dont le défendeur en garantie soit tenu de garantir le défendeur principal. C. S., 1893, Fraserville, Fraser vs Roy, et Roy vs Terriault, R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 501.

6. La demanderesse principale, locataire du défendeur principal, poursuivait ce dernier en diminution de loyer et en dommages, à raison de certaines réparations qu'il aurait faites aux lieux loués sans sa permission et sans nécessité, lesquels travaux n'auraient pas été exécutés avec la diligence voulue. Le défendeur appela alors en garantie les défendeurs Perrault et al., les entrepreneurs qui avaient exécuté ces travaux, alléguant qu'ils l'avaient garanti contre tous dommages que les locataires pourraient souffrir par suite de ces travaux. Les défendeurs en garantie ayant nié leur obligation de garantir le demandeur en garantie, ce dernier, sans attendre l'instruction de l'action principale, fit rendre un jugement sur la demande en garantie, condamnant les défendeurs en garantie à prendre le fait et cause du demandeur en garantie et à le garantir et indemniser, en principal, intérêts et frais, de tous jugements qui pourraient être prononcés contre lui, relativement aux réclamations de la demanderesse principale: Le défendeur principal était bien fondé à diriger sa demande en garantie contre les défendeurs en garantie, pour les faire condamner à l'indemniser de tout jugement basé sur des faits dont la responsabilité pourrait lui être attribuée.

7. Les défendeurs en garantie ayant nié leur obligation de garantir le défendeur principal, ce dernier pouvait faire adjuger interlocutoirement sur cette obligation et faire condamner les défendeurs en garantie à prendre son fait et cause sur l'action principale, mais le jugement, sur la demande en garantie ainsi instruite, ne devait pas condamner d'avance les défendeurs en garantie à indemniser le demandeur en garantie de tout jugement qui pourrait être prononcé contre lui sur la demande principale. C. R., 1898, Montréal, Dame Pellerin vs Léveillé et Houde et Léveillé et Perrault et al., R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 311; 1 R. P. Q., 117.

8. Action hypothécaire.—An hypothecary action has been taken against the defendant, the latter pleads that his vendor guaranteed to him that he would obtain an extension of time for payment, and, by his dilatory exception, asks to call his vendor in warranty: Plaintiff not being a party to the alleged subsequent agreement, whereby the said vendor is alleged to have undertaken to obtain delay for payment, cannot be embarrassed and delayed in his recourse by reason thereof, the dilatory exception is dismissed. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Dame Corse et vir vs Dame Myler et vir, 8 Q. P. R., 7.

9. Action pénale.—En matière pénale il n'y a pas lieu à la garantie, et il s'en suit que dans une action qui tam, le défendeur ne peut, par demande incidente, appeler le demandeur en garantie. B. R., 1884, Montréal, Normandin vs Berthiaume, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 393; 8 L. N., 330; 15 R. L., 1. (Conf. en appel).

10. Annonce.—A statement in an advertisement of an auction sale, that a pair of horses were "warranted sound" did not constitue a warranty; especially when the conditions of sale announced by the auctionneer, at the time of the sale, expressly stated that no warranty should be given.

11. In the present case the horses in question were "sound" notwithstanding one of them was "bent over" or "sprung" in the knees. S. C., 1885, Montreal, Allan vs Burland, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 1; 9 L. N., 25.

12. Appel.—A party called into a petitory action to take up the fait et cause of the defendant therein, as warrantor of the titled, may take up the defence for the purpose of appealing from judgments maintaining both the principal action and the action in warranty although he may have refused to do so in the court of first instance, but, should the appellate court decide that the action in warranty was unfounded, it is ipso facto ousted of jurisdiction to entertain or decide upon the merits of the principal action. Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Monarque vs Banque Jacques-Cartier, 31 Supr. C. R., 474; Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 93.

13. Architecte et entrepreneur. — A builder who has been condemned in damages by reason of defects in the construction of his works, has no claim in warranty against the architect where it appears that there were serious deviations from the specifications furnished by the architect, and that these deviations were the chief cause of the weakness of the construction.

14. If a builder or contractor does not fully understand from the specifications what is required for the proper construction of the work according to the rules of art, it is his duty to consult the architect and follow his instructions in relation thereto. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Royal Electric Co. vs Wand and Wand vs Walbank, Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 383; Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 117.

15. Arrière-garant.—Il y a lieu à l'action en garantie formelle contre l'arrière-garant, même lorsque le garanti a été évincé et dépossédé de l'immeuble vendu dès avant la demande en garantie, sauf, dans ce cas, le droit du garant de faire voir qu'il existait des moyens suffisants pour faire rejeter la demande en éviction.

16. La connaissance par l'acheteur lors de la vente de la cause d'éviction, ne le prive pas du droit de réclamer tout le dommage qu'il en a éprouvé, lorsque son vendeur l'a spécialement garanti contre cette cause d'éviction.

17. L'un des deux vendeurs appelés en garantie peut poursuivre seul son arrière-garant, l'obligation de garantir étant indivisible. C. R., 1895, Montréal, Allard vs Peland et al., R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 332.

18. Assurance (feu).—To give rise to an action en garantie simple, not only must there be connexity between it and the principal demand, but the two actions must be identical in their nature and based upon similar legal principles.

19. So, where an insurance company is sued upon a policy of fire insurance for the amount of loss, an action en garantie by the insurance company will not lie against a railway company through whose alleged fault and negligence the fire occurred, the liability on which the action is based in the two cases being entirely dissimilar in nature and principle. Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Central Vermont Railway Co. vs Compagnie d'assurance mutuelle contre le feu de Montmagny, Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 450.

20. Assurance (vie).—Une action en garantie intentée par un assuré contre l'agent d'une compagnie d'assurance, basée sur le fait que la compagnie a plaidé que l'accusé n'avait pas payé la prime à l'agent, sera renvoyée, vu que la qualité de l'agent n'est pas niée, mais seulement le fait du paiement, et que l'agent n'est responsable que dans le cas où il aurait agi en dehors des termes de son mandat. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Picard vs The British American Assurance Company et al., 14 R. L., 136; 318, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 117; 9 L. N., 134.

21. Lorsqu'un agent d'assurance a reçu une application pour assurance sur la vie, et que l'application est refusée, après l'examen médical, s'il a induit ce dernier à lui signer, en paiement de la première prime, un billet promissoire fait à son ordre, et s'il lui a donné également son propre reçu, et qu'il transporte ensuite ce billet à un tiers pour ses propres affaires, l'applicant n'a aucun recours en garantie contre la compagnie d'assurance qui a refusé le risque. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Beaudoin vs Charruau et al. et Charruau et al. et Federal Life Assurance Co., 15 R. L., n. s., 213.

22. Banque.—A guarantee given to a bank which afterwards was amalgamated with another bank, did not bind the guarantors towards the consolidated bank. Q. B., 1882, Montreal, The Consolidated Bank of Canada vs The Merchants Bank of Canada, 27 J., 370; 6 L. N., 284.

23. Bornage.—Il y a lieu à la garantie contre l'action en bornage, lorsqu'elle contient en même temps des conclusions pétitoires.

24. Lorsque l'action principale est en même temps pétitoire et en bornage, la défenderesse en garantie est tenue de garantir le demandeur en garantie contre l'action principale. C. R., 1885, Québec, Blackburn vs Blackburn, 11 R. J. Q., 170.

25. Une demande de bornage faite en justice n'est que la demande de l'exécution de l'obligation résultant de la servitude légale du bornage, et en autant elle ne donne pas lieu à une action en garantie.

26. Le bornage n'est que la délimitation des propriétés voisines l'une de l'autre, et les lignes apparentes ne peuvent donner lieu à une action en dommage au cas où elles seraient changées par un bornage subséquent à la vente que dans les seuls cas, soit de la garantie de leur exactitude, soit de la garantie de la contenance de l'immeuble vendu. B. R., 1890, Québec, Daveluy et al. vs Vigneau, 16 R. J. Q., 261; 14 L. N., 18.

27. L'action en bornage dans laquelle le demandeur se plaint d'un empiètement par le défendeur et demande à être déclaré propriétaire de la partie d'immeuble où il est troublé, revêt le caractère d'une revendication et, dès lors, les recours en garantie que le défendeur peut avoir lui sont ouverts. C. R., 1906, Québec, La Ville de Chicoutimi vs Lavoie et al., R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 148.

28. Il peut y avoir lieu à l'action en garantie dans une action en bornage, si cette dernière participe de la nature d'une action pétitoire ou en revendication. B. R., 1907, Québec, Guay vs Lavoie, 14 R. J., 190.

29. L'acheteur d'un immeuble, à qui son voisin oppose, dans une instance en bornage, la demande d'une ligne fondée sur une prescription acquisitive et entraînant éviction partielle, a le recours de l'action en garantie formelle contre son vendeur.

30. L'action en garantie, exercée dans ces conditions, n'est pas moins connexe avec la demande principale, de ce qu'elle contient des conclusions subsidiaires à une condamnation en argent au cas d'éviction. B. R., 1909, Québec, Vallée vs Gagnon, R. J. Q., 19 B. R., 165.

31. Brevet d'invention. — An assignment of letters patent of invention contains no implied warranty that they are valid. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, The Electric Fireproofing Co. vs The Electric Fire-proofing Co. of Canada, Q. J. R., 31 S. C., 34; Q. J. R., 34 S. C., 288; 43 Supr. C. R., 182.

32. Caution solidaire.—Sur demande en garantie d'éviction contre des cautions solidaires, le jugement doit exprimer la solidarité entre les cautions condamnés à indemniser le demandeur. B. R., 1854, Montréal, Demers vs Parant et al., 5 D. T. B. C., 36; 4 R. J. R. Q., 283; 18 R. L., 385.

33. Chose d'autrui.—Il n'y a pas lieu à l'action en garantie, mais à l'action en indemnité, par un acheteur troublé, contre son vendeur qui lui aurait vendu la chose d'autrui. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Gosselin vs Martel et Vinet et al., 5 R. P. Q., 265.

34. Cité de Montréal.—La cité de Montréal, poursuivie en dommages, pour une chute faite sur un de ses trottoirs, a le droit d'appeler en garantie le propriétaire ou l'occupant de l'immeuble en face duquel se trouve ce trottoir. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Sœurs de la congrégation de Notre-Dame de Montréal, 3 R. P. Q., 475.

35. D'après les articles 548 et suivants de sa charte, la cité de Montréal a le droit d'obtenir la suspension d'une action en dommages, en dénonçant la personne qu'elle peut appeler en garantie, jusqu'à ce que le demandeur ait mis cette personne comme co-défendeur, mais, si la cité de Montréal n'exerce pas ce droit et conteste elle-même l'action prise contre elle, elle ne pourra plus ensuite, par action directe, répéter, du défendeur en garantie, les frais qu'elle aura été condamnée à payer au demandeur. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co., 13 R. L., n. s., 525.

36. Le recours en garantie simple contre les demandes en recouvrement de dommages pour accidents causés par le mauvais état des trottoirs, etc., donné par la 62 Vict., ch. 58, sect. 300, sub-sect. 92 (Qué.) ,à la cité de Montréal, contre les propriétaires ou occupants tenus à leur entretien, n'est ouvert qu'au cas de défaut de leur part de se conformer aux lois et règlements civiques, ou de l'inexécution de quelqu'obligation à cet égard.

37. Par suite, un propriétaire ou occupant poursuivi en garantie peut opposer à la demande le fait qu'au moment de l'accident, le trottoir en question était en bon ordre et dans l'état d'entretien prescrit par la loi et les règlements; il n'est tenu d'intervenir et de contester l'action principale ou d'indemniser la cité condamnée, qu'après avoir été déclaré garant par sentence contradictoire. B. R., 1908, Montréal, La Cité de Montréal vs Le Curé et les Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et Fabrique de la paroisse de Ste-Agnès de Montréal, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 258; 15 R. L., n. s., 139; 10 R. P. Q., 242.

38. Co-garant.—In a suit for damages, where two tort-feasors are jointly and severally impleaded, the one may call upon the other to warrant him against the action of the plaintiff in chief.

39. The mere fact that the principal action is directed against both plaintiff and defendant in warranty, and asks their joint and several condemnation in favor of the plaintiff in chief for the whole amount of damages suffered, is not good ground of demurrer to the action in warranty, provided it be made to appear that, although the liability of both to the principal plaintiff be joint and several, yet, as between themselves, the one is liable over to the other for the whole sum for which a condemnation may go in favor of the principal plaintiff. S. C., 1896, Quebec, O'Connor vs Flynn et al., and Lyons et al., Q. J. R., 13 S. C., 435.

40. Collection.—A charge of five per cent. commission for the collection of debts does not necessarily imply a warranty on the part of the agent making such charge. Q. B., 1847, Montreal, Glass vs Joseph et al., 3 R. de L., 22; 2 R. J. R. Q., 264.

41. Commutation. — L'acquéreur d'un immeuble, sous la garantie contre les faits et promesses seulement du vendeur, ne peut réclamer de ce dernier le montant qu'il a payé pour acquitter un droit de commutation ouvert lors de la vente.

42. Plusieurs mutations de l'immeuble en question ayant eu lieu avant le titre de cet acquéreur, et la commutation devenant exigible lors de la première mutation, l'acquéreur est présumé avoir connu cette cause d'éviction et ne peut l'opposer à son vendeur qui ne l'a garanti que contre ses faits et promesses seulement. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Guérin vs Craig et Craig et Lalonde, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 167; 16 L. N., 109.

43. Compagnie incorporée.—The defendants were sued as contractors and manufacturers carrying on business with divers persons unknown to the plaintiffs in copartnership under the style and firm of "The Montreal Railroad Car Co.," and the defendants proceeded en garantie, alleging that they were a joint stock company and entitled to call in their co-corporators to indemnify them against their proportional share of loss: Though one debtor had a right to sue his co-debtors in solido, en garantie, there was no action en garantie by one set of shareholders against another. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Howard et al. vs Childs et al., and Childs et al. vs Chapman et al., 1 J., 160; 5 R. J. R. Q., 473.

44. Connaissance du garanti.—Dans le cas de stipulation de garantie de la part du cédant, la connaissance par l'acquéreur, d'une cause de trouble, n'empêche pas ce dernier d'exercer son recours contre le cédant. C. R., 1891, Montréal, Forbes vs Burns, 21 R. L., 163; 21 R. L., 203.

45. Construction de navire.—In a contract to convert a vessel from a paddle steamer into a screw steamer and to place in it a second hand compound surface condensing engine, neither by the law of England nor by that of the province of Quebec is there any warranty to be implied on the part of the owner of the thing upon which the work is to be performed that the bottoms of the vessel will not give away and shall continue in a state fit to receive the work contracted for. Ex. C., 1896, Lainé vs The Queen, 5 Ex. C. R., 103.

46. Corporation municipale — Une municipalité n'a pas le recours par voie d'action en garantie simple contre son conseil pour cause de malversation, malice et mauvaise foi, mais seulement l'action en indemnité. C. C., 1862, Montréal, Leclerc vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Joachim de la Pointe Claire et Valois et al., 7 J., 83; 12 R. J. R. Q., 62.

47. Un secrétaire d'une corporation municipale qui sans autorisation garantie, au nom de la municipalité, un fournisseur de matériaux à un entrepreneur qui a obtenu un contrat du conseil municipal, sera condamné aux frais de l'action en garantie contre la corporation intentée par ce fournisseur, si elle répudie la garantie donnée par son secrétaire. C. S., 1873, Décarie vs La Corporation de Lachine et Forest, 5 R. L., 453.

48. Une corporation municipale peut être appelée dans une cause pour défendre un contribuable dont elle aura fait vendre l'immeuble pour des taxes qui avaient été payées, quand ce contribuable qui a vendu cet immeuble à un tiers, est appelée en garantie par son acquéreur qui est troublé dans sa possession par l'acquéreur de la corporation municipale, et même après les deux années qui suivant l'adjudication. B. R., 1874, Québec, Wurtele et al. vs La Corporation du township de Grantham, 6 R. L., 457.

49 Une municipalité locale à laquelle est annexée une partie du territoire d'une autre municipalité, peut s'obliger à la garantie de la vente de certains immeubles situés dans les limites de l'ancienne municipalité, si cette ancienne municipalité consent à vendre ces immeubles, et à en employer le prix à l'extinction des dettes de la municipalité, avant son démembrement, et pour lesquelles la partie démembrée est responsable. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Usereau dit Lajeunesse vs La Ville de St-Henri et al., 16 R. L., 108.

50. The Cities' and Towns' Act which provides, in section 5641, that when by-laws are made for the construction and maintenance of sidewalks, the riparian proprietors shall be liable, as warrantors, in actions of damages against the city, does not impose on them a greater or different liability towards the public, if any at all, than that to which the city itself is subject: Hence, a proprietor, sued for damages by a party injured through the bad state of repairs of his sidewalk, may set up, as a defence, any failure to give notice, or any plea of limitation which the city itself could have relied upon, if the action had been brought against it. C. R., 1912, Montreal, Batsford vs The Laurentian Paper Co., Q. J. R., 41 S. C., 367; 5 D. L. R., 306.

51. Couronne.—An action en garantie will not lie against the members of the executive by a purchaser of lands under an order in council to guarantee and indemnify him again against an action brought by the attorney general for and on behalf of Her Majesty to set aside the deed of sale on the ground inter alia, that the sale itself was ultra vires, and that the deed was executed without lawful authority. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Church, Attorney General, vs Middlemiss, and Middlemiss vs Archambault et al., 21 J., 319; 1 L. N., 204.

52. Dation en paiement.—D'après l'article 1592 du Code civil, la dation d'une chose en paiement équivaut à vente, et rend celui qui la donne ainsi sujet à la même garantie. B. R., 1890, Montréal, Dame Wilson et al. vs L'hon. Lacoste et al. et L'hon. Wilson, 20 R. L., 284; M. L. R., 6 B. R., 361; 14 L. N., 103; 15 L. N., 164; 20 R. C. Supr., 218.

53. Décret.—The obligation of the garant formel is not extinguished by a décret which does not purge the charge, even where the acquéreur becomes adjudicataire under the décret. Q. B., 1874, Quebec, Soulard vs Létourneau, 19 J., 40.

54. Défense.—Lorsque le défendeur en garantie refuse de prendre le fait et cause du demandeur en garantie, il ne peut lui opposer que des moyens qui auraient pour effet de le décharger de la garantie, et une défense contenant des moyens qui tendraient à faire renvoyée l'action principale, sera rejetée, quant à ces moyens, sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Beaudreau et vir vs Jarret, et Jarret vs Beauchamp, M. L. R., 5 C. S., 300; 12 L. N., 395.

55. L'endosseur de billets signés par une compagnie incorporée, qui allègue lui en avoir payé le montant, et l'appelle en garantie dans une action basée sur ces billets, n'est pas recevable à plaider que la demanderesse en garantie n'avait pas qualité pour signer ces billets. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Ball vs Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway et Préfontaine, 3 R. P. Q., 315.

56. Le garanti, en matière de garantie formelle, peut bien assister et agir pour la conservation de ses droits, mais ne peut pas, après que son garant a pris son droit et cause et plaidé à l'action, produire une défense absolument identique à celle produite par son garant, pareille défense sera rejetée sur motion. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Dame Dryden et al. vs Yuile et al. et Dame Mackay, 6 R. P. Q., 58.

57. Le garant qui conteste l'action en garantie et refuse de prendre le fait et cause de celui qui l'appelle en garantie, doit, par ses défenses, alléguer et établir qu'il n'est pas garant du cas dont il s'agit dans l'action principale. C. S., 1904, St-Hyacinthe, Fontaine vs Ryder 10 R. J., 439.

58. Délai.—Le délai fixé par l'article 123 du Code de procédure civile, pour appeler garants, n'est fixé qu'en faveur du demandeur principal et l'action en garantie peut être intentée en tout temps avant le jugement définitif sur l'action principale, en par le garanti rapportant la différence des frais. C. R., 1885, Québec, Blackburn vs Blackburn, 11 R. J. Q., 170.

59. An action in warranty can be brougth after the expiration of the delays fixed by articles 123 and 107 of the Code of civil procedure, but in such case the suit cannot be stayed thereby.

60. In such case, however, the principal demand and the demand in warranty may be adjudicated upon together, if it can be done without retarding the principal demand. S. C., 1888, Aylmer, Charlebois vs Baby, 11 L. N., 210.

61. Si le défendeur a des garants à mettre en cause, il peut, au moyen d'une exemption dilatoire, obtenir que les délais pour plaider à l'action ne courent qu'après que les garants auront été mis en cause et tenus de plaider au mérite.

62. Pour obtenir le maintien de son exception, il doit justifier que sa demande en garantie a été formée et signifiée dans le délai prescrit; mais il n'est pas tenu d'alléguer, en icelle exception, les mesures qu'il a prises pour mettre en cause les garants à appeler.

63. Les délais pour appeler garants sont établis seulement dans l'intérêt du demandeur pour empêcher le défendeur de retarder l'effet de l'action principale, et la seule peine de l'inobservation des délais est la faculté donnée au demandeur de poursuivre l'audience pour avoir jugement au principal; et lorsqu'ils sont expirés, le tribunal doit refuser de joindre la demande en garantie à l'action principale, si cette jonction peut retarder la demande originaire. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Darling vs Banque du Peuple et al., 2 R. J., 163; R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 381.

64. An action in warranty by a defendant against his warrantor in a case of garantie simple brought before adjudication on the principal demand which is afterwards declared unfounded, will be dismissed with costs. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Chevalier vs The Catholic Mutual Benefit Association et al. and Halpin, Q. J. R., 29 S. C., 399.

65. La déclaration par le vendeur, avant la vente, que la chose n'a pas un certain défaut spécifique, constitue une garantie conventionnelle spéciale à cet égard, et reçoit son effet, nonobstant la conclusion subséquente de la vente sans garantie en termes généraux. Par suite, l'action en nullité pour violation de cette convention n'est pas sujette à la règle de l'article 1530 C. c. touchant la diligence avec laquelle il faut intenter l'action rédhibitoire. C. S., 1908, Rimouski, Gallant vs Bélanger, R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 5.

66. Délégation de paiement.—Le débiteur principal n'est pas recevable à appeler en garantie celui qu'il a chargé de payer la dette pour laquelle il est poursuivi. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Rocher vs David, 3 R. P. Q., 198.

67. La partie défenderesse peut, par exception dilatoire, arrêter la poursuite de la demande, si le défendeur a droit d'exercer un recours en justice contre un tiers.

68. Il y a lieu à la garantie simple, lorsqu'une personne est poursuivie pour une dette qui n'est pas la sienne, elle a alors le droit de demander au débiteur principal d'intervenir pour la défendre, et, au cas d'insuccès de la défense, elle peut demander que le débiteur principal ou garant soit condamné à l'indemniser.

69. Dans l'espèce il n'y a pas lieu pour le défendeur d'exercer un recours en garantie parce que le demandeur réclame de lui le montant d'une créance dont il est le débiteur principal; le fait qu'il a chargé un tiers du paiement de cette créance n'empêche point que cette dette soit la sienne et partant il n'y a pas lieu à la garantie. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Rochon vs David, 6 R. J., 541.

70. Délit et quasi-délit.—Il n'y a pas de garantie en matière de délit; en conséquence un homme de police (private detective) poursuivi en dommages pour fausse arrestation n'a pas de recours en garantie contre celui pour le compte duquel il a fait l'arrestation. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Couvrette vs Fahey et al. et Beauchamp et al., M. L. R., 2 C. S., 423; 10 L. N., 30.

71. In a case of délit an action en garantie does not lie by one of the parties jointly culpable against the other: Hence, an action en garantie by the town corporation against the railway company did not lie in the present case, the latter not being liable to warrant the former against the consequences of its own alleged wrongful acts or of its failure to comply with its legal obligations. Q. B., 1894, Montreal, Corporation de la ville de St-Jean vs Atlantic and North West Railway Co., Q. J. R., 4 Q. B., 66; Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 327.

72. In cases of délit or quasi-délit, a warrantee may before condemnation take proceedings en garantie, and the warrantor cannot object to being called into the principal action as a defendant en garantie. Supr. C., 1896, Canada, Montreal Gas Co. vs St-Laurent, ès-qual., and City of St. Henri, 26 Supr. C. R., 176.—Supr. C., 1895, Canada, Archibald vs Delisle, 25 Supr. C. R., 1; 18 L. N., 356.—S. C., 1907, Montreal, Beaudoin vs Charruau et al. and Federal Life Assurance Co., 8 Q. P. R., 236.

73. Il peut y avoir action en garantie, même en matière de délit ou de quasi-délit. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Marchand vs Dominion Transport Co. et al., et Montreal Street Railway Co., 7 R. P. Q., 133; 11 R. L., n. s., 526.

74. No action in warranty lies in cases of delict or quasi-delict. C. R., 1906, Montreal, City of Hull vs Gatineau Macadamized and Gravelled Road Co., et al. 7 Q. P. R., 397.—Q. B., 1908, Montreal, La Cité de Montréal vs Les Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et Fabrique de Ste-Agnès de Montréal, 10 Q. P. R., 242.

75. Demandeur.—Le demandeur, aussi bien que le défendeur peut, lorsqu'il y a lieu à l'occasion des allégations de la défense, exercer un recours en garantie. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Mancetti vs Ville de Notre-Dame de Grâce, et McCormick et al., 15 R. L., n. s., 408; 11 R. P. Q., 59.

76. Demande incidente.—Il y a lieu à la demande incidente en garantie dans le cas où il y a connexité entre la demande principale et celle en garantie. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Vinet vs Martel, 15 R. L., n. s., 102.

77. Démolition de mur mitoyen. — Where the plaintiff en garantie was sued by his tenant for damages occasioned by the pulling down of the mitoyen wall by order of the defendant en garantie, between the properties of the plaintifs and defendant en garantie, and the defendant en garantie demurred on the ground that the principal defendant had no right of action en garantie: As the defendant en garantie only could be aware of the facts which occasioned the damage and of the defence which could be made to the action, the plaintiff en garantie had a good right of action, and although the plaintiff en garantie himself might be responsible for a part of the damage recoverable by the tenant. Q. B., 1859, Montreal, Delvechio vs Joseph, 3 J., 226; 7 R. J. R. Q., 459.

78. Where a tenant sues his landlord for damages alleged to have been suffered by the pulling down and re-erection by the landlord of a mitoyen wall forming the gable end of the house leased, the landlord cannot sue en garantie the owner of the adjoining property as the party who in fact committed the act complained of. Q. B., 1862, Montreal, Lyman et al. vs Peck 6 J., 214; 12 L. C. R., 368; 10 R. J. R. Q., 292.

79. Le locataire dont l'action pour loyers contre son sous-locataire est renvoyée parce que les lieux ont été rendus inhabitables par suite de la démolition d'un mur mitoyen, a droit d'appeler son locateur principal en garantie, pour le montant de loyers qu'il est appelé à lui payer en sus de ce qu'il reçoit de son sous-locataire, mais il n'a aucun recours en garantie si le loyer du sous-locataire est plus élevé que le loyer principal et couvre ainsi la réduction de loyer obtenue par le sous-locataire. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Lanctot vs de Boeck et al., et Lanctot vs Latreille et al., ès-qual., 16 R. L., n. s., 195.

80. Dépositaire.—A depositary, who has erroneously delivered moveable effects stored in his premises to the husband of the depositor, has an action in warranty against such husband of the depositor upon an action by the latter claiming delivery of the same moveables. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Hotte vs Rochon, and Rochon vs Dault and Charlebois et al., 15 R. J., 525.

81. Directeur de compagnie d'assurance.—Les directeurs d'une compagnie d'assurance mutuelle qui autorisent la signature d'un billet promissoire par la compagnie sans en avoir le droit, peuvent être appelés en garantie par le porteur de ce billet dans une poursuite par ce dernier contre la compagnie, lorsque cette dernière plaide qu'elle n'avait pas le pouvoir de signer un billet promissoire; surtout dans le cas où les directeurs s'étaient rendus conjointement et solidairement responsables de ce billet.

82. Le demandeur peut, sous ces circonstances, faire suspendre, par exception dilatoire, les délais pour répondre à la défense, jusqu'à ce qu'il ait intenté son action en garantie. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Delisle vs La Provinciale, compagnie d'assurance mutuelle, et al., 17 R. L., n. s., 264.

83. Discussion.—The defendant by deed of transfer of 31st May, 1875, transferred to plaintiffs a prix de vente with guarantee. The defendant on being sued objected that the plaintiff had not used diligence in discussing the principal debtor: As a matter of fact the plaintiff was not bound to discuss the principal debtor, being exempt by the deed, but had done so. In such case he could only be held liable for gross négligence, and the action was maintained. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Montreal Loan and Mortgage Co. vs Belle, 2 L. N., 284.

84. Divisibilité.—La garantie est divisible entre co-vendeurs, qui vendent ensemble les parts indivises mais déterminées qu'ils possèdent dans l'immeuble vendu sans stipulation de solidarité. C. S., 1857, Montréal, Marteau, ès-qual., vs Tétreau, 1 J., 245; 6 R. J. R. Q., 46.

85. Dommage sur les cours d'eau. — Where a municipality and a power company have been jointly condemned to pay damages to the heirs of a person who was drowned in a river owing to a defective guard-rail, the court will, as between the co-defendants, condemn the company to pay the entire amount so found to the corporation, plaintiff in warranty, when it is established that the municipality has for years been protesting the company to take proper precautionary measures to ensure the safety of the highway and of banks of the river, and where the power company was under a legal duty in that regard the neglect of which was the cause of the death. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Village of Richelieu vs Montreal and St. Laurence Light and Power Co. et al., 3 D. L. R., 145.

86. Encanteur.—Where an auctioneer, subsequent to the sale, agreed for an extra commission to guarantee the sales: As he had taken notes, payable to himself in settlement, the most reasonable interpretation of such agreement was that he should endorse the notes so received in settlement of the sales, though in the present case it was not proved that such was the custom of trade. Q. B., 1861, Montreal, Sinclair vs Leeming et al., 5 J., 247; 9 R. J. R. Q., 206.

87. Endosseur.—L'endosseur d'un billet promissoire, poursuivi conjointement et solidairement avec le faiseur, ne peut opposer à l'action une exception dilatoire demandant qu'il ne soit tenu de plaider qu'après que le faiseur aura été par lui assigné en garantie et mis en demeure de plaider à l'action. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Durocher vs Lapalme et al., M. L. R., 1 S. C., 494; R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 286; 8 L. N., 378.

88. Etendue.—In the case of a simple garantie de fait, the cédant of an obligation warrants: 1st, that the debt which he assigns is his own property; and 2dly, that the debtor, at the time of the assignment, is solvent, or (if the debt is payable à terme) that the debtor will be solvent when the debt will become due. K. B., 1820, Quebec, Bellanger vs Binet, 2 R. de L., 206, 337; 2 R. J. R. Q., 230, 249.

89. La garantie de faits et promesses, stipulée dans un transport entraine la garantie de l'existence de la dette prescrite dès avant la date du transport. B. R., 1841, Québec, Donegani vs Choquette et al., 2 R. de L., 301.

90. A recital in a deed of warranty indicating the motive which prompted the execution of the deed, does not control the engagement, when such engagement is general and more extensive than the limited object for which it is supposed to be given. P. C., 1861, Lower Canada, Bank of British North America vs Cuvillier, 2 J., 154; 4 J., 241; 5 J., 57; 14 R. L., 620; 4 L. T., 159; 6 R. J. R. Q., 420; 15 English Reprints, 275; 4 C. R. A. C., 227; 1 B. J. P. C., 790; 14, Moore, 187.

91. Where the defendant wrote a letter to the plaintiff in the following words: "At the request of my son-in-law, Mr. S. T. Pierce, I write this to inform you that I will guarantee to you the payment of any debt which he may contract with you for pianofortes, not exceeding $2,000 in amount, whether the same be closed by his note or otherwise. You are at liberty to look upon this as my undertaking to pay you on his default in the event of your giving him credit to that extent.": On action brought that such a letter was not a continuing guarantee so as to hold the defendant liable for a debt contracted by the son-in-law some time subsequently to the payment of the first debt of $2000 and upwards. C. S., 1864, Montreal, Munns et al. vs Bourne, 8 J., 220; 13 R. J. R. Q., 146.

92. A guarantee of a fixed amount, given for the benefit of a third person, is unascertained and unliquidated, until the deficiency due by that person is ascertained. Q. B., 1871, Montreal, Martin vs Gault et al., 15 J., 237; 20 R. J. R. Q., 452, 515.

93. La garantie conventionnelle fait cesser la garantie légale.

94. Le droit à la restitution du prix de vente est indépendant de la garantie et n'a d'existence qu'entre les parties immédiates à la vente. C. P., 1873, Québec, Chaudière

Gold Mining Co. of Boston vs Desbarats et al., 1 R. L., 82; 2 R. L., 623; 4 R. L., 645; 13 J., 152; 15 J., 44; 17 J., 275; 1 R. C., 120; 5 L. R., P. C. A., 277; 42 L. J., P. C., 73; 29 L. T., 377; 1 B. J. P. C., 251, 727; 19 R. J. R. Q., 244, 544; 20 R. J. R. Q., 300, 522, 541.

95. The defendant signed a letter of guarantee in the following form: "Montreal, May 11, 1874. Messrs. R. & B., Gentlemen, We, the undersigned, acting as president and secretary of the Montreal Omnibus Co., hereby agree to see the account that B. and St. C. have against the said company duly settled, provided the said account be made out and agreed upon as either the court or arbitrator may decide. (Signed) R. Kerr, as president of the M. O. Co." This letter was given in order to avoid an execution against the company, and was delivered to the attorneys of the plaintiff, without being signed by the secretary: On action against the president, it was held that he was personally liable. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Kerr vs Brown et al., 23 J., 227; 1 L. N., 602.

96. An undertaking to give a purchaser an introduction to a firm whose responsibility and standing should be satisfactory to him, meant satisfactory at the date, and did not imply in any way the continued solvency of the firm. Q. B., 1882, Montreal, Bowen et al., vs Gordon et al., 5 L. N., 300.

97. The appellant sold to the respondent his assets, stock in trade, machinery and patents used by him in connection with said business, and also the goodwill by a written agreement where it was stipulated: "The consideration of this transfer is $4000, of which $2000 are to be paid in cash, $500 in three months, $500 in six months, $500 in nine months and $500 in twelve months from this date, in notes of W. T. Fairman... If, on stock taking, which shall be taken within one week, it is found that $4000 is not the exact valuation of the property transferred, the parties shall regulate the deficiency or excess as follows:—..if less than $4000, then the deficiency shall be deducted from the cash payment of $2000." On getting possession Fairman found that there was no existing patent in Canada for the process of wire coiling handed over to him by Tye in execution of the agreement, and that no patent could be obtained for it in Canada, inasmuch as application had not been made within a year from the date of the patent obtained in the United States. The stock taking showed the value of the machinery and plant to be $1,920.80, leaving $2000 to represent the value of the patents or of the patents and goodwill: The sale should be regarded as a sale in bloc, and there being deception and misrepresentation as regards the patents, which were, in fact, worthless, the purchaser was entitled to damages, the measure of which might be taken as the $2000 allowed for the patents, the goodwill having been added as a separate memorandum and nothing having been allowed as a consideration therefor. Q. B., 1885, Montreal, Tye vs Fairman, M. L. R., 1 Q. B., 504; 8 L. N., 410; 4 D. C. A., 206.

98. Words of warranty in a deed, which say, that the sale is made "with promise of warranty against all gifts, dowers, debts, hypothecs, substitutions, alienations and other hindrances whatsoever," are no more than an enunciation of the ordinary warranty of law, and do not imply any conventional warranty against a constituted rent representing cens et rentes. S. C., 1887, Ottawa, Egan et al. vs Thomson, 16 L. N., 166.

99. La garantie d'éviction ne s'étend pas à la cession d'un droit incertain cédé à part de la chose principale, quoique dans le même acte, surtout lorsqu'il est stipulé sans garantie, excepté des faits et promesses du vendeur.

100. Le cédant, sous la simple garantie de ses faits et promesses, de tous les droits qu'il peut avoir en vertu d'un acte de convention indiqué, n'est pas tenu de rembourser à l'acquéreur le prix de la cession si ces droits ne peuvent être exercés par ce dernier. C. Supr., 1889, Canada, Demers vs Duhaime, 16 R. L., 31; 14 R. J. Q., 16; 11 L. N., 174; 12 L. N., 179; 16 R. C. Supr., 366.

101. Lorsque le demandeur en garantie invoque au soutien de sa demande une convention écrite du défendeur en garantie, par laquelle ce dernier s'est chargé des dommages pouvant résulter au demandeur principal de l'exécution des travaux par lui entrepris, et la demande principale porte précisément sur l'exécution dommageable, négligente et tardive des dits travaux, dans ces circonstances, le jugement qui déclare le défendeur garant ne peut s'appliquer qu'aux faits dont la responsabilité pourra être attribuée au défendeur en garantie seulement, et non autrement.

102. Lorsque le défendeur en garantie nie son obligation de garantir le demandeur en garantie, ce dernier est fondé à demander qu'il soit adjugé interlocutoirement sur ce point et que le défendeur soit condamné de prendre son fait et cause.

103. Lorsque la condamnation dans l'action en garantie anticipe sur le sort de l'action principale, il y a lieu en révision seulement à la rectification du jugement de la cour inférieure, quant à ce surplus, chaque partie devant la cour de Révision supportant ses propres frais vu l'absence du grief réel. C. R., 1898, Montréal, Pellerin vs Léveillé et Houde, et Léveillé, et Perrault et al., et Rév. Léveillé et al., 1 R. P. Q., 117; R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 311.

104. By deed of conveyance the vendor declared that he had sold with warranty all rights of property and other rights which he had acquired by virtue of a deed of sale from the sheriff in the lands therein mentioned and of which he was actually in possession, and that the immoveable belonged to him as having been acquired at the sheriff's sale: The warranty covenanted by the vendor had reference merely to the rights he may have acquired in the lands under the sheriff's deed and did not oblige him to protect the purchaser against eviction by a person in possession claiming under prior title to a portion of the lands. Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Drouin vs Morissette, 31 Supr. C. R., 563; 8 R. L., n. s., 188.

105. The guarantee resulting from the contract between the city of Montreal, and the municipalities of Ste. Cunégonde, St. Henry, and Westmount, by which the last municipalities were allowed to connect their sewers with the Montreal sewers for drainage purposes provided Ste. Cunégonde should guarantee Montreal against all damages, was binding in all the said municipalities for all damages resulting not only from the act of making the actual connection of the sewers, but also for damages that might be subsequently occasioned from time to time on account of the uses by them of the Montreal sewers for drainage purposes.

106. As the city of Montreal had not obliged itself to construct additional or new works within any fixed time in case of insufficiency, the adjoining municipalities were not relieved from any of their liabilities on account of postponment of construction of such works by the city of Montreal.

107. The judgment awarding damages against the city of Montreal being a matter between third parties and not res judicata against the other municipal corporations interested, the said city of Montreal was only entitled to recover by its suit against Ste. Cunégonde, such damages as might be shewn to have resulted from the connection and user of the sewers under the agreement; the city of Montreal, when sued, was not obliged to summon its warrantor into the action for damages, but could, after condemnation, recover such damages by separate action under the contract; it was not, by the terms of the contract, a condition precedent to action by the city of Montreal, that it should first submit to a judicial condemnation in liquidation of such damages; and, as between the city of Ste. Cunégonde, and the arrière-garants, their contracts bound them, respectively, to pay such damages, with interest and costs in proportion to the areas drained by them respectively into the Montreal sewer. Supr. C., 1902, Canada, City of Montreal vs City of Ste. Cunégonde of Montreal; City of Ste. Cunégonde of Montreal vs City of St. Hneri et al., 32 Supr. C. R., 135; 8 R. L., n. s., 379.

108. En matière de garantie conventionnelle, dans un contrat de vente, lorsqu'il y a l'obligation expresse de la part du vendeur de garantir l'acheteur, dans tous les cas et de toutes les manières, contre tout trouble qui pourrait lui être causé, et contre toute recherche qui pourrait être faite contre lui par un créancier hypothécaire ou autre, il importe peu que l'acheteur ait ou non connu l'existence de quelque hypothèque affectant l'immeuble vendu.

109. En effet. lorsque la garantie conventionnelle est générale, il est indifférent que l'acheteur ait ou non connu les causes d'éviction, car, en pareil cas, il s'en est rapporté, et s'est reposé entièrement, sur l'engagement du vendeur de la garantir contre toute cause d'éviction, et qu'au cas de trouble le vendeur le protégera et le défendra. C. S., 1903, Saint-François, Andrews vs Larocque et Larocque vs Bélanger, 10 R. J., 18.

110. La garantie conventionnelle, par le vendeur d'un instrument aratoire. qu'il fonctionnera d'une manière satisfaisante, doit s'appliquer à l'usage qui en est fait dans les conditions ordinaires de lieu, de travail et d'emploi. L'inexécution de l'obligation, née de cette garantie, libère l'acheteur de celle de payer le prix. C. R., 1905, Québec, La Cie Frost and Wood vs Tremblay, R. J. Q., 28 C. S., 46.

111. Le jugement qui maintient une action en garantie et condamne le défendeur en garantie à intervenir dans l'action princi-pale pour prendre le fait et cause du demandeur en garantie, et à indemniser ce dernier de toute condamnation sur l'action principale, a pour effet de conférer au défendeur en garantie le droit d'intervenir dans l'action principale et de déterminer la garantie due par le défendeur en garantie, mais n'a pas pour effet de permettre de considérer le défendeur en garantie comme une des parties dans l'action principale.

112. Le garant ainsi condamné n'est pas tenu, et ne peut être forcé, d'intervenir dans l'action principale, car il peut considérer qu'il n'a aucune défense valable à opposer à cette action.

113. Si le garant n'intervient pas dans l'action principale il reste étranger à telle action, car il n'y a aucune connexité entre lui et le demandeur principal.

114. Le jugement rendu sur l'action principale lie le garant qui a été condamné à intervenir et n'est pas intervenu dans cette action, et, de plus, le garant reste soumis aux effets du jugement qui a maintenu l'action en garantie et l'a condamné à indemniser le garanti de toute condamnation dans l'action principale.

115. Le demandeur principal ne peut inscrire pour jugement par défaut contre le garant, qui, bien que condamné sur l'action en garantie à intervenir dans l'action principale, n'a pas pris le fait et cause du garanti, vu qu'une telle inscription ne peut être signifiée qu'aux parties dans la cause, et que le garant, tant qu'il n'est pas intervenu, ne peut être considéré comme une des parties dans l'action principale. C. S., 1905, Saint-François, Andrews vs Larocque et Larocque et Bélanger et al., 11 R. J., 188

116. An action in warranty does not lie unless the person called upon to warrant is bound to the same extent and in the same manner as the plaintiff in warranty. C. R., 1906, Montreal, City of Hull vs Gatineau Macadamized and Gravelled Road Co. et al., 7 Q. P. R., 397.

117. Le vendeur d'un cheval qui le garantit "bon dans ses mains," le garantit bon pour l'usage de son acheteur. Par suite, ce dernier a recours de l'action en résiliation de la vente, résultant de cette garantie conventionnelle, pour le défaut de rétivité chez l'animal. C. R., 1908, Québec, Tremblay vs Bergeron, R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 202.

118. Eviction.—L'acquéreur condamné à délaisser un héritage sur action en déclaration d'hypothèque, a son action en indemnité, du moment qu'il a délaissé contre ceux qui sont tenus de le garantir du trouble, lors même que l'héritage ne serait pas encore saisi, et qu'il n'aurait pas mis ses garants en cause sur la demande principale. B. R., 1856, Montréal, Dorwin et al. vs Hutchins, 1 M. C. R., 78; 2 R. J. R. Q., 370; 10 R. J. R. Q., 161; 12 D. T. B. C., 68.

119. Pour que la garantie pour cause d'éviction cesse lorsque l'acheteur n'appelle pas son vendeur en garantie, il faut que ce dernier prouve qu'il avait des moyens suffisants pour faire renvoyer la demande d'éviction dirigée contre l'acheteur. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Drapeau vs Marion, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 99; 9 L. N., 122; 14 R. L., 310.

120. The defendant sold plaintiff a dog which was subsequently claimed by a third party. The defendant, although aware of this claim, suppressed the fact that he bought the dog from an unknown person, and thereby induced the plaintiff to take an action to revendicate the dog. Defendant when called as a witness in that case disclosed for the first time how the dog came into his possession. The action of revendication was dismissed with costs against the plaintiff, who now claimed that he was entitled to be indemnified by his vendor: Although the defendant was not impleaded as warrantor in the action of revendication, nevertheless his suppression of a material fact constituting fault, he was liable under article 1053, c. C., for the damage thereby caused to plaintiff, viz.: the costs which plaintiff incurred in his action of revendication, as well as the price paid by him for the dog. S. C., 1894 Montreal, Hayes vs Hersey, Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 476

121. La vente avec garantie contre les faits et promesses seulement du vendeur est une vente sans garantie, et tombe sous le coup de l'article 1510 C. c., de manière à obliger le vendeur, dans le cas d'éviction, à la poursuite d'un tiers, de l'acheteur, qui n'a pas acheté à ses risques et périls, à restituer le prix de vente; le vendeur n'est pas, dans ce cas, responsable des dommages et frais encourus par l'acheteur, ni des impenses qu'il a pu faire à l'immeuble. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Lovejoy et vir vs Phillips et vir, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 114.

122. The actio condictio indebiti for the recovery of the price paid by the purchaser for lands lies only in cases of actual eviction. Supr. C., 1898, Canada, Deschamps vs Bury and Hon. Thibodeau et al., 29 Supr. C. R., 274.

123. Le mot "éviction," contenu dans les articles 1508 et 1511 du C. c., se rapportant à la garantie que doit le vendeur à l'acquéreur, comprend aussi les troubles occasionnés par des procédés judiciaires fondés sur des prétendus droits antérieurs à la vente; et, en conséquence, l'acheteur a le droit absolu d'appeler son vendeur en garantie. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Banque Nationale vs Pease, 4 R. L., n. s., 132.

124. A warranty of title accompanying a sale of lands does not constitute the special agreement mentioned in article 1512 of the civil Code of Lower Canada in respect to liability to damages for eviction. Supr. C., 1900, Canada, Allan vs Price, Supr. C. R., 536.

125. The purchaser at a forced sale of the right of the judgment debtor in an immovable who sells them, as they are conveyed to him in the sheriff's title, is bound to indemnify the buyer for loss from eviction of the immovable by reason of its never having belonged to the judgment debtor.

126. The prosecuting creditor is only bound to warrant the purchaser at a forced sale against eviction by reason of informalities in the proceedings or of the property seized not ostensibly belonging to the debtor. C. R., 1905, Montreal, Mahoney vs Diotte et al., Q. J. R., 28 S. C., 314.

127. Le recours en garantie contre l'éviction, menacée par un tiers, n'est ouvert en faveur de l'acheteur que si ce tiers a manifesté ses prétentions par une prise de possession de la chose vendue, ou par une interpellation judiciaire pour faire reconnaître ses droits. Par suite, une simple demande de paiement du prix d'une vente antérieure, même accompagnée de menaces de résiliation, ne suffit pas. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Mathieu vs Trudeau, R. J. Q., 17 B. R., 531.

128. L'acheteur mis en possession de la chose vendue qui s'en laisse dépouiller sans résistance par un tiers, n'est plus reçu à exercer contre le vendeur le recours découlant de la garantie contre l'éviction. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Bastien vs Langlois, R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 255.

129. Exception dilatoire. — Sur une poursuite dirigée par le créancier d'une banque contre cette banque et contre ses directeurs comme responsables conjointement et solidairement avec elle, un des directeurs ne peut arrêter la poursuite du demandeur par une exception dilatoire, alléguant qu'il n'a accepté sa charge que sur le rapport des auditeurs de la banque et demandant que les procédures sur l'action du demandeur soient suspendues jusqu'à ce qu'il ait appelé les dits auditeurs en garantie, la dite action en garantie ne découlant pas de la même source que l'action principale; celle-ci prenant naissance dans un quasi-contrat, en vertu duquel on conclut à la responsabilité des directeurs, l'autre dans un quasi-délit par suite duquel les auditeurs seraient responsables de leur rapport. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Darling vs Banque du Peuple et al., R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 381; 2 R. J., 163.

130. Le faiseur d'un billet promissoire, poursuivi par un tiers, peut faire une exception dilatoire alléguant qu'il a signé le billet sans considération, et que le demandeur, qui n'a reçu le billet qu'après son échéance, n'est que le prête-nom d'un des endosseurs auquel la défenderesse ayant, dans ce cas, le droit d'appeler cet endosseur en garantie. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Champagne vs Ste-Marie et vir, 5 R. L., n. s., 66; 2 R. P. Q., 111.

131. Bien que les articles 177 et 183 C. p. ne parlent que de la partie défenderesse ou des défendeurs, le demandeur peut néanmoins demander par exception dilatoire suspension des délais pour répondre à un plaidoyer de paiement lorsque tel plaidoyer l'oblige à appeler son cessionnaire, ou autres, en garantie. C. C., 1904, Arthabaska, Dionne vs Ouellet, 6 R. P. Q., 190

132. Aux termes de l'article 177 du Code de procédure civile, l'exception dilatoire est accordée à tout défendeur qui a droit d'exercer un recours en garantie; il importe peu que le garant prenne le fait et cause du défendeur ou qu'il conteste simplement l'action principale, l'article 177 ne faisant aucune distinction entre la garantie simple et la garantie formelle. B. R., 1907, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Roberts, 13 R. L., n. s., 452.

133. La loi ne fait aucune distinction entre la garantie simple et la garantie formelle en autant qu'il s'agit de l'exception dilatoire: elle accorde l'exception lorsque le défendeur a des garants à mettre en cause. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Lacombe vs Duperreault, 9 R. P. Q., 157.

134. Extinction.—Dans un contrat de garantie donné à l'appelant par l'intimée se lisait la clause suivante: "The bank, as additional security for the payment of the interest, hereby guarantee that the same will be promptly paid to you as the instalments of interest fall due, provided always that the bank may, after the payment of any instalment, terminate this guarantee by notice to you in writing three months previous to any following instalment." Ces paiements devaient échoir les 8 février, mai, avril et novembre: Pour mettre fin à cette garantie, la banque devait donner un avis de trois mois avant le commencement d'un instalment et non avant l'échéance de cet instalment. Ainsi, un avis donné le premier octobre ne suffisait pas pour exempter la banque de son obligation de garantir le versement échu le 8 février suivant. B. R., 1893, Montréal, Cross vs Ontario Bank, R. J. Q., 2 B. R., 363.

135. Exclusion de garantie.—In contracts of sale or exchange the parties may validly stipulate exclusion of warranty against all possible defects even latent defects known or unknown. C. S., 1902, Montreal, Ducharme vs Charest, 8 R. J., 273.

136. Expropriation.—A vendor who sells a property during the proceedings of expropriation for a public improvement is not garant of the purchaser for the share of the cost of the improvement with which the property is charged by an assessment roll made subsequent to the date of the sale.

137. This holds good even where the assessment roll referred to was prepared under the authority of an act of the legislature to take the place of the original assessment roll for the same improvement, made previous to the sale, but which had been declared null by the courts, there being nothing in the act to give a retroactive effect to the new assessment roll, or to reserve to the actual owner of a property any recourse against those from whom he had derived his title after the improvement had been made. The vendors, by a clause of the deed of sale, relinquished and waived any right to exact interest on the unpaid balance until the net revenus of the company purchaser should be sufficient to pay the annual liabilities of the company for interest, insurance, etc., in connection with a certain loan, after which they would be entitled to receive interest to the extent of 7 per cent out of the surplus of revenue, according to its sufficiency: Held that the true meaning of this stipulation was that the purchaser should pay no interest on the balance due during the extension of time granted for the payment of the balance, unless the net revenue of the property should be sufficient to pay the charges for interest, insurance, etc., and not merely that the claim for interest should be postponed. Supr. C., 1886, Ottawa, Cross vs Windsor Hotel Co. of Montreal, 12 Supr. C. R., 624; M. L. R., 2 Q. B., 8; 29 J., 275; 4 D. C. A., 280; Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 288; 9 L. N., 84, 243.

138. Faillite.—An assignee to an insolvent estate cannot be sued en garantie in respect of a matter for which the insolvent was liable to guarantee the plaintiff en garantie. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Hutchins et al. vs Cohen, and Cohen vs Whyte, 15 J., 235; 15 R. J. R. Q., 195.

139. Under the Insolvent Act of 1875, on cases where the Insolvent Act did not afford relief against an assignee, the remedy by ordinary suit was not taken away, notwithstanding, anything contained in section 125 of the Insolvent Act of 1875, and, therefore, where the assignee to an insolvent estate sold a portion of the insolvent's real estate, and the purchaser was sued by the neighboring proprietor by reason of a building which had been erected by the insolvent against said neighbor's wall without having acquired the right of mitoyenneté, the assignee was properly called in as a garant by the purchaser.

140. And the effect of a condemnation en garantie against an assignee under such circumstances, is to give the plaintiff en garantie a claim against the insolvent's estate, either to recover the price paid or a portion thereof, or to rank upon the estate for the indemnity awarded by the judgment. Q. B., 1879, Montreal, Stewart, ès-qual., vs Farmer, 24 J., 79; 3 L. N., 33.

141. Farine.—L'acheteur d'une certaine quantité de quarts de farine a une action, contre le vendeur, pour se faire rendre une partie du prix, si la farine vendue n'est pas de la qualité convenue; l'action intentée trois semaines après la vente pourra être maintenue suivant les circonstances. B. R., 1887, Montréal, Taylor et al. vs Gendron, 15 R. L., 294; M. L. R., 3 B. R., 38.

142. Frais de transport.—Le manufacturier, à qui une pratique renvoie des marchandises, comme étant de mauvaise qualité, qui les reçoit sans protestation, est tenu de rembourser à cette pratique les frais de transport de ces marchandises. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Severn vs Damphousse, 20 R. L., 134.

143. Garantie collatérale.—A creditor who, holding collateral security, refuses to accept the amount due him, duly tendered by the debtor, and proceeds to collect or realize on the security, is liable for the damage thereby caused the debtor. C. R., 1909, Montreal, Desgroseillers vs Anderson et al., Q. J. R., 36 S. C., 234.

144. Garantie formelle.—One who intervenes in a contract of sale, and thereby binds himself with the vendor, solidairement, to warrant and defend the purchaser, is a garant formel, and may be compelled to take the fait et cause of the purchaser. K. B., 1818, Quebec, Peltier vs Puize et al., 2 R. de L., 207, 337; 2 R. J. R. Q., 230, 249.

145. Le garant formel ne peut contester l'action en garantie en alléguant la futilité ou le mal fondé de l'action principale. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Banque Nationale vs Pease, 4 R. L., n. s., 132.

146. Le défendeur en garantie, en matière de garantie formelle, ne peut repousser l'action en garantie du demandeur en garantie, en opposant, à ce dernier, des moyens qui tendraient à démontrer que l'action principale est mal fondée, mais il doit prendre le fait et cause du demandeur en garantie et opposer ces moyens au demandeur principal. B. R., 1898, Montréal, Walker et al. vs Pease, R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 218.

147. Un défendeur en garantie, dans le cas de garantie formelle, peut appeler du jugement rendu sur l'action principale, quoiqu'il ait refusé, en première instance, de prendre le fait et cause du défendeur principal. B. R., 1900, Montréal, La Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Gauthier et Monarque, R. J. Q., 10 B. R., 243.

148. En matière de garantie formelle, le garanti peut assister au procès et agir pour la conservation de ses droits, mais il ne peut, après que son garant a pris son fait et cause et plaidé à l'action, produire une défense absolument identique à celle produite par son garant. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Dryden et al. vs Yuile et al. et contra, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 315; 10 R. L., n. s., 136, 280.

149. Garantie simple.—Celui qui s'est obligé de payer a un tiers indiqué, à l'acquit de son vendeur une certain créance due par obligation et par billet, peut être appelé en garantie par son vendeur qui est poursuivi par ce tiers au paiement de telle créance.

150. L'action en garantie simple peut être exercée contre le garant qui n'a pas été partie au contrat d'où est née l'action originaire. C. S., 1856, Montréal, Gauthier et al. vs Darche, 1 J., 42; 1 J., 291; 5 R. J. R. Q., 399, 400.

151. The appellants, who had a contract with the city of Three Rivers, to supply and set up a complete electric plant, sub-let to the respondents the part of their engagement which related to the steam engine and boilers. The original contract with the city of Three Rivers embraced conditions of which the defendants had no knowledge, and included the supply of other totally different plant from that which they subsequently undertook to supply to the appellants. The appellants, upon completion of the works, having sued the city of Three Rivers for the agreed contract price, the city pleaded that the work was not completed and set up defects in the steam engine and boilers, and the appellants thereupon brought an action en garantie simple against the respondents: There was no legal connexion (connexité) existing between the contract of the defendant and that of the plaintiffs with the city of Three Rivers, upon which the principal demand was based, and therefore the action en garantie simple was properly dismissed. Supr. C., 1894, Canada, Royal Electric Co. vs Léonard et al., 23 Supr. C. R., 298; 17 L. N., 199.

152. Pour qu'il y ait lieu à la garantie simple et à l'exception dilatoire pour obtenir délai pour l'intenter, il faut que le garant soit obligé vis-à-vis du créancier qui poursuit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Lyman et al. vs Senécal et al., 4 R. L., n. s., 317; 1 R. P. Q., 233.

153. Il n'y a lieu à la garantie simple que lorsqu'une personne est poursuivie pour une dette qui n'est pas la sienne, et alors elle a droit de demander au débiteur d'intervenir pour la défendre, et au cas d'insuccès de la défense elle peut demander que le garant soit condamné à l'indemniser. Le défendeur qui est lui-même débiteur personnel de la dette ne peut arrêter l'action principale sur exception dilatoire, en alléguant qu'un tiers a assumé cette dette. C. S., 1898, Montréal, The Montreal Land and Improvement Co. vs Dinelle, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 241.

154. Il y a lieu à la garantie simple lorsqu'une personne est poursuivie pour une dette qui n'est pas la sienne, mais il n'y a aucune garantie lorsqu'elle est poursuivie pour sa propre dette, bien qu'elle puisse avoir un recours contre une autre.

155. Un défendeur qui obtient du demandeur un terme pour paiement de sa dette, ne peut opposer une exception dilatoire à une saisie-arrêt prise par l'avocat du demandeur distrayant ses frais sous prétexte qu'il a un recours en garantie à exercer contre lui. C. S. 1898, Montréal, Marchand vs Dansereau et Cité de Montréal. 5 R. L., n. s., 22.

156. Il y a lieu à la garantie simple, lorsqu'une personne est poursuivie pour une dette qui n'est pas la sienne.

157. Il y a lieu à cette garantie non seulement lorsque le défendeur est poursuivi pour la dette personnelle du tiers qu'il veut appeler en garantie, mais aussi dans le cas où son action contre le tiers, au lieu d'être fondée sur un titre positif portant obligation d'acquitter la dette, n'est fondée que sur un fait de responsabilité. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Champagne vs Ste-Marie et vir, 5 R. L., n. s., 66.

158. Le garanti, en matière de garantie simple, ne peut pas demander que son garant prenne son fait et cause et lui soit substitué comme défendeur dans l'action principale.

159. Il a le choix d'une demande incidente pour le faire intervenir aux fins de contester l'action et de subir la condamnation, ou, après que celle-ci a été prononcée, d'une demande récursoire, pour en recouvrer le montant en capital et frais. Dans le premier cas, comme dans le deuxième, le garant ne peut être condamné, même aux frais de la demande en garantie, qu'autant que la demande principale est elle-même suivie de la condamnation du garanti. B. R., 1908, Montréal, La Compagnie de chemin de fer urbain de Montréal vs La Ville de St-Louis, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 160.

160. Le garant simple appelé en cause par le garanti, peut intervenir et prendre son fait et cause, et, dans ce cas, a droit d'opposer à l'action principale, non seulement les moyens qu'il a de son chef, mais encore ceux que le garanti lui-même peut faire valoir. C. S., 1910, Montréal, O'Hara vs Jasmin et Charlebois, R. J. Q., 39 C. S., 182.

161. Héritier.—L'héritier du vendeur étant le garant de l'acheteur, ne peut revendiquer de ce dernier l'immeuble vendu, en qualité d'appelé à une substitution créée en sa faveur.

162. Il n'est pas nécessaire de prouver son acceptation de la succession du vendeur qui est présumée avoir eu lieu. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Taillefer vs Langevin et al., R. J. Q., 39 C. S., 275.

163. Hypothèque.—Where real estate is sold free and clear of incumbrances, and it appears that the property is charged with a hypothec, the purchaser is not bound to take a deed until the vendor has caused the hypothec to be discharged. Q. B., 1887, Montreal, Burroughs vs Wells, M. L. R., 3 Q. B., 492; 11 L. N., 107; 15 R. L., 228.

164. Intérêts.—Un défendeur, contre qui il n'est demandé aucune condamnation par l'action principale, est sans intérêt à instituer une action en garantie, et, dans ces circonstances, cette action en garantie sera renvoyée. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Bédard vs Monette et Poissant et al., 9 R. J., 350.

165. Lettre de garantie.—The following letter: "Sir, I hereby agree to become security for M. and Co. for whatever furniture you may trust to their care." is a sufficient and binding guarantee. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Bronsdon vs Brennan, 1 L. C. L. J., 85; 18 R. J. R. Q., 153, 531.

166. Lettre de change et billet promissoire.—L'endosseur d'un billet promissoire protesté, qui est poursuivi pour le paiement de ce billet, peut appeler le prometteur en garantie, et une défense en droit à cette action sera rejetée avec dépens. C. C., 1874, Richelieu, Mathieu vs Mousseau, 5 R. L., 260.

167. L'endosseur d'un billet promissoire, qui est poursuivi pour paiement de ce billet, peut produire une exception dilatoire demandant à ce qu'il lui soit permis d'appeler en garantie l'endosseur de ce billet. C. C., 1874, Richelieu, Beaulieu vs Demers et al., 5 R. L., 244.

168. Where a note of a third party is transferred for valuable security, being given in payment of goods purchased, and the note is not endorsed by the transferor, a warranty is implied that the maker is not insolvent to the knowledge of the transferor.

169. If it be proved that the maker of the note was insolvent to the knowledge of the transferor, the party who received it is entitled to offer it back and claim the amount from the transferor, without asking for the rescission of the contract in toto.

170. Article 1530 c. C., does not apply to such a case, and there being no time fixed by law for offering back such note, it is in the discretion of the court to determine whether there was laches, and whether the transferor was prejudiced by the delay. Q. B., 1875, Montreal, Lewis et al. vs Jeffery et al., M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 141; 5 R. L., 462; 20 R. L., 21; 18 J., 132; 14 L. N., 412.

171. The declaration set up that at Dunham in the month of August, 1875, the defendant requested plaintiff to sell him a certain colt, which he did, the price agreed upon being $100. The defendant being the holder of a promissory note not then due, made in favor of bearer for $100, offered the same in payment; that plaintiff refused to take the note and persisted in his refusal until he was assured by defendant that it was as "good as gold," when he accepted it. The note proved to be worthless, and plaintiff, after offering it back, deposited it in court and sued for the price. Plea, that the transaction was an exchange of the note for the colt (which was disproved), and that there was no guarantee, and that in any case plaintiff could only obtain a rescission of the contract and recover the colt: As defendant knew when he passed the note to plaintiff that it was of no value, he would be condemned to pay the amount with interest and costs. C. R., 1879, Montreal, Miller vs Daudelin, 24 J., 208.

172. Dans une action en garantie, celui qui transporte un billet insuffisamment timbré n'est pas tenu de garantir le porteur, vu que ce défaut est un vice apparent que ce dernier a pu et dû connaître lorsqu'il a acquis ce billet.

173. Lorsque le cessionnaire d'un billet promissoire appelle en garantie son cédant sur le plaidoyer de libération d'un des endosseurs, il a droit de demander que le coût d'achat qu'il a payé lui soit remis et ce qu'il aura reçu d'un autre endosseur ne pourra être compté en déduction, mais, à son tour, il doit offrir de remettre le cédant dans la même position ou il était avant le transport. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Lamarche et al. vs Banque Ville-Marie, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 203; 8 L. N., 133; 14 R. L., 56; 20 R. L., 328.

174. The maker of a promissory note cannot by dilatory exception stay the suit of the holder in order to call in the endorser en garantie. S. C., 1892 Montreal, Molsons Bank vs Charlebois, Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 286; 16 L. N., 144

175. Le faiseur d'un billet pomissoire peut, par exception dilatoire, demander à appeler en garantie celui pour l'accommodation duquel le billet a été fait, si ce billet a été transporté au demandeur sans considération, et dans le but d'intenter la poursuite au faiseur. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Champagne vs Ste-Marie, 2 R. P. Q., 111; 5 R. L., n. s., 66.

176. Un défendeur poursuivi en recouvrement du montant de billets promissoires, peut avoir un intérêt légitime à appeler garant, tant au point de vue des moyens de défense que ces derniers pourraient invoquer, qu'au point de vue des frais. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Dale vs Lidstone, 15 R. J., 476.

177. Lien de droit entre demandeur principal et garant.—Bien qu'il ait été condamné à prendre le fait et cause du défendeur dans l'action principale, le défendeur en garantie peut ne pas le faire

178. Il n'y a pas de lien de droit entre le demandeur principal et le défendeur en garantie condamné à prendre le fait et cause du défendeur principal, et qui n'a ni comparu, ni plaidé dans l'action principale, et, partant, le demandeur principal ne peut procéder contre lui.

179 Le défendeur principal peut demander que le défendeur en garantie, condamné à le garantir et à prendre son fait et cause dans l'action principale, et qui n'y est pas intervenu, l'indemnise du jugement rendu contre lui en faveur du demandeur principal. C. S., 1905, Sherbrooke, Andrews vs Larocque et contra, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 107

180. Lien de droit entre le garant et le garanti.—Quoique le garant ne puisse répondre à l'action en garantie en alléguant le mal fondé des moyens opposés au garanti, néanmoins lorsque les parties auront lié contestation sur la vérité même de ces moyens, la cour de Révision ne pourra, pour cette raison seule, modifier le jugement rendu en première instance. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Lamarche et al. vs Banque Ville-Marie, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 203; 8 L. N., 133; 14 R. L., 56; 20 R. L., 328.

181. The grantees of the warrantors of a title cannot be permitted to plead technical objections thereto in a suit with the person to whom the warranty was given. Supr. C., 1897, Canada, Powell vs Walters, 28 Supr. C. R., 133; Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 350

182. Ligne homologuée—Dans la cité de Montréal, un vendeur d'un lot de terre sur lequel la cité de Montréal a un droit de servitude en vertu de sa charte, c'est-à-dire, le droit d'empêcher les propriétaires de construire en dehors de la ligne fixée par le plan homologuée de la cité, dans les rues qui doivent être élargies ou ouvertes, est tenu de garantir l'acheteur contre cette servitude, à moins de convention contraire, et l'acheteur menacé d'éviction peut faire résilier la vente.

183. Dans ce cas l'acheteur a droit de se faire rembourser par le vendeur toutes les dépenses et améliorations qu'il aura faites sur ce lot. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Ménard vs

Rambeau, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 25; 11 L. N., 188; 16 R. L., 97; 20 R. L., 448; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 286; 32 J., 240.

184. Le vendeur qui a vendu un immeuble avec front sur une rue, n'est pas tenu de garantir l'acheteur si, subséquemment à la vente, l'autorité municipale a réduit la largeur de cette rue, de telle sorte que l'immeuble vendu ne se trouve plus sur l'alignement de la rue. B. R., 1900, Montréal, La Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Gauthier et al., R. J. Q., 10 B. R., 245.

185. A vendor of land, described according to an existing plan of subdivision, with customary legal warranty, is not obliged to defend the purchaser against troubles resulting from the exercise subsequently, by municipal authorities, of powers in respect to the alteration of the street line. Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Monarque vs Banque Jacques-Cartier, 31 Supr. C. R., 474; Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 93.

186. When a lot in a town was sold bounded on one side by land reserved for an intended street une rue projetée and the purchaser remained in possession of it a space of twenty-three years, after which the intended street was laid open by the municipal authorities, but with a reduction of ten feet in its width, so that a strip was left between it and the lot, thus cutting off access from the one to the other, an action will lie by the purchaser against the seller to recover the price paid for the lot and the costs of improvements made thereto by him during his possession. C. R., 1907, Quebec, Courberon vs Grant, Q. J. R., 31 S. C., 197.

187. Lods et ventes.—Where property subject by law to the payment of lods et ventes, and other seigniorial dues had been sold apparently free from all charges: The purchaser must be considered to be acquainted with such charges, and was liable to pay them. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Mussen vs Philbin, 7 J., 165; 12 R. J. R. Q., 107.

188. Louage des choses.—The appellant leased to respondents a machine which he guaranteed would "properly fiberize and screen from 8 to 10 tons of No. 3 crude asbestos per day of 10 hours." The machine was set up in respondents' premises by men furnished by appellant: In an action of damages by respondents against appellant for breach of contract, under the terms of the clause of warranty, even without proof that there was any defect in the construction of the machine, the respondents were entitled to recover, on evidence that the machine did not do, and was not capable of doing, the amount of work which it was guaranteed to do. Q. B., 1897, Montréal, Costigan vs Johnson et al., Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 308

189. Louage d'ouvrage—Un défendeur poursuivi en dommages pour pertes causées à la demanderesse par défaut de construction d'une couverture, peut appeler en garantie les personnes auxquelles il l'a donnée à faire faire et qui l'ont mal faite. Une inscription en droit des défendeurs en garantie, alléguant défaut de connexité dans les circonstances sera renvoyée avec frais. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Dame Dagenais et vir vs Caron et Caron, et Lacroix, 5 R. P. Q., 42.

190. On a contract for the construction of vault fire and burglar proof, held, that on a true construction of the correspondence, no absolute warranty or insurance against burglary had been given by the defendants, but that they did warrant a fair and reasonable protection against burglars, and, also, that the entire surface of the door was protected by hardened drill-proof plate composed of chilled steel.

191. Further, that as the door was not lined with chilled steel and, hence, not burglar proof to any extent, as capable of being drilled by an ordinary hand-drip, all the warranties had been broken, but that the loss of the money contained in the vault was not a natural consequence of the defects in the vault door and the proper measure of damages was the price paid for the door. H. C., 1903, Ontario, Denison vs Taylor, 2 C. L. R., 1; 9 R. L., n. s., 283.

192. A workman, who contracts to lay a tiled or mosaic floor, for a set price, incurs the liability of warranty, both of the material supplied and of the work done, provided in articles 1696 and 1688 c. C., and is not relieved therefrom by the circumstances that the tiles were selected by the owner and his architect, and the work performed under the supervision of the latter. S. C., 1910, Montreal, Reid vs Birks et al., Q. J. R., 39 S. C., 133.

193. Mise en demeure.—Aucune dénonciation n'est requise avant l'action en garantie, la mise en demeure se faisant par l'action même. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Lamarche et al. vs Banque Ville-Marie, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 203; 8 L. N., 133; 14 R. L., 56; 20 R. L., 328.

194. Obligation conditionnelle.—Une partie qui s'est obligée sous une condition qui ne s'est pas accomplie, et dont les obligations ont été assumées par un tiers accepté par le demandeur, ne peut, si elle est poursuivie pour non-exécution du contrat qu'elle a ainsi transporté, appeler en garantie le tiers qui lui a été substitué. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Veilleux vs Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway Co., 5 R. P. Q., 290.

195. Officiers municipaux.—Upon an action to recover an amount due for breach of a contract alleged to have been entered into by defendant acting through their authorized officers, if defendant pleads denying the existence of such contract and having ever thereto authorized its said officers, plaintiff has a right to enter an action in warranty against said officers to warrant him against any judgment which may be pronounced in recognition of their want of authority.

196. The reference to defendant, in article 183, C. p. c. is not prohibitive, and a plaintiff has a right to enter an action in warranty. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Manetti vs Ville de Notre-Dame de Grâce, and Manetti vs McCormick et al., 15 R. J., 347; 15 R. L., n. s., 408; Q. J. R., 37 S. C., 269.

197. Paiement.—A person who pays over to another moneys or effets in his possession cannot, when sued by a third person claiming ownership of the moneys or effects, call in warranty the person who has received them. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Pélissier et al. vs Blanchi and City of Montreal and Blanchi, 10 Q. P. R., 325.

198. Partage.—L'action en partage et licitation d'un immeuble est une action réelle et le recours en garantie formelle, contre son vendeur, est ouvert en faveur du demandeur dont le droit au partage est contesté. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Vinet vs Martel, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 390; R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 364; 15 R. L., n. s., 102.

199. Ratification.—Le vendeur d'un immeuble, qui convient avec l'acquéreur de ne pas exiger partie du prix de la vente, avant qu'il n'ait fait ratifier cette vente par des personnes indiquées, ne pourra recouvrer cette partie du prix, en établissant, dans une cause où ces personnes ne sont pas parties, que, par le laps de temps elles ont perdu tout droit sur l'immeuble vendu. C. R., 1889, Montréal, Bertrand vs Quintin dit Dubois, 17 R. L., 392.

200. Ratification de titre.—Where the vendor covenants that the purchaser is to obtain a confirmation of title before making payment, he becomes, by reason of such covenant, a party to the proceeding for ratification of title, and consequently the purchaser is not bound to call in the vendor en garantie to give him an opportunity of contesting claims filed in the proceeding. S. C., 1855, Quebec, Ruston vs Blanchard, 5 L. C. R., 390.

201. In an action en garantie by a petitioner for ratification of title against his vendor, to compel him to intervene and cause certain oppositions afin de conserver, which had been filed against his application, to be removed: Such oppositions amounted in law to a trouble, and entitled the petitioner to his action en garantie. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Judah and Judah vs Roland, 1 J., 194; 6 R. J. R. Q., 25.

202. L'impétrant qui est troublé par une opposition à sa demande en ratification de titre est bien fondé à diriger une action en garantie contre son vendeur et cette action en garantie a toujours été accueillie et maintenue. B. R., 1858, Québec, Douglas vs Dinning, 3 J., 33; 8 D. T. B. C., 501; 6 R. J. R. Q., 321.

203. Recours en garantie.—Une corporation municipale poursuivie en recouvrement de dommages résultant d'un accident attribuable, suivant les allégations de l'action, à la faute et négligence de telle corporation, ne peut appeler en garantie les propriétaires des terrains vis-à-vis lesquels il est allégué que l'accident a eu lieu, vu que l'action principale n'allègue pas qu'un quasi-délit ou fait propre de la défenderesse; cette dernière doit contester l'action principale pour repousser l'accusation portée contre elle, et ne peut, si l'action principale est maintenue, exercer qu'un recours subsidiaire contre les parties tenues envers elle.

204. Sur action en garantie instituée par la corporation municipale, dans les circonstances ci-dessus, si les défendeurs en garantie ne contestent pas ces actions, mais, au contraire, interviennent sur l'action principale et le demandeur principal, sans contester leur droit d'intervenir, lie contestation au mérite sur ces interventions, telles interventions seront considérées comme des défenses distinctes à l'action principale.

205. Dans l'espèce, l'action principale étant renvoyée avec dépens, le demandeur principal ne sera pas tenu aux frais d'une exception dilatoire produite par la défenderesse pour appeler garants, vu que telle exception était illégale et inutile.

206. Le demandeur principal ayant lié contestation avec les intervenants, sans discuter leur droit d'intervenir, sera tenu, sur le renvoi de l'action principale, au paiement des frais de ces diverses interventions considérées comme des défenses distinctes à l'action principale.

207. Les actions en garantie seront, dans les circonstances, renvoyées sans frais, les défendeurs en garantie ne les ayant pas contestées. C. C., 1986, Joliette, Prévost vs Corporation de la paroisse de Ste-Julienne et Laporte et al., 2 R. J., 462.

208. Recourse in warranty exists wherever the person sought to be charged as warrantor is by the effect of a convention between him and the party so seeking to charge him, bound to protect the latter or idemnify him for the condemnation sought to be obtained against him. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Chenevert et al. vs David, 3 Q. P. R., 201.

209. Un défendeur, dans une action personnelle, a toujours une action en garantie contre le tiers, tenu, par la loi ou par convention entre eux, de l'indemniser de la condamnation à intervenir, ou d'en partager le fardeau avec lui. Il a droit, pour cette fin, au délai de l'article 183 C. p. c., mais ce délai expiré, sa demande en garantie ne peut plus être un obstacle, ni une occasion de retard dans l'instruction et le jugement de l'action principale.

210. Il doit y avoir connexité entre la demande principale et la demande en garantie, mais il n'est pas nécessaire qu'elles découlent toutes deux du même titre.

211. Du reste, le garanti peut toujours exercer son recours au moyen d'une action récursoire indépendante de celle où il est lui-même poursuivi. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Gosselin vs Martel et al., R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 364.

212. Rente constituée.—A vendor of real estate is not bound by law to warrant the purchaser against rentes constituées representing cens et rentes, and therefore in the absence of a special warranty in the deed, a sale of lands situate within the limits of a seigniory is subject to such constituted rents, arrears excepted. S. C., 1887, Ottawa, Egan et al. vs Thomson, 16 L. N., 166.

213. Réponse à l'action. — En réponse à une action en garantie, le défendeur ne peut que plaider qu'il n'est pas tenu à la garantie qu'on lui demande, ou intervenir et prendre le fait et cause du demandeur en garantie; s'il conteste l'action en garantie en alléguant des moyens propres à faire renvoyer l'action principale, il sera condamné aux frais de l'action en garantie même si cette dernière est renvoyée. C. R., 1909, Montréal, Dame Monette vs Cité de Montréal, 16 R. J., n. s., 176.

214. Servitude.—Le vendeur, avec garantie, est bien fondé à se pourvoir, contre le propriétaire d'un terrain voisin de l'immeuble vendu, pour le contraindre à laisser exercer sur son terrain, par l'acquéreur, un droit de servitude existant en faveur du terrain vendu. C. S., 1889, Sorel, Bonin vs Lapointe, 33 J., 215.

215. L'acheteur a, contre son vendeur, l'action en diminution du prix et en dommages, à cause d'une servitude non déclarée ni apparente au moment de son achat, et qu'il a trouvée consignée dans le titre de son vendeur sous forme de réserve en faveur d'un tiers, propriétaire du terrain voisin, même si celui-ci n'y était pas partie, et quand bien même la servitude n'est pas assez importante pour autoriser la rescision de la vente.

216. C'est au vendeur, si ce tiers n'y a pas droit, à faire disparaître la servitude, et non à l'acheteur à plaider à ce sujet avec ce tiers.

217. La cause d'un acte de vente, disant: "l'acquéreur déclare connaître le susdit emplacement et ses accessoires et n'en pas exiger plus ample désignation," est de pur style et ne porte que sur l'état apparent de l'emplacement à ce moment-là.

218. Quand bien même une servitude a été apparente antérieurement, si elle ne l'est pas au temps de la vente et n'a pas été déclarée à l'acheteur, celui-ci aura l'action en diminution du prix et en dommages. C. S., 1892, Fraserville, Lebel vs Bélanger, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 331; 16 L. N., 141; (Confirmé en C. de R. le 28 février 1893).

219. Shérif.—No action en garantie lies against the sheriff, or against the defendant, on a sale by décret forcé. K. B., 1809, Quebec, Frees vs Martineau, 1 R. de L., 379; 3 R. de L., 476; 2 R. J. R. Q., 67; 14 R. J. R. Q., 108.

220. Société.—Une lettre de garantie, donnée à l'un des membres d'une société de commerce, confère un droit d'action à cette société. C. S., 1859, Montréal, Rolland et al. vs Loranger, 3 J., 249; 7 R. J. R. Q., 497.

221. A guarantee signed by a partner in the name of the firm is valid and binding on the firm. Q. B., 1871, Montreal, Martin vs Gault et al., 15 J., 237; 20 R. J. R. Q., 452, 515.

222. Solidarité.—Un défendeur dans une cause peut appeler en garantie une seule des personnes, tenues conjointement et solidairement à la garantie, et il n'est pas tenu, avant de procéder contre l'un d'eux ou plusieurs d'entre eux, de mettre en cause tous les garants tenus conjointement et solidairement. B. R., 1884, Québec, Ross et al. vs Ross, 14 R. L., 1.

223. Subrogation.—B. sold to appellants a piece of real estate. They paid a portion of the price, leaving $20,000 secured on the property, payable in ten years, with interest. This balance R. gave to McGill College, and appellants accepted the transfer. Appellants then sold the immoveable to B., who bound himself personally to pay the debt, and the property remained hypothecated to secure the debt. B. then exchanged the property, with the seminary for another property and as the property coming from appellants was mortgaged as well for the balance of the original price (the $20,000 made over to McGill College) as for the extra price B. agreed to pay, B. hypothecated to the seminary the property they gave him in exchange. B. then sold to S. the property he had acquired from the seminary, The seminary became parties to the last deed, and discharged B. of his personal liability to them, and accepted S. in his stead. Subsequently the rights of McGill College devolved on one C. who notified the seminary of the transfer. Interest on the $20,000 fell due, and as it was not paid by any of the parties personally liable, C. sued the seminary hypothecarily. The seminary paid the debt, and were subrogated in the rights of C. They then sued the appellants who pleaded as an answer to the demand the discharge of B. by the seminary. The question was as to the effect of this discharge: Held that the action of the seminary should be maintained. Q. B., 1882, Montreal, Reford et al. vs Ecclésiastiques du Séminaire de Montréal, 6 L. N., 27; 27 J., 1; 3 D. C. A., 1.

224. L'acquéreur d'un immeuble, qui éteint un droit sur l'immeuble pour lequel il est garanti, a droit d'en diminuer le montant sur le prix de vente qui lui est réclamé. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Forbes vs Barns, 21 R. L., 163; 21 R. L., 203.

225. Taxe et répartition.—Le vendeur d'un terrain longeant une rue, où des égouts ont été faits avant la vente, doit garantir l'acquéreur contre la réclamation d'une taxe municipale imposée après la vente, pour répartir le coût de cet égout, lorsque cette répartition est faite en vertu d'un règlement antérieur à la vente et à la confection de l'égout, mettant le coût de l'égout à la charge des propriétaires longeant la rue. B. R., 1885, Montréal, Cross vs Windsor Hotel Co., 29 J., 275; 4 D. C. A., 280; M. L. R., 2 B. R., 8; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 288; 12 R. C Supr., 624.—C. S., 1888, Montréal, Ménard vs Rainbault, 16 R. L., 97; 20 R. L., 448; M. L. R., 4 C. S., 25; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 286; 32 J., 240.—C. C., 1891, Montréal, Levy vs Renault, 20 R. L., 449; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 287.—Contra: C. S., 1885, Montréal, Lussier vs Windsor Hotel Co., M. L. R., 1 C. S., 137; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 288.

226. The warranty of the vendor does not extend to charges imposed by common law, and which are apparent, and the special assessment above mentioned falls within that category.

227. Taxes due before the transfer of a property are payable by the vendor, and those which become due after the sale are payable by the purchaser. But a tax is not deemed to be due merely because a by-law has been passed by the municipal council, directing that such a tax should be levied. If the municipality neglect to prepare an assessment roll, the tax authorized by the by-law is not due so long as the roll is not made; and hence the tax for such year or years is not payable by the vendor who sells before the roll is actually made. Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Thibault vs Robinson, Q. J. R., 3 Q. B., 280; Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 286.

228. Assessment rolls were made by the city of Montreal apportioning the cost of certain improvements on lands benefited thereby. One of the rolls was set aside as null and the other was lost. The corporation obtained power to make new rolls, but in the meantime the property in question had been sold with warranty containing a declaration that all taxes, both special and general, had been paid. New rolls were made assessing the lands for the same improvements and the purchaser paid the taxes and brought action against the vendor to recover the amounts so paid: It was held that as two taxes could not both exist for the same purpose at the same time, and the rolls made after the sale were therefore the only rolls in force, no taxes for local improvements had been legally imposed till after the vendor had become owner of the lands, and that the warranty and declaration by the vendor did not oblige her to reimburse the purchaser for the payment of the special taxes apportioned against the lands subsequent to the sale. Supr. C., 1895, Canada, Banque Ville-Marie vs Morrison, 25 Supr. C. R., 289; 20 R. L., 452; Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 288.

229. Le 2 mai 1894, le demandeur et la défenderesse firent un échange de propriétés, chacun d'eux se rendant responsable des taxes et cotisations qui grèveraient les propriétés reçues en échange, à partir du 1er avril. Le 7 mai 1894, un rôle de cotisation spéciale pour la construction d'un égout fait en 1893, affectant la propriété de la défenderesse, fut signé par l'inspecteur de la cité et déposé au bureau du trésorier pour collection. La défenderesse était responsable du paiement de cette cotisation spéciale qui, malgré la construction antérieure de l'égout, n'était devenue due et ne grevait sa propriété qu'à partir du jour de la signature et du dépôt du rôle.

230. En Révision: Bien que le rôle de cotisation n'eût été signé que le 7 mai 1894, la propriété en question se trouvait, dès avant le 1er avril précédent, affectée au paiement du coût de l'égout, et le demandeur seul devait supporter cette taxe qui lui avait été imposée. C. R., 1897, Montréal, Rochon vs Hudon, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 300; R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 356.

231. The municipal corporation has a recourse in warranty against the proprietor, opposite whose property the accident occurred, since it has been settled by the jurisprudence that the legal right to bring an action in warranty on an action for a tort, quasi-délit, fully exists. S. C., 1898, Quebec, Rousseau vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Nicolas, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 214.

232. Lorsqu'un immeuble est vendu après la passation d'un règlement pourvoyant à l'exécution de certains travaux dans la municipalité où il se trouve, et à leur paiement au moyen d'une taxe sur les immeubles de telle municipalité, mais avant la confection d'un rôle de cotisation pour répartir cette taxe, le vendeur n'est pas garant de la taxe.

233. Ce n'est que par la mise en vigueur de tel rôle que la taxe devient une charge sur les immeubles de la municipalité.

234. Celui qui achète un immeuble dans une municipalité est censé connaître tous les règlements municipaux qui peuvent l'affecter, et une charge résultant d'un règlement est, partant, une charge apparente dont le vendeur n'est pas garant.

235. Le vendeur qui a vendu avec garantie de droit, mais sans aucune stipulation de franc et quitte, n'est point obligé d'acquitter une charge qui existe sur l'immeuble vendu, tant que la créance qui constitue telle charge n'est pas exigible. B. R., 1900, Montréal, Les Ecclésiastiques du Séminaire de St-Sulpice de Montréal vs Masson et al., R. J. Q., 10 B. R., 570; R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 573.

236. The warranty of the vendor of an immovable property does not extend to a charge imposed by the municipality in which the property is situate, for a term of years, as a special tax for the cost of a drain, except as to the arrears of such tax due by the vendor at the date of the sale. C. R., 1902, Montreal, Sharpe vs Dick et vir, Q. J. R., 22 S. C., 527.

237. A person who acquires land after the imposition of a school assessment upon it, is not personally liable for the payment thereof, although said assessment is a special charge upon such property, bearing hypothec without registration. C. C., 1903, Waterloo, The School Commissioners of the township of Roston vs De Lorimier, Q. J. R., 24 S. C., 48; 10 R. L., n. s., 22.

238. Dans le cas où un immeuble est vendu avec garantie de tous troubles et charges quelconques, l'existence de répartitions pour la construction d'une église, lors de la vente, ne peut donner à l'acheteur un recours en garantie ou en remboursement contre le vendeur si l'acheteur connaissait alors l'acte de répartition.

239. Les cotisations scolaires et les répartitions pour construction d'église, affectant un immeuble, étant des charges publiques ou de droit commun, doivent entrer dans la prévision de l'acquéreur d'un immeuble et sont à ses risques pour l'avenir à compter de la vente.

240. L'acheteur, avec garantie légale, qui a payé des taxes municipales ou scolaires dues par le vendeur ne peut réclamer ces taxes de ce dernier, si, lors de l'institution de son action, la créance de la municipalité contre le vendeur pour le paiement de ces taxes eût été prescrite, l'acheteur, subrogé aux droits de la corporation scolaire, ne possédant pas plus de droits que cette dernière à l'encontre du vendeur.

241. Les versements dus en vertu d'un acte de cotisation pour la construction d'une église, grevant hypothécairement un immeuble, échus depuis l'acte de vente, sont à la charge de l'acheteur, bien que l'immeuble ait été vendu avec garantie contre toute hypothèque. C. R., 1904, Sherbrooke, Peabody vs Vincent, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 37, 253; 11 R. L., n. s., 424.

242. Les charges sur les immeubles qui découlent d'un règlement municipal sont apparentes au sens de l'article 1508 C. c. Par suite, le vendeur n'est pas tenu de garantir l'acheteur à raison de cotisations spéciales réparties ou exigibles après la vente en vertu d'un règlement en force lorsqu'elle a été consentie. B. R., 1907, Montréal, Bourdon vs Deslongchamps, R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 163; R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 477; 13 R. L., n. s., 166.

243. Tiers.—Le fait seul d'être poursuivi pour une dette, qu'on prétend ne pas devoir mais être due uniquement par un tiers, ne donne pas lieu à une action contre ce tiers, lorsqu'il n'y a aucune obligation conventionnelle ou légale de garantie entre eux. C. S., 1898, Kamouraska, Pelletier vs Michaud, et Michaud et Sirois, 4 R. J., 533; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 297.

244. Le tiers détenteur poursuivi en déclaration d'hypothèque a le droit d'appeler en cause son vendeur et peut exercer ce recours par exception dilatoire. C. S., 1911, Montréal McIntyre vs Wilson, 14 R. P. Q., 45.

245. Vente de créance.—Dans l'espèce d'une cession de l'indemnité accordée par le gouvernement provincial, en vertu de l'Acte de la 12e Vict., ch. 58, le cédant n'est pas tenu de parfaire le montant transporté, sa réclamation ayant été réduite par les commissaires nommés en vertu du dit Acte. B. R., 1856, Montréal, Barrette vs Workman, 6 D. T. B. C., 284; 5 R. J. R. Q., 109.

246. The vendor of a créance with promise to garantie, fournir et faire valoir is only surety for the solvency of his debtor only, and the cessionnaire therefore can exercise against him his recourse en garantie only after discussing the property of the debtor and establishing his insolvency. S.C., 1877, Montreal, Homier vs Brosseau et al., 22 J., 135; 1 L. N., 62.

247. La promesse de garantie de fournir et faire valoir rend le cédant garant de l'insolvabilité présente du débiteur et de celle qui peut arriver dans la suite, mais le cessionnaire ne peut exercer son recours contre son cédant qu'après avoir discuté les biens du débiteur et prouvé son insolvabilité. C. S., 1880, Iberville, Bédard vs Rémillard, 28 J., 64.

248. L'obligation de garantir, fournir et faire valoir, contractée par le cédant d'une créance, ne peut obliger ce dernier en garantie qu'en autant que c'est par son fait que le cessionnaire court le risque de perdre sa créance. C. S., 1888, Rimouski, Sylvain vs Malenfant et Sylvain et Carmel, 33 J., 32.

249. Le cessionnaire d'une créance, qui lui est transportée avec garantie de fournir et faire valoir, perd son recours contre le cédant, s'il retarde de plusieurs années à en poursuivre le recouvrement contre le débiteur, et si ce retard est cause de la perte de cette créance, à moins qu'il ne soit établi que ce dernier n'était plus solvable à l'époque du transport ou de l'exigibilité de la créance. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Boisvert vs Augé, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 177; 16 L. N., 125; 17 L. N., 37.

250. Le cessionnaire d'une créance, avec garantie de fournir et faire valoir, devient le mandataire du cédant pour le recouvrement de la somme transportée, et, comme tel, est tenu de protéger les intérêts du cédant et est responsable envers lui des fautes qui peuvent mettre ses droits en péril.

251. Ainsi, lorsque le cessionnaire a fait vendre les immeubles hypothéqués en faveur de la créance cédée et a écarté les enchères dans le but d'acheter lui-même ces immeubles à vil prix, il n'aura pas de recours contre le cédant, s'il est démontré qu'il a plus tard réalisé, par la vente des immeubles ainsi achetés à vil prix, une somme plus que suffisante pour éteindre la créance en question. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Ethier vs Corbeille, R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 267.

252. Dans une vente de créances faite par le curateur à la cession de biens d'un failli, sans garantie même de l'existence des créances vendues, l'acheteur peut réclamer du curateur, malgré cette clause de non-garantie, le montant qu'il a payé pour des créances qui, à la connaissance du curateur, n'avaient pas d'existence lors de la vente.

253. Cette clause de non-garantie de l'existence même des dettes doit s'entendre de la possibilité de percevoir les créances vendues, l'acheteur n'étant pas censé avoir voulu acheter le néant, mais elle ne peut libérer le vendeur de l'obligation de restituer le prix, lorsqu'il savait que les créances vendues n'avaient aucune existence. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Ostigny vs Fulton et al., R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 436.

254. A warranty, promesse de garantir, fournir et faire valoir, in a transfer of a claim which is due and exigible, does not necessarily imply a warranty of anything more than the solvency of the debtor at the time of the transfer; and so, where the transferee, at the date of the transfer, was aware that payment had already been demanded by the transferor, who had refused to grant any extension, and the transferee nevertheless allowed more than a year to elapse without taking any steps to obtain payment, it was held that he could not recover from the transferor under the warranty without proving the insolvency of the debtor at the time of the transfer. S. C., 1896, Montreal, Cardinal vs Boileau et al., Q. J. R., 11 S. C., 431.

255. Si, en vertu des articles 1577 et 1596 du Code civil, le cédant d'une créance exigible n'est tenu que de garantir la solvabilité actuelle du débiteur, on doit comprendre que, lorsque la créance cédée est une créance à terme, la garantie de solvabilité du débiteur s'étend jusqu'à l'époque de l'échéance, c'est-à-dire jusqu'au moment où le cessionnaire pourra se mettre en possession de l'objet acquis.

256. La clause, dans un transport de créance, "de la garantie de la solvabilité actuelle et future du débiteur cédé," n'engage le cédant que jusqu'à concurrence du prix qu'il a reçu; et le cessionnaire ne peut, en vertu de cette clause, recourir contre le cédant, qu'après avoir discuté le débiteur, les cautions fournies et les hypothèques établies pour sûreté de la créance.

257. En vertu de la clause de garantie ci-dessus, le cessionnaire d'une créance payable à terme et en divers versements, n'est pas tenu d'alléguer et de prouver qu'il a poursuivi et discuté le débiteur cédé à l'échéance respective des termes fixés par le titre de la créance, quand, surtout, il n'est pas démontré que les garanties attachées à la créance n'ont pas diminué pendant l'inaction du cessionnaire.

258. Dans l'espèce, le fait par le cessionnaire de n'avoir poursuivi le débiteur qu'en 1895, pour les versements annuels de la créance dus les 1er mai 1888 à 1894, ne saurait lui faire perdre son recours contre le cédant; l'acte de cession ne fixant aucun délai pour procéder à la discussion du débiteur cédé, le cédant n'ayant jamais mis le cessionnaire en demeure d'y procéder, et la preuve faisant voir que le débiteur n'a jamais possédé plus de biens que lors de la discussion qui en fut faite en 1895. C. S., 1897, St-Hyacinthe, Charron vs Mongeau, 5 R. J., 110.

259. A buyer of immovables who acknowledges in a contre-lettre that a cash payment mentioned in the deed of sale consists in reality in the transfer of debts of an equivalent amount due him in New York of which he undertakes to make a valid assignment to the seller avec promesse de faire valoir, becomes the surety of the assigned debtors and bound to pay in their default. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Maucotel vs Tétrault, Q. J. R., 28 S. C., 251.

260. Vente de limite à bois.—In sales of "timber limits" under the C. S. C., ch. 23, a clause is always inserted which provides that if any license is found to cover ground already occupied by a prior license, the subsequent sale shall to that extent be null and void.

261. Under a contract of sale made by a licensee of such timber limits to a third party, with the simple warranty (garantie de tous troubles généralement quelconques), the vendor is not obliged to protect the purchaser against eviction by a person claiming to be entitled under a prior license to a portion of the limits sold. P. C., 1883, S. C., Canada, Ducondu vs Dupuy, 1 B. J. P. C., 737; L. R., 9 App. Cas., 150; 3 L. N., 350; 5 L. N., 72, 84, 153; 7 L. N., 46, 28 J., 85; 6 Supr. C. R., 425; 53 L. J., P. C., 12.

262. Vente de meuble et de marchandise.—Un acheteur qui a reçu partie d'une quanité de farine vendue à l'échantillon, a droit, lorsqu'il est poursuivi pour le prix, à une réduction égale à la moins value de la farine reçue, telle farine étant inférieure à l'échantillon.

263. L'acheteur est tenu sur réception de la farine de la faire examiner sans délai, et d'offrir de la remettre; et une offre et un protêt notarié du 21 juillet, était tardif, la vente et livraison ayant été faite le 19 juin 1860, quoiqu'avis verbal de la mauvaise qualité de la farine eût été donné aux courtiers le 27 juin.

264. L'acheteur ayant vendu une partie de la farine, n'avait pas le droit de faire rescinder la vente pour le résidu de la farine reçue.

265. Les offres de remettre cette partie de la farine qui restait entre les mains de l'acheteur, étaient des offres valables; et la confession de jugement offerte dans l'un des plaidoyers pour la balance du prix était suffisante, et aurait d être acceptée.

266. L'acheteur était en droit de déduire, comme partie de ses dommages, les frais de transport à ses pratiques à la campagne, auxquelles partie de la farine avait été envoyée sans être examinée, et aussi la réduction faite sur le prix de la vente à ses dites pratiques. B. R., 1863, Montréal, Leduc vs Shaw et al., 13 D. T. B. C., 438; 11 R. J. R. Q., 451; 15 R. L., 294.

267. The seller of a machine is bound to warrant his work, unless the purchaser takes all the responsibility upon himself. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Fallon vs Smith, 1 L. C. L. J., 35; 18 R. J. R. Q., 113, 589.

268. The plaintiff sold to the defendants, through a broker, a quantity of iron, which the defendants sent a clerk to examine, and test the quality of, before completing the purchase. Nothing was specifically stated by the broker as to the condition of the goods, but he sold them as in good order, subsequently, part of the iron was found to be rusty and damaged: The plaintiff sold the iron as merchantable and in good order; and the examination of the quality, made by the defendants, did not debar them from their right to claim a deduction for the damaged condition of the goods. S. C., 1866, Montreal, Benson vs Mulholland, 2 L. C. L. J., 185; 18 R. J. R. Q., 372, 587.

269. Le vendeur d'un fonds de marchandises, qui est saisi par un tiers, entre les mains de l'acheteur, est responsable des dommages éprouvés par ce dernier, quoique la saisie soit plus tard cassée, si, au temps de la vente, il connaissait les causes de la saisie, et n'a rien fait pour l'empêcher. B. R., 1887, Montréal, Gauvin et al. vs Leclaire et al., 19 R. L., 630.

270. Un vendeur qui accorde à l'acheteur un délai pour le paiement d'un prix convenu, ne peut ensuite refuser de livrer les marchandises vendues et exiger des garanties, à moins que l'acheteur ne soit devenu insolvable, de manière à ce que le vendeur soit dans un danger imminent de perdre sa créance. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Colette et al. vs Lewis et al., M. L. R., 4 C. S., 23; 11 L. N., 188; 12 L. N., 301.

271. Celui qui convient de vendre une chose qui doit être employée pour certaines fins qu'il connait, ne pourra recouvrer le prix de cette chose, si elle est impropre à l'usage auquel elle était destinée. B. R., 1890, Montréal, Connolly vs Bédard, 19 R. L., 304.

272. Le vendeur est tenu en loi de garantir son acheteur de tous troubles. C. S., 1891, Saguenay, Boudreau vs Harvey, 14 L. N., 385.

273. Le marchand de graines de semence, qui vend à un jardinier des graines qu'on lui demande pour semer, est responsable de l'erreur, si ces graines ne sont pas de la qualité demandée, et il doit indemniser l'acheteur de la perte de sa récolte et de ses travaux, quoiqu'il n'y ait aucune mauvaise foi à reprocher au vendeur. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Lapierre vs St-Jacques, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 252; 16 L. N., 142.

274. La vente sur échantillon comporte garantie absolue que la marchandise vendue sera conforme à tel échantillon et la non-conformité donne ouverture en faveur de l'acheteur, à deux recours, l'action rédhibitoire et l'action estimatoire ou quanti minoris, le choix de ces deux recours étant à l'option de l'acheteur. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Durocher et al., vs Leitch et al., R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 367.

275. L'acheteur d'une machine à battre le grain achetée le 1er août 1898, avec garantie qu'elle fonctionnerait bien et donnerait satisfaction et essayée par lui le 15 août de la même année, puis subséquemment par les employés des vendeurs qui y auraient fait des changements, puis encore, essayée à plusieurs reprises par l'acheteur sans résultats satisfaisants, du 12 au 24 septembre 1898, est bien fondé à demander l'annulation de la vente de telle machine à battre.

276. Son action instituée le 26 septembre 1898 avait été intentée avec diligence suffisante. C. S., 1899, Beauharnois, Labelle vs Lamarre et Cie, 6 R. J., 28.

277. Lorsqu'une chose est vendue avec garantie de certaines qualités, si après livraison, il est constaté qu'elle n'a pas toutes les qualités auxquelles l'acheteur s'attendait, et, s'il est prouvé que ce manque de qualités de la chose vendue provenait d'un défaut antérieur à la vente, ce défaut fût-il ignoré du vendeur, si l'acheteur n'a pu s'en apercevoir lors de la vente, cette dernière sera résiliée. C. S., 1899, Québec, Savard vs Plante, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 623; 6 R. J., 249.

278. En vertu de la clause suivante insérée dans un contrat de vente de machines aratoires: "L'acheteur aura une journée pour essayer le moulin dans les dix jours qui suivront l'envoi, et si le moulin ne fonctionne pas bien, il devra en donner avis par écrit (expliquant en quoi il fait défaut) à l'agent qui a pris la commande ainsi qu'à Chalifoux et Fils, St-Hyacinthe, P. Q., (les vendeurs) et donner le temps raisonnable à ces derniers de remédier au défaut, s'il y en a; l'acheteur donnant toute l'assistance possible et d'une manière amicale, fournissant une paire de chevaux, ainsi que le conducteur, etc.; si la machine ne peut faire de bon ouvrage, il la remettra aux lieu et place de la livraison et elle sera remplacée par une machine neuve, ou les billets seront remboursés, à l'option de l'acheteur" le droit de remédier aux défauts de la machine vendue ne se borne pas à un seul essai, mais il peut en comprendre plusieurs et l'acheteur à chacun de ces essais doit lui fournir toute l'assistance possible et d'une manière amicale.

279. L'obligation de garantie du vendeur, dans l'espèce, est conditionnelle, la condition étant que l'acheteur lui fournira telle assistance, et cette obligation s'éteint lorsque le vendeur ne peut exécuter son obligation par la faute de l'acheteur:

280. Pareillement l'obligation conditionnelle de l'acheteur de payer le prix d'achat, à la condition que le vendeur remédie aux défauts de la chose vendue, devient pure et simple lorsque l'acheteur a lui-même empêché l'accomplissement de cette condition.

281. Dans une pareille espèce, le vendeur peut poursuivre purement et simplement l'acheteur en recouvrement du prix de vente, sans offrir de remédier aux défauts de la chose vendue. C. S., 1907, Saint-Hyacinthe, Chalifoux vs Forest, 13 R. J., 476.

282. L'acheteur qui accepte et utilise la chose vendue n'est plus recevable, lorsqu'il est actionné en recouvrement du prix, à se plaindre de défaut de qualité, dimensions, etc., dont il a pu prendre connaissance de suite, mais dont il n'a pas même fait mention dans une correspondance de dix mois avec son vendeur, subséquente à la livraison. C. S., 1909, Québec, Audet et vir vs Naud et al., R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 148.

283. Vente d'immeuble.—A purchaser of real estate has a right to bring an action en déclaration de jugement commun against the cessionnaire of his vendor, for the purpose of rendering executory against such cessionnaire, the judgment he has obtained against his vendor in an action quanto minoris. S. C., 1856, Montreal, Ryan vs Idler, 1 J., 9, 257; 7 L. C. R., 385; 5 R. J. R. Q., 316, 317, 366.

284. Chaque co-vendeur qui vend seulement sa propre part, ou portion héréditaire, dans la succession de son ancêtre, n'est responsable, dans une action en garantie, que jusqu'à concurrence de telle part, l'obligation de garantie était divisible quoad damnationem. L'hypothèque est indivisible en autant qu'il s'agit de l'immeuble hypothéqué. C. S., 1860, Montréal, McCarthy et al. vs Senécal, et Senécal vs Bonneau et al., 11 D. T. B. C., 41; 9 R. J. R. Q., 386.

285. Warranty implied by law may be excluded by express warranty, but neither of them can be resorted to in an illegal sale, as the right of warranty implied or expressed can only spring from a valid sale. P. C., 1873, Quebec, Chaudiere Gold Mining Co. vs Desbarats, 1 B. J. P. C., 727; L. R., 5 P. C., 277; 42 L. J., P. C., 73; 29 L. T., 377; 13 J., 182; 16 J., 44; 17 J., 276; 1 R. L., 82; 2 R. L., 623; 4 R. L., 645; 15 R. L., 276; 16 R. L., 31; 1 R. C., 120; 19 R. J. R. Q., 244, 544; 20 R. J. R. Q., 300, 522, 541.

286. The purchaser of a property with warranty against "every description of trouble or eviction which may arise from whatsoever source," but whose title does not contain the clause "free from all debts and hypothec," cannot demand a resiliation of the sale in default of the removal of certain hypothecs which may afterwards appear to be a charge upon the property.

287. The difference between the ordinary covenant of warranty and the clause franc et quitte, considered. C. R., 1876, Quebec, Talbot vs Béliveau, 4 Q. L. R., 104.

288. L'acheteur d'un immeuble dont les fruits et revenus sont saisis et revendiqués entre les mains par un tiers qui est le vrai propriétaire de cet immeuble, qui appelle son vendeur en garantie, et le fait condamner à l'indemniser, par le jugement qui maintient la saisie-revendication, et qui paie ensuite au vendeur la valeur des fruits de l'immeuble dont il a disposés, ne fait que payer sa propre dette, et ne peut exercer, contre son vendeur, les droits du gardien, à qui le vendeur avait donné une garantie, pour permettre à l'acheteur d'enlever les objets saisis et qui étaient périssables. B. R., 1883, Québec, Mountain vs Patrick et al., 19 R. L., 667.

289. Lorsqu'un immeuble est vendu avec indication d'une contenance déterminée, sans laquelle l'acquéreur n'aurait pas acheté ce dernier, a droit de demander la résiliation de la vente, avec dommages-intérêts, contre le vendeur, en y comprenant la valeur des constructions par lui commencées, s'il constate qu'une rue passant sur une étendue considérable de ce terrain avait été tracée sur les plans de la municipalité dûment homologués par le cour, et qu'il est sujet à l'expropriation sans indemnité pour les constructions qu'il pourrait faire sur cet immeuble; il n'est pas tenu d'attendre l'expropriation pour procéder contre son vendeur. C. R., 1888, Montréal, Meenard vs Rambeau, 16 R. L., 97; 20 R. L., 448; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 286; M. L. R., 4 C. S., 25; 11 L. N., 188; 32 J., 240.

290. L'acheteur d'un immeuble n'a pas de recours contre le vendeur, pour recouvrer ce qu'il aurait payé pour désintéresser un adjudicataire du même immeuble qui aurait été vendu antérieurement pour taxes, si le vendeur a lui-même réméré cet immeuble. B. R., 1889, Montréal, Palliser vs Trenholm, 18 R. L., 171.

291. Sous l'effet de l'article 1023 du Code civil, un acheteur d'un immeuble ne peut poursuivre en dommages un second acheteur du même immeuble, parce que celui-ci aurait en achetant donné une contre-lettre au vendeur s'engageant à respecter la première vente et garantissant le vendeur contre le recours de son premier acheteur; aucun lien de droit n'existant entre les deux acheteurs. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Houle vs Mélançon, M. L. R., 7 C. S., 275; 14 L. N., 313.

292. Il incombe au vendeur sous la clause de "franc et quitte", qui réclame la balance du prix de vente, de faire voir qu'une hypothèque qui paraît exister contre l'immeuble vendu a été réellement radiée, et il ne remplit pas son obligation en produisant une quittance enregistrée qui mentionne erronément une autre obligation et ne décharge pas l'immeuble en question.

293. Dans ces circonstances, le vendeur doit lui-même faire radier l'inscription avant d'exiger la balance du prix de vente. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Curé et Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et Fabrique de Notre-Dame de Montréal vs Monarque et uxor, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 468; 16 L. N., 191.

294. The law recognizes and protects the creation of motive powers by the artificial stoppage and temporary accumulation of the water of a flowing stream, and the power thus generated is a commercial commodity, capable of being measured with accuracy, and bought and sold with freedom.

295. The vendor of such power, with warranty against all troubles and hindrances whatsoever, and with stipulation to maintain the dam by which the amount of power sold would be made effective, can only be relieved from the fulfilment of his obligation by force majeure. The fact that its fulfilment diminishes or extinguishes a supply of water upon which he had depended for his own use, or which, by a subsequent title, he had sold to another party, is no excuse for non performance of the contract. P. C., 1894, Montreal, Bannerman et al. vs Hamelin et al., Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 536; 18 L. N., 52; L. R., 1895, A. C., 237; 64 L. J., P. C., 66; 72 L. T., 128; 11 R., 868.

296. Le vendeur d'un moulin avec garantie contre tous troubles et droit d'établir une chaussée à travers une rivière n'est pas garant d'une action intentée contre l'acheteur par une personne dont la terre a été inondée, quand même cette personne, ainsi que la loi le lui permet, conclurait à la démolition de la chaussée à défaut par le propriétaire du moulin de payer les dommages adjugés. En révision:—En supposant que, du fait que le moulin en question était banal, il résulterait une fin de non recevoir contre la demande de tout riverain dont la terre aurait été inondée, cette raison suffit pour écarter l'action en garantie intentée par l'acheteur contre son auteur puisque ayant, suivant ses allégations, une réponse péremptoire à opposer à la réclamation du demandeur principal, il n'a pas de motif de faire un appel en garantie. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Moore vs Mitchell, R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 156.

297. Lorsqu'un immeuble a été, comme un corps certain, compris entre des limites certaines, et sans égard à la contenance qui n'est indiquée à l'acte que par surabondance et d'une manière vague, il n'y a pas lieu à la garantie contre le vendeur pour raison de défaut de contenance. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Cummings et al. vs Laporte et al., R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 31; R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 56.

298. A purchaser who acquires real property under the ordinary warranties of law, without a clause of franc et quitte, cannot exact security against trouble by reason of an incumbrance of the property, so long as he has not been disturbed in his possession and payment of the price is not demanded by his vendor, and the price under the stipulations of his deed, has not become due. C. R., 1894, Montreal, Lalancette vs Lalancette et vir, Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 274.

299. L'acheteur poursuivi pour le prix de vente ne peut, sur le motif que la propriété vendue serait grevée d'hypothèques, demander le renvoi pur et simple de l'action du vendeur; il ne peut conclure qu'à ce que le vendeur lui fournisse caution. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Richer vs Rochon, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 64.

300. Le demandeur vendit aux défenderesses une maison située à côté d'une propriété lui appartenant. Sur cette dernière propriété il y a une écurie qui, grâce à la conformation particulière du terrain, se trouve en dessous de la cuisine des défenderesses. Celles-ci ont abandonné la maison qu'elles avaient achetée sous le prétexte que les odeurs émanant de l'écurie en question la rendait inhabitable: Les odeurs mauvaises dont se plaignent les défenderesses ne proviennent pas de la chose vendue, et partant ne sont pas des vices inhérents capables de donner ouverture à la résiliation de la vente.

301. Le seul recours que peuvent exercer les défenderesses, c'est par la voie de l'action en dommages contre le voisin, s'il tient sa propriété dans des conditions telles, que les défenderesses sont justifiables de demander un changement de la disposition des lieux. C. S., 1898, Québec, Fortier vs Nadeau et al., R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 340.

302. L'acquéreur d'un immeuble, n'étant tenu vis-à-vis du cessionnaire de la créance du prix que dans la mesure où il en était tenu envers son vendeur, est fondé à opposer à ce cessionnaire, comme au cédant, toutes les exceptions de nature à diminuer la créance cédée.

303. En conséquence, l'acquéreur qui a acquis des immeubles avec garantie et sur la foi de son vendeur, alors régistrateur, qu'ils étaient libres de toutes hypothèques, qui a payé à son vendeur les quatre premiers versements annuels du prix et reçu signification d'un transport fait par son vendeur à un cessionnaire des trois derniers versements à échoir sur le même prix, et revendu avec garantie les mêmes immeubles à des tiers, le tout de bonne foi et sans vérifier l'état hypothécaire des dits immeubles, est fondé, lorsqu'il découvre que ces immeubles avaient été et sont grevés d'une hypothèque constituée par son vendeur à un montant plus élevé que la balance qu'il lui redoit, à payer cette hypothèque, pour empêcher l'éviction de ses propres acquéreurs, à renoncer au bénéfice des termes stipulés en sa faveur pour la paiement de son prix d'acquisition, et à se prévaloir de la compensation pour éteindre toute la portion du prix restant due au vendeur, et pour diminuer, d'autant que nécessaire, la portion du prix cédée au cessionnaire.

304. Il n'importe que cette cession soit antérieure, et au paiement fait par l'acquéreur de la dite hypothèque, et à trois des paiements annuels par lui faits de bonne foi à son vendeur, sur le prix d'acquisition des immeubles. C. S., 1901, St-Hyacinthe, Gingras et al. vs Guertin, 8 R. J., 143.

305. The purchaser of land, who has paid the price thereof, has no right of action against his vendor for damages and a clear title, if the deed of sale does not contain a clause of franc et quitte, but simply that the vendor guarantees the buyer from trouble and will hold him harmless against all encumbrances. S. C., 1902, Sweetsburg, Vail et al. vs Baker, 6 Q. P. R., 159.

306. Le vendeur d'un immeuble certain et déterminé qui le désigne dans l'acte de vente sous un numéro cadastral, est tenu de garantir son acheteur à l'encontre d'un tiers qui prétend posséder ce même terrain à titre de propriétaire, et qui allègue de plus que le terrain en question porte un numéro cadastral autre que celui mentionné en tel acte de vente. C. S., 1904, St-Hyacinthe, Fontaine vs Ryder, 10 R. J., 439.

307. La clause dans un contrat de vente d'un abattoir, contenant la stipulation suivante: "avec encore tous les droits et franchises que lui confère le règlement du conseil de la cité de Sorel, no 254, et autres dispositions du dit conseil relatives au dit abattoir," ne constitue une vente que des droits et franchises qui étaient effectivement conférés au vendeur, et si par suite de nullité de tout ou de partie des règlements, quelques-uns de ces droits ne lui avaient pas été conférés, le vendeur n'en est pas comptable, n'étant pas tenu de les livrer ni de les maintenir.

308. L'infraction par des tiers au règlement accordant tel privilège, et même le renvoi d'une plainte portée par l'acheteur de l'abattoir, devant le magistrat de district pour faire respecter le dit règlement, le dit magistrat de district déclarant le dit règlement ultra vires, ne sont que des troubles de faits postérieurs à la vente et dont le vendeur ne serait aucunement responsable, même s'il était tenu de garantir la validité des franchises cédées.

309. L'éviction ne daterait que de l'annulation du règlement. C. R., 1905, Montréal, Lacouture vs Côté, 12 R. J., 335.

310. Dans un acte de vente d'un immeuble où il est stipulé que l'acheteur paiera les taxes municipales et scolaires et autres impositions à compter de ce jour, cet acheteur doit payer toutes les cotisations spéciales d'égouts et d'expropriation qui échoient et deviennent dues après l'acte de vente.

311. Il n'importe pas qu'elles aient été imposées par un règlement ou une résolution antérieure à cet acte de vente. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Bourdon vs Deslongchamps, 13 R. L., n. s., 166.

312. Celui qui, ayant acheté un immeuble sous une désignation erronée, le revend de même à un tiers, et est poursuivi par celui-ci en diminution de prix et en recouvrement de dommages, a le recours de l'action en garantie contre son vendeur pour se faire indemniser.

Vainement, ce vendeur invoque-t-il l'erreur commune, alléguant s'en être remis pour la désignation, au notaire instrumentant, à la connaissance du demandeur en garantie et que ce dernier avait découvert l'erreur du notaire avant de vendre au tiers poursuivant; son obligation de garantie n'en subsiste pas moins. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Paradis vs Venne, R. J. Q., 35 C. S., 158.

313. L'acheteur d'un immeuble d'un exécuteur testamentaire agissant au nom de ses co-exécuteurs qui, dans une action en partage, est évincé ou troublé dans sa possession par un tiers, a droit à une action en garantie formelle contre ses vendeurs; et si ceux-ci nient avoir autorisé la vente, l'acheteur pourra appeler en garantie le co-exécuteur qui lui a vendu, dans sa première action en garantie, afin qu'il établisse son droit de vendre et prenne son fait et cause.

314. Dans une action en garantie, quand même il est évident que le défendeur en garantie n'a pas de défense à offrir à la demande principale, le demandeur en garantie n'est de ce fait privé de son recours en garantie. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Vinet vs Martel, 15 R. L., n. s., 102.

315. En matière de garantie pour défauts cachés, le vendeur en est tenu, même lorsqu'il ne les connaît pas, à moins de stipulation contraire; et, dans ce cas, l'acheteur a le choix de rendre la chose achetée et de se faire rembourser du prix payé, ou de garder la chose et de se faire rendre une partie du prix.

316. L'acheteur ne peut demander que le vendeur fasse les réparations nécessaires pour faire disparaître les défauts cachés.

317. Il ne peut, non plus, demander qu'il lui paie le montant des dommages qu'il souffre, s'il ne prouve pas que le vendeur connaissait ces défauts cachés. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Dame Phelan vs Montreal Investment and Freehold Co., 15 R. L., n. s., 1.

318. Celui qui vend un immeuble, tel qu'acquis par son auteur en vertu d'un titre auquel il réfère, est garant de son acheteur contre l'éviction de droits accessoires qui résultent de conventions, avec des tiers, intervenues depuis. Vainement prétend-il qu'ayant vendu l'immeuble sous son numéro cadastral, son obligation de garantie ne s'étend pas au-delà, notamment aux effets d'un bornage contractuel entre son auteur et le propriétaire voisin; l'immeuble, désigné par son numéro cadastral, comprend, comme accessoires, les droits qui ont pu naître de ce bornage.

319. La demande en nullité d'un acte de bornage contractuel, formée par un des voisins contre le représentant de l'autre, est un trouble de droit, qui donne ouverture, en faveur de ce dernier, au recours en garantie contre son vendeur, dont l'auteur, comme propriétaire de l'immeuble vendu, avait souscrit l'acte attaqué. B. R., 1908, Montréal, McLennan et al. vs The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co., R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 317; R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 446; 15 R. L., n. s., 320.

320. Where machinery is sold with a warranty that it shall work to the satisfaction of the purchaser, it is the duty of the seller to thoroughly test it, under conditions similar to those in which it is to be used before delivering the machine to the purchaser. C. R., 1912, Montreal, Bonin vs Ontario Wind Engine and Pulp Co., 6 D. L. R., 785.

V. Action paulienne ou révocatoire, Action pétitoire, Action possessoire, Action rédhibitoire, Appel, Assurance (Feu), Assurance (Maritime), Assurance (Vie), Banque, Bornage, Brevet d'invention, Cautionnement, Cité de Québec, Compagnie incorporée, Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.), Composition et décharge, Créanciers, Dommage, Droit litigieux, Droit municipal, Echange, Faillite, Frais, Gage, Hypothèque, Inscription en droit, Lettre de change et billet promissoire, Louage des choses, Louage d'ouvrage, Mandamus, Mandat, Mise en demeure, Nantissement, Péremption d'instance, Prescription, Preuve testimoniale, Procédure, Procès par jury, Requête civile, Responsabilité, Révision, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente de meuble, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Servitude, Société, Vente, Vente de créance.

GARANTIE COLLATÉRALE

Déf.—C'est le transport d'une chose donnée à un créancier comme garantie accessoire et additionnelle d'une créance par le débiteur ou par un tiers pour lui.

V. Banque, Garantie, Lettre de change et Billet promissoire.

GARDE DES ENFANTS

V. Habeas corpus, Mariage, Minorité, Séparation de corps.

GARDIEN JUDICIAIRE

Déf.—Toute personne qui a la garde des choses mises sous la main de la justice est un gardien judiciaire, qu'il ait été nommé d'office ou qu'il ait volontairement accepté la charge. C. p. c., arts 621 et s.

INDEX

Action 59
Avis 9, 24
Bestiaux 50
Chose périssable 1
Confession de jugement 42
Consentement 65
Contrainte par corps, 19 et s., 24, 64
Corp. des huissiers (M.) 62
Cour de Révision 34
Curateur à cess. jud., 32 et s.
Déboursés, 40, 46 et s., 49 et s.
Décharge "ipso facto", 2 et s., 11 et s., 27
Décharge par la cour, 10, 79
Défendeur gardien, 26, 64, 68 et s., 77, 84
Défense 72
Délai .....2 et s., 35
Délivrance des effets, 12 et s., 18 et s., 27, 32 et s., 36 et s., 42, 75
Demandeur gardien, 16, 46
Détérioration 28
Dommage 27, 46, 63
Emprisonnement, 42 et s.
Enlèvement des effets 40
Exception dilatoire... 72
Frais 69
Frais de garde, 44 et s., 48 et s.
Gardien d'office, 37 et s., 48 et s., 54, 58 et s., 67 et s.
Gardien volontaire, 1, 25 et s., 29, 35, 51, 53 et s., 57, 61, 80, 93 et s.
Huissier .....48, 66 et s.
Instruction du saisissant 9
Interdit 60
Locateur 34
Mineur .....61 et s.
Nomination, 64 et s., 81 et s.
Obligation .....25 et s.
Opposition, 7, 41, 73, et s. 76 et s., 80
Possession, 25 et s., 36, 41, 46, 61, 82, et s., 86 et s.
Privilège 30, 33
Procès-verbal, 55 et s., 65, 67, 69
Règle "nisi", 23 et s., 37, 43, 75
Responsabilité, 1, 18 et s., 29 et s., 33, 35, 51, 62, 75
Rétention 52, 58
Saisie-exécution 5
Saisie-gagerie, 1, 29 et s., 34
Saisie-revendication., 23, 29 et s., 36, 45 et s., 72, 85 et s.
Seconde saisie ...72 et s.
Signification 24, 36
Taxation 59
Tiers 92, 94
Valeur des effets saisis, 19 et s., 25, 39, 42
Vente, 1 et s., 34, 52, 89, 92

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Chose périssable.—Le demandeur, procédant par saisie-gagerie, n'est pas responsable de la conservation des choses périssables lorsque le défendeur nomme un gardien volontaire, même dans le cas où le gardien aurait livré la possession des objets saisis au demandeur saisissant, mais cette responsabilité incombe à ce gardien qui doit se faire autoriser à les vendre en vertu de l'article 634 C. p. c. C. R., 1909, Montréal, Nadon vs Maurice, 15 R. L., n. s., 290.

2. Décharge.—Un gardien judiciaire est déchargé faute par le demandeur d'avoir fait vendre les meubles dans les deux mois de leur saisie. Prév., 1732, Québec, Duburon vs Fournel, Prév. 19, 1 R. J. R. Q., 8.

3. Le gardien est déchargé lorsqu'il s'est écoulé un an après sa nomination. C. C., 1879, Québec, St-Hénédine, Hallé vs Hallé, 5 R. J. Q., 390.

4. A guardian is discharged by the lapse of a year after his appointment without proceedings. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Beaudry vs Brown et vir and Bowie, 3 L. N., 413.

5. Le gardien n'est pas, depuis la mise en force du Code de procédure, déchargé à l'expiration d'un an après la saisie-exécution. Cette saisie est périmée deux mois après la décision des oppositions qui l'ont suspendue. C. R., 1885, Québec, Lepage vs Garon et Côté, 11 R. J. Q., 370.

6. Un gardien nommé à une saisie de meubles est déchargé de plein droit, si on a laissé s'écouler un an depuis sa nomination, sans qu'il ait été continué, comme tel, par une ordonnance du juge. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Rea vs Merrill et al. et Thibaudeau, 14 R. L., 633.

7. Le gardien n'est pas déchargé par le laps de temps entre la vente et la saisie, lorsque ce délai a été causé par les oppositions du saisi, le bref d'exécution n'étant pas caduc dans ce cas. C. R., 1894, Montréal, McLaurin vs Murphy, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 10.

8. Un gardien judiciaire n'est pas libéré et déchargé de sa garde par l'expiration d'une année à compter du jour de la saisie et une règle émanera contre lui pour lui faire représenter les effets à lui confiés s'il ne prouve pas qu'ils ont péri sans sa faute. C. S., 1894, Ottawa, Millar et al. vs Gillepsie et al. et McVeigh, 5 R. P. Q., 376.

9. Lorsque le demandeur saisissant en vertu d'un bref d'exécution de bonis, après avoir donné au gardien un avis du jour de la vente, ordonne à l'huissier chargé du bref de ne pas procéder à la vente des meubles saisis, il ne peut subséquemment procéder contre ce gardien, la saisie de ces meubles étant devenue caduque. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Ryan et al. vs Ross, 4 R. L., n. s., 394.

10. The court has no power to relieve the guardian of effects under seizure, at his own instance, from his obligations as guardian, so long as the seizure under which he has been appointed remains in force; but it may, by consent of the seizing party, authorize his discharge on condition that the effects be produced and handed over free of charges to the new guardian to be named. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Archambault et al. vs Tessier et al., Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 230; 5 R. L., n. s., 33; 1 Q. P. R., 546.

11. Le gardien est de droit déchargé après un an à compter de sa nomination, l'ordonnance de 1667 (titre 19, art. 22), étant encore en vigueur dans ce pays. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Banque d'Hochelaga vs McConnell et Miller, 2 R. P. Q., 470.

12. Le gardien nommé à une saisie est libéré, dès qu'il a remis les effets saisis à l'huissier chargé de les vendre, si celui-ci ne les vend pas tous, le gardien n'est plus responsable de ceux qui n'ont pas été vendus. C. S., 1904, Québec, Gingras vs Parent et al., R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 271; 11 R. L., n. s., 127.

13. Les lois anciennes qui pourvoyaient à la décharge du gardien judiciaire par le laps d'un certain temps ont été abrogées par les articles 1, 603, 623, 625, 657, 658 et 659 du Code de procédure civile, et il n'y a plus lieu à la décharge de plein droit. C. C., 1905, Montréal, Philips vs Gwilt et Darveau, 15 R. L., n. s., 421.

14. Sous l'article 623 du Code de procédure civile, un gardien judiciaire ne peut être déchargé que par la vente des effets, le consentement de tous les saisissants ou l'ordre du juge.

15. Cet article a rappelé l'ancien droit, et notamment les articles 20 et 32 du titre 19 de l'Ordonnance de 1667.

16. Cet article du Code de procédure civile s'applique au demandeur nommé gardien judiciaire dans une saisie conservatoire prise par lui-même. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Howard vs Hefferman et Howard, 14 R. L., n. s., 404; R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 524.

17. L'article 20 du titre 19 du chapitre 23 de l'Ordonnance de 1667 déchargeant de plein droit le gardien à la saisie, sans jugement à cet effet, deux mois après que les oppositions ont été vidées, et un an après la date de sa nomination, si les différends ne sont pas terminés, a été abrogé par l'article 623 C. p. C. C., 1912, Richelieu, Chevrette vs Cournoyer et Lamoureux, 14 R. P. Q., 142.

18. Délivrance des choses saisies.—Le gardien judiciaire qui ne présente pas les effets saisis à la vente peut être condamné avec contrainte par corps à les représenter dans un certain délai ou à payer au saisissant les divers montants en capital, intérêts et frais, causes de la saisie. Prév. 1743, Québec, Gaudreau vs Desmotier, Prév., 62; 1 R. J. R.Q., 22.

19. Par la loi du pays le gardien d'effets saisis peut être contraint par corps, au paiement de la dette, faute par lui de représenter ces effets.

20. Par tempérament d'équité, les tribunaux ont réduit l'obligation de paiement à la valeur des effets saisis, valeur qui doit être prouvée par le gardien.

21. Un jugement condamnant le gardien à payer une somme moindre que la dette, sur preuve produite par le créancier, ne peut être attaqué. B. R., 1861, Montréal, Higgins et al. vs Robillard, 12 D. T. B. C., 3; 10 R. J. R. Q., 114, 520.

22. Un individu constitué le gardien à une saisie n'est tenu de représenter les effets mis sous sa garde qu'à la personne de qui il tient sa charge. C. C., 1862, Arthabaska, Fréchette vs St-Laurent, 13 D. T. B. C., 20; 11 R. J. R. Q., 213.

23. Sur motion pour règle nisi contre un gardien pour refus de livrer des effets saisis en vertu d'un bref de saisie-revendication, le gardien doit être, sur la dite motion et avant l'émanation de la règle, admis à faire preuve qu'il a livré les effets, que le demandeur en a été régulièrement mis en possession et les possède encore. C. S., 1867, Montréal, Jones vs Martin, 10 J., 331; 16 R. J. R. Q., 115.

24. Une requête sommaire pour obtenir une ordonnance afin d'obliger le gardien à représenter les effets saisis dont il est chargé, n'est pas une motion de droit, mais doit dans les délais être préalablement signifiée au gardien mis en cause. C. C., 1872, Montréal, Lebœuf vs Plouffe et Desormeau, 4 R. L., 564.

25. Le gardien qui aurait laissé les effets saisis en la possession du défendeur, sera tenu de les représenter ou d'en payer la valeur ou la créance du demandeur, même si les effets ont été vendus en justice, dans une poursuite contre une personne autre que le défendeur, mais résidant avec lui.

26. Le défendeur qui, après la saisie, est demeuré en possession des effets saisis, sera tenu de les représenter au gardien volontaire qu'il a nommé ou d'en payer la valeur, ou payer la créance du demandeur, sous peine d'être déclaré en mépris de cour.

27. Le gardien, qui représente les effets saisis, sera déchargé de la garde, même si par sa faute les effets ont éprouvé une détérioration; mais, dans ce cas, il sera reservé au demandeur son recours, pour dommages contre le gardien.

28. Le gardien, qui, par sa faute, a laissé détériorer les effets saisis ne sera pas déchargé de la garde, sans avoir payé au demandeur la valeur de cette dépréciation. C. R., 1883, Montréal, Brady, ès-qual., et al. vs Courville et Boudrias, 28 J., 165.

29. A voluntary guardian to effects seized under a writ of saisie-revendication, is not discharged from responsibility by the circumstance that the effects in his custody were subsequently seized and sold without his knowledge under a saisie-gagerie for rent, the guardian having left the effects in defendant's possession without an order of the court, and without his giving security, and the claim for rent having accrued under a lease by tacit reconduction, which only came into force subsequent to the guardian's appointment,

30. To be relieved of responsibility the guardian is bound to show that the effects would have been sold for a privileged claim thereon existing at the time of the seizure had he taken possession.

31. The position of the guardian in this case cannot be assimilated to that of a guardian under a seizure in execution when the goods seized are sold during his guardianship at the instance of another more diligent creditor. S. C., 1893, Montreal, Metropolitan Manufacturing Co. vs Gareau and Amiot, Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 483.

32. Le saisissant n'a point de recours contre le gardien qui a livré les effets saisis au curateur nommé à la cession de biens faite par le défendeur après la saisie de ces effets.

33. Le saisissant n'a pas de privilège sur un meuble saisi à l'encontre du propriétaire de ce meuble ; partant, lorsque le propriétaire revendique le meuble, le gardien n'encourt aucune responsabilité à cet égard. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Demers vs Black et al et Richmond et Moss, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 384.

34. Le locateur peut, même en cour de Révision, en faisant voir que les meubles qu'il a fait saisir par voie de saisie-gagerie dans l'instance, laquelle saisie avait été déclarée bonne et valable par la cour Supérieure, ont été vendus par le gardien à cette saisie, faire enjoindre à ce gardien, sans préjudice de ses autres recours contre lui, de consigner au greffe les deniers provenant de la vente des meubles saisis. C. R., 1897, Montréal, Leduc vs Finnie et Kearns, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 401.

35. Le gardien volontaire demeure responsable des effets saisis durant l'année qui suit sa nomination, et ce, même si un arrangement intervient, accordant au défendeur une extension de délai pour payer. C. C., 1898, Montréal, Jacob vs Crystal et Schetagha, 1 R. P. Q., 162.

36. La signification au gardien d'une copie du jugement déclarant le demandeur propriétaire d'un objet saisi-revendiqué ne suffit pas pour constituer le défendeur et le gardien en défaut de livrer l'objet.

37. Il faut de plus envoyer au domicile du défendeur un officier autorisé à prendre livraison de l'objet. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Banque d'Hochelaga vs McConnell et Miller, 2 R. P. Q., 470.

38. Le gardien d'office à une saisie mobilière, qui a enlevé les effets saisis est obligé de de rapporter ces effets au domicile du saisi lorsque la saisie a été annulée. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Adams vs Mulligan et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 203; 4 R. P. Q., 60.

39. The valuation of the property entrusted to a guardian is a right to be exercised by him, and not a duty imposed upon the seizing creditor. K. B., 1903, Montreal, Ex parte Kenatosse, 6 Q. P. R., 89.

40. Le gardien n'est pas obligé de transporter les effets saisis dans un endroit autre que celui où ils ont été saisis, même si on lui offre les déboursés nécessaires. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Bailey vs Fortin et Sévigny, 11 R. P. Q., 167.

41. Le gardien n'étant pas tenu de représenter les effets saisis aussi longtemps qu'une opposition à la saisie n'est pas terminée, une requête de sa part pour la possession de ces effets ne sera pas accordée. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Laverdure vs Guertin et Guertin et Montplaisir, 11 R. P. Q., 293.

42. Le gardien à une saisie mobilière qui ne représente pas les biens saisis ne peut se soustraire à la peine d'emprisonnement qu'en acquittant le montant dû au saisissant, ou en payant, après l'avoir établie, leur valeur marchande. Une confession de jugement ne tient pas lieu de ce paiement surtout si elle n'est que pour la somme que le gardien prétend être l'équivalent de ce qu'eût rapporté une vente à l'enchère par un huissier.

43. La demande de condamnation à l'emprisonnement d'un gardien en défaut comme susdit, est régulièrement faite par une motion qu'il émane une règle ou ordonnance du tribunal, le sommant de comparaître pour s'y voir condamner, faute de faire valoir sa défense(show cause to the contrary),et par la signification de cette ordonnance. C. R., 1911, Montréal, Méresse vs Harris et Boronow, R. J. Q., 40 C. S., 252; 12 R. P. Q., 399.

44. Frais de garde.—A gardien who has delivered to the party defendant the things which he had in charge, cannot maintain an action against the sheriff for his salaire. K. B., 1813, Quebec, Tardif vs Shepherd, 1 R. de L., 346; 2 R. de L., 471; 2 R. J. R. Q., 49.

45. Un gardien d'effets saisis au moyen d'un bref de revendication adressé au shérif, a son action aussi bien contre la partie qui a fait émaner ce bref que contre le shériff, pour le recouvrement de ses dépenses encourues comme gardien pour la conservation des dits effets. C. S., 1851, Québec, Dinning vs Jeffery, 2 D. T. B. C., 118, 360; 3 R. J. R. Q., 114.

46. Le demandeur devint le gardien d'un vaisseau saisi sur ses chantiers en vertu d'uu bref de saisie-revendication adressé au shérif, émané à la poursuite du défendeur. Quelque temps après le vaisseau fut lancé parles parties en la possession desquelles il était lors de la saisie, sans aucune autorité. Le vaisseau resta dans le port pendant quinze mois, et souffrir en conséquence des dommages considérables. De plus le vaisseau resta toujours, en effet, en la possession des mêmes parties et les déboursés encourus pour la garde de vaisseau furent faits, non par le demandeur mais par le frère de l'une dès parties qui en étaient en possession.

47. Dans une action par le demandeur pour recouvrer ces déboursés, il n'avait, dans les circonstances, aucun droit de réclamer contre le défendeur à la poursuite duquel le vaisseau avait été saisi. C. S., 1855, Québec, Dinning vs Jeffery, 5 D. T. B. C., 182; 4 R. J. R. Q., 330.

48. L'huissier chargé d'un bref de saisie est personnellement responsable du salaire du gardien qu'il a nommé d'office. C. C., 1865, Richelieu, Courchêne vs Généreux, 1 R., L. 433; 20 R. J. R. Q., 355, 541.

49. Un gardien d'office n'a pas d'action pour son salaire et ses déboursés contre le saisi, en autant qu'il n'y a pas entre eux contrat exprès ou convention tacite. C. C., 1866, Montréal, Dansereau vs Gérard, 16 D. T. B. C., 380; 15 R. J. R. Q., 188.

50. Where cattle and hay have been seized together under the same writ of execution or attachment, the guardian appointed to the goods seized has a right to feed the cattle with the hay, although it be afterwards proved that the cattle did not belong to the defendant. Q. B., 1873, Montreal, Johnson vs O'Halloran, 18 J., 221.

51. L'huissier n'est pas responsable envers le gardien qu'il a nommé,et qui a accepté volontairement cette charge des frais de garde du gardien,et l'avocat n'est pas tenu, non plus, d'indemniser l'huissier. C. S., 1875, Québec, Plante vs Cazeau, et Cazeau vs Langlois et al., 1 Q. L. R., 203.

52. Le gardien de biens meubles saisis n'a pas le droit de les retenir et d'en empêcher la vente jusqu'à ce qu'il a déboursé pour leur conservation lui soit remboursé. C. C., 1883, Montréal, Monette vs D'Amour et Thérien, 12 R. L., 418.

53. Le gardien fourni par le saisi n'a pas droit à salaire, et il ne peut pas lui en être taxé ni payé sur le produit de la vente. C. S., 1884, Québec, Whitehead et al. vs Dubeau, 10 R. J. Q., 162.

54. Le gardien d'office a seul droit à rémunération et salaire ainsi qu'à la taxe mentionnée en l'article 600 du Code de procédure civile. Le gardien volontaire n'y a aucun droit. C. S., 1871, Montréal, Miller vs Bourgeois et Holland et al., 16 J., 196, 335; 17 J., 158; 22 R. J. R. Q., 380, 382, 522, 542.—C. S., 1888, Montréal, Longpré vs Cardinal et Benn, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 441; 12 L. N., 204.—C. S., 1898, Québec, Bouchard vs Dion, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 243.

55 When a procès-verbal declares that the guardian has been furnished by one party to the suit, it shall not be allowed to such guardian to contest such procès-verbal as erroneous on this point on a motion made at the enquête. It is too late, especially so, when the guardian was fully aware of this alleged error from the start.

56. When the guardian has signed such procès-verbal himself, he cannot be allowed to contradict his own writing which forms his contract for wages with all concerned.

57. The guardian given by the judgment debtor is not entitled to a salary. On this point, the new Code of procedure has left the law as it was before. S. C., 1898, Quebec, Bouchard vs Dion, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 243.

58. Le gardien nommé par la cour, lors d'une opposition de scellés, a un privilège et un droit de rétention pour ses frais de garde. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Succession de feu Watson vs Trudeau et Lindsay et Bédard et al., 7 R. P. Q., 74; 11 R. L., n. s., 527.

59. Le gardien nommé à une saisie mobilière, moyennant un salaire arrêté entre lui et l'huissier exploitant, a le recours d'une action pour le recouvrer du saisissant. Celui-ci n'est pas re ;u à lui opposer la taxe de son mémoire à une somme inférieure, le protonotaire ne pouvant taxer que les frais recouvrables en vertu d'une condamnation, et non ceux résultant d'une convention. C. R., 1910, Québec, Fortin vs Simard, R. J. Q., 37 C. S., 470.

60. Interdit.—Un interdit pour ivrognerie ne peut pas être appointé gardien à une saisie, ni ester en justice. C. R., 1885, Québec, St-Laurent vs St-Laurent, 12 R. J. Q., 124.

61. Mineur.—Le fait que le gardien appointé à une saisie est mineur n'invalide pas la saisie, si les effets saisis sont demeurés en la possession du défendeur, et si le gardien est volontaire. C. C., 1876, Québec, Coté vs Jacob et Jacob, 3 R. J. Q., 5; 1 L. N., 177.

62. A bailiff, who, contrary to law, appoints a minor as guardian to effects under seizure, is responsible for the damage suffered by the party seizing in consequence of the disappearance of the effects, and his being deprived of the right of proceeding against the guardian for not producing the same; and the corporation of bailiffs, as guarantor of its members, is bound to make good such loss.

63. The measure of damages in such case is the amount which the effects not produced would have realized if they had been sold in satisfaction of the debt. C. R., 1897, Montreal, Barrington vs Corporation des Huissiers du district de Montréal, Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 284.

64. Nomination.—Un défendeur saisi peut être nommé gardien de ses propres effets, avec son consentement et il est contraignable par corps s'il ne les représente pas au jour de la vente. C. C., 1871, Montréal, Curley vs Hutton et Hutton, 15 J., 140; 21 R. J. R. Q., 436, 559

65. The consent of the person to become guardian must appear by his signature or its equivalent on the procès-verbal. C. C., 1880, Argenteuil, McMillan vs Bethune and Bethune, 3 L. N., 325.

66. Where a bailiff seizes moveable property as belonging to the defendant, and fails to appoint a guardian to the goods so seized, the opposant who claims the property has a right to petition the court for the appointment of a guardian to the same, and the bailiff is bound to accept such guardian, if the latter can comply with the requirements of article 621 C. p. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Genser vs Schwartz and Taube, 2 Q. P. R., 29.

67. Le fait que l'huissier saisissant ne constaterait pas, par son procès-verbal, qu'il a requis le défendeur de fournir un dépositaire solvable, avant de nommer un gardien d'office, n'est pas une cause de nullité de la saisie, si le défendeur ne se plaint pas que l'huissier a refusé d'accepter un gardien solvable. C. R., 1900, Montréal, Lachance vs Lachance, 3 R. P. Q., 282.

68. Un huissier ne peut forcer un défendeur à accepter la charge de gardien d'office de ses effets saisis; s'il le fait, il agit contrairement aux dispositions de l'article 622 C. p. c.

69. Le fait que le défendeur a été ainsi nommé gardien, malgré son refus, constaté au procès-verbal de saisie, ne rend pas la saisie nulle, mais ce défendeur peut, sur requête, obtenir d'être libéré de cette garde, en par lui remettant les effets saisis au demandeur ou à l'huissier, dans le délai qui sera fixé par le tribunal. Les frais ainsi occasionnés par le changement de gardien seront, en ce cas, supportés par le demandeur, qui a acquiescé aux procédures de l'huissier. C. C., 1901, Joliette, Viger vs Normandeau et Normandeau, 7 R. J., 444.

70. L'huissier pratiquant une saisie peut, sur le refus du saisi de fournir un gardien, se constituer gardien des effets saisis. C. S., 1910, Sherbrooke, Beauport vs Hétu, 11 R. P. Q., 306.

71. Un défendeur ne peut contraindre l'huissier saisissant à accepter un gardien avant que la saisie soit terminée et avant la clôture du procès-verbal de saisie. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Rameh et al. vs Schwartz et Jetté, 10 R. J., 523.

72. Saisie et vente.—In revendication, if the defendant pleads by exception temporaire that he holds the property demanded as a gardien appointed by a justice of the peace and prays that the plaintiff's action may be dismissed, it is irregular: He can only stay proceedings until the person from whom he derives his authority to occupy the property claimed is made a party to the suit. His exception therefore should be an exception dilatoire. K. B., 1818, Quebec, Pacaud vs Bégin, 1 R. de L., 507; 2 R. J. R. Q., 123.

73. Le gardien d'effets saisis n'a aucun intérêt et est non-recevable à opposer la vente de ces mêmes effets saisis subséquemment par un autre créancier durant la contestation soulevée sur la première saisie. C. S., 1858, Montréal, Donally vs Nagle et McDonald, 3 J., 135; 7 R. J. R. Q., 404.

74. Sur défense au fond en droit jugé qu'un gardien a droit de filer une opposition à une saisie d'effets placés sous sa garde, comme tel gardien à une première saisie. C. S., 1859, Québec, Smith et al. vs O'Farrell et Coleman, 9 D. T. B. C., 495; 7 R. J. R. Q., 331; 12 R. J. R. Q., 105; 20 R. L., 89.

75. Lorsqu'un gardien judiciaire laisse saisir et vendre les effets dont il a la garde dans une saisie subséquente, sans en avertir le premier saisissant, si le demandeur a aucun droit à exercer contre le défendeur, ce ne peut être par action directe contre le défendeur, mais bien au moyen d'une règle nisi dans la cause où il a été constitué gardien, pour le contraindre à produire les effets ou à en payer la valeur. C. S., 1861, Québec, Berry vs Cowan et al., 11 D. T. B. C., 476; 9 R. J. R. Q., 486.

76. Le gardien à une saisie mobilière peut s'opposer à une seconde saisie des mêmes effets, tant que la première saisie n'est pas vidée. C. S., 1862, Québec, Langlois vs Gauvreau et al. et Gauvreau, 12 D. T. B. C., 158; 11 R. J. R. Q., 1; 12 R. J. R. Q., 105.

77. Where the defendant was made guardian over his own goods under seizure, and they were sold out of his possession by another seizure: Although he might have opposed their sale under the second seizure, he was nevertheless not bound to do so.

78. And where a guardian has opposed a sale under such second seizure, the right to make such second seizure cannot be contested by a motion, but ought to be tried on a law hearing. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Shelton vs Kerns et al. and Holland, 7 J., 139; 12 R. J. R. Q., 105.

79. Le gardien à une première saisie de meubles ne peut pas demander la mise à néant d'une seconde saisie des mêmes meubles ou un autre gardien a été appointé; il ne peut que demander sa décharge ou sa substitution au second gardien. C. R., 1885, Québec, Lefebvre et al. vs Bacon et vir et Howard, 11 R. J. Q., 28.; 8 L N., 187.

80. Le gardien volontaire à une saisie de meubles ne peut pas s'opposer à la saisie et à la vente de ces meubles dans une autre cause où il n'est pas nommé gardien. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Joly vs Younie et Wood, 3 R. P. Q., 190; 6 R. J., 564

81. Le second saisissant n'est tenu de nommer le même gardien que dans le cas ou le débiteur a été dépossédé des effets saisis.

82. Les deux gardiens nommés lors de saisies différentes, qui ont laissé le débiteur en possession des effets saisis, peuvent, l'un ou l'autre, les lui enlever en tout temps avant la vente.

83. Si les deux gardiens veulent avoir la possession des effets saisis, le tribunal, sur requête, déterminera leurs droits respectifs, accordant cependant cette possession, à moins de raisons suffisantes à l'encontre de sa demande, au gardien nommé dans la cause, dans laquelle la vente des effets saisis doit avoir lieu la première. C. S., 1903, Sherbrooke, Couture vs McManamy et al., R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 356; 10 R. L., n. s., 295.

84. Bien qu'un défendeur ait été antérieurement nommé gardien de ses effets mobiliers saisis dans une autre cause, l'huissier pratiquant une nouvelle saisie, de ces mêmes effets mobiliers, ne doit pas nommer ce défendeur gardien, sur cette seconde saisie. Sur requête pour faire annuler une telle nomination, et pour changer de gardien, la cour ordonnera à l'huissier saisissant de requérir le défendeur, aux termes de l'article 621 C. p. c., de lui fournir, dans un délai déterminé, un gardien solvable, et faute par le défendeur de fournir un gardien solvable dans le délai fixé, il sera ordonné à l'huissier de nommer un gardien suivant la loi. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Duperrault vs Pauzé et Pauzé et Duperrault, 10 R. J., 498.

85. La question de la validité de la nomination d'un second gardien et de la dépossession du débiteur a été discutée par l'honorable juge Archibald dans la cause de Booker vs Brook, R. J. Q., 32 C. S., 142, à la page 147; et en cour d'Appel, dans la même cause (R. J. Q., 17 B. R., 193), par Sir H. T. Taschereau, j. en c. (p. 198) et par l'honorable juge Cross (pp. 202 à 207). Ces jugements furent confirmés par la cour Suprême du Canada (41 R. C. Sup., 331). C. S., 1912, Montréal, Bastien vs Corporation des Huissiers du district de Montréal, 14 R. P. Q., 146.

86. Le second saisissant ne doit nommer le même gardien que celui qui a été nommé par le premier saisissant, que lorsqu'il y a eu dépossession des biens saisis.

87. Lorsque deux gardiens ont été nommés à des saisies différentes et qu'ils ont laissé le débiteur en possession des effets saisis, si l'un de ces gardiens désire avoir la possession de ces effets, la cour l'accordera, à moins de raisons au contraire à celui opérant dans l'instance où les effets seront le plus tôt vendus. C. C., 1912, Richelieu, Chevrette vs Courroyer et Lamoureux, 14 R. P. Q., 142.

88. Saisie-revendication.—A guardian of moveable property under seizure cannot demand that the defendant deliver to him the property in question, in the absence of positive proof that the defendant was deteriorating it by improper use. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Palsgrave vs Sénécal et al. and Prieur, 3 J., 116; 7 R. J. R. Q., 391.

89. The guardian under a writ of attachment in insolvency may revendicate goods illegally sold by the insolvent in the hands of the purchaser, and the purchaser in such case cannot claim to be reimbursed the price paid to the insolvent. Q. B., 1868, Montreal, Mallette vs Whytie, ès-qual., 12 J., 229; 2 La Thémis, 346; 1 R. L., 711; 15 R. L., 564; 21 R. L., 80; 17 R. J. R. Q., 477, 551.

90. Revendication will lie by a judicial guardian to recover possession of property placed in his charge. Q. B., 1877, Montreal, Gilbert vs Coindet, ès-qual., 1 L. N., 42; 4 Q. L. R., 50.

91. A guardian who has lost possession of the effects placed in his care may reclaim them by a saisie revendication. Q. B., 1877, Quebec, Moisan vs Roche, 1 L. N., 33; 4 Q. L. R., 47.

92. Un gardien judiciaire ne peut revendiquer les effets saisis contre un tiers qui les a achetés de bonne foi du défendeur, lorsque ce gardien, qui a eu connaissance de la vente, a laissé enlever ces effets sans avertir ce tiers qu'ils étaient saisis. C. C., 1882, Québec, Duperré vs Dumas, 8 R. J. Q., 333.

93. Bien qu'un gardien volontaire ait consenti à laisser le défendeur en possession des effets saisis, il peut néanmoins réclamer les dits effets par voie de saisie revendication lorsqu'il a de justes raisons de craindre que les biens sont en danger de disparaître et que le défendeur refuse de les lui remettre. C. R., 1884, Montréal, Dupaul vs Wheeler et Wheeler, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 147; 8 L. N., 99; 29 J., 136; 15 R. L., 564; 21 R. L., 81.

94. La garde des effets saisis en vertu d'un mandat de juge de paix appartient exclusivement à la personne qui a fait la saisie et elle seule a l'action en revendication contre celui qui s'est illégalement emparé des effets après leur saisie, et ce alors même que l'officier saisissant en aurait confié la garde à un tiers. C. R., 1885, Québec, St-Laurent vs St-Laurent, 12 R. J. Q., 124.

95. Un gardien volontaire est recevable à revendiquer les effets mis sous sa garde et en la possession du saisi, sans qu'il lui soit nécessaire d'alléguer des craintes d'enlèvement et de soustraction. B. R., 1887, Montréal, Wheeler et al. vs Dupaul, 15 R. L., 564; M. L. R., 1 C. S., 147; 8 L. N., 99; 29 J., 136.

96. Le gardien volontaire d'effets saisis a le droit de revendiquer ces effets, même contre celui qui les réclame comme propriétaire, tant que main-levée de la saisie n'en a pas été donnée. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Dumouchel vs Larivière et al., 21 R. L., 79.

97. Le gardien à la saisie peut exercer la saisie-revendication contre celui qui l'a dépossédé des effets sous sa garde. C. S., 1910, Sherbrooke, Beaufort vs Hétu, 11 R. P. Q., 306.

V. Aliment, Appel, Cession judiciaire de biens, Contrainte par corps, Faillite, Frais, Huissier, Louage des choses, Mépris de cour, Opposition afin d'annuler, Opposition afin de conserver, Procédure, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente de meuble, Saisie-gagerie, Saisie-revendication, Shérif.

GASPÉ

LOIS

1. L'on trouve les dispositions qui se rapportent à l'administration de la justice dans les districts de Gaspé et de Bonaventure, et dans les îles de la Madeleine, aux S. R. Q., arts 3147 à 3187 et 3191.

GAZ ET COMPTEURS

LOIS

1. Le gaz et les compteurs à gaz sont soumis à l'inspection du gouvernement. La "Loi de l'inspection du gaz," l'organise cette inspection. Tous les compteurs à gaz doivent être inspectés et étalonnés tous les cinq ans. Tout consommateur peut fournir son compteur dûment vérifié et étalonné et doit le tenir en bon ordre. S. R. C., ch. 87; 9-10 Ed. VII (F.), ch. 23 (1910),

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Inspection.—Section 34 of the Gas Inspection Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 87, only makes the sale of gas illegal after notice to the undertaker of the location of the testing place prescribed by the Department of Inland Revenue, and until the connections specified in that section are made. Section 44, requiring the posting up of the certificates of tests made by the inspector, does not become operative till section 34 has been acted on and a testing place prescribed and notified by the undertaker. The penalties provided for by sections 59 and 60 for failure to procure and post up the certificates of tests required by section 44 and for selling gas before connections have been made with the testing place, etc., are not incurred when section 44 has not become operative by notification to the undertaker of the prescribing of a testing place. Sections 34 and 44 are both subsidiary to section 31 which limits the obligations therein imposed to undertakers, "in any city, town or place for which there is an inspector of gas" and the provisions of sections 31 to 47 inclusive are not applicable to places for which there is no local inspector. K. B., 1908, Manitoba, Carberry Gas Co. vs Hallett, 17 Man. L. R., 525.

GAZETTE OFFICIELLE

LOIS

1. Les gazettes officielles sont publiées par les gouvernements fédéral et provinciaux. Elles sont autorisées, celle du Canada par les S. R. C., ch. 80, arts 32, 33, 34; et celle de la province de Québec par les S. R.Q., arts 792 et s.

2. Authenticité.—Les gouvernements y publient leurs proclamations, les actes des parlements et toutes pièces auxquels ils veulent donner un caractère officiel. On y publie aussi les annonces pour vente judiciaire d'immeubles. Tous ces documents ont un caractère authentique et font preuve de leur contenu, sans qu'il soit nécessaire d'en faire la preuve. C. c., art. 1207; S. R. Q., art. 794.

3. "Les publications dans la Gazette Officielle de Québec, de même que les copies de documents officiels, proclamations et annonces imprimées par l'imprimeur du roi, pour le gouvernement, ou comportant l'être, sont authentiques." S. R. Q., art. 730.

"Toutes copies d'avis, d'annonces ou de documents officiels ou autres imprimées dans la Gazette du Canada, font preuve prima facie des originaux et de leur contenu. S. R. C., ch. 145, art. 30.

V. Acte authentique, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Voiturier.

GENDARMERIE (Nord-Ouest)

LOIS

1. La "Loi de la Royale Gendarmerie à cheval du Nord-Ouest" est aux S.R.C., ch. 91. Cette gendarmerie est un corps militaire, sous le commandement d'un Commissaire de gendarmerie, qui a été créé pour aider à l'administration de la justice dans le Nord-Ouest. Elle peut être appelée dans toutes les autres provinces. Cette loi contient les détails de son organisation, de ses devoirs, de sa solde, de ses règlements, de la pension de retraite pour les officiers et les gendarmes. Le Commissaire, les Sous-Commissaires ont chacun les pouvoirs de deux juges de paix.

GESTION D'AFFAIRE

Déf.—C'est l'administration volontaire et sans mandat des affaires d'une autre personne. Il se forme ainsi par l'effet de la loi, entre elle et l'administrateur, un quasi-contrat que l'on appelle negotiorum gestor. Si quis negotia alterius, sive quis negotia quæ cujusque cum is moritur puerint, gesserit; judicium ea nomine dabo. Pand., lib. 3, tit. 5. C. c. arts 1043 et s.

V. Obligation.

GOUVERNEUR GÉNÉRAL

LOIS

1. Le Gouverneur général représente le Souverain au Canada. Il forme par lui-même une corporation distincte et c'est en cette qualité qu'il agit pour la Couronne. S. R. C., ch. 3.

Le Gouverneur général, en conseil, c'est-à-dire avec ses ministres, forment partie du parlement. S. R. C., ch. (17).

V. Parlement.

GRAINS

V. Produits alimentaires.

GRANDE CHARTE (Magna Charta)

1. Cette charte est une concession du roi Jean d'Angleterre aux Barons du Royaume accordée en 1215. Elle fut confirmée par Henri III. Elle consacra la liberté du sujet en donnant origine au bref d'habeas corpus, et a été la source de la liberté de l'Eglise d'Angleterre et d'un grand nombre de droits civils, politiques et religieux, dont ce pays a joui depuis cette date.

V. Certiorari, Chasse et pêche, Habeas Corpus.

GRAND CONNÉTABLE

Déf.—Officier de paix attaché aux tribunaux criminels et y remplissant les fonctions de huissier et de chef des contsables.

Cette charge est très ancienne et remonte au Statut 13 Ed. I, ch. 6 (1235). Sous cette loi, chaque groupe de dix chefs de famille devait nommer un constable (petty constable) et chaque groupe de cent chefs de famille devait nommer un grand constable (high constable). Ces constables étaient chargés de voir à la préservation de la paix dans la société et avaient une certaine jurisdiction.

La police gouvernementale et municipale a peu à peu remplacé cette organisation qui néanmoins n'est pas disparue complètement.

LOIS

Assistant constable en chef. — Le mot "Assistant constable en chef" comprend le sous-chef de police, le substitut ou l'assistant du prévôt ou autre sous-chef de la troupe de police de toute cité, ville, village, constitué en corporation ou autre municipalité, district ou localité, et, dans la province de Québec, l'assistant du grand connétable du district." Code criminel, art. 2; S.R.C., ch.146,art.2, § 8.

Constable en chef. — Le "Constable en chef" comprend le chef de police, le prévôt de ville, ou autre chef de la troupe de police de toute cité, ville, village constitué en corporation, ou autre municipalité, district ou localité, et, dans la province de Québec, le grand connétable du district, et comprend tout constable d'une municipalité ou d'une localité qui n'a pas de constable chef ni d'assistant constable chef." Code criminel, art. 2; S. R. C., ch. 146, art. 2, § 16.

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Chef constable.—Le Grand connétable du district de Montréal est un chef constable dans le sens de l'article 575 du Code criminel et son député est un député-chef. C.S., 1895, Montréal, O'Neil vs Sir Tupper, èsqual., R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 315.

2. Devoirs.—Le grand constable n'est pas un recording officer, et n'est pas obligé d'avoir un bureau pour les devoirs de sa charge. C. C., 1804, Québec, Bussière vs Faucher, 14 D. T. B. C., 87; 12 R. J. R. Q., 274.

V. Droit Criminel.

GRAND TRONC

(Cie de chemin de fer du)

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Débentures.—The plaintiff brought action against the Grand Trunk Railway Co. on the ground that, as a preferential bondholder, he was entitled, under the Act of 1856, to a first hypothec, lien and mortgage on the railway, its tools and property of all kinds and descriptions, and was entitled to have its tolls, rents, profits, and revenues, after payment of working expenses, applied to pay the interest on such preferential bonds, and asked that judgment be rendered in his favor for the overdue interest on the coupons held by him, and that the court do name a sequestre (receiver) by whom the railway might be worked under the direction of the court, and its proceeds applied as aforesaid: The company was personally indebted to the plaintiff in the amount claimed, for which judgment would go with costs; but it was not in the power of the court to grant the other conclusions of the plaintiff's petition, inasmuch as a receiver is unknown to the courts of this province, and to sequestrate the property would be to take it out of the hands of the directors, who were appointed under authority of parliament, and under whose authority only they could be deprived of their powers; and moreover because the law of this province, regarding the sequestration of property, does not for these reasons apply to the judicial sequestration of the property of bodies corporate. S. C., 1861, Montreal, Morrison vs The Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 5 J., 313; 33 J., 170; 9 R. J. R. Q., 335.

GREFFIER (C. C.)

1. La nomination des greffiers des cours de Circuit, leur destitution, leurs devoirs et leurs pouvoirs et ceux de leurs députés se trouvent aux S. R. Q., arts 3124 et s.

V. Protonotaire.

GRÈVE

Déf.—Les grèves, rivages ou bords des cours d'eau sont les terrains que les marées ou hautes eaux couvrent et découvrent alternativement. Ripa autem ita recta definietur, id quod flumen continet naturalem rigorem cursus tui tenens. Dig., lib. 43, t. 12.

Les grèves des fleuves, des lacs et des rivières navigables et flottables appartiennent à l'Etat. C. c., art. 400.

L'Ordonnance de la Marine, 1681, liv. 4, tit. 7, art. 10, décrète: "Sera réputé bord et rivage de la mer tout ce qu'elle couvre et découvre pendant les nouvelles et pleines lunes et jusqu'où le grand flot de mars se peut étendre sur les grèves.

L'Acte de l'Amérique Britannique du Nord, 1867, arts 109 et 117, a laissé aux provinces toutes les propriétés publiques, ce qui comprend les grèves.

INDEX

Accès 1
Acquiescement 22
Animaux errants .. 2
Chemin de fer 3
Clôture 1, 4
Com. du Havre 21
Couronne 9, 17, 20
Dommage 5
Droit de passage, 19, 23 et s.
Fleuve St-Laurent, 5, 10, 18, 20 et s.
Foin ..... 5, 7 et s., 11 et s.
Grève concédée 9

Grève publique 8
Halage 6
Herbe à barnèche 7
Herbe marine 7
Hivernment 16
Lois ..... 1 et s
Pénalité 2, 21
Possession publique.. 5
Premier occupant .. 11
Propriétaire riverain, 1, 10, 19 et s., 24
Propriété..18 et s., 21 et s.
Seigneurie .....9, 12 et s.
Servitude publique, 19, 23 et s.
Terre sous l'eau 22
Usage public 19, 23 et s.

LOIS

1. Accès.—"Le présent paragraphe ne donne aux propriétaires des rivages du dit fleuve, aucun droit ou titre quelconque pour enclore ou faire des levées, au moyen de clôtures ou autrement, le long de ces grèves et rivages, ou pour empêcher, en aucune manière, les sujets de Sa Majesté de jouir de la liberté franche et entière de naviguer et de commercer sur le fleuve, ou d'interdire à aucune personne le libre accès aux rivages de ce fleuve, selon que le veut la loi." S. R. Q., art. 7313.

2. Animaux errants. — "Sous peine d'une amende de cinquante centins pour chaque animal laissé errant, nul ne doit laisser de gros et menu bétail entre les marques de la haute et de la basse mer, en été ou en automne, sur ces grèves ou rives du Saint-Laurent.

"Cette amende est prélevée contre le propriétaire ou le possesseur du bétail." S. R. Q., art. 7309.

3. Chemin de fer.—"L'étendue des grèves publiques ou des terrains submergés par les rivières ou lacs du Canada qui est prise par le chemin de fer, ne peut excéder la quantité ci-après limitée dans le cas de terrains qui peuvent faire l'objet d'expropriation, sans le consentement du propriétaire." S. R. C., ch. 37, art. 173.

"L'étendue des grèves publiques ou des terrains inondés par les rivières ou les lacs de la province, qui est prise pour le chemin de fer ne doit pas excéder la quantité déterminée dans l'article 6553." S. R. Q., art. 6554.

4. Clôtures.—L'article 7317 des S. R. Q., défend de clôturer les grèves et d'y faire des levées et d'empêcher en aucune manière le public de jouir de la liberté franche et entière de naviguer et de commercer sur le fleuve Saint-Laurent, ou d'interdire à aucune personne le libre accès aux rivages de ce fleuve.

5. Foin.—"1. Les propriétaires des terres bordant le côté sud du fleuve Saint-Laurent, au-dessous de la cité de Québec, ont, et ont toujours eu, à l'exclusion de tous autres les droits de couper et sécher le foin sur les grèves ou rivages, entre les marques de la haute et de la basse mer, en front de leurs terres ou emplacements respectifs, et ils peuvent vendre ou aliéner ce droit en faveur de toute autre personne et comme tout autre droit immobilier à eux appartenant.

"2. Le propriétaire lésé peut intenter une action en dommages contre toute personne contrevenant au présent paragraphe en coupant à son préjudice le foin qui lui est réservé par icelui.

"3. Dans les cas de difficultés, la possession publique et paisible, antérieure au 21 mars 1836, doit être maintenue comme bonne et valable; et rien de contenu dans le présent paragraphe ne peut avoir l'effet de gêner le droit de pêche sur les grèves tel que reconnu et exercé avant le dit jour." S. R. Q., art. 7308; C. c., 59.

6. Halage.—La servitude du marchepied ou chemin de halage le long des rivières navigables ou flottables est reconnu par le C. c. art. 507.

6a. "Le halage du bois de construction sur les grèves est réglé par les S. R. Q., art. 7352."

Les autres dispositions qui concernent ces droits et prohibitions se trouvent aux S. R. Q., arts 7310 à 7315.

JURISPRUDENCE

7. Foin.—L'herbe marine, appelée communément "herbe à barnèche," qui croit sur les battures du fleuve St-Laurent, doit être classée dans la catégorie des "foins" dont parle l'article 591 C. c.

8. Les dispositions de cette loi ne s'appliquent qu'aux grèves qui sont encore dans le domaine public.

9. Elles ne s'appliquent pas aux grèves qui ont déjà été concédées par la Couronne en même temps que les seigneuries.

10. Le propriétaire riverain d'une grève du fleuve St-Laurent, qui a été concédée par la couronne, n'a pas droit à l'herbe marine croissant sur cette grève, par le seul effet de la loi, si son titre ne lui donne aucun droit sur la grève. C. C., 1898, Kamouraska, Dumas vs Mignealt, 5 R. J., 102.

11. Les foins qui croissent dans le fleuve St-Laurent, en bas de la marque de basse marée appartiennent au premier occupant, comme choses produites par la mer.

12. Les seigneurs des seigneuries le long du fleuve St-Laurent, en bas de la cité de Québec, n'ont pas, comme tels seigneurs, droit à la grève vis-à-vis, c'est-à-dire, à la partie couverte et découverte par les marées; cette grève n'est pas un accessoire de la seigneurie; le seigneur n'a cette grève que si, par un octroi exprès, elle lui a été accordée; et quand il a eu un octroi exprès de la grève, tel octroi valait, et le seigneur devenait le propriétaire de la grève sujet à laisser au public l'usage des eaux du fleuve; et cette grève ainsi octroyée devenait une propriété distincte et non accessoire, en sorte que, quand le seigneur concédait une terre bornée en front, au fleuve, il n'était pas censé comprendre, dans cette concession, la grève vis-à-vis cette terre, mais cette grève restait la propriété du seigneur; et le censitaire n'a la grève que si le seigneur la lui a concédée expressément.

13. Quand la grève a été accordée au seigneur, alors ce dernier, comme tel propriétaire de la grève est le propriétaire de tous les foins y croissant; et la loi qui attribue ces foins aux propriétaires riverains ne s'applique pas, puisque, quand cette loi a été adoptée, cette grève était la propriété privée du seigneur.

14. Dans le titre originaire de concession de la seigneurie de l'Isle Verte, qui consiste dans une étendue de deux lieues de terre de front sur le fleuve St-Laurent, la grève vis-à-vis est spécialement accordée aux seigneurs par les termes: "ensemble les battures, isles et islets qui se rencontrent vis-à-vis les dites deux lieues jusqu'à la dite Isle Verte."

15. Le titre du demandeur borne sa terre, située dans cette seigneurie, en front, au fleuve, et en conséquence, cette terre est censée bornée à la ligne de haute marée et exclut la grève; le demandeur n'a pas de titre à la grève, il n'en a pas la possession, et il ne peut réclamer du défendeur le foin que celui-ci a coupé et pris sur cette grève, vis-à-vis la terre du demandeur. C. S., 1898, Fraserville, Duncan vs Mignault, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 276.

16. Hivernement de bateau.—Le propriétaire de lots de grève obtenus du gouvernement provincial, n'est pas fondé à réclamer une rémunération ou indemnité pour hivernement de bateaux à vapeur ou autres vaisseaux dans cette partie de la rivière qui se trouve dans les limites comprises dans les lettres patentes lui octroyant son terrain, en l'absence de preuve de dommages.

17. Le gouvernement des provinces a le droit de disposer des lots de grève et des lots de terre à eaux profondes, mais les provinces ne peuvent, dans l'exercice de ce droit, diminuer l'usage des rivières pour les fins de la navigation. B. R., 1880, Québec, Normand vs La Compagnie de Navigation du St-Laurent, 10 R. L., n. s., 513; 4 R. J. Q., 1.

18. Propriété.—The beach of the St. Lawrence is the King's possession. K. B., 1816, Quebec, Morin vs Lefebvre, 3 R. de L., 303; 21 R. L., 110.

19. The banks of navigable rivers belong to the riparian proprietor, subject to a servitude, in favor of the public, for all purposes of public utility. K. B., 1830, Quebec, Fournier vs Oliva, S. R. C., 427; 1 R. J. R. Q., 341, 517; 2 R. J. R. Q., 57; 19 R. L., 642.

20. Les propriétaires riverains n'ont pas le droit absolu à l'octroi des lots de grève dans le fleuve St-Laurent, en front de leur propriété, en préférence à tous autres, et, dans certains cas, la Couronne peut concéder tels lots de grève à d'autres que les propriétaires riverains. C. S., 1854, Québec, Regina vs Baird, 4 D. T. B. C., 325; 4 R. J. R. Q., 177.

21. Les grèves de la rive nord du fleuve St-Laurent sont maintenant possédées par les Commissaires du Havre de Québec, et ils ont seuls le contrôle et l'administration de ces grèves, comme aussi le droit de punir toute personne qui empiète sur, ou embarrasse les dites grèves, et l'acte de la Maison de la Trinité en autant qu'il conférait aucun pouvoir de contrôle et d'administration sur ces grèves, est rappelé par implication. C. S., 1861, Québec, Ex parte Lane, 11 D. T. B. C., 453; 9 R. J. R. Q., 483.

22. Terre sous l'eau.—Where the owner of a lot sold a part, and in the deed to the grantee described the dividing line as running in a certain direction by compass; and the course of the line was pointed out on the land agreed to, and acquiesced in for a number of years: Held that such line could not be disturbed, though shewn not to be the same as that in the deed. Supr. C., Nova Scotia, McLean vs Jacobs, L. R., n. s., Thomson, 9.

23. Usage du public.—Even assuming the public to have a right of way over the space between high and low water marks, yet the use of the space was not limited to that right, and when, as here, the public right was not injured, the riparian owner had a right to make such erections as he required.

24. The riparian owner has a right in common with the public to take the seaweed when floating in the sea, and has the exclusive right to it when deposited on the shore, and to avail himself of that right may use such contrivances as he likes, so long as he does not practically interfere with the rights of the public on the shore.

25. The public right over the space between high and low water marks is not the absolute right of way as claimed, but is that of navigation and the liberty of fishing. Supr. C., 1864, Prince Edward Island, The Queen vs Charles, William and Artenas Lord, 1 P. E. I. R., 245.

V. Accession, Cours d'eau, Enquête publique, Servitude.

H

HABEAS CORPUS

Déf.—L'habeas corpus est un bref de prérogative qui a pour objet de libérer une personne détenue illégalement en prison.

Ce bref, dont le principe remonte à la Grande Charte de 1215, a été établi originairement par les statuts 31 Car. II et 56 Geo. III. Il est obtenu sur une requête libellée accompagnée d'un affidavit établissant une cause probable et raisonable à l'appui de la demande C. p. c. 1114 et s.

INDEX

Accusation nouvelle.. 2
Acte indécent..... 4
Affaire civile, 6 et s., 78, 135
Affidavit, 21 et s., 78, 188
Ajournement.....24 et s.
Amende.....132 et s.
Amendement.....28, 29
Amendement de jugement.....5, 27, 45, 178
Appel.....71, 176
Arrestation, 30 et s., 117, 121 et s.
Assaut indécent 50
Assemblée législative. 52
Aubain..... 23
Avant arrestation, 78 et s.
Avis..... 77
Boucher..... 193
Bref d'erreur..... 191
"Capias" 135
Cautionnement, 34 et s., 59 et s., 176
Cautionnement pour frais.....147, 170
"Certiorari".....63 et s.
Chinois..... 67
Compagnie de transport, 67
Contrainte par corps, 11, 16, 18
Convictions sommaires, 2, 65, 68 et s., 176
Cour du Banc du Roi, 74 et s.
Cour martiale..... 131
Cour Suprême.....76, 143
Décharge, 3, 11 et s., 18, 34 et s., 46, 52, 72 et s., 77 et s.
Demande.....78 et s.
Dépôt..... 86
Devoirs du juge, 87 et s., 140 et s., 171
Ecole industrielle..... 168
Emprisonnement, 30 et s., 41 et s., 132 et s., 196
Enquête préliminaire, 93 et s., 136 et s.
Erreur de nom..... 35
Erreur de personne... 95
Evasion.....96 et s.
Examen volontaire... 98
Extradition, 38 et s., 99 et s.
Faux prétextes..... 120
Formalités, 32, 36 et s., 44, 101, 121 et s., 127 et s., 168
Garde de mineur, 24, 140 et s.
Gardien judiciaire, 16 et s., 19 et s.
Greffier de la Couronne 179
Immigration..... 67
Interdit..... 128
Intervention..... 129
Juge des Sessions..... 130
Jugement.....180 et s.
Jugement alternatif... 131
Jugement "ultra vires," 132 et s.
Juridiction, 9, 12 et s., 19 et s., 36 et s., 39, 49, 53 et s., 74 et s., 87, 89 et s., 105, 126, 135 et s., 155, 191, 195
Liberté, 140, 145 et s., 151 et s.
Licence..... 193
Lieu de l'offense..... 139
Malversation.....53 et s.
Mandat d'emprisonnement, 29 et s., 48, et s., 79, 82, 92, 127, 137, 196
Mari et femme, 140 et s., 151 et s.
Mépris.....52 et s.
Meurtre.....143 et s.
Milice canadienne.... 172
Notice historique..... 1
Nouvelle application, 173 et s.
Nouvelle objection.... 175
Offense différente..... 177
Offense politique..... 109
Officier public..... 179
Officier rapporteur.... 53
Option..... 180
Pardon..... 191
Parjure..... 116
Pénalité, 70 et s., 132 et s.
Pénalité moindre..... 182
Pénitencier en dehors de la prov.....,183 et s.
Port d'arme..... 1
Présence de l'accusé, 185 et s.
Preuve, 41, 68 et s., 88 et s., 102 et s., 107 et s., 111 et s., 115 et s., 119, 125, 187 et s.
Procédure antérieure au jugement..... 189
Puissance paternelle, 140 et s.
Quartiers de Session.. 191
Quasi-offense..... 192
Rapport du bref, 114, 188, 193
Rebellion à justice.. 11
Règlement municipal. 193
Révision, 72, 91, 110, 113, 123
Seconde application.. 99
Seconde offense..... 84
Séparation de corps, 157, 163 et s.
Serment..... 194
Session du parlement. 52
Sténographie..... 194
Suspension de sentence 195
Témoin.....63, 196
Traité d'extradition.. 124
Travaux forcés..... 134
Tuteur..... 139
Vol..... 60

ÉCRIT

1. Notice historique sur l'"Habeas Corpus ad subjiciendum" en Angleterre et au Canada.—Thèse de Ludovic Brunet, avocat. 6 R. L., n. s., 462.

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Accusation nouvelle.—By the criminal Code, sect. 108, it is matter of summary conviction if one has on his person a pistol with intent therewith unlawfully to do any injury to any other person.

3. The detention was for an offence unknown to the law; and although the evidence and the finding shewed an offence against section 108, the motion should not be enlarged to allow the magistrates to substitute a proper conviction, for it was unwarrantable to convict on a charge not formulated, as to which the evidence was not addressed, upon which the defendant was not called to make his defence, and as to which no complaint was laid; and the prisoner should therefore, be discharged. Q. B., 1895, Ontario, Regina vs Mines, 25 O. R., 577.

4. Acte indécent.—The prisoner was convicted under sub-section (b) of section 177 of the criminal Code, 1892, for an indecent exposure of his person and sentenced to three months imprisonment. Neither the conviction not the warrant of commitment stated, although the evidence tended to show that the act had been done wilfully. He then applied for a writ of habeas corpus:

5. The prosecution should be permitted, on the hearing of the application, to substitute a new conviction and warrant containing the omitted word; and, the substitution having been made, the application should be refused, but without costs. K. B., 1905, Manitoba, Rex vs Barre, 15 Man. L. R., 420.

6. Affaire civile.—A writ of habeas corpus will not be granted in the case of a defendant confined in jail on civil process. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Barber et al. vs O'Hara, 8 L. C. R., 216; 6 R. J. R. Q., 212; 18 R. J. R. Q., 435, 551.

7. Un bref d'habeas corpus ne peut être accordé pour libérer un prisonnier détenu sur mandat émané dans une cause au civil, quand bien même le mandat au moyen duquel il aurait été arrêté serait irrégulier.

8. Le bref d'habeas corpus n'est pas accordé afin de réviser les jugements des tribunaux civils, ou de révoquer en doute la régularité de leurs procédures, soit avant ou après jugement, mais seulement pour maintenir les cours dans leur juridiction, et non pour corriger leurs erreurs.

9. En supposant même le mandat d'arrêter irrégulier, néanmoins s'il n'appert pas qu'il y a excès de juridiction de la part du tribunal qui l'a émané, il ne peut être déclaré nul, et par conséquent le détenu ne peut être élargi sur habeas corpus. C. S., 1859, Québec, Ex parte Donaghue, 9 D. T. B. C., 285; 7 R. J. R. Q., 237; 18 R. J. R. Q., 436, 437, 549, 550, 551; 16 R. L., 114.—B. R., 1877, Montréal, Ex parte Thomson, 22 J., 89; 1 L. N., 102.

10. La mise en liberté peut être ordonnée sur une requête pour bref d'habeas corpus, dans le cas d'un défendeur emprisonné en vertu d'un procédé dans une cause civile. B. R., 1867, Montréal, Ex parte Fourquin et al., 4 R. L., 70; 16 J., 103; 18 R. J. R. Q., 435, 552.

11. A writ of habeas corpus will be granted in the case of a defendant confined in gaol on a writ of contrainte par corps, by reason of rébellion à justice. Q. B., 1871, Montreal, Ex parte Crébassa, 15 J., 331; 22 R. J. R. Q., 160, 542.

12. A writ of habeas corpus will be granted to liberate a prisoner charged with process in a civil suit issued out of a court of inferior jurisdiction, when it appears on the face of the writ that the proceedings have been beyond the jurisdiction of the court from which it issued. S. C., 1874, Beauharnois, Lebeuf vs Viaux and Viaux fils, 18 J., 214.

13. A person imprisoned under a process in a civil matter is not entitled to be discharged on habeas corpus if no excess of jurisdiction is shown.

14. But the petitioner may show that there is no judgment ordering his imprisonment, and in such case he is entitled to his discharge. Q. B., 1877, Montreal, Ex parte Cutler, 22 J., 85, 86; 1 L. N., 104.

15. A writ of habeas corpus will not be granted to liberate a prisoner charged with process in a civil suit, even though the writ of execution in virtue of which he was arrested appear to be irregular, if it is within the scope of the jurisdiction of the court from which it issued. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Ex parte Healey, 22 J., 138; 1 L. N., 103.

16. A person imprisoned under a writ of contrainte par corps, for failing to produce effects of which he had been appointed guardian, petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the warrant under which he was committed contained no enumeration of the effects he was required to produce:

17. The petitioner being imprisoned under process in civil matters, the court had no authority to grant a writ of habeas corpus. C. c. p. 1052. Q. B., 1886, Montreal, Ex parte Ward, Habeas Corpus; M. L. R., 2 Q. B., 405; 10 L. N., 47.

18. Il n'y a pas lieu de se pourvoir par habeas corpus contre un jugement de la cour de Circuit, déclarant absolue une règle pour contrainte par corps sous le prétexte que les procédés sur la règle sont irréguliers et ne justifient pas la détention du prévenu. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Desrochers vs Perrault, 1 R. P. Q., 286.

19. A person who is restrained of his liberty under a warrant of commitment granted in a civil matter by a court or judge having jurisdiction, is not entitled to liberation under a writ of habeas corpus. Article 114 C. c. p. and more particularly, where no excess of jurisdiction is shown.

20. Even if it were assumed that notwithstanding the terms of article 1114 of the Code of procedure, the court has power to enquire into the regularity of the proceedings, the absence in the rule and commitment of a valuation of the goods upon payment of which the guardian in default to produce goods would be entitled to be released, cannot be invoked by him as a ground for asking his liberation, such valuation, under article 658 C. c. p., being a right to be exercised by the guardian in default, and not a duty imposed upon the seizing creditor. K. B., 1903, Montreal, Ex parte Kenotasse, Q. J. R., 13 K. B., 185; 10 R. L., n. s., 368; 6 Q. P. R., 89.

21. Affidavit.—An application for a writ of habeas corpus must be accompanied by the affidavit of the prisoner, or by evidence that he is so coerced that his affidavit cannot be obtained. H. C., 1899, Ontario, The Queen vs Black, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 465.

22. A writ of habeas corpus either at common law or under the Habeas Corpus Act, does not issue as a matter of course, it must be grounded on an affidavit of a probable reasonable ground for the complaint, and it must be made by or on behalf of the prisoner. Supr. C., 1907, Prince Edward Island, In re McMurrer, 18 Can, Cr. Cas., 41.

23. When the prisoner is a foreigner unable to speak English, a habeas corpus application may be founded on an affidavit by some one acting on his behalf instead of the prisoner's personal affidavit. Supr. C., 1908, Nova Scotia, The King vs Rudland, Ex parte Kalke, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 22.

24. Ajournement.—Where, on the return day of a writ of habeas corpus, the respondent appeared, and brought before the court the child the possession of whom was sought by the petitioner, and the cause was subsequently struck from the roll by the judge before whom it was pending, without any ulterior day having been fixed for the consideration thereof, and without the respondent having been bound by recognizance to appear on any later day to abide the judgment of the court, the writ is exhausted, and the respondent and child cannot be forced to appear before the court without a new writ. S. C., 1899, Montreal, McGovern vs McGee, Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 551.

25. Le délai de huit jours francs qui ne doit pas être excédé entre deux ajournements, ne s'applique pas au cas d'un accusé qui est sous caution.

26. La loi criminelle, en disant que l'accusé ne peut demeurer en prison plus de huit jours francs entre deux ajournements, permet par le fait même l'ajournement au neuvième jour. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dick vs Le Roi, 13 R. P. Q., 54.

27. Amendement.—Leave may be given on the hearing of a habeas corpus application to substitute an amended conviction and an amended commitment for the invalid conviction and commitment attacked whether the defect in the first be one of form only or one of substance. K. B., 1905, Manitoba, The King vs Barr, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 1.

28. A return filed to a writ of habeas corpus may be amended by leave of the court or leave may be given to substitute a new return. K. B., 1909, Manitoba, In re Royston, 15 Can. Cr. Cas., 96.

29. On the return of a habeas corpus, leave may be given the Crown to file an amended warrant of commitment in place of the alleged defective commitment, and the prisoner may be remanded under the substituted commitment if in due form without determining the objections taken to the first warrant. C. A., 1909, Ontario, The King vs MacDonald, 16 Can. Cr. Cas., 121.

30. Arrestation et emprisonnement. Where a warrant of arrest had been quashed on habeas corpus, the defendant cannot be arrested a second time for the same cause, and that even where in a case precisely similar it was held that the grounds on which the first warrant was quashed were insufficient. Q. B., 1875, Montreal, Ex parte Dansereau, 19 J., 210, 248.—Q. B., 1884, Montreal, Ex parte Eno, 10 Q. L. R., 165.

31. On a habeas corpus to set aside a commitment, a copy of the conviction may be produced to show that it was invalid. Q. B., 1877, Quebec, Ex parte Dallaire, 4 Q. L. R., 201.

32. If the warrant of commitment show that there was a conviction, the court will not grant a writ of habeas corpus for a mere omission or defect in the recital in the commitment of the terms of the conviction, unless the conviction, is brought before the court by writ of certiorari or it is shown why this cannot be done. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Ex parte G. B. Jones, 1 D. C. A., 100.

33. Criminal Code, sect. 752, is to be applied only to cases where the habeas corpus issues in the same province in which the commitment is made. H. C., 1894, Ontario, The Queen vs Defries and Tamblyn, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 207.

34. On a writ of habeas corpus based upon the insufficiency of the commitment, the committing justices may furnish the gaoler with a legal warrant and so defeat the writ. S. C., 1898, Ottawa, Ex parte Welsh, 4 R. J., 437.

35. Une personne arrêtée, condamnée et emprisonnée sous un nom qui n'est pas le sien, peut reconquérir sa liberté au moyen du bref habeas corpus, même dans le cas où elle aurait volontairement porté ce faux nom et serait ainsi connue. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Lambe, ès-qual., vs Chartrand, 6 R. L., n. s., 89.

36. When a prisoner is discharged upon habeas corpus merely by reason of a defect in the commitment or for lack of jurisdiction in the committing magistrate, such discharge is not a bar to the prisoner re-arrest and trial before a court of competent jurisdiction in respect of the same charge.

37. To constitute such a bar, the case must be such that the return to a second writ of habeas corpus following the re-arrest would raise the same question as the first with reference to the validity of the grounds of detention.

38. Where a person known to be in the province of Ontario is arrested there under an extradition warrant issued by an extradition commissioner of the province of Quebec, and is taken to the latter province under such warrant and there discharged upon habeas corpus for want of jurisdiction in the commissioner to issue a warrant unless the fugitive is in or suspected to be in the province for which he has jurisdiction, the accused may, notwithstanding, be legally re-arrested in Quebec province under a new complaint in respect of the same extradition offence.

39. Semble, that the commissioner may decline to exercise his jurisdiction upon the new complaint if the prisoner has been enveigled into his jurisdiction by a brick or device of the adverse party.

40. Before ordering the extradition from Canada of a fugitive, an extradition commissioner must be satisfied that the offence charged is a crime against the law of the country demanding the extradition, as well as that it would, if committed in Canada, be an offence against Canadian law, and that it is within the treaty with the foreign country. Q. B., 1899, Quebec, Ex parte Seitz, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 54, 127; Q. J. R., 8 Q. B., 345, 392.

41. Where the evidence as to the commission of the alleged offence is conflicting, and the term of imprisonment imposed by the conviction is in excess of that authorized by law, the judge before whom the case is brought on habeas corpus should not exercise the powers conferred by criminal Code, sect. 752, of making an order for the further detention of the accused. H. C., 1900, Ontario, The Queen vs Randolph, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 165.

42. Where the conviction itself was lodged with the gaoler as his authority for the detention in lieu of a warrant of commitment, the judge before whom the prisoner is brought upon habeas corpus may properly order the further detention of the prisoner for a limited time until a warrant in due form can be obtained from the magistrate. H. C., 1901, Ontario, The King vs Morgan, 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 63.

43. Where the imprisonment directed by a warrant of commitment is in excess of that authorized by-law, and the partial imprisonment actually served thereunder is of a different class to that specified in the warrant, the court on habeas corpus should not order further detention under section 752 although the accused had pleaded guilty to the charge. H. C., 1902, Ontario, The King vs Hayward, 6 Can. Cr. Cas., 399.

44. The court will not upon habeas corpus enquire into any irregularity in the caption. C. A., 1904, Ontario, The King vs Whiteside, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 478.

45. A substituted warrant of commitment may be returned to a writ of habeas corpus although issued after the writ. Supr. C., 1907, Prince Edward Island, In re McMurrer, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 41.

46. Where an information is laid in an adjoining province and a warrant of arrest there issued is brought into the province in which the accused resides and the accused is arrested on the warrant being endorsed by a magistrate, a Superior court of criminal jurisdiction at the place of arrest may on habeas corpus inquire into the facts, so far as may be necessary, to decide whether or not the criminal proceedings instituted against the accused are an abuse of the process of the magistrate's court as being frivolous or vexations, and he discharges the accused if it finds that they are. Supr. C., 1909, Alberta, The King vs Galloway, 15 Can. Cr. Cas., 317.

47. The inquiry upon a habeas corpus goes no further than the determination of the rightfulness of the detention at the time of the return upon which the court delivers judgment; and the circumstance(if it exists) that the original capture was illegal ,does not entitle the prisoner to his discharge, if at the time judgment is given there be a valid warrant justifying his detention. Where the defendant applied for admission to the gaol and was admitted one day before the warrant for his commitment was in the hands of the gaoler, and after that obtained a writ of habeas corpus, in answer to which the warrant was returned, a motion for his discharge was refused. Ch., 1911, Ontario, Rex vs Mitchell, 24 O. L. R., 324.

48. Where the court has power upon habeas corpus instead of discharging a prisoner from custody under an invalid commitment to remit the case to the magistrate under section 1120 of the criminal Code (1906), consideration will be given to the imprisonment already suffered and to the costs to which the accused has been put in moving against the illegal warrant of commitment. S. C., 1912, Alberta, Rex vs Hicks, 7 D. L. R., 171; 22 Can. Cr. Cas., 192.

49. A prisoner whose attendance for trial by a magistrate in a summary conviction matter has been compelled by arrest without warrant in a case where a warrant is required by law, will be discharged upon habeas corpus from the commitment following conviction, if he protested before the magistrate against the illegal procedure. Subject to any statutory restriction of the right, an application of a writ of habeas corpus for the discharge of a prisoner from custody may be renewed before another judge of co-ordinate jurisdiction, notwithstanding that a similar application upon the same grounds had been refused by the judge to whom the application was first made. Supr. C., 1912, Alberta, In re Baptiste Paul, 22 Can. Cr. Cas., 161; 7 D. L. R., 25.

50. Assaut indécent.—A prisoner after trial for an indecent assault was sentenced to the county jail for two years. A writ of habeas corpus was taken out on the ground that the judge had no power to sentence to the jail for two years, and it was contended that the habeas corpus would lie, there being no writ of error here:

51. The matter could not be inquired into on habeas corpus, and a writ of error lies in this province. Supr. C.,1891, Nova Scotia, In re Ferguson, 24 N. S. R., Russ. and Geld., 106.

52. Assemblée législative.—A prisoner committed to the common gaol by the assembly during pleasure is entitled to his discharge, as soon as the parliament is prorogued and on habeas corpus may obtain it. K. B., 1817, Quebec, Ex parte Monk, 2 R. de L., 337; S. R. C., 120; 1 R. J. R. Q., 167, 494; 2 R. J. R. Q., 249.

53. Par les statuts 12 Vict., ch. 27, et 14 et 15 Vict., ch. 1, les officiers- rapporteurs,et leurs députés,ont été et sont sujets à être punis par la chambre d'assemblée pour malversation; la malversation de leur part est une violation spéciale des privilèges de la chambre, comme tentative d'introduire injustement un membre, ou de l'en faire rejeter; le pouvoir général accordé dans ces cas, pour lesquels il n'y a aucune provision spéciale par un statut, doit presque toujours avoir un rapport à l'officier-rapporteur, ou à son député, ou à quelqu'un qui n'est pas membre, relativement à qui la chambre est autorisée à faire tels ordres qu'elle jugera à propos, et ce pouvoir donne nécessairement à la chambre le pouvoir de mettre tels ordres à exécution.

54. La chambre d'assemblée possède, comme étant nécessaire à son existence, et à l'exercice de ses fonctions, le pouvoir de déterminer judiciairement, toute matière touchant à l'élection de ses propres membres, y compris la manière dont les officiers qui sont chargés de la conduite des élections de ces membres remplissent leurs devoirs.

55. Les cours de justice ne peuvent s'enquérir de la cause de détention par l'une ou l'autre chambre, ni décharger, ni admettre à caution une partie qui subit la sentence d'au-cun autre tribunal; néanmoins si le mandat ne constate pas que l'offense ait été un mépris, mais au contraire est évidemment arbitraire, injuste et opposé à tout principe de droit établi ou de justice, non seulement la cour serait compétente, mais il serait de son devoir de décharger la partie.

56. Un mandat d'arrêt, par l'une ou l'autre chambre, peut être examiné sur un retour à un bref d'habeas corpus.

57. Les juges dans ce pays, comme en Angleterre, possèdent, et ont exercé le pouvoir d'émaner des brefs d'habeas corpus en matières de détention par l'une ou l'autre chambre du parlement.

58. Les statuts provinciaux 12 Vict., ch. 27, et 14 et 15 Vict., ch. 1, donnent pouvoir à la chambre d'assemblée de punir, par emprisonnement, un député officier-rapporteur pour malversation comme violation de privilège. C. S., 1855, Québec, Ex parte Lavoie, 5 D. T. B. C., 99; 4 R. J. R. Q., 299.

59. Cautionnement.—A defendant in a civil suit detained in custody for want of bail cannot be discharged on habeas corpus. K. B., 1813, Quebec, Ex parte Whitfield, 2 R. de L., 337; 2 R. J. R. Q., 249.

60. Le tribunal, usant de la discrétion que lui donne la loi, refusera d'élargir sous caution un prisonnier autrefois employé au bureau des postes, accusé d'avoir volé une lettre contenant de l'argent, quand la preuve sera assez positive pour faire croire que le prisonnier sera condamné. B. R., 1882, Ex parte Huot, 8 R. J. Q., 28; 5 L. N., 160.

61. Quoique l'offense soit grave, lorsque les circonstances peuvent faire présumer que l'accusé se présentera pour subir son procès, et le prochain terme de la cour Criminelle est éloigné, il sera admis, sur habeas corpus, à donner cautionnement de comparaître le premier jour du terme. B. R., 1885, Québec, Ex parte Emond, 11 R. J. Q., 248.

62. A provincial statute prior to Confederation, providing for the discharge from imprisonment in default of indictment of an accused person committed for a "felony" will apply equally to cases which were misdemeanors before the abolition by the criminal Code of Canada of the distinction between felony and misdemeanor. A person admitted to bail is in custody and is constructively in gaol, so as to entitle him to the benefit of such a statute. Q. B., 1897, Quebec, The Queen vs Cameron, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 169.

63. Certiorari.—On application for habeas corpus by a witness committed for refusing to give evidence at a preliminary investigation before a magistrate, a writ of certiorari may be ordered to bring up the deposition containing the question put to the witness, the excuse he has given for his refusal and the decision of the justice thereon. Q. B., 1888, Ex parte Maguire, 14 Q. L. R., 359; 14 L. N., 46.

64. Where it appears, on the return to a certiorari, that the convicted person is in close custody, the court may order a habeas corpus and hear together the motion to quash the conviction and the motion for the prisoner's discharge. H. C., 1900, Ontario, The Queen vs Spooner, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 209.

65. Where a person summarily convicted is in custody under the conviction, habeas corpus is the appropriate remedy by which to obtain his discharge for an irregularity appearing on the face of the proceedings, and an order for discharge will not be made in certiorari proceedings taken without a writ of habeas corpus. Supr. C., 1907, Quebec, The King vs Goulet, 12 Can. Cr. Cas., 365.

66. The discharge of a prisoner can only be obtained by an application for a writ of habeas corpus, and not by a certiorari. S. C., 1907, Montreal, The King et al. vs Weir et al., and City of Montreal, 8 Q. P. R., 405.

67. Chinois.—A Chinaman who is only admitted into Canada as a through passenger bonded in transit to the United States and who is refused admission to the latter country, is not entitled to obtain his release on habeas crpus in Canada while being returned by thet oransportation company, nor to then elect to enter Canada under the Chinese Immigration Act, 1900. Semble, the transportation company is under a statutory obligation under section 17 of the Chinese Immigration Act, 1900 (Can.), to deport from Canada bonded Chinese passengers brought in by it for entry to the United States when entry is refused there. Supr. C., 1904, British Columbia, In re Lee Sam, 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 427.

68. Convictions sommaires.—A summary conviction by a magistrate in respect of a charge under part 55 of the Code of an indictable offence which the magistrate has absolute jurisdiction to try without the consent of the accused, is subject to be enquired into upon habeas corpus and certiorari proceedings, notwithstanding the provision of section 798 declaring that it shall have the same effect as a conviction upon an indictment.

69. If there was some evidence before the magistrate which would support a conviction unless he gave credence to the evidence given on behalf of the accused, the conviction will be sustained, the weight to be attached to the evidence not being a question reviewable upon habeas corpus and certiorari. C. A., 1900, Ontario, The Queen vs Clair, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 551.

70. Where the proceedings are taken under the "summary convictions" procedure, a conviction inflicting a punishment in excess of that authorized on summary conviction cannot be supported in habeas corpus proceedings as a conviction on "summary trial" under which the punishment inflicted is authorized, notwithstanding that the magistrate was one authorized to hold a summary trial, and that the offence was of the class for which the consent to such trial is dispensed with by statute.

71. As there is an appeal from a summary conviction on such a charge and none from a conviction on summary trial, a strict construction of the proceedings is required in favour of the preservation of the right of appeal. Supr. C., 1902, Nova Scotia, The King vs Carter et al., 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 401.

72. Notwithstanding section 791 of the criminal Code, a conviction and commitment upon a summary trial for an indictable offence may be reviewed on habeas corpus.

73. The prisoner will be discharged if the conviction on a plea of guilty is upon a charge which does not disclose a criminal offence. Supr. C., 1908, Saskatchewan, The King vs Leschinski, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 199.

74. Cour du Banc du Roi.—The court of Queen's Bench has the right to order the issue of a writ of habeas corpus to bring a prisoner detained for debt on a capias, before a magistrate to attend at the preliminary examination of the complaints and charges made against him for a criminal offence. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Ex parte Tibbs, 3 D. C. A., 116.

75. A judge of the Quebec court of King's Bench cannot, in lieu of quashing a sentence upon a writ of habeas corpus and discharging the prisoner, refer the matter to the court of Appeal for amendment of the sentence, since that would amount to forcing an appeal upon the accused for the benefit of the Crown. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Hoolahan vs Malepart, 5 D. L. R., 479.

76. Cour Suprême.—A judge of the Supreme court of Canada will not assume appellate jurisdiction by issuing a writ of habeas corpus in a matter which has been disposed of in a provincial court of Appeal. Supr. C., 1879, Canada, In re Boucher, Cass. Dig. (2 ed.), 325; S. C. Prac. (2 ed.), 54.

77. Décharge.—When the prisoner is entitled as of right to his discharge on habeas corpus, ex. gr., where the proceedings disclose no criminal offence, no terms should be imposed to prevent the prisoner from bringing an action against the magistrate and the private prosecutor. H. C., 1907, Ontario, The King vs Lowery, 13 Can. Cr. Cas., 105.

78. Demande.—Where a person imprisoned on a civil process applied for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground of minority, the application was refused, as there was no notice to the party interested, and as the affidavit which only contained a general reference to the allegations of the petition was insufficient, inasmuch as it did not disclose any reasonable or probable ground for the issue of the writ. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Ex parte Gauvreau, 1 L. N., 53.

79. Sous les circonstances, le requérant pour bref d'habeas corpus produisant une requête assermentée pour établir qu'il a raison de croire qu'il va être arrêté, la loi faisait au juge une obligation impérieuse d'accorder le dit bref et de s'enquérir des causes de l'arrestation. L'officier chargé de l'arrestation est obligé, aussitôt que le bref d'habeas corpus lui a été signifié, de rapporter devant le juge auquel ce bref est adressé le mandat ou l'autorité en vertu duquel l'arrestation a été faite. C. S., 1884, Québec, In re Eno, 10 R. J. Q., 177.

80. It is not the practice to set out in the writ of habeas corpus the grounds of objection to the detention, nor is it usual to set them out in a rule for the writ when the rule is first issued ordering a return of the cause of detention. Supr. C., 1907, Prince Edward Island, In re McMurrer, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 41.

81. The provisions of section 4, chapter 95 C. S. L. C., as to form of application, do not apply to the demand for habeas corpus in criminal matters, when a certified copy of the commitment is produced with the application; and no affidavit is required when the grounds urged appear on the face of the commitment.

82. A commitment made according to form X appended to 51 Vict., ch. 34, based upon a conviction for a third offence under the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act, is sufficient, and is so declared by section 14 of said Act.

83. It is not necessary that it should be declared in the statement of previous convictions, in such commitment, that such were for first and second offences respectively, but the previous conviction first related will be deemed to be intended for a first offence.

84. The conviction and the commitment reciting it, must show, or it must appear thereby, that the offence deemed to be a second offence was committed after the laying of the information for the first; and when the commitment shows that the previous conviction as first recited was for an offence posterior to the previous conviction secondly recited, the commitment does not show a valid conviction for a third offence, and the writ for habeas corpus will be granted and the prisoner liberated. S. C., 1899, Bedford, Ex parte Robinson, 5 R. J., 271.

85. A petition for a writ of habeas corpus may be refused if the court is satisfied that the writ would; if issued, be quashed upon the petitioner's own showing. K. B., 1904, Quebec, United States vs Weiss, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 62; 10 R. L., n. s., 456.

86. Dépôt.—On ne peut procéder sur une requête pour habeas corpus en matière criminelle en l'absence de production du mandat de dépôt. C. S., 1911, Arthabaska, Ex parte Aubin, 13 R. P. Q., 27.

87. Devoirs du juge.—A judge cannot inquire into the conclusion at which the magistrate arrived if he had jurisdiction over the offence charged and issued a proper warrant upon that charge, but may inquire into what that charge was, or whether there was a charge at all. Ch., 1866, Ontario, In re McKinnon, 2 C. L. J., 324.

88. The duty of the court or a judge on a habeas corpus, is to determine on the legal sufficiency of the commitment and to review, the magistrate's decision as to there being sufficient evidence of criminality. P. C., 1868, Ontario, Regina vs Reno, 4 P. R., 281.

89. The function of the judge before whom the accused is brought on a writ of habeas corpus is to determine whether there is not legal evidence to justify the surrender of the prisoner. C. M., 1888, Sherbrooke, In re Debaun, 32 J., 281; 11 L. N., 323, 329, 399.

90. The duty of judge under a writ of habeas corpus is to examine whether the committing magistrate has jurisdiction, whether the committal is legal, and whether any crime known to the law is alleged to have been committed, but not to enquire into or revise the magistrate's decision as regards its propriety or impropriety on the merits. Q. B., 1898, Quebec, The Queen vs Gillespie, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 551; Q. J. R., 7 Q. B., 422.

91. The court cannot on a writ of habeas corpus revise on its merits the decision of the judge who has pronounced the conviction nor adjudge on the culpability of the petitioner. Supr. C., 1899, Montreal, The Queen vs Bougie, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 487.

92. Where the warrant of commitment in execution returned to a writ of habeas corpus states only a charge of the offence and not a conviction therefor, the prisoner should be discharged. H. C., 1908, Ontario, The King vs Nelson, 15 Can. Cr. Cas., 10.

93. Enquête préliminaire.—A writ of habeas corpus should not issue where the accused is in custody pending a preliminary investigation before a magistrate, during a remand to enable the prosecution to supply evidence in support of the charge. C. P., 1883, Ontario, Regina vs Goodman, 2 O. R., 468.—Q. B., 1888, Ontario, Regina vs Cox, 16 O. R., 228.

94. On petition by B. for the issue of a writ of habeas corpus with a view to be released, the neglect and refusal on the part of the justice of the peace to ask the accused if he wished to call witnesses for his defence, and the refusal to hear such witnesses who were then and there offered, although an irregularity of a serious character, only relates to procedure, and does not render the proceedings absolutely null and void, so as to justify the liberation of B. on a writ of habeas corpus; and the writ will be refused. S. C., 1896, Bedford, Ex parte Burke, 2 R. J., 151.

95. Erreur de personne.—Un prisonnier (dans cette cause Louis Durocher), qui est arrêté au lieu de son frère (Joseph Durocher) et sous le nom de ce dernier, sera libéré sur habeas corpus. B. R., 1876, Montréal, Ex parte Louis Durocher, 7 R. L., 436.

96. Evasion.—If a prisoner who sues out a writ of habeas corpus to obtain his release, escapes before judgment on the application, the motion will be dismissed.

97. Where the prisoner had escaped pending habeas corpus proceedings for his release, but was re-captured and sentenced for the escape, he may on being returned into custody on the original charge be granted a second writ of habeas corpus. H. C., 1907, Ontario, In re Bartels, 13 Can. Cr. Cas., 59.

98. Examen volontaire.—L'omission de l'examen volontaire de l'accusé devant le magistrat serait une raison suffisante pour justifier l'émanation d'un bref d'habeas corpus, et la mise en liberté de l'accusé. B. R., 1876, Montréal, Ex parte Louis Durocher, 7 R. L., 436.

98a. Dans une offense criminelle où l'accusé a le choix entre un procès sommaire ou un procès devant un jury, le magistrat, lorsqu'il lui fait faire son option, doit lui déclarer : "Qu'il a le choix d'être jugé sans retard "par le magistrat, sans l'intervention d'un "jury, ou de rester sous garde, ou sous cau-"tion, ainsi que la cour en décide, pour être "jugé de la manière ordinaire par la cour "qui a juridiction criminelle."

98b. Cette information du magistrat à l'accusé est essentielle, et à moins qu'il ne l'ait donnée, il n'a aucune juridiction pour juger l'accusé.

98c. Une personne jugée, et condamnée par un juge et emprisonnée sous sa sentence, sans que cette déclaration lui ait été préalablement faite, peut recouvrer sa liberté par un bref d'habeas corpus. B. R., 1910, Manitoba, The King vs Howell, 16 Can. Cr. Cas., 178.—1912, The King vs Harris, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 329.—C. S., 1913, Montréal, Morgan alias Lemieux vs Malépart, 20 R. L., n. s., 277.

99. Extradition.—Application for the discharge on habeas corpus of prisoners charged with robbery committed in the United States, and committed at Sandwich for extradition by Mr. McMicken, a police magistrate appointed under 28 Vict., ch. 20. The prisoners, it seemed, had been previously arrested at Toronto on the same charge, and been discharged by the local police magistrate, after a lengthened investigation before him: This did not prevent another duly qualified officer from entertaining the charge against them on the same or on fresh materials. C. P., 1869, Ontario, Regina vs Morton, 19 C. P., 10.

100. On a petition for habeas corpus, by one who had been committed for extradition, the judge is required to decide whether he deems the evidence adduced before him sufficient to justify the apprehension and commitment for trial of the person accused, if the crime had been committed in Canada. If he finds in the affirmative he should so state it in his commitment, and certify the fact to the proper executive authority. His function do not extend to determining whether the accused should be extradited, as that rests with the governor general after the evidence has been reported to him, but if the judge fails to state in the commitment that he deems the evidence sufficient the commitment will be defective and insufficient. Q. B., 1880, Québec, Ex parte Zink, 6 Q. L. R., 260; 4 L. N., 64.

101. An alleged irregularity in the proceedings for his arrest cannot on an application for habeas corpus avail a prisoner committed for extradition. It is sufficient that being under arrest before proper authority a case has been made out against him to justify his commitment. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Ex parte Phelan, 6 L. N., 261.

102. Where prisoner was charged with an extraditable crime and the evidence was taken down in the narrative form on the judge's notes, and by way of question and answer by a shorthand reporter, which were afterwards extended by the reporter but were not read over to the witnesses or signed by them: Upon habeas corpus that there was no evidence, that is no evidence that the court could look at, as proof of the alleged crime. Q. B., 1884, Manitoba, In re Stanbro Eward, 1 Man. L. R., 325.

103. A person committed for extradition, but not actually surrendered, is entitled to a habeas corpus before the full court, under C. S. L. C., ch. 95, sect. 28.

104. Upon habeas corpus, the court should see that the facts alleged by the prosecution constitute an extraditable offence, and that the court should examine the evidence so far as to see that there is such proof as would warrant a grand jury in finding a true bill, or a justice of the peace in committing for trial. Q. B., 1887, Montreal, In re Hoke, 15 R. L., 93, 99; 14 R. L., 705.

105. In examining, upon a petition for habeas corpus, whether the detention of the prisoner is lawful, the court or judge will set aside the commitment only if there be manifest error in the adjudication. If the commissioner had jurisdiction, and there was legal evidence before him which might justify a committal, the court is not called upon to examine the sufficiency of the evidence.

106. If the first commitment be irregular but be replaced, before the return of the habeas corpus, by a valid commitment, the prisoner will not be discharged. Q. B., 1888, Montreal, Ex parte Debaun, M. L. R., 4 Q. B., 145; 11 L. N., 323.

107. Upon habeas corpus proceedings following a commitment under an extradition warrant, the court is not justified in referring to the depositions returned, and inferring therefrom facts material to the offence, if the warrant of commitment is in itself defective in that it does not recite a finding of such facts.

108. The return to a writ of habeas corpus should be brought into court and there read before it is filed, and a supplementary return of a second warrant of commitment intended to remedy a defect in the first warrant may be read in conjunction with the return of the first warrant as together constituting the return of the first warrant as together constituting the return to the writ. H. C., 1894, Ontario, In re Murphy, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 562.

109. On a writ of habeas corpus, the judge must see, in the first place, whether the offence charged is or is not of a political character, or whether it is or it is not an extradition crime, and then whether the proceedings are regular and justify the prisoner's committal for surrender. Q. B., 1897, Quebec, In re Levi, 1 Can. Cr. Cas., 74; Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 151; 3 R. J., 493.

110. On habeas corpus in respect of an extradition commitment for surrender to the foreign State, the court may revise the commissioner's decision on the question of whether or not there was legal and competent evidence tending to prove the commission of the crime, but it will not review the commissioner's decision as to the sufficiency of the evidence to justify the committal. K. B., 1901, Quebec, Ex parte Feinberg, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 270.

111. Upon a habeas corpus application in an extradition matter, the decision of the extradition commissioner rejecting a certain deposition as inadmissible in evidence for the prosecution cannot be reviewed.

112. Leave granted by the extradition commissioner upon rejecting a deposition produced by the prosecution, to renew the application for its admission upon a future habeas corpus motion to a superior court, is ineffectual to confer any additional power upon the latter court. H. C., 1904, Ontario, In re Cohen, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 251.

113. Upon a committal for extradition, a court of common law will not, upon habeas corpus, revise the decision of the extradition judge or commissioner as to the weight of the evidence, if the evidence given was legally admissible and gives rise to probable cause for believing the accused guilty of the offence charged. Supr. C., 1904, British Columbia, In re Gates, 8 Can. Cr. Cas., 249.

114. It is not essential that a writ for habeas corpus under section 16 of the Extradition Act should be returnable in Court, and it is sufficient that the writ is returnable before a judge sitting in chambers, if the latter practice is authorized under the general law in force in the province. K. B., 1905, Quebec, In re Gaynor and Greene, 9 Can. Cr. Cas., 496.

115. Where the extradition commissioner, after hearing evidence as to the foreign law, has decided that certain facts constitute the extradition crime in the demanding country, such finding will not be interfered with on habeas corpus unless the court is of opinion that there was no reasonable evidence to support the finding.

116. Upon a demand of extradition for perjury, it is not necessary to prove that the oath was administered with the formalities which would be essential under Canadian law; it is sufficient if there were in the foreign country such observances as in substance make the administration of an oath and as are there recognized as constituting a valid oath. Supr. C., 1905, British Columbia, In re Collins, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 80.

117. The court will not enter into an enquiry upon habeas corpus as to whether the prisoner brought before a justice and remanded by him for an offence committed in Canada was arrested in the United States and brought back to Canada without an extradition warrant.

118. The prisoner must be remanded to custody on the return of a writ of habeas corpus if the return shews a proper warrant or other legal cause of detention although of later date than the writ to which the return is made. C. A., 1905, Ontario, The King vs Walton, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 269.

119. Upon an application for discharge on habeas corpus of a prisoner held under an extradition warrant, the court may review the evidence and consider all the circumstances of the case as disclosed by the proceedings below, leading up to the committal order.

120. If it appears that the extradition proceedings are being improperly used by the private prosecutor to collect from the accused the moneys which are the subject of the criminal charge, that the false pretence charged is not satisfactorily proved and that the private prosecutor obtained the request for extradition by false representations to his government, the court, on habeas corpus, may review the finding of the extradition commissioner and discharge the prisoner, K. B., 1910, Quebec, In re McTier, 17 Can. Cr Cas., 80.

121. A prisoner, committed by a judge under the Extradition Act, cannot set up an irregularity in his arrest as a ground for habeas corpus.

122. A prisoner held pending an extradition enquiry under the warrant of an extradition commissioner will not be released on habeas corpus on the ground that the arrest was made by the same peace officer who laid the charge. S. C., 1911, Quebec, Stone vs Vallée, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 222; Q. J. R., 39 S. C., 424.

123. It is without the province of a court to whom an application is made for writ of habeas corpus directing the discharge of a person extradited to a foreign country to review on such proceedings the decision of the extradition commissioner, if there is evidence justifying the issue of the warrant of extradition, the only duty of such court in that regard being to decide if any such evidence exists. Supr. C., 1912, British Columbia, In re O'Neill, 5 D. L. R., 646; 19 Can. Cr. Cas., 410.

124. On an application for a writ of habeas corpus for the discharge from custody of a person who was remanded by an extradition commissioner for extradition to France, the only question for examination is whether the extradition proceedings are in strict conformity with the requirements of the treaty of August 14th, 1876, between England and France, of the Imperial Extradition Act, 1870, and of the Canadian Extradition Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 155.

125. On an application for a writ of habeas corpus for discharge from custody of a person remanded by an extradition commissioner for extradition to a foreign country, the decision of the commissioner as to the sufficiency of the evidence, where there is any evidence at all, as to the identity of the party remanded by him, cannot be reviewed.

126. On an application for a writ of habeas corpus for the discharge from custody of a prisoner remanded by an extradition commissioner for extradition to a foreign country the justice or the propriety of the order of the commissioner in that regard cannot be inquired into. K. B., 1912, Quebec, In re Darracq alias Dutal, 5 D. L. R., 771; 19 Can. Cr. Cas., 483.

126a. Upon an application on habeas corpus for the discharge of a prisoner from custody, where it appears that in extradition proceedings he was committed upon the charge that he did "on or about the 9th day of February, 1912," obtain a promissory note from a certain party by false pretences with intention to cheat and defraud, and where the proceedings were begun by an information which stated that the offence had been committed on "the 8th day of February, 1911," and where throughout all the documents forwarded from the foreign jurisdiction up to the date of the present application the offence is alleged as of "the 8th day of February, 1911," the warrant of commitment is invalid.

126b. Where the accused is committed under a warrant of commitment for extradition based on an information alleging the offence as of a year prior to the date shewn by the commitment, the information is not a sufficient basis for the commitment, and the prisoner will be discharged in a habeas corpus proceeding. Supr. C., 1912, Alberta, In re Staggs, 7 D. L. R., 738.

127. Formalités.—A court sitting under the Habeas Corpus Act may, whitout inquiring into the justice of a sentence imposed on a person, take notice of the minutes of proceedings against him in order to satisfy itself that the provisions of the law relating to the warrant of commitment have been observed. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Lafleur vs Vallée, 5 D. L. R., 57; 19 Can. Cr. Cas., 362.

128. Interdit.—L'interdit peut, après son interdiction et dans un intervalle de lucidité, présenter une requête pour habeas corpus en vue de recouvrer sa liberté. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Leduc vs Les Frères de la Charité, 16 R. J., 144.

129. Intervention.—La contestation de l'intervention, étant une défense à la dite intervention, le requérant habeas corpus peut en tout temps, même lors de l'audition de la cause, et sans avoir mis ses moyens par écrit, démontrer toutes les irrégularités de la procédure qui lui ont fait perdre sa liberté. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Piché vs Gareau, 7 R. P. Q., 331.

130. Juge des Sessions.—The prisoner contended that he was imprisoned without authority, the judge of Sessions of the peace being appointed by the lieutenant governor. The court would not enter upon a question of this sort on habeas corpus. The judge of Sessions was in the open enjoyment of a judicial office and his quality could not be questioned by every litigant. Q. B., 1881, Quebec, Ex parte Brousseau, 4 L. N., 99.

131. Jugement alternatif.—Where the petitioner was convicted by court-martial held at the city of Montreal on a charge "of disgraceful conduct, and having, at Montreal, Canada East, some time between the 17th January and 16th March, 1867, fraudulently misapplied or appropriated about seven hundred cords of wood, government property, entrusted to his charge, as an assistant commissariat storekeeper, and which at the latter date was found deficient," and thereupon the court forthwith sentenced the petitioner, among other penalties, to be imprisoned with hard labor for 672 days: It did not appear that there had been preferred against the petitioner any specific charge, nor was there any conviction of him upon a specific or positive charge, but a conviction in the alternative of two things, of which one was no offence under the 17th article of the Mutiny Act, without any certainty as to either of the charges in the disjunctive, and this was a matter of substance; and further the warrant of commitment was null and void, and the prisoner must be set at liberty. Q. B., 1867, Montreal, In re Moor, 11 J., 94; 15 R. J. R. Q., 1.

132. Jugement "ultra vires."—Lorsqu'une loi pénale détermine tout ce à quoi le délinquant peut être condamné, il est illégal pour le tribunal de le condamner autrement que suivant les termes mêmes de la loi.

133. Dans le cas présent la loi fixe la condamnation en déterminant le montant de l'amende et en décrétant l'obligation du paiement des frais et à défaut de paiement un emprisonnement de six mois aux travaux forcés;

134. Une sentence qui condamne le délinquant au paiement de l'amende et des frais, et à défaut, de tel paiement à un emprisonnement de six mois suivant la loi, est nulle et sera cassée sur pourvoi en pareil cas prévu, i. e., sur bref d'habeas corpus. C. S., 1907, Québec, Poulin vs La Cité de Québec, R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 190; 13 Can. Cr. Cas., 391.

135. Juridiction. — A writ of habeas corpus will lie to liberate a defendant arrested under a writ of capias where want of jurisdiction in the court issuing the writ of capias or of authority to the bailiff to make the arrest appears upon the face of the proceedings. S. C., 1882, Quebec, McNeice vs Foss, 9 Q. L. R., 64.

136. Where a justice, having no summary jurisdiction over the offence charged other than to hold a preliminary enquiry and commit for trial, has himself tried and convicted the accused no order should be made in habeas corpus proceedings for the further detention of the accused and his return to the justice's court for a preliminary enquiry. Supr. C., 1903, British Columbia, The King vs Blucher, 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 278.

137. Where the accused was arrested for an indictable offence and brought before two justices having jurisdiction only to hold a preliminary enquiry into the charge and to commit for trial if a prima facie case was proved, and the justices in excess of their jurisdiction accepted a plea of guilty and sentenced the accused as upon a conviction, the court on habeas corpus will quash the warrant of commitment, but may also, if satisfied that the ends of justice require it, remand the accused to be taken from the prison and brought again before the justices for the purpose of a preliminary enquiry into the charge.

138. Such power of remand is authorized by Code sect. 1120 and the prisoner is notwithstanding the illegal conviction and commitment, a person "in custody, charged with an indictable offence." C. A., 1910, Ontario, The King vs Frejd, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 110.

139. Lieu de l'offense.—Des objections basées sur ce que la plainte ne mentionnerait pas le lieu de l'offense, ou que le magistrat aurait procédé à entendre la preuve sur deux offenses en même temps, contre le même accusé, ne peuvent justifier un habeas corpus. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dick vs Le Roi, 13 R. P. Q., 54.

140. Mari et femme.—L'objet du bref d'habeas corpus est d'enlever toute contrainte contre une personne détenue illégalement contre sa volonté et de la faire mettre en liberté; partant, la première chose à faire est de s'assurer si telle personne est contrainte dans sa liberté, et, à cette fin, l'intimé doit "faire voir la cause de détention afin de faire constater si elle est justifiable." Dans l'espèce, l'intimé dit dans son rapport que sa fille, séparée volontairement de son mari, est venue chez lui librement avec son enfant et qu'il n'exerce aucun contrôle sur la mère, ni sur l'enfant.

141. C'est au juge de s'assurer de la vérité de ce rapport et Mme Morency étant venue déclarer qu'elle est en pleine liberté, ainsi que son enfant, son père, l'intimé, n'exerçant aucun contrôle, le bref d'habeas corpus doit être renvoyé.

142. Bien que la femme soit tenue de demeurer avec son mari, ce principe ne peut être mis en application par un bref d'habeas corpus; en pareil cas, la cour ni le juge ne peut statuer sur les droits, les devoirs respectifs quant à leur résidence future.

143. Le bref d'habeas corpus étant dirigé contre l'intimé et non contre la mère de l'enfant, le dit intimé ne détenant pas l'enfant, il ne saurait être condamné à le mettre en liberté, et la garde de l'enfant ne peut être décidée définitivement dans une procédure aussi spéciale que celle sur un bref d'habeas corpus. C. S., 1837, Beauce, Morency vs Fortier, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 68.

143. Meurtre.—In a case of commitment by a coroner for murder, application was made to Strong, J., for a writ of habeas corpus: Under the Supreme and Exchequer courts Act, sect. 51, the writ is to be issued for the purpose of an inquiry into a commitment only "in any criminal case under any Act of the parliament of Canada," and the Act of the parliament of Canada (1869) does not create the offence of murder, but only defines the punishment which may be awarded for such offence. Writ refused. Supr. C., 1881, Canada, In re Poitvin, Cass. Dig. (2 ed.), 327; Cass. S. C. Prac. (2 ed.), 54.

144. After a conviction for a felony by a court having general jurisdiction over the offence charged, a writ of habeas corpus is an inappropriate remedy. The right to issue a writ of habeas corpus being limited by section 51 to "an inquiry into the cause of commitment in any criminal case under any Act of the parliament of Canada," such writ cannot be issued in a case of murder, which is a case at common law. Supr. C., 1886, Canada, In re Sproule, 12 Supr. C. R., 140.

145. Mineurs.—The object of habeas corpus is to see that no person is deprived of his liberty illegally or against his will, and not to determine the respective rights of parties over one another and it cannot, therefore, be used by a father ro enforce his right to have the custody of his child.

146. Where a minor child is brought before the judge, under habeas corpus, her own statement, if of sufficient age to judge for herself, will be taken as to whether she is under restraint to not. S. C., 1876, Quebec, Regina vs Stoppellben vs Hule, 2 Q. L. R., 255; 3 Q. J. R., 136; 1 L. N., 177, 182.

147. On an application for a writ of habeas copus ad subjiciendum, on behalf of Kate Frances Monjo, of the city of New York, to obtain possession of her three children alleged to be in the custody of the respondent, in the district of Montreal, the father, Domingo M. Monjo, appeared and presented a motion that the petitioner, being a non-resident, be held to give security for costs. The court said it was not the practice to allow costs in matters of habeas corpus, and the application for security of costs would not be granted. Q. B., 1885, Montreal, Ex parte Dame Monjo vs Rev. Louage and Monjo, 8 L. N., 102.

148. Dans une demande d'habeas corpus par un père réclamant ses enfants, lorsque les enfants n'ont pas été privés de leur liberté, le bref n'a pas sa raison d'être.

149. Une certaine discrétion est laissée à l'enfant qui a atteint l'âge de discrétion, et cet âge est laissé à l'appréciation du tribunal. C. S., 1888, St-Jean, Riley vs Grenier, 33 J., 1.

150. The tutor appointed to a minor for the purpose of making an inventory, petitioned by writ of habeas corpus to obtain the custody of the child, on the ground merely that the step-mother, by whom the child had been brought up, was not properly fulfilling the agreement to take care of her: It was held that where there is no allegation that the child is restrained of its liberty, the court has a discretionary power to refuse the petition if not considered to be in the interest of the minor. S. C., 1889, Sherbrooke, Hodge vs Dame Scott, 12 L. N., 234.

151. Le bref d'habeas corpus est un moyen d'empêcher toute contrainte, et d'assurer la liberté individuelle; lorsqu'il n'y a pas contrainte, il ne peut y avoir lieu à une ordonnance sur un bref d'habeas corpus.

152. Tout ce que le tribunal peut faire sur un bref d'habeas corpus, c'est de constater s'il y a contrainte, et si cette contrainte est constatée, de la faire cesser en remettant les choses dans l'ordre.

153. On peut, suivant les circonstances, considérer comme contrainte, l'enlèvement et la détention d'un enfant qui n'a pas l'âge de raison, et la soustraction de cet enfant à la garde légale de ses parents; si l'enfant n'a pas l'âge de raison, son enlèvement de la garde de ses parents, peut équivaloir à la contrainte, donnant lieu au bref d'habeas corpus, et le droit des parents d'avoir la garde de leur enfant, ou le devoir de l'enfant de retourner sous leur garde, peut équivaloir au désir d'être mis en liberté, et soustrait à cette contrainte.

154. Il n'y a que le cas où l'enfant est contraint, ou doit être considéré comme étant contraint, et privé de sa liberté, que sa remise au père doit être ordonnée sur bref d'habeas corpus.

155. Le tribunal outrepasserait ses pouvoirs, si après avoir constaté qu'il n'y a pas contrainte, il décidait sur la contestation entre les parents, pour la garde de leurs enfants.

156. Quoique sous notre droit (art. 243 C. c.), l'enfant doive rester sous l'autorité de son père, jusqu'à sa majorité, il n'en résulte pas que l'enfant doive être considéré comme contraint, lorsqu'il suit sa mère qui ne réside pas avec son père; si l'enfant devait être présumé contraint par le seul fait qu'il se soustrait à l'autorité paternelle, il devrait être considéré comme contraint, jusqu'à l'âge de vingt-et-un ans, ou jusqu'à son émancipation.

157. Sur bref d'habeas corpus, il ne sera pas ordonné à la mère, qui vit séparée d'avec son mari, de remettre son enfant âgé de sept ans, qui l'a suivie volontairement, et qui veut rester avec elle, sous la garde du père. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Daoust vs Schiller, 2 R. P. Q., 529; 6 R. L., n. s., 333.

157a. Puissance paternelle.—However clear may be the right of a father to the control and custody of his minor child, such right cannot, where its enforcement is not essential to the securing of the liberty of such minor child, be enforced by a writ of habeas corpus. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Vautrin vs Dupuis, 3 Q. P. R., 232.

158. Un bref d'habeas corpus ne sera pas maintenu pour permettre à un père sans moyens de reprendre sa fille, âgée de quatorze ans, qui demeure actuellement chez son grand-père et désire continuer à y demeurer. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Robert vs Véronneau, 3 R. P. Q., 426; 9 R. J., 410; 9 R. L., n.s., 378.

159. Sur une requête pour habeas corpus, de la part de la mère, après le décès de son mari, demandant qu'une enfant âgée de six ans issue de leur marigae, lui soit remise par l'intimé à qui le père, avant de mourir, l'avait confiée, il y a lieu, pour le juge, de prendre en considération la conduite de la requérante, et sa demande sera refusée lorsque la preuve fait voir qu'il est de l'intérêt de l'enfant qu'elle reste sous les soins de la personne à qui le mari l'avait ainsi confiée. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Sigouin vs Denis, 11 R. J., 99.

160. A minor has a right to petition for habeas corpus. K. B., 1905, Montreal, MacDonald vs MacDonald, Q. J. R., 14 K. B., 330.

161. Le bref d'habeas corpus, en matière civile, comme dans le cas actuel, lorsqu'il s'agit de la possession et garde d'un enfant, ne peut être émis que lorsque l'enfant est privé de sa liberté. C. S., 1905, Québec, Garcin vs Croteau, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 198.

162. A writ of habeas corpus to test the legality of a child's detention is not irregular because issued on the petition of the child himself who is under disability to bring action in respect of civil rights. K. B., 1905, Quebec, In re B. A., 9 Can. Cr. Cas., 390.

163. The unauthorized removal of a minor of tender years from legal custody is equivalent to confinement and restraint of liberty, and habeas corpus will lie to restore it to its proper guardians.

164. A girl of nine years of age is too young to exercise a controlling right of choice between her father and mother who live apart, and it lies within the discretion of the judge to hand her over to whichever of the parents he thinks it best in her interest. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Lorenz vs Lorenz, Q. J. R., 28 S. C., 330; 7 Q. P. R., 149, 186; 11 R. L., n. s., 493, 527.

165. L'intérêt d'un enfant en bas âge doit seul servir de guide au juge en matière d'habeas corpus; dans l'espèce, le père est poursuivi en séparation de corps par sa femme pour mauvais traitements, et l'enfant n'est âgée que de dix-sept mois: la garde doit en être laissée à la mère. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Leduc vs Dame Beauchamp, 7 R. P. Q., 441.

166. Un habeas corpus ne sera pas accordé à une mère qui réclame un enfant ayant l'âge de discrétion, et qui n'est nullement contraint dans sa liberté.

167. Si l'intimé, sur un tel habeas corpus, prétend avoir le droit de garder l'enfant, et donne ainsi lieu de croire que celui-ci est privé de sa liberté, l'habeas corpus sera cassé, mais sans frais. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Pickering et vir vs Coloran, 7 R. P. Q., 350.

168. Il y a lieu à habeas corpus pour obtenir la mise en liberté d'une enfant mineure détenue dans une école industrielle, lorsque l'internement prononcé par le recorder n'a pas été requis par le maire, ainsi que le veut l'article 3140, S. R. Q. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Avon vs Dames de l'Asile du Bon Pasteur et al., 7 R. P. Q., 207; 11 R. L., n. s., 527.

169. Lorsqu'une enfant très intelligente, et âgée de sept ans, déclare préférer demeurer chez son grand père, ce n'est pas par un bref d'habeas corpus que le père de cette enfant pourra en obtenir la possession. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Rousseau vs Lapointe, 8 R. P. Q., 43.

170. On a writ of habeas corpus to recover the custody of a child of tender years, the welfare of the child must be considered in determining the rights of the parties. The right of the father to the care of his child is not absolute, and in certain cases, the child may be given to the mother even if the courts have not pronounced a separation. Even if security for costs may be asked in habeas corpus proceedings (which is doubted), it must be asked in limine. S. C., 1912, Montreal, Wollven vs Dame Aird, Aird and Dame Aird, 14 Q. P. R., 165.

171. When there is an action in separation pending between husband and wife, the care of a girl of twelve years, who is very bright and intelligent, will be left to the mother, pending the suit, if the child declares that she wants to remain with the mother. S. C., 1912, Montreal, Acton vs Larsen, 14 Q. P. R., 231.

172. Milice canadienne.—The applicant was a member of a permanent corps in the Active Militia of Canada. His term of enlistment expired on 18th June, 1908, but he continued in the service. Being arrested and imprisoned by order of the colonel commanding on a charge of conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline and held to await trial by court-martial, he applied for his release on habeas corpus. He had not applied for his discharge or been legally discharged or dismissed from the force: Under sections 23 and 71 of the Militia Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 41, the applicant was still subject to military law, and should be handed back to the custody of the military authorities. C. A., 1909, Manitoba, In re Harris, 19 Man. L. R., 117.

173. Nouvelle application.—An application for the prisoner's discharge on the return of a writ of habeas corpus may after refusal by one judge in chambers, be renewed before another judge in chambers, and the latter may grant a discharge notwithstanding its refusal by a judge of co-ordinate jurisdiction. Supr. C., 1902, Nova Scotia, The King vs Carter et al., 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 401.

174. After a return to a writ of habeas corpus and an order refusing discharge thereunder, a second writ of habeas corpus may after wards be granted if the circumstances have altered, ex. gr., on the expiry of a term of imprisonment which was current on the first application.

175. On the second motion to discharge no objection should be considered which might have been taken upon the first application.

176. Upon a summary conviction of the defendant and the passing of sentence of four months' imprisonment, for breach of a provincial law, the magistrate of his own motion required the defendant to enter into a recognizance to appear when called upon (a procedure not authorized in such cases) and upon doing so the defendant was released. The defendant having been afterwards imprisoned under a warrant issued two months after the date of sentence, held that the term of imprisonment is to be counted from the day of passing sentence and that the defendant was not liable as upon an escape to make up the period for which he was so at liberty, as there was no mens rea and the magistrate's action was a "lawful excuse" quoad the defendant. H. C., 1907, Ontario, The King vs Robinson, 12 Can. Cr. Cas., 447.

177. Offenses différentes.—A formal commitment of a person under article 459 of the criminal Code, 1906, for house-breaking, on a trial and conviction under article 464 of the Code with having a house-breaking instrument in his possession, is illegal as being upon a charge different than that which was tried, and the prisoner will be discharged on habeas corpus.

178. The Quebec court of King's Bench cannot, in lieu of quashing a sentence upon a writ of habeas corpus and discharging the prisoner, refer the matter to the court of Appeal for amendment of the sentence, since that would amount to forcing an appeal upon the accused for the benefit of the Crown. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Hoolahan vs Malepart, 19 Can. Cr. Cas., 405.

179. Officier public.—Aux termes des sections 25, 26, 27 et 28, chapitre 30, de la 32 et 33 Vict. (devoirs des juges de paix), l'emprisonnement du greffier de la Couronne en Chancellerie pour refus de donner une preuve essentielle à l'appui de la poursuite, sans excuse valable, a été bien ordonné, et il n'y a pas lieu d'ordonner sa mise en liberté sur bref d'habeas corpus. C. S., 1881, Montmagny, Regina vs Huot, 8 R. J. Q., 57.

180. Option des prisonniers.—A writ of habeas corpus to bring up the prisoner who had been committed on a charge of assault and battery, was issued. For the accused it was urged that the commitment should have shewn that the complainant had prayed for a summary trial (R. S. C., ch. 178, sect. 73), and was without warrant. His Honor, referring to Burns' Justice, Vo. Commitment, pp. 852, 870, remarked that he would consider the law had been complied with, if the conviction set forth the prayer of the complainant; but as upon enquiry made, it was found that no conviction in writing existed, the prisoner was liberated.

181. The learned judge added that either the conviction or commitment should have shewn that the magistrate had jurisdiction, as the charge was not cognizable in a summary manner, except under certain circumstances. S. C., 1889, Aylmer, Ex parte Ouimet, 12 L. N., 15.

182. Pénalité moindre.—Une personne convaincue d'une offense prévue par une clause d'un statut, et condamnée à une pénalité moindre que celle mentionnée par cette clause, mais décrétée par une autre clause pour une offense de même nature doit être libérée sur habeas corpus. B. R., 1876, Montréal, Ex parte Lynobt, 7 R. L., 426.

183. Pénitencier en dehors de la province.—The courts of a province in which is situate a penitentiary common to that and another province should not enquire on habeas corpus into the validity of an indictment upon which the prisoner was tried in the other province and sentenced to imprisonment in such penitentiary.

184. If the certificate of sentence to imprisonment in a penitentiary is irregular for omission of the date of sentence, leave may be given on a habeas corpus motion to return an amended certificate correcting the omission. Supr. C., 1905, New Brunswick, The King vs Wright, 10 Can. Cr. Cas., 461.

185. Présence de l'accusé.—An application to the court to quash a writ of habeas corpus as improvidently issued may be entertained in the absence of the prisoner. Supr. C., 1886, Canada, In re Sproule, 12 Supr. C. R., 140.

186. The prisoner has a right to be personally present at the argument for his discharge and the waiver of his personal attendance in custody is not to be imposed as a term by the court but permitted only at the prisoner's request as where he is unable to supply conduct money. Supr. C., 1907, Prince Edward Island, In re McMurrer, 18 Can. Cr. Cas., 41.

187. Preuve.—The prisoner was convicted by the police magistrate for the city of Toronto, for that she "did on," etc., "at the said city of Toronto, keep a common disorderly bawdy house on Queen street, in the said city," and committed to gaol at hard labour for six months. A habeas corpus and certiorari issued, in return to which the commitment, conviction, information, and depositions were brought up. On application for her discharge: Held, no objection that there was no evidence to warrant the conviction, for when a proper commitment is returned to a habeas corpus, and there was evidence, the court will not enter into the question whether the magistrate has drawn the right conclusion from it. On such an application affidavits cannot be received to sustain objections to the conduct of a magistrate in dealing with the case before him; but that such conduct may furnish ground for a criminal information. Q. B., 1864, Ontario, Regina vs Munro, 24 U. C. R., 44.

188. The conviction having been regular, and made by a court in exercise of its authority, and within its jurisdiction, the only objection being that the magistrate erred on the facts, and that the evidence did not justify the conclusion which he arrived at as to the guilt of the prisoner, the Supreme court could not go behind the conviction, and inquire into the merits of the case by the use of a writ of habeas corpus and thus constitute itself a court of Appeal from the magistrate's decision. Supr. C., 1885, Canada, In re Trépanier, 12 Supr. C. R., 111.

189. Procédure antérieure au jugement.—The court hearing a habeas corpus motion may, subject to statutory restrictions, examine the proceedings anterior to the conviction and warrant.

190. And if the proceedings are insufficient to justify the detention may release the prisoner, although the conviction on its face is regular. Supr. C., 1910, Nova Scotia, The King vs Broadfoot, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 71.

191. Quartiers de Sessions.—Un prisonnier, convaincu devant la cour des Quartiers de Sessions, ne peut pas être libéré sur habeas corpus, même si les prescriptions des sections 2 et 3 de l'Acte n'ont pas été observées pourvu que la conviction soit bonne à sa face. Le remède est par un bref d'erreur ou par pardon. B. R., 1875, Montréal, Ex parte O'Cain, 13 R. L., 275.

192. Quasi-offense.—Where the prisoner is held in custody on conviction for a quasi-criminal offence declared by provincial legislation, the habeas corpus procedure in respect thereof is subject to the same legislative authority. H. C., 1909, Ontario, The King vs Miller, 15 Can. Cr. Cas., 156.

192a. Rapport du shérif.—If actually written by him or under his dictation, the return to a writ of habeas corpus need not be signed by the sheriff. Supr. C., 1886, Canada, In re Sproule, 12 Supr. C. R., 140.

193. Règlement municipal.—A municipal by-law enacting that anyone who keeps a stall of butcher and does not pay on demand a certain licence shall be liable to certain liability shall not cover the case of one who keeps such private stall without the permission of the council and refuses or neglects to pay the licence when no demand of payment has been made upon him, and if such a person is emprisoned for that offence, he can be liberated on a writ of habeas corpus. Q. B., 1873, Montreal, The Butchers case, 5 R. L., 163.

194. Sténographe.—Le serment du requérant habeas corpus, à l'effet que le sténographe qui a transcrit la preuve n'aurait pas prêté serment, ne peut valoir à l'encontre du certificat d'assermentation de ce même sténographe, signé par le magistrat et produit au dossier. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dick vs Le Roi, 13 R. P. Q., 54.

195. Suspension de sentence.—The judge before whom a writ of habeas corpus is returned, and who quashes it on the ground that the petitioner is in custody under a sentence legally pronounced by a competent tribunal, has no power to direct such tribunal to execute a part of the sentence (in this case the penalty of whipping) which had been suspended in connection with the issue of the writ. Supr. C., 1905, Quebec, The King vs Goldsberry, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 159.

196. Témoin.—The erroneous decision of a magistrate as to whether or not a defaulting witness was bound to attend his court in respect of a trial for an offence against a provincial statute without pre-payment of witness fees, and as to the liability of such witness to arrest, is not reviewable upon habeas corpus, although the accused was deprived of such witness's testimony through the refusal of the magistrate to issue a warrant for his arrest. Supr. C., 1901, Nova Scotia, The King vs Clements, 4 Can. Cr. Cas., 553.

V. Appel (Au cr.), Appel (C. Supr.), Certiorari, Contrainte par corps, Droit criminel, Election municipale, Extradition, Frais, Immigration, Interdiction, Juridiction, Juridiction (Au cr.), Mépris de cour, Milice Canadienne, Minorité, Preuve (Au cr.), Preuve testimoniale, Procédure, Puissance paternelle, Révision.

HABITATION (Droit d')

Déf.—Le droit d'habitation est celui qu'une personne a de faire usage d'une maison, qui ne lui appartient pas, pour lui et sa famille. Habitatio est jus gratuito habitandi in domo aliena. Dig. lib. 7, tit. 8. C. cit. 487 et s.

LOIS

La loi pour aider à la construction d'habitations salubres dans les cités, villes et villages a pour but de procurer aux ouvriers des logements à des prix modérés. Elle se trouve au statut 4 Geo. V (Q.), ch. 47 (1914), qui contient toutes les dispositions organiques nécessaires à la formation de compagnies dans ce but, et à leur fonctionnement.

V. Usage et habitation, Usufruit.

HALAGE (Chemin de)

Déf.—C'est le droit du public de passer sur les terres riveraines le long des cours d'eau pour les besoins de la navigation, et, surtout, pour le tirage des bateaux. Il prend quelquefois le nom de marchepied. C. c. 507.

V. Cours d'eau, Grève, Servitude.

HAUT COMMISSAIRE

LOIS

1. Le représentant du Canada en Angleterre se nomme "Haut Commissaire." Il a la charge, la surveillance et le contrôle des bureaux et agences d'immigration, et s'occupe des intérêts financiers et généraux du Canada dans le Royaume-Uni. S. R. C., ch. 15.

HAVRE ET QUAI

LOIS

1. Les havres, quais et brise-lames, sont sous le contrôle du ministre de la Marine et des Pêcheries. La confection et la réfection de ces travaux se font sous la "Loi des havres, quais et brise-lames de l'Etat." S. R. C., ch. 112; 8-9 Ed. VII (F.), ch. 17 (1909).

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Havre public.—A place does not necessarily become a "public harbour," within the meaning of section 108 of the B. N. A. Act, 1867, because public moneys had been expended by the Federal government at that place and several government wharves are situated there. Ex. C., 1912, Canada, Pickles vs The King, 7 D. L. R., 698.

HOMÉOPATHE

Déf.—On appelle ainsi les médecins qui soignent les maladies par l'application du principe similia similibus curantur, en opposition aux allopathes qui les combattent, suivant la méthode usuelle, par des agents contraires, contraria contrariis curantur.

LOIS

1. Ces médecins sont constitués en corporation sous le nom de "l'Association homéopathique de Montréal." Les S. R. Q., arts 4975 à 4990, leur donnent les pouvoirs d'enseigner, d'établir des hôpitaux et des dispensaires et pourvoient à leur organisation et administration.

HÔTEL-DIEU

JURISPRUDENCE

1. The supérieure of the Hôtel-Dieu cannot sue alone for the convent. K. B., 1816, Quebec, Supérieure de l'Hôtel-Dieu vs Dénéchaud, 1 R. de L., 347; 2 R. de L., 276; 2 R. J. R. Q., 50.

HÔTELIER

V. Aubergiste, hôtelier et maître de pension.

HUISSIER

Déf.—L'huissier, comme on l'entend de nos jours, est un officier public chargé de faire les citations et assignations en justice, ainsi que les exécutions et ventes judiciaires.

Les huissiers audienciers sont ceux qui sont attachés au service des juges et des tribunaux dans leurs fonctions judiciaires.

INDEX

Acte authentique..... 36
Action pénale..... 50
Admission..... 1
Affaire non judiciaire. 5
Affidavit.....38, 52
Amendement, 29, 39, 48, 56
Annexe..... 57
Appel..... 27
Arrestation..... 7
Assignation..... 31
Avis.....5, 41
"Capias"..... 8
Cautionnement, 1, 9 et s.
Consentement..... 42
Contestation de procès-verbal par requête, 44 et s., 53
Contrainte par corps, 15 et s., 66
Contribution annuelle, 25 et s.
Corporation (Montréal), 2, 19 et s., 23 et s., 69 et s.
Cours monétaire..... 12
Date..... 40
Destitution.....1, 20 et s.
Devoirs..... 1
Discipline.....23 et s.
Distance..... 47
Election de domicile.. 27
Erreur.....52, 56
Exception à la forme, 46 et s., 48, 53, 55
Fiat..... 29
Fol enchère..... 48
Fraude..... 20
Garantie..... 2
Honoraire.....66, 68
"Immatricule"..... 49
Inscription en droit... 35
Inscription en faux, 35, 38, 42 et s., 53
Intérêt..... 21
Juge de paix.....3, 64
Juridiction, 7 et s., 17, 23 et s., 28, 60, 62 et s.
Liste..... 4
Lois.....1a et s.
Malversation, 13, 20. 69 et s.
Mépris de cour..... 37
Nom..... 54
Officier de cour..... 22
Ouvrages canadiens.. 1
Parenté, 30 et s., 58, 61, 71
Police d'assurance.... 14
Poursuite. 13
Preuve, 18, 36, 38, 42 et s.
Procès-verbal..15, 32 et s.
Prohibition..... 58
Recors.....59, 70
Ré-émanation..... 63
Règlement..... 69
Régistre..... 61
Renvoi..... 47
Résidence..... 60
Responsabilité..... 37
Saisie et vente de meuble 61
Saisie revendication.. 64
Société..... 65
Substitution de rapport 51
Suspension, 24 et s., 66 et s.
Transport..... 6
Vente à vil prix..... 70
Vente judiciaire...68 et s.

ECRITS

1. Ouvrages canadiens.—Bédard, Manuel des huissiers et shérif; Cusson, Code des huissiers, 1899; Pélissier, Code des huissiers.

LOIS

1a. La loi qui régit les huissiers se trouve aux S. R. Q., arts 7600 à 7612. Ses dispositions se rapportent à leur admission, à leur cautionnement, à leurs devoirs, à leur destitution et aux pénalités qu'ils peuvent encourir.

Les huissiers du district de Montréal forment une corporation distincte, sous les S. R. Q., arts 7605 et s.

2. Garantie.—"La corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal est chargée de garantir elle-même jusqu'au montant de quatre cents piastres, pour chacun de ses membres, leur fidélité dans l'exécution de leurs devoirs et de leurs obligations.

"A cette fin, la corporation est tenue de déposer entre les mains du trésorier de la province, une garantie jusqu'au montant de dix mille piastres." S. R. Q., art. 7605.

3. Juges de paix.—"Tous les huissiers de la cour Supérieure sont autorisés à exécuter les ordres des juges de paix dans leurs districts respectifs, sans avoir besoin d'être nommés constables." S. R. Q., art. 3377.

4. Liste.—"Il est du devoir du protonotaire de chaque district de fournir gratuitement, chaque année, à tout membre du barreau de tel district habile à pratiquer, qui en fait la demande, une liste des huissiers qui ont droit d'y pratiquer et des personnes qui y ont été interdites au cours de l'année." S. R. Q., art. 4566.

JURISPRUDENCE

5. Affaire non judiciaire.— Un huissier de la cour Supérieure n'est pas compétent à signifier des avis en dehors des procédures judiciaires, et son certificat constatant qu'il a donné ou signifié tel avis, ne fait pas foi par lui-même. C. S., 1879, Terrebonne, De Bellefeuille et al. vs Piché, 23 J., 314; 2 L. N., 115.

6. A bailiff has no quality as such to signify transfers of debts and prove such signification by a mere return under his official oath. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Dagneau vs Dame Décarie et vir, 8 Q. P. R., 141.

7. Arrestation.—Un huissier porteur d'un bref qui ordonne d'arrêter le défendeur dans le district de Montréal, ne peut faire légalement l'arrestation dans un autre district. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Lefebvre vs Boudreau, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 9; 9 L. N., 25.

8. Capias.—Un huissier immatriculé pour le district d'où émane un bref de capias, peut exécuter ce bref dans un autre district. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Trudeau vs Renaud dit Deslauriers, 17 R. L., 647; 34 J., 102.

9. Cautionnement.—Le cautionnement donné en faveur d'un huissier est un cautionnement judiciaire. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Le proc. gén. Ouimet vs Lafond, 5 R. L., 184.

10. Bailiffs who have become sureties in violation of the 6th Rule of Practice, cannot plead that rule in defence of an action against them on the bond. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Dupras, ès-qual., vs Sauvé, and Dupras vs Chauveau, 4 L. N., 164.

11. Le cautionnement fourni par les huissiers, quoique consenti en faveur de Sa Majesté, est une garantie directe en faveur de toute personne à laquelle l'huissier fait subir des dommages par sa négligence coupable ou sa mauvaise conduite dans l'exécution de ses devoirs, et le recours en dommages existe contre les cautions, sans cession du cautionnement.

12. La différence entre le cautionnement des shérifs par lequel les cautions garantissent le paiement à qui y aura droit des sommes reçues par ceux qu'elles cautionnent et celui des huissiers, dont les cautions ne l'obligent qu'au paiement des dommages que le cautionné a causés, est que le premier donne à la partie à laquelle le shérif devait payer une somme de deniers une action directe contre les cautions pour son recouvrement; tandis que le second ne donne qu'un recours en indemnité contre les cautions pour la somme qu'il n'est pas possible de recouvrer de l'huissier qui l'a touchée dans l'exécution de ses devoirs. L'énonciation du montant du cautionnement dans une dénomination monétaire qui n'a plus cours, et contrairement à une prescription expresse de la loi n'est pas une nullité que puissent invoquer les cautions, dont elle est la faute, contre les tiers que ce cautionnement garantit. C. S., 1887, Québec, Gauvreau vs Lemieux et al., 10 R. J. Q., 24.— C. S., 1890, Montréal, Hotte vs The London Guarantee and Accident Co., 20 R. L., 512.

13. Une action dirigée contre les cautions d'un huissier pour l'inexécution de ses devoirs doit être portée au nom du trésorier de la province, et sur son autorisation spéciale. C. C., 1888, Hull, Maillet vs Aylen, 11 L. N., 397.

14. A bailiff will not be declared unqualified by the mere fact that no proof has been shown that his guarantee policy has been renewed. S. C., 1901, Bedford, In re Election of Mississiquoi, Morin vs Meigs, 6 Q. P. R., 372.

15. Contrainte par corps.—Un bref de contrainte par corps obtenu contre un huissier, pour avoir négligé de faire rapport, devant la cour, de ses procédés sur un bref d'exécution à lui adressé, et ordonnant au shérif, d'appréhender au corps le dit huissier, et de l'incarcérer dans la prison commune du district de Montréal, et qu'il y soit détenu jusqu'à ce qu'il ait rapporté, devant cette cour, le dit bref d'exécution avec ses procédés sur icelui, ou payé au dit demandeur le montant de la dette, intérêt et frais en cette cause, n'est pas suffisamment exécuté par le shérif, s'il n'a reçu de l'huissier qu'un rapport de ses procédés écrit sur le bref d'exécution, constatant que le dit huissier avait perçu des défendeurs le montant porté au bref d'exécution. Le shérif devait aussi exiger de l'huissier la remise des deniers qu'il avait ainsi perçus. C. C., 1870, Montréal, Dufresne vs Gaultier et Coderre et Beaulac et Mathieu, 3 R. L., 428; 23 R. J. R. Q., 419, 547.

16. Where a bailiff, resident in another district, and charged with the execution there of a writ issued in the district of Montreal, fails to comply with the exigencies of the writ, he is liable to imprisonment in the district of Montreal. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Gnaedinger et al. vs Derouin et al., 21 J., 220; 1 L. N., 212.

17. A bailiff has concurrent jurisdiction with the sheriff in the execution of a writ of civil imprisonment for non production of moveables entrusted to a guardian. Q. B., 1903, Montreal, Ex parte Kenatosse, 6 Q. P. R., 89.

18. Celui qui veut obtenir une ordonnace contre un huissier chargé d'un bref d'exécution doit prouver qu'il lui a confié tel bref. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Compagnie Massey-Harris, Limitée, vs Plourde et Gelinas, 6 R. P. Q., 400.

19. Corporation du District de Montréal.—La corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal ne peut, par simple résolution, démettre de ses fonctions un de ses membres coupable de certaines irrégularités à une époque déjà éloignée, alors qu'elle a accepté sans conditions les contributions de ce membre pour l'année courante; elle doit dans les circonstances, porter une plainte régulière contre ce membre en défaut. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Bastien vs Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal, 14 R. P. Q., 146.

19a. La corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal est responsable de la conduite de ses membres dans l'exécution ordinaire de leurs devoirs. Elle doit rembourser jusqu'au montant du jugement obtenu, la valeur des effets régulièrement saisis par un de ses membres et confiés à un gardien, si ces effets ne sont pas représentés au jour de la vente. C. C., 1912, Montréal, Kaster vs La Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal, 19 R. P. Q., 184.

20. Destitution.—Il est permis de demander la destitution d'un huissier pour malversation ou actes de fraude par lui commis en dehors de l'exercice de sa charge. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Desmarteau vs Reed, R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 42; 16 L. N., 266.

21. Pour demander la destitution d'un huissier, il faut y avoir un intérêt spécial. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Normand vs Aumais, 7 R. P. Q., 59; 11 R. L., n. s., 528.

22. Bailiffs, notwithstanding the by-law of their corporation, continue to be officers of the court, subject to its jurisdiction, and liable to be removed from their position by the court or a judge thereof. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Beaulieu vs Decelles and Corporation of bailiffs of the district of Montreal, 7 Q. P. R., 323.

23. Discipline.—C'est au bureau d'examinateurs de la corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal seul qu'il appartient de juger en première instance les membres de la dite corporation accusés d'infractions aux règlements, et la cour Supérieure n'a juridiction que sur appel en pareille matière. C. S., 1903, Montréal, La Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal vs Proulx, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 244; 10 R. L., n. s., 225.

24. Une corporation publique a le pouvoir, au nombre de ceux qui sont nécessaires pour atteindre le but de sa destination (art. 358 C. c.), d'imposer une contribution annuelle sur ses membres, payable à peine de suspension.

25. L'article 27 de la dite charte n'est pas applicable aux suspensions résultant du défaut de paiement de la contribution annuelle.

26. Un huissier suspendu, peut, en aucun temps être relevé de cette suspension par le paiement de sa contribution sans en faire la demande par écrit, ni payer aucune autre somme; et l'article 27 des règlements ne s'applique pas aux suspensions qui résultent du défaut de paiement des contributions. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Lavery vs Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal, 16 R. L., n. s., 137; R. J. Q., 38 C. S., 236.

27. Election de domicile.—L'article 1081 du Code de procédure civile concernant l'élection de domicile par l'huissier saisissant pour le poursuivant, ne s'applique qu'aux causes susceptibles d'appel. C. C., 1869, Richelieu, Légaré vs Desrochers et Desrochers, 1 R. L., 51; 20 R. J. R. Q., 294, 535.

28. Exécution.—Par l'article 461 (anc.) du Code de procédure civile, un huissier de la cour Supérieure pour le district de Montréal, a le pouvoir d'exécuter un bref d'exécution de cette cour dans un district voisin. C. S., 1869, Montréal, Duhaut vs Lacombe et Tranchemontagne et uxor, 1 R. L., 440; 13 J., 308; 19 R. J. R. Q., 326, 561.

29. Un bref d'exécution émané par le protonotaire ne peut être adressé à aucun autre huissier que celui contenu au fiat du requérant qui, seul, peut faire toutes les procédures requises pour l'exécution du jugement. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Brittle vs Fammaro, 17 R. L., n. s., 330.

30. Parenté.—La signification du bref de sommation faite par un huissier, parent du demandeur, est nulle. C. C., 1861, Montréal, Birs dit Desmarteau vs Aubertain, 6 J., 88.

31. L'assignation faite par un huissier, neveu du défendeur, est nulle, attendu que l'article 74 du Code de procédure civile, défend aux huissiers d'exploiter dans les affaires qui concernent leurs parents jusqu'au degré de cousin germain inclusivement. Les mots, qui concernent dans cet article, étendent la prohibition tant aux affaires contre, qu'à celles pour les parents, etc., et, en cela, l'article 74 diffère de l'article 66 du Code de procédure Français qui ne défend à l'huissier d'instrumenter que "pour ses parents, etc." C. S., 1890, Beauce, Cliche vs Poulin, 16 R. J. Q., 233; 13 L. N., 415.

32. Procès-verbal.—The omission of the county or parish (in which the process ad respondendum has been served) in the sheriff's return, does not amount to a nullité d'exploit. K. B., 1813, Quebec, Lambert vs Roberge, 3 R. de L., 306; 2 R. J. R. Q., 296.

33. Return of service at the domicile of the defendant, without saying that the officer spoke to any person, is no service in a default cause. K. B., 1818, Quebec, Clouet vs Bragg, 3 R. de L., 307; 2 R. J. R. Q., 296.

34. Service on a growing person is no service, a growing person may be a child of an hour's age, there is no certainty in the description. K. B., 1820, Quebec, Perrault vs Binet, 3 R. de L., 307; 2 R. J. R. Q., 296.

35. In a special demurrer alleging the want of service of the writ and declaration in the case, the court will on consent given to that effect by the plaintiff, order proof upon such demurrer, without an inscription en faux. S. C., 1856, Quebec, Charlton vs Cory, 6 L.C.R., 268.

36. Un exploit d'huissier est un acte authentique qui fait foi jusqu'à inscription en faux. Aucune preuve à l'encontre d'un tel exploit ne peut être permise sans cette inscription en faux. B.R., 1859, Montréal, Trust and Loan Co. of Upper Canada vs Mac Kay, 9 L. C. R., 465; 7 R.J. R.Q., 327; 13 R.J. R.Q., 425.

37. Where a rule had been taken against a bailiff, charged with a writ of execution, ordering him to appear and shew cause why he should not be declared in contempt of court, and condemned and imprisoned until he paid the debt, etc., for neglect to make his return to the writ. As he could not be held responsible for more than the value of the effects seized, the court could not grant a rule, but would order the bailiff to make his return within forty-eight hours after the service of the order. C. C., 1862, Montreal, Rolland vs Reuger et Lafontaine, 7 J., 48; 12 R. J. R. Q., 26.

38. A party will not be allowed to inscribe en faux against a bailiff's return after the expiration of the four days from the filing of the return, except on cause shown by affidavit. S. C., 1862, Montreal, Perry vs Milne and The Ontario Bank and Milne, 6 J., 243.

39. Where the bailiff made a motion to be allowed to amend his return of service of a writ after inscription in improbation had been filed against it, the motion was rejected with costs. S. C., 1862, Montreal, Hobbs vs Seymour et al., 7 J., 46; 13 L. C. R., 75; 11 R. J. R. Q., 269.

40. Un rapport d'huissier peut être daté en chiffres. B. R., 1862, Montréal, Lamothe vs Garceau, 7 J., 115; 13 D. T. B. C., 88; 11 R. J. R. Q., 272.

41. A bailiff's return of the service of a notice of motion is sufficient without being otherwise proved under oath. S. C., 1863, Richelieu, Ex parte Roy, 7 J., 109; 12 R. J. R. Q., 77.

42. Le consentement des parties à une action qu'il ne sera pas produit d'inscription en faux contre le rapport d'un huissier, allégué par une exception péremptoire à la forme être faux, n'oblige pas; et tel consentement sera mis de côté par la cour, sur application du défendeur, auquel il sera permis de produire telle inscription.

43. Le seul moyen d'être admis à la preuve pour attaquer le rapport d'un huissier, allégué être faux, est par une inscription en faux. C. S., 1864, Québec, McLimont vs Robin, 15 D. T. B. C., 37; 13 R. J. R. Q., 424.

44. En vertu de l'article 159 du Code de procédure civile, tout rapport de signification, fait par un huissier sous son serment d'office, peut être contesté par une requête sommaire, sans inscription de faux à moins que le tribunal n'en ordonne autrement.

45. Par telle requête, l'on peut conclure à ce que le rapport de l'huissier soit déclaré faux et mensonger et mis de côté comme nul et non avenu, et à ce que l'action à laquelle il se rapporte, soit en conséquence, déboutée avec dépens.

46. Contestation peut être liée sur telle requête, sans qu'il soit besoin de recourir à l'exception à la forme ni à l'inscription en faux. C. S., 1868, Montréal, Hudon et al. vs Solman et al., 12 J., 120; 17 R. J. R. Q., 265, 549.—B. R., 1872, Montréal, McMillan vs Buchanan et al., 17 J., 13; 19 R. J. R. Q., 470, 559, 583.—C. C., 1873, Montréal, Brosseau vs Alves et David, 17 J., 228.—C. S., 1898, Bedford, L'Ecuyer vs Dozois, 1 R. P. Q., 493.—C. S., 1901, Montréal, Adams vs Mulligan et Mulligan, R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 251.

47. Si un huissier omet de parapher un renvoi essentiel au rapport de la signification d'une action et ne fait pas mention dans ce rapport de la distance depuis le lieu des séances du tribunal, au domicile du défendeur, et que ces omissions donnent lieu à une exception à la forme, tel huissier sera passible d'une poursuite en recouvrement de ce qu'il en aura coûté au demandeur pour faire amender ce rapport. C. S., 1877, Montréal, Major vs Chartrand, 21 J., 303; 1 L. N., 212.

48. The return on a rule for folle enchère stated that the service had been made at defendant's domicile in Stadacona. Evidence being adduced on an exception to the form that Stadacona was a village in the parish of St-Roch de Quebec, motion was made and granted amending the return accordingly. The service and return as amended were sufficient, and the folle enchère was ordered. Q. B., 1878, Quebec, Bickell vs Richard, 1 L. N., 130.

49. Le mot immatriculé mentionné dans l'article 78 C. p. c. comme devant se trouver dans le rapport de signification que fait l'huissier, n'est pas sacramentel. Tout terme indiquant le district dans lequel il a qualité d'exercer, suffit. C. C., 1880, Terrebonne, La Compagnie du chemin de fer des Laurentides vs Gauthier, 24 J., 174; 3 L. N., 243.

50. Where in a qui tam action, the return of service the bailiff serving did not say he was a bailiff nor where he resided, but merely signed H. C. S., and said he made his return sous serment d'office, it is sufficient. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Bernard vs Gaudry, 4 L. N., 53.

51. Il ne peut être permis à l'huissier de produire ou de substituer un nouveau rapport.

52. L'affidavit de l'huissier ne peut être admis pour prouver un fait essentiel omis dans son rapport et pour corriger une erreur de date. C. C., 1885, Chicoutimi, Lefebvre et al. vs Gingras, 9 L. N., 43.

53. Dans son rapport de signification, l'huissier exploitant déclarait avoir signifié la requête en nullité de décret à l'adjudicataire, bien qu'il n'eût jamais fait telle signification. L'adjudicataire voyant son exception à la forme rejetée pour les raisons ci-dessus, demanda par requête, permission de s'inscrire en faux contre l'exploit. Requête en faux renvoyée avec dépens, parce que l'adjudicataire ayant comparu, ne se trouvait plus dans les délais pour invoquer l'irrégularité de l'assignation, son exception à la forme ayant été déboutée. C. S., 1886, Saguenay, Bury vs Leslie et al., et Stockwell et Forsyth, 10 L. N., 355.

54. Le retour de l'huissier mentionnant que la signification a été faite au défendeur sans mentionner son nom, est suffisant, même dans le cas où il n'y a pas de défendeur de décrit au bref, les parties y étant nommées comme requérant et intimé, le mot "défendeur" étant un terme employé pour toute personne défendant à une action. C. S., 1887, Sherbrooke, Graham vs Webb, 10 L. N., 332.

55. La demande pour produire preuve à l'encontre d'un simple rapport de signification sans recourir à la procédure d'inscription de faux, peut être contenue dans une exception à la forme, sans qu'il soit nécessaire de faire une demande spéciale et distincte à cette fin.

56. Un rapport constatant que la signification de l'action a eu lieu le 11 juin, entre midi et une heure, sans ajouter de l'après-midi, sera amendé, sur ordre de la cour, en conformité des articles C. p. c. 9 et 159, telle omission n'étant évidemment qu'une erreur de plume. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Champagne vs Bachand, 2 R. J., 371.

57. Un procès-verbal d'huissier annexé à la pièce signifiée au moyen de mucilage est régulièrement dans le dossier. C. S., 1897, Sweetsburg, Buzzell vs Harvey, 1 R. P. Q., 214.

58. Prohibition.—La prohibition de l'article 74 du Code de procédure civile ne s'applique pas au cas où l'huissier qui a fait l'exploit d'assignation, a instrumenté contre ses parents ou alliés. C. S., 1883, Richelieu, Bazin vs Lacouture, ès-qual., 7 L. N., 68.

59. Recors.—Les huissiers ne sont pas tenus de se faire accompagner de recors pour faire une saisie-revendication. B. R., 1857, Montréal, Desjardins vs Dubois, 1 J., 81; 5 R. J. R. Q., 441.

60. Résidence.—Un huissier de la cour Supérieure nommé pour exercer dans un certain district où il réside, ne perd pas qualité pour exercer dans tel district, par le fait qu'ayant cessé d'y résider, il est nommé huissier pour un autre district dans lequel il vient résider. C. C., 1880, Terrebonne, La Compagnie du chemin de fer des Laurentides vs Gauthier, 24 J., 174; 3 L. N., 243.

61. Saisie et vente de meuble. — Un huissier peut exécuter un bref de fieri facias de bonis contre son beau-frère, ou autre allié, nonobstant les dispositions de la 12e Vict., ch. 38. C. C., 1859, Québec, Lemieux vs Côté et Côté, 10 D. T. B. C., 184; 8 R. J. R. Q., 334.

62. Un huissier n'a pas le droit de faire une saisie avec un bref d'exécution adressé à un autre huissier. C. M., 1889, Montréal, Kennedy vs Danford et Danford, 12 L. N., 244

63. Lorsqu'un bref d'exécution est adressé à un huissier et exécuté en partie par lui, le greffier de la cour ou son député n'a pas le droit de le ré-émaner et de l'adresser à un autre huissier; les procédés, dans ce cas, faits par ce dernier, sont nuls. C. C., 1905, Montréal, Philips vs Gwilt et Darveau, 15 R. L., n. s., 421.

64. Saisie-revendication. — Revendication will lie against a bailiff who under the authority of a justice of the peace holds in his custody the goods of the plaintiff. If the cause of the detention be a matter over which the justice has no jurisdiction. K. B., 1819, Quebec, Pacaud vs Bégin, 1 R. de L., 507; 2 R. J. R. Q., 123.

65. Société.—A partnership of bailiffs does not fall under articles 1834, 1835 of the civil Code, and registration of such partnership, not being required or authorized by law, is without effect. Therefore the provisions of article 1835, as to disproof of the allegations of the declaration of partnership, do not apply to a declaration of partnership made by a firm of bailiffs, so far as their business as bailiffs is concerned.

65a. Although bailiffs cannot act, inthe performance of their duties, under a partnership name, they are not precluded from forming a partnership as regards the financial returns from their individual work nor from contracting, as a partnership, for the payment of individual services rendered by one or several of them. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Decelles et al. vs Bazin et al., Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 399; 4 R. P. Q., 92.

66. Suspension.—Un huissier qui surcharge ses frais peut être suspendu et condamné à la contrainte par corps au cas de non paiement par un juge de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1874, Montréal, Deguire vs Desprès et Désormeau, 6 R. L., 736.

67. A bailiff who, by the judgment complained of, was suspended in consequence of his testimony as a witness in the cause, is not a party to the cause in which he was examined, and the court of Review could not, on an inscription by him, inquire into the legality of such suspension. C. R., 1881, Montreal, Hurtubise vs Riendeau and Tessier, 4 L. N., 354.

68. Vente judiciaire.—Dans les ventes considérables de marchandises, l'huissier doit donner des factures aux acquéreurs, et il a droit pour ces factures aux cinq deniers par cent mots que lui accorde le tarif, pour tout document qu'il doit préparer. C. S., 1887, Québec, Whitehead et al. vs Dubeau, 10 R. J. Q., 162.

69. Le défendeur, huissier du district de Montréal, doit se soumettre aux règlements de la demanderesse et tenir un registre des ventes par lui faites.

70. La vente d'un objet par un huissier à son record à vil prix, et en l'absence d'enchérisseurs sera réputée faite à l'huissier lui-même et l'huissier pourra être condamné à remettre cet objet à la personne sur qui il l'a vendu.

71. L'huissier sera considéré favoriser ses parents ou employés dans la vente et l'adjudication des effets vendus par lui, s'il est dans l'habitude de leur adjuger aux ventes judiciaires faites par lui. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Corporation des huissiers du district de Montréal vs Bourassa, M. L. R., 5 C. S., 409; 13 L. N., 66.

V. Appel, Assignation, Avocat, Capias, Cautionnement, Contrainte par corps, Droit constitutionnel, Droit litigieux, Droit municipal, Droit paroissial, Election municipale contestée, Exécution, Faillite, Frais, Garantie, Gardien judiciaire, Mépris de cour, Offres réelles, Opposition afin d'annuler Opposition afin de conserver, Preuve, Preuve testimoniale, Procédure, Responsabilité, Révision, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente de meubles, Saisie et vente d'immeubles, Saisie-revendication, Shérif, Signification.

HYGIÈNE PUBLIQUE

LOIS

1. Loi fédérale. — Le gouverneur en conseil peut établir des règlements pour la conservation de la santé et pour combattre les maladies dans le voisinage des travaux publics, et parmi les personnes qui y sont employées." S. R. C., ch. 135.

2. Loi provinciale.—La "Loi d'hygiène publique de Québec" se trouve aux S. R. Q., arts 3867 à 3982; 4 Geo. V, ch. 43 (Q.) (1914).

La santé publique dans la province est mise, par cette loi, sous les soins d'un "Conseil d'hygiène de la province de Québec" nommé par le lieutenant gouverneur en conseil.

Tout ce qui s'y rapporte comme sa composition, ses assemblées, les pouvoirs et les devoirs du conseil, les règlements qu'il peut faire, les enquêtes sur les maladies contagieuses, les bureaux d'hygiène locaux, les devoirs des autorités municipales et des particuliers relativement à certaines causes d'insalubrité, les eaux de drainage et d'alimentation, les aliments et poissons, les maladies contagieuses, la salubrité des établissements industriels, le service sanitaire en cas d'épidémie, l'organisation du conseil central et des conseil locaux d'hygiène ainsi que leurs devoirs et attributions, la vaccination, les statistiques relatives au mouvement de la population et toutes les pénalités et poursuites se rapportant à ces divers sujets sont régis par la Loi d'hygiène publique de Québec citée ci-dessus.

JURISPRUDENCE

3. Avis aux municipalités.—In the use of the power conferred upon the provincial board of health by section 3875 R. S. Q., 1909, "to compel municipal councils to exercise and enforce such of their powers as the urgency of the case demands," it should deal directly with such councils.

4. Therefore, a notice by it, for such a purpose, addressed to "La Corporation de la cité de Montréal," but delivered to the board of commissioners of that city, is irregular and void. S. C., 1911, Montreal, Layton and Co., Ltd., vs The City of Montreal et al., Q. J. R., 39 S. C., 520.

5. Destruction des choses.—The public Health Act of the province of Quebec does not justify the destruction of goods seized as deleterious to the public health; and the power to destroy will not be inferred from a statute authorizing health officers "to dispose of them (the articles seized) so that they shall not be offered for sale or serve as food for man." K. B., 1912, Quebec, City of Montreal vs Layton and Co., Ltd., and Gould Cold Storage Co., 1 D. L. R., 160.

6. Frais.—Celui dont la maison est mise en quarantaine en vertu des règlements du conseil d'hygiène de la province de Québec, n'est tenu qu'au paiement des frais ordinaires de la maladie, mais les frais extraordinaires imposés par la loi, pour empêcher la contagion, tels que ceux de garde et autres de même nature, sont à la charge de la municipalité. C. C., 1903, Sherbrooke, La Corporation de la partie sud de Whitton vs Giroux, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 361; 10 R. L., n. s., 281.

7. Médecin.—En vertu des dispositions du statut 1 Ed. VII, ch. 19, ou loi d'hygiène publique, et des règlements du conseil d'hygiène de cette province, une corporation municipale est responsable du compte d'un médecin pour soins donnés à des personnes de la municipalité, lorsque ces personnes sont pauvres et atteintes de la petite vérole, que le médecin a prévenu de ces faits le secrétaire du bureau d'hygiène, qui est en même temps le secrétaire-trésorier de cette corporation municipale et que tel secrétaire a autorisé le médecin à continuer ses soins, à défaut par cette corporation municipale d'adopter aucunes mesures de protection autorisées par les lois suscitées. C. C., 1903, Arthabaska, Triganne vs Corporation du canton de Stanfold, 10 R. J., 410.

HYPOTHÈQUE

Déf.—L'hypothèque est un droit réel sur les immeubles affectés à l'acquittement d'une obligation, en vertu duquel le créancier peut les faire vendre en quelques mains qu'ils soient, et être préféré sur le produit de la vente suivant l'ordre du temps, tel que fixé dans ce Code. Proprie pignus dicimus quod ad credi- torem transit; hypothecam, quum non transit possessio ad creditorem. Dig., lib. 20, tit. 7. C. c. 2016.

Cout. de P., art. 100.—Et s'entendent chargés et redevables quand lesdits héritages sont spécialenemt obligés, ou qu'il y a générale obligation sans spécialité, ou qu'il y a clause que la spéciale ne déroge à la générale, ni la générale à la spéciale, en quels cas le détenteur est tenu personnellement desdits arrérages.

Art. 101.—Les détenteurs et propriétaires d'aucuns héritages obligés, ou hypothéqués à aucunes rentes ou autres charges réelles, ou annuelles, sont tenus hypothécairement icelles payer avec les arrérages qui en sont dus: à tout le moins sont tenus iceux héritages délaisser, pour être saisis et adjugés par décret, au plus offrant et dernier enchérisseur, à faute de paiements des arrérages qui en sont dus, sans qu'il soit besoin de discussion; et si la rente est foncière, doit être l'héritage adjugé à la charge de la rente.

Art. 107.—Cédule privée qui porte promesse de payer, emporte hypothèque du jour de la confession ou reconnaissance d'icelle faite en jugement, ou par devant notaire, ou que par jugement elle soit tenue pour confessée, ou du jour de la dénégation, en cas que par après elle soit vérifiée.

Art. 170.—Meubles n'ont point de suite par hypothèque, quand ils sont hors de la possession du débiteur.

Ord. de 1539, art. 93.—Si aucun est ajourné en connaissance de cédule, comparé ou contesté déniant sa cédule, et si par après est prouvé par le créancier, l'hypothèque courra et aura lieu du jour de la dite négation et contestation.

Ord. de Moulins 1566, art. 53.—Dès lors et en l'instant de la condamnation donnée en dernier ressort, et du jour de la prononciation, sera acquis à la partie droit d'hypothèque sur les biens du condamné, pour l'effet et exécution du jugement ou arrêt par lui obtenu.

V. Ord. de 1667, tit. 35, art. 11.

Stellionat.—C'est l'acte frauduleux d'une personne qui vend ou hypothèque un immeuble qui ne lui appartient pas, ou qui dissimule à un acheteur les hypothèques qui chargent la propriété qu'il lui vend ou qu'il hypothèque en sa faveur. C. cr., 421, 422.

INDEX

Acceptation.....27, 113
Accessoire..... 40
Acte authentique, 69, 76 et s., 106
Action en radiation... 140
Action hypothécaire, 92, 132, 149
Amélioration.....28 et s.
Assurance.....31 et s., 133
Assurance mutuelle, 1, 30, 34 et s.
Avances futures....37 et s.
Avant l'Ordonnance d'enregistrement, 96 et s.
Avis, 59 et s., 75, 120 et s.
Bail..... 96
Bailleur de fonds, 40 et s., 145
Banque..... 68
Bâtiments marchands, 24, 25, 44
Billet de dépôt.....34 et s.
Billet de location..... 160
Billet promissoire, 39, 47 et s., 64, 68
Cadastre..... 138
Capacité..... 2
Certificat du régist.... 134
Cession de préséance.. 45
Charge 65
Chemin de fer..... 21a
Chose d'autrui..... 3
Collusion..... 84
Communauté.....46, 112
Compagnie d'assurance mutuelle..... 21b
Compagnie incorporée, 21c 47 et s., 49 et s.
Condition suspensiv. 143
Confusion..... 65
Construction, 52, 105, 162 et s.
Construction d'église, 21d
Contenance..... 56
Contrat de mariage, 66 et s., 75, 108, 114 et s.
Contrat verbal..... 147
Corporation municip. 51
Corporation scolaire, 22, 156
Coupe de bois.....53 et s.
Créancier hypothécaire, 24 et s., 31 et s., 78 et s.
Crédit ouvert..... 5, 11
Débenture.....49 et s.
Délai.....80, 83, 145
Délaissement..... 149
Description d'hypothèque..... 135
Description d'immeuble 55 et s., 148
Dette de succession... 60
Directeur .....47 et s.
Distribution de deniers, 69 et s., 121, 168
Dommage .....162 et s.
Donation.....42 et s., 115
Donation conditionnelle..... 116
Donation entrevifs, 64 et s., 85, 125a, 150 et s.
Donation par cont. de mariage.....66 et s.
Douaire..... 114
Droit de propriété.... 62
Droit de superficie.... 6
Endossement..... 68
Enregistrement, 24 et s., 40, 75, 80, 115, 120 et s., 129, 144, 165, 169
Erreur de nom.....58, 138
Exécuteur testamentaire.....69 et s.
Exemption..... 26
Faux..... 7
Femme mariée..... 8
Fonds d'amortissement, 23
Forme.....72 et s.
Frais.....30, 102, 156
Frais de radiation, 20, 170
Frais de transport.... 170
Fraude.....78 et s.
Garantie, 41, 59 et s., 89 et s.
Garantie collatérale 93 et s.
Héritier.....89, 128
Historique..... 15
Hypothèque accessoire, 93 et s.
Hypothèque convent., 4, 9, 57 et s., 74, 77, 124 et s.
Hypothèque générale, 10, 49 et s., 66 et s., 95 et s., 114 et s., 154
Hypothèque légale, 8, 34 et s., 107 et s., 109 et s., 114 et s., 120 et s.
Hypothèque spéciale, 108, 112, 154
Immeuble par destination.....12, 98 et s.
Imputation de paiement, 39, 101
Indivisibilité..... 13
Insolvabilité..29, 78 et s.
Intérêts, 23, 102, 125, 139, 164 et s.
Interprétation. 62 et s., 103
Jouissance..... 62
Jugement.....129, 157
Legs.....104, 109, 127
Locataire..... 105
Lois.....22 et s.
Machine .....98 et s.
Mainlevée..... 138
Mandat.....21, 106
Mari et femme, 14, 21, 24, 107 et s.
Meuble .....117 et s.
Mineur.....120 et s.
Montant déterminé, 122 et s.

"Mortgages out of presence of creditor"... 17
Navire.....24, 44
Navire en construction, 25, 44
Nom..... 78
Obligation.....27, 90
Opposition afin de conserver..... 71
Ordonnance.....96 et s.
Paiement.....18, 29, 137
Partage.....128, 132
Possession..... 62
Poursuite..... 136
Préjudice..... 88
Prescription, 129, 159, 166
Présomption..... 161
Prêt..... 85
Preuve..... 94
Priorité.....45, 100, 168
Privilège..... 129
Promesse de radiation 136
Promesse de vente.... 130
Propriété indivise....19, 132
Protestants..... 25a
Quittance....133 et s., 169
Radiation, 20, 60, 133 et s., 169
Ratification de titre.. 79
Réception de l'assurance.....31 et s.
Recours personnel, 90, 92, 161
Reddition de compte. 120
Régistrateur..... 59
Remboursement..... 23
Renouvellement..114, 145
Rente annuelle....146 et s.
Rente constituée..... 149
Rente foncière..... 110
Rente viagère 115, 150 et s.
Résiliation de donation.....65, 85, 152
Résiliation de vente.. 85
Rétrocession.....93 et s.
Saisie et vente.....26, 145
Saisie-revendication.. 98
Servitude.....41, 153
Subrogation..... 154
Substitution..... 155
Suspension..... 63
Taxe 171
Taxe d'église..... 21c
Taxe scolaire.....156 et s.
Terme..... 103
Terrain d'autrui, 28, 52, 105, 141 et s.
Terre des colons..... 26
Terre en franc et com. soccage..... 158
Terres publiques..159, 160
Testament, 24, 109, 127, 151
Tiers..... 152
Tiers détenteur, 78, 94, 161 et s.
Titre nouvel 149, 166
Transmission..... 24
Transport, 91, 133, 168 et s.
Tuteur.....120 et s.
Tuteur "ad hoc'..... 121
Vente, 22, 25, 40 et s., 85, 89, 111, 141 et s., 154
Vente à réméré..... 167
Vente de créance hypot., 168 et s.
Vente judiciaire, 40, 114, 121
Ventilation..... 171

ÉCRITS

1. Assurance mutuelle.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy. 7 R. Not., 335.

2. Capacité.—Personnes capables d'hypothéquer.—Capacité requise pour hypothéquer.—Personnes capables d'hypothéquer.—Modification de la propriété du débiteur par la loi ou la convention.—Erreur, violence, crainte et lésion.—Enseignement de Capmas.—Débiteur insolvable.—Faillite.—Grevé de substitution. — Donation. — Héritier. — Retrait successoral.—Rescision de partage.—Co-héritier.—Co-associé.—Rapport à succession.—Actes équipollents à partage.—Condition affectant le droit de propriété.—Clause résolutoire.—Clause de réméré.—Droit de propriété conditionnel.—Pacte commissoire.—Non enregistrement de titre.—Titre insuffisant.—Colon.—Stellionat.—Immeubles de la communauté.—Immeubles de la femme.—Fabriques. Article écrit par Honoré Gervais, C.R., avocat. 2 R. L., n. s., 76.

3. Chose d'autrui.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 9 R. Not., 214.

4. Convention, Solennité. — Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 8 R. Not., 107.

5. Crédit ouvert.—De l'hypothèque consentie pour un crédit ouvert.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 8 R. Not., 83.

6. Droit de superficie.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 3 R. Not., 16.

7. Faux.—Article écrit par C.P. Beaulieu, notaire. 4 R. Not., 467.

8. Femmes mariées.—Hypothèque légale des femmes mariées.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 9 R. Not., 79; 14 R. Not., 91.

9. Hypothèque conventionnelle de biens présents et à venir.—Article de M. Wolouski. 2 R. de L., 338.

10. Hypothèque générale et spéciale. 2 R. de L., 14.

11. Hypothèque pour un crédit.—Article écrit par Eusèbe Belleau, C. R., avocat. 2 R. L., n. s., 509.

12. Immeubles par destination.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 7 R. Not., 395.

13. Indivisibilité.—Hypothèque indivisible.—Droit de choisir entre les immeubles. Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 9 R. Not., 188.

14. Mari et femme.—Hypothèque légale en Allemagne.—Article écrit par J. J. Beauchamp, C. R., avocat. 12 R. L., n. s., 156.

15. Introduction historique et comparaison des divers systèmes hypothécaires.—Histoire de l'hypothèque.—Comparaison des divers systèmes hypothécaires.—Article écrit par Honoré Gervais, C. R., avocat 1 R. L., n. s., 309.

17. Mortgages passed out of the presence of the creditor.—Article written by D. Girouard, avocat. 2 R. R., 427.

18. Paiement.—Article écrit par L. P. Sirois, notaire. 4 R. Not., 196.

19. Propriété indivise.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 5 R. Not., 308.

20. Règlement des frais accessoires d'une radiation d'hypothèque.—Article écrit par J. Germano, notaire. 2 R. L., n. s., 448.

21. Validité des aliénations et constitutions d'hypothèques faites en vertu d'une procuration générale d'une femme mariée.—Article écrit par l'Hon. F. Langelier juge. 2 R. L., n. s., 559.

LOIS

21a. Chemin de fer.—"Si des entrées ou charges ont été faites sur les anciens numéros ou terrains originaires d'où a été extrait le terrain pris pour la ligne d'un chemin de fer, pour des obligations créées par les propriétaires du chemin, il est alors du devoir de la compagnie ou de la personne ou corporation exploitant, à quelque titre que ce soit, un chemin ou partie d'un chemin de fer dans les limites de cette province, passant dans les localités où les plans cadastraux ont été complétés, de faire renouveler, conformément à la loi, aux frais de la compagnie ou de ses représentants, ces charges, privilèges et hypothèques sur les numéros officiels donnés au plan cadastral amendé." S. R. Q., art. 7474.

21b. Compagnie d'assurance mutuelle contre le feu.—"Pour assurer le paiement de toutes les répartitions imposables sur les billets de dépôt des membres, la compagnie a un privilège sur toute la propriété mobilière de l'assuré et aussi une hypothèque, depuis la date du billet de dépôt, sur les propriétés immobilières mentionnées dans la police ainsi que sur les biens immobiliers y appartenant.

"Nonobstant les articles 1994 et 2009 du Code civil, ce privilège prend rang après les taxes et cotisations municipales.

"Cette hypothèque en faveur de la compagnie existe sans enregistrement." S. R. Q., art. 7023.

"Chaque fois que des propriétés affectées par le privilège ou l'hypothèque de la compagnie, sont annoncées en vente par l'autorité judiciaire, le secrétaire-trésorier de la compagnie ou son assistant, produit au bureau du protonotaire de la cour Supérieure, ou à celui du greffier de la cour de Circuit, ou du curateur, suivant le cas, dans les six jours qui suivent la vente, une réclamation pour toutes les contributions dues et pour celles qui deviendront dues jusqu'à la fin de l'exercice alors courant, et la compagnie a le droit d'être colloquée pour le montant de cette réclamation, sur le produit de la vente, suivant le privilège et l'ordre établi par l'article 7023." Art. 7024.

21c. Compagnie incorporée.—"Nonobstant toutes dispositions à ce contraires, toute compagnie à fonds social constituée en corporation en vertu d'une loi de la législature de la province de Québec ou par lettres patentes, et toute telle compagnie ainsi constituée hors de cette province, si sa charte ou ses lettres patentes l'y autorisent, peuvent par acte authentique, hypothéquer, garantir ou mettre en gage,—pour garantir le paiement des obligations, débentures, debentures stock, que la loi les autorise à émettre,—leurs biens mobiliers ou immobiliers présents ou futurs qu'elles possèdent ou possèderont dans la province. 4 Geo. V, ch. 51, S. R. Q., art. 6119a.

"L'hypothèque, le nantissement ou le gage peuvent être constitués par acte de fidéicommis en faveur de tout fidéicommissaire, et cette garantie sera bonne et valable bien que le fidéicommissaire permette à celui qui accorde le nantissement ou le gage de conserver la possession et l'usage des biens ainsi nantis ou engagés," 4 Geo. V, ch. 51; S. R. Q., arts 6119 et s.

21d. Construction d'église.—"Le montant de toute cotisation imposée sur un immeuble pour défrayer les dépenses de construction ou de réparation d'une église ou d'une sacristie, d'un presbytère ou d'un cimetière, constitue la première obligation sur l'immeuble, et la première dette privilégiée qui engage et grève l'immeuble en question, sans qu'il y ait nécessité d'enregistrer l'acte de cotisation ou le jugement de confirmation en tout ou en partie, dans un bureau d'enregistrement." Art. 4349.

22. Corporation scolaire.—"Aucune corporation scolaire ne peut hypothéquer, vendre, échanger ou autrement aliéner ses biens ou emprunter sur iceux, sans en avoir obtenu l'autorisation du lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil, sur la recommandation du surintendant.

"Toute vente de propriété scolaire autorisée en vertu de cet article doit être faite à l'enchère par le secrétaire-trésorier, après avis public." S. R. Q., art. 2726.

23. Intérêts.—"Lorsqu'une somme principale ou un intérêt garanti hypothèque sur propriété foncière est stipulé, par l'acte d'hypothèque, payable d'après le système du fonds d'amortissement, ou d'après tout plan ou système qui comprend réduction d'intérêt sur des remboursements stipulés, aucun intérêt quelconque n'est exigible, payable ni recouvrable, sur aucune partie de la somme principale prêtée, à moins que l'acte d'hypothèque ne contienne une mention de la somme principale et du taux de l'intérêt, calculé annuellement ou semi-annuellement, exigible sur cette somme, mais non d'avance." S. R. C., ch. 120, art. 6.

"Lorsque le taux d'intérêt indiqué dans cette mention est moindre que celui qui serait exigible en vertu de quelque autre disposition, calcul ou stipulation de l'acte d'hypothèque, il n'est exigé, payé, ni recouvré aucun taux intérêt plus élevé, sur le capital prêté, que celui énoncé dans cette mention." Art. 7.

"Il ne peut être stipulé, retenu ni exigé, sur des arrérages de principal ou d'intérêt garantis par hypothèque sur propriété foncière, aucune amende, somme pénale ni taux d'interêt qui aurait l'effet d'élever les charges sur ces arrérages au-delà du taux d'intérêt payable sur le principal non arriéré; mais rien dans le présent article n'a l'effet de prohiber aucune convention pour le paiement d'intérêt, sur des arrérages d'intérêt ou de principal, à un taux ne dépassant pas le taux payable sur le principal non arriéré." Art. 8.

"S'il est payé quelque somme à compte d'un intérêt, d'une amende ou somme pénale qui ne sont pas exigibles, payables ni recouvrables en vertu des trois articles qui précèdent, cette somme peut être répétée ou déduite de tout autre intérêt, amende ou somme pénale exigibles, payables ou recouvrables sur le capital." Art. 9.

"Lorsqu'une somme principale ou un intérêt garanti par hypothèque sur propriété foncière n'est pas payable, d'après les termes de l'acte d'hypothèque, avant qu'il se soit écoulé plus de cinq ans à compter de la date de l'hypothèque, alors si à quelque moment après l'expiration de ces cinq ans, la personne tenue au remboursement de la somme prêtée ou ayant droit de purger l'hypothèque, offre ou paie à la personne qui a droit de recevoir l'argent, la somme due à titre de principal et l'intérêt jusqu'à l'époque du paiement calculé conformément aux quatre articles qui précèdent, en y ajoutant trois mois d'intérêt pour tenir lieu d'avis, nul autre intérêt n'est exigible, payable ni recouvrable en aucun temps ensuite sur le principal ni sur l'intérêt dû en vertu de l'acte d'hypothèque." Art. 10.

"Les dispositions des cinq articles qui précèdent ne s'appliquent qu'aux deniers garantis par hypothèque sur propriété foncière consentie après le premier jour de juillet de l'année mil huit cent quatre-vingt." Art. 11.

24. Navire.—"L'hypothèque enregistrée sur un navire peut être transférée à toute personne." (V. formule à l'article 50). S. R. C., ch. 13, art. 50.

"Si l'intérêt d'un créancier hypothécaire dans un navire enregistré en vertu de la présente partie, est transmis par suite de décès, de faillite, ou en conséquence du mariage d'une femme qui se trouve créancière hypothécaire, ou par un moyen légitime autre que par un transfert fait suivant les dispositions de la présente partie, cette transmission est authentiquée par une déclaration de la personne à laquelle cet intérêt a été transmis." Art. 51.

"Cette déclaration doit être suivant la formule G et indique de quelle manière et à quelle personne cette propriété a été transmise et est faite et souscrite, (a) en présence du régistrateur du port où ce navire a été enregistré en vertu de la présence partie, si le déclarant réside dans un rayon de cinq milles du bureau de douane de ce port; ou (b) s'il réside au-delà de cette distance, en la présence de tout régistrateur, percepteur des douanes ou juge de paix." Art. 52.

"Si cette transmission a eu lieu, (a) par suite de la faillite d'un créancier hypothécaire enregistré, la déclaration est accompagnée de la preuve alors admissible dans les cours de justice au sujet des droits des personnes qui font des réclamations dans des affaires de faillite; ou (b) par suite du mariage d'une créancière hypothécaire, la déclaration est accompagnée d'une copie de l'enregistrement de ce mariage ou d'autre preuve légale de sa célébration, et constate l'identité de la créancière hypothécaire; ou (c) à la suite d'un testament ou par intestat, alors, dans toute province du Canada autre que celle de Québec, la déclaration est accompagnée de la vérification du testament ou des lettres d'administration, ou d'un extrait officiel de ces pièces, et, dans la province de Québec, elle est accompagnée du testament ou d'une copie qui peut en servir de preuve d'après les lois de cette province, ou de tout autre document admissible dans les cours de cette province, en vertu des lois qui la régissent, comme preuve des droits de tout héritier ab intestat." Art. 53.

"Le registrateur, sur le reçu de la déclaration et sur la production de cette preuve, inscrit dans le registre le nom de la personne ou des personnes qui ont des droits en vertu de cette transmission, comme créanciers hypothécaires sur le navire à l'égard duquel cette transmission a lieu." Art. 54.

"Toutes les hypothèques non acquittées enregistrées conformément à la présente loi, sont, par le régistrateur qu'il appartient, transférées et enregistrées, conformément à ces lois, dans les registres, dans l'ordre et sui-vant la priorité dans lesquels ces hypothèques ont été enregistrées; et, le nom provisoire employé pour les fins de la présente partie ainsi que ci-haut prescrit, peut être changé lorsque le certificat d'enregistrement est délivré." Art. 56.

"L'enregistrement de toutes ces hypothèques doit être tel, selon la priorité dans le registre, que s'il avait été fait ou délivré conformément aux lois pourvoyant à l'émission de ces certificats d'enregistrement; et un titre-nouvel hypothèque dans toute forme prescrite par la loi, peut être délivré à cette fin à titre de substitut pour toute hypothèque consentie conformément à la présente partie." Art. 57.

25. Navire en construction.—"Tout constructeur qui désire obtenir des deniers au moyen d'une hypothèque sur un tel navire, en fournit une description complète à ce régistrateur, et lui remet une déclaration suivant la formule D, indiquant à quel port ce navire est destiné à être enregistré; et il doit désigner le navire dont la construction est projetée ou en voie de se faire sur une planche, près de l'endroit où se fait la construction dans son chantier, sur un fond noir, en lettres et chiffres blancs ou jaunes de quatre pouces de hauteur au moins, le numéro qui lui est donné à cette fin par le régistrateur, le nom provisoire du navire et le nom du port auquel il est destiné à être enregistré." Art. 40.

"Un navire dont la construction est projetée ou en voie de se faire et qui est ainsi enregistré peut être donné en garantie pour un emprunt ou autre valable considération.

"2. Le titre qui crée cette garantie, est suivant la formule E, ou aussi conforme à cette formule que les circonstances le permettent.

"3. Sur la procdution de ce titre, le régistrateur du port auquel le navire est enregistré l'inscrit dans un registre tenu par lui à cette fin." Art. 41.

"Toute telle hypothèque est enregistrée par le régistrateur qu'il appartient suivant l'ordre du temps dans lequel elle est produite à cette fin.

"2. Le régistrateur doit, par un mémoire sous son seing, inscrit sur le titre d'hypothèque, noter que cette hypothèque p été enregistrée par lui, et mentionner la date et l'heure de cet enregistrement." Art. 42.

"Lorsqu'une hypothèque enregistrée a été purgée, le régistrateur qu'il appartient, sur production du titre d'hypothèque, avec quittances des deniers au verso dûment signée et attestée, fait une inscription dans le livre d'enregistrement constatant que l'hypothèque a été purgée.

"2. Cette inscription faite, la propriété, s'il y en a, qui avait passé au créancier hypothécaire, est transférée à la personne ou aux personnes auxquelles elle avait appartenu, eu égard aux actes et circonstances, s'il en est, comme si aucune telle hypothèque n'avait été consentie." Art. 43.

"S'il est enregistré deux hypothèques ou plus sur le même navire, les créanciers hypothécaires, nonobstant tout avis explicite, implicite ou d'induction, ont droit, par rang de priorité, l'un sur l'autre, suivant la date de l'inscription de chaque titre dans les registres, et non pas suivant la date de chaque titre." Art. 44.

"Un créancier hypothécaire n'est pas, à raison de son hypothèque, censé être le propriétaire d'un navire, et le débiteur hypothécaire n'est pas censé avoir cessé d'être propriétaire de ce navire hypothéqué, excepté en tant que la chose est nécessaire pour rendre le navire disponible à titre de garantie donnée pour la dette hypothécaire," Art. 45.

"Tout créancier hypothécaire peut disposer d'une manière absolue du navire à l'égard duquel il est enregistré comme tel créancier hypothécaire et donner des quittances valables pour le prix d'achat." Art. 46.

"S'il y a plus d'une personne enregistrée comme créancier hypothécaire du même navire, aucun créancier hypothécaire subséquent, excepté en vertu de l'ordre d'une cour compétente à connaître de ces affaires, ne peut vendre le navire sans l'assentiment de tout créancier hypothécaire antérieur." Art. 47.

"Tout acte de vente, lorsqu'il a été régulièrement fait, est produit au régistrateur compétent, et celui-ci en inscrit les détails dans le registre et annote au verso de cet acte le fait que cette inscription a été faite, avec la date et l'heure auxquelles elle a été faite." Art. 48.

"Tous les actes de vente sont inscrits dans le registre suivant l'ordre dans lequel ils ont été produits au régistrateur fdes navires." Art. 49.

"Lorsque la construction d'un navire enregistré conformément à la présente partie est dûment terminée, le premier créancier hypothécaire dont la créance n'a pas été toute acquittée peut produire le certificat du constructeur de ce navire, et, sur cette production, le fonctionnaire qu'il appartient peut accorder un certificat d'enregistrement conformément aux lois à cette fin en vigueur en Canada." Art. 55.

25a. Protestants.—"Chaque fois que des terrains vendus, transportés ou légués par quelque personne ou corporation exemptée de la cotisation en vertu de l'article 4338, à quelque personne ou corporation professant la religion catholique romaine, et que ces terrains deviennent subséquemment sujets à cotisation en vertu de la présente section, l'hypothèque ou la charge à l'égard de cette cotisation, prend rang après le privilège de bailleur de fonds en faveur du vendeur, et après toute hypothèque ou tout privilège antérieur à la vente, au transport ou au legs." S. R. Q., 4382.

26. Terres des colons.—"Les terres publiques octroyées aux colons de bonne foi, sous forme de billet de location, permis d'occupation, certificat de vente, ou autres titres semblables, ou aux mêmes fins, en vertu du chapitre sixième du titre quatrième des présents Statuts refondus, relatif au département des Terres et Forêts, et aux matières qui en relèvent, ainsi qu'en vertu des arrêtés en conseil, et réglements faits en vertu du dit chapitre, ne peuvent, tant que les lettres patentes ne sont pas émises, être engagées ou hypothéquées, par jugement ou autrement, ni être saisies et exécutées, pour aucune dette quelconque, à moins que ce ne soit pour le prix de telle terre, pour le paiement des taxes municipales et scolaires, frais de voirie, et répartitions pour constructions d'églises, presbytères et cimetières, et ce, nonobstant les articles 1980 et 1981 du Code civil, et les articles 613 et 614 du Code de procédure civile.

"Toutefois, ce droit d'exemption de la saisie et exécution, ne doit pas s'étendre à plus de cinq ans de la date du billet de location, du permis d'occupation, du certificat de vente ou autre titre semblable, comme susdit." S. R. Q., art. 2091; S. R. Q., compl. vol. 3, p. 111.

JURISPRUDENCE

27. Acceptation.—Pour la validité d'une obligation et d'une constitution d'hypothèque pour sûreté du paiement d'icelle, il n'est pas nécessaire que le créancier soit présent à l'acte, ni qu'icelui soit accepté, soit par lui ou en son nom. B. R., 1856, Montréal, Ryan vs Halpin, 6 D. T. B. C., 61; 5 R. J. R. Q., 6; 12 R. J. R. Q., 203.

28. Améliorations. — Le propriétaire d'une bâtisse ou autres améliorations faites sur le terrain d'autrui peut, par l'enregistrement, acquérir une hypothèque sur ces améliorations, parce que ces améliorations sont immeubles. C. R., 1885, Montréal, Prud'homme vs Scott et al., 30 J., 156; M. L. R., 2 C. S., 63; 9 L. N., 67; 16 R. L., 539.

29. Il n'y a rien d'illégal pour un créancier hypothécaire à payer les améliorations faites sur une propriété, dans le but de protéger son hypothèque, même si celui à qui il les paye est insolvable, vu qu'il n'y a pas de fraude pour un débiteur à payer son créancier insolvable. C. S., 1900, Beauce, Nadeau vs Roseberry et al., R. J. Q., 18 C. S., 542.

30. Assurance.—The alienation, by the debtor, of an immovable affected by the (unregistered) hypothec of a mutual insurance company, does not purge such hypothec, which attaches to the land until full payment of the premium notes. And such hypothec also covers the costs of a personal judgment obtained against the debtor for the amount of such premium notes. Q. B., 1885, Quebec, Charest vs Stanstead and Sherbrooke Mutual Fire Insurance Co., 12 Q. L. R., 254.

31. Un créancier hypothécaire, à qui une police d'assurance est transportée pour assurer le paiement de sa créance, et qui, après l'incendie de la maison hypothéquée, reçoit de la compagnie d'assurance un chèque en paiement de cette assurance, et après l'avoir endossé, le remet à son débiteur, qui en touche l'argent et l'emploie à rebâtir, perd son hypothèque sur l'immeuble ainsi rebâti.

32. Il ne devient qu'un créancier chirographaire, la réception du montant de l'assurance ayant l'effet d'éteindre la créance hypothécaire. B. R., 1888, Montréal, Seybold et al. vs Garceau et al., 16 R. L., 676; 31 J., 159; 32 J., 316.

33. Un créancier hypothécaire, envers lequel son débiteur s'est engagé à faire assurer les constructions érigées sur l'immeuble hypothéqué, ne sera pas autorisé à retirer le montant de la police d'assurance devenu dû à la suite d'un incendie, de préférence à celui à l'ordre duquel la police a été faite, et qui a, contre le même débiteur, une créance de vendeur garantie par première hypothèque, et une créance chirographaire dont le montant, ajouté à celui de l'hypothèque, est supérieur à celui de la police d'assurance. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Davies vs Valiquette et al., 4 R. P. Q., 106.

34. Les compagnies d'assurance mutuelle ont sur les propriétés immobilières qui sont mentionnées dans la police une hypothèque légale qui n'a d'effet que depuis la date du billet de dépôt de l'assuré.

35. Ainsi une créance hypothécaire enregistrée dans le mois de novembre 1908 primera l'hypothèque légale créée en vertu d'un billet de dépôt daté en janvier 1909. C. S., 1910, St-Hyacinthe, La Compagnie d'assurance mutuelle du commerce contre l'incendie vs Tucker, 12 R. P. Q., 22.

36. Le billet de dépôt souscrit pour une compagnie d'assurance mutuelle contre le feu, en vertu de l'article 7009 S. R. Q., 1909, bien qu'il soit essentiel à la formation du contrat, n'est pas le titre constitutif de l'hypothèque légale de l'article 7023. Il faut, en outre, l'émission de la police contenant la description des biens, assurés, et frappés, en conséquence, de l'hypothèque, le règlement de cotisation de l'article 7011, ou la fixation de quote-part de l'article 7017, et les autres formalités dont le certificat du secrétaire-trésorier fait foi, d'après l'article 7021. Par suite, la seule production du billet de dépôt, dans une action en déclaration d'hypothèque contre l'assuré, ne suffit pas pour en faire accorder les conclusions. C. S., 1911, Arthabaska, Clément vs Dodier, R. J. Q., 41 C. S., 289.

37. Avances futures.—A hypothec for advances contemplated, but which the creditor is not bound to make, nor the debtor to receive, is not valid for advances made in pursuance of such an agreement as against a sale duly registered, before the making of the advances. C. R., 1879, Quebec, Desilets vs Martel, 5 Q. L. R., 125.

38. A hypothec given for a credit opened in favor of the mortgagor takes effect from the time it is granted and not from the time the advance is actually made. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Quintal et al. vs Lefebvre, and Trudeau, and Société de Construction Montarville, 3 L. N., 347.

39. La convention qu'une hypothèque consentie pour une dette existante, subsistera tant que le débiteur devra au créancier pour des avances subséquentes, et les paiements qui seront faits seront imputés sur celles-ci, même si les parties ne s'en expliquent pas alors, est valable et empêche la remise au débiteur des billets consentis pour le montant de l'obligation de valoir comme acquit de celle-ci, tant que des avances subséquentes faites, avant et au moment même de la remise des billets, n'ont pas été soldés. C. R., 1886, Québec, McCall et al. vs Pouliot, 12 R. J. Q., 10.

40. Bailleur de fonds.—Dans une vente de meubles et d'immeubles pour un seul prix en bloc, les meubles valant environ $200, et les immeubles $1,500, les meubles ne seront considérés que comme des accessoires de la vente et l'hypothèque, qui résultera de l'enregistrement de l'acte, couvrira tout le prix de vente. C. S., 1894, Kamouraska, Pelletier vs Riou, 2 R. J., 346.

41. Any undertakings or warranties or servitudes pretended to be made by a purchaser of land cannot effect the antecedent registered hypothecary rights of his vendor, which rights, in so far as they remained undischarged by payment. C. R., 1899, Montreal, Thompson vs Stevenson et al., Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 218.

42. Bien que l'acte de vente ou de donation ne contienne pas la stipulation d'une garantie hypothécaire, l'immeuble donné ou vendu demeure grevé de l'hypothèque privilégiée de bailleur de fonds pour les charges appréciables en argent stipulée dans l'acte de donation, ou pour ce qui reste dû sur le prix de vente.

43. Cette hypothèque existe, soit en faveur du vendeur ou donateur, soit en faveur des tiers, à qui il est stipulé dans l'acte de donation ou de vente, que les charges de la donation ou le prix de vente sont dus. C. S., 1901, Sherbrooke, Canadian General Electric Co. vs Shipton Electric Light and Power Co., et Reed, et Gibson et al., et The Jenckes Machine Co., R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 83.

44. Bâtiments marchands.—The advancer of money to build a ship, being not simply a privilege creditor but a transferee of the vessel, is entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the vessel, in preference to the workmen employed in building and completing her, and article 2383, section 8, of the civil Code cannot be constructed to postpone his claim to others, notwithstanding that the vessel has not yet made a voyage. C. R., 1869, Quebec, Germain vs Gingras and Jane, 1 Q. L. R., 349.

45. Cession de préséance.—Une personne qui consent à ce qu'un immeuble qui lui est déjà hypothéqué soit hypothéqué en faveur d'un autre, sera censée avoir consenti à céder son rang d'hypothèque en faveur du créancier hypothécaire subséquent. B. R.,

1867, Québec, Symes vs McDonald, et Robertson et Symes, 9 D. B. T. C., 182; 17 D. T. B. C., 458; 7 R. J. R. Q., 156; 16 R. J. R. Q., 380.

46. Communauté.—The claim of the children of a deceased consort to her half of the property of the community which existed between her and her husband, though unregistered, cannot be affected by a mortgage given by the husband subsequent to the dissolution of the community though duly registered. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Dallaire vs Gravel, 22 J., 286; 2 L. N., 13, 15.

47. Compagnie incorporée.—Under the Joint Stock Companies Act of the province of Quebec, the directors may contract an hypothec which will be binding on the company, if made in the interest of the company.

48. A director of the company who accepts such hypothec, to secure endorsations made by himself and other directors, cannot afterwards, in good faith, question the legal right of the directors to authorize the granting of such hypothec. S. C., 1899, Sweetsburg, Savaria vs Paquette. Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 314. (Aff. by the C. R., the 30th October, 1901.)

49. A general hypothec given by a company on its present and future property is null, and where special authority is conferred on a company by its charter to give such hypothec in favor of its creditors, or of the holders of bonds, debentures and other securities, such special authority does not enable the company to give a valid general hypothec on present and future property in favor of a municipal corporation which has become surety for the debentures of the company.

50. In any event, the guarantee of the corporation, under the by-law in this case, was only to pay over two thirds of the revenues collected, and as no revenues had been collected the action could not be maintained.

51. The warranty being invalid, even innocent holders of the debentures issued have no action against the warrantor (the municipal corporation). K. B., 1901, Montreal, Corporation de la Pointe Gatineau vs Hanson, Q. J. R., 10 K. B., 346.

52. Construction sur terrain d'autrui.—Quoique le propriétaire des bâtisses ne soit pas celui du fonds sur lequel elles sont assises, elles n'en conservent pas moins leur qualité d'immeubles tant qu'elles ne sont pas démolies et elles continuent à être assujetties aux hypothèques dont elles ont été affectées quand elles ne formaient avec le fonds qu'une seule et même propriété. C. R., 1879, Québec, Chaloult vs Bégin, 5 R. J. Q., 119; 16 R. L., 539.

53. Coupe de bois.—Le droit accordé par une licence ou permis de coupe de bois, sur les terres de la Couronne, en vertu des S. R. C., ch. 23, sect. 1 et s., aujourd'hui Statuts Refondus de Québec, art. 1309 et s., est un droit immobilier, susceptible d'être hypothéqué, sous réserve des clauses résolutoires contenues au permis.

54. Les titres émanant directement de la Couronne, et spécialement les permis de coupe de bois employés par le commissaire des terres de la Couronne, en vertu des statuts ci-dessus cités, ne sont pas soumis à la formalité de l'enregistrement. C. S., 1891, Joliette, Mignê vs Kelly et Banque d'Hochelaga, 35 J., 144.

55. Description d'immeuble.—The designation of the centerminous lands (tenants et aboutissants) required by article 2042 of the civil Code is not à peine de nullité, but is required only so that third parties may have a perfect knowledge of the land hypothecated; and provided that the land be sufficiently indicated, a mention of its boundaries is not absolutely necessary. C. R., 1876, Quebec, Frizzell vs Hall and Hall vs Mairs, 2 Q. L. R., 373.

56. L'hypothèque sur un terrain, décrit par ses tenants et aboutissants, est une hypothèque d'un corps certain, quoique la contenance donnée soit moindre que celle qui existe véritablement; et l'hypothèque grève le terrain dans sa totalité. B. R., 1853, Montréal, Labadie vs Truteau, 3 D. T. B. C., 155; 3 R. J. R. Q., 476.

57. L'hypothèque conventionnelle n'est valable qu'en autant que l'acte désigne spécialement les immeubles hypothéqués.

58. Une hypothèque consentie sur des biens désignés comme étant les nos 337, 344 et 345 du comté de Chambly, au lieu de la paroisse de St-Joseph de Chambly, est irrégulière et nulle, vu qu'elle tend à créer des droits sur des biens qui n'existent pas réellement.

59. Un avis donné au régistrateur par le créancier d'une hypothèque lui intimant qu'aux termes de l'article 2168 C. c., les biens affectés en vertu de l'acte constitutif de l'hypothèque sont les nos 337, 344 et 345, de la paroisse St-Joseph de Chambly, ne peut, sans le concours du débiteur à cet avis, avoir pour effet de valider telle hypothèque.

60. Une action en radiation de l'enregistrement d'un tel avis sera maintenue en faveur de celui qui a acquis et possède les terrains en question. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Mullarky vs Montreal Loan and Mortgage Co. and Mullarky, 2 R. J., 253.

61. La désignation de l'immeuble hypothéqué est suffisante si le créancier n'a pas pu être induit en erreur par telle désignation. C. R., 1899, Québec, Garand vs Gagnon, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 145.

62. Dettes de succession.—La disposition d'un testament conçue comme suit: "Si les dettes hypothécaires et autres de ma succession et celles de mon épouse décédée n'étaient pas toutes payées lors de mon décès, alors mes légataires résiduaires, de même que mes légataires particuliers ne pourront pas partager, ni jouir des legs que je leur fais, ni en prendre possession, qu'après que toutes les dites dettes auront été payées," suspend simplement la jouissance et la possession, mais non pas le droit de propriété.

63. Même lorsqus le droit de propriétaire est suspendu, cela ne l'empêche pas d'hypothéquer telle propriété. C. S., 1899, Québec, Haurel et al. vs Proteau et al., R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 619.

64. Donation entrevifs.—An obligation by the donee to pay certain promissory notes due by the donor, but without a statement of the amount, cannot be treated as an "obligation appreciable in money," conferring on the holder of the notes any hypothec upon the immovables given. S. C., 1895, Quebec, Joseph et al. vs Croteau et al., and Budden, Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 176.

65. L'hypothèque qu'a le donateur pour garantie des charges de la donation, ne s'éteint pas par confusion, lorsqu'il reprend les biens donnés à la suite d'un jugement de résiliation, si le donataire les a grevés d'autres hypothèques pendant qu'il les possédait, et s'il y a péril d'éviction par les créanciers. C. S., 1911, Richelieu, Lebrun vs Sévigny et Sévigny, R. J. Q., 41 C. S., 140.

66. Donation par contrat de mariage. La clause dans un contrat de mariage par laquelle le futur époux donne à sa future épouse une somme d'argent pour par elle en jouir sa vie durante, et après son décès être partagée entre les enfants de leur futur mariage, crée une hypothèque sur les propriétés du futur époux qui donne aux enfants nés du dit mariage une préférence sur les créanciers subséquents de leur père; nonobstant une clause au contrat à l'effet que la donation était faite à la condition absolue que le futur époux aurait le droit de disposer, sans empêchement de la part de sa future épouse, d'aucune propriété sur laquelle elle pourrait avoir une hypothèque en raison de la dite clause, ou de l'aliéner ou de la vendre.

67. Les hypothèques générales créées avant la passation de l'Ordonnance des enregistrements, 4 Vict., ch. 30, affectent les propriétés acquises par le débiteur subséquemment à la passation de la dite Ordonnance. B. R., 1862, Québec, Brown vs Oakman et al., 13 D. T. B. C., 342; 11 R. J. R. Q., 367.

68. Endossement.—The cashier of a bank, who has endorsed notes for a customer of the bank, may, if in good faith, take a hypothec on the debtor's property to protect himself on the endorsements. Q. B., 1880, Montreal, Thibaudeau et al. vs Beaudoin, 3 L. N., 306.

69. Exécuteur testamentaire.—On the contestation of a report of collocation of moneys arising from the sale of immoveables belonging to the executor of a will, where the contestant claimed under the will of which the defendant was appointed executor, it was held that a hypothec on the property of an executor does not date from the registration of the will, but from the registration of an authentic acte showing his acceptance of the executorship. S. C., 1852, Montreal, David vs Hays and Hays et al., 3 L. C. R., 440; 14 R. J. R. Q., 99.

70. A hypothec on the property of an executor does not date from the registration of the will, but from the registration of an authentic acte showing his acceptance of the executorship. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Lamothe vs Hutchins and Herbert and Trust and Loan Co., and Ross et al., 9 L. C. R., 7.

71. On the contestation of an opposition afin de conserver, filed on a special mortgage granted by the defendant in favor of the opposants and duly registered: No hypothec attaches to the property of an executor in consequence of the registration of the will, under which he was appointed. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Lamothe vs Ross and Ross et al., 2 J., 278.

72. Forme.—A notarial act executed en brevet does not create a mortgage. K. B., 1810, Quebec, Belair vs Gauvreau and Wife, Pyke's Rep., 57; 1 R. de L., 508; 1 R. J. R. Q., 88, 505.

73. Pour constituer une hypothèque, il n'y a pas de termes sacramentels, il suffit que l'immeuble soit désigné dans l'acte et qu'il soit affecté pour somme fixe. B. R., 1880, Montréal, Caya vs The Trust and Loan Co. of Canada, 1 D. C. A., 10.

74. L'hypothèque conventionnelle stipulée au contrat de mariage sans désignation des biens du mari est absolument nulle.

75. L'enregistrement subséquent d'un avis au régistrateur désignant certains immeubles comme étant affectés par l'hypothèque stipulée en le dit contrat de mariage ne valide pas la dite hypothèque et n'en crée pas une nouvelle sur les dits immeubles. C. S., 1891, Saguenay, Perrault vs Caron et Dlle Gagnon, 14 L. N., 129.

76. Nonobstant l'article 2040 qui exige la forme authentique des actes constitutifs d'hypothèque conventionnelle, le mandat en vertu duquel une telle hypothèque peut être consentie n'est sujet à aucune forme particulière. C. Supr., 1896, Québec, Société de Prêts et Placements vs Lachance, R. J. Q., 5 B. R., 11; 19 L. N., 150; 26 R. C. Supr., 200.

77. Sous l'article 2040 C. c., l'hypothèque conventionnelle ne peut être consentie que par un acte en forme authentique. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Léveillé vs Kauntz et al., 8 R. J., 256.

78. Fraude et insolvabilité.—Dans le cas de fraude de la part du débiteur, résultant du changement de l'un de ses prénoms dans un acte translatif de propriété subséquent à son obligation créative d'une hypothèque, la perte de la créance hypothécaire, quoique enregistrée, doit retomber sur le créancier et non pas sur le tiers-détenteur qui ne doit pas être la victime de cette fraude.

79. L'obtention d'une sentence en ratification de ce titre translatif de propriété, sans aucune opposition de la part du créancier hypothécaire, ne saurait détruire le droit d'action déjà acquis et en exercice, vu que le tiers-détenteur avait une connaissance suffisante de cette hypothèque avant cette demande en ratification de titre. B. R., 1849, Lafleur vs Donegani et al., 7 J., 102; 12 R. J. R. Q., 70.

80. Une personne peut être insolvable sans être en état de "banqueroute" d'après la signification du mot "banqueroute" tel qu'employé dans la 18e section de l'Ordonnance des enregistrements, 4 Vict., ch. 30 (S. R. B. C., ch. 37, sect. 7, p. 345), les mots banqueroute et insolvabilité n'étant pas en loi synonymes; et en conséquence, sous les dispositions de l'Ordonnance des enregistrements, l'enregistrement d'une hypothèque ne serait pas considéré inefficace en raison de son enregistrement dans les dix jours avant l'insolvabilité du débiteur. B. R., 1863, Québec, Anderson et al. vs Généreux, 13 D. T. B. C., 374; 11 R. J. R. Q., 407; 17 R. J. R. Q., 184; 547; 18 R. J. R. Q., 55, 541.

81. L'hypothèque acquise sur les biens d'un individu non-négociant en état de déconfiture, est valable en loi s'il n'y a fraude. C. R., 1877, Montréal, McConnell vs Dizon et Browne et Foulds et al., 11 J., 300; 4 L. C. L. J., 42; 17 R. J. R. Q., 182, 547.

82. No hypothec can be acquired on the property of persons notoriously insolvent. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Duncan vs Wilson and McLennan, 2 J., 253; 7 R. J. R. Q., 20, 21; 18 R. J. R. Q., 52, 552.—Q. B., 1874, Montreal, La Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Ogilvie et al., 19 J.,100; 3 R. C.,85; 18 R. J. R. Q.,469,552.—S. C., 1885, Sherbrooke, Banque Nationale vs Eastern Townships Bank, 8 L. N., 219.—Q. B., 1885, Montreal, Rouillard vs Lapierre, 29 J., 257; 4 L. C. R., 286.

83. The registration of a hypothec within thirty days previous to an assignment under the Insolvent Act, 1875, is without effect, and especially when the hypothec was granted by the debtor while insolvent to the knowledge of the creditor receiving such hypothec. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Dwyer vs Fabre and McCarron, 24 J., 174.—Q. B., 1880, Montreal, McGauvran et al. vs Stewart, 3 L. N., 323;—Q. B., 1885, Montreal, Rouillard vs Lapierre, 29 J., 257; 4 L. C. R., 286.

84. A hypothec will not be set aside on the ground that the debtor was insolvent at the time it was granted, unless it appear that such insolvency was notorious, or that there was fraudulent collusion between the parties. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Meunier and Prevost et al., and Banque d'Hochelaga, 4 L. N., 213.

85. L'annulation d'une vente ou donation d'un immeuble pour cause de fraude, n'atteint pas l'hypothèque consentie à un tiers de bonne foi, lorsque l'emprunteur possède le dit immeuble en vertu de titres parfaits à leur face et n'indiquant aucun signe apparent de nullité. B. R., 1883, Montréal, Normandin vs Normandin et Arnois, et Religieuses Carmélites d'Hochelaga, 3 D. C. A., 329.

86. Un commerçant insolvable ne peut valablement accorder d'hypothèque sur ses biens, au détriment de ses créanciers en général, quand même celui en faveur de qui l'hypothèque est donnée ignorerait l'insolvabilité du débiteur. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Stevenson, ès-qual., vs Lallemand et al., M. L. R., 6 C. S., 305; 13 L. N., 283.

87. Where the circumstances disclose that the hypothec sought to be set aside was granted merely to take the place of an ample security previously held by the mortgagee, and that the hypothec was obtained by him in good faith, without apparent profit, solely to help his debtor and in ignorance of his insolvency (even assuming that a state of insolvency existed at the time), the right of the creditor to be collocated for the amount of his hypothec should be maintained. C. R., 1893, Montreal, Lefebvre vs Lamontagne and Seath, Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 158.

88. Le demandeur ne peut de plano demander l'annulation d'une hypothèque judiciaire sur l'immeuble d'un débiteur notoirement insolvable, sans établir préjudice, et ce préjudice doit être établi par la saisie, et vente de l'immeuble hypothéqué. C. C., 1897, Saguenay, Bourassa vs Labbé et Boily, 5 R. J., 46.

89. Garantie.—Lorsqu'une partie s'engage vis-à-vis plusieurs héritiers à payer une hypothèque sur un immeuble de manière à ce que les vendeurs n'en soient jamais troublés, et que l'acheteur vend cet immeuble,ce dernier acquéreur ne peut être poursuivi personnellement par un des héritiers qui est devenu propriétaire d'un autre immeuble de la succession sur lequel la même hypothèque existait, pour l'obliger à payer cette hypothèque. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Vincelette vs Lavoie et al., ès-qual., 34 J., 196.

90. Where the person who accepts an hypothec to secure the payment of certain debts, does not bind himself personally, there is no obligation on his part which renders him liable in case the debtor does not pay. S. C., 1899, Sweetsburg, Savaria vs Paquette. Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 314; 6 R. J., 268. (Conf. par la C. R., le 30 octobre 1901.)

91. The assignment of an hypothecary claim as the consideration for the assignees' discounting the note of a third party for the benefit of the assignor, creates no indebtedness by the latter to the assignee. K. B., 1907, Montreal, Buchanan vs Napier et al., Q. J. R., 16 K. B., 347.

92. Le créancier d'une obligation n'a aucun recours personnel contre celui qui s'est porté partie à l'acte, uniquement pour hypothéquer un immeuble jusqu'à concurrence d'une somme déterminée, comme sûreté pour autant de la dette principale. Il ne peut agir qu'en déclaration d'hypothèque contre le détenteur de l'immeuble que ce soit celui qui a consenti l'hypothèque, ou un acquéreur-subséquent. C. R., 1911, Québec, Bégin vs Chainé R. J. Q., 40 C. S., 495.

93. Le vendeur d'un immeuble dont le prix est garanti, pour partie, par une hypothèque sur un autre immeuble de l'acheteur, qui consent à libérer celui-ci en reprenant l'immeuble vendu, ne peut valablement stipuler, dans l'acte de rétrocession, qu'il retient l'hypothèque accessoire à titre de dommages, que si l'immeuble qui en avait été frappé est encore la propriété de l'acheteur.

94. Par suite, dans une action en déclaration d'hypothèque contre un tiers détenteur de cet immeuble, il est tenu d'établir ce fait, l'extinction de la dette principale créée par la vente ayant éteint, du même coup, l'hypothèque accessoire, la preuve que celle-ci a été renouvelée par la stipulation de réserve dans la rétrocession, fait défaut. B. R., 1911, Québec, Marcoux vs Guay, R. J. Q., 21 B. R., 162.

95. Hypothèque générale.—A general mortgage or hypothèque does not affect lands held in free and common soccage. K. B., 1830, Quebec, Paterson vs McCallum, S. R. C., 429.

96. An ordinary lease not registered does not produce a general mortgage notwithstanding 4 Vict., ch. 30, sect. 17, and in virtue of sections 1 and 28 of the same Act, which prescribes that the mortgage must be special and must be registered, and of the 29th section, which enumerates the general mortgages that will continue to subsist and must be registered. S. C., 1857, Quebec, Hillier vs Bentley and Primrose et al., 7 L. C. R., 241.

97. L'hypothèque générale existante sous l'ancien régime hypothécaire en Bas-Canada et acquise avant la mise en force de la 4 Vict., ch. 30, et enregistrée avant aucune inscription prise par le tiers-détenteur, est valable. C. C., 1859, Richelieu, Mogé vs Dupré, 3 J., 133.

98. Immeuble par destination. — A mortgagee of an immovable on which was placed certain machinery which had become immeuble par destination, cannot attach said machinery by saisie en revendication in the nature of a saisie-conservatoire, in the hands of the defendant who has purchased the same in good faith. S. C., 1889, St. Francis, Flannigan vs Fee et al., 13 L. N., 98.

99. The machinery and plant of a system of electric light placed in such building become part of it and are subject to the same hypothec. S. C., 1901, Bedford, Van Nienvenhuyse vs Town of Farnham and Stadacona Water, Light and Power Co., 8 R. J., 46.

100. Le créancier hypothécaire a le droit d'être payé de préférence aux créanciers chirographaires, suivant l'ordre de son hypothèque, sur le prix d'objets mobiliers, immeubles par destination et hypothéqués comme tels, vendus judiciairement comme meubles séparément du fonds, auquel ils sont attachés, sujet à son hypothèque. C. S., 1902, Sherbrooke, McCaskill vs The Richmond Industrial Co., et La Corporation de la ville de Richmond et McCaskill. R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 331. (Conf. par la C. R., le 20 mai 1903.)

101. Imputation. — Une hypothèque garantissant le paiement d'une dette ancienne ne peut pas, au détriment des créancier intermédiaires, être appliquée au paiement d'une autre dette distincte plus récente. C. S., 1881, Québec, Dorval vs Bourassa, 8 R. J. Q., 218.

102. Intérêts.—The hypothec also covers interest and the costs of a personal judgment against the debtor, such interest and costs being accessories of the debt. S. C., 1903, Montreal, The School Commissioners for the Municipality of Westmount vs Petts et vir, Q. J. R., 24 S. C., 7; 10 R. L., n. s., 42.

103. Interprétation.—In certain circumstances the hypothecation of a property is tantamount to an alienation thereof and under article 1092 c. C. would give the creditor the right to demand the immediate return of his money, as being in diminishment of his security. C. R., 1912, Montreal, Frank vs Forman, 13 Q. P. R., 293.

104. Legs.—Le droit au legs n'est pas accompagné d'hypothèque sur les biens immeubles légués, lorsque le testateur ne l'a pas assuré par hypothèque aux termes de l'article 880 C. c. C. R., 1905, Québec, Guérette vs Ouellet et Ouellet, 11 R. J., 437.

105. Locataire.—A valid and legal hypothec may be created by a lessee on a building erected by him on the leased property. S. C., 1901, Bedford, Van Nienvenhuyse vs Town of Farnham and Stadacona Water, Light and Power Co., 8 R. J., 46.

106. Mandat.—Une hypothèque conventionnelle sur des immeubles autres que ceux mentionnés en l'article 2041 du C. c., peut être constituée par mandataire non muni d'un mandat authentique; il peut n'être même qu'oral, et alors la preuve peut s'en faire par présomption. B. R., 1896, Kamouraska et Québec, Damien et al. vs Société de Prêts et Placements de Québec, et Lachance, 3 R. J., 32.

107. Mari et femme.—Par les dispositions de la 29e clause du chapitre 30 de la 4e Vict., aucune hypothèque légale ou tacite ne subsiste sur les propriétés du mari pour le remploi des propres de la femme aliénés durant le mariage. S. R. B. C., ch. 37, sect. 51. C. S., 1864, Montréal, Armstrong vs Rolston et Dufresnay et The Trust and Loan Co. of Upper Canada, 9 J., 16; 13 R. J. R. Q., 491; 14 R. J. R. Q., 164.

108. Par suite de la stipulation d'une hypothèque spéciale jusqu'à concurrence d'une somme fixe et certaine, consentie par le mari à son épouse pour ses droits mentionnés dans leur contrat de mariage qui a été enregistré; elle ne peut réclamer hypothécairement au-delà de telle somme ainsi stipulée. C. S., 1864, Montréal, Demers vs Larocque, 8 J., 178; 13 R. J. R. Q., 351.

109. L'hypothèque légale de la femme séparée de biens, pour le montant d'un legs particulier dû en vertu du testament de son père décédé avant son mariage célébré sans contrat, ne prime point les créanciers subséquents qui ont enregistré leur titre, faute d'enregistrement de sa part.

110. La réception du montant de ce legs par le mari durant le mariage et après avoir constitué une hypothèque en faveur des opposants pour une rente foncière sur ses immeubles, ne donne à la femme aucune réclamation hypothécaire antérieure aux créanciers de cette rente foncière.

111. Par le fait de la femme d'avoir fait vendre les biens de son mari à la charge de cette rente foncière, il s'ensuit qu'elle a reconnu la validité de cette réclamation hypothécaire. C. R., 1865, Montréal, Beaugrand dit Champagne vs Lavallée et Trigge et al., 9 J., 61, 215; 15 D. T. B. C., 479; 1 L. C. L. J., 26; 14 R. J. R. Q., 96.

112. A husband may execute a valid hypothec in favor of his wife on his immoveable property, in lieu of a hypothec which she had by her contract of marriage, to secure a sum of money brought by her at her marriage and reserved as propre by her in the marriage contract. Q. B., 1880, Montreal, Hogue vs Dupuy, and Cousineau, and La Société de Construction Montarville, 23 J., 276; 2 L. N., 308; 3 L. N., 329.

113. Une femme mariée, séparée de biens, peut, avec l'autorité du juge, accepter une obligation et une hypothèque consentie par son mari. C. Supr., 1880, Montréal, La Banque de Toronto vs Perkins, 9 R.L., 562; 1 D.C.A., 357; 2 L. N., 252; 8 R. C. Supr., 603.

114. La femme n'a pas d'hypothèque légale et générale, en vertu de la loi pour assurer un douaire préfix et l'hypothèque spéciale, créée par le contrat de mariage pour assurer le douaire préfix, et qui est éteinte par la vente judiciaire de l'immeuble hypothéqué, ne peut être renouvelée par l'enregistrement de nouveau du contrat de mariage, lorsque cet immeuble est devenu de nouveau la propriété du mari. C. S., 1884, Montréal, Prévost et al. vs Bourque, ès-qual., 13 R. L., 57.

115. L'hypothèque légale que la loi accorde à la femme ne peut s'appliquer à la donation d'une rente viagère à elle faite, en cas de survie, par le mari dans le contrat de mariage; et une hypothèque générale accordée par le mari, pour garantir le paiement de cette rente est sans effet, ainsi que l'enregistrement de cette hypothèque sur des immeubles laissés par le mari. B. R., 1889, Montréal, Davignon vs Roy, 18 R. L., 546; 34 J., 233.

116. La donation par contrat de mariage est une donation conditionnelle qui n'a son effet que par le mariage; partant, la disposition de l'article 2029, qui accorde à la femme une hypothèque légale pour toute réclamation et demande qu'elle peut avoir contre son mari, à raison de ce qu'elle a pu recevoir ou acquérir pendant le mariage, par succession, héritage ou donation, s'applique à une donation faite par le contrat de mariage. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Théoret vs Paquin et Racine et al., R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 305.

117. Meuble. — Chattel mortgages are not recognized in this province; moveables are not susceptible of hypothecation except as provided under article 2022, c. C.

118. The pretended sale in question in this case is but a chattel mortgage; it is an absolute nullity, and gives defendant no title whatever to the goods which were intended to be transferred merely as security for a loan, but always remained in the possession of Lewis. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Esplin, ès-qual., vs Campbell et al., 6 R. J., 81.

119. The laws of this province do not permit chattel mortgages, and, in a prominent degree, refuse recognition of subterfuges whereby a creditor may secure advantages at the expense of his fellow-creditors. S. C. 1902, Montreal, Goyer vs Boisvert et al., Q. J. R., 21 S. C., 502.

120. Mineur.—L'hypothèque légale acquise au mineur sur les biens de son tuteur, en vertu de l'enregistrement de la tutelle, et de l'avis spécialemsnt la dite hypothèque, ne fait que garantir généralement l'administration du tuteur pendant la tutelle; et cette hypothèque n'a d'effet sur les biens du tuteur que pour le reliquat du compte qui sera constaté au profit de ce mineur lors de la reddition de compte du tuteur.

121. Si le bien du tuteur est vendu judiciairement pendant la tutelle, un tuteur ad hoc ne peut demander, par opposition, la collocation, en vertu de cet enregistrement, pour une somme spéciale appartenant au mineur, et dont le tuteur a eu l'administration comme tel; et le jugement de distribution ne pourrait colloquer ce tuteur ad hoc pour cette somme purement et simplement, mais la seule demande que pouvait faire le tuteur ad hoc, devait être à l'effet que les créanciers subséquents fussent colloqués, à la charge de donner caution de rapporter, lors de la reddition de compte final du tuteur, si un reliquat au profit du mineur était alors constaté. C. S., 1874, St-Jean, Jones vs Piédalu et al., 5 R. L., 354.

122. Montant déterminé.—La partie qui veut acquérir une hypothèque doit spécifier dans l'acte la somme de deniers dont se trouvera grevé l'immeuble. C. S., 1854, Montréal, Cazelais vs Ramsay, 1 M. C. R., 41.

123. Le montant d'une hypothèque est suffisamment décrit s'il peut s'inférer des faits contenus dans l'acte. Ainsi, s'il y paraît que le prix originaire de vente était de 4,700 livres et que 3,000 livres ont été payées comptant, l'hypothèque stipulée sera nécessairement de 1,700 livres. C. R., 1866, Montréal, Prévost vs Poirier, 2 L. C. L. J., 40.

124. L'hypothèque conventionnelle n'est valable qu'en autant que la somme pour laquelle elle est consentie est certaine et déterminée par un acte.

125. Les intérêts à écheoir ne constituent pas une créance certaine et déterminée, et le fait d'avoir déclaré, dans un acte, que les intérêts seront capitalisés ne change pas la nature de ces intérêts relativement à la nécessité de l'enregistrement vis-à-vis des tiers. B. R., 1889, Montréal, Dame Foisy dit Frenière et al. vs Germain et al., 18 R. L., 558, 577; 34 J., 248.

125a. An obligation by the donee to pay certain promissory notes due by the donor, but without a statement of the amount, cannot be treated as an "obligation appreciable in money," conferring on the holder of the notes any hypothec upon the immovables given. The registration of a deed of donation does not operate as an acceptance of a delegation of payment in favor of a creditor named therein. S. C., 1895, Quebec, Joseph et al. vs Croteau et al. and Budden et al., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 176.

126. L'hypothèque conventionnelle n'est valide qu'autant que la somme pour laquelle cette hypothèque est consentie est certaine et déterminée par l'acte qui l'a créée.

127. Partant, lorsqu'un testament nomme un légataire universel avec charge de payer un certain legs particulier, mais sans créer une hypothèque pour le paiement du legs, et que le légataire universel fait une déclaration à l'effet qu'un immeuble reçu du testateur demeurera affecté par hypothèque au paiement de ce legs, sans mentionner le montant du legs, l'hypothèque qu'on a prétendu créer par cette déclaration est nulle. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Auclair vs Girard, ès-qual., et Banque du Peuple et al., R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 213.

128. Partage.—L'hypothèque consentie, avant le partage, par un héritier sur sa part indivis d'un immeuble de la succession est sujette à la condition implicite qu'elle n'affectera que la part que le partage fera tomber dans le lot du constituant. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Owens vs Chopin, R. J. Q., 39 C. S., 213.

129. Prescription.—L'hypothèque ou le privilège ne peut avoir une plus longue vie que la créance, ne dût-elle sa vie qu'aux interruptions de prescription vis-à-vis le débiteur personnel, l'hypothèque ou le privilège subsiste, à moins qu'un tiers détenteur la prescrive par une possession utile de trente ans, ou de dix ans, dans le cas de bonne foi avec titre translatif de propriété. C. S., 1900, Kamouraska, Renouf et al. vs Côté, 7 R. J., 415.

130. Promesse de vente.—L'hypothèque consentie par le propriétaire d'un immeuble, après avoir promis verbalement de le vendre à un autre qui en avait pris possession lors de cette hypothèque, mais qui n'en avait eu un titre qu'après l'enregistrement de cette hypothèque, est légale. C. S., 1881, Joliette, Bricault dit Lamarche vs Bricault dit Lamarche, 11 R. L., 163.

131. Propriété indivise.—L'hypothèque sur une portion indivise d'un immeuble est valide et le créancier a le recours de l'action hypothécaire contre le détenteur en possession de cette portion, ou de tout l'immeuble, ou encore, s'il est lui-même (le créancier), en possession de l'autre portion indivise.

132. Dans aucun de ces cas, il n'est tenu de procéder au partage, au préalable, ni dans le dernier, de délaisser sa portion. C. R., 1911, Québec, Cartier vs Boudreault, R. J. Q., 41 C. S., 127.

133. Quittance et radiation.—Where a mortgagee transferred his mortgage to a third party, with the consent of the mortgagor, but neglected to transfer a fire insurance policy which he held on the mortgaged property, and the property was destroyed by fire: The mortgagor was not entitled to claim the discharge of the mortgage from the party to whom it was transferred, because the mortgagee had neglected to transfer the insurance and had collected the money. Q. B., 1874, Montreal, Robert et uxor vs Macdonald, 19 J., 90.

134. Une hypothèque insérée dans le certificat du régistrateur donné conformément à l'article 700 du Code de procédure civile et créée par une personne qui n'a pas été propriétaire dans les dix ans, sera retranchée du dit certificat sur requête à cette fin, faite par l'une des parties dans la cause. C. S., 1874, Richelieu, Armstrong vs Hus, 5 R. L., 397.

135. In petition en radiation d'hypothèque the hypothecs to be struck out must be specially described, and each of the discharges or other papers relied on must be described in the same way and a regular list of exhibits filed. S. C., 1877, Quebec, Loranger vs De Gaspé, 4 Q. L. R., 80.

136. L'engagement de payer une certaine somme d'argent aussitôt que le créancier aura valablement déchargé un immeuble d'une hypothèque qui le grevait en faveur d'un tiers, impose au dit créancier le devoir de faire radier l'inscription hypothécaire au bureau d'enregistrement, avant de poursuivre le paiement de la dite somme, lors même qu'il apparaîtrait que cette hypothèque serait valablement éteinte par la prescription ou autrement. C. R., 1886, Montréal, Maisonneuve vs Campeau, 30 J., 277.

137. Un débiteur hypothécaire qui paye une partie de son obligation a droit d'obtenir de son créancier une quittance et décharge d'hypothèque partielle. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Christin dit St-Amour vs Morin, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 469; 12 L. N., 205.

138. La stipulation dans un acte de mainlevée d'hypothèque par laquelle la partie comparante donne au propriétaire de l'immeuble "quittance générale et finale, et mainlevée de toute inscription hypothécaire résultant de l'enregistrement des actes suscités," ne comporte qu'une quittance et un consentement à la radiation de l'enregistrement des charges dont elle donne quittance, mais cette stipulation ne contient aucun engagement de la partie comparante à faire effectuer telle radiation. C. R., 1905, Québec, Guérette vs Ouellet et Ouellet, 11 R. J., 437.

139. Toute partie intéressée à faire disparaître une hypothèque grevant sans raison un immeuble peut demander la radiation de cette hypothèque, et son intérêt pour faire cette demande peut être né ou actuel, ou éventuel, c'est-à-dire être un intérêt dont la réalisation est subordonnée à quelque événement ou fait incertain.

140. L'action doit être dirigée contre la partie en faveur de laquelle l'enregistrement a été effectué, car cet enregistrement, dans le cas de personne majeure, est présumé avoir été fait par elle, pour elle et à son profit. C. R., 1907, Québec, Cotnoir vs Brisson, R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 30.

141. Les bâtiments et édifices peuvent être acquis, par acte sous seing privé, comme propriété distincte de celle du sol subjacent.

142. Par suite, si une hypothèque est consentie sur un lot cadastral, sans excepter les bâtiments, par le propriétaire du fonds seul, celui des bâtiments, en vertu d'une vente sous seing privé non enregistré, a le recours d'une action en radiation d'hypothèque contre le créancier qui a fait enregistrer son titre.

143. Le bâtiment construit sur le sol d'autrui est la propriété immobilière du constructeur, sous la condition suspensive que le propriétaire du sol ne se prononcera pas pour l'accession. B. R., 1910, Québec, Reed vs Belavance, R. J. Q., 19 B. R., 369; R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 392.

144. L'enregistrement d'une quittance fausse opère radiation, à l'égard des tiers, de l'hypothèque à laquelle elle se rapporte. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Gervais vs Charbonneau et Rousseau, R. J. Q., 38 C. S., 330.

145. Renouvellement.—Le bailleur de fonds qui a saisi l'immeuble vendu dans le délai fixé pour le renouvellement des hypothèques suivant le cadastre, mais qui n'a pas renouvelé son hypothèque de bailleur dans ce délai, perd son droit de priorité à l'encontre d'un créancier hypothécaire subséquent qui a renouvelé son hypothèque dans le délai prescrit. B. R., 1871, Montréal, Bourassa vs McDonald, 2 R. L., 734; 4 R. L., 61; 16 J., 19; 1 R. C., 241, 372; 22 R. J. R. Q., 232, 535.

146. Rente annuelle.—The hypothec securing a certain rente cannot be extended beyond the limits of the piece of ground described in the deed constituting that rent.

147. No hypothec can result from any alleged verbal contract to pay a certain rent.

148. If the ground occupied is greater than that described in the deed constituting the rent, the action should be to compel the defendant to restrict his possession to the limits expressed in the deed and to obtain a quantum meruit sum as the value of the past use and occupation of the excess. S. C., 1899, Quebec, Bourk vs Cormier, Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 295.

149. Rente constituée.—Le détenteur poursuivi hypothécairement pour une rente ne peut éviter le délaissement qu'à la condition non-seulement de payer les arrérages, mais encore de consentir à continuer les prestations de cette rente à l'avenir, pendant le temps de sa détention, et cette disposition n'étant qu'une faculté accordée au détenteur, c'est à lui de s'en prévaloir et d'offrir le titre nouvel, et non au créancier de le demander. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Marcille vs Primeau, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 327.

150. Rente viagère.—Since the passing of the 16 Vict., ch. 206, amending the registry ordonnance, a hypothec may exist for a life rent created by deed of gift inter vivos without mention of a specific sum of money. S. C., 1853, Quebec, Chapais vs Lebel et Lebel, 3 L. C. R., 477; 17 R. L., 171; 16 R. J. R. Q., 144.

151. La 7e clause de l'acte 16 Vict., ch. 206, ne s'applique qu'aux rentes viagères stipulées dans des actes de donation entrevifs, et non à celles créées par testament et ces dernières n'emportent pas d'hypothèques à l'encontre des tiers acquéreurs de bonne foi, si l'immeuble n'est pas désigné et spécialement affecté par le testament, pour une somme d'argent déterminée conformément à la clause 28 de l'Ord. 4 Vict., ch. 30. C. S., 1859, Montréal, Grégoire vs Laferrière, 3 J., 184; 14 R. J. R. Q., 102.

152. Résolution de donation.—L'hypothèque créée en faveur d'un tiers par l'acquéreur ou donataire, pendant sa possession, est anéantie par cette résolution volontaire, quoique non causée par l'événement résolutoire, et quoique faite sous forme de rétrocession, pour bonne et valable considération. B. R., 1861, Montréal, Lynch vs Hainault, 5 J., 306; 9 R. J. R. Q., 327; 11 R. J. R. Q., 391.

153. Servitude.—Une servitude, de la nature d'une servitude urbaine, n'est pas susceptible d'hypothèque. C. S., 1850, Québec, Duchesnay vs Bédard et Boisseau, 1 D. T. B. C., 43; 2 R. J. R. Q., 399.

154. Subrogation.—A special mortgagee third in rank, obtaining legal subrogation in the rights of a general mortgagee first in rank, covering the same and other property, would not be allowed to use his recourse so as to defeat the equities of a second mortgagee, if the mortgagee first in rank was amply secured on the other property affected by it, but the respondent, having bought from the firm of Sternberg and Co. a certain property hypothecated to the Royal Institution for the advancement of learning for a certain sum of money, and having obtained by paying this sum to the Royal Institution a legal subrogation against appellant, vendor to Sternberg and Co., who had undertaken in his deed of sale of the said property to Sternberg and Co. to discharge it from said hypothec, was entitled to recover this amount from the appellant although he had failed to claim payment of his first mortgage and had ranked for the third mortgage on the property affected by the three mortgages. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Saunders vs Commercial Mutual Building Society, 3 D. C. A., 141.

155. Substitution.—L'hypothèque consentie par le grevé a son effet tant que la substitution n'est pas ouverte, et cette caducité de la substitution fait que l'hypothèque est comme si le débiteur avait toujours été le propriétaire absolu de l'immeuble. C. S., 1899, Fraserville, Pelletier vs Michaud et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 413.

156. Taxe scolaire. — L'hypothèque pour taxes scolaires comprend tous les frais, même ceux encourus dans une action personnelle contre le débiteur de la taxe; et la corporation scolaire peut réclamer hypothécairement, du tiers détenteur de l'immeuble affecté au paiement de ces taxes, le montant de ces frais en même temps que celui des taxes. C. S., 1897, Montréal, School Trustees of St. Henry vs Solomon, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 179.

157. Where, under a specific provision of the law an hypothec exists without registration, a judgment upon the debt does not need to be registered in order to preserve the hypothec, nor does sale purge the property therefrom. S. C., 1903, Montréal, The School Commissioners for the municipality of Westmount vs Petts et vir, Q. J. R., 24 S. C., 7; 10 R. L., n. s., 42.

158. Terre en franc et commun soccage.—In a hypothecary action, had under the Imperial Act 9 Geo. IV, ch. 77, in force in the province: No general mortgage could be created against land in the townships and held in free and common soccage. S. C., 1851, Montreal, Boston vs Classon, 2 L. C. R., 449.

159. Terres publiques.—En mai 1868, Hamilton Rickaby a consenti une hypothèque à l'appelant, sur son immeuble dont il n'avait qu'un permis d'occuper qu'il a transporté dans le mois de novembre suivant à l'auteur de l'intimé: Hamilton Rickaby, n'ayant jamais eu de titre à la propriété, n'a pas pu consentir une hypothèque valable. Lors même que l'hypothèque qu'il a consentie serait valable, il n'y a aucune preuve que Robert Rickaby, l'auteur de l'intimé, connaissait l'hypothèque en faveur de l'appelant lorsqu'il a acheté les droits de Hamilton Rickaby. L'intimé et Robert Rickaby, son auteur immédiat, ont acquis la prescription de cette hypothèque, par une possession de bonne foi de plus de dix ans et sans trouble. B. R., 1881, Québec, Pacaud vs Rickaby, 1 D. C. A., 310.

160. Les défrichements et améliorations sur un lot de terre de la Couronne, non patenté mais possédé en vertu d'un billet de location, sont des immeubles et peuvent être hypothéqués comme tels, séparément du fonds. C. S., 1894, Kamouraska, Pelletier vs Riou, 2 R. J., 346.

161. Tiers détenteur.—L'on ne présume jamais que le tiers détenteur s'oblige personnellement. C. S., 1852, Trois-Rivières, Banque du Peuple vs Gingras, 2 D. T. B. C., 243; 3 R. J. R. Q., 159; 14 R. J. R. Q., 167.

162. Le détenteur d'une terre hypothéquée au paiement d'une créance ne peut enlever les bâtisses érigées sur cette terre.

163. S'il le fait, quand même ce serait dans le but de mieux administrer ses biens, et non dans le but de frauder le créancier hypothécaire, ce dernier a contre lui un recours en dommages pour le montant de la valeur des bâtisses enlevées. C. C., 1868, Richelieu, Armstrong vs Barrette, 1 R. L., 645; 20 R. J. R. Q., 411, 529.

164. Le tiers détenteur poursuivi hypothécairement est tenu au paiement de tous les arrérages d'intérêts non prescrits, au delà de deux ans et l'année courante, quoiqu'aucun enregistrement spécial n'en ait été fait.

165. La formalité de l'enregistrement d'un bordereau d'arrérages d'intérêt non prescrits, au delà de deux ans et l'année courante, n'a l'effet de changer la loi commune que pour un cas particulier, savoir pour le cas où des créanciers hypothécaires se présentent par concurrence à la distribution du produit d'un immeuble vendu en justice. B. R., 1869, Montréal, MacDonald vs Nolin, 14 J., 125; 2 R. L., 183; 3 R. L., 358; 20 R. J. R. Q., 30.

166. Titre nouvel.—Il résulte des dispositions des articles 2251 et 2257 C. c. qu'un créancier hypothécaire est en droit d'exiger, d'un nouveau détenteur, un titre nouvel, vu que ce nouveau détenteur commence à prescrire la propriété hypothéquée par une possession utile depuis la date de son titre d'acquisition. C. S., 1909, Joliette, Racette vs Sévigny, 15 R. J., 246.

167. Vente à réméré.—Le vendeur avec faculté de réméré conserve le droit d'hypothéquer la propriété vendue. B. R., 1888, Montréal, Dame Hainault et vir, ès-qual., vs Chapdelaine, 32 J., 84.

168. Vente de créance hypothécaire. Where on the contestation of a collocation it appeared that the contestants transferred to the plaintiff collocated certain hypothecary claims without reserving or mentioning the priority which they set up for other claims retained by them, the effect of which was to lead the plaintiff to believe that the claims so transferred to him would rank first: Under article 2048 c. C., the contestants had forfeited their right of preference. S. C., 1882, Montreal, McCall vs Bonacina and Société de Construction Jacques-Cartier, 5 L. N., 215.

169. L'enregistrement du transport d'une dette hypothécaire est nécessaire pour obtenir l'enregistrement de la quittance à être consentie au débiteur par le cessionnaire de la créance et pour la radiation de l'hypothèque.

170. Le coût d'un transport volontaire ou judiciaire n'est pas à la charge du débiteur ni celui de l'enregistrement de ce transport. B. R., 1902, Montréal, Corbière vs Stuart et al., 13 R. P. Q., 374.

171. Ventilation.—A hypothecary creditor is entitled to ask for a ventilation, where it appears that by taxing a number of lots en bloc, the taxes due on a much larger extent of property were imposed on a portion, the proceeds of which are being distributed. C. R., 1882, Montreal, Commissaires d'école de St-Henri vs Desmarteau et al., and Ville de St-Henri, and McLaren, 6 L. N., 82.

V. Accession, Action hypothécaire, Action paulienne, Assurance (feu), Banque, Bâtiment, Bâtiments marchands, Capias, Cautionnement, Cautionnement judiciaire, Cession de judiciaire biens, Chemin de fer, Cité de Montréal, Communauté, Compagnie incorporée, Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.), Contrainte par corps, Contrat de mariage, Distribution de deniers, Donation entrevifs, Douaire, Droit international privé, Echange, Enregistrement, Exécuteur testamentaire, Faillite, Frais, Garantie, Indivisibilité, Insaisissabilité, Lettre de change et Billet promissoire, Licitation, Louage des choses, Mandat, Mari et femme, Meuble et immeuble, Minorité, Obligation, Opposition afin de charge, Paiement, Partage, Pension et retraite, Prescription, Prêt à la grosse, Preuve, Preuve testimoniale, Privilège, Procédure, Rentes constituées, Responsabilité, Saisie et vente de navire, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Société, Subrogation, Substitution, Terres publiques, Vente, Vente à réméré.

HYPOTHÈQUE JUDICIAIRE

Déf.—L'hypothèque judiciaire est celle qui résulte de l'enregistrement sur un immeuble d'un jugement portant condamnation à payer une somme fixe de deniers, ou d'un cautionnement reçu en justice, ou de tout autre acte de procédure judiciaire créant l'obligation de payer une somme déterminée. C. c. 2034.

INDEX

Action hypothécaire, 5, 18
Adjudicataire.....4 et s.
Appel.....21, 29
Avis.....10, 20, 22
Avocat..... 22
Cadastre.....12, 20
Cautionnement jud., 1, 6 et s., 28 et s.
Cession jud. de biens, 11, 14
Compagnie incorporée 23
Compagnie incorporée (Liq.)..... 2
Connaissance de vente 25
Date..... 10
Dommage..... 7
Enregistrement, 2, 4 et s., 17, 34 et s.
Erreur..... 12
Frais.....7, 26
Frais d'enregistrement 17
Fraude..... 11

Gage..... 6
Garantie.....3, 10
Indivis..... 23
Insolvabilité.....13 et s.
Intérêt..... 22
Jugement..11, 13, 16 et s.
Jugement au dessous de $40.00..... 18
Lois.....1 et s.
Mandat..... 22
Mari et femme..... 27
Montant déterminé 28 et s.
Pension alimentaire.. 30
Poursuite..... 18
Privilège..... 2
Propriété..... 27
Quittance..... 17
Radiation.....1, 7
Rang..... 1
Ratification de titre.. 16
Révision..... 21
Séparation de corps et biens..... 30
Séquestre..... 26
Testament.....31 et s.
Titre du débiteur, 34 et s.
Transport....5, 25, 35 et s.
Vente.....25, 35 et s.
Vente à réméré..... 38

LOIS

1. Cautionnement judiciaire. — "Le cautionnement hypothécaire a l'effet d'une obligation principale jusqu'à concurrence du montant d'icelui, bien que la somme recouvrable par suite de la violation du cautionnement soit incertaine et indéterminée.

"Cette hypothèque prend rang à compter du jour où le cautionnement a été enregistré." S. R. Q., art. 623.

"L'hypothèque ainsi constituée est radiée au moyen du certificat du procureur général, en conformité de l'article 2151 du Code civil." Art. 624.

2. Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.).— "Aucune charge ou privilège n'est créé ni sur les biens meubles ni sur les immeubles de la compagnie, pour le montant d'un jugement, ou pour les intérêts de ce montant, par l'émission ou la délivrance au shérif d'un bref d'exécution, ni par la saisie ou vente en vertu de ce bref des biens ou effets de la compagnie.

"2. Aucun droit ni privilège n'est non plus créé sur ses biens, meubles ou immeubles, ni sur aucune de ses dettes actives, échue ou devenue exigible, par le dépôt ou l'enregistrement d'un sommaire ou d'une minute de jugement, ni par la délivrance d'un bref d'arrêt en mains tierces, ou autre ordre, si, dans ces cas, la liquidation de la compagnie s'ouvre avant la remise au demandeur des deniers recouvrés, payés ou perçus en vertu du dit bref d'exécution, sommaire, minute, bref d'arrêt simple ou d'arrêt en mains tierces, ou autre ordre; mais le présent article ne touche point au droit ou privilège que le demandeur a pour ses frais d'après la loi de la province où le bref d'exécution, le bref d'arrêt simple ou d'arrêt en mains tierces ou autre ordre a été donné." S. R. C., ch. 144, art. 84.

3. Quant aux garanties d'un créancier contre une compagnie incorporée en liquidation, lorsqu'elle consiste dans une hypothèque, voyez les articles 80 et 81 des S. R. C., ch. 144.

JURISPRUDENCE

4. Adjudicataire.—Le créancier de l'adjudicataire d'un immeuble ne peut obtenir une hypothèque judiciaire, en faisant enregistrer, avant l'obtention et l'enregistrement du titre de l'adjudicataire, un jugement qu'il avait obtenu contre celui-ci.

5. Partant, ce créancier ne peut procéder par action en déclaration d'hypothèque contre un tiers à qui l'adjudicataire a transporté son adjudication et qui, en vertu du transport, a lui-même obtenu du shérif, sur paiement montant de l'adjudication, un titre à l'immeuble en question. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lemieux vs Mitchell et al., R. J. Q., 18 C. S., 528.

6. Cautionnement judiciaire. — The pledge allowed to be deposited in lieu of suretyship, under article 1963 of the civil Code, may consist of a hypothec on real property. S. C., 1883, Montreal, Pangman vs Pauzé, èsqual., and Robertson and Pangman et al., 27 J., 147.

7. Un cautionnement judiciaire où la caution s'oblige généralement à payer tous les frais et dommages qui seront adjugés, sans déterminer un montant quelconque qu'elle aura à payer, ne crée pas d'hypothèque judiciaire, et la caution peut par une action faire radier l'enregistrement fait de cautionnement sur ses immeubles. C. R., 1885, Montréal, Lavallée vs Paul, 30 J., 164; M. L. R., 2 C. S., 72; 9 L. N., 67.

8. A judicial bond executed in 1844, and not hypothecating any particular property on its face, but duly registered, was held to operate as a mortgage on all the property of the bondsmen then held by them within the registration district. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Berthelet vs Dease et al., 12 J., 336; 18 R. J. R. Q., 95, 552, 565, 581.

9. Il sera permis à un créancier colloqué, tenu de donner un cautionnement à l'adjudicataire, de substituer à ce cautionnement une première hypothèque sur un immeuble non grevé, d'une valeur jugée suffisante par la cour. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Leroux vs McIntosh et Leroux et Valade, 2 R. P. Q., 83.

10. Une hypothèque devant tenir lieu de cautionnement sera jugée valable, bien que l'avis de la production de témoins pour estimer la propriété hypothéquée ait porté une date erronée, si d'ailleurs il appert que les garanties offertes par celui qui en est tenu, sont suffisantes. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Leroux vs McIntosh et Leroux et Valade, 2 R. P. Q., 180.

11. Cession judiciaire de biens.—A debtor against whose property a judgment has been registered, and who afterwards makes an assignment and obtains back his estate by a composition with his creditors, in which he undertakes to pay the hypothecs on his property in full, cannot have the hypothec so registered set aside, at his own suit, on the ground that it is a fraud on his creditors. Q. B., 1877, Montreal, Foster and Baylis and McKeand, M. L. R., 3 Q. B., 421; 11 L. N., 92.

12. Erreur.—L'action en radiation d'hypothèque de l'intimée obtenue par suite d'une erreur du nom de propriétaire et subséquemment corrigée par le commissoire des Terres de la Couronne contre l'appelant, est bien fondée, les articles 1031 concernant les contrats frauduleux et simulés, 1483, les personnes interposées, et 1260 et 1265 C. c., les donations déguisées, ne s'appliquent pas au cas actuel; il y a lieu d'appliquer l'article 1339 C. c. relativement aux créanciers postérieurs; l'hypothèque judiciaire prise par l'appelant sur l'emplacement no 17, propriété de l'intimée, doit être radiée comme nulle. B. R., 1894, Quebec, Lamontagne vs Savard, 2 R. J., 48.

13. Insolvabilité.—A hypothec created by a registered judgment on the property of an insolvent is valid in cases where, as a matter of fact, article 2023 of the civil Code could not apply, the debtor not being notoriously insolvent. Q. B., 1872, Montreal, Darwin vs Thomson and Banque Jacques-Cartier, 13 R. C., 80, 85; 19 J., 100, 18 R. J. R. Q., 469, 552; 14 R. L., 410.

14. Une hypothèque judiciaire ne peut être acquise sur les immeubles d'un débiteur insolvable dans les trente jours qui précèdent la cession de ses biens. C. S., 1901, Arthabaska, Lemieux, ès-qual., vs Lachance, 7 R. J., 530.

15. Under the law of the province of Quebec, a hypothec cannot be acquired by the registration of a judgment upon the immovables of a person notoriously insolvent at the time of such registration, to the prejudice of existing creditors. Ex. C., 1908, Canada, The Royal Trust Co. vs The Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway Co., 13 Ex. C. R., 42.

16. Jugement.—Upon a petition for confirmation of title, where the petitioner objected to some of the items in the registrar's certificate: A judgment registered against the auteur of a party who, at the time of the rendering and registering such judgment was in open and peaceable possession as proprietor under a title, did not create a hypothec upon the property, although the title of such party not in possession was not registered. S. C., 1861, Montreal, ex parte Gamble, 6 J., 169; 10 R. J. R. Q., 132, 519.

17. Le créancier qui a obtenu un jugement contre son débiteur, a droit de faire enregistrer ce jugement aux frais de tel débiteur, qui ne peut exiger de quittance de la dette qu'en remboursant au créancier ce que ce dernier a payé pour faire enregistrer son jugement. C. C., 1869, Arthabaska, Beauchêne vs Pacaud, 1 R. L., 740; 13 J., 135; 19 R. J. R. Q., 200, 530, 544, 556, 559.

18. Le créancier qui a obtenu jugement dans une poursuite pour une somme moindre que $40, et qui fait enregistrer ce jugement sur un immeuble de son débiteur, ne peut ensuite poursuivre ce même débiteur, par une action en déclaration d'hypothèque, et ainsi faire vendre cet immeuble pour une somme n'excédant pas quarante piastres. C. R., 1880, Montréal, Campeau vs Brouillet, 16 R. L., 404.

19. Judicial hypothecs arising between the 31st December, 1841, and 1st September, 1860, only affect such immovable property as the judgment debtor possessed at the time when the judgment was rendered. S. C., 1886, Aylmer, Thompson vs Marks, 9 L. N., 372.

20. L'enregistrement d'un jugement, avec un avis désignant un immeuble par son numéro officiel, comme devant être affecté d'une hypothèque judiciaire, a effet à l'encontre de l'acquéreur de ce même immeuble par un titre qui le désigne sans donner le numéro officiel. C. R., 1889, Montréal, The Watson Manufacturing Co., Ltd., vs Seguin, 18 R. L., 677.

21. Le créancier en vertu d'un jugement peut, malgré que la cause soit inscrite en révision ou en appel, faire enregistrer le jugement, et acquérir ainsi une hypothèque judiciaire sur les biens du débiteur. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Seymour vs Seymour et al., 21 R. L., 39.—C. S., 1894, Montréal, Roy vs Ouimet et al., R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 413.

22. L'avis au régistrateur, mentionné à l'article 2121 C. c., peut être donné par le procureur ad litem de la partie qui a obtenu le jugement à enregistrer; quoiqu'il ne représente pas alors la partie comme mandataire, son mandat ayant pris fin avec l'instance, il agit comme negotiorum gestor, et son acte profite à celui dans l'intérêt duquel il est fait. Le procureur ad litem, qui a distraction des dépens accordés par un jugement en faveur de sa partie, est intéressé au jugement et a droit de l'enregistrer et, aux termes de l'article 2093 C. c., l'enregistrement effectué par lui a effet en faveur de sa partie, pour les droits de cette dernière mentionnée au jugement. C. R., 1890, Québec, Leclerc vs Martin et Martin vs Sœurs Hospitalières d'Arthabaska, 17 R. J. Q., 177.

23. The judgment creditor of an incorporated company cannot legally enregister his judgment against an immovable, the property of several undivided owners, on the ground that one of them constituted in his own person the whole of the said company, and had spent its earnings in improvements to the immovable in question, more particularly where the title to such immovable contains a clause of non-seizability. S. C., 1894, Quebec, Pope et al. vs Turner, Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 118.

24. A judgment may be registered and create hypothec on property acquired by the judgment debtor after it has been rendered. S. C., 1900, Sweetsburg, McClure vs Croteau et al., Q. J. R., 18 S. C., 336.

25. The registration of a judgment against immovable property which, by the cadastre of the division in which it is situate, appear to belong to the judgment-debtor, creates a legal hypothec thereon, even though the judgment-creditor is aware of the existence of an unregistered deed, by which the property had been sold to a third party. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Aumais vs Ranger, Q. J. R., 28 S. C., 269.

26. Dans tous les cas, l'enregistrement d'un jugement nommant un séquestre ne crée pas une hypothèque pour ses frais, aucune hypothèque ne pouvant être prise que pour une somme d'argent déterminée. B. R., 1912, Montréal, Dame Maillet et vir vs Fontaine, 18 R. L., n. s., 277; 18 R. J., 470; R. J. Q., 21 B. R., 426.

27. Mari et femme.—In an action by a wife alleging that a judgment rendered against her husband had been registered against an immovable belonging to her, asked that the registration of the hypothec be radiated, and the defence was that the property really belonged to the husband, the transfer from the husband to the wife being simulated and fraudulent it being proved that the wife had no right to the property, her action to cancel the hypothec might be dismissed without her husband being in the cause. Q. B., 1892, Montreal, Carter vs McCaffrey et vir, Q. J. R., 1 Q. B., 97.

28. Montant déterminé.—L'hypothèque judiciaire résultant de jugement ou de cautionnement judiciaire ne portant pas une somme déterminée est nulle faute de spécialité; et la déclaration des cautions qu'elles possédaient des immeubles non désignés de la valeur de $5,000, n'avait pas l'effet de fixer ce cautionnement à une somme déterminée.

29. La condamnation qui doit être cautionnée en matière d'appel est celle qui est actuellement due, exigible et exécutoire. C. S., 1897, Montréal, O'Leary vs Francis, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 243 (Conf. en Appel). — C. R., 1885, Montréal, Lavallée vs Paul, 3 J., 164; M. L. R., 2, C. S., 72; 9 L. N., 67.

30. Pension alimentaire.—A judgment, in an action by a wife for separation from bed and board, ordering the payment by the defendant to the plaintiff of a fixed sum per month, as an alimentary allowance, is a judgment ordering the payment of "a specific sum of money," within the meaning of article 2034 of the civil Code, and a judicial hypothec results therefrom, and the registration of such judgment against immovable property belonging to the husband establishes a valid hypothec thereon. Q. B., 1897, Montreal, Tabb vs Beckett, Q. J. R., 7 Q. B., 28; 2 R. J., 530.

31. Testament.—Le créancier qui prend sur lui de faire enregistrer un testament, instituant son débiteur héritier du de cujus, alors que ce testament a été révoqué par ce dernier par un testament postérieur, tel créancier effectuant le dit enregistrement dans le but de prendre une hypothèque judiciaire lui résultant d'un jugement contre ce prétendu héritier, n'acquiert aucun droit sur cet immeuble à l'encontre du légataire universel qui n'a pas fait enregistrer le dernier testament dans le délai fixé par la loi.

32. L'enregistrement effectué par ce créancier est absolument nul, car il ne peut avoir pour effet de donner de la validité à un testament sans valeur puisqu'il est révoqué.

33. Le défaut d'enregistrement du dernier testament dans les délais requis n'a pas d'au-tre conséquence que celle de rendre sans effet les titres subséquents consentis par l'héritier ou le légataire. C. S., 1907, Québec, Dame Bourassa vs Bourassa, ès-qual., 18 R. L., n. s., 23.

34. Titre du débiteur.—Jusqu'à ce qu'un acquéreur d'immeuble ait enregistré son titre d'acquisition, les créanciers du vendeur peuvent, subséquemment à la vente, prendre hypothèque légale ou judiciaire sur les immeubles vendus. C. R., 1878, Montréal, Lefebvre vs Branchaud, 22 J., 73; 1 L. N., 230.

35. Le dernier alinéa de l'article 2098 ne s'applique pas au cas de l'hypothèque judiciaire, laquelle n'est pas consentie par le débiteur, mais est prise malgré lui.

36. L'hypothèque judiciaire prise sur un immeuble alors vendu par le débiteur, vaudra à l'encontre de l'acquéreur, si l'acte de vente n'a été enregistré que subséquemment à l'enregistrement du jugement. C. C., 1885, Joliette, Charland vs Faucher, 9 L. N., 61.

37. L'hypothèque résultant d'un jugement contre le vendeur d'un immeuble enregistré avant le titre de l'acquéreur prime les droits de ce drenier. C. R., 1903, Québec, Crépeau vs Bruneau, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 368; 10 R. L., n. s., 281, 292.

38. Vente à réméré.—L'enregistrement d'un jugement par un créancier d'un vendeur à réméré sur l'immeuble vendu, ne lui confère pas de droit hypothécaire qu'il puisse exercer avant le rachat du réméré. C. S., 1906, Montmagny, Blouin vs Boulé et Lacombe, 13 R. J., 172.

V. Enregistrement, Frais, Hypothèque.

I

IBERVILLE (Ville d')

1. La ville d'Iberville est régie par une charte spéciale qui se trouve aux 7 Ed. VII, (Q), ch. 72, (1907), amendée par 1 Geo. V, (Q), ch. 65, (1910).

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Pouvoirs de l'inspecteur.—Nonobstant la section 53 de l'Acte d'Incorporation de le ville d'Iberville, ch. 64, 22 Vict., l'inspecteur de la ville n'est pas juge de la limite entre les rues et les terrains des particuliers, et il ne peut détruire les clôtures érigées par les particuliers le long des rues, sous le prétexte que ces clôtures sont dans la rue, avant d'avoir fait préalablement constater la limite de la rue par arpentage et bornage comme dans les cas ordinaires.

3. Sur bref de certiorari à l'effet de casser la conviction du juge de paix, condamnant le dit inspecteur à l'amende pour bris d'une telle clôture, la cour Supérieure n'a pas le pouvoir de s'enquérir des matières de faits contenues dans la preuve, relativement au degré de malice qu'a pu mettre le requérant dans la commission de son acte, le juge de paix ayant d'ailleurs parfaitement juridiction sur lui.

4. Le magistrat de district n'excédait pas sa juridiction en entendant la preuve de la possession des deux parties, aux fins de déterminer sur quel terrain la clôture en question était érigée. C. S., 1874, Iberville, Lanier vs Loupret et Ménard, 6 R. L., 350.

V. Droit municipal, Loi.

ILE DU PRINCE-EDOUARD

1. Le premier juillet 1873, la province de l'Ile du Prince-Edouard a été admise dans la Puissance du Canada, par arrêté de Sa Majesté du 26 juin 1873, sous l'opération de l'Acte de l'Amérique Britannique du Nord, 1867. S. R. C., p., 3305.

IMMIGRATION

Déf.—L'immigration est l'acte d'un étranger venant dans un pays pour l'habiter. Il comprend toutes les personnes qui viennent en Canada, sans y avoir déjà résidé, ou dans l'intention de s'y établir.

INDEX

Aubain..... 6
Chinois..... 4, 6 et s.
Collecteur des douanes 7
Conseil d'enquête.... 2
Déportation..... 11
Domicile..... 11
Exemption..... 9
"Habeas corpus"....8, 12
Immoralité..... 11
Lois.....1 et s.
Navire..... 12
Passage.....10, 13
Pénalité..... 12
Société d'immigration 5
Touriste..... 13

LOIS

1. La "Loi de l'immigration" du Canada est la 9-10 ,Ed. VII, (F), ch. 27, (1910); 1-2 Geo. V, (F), ch. 12, (1911). Elle a pour but principal de n'admettre dans le pays que des immigrants désirables. Ses dispositions se rapportent aux catégories refusées, à la nomination, aux pouvoirs et aux attributions des fonctionnaires et des conseils d'enquête, aux passagers sur les navires, à leur débarquement et traitement médical, aux conditions d'admission exigées des immigrants, à la déportation de ceux qui ne sont pas désirables ou qui sont interdits, aux obligations des compagnies de transport et de leurs officiers et représentants, à la protection des immigrants, aux courtiers d'immigration, aux propriétaires d'auberges, aux règles d'administration, aux poursuites et procédures.

Le ministre de la colonisation, des mines et des pêcheries, à Québec, a le contrôle et la gestion par toute la province de tout ce qui se rattache à l'immigration et à l'émigration. S. R. Q., art. 2045.

2. Conseil d'enquête.—Les conseils d'enquête nommés sous la "Loi de l'immigration" "ont autorité pour déterminer si quelque immigrant, passager, voyageur ou autre personne cherchant à entrer au Canada ou détenu pour une raison quelconque sous le régime de la présente loi, doit être admis à entrer ou rester au Canada ou être refusé et déporté. 9-10 Ed. VII, (F), ch. 27, art. 14, (1910).

3. Enfant d'immigrant.—La loi pour la protection des enfants immigrants se trouve aux S. R. Q., arts 3983 à 3999.

4. Immigration chinoise.—L'immigration chinoise est soumise à la "Loi de l'immigration chinoise," S. R. C., ch. 95. Le Chinois est obligé de payer une taxe de $500.00 pour entrer en Canada, sauf quelques exceptions. La loi permet le retour et le transit en suivant certaines formalités. Arts 19, 20.

La "Loi de l'Immigration" ci-dessus s'applique aux immigrants chinois en tout ce qui n'est pas incompatible avec la "Loi de l'immigration chinoise." 9-10 Ed. VII, (F), ch. 27, art. 79, (1910).

5. Société d'immigration.—La "Loi organique des sociétés auxiliatrices de l'immigration" se trouve aux S. R. C., ch. 94; 7-8 Ed. VII, (F), ch. 14, (1908). Cette loi pourvoit à la constitution de la société en corporation, à ses pouvoirs et devoirs.

JURISPRUDENCE

6. Aubain.—Apart from the Victorian Chinese Act, 1891, an alien has not a legal right enforceable by action to enter British territory. P. C., 1891, British Columbia, Murgrove vs Chun Teeong Toy, L. R., A. C., 272; 5 Cart. 556.

7. Chinois.—By section 3 of the Victorian Chinese Act, 1881, a Chinese immigrant has no legal right to land in the colony until a sum of £10 has been paid for him. Where the master of a vessel had committed an offence under the Act by bringing a greater number of Chinese immigrants into a part of the colony than the Act allows: The Collector of customs was under no legal obligation to accept payment tendered by the master on behalf of any such immigrants, nor when tendered either by or for any individual immigrant. P. C., 1891, British Columbia, L. R., 1891, App. Cas., 272; 2 Cart., 556.

8. Chinese immigrants, who are refused admission in the United States, and do not appeal from the decision so rendered against them, are not entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, while being transported from the United States to China, in conformity with the agreement between the United States and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. K. B., 1903, Montreal, Chew et al. vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co. and Shang et al., 5 Q. P. R., 453; 6 Q. P. R., 14.

9. As the Chinese Immigration Act provides that the controller shall decide claims for exemption subject to the approval of the Minister of Customs, the claimant should appeal to the Minister from the controller's ruling, before asking the intervention of the courts. A. C., 1910, British Columbia, In re Lee Hun, 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 19.

10. Where immigrants of Chinese origin are merely passing through Canada, under a contract with a railway company for their transportation to a point or destination beyond the limits of Canada, the railway company (under the provisions of 63-64 Vict., ch. 32, since repealed by 3 Ed VII, ch. 8), were justified in detaining them, and in refusing them permission to remain on Canadian territory, they not having complied with the provisions of the Act 63-64 Vict., (C.), ch. 32, then in force, applicable to Chinese immigrants entering Canada with intention to remain therein. K. B., 1904, Quebec, Wing Toy et al. vs The Canadian Pacific Railway Co., Q. J. R., 13 K. B., 172; 10 R. L., n. s., 286; 4 Can. Ry. Cas., 410; 7 Can. Cr. Cas., 551.

11. Déportation.—A person who has been convicted in Canada of a crime involving moral turpitude and who is domiciled in Canada, cannot on that ground be excluded from Canada under the Immigration Act, 1910, (Can.), on returning from a visit to the United States, although such person is not a Canadian citizen. A person who has acquired Canadian domicile at common law is within the exception of persons to be admitted under section 3 of the Immigration Act, 1910, as well as persons who have acquired a statutory domicile by three years' residence after admission under the statute. A. C., 1910, British Columbia, In re Margaret Murphy, B. C. L. R., 401; 17 Can. Cr. Cas., 103.

12. Pénalité.—The owners, masters and officers of a vessel on which immigrants are detained for deportation who land them and produce them in court in obedience to a writ of habeas corpus, are not liable for the penalties imposed by the Immigration Act (R. S. C., ch. 93, sect. 66), if in the interval of the landing, the immigrants, or any of them, escape without their aid or abetting. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Sifton, ès-qual. vs Balls et al., Q. J. R., 35 S. C., 259.

13. Touriste.—The Immigration Act, 1910 (Dominion), does not apply to an alien tourist who entered Canada before the passage of the Act. Therefore an order in council passed since the coming into force of the Act could not be held to deal with such a person. Supr. C., 1911, British Columbia, In re Raluice, 16 B. C. L. R., 471.

V. Droit constitutionnel, Droit criminel, Juridiction, Responsabilité.

IMPENSES ET AMÉLIORATIONS

Déf.—Les "impenses" sont des dépenses faites pour conserver une chose, pour l'embellir, ou en augmenter la valeur. Elles sont en conséquence nécessaires, utiles ou voluptuaires. Bonâ fides præmium meretur, mala fides odium. Impensæ necessariæ sunt, quæ si factæ non sint, res aut peritura, aut deterior futura sit. Dig., lib. 25, tit. 1, § 1. Utiles impensæ sunt quæ meliorem rem facient, non deteriorem esse non sinant. Dig., lib. 25, tit. 1, § 2. Voluptuosæ sunt, quibus neque omissis deterior dos fieret, neque factis fructuosior effecta est. Dig., lib. 25, tit. 1., § 3.

On appelle, "amélicrations" les impenses qui donnent une plus-value à la chose.

Le propriétaire doit les rembourser en certain cas: En matière de propriété, C. c., Art. 417; d'usufruit, C. c., Art. 462; d'emphytéose, C. c., Art. 582; de communauté, C. c., Arts. 1304, 1355; de vente, C. c., Art. 1539; de vente à réméré, C. c., Art. 1546; de louage des choses, C. c., Art. 1640; d'action hypothécaire, C. c., Art. 2072

INDEX

Action en déchéance.. 46
Action hypothécaire, 1, 48
Action pétitoire, 2, 8, 16, 18
Amélioration non nécessaire 13, 41
Amélioration utile, 3, 6, 9, 17, 39
Avis..... 16
Billet de location..... 14
Bonne et mauvaise foi 4 et s., 42 et s.
Colon.....18, 36
Compensation...8, 46 et s.
Construction..... 17
Co-propriétaire....20 et s.
Couronne..... 14
Créancier..... 29
Défrichement..... 12
Délaissement..... 24, 26
Dépense nécessaire... 15
Distribution de deniers, 20, 26, 37
Donation entrevifs... 34
Erreur..... 7
Exception dilatoire... 1
Expertise..... 18
Frais.....8, 35
Fruits et revenus, 9 et s., 17, 19, 47
Legs particulier..... 25
Licitation.....20 et s.
Mise en demeure, 8, 14, 37
Opposition afin de conserver..... 37
Possession..... 17
Plus-value..... 39
Preuve..... 34
Reddition de compte 19
Réparation.....38 et s.
Rétention, 4, 6 et s., 19, 21 et s., 24, 26 et s., 42 et s.
Revendication, 7 et s., 33et s.
Saisie d'usufruit..... 27
Saisie et vente d'immeuble.....28 et s.
Substitution..... 39
Taxe municipale....15, 45
Tiers..... 14
Tiers-détenteur, 19, 28, 36 et s.
Titre.....17, 36 a
Tuteur..... 37
Usufruit.....38 et s.
Vente.....10, 42 et s.
Vente à l'encan..... 48
Vente à réméré, 31 et s., 46 et s.
Ventilation..... 30

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Action hypothécaire.—Les impenses ne peuvent être invoquées par exception dilatoire, mais bien par celle que confère au défendeur l'article 2072 C. c., en vertu de laquelle il a le droit de demander de ne délaisser l'immeuble qu'à la condition d'être payé du montant dû pour ces impenses. C. S., 1911, Montréal, McIntyre vs Wilson, 14 R. P. Q., 45.

2. Action pétitoire.—The lessee of land cannot set up as against his lessor, plaintiff in a petitory action, the value of improvements made by such lessee on the land. S. C., 1855, Montreal, Peltier vs Larichelière, 5 L. C. R., 96; 4 R. J. R. Q., 298.

3. Amélioration utile.—The possessor has no claim for a building erected by him which was not a necessary improvement, and which no longer exists, having been burned and the amount insured thereon paid to him. S. C., 1891, Montreal, Spooner vs Spearson, M. L. R., 1 S. C., 315; Q. J. R., 2 Q. B., 200; 14 L. N., 346; 16 L. N., 170.

4. Bonne et mauvaise foi.—In a petitory action to recover the possession of a lot of land, the defendant, by peremptory exception, pleaded, asking that the plaintiff be condemned to pay him the value of the improvements he had made on the property: A possessor in bad faith has no right of detention for improvements. S. C., 1856, Montreal, Lane et al. vs Deloge, 1 J., 3; 5 R. J. R. Q., 360; 16 R. J. R. Q., 369.

5. In a petition action brought by the plaintiff to recover possession of a portion of lot number ten in the 8th range of the township of Ely: The possessor in good faith is entitled to his improvements, and is not liable for rent and profits accrued previous to the service of process. Q. B., 1864, Montreal, Knowlton et al. vs Clarke et vir, 9 J., 243; 13 R. J. R. Q., 174; 16 R. J. R. Q., 369.

6. Where the defendant had been in possession of the plaintiff's land with the knowledge of his agents, having paid the taxes and made the improvements, the value of which was claimed from the plaintiff, in view of and with the knowledge of the agents of the plaintiff, although the defendant did not possess the land with his consent: He had a right to be paid the value of his improvements and to retain the property until it was paid. Q. B., 1867, Montreal, Ellice vs Courtemanche, 11 J., 325; 17 L. C. R., 433; 3 L. C. L. J., 126; 16 R. J. R. Q., 365.

7. La demanderesse et le défendeur avaient acquis à différentes dates du même vendeur des lots vacants contigus. Par erreur le défendeur, qui avait acheté le premier, se mit en possession du lot subséquemment vendu à la demanderesse et y érigea des constructions. Il se trouvait ainsi en possession paisible et publique de ce lot depuis plus de dix ans, lorsque la demanderesse l'ayant acheté, le revendiqua comme étant sa propriété. Le défendeur rencontra cette action par une défense en fait, et par un plaidoyer alléguant qu'il était en possession du lot en question de bonne foi et avec titre, et demandant qu'il n'en fût évincé qu'après remboursement de ses impenses: La demanderesse avait le droit de revendiquer le lot qui lui avait été vendu, mais le défendeur ayant toujours possédé, en vertu de son titre, un terrain qu'il croyait lui appartenir par l'effet de ce titre, bien qu'en réalité, le titre ne s'y appliquât pas, pouvait être considéré comme un possesseur de bonne foi et avait droit à ses impenses. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Beauvais et vir vs Lépine, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 451.

8. Le défendeur, poursuivi au pétitoire par le demandeur qui lui revendiquait un immeuble, répondit à l'action qu'il était détenteur de bonne foi, qu'il avait droit de retenir l'immeuble jusqu'au paiement de certaines impenses qu'il y avait faites, et qu'il était prêt à le délaisser sur paiement de ces impenses. Dans sa réponse au plaidoyer, le demandeur admit la créance des impenses, mais opposa en compensation une dette que le défendeur lui devait sur billet. Ce dernier répliqua qu'il n'avait pas d'objection à ce que la compensation fût prononcée, mais il conclut à ce que le demandeur fut condamné à lui payer les frais de l'action, pour le motif qu'il ne l'avait pas, avant la poursuite, mis en demeure de lui livrer l'immeuble, en lui offrant cette compensation à l'encontre de ses impenses: Dans ces circonstances, le défendeur, admettant la compensation qui éteignait la créance de ses impenses, aurait dû, par sa réplique à la réponse du demandeur, délaisser l'immeuble, cette réponse le mettant valablement en demeure de délaisser. En conséquence, le demandeur fut condanmé à payer les dépens de l'action jusqu'à la production de sa réponse, et les frais depuis ce moment furent mis à la charge du défendeur. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Fontaine vs Mongeau, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 20.

9. Les impenses utiles et nécessaires, qui ont augmenté la valeur de la propriété, peuvent être réclamées par le détenteur de mauvaise foi, sauf compensation par les fruits et revenus. C. S., 1899, Pontiac, Dagg vs Dagg, et Dagg, 5 R. J., 511.

10. La vente d'un immeuble consentie par celui qui l'occupe sans en être le propriétaire légal, est, pour l'acheteur, un titre au sens de l'article 412 C. c.

11. Par suite, sa possession en vertu de ce titre peut être de bonne foi, lui assurer, quant à ses améliorations, les droits prévus à l'article 417 C. c., et rendre siens les fruits qu'il perçoit, sans compensation avec le remboursement des améliorations. C. Sup., 1906, Québec, The St. Lawrence Terminal Co. vs Hallé, R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 127; 39 R. C. Supr., 47.

12. Des constructions, travaux de défrichement et autres de même nature sont des impenses simplement utiles et nécessaires.

13. Dans le cas d'améliorations non nécessaires faites par un possesseur de mauvaise foi, le propriétaire peut, à son choix, les retenir en payant ce qu'elles ont coûté ou leur valeur actuelle, ou bien permettre à tel possesseur de les enlever à ses frais, si elles peuvent l'être avec avantage pour ce tiers et sans détériorer le sol; au cas contraire, les améliorations restent au propriétaire du fonds sans indemnité.

14. La clause d'un billet de location qui oblige l'acquéreur d'un terrain de la Couronne à payer la valeur des améliorations utiles appartenant à un tiers, ne peut être invoquée par ce tiers pour ce qui a trait aux améliorations faites par lui subséquemment à des offres suffisantes d'indemnité et à une mise en demeure régulière par le porteur de tel billet de location devenu ensuite cessionnaire de la Couronne en vertu de lettres-patentes, son refus de déguerpir et d'accepter de telles offres le rend possesseur de mauvaise foi, et il doit être traité comme tel.

15. Le possesseur de mauvaise foi a droit au remboursement, comme dépenses nécessaires, des taxes municipales et scolaires auxquelles l'immeuble révendiqué était assujetti, et qu'il a payées durant son occupation. C. S., 1908, Pontiac, Mathieu vs Berthiaume, 14 R. L., n. s., 506.

16. Good faith is the essential condition to the right of the possessor of immovable property to claim the value of improvements upon it. When he claims it by plea to a petitory action, it is a good answer that the improvements were made after notice to him by protest that his title was disputed. S. C., 1909, Sweetsburg, Gervais vs Benjamin, Q. J. R., 35 S. C., 479; 15 R. J., 226.

17. La bonne foi dont parle l'article 417 C. c. n'est pas autre chose que la bonne foi définie par l'article 412 C. c. Elle doit, dans les deux cas, reposer sur double fondement (a) d'un titre translatif de propriété (b) de l'ignorance du possesseur, soit des vices de ce titre, soit de l'avènement de la cause résolutoire qui y met fin. Les constructions sur un terrain vacant ne sont pas des améliorations nécessaires, ni utiles, et le possesseur de mauvaise foi peut être forcé de les enlever, ou de les laisser sans indemnité au propriétaire du sol, ce dernier ayant toujours le droit de les garder en payant le coût ou la valeur actuelle, à son choix. C. S., 1912, Fraserville, Asselin vs Lévesque, 19 R. J., 72, 180.

18. Colon.—Un squatter qui a fait des améliorations, impenses utiles, sur une propriété qu'il occupait sans le consentement du propriétaire, est en droit d'obtenir jugement contre tel propriétaire, pour le surplus de la valeur de telles améliorations, au delà de la valeur des fruits et revenus de la propriété, et de retenir la possession de telle propriété jusqu'à ce qu'il ait été payé de ses améliorations. Le seul moyen légal de constater la valeur des améliorations et des fruits et revenus, des améliorations et des fruits et revenus, quand telles améliorations sont réclamées par un défendeur en réponse à une action pétitoire de la part du propriétaire, est par une expertise. C. C., 1857, Stanstead, Stuart vs Eaton, 8 D. T. B. C., 113; 6 R. J. R. Q., 157; 16 R. J. R. Q., 367; 17 R. L., 694.

19. Le tiers détenteur condamné à rendre l'immeuble qu'il détient après liquidation des fruits et revenus et des impenses et améliorations, sous la réserve de son droit de rétention s'il y a excédent en sa faveur, a droit de percevoir les fruits de l'immeuble revendiqué jusqu'au jugement final, sauf à rendre compte au propriétaire. C. C., 1883, Saguenay, Dufour vs Dufour, 10 L. N., 305; 14 L. N., 54.

20. Co-propriétaire.—Le co-propriétaire d'un immeuble n'a pas droit d'être colloqué de préférence à l'autre co-propriétaire sur sa part afférente du prix de vente par licitation judiciaire de cette propriété en vertu d'une créance pour améliorations et réparations faites à cet immeuble.

21. Le moyen que la loi accorde à celui qui a lait des améliorations, c'est le droit de rétention.

22. L'appelant, pour conserver son privilège de détenteur, aurait dû voir à le faire inscrire au cahier des charges, sans quoi il a été périmé.

23. L'auteur de l'appelant aurait dû faire valoir son recours pour impenses, lors du jugement dans la cause dans laquelle il était partie comme défendeur et dans laquelle l'intimé avait été déclaré propriétaire d'un cinquième. B. R., 1898, Québec, Crédit Foncier vs Loranger, R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 193.

24. Donation entrevifs. — Des donataires, poursuivis en nullité de la donation par des créanciers qui prétendent que cette donation a été faite en fraude de leurs droits, ne peuvent réclamer le droit de rétention des immeubles donnés, pour être payés des améliorations qu'ils ont faites à l'immeuble et tout ce qu'ils peuvent réclamer c'est que le délaissement ne soit ordonné qu'à la charge de leur privilège d'être payés de ces impenses. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Prowse vs Simpson et al. et Ross et al., 13 R. L., 203.

25. Legs particulier.—Les légataires à titre universel d'un legs particulier à eux fait, à la condition qu'ils renonceraient à leurs droits dans la succession, ne sont pas tenus des impenses faites durant la communauté de biens de leurs auteurs, sur des immeubles propres à l'un des époux. B. R., 1886, Québec, Taché et al. vs Dame Taché et vir, 14 R. L., 257; 9 L. N., 338; 12 R. J. Q., 45.

26. Rétention.—Le défendeur qui a fait des impenses pour lesquelles il a une créance privilégiée sur l'immeuble dont on lui demande le délaissement, n'a que le droit de retenir l'immeuble jusqu'à ce qu'il ait été payé de ses impenses, mais il peut exercer sa créance privilégiée sur le prix de l'immeuble qui devra être vendu par un curateur au délaissement, dans le cas où le défendeur ne se prévaudrait pas de l'option qui lui est offerte de payer la créance du demandeur. B. R., 1878, Québec, Matte vs Laroche, 9 R. L., 517; 4 R. J. Q., 65.

27. Saisie d'usufruit.—Sur réclamation pour impenses et améliorations sur des héritages dont l'usufruit seul a été saisi, il ne peut être accordé qu'une proportion de la valeur de telles impenses, suivant la plus value qu'en a reçue l'usufruit. B. R., 1859, Montréal, Fauteux vs Boston, 9 D. T. B. C., 263; 7 R. J. R. Q., 228.

28. Saisie et vente d'immeuble.—An owner whose property is sold at the suit of his personal creditors has a right to take out of the proceeds of the sale as against the hypothecary creditors the improvements and expenses he has made during his possession, and with regards to them must be considered as a tiers-détenteur.

29. This right may be exercised by one of his personal creditors.

30. The value of the claim must be settled by a verification. It need not be registered. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, La Compagnie de Prêt et de Crédit Foncier vs St-Germain et al., 26 J., 39; 1 D. C. A., 192.

31. Les constructions élevées sur un terrain par un acheteur à réméré peuvent être saisies et vendues séparément du sol.

32. L'acheteur à réméré n'a pas d'intérêt à empêcher la vente, contre lui, des constructions qu'il a élevées sur le terrain de son vendeur. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Lafontaine vs Bélanger et Bélanger et Lafontaine, 6 R. P. Q., 338.

33. Saisie-revendication. — Le défendeur poursuivi en revendication peut plaider impenses et améliorations faites pour la conservation de la chose et demander le renvoi de l'action.

34. Il n'est pas tenu d'alléguer dans son plaidoyer la valeur de ses impenses et améliorations que la cour fixera d'après la preuve faite.

35. Dans ces circonstances, la cour déclarera le demandeur propriétaire des biens-meubles revendiqués, ordonnera au défendeur et au gardien, sur paiement du montant de telles impenses et des frais de garde, de remettre les dits biens-meubles au demandeur, mais condamnera le demandeur à payer au défendeur ses frais et dépens. C. R., 1908, Québec, Lecours vs Price Brothers Co., 16 R. J., 441.

36. Tiers-détendeur.—A squatter entering upon lands with a knowledge that he has no right to do so, and without making proper enquiries as to the real owner of such lands, will be held to have been in bad faith and has no claim against the proprietor, nor any lien upon such lands, for the improvements he has made thereon, during his occupeancy with his own materials. C. R., 1884, Quebec, Galarneau et al. vs Chrétien, 10 Q. L. R., 83.

36a. Titre précaire.—L'article 417 C. c. ne s'applique, en général, qu'aux tiers qui possèdent animo domini, pour eux-mêmes et à leur compte, de bonne ou mauvaise foi; il ne s'applique pas à ceux qui possèdent en vertu d'un contrat ou à titre précaire, tels que les fermiers, les locataires, les usufruitiers, etc. Les droits et obligations des parties sont, dans ce cas, régis par les principes applicables aux contrats en vertu desquels ils possèdent. C. S., 1894, Saguenay, Chinic Hardware Co. vs Laurent, 1 R. J., 278.

37. Tuteur.—Le tuteur qui a amélioré la chose de son pupille doit enlever ses améliorations lors du délaissement de l'immeuble, et s'il ne les a pas enlevées en temps utile après avoir été mis en demeure de le faire, il ne peut, par une opposition afin de conserver, réclamer la valeur de ces améliorations, lorsque l'immeuble a été vendu et qu'il en est devenu l'adjudicataire. B. R., 1885, Montréal, D'Odet d'Orsonnens et al. vs Christin, 14 R. L., 253; 30 J., 9; 4 D. C. A., 253.

38. Usufruit.—Dans l'espèce, l'usufruitier ne peut répéter du propriétaire que les grosses réparations et les réparations nécessaires pour la conservation et l'exploitation des immeubles sujets à l'usufruit.

39. L'usufruitier ne peut réclamer les impenses utiles que jusqu'à concurrence de ce que les immeubles s'en trouvent être de plus grande valeur au moment de l'ouverture de la substitution.

40. Les impenses grosses et nécessaires sont remboursables en entier, quand bien même elles n'existeraient plus au moment de l'ouverture de la substitution, pourvu que l'usufruitier ne soit pas coupable de leur disparition par suite de son manque d'entretien.

41. Les impenses voluptuaires ne sont pas remboursables. C. S., 1861, Québec, LaFontaine vs Suzor et al., 11 D. T. B. C., 385; 9 R. J. R. Q., 463.

42. Vente.—La vente d'un immeuble, avec les droits et améliorations du vendeur, comprend le droit de rétention qu'il avait, comme possesseur de bonne foi, jusqu'au remboursement de ses améliorations et impenses.

43. A l'acquéreur d'un immeuble, poursuivi en revendication, qui invoque un droit de rétention que son vendeur lui a cédé, le demandeur ne peut opposer une dette personnelle de ce vendeur qui lui a été transporté, fût-elle partie du prix de l'immeuble que le vendeur devait lui-même à son propre auteur.

44. Le possesseur d'un immeuble, appartenant à autrui, qui prouve qu'il a acheté d'un possesseur antérieur, moyennant une considération légale, qu'il a possédé par lui-même à son propre auteur, comme propriétaire, au vu et su du représentant (agent).

45. Le possesseur d'un immeuble, appartenant à autrui, qui prouve qu'il a acheté du propriétaire, pendant quinze ans, et que, durant ce temps, il a payé les taxes municipales grevant l'immeuble, établit suffisamment la possession de bonne foi qui lui donne droit au remboursement des améliorations et impenses faites durant cette période. C. R., 1908, Québec, Fréchette et al. vs Gagné, R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 300.

46. Vente à réméré.—Dans une action en déchéance d'un droit de réméré, l'obligation de payer des impenses ne peut justifier le renvoi de l'action; la cour doit reconnaître le droit du demandeur à la possession de l'immeuble, et l'ordonner aussitôt que les impenses seront constatées et remboursées.

41. Dans l'espèce, les impenses étant admises, la cour compense la balance due pour impenses avec une partie des frais dus par le défendeur, et ordonne d'établir, par experts, la valeur des fruits et revenus. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Trudeau vs Ricard, 2 R. J., 233.

48. Vente à l'encan.—La clause d'un contrat de vente à l'encan, par laquelle le vendeur stipule que son acquéreur parachèvera les ouvrages en voie de construction sur l'immeuble vendu, ne fait pas obstacle à ce que cet acquéreur poursuivi sur action hypothécaire, réclame un privilège pour ses dépenses. C. S., 1884, Montréal, Leprohon vs De Bellefeuille, Prud'homme et de Bellefeuille, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 156; 8 L. N., 100.

V. Action hypothécaire, Action pétitoire, Chose jugée, Distribution de deniers, Donation entrevifs, Droit municipal, Gage, Garantie, Possession, Propriété, Privilège, Répétition de l'indu, Rétention (Droit de), Saisie-revendication, Terres publiques, Usufruit, Vente, Vente à réméré.

IMPUTATION DE PAIEMENT

Déf.—L'imputation de paiement a lieu quand le débiteur déclare, lorsqu'il paie, quelle dette il entend acquitter. S'il ne l'indique pas la loi en fait pour lui l'imputation sur la dette qu'il a le plus d'intérêt à payer et qui est pour lui la plus onéreuse. In potestate ejus est qui ex pluribus contractibus pecuniam debet, tempore solutionis exprimere in quam causam reddat. Pand., lib. 46, tit. 3. C. c. 1158.

V. Paiement.

INCENDIE

LOIS

1. La loi pourvoit à la tenue d'une enquête chaque fois qu'il y a lieu de rechercher la cause d'un incendie dans la province de Québec. S. R. Q., arts 3797 à 3822.

Montréal.—Il y a un commissaire pour la cité de Montréal. V. Commissaires des incendies.

Québec.—Il y en a un autre pour la cité de Québec dont la juridiction s'étend jusqu'à la ville de Lévis. V. Ed. verbis.

Dans le reste de la province, les coroners ont les mêmes devoirs et pouvoirs.

2. La loi pour prévenir les incendies, 3 Geo. V, ch. 38, (1912), crée un "commissaire des incendies de la province", ainsi que des officiers subalternes, dépendant du département des Travaux publics. Ce commissaire a tous les pouvoirs et juridiction d'un juge de sessions, d'un recorder et d'un coroner pour tenir une enquête sur tout incendie qui a détruit une propriété quelconque. Les pouvoirs et les devoirs de ce commissaire se trouvent dans cette loi. S. R. Q., arts 3811, 3822n. et s.

V. Commissaire des incendies, Droit criminel, Louage des choses, Responsabilité.

INCESSIBILITÉ

Déf. L'incessibilité est l'état d'une chose ou d'un droit qui ne peuvent être ni vendus ni cédés ni hypothéqués, soit par la défense de la loi ou par celle d'un donateur à titre gratuit ou d'un testateur. C. c., art. 1980; C. p. c., arts 598 et s.

V. Insaisissabilité et Inaliénabilité.

INDIVISIBILITÉ ET DIVISIBILITÉ

V. Divisibilité et Indivisibilité, Garantie, Obligation, Preuve.

INGÉNIEUR CIVIL

1. Les ingénieurs civils forment une corporation en vertu des S. R. Q., arts 5116 à 5126. Ces articles pourvoient aux conditions d'exercice de la profession, aux examens, à l'admission à l'étude et à la pratique, aux honoraires et pénalités.

"Nulle personne exerçant la profession d'ingénieur civil sans en avoir le droit en vertu de la présente section, ne peut réclamer devant un tribunal aucune somme d'argent pour services professionnels rendus en cette qualité." S. R. Q., art. 5124.

2. Ingénieurs stationnaires.—La "Loi des ingénieurs stationnaires de la province de Québec" se trouve dans 4 Geo. V, ch. 42 (1914); S. R. Q., arts 3866g à 3866m. Elle pourvoit aux examens, aux règlements, aux rapports et aux pénalités.

JURISPRUDENCE

3. Exercice de la profession.—Le statut incorporant la société canadienne des ingénieurs civils, passé en 1898, donnait le droit d'en devenir membre à quiconque pratiquait comme ingénieur civil dans la province, lors de la passation de cette loi. Le demandeur, prétendant remplir cette condition, présenta une demande d'admission dont les allégations de fait furent soutenues, au désir de la loi, par sa propre déposition sous serment. Sur le refus de la société défenderesse d'accorder cette demande, le demandeur requit l'émanation d'un bref péremptoire de mandamus au même effet.

4. Le tribunal n'avait pas à décider si le demandeur était qualifié comme ingénieur civil ou s'il avait fait les études et possédait les connaissances d'un ingénieur civil, mais seulement s'il pratiquait comme ingénieur civil, lors de la passation de la loi.

5. Celui qui fait, pour lui-même, des travaux exigeant des connaissances spéciales à une certaine profession, n'est pas censé exercer telle profession, à l'inverse de celui qui se donne comme exerçant cette profession pour le public et qui l'exerce de fait, quoique sa clientèle puisse être très limitée.

6. La déposition assermentée du demandeur ne constitue pas une preuve complète et inattaquable des faits y contenus; mais elle n'est qu'une formalité pour empêcher les demandes futiles, et n'établit qu'une présomption pouvant être combattue par une preuve contraire. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Taché vs La Société Canadienne des Ingénieurs Civils, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 215.

V. Professions libérales.

INHUMATION ET EXHUMATION

Déf.—L'inhumation consiste dans le dépôt d'un cadavre humain dans le lieu consacré à la sépulture, après avoir rempli les formalités prescrites par la loi. C. c., arts 53 b, 66 et s.

L'exhumation est l'acte par lequel un cadavre humain est retiré de son lieu de sépulture. Elle ne peut avoir lieu qu'après avoir obtenu une autorisation judiciaire. C. c., art. 69a.

LOIS

1. Tout ce qui se rapporte aux inhumations et exhumations se trouve aux S. R. Q., arts 4427 à 4450. Il y est pourvu aux actes de sépulture, au lieu et aux délais et aux règles d'inhumation et aux cimetières catholiques, ainsi qu'aux procédures pour l'exhumation et aux pénalités.

2. Cimetière.—"Il appartient à l'autorité catholique romaine seule de désigner dans le cimetière la place où chaque personne de cette croyance doit être inhumée; et, si cette personne ne peut être inhumée d'après les règles et les lois canoniques, selon les jugements de l'ordinaire, dans la terre consacrée par les prières liturgiques de cette religion, elle reçoit la sépulture dans un terrain réservé à cet effet et attenant au cimetière." S. R. Q., art. 4431. C. c., art. 66a.

3. Délai.—"Le cadavre d'aucune personne ne doit être inhumé ni embaumé avant l'expiration de vingt-quatre heures, au moins, à compter du décès.

"Le présent article n'affecte pas les règlements faits à cet égard par le conseil d'hygiène, en vertu du chapitre troisième du titre septième des présents statuts refondus (arts 3867-3982), ou par les corporations municipales en vertu de leur charte." S. R. Q., art. 4430. C. c., art. 66.

4. Exhumation.—"1. Sur requête, accompagnée d'affidavits en attestant la vérité, présentée à un juge de la cour Supérieure, pendant le terme ou en vacances, par toute personne, demandant l'exhumation d'un ou de plusieurs cadavres inhumés dans une église ou chapelle, ou dans un cimetière, dans le but de construire, ou dans le but d'inhumer de nouveau ces cadavres dans une autre partie de la même église ou chapelle ou du même cimetière, ou dans un autre cimetière, ou dans le but de construire ou de réparer le tombeau ou le cercueil dans lequel un cadavre a déjà été déposé, et indiquant, dans le cas de transport projeté d'un cadavre ou de plusieurs cadavres, la partie de la même église ou chapelle ou du même cimetière, où l'on désire déposer ce cadavre ou ces cadavres, le juge peut ordonner ou permettre que le cadavre ou les cadavres soient exhumés ainsi que demandé par la requête.

"2. L'ordonnance accordant la requête, revêtue du sceau de la cour Supérieure et signée par le protonotaire, est, pour la personne ayant la possession, la charge ou la garde de l'église ou du cimetière, une autorisation suffisante pour permettre l'exhumation demandée.

"3. Avant de pouvoir obtenir l'ordre ou la permission du juge aux fins de procéder à une exhumation dans une église, une chapelle ou dans un cimetière catholique romain, en vertu du présent article, le requérant doit démontrer que permission en a été obtenue de l'autorité ecclésiastique supérieure du diocèse dans lequel il est situé.

"4. S'il s'agit de l'exhumation du cadavre de quelque personne décédée de quelqu'une des maladies énumérées à l'article 4434, le requérant doit démontrer que permission en a été accordée par le conseil d'hygiène, et le juge ne permet l'exhumation que sujet aux précautions prescrites par le dit conseil pour protéger la santé publique.

"5. Sans la permission du juge, obtenue tel que susdit, il est interdit de procéder à aucune exhumation dans une église ou chapelle ou dans un cimetière." S. R. Q., art. 4442. C. c., art. 69 et s.

JURISPRUDENCE

5. Exhumation.—No post mortem examination of a body will be allowed when parties having a family interest in relation to the removal of the body from the vault and its examination, oppose the same. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Grothé vs North American Life Assurance Co. vs Children of C. O. Grothé, 7 Q. P. R., 111; 11 R. L., n. s., 523.

6. Inhumation.—Un ministre de l'Eglise anglicane, dans une paroisse dans laquelle se trouve un cimetière approprié et consacré par les autorités de sa propre église, ne peut être contraint par mandamus d'inhumer les morts dans un endroit qui n'a pas été sanctionné ou approuvé comme un cimetière par les autorités de cette Eglise. C. S., 1851, Québec, Ex parte Wurtele, 1 D. T. B. C., 414; 3 R. J. R. Q., 66.

7. A Roman Catholic parishioner who has never been excommunicated nominatim, and has never been adjudged or provided to be a public sinner within the meaning of the Quebec ritual, was not at the time of his death under any such valid ecclesiastical censure as would, according to the Quebec ritual or any law binding upon Roman Catholics in the province of Quebec, justify the denial of ecclesiastical sepulture to his remains.

8. A fabrique, although proprietor of a parochial cemetery, is bound on payment of the accustomed dues to give to the remains of the deceased burial in that part of the cemetery in which Roman Catholics are usually buried with the rites of the Church, and in which the grave are consecrated.

9. Burial in the reserved, unconsacrated part of a parochial cemetery implies degradation, not to say infamy. P. C., 1874, Quebec, Brown vs Les Curés et Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et de la Fabrique de la paroisse de Montréal, 17 J., 89; 20 J., 228; 2 R. L., 257; 6 R. L., 378; 1 R. C., 107, 477; 3 R. C., 471; 21 R. J. R. Q., 169; 6 L. R., P. C. A., 157; 44 L. J. P. C., 1; 1 B. J. P. C., 142, 191, 207, 547, 616.

10. La pénalité encourue pour défaut de faire une inhumation, ne peut être recouvrée que si la demande est faite dans les six mois de la date de l'inhumation. C. R., 1890, Montréal, Barré vs Béchard, 19 R. L., 189.

V. Anatomie, Cimetière, Compagnie de cimetière, Droit paroissial, Injonction, Mandamus, Propriété, Responsabilité.

INJONCTION

Déf.—C'est un ordre donné par un juge ou un tribunal. Elle est interlocutoire lorsqu'elle est émanée avant l'adjudication sur le mérite d'une cause, ou bien elle est permanente lorsqu'elle est prononcée par le jugement final. C. p. c., arts 957 et s.

C'est aussi une réprimande ou ordonnance prononcée par le tribunal d'office pour réprimer un abus. C. p. c., art. 20.

INDEX

Acte "ultra vires".... 1
Action en dommage, 4 et s.
Actionnaire..... 35
Action possessoire.... 90
Admission..... 71
Affidavit.....6 et s.,28
Amende..... 9
Appel, 10, 42 et s., 91, 115
Aqueduc.....80 et s., 198
Assemblée publique.. 88
Assignation, 101 et s., 122, 131, 133 et s.
Autorisation..... 154
Autre remède, 11 et s., 75, 78, 132, 162, 165
Avis, 17, 144 et s., 164
Barrière.....185 et s.
Bâtiments marchands 18
Biens volés..... 19
Billet de location.....20
Billet promissoire, 158 et s.
Bornage.....21, 156
Brevet d'invention, 22 et s., 31
Canaux d'égout....50 et s.
Cautionnement..... 30
Changement de destination..... 167
Chars urbains..... 33
Chaussée.....97 et s.
Chemin de fer, 24 et s., 69, 125 et s.
Chemin public, 34, 39, 60, 185 et s., 194, 214
Chose jugée..... 43
Cimetière.....46 et s.
Cité de Montréal, 11, 63, 87, 91 et s., 179 et s.
Clientèle, 64 et s., 200 et s.
Commerce, 68, 200 et s., 208
Commissaires du Havre, (Montréal).....48 et s.
Commissaires du Havre, (Québec)..... 52
Compagnie incorporée 1 et s., 56 et s., 80 et s.
Construction, 83 et s., 151, 156, 168, 193
Contestation d'actes municipaux..... 82
Continuation d'affaires, 61 et s.
Contrat, 36, 49, 63 et s., 125 et s., 148 et s., 169 et s., 200 et s.
Contribuable..... 214
Corporation municipale, 63, 73 et s., 80 et s., 83 et s., 87 et s., 99, 160 et s., 185 et s.
Coupe de bois..... 90
Cour du Recorder (Montréal).....91 et s.
Couronne.....94 et s., 213
Cours d'eau.....97 et s.
Débenture.....36, 99 et s.
Délai.....8, 101 et s.
Destruction de choses, 4 et s., 106
Directeur..... 58
Discrétion du juge, 57 et s., 107 et s., 149 et s., 165, 192
Dommage, 14, 22 et s., 37, 40 et s., 72, 98, 109 et s., 125 et s., 155, 166, 176, 197, 214 et s.
Droit commun..... 65
Droits acquis, 125 et s., 152
Electeur municipal... 12
Emanation.....121 et s.
Empiètement..... 156
Enquête publique.... 87
Etablissement industriel..... 123
Exception à la forme... 143
Exception déclinatoire 195
Exception préliminaire 103
Exécuteur testamentaire..... 124
Exemption..... 96
Expropriation, 3, 39 et s., 45
Fabrique.....46 et s.
Fermeture de rue..... 41
Formalités, 129 et s., 180, 189 et s.
Frais.....162, 176
Franchise.....53 et s., 139
Fraserville..... 100
Grand Tronc (Le)..53 et s.
Hôpital..... 214
Imprimeur du roi..... 137
Indemnité..... 39
Inhumation.....46 et s.
Inscription..... 146
Inscription en droit... 190
Interdit..... 80
Intérêt, 11 et s., 84, 214
Joueur..... 170
Juridiction, 18, 37, 41, 42 et s., 95
Lettre de change, 158 et s.
Licitation.....81, 184
Liste des électeurs, 82, 160 et s.
Louage des choses. 163 et s.
Louage d'ouvrage, 169 et s.
Machine..... 215
Marque commerciale, 10, 171 et s., 200 et s.
Mépris de cour..... 177
Mérite..... 178
Mines..... 157
Motion..... 8
Moulin.....83 et s.
Nuisance, 34, 123, 179 et s.
Officier "functi officio" 183
Partage..... 184
Particularités..... 7
Parties en cause.....59, 74
Péage.....185 et s.
Pénalité..... 92
Pompe électrique..... 179
Possession de terrain, 38 et s., 42 et s., 189 et s.
Poteau dans les rues.. 60
Preuve.....27, 211 et s.
Procédure incidente, 4 et s., 119
Procédure rigoureuse, 37 et s., 107 et s.
Procès-verbal..... 194
"Quo warranto"..... 56
Règlement municipal, 76, 83 et s., 88 et s., 100
Règle "nisi"..... 8
Réparations..... 163
Requérant conjoint... 194
Rétention..... 193
Révocation.....195 et s.
Servitude..... 198
Société.....199 et s.
"Standard"..... 173 et s.
"Statu quo".....153, 207
Substitution..... 210
Suspension.....195 et s.
Taxe municipale...78, 93
Tiers..... 66
Titre de propriété.211 et s.
Transport d'actions.. 124
Travaux..... 197
Travaux publics, 50 et s.,.....94, 214
"Ultra vires," 78, 86, 186 et s.
Usage de construction 77
Vérité, 56, 68, 139, 148, 189, 200 et s.
Vibration..... 215
Voisinage..... 214
Voiturier.....53 et s.
Votation de règlement, 82

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Acte "ultra vires".—When a company does an act or adopts proceedings beyond its powers, article 1033a of the old Code of civil procedure gives overture to a writ of injunction, even where the law provides another remedy.

2. It is not necessary that this corporation should have commenced taking possession of the land to be expropriated, to enable the proprietor thereof to have recourse to an injunction.

3. This recourse exists as soon as proceedings to obtain its expropriation have been taken, if such proceedings exceed the powers conferred by law to that company. C. R., 1897, Quebec, Atkinson et vir vs Stadacona Water, Light and Power Co., Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 289.

4. Action en dommage.—Sous l'empire du nouveau Code de procédure civile, le bref d'injonction n'existe plus comme demande principale; il est une procédure accessoire à une action principale, et conservatoire de sa nature.

5. Il n'est accordé par le juge que pour empêcher la destruction de la propriété ou des autres droits que le demandeur réclame par son action, mais jamais sur une action en dommages. C. R., 1899, Québec, McArthur Brothers Co. vs Coupal, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 521.

6. Affidavit.—In the affidavit in support of an application for an injunction it is not sufficient to allege grounds of information and belief merely. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Kane vs The Montreal Telegraph Co. et al., 20 J., 120.

7. Il suffit que l'affidavit requis pour obtenir un bref d'injonction affirme en bloc la vérité des allégations de la requête sans relater en détail les faits sur lesquels s'appuie la demande. C. S., 1886, Richelieu, Laferté et al vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Aimé et Robidoux, 14 R. L., 476.—C. R., 1887, Québec, Côté vs Corporation de St-Augustin, 13 R. J. Q., 348; 11 L. N., 87.—P. C., 1889, Iberville, The Central Vermont Railroad Co. vs The Corporation of the town of St. John et al., 13 R. L., 343; 18 R. L., 123; 30 J., 122; M. L. R., 4 B. R., 466; 10 L. N., 330; 12 L. N., 290; 14 R. C. Supr., 288; 61 L. T., 441; 14 L. R. A. C., 590; 59 L. J. P. C., 15; 1 B. J. P. C., 82, 139.

8. Une motion pour règle demandée contre des parties qui n'auraient pas obéi à un bref d'injonction, doit être accompagnée d'affidavit; mais il sera donné au requérant un délai pour y ajouter cet affidavit sur paiement des frais de motion. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Montreal Park and Island Railway Co. vs Ville de St-Louis et Villeneuve, 2 R. P. Q., 213.

9. Amende.—Any person against whom an injunction is directed, who refuses to obey it, is subject to the fine and penalties imposed by article 971 C. p., and the proper mode for the plaintiff to ensure the observance of a final judgment, confirming such injunction, is not by securing a second judgment similar to the first, but by having recourse to the remedy pointed out by said article 971 C. c. p., S. C., 1909, Montreal, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. vs Standard Ideal Co., 15 R. J., 456.

10. Appel.—In a case where a final judgment has been rendered enjoining the defendant not to use a certain name in his trade, the plaintiff is not entitled to an interlocutory injunction ordering the defendant to submit to the judgment, pending an appeal taken from the judgment; but has his recourse under article 971 of C. c. p. to secure the observance of the injunction. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. vs Standard Ideal Co., Limited, 15 R. L., n. s., 432; 11 Q. P. R., 100.

11. Autre remède.—The remedy by injunction does not lie where a statutory remedy has been given, e. g., by section 144 of the Montreal City Charter, which authorized any municipal elector to present a petition to set aside a resolution, etc.

12. Where the common law remedy by injunction exists it can only be exercised by some person who alleges and proves special damage, distinct and separate from that which the whole community suffers, and not by a person who bases his right of action upon his quality of municipal elector. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Bird vs Merchants Telephone Co., Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 445.

13. Il n'y a pas lieu au bref d'injonction lorsque la loi a pourvu d'ailleurs à un remède spécial aux griefs invoqués par celui qui demande telle injonction. C. S., 1902, Montréal Wallace vs Languedoc et al., 4 R. P. Q., 361; 9 R. J., 237.—C. S., 1903, Sweetsburg, Beauregard vs Corporation de Roxton Falls, 6 R. P. Q., 155.

14. No injunction can be ordered when another remedy lies, and the parties in the cause have, by agreement, provided for specific compensation in the nature of a stipulation of liquidated damages, in case of the violation of the clause of such agreement which it is pretended has been infringed. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Hamilton Powder Co. vs Johnson, 7 Q. P. R., 236; 10 R. J., 263.

15. Although the granting of an order for injunction, under article 957 of the Code of civil procedure of Quebec is an act dependent of civil procedure of Quebec, is an act dependent on the exercise of judicial discretion, the Supreme court of Canada, on an appeal, reversed the order on the ground that it had been improperly made upon evidence which shewed that the plaintiff could, otherwise, have obtained such full and complete remedy as he was entitled to under the circumstances of the case.

16. Davies and Idington J. J., dissenting, were of opinion that the order had been properly granted. Supr. C., 1907, Canada, Chicoutimi Pulp Co. vs Price, 39 Supr. C. R., 81.

17. Avis.—Si le défendeur n'a pas reçu avis de la présentation d'une requête demandant l'émanation d'une ordonnance d'injonction intérimaire, il peut, après l'émanation de telle injonction, faire valoir à l'encontre de l'émanation d'icelle, tous les moyens qu'il aurait pu invoquer s'il eut reçu avis de la présentation de telle requête. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Cushing vs Cité de Montréal et Weir et al., 8 R. P. Q., 55.

18. Bâtiments marchands.—An injunction will lie under the Merchants' Shipping Act of 1854 (Imp.), sect. 65, with regard to a ship to be built or about to be built, registered under the provisions of the Act of the Parliament of Canada, 36 Vict., ch. 128, sect. 36, and may be exercised by a judge in chambers. Q. B., 1877, Quebec, Dinning et al. vs Wurtele et al., 1 L. N., 33; 4 Q. L. R., 37.

19. Biens volés.—Where a robbery had been committed in a foreign country, but no trial had taken place, and the money stolen had been invested in the purchase of property here; the court restrained the selling or incumbering thereof. Ch., 1868, Ontario, Merchants' Express Co. vs Morton, 15 Gr., 274.

20. Billet de location.—The holder of a location ticket entitled to an injunction, is to restrain lessees of Crown Timber Limits under a license from the commissioner of Crown Lands for the Province, from cutting timber on the lands held under the location ticket, until the question of title should be determined by the courts. P. C., 1889, Montreal, Gilmour vs Mauroit et Paradis, 31 J., 232; 33 J., 231; M. L. R., 3 Q. B., 449; 11 L. N., 107; 12 L. N., 322; 14 L. R., A. C., 645; 61 L. T., 442; 59 L. J., P. C., 32; 1 B. J. P. C., 405.

21. Bornage.—Lorsque les travaux qu'un propriétaire veut empêcher sont sur les limites des propriétés respectives des parties, et qu'il n'y a pas eu un bornage légal, pour déterminer la ligne de division entre ces propriétés, il n'y a pas lieu à l'injonction. C. Supr., 1891, Montréal, The Anglo-Continental Guano Works vs The Emerald Phosphate Co., 21 R. L., 288; M. L. R., 7 B. R., 196; 15 L. N., 15, 373; 21 R. C. Supr., 422.

22. Brevet d'invention.—The fact that a plaintiff prays an injunction in an action in a superior court in which an injunction may be granted, is not, even after verdict for plaintiff, sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to recover superior court costs without the certificate of the judge who tried the case, when the amount of damages recovered is clearly within the jurisdiction of an inferior court. Q. B., Ontario, Emery vs Iredale, Emery vs Hodge, 7 L. J., 181.

23. In an action for an infringement of a patent, an application under the C. L. P. Act for an injunction to restrain defendant was refused, the patent being very recent, and there being conflicting affidavits as to the rights of the plaintiff to it: The plaintiff must establish his title at law before he would be entitled to an injunction.

24. The application would also have been refused under the Patent Act of 1869, sect. 24. To entitle a plaintiff to an interem injunction or account, he must waive all claim to more than nominal damages at the trial. P. C., 1870, Ontario, Bonathan vs Bowmanville Furniture Manufacturing Co., 5 P. R., 195.

25. Where a plaintiff on obtaining an ininjunction enters into the usual undertaking to abide by such order as the court may take as to damages, it is in the discretion of the court to grant or refuse a reference as to such damages where the injunction is afterwards not continued or is dissolved.

26. Where, therefore, a person in the employment of the owner of a machine for which a patent had been granted, surreptitiously obtained such a knowledge thereof as enabled him to construct a similar machine for the defendant, the court, although unable to continue the injunction in consequence of the invalidity of the patent, refused the defendant a reference as to damages, he having availed himself of the knowledge which he knew had been so improperly obtained. Ch., 1874, Ontario, Hessin vs Coppin, 21 Gr., 253.

27. Where the evidence at the hearing was the same as that given on a motion for injunction, and the judge before whom it was made granted the injunction, the court, at the hearing, made the injunction perpetual, although doubting whether the facts, as shewn in the cause, were not sufficient to entitle the defendant to an entire rescission of the agreement, on proper proceedings being taken for that purpose. Ch., 1875, Ontario, Gillies vs Colton, 22 Gr., 123.

28. A patentee, during the pendency of an action instituted by him to restrain the infringement of his patent, is entitled to an interim injunction under 35 Vict., 9d ch. 26, sect. 24, on the production of affidavits that his patent is being infringed by the defendant, and further, of a judgment in another case, establishing that he (the plaintiff) had successfully maintained an action complaining of a similar infringement. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Baril vs Pariseau, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 352; 9 L. N., 411.

29. An interlocutory injunction to restrain the defendant from using a patented device, will not be granted in a suit for damages arising from infringement and for a perpetual injunction, when the patent is recent and has not been established by a judgment at law. K. B., 1906, Montreal, The Ottawa and Hull Power and Manufacturer Co. vs Murphy, Q. J. R., 15 K. B., 230.

30. Cautionnement.—A private letter, whereby the signers bind and oblige themselves jointly and severally to be responsible and to pay the costs and damages which may be suffered by the respondents, etc., is not a compliance with the Injunction Act of 1878, which provides that a writ of injunction shall not issue unless the person applying first gives good and sufficient security in the manner prescribed by and to the satisfaction of the court, or a judge thereof. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, The Board for the management of the Temporalities Fund vs Dober, 23 J., 229; 2 L. N., 52.

31. The Provincial Injunction Act of 1878, requiring security to be given before an injunction is granted, does not apply to an injunction under the Dominion patent laws. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Baril vs Pariseau, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 352; 9 L. N., 411.

32. Si une partie a obtenu une injonction interlocutoire à la condition de fournir caution, la cour peut, par un jugement subséquent, lui fixer un délai dans lequel cautionnement devra être fourni, sous peine d'annulation de l'injonction accordée. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Moore vs Dame Bullock, 5 R. P. Q., 464.

33. Char urbain.—The defendants, having refused to sell certain classes of tickets upon their cars, or to accept them from persons from whom they were bound to accept them in payment of fares, were restrained from running cars upon which these tickets were upkept for sale, and this restraint was coupled with a declaration that they were bound to sell them on all their cars to all persons desiring to buy them, and to receive them from all persons in payment of fares during the hours mentioned in the by-law. H. C., 1904, Ontario, City of Hamilton vs Hamilton Street Railway Co., 4 Can. Ry. Cas., 153; 8 O. L. R., 642.

34. Chemin de fer.—A railway company being about to construct their line along a public street, a bill was filed by the owner of property in front of which it would pass, to restrain the construction of the road, on the ground, as alleged, that his property would be thereby greatly depreciated in value from divers causes, and rendered greatly less eligible from the inconvenience and danger occasioned by the cars running immediately in front thereof, and the present traffic be diverted from that part of the road: The injury as alleged did not amount to a private nuisance, and therefore the complainant was not entitled to an injunction; and also, as the injury was not irreparable, the court would not, if otherwise in favour of the plaintiff, have granted the application. Ch., 1857, Ontario, Magee vs London and Port Stanley Railway Co., 6 Gr., 170.

35. An individual shareholder in a railway company will not be entitled to an injunction forbidding a special meeting of the company, for the purpose of sanctioning a lease of the road to another railroad, until a meeting has been called at which the accounts of the company have been submitted ,unless fraud by the majority or corrupt influence have been proved. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Angus vs the Montreal, Portland and Boston Railway Co., 23 J., 161; 9 R. L., 646; 2 L. N., 203.

36. Un entrepreneur qui a fait un contrat avec une compagnie de chemin de fer, pour la construction de son chemin, et qui ne fait pas les travaux qu'il s'était obligé de faire, et ne remplit pas les obligations qu'il avait assumées par le contrat, n'a pas droit à un bref d'injonction, pour empêcher la compagnie d'émaner des débentures, et de les payer à un autre entrepreneur qui aurait fait les travaux, en vertu d'un contrat subséquent octroyé à ce dernier par la dite compagnie; et un bref d'injonction émané, à cette fin, sera cassé et annulé sur motion, en autant qu'il opère comme bref d'injonction. B. R., 1885, Montréal, La Compagnie du chemin de fer Atlantique Canadien vs Stanton et al., 14 R. L., 65.

37. The court not only has jurisdiction to interfere to restrain a company from affecting a man's land by deviating from the exact limits prescribed by the statute which gives them authority, but is almost bound to interfere, and will, as a matter of course, interfere, unless the damage is so slight that no injury has arisen, or is likely to arise, or unless the injury, if any has arisen, is so small as to be hardly capable of being appreciated by damages, or unless the remedy by action of damages is adequate and sufficient, or is, under the circumstances of the case, the proper remedy, or unless the trespass is one merely of a temporary nature.

38. So where a railway company commenced works on the lands of a person without obtaining a warrant of possession under the statute, held that it was a proper case for an injunction. S. C., 1886, Montreal, Everse et al. vs North-West Railway Co., M. L. R., 2 S. C., 290; 9 L. N., 374.

39. La permission accordée par le comité des chemins de fer du Conseil Privé à une compagnie de traverser un chemin public où se trouvent les abords d'un pont appartenant à un particulier, ne prive pas ce particulier de recours, pour indemnité, et faute d'une offre préalable de telle indemnité, il peut, par bref d'injonction, empêcher la compagnie de construire son chemin sur ces abords. B. R., 1902, Montréal, Jones et al. vs The Atlantic and North-West Railway Co., R. J. Q., 12 B. R., 392.

40. Where a railway company, by expropriation proceeding, obtains land for one object and makes use of it for another, causing additional damage to the expropriated party, particularly when the railway company has declared that it so expropriated for the former object in order to save the greater damage resulting from the other object, the expropriated party is entitled to an interlocutory order of injunction, irrespective of his right to recover damages, the object of the law being that all damages must be paid before expropriation. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Hampson vs Chateauguay and Northern Railway Co. et al., 6 Q. P. R., 283.

41. In an action by a municipality for an injunction against a railway company to restrain the latter from closing up or interfering with a certain road, it developed that the Board of Railway Commissioners had made an order authorizing the railway company to divert a portion of the said road and construct their line between certain points of such diversion. The trial judge decided that the municipality could maintain such an action only by the attorney general as plaintiff: While the court had jurisdiction to grant all proper relief, the Board of Railway Commissioners having dealt with the matter, the plaintiffs should apply to the Board for relief as they had complete control over their order. F. C., 1908, British Columbia, Municipality of Delta vs Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway and Navigation Co., 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 362; 14 B. C. L. R., 83.

42. The defendant applied for warrant of possession under the Railway Act regarding expropriation of lands, and the judge, sitting in court, granted the warrant of possession on facts which the court en banc, in Marsan vs Grand Trunk Pacific, held were not sufficient to give the judge jurisdiction, and the order was therefore invalid. The plaintiff, instead of taking an appeal from the order, brought an action against the railway company, claiming injunction and damages: The plaintiff could maintain the action, for the reason that, even if an appeal would lie from the order, the plaintiff was entitled to additional relief by way of an injunction and damages which could not be given on appeal.

43. The principle of res judicata would not apply, as the order granting the warrant of possession was made without jurisdiction.

44. The railway company having acted under the invalid warrant of possession had committed a technical trespass and was liable for nominal damages, which carried costs. Supr. C., 1909, Alberta, Girouard vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 354; 2 Alta L. R., 54.

45. In the absence of evidence that the company has been oppressive or high-handed, an injunction will not be granted to restrain the railway company from proceeding with the railway, even if there has not been substantial compliance with the Act, provided the railway company will enter into an undertaking to comply forthwith with the requirements of the Act and to facilitate the proceedings for determining the amount of compensation to be paid. But the court will reserve to the plaintiff the right to apply to a single judge for an injunction to prevent any unnecessary delay in proceeding to comply with the Act and pay compensation. Supr. C., 1909, Alberta, Marsan vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 2 Alta L. R., 43; 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 341.

46. Cimetière.—S'il appert, comme dans l'espèce, qu'une fabrique représentée suivant la loi n'a fait qu'exécuter les ordres et les décrets de l'autorité religieuse compétente, confirmés par l'autorité civile, pour l'ouverture d'un nouveau cimetière et la fermeture de l'ancien, l'émanation d'un bref d'injonction, pour arrêter à l'avenir de nouvelles inhumations, sera refusée, jusqu'à ce qu'il apparaisse que la dite autorité ecclésiastique a retiré ses décrets ou que la fabrique a agi contrairement à iceux.

47. La demande d'émanation d'un bref d'injonction à cette fin viendra trop tard, si le fait est déjà accompli, c'est-à-dire si des inhumations ont déjà eu lieu dans le nouveau cimetière. B. R., 1895, Québec, Dubé et al. vs Fabrique de l'Isle Verte, R. J. Q., 6 B. R., 424.

48. Commissaire du havre (Montréal). Where an injunction was demanded against the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal, on grounds which concerned the public generally: As the defendants trust was not of a private but of a public nature, the proceedings should have been in the name of the attorney general, and the demand was refused. S. C., 1879, Montreal, St. Lawrence Grain Elevating Co. vs Harbour Commissioners of Montreal and Montreal Elevating Co., 2 L. N., 197.

49. A private individual is not entitled to an injunction to restrain a public corporation such as the Montreal Harbour Commissioners from entering into a contract with third parties, unless he shows that some private right pertaining to him has been invaded, and that a private injury, separate and distinguishable from the injury to the public generally, will be caused to him by the contract alleged to be ultra vires. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Taylor vs The Montreal Harbour Commissioners, Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 275.

50. An injunction will not lie to restrain a public corporation, such as the Harbour Commissioners of Montreal, from carrying on statutory works in discharge of their trust, even though such works should interfere with, or obstruct, the operation of a public utility (v. g., drainage) by the municipality in which they are performed.

51. More particularly will such be the case, if it be made to appear that any immediate danger of ill consequences is obviated by the consent of the commissioners to allow the municipality to operate the utility (v. g., to extend its sewers), through their works, in any manner approved of by their engineers. K. B., 1910, Montreal, The Town of Maisonneuve vs The Harbour Commissioners of Montreal, 17 R. J., 378; Q. J. R., 39 S. C., 36.

52. Commissaire du havre (Québec).—An order of injunction, no matter under what circumstances obtained, must be implicitly observed, so long as it exists. An interim order of injunction will lie to restrain the Quebec Harbour Commissioners from proceeding on an arbitration under 36 Vict., ch. 62, sect. 14, where it is made to appear that such arbitration has already been held, and suit has been brought and is pending to recover the amount of the award. S. C., 1888, Quebec, Clint vs Quebec Harbour Commissioners, 14 Q. L. R., 343; 12 L. N., 4.

53. Compagnie de chemin de fer le Grand Tronc.—The petitioners complained that the defendants exercised the occupation of carters in and within the limits of the city of Montreal, and carried and transported for hire goods and merchandise between their depot and the stores and residences of the citizens of Montreal, and that they exercised an undue and illegal advantage and franchise and monopoly injurious to the carters of Montreal, and to the citizens thereof, and concluded by praying for an injunction against the said defendants: The defendants had a right as common carriers to employ exclusively any carters they might in their discretion choose, to collect and deliver freight to their customers, and such exclusive employment was not a violation of their charter, inasmuch as the act itself was essential or incidental to their business as common carriers.

54. As none of the persons using the defendants' road, and paying their charge for cartage, had complained in the present case, and as the the collecting and delivering by carters exclusively employed for that purpose by the defendants was not shown to be injurious to, but, on the contrary, advantageous to the public, no injonction in law could issue to restrain the defendants from acts by and from which the petitioners were not shown to be directly aggrieved.

55. The defendants should have been proceeded against under "the Grand Trunk Railway Company Act of 1854," and the corporation complained of, and alleged to have been created by the Provincial Act, entitled an Act to incorporate the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, had no existence. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, The Hon. Cartier, At.-Gen., vs The Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 12 J., 149, 177; 16 L. C. R., 91; 1 L. C. L. J., 64; 14 R. J. R. Q., 462; 17 R. J. R. Q., 397, 532, 535, 563, 564.

56. Compagnie incorporée.—Where a shareholder asked for an interim order to restrain persons from voting on certain shares, and it appeared that the shares had been held by the defendants for more than a year, to the knowledge of the petitioner, an injunction was refused, more especially as the petitioner had a remedy by quo warranto, if he were wronged by an illegal vote. S. C., 1884, Montreal, Gilman vs Robertson et al., 7 L. N., 60.

57. Le bref d'injonction est une procédure exceptionnelle, d'une extrême rigueur, qui ne doit être accordée que dans des cas d'urgence où il offre le seul moyen de prévenir un préjudice sérieux ou irréparable.

58. Par suite, lorsque les directeurs d'une compagnie industrielle font des démarches en exécution de résolutions des actionnaires adoptées en réunion générale, pour vendre les biens de la compagnie, la demande d'un actionnaire opposant d'une injonction, pour les en empêcher, et qui n'est pas dans les conditions ci-dessus, doit être rejetée. C. S., 1905, Québec, Plamondon vs Blouin et al., R. J. Q., 28 C. S., 149.

59. The directors of a corporate body may legally be made parties respondent to a petition for an injunction to restrain it from carrying out certain works.

60. An electric company that has, under its charter, established a system (planted poles, strung wires, etc.), in the streets of a city, for lighting by electricity, is entitled to protection in its possession and operation thereof, and an injunction will lie to restrain any party from constructing works that unduly interfere with it. S. C., 1911, Montreal, The Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co. vs Vipond et al., Q. J. R., 40 S. C., 196.

61. Continuation d'affaires.—L'intimé, sur une injonction, peut demander par requête à être autorisé à continuer ses opérations, s'il ne cause pas par là un tort sérieux et irréparable au requérant.

62. Une requête pour continuer les opérations n'a pas besoin d'être signifiée à la partie adverse. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Bague vs Promotive of Arts Association, 1 R. P. Q., 156.

63. Contrat.—On an application by a ratepayer for a provisional injunction to prevent the corporation of Montreal, and its officers from completing a contract with a gas company, which had been authorized by a resolution of the city council: The order asked for would be useless, as the signatures of the mayor and city clerk to the writing evidencing the contract would not affect the rights of the parties, the illegality alleged, if it existed, being as effectual against the contract when signed as before. S. C., 1884, Montreal, Stephens vs City of Montreal and Montreal Gas Co., 7 L. N., 114.

64. An injunction lies where the defendant, though not himself a party to the written contract, stands in the place of one who was a party, e. g., where he has purchased a business and the good will thereof from a person to whom it was conveyed by the written contract, and the party asking for the injunction complains of a breach of such contract.

65. The Injunction Act, in providing that the court or judge may grant a writ in certain cases under certain conditions, does not expressly or impliedly take away the common law right to an injunction in other cases which may not come under its provisions. S. C., 1893, Montreal, Canada Paint Co. (limited) vs Johnson and Sons (limited), Q. J. R., 4 S. C., 253.

66. Les dispositions de l'article 1033*a* du Code de procédure civile, § 3, qui accordent le bref d'injonction "lorsqu'une personne fait une chose en violation d'un contract ou d'une convention écrite," ne se restreignent pas, dans leur application, aux seules parties contractantes, mais l'une de ces parties peut obtenir ce bref pour enjoindre à un tiers de cesser un acte que ce tiers n'a pas le droit de faire et qui affecte injurieusement les droits que ce tiers a stipulés par le contrat en question. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Montreal Gas Co. vs Consumers Gas Co. of Montreal, R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 140.

67. The resolution and the application upon which it was founded constituted a "contract in writing" and a "written agreement" within the meaning of article 1033*a* C. c. p. and violation of its conditions was a sufficient ground for injunction to restrain the construction of the new works. Supr. C., 1897, Canada, Ville de Chicoutimi vs Légaré, 27, Supr. C. R., 329; R. J. Q., 5 Q. B., 542; 20 L. N., 178.

68. An injunction will be granted at the suit of a purchaser of a business to restrain the vendor from violating a stipulation in the agreement of sale whereby the vendor agreed not to enter the same business again at any time or help anyone to do so. Such a stipulation is violated when the vendor enters the employ of a rival firm in the same locality, as their manager and soliciting agent. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Cook et al. vs Brisebois, 2 Q. P. R., 162.

69. Where a petitioner for injunction shews that his rights under the terms of a contract made by him with the respondent and under a servitude granted by it over the property acquired are violated by it and another railway under agreement with it, an interlocutory order of injunction will be granted to restrain both respondents from the performance of any acts in violation of the contract and servitude. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Hampson vs Chateauguay and Northern Railway Co. et al., 6 Q. P. R., 283.

70. Une ordonnance d'injonction interlocutoire ne peut être accordée que pour ordonner au débiteur de faire exactement ce qu'il s'est obligé de faire par le contrat ou de ne pas faire ce qu'il s'est interdit de faire par le contrat. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Société Anonyme des Théâtres vs Lombard et Gawreau, 7 R. P. Q., 262; 12 R. L., n. s., 25.

71. L'admission par une partie qu'elle a violé certaines clauses de son contrat, donnant pour excuses que les clauses qu'elle a ainsi violées sont illégales, constitue un prima facie case donnant droit à l'injonction interlocutoire; le tribunal n'était pas tenu, à cet état préliminaire de la procédure, de s'enquérir de la légalité ou de l'illégalité de ces clauses du contrat. C. S., 1905, Québec, The United Shoe Machinery Co. of Canada vs Brunet et al., R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 200.

72. An injunction will not be granted to restrain a defendant from doing an act in breach of an agreement in which a sum is covenanted to be paid as liquidated damages in such a case. S. C., 1905, Montreal, The Hamilton Power Co. et al. vs Johnson, Q. J. R., 28 S. C., 450.; 12 R. J., 263

73. Une injonction interlocutoire sera accordée pour suspendre l'exécution d'un contrat accordé par un conseil municipal pour une somme de $50,100, alors qu'un règlement à cet effet approuvé par les contribuables ne pourvoyait qu'à une dépense de $50,000.

74. Sur cette requête pour injonction, il est permis de mettre en cause les personnes à qui l'entreprise a été ainsi accordée. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Lacroix vs Laframboise et La Corporation de Cartierville, 12 R. P. Q., 119.

75. Corporation municipale.—Le bref d'injonction ne doit être employé que lorsque la loi n'offre pas au poursuivant d'autres moyens efficaces pour faire suspendre une action, procédure, opération, etc., ou lorsqu'il y a urgence.

76. Le statut 41, Vict., ch. 14, n'autorise pas l'emploi du bref d'injonction pour attaquer la validité d'un règlement municipal. C. S., 1881, Terrebonne, Corporation du village de St-Jérusalem d'Argenteuil vs Compagnie du chemin de fer de Montréal, Ottawa et Occidental, 3 La Thémis, 87.

77. A municipality, which has no right of ownership in buildings situate within its limits nor any control thereof, is not entitled to obtain an injunction to prevent the use of such buildings for a particular purpose, which is not shown to be in contravention of any by-law of the municipality or dangerous to the inhabitants thereof. C. R., 1886, Montreal, Municipalité du village de St-Louis du Mile-End vs Cité de Montréal, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 218; 8 L. N., 337; 9 L. N., 235; 14 R. L., 605.

78. L'allégation que la corporation défenderesse a outrepassé ses pouvoirs en imposant une taxe qu'elle réclame, suffit pour donner lieu au bref d'injonction, quoiqu'il n'apparaisse pas par la requête que le tort appréhendé soit irréparable, et quoiqu'il ne soit pas allégué dans la requête que la requérante n'avait pas d'autre remède pour obtenir le redressement de ses griefs, la cour ayant à juger elle-même, au mérite, s'il existait ou non un autre remède. C. P., 1885, Iberville, The Central Vermont Railroad Co. vs The Corporation of the town of St. Johns et al., 13 R. L., 343; 18 R. L., 123; 30 J., 122; M. L. R., 4 B. R., 466; 10 L. N., 330; 12 L. N., 290; 14 R. C. Supr., 288; 61 L. T., 441; 14 L. R. A. C., 590; 59 L. J., P. C., 15.

79. Lorsqu'une corporation municipale outrepasse ses pouvoirs, il y a lieu à prendre contre elle un bref d'injonction. C. R., 1887, Québec, Côté vs Corporation de St-Augustin, 13 R. J. Q., 348; 11 L. N., 87.

80. La corporation de Ste-Cunégonde, autorisée à acheter l'aqueduc de Ste-Cunégonde et de St-Henri, pour une somme de $400,000 par un statut passé alors que l'un des deux propriétaires de l'aqueduc était interdit pour démence, ne pouvait acquérir la part de l'interdit que judiciairement; en conséquence elle pouvait acquérir privément l'autre moitié à un prix n'excédant pas la moitié de $400,000, sauf à acquérir l'autre moitié, lorsqu'elle sera vendue judiciairement, soit à la poursuite des créanciers de l'interdit, ou sur licitation provoquée par l'un des copropriétaires.

81. Il doit être laissé au conseil de ville une discrétion raisonnable dans une transaction de ce genre et la cour n'interviendra pas pour l'empêcher d'acquérir la moitié de l'aqueduc, lorsqu'il prétend que c'est le seul mode pratique d'arriver à l'acquisition du tout et qu'il est constant qu'il est de l'intérêt de la ville d'acquérir l'aqueduc. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Roy vs La Corporation de la ville de Ste-Cunégonde et Berger, M. L. R., 5 C. S., 361; 13 L. N., 43.

82. Si, pendant qu'une requête en cassation d'un rôle d'évaluation est pendante, le conseil veut soumettre au vote des électeurs municipaux un règlement qui doit être, d'après la loi, approuvé par eux, le juge, lorsque la liste des électeurs municipaux est basée sur le rôle d'evaluation dont la légalité est contestée, accordera une injonction et ordonnera à la défenderesse de suspendre toutes les procédures relatives à la votation du dit règlement jusqu'à la décision de la dite requête en cassation. C. S., 1898, Chicoutimi, Truchon vs Ville de Chicoutimi, 6 R. J., 99.

83. Une corporation municipale, qui a adopté un règlement prohibant la construction et la mise en opération de toute manufacture, scierie, ou autre mécanisme mu par la vapeur, sans avoir obtenu la permission du conseil (article 648 C. m.), peut se pourvoir par voie d'injonction contre toute personne qui, en violation de ce règlement, construit un moulin à vapeur dans les limites de la municipalité.

84. Le propriétaire de telle construction a un intérêt suffisant pour être admis à intervenir sur les procédures en injonction. C. S., 1903, Montréal, La Corporation du village de Ste-Agathe des Monts vs Reid et al., R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 461; 10 R. J., 1, 314; 10 R. L., n. s., 359, 364; 11 R. L., n. s., 515.

85. Une injonction interlocutoire sera accordée pour empêcher l'exécution de règlements municipaux dont la contestation, sérieuse en apparence, est actuellement pendante en cour. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Jodoin vs Corporation du village de Belœil et Compagnie d'aqueduc et d'éclairage de Belœil (limitée) et Corporation de la paroisse de St-Hilaire, 6 R. P. Q., 430.

86. L'injonction interlocutoire est le recours le plus efficace, et est, partant, ouvert aux intéressés, pour faire interdire la promulgation d'un règlement municipal passé ultra vires qui prohibe un genre de commerce, lorsque cette prohibition leur cause un tort sérieux ou irréparable. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Wilder vs La Cité de Montréal, R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 139.

87. Un bref d'injonction interlocutoire sera accordé pour empêcher une commission municipale de procéder à une enquête et de faire rapport sur une accusation qui ne peut lui être d'aucune utilité soit pour légiférer dans les matières de sa juridiction, soit pour administrer les affaires de la municipalité. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Fortier vs Guérin et al. et La Cité de Montréal, 12 R. P. Q., 108.

88. A demand for an interlocutory injunction to restrain a municipal corporation from holding a public meeting to consider a by-law imposing prohibition for irregularities must be directed against the corporation and its secretary treasurer, and not against the signers of the requisition.

89. An interested party may ask for that interlocutory injunction before the vote is taken on that prohibition by-law. S. C., 1910, Valleyfield, Moir vs The Corporation of the Village of Huntingdon et al. and Sellar et al., 11 Q. P. R., 319.

90. Coupe de bois.—The cutting of trees on land by a trespasser alleging adverse title is irreparable injury within the meaning of article 957 of the Code of procedure, and an interlocutory injunction may be issued in a possessory action, to restrain the party doing the injury from the continuance of the act. C. R., 1899, Montreal, McDougall vs Grignon, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 535.

91. Cour du Recorder (Montréal).—The Superior court has the right to issue an injunction to restrain the city of Montreal from executing a judgment of the Recorder's court, pending an appeal from a judgment of the Superior court affecting the same matter, but would not exercise it unless the party petitioning were without other remedy and exposed to irreparable injury, especially if the issue of the injunction would cause serious injury to the party enjoined.

92. The condemnation to a fine, with a term of imprisonment in default of payment, does not constitute a case of irreparable injury. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Mallette et al. vs The City of Montreal, 24 J., 264; 2 L. N., 399.

93. An application of plaintiff for an order against defendants, enjoining them not to execute a judgment obtained by them in the Recorder's court on the 11th September previous, whereby plaintiffs were condemned to pay certain sums of money assessed against their property for the costs of the construction of a certain drain. The present action had been instituted to have the judgment set aside, as well as the assessment roll on which the judgment was based: The application was granted. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Molson et al. vs City of Montreal, 3 L. N., 382.

94. An injunction issued at the instance of a contractor against the Commissioner of Public Works of the province of Quebec and the government engineer, to restrain them from resuming possession of a public work which the contractor was constructing, was held to have been improperly allowed, it appearing that the government acted under express authority of the legislature, and also that the terms of the contract permitted the government to cancel it if the work were not duly prosecuted. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Hon. Joly et al. vs Macdonald, 1 L. N., 446; 2 L. N., 2; 9 R. L., 166; 23 J., 16.

95. The court has jurisdiction to grant an injunction, at the instance of the attorney-general for the Dominion, in respect of trespass upon Crown lands.

96. Persons claiming exemption from the law must show some reason or authority leaving no doubt upon the subject. And where two persons, who were provincial ministers of the Crown, directed a trespass upon lands of the Dominion and showed no such exemption, and injunction issued against them. Q. B., 1888, Manitoba, Attorney-General (Dom.) vs Ryan, 5 Man. L. R., 81.

97. Cours d'eau.—A riparian proprietor who erects a dam across a stream under the authority of the law cannot be restrained by injunction from using the water in such manner as may be necessary for the operation of his power house.

98. The only recourse possessed by those who have been injured by this usage is for damages. C. R., 1910, Montreal, Green et al. vs Blackburn et al., 16 R. L., n. s., 420.

99. Débenture.—Dans les circonstances de la présente cause, il n'y avait pas lieu au bref d'injonction pour empêcher la ville de Fraserville de remettre à la compagnie du Chemin de fer de Témiscouata, comme bonus, des débentures au montant de $25,000, accordées en vertu d'un règlement du conseil municipal de la dite ville, dûment passé, et approuvé par un vote des contribuables. B. R., 1889, Québec, Bélanger vs Compagnie du Chemin de fer de Témiscouata, 16 R. J. Q., 112; 13 L. N., 284.

100. The fact that an action to annul a by-law authorizing the issue of debentures has been instituted by a person other than the petitioner, and is pending, without alleging that the by-law is in any way irregular or illegal, does not constitute by itself sufficient ground for restraining the issue of the debentures in question. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Lionais et al. vs La Municipalité du village de De Lorimier, Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 50.

101. Délai.—In cases of injunction, not under the Injunction Act of 1878, but under the Code, the delay on summons is the same as in ordinary suits. Q. B., 1881, Montreal, Black et al. vs Stoddart, 4 L. N., 282; 1 D. C. A., 287; 21 R. L., 25, 291.

102. An injunction may be applied for at the beginning of the suit, as well as during its pendency.

103. Where the proper delay has not been allowed between service and return, the objection can only be raised by preliminary exception, and such exception, unless accompanied by a deposit of the sum of money fixed by the rules of practice, is irregular and must be rejected.

104. A delay of several months in commencing proceedings, after knowledge of all the material facts on which the plaintiff relies, will not bar his right to the remedy by injunction. S. C., 1893, Montreal, Canada Paint Co. (Limited) vs Johnson and Sons, (Limited), Q. J. R., 4 S. C., 253.

105. Une partie qui, sur requête, a obtenu la permission de prendre un bref d'injonction, a autant de délai pour signifier le bref que si elle l'avait obtenu de plano. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Gauvreau vs Hauterive, 7 R. P. Q., 483.

106. Destruction de chose.—An injunction will lie to restrain a municipality from proceeding to confiscate and destroy articles (e. g., eggs) which have been neither inspected nor seized. K. B., 1912, Quebec, City of Montreal vs Layton and Co. and Gould Cold Storage Co., 1 D. L. R., 160.

107. Discrétion du juge.—The courts and judges of the province of Quebec have the power which existed in France upon summary petition, and which exists in England and the United States by writ of injunction, to restrain parties to a suit fro doing anything that might change the position of the parties from what it was at the beginning of the suit. S. C., 1876, Quebec, Carter vs Breakey et al., 2 Q. L. R., 232.

108. Pour obtenir l'émanation d'un bref d'injonction, le requérant doit établir un droit certain et indiscutable.

109. L'émanation et la cassation sont à la discrétion de la cour qui doit l'accorder, si les dommages que l'on prévoit peuvent être irréparables.

110. Lorsque le requérant établit qu'il a un droit plausible, et qu'en n'obtenant pas de recours demandé il est exposé à souffrir des dommages réels et sérieux, le bref doit être accordé et maintenu.

111. S'il y a tel danger et si les dommages que l'on prévoit peuvent être irréparables, le juge ne peut hésiter d'accorder le recours demandé.

112. Le juge doit sans aucun doute considérer et bien peser les inconvénients qui peuvent résulter à l'une ou l'autre des deux parties, dans l'exercice de ce droit rigoureux.

113. Cette règle est applicable dans le cas où le dommage peut tomber sur le requérant, aussi bien que lorsqu'il peut tomber sur le défendeur, et que la partie qui est plus exposée à ce dommage doit être considérée plus favorablement par le juge et doit avoir le bénéfice du doute, qui, dans un cas de conflit de droit, devrait être interprété contre elle.

114. Le droit qu'exerce le juge dans l'émanation de ce bref est essentiellement protecteur, et celui qui court le risque de dommages irréparables doit être protégé. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Dobie vs The Board for management et al., 9 R. L., 574; 2 L. N., 278.

115. Although the court of King's Bench, sitting in appeal, has power to overrule the discretion exercised by the court of first instance in refusing a petition for an interim injunction, it is a power which will be used only in an extreme case, where the right of the petitioner is clear and unmistakeable, and where there has been manifest error in refusing his application. K. B., 1902, Montreal, The South Shore Railway Co. vs The Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, Q. J. R., 12 K. B., 28.

116. Pour l'obtention d'un bref d'injonction, le requérant doit démontrer un droit clair et indiscutable, et il doit faire voir que sans ce bref il peut lui résulter un préjudice réel et sérieux.

117. Et le juge doit considérer les droits apparents des parties et les inconvénients en dommages qui pourraient en résulter à l'une ou l'autre de ces parties. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Dame Delancy et al. vs Guilbault, 19 R. L., 544.

118. Le bref d'injonction ne doit être accordé que lorsque le droit de celui qui le requiert est indiscutable et prime évidemment les prétentions du défendeur et semble primâ facie indiscutable; il faut de plus que ce bref soit justifié par des cas d'urgence pour protéger le requérant contre des dommages excessifs et contre lesquels il n'y aurait qu'un recours illusoire. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Demers vs Sylvestre, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 308.

119. L'injonction est une procédure provisoire et accessoire de l'action principale, qu'il est au pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge d'accorder ou de refuser selon les circonstances. Il faut tenir compte, dans l'exercice de ce pouvoir, des inconvénients qui peuvent en résulter pour l'une ou l'autre des parties et même pour les tiers, et lorsque l'émission du bref peut causer plus de mal à aucun de ceux-ci que le refus de l'accorder n'en peut faire au demandeur, la demande en doit être rejetée. B. R., 1906, Montréal, La Société Anonyme des Théâtres vs Lombard, R. J. Q., 15 B. R., 267; 12 R. L., n. s., 25.—C. S., 1885, Montréal, Vermette vs Cité de Montréal et al., 35 J., 152.

120. Le bref d'injonction n'agit pas dans le passé; il a pour objet d'empêcher la commission d'un acte et non d'obtenir la réparation à laquelle on peut avoir droit. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Préfontaine vs La Société des Arts en Canada et Bourdon et al., 11 R. P. Q., 109.

121. Emanation.—Sous les articles 957, 960, 961 et 965 du C. p. c. concernant l'injonction, un ordre interlocutoire peut émaner du juge en même temps que le bref de sommation; et cet ordre interlocutoire peut être demandé par requête précédant l'émanation du bref de sommation; et cette requête doit être signifiée à l'autre partie excepté dans le cas de nécessité urgente.

122. L'ordre interlocutoire est signifié en même temps que le bref de sommation. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Hart vs Rainville, 5 R. L., n. s., 30.

123. Etablissement industriel. — The appellant and his predecessors had from time immemorial, carried on the business of tanning leather in Côte des Neiges, that being the principal industry of the village. A small stream, which runs through the lands of both parties, and which was partly used as a drain received certain noxious substances from the tannery. The respondent, who had, within a few years acquired a lot often or fifteen arpents lower down, and with knowledge of the industry long established in that place, complained of the pollution of the stream by the substances from the tannery and asked for an injunction. There were other proprietors between the parties, but the respondent alone complained of the nuisance. The effect of the injunction, if granted, would be to destroy the principal industry of the locality. The appellant was not entitled to the injunction. Supr. C., 1889, Canada, Claude vs Weir, 16 Supr. C. R., 575; M. L. R., 4 Q. B., 197; M. L. R., 2 S. C., 326; 10 L. N., 7; 12 L. N., 23, 180; 31 J., 39; 32 J., 213; 16 R. L., 186, 419.

124. Exécuteur testamentaire.—Il y a lieu à l'injonction interlocutoire pour empêcher des exécuteurs testamentaires de transporter certaines actions, alors qu'une saisie de ces mêmes actions, en vertu d'un jugement obtenu contre celui qu'ils représentent, a été annulée, ainsi qu'une saisie-arrêt entre les mains de ces mêmes exécuteurs, lesquels ne sont pas domiciliés dans cette province. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Bowie vs Crawford et al. et St. Michael Road Co., 7 R. P. Q., 1; 11 R. L., n. s., 256.

125. Exercice de droits acquis. — Where one or two parties to a contract is doing a thing which, by the terms of the contract, he has specially reserved the right to do, the other party to the contract is not entitled to an injunction to restrain the doing of the thing on the ground that the work is proceeding in a way which inflicts more damage than would be caused if another method, more expensive, had been adopted. So, in the present case, the municipality defendant, which had granted certain powers to the plaintiff, but had reserved the right to take possession of the streets when necessary for road operations, was not bound to adopt a more lengthy and expensive though less injurious method of performing the work.

126. In order to obtain an injunction in such circumstances, where there has been no invasion of a legal or equitable right, it must be established that irreparable injury will be caused if an injunction be not granted.

127. A temporary interruption of traffic and an injurious method of removing the rails, causing a damage in the nature of a pecuniary loss, do not constitute an irreparable injury.

128. Although difficulties had existed between the parties, and defendant may have derived satisfaction from the thought that the exercise of its rights would cause the plaintiff damage, yet malice alone does not open any right of action, where, as here, there was a real intention to accomplish the work and defendant was acting within its right. C. R., 1900, Montreal, The Montreal Park and Island Railway Co. vs The Town of St. Louis, Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 545.

129. Formalités.—A writ of injunction is synonymous with a writ of mandamus, and subject to the same procedure. Q. B., 1875, Montreal, Bourgouin et al. vs The Montreal Northern Colonization Railway Co., 19 J., 57.

130. L'injonction contenue au bref défendant de faire les opérations mentionnées dans la requête annexée au bref est suffisante. C. S., 1886, Richelieu, Laferté et six autres vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Aimé et Robidoux, 14 R. L., 476.

131. Il n'est pas nécessaire que le bref d'injonction soit adressé à la partie contre laquelle il est demandé; il peut être valablement adressé aux huissiers du district leur commandant "d'assigner la partie à comparaître à un jour fixé pour répondre à la requête libellée qui y est annexée et de lui enjoindre, etc." C. S., 1888, Québec, Corporation de Beauport vs Cie du chemin de fer Québec, Montmorency et Charlevoix et al., 15 R. P. Q., 1; 12 L. N., 108.

132. Un bref d'injonction ne sera pas accordé, si la requête pour l'obtention du bref ne fait pas voir que le requérant ne pourrait exercer ses droits par une action en dommages ou autre action que par un bref d'injonction, et si les allégations de la requête ne font pas voir que, sans injonction, il serait en péril de perdre son recours pour l'inexécution de l'obligation alléguée dans la requête. B. R., 1891, Montréal, Webster vs Watters et al., 21 R. L., 447.

133. Un bref d'injonction dans la forme des brefs ordinaires d'assignation est suffisant et régulier. B. R., 1894, Montréal, Préfontaine et al. vs Cité de Sainte-Cunégonde de Montréal, R. J. Q., 3 B. R., 429.

134. Where an interlocutory injunction is sought to be issued at the same time as the writ of summons in a cause, it must be asked for by petition, and such petition must be notified to the opposite party and adjudicated upon before the issue and service of the writ of summons in the cause; and where the interlocutory injunction is granted it must be served at the same time as the writ of summons. The defendant is without right to complain that he was not summoned to answer the petition by means of a writ of summons. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Hart vs Rainville, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 17.

135. Il n'est pas nécessaire que le bref d'assignation précède la demande d'injonction interlocutoire; il suffit qu'il émane de suite après l'injonction signée, pour les deux être signifiées en même temps. C. S., 1904, Québec, Wilder vs La Cité de Québec, R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 128; 10 R. L., n. s., 535, 552.—B. R., 1910, Montréal, Rhéaume vs Stuart, 11 R. P. Q., 434.

136. Il suffit que le bref d'injonction interlocutoire soit émis en même temps que l'action, partant, la requête peut être présentée avant l'émission du bref, pourvu que le tribunal, en accordant l'injonction, s'assure que le bref est émis et qu'il sera signifié en même temps que l'injonction interlocutoire elle-même. C. S., 1905, Québec, The United Shoe Machinery Co. of Canada vs Brunet et al., R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 200.

137. Imprimeur du Roi.—The court will not grant an injunction to the King's printer, enjoining him not to advertise the sale of lands and tenements, under the same ordinance. K. B., 1824, Quebec, Ex parte Neilson, S. R. C., 168; 1 R. J. R. Q., 195, 508.

138. Injonction interlocutoire. — A writ of injunction may be issued and is issued pendente lite. K. B., 1816, Quebec, Dupré vs Hamilton, 2 R. de L., 438; 2 R. J. R. Q., 254.

139. In a suit attacking the validity of an alleged transfer of the telegraph lines, and franchises and privileges of a telegraph company, the court will not grant, before return of the action, an interlocutory order restraining the company from raising the rates of transmission in pursuance of the agreement, and where such petition was presented it was ordered to be joined to the principal demand and to stand until final judgment. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Low vs Montreal Telegraph Co., 4 L. N., 293.

140. Lorsque l'émanation d'un bref d'injonction provisoire semble, sous les circonstances mentionnées dans la requête, demandant l'émanation, de ce bref devoir causer au défendeur plus d'inconvénients qu'il n'en pourrait résulter au requérant par le refus de ce bref, il ne doit pas être permis. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Vermette vs Cité de Montréal et al., 35 J., 152.—B. R., 1906, Montréal, La Société Anonyme des Théâtres vs Lombard, R. J. Q., 15 B. R., 267; 12 R. L., n. s., 25.

141. The provisional injunction or restraining order is assimilated to the writ of mandamus, and exists in our law in cases other than those specified in the Act 41 Vict., ch. 14 (Q). S. C., 1888, Montreal, Crawford et al. vs Protestant Hospital for the Insane, M. L. R., 4 S. C., 215; 11 L. N., 415.

142. An interim injunction cannot be made permanent when the works sought to be prohibited were completed before the writ was served, and as the writ called for the discontinuance of the works it could not be granted; and also because plaintiff had waived his right to his recourse by injunction, because he had since allowed his claim to be referred to arbitration. S. C., 1888, Montreal, Poudrette vs Ontario and Quebec Railway Co., 11 L. N., 130.

143. A petition for injunction, served on the opposite party, and asking, before praying for a permanent injunction, that the respondent be summoned to answer the merits thereof, is valid so far as an interlocutory injunction is concerned, although it be not accompanied with a writ of summons, and will not be dismissed on exception to the form. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Hart vs Rainville, 1 Q. P. R., 541.

144. Une injonction interlocutoire, émanée comme incident dans une cause après avis à la partie adverse, doit être décidée en même temps que l'action principale.

145. Même si aucun avis n'a été donné, l'intimée ne peut en demander le renvoi avant la décision de l'action de l'action principale, a moins qu'il ne le fasse par motion.

146. Une inscription pour enquête et mérite faite par l'intimée sur la demande pour injonction interlocutoire seule sera renvoyée sur motion. C. S., Montréal, Martin vs Cité de Montréal et Marsolais et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 495.

147. Where the interlocutory injunction has been allowed, the same will be confirmed and made permanent, if the reasons for granting the first order be found sufficient. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Corporation of the village of Vaudreuil et al. vs Poudrette dit Lavigne et al. and Corporation of the parish of St. Lazare, 8 R. J., 426.

148. An interlocutory injunction will be granted to enforce an agreement whereby the respondent purchased certain goods at as pecified price, with the condition that he would not sell at less than a certain other price, which agreement he deliberately violated. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Ozone Co. (Limited) vs Lyons, 7 Q. P. R., 65; 11 R. L., n. s., 529.

149. La loi ne confère pas aux tribunaux le pouvoir d'émettre une ordonnance d'injonction dans un cas où, en l'absence de cette injonction, il n'existerait pas d'action en vertu du contrat. Il faut que le droit que l'on entend protéger, au moyen de l'injonction, puisse faire, par lui-même, l'objet d'une condamnation.

150. L'injonction a simplement pour but d'accorder à la partie une protection additionnelle, là où il existe déjà, en sa faveur, une obligation dont l'exécution puisse être ordonnée par la justice, elle ne saurait rien ajouter ni retrancher au contrat, elle ne crée pas un droit, elle ne fait que défendre son droit, déjà complet en soi. L'ordonnance d'injonction interlocutoire c'est le contrat lui-même avec le fiat de la justice en plus. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Société Anonyme des Théâtres vs Lombard et al. et Gauvreau, 11 R. J., 527.

151. Une requête d'injonction interlocutoire pour la suspension de certains travaux de construction sera refusée, si ces travaux sont terminés lors de la signification de cette requête au défendeur. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Riopelle vs Altman, 9 R. P. Q., 80.

152. An interlocutory injunction will not be granted when serious questions are raised in regard to the validity of plaintiff's asserted rights, and when the sale of the goods complained of will not inflict such injury as cannot be cured by a final judgment. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Canada Newspaper Syndicate vs Montreal News Company, 9 Q. P. R., 78.

153. L'objet de l'injonction interlocutoire est de maintenir le statu quo entre les parties jusqu'à ce qu'il en ait été autrement ordonné par la cour; aucune disposition de la loi n'autorise l'émanation d'une injonction pour changer l'état des lieux occupés par les parties. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Houle vs Beaumier, 9 R. P. Q., 110.

154. Une injonction interlocutoire sera refusée, s'il est prouvé que le requérant a autorisé l'accomplissement par l'intimé d'actes de la même nature que ceux qu'il veut empêcher.

155. Cette injonction ne sera pas non plus accordée si elle est de nature à causer des dommages très considérables au public et à certaines municipalités voisines, et s'il n'est pas établi que le requérant souffrira quelque préjudice par le refus de l'émission de telle injonction. C. S., 1909, Montréal, La Cité de Montréal vs La Compagnie des Chars Urbains de Montréal et La Ville de St-Louis, 11 R. P. Q., 142.

156. Une injonction interlocutoire ne sera pas accordée pour empêcher l'intimé de construire sur son terrain et d'asseoir la moitié de son mur sur le terrain de son voisin, sous le prétexte d'empiétement, surtout s'il n'y a jamais eu de bornage légal entre les deux immeubles. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Racicot et al. vs Maher, 11 R. P. Q., 208.

157. An interlocutory injunction will be granted to enjoin the respondent from so conducting his blasting operations as to allow rocks and stones to be hurled on petitioner's property. K. B., 1910, Montreal, Rhéaume vs Stuart, 11 Q. P. R., 434.

158. Lettre de change et Billet promissoire.—A defendant may be restrained by injunction from negotiating promissory notes obtained from the plaintiff by false representations, and the plaintiff will not necessarily be left to his remedy for damages even though he might be compensated thereby.

159. On a motion to continue an interim injunction until the hearing, an affidavit of the plaintiff that he believes and fears that the defendant will negotiate the notes, unless restrained, etc., is sufficient without stating the grounds of such belief, as the allegation of fear of negotiation remains. K. B., 1912, Manitoba, Thompson vs Baldry, 22 Man. R. L., 76.

160. Liste électorale.—Where it appears that the lists of municipal electors of a town corporation have not been certified and signed by the secretary-treasurer, as required by article 4516 R. S. Q., and that the board of revisors is proceeding to the revision and amendment of the lists without the same being so certified, there is sufficient ground for granting an interlocutory injunction, on the petition of a municipal elector, to prohibit the board of revisors from revising or homologating the lists, until the final hearing upon the petition, or until the interlocutory order be further judicially dealt with. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Wallace vs Languedoc et al., Q. J. R., 21 S. C., 115.

161. Il n'y a pas lieu à l'injonction lorsque la loi fournit un remède spécial aux griefs dont on se plaint, et, partant, on ne peut y avoir recours pour empêcher les réviseurs d'une corporation de ville de réviser et homologuer une liste d'électeurs municipaux, parce que la dite liste n'aurait pas été préparée conformément à la loi, les articles 4376, 4522 S. R. P. Q. permettant de faire casser telle liste pour cause d'illégalité.

162. Cependant, chacun des réviseurs ayant produit une défense distincte invoquant les mêmes moyens, les dépens devront être taxés contre le requérant comme si les réviseurs n'avaient produit qu'une seule défense. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Wallace vs Languedoc et al., R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 298.

163. Louage des choses.—Lorsque le locateur a commencé à faire des réparations à la maison louée, sans le consentement du locataire ou un ordre de la cour, un bref d'injonction sera maintenu pour faire cesser les travaux.

164. Dans ce cas, il n'est pas nécessaire de donner avis à la partie adverse pour obtenir l'émanation du bref. B. R., 1886, Montréal, Bolduc vs Provost, 31 J., 68.

165. Il n'y a lieu à l'émission d'un bref d'injonction que lorsque le tort causé à la partie qui réclame est sérieux et irréparable et cette partie n'a pas d'autre remède en justice pour en obtenir la réparation.

166. Le locataire de partie d'un édifice, qui se plaint que son propriétaire, en transformant une autre partie de cet édifice, le trouble dans la jouissance, a un recours en dommages contre lui, tant en vertu des rapports de locateur et locataire que des rapports du voisinage et, par conséquent, il n'a pas droit à un bref d'injonction. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Poulos et al. vs Scroggie, 6 R. P. Q., 1.

167. An action by a lessor for an injunction restraining a lessee from using the land demised in a manner contrary to the lease, may be maintained as an independent action, without the addition of a prayer for the cancellation of the lease.

168. An action by a lessor for an injunction restraining a lessee from building upon the land demised in breach of the terms of the lease may be maintained without proof of damage to the lessor. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Audet et al. vs Jolicœur, 5 D. L. R., 68; Q. J. R., 22 K. B., 36.

169. Louage d'ouvrage.—The breach of a contract to render personal services to another will not be enjoined except when the services are of such a special, unique or unusual character that their loss cannot be reasonably compensated for in damages.

170. So an injunction will not be granted against a hockey player for breach of contract, if he is not a player of such prominence that he could not be replaced by other players equally as expert in hockey as himself. K. B., 1910, Montreal, Pitre vs L'Association Athlétique d'Amateurs Nationale and McCafferty et al., 11 Q. P. R., 336.

171. Marque de commerce.—In an action for the infringement of a trade mark the plaintiff has a right to obtain an interim order to restrain the defendants from using it. It appears to the court that as it has authority on the final judgment to dispose of the case in question, the plaintiffs are entitled to an interim order to prevent its disappearance. S. C., 1882, Montreal, Seizer et al. vs Cordingley et al., 5 L. N., 131.

172. Le propriétaire d'une marque de commerce qui se plaint que des commandes pour ventes de l'article couvert par cette marque, sont remplies par l'expédition de l'article couvert par la marque du défendeur, et que la ressemblance entre les deux marques est telle qu'elle peut induire des acheteurs en erreur, a droit à l'émission d'un bref d'injonction interlocutoire en fournissant caution. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Lefebvre vs Landry, 5 R. P. Q., 341.

173. An injunction will lie at the instance of a party who has, for many years, used a non-descriptive work, such as "Standard," as a trade-mark stamped on his enamelled and porcelain ware with the result that, so stamped, it has become generally known as his, to restrain another from using the same word, in the same manner, on like ware, thereby representing it to be the same as that hitherto procured under that name from the plaintiff, so that persons ordering "standard ware," who knew the plaintiff, to be the manufacturer, would expect to get his ware, and persons who did not know the manufacturer's name, would expect to get what they previously had, and thus, be, in either case, exposed to deception.

174. Semble: That the exclusive right to use a trade-mark registered under the Trademark and Design Act (R. S. C., 1909, ch. 71), carries with it the right to have others enjoined from using it and that the latter cannot set up, against a demand for injunction, reasons that might avail against the granting of the registration.

175. The remedy in case of the improper or wrongful registration of a trade-mark, would seem to be a direct action to have it cancelled. P. C., 1911, Montreal, The Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. vs The Standard Co., L. R., 1911, App. Cas., 78; 80 L. J., P. C., 87; 103, L. T. R., 440; 27 T.L.R., 63; 25 L. R. App. Cas., 789; 27 P. C. (Cas., Osg. Hall), C. R., 1911, App. Cas., 259; Q. J. R., 37 S. C., 33; Q. J. R., 20 K. B., 109.

176. Where a trader who is asked by his customers for a product placed upon the market under a trade mark substituted another one than the one asked, the court will maintain and declare peremptory an injunction, enjoining such trader from selling or offering for sale any such product, as being the product of plaintiff's manufacture, and will condemn such trader to pay damages and costs. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Bovril Limited vs Metrakos et al., Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 32.

177. Mépris de cour.—An injunction may be dissolved by the court notwithstanding it appears that proceedings for contempt are pending before another judge, against the party against whom the injunction issued, for disobedience thereto. C. R., 1893, Montreal, Marcil et al. vs Cité de Montreal et al., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 346.

178. Mérite.—A petition asking for a peremptory injunction must only be adjudicated upon at the trial, and cannot be tried before the action. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Consolidated Car Heating Co. vs Came, 2 Q. P. R., 401.

179. Nuisance.—The respondent installed an electric pump, in a building belonging to it in a strictly residential neighborhood, for the purpose of supplementing its plant for pumping water to the high level reservoir of the city. The operation of this electric pump produced noise and vibration which affected the health and comfort of the petitioner's family and rendered his residence unfit for private occupation, appeared that prior to the installation of the electric pump, the work of pumping water to the high level reservoir was done wholly by steam pumps without noise or vibration, whereas the operation of the electric pump caused both noise and vibration over a wide neighborhood. It also appeared that, from motives of economy, the electric pump was to be used during the night time. An interlocutory injunction was prayed for:

180. The existence of a writ of summons is not essential to the procurement of an interlocutory order of injunction.

181. Whether the electric pump had been accepted by the respondent from the manufacturer or not, could not affect the petitioner's rights.

182. A nuisance, whether public or private is, speaking generally, cause for an injunction But with respect to a private nuisance, the petitioner for redress must suffer some special, direct, substantial, or irreparable damage, over and above the general damage sustained by the rest of the public. A nuisance such as the present is ground for injunction, and for an interlocutory order as well, inasmuch as a denial of this remedy would compel the petitioner and other sufferers to ressort to a multiplicity of suits, without obtaining the cessation of the grievance, or adequate compensation. The statutory duty of the respondent to supply citizens with water and to provide water for fire purposes, does not affect the right to an injunction against a particular mode of pumping, not shown to be indispensable, but which, on the contrary, may be replaced by other methods of doing the same work without damage to neighbors. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Adami vs The City of Montreal, Q. J. R., 25 S. C., 1; 10 R. L., n. s., 383.

183. Officiers "functi officio."—Une injonction ne peut être accordée contre des personnes qui sont devenues functi officio, et qui ne peuvent plus agir de la manière décrite dans la demande. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Viau vs Ville de Maisonneuve et Bleau et al., 14 R. L., n. s., 264.

184. Partage et licitation.—The writ of injunction is a civil remedy, provided and regulated by the laws of England for the protection of property and the maintenance of civil rights, and the Imp. Stat. 14 Geo. III., ch. 83, sect. 8, having enacted in effect that, in the Province of Quebec, "in all matters of property and civil rights, resort should be had to the laws of Canada as the rule for the decision of the same," and that all suits respecting such property and civil rights should "be determined agreeably to the said laws and customs of Canada," until changed by subsequent legislation, and the proceeding by injunction not having been established by any legislation applicable to the said province, it cannot be allowed as a general remedy in a case, as the present, of partition and licitation. Supr. C., 1877, Quebec, Carter vs Breakey et al., 3 Q. L. R., 113; 1 L. N., 178; Cass. Dig., 463.

185. Péage.—Application for a writ of injunction to order the removal of certain turnpike gates, and to restrain and forbid the taking of tolls at them: Application refused on the grounds: 1st, that the statute of 1878, ch. 14, authorizes injunctions only to suspend certain acts, proceedings and operations (sect. 1st), and 2ndly, as regards the tolls, on the ground that they were taken from the public, and not from the party plaintiff, who had no right to complain on their own behalf. C. R., 1882, Montreal, Municipalité du village de la Pointe-Claire vs Compagnie du chemin de péage de la Pointe-Claire, 5 L. N., 259.

186. Il peut y avoir lieu à accorder un bref d'injonction à la demande d'un résidant dans une municipalité contre une corporation qui, outrepassant ses pouvoirs, exige de lui illégalement, et menace de continuer d'exiger illégalement, des droits de péage sur un chemin public, aux fins d'enjoindre à telle corporation de suspendre cette opération illégale

187. La législature a toujours le droit de restreindre, modifier et abroger même complètement tout pouvoir ou privilège qu'elle a pu conférer par des lois ou statuts antérieurs.

188. Le statut 52 Vict., ch. 43, a amendé les pouvoirs que possédaient antérieurement les compagnies pour empierrement des chemins en statuant que "telle compagnie ne peut placer aucune barrière de péage ou autre, dans les limites des villes et des villages constitués en corporation, soit en vertu de charte spéciale, soit en vertu du Code municipal, à moins que les dites corporations y consentent." Ce statut est une loi générale déclaratoire expresse; il affecte les compagnies constituées antérieurement, et le Statut 54 Vict., ch. 36, lui donne un caractère de loi rétroactive. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Fitzgibbon vs Compagnie de chemin de péage de Dorval, 3 R. J., 548; R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 409.

189. Possession d'immeuble.—A declaration in an action for injunction alleged that the plaintiffs were the owners of an immoveable property and remained in possession thereof for a number of years, when certain persons, acting in the plaintiffs' name, assumed to sell the property to the defendant, the deed of sale was null and fabricated; but it nevertheless recognized the plaintiffs' right to enjoy the property for educational purposes, and that the defendant by violence dispossessed the plaintiffs. The conclusions simply asked that the defendant be enjoined from troubling the plaintiffs in their possession of the immoveable.

190. A petition for the issue of an interlocutory injunction alleged that the allegations of the declaration were true, that the matter was urgent and the plaintiffs were ready to give security, and concluded with a prayer that the defendant be ordered to restore the plaintiffs to the possession of the immoveable, and particularly of certain parts thereof, and be ordered not to molest them in such possession. Ou inscription and answer in law: The declaration disclosed no right to the remedy by injunction and, moreover, showed that such remedy was inapplicable.

191. As the plaintiffs had not demanded the annulment of the deed of sale alleged by them to be fabricated, they could not, by injunction proceedings, be restored to the possession of an immoveable with which they had parted by the said deed.

192. In order to entitle a party to the remedy by injunction, it must appear primâ facie that he has a clear legal right which has been violated, and that redress is urgently required and cannot be obtained by recourse to other general or special remedies. C. R., 1898, Montreal, Protestant Board of School Commissioners of Outremont vs Town of Outremont, 1 Q. P. R., 449.

193. Une injonction interlocutoire ne sera pas accordée, au cours d'un procès, pour mettre la partie demanderesse en possession de propriétés sur lesquelles la partie défenderesse devait ériger des constructions pour elle, si la possession de ces immeubles, sur lesquels la défenderesse prétend avoir un droit de rétention, est un des objets du litige. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Canada Radiator Co., Limited, vs Société Anonyme de Construction, 6 R. P. Q., 354.

194. Requérants conjoints.—Sept requérants peuvent s'unir dans une seule et même action en injonction, pour demander la nullité d'un procès-verbal, ordonnant le changement d'un chemin de front et de tous les procédés faits sur ce procès-verbal, par la corporation municipale, et qu'injonction soit donnée à la corporation de ne pas ouvrir et faire de chemin sur les propriétés respectives des requérants, vu que ces demandes sont connexes. C. S., 1886, Richelieu, Laferté et six autres vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Aimé et Robidoux, 14 R. L., 476.

195. Kévocation et suspension.—Un bref d'injonction, en autant qu'il opère comme injonction, peut être cassé et annulé, sur motion faite et présentée en même temps qu'une exception à la forme et une exception déclinatoire. B. R., 1885, Montréal, La Compagnie du chemin de fer Atlantique Canadien vs Stanton et al., 14 R. L., 65.

196. Where upon allegations, and affidavits, in support thereof which were primâ facie sufficient, the court has granted an interim order to restrain the defendants from publishing or circulating certain statements pending suit, such order will not be dissolved at the instance of defendants where they show no right to publish or circulate such statements and it appears that the plaintiff would suffer very serious loss if not protected by an interim restraining order. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Jones vs McLaughlin et al., Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 38.

197. When it is in evidence that leaving certain works in their actual condition, in obedience to an interlocutory injunction, would be a source of damage for the life of citizens, and a prejudice to the interested parties themselves, it will be ordered that such interlocutory injunction be suspended for the time necessary to complete such works, and that the work be carried on, within such hours as shall be less prejudiciable to the parties interested, and saving in favor of the latter all recourse for damages sustained in consequence of the termination of such works. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Haycock et al. vs Pacaud, 12 R. J., 80; 7 Q. P. R., 270.

198. Servitude.—Si un droit de s'approvisionner d'eau est accordé en échange d'autres avantages, on doit le considérer plutot comme servitude réelle que comme droit personnel; et une injonction interlocutoire sera accordée pour le faire respecter, surtout quand l'intimé ne peut y mettre fin sans empiètement sur la propriété du requérant. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Christin vs Péloquin, 7 R. P. Q., 13; 11 R. L., n. s., 283.

199. Société.—The plaintiff asking an injunction had addressed a latter to the defendants, his co-partners, proposing a dissolution on certain terms. That was on the 14th November, and he gave them until the 24th at 4 p.m. to accept. They made a declaration of acceptance before a notary on the 22nd of November, and the declaration was notified to the petitioner on the 24th. Plaintiff wishing to withdraw the offer asked for an injunction to restrain them from going on with the business: The injunction was refused. C. R., 1880, Montreal, Demers vs Lamarche et al., 3 L. N., 117.

200. William Johnson sold his business and the good will thereof to a company now represented by the plaintiff, and stipulated that in the event of his retirement from the position of manager, he should be entitled to the use of his own name in carrying on a similar business, but he expressly bound himself not to use the style "William Johnson & Co." The name "William Johnson & Sons (limited)," adopted by Johnson after ceasing to be manager and resuming business for himself, was not so similar to "William Johnson & Co." as to justify an injunction restraining its use.

201. At the time William Johnson sold out his business and the good will thereof, the word "Johnson" was well known as descriptive of paints and colors manufactured and sold by him:

202. The right to use his name on resuming business for himself did not include the right to continue the use of the word "Johnson's" as descriptive of his paints and colors, this name having become the trade denomination of the paints. Although William Johnson had a right to do business in his own name as a rival to plaintiffs he did not occupy a better position than any other man named William Johnson would occupy. By acquiring the right to resume business in his own name he did not take back the good will of the old business which he had disposed of.

203. The same rule applied to the use of the words "Johnson's Floor Paints" on cards. William Johnson had a right to use a fac simile of his own signature in connection with the advertisements and sale of his goods. William Johnson, after having contracted not to use the name "William Johnson & Co.", had no right to circulate cards stating that "no one else has a right to use William Johnson's name." William Johnson had no right to continue the use of the words "O. J. Vermillion" and "O. J. Vermillionnette," the letters "O. J." having become a trade mark for a particular article acquired by the plaintiffs with the business and good will. The same rule applies to the term "Johnson's Magnetic Iron Paint."

204. Plaintiffs use a label with the four words "Johnson's Decorators' Pure Lead." On defendants' label were the words "Johnson's Pure Lead for Decorators' Use." The labels are of the same size, they both have an outside border of gold, of about the same thickness, with thin inside borders of black and white. The difference between the labels would not be noticed by ordinary purchasers: The use of the defendants' label should be restrained.

205. Where an infringement of a right is proved, the party is entitled to nominal damages though no actual damage be established. S. C., 1893, Montreal, Canada Paint Co. (limited) vs Johnson and Sons (limited), Q. J. R., 4 S. C., 253.

206. Lorsqu'il appert que le requérant a apparemment le droit exclusif de se servir d'un nom ou d'une raison sociale, la cour ordonnera, aux conditions exprimées en telle ordonnance, l'émanation d'un bref d'injonction interlocutoire en vue d'empêcher un défendeur de se servir de ce nom ou de cette raison sociale. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Moore vs Trudel, 8 R. J., 164.

207. Un associé au cours d'une action en dissolution de société a contre son associé droit à une injonction interlocutoire mandatoire, pour l'empêcher de continuer d'enfreindre la règle que les parties doivent rester avec les mêmes avantages jusqu'à ce que le procès soit fini. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Bourdon vs Dinelle, 9 R. J., 151; 9 R. L., n. s., 228; 5 R. P. Q., 240.

208. An interlocutory injunction will be granted at the instance of a partner who has purchased the business of his co-partner to restrain the latter from violating a stipulation in the agreement of sale whereby the vendor agreed not to enter the same business during some years to come, even if there is a specific penalty mentioned for each contravention. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Davis vs Nadel, 8 Q. P. R., 422

209. Aucun membre d'une société ne peut obtenir une injonction pour qu'il soit fait défense à cette dernière d'exercer les pouvoirs de sa charte et d'appliquer ses règlements. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Préfontaine vs La Société des Arts du Canada et Bourdon, 11 R. P. Q., 109.

210. Substitution.—Il est au pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge ou du tribunal d'accorder, lors de l'institution de l'action ci-dessous, une injonction interlocutoire, pour interdire les actes de nature à dégrader les biens substitués, mais non pas pour interdire ceux qui n'affectent que les fruits ou revenus de ces biens; et lorsque ces derniers ont été transportés, par les actes argués de nullité, à des cessionnaires solvables, la possession doit leur en être laissée pendente lite. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Hébert et al. vs Resther, èsqual., R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 375.

211. Titre de propriété.—If the defendant disputes the plaintiff's legal title to the object in question, or denies its violation, the court will seldom, upon an interlocutory order, grant an injunction before the plaintiff has established his title.

212. The burden lies upon the plaintiff of showing that his inconvenience exceeds that of the defendant. S. C., 1884, Montreal, White vs Whitehead et al. 7 L. N., 292.

213. The court will not, as a general rule, decide a question of title upon a writ of injunction, more especially, when there is a third party interested (here the government of Quebec) who is not a party in the cause. C. P., 1889, Montreal, Gilmour vs Mauroit et Paradis, M. L. R., 3 Q. B., 449; 11 L. N., 107; 12 L. N., 322; 31 J., 232; 33 J., 231; 14 L. R., A. C., 645; 61 L. T., 442; 59 L. J., P. C., 38; 1 B. J. P. C., 405.

214. Travaux publics.—A ratepayer of a municipality has no right of action to restrain works or cause the removal of obstructions on the public highway, without showing that the same have caused, are causing, or will cause him some special damage peculiar to himself, and different from the damage which they may cause to the public generally; and the court is not required in such action, on the issue between the plaintiff and the party executing the works, to decide whether the resolution of council, under the authority of which the works are being performed, is radically null. S. C., 1892, Montreal, Senécal vs Edison Electric Co. and Ville de Maisonneuve, Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 299; 16 L. N., 108.

215. Voisinage.—Where buildings are being erected for a legal and proper object, such as a hospital for the insane, and there is no proof that they are causing or likely to cause any injury to the properties of the neighbors or any diminution of their value, owing to causes for which the proprietors of the asylum would be liable, adjoining proprietors have no right to ask by injunction that the erection of the buildings be discontinued. Q. B., 1891, Montreal, Crawford et al. vs Protestant Hospital for the Insane, M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 57; M. L. R., 5 S. C., 70; 12 L. N., 300; 14 L. N., 299; 21 R. L., 23.

216. Il y a ouverture à la procédure par voie d'injonction pour qu'il soit enjoint au propriétaire d'un héritage qui y a installé des machineries, dont la mise en opération, cause des vibrations sur la propriété voisine de nature à déprécier cette dernière propriété ou à la rendre inhabitable, d'avoir à faire cesser sur-le-champ tous les inconvénients dont peut se plaindre le demandeur. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Decarie et vir vs Lyall and Sons, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 299.

V. Appel, Appel (C. P.), Banque (Liquid.), Cautionnement pour frais et Procuration, Chemin de fer, Cité de Montréal, Commissaire des services d'utilité publique, Compagnie incorporée, Contrainte par corps, Couronne, Cours d'eau, Droit international privé, Droit municipal, Droit scolaire, Emphytéose, Expropriation, Frais, Inscription en droit, Intérêts, Juridiction, Loi, Louage des choses, Marque de commerce, Mépris de cour, Péremption d'instance, Procédure, Procès par jury, Propriété, Responsabilité, Révision, Scire facias, Société, Vente.

INJURE

V. Diffamation et injure.

INSAISISSABILITÉ ET INALIÉNABILITÉ

Déf. L'insaisissabilité est l'état d'une chose ou d'un droit qui ne peut être saisi ni vendu en justice, ou volontairement, soit par la défense de la loi ou par celle d'un donateur à titre gratuit ou d'un testateur, même du consentement du débiteur. C. c., art. 1980,; C. p. c., arts 598 et s., 1447a.

L'inaliénabilité est l'état d'une chose ou d'un droit qui ne peuvent être ni vendus, ni cédés, ni hypothéqués, soit par la défense de la loi ou par celle d'un donateur à titre gratuit ou d'un testateur. C. c., arts 760, 782, 2212 et s.

INDEX

Agent d'assurance.... 197
Aliénation volontaire. 21
Amélioration....1, 65 et s.
Animaux, 22 et s., 34, 89
Appareil à gaz..... 6
Appareil de chauffage 104
Arpenteur..... 3
Assurance.....4, 94 et s.
Avantage entre époux, 72
Avis..... 122
Avis au propriétaire, 66 et s.
Avocat..... 118
Banque..... 177
Bateau de pêche..... 8
Billet promissoire.... 112
Brevet d'invention... 96
Casque en fourrure... 69
Cautionnement jud.. 5
Charretier, 57, 86 et s., 92
Cheval, 39, 43, 55, 57, 73 et s., 81, 86, 91 et s.
Chirurgien..... 49
Choix du débiteur, 36 et s., 44, 51 et s., 61 et s., 68, 81 et s.
Chose.....22 et s.
Clause d'entretien.... 97
Cocher, 57, 86 et s., 92
Colon.....5a, 19
Communauté..... 174
Combustible..... 116
Comp. de gaz et d'eau 6
Compensation, 142, 177
Compteur..... 6
Comptoir..... 56
Condition..... 155 et s.
Conduit 6
Confiseur..... 47
Contremaître..... 194
Couronne, 98 et s., 123, 214 et s., 218
Créance alimentaire, 100 et s.
Créance hypothécaire, 160, 165 et s.
Créancier, 63 et s., 147 et s.
Créancier antérieur et post., 116, 121, 123, 125, 128
Cultivateur, 39, 43, 58 et s., 74, 89
Curateur à cession jud. 209
Débenture..... 5
Défense d'aliéner, 103, 133 et s., 231
Défense de sous-louer, 29, 45
Dessin..... 3
Dettes du testateur, 134 et s.
Document 3
Dommage, 137 et s., 151
Dommage aux parents, 149, 152 et s.
Donation entrevifs, 1 et s., 10, 21, 103, 132, 154 et s., 226
Donation onéreuse, 189, 229 et s.
Employé fédéral, 199, 202
Employé provincial, 200 et s.
Enfant naturel..... 124
Engin de pêche..... 8
Enregistrement..... 180
Entrepreneur, 73 et s., 98 et s.
Epée militaire..... 23
Epicerie..... 111
Evaluateur municipal 205
Exception à la forme.. 190
Fonctionnaire public, 199 et s.
Fournaise..... 47
Fourrure.....69 et s.
Frais, 38, 107 et s., 115, 117 et s., 129 et s.
Frais d'huissier..... 159
Gage 3
Gage des matelots, 9, 217 et s.
Habitation..... 239
Harnais.....54, 86
Hypothèque, 10, 19, 170 et s.
Hypothèque judiciaire 161
Incessibilité, 100, 105, 129, 161, 165, 170 et s.
Ingénieur..... 193
Injure corporelle, 141, 143 et s.
Injure personnelle, 137 et s.
Insaisissabilité.....2a
Instituteur....14, 210 et s.
Instrument..... 3
Interprétation, 59 et s., 70, 158
"Jobber"..... 196
Journalier.....191 et s.
Jugement, 107 et s., 113 et s., 137 et s., 235
Juré..... 162
Lampe 6
Legs.....161 et s.
Libelle..... 142
Licence..... 172
Lit..... 30
Livre de comptes..... 22
Loi des douze enfants. 10
Loi d'exception....150 et s.
Louage des choses, 29 et s., 45 et s., 78 et s., 81, 181 et s.
Loyer.....1, 116
Lustre 6
Machine..... 62
Magistrat de district. 203
Maison de pension, 84 et s., 173 et s.
Maître de chant..... 198
Maître de chapelle.... 198
Maître du havre..... 218
Mari et femme, 100 et s., 113
Matelot.....9, 216 et s.
Médecin.....49, 206
Meuble..... 106
Milicien.....223 et s.
Moulin à coudre, 31, 78 et s.
Notaire..... 11
Officier public... 12 et s.
Opposition afin d'annuler 40, 42, 82, 88, 91, 96, 154 et s.
Opposition afin de distraire, 24, 29, 68, 90, 228
Outils, 25 et s., 36, 49, 70 et s. 85
Paletot en fourrure, 69 et s.
Partage.....160, 174
Patrimoine de famille 5a
Pénalité..... 175
Pension alimentaire, 12, 14, 100 et s., 107, 112 et s., 121, 123 et s., 176 et s.
Piano.....28, 179
Pilote..... 176

Poêle.....30, 35
Portrait de famille.... 178
Possession temporaire 28
Postillon..... 58
Prêt..... 30
Preuve.....40, 120, 122
Privilège du locateur, 46, 48, 78 et s., 83, 181 et s.
Prix des choses insaisissables, 50
Procès-verbal de saisie 35, 40, 52
Profession libérale.... 49
Provisions alimentaires 108
Radiation d'hypothèque, 161
Régistrateur..... 15
Régistrateur (député). 219
Remploi de meuble 179 et s.
Remploi d'immeuble. 169
Renonciation, 65, 181 et s.
Rente constituée, 186 et s.
Rente viagère, 16, 127, 177, 188 et s., 237
Réparation.....103 et s.
Robe de bal.....32 et s.
Saisie-arrêt, 5, 165 et s., 190
Salaire, 9, 12, 14 et s., 119, 191 et s
Sauvage .....17, 220 et s.
Service militaire, 223 et s.
Shérif.....207 et s.
Société de bienfaisance 18
Sous-locataire..... 65
Sténographe officiel... 225
Substitut du proc. gén., 204
Substitution, 2b, 100, 129, 135 et s., 229
Surintendant d'asile.. 206
Table..... 30
Taxe municipale, 226 et s.
Terre de colon..... 19
Terre publique....,19, 20
Testament, 10, 105, 125, 129, 160, 163 et s., 190, 234
Tiers, 46, 83, 127, 228 et s.
Titre onéreux, 189, 229 et s.
Transport..... 2c
Usage..... 239
Ustensile de pêche ... 8
Usufruit, 100 et s., 250 et s.
Vache..... 93
Valeur de $50.00..... 41
Vente, 10, 19, 158, 251
Vente judiciaire, 158, 242
Ventilation..... 166
Vêtement, 68, 70 et s., 120
Voiture.....51, 55, 86

ÉCRITS

1. Améliorations.—Peut-on saisir une partie des loyers donnés ou légués comme insaisissables, si le donataire a fait avec ses épargnes des améliorations aux maisons ou des constructions nouvelles ? article écrit par S. Pagnuelo, C.R., avocat. 4 L. Thémis, 57.

2. Donation et legs à titre alimentaire.—Article écrit par J. Germano, notaire. 6 R. L., n. s., 180.

2a. Insaisissabilité. — Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 11 R. Not., 180.

2b. Substitution.—Article écrit par L. Bélanger, notaire. 1 R. Not., 97.

2c. Transport.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 15 R. Not., 48.

LOIS

3. Arpenteur.—"Les minutes, papiers, plans, carnets d'opérations et les livres d'un arpenteur sont insaisissables; les instruments d'arpentage et de dessin sont aussi insaisissables, sauf par le vendeur pour le recouvrement du prix d'achat." S. R. Q., art. 5182.

4. Assurance (vie).—"Les polices d'assurance effectuées ou appliquées, en vertu de la présente section, sont insaisissables pour les dettes des personnes assurées ou qui doivent en bénéficier.

"Pendant qu'il est entre les mains de la compagnie, le montant de l'assurance est aussi insaisissable pour les dettes de l'assuré, ainsi que pour celles des bénéficiaires, et doit être payé en conformité de la police, de la déclaration d'application ou de toute révocation qui s'y rapportent.

"Cette insaisissabilité ne s'applique cependant pas à une police, en tout ou en partie, qui peut être retournée et appartenir à l'assuré.

"L'assuré et les parties avantagées peuvent de concert transférer la police." S. R. Q., art. 7405.

5. Cautionnement judiciaire. — "Les deniers et les obligations (débentures) donnés en gage ne sont pas, pendant la durée du cautionnement, sujets à la saisie-arrêt, avant ou après jugement." S. R. Q., art. 619.

5a. Colon.—"Les terres publiques octroyées aux colons de bonne foi, sous forme de billet de location, permis d'occupation, certificat de vente, ou autres titres semblables, ou aux mêmes fins, en vertu du chapitre sixième du titre quatrième des présents Statuts Refondus, relatif au département des terres et forêts, et aux matières qui en relèvent, ainsi qu'en vertu des arrêtés en conseil, et règlements faits en vertu du dit chapitre, ne peuvent, tant que les lettres patentes ne sont pas émises, être engagées ou hypothéquées, par jugement ou autrement, ni être saisies et exécutées, pour aucune dette quelonque, à moins que ce ne soit pour le prix de telle terre, pour le paiement des taxes municipales et scolaires, frais de voirie, et répartitions pour constructions d'églises, presbytères et cimetières, et ce, nonobstant les articles 1980 et 1981 du Code civil, et les articles 613 et 614 du Code de procédure civile.

"Toutefois, ce droit d'exemption de la saisie et exécution, ne doit pas s'étendre à plus de cinq ans de la date du billet de location, du permis d'occupation, du certificat de vente ou autre titre semblable, comme susdit." S. R. Q., art. 2091.

"Tout concessionnaire de terre publique en cette province, qui acquiert, par billet de location ou permis d'occupation, un certificat de vente ou autre titre semblable, émis soit en son nom, soit au nom d'un autre personnee dont il est devenu le concessionnaire ou le représentant légal, peut, dans les trois mois qui suivent l'émission de ses lettres patentes, choisir un certain nombre d'acres de telles terres, mais ne dépassant pas cent, pour se créer un patrimoine de famille (homestead).

"Lorsqu'il a fait une déclaration solennelle de ce choix, selon la formule A, que la dite déclaration a été reconnue conformément à la loi de la preuve en Canada et qu'elle a été enregistrée dans les dits trois mois au bureau d'enregistrement de l'endroit où sont situées telles propriétés, les terres ainsi choisies comme patrimoine de famille avec les bâtiments et autre construction y érigés, tant qu'ils sont entre les mains du concessionnaire, ou entre les mains de sa veuve, ou de ses enfants héritiers, légataires ou donataires, de même que les droits, titres ou intérêts qu'ils peuvent y avoir, sont, nonobstant les articles 1980 et 1981 du Code civil et les articles 613 et 614 du Code de procédure civile, exempts de la saisie et exécution, durant les quinze années suivant la date de l'enregistrement de cette déclaration, pour le paiement des dettes qu'ils ont contractées, soit avant, soit pendant cette période, à moins que ce ne soit pour le prix de ces terres, ou pour purger les charges ou hypothèques valides qu'ils ont consenties eux-mêmes sur la propriété, après l'émission des lettres patentes.

"Sur réception de cette déclaration et sur paiement de l'honoraire de cinquante centins, le régistrateur est tenu d'enregistrer telle déclaration et de fournir, sur paiement d'une semblable honoraire de cinquante centins, au concessionnaire ou à ses représentants comme susdit, un certificat suivant la formule B, lequel certificat est valable devant tout tribunal." Art. 2092.

"Sans préjudicier aux articles 598 et suivants du Code de procédure civile, les meubles et effets ci-dessus énumérés, qu'ils soient entre les mains d'un colon de bonne foi, tel que mentionné dans l'article 2091, ou entre les mains de sa veuve ou de ses enfants ou descendants en ligne directe, sont, tant que la personne sur laquelle la saisie est faite est propriétaire du fonds en vertu du dit article, exempts pour toute dette quelconque, de la saisie et exécution, excepté pour le paiement des taxes, charges et redevances mentionnées à l'article 2091, et cela à compter de la date des l'octroi de telles terres, et durant quinze années après l'émission des lettres patentes, savoir:

1. Les lits, literies et bois de lits à l'usage de sa famille.

2. Les vêtements ordinaires et nécessaires pour lui et sa famille.

3. Un poêle et son tuyau, une crémaillère, et ses accessoires, une paire de chenets, un assortiment d'ustensiles de cuisine, une paire de pincettes et une pelle, une table, six chaises, six couteaux, six cuillères, six fourchettes, six assiettes, six tasses à thé, six soucoupes, un sucrier, un pot au lait, une théière, tout rouet à filer et métier à tisser destinés à l'usage domestique, une hache, une scie, un fusil, six pièges, les rets et seines de pêche ordinairement en usage et dix volumes.

4. Du combustible, de la viande, du poisson, de la farine et des légumes, suffisants pour lui et sa famille pendant trois mois.

5. Les grains de semence nécessaires pour ensemencer sa terre.

6. Deux chevaux ou deux bœufs de labour, dix autres bêtes à cornes, six moutons, cinq cochons, les animaux de basse-cour, les grains et fourrages nécessaires à l'hivernement ou à l'engraissement de ces animaux.

7. Les voitures et instruments d'agriculture.

8. Les matériaux de construction destinés à la construction, à la réparation ou à l'amélioration des bâtiments, ou moulins sur sa terre.

"Les effets mentionnés aux paragraphes 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 et 6 sont laissés sur un plus grand nombre, au choix du débiteur.

"Les effets mentionnés aux paragraphes 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, et 8 ne sont pas exempts de la saisie et de la vente, s'il s'agit du prix de leur acquisition." Art. 2093.

"Si un colon a occupé une terre de la Couronne, plus de cinq années avant l'émission de lettres patentes, le surplus de ces cinq années doit être retranché des quinze années de l'exemption mentionnées dans l'article 2093." Art. 2094.

"Le propriétaire du patrimoine de famille et des terres publiques en vertu des articles 2091 et 2092 a droit de l'aliéner à titre gratuit ou onéreux, même sans le consentement notarié de son conjoint." Art. 2095.

"Rien, dans la présente section, ne doit être interprété de manière à exempter une terre de la Couronne occupée, avec permis d'occupation, du paiement des taxes municipales et scolaires, et des répartitions d'église, dont elle est maintenant grevée ou dont elle peut le devenir." Art. 2096.

"La présente section s'applique aux pêcheurs qui sont en même temps colons." Art. 2097.

6. Compagnie de gaz et d'eau.—"Les tuyaux de service ou autres de la compagnie, les compteurs, lustres, lampes, conduits, appareils à gaz, ou autres propriétés, de quelque nature que ce soit, appartenant à la compagnie, ne sont pas affectés au loyer, ni saisissables par le possesseur ou le propriétaire des bâtiments où ils se trouvent, ni sujets en aucune manière envers une personne pour la dette d'une autre, pour l'usage duquel ou pour l'usage de la maison ou bâtiment duquel la compagnie les a fournis, quand même cette personne les posséderait réellement ou en apparence." S. R. Q., art. 6237.

7. Compagnie de lumière ou de pouvoir électrique.—Les dispositions des S. R. Q., art. 6237 ci-dessus s'appliquent, mutatis mutandis, à ces compagnies. 1 Geo. V, (Q) (2), ch. 41, (1911).

8. Engin de pêche. — "Sauf pour le recouvrement des amendes imposées par la présente section, on ne peut, entre le premier mai et le premier novembre, saisir ou arrêter aucun bâtiment, bateau ou appareil, ni aucuns filets, rets, seines, ou autres ustensiles de pêche, ni aucune provision appartenant à un pêcheur, et nécessaires à sa subsistance ou à ses opérations de pêche." S. R. Q., art. 7435.

9. Gages des matelots.—"Les gages dus ou revenant à un matelot ou à un apprenti de l'équipage d'un navire enregistré dans l'une des provinces, ne peuvent être saisis par aucune cour de justice, et tout paiement de gages à un matelot ou à un apprenti est valable en loi, nonobstant toute cession ou transport antérieur de ces gages, ou toute saisie ou charge sur ces gages." S. R. C., ch. 113, art. 236.

10. Loi des douze enfants.—"Tout lot octroyé dans le passé sous l'empire de la dite loi (Loi des douze enfants) continuera à ne pouvoir être, non plus que les améliorations qui y ont été faites, saisi pour une dette des père et mère auxquels il a été concédé, sauf pour taxes municipales et scolaires, constructions ou réparations d'églises ou de presbytères, ni vendu, ni hypothéqué, ni autrement aliéné par tels père et mère, sauf par donation entrevifs ou testamentaire en faveur d'un ou de plusieurs des enfants de tels père et mère." 8 Ed. VII, ch. 16; S. R. Q., vol. IV, p. 106.

11. Notaire.—"Outre les exemptions décrétées par l'article 599 du Code de procédure civile, les greffes des notaires, les greffes dont ils peuvent être cessionnaires, leurs coffres de sureté et leurs livres de droit sont insaisissables." S. R. Q., art. 4579.

12. Officier public.—"La pension et la demi-pension (des membres du service civil) sont incessibles et insaisissables." S. R. Q., art. 698.

13. "Dans le cas d'une saisie du traitement des officiers publics, une copie du bref de saisie-arrêt est signifiée et laissée entre les mains du chef ou du sous-chef du département ou du bureau dans lequel l'officier ou l'employé public rend ses services et est payé. S. R. Q., art. 703.

"Le chef ou le sous-chef du département ou du bureau dans lequel le traitement ainsi saisi est payé, au lieu de faire une déclaration sous serment, fait un rapport au tribunal, sous sa signature, constatant le montant du traitement dû lors de la signification du bref de saisie-arrêt et celui du traitement à échoir chaque mois, si cet officier ou employé public continue son service dans les mêmes conditions. Art. 704.

"Il est néanmoins loisible à tout créancier d'un officier ou employé public, avant d'intenter une poursuite ou de faire émettre un bref de saisie-arrêt, de produire un état sous serment de sa créance on une copie de jugement, au département ou au bureau dans lequel cet officier ou employé public reçoit son traitement.

"Si l'officier ou employé public reconnaît devoir la somme réclamée et en autorise, par écrit, le paiement sur la partie saisissable de son traitement, le chef ou le sous-chef de ce département ou de ce bureau paye le créancier, conformément à l'autorisation à chaque époque de paiement du traitement.

"Si plusieurs créanciers se présentent en même temps, ils sont payés concurremment en proportion de leurs créances respectives.

"Rien dans l'article 705 ne peut avoir l'effet d'empêcher la saisie de la partie saisissable du traitement en vertu du paragraphe 9 de l'article 599 du Code de procédure civile ; et, en cas d'une telle saisie, l'autorisation donnée en vertu de l'article 705, devient nulle et sans effet. Art. 705.

14. Pension sous la loi de l'Instruction publique.—"Les pensions sont incessibles et insaisissables." S. R. Q., art. 3038.

15. Régistrateur. — Un "régistrateur est censé être un officier du revenu dans le sens de l'article 814; et son traitement n'est saisissable que dans les cas de contraventions aux devoirs de sa charge, et en exécution de jugements obtenus à raison de telles contraventions et non autrement. La partie alors saisissable du salaire est d'un quart d'icelui." S. R. Q., art. 7466.

16. Rente viagère.—"La propriété et l'intérêt d'un crédit rentier dans un contrat de rente viagère fait en vertu de la loi 7-8 Ed. VII, ch. 5, édictée par le Parlement du Canada, et des amendements qui peuvent y être apportés de temps à autre sont incessibles." 1 Geo. V, (Q), ch. 41, art. 1, (1910).

"Cette propriété et cet intérêt sont aussi insaisissables à toutes fins quelconques, si ce n'est pour satisfaire les droits des créanciers mentionnés dans la section 2 de la dite loi 7-8 Ed. VII, ch. 5. Do art. 2,

17. Sauvages.—"Les présents faits aux sauvages ou aux sauvages non compris dans les traités, ni aucune propriété achetée ou acquise au moyen des annuités ou d'une partie des annuités accordées aux sauvages, en la possession d'une bande de ces sauvages ou de quelque sauvage d'une bande ou d'une bande irrégulière, ne peuvent être pris, saisis, ni vendus pour aucune dette, raison ni cause quelconque.

.....

"3. Les animaux donnés à des sauvages e n exécution des stipulations d'un traité, et leur croît, ainsi que les ustensiles agricoles, outils et tous autres objets donnés à des sauvages en exécution des stipulations d'un traité, sont réputés présents selon le sens du présent article.

"4. Toute vente, tout troc, échange, ou don de cette nature est nul et de nul effet, à moins qu'il n'ait lieu avec le consentement par écrit du surintendant général, ou de son agent." S. R. C., ch. 81, art. 105.

"Si des présents donnés à des sauvages ou à des sauvages non compris dans les traités, ou si des propriétés achetées ou acquises au moyen d'annuitées accordées aux sauvages, sont en la possession de quelque individu, d'une manière illégale suivant le véritable sens et l'intention de l'article qui précède, toute personne agissant en vertu d'une autorisation du surintendant général peut, avec telle aide qu'elle juge nécessaire, les saisir et en prendre possession; et elle en dispose selon que le surintendant général le lui ordonne." Art. 106.

18. Société de bienfaisance.—"Dans les sociétés de secours mutuels constituées dans la province en vertu de l'article 6896 ou par charte spéciale, ou constituées hors de la province et faisant des opérations dans la province après l'accomplissement des formalités voulues, les avantages établis en faveur d'un membre ou de sa veuve, de ses héritiers ou ayants cause, sont insaisissables, tant pour les dettes de ce membre que pour celles des personnes avantagées.

"Le membre et les personnes avantagées peuvent de concert transférer les droits aux avantages.

"Le membre peut disposer, par testament ou autrement, des avantages accordés par la société, dans le cas de prédécès des personnes avantagées." S. R. Q., art. 6908.

19. Terre publique fédérale.—"L'inscription pour un établissement et pour la préemption qui est attachée, s'il en est, donne droit à celui qui l'a obtenue de prendre, occuper et cultiver la terre pour laquelle il s'est fait inscrire, et d'en garder possession à l'exclusion de tout autre ou tous autres individus quelconques, et d'intenter et soutenir des actions pour empiètement ou dégâts commis sur cette terre; mais le titre de propriété de la terre reste à la Couronne jusqu'à l'émission des lettres patentes, et cette terre est insaisissable tant que les lettres patentes ne sont pas émises." S. R. C., ch. 55, art. 111.

20. "Les lots vendus ou autrement octroyés pour fins de colonisation après le premier juillet 1909, pendant cinq ans à compter de la date du billet de location, être vendus par le porteur du billet de location, ni autrement aliénés, en tout ou en partie, excepté par donation entrevifs ou par testament, en ligne directe ascendante ou descendante ou en ligne collatérale, ou par succession ab intestat, et, dans ces cas, le donataire, le légataire ou l'héritier sont soumis à la même prohibition que l'acquéreur primitif.

"Tout autre transport d'un lot n'est valable que s'il a été préalablement autorisé par le ministre sur preuve, à sa satisfaction, qu'il est dans l'intérêt de la colonisation que ce transport soit fait.

"Tout transport fait en contravention avec le présent article est radicalement nul entre les parties, et il fait encourir la révocation de la vente ou de l'octroi du lot". S. R. Q., art. 1572.

* JURISPRUDENCE

21. Aliénation volontaire.—Une clause dans une donation entrevifs à l'effet que la propriété donnée ne sera pas vendue, saisie ou saisissable pour une considération généralement quelconque soit du vivant des usufrui-tiers ou des donataires, n'empêche pas tous les intéressés de consentir valablement une aliénation volontaire du bien donné, en vue de se procurer des moyens de subsistance, lorsqu'il appert généralement de la donation que cette prohibition était faite en faveur des donataires eux-mêmes et afin de mieux leur assurer des moyens de subsistance. C. S., 1906, Saint-François, Hamel vs Smith, 17 R. J., 490.

22. Animaux et choses insaisissables. Books of account, titles and papers belonging to the defendant are exempt from attachment, and must be restored if seized. S. C., 1855, Montreal, Fraser vs Loiselle, 5 L. C. R., 299.

23. L'épée d'un militaire est exempte de saisie, comme formant partie nécessaire de ses accoutrements. C. C., 1858, Québec, Wade vs Hussey et Hussey, 8 D. T. B. C., 511; 6 R. J. R. Q., 327; 18 R. J. R. Q., 31, 554.

24. A mere allegation in an opposition afin de distraire, that the tools seized from part of the defendant's implements of trade, is insufficient to maintain such opposition. C. C., 1863, Montreal, Yon vs O'Connor and O'Connor, 7 J., 126; 11 R. J. R. Q., 329.

25. Le chapitre 85, sect. 3, sous-sect. 6 des S. R. B. C., ne s'applique qu'aux outils des ouvriers nécessaires à l'exercice de leur métier. C. C., 1864, Québec, Bussière vs Faucher, 14 D. T. B. C., 87; 12 R. J. R. Q., 274.

26. Le débiteur, qui exerce divers métiers, ne peut réclamer l'exemption de la saisie, que pour les outils employés à l'exercice de son métier principal. C. C., 1903, Sherbrooke, McManamy vs Pelletier et contra, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 127; 10 R. L., n. s., 153.

27. Celui qui a une autre occupation et qui n'exerce qu'accidentellement un métier, n'a pas droit à la distraction de la saisie des outils qu'il y emploie. C. R., 1881, Québec, Noël vs Laverdière et Laverdière, 7 R. J. Q., 367; 5 L. N., 136.

28. The articles enumerated in article 1622 of the civil Code, as exempt from the landlord's privilege, are only illustrative of the description of effects which are so exempt, and a piano stored with a piano dealer by a third party is only transiently on the premises, and is therefore not subject to the landlord's privilege. Q. B., 1876, Montreal, Ireland vs Henry et al., 20 J., 327.

29. Le demandeur avait loué une maison au défendeur, et ce dernier, quoique la chose lui fût prohibée par son bail, avait sous-loué une partie de cette maison à l'opposante. Sur une saisie-gagerie par le demandeur, tous les meubles de l'opposante furent saisis comme garnissant les prémisses. Mais cette dernière fit une opposition réclamant les meubles déclarés non saisissables par l'article 556 C. p. c. Sur contestation de l'opposition, la cour a maintenu les prétentions de l'opposante, et main-levée fut accordée de la saisie quant aux dits effets insaisissables. Le surplus de l'opposition fut renvoyé, chaque partie payant ses frais. C. S., 1877, Montréal, Jones vs Albert et Bertrand, 7 L. N., 277.

30. Le propriétaire d'un poêle, d'une couchette et d'une table qui n'a que ces effets, ne peut en empêcher la saisie et vente pour loyer sur un défendeur à qui il les a prêtés ou loués, et l'exemption de la saisie de ces effets établie par la loi n'est qu'en faveur du défendeur. C. C., 1879, Sherbrooke, Bélanger vs Roy et Dorion, 10 R. L., 19; 2 L. N., 378.

31. Un moulin à coudre en la possession du locataire, quand même il n'en a pas la propriété, est saisissable et sujet au privilège du bailleur. C. C., 1880, Québec, Michaud vs Guilbault, 6 R. J. Q., 156.

32. A lady's dress described in the procès-verbal of seizure as a ball dress, and admitted to be such, is exempt from seizure under article 556 C. c. p., which says: "The debtor may select and keep from seizure the ordinary and necessary wearing apparel of himself and his family." C. C., 1881, Montreal, O'Dowd vs Brunelle, 4 L. N., 79.

33. The plaintiff having a judgment against the defendant seized in the hands of the furnishee a ball dress belonging to defendant. Defendant claimed the dress to be exempt as wearing apparel: A ball dress seized in the hands of the dress maker and worth $80 could not be considered "ordinary and necessary wearing apparel" within the meaning of those words. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Doutre vs Sharpley et al., 27 J., 25; 4 L. N., 185; 6 L. N., 37.

34. Le défendeur a droit d'avoir main-levée de la saisie pratiquée sur des animaux et effets exempts de saisie, bien que la dette, pour laquelle le défendeur est saisi, ait été contractée avant la promulgation de la loi qui exempte ces effets de saisie. C. C., 1884, Iberville, Surprenant vs Spooner et al., 13 R. L., 421.

35. En principe, les officiers de justice sont présumés avoir obéi aux prescriptions de la loi et on ne peut induire du silence d'un procès-verbal de saisie-exécution qui mentionne la saisie d'un poêle, qu'il n'en a pas été laissé un autre au débiteur. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Sexton vs Beaugrand et Beaugrand, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 413; 10 L. N., 30.

36. Par l'article 556 du Code de procédure civile, les outils et instruments ordinairement employés pour le métier du débiteur ne sont pas déclarés insaisissables, mais le dit article déclare seulement qu'il devront être laissés au débiteur à son choix.

37. Le débiteur doit faire ce choix lors de la saisie et, s'il ne le fait pas, l'huissier peut et doit saisir la totalité des effets moins ceux expressément déclarés insaisissables.

38. Si subséquemment le débiteur veut exercer son droit, il devra le faire à ses frais. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Ross vs Lemieux et Lemieux, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 272; 9 L. N., 358.

39. Il n'y a pas lieu à l'exemption accordée par l'article 556, paragraphe 5 du Code de procédure civile, lorsque le saisi ne fait pas de culture suffisante pour justifier la qualification du cultivateur. Dans l'espèce, une opposition à la saisie d'un cheval par le propriétaire saisi, un huissier, s'occupant aussi de culture, sera renvoyée. P. C., 1886, Montmagny, Gendron vs Morisset et Morisset, 14 R. L., 632.

40. Si sur la contestation d'une opposition afin d'annuler, basée sur le fait que l'huissier aurait saisi des objets déclarés insaisissables, il résulte du témoignage même de l'huissier chargé du bref qu'il a saisi tels effets, la présomption en faveur de la régularité du procès-verbal de saisie disparaît, et il y a lieu de recourir alors à la preuve faite en dehors de ce procès-verbal, pour déterminer les droits des parties.

41. Si l'huissier a laissé au défendeur certains objets mentionnés dans le paragraphe quatre de l'article 556 du Code de procédure civile, valant une somme moindre que $50, ce défendeur pourra faire distraire de la saisie d'autres effets, à un montant suffisant, pour compléter la valeur de $50. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Ligget vs Storer, 20 R. L., 318.

42. Le débiteur qui se veut prévaloir de l'exemption de saisie établie par l'article 556 C. c. p., doit alléguer en son opposition que les effets saisis sont les seuls de même nature qu'il possède, et il ne lui suffit pas d'alléguer qu'ils sont exempts de saisie de leur nature; en loi, il ne suffit pas d'alléguer que la saisie a été pratiquée en la possession d'un tiers, mais il faut ajouter que ce dernier a objecté à la saisie. C. S., 1891, Saguenay, Perrault vs Caron et Tremblay, Dlle Gagnon et Angers, 14 L. N., 130.

43. Un cultivateur ne change pas d'état par le fait de la vente en justice du fonds qu'il exploite, et il est encore admis, après cette vente, à invoquer l'insaisissabilité des chevaux de labour, etc., prévue à l'article 5917, S. R. Q., (art. 556 C. p. c.), surtout lorsqu'il continue à occuper le fonds vendu, comme fermier de l'adjudicataire. C. R., 1891, Québec, Bilodeau vs Jalbert et Jalbert, 17 R. J. Q., 297.

44. Lors de la saisie, l'huissier instrumentant doit offrir au saisi le choix des effets qui sont exempts de saisie. C. C., 1892, Montréal, Lantier vs Thouin et Thouin, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 157; 16 L. N., 111.

45. Un sous-locataire qui a loué malgré la prohibition de sous-louer ne peut réclamer l'exemption de saisie accordée par l'article 556 du Code de procédure civile, cette exemption n'étant établie qu'en faveur du débiteur. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Bartel vs Desroches et Desmarteau et Cunin, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 60.

46. The privilege granted to the lessee by article 873 C. c. p., as amended by article 5973 R. S. Q., of substracting from the sale under a saisie-gagerie, the effects mentioned in article 556 C. c. p., may be exercised by a third person who is the owner of effects on the premises leased, which effects, had they belonged to the tenant, could have been withdrawn by him. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Herron vs Brunette et vir and Bélair et al., Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 318.—C. R., 1895, Montreal, Brophy vs Fitch and American Wringer Co., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 173.—S. C., 1905, Ottawa, Battison vs Potvin et al., Q. J. R., 27 S. C., 165. Contra: C. C., 1879, Sherbrooke, Bélanger vs Roy, 10 R. L., 19; 2 L. N., 378.

47. Une fournaise à pâtisserie saisie chez un confiseur tombe sous l'exemption de l'article 556, par. 9, du code de procédure civile, et le confiseur est en droit de la faire distraire de la saisie. C. S., 1894, Montréal, Roy et al., ès-qual., vs Lefebvre, R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 485.

48. The moveable effects enumerated in article 1622 C. c., as exempted from the landlord's privilege, are only illustrative of the description of effects which are exempted. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Gareau vs Labelle and Willis, 1 R. J., 254.

49. The exemption from seizure enacted in article 556 C. c. p., of "tools and implements or other chattels ordinarily used by the debtor in his trade," does not include the professional instruments of a physician and surgeon, or other member of a liberal profession.—the word "trade" (métier) not being applicable to a liberal profession. C. R., 1895, Montreal, Demers vs O'Connor et al., Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 216; Q. J. R., 10 S. C., 371; 1 R. J., 574.

50. Le droit du débiteur de distraire de la saisie-exécution certains meubles à son choix ne dure que tant que les dits meubles sont en nature, et ne s'étend pas au prix ni à la valeur d'iceux après qu'ils ont été aliénés ou détruits. C. R., 1895, Québec, Falardeau vs Jobin, ès-qual., R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 64.

51. L'huissier exploitant a laissé au défendeur, charretier, une voiture d'entre celles saisies chez lui, et a plus tard saisi une autre voiture appartenant au défendeur et qui se trouvait entre les mains du charron pour réparations. Le défendeur a alors déclaré qu'il choisissait et gardait cette dernière voiture, et a offert de remettre celle qui lui avait été laissée, pour être vendue à sa place. L'huissier ayant refusé, le défendeur a formé opposition, laquelle le demandeur a contestée prétendant que le défendeur avait déjà exercé son droit de choix: Le défendeur, en déclarant à l'huissier au sujet de la voiture exemptée de la première saisie, "je n'ai rien que cela pour gagner ma vie," n'a pas exercé le droit de choix accordé par l'article 556 C. p., et il était encore libre de faire ce choix lors de la seconde saisie.

52. La signature du défendeur au procès-verbal ne fait aucune preuve du choix; en l'absence du choix le devoir de l'huissier est de saisir la totalité des effets, sauf au débiteur à exercer son droit avant la vente, mais à ses frais. C. R., 1896, Québec, Filion vs Chabot et Chabot, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 327.

53. Les effets insaisissables sont déclarés tels en vue du bien public, mais c'est au débiteur saisi qui veut réclamer le bénéfice de ces exemptions à signifier son intention et à s'opposer à ce que ses biens exempts de saisie soient vendus. C. R., 1897, Montréal, Boucher vs Véronneau dit Denis, 3 R. J., 467.

54. Le harnais pour le service d'un cheval de labour n'est pas exempt de saisie. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Lécuyer vs Deguire et Deguire, 3 R. J., 255.

55. La voiture et le cheval d'un boulanger, sont insaisissables.

56. Les comptoirs avec leurs tiroirs et tablettes sont insaisissables. C. C., 1898, Montréal, Létang vs Julian, 1 R. P. Q., 170.

57. Un journalier qui garde un cheval dont il se sert pour gagner sa vie doit jouir des mêmes privilèges qu'un charretier quant à l'insaisissabilité de ses biens. C. C., 1898, Beauce, Drouin vs Giguère, Giguère et Drouin, 4 R. J., 24.

58. Le fait qu'un cultivateur est aussi postillon et qu'il gagne ainsi un revenu modique, ne peut lui faire perdre sa qualité de cultivateur alors que c'est surtout comme cultivateur qu'il a toujours gagné et qu'il gagne encore sa vie et celle de sa famille.

59. Les divers paragraphes de l'article 598 C. p. c. ne sont pas exclusifs les uns des autres, le débiteur a le droit de tirer bénéfice de tous ou de quelques-uns d'eux suivant les circonstances.

60. Par le § 8 de l'article 598 C. p. c., la loi a en vue de permettre au débiteur de réclamer les objets y mentionnés quelle qu'en soit la valeur, et par le § 10 elle a voulu lui accorder le privilège de réclamer les autres objets et instruments nécessaires à son emploi, mais à la condition toutefois que la valeur de ces derniers objets n'excèdera pas $200; partant, il n'y a aucune contradiction ni dans l'esprit ni dans les termes du dit article 598 C. p. c. C. C., 1899, Joliette, Lapierre vs Morin, 6 R. J., 134.

61. The right to select and withdraw from seizure the effects detailed in article 598 C. c. p., is established in favor of, and can only be invoked by the debtor. An undertenant is not entitled to claim such exemption. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Hamilton vs Dwyer et al., Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 469.

62. Une machine qu'un ouvrier fait habituellement marcher pour gagner sa vie est exempte de saisie d'après l'article 598, § 10 du Code de procédure. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Thurston vs Hughes et al., R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 472.

63. Le privilège accordé au débiteur par l'article 598 C. p. c., de distraire certains effets de la saisie, n'est pas un droit qui lui est personnel, et ce privilège peut être exercé à son défaut, dans une saisie-gagerie, par son créancier, propriétaire de l'objet saisi.

64. Ce créancier peut même exercer le droit d'option de son débiteur, sans être obligé d'exercer ce droit de la manière que le débiteur l'aurait exercé. C. C., 1899, Montréal, Gravel et al. vs Rose et Singer Manufacturing Co., 5 R. J., 554.

65. Les meubles et effets déclarés insaisissables par la loi, appartenant à une personne qui réside chez le locataire d'une maison, ne peuvent être saisis par le propriétaire pour le paiement de son loyer avec ceux du locataire, ce dernier ayant renoncé par son bail au privilège que lui confère la loi relativement à l'exemption de saisie.

66. Un avis au propriétaire dans ce cas n'est pas nécessaire.

67. L'avis ne serait nécessaire que dans le cas où la tierce personne mettrait dans le logement des effets saisissables en loi. C. C., 1900, Québec, Nolin vs Ratté et al., R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 182.

68. An opposition allleging exemption from seizure of the effects seized, which does not mention that defendant was not allowed to select and withdraw from seizure, and did not in fact select and withdraw from seizure, effects alleged to be exempted from seizure, will be dismissed upon motion as frivolous. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Beaubien Produce and Milling Co. vs Lécuyer and Lécuyer, 7 R. J., 325.

69. Un paletot en fourrure et un casque en fourrure sont insaisissables comme étant des vêtements ordinaires et nécessaires. Bien que le défendeur aurait pu avoir un paletot de moindre valeur, la cour, pour cette raison, ne pourrait pas déclarer saisissable le seul paletot dont il se sert ordinairement et qui lui est nécessaire. C. C., 1903, Montréal, McDonald vs Pearce et Normandin, 10 R. J., 414.

70. L'article 598 du C. p. c. est une loi loi humanitaire en faveur du saisi, et doit être interprété dans le sens le plus propre à le protéger.

71. Un paletot de fourrure est insaisissable comme étant un vêtement ordinaire et nécessaire, indispensable, durant la saison d'hiver, au saisi, en tenant compte de la position et de l'âge de ce dernier.

72. Les effets personnels, nécessaires comme vêtements donnés par un époux à son épouse, pendant le mariage, ne tombent pas sous l'effet de la prohibition édictée par les articles du Code qui défendent aux époux de s'avantager durant le mariage; tels effets personnels une fois livrés à l'épouse deviennent dès lors sa propriété individuelle et ne peuvent être saisis pour les dettes de l'époux. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Robertson vs Honan, 10 R. J., 250; R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 510.

73. L'entrepreneur, qui se sert de son cheval pour l'exécution de ses travaux, n'est pas un charretier et ne peut s'opposer, comme tel, à la saisie de son cheval.

74. La loi n'accorde le privilège de l'insaisissabilité de deux chevaux ou deux bœufs de labour qu'au cultivateur dont la culture de sa ferme est la principale occupation. C. C., 1903, Sherbrooke, McManamy vs Pelletier et contra, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 127; 10 R. L., n. s., 153.

75. The privilege granted the debtor by article 598 C. c. p., § 10, of selecting and withdrawing from seizure "tools and implements and other chattels ordinarily used in his profession, art or trade, to the value of $200," only exists while the debtor is carrying on his profession, art or trade.

76. When he has ceased to do so, his right to make a selection is at an end, and, therefore, his creditor can have no right, under article 1031 C. c., to make such selection.

77. In any case the right of the creditor, under the last mentioned article, is merely to bring back certain effects to the patrimony of the debtor, for the benefit of his creditors generally, and cannot be exercised for the exclusive benefit of the creditor seeking to avail himself of the article. C. R., 1904, Montreal, Stephens vs Toback et al., R. J. Q., 26 S. C., 41; 11 R. L., n. s., 415.

78. Une machine à coudre qui est l'instrument employé par le défendeur pour l'exercice de son métier de tailleur, est insaisissable aux termes de l'article 598, C. p. c., et un locateur n'a pas le droit de la faire saisir et vendre dans l'exercice de ses droits et privilèges de locateur.

79. Le propriétaire d'une machine à coudre par lui louée à une personne contre laquelle une saisie-gagerie fut émanée, peut exercer les droits de son débiteur et en empêcher la vente. C. C., 1904, Kamouraska, Pion vs Fraser et Singer Manufacturing Co., 11 R. J., 92.

80. Une personne qui tient une manufacture de hardes et qui emploie à cette fin une certaine quantité de machines à coudre mues par la vapeur et fixées sur tables par des courroies, ne peut s'opposer à la saisie et à la vente judiciaire de ces machines et de leurs accessoires sur le principe qu'ils sont insaisissables, sous le § 10 de l'article 598 C. p. c., comme outils, instruments ou effets ordinaire-ment employés pour l'exercice de son métier jusqu'à concurrence de $200.00, à l'exception d'une machine à coudre. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Amyot vs Bilodeau et Amyot et Gagnon, 13 R. L., n. s., 463.

81. Le débiteur peut, en vertu de l'article 598, § 10, C. p. c., s'opposer à la saisie et vente de son cheval, lorsque ce cheval est absolument nécessaire à l'exercice de son métier. Pour pouvoir réclamer le bénéfice de l'article 598 C. p. c., la loi n'exige pas que le débiteur ait en mains, à titre de propriétaire, les effets qu'il a le droit de choisir pour exercer sa profession, son art ou son métier, mais il peut exercer ce droit, par voie d'opposition à la saisie, en son propre nom, comme étant le débiteur, sans alléguer ni prouver qu'il possède ces effets à titre de propriétaire.

82. Le débiteur, en ce cas, n'excipe pas du droit d'autrui, mais ne fait qu'exercer le droit spécial que lui confère cette loi qui doit être interprétée dans un but humanitaire. C. S., 1904, Joliette, Denis vs Parent, 10 R. J., 259.

83. Le privilège du locateur ne s'étend pas aux meubles trouvés sur les lieux loués et qui appartiennent à des tiers, s'ils sont insaisissables, ou de ceux qui, d'après la loi, doivent être laissés au débiteur à son choix. C. S., 1905, Hull, Battison vs Potvin et al., R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 165.

84. Le mot métier employé dans le paragraphe 10 de l'article 598 C. p. c. doit ne pas être pris dans un sens trop littéral et il s'applique à tout travail manuel exécuté dans le but de gagner sa vie.

85. Partant les effets qui servent à garnir la table et la salle à manger d'une maitresse de pension sont des instruments qui servent à l'exercice de son métier et comme tels insaisissables. C. C., 1905, Québec, Boily vs Guillot, 9 R. P. Q., 336.

86. When a horse, carriage and harness are the only ones of their several kinds which defendant, who is a carter, has for earning his livelihood, they will be exempt from attachment. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Buller et al. vs Prevost, 7 Q. P. R., 465.

87. L'exemption de saisie d'un cheval et de son attelage ne peut être invoquée que par un charretier ou un cocher qui s'en sert pour gagner sa vie, et non par un boucher qui les garderait et s'en servirait à l'occasion et dans l'exercice de son métier.

88. Une opposition afin d'annuler, basée sur cette exemption de saisie, sera renvoyée sur motion. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Lecavalier et al. vs Dame Brunelle, 14 R. L., n. s., 48, 487; 8 R. P. Q., 245; 9 R. P. Q., 209; R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 145.

89. Le paragraphe 8 de l'article 598, Code de procédure civile, ne s'applique pas spécialement et uniquement aux cultivateurs, mais tout débiteur peut invoquer le privilège qu'il consacre, et demander par sa défense à la saisie-gagerie, qu'il lui soit laissé, à son choix, une vache, deux cochons, etc. C. C., 1908, Richelieu, Peloquin, ès-qual. vs Dunn, 10 R. P. Q., 11.

90. If the opposant does not allege, nor does it otherwise appear that he is the debtor, he is not entitled to claim that the goods and effects seized are by law exempt from seizure, especially when the defendant has already by his plea claimed to be the owner of the same goods and effects, and asked for their exemption from seizure. S. C., 1908, Sweetsburg, Perkins vs Hand and George, 9 Q. P. R., 331.

91. An opposition to the seizure of a horse by the defendant on the ground "that he is the agent of a company dealing in gas fixtures, that he installs the same and that the said horse is necessary to him to carry on his business," will be dismissed, the opposant being neither a carter nor a coachman. C. C., 1909, Quebec, Rousseau vs Nadeau, 10 Q. P. R., 351.

92. L'exemption de saisie d'un cheval et d'une voiture ne peut être invoquée que par un charretier ou celui qui s'en sert pour gagner sa vie, et non par un charpentier menuisier, quelquefois entrepreneur, quelquefois contremaître, louant en même temps les services de son cheval et de sa voiture. C. S., 1909, Montréal, St. Lambert Lumber Co. vs Lambert, 10 R. P. Q., 259.

93. Un débiteur a droit à l'exemption de saisie pour une vache, bien qu'il ne soit pas cultivateur. C. C., 1910, Sherbrooke, Le Séminaire St-Charles Borromé de Sherbrooke vs Cabana et Cabana, 11 R. P. Q., 315.

94. Assurance.—Le privilège de l'insaisissabilité ne s'étend pas des meubles insaisissables au produit de leur assurance, lorsqu'ils ont été incendiés. C. S., 1909, Montréal, St-Charles vs Canada et The National Assurance Co. et Cabana, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 233.

95. En vertu de l'article 5604 des Statuts Révisés de Québec, une police d'assurance effectuée sur la vie du mari en faveur de la femme, est insaisissable tant qu'elle dure, de même que les sommes qui sont entre les mains de l'assureur après l'échéance du risque, mais du moment que le produit d'une telle police est entre les mains d'un tiers, il est saisissable. C. S., 1899, Québec, Thibaudeau et al. vs Warren et vir et Paradis et al., R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 347.

96. Brevet d'invention. — Un brevet d'invention est saisissable et une opposition basée sur le motif d'insaisissabilité d'un tel brevet d'invention sera, sur motion, renvoyée avec dépens comme futile. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Farand et al. vs Emond et Emond, 9 R. J., 120; R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 2; 8 R. L., n. s., 511.

97. Clause d'entretien. — L'obligation de loger, nourrir, vêtir et entretenir au jour le jour, dans la propre maison du débiteur, le créancier d'une certaine rente, constitue une créance personnelle et par là même incessible et insaisissable. C. R., 1887, Montréal, Les Sœurs du Précieux Sang vs Dorion et Dorion, 31 J., 153.

98. Couronne.—Les argents entre les mains du gouvernement et dus aux contracteurs ne sont pas saisissables. C. C., 1879, Québec, Gingras vs Vézina, 5 R. J. Q., 237.

99. Moneys payable on account of a pending contract with the war department, for the erection of fortifications in the province, are not liable to attachment. S. C., 1868, Montreal, Fitts vs Piton et al. and Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the War Department et al., 12 J., 289; 18 R. J. R. Q., 30, 565.—S. C., 1869, Montreal, Fitts vs Piton et al. and Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the War Department et al., 13 J., 165; 18 R. J. R. Q., 32, 554.

100. Créances alimentaires.—Les biens légués à un mari à charge de substitution avec clause d'incessibilité, étant donnés à titre d'aliment, tant pour la propriété que pour l'usufruit, ne peuvent être affectés au service d'une pension alimentaire accordée à la femme par un jugement en séparation de corps.

101. Un mari est condamné "à fournir à sa femme séparée de corps et d'habitation, une rente et pension annuelle et viagère de £50; ce mari ne possède que certains biens à charge de substitution, en vertu du testament de son père, qui a dit: "Je défends expressément que ces biens soient en aucune manière engagés, aliénés, hypothéqués, non plus que la jouissance, intérêt ou usufruit d'iceux, qu'ils (les grevés) retireront pour leur pension et subsistance, et pour la subsistance et l'éducation de leur famille, sous peine de nullité de tous actes qu'ils feront contraires à mon intention, pour que ces biens retournent à leurs enfants, etc., etc.' " L'usufruit de ces biens est-il affecté au service de la rente et pension de la femme? Cette question avait été jugée par la cour du Banc du Roi à Montréal, en faveur du mari, la cour ayant considéré que c'était le cas d'une substitution fidéicommissaire établie par le testament; que ce que dit Bourjon, loco citato (dans le factum de l'appelante), n'était nullement applicable au cas actuel; que le testateur avait double motif dans sa prohibition d'aliéner, de conserver les biens dans sa famille, et d'assurer des aliments à son fils. Sur l'appel, ce jugement a été infirmé. B. R., 1845, Québec, Dame M. L. E. F. dite M. vs L. E. C. dit C., 1 R. de L., 81; 1 R. J. R. Q., 454, 520.

102. However, it was held that the usufruct of moveable property, though declared by the testator to be inalienable, non assignable and not seizable, may be seized in execution of a judgment of separation de corps, condemning the husband to pay to his wife an alimentary allowance. S. C., 1882, Montreal, Maguire vs Huot et al. and Allard, 5 L. N., 374.

103. La défense d'aliéner et l'insaisissabilité portées à un acte de donation, ne peuvent être invoquées dans les cas de réparations nécessaires faites pour augmenter la valeur et le revenu de la chose donnée. C. S., 1870, Montréal, Valois vs Gareau et al., 2 R. L., 131; 21 R. J. R. Q, 13, 521.—C. R, 1894, Montréal, Demers et al. vs Bouthillier, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 32.

104. Les revenus déclarés insaisissables d'un immeuble peuvent être saisis en exécution d'un jugement pour réparation et améliorations nécessaires faites à l'immeuble, dans l'espèce un appareil de chauffage, en vue de conserver et augmenter sa valeur locative. C. R., 1897, Montréal, Ouimet vs Prévost et Harris, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 135.

105. La clause d'insaisissabilité et incessibilité d'un immeuble insérée dans un testament ne s'applique pas aux obligations que le légataire peut encourir à raison de la dite propriété, même pour l'administration d'icelle. C. S., 1878, Montréal, Saunders vs Dame Voisard et Deragon dit Lafrance et al., 28 J., 266.

106. Des effets mobiliers donnés comme aliments et déclarés insaisissables sont cependant soumis à un privilège pour les frais faits pour leur conservation. B. R., 1887, Montréal, Benoit et vir vs Benoit et al., 31 J., 224.

107. Une pension alimentaire accordée en justice peut être saisie pour les frais encourus pour l'obtenir, lequels sont censés être d'une nature alimentaire.

108. Les provisions alimentaires accordées par justice sont insaisissables, même pour les frais qui les ont fait obtenir; mais les pensions ne méritent pas la même faveur, et les frais qui les ont créées doivent être considérés comme dette de la même nature que la chose qu'ils ont produite, c'est-à-dire comme dette alimentaire; et, même si on étendait aux pensions créées par justice l'exception pour leur saisie que l'article 558 C. p. c., fait pour les provisions, elles n'en seraient pas moins sujettes à saisie pour les frais qui leur ont donné l'existence. C. R., 1894, Québec Belleau et al. vs Ennis et Bender R. J. Q., 6 C. S., 194.

109. La créance reconnue par un jugement de celui qui réclame des aliments, n'est pas une dette alimentaire dans le sens de l'article 558 du Code de procédure civile, et, partant, le créancier ne peut pas saisir, en exécution de son jugement, une pension qui a été léguée à son débiteur à titre d'aliment et qui a été stipulée incessible et insaisissable. B. R., 1895, Montréal, Wilson vs Briscbois, R. J. Q., 4 B. R., 238.

110. Bien que le donateur ou testateur ait stipulé que les choses données ou stipulées ne pourraient être saisies "pour quelque raison que ce soit," ces choses peuvent cependant être saisies pour dette alimentaire. C. S., 1881, Montréal, Deland et al. vs Desrivières et Carter, 4 L. N., 40.—C. S., 1898, Montréal, Crédit Foncier Franco-Canadien vs Martin, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 160.—C. S., 1909, Iberville, Patenaude vs Boissonneault, 10 R. P. Q., 258. —C. R., 1898, Montréal, Préfontaine vs Valois et al., R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 613.

111. Des biens légués comme aliments avec clause d'insaisissabilité peuvent être saisis par un créancier d'une dette alimentaire, e. g. pour effets d'épicerie vendus et livrés au légataire. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Prescott vs Thibeault et al. et Galarneau et al., M. L. R., 1 C. S., 187; 8 L. N., 101.

112. Where in execution of a judgment obtained for the amount of a promissory note an alimentary allowance payable to the defendant is seized by garnishment, and the defendant contests the seizure on the ground that an alimentary allowance is not seizable, the plaintiff may, by his answer, plead that the consideration for the note was an alimentary debt, and that the claim was within the exception of C. c. p., article 558. S. C., 1887, Montreal, Downie vs Francis and Clément, M. L. R., 3 S. C., 371; 11 L. N., 127.

113. A provisional alimentary allowance, granted by the court to a wife during the pendency of her suit against her husband for separation de corps et de biens is an "alimentary debt" within the meaning of article 558 C. c. p.; and an alimentary allowance payable to the husband under the will of his father may be seized therefor, though declared insaisissable by the will. C. R., 1890, Montreal; Perrault vs Masson and Masson et al., M. L. R., 7 S. C., 120; 14 L. N., 147.

114. Une pension alimentaire déclarée insaisissable peut néanmoins être saisie à la poursuite d'une personne, dans l'espèce, l'épouse du défendeur, à qui le créancier de cette pension alimentaire doit lui-même des aliments. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Bélair vs Senécal et Senécal et al., R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 226; 16 L. N., 125.

115. Bien qu'une pension alimentaire soit saisissable en satisfaction des frais encourus pour son obtention, elle ne l'est pas pour des frais adjugés contre le pensionnaire sur une procédure malheureuse par lui faite dans le but de collecter sa rente. C. R., 1895, Québec, Pacaud vs Dumoulin et al., R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 296.

116. Saisie de loyers, en satisfaction d'un jugement obtenu en 1894, pour prix de charbon vendu et livré au défendeur, avant 1890, pour son usage domestique. L'immeuble loué n'est devenu la propriété du défendeur qu'en cette dernière année, lui ayant été légué par sa fille, à titre d'aliment, et avec clause d'insaisissabilité: Bien que la dette fût alimentaire, comme elle avait été contractée par le défendeur antérieurement à la date où l'immeuble lui est échu, les loyers ne pouvaient pas être saisis. C. C., 1895, Québec, Madden et al. vs O'Regan et Gagné et al., R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 401.

117. Le montant d'une pension alimentaire minime, qui est accordée comme nécessaire à l'existence d'une personne, ne peut être, après le jugement, saisi entre les mains du débiteur par le procureur qui a obtenu ce jugement pour le paiement de ses frais, alors que tels frais s'élèvent à une somme considérable et que la saisie aurait pour effet de priver cette personne de moyens de subsistance durant plusieurs années.

118. Le procureur qui agit pour une personne pauvre et incapable de faire valoir ses droits sans l'assistance gratuite des officiers de la justice, est censé fournir lui-même gratuitement ses services et son ministère, et dans l'espèce, s'il en était autrement, les procédés pris, pour obtenir à la défendresse de son fils une pension alimentaire, tourneraient uniquement au profit de son procureur pendant plus de cinq ans. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Mathieu et al. vs Beauchamp et Gagné, 3 R. J., 233; R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 307.

119. La partie non saisissable d'un salaire peut être saisie pour une dette alimentaire. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Beattie vs Raper et al., R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 508.

120. Une créance pour vêtements est d'une nature alimentaire, et c'est au défendeur à prouver que ces vêtements n'étaient ni ordinaires, ni nécessaires, ou que le prix en est trop élevé pour ses moyens. C. C., 1900, Montréal, Richer et al. vs Arnton et al. et Hosmer et al., ès-qual., 2 R. P. Q., 569.

121. Dans notre procédure, sous l'article 599, § 4, il n'y a pas lieu de distinguer quant à la saisissabilité des aliments entre la dette alimentaire antérieure et la dette alimentaire postérieure au titre constitutif du droit à ces aliments. Les pensions peuvent donc être saisies pour toutes dettes alimentaires; et la distinction qui résulte, en France, de l'article 582 du Code de procédure, n'existe pas dans notre droit. C. C., 1900, Montréal, Labrecque vs Gauthier et Larue, 33 R. P. Q, 494.

122. La partie qui veut faire saisir-arrêter des revenus insaisissables, en prouvant que la créance est alimentaire, ne peut prouver la nature de sa créance sans avis à son débiteur tant de la preuve qu'elle entend faire que de l'inscription pour jugement. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Gratton vs McCready et Marler, 4 R. P. Q., 155.

123. An alimentary pension in favor of pensioners of the Crown can only be seized for an alimentary debt running concurrently with the pension. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Hamelin dit Laganière vs Perrault and Harbor Commissioners, 8 R. J., 93; Q. J. R., 21 S. C., 51.

124. Les dettes alimentaires, pour le paiement desquelles la pension léguée à titre d'aliments peut être saisie, sont celles dues au créancier qui a fourni des aliments au titulaire de la pension et à sa famille, et non pas celles que tel titulaire peut devoir à son enfant naturel. C. S., 1902, Sherbrooke, McAulay vs McLennan et Lawrence et al., R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 419; 8 R. L., n. s., 144; 9 R. L., n. s., 464.

125. On ne peut saisir des sommes léguées à titre d'aliments avec stipulation d'insaisissabilité et d'incessibilité, pour une dette alimentaire antérieure au testament qui contient tel legs. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Kelly vs Masson, R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 97; 9 R. L., n. s., 364.

126. Si les sommes et pensions données par un testateur à titre d'aliments peuvent être saisies pour dettes alimentaires, cette disposition exceptionnelle ne peut être invoquée que par celui qui a fourni des aliments au bénéficiaire lui-même, et non pas par celui qui veut en avoir de lui. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Dame Dupuis vs St-Mars alias Viau et Dame Deguise, et al., ès-qual., 8 R. P. Q., 170.

127. Une rente viagère léguée sous condition d'insaisissabilité ne peut être saisie pour une dette alimentaire due à une tierce personne. C. R., 1906, Montréal, Dupuis vs Viau et Deguire et al., R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 391.

128. Un créancier, antérieur à la création d'une donation faite à titre d'aliments, ne peut saisir les biens compris dans la dite donation; les créanciers postérieurs seuls peuvent user de ce droit. C. C., 1907, Montréal, Bernier vs Leblanc et Leblanc, 8 R. P. Q., 316.

129. Une clause d'incessibilité et d'insaisissabilité dans un testament créant substitution ne s'applique pas aux frais d'un procès soutenu par le grevé au sujet de la location des biens substitués. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Desaulniers vs Depatie et Belcourt et Archer et al., 16 R. L., n. s., 130.

130. Les immeubles et objets légués ou donnés sous la condition d'insaisissabilité, ou déclarés insaisissables par le paragraphe 3 de l'article 599 du Code de procédure, peuvent, néanmoins, être saisis pour créance alimentaire.

131. Les frais et dépens d'une action intentée par un légataire universel en usufruit, mais relative ni à la possession, ni à la jouissance, ni à la constitution, ni à la conservation de cet usufruit légué insaisissable, ne constituent pas une créance alimentaire parce qu'ils n'ont servi ni à l'existence matérielle de l'objet donné ou légué, ni à celle de la personne

qui a reçu le don ou legs. Le légataire saisi pour des frais de cette nature a le droit d'obtenir main-levée de la saisie-arrêt, en vertu des paragraphes 3 et 4 de l'article 599 C. p. c.

132. Quære: Les objets déclarés insaisissables par le donateur deviennent-ils, à la mort du donataire, saisissables avec effet rétroactif de telle sorte que tous les créanciers, du donataire aient le droit de les saisir ? C. S., 1910, Richelieu, Drainville vs Savoie, ès-qual., et Rouleau et al., 17 R. J., 108; 16 R. L., n. s., 505.

133. Défense d'aliéner.—Les biens donnés sous défense d'aliéner sont insaisissables. B. R., 1906, Québec, Roberts vs Bergevin, R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 104.

134. Dettes du testateur.—When the seizure of property declared insaisissable by a will is made under a judgment for money advanced to pay the debts of the testatrix herself, as she had no power to prevent the property of her succession from being liable for her debts, the seizure is legal. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Ontario Bank vs Lionais et al., 1 L. N., 279.

135. Un créancier peut faire saisir les biens de son débiteur, après son décès, contre son légataire universel, même dans le cas où il aurait par un testament substitué ces biens et les aurait déclarés insaisissables.

136. La substitution décrétée par ce testament en faveur des enfants du défendeur était valide, mais le décret ne purgeait pas la substitution; le défendeur, qui est le grevé, ne peut invoquer cette substitution par son opposition; la clause d'insaisissabilité imposée par le testament était valide et dans les pouvoirs du testateur, mais elle ne pouvait être invoquée à l'encontre des propres dettes laissées par lui et le défendeur comme son légataire universel est tenu de payer. C. S., 1901, Fraserville, Richer et vir vs Michaud et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 442.

137. Dommage.—Une somme d'argent accordée par jugement, comme réparation civile d'un tort personnel, est insaisissable. C. S., 1862, Montréal, Chef vs Léonard et vir et Décary et al., 6 J., 305; 13 D. T. B. C., 74; 10 R. J. R. Q., 374.

138. A sum of money awarded by the court as indemnity of personal injuries of a permanent nature partakes of the nature of alimentary provision and is insaisissable. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Beauvais et al. vs Leroux et La Compagnie des moulins à coton de V. Hudon, M. L. R., 2 S. C., 491; 10 L. N., 87.

139. Une somme d'argent accordée comme réparation civile d'une injure personnelle est, de sa nature, insaisissable. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Maurice vs Desrosiers et Lessard, 12 R. L., 654; 29 J., 58; 7 L. N., 264, 361.

140. Les dommages accordés comme réparation civile dans une action d'injure parce que le défendeur aurait soufflété la fille mineure du demandeur, sont insaisissables. C. C., 1885, Saguenay, Laberge vs Bouchard et Charette, 90 L. N., 187.

141. Des dommages accordés en réparation de blessures corporelles, pour soins médicaux et pour pertes de temps, ne sont pas saisissables. C. C., 1887, Montréal, Cressé vs Young et La Compagnie du chemin de fer urbain de Montréal, 18 R. L., 186.

142. Une réclamation pour des dommages résultant d'un libelle ou d'injures écrites est saisissable et sujette à la compensation comme toute autre créance. B. R., 1887, Montréal, Archambault vs Lalonde, 18 R. L., 191; 31 J., 195, 213; M. L. R., 3 B. R., 486; M. L. R., 2 C. S., 410; 10 L. N., 30; 11 L. N., 131.—C. S., 1892, Montréal, Desrosiers vs Meilleur et al. et Wurtele, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 411; 16 L. N., 173.—C. S., 1896, Montréal, Merchants Bank of Canada vs Sauvalle, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 200.

143. Des dommages intérêts accordés pour destruction d'habits (par la morsure d'un chien), médicaments, soins de médecin et perte de temps par suite d'une blessure, sont saisissables. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Poupart vs Miller et Bourbonnière, R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 137,

144. An amount awarded by judgment to indemnify plaintiff for loss of time, and $25 for costs of medical expenses from an accident, although the doctor may not have yet been paid his account, is not an alimentary allowance granted by the court within the meaning of article 5994 C. c. p. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Renaud vs Malo and Des Rivières, and Lauzon, 7 R. J., 107.

145. Des dommages réels accordés pour blessures sont de nature alimentaire et partant insaisissables et non compensables. C. C., 1900, Terrebonne, Cloutier vs Compagnie du chemin de fer de Colonisation Montfort et Gatineau, 6 R. J., 512.

146. Les dommages accordés pour la réparation de torts personnels, blessures corporelles et soins médicaux en résultant sont de la nature d'une créance alimentaire et sont insaisissables pour toute autre dette que celle qui aurait pu être créée pour en assurer le paiement ou la conservation. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Lafond vs Marsan et al., R. J. Q., 24 C. S, 22; 10 R. L., n. s., 26; 5 R. P. Q., 326.

147. Le droit d'une personne blessée dans un accident, de réclamer de l'auteur de l'accident les dommages qu'elle a soufferts, est un droit exclusivement attaché à la personne de la victime, et ce droit ne peut être exercé, à son défaut, par ses créanciers ordinaires.

148. Cependant, quand la victime exerce l'action qui lui compète exclusivement, le montant de l'indemnité n'est pas de la nature d'une provision alimentaire et tombe dans son patrimoine; partant, cette somme peut être saisie par les créanciers de la victime, et il leur est loisible d'exercer leur droit, par voie de saisie-arrêt, même avant que jugement intervienne sur l'action intentée par la victime. B. R., 1904, Montréal, Cochrane vs McShane, R. J. Q., 13 B. R., 505; R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 282; 1 R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 188; 10 R. L., n. s., 225, 535; 11 R. L., n. s., 548; 6 R. P. Q., 465; 10 R. J., 353; 11 R. J..

149. Une indemnité à un père pour la mort de son fils, qu'il allègue avoir été son seul soutien, accordée par sentence rendue dans une action contre la partie responsable, est de la nature "des provisions alimentaires adjugées par la justice" de l'article 599 C. p. c., et est partant insaisissable. B. R., 1909, Montréal, Carrière vs Leroux, R. J. Q., 19 B. R., 249.

150. L'insaisissabilité est une loi d'exception, parce que de droit commun les biens du débiteur sont le gage de ses créanciers, or il est de principe que les lois d'exception ne peuvent être étendues.

151. Partant, une somme accordée à titre de dommages, si elle ne l'est pas à titre d'aliments, est saisissable en entier et les tribunaux ne peuvent, dans ce cas, lui attribuer une immunité que la loi ne lui accorde pas. C. S., 1908, Québec, Dorval vs La Corporation de Lévis, R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 184.

152. La cause unique de l'indemnité accordée par l'article 1056 C. c. aux parents de quelqu'un qui est décédé par suite d'un délit ou quasi-délit provient du droit qu'ils avaient de réclamer des aliments du défunt.

153. L'effet de la personnalité créée par cet article est de déléguer forcément le paiement de ces aliments à la partie responsable; cette réclamation reste entièrement alimentaire et insaisissable. B. R., 1909, Montréal, James dit Carrières et Leroux vs The Vulcan Portland Cement Co., 11 R. P. Q., 13, 158; 16 R. L., n. s., 20.—C. S., 1909, Montréal, Laganière vs Desjardins et uxor et The Canadian Northern Quebec Railway Co., R. J. Q., 37 C. S., 513; 11 R. P. Q., 209.

154. Donation entrevifs.—In a deed of gift, it was said, "que le donataire ne pourrait vendre, affecter, hypothéquer ni aliéner les terres données, sans le consentement des donateurs." If this clause made the immovables exempt from seizure, the donee could make an opposition thereon, sans exciper du droit d'autrui.

155. The rule of law to determine whether the terms of a deed of gift make the property given unseizable, is: "What is transferable is seizable."

156. Under the clause above cited, the lands given are transferable and consequently seizable, with a condition, the consent of the donors. They alone can invoke this condition, which is a stipulation in their favor. S. C., 1898, Quebec, Durand vs City of Quebec and Durand and City of Quebec, Q. J. R., 13 S. C., 308.

157. Whoever makes a gratuitous conveyance of property has a right to impose such conditions as he sees fit, provided that they be not contrary to law, and he has the right to impose such conditions, not only upon the property gratuitously conveyed by him, but also upon any property in the hands of the person to whom the conveyance is made, and the acceptance of the liberality by the person gratified gives full effect to the condition thus stipulated, in so far as it does not prejudice the rights then acquired by third parties. Q. B., 1899, Quebec, Desjardins vs Michaud, Q. J. R., 8 Q. B., 494; 5 R. J., 273.

158. La condition imposée dans un acte de donation que les biens donnés "ne seront pas vendus, saisis ou saisissables pour aucune considération généralement quelconque, du vivant des donataires," s'entend d'une vente judiciaire, et ne fait pas obstacle à une vente contractuelle de ces biens. C. S., 1906, Sherbrooke, Hamel vs Smith, R. J. Q., 31 C. S., 298.

159. Frais d'huissier.—Les honoraires des huissiers sont saisissables pour le tout et ne sont par compris dans les restrictions qui sont énumérées dans l'article 599 C. p. c. C. S., 1904, Québec, Lachance vs Casault et al., R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 90; 11 R. L., n. s., 386.

160. Hypothèque.—Where by a will a testator has declared the property bequeathed insaisissable, the property remains so, even against a mortgagee, and even where the debtor is in possession under a deed of sale from the executors of the testator, such a deed being considered as a partition and not as a sale. P. C., 1885, Quebec, Carter vs Molson, 1 B. J. P. C., 590; L. R., 10 App. Cas., 664; 21 J., 210; 23 J., 50; 9 R. L., 620; 18 R. L., 565; 1 L. N., 209; 6 L. N., 372; 8 L. N., 281; 3 D. C. A., 279.

161. Hypothèque judiciaire.—La condition d'insaisissabilité dans une donation immobilière, bien qu'elle n'entraîne pas l'incessibilité de l'immeuble donné, fait obstacle à ce qu'il soit frappé de l'hypothèque judiciaire résultant de l'enregistrement (avec l'avis voulu), d'un jugement rendu contre le donataire. Par suite, celui-ci a le recours d'une action en radiation d'hypothèque contre un créancier qui a effectué un tel enregistrement. C. R., 1909, Montréal, Latour vs Latour, R. J. Q., 38 C. S., 193.

162. Juré.—L'argent dû à un petit juré pour son indemnité comme tel, est insaisissable. C. C., 1901, Montréal, Brouillard vs Shaul et Hon. Thibaudeau, ès-qual., 4 R. P. Q., 181.

163. Legs.—La condition imposée par un testateur à sa libéralité, dans le but de rendre les immeubles, par lui légués, insaisissables par les créanciers du légataire, n'est ni impossible ni prohibée par la loi, ni contraire aux mœurs. Reversed by the Privy Council: A condition attached to a legacy or donation prohibiting the seizure, sale or mortgage of the estate so given is illegal and cannot prevent the property from being seized in execution of judgment. B. R., 1863, Québec, Guillet dit Tourangeau vs Renaud, 7 J., 238; 12 J., 90; 13 D. T. B. C., 278, 350; 17 D. T. B. C., 451; 4 L. C. L. J., 11; 5 Mo. P. C., n. s., 5; 11 R. J. R. Q., 372; 12 R. J. R. Q., 211; 14 R. J. R. Q., 228; 2 L.R.P.I App.Cas., 4; 37 L.J., P.C., 1; 1 B. J. C. P., p. 870.—N. B.. Since the civil Code, article 972, unless the words used are evidently within the limits of mere advice, the prohibition to alienate is effective although the motives are not apparent.

164. Aliments given by law or by deed are insaisissables; therefore a clause of a will declaring aliments insaisissables is legal. P. C., 1873, Quebec, Muir vs Muir, 15 J., 309; 18 J., 96; 5 R. L., 637; 19 R. L., 228; 43 L. J., P. C., 7; 20 L. T., 205; 21 R. J. R. Q., 365; 1 B. J. P. C., 65; L. R., 5 P. C., 66;

165. Le légataire d'un immeuble, "à titre d'aliments et soutien de la vie sans qu'il puisse aucunement être assujetti et arrêté par aucun de ses créanciers présents et futurs," peut l'aliéner et, partant, l'hypothéquer pour garantir le remboursement d'une somme empruntée pour y faire des additions et améliorations. Le créancier hypothécaire a le droit, en vertu d'un jugement condamnant le légataire à lui payer des intérêts échus sur la somme ainsi prêtée, de saisir les loyers dus par les locataires de l'immeuble.

166. Le légataire contestant cette saisie-arrêt ne peut tout au plus en demander la nullité que pour partie, et ne peut conclure qu'à une ventilation pour établir la valeur respective de l'immeuble tel que légué et des améliorations faites au moyen de l'emprunt, la proportion du loyer due à raison de celles-ci étant, à tout événement, saisissable et indépendante de la condition du legs. C. C., 1893, Québec, Faribault vs Guay et Everett, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 143.

167. Un testament contenait la disposition suivante: "Je donne et lègue à mon frère C. A. Pacaud, domicilié avec moi, une pension viagère et annuelle de $120 par année, payable par trimestres et d'avance, à compter du jour de mon décès, et je le tiens quitte de tout ce qu'il pourra me devoir au jour de mon décès.": La pension, ainsi léguée, l'était à titre d'aliments, et n'était pas saisissable. C. R., 1895, Québec, Pacaud vs Dumoulin et al., R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 296.

168. Lorsqu'une testatrice lègue tous ses biens à ses enfants, mais en laisse l'administration à son époux avec la saisine de ses meubles et immeubles pour toute sa vie et avec les pouvoirs les plus étendus de vendre, hypothéquer, et de disposer comme il l'entendra en propriété ou en usufruit, le dispensant de faire inventaire et de rendre compte, et libre d'assigner à chacun des légataires ou à aucun d'eux, la part qu'il voudra soit par testament ou donation entrevifs, déclarant tous les biens insaisissables excepté pour les dettes de sa succession, et que cet exécuteur testamentaire endosse des billets pour aider un de ses fils, légataire, les biens ne sont pas insaisissables sous le testament. C. S., 1880, Montréal, La Banque Molson vs Lionais et Lionais, 4 L. N., 86; 5 L. N., 364.

169. La clause suivante d'un testament: "my intention in making the bequest aforesaid being that the said property or that by which it shall be represented shall be 'insaisissable', the same being given to secure a provision for the support of the said 'beneficiaries,' " n'est pas contraire aux dispositions de l'article 599 du Code de procédure civile, paragraphes 3 et 4, la loi autorisant un donateur ou un testateur à déclarer insaisissables, non seulement les immeubles légués dans le testament, mais encore ceux qui seraient acquis en remplacement de tels immeubles. B. R., 1903, Montréal, Baird vs Ferrier, R. J. Q., 13 B. R., 317; R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 497.

170. Un immeuble déclaré insaisissable dans un testament n'est pas incessible.

171. Il s'ensuit que cet immeuble peut être hypothéqué valablement. B. R., 1909, Québec, Rousseau vs Germain, 14 R. J., 95; R. J. Q., 37 C. S., 189.

172. Licence.—Une licence pour tenir un hôtel est insaisissable. C. C., 1889, Montréal, Bertin vs Théroux et Théroux, 17 R. L., 240.

173. Maître de pension.—Les meubles de ménage qui garnissent une maison de pension sont insaisissables sous l'article 598 du C. p. c., § 10, comme effets ordinairement employés par lui pour l'exercice de son métier jusqu'à la somme de $200.00. C. C., 1905, Québec, Boily vs Guillot, et Guillot, B. C. J., 47.

174. Partage de biens de communauté.—Sur exécution et saisie dans une action en séparation de biens, des biens qui ont fait partie de la communauté de biens entre les parties, la saisie étant faite en vue d'arriver à la liquidation de tous les biens qui ont composé cette communauté, le mari défendeur ne peut s'opposer à cette saisie sous prétexte que ces biens sont insaisissables ou sont employés par lui, dans l'exercice de son métier; son seul droit est de partager le produit de la vente par moitié dans la communauté, toutes dettes payées. C. S., 1906, Montmagny, Bernier vs Morin, 14 R. J., 481.

175. Pénalité.—In an attachment by garnishment of moneys in the hands of the revenue inspector belonging to the defendant as an informer under the revenue laws: It was held that they were not attachable, and the attachment was dismissed. C. C., 1858, Québec, Leclerc vs Caron and Lemoine, 8 L. C. R., 287; 6 R. J. R. Q., 248; 18 R. J. R. Q., 31, 554.

176. Pension de retraite.—Les pensions accordées aux pilotes infirmes, et aux veuves et aux enfants de pilotes, sur le fonds créé à cet effet par la 45e Geo. III, ch. 12, sect. 11, ne sont pas saisissables. C. C., 1853, Québec, Lelièvre et al. vs Baillargeon et Maison de la Trinité, 3 D. T. B. C., 420; 4 R. J. R. Q., 25.— C. C., 1878, Québec, Sham vs Bourget et Corporation des Pilotes, 4 R. J. Q., 181.

177. Il n'est pas nécessaire que le titre constitutif d'une pension ou rente viagère énonce le caractère alimentaire de cette pension, si les circonstances démontrent qu'elle a été créée à titre d'aliments. Ainsi la banque défenderesse s'étant engagée par résolution de son bureau de direction, en considération des longs services de son ancien caissier, qui se retirait en état de pauvreté et d'insolvabilité, à lui payer une pension de retraite, cette pension devait être considérée comme alimentaire et insaisissable, et partant la banque ne pouvait opposer en compensation, contre des versements de la pension, la dette que lui devait le créancier de la rente. C. Supr., 1898, Montréal, Trottier vs Banque du Peuple, R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 460; 28 R. C. Supr., 422.

178. Portrait de famille.—Les portraits de famille sont insaisissables. C. C., 1887, Fraserville, Blais vs Julien, 10 L. N., 331.

179. Remploi de meuble.—La condition d'insaisissabilité sous laquelle un objet est donné ne peut s'étendre à un autre. Par suite, est saisissable un piano acquis avec les deniers de l'assurance d'un semblable instrument, détruit dans un incendie et qui avait été donné sous condition d'insaisissabilité. C. R., 1908, Québec, The Alexander Milling Co. vs Cloutier et al. et Cloutier, R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 196.

180. Une déclaration d'emploi constatant qu'une acquisition a été faite au moyen de deniers légués à l'acquéreur sous condition d'insaisissabilité, peut être opposée à un créancier de l'acquéreur, bien qu'elle n'ait été enregistrée qu'après que ce créancier eût acquis sa créance. C. R., 1903, Montréal, Baird vs Murphy et al., R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 497.

181. Renonciation. — Le locataire ne peut renoncer au privilège conféré par l'article 556 du Code de procédure civile, relativement aux meubles déclarés insaisissables par la loi; la clause, dans un bail, par laquelle le locataire aurait renoncé à ce privilège doit être déclarée nulle, comme contraire à l'ordre public. C. C., 1876, Montréal, Marois vs Deslauriers, 7 L. N., 278; 2 La Thémis., 30.— C. C., 1885, St-Hyacinthe, Brodeur vs Rodgers et vir, 14 R. L., 253; 30 J., 2.

182. Lorsqu'un bail à loyer contient la clause que tous les meubles meublant la maison louée sans exception devront répondre et pourront être saisis pour le prix du loyer, le locataire ne pourra plus invoquer les exemptions énoncées aux articles 556, 557 et 558 du Code de procédure civile.

183. La clause de saisissabilité de tous les meubles d'un locataire contenue dans un bail, n'est pas contraire à l'ordre public. C. C., 1878, Québec, Robitaille vs Bolduc, 4 R. J. Q., 179.

184. Dans l'espèce, le défendeur, en louant un bureau de la compagnie demanderesse, avait renoncé aux exemptions de saisie que la loi établit en faveur du débiteur. La demanderesse ayant fait saisir pour loyer dû les effets mobiliers qui garnissaient le bureau du défendeur, ce dernier plaida que ces effets étaient exempts de saisie en vertu de l'article 598 du Code de procédure civile:

185. Bien que, pour les motifs d'humanité, lorsqu'il s'agit du coucher, du vêtement et de la nourriture du débiteur et de sa famille, il y ait lieu de venir à son secours et de le dégager de la renonciation inconsidérée qu'il aurait faite au privilège que lui accorde l'article 598, ces motifs ne s'appliquent pas lorsqu'il s'agit, comme dans l'espèce, de meubles relativement luxueux d'un bureau d'affaires, l'exemption de saisie n'existant alors que dans l'intérêt purement privé du débiteur. C. S., 1899, Montréal, The New York Life Insurance Co. vs Garceau, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 247.

186. Rente constituée.—Une somme annuelle que les exécuteurs sont autorisés, en vertu d'un statut provincial modifiant un testament, à payer à l'un des légataires, ou héritiers, à prendre sur les revenus par anticipation jusqu'à l'avènement de la condition permettant la division de la succession, est saisissable par les créanciers de cet héritier bien que le capital soit insaisissable, si, ni par les termes du testament, ni par ceux du statut, cette part des revenus n'est expressément déclarée être payable à titre d'aliments. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Union Bank of Canada vs Ogilvie et Watson et al., 8 R. J., 482.

187. A life rent constituted by the donor of immovable property in his own favor and secured by hypothec, does not fall under the provisions of paragraph 4, article 599 C. c. p., and is not exempt from seizure by creditors of the donor. S. C., 1902, Sweetsburg, Bradford vs Lasnier, Q. J. R., 24 S. C., 53; 10 R. L., n. s., 43.

188. Rente viagère.—Le donateur ne peut stipuler que la rente viagère, qu'il oblige le donataire de lui payer sa vie durant, sera insaisissable. C. C., 1901, Arthabaska, Gauthier vs Gauthier et Rouleau, 7 R. J., 322.

189. Une rente viagère, payable comme partie du prix d'un immeuble vendu par un père à son fils, ne saurait être tenue pour insaisissable sous prétexte qu'elle est alimentaire. Elle n'aurait pu même être stipulée telle, étant constituée à titre onéreux. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Lamoureux et al. vs Blanchard et al., R. J. Q., 32 C. S., 150; 13 R. L., n. s., 306.

190. Le demandeur avait fait émaner contre les défendeurs un bref de saisie-arrêt après jugement entre les mains du tiers-saisi. Les défendeurs comparurent, mais le tiers-saisi fit défaut, et après mise en demeure régulière, les défendeurs produisirent une contestation, disant que leur jouissance saisie-arrêtée entre les mains du tiers-saisi, était insaisissable aux termes du testament qui leur donnait cette jouissance, et concluant à ce qu'il leur fût donné main-levée de la saisie. Le demandeur rencontra cette contestation par une exception à la forme, alléguant que le tiers-saisi n'ayant pas fait de déclaration, il n'apparaissait pas que la jouissance fut saisie; que si cette déclaration avait été faite on aurait peut-être constaté que le tiers-saisi devait aux défendeurs une chose tout autre que cette jouissance, et que la contestation était prématurée: Les défendeurs étaient fondés à contester la saisie-arrêt prise par le demandeur entre les mains du tiers-saisi, et à soutenir généralement que ce que ce dernier leur devait était insaisissable aux termes du titre établissant leur créance; et si le demandeur pouvait prétendre qu'il était dû autre chose par le tiers-saisi aux défendeurs, qui ne se trouvait pas à couvert par l'insaisissabilité invoquée, c'était à lui à l'alléguer en réponse à la contestation. C. R., 1896, Montréal, David vs McDonald et al., et Tessier dit Lavigne, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 73.

191. Salaire.—Aucune autre personne que le journalier (homme de peine), n'a droit de se prévaloir de l'acte de la législature de Québec 44 et 45 Vict., ch. 18, lequel pourvoit à ce que les gages échus des journaliers ne soient saisissables que pour un montant n'excédant pas la moitié des dits gages.

192 Le défendeur, en cette cause, qui est employé dans une fabrique de papier à tapisserie et dont l'occupation est de peindre ou graver les fleurs sur ce papier, n'est pas un journalier et n'a pas droit au bénéfice du dit acte. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Brown et al. vs Gordon et McArthur et al., 7 L. N., 354.

193. An engineer engaged on a steamer, and having the supervision and direction of the motive power is not, within the meaning of article 628, par. 5, C. c. p., a workman or laborer (operarius), and therefore his wages are not exempt from seizure to the extent of three-fourths thereof. Q. B., 1892, Montreal, Compagnie de Navigation du Richelieu et Ontario vs Triganne, 1 Q. J. R., Q. B., 413; 16 L. N., 52.

194. A person employed as a foreman, fur cutter and clerk, but whose services as clerk formed an important part of his duties, is not a workman (operarius), whose wages are seizable to the extent of one-fourth thereof under article 628 (5) of the Code of civil procedure, but is a clerk, whose wages are not seizable in advance, under article 558 (5) of said Code. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Bertin vs Sasseville and Bourdeau, Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 523; 2 R. J., 247.

195. Le quart des gages d'un journalier (operarius) est saisissable, même pour les gages non encore échus, et cela nonobstant la disposition de l'article 558, par. 5, C. p. c., cette saisie étant régie par l'article 628, par. 5, C. p. c. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Chabot vs Oneson et Fisher, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 223.

196. Les gages de celui que l'on appelle un jobber, c'est-à-dire celui qui travaille à la pièce dans une manufacture, sont saisissables pour une partie. C. C., 1897, Québec, Bélanger vs Roy et Ritchie, 4 R. L., n. s., 162.

197. Le salaire et les commissions d'un agent d'assurance tombent sous le § 11 de l'article 599 C. p. c., et sont saisissables pour partie seulement. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Gauthier vs Huot et al. et Royal Victoria Life Insurance Co., et al., 2 R. P. Q., 273.

198. Le salaire d'un maître de chant ou d'un maître de chapelle, dans une église, qui y enseigne la musique vocale et instrumentale aux membres du chœur, mais qui a aussi d'autres occupations, n'est pas saisissable. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Lefebvre vs Drolet, Œuvre et Fabrique de la paroisse de St-Jacques, 13 R. L., n. s., 184; 8 R. P. Q., 200.

199. Salaire des fonctionnaires publics. Notwithstanding the terms of the Act (Q.) 38 Vict., ch. 12, the salaries of employees and officers of the federal government are exempt from seizure, the local legislature having no power over them. S. C., 1877, Montreal, Evans et al. vs Hudon and Browne, 22 J., 268.

200. Le salaire des employés du gouvernement n'est pas saisissable à moins d'un statut spécial à cet effet.

201. Un employé du gouvernement à tant par jour n'est pas un employé mensuel dont le salaire est déclaré saisissable par la 38 Victoria, ch. 12. C. C., 1877, Québec, Lépine vs Gauthier, 5 R. J. Q., 217.

202. Le salaire des employés du gouvernement fédéral est insaisissable, et le statut de Québec, 38 Vict., ch. 12, qui rend saisissable une partie du salaire des employés publics ne s'applique pas à eux. C. C., 1881, Montréal, Crevier vs DeGranpré et Lamothe, 5 L. N., 48.

203. Un magistrat de district ne tombe pas sous les dispositions du Statut de Québec, de 1875, 38 Vict., ch. 12, (S. R. Q. 692), et son salaire n'est pas saisissable. C. R., 1889, Montréal, Desrosiers dit Lafrenière vs Barthe et L'hon. Trésorier de la province de Québec, 17 R. L., 527.

204. Les honoraires du substitut du procureur-général ne sont pas saisissables. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Robinson vs Quinn et Hon. Casgrain et al., ès-qual., R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 240.

205. A city assessor is a "public officer" within the meaning of article 599 C. c. p., and his salary is not liable to seizure by garnishment. Q. B., 1898, Montreal, Stewart vs Euard and The City of Montreal, Q. J. R., 8 Q. B., 404; Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 262; 1 Q. P. R., 217.

206. Un médecin, surintendant d'un asile d'aliénés sous le contrôle du gouvernement de la province de Québec, est un fonctionnaire public dont le salaire est saisissable pour partie seulement. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Taché vs Devlin et Marchand, 1 R. P. Q., 360.

207. Le shérif qui reçoit des honoraires, plus un salaire pour pourvoir à l'administration de la justice, n'est pas un fonctionnaire public dont le salaire soit saisissable pour une partie, mais le salaire entier est insaisissable.

208. Le salaire du shérif est insaisissable, et quand même le gouvernement aurait payé quelques versements du salaire au créancier saisissant, le shérif dont le salaire a été saisi, même lorsque la saisie-arrêt a été maintenue sur son défaut de comparaître, peut, par opposition à jugement, la faire annuler. C. C., 1898, Montréal, Monjeau vs Arpin et Taillon, 1 R. P. Q., 288; R. J. Q., 18 C. S., 395.

209. Le curateur nommé à la liquidation des biens d'un failli est un fonctionnaire public dont les honoraires sont, aux termes de l'article 599 C. p. c., insaisissables. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Snyder vs Gagnon et Gagnon et Allard et al. et Gagnon, 3 R. P. Q., 271.

210. Salaire des instituteurs.—Le salaire de l'instituteur est insaisissable. B. R., 1848, Montréal, Roy vs Codère et les Commissaires d'école de St-Ours et Meilleur, 1 M. C. R., 73; 18 R. J. R. Q., 31, 553.

211. A person employed as private tutor, and then travelling with his pupil, in that capacity, was not a "school teacher," within the terms of article 628 of the Code of procedure, so as to exempt his salary from seizure under that article. S. C., 1881, Montreal, L'Africain vs Villeneuve et Dugas et al., 4 L. N., 54.

212. Les dispositions du chapitre 12 de la 38e Vict., pour rendre une partie du salaire des employés publics saisissable ne s'appliquent pas au traitement des instituteurs sous les contrôle des commissaires d'écoles d'enseignement primaire. Leur salaire est insaisissable aux termes de l'article 628 C. c. p., lequel n'a pas été abrogé par le dit acte. C. S., 1884, Montreal, Lovejoy vs Robert Campbell et The Protestant Board of School Commissioners, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 77; 7 L. N., 397.

213. Le salaire d'un instituteur est insaisissable (599 § 8 C. p. c.) et cette insaisissabilité subsiste en faveur des enfants de l'instituteur pour les arrérages échus lors de son décès.

214. On ne peut saisir entre les mains du gouvernement de la province de Québec que le salaire des officiers publics.

215. A sum of money due to a school teacher, as a subsidy payable out of the fund appropriated by the legislature as allowance to institutions and superior schools, being money due by the government of the province, and not money due as the salary of a public officer, is not seizable under a writ of attachment by garnishment. C. R., 1901, Montreal, Beauchemin et al. vs Fournier, ès-qual., and De Cazes et al., 7 R. J., 142; 4 Q. P. R., 138; Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 272.

216. Salaire des matelots.—En vertu du "Merchant Shipping Act", les gages d'un marin sont insaisissables et un chauffeur à bord d'un navire à vapeur est un marin. C. C., 1897, Québec, Dion vs Boudreault et Jones, 4 R. L., n. s., 161.

217. Les gages d'un matelot engagé à $16.00 par mois sur un vapeur enregistré, voyageant à l'intérieur entre Québec et Chicoutimi, sont insaisissables, en vertu de l'acte de l'engagement des matelots, ch. 74, sect. 80, S. R. C. C. S., 1898, Malbaie, Larouche vs Bherer et Compagnie de Navigation Richelieu et Ontario, 1 R. P. Q., 493.

218. Salaire du maître du hâvre.—Le maître du havre de Montréal, ayant pour fonctions d'administrer partie du domaine public de la Couronne et agissant dans l'intérêt général du commerce et de la navigation, doit être considéré comme un fonctionnaire public, et son salaire est insaisissable. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Cochrane vs McShane et Les Commissaires du Havre de Montréal et al., R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 283; R. J. Q., 13 B. R., 505; 11 R. L., n. s., 536.

219. Salaire du régistrateur (député). L'expression "tout tel régistrateur" de l'article 5650 S. R. Q., (57 Vict., ch. 41), comprend le député-régistrateur. Par suite, le député-régistrateur de la division d'enregistrement de d'Hochelaga et Jacques-Cartier est un officier du revenu et, comme tel, son salaire est totalement insaisissable, excepté dans les cas de contravention aux devoirs de sa charge, et dans l'exécution de jugements obtenus à raison de telle contravention. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Garand et al. vs Maucotel et Hon. Tessier et al., R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 325; 15 R. L., n. s., 78.—C. S., 1908, Montréal, Guilbert vs Maucotel et al. et Hon. Lomer Gouin et al., 14 R. L., n. s., 435.

220. Sauvage.—En vertu de l'Acte des Sauvages, 39 Vict., ch. 18 et 46 Vict., ch. 43, Canada, et ses amendements, les biens meubles et effets mobiliers des sauvages sont exempts de saisie.

221. Une règle nisi émanée contre le défendeur, qui est sauvage, et qui s'est opposé à la saisie de ses meubles, sans toutefois commettre d'assaut sur l'huissier exploitant, sera cassée (quashed). C. S., 1878, Richelieu, Hannis vs Turcotte et Maurault, 8 R. L., 708.—C. C., 1878, Montréal, Lepage vs Watzo, et Watzo et Lepage, 8 R. L., 596; 4 R. J. Q., 82; 22 J., 97; 1 L. N., 322.—C. C., 1878, Québec, Durand vs Sioui, 4 R. J. Q., 93.—C. S., 1900, Québec, Bussières et al. vs Bastien, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 189.

222. The real and personal property of Indians inside the reserve is exempt from seizure. C. C., 1906, Montreal, Charbonneau vs De Lorimier, 8 Q. P. R., 115.

223. Service militaire.—Monies due for services as a soldier in a militia camp, are exempt from seizure under article 599, sect. 6, C. c. p., which enacts that pay and pensions of persons belonging to the army or to the navy are exempt from seizure.

224. No distinction can be made either in theory or in practice, between a militiaman or volunteer and a regular soldier belonging to a permanent corps. C. C., 1906, St. Francis, Noyes vs Hanson, 14 R. J., 272.

225. Sténographe officiel.—Les montants dus aux sténographes officiels pour dépositions prises en cour, sont considérés comme un salaire et saisissables pour un cinquième. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Létourneau vs Collin et Hon. Turcotte, ès-qual., 4 R. P. Q., 122.

226. Taxe municipale. — Un donateur ne peut, par une clause d'insaisissabilité, soustraire les biens donnés aux charges et contributions imposées dans l'intérêt public, et malgré cette clause d'insaisissabilité, les biens qui y sont sujets peuvent être vendus pour taxes municipales. C. S., 1887, Montréal, Cité de Montréal vs Brownsdon, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 146; 10 L. N., 302.

227. Les taxes municipales ne sont pas saisissables. C. S., 1897, Trois-Rivières, Monpas vs Corporation de la paroisse St-Pierre-les-Becquets, et Désy et al. et Blair et al., 3 R. J., 540.

228. Tiers.—Un tiers qui fait une opposition à fin de distraire à une saisie de meubles ne peut invoquer comme moyen que les effets saisis sont insaisissables en loi, ce moyen ne peut être invoqué que par le défendeur, et personne ne peut exciper de droit d'autrui. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Beaubien vs Perrault et Piché, 6 R. L., n. s., 43.

229. Titre onéreux.—A deed of sale of substituted property made in conformity with the provisions of a statute (18 Vict., ch. 25*a*) authorizing the sale of substituted property in consideration of a rente foncière of £6 annually, payable by a deed stipulating that the assignee could not alienate the land, nor any part thereof, without express written consent of the assignors, under penalty of nullity, was legal, but being a purely onerous title on its face, the prohibition to alienate was void. Supr. C., 1879, Canada, Fraser vs Pouliot, ès-qual., 1 Supr. C. R., 515; 3 Q. L., R., 349; 1 L. N., 183.

230. Une pension qui n'est pas constituée à titre purement gratuit, mais pour certaines considérations exprimées à l'acte de constitution, est saisissable. C. R., 1890, Montréal, Vignault vs Bone et McCord, 19 R. L., 185.

231. La prohibition d'aliéner la chose donnée par une donation onéreuse est nulle. C. R., 1893, Montréal, Grenier vs Kerr et al., R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 409.

232. Le créancier, par jugement, d'un donataire d'un immeuble donné sous la réserve que cet immeuble sera insaisissable en la possession de tel donataire, ne peut faire saisir cet immeuble sur le motif que les charges de la donation sont tellement considérables que, de fait, l'acte est plutôt une vente qu'une donation. C. S., 1896, Québec, Soucy vs Lebel et Lebel, 4 R. J., 194; R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 263.

233. Sous le droit antérieur au Code comme depuis, la clause d'insaisissabilité est valable.

234. La validité de la clause d'insaisissabilité stipulée dans un testament, n'est pas affectée par le fait que le legs fait sous cette condition serait un legs onéreux, car ce legs, étant volontairement accepté par le légataire, lorsqu'il pouvait y renoncer, constitue une véritable libéralité, dont le légataire ne peut plus répudier les charges (ni ses créanciers à sa place) sous prétexte qu'elles excéderaient la valeur des biens donnés. C. S., 1897, Montréal, David vs McDonald et al., R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 4.

235. Une pension alimentaire obtenue par jugement en vertu d'une donation entrevifs à titre onéreux, est saisissable comme une créance ordinaire et n'est pas privilégiée. C. S., 1898, Saguenay, D'Auteuil vs Mallais et Mallais, 1 R. P. Q., 589; 4 R. L., n. s., 445.

236. Une clause d'insaisissabilité ne peut être valable que dans un contrat à titre gratuit, comme le testament et la donation.

237. Une donateur à titre onéreux ne peut déclarer que la rente viagère que le donataire s'engage à lui payer sera alimentaire et insaisissable, quand même cette rente serait payable en nature. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Lamoureux vs Blanchard et Blanchard, 13 R. L., n. s., 306.

238. Une pension alimentaire constituée par un acte de donation à titre onéreux, est saisissable. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Biron et al. vs Biron et Lazuier, 16 R. L., n. s., 386; 16 R. J., 418; 11 R. P. Q., 426.

239. Usage et habitation.—Les droits d'usage et d'habitation stipulés aliénables avec le consentement du nu-propriétaire sont saisissables et la saisie n'en peut être opposée que par ce dernier. C. R., 1882, Québec, Goulet vs Gagnon, 8 R. J. Q., 208.

240. Usufruit.—Les choses léguées en usufruit au défendeur et en propriété à l'opposant, avec clause d'insaisissabilité, ne peuvent être valablement saisies sur le défendeur usufruitier. C. C., 1899, St-Hyacinthe, Bazinet vs Jeannotte, 5 R. J., 507.

241. Vente de bien inaliénable.—Where a petition is presented by the usufructuary of property, à titre d'inaliénabilité, to be allowed to alienate the usufruct for the purpose of repairing the property subject thereto, the court will dismiss the petition as useless, where the petitioner is in full possession of his civil rights. S. C., 1897, Montreal, Ex parte Sutherland, 1 Q. P. R., 81.

242. Vente judiciaire.—La vente des effets déclarés insaisissables par la loi est illégale, quand même il n'y aurait eu avant la vente aucune opposition ou intervention. C. C., 1886, Farnham, Lemoine vs Giroux, 9 L. N., 147.

V. Accession, Aliment, Avocat, Bâtiments marchands, Caisse d'Epargne, Donation entrevifs, Exécuteur testamentaire, Frais, Inscription en droit, Louage des choses, Opposition afin d'annuler, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente de meuble, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Saisie-gagerie, Sauvage, Substitution, Testament, Usufruit, Vente, Vente (à réméré).

INSCRIPTION EN DROIT

Déf.—L'inscription en droit est une défense au mérite d'une action ou une réponse à une autre pièce de procédure par laquelle la partie, en admettant la vérité des faits allégués contre elle, soutient qu'ils ne justifient pas les conclusions prises, et qu'elle ne doit pas être tenue de procéder davantage. C. p. c., 191 et s.

INDEX

Acceptation de succession 301
Action hypothécaire .. 1
Action en requête 283
Action pénale ...3, 4 et s.
Action pétitoire 7, 247
Action possessoire ...8, 391
Action "qui tam" 3
Action rédhibitoire ... 9
Action sur billet prom., 10 et s.
Adultère 76, 294
Affidavit 104, 289
Aliénation mentale ... 109
Aliment ..... 12 et s.
Allégation alternative 15
Allégation connexe, 28 et s.
Allégation contradictoire ..... 16 et s.
Allégation de droit 17 et s.
Allégation de faits .. 24
Allégation étrangère et inutile ..... 30 et s.
Allégation hypothétique 85
Allégation irrégulière 50
Allégation négative. 91
Allégation subsidiaire 29
Allégation utile .87 et s.
Amendement, 92 et s., 269
Animosité 79
Arrestation illégale, 38, 77, 104
Assaut 37, 65, 130
Assemblée de fabrique 94
Assurance 46, 57, 95
Audition, 96, 171 et s., 284 et s.
Automobile 218
Aveu ....72, 97 et s., 114
Avis d'action, 100 et s. 254,
Avocat 25
Billet promissoire, 10 et s., 113, 123, 151 et s., 155, 193 et s.
Brevet d'invention ... 102
Bris de maison 130
Capacité 103
"Capias" ..... 104 et s.
Caractère, 33, 38, 65, 82
Cause de dommage, 106 et s
Cause probable 108
Cession de créance 109
Charge du demandeur 47, 67, 70, 75, 89
Chemin de fer, 60, 69, 208
Chèque 127
Chose jugée 110
Cité de Montréal, 101, 135, 272
Clause pénale 111
Clôture 158
Collection 116
Commerce 111
Compensation ....112 et s.
Compensation d'injure 118 et s., 137
Composition musicale, 266
Compte à compte 114
Compte de tutelle ... 121
Conclusion, 122 et s., 147, 196, 293
Conduite 33
Confession de jugement 110
Considération 127, 197
Consignation 199
Conspiration 37
Constructeur 262
Contrat 128
Coroner 306
Corporation municipale ..... 213 et s.
Cour de Circuit 174
Couronne 129
Curateur étranger ... 133
Cumul ..... 130 et s.
"Damnun sine injuria", 134 et s.
Débenture 268
Déchéance d'action ... 136
Déchéance de droits.. 294
Défaut d'autorisation 137
Défaut d'enregistrement 138
Défaut de présentation 198
Défense, 139 et s., 144, et s., 147 et s.
Délai, 48, 143 et s., 180
Délégation de paiement, 149
Délit de la femme mariée 150
Délivrance 302
Demande de paiement, 151 et s.
Demande incidente... 153
Dénégation de faits, 154 et s.
Dépôt volontaire 157
Désaveu 257
Description erronée... 158
Désistement 173
Détail superflu 52
Dette litigieuse 117
Diffamation 159
Discussion des meubles 160
Dommage, 113, 115, 119, 137, 158, 218, 260 et s., 298, 302, 306
Donation entrevifs, 165, 259, 299
Election de domicile .. 201
Endossement, 11, 193 et s.
Enregistrement, 161 et s., 300
Etat de fortune 66
Exception à la forme, 163 et s., 282, 286
Exception délinatoire, 191, 202
Exception dilatoire.... 178
Exclusion 126
Exercice de droits, 134 et s.
Exhibit ..... 165 et s.
Expression erronée.... 168
Expulsion de voyageur 33
Faits 171
Fait semblable, 41 et s., 45 et s.
Fait subséquent, 27, 73, 153
Forme, 169, et s., 182 et s.
Frais, 14, 25, 110, 116, 199, 301
Garantie ..... 178 et s.
Garde des mineurs ... 295
Habitude 34, 37, 49
Influence indue 64, 68
Injure corporelle 67
Injure personnelle .. 69
Injure verbale, 61, 130, 159
Inscription 180
Inscription partielle, 181 et s.
Insolvabilité, 184, 204, 239, 302
Intérêt, 14, 185 et s., 258
Intervention 187
Inventaire 188
Irrégularité 189
Juge 82
Jugement final, 199, 200
Juridiction, 21, 191, 200, 201
Justification 61, 72
Labour et semence.... 192
Lésion 205
Lettre de change, 193 et s.
Libelle, 18, 78, 206 et s.
Lien de droit ..... 208 et s.
Listipendance 112
Locateur ..... 263 et s.
Louage des choses, 31, 212, 264
Malice 18, 39, 62
Mandat 95, 179
Mari et femme, 14, 71, 119, 150
Marque de commerce, 215 et s.
Matières fédérales 218
Mérite, 43, 219, 224, 288
Mise en demeure 163
Mis en cause 220
Motifs de l'action, 3, 39, 62 et s., 68, 83 et s.
Moyens ..... 222 et s.
Moyens généraux, 43, 221 et s.
Nom ..... 228 et s.
Nullité d'acte. 233
Nullité de mariage 121

Numérotage..... 170
Objet..... 227
Obligation..... 113
Officier public..... 254
Offres réelles 199, 234 et s.
Opposition afin d'annuler, 160, 237 et s., 292
Opposition en sous-ordre..... 239
Option..... 131
Paiement....149 et s., 275
Particularités..... 240
Partie en cause..... 162
Passage..... 296
Paternité..... 241
Pénalité..... 111
Pension alimentaire.. 295
Possession.....8, 126,247
Préjudice..... 90
Prescription, 136, 155, 242 et s.
Prête-nom.....109, 249
Preuve, 245 et s., 250 et s., 253
Preuve avant faire droit, 20, 26, 75, 81, 253 et s., 264, 268
Privilège du constructeur..... 262
Privilège du locateur, 263 et s.
Procès antérieur..... 269
Procès-verbal.....213 et s.
Promesse de payer.... 195
Promesse de vente, 138, 265
Propriété litt. et art.... 266
Prostitution..... 31
Protêt.....203 et s.
Qualification d'électeur 88
Qualité..... 103
"Quo warranto"..267 et s.
Radiation.....161 et s.
Reddition de compte, 121, 269 et s., 297
Règlement municipal, 59, 218, 272
Règle "nisi" 271
Rejet sur motion, 172, 237, 273, 278 et s., 282
Renonciation à succ.. 300
Répétition d'allégation 274
Répétition de l'indu.. 275
Répétition d'injure.. 159
Réplique..... 276
Réponse.....235, 276 et s.
Réputation.....53, 206
Requête ou action.... 238
Réserve.....39, 284 et s.
Révision de jugement 285a
Révision d'interdiction 286
Rôle d'évaluation..... 287
S. a. après jugement.. 13
S. a. avant jugement.. 104, 288 et s.
Saisie-revendication, 115, 254, 259
Salaire.....290 et s., 297
Séparation de corps, 36, 76, 118, 292 et s.
Servitude..... 296
Signification, 271, 304 et s.
Société..... 297
Solidarité..... 298
Souffrance morale, 80 et s.
Souscription de charité..... 299
Subside 208
Succession.....300 et s.
Taxe de succession.... 74
Taxe municipale 267
Titre de propriété..... 7
Tuteur..... 301
Usurpation d'office... 91
Vengeance.....3, 63, 84
Vente..... 88, 302
Vente de créances 303 et s
Verdict du coroner.... 306
Vitesse des automobiles..... 218

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Action hypothécaire.—Les allégués d'une action en déclaration d'hypothèque, qui justifient une condamnation personnelle, ne seront pas rejetés sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Turcot vs Lebeau, 2 R. P. Q., 208.

2. Action pénale.—A defendant who is sued for the recovery of a penalty under 31 Vict., ch. 35, sect. 37 (Q.), by a plaintiff who brings the action in his own name instead of suing as well for the Crown as for himself, should set up this defect by demurrer and not by exception to the form. S. C., 1883, Montreal, Anders vs Hagar, 6 L. N., 98.

3. Dans une action qui tam, le défendeur ne peut plaider des faits tendant à démontrer que l'action a été intentée par vengeance; et ces allégations seront rejetées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Simard vs d'Hauterive, 5 R. L., n. s., 223.

4. Le défendeur, qui est poursuivi en recouvrement d'amende, parce qu'il aurait fait affaires dans la province depuis plus de cinq ans, et aurait négligé de faire et produire la déclaration requise par l'article 4754 des S. R. Q., peut, par inscription en droit, invoquer la prescription édictée par l'article 2615 des S. R. et, sur telle inscription en droit, l'action sera renvoyée avec dépens. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Croysdill vs Shawinigan Carbide Co., 15 R. J., 410.

5. Les conclusions de l'action pénale pour "acte de régaler" (treating) contre un candidat élu, demandant l'annulation de cette élection et la déqualification du candidat, sont illégales et seront rejetées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Bourbonnais vs Lortie, 11 R. P. Q., 145.

6. In a penal action, the conclusions that the defendant be condemned to pay the sum of $100, one half to belong to His Majesty the King, and the other half to the plaintiff, without asking for an order to pay to the plaintiff directly and without stating how the judgment should be executed, are sufficient in law. S. C., 1911, Montreal, Wilson vs Hart, 12 Q. P. R., 409.

7. Action pétitoire.—Where in a petitory action to which the defendant demurred on the ground that the plaintiff had not alleged his title, nor that of his auteurs, not that the same were enregistered: Held, over-ruling the demurrer, that such allegations were not necessary, and that the averment that the plaintiff's auteurs were at the time of sale to him, proprietors in open public and peaceable possession of the land so sold in good title was sufficient to render the declaration non-demurrable, on the grounds urged by defendant. C. R., 1884, Quebec, Ross vs Lefebvre, 10 Q. L. R., 244; 7 L. N., 401.

8. Action possessoire.—Dans une action possessoire, l'action sera déboutée sur une inscription en droit, si le demandeur n'allègue qu'il ne possède que depuis plus d'un an avant l'institution de l'action, quoiqu'il fasse remonter le trouble, jusqu'à un mois avant l'institution de l'action. C. S., 1866, Montréal, Cardinal vs Bélanger, 10 J., 251; 16 R. J. R. Q., 37.

9. Action rédhibitoire.—Il suffit sur une telle action rédhibitoire, pour le demandeur, d'alléguer que la maladie dont souffre le cheval vendu, est une maladie incurable, et constitue un défaut caché. Et pour les fins d'une inscription en droit, une telle allégation présumée vraie, est suffisante en loi. C. C., 1908, Terrebonne, Marinier vs Debien, 14 R. J., 483.

10. Action sur billet promissoire. — Where the defendant demurred to an action on a promissory note on the ground that the declaration did not allege that the defendants signed the note, and that it did not allege that they delivered the said note, etc.: The allegation that the defendant made the note was sufficient without alleging that the note was signed by him, and as to the delivery, although it would have been better to have alleged the delivery by the maker to the payees, the declaration must be considered to have been sufficient. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Bullitt et al. vs Shaw et al., 7 J., 47; 12 R. J. R. Q., 25.

11. If a plaintiff on an action on a promissory note, alleges that the note is payable to a third party and stops there without saying that the third party indorsed it he does not show a good cause of action against the maker, but on the contrary shows that the amount sued for is payable to a third party: Such action will be dismissed on inscription in law. S. C., 1911, Montreal, Lavallée vs Burrage, 12 Q. P. R., 382.

12. Aliment.—Une inscription en droit faite sur le principe qu'on ne peut, dans une cause pour aliments, demander une pension alimentaire avant le jugement est mal fondée en droit et doit être renvoyée. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Dame Heaton vs Leprohon, 4 R. L., n. s., 383; 1 R. P. Q., 218.

13. Dans une contestation de saisie-arrêt après jugement, faite sur le principe que les biens saisis sont insaisissables, et où le contestant allègue qu'il a besoin de ses argents pour vivre, le demandeur ne peut répondre que "si le défendeur est sans ressource actuellement, c'est dû à sa propre faute et à son inconduite notoire, à sa paresse et à son ivrognerie," et cette allégation peut être retranchée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Desrochers vs Martin, 5 R. L., n. s., 73.

14. Un créancier qui poursuit une femme séparée de biens pour des choses nécessaires à la vie, après avoir obtenu jugement contre son mari insolvable, ne peut réclamer contre elle ni les frais, ni les intérêts de ce jugement, et ces demandes peuvent être rejetées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Piché vs Massé et vir, 2 R. L., n. s., 334.

15. Allégation alternative. — In an action against the sureties of an ex-sheriff of Montreal, a demurrer was filed by defendants to the declaration, alleging that important allegations of the declaration charging the defendants in the alternative with responsibility arising out of the default of the late sheriff, "want of integrity, honesty or fidelity, or by the negligence, default or irregularity of the said late, etc.": To be objectionable, but demurrer dismissed without costs with a suggestion to plaintiff to amend. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Hon. Ross, pro Regina, vs Citizens' Insurance Co., 2 L. N., 181.

16. Allégation contradictoire. — Defendant by his plea to an action in saisie-gagerie, admits that the plaintiffs are the universal legatees of the deceased; but, that Rev. Mr. Dion is the testamentary executor and that an agreement exists between him and the defendant that no action would be taken pending certain negotiations:

17. It was held that these allegations are not contradictory, and will not be dismissed on inscription in law. S. C., 1905, Montreal, St-Aubin et al. vs Crevier, 7 Q. P. R., 403.

18. Allégation de droit. — The insertion of a proposition of law in a plea is not ground of demurrer.

19. A plea to an action of libel, alleging facts which, if proved, tend to rebut any presumption of malice on the part of the defendant, is not demurrable. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Compagnie de publication du "Canada Revue" vs Mgr Fabre, Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 436; Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 195.

20. Il n'y a pas lieu de répondre en droit à une prétention légale émise dans une défense, et preuve avant faire droit sera ordonnée sur une telle réponse. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Marsan dit Lapierre vs Larue et al., 2 R. P. Q., 175.

21. L'on ne peut répondre par une inscription en droit à une défense qui ne soulève que des questions de juridiction et de droit. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Laforest vs Laporte et al. et Cité de Montréal, 6 R. L., n. s., 232.

22. La cour ne rejettera pas, sur une réponse en droit, des propositions légales émises dans un plaidoyer, et qui ne requièrent aucune preuve. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Sexton vs Violett et al., et Campbell, 6 R. P. Q., 413.

23. Une partie n'a pas d'intérêt à demander le rejet d'une allégation qui n'est que le simple énoncé d'une prétention, et qui est d'ailleurs inutile et inoffensive. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Fisher vs Shapiro, 9 R. P. Q., 198.

24. Allégation de faits.—Facts cannot be alleged in replication to an answer in law and allegations of facts contained in such replication may be struck out on motion. S. C., 1886, Montreal, Lockie vs Mullin et al., M. L. R., 2 S. C., 262; 9 L. N., 358.

25. An inscription in law to a paragraph of an opposition stating that the costs of a judgment whereof execution is sought were distraits to the attorneys of the plaintiff, who are not the attorneys prosecuting the execution, will be dismissed. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Chisholm vs Wilson and Wilson, 2 Q. P. R., 96.

26. Les allégations qui ne sont que la narration des faits ne seront pas retranchées sur inscription en droit, mais seront réservées pour le mérite de la cause. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Baron vs Lapointe, 11 R. P. Q., 166.

27. An allegation in the declaration which refers to matters which arose after the action has been instituted is irregular and will be struck on an inscription in law. S. C., 1909, Sweetsburg, Lussier vs Hudon, 11 Q. P. R., 39.

28. Allégations doivent être considérées ensemble.—L'on ne peut attaquer, en droit, par inscription, une allégation, dans une déclaration écrite, si cette allégation considérée en rapport avec les autres allégations de la déclaration donnent droit d'action au demandeur. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Dame Munro vs Compagnie du chemin de fer du Grand-Tronc, 6 R. L., n. s., 296.

29. L'article 191 C. p. c., ne permet pas d'inscription en droit contre une partie de la demande qui ne constitue pas, par elle-même, un moyen distinct d'action, mais qui, avec les autres allégations, sert à former un tout indivisible. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Eckels vs Piché, 10 R. J. Q., 293.

30. Allégation étrangère et inutile. Where a plea to the merits contained allegations and conclusions inconsistent with one another, and belonging to two different classes of pleas, on demurrer, those which did not properly belong to the plea must be dismissed. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Chapman vs Nimmo, 8 J., 42; 14 L. C. R., 103; 12 R. J. R. Q., 284; 13 R. J. R. Q., 310.

31. Une exception perpétuelle alléguant que le demandeur savait, lors de l'exécution du bail d'une maison, que le défendeur entendait y tenir une maison déréglée, n'est pas une réponse à une action en éviction, fondée sur ce que le défendeur occupait la maison pour des fins illicites; et telle exception sera rejetée sur une défense au fond en droit. C. S., 1864, Québec, Guy vs Goudreault, 14 D. T. B. C., 225; 12 R. J. R. Q., 511.

32. L'allégation dans une déclaration de matières étrangères à la demande et qui ne peuvent servir à l'appuyer est un moyen qui doit ainsi que l'absence d'allégations nécessaires pour montrer un droit à ce qui est demandé, être invoqué par défense en droit et non par exception à la forme. C. S., 1874, Québec, D'Estimauville vs Tousignant, 1 R. J. Q., 40; R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 479.

33. Dans une action en dommage contre une compagnie voiturière pour expulsion illégale par un conducteur, toute allégation dans la plaidoirie se rapportant au caractère et à la conduite du demandeur dans un autre temps que la circonstance en question dans la cause, est étrangère à la contestation et sera rejetée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Brouillet vs Montreal Street Railway Co., M. L. R., 4 C. S., 379; 10 L. N., 153.

34. In an action of damages based on defendant's alleged negligence in running its cars too fast, an allegation that the defendant habitually runs its cars faster than the law permits, is demurrable, unless (where preuve avant faire droit is ordered) the alleged habitual carelessness be connected with the injury complained of. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Gauthier vs Montreal Street Railway Co., Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 379.

35. Irrelevancy of certain allegations of the declaration is not matter for preliminary plea, or motion to strike out, but should be urged by demurrer. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Lee vs Burland, Q. J. R., 9 S. C., 294.—S. C., 1898, Montreal, Cross vs Prévost and Lacaille, 1 Q. P. R., 375.—S. C., 1902, Montreal, Phillips vs Laviolette, 4 Q. P. R., 396.—S. C., 1908, Montreal, Jacques vs Walsh, 10 Q. P. R., 46.—S. C., 1908, Montreal, Gauthier vs Rousille, 15 R. J., 231.

36. Des allégations étrangères aux faits de la contestation et ne donnant pas ouverture au droit réclamé, seront rejetées sur défense partielle en droit. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Trenholme vs Chateauguay Northern Railway Co., 3 R. L., n. s., 541.—C. S., 1900, Montréal, Dame Desjardins vs Compagnie du Grand Tronc, 8 R. P. Q., 35.

37. Dans une action en dommages pour assault, les allégations suivantes: "Le défendeur est coutumier d'actes de brutalité de ce genre," et "de plus, son fils travaillait avec lui et gagnait un salaire d'une piastre par jour, et il a été dans l'impossibilité, vu la maladie de son père, d'aller travailler, ce qui ferait une somme de $16," seront rejetées sur inscription en droit comme non pertinentes au litige. C. S., 1898, Corbeil vs Parent, 4 R. L., n. s., 163; 1 R. P. Q., 377.

38. Dans une action en dommages pour conspiration et fausse arrestation, l'allégation suivante dans la déclaration, savoir, que le défendeur "est d'un caractère irascible, emporté, absolu, ne souffrant point la contradiction et est incontrolable," sera retranchée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Gingras vs Rév. Tassé, 4 R. L., n. s., 453; 1 R. P. Q., 430.

39. Des allégués de malice et de réserve de recours en dommages, dans un plaidoyer à une saisie-revendication, seront rejetés comme inutiles sur inscription en droit, si le plaidoyer ne contient aucune conclusion en découlant. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Labranche vs Motte, 1 R. P. Q., 270.

40. Lorsque l'un des deux défendeurs dans une cause, plaide, en réponse à l'action, des faits qui se rapportent à l'autre défendeur ou qui sont indifférents à la contestation liée, ces allégations pourront être rejetées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Morris et al. vs Stairs et al., 4 R. L., n. s., 138.—C. S., 1898, Montréal, First National Bank of St. Augustine vs Tiffin et al., 1 Q. P. Q., 268.

41. Le demandeur qui poursuit son voisin en réclamation de dommages causés à sa propriété ne peut, dans sa déclaration, alléguer que ses autres voisins ont également souffert des dommages pour la même cause.

42. Les allégations de la déclaration se rapportant aux faits ci-dessus seront retranchées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Robin vs Dominion Coal Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 143.

43. Une défense en droit qui ne contient aucun moyen, et qui n'a qu'une allégation générale à l'effet que la déclaration telle que libellée ne donne pas droit aux conclusions demandées, est irrégulière, trop vague et peut être renvoyée sur motion.

44. Lorsqu'une défense s'attaque au fonds même de l'action et est insuffisamment libellée, le demandeur ne peut y répondre par une inscription en droit et doit la contester au fond. L'inscription en droit ne s'appliquent qu'au cas où le droit de la partie n'est pas démontré, ou ne ressort pas des faits tels que libellés. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Leduc et al. vs Kensington Land Co. et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 44.

45. Dans une action en dommages pour accident, un allégué disant, que "dans la même semaine quatre autres accidents analogues sont arrivés aux hommes qui étaient à pelleter le charbon au même endroit," a sa raison d'être, et ne sera pas renvoyé sur inscription en droit.

46. Une allégation dans une action en dommages pour accident, à l'effet que les défendeurs n'avaient pas pris toutes les précautions nécessaires, parce qu'ils s'étaient fait assurer dans une compagnie contre leur propre responsabilité, sera rejetée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Boudrias vs Meldrun et al., 4 R. L., n. s., 367; 1 R. P. Q., 356.

47. Dans une action en dommages causés par un accident, le demandeur n'a pas le droit d'alléguer qu'il "est le seul soutien de sa sœur aveugle, âgée de trente-trois ans": et cette allégation peut être retranchée sur défense en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Hamelin vs Dominion Coal Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 411; 1 R. P. Q., 320.

48. Where it is pleaded that a delay has been given by the plaintiff, this should be positively affirmed, and a mere expression of opinion and belief as to the granting of such delay is not sufficient. S. C., 1898, Montreal, First National Bank of St. Augustine vs Tiffin et al., 1 Q. P. R., 268.

49. Sur inscription en droit un allégué d'un plaidoyer disant que le demandeur fait métier de vilipender dans un journal, divers citoyens, et notamment le défendeur, sera renvoyé comme étranger à la contestation. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Lightbound vs Patenaude, 1 R. P. Q., 324.

50. Lorsque des allégations nécessaires au soutien de la demande ont été faites dans la réponse à la défense au lieu d'avoir été renfermées dans la déclaration, le défendeur ne peut en demander le rejet par une inscription en droit, à moins que ces obligations ne donnent pas, par elles-mêmes, ouverture au droit réclamé. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Imperial Bank of Canada vs Dame Quinn, 6 R. L., n. s., 195.

51. Dans une saisie-revendication, lorsque le défendeur, après avoir plaidé au mérite, allègue en fait que le défendeur aurait profité de son absence pour faire illégalement renvoyer une exception à la forme, que l'action est malicieuse et que les procédures faites par la demanderesse sont "barbares et tolérées dans aucun pays du monde." ces dernières allégations peuvent être retranchées sur une inscription en droit comme étrangère à la contestation. C. S., 1899, Montréal, J. S. Prince Co. vs Roy, 5 R. L., n. s., 485.

52. If a fact, which appears to be legal and relevant, is set up great at length in a pleading, and the opposite party inscribes in law, not against the parts of allegations containing such useless details, but against the fact itself, which he alleges should not have been pleaded, the useless details will not be struck off on such inscription. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Caisse Générale et al. vs Dupuis, 2 Q. P. R., 478.

53. Dans une action en dommages, intentée par un officier public parce que le défendeur aurait attaqué publiquement son honneur et son intégrité, le défendeur ne peut dans sa défense, après avoir nié les allégués de la demande, faire des allégations à l'effet que si le demandeur a perdu l'estime de ses concitoyens, il doit l'attribuer à sa propre faute, et alléguer, en outre, des faits spéciaux différents de ceux contenus dans sa déclaration. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Lebeau vs Cousineau, 5 R. L., n. s., 64.

54. Dans une action en recouvrement de dommages résultant d'une inondation par laquelle le demandeur ne réclame des dommages que depuis le 29 juillet 1900, une allégation dans la déclaration à l'effet que la même maison du demandeur avait été inondée depuis le mois de février précédent, sera, sur motion, rejetée comme inutile et n'ayant aucun rapport à la contestation. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Burroughs vs Cité de St-Henri, 8 R. J., 282.

55. In a plea to an action in damages for slander, the words: "et qu'il dit à la prière de son curé" are irrelevant and in no wise constitutes a legal justification in respect of an action of this nature, and on an inscription in law, will be struck from the plea, with costs. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Bourget vs Lefebvre, 4 Q. P. R., 325; 8 R. L., n. s., 172; 8 R. J., 163.

56. Dans une action en séparation de corps la femme demanderesse ne peut alléguer "qu'avant de se marier elle voulait passer un contrat de mariage en séparation de biens, mais que son mari refusa et l'induisit à ne pas passer de contrat de mariage, ce à quoi elle consentit sur ses instances." C. S., 1901, Montréal, Kavanagh vs McCrory, 7 R. J., 516.

57. In an action in damages against an electric light company for loss by fire by reason of defective wiring and excess of electric current, an allegation in the plea which states that the building was refused as a risk by the insurance companies, will be struck from the plea, on an inscription in law, as being irrelevant to the issue in no wise supporting the conclusions of the plea. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Dame West et vir vs Lachine Rapids Hydraulic and Land Co., 4 Q. P. R., 314; 8 R. L., n. s., 147.

58. Un médecin qui poursuit pour le paiement de ses services et soins professionnels ne peut, dans sa demande, alléguer que lorsque ses services ont été requis le défendeur et les membres de sa famille avaient été les victimes d'un attentat dont l'auteur, membre de la famille du défendeur, était maintenant sous accusation pour un acte criminel; que les journaux avaient donné publicité à ces faits et qu'ils mentionnaient, en même temps, que le défendeur était sous les soins du demandeur: Sur inscription en droit, ces allégations seront déclarées étrangères au litige, illégales et inutiles, et comme ne pouvant être prises en considération dans l'évaluation des services du demandeur. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Marien vs Lussier, 8 R. J., 492; 5 R. P. Q., 324.

59. Il n'est pas légal de dire, en attaquant la validité d'un règlement municipal, qu'il a été passé malgré l'avis adverse de l'avocat de la municipalité. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Ville de Westmount vs McKim, 5 R. P. Q., 134.

60. In an action in damages by the widow of a railway conductor against the railway company for the death of her husband, where the defendant pleads that the victim took no steps to protect his own train, as required by the rules and regulations of the company, and that such negligence was the determining cause of the accident: It is not legal for the plaintiff to answer that the deceased "had done all that was customary for the employees of the said railway company defendant," and such allegation being too vague will be rejected in an inscription in law. S. C., 1903, Montreal, Dame Leahey, ès-qual., vs Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 5 Q. P. R., 350.

61. Dans une action en dommages pour injures verbales, une allégation qui se lit ainsi: "Tout ce que le défendeur a dit dans cette circonstance l'a été dans l'intérêt public, de bonne foi et sans malice et a été une critique légitime de ceux qui avaient attaqué son caractère privé et avaient tenté de le ternir ou qui avaient contribué à la chose," n'est pas une défense valable et sera renvoyée sur requête en droit. B. R., 1903, Montréal, Bissonnette vs Sylvestre, 6 R. P. Q., 255.

62. Il n'est pas légal de plaider que l'action intentée est malicieuse et n'est que le fruit de la vengeance et de la haine que le demandeur porte au défendeur. Ces motifs sont étrangers au mérite du litige et inutiles au succès du défendeur. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Mélançon vs Archambeault, 6 R. P. Q., 460.— C. S., 1911, Montréal, Martineau vs Les Commissaires d'écoles de la municipalité de Maisonneuve, 12 R. P. Q., 201.

63. However, it was held that, to an action instituted by a tutor to recover damages, the defendant may allege by his plea "that the present action is vexatory, malicious, inspired by vengeance and instituted not to recover damages, but to oblige defendant to pay the costs of the defence, which he will not be able to recover," and an inscription in law, by plaintiff, against such allegation will be dismissed with costs. Defendant is entitled to fyle such a plea inasmuch as a tutor who abuses his quality by carrying on proceedings which are clearly unfounded, may be condemned personally to costs. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Villebret, ès-qual., vs Duplessis, 11 R. J., 349.

64. Seront rejetées sur inscription en droit comme inutiles au litige, des allégations en la défense à l'effet que l'action n'a été instituée que parce que la partie demanderesse a subi les influences de tierces personnes. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Robillard et al. vs Robillard, 10 R. J., 366.

65. Dans une action en dommages à raison de voies de fait ou d'assaut grave, des allégations concernant les caractères respectifs du demandeur et du défendeur seront déclarées mal fondées en droit et seront rejetées du dossier, sur inscription en droit, comme étant inutiles et étrangères à la contestation. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Chénier vs Martin, R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 324; 11 R. L., n. s., 88.

66. Le demandeur qui réclame des dommages à raison d'un accident du travail peut alléguer sa pauvreté et la maladie de sa femme, mais non l'état de fortune de ses patrons. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Desrosiers vs Wighton et al., 6 R. P. Q., 429.

67. Dans une action en dommages pour injures corporelles, l'allégué suivant: "le demandeur, le seul soutien d'une jeune épouse, faible et incapable de travailler, aussi que d'une mère sexagénaire, ayant besoin elle-même de son fils pour subsister.... et par conséquent met le dit demandeur dans l'incapaciter d'aider, soutenir et secourir ceux dont il a la charge, tant par la nature que par la loi," sera retranché comme irrégulier, inutile, et n'ayant aucun rapport avec la responsabilité des défendeurs. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Lefrançois vs Dominion Bridge Co., Ltd., 7 R. P. Q., 338.

68. Une allégation de la défense, à l'effet "que l'action est injuste, vexatoire et malicieuse, et qu'elle n'émane pas de la volonté libre de la demanderesse, absolument inconsciente et incapable de donner un consentement, mais de tierce personne intéressée à tracasser le défendeur et à le ruiner à son propre bénéfice" sera rejetée sur inscription en droit, vu que ce qui a rapport aux motifs de l'action et à l'ingérence des tiers ne peut affecter le litige. C. S., 1906, Richelieu, Quintin dit Dubois et al. vs Laramée, 13 R. J., 380; 8 R. P. Q., 265.

69. Allegations contained in a declaration in an action in damages for personal injuries to the effect that the defendants acted in contravention of the provisions of the Canada Railway Act of 1903 are irrelevant and will be dismissed from the record on inscription in law. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Hence vs Standard Chemical Co., Ltd., et al., 7 Q. P. R., 451.

70. L'allégation, dans une action en dommages, que la demanderesse est mère de deux enfants mineurs dont elle est le soutien, est inutile et sera retranchée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Dame Filion vs Linton et al., 8 R. P. Q. 382.

71. A une action en dommages, alléguant que le défendeur a causé des dommages considérables au demandeur, en lui enlevant l'affection de son épouse, le défendeur ne peut plaider que "dès avant les faits reprochés au défendeur, le demandeur avait, par ses mauvais traitements, perdu l'affection de son épouse," ni que "de fait le demandeur a perdu l'affection de son épouse à raison de tels mauvais traitements," une inscription en droit du demandeur demandant le rejet de ces allégations de la défense, sera maintenue avec dépens. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Cormier vs Bousquet, 13 R. J., 502.

72. Dans une action en dommages par l'avocat d'une municipalité contre un électeur qui l'aurait accusé de se faire avec cette situation un revenu exorbitant, il n'est pas loisible au défeudeur de plaider que le demandeur aurait mentionné publiquement qu'il se faisait de ce chef un certain revenu et telle allégation sera renvoyée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Monty vs Mercure, 9 R. P. Q., 253.

73. In an action for damages, it is legal to allege that plaintiff's fellow workman, who was with him on the roof of the building was killed; but it is irrelevant to mention the improvements made to the machinery since the accident. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Trainer vs Riordan Paper Mills Co., 9 Q. P. R., 267.

74. Lorsque le requérant, en reprise d'instance à titre d'exécuteur testamentaire, allégue spécialement qu'il a acquitté tous les droits de succession dus à la Couronne, la partie adverse ne peut demander le renvoi de cette requête en alléguant que la partie décédée a fait des donations à cause de mort, nulles d'après la loi, et que les droits de succession n'ont pas été payés sur les biens ainsi donnés. Ces allégations seront rejetées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1908, St-Hyacinthe, St-Jacques vs Morrison et St-Jacques et al., ès-qual., 10 R. P. Q., 144.

75. If plaintiff asks for the annulment of a deed by which defendant undertook to care for plaintiff and his wife, the defendant cannot allege (a) that he feeds and has care for plaintiff better than the latter did for his children; (b) that the plaintiff has a considerable income and is a persistent litigant: but preuve avant faire droit will be ordered on the allegations that he is poor and has a large family ; that the plaintiff is capricious, and has often displayed hostility towards defendant and wishes to ruin him; all these allegations may assist the court in adjudicating upon the merits of the demand. S. C., 1908, Quebec, Benoit vs Dubord, 10 Q. P. R., 148.

76. Dans une action en séparation de corps le mari, défendeur, ne peut plaider, (a) qu'il a co-habité avec la demanderesse plusieurs mois avant son mariage, et qu'il l'a épousée alors qu'elle était enceinte, (b) que le matin même du mariage, il aperçut dans la chambre de sa future épouse un jeune homme de réputation louche, (c) que la demanderesse ne put donner aucune explication satisfaisante de la présence de ce jeune homme dans sa chambre à pareille heure; toutes ces allégations sont étrangères au litige et seront renvoyées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Bolduc vs Archambault, 10 R. P. Q., 143.

77. A party suing in damages for false arrest may allege that neither the defendant, who was the complainant, nor the company of which he is the manager, was the proprietor of the goods alleged to have been stolen. But he cannot allege that his mind was impaired by the serious illness of his mother. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Fournier vs Shier, 10 Q. P. R., 381.

78. A newspaper sued in damages for having published that the plaintiff as president of a company had purchased privately some real estate to resell it with profit to the company cannot plead, (a) that the plaintiff as mayor of the city has negotiated a loan to the great loss of the citizens of the city; (b) that plaintiff was bound to put the defendant in default, either by letter or otherwise, to publish an explanation or a retraction. These allegations will be struck on an inscription in law. S. C., 1909, Quebec, Garneau vs Compagnie "La Vigie," 10 Q. P. R., 370.

79. Un demandeur qui réclame des dommages pour injures personnelles à raison d'un fait spécifique, dans l'espèce, pour avoir été forcément expulsé de son banc par le défendeur, en l'église paroissiale, pendant le service divin, ne peut alléguer que le défendeur, depuis longtemps, a fait preuve d'animosité, contre le demandeur en écrivant dans un journal des articles libelleux contre lui: Cette allégation est étrangère à la cause et sera renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1909, Richelieu, Lavallée et vir vs Lafrenière, 11 R. P. Q., 73; 16 R. J., 30.

80. In an action in damages by a father for the killing of his son by a tramway, it is illegal to allege that "plaintiff and child's mother did suffer terrible anguish by reason of the death of said child and that his body was terribly mutilated."

81. But preuve avant faire droit will be ordered on the allegation that "by reason of the darkness the motorman and conductor of the car could not see the boy." S. C., 1909, Montreal, Linner vs The City of Montreal, 11 Q. P. R., 61.

82. Les allégations qui attaquent le caractère et la personne du juge qui a rendu le jugement reproché seront rejetées du dossier. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Baron vs Lapointe, 11 R. P. Q., 166.

83. Les allégations d'une action en nullité de contrat se rapportant aux motifs du demandeur pour intenter l'action sont inutiles et peuvent être rejetées sur une inscription en droit.

84. Les allégations d'une défense à l'effet que le demandeur n'a institué son action que dans un but de vengeance, parce qu'il n'avait pas obtenu, après l'avoir sollicité, la vente du bois nécessaire à la construction d'une maison d'école, sont des allégations de cette nature. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Martineau vs Commissaires d'écoles de la municipalité de Maisonneuve, 17 R. L., n. s., 169.

85. Allégation hypothétique. — Where to an action for the amount of insurance the defendants pleaded inter alia "that no contract of insurance could be made under the powers possessed by the appellants except in the mode fixed by their charter and by-laws, and no such contract had been made with the plaintiff, and that if any such contract had been made it could only have been so made upon conditions usual in the company's assurances, and that those conditions had not been fulfilled by the appellant": Confirming the judgment of the court below on a demurrer raised by the plaintiff, that this latter part of the plea was hypothetical and must be dismissed. P. C., 1857, Quebec, The Montreal Assurance Co. vs Dame McGilliwray, 2 J., 221; 8 L. C. R., 401; 9 L. C. R., 488; 4 R. J. R. Q., 406, 440; 13 Moore's P. C. R., 87; 1 B. J. P. C., 427, 657.

86. Une défense basée sur des faits hypothétiques est illégale et peut être renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dagenais vs Ville de Dorval, 17 R. L., n. s., 188.

87. Allégation insuffisante, mais utile. — An allegation of an answer to plea, insufficient in itself to dismiss the plea, but which tends to prove the truth of the plaintiff's action will not be dismissed on inscription in law. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Vipond vs Kilburn, 4 Q. P. R., 376; 8 R. L., n. s., 218.

88. Le demandeur a le droit d'alléguer des faits tendant à prouver le bien fondé de son action. S'il prétend qu'un acte de vente d'une propriété n'a été consenti que dans le seul but de faire mettre le nom de l'acheteur sur la liste des électeurs municipaux, il peut, dans une demande pour faire annuler cet acte, alléguer un jugement rendu sur une contestation d'élection municipale, constatant que le dit acheteur n'était pas qualifié à voter, vu qu'il n'avait jamais été en possession de la propriété qu'il prétendait avoir achetée. C. S., 1908, Richelieu, Auclair vs Ledoux et al., 9 R. P. Q., 149.

89. Dans une action en dommages à la suite d'un accident du travail, l'allégation que "le demandeur est père de famille et le seul soutien de sa femme et de ses enfants" est de nature à aider la cour dans la fixation des dommages soufferts et ne sera pas rejetée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Sauvé vs Peter Lyall and Son, 10 R. P. Q., 91.

90. Un demandeur ne peut faire rejeter d'une défense, par inscription en droit, une allégation qui ne lui cause aucun préjudice et peut être utile au défendeur. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dagenais vs Ville de Dorval, 17 R. L., n. s., 188.

91. Allégation négative. — When parties sue for usurpation of office, not in any particular quality, but in their own names, and alleged in their pleading their quality as shareholders and their interest as such, allegations of the defence denying such quality and interest will not be rejected upon an inscription in law. S. C., 1999, Montreal, Caisse Générale et al. vs Dupuis, 2 Q. P. R., 478.

92. Amendement. — Where plaintiff attempts to urge grounds of law against defendant's plea without stating that he inscribes the same for hearing on a fixed day, he will, upon motion, be permitted to amend the answer in law by adding the words relating to inscription. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Palliser vs Merchants' Bank of Canada, 1 Q. P. R., 285.

93. Aucun amendement ne peut être fait à une pièce de procédure sur laquelle contestation est liée, sans la permission du juge; et partant, une inscription en droit ne peut être amendée, sans permission du juge, après que cette inscription en droit a été produite, vu, qu'aux termes de l'article 193 C. p. c. la contestation sur une inscription en droit est liée par la production seule de telle inscription en droit. C. p. c. 193. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Grossman vs Claman, 7 R. P. Q., 281; 12 R. J., 259.

94. Assemblée de fabrique.—In an action against a curé for refusing to receive a vote at a meeting of the fabrique, it is not ground of demurrer that the writ was addressed to the curé in his personal and not in his official quality. C. R., 1881, Montreal, Birabin dit St-Denis vs Lombard, 4 L. N., 355.

95. Assurance.—Il n'y a pas de lien de droit entre un agent d'une compagnie d'assurance et une personne qui, par l'entremise de cet agent, prend une police d'assurance dans la compagnie, et une action intentée par l'agent contre cet assuré qui ne paie pas ses primes pour la part ou le profit que l'agent doit en retirer d'après ses arrangements avec la compagnie d'assurance pourra être déboutée sur défense en droit. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Daveluy vs Hénault, M. L. R., 6 C. S., 255; 13 L. N., 228.

96. Audition.—When a law issue is raised by demurrer, the demurrer must be heard before the case can be inscribed for enquête. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Burroughs vs Bourget, 2 R. C., 238.

97. Aveu.—Where no legal ground of action or indebtedness is disclosed by the declaration, e. g., where in an action on a note against the donneur d'aval it is not alleged that the note was protested, the declaration is not demurrable if it be alleged therein that the defendant frequently acknowledge to owe and promised to pay the amount demanded.

98. The effect of the above mentioned allegation is not destroyed by another allegation of the declaration, to the effect that the defendant refused to pay the amount, the proper construction of the latter allegation being that since the promise was made the defendant had refused to pay. C. R., 1893, Montreal, Emard vs Marcille et al., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 525; Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 268; 16 L. N., 268.

99. An allegation of a nature to establish by special instances the general allegation that the defendant has admitted liability for that class of accident is legal and will not be rejected on an inscription in law. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Carter White Lead Co. of Canada vs Employers Liability Assurance Co., 8 Q. P. R., 253.

100. Avis d'action.—In an action of damages for false imprisonment: On the plea of the defendant that where there was proof that he had acted in good faith, and believing himself to be authorized by statute, that he was entitled to a month's notice, and the plea of want of such notice was a general issue, and could not be reached by the demurrer. S. C., 1859, Montreal, McNamee vs Himes, 3 J., 109; 7 R. J. R. Q., 383.

101. Une inscription en droit basée sur le fait que la déclaration n'allègue pas qu'un avis préalable à l'institution de l'action a été donné à la cité de Montréal sera rejetée, l'omission de cette allégation ne constituant pas une déchéance absolue du droit d'action. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Cloutier vs Cité de Montréal, 7 R. P. Q., 385.

102. Brevet d'invention.—In an action for the infringement of a patent right to which the defendant demurred on the ground that the declaration failed to set out at length the preliminary formalities required to be observed in order to obtain the patent: To be unnecessary and the demurrer was dismissed. S. C., 1858, Montreal, Bernier vs Beauchemin, 2 J., 193; 6 R. J. R. Q., 476.

103. Capacité.—Un défendeur ne peut invoquer, par une défense en droit, son défaut de capacité et de qualité, mais il doit le faire par une exception préliminaire. C. S., 1870, St-Hyacinthe, Breault vs Barbeau et al., 2 R. L., 130; 3 R. L., 384; 17 J., 48; 2 R. C., 107; 21 R. J. R. Q., 12, 564.

104. Capias.—Dans un capias et une saisie-arrêt avant jugement, basés sur des dommages causés par une fausse arrestation, l'affidavit du demandeur contenait l'allégué suivant: "That the said defendants are connected with a Spanish spy system which has been conducted by them and others in the United States:" Ce ne serait là ni un acte dommageable pour le demandeur ni un acte comportant l'intention de frauder, et cet allégué sera renvoyé sur requête en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Kellert vs De Carranza et al., 1 R. P. Q., 264.

105. Le défendeur peut contester un capias au moyen d'une inscription en droit, bien qu'il puisse aussi le faire par requête sous l'article 919 de C. p. c. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Todd et al. vs Murray, 5 R. L., n. s., 551.

106. Cause de dommages.—In an action for damages caused to real property by the neighborhood of a foundry, paragraphs setting forth that the rents having considerably diminished, the plaintiff could not pay off the hypothecs on her property, which was sold by sheriff's sale at a very low price, will not be rejected on inscription in law, on the ground that it is not alleged that the decrease in value due to defendant's fault, or that the price realized represented the actual value of the property, if the fault of the defendants is sufficiently alleged in the context.

107. The defendant will not be allowed to allege, at the hearing, that the damages complained of in the paragraphs attached are too remote to justify plaintiff's claim, if that ground was not set forth in the inscription in law. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Thibault vs Laurie Engine Co., Ltd., 2 Q. P. R., 351.

108. Cause probable.—Reasonable and probable cause being a good defence to an action for false and malicious arrest, paragraphs containing allegations explanatory of this reasonable and probable cause will not be struck on inscription in law as irrelevant. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Hawk vs The City of Montreal, 9 Q. P. R., 144.

109. Cession de créance.—A defendant cannot set up as a defence the insanity of the plaintiff cédant at the time he made the transport, and that the plaintiff was only a prête-nom. Q. B., 1883, Quebec, Vallières vs Drapeau, 6 L. N., 154.

110. Chose jugée et confession de jugement.—Il n'y a pas lieu à une défense en droit contre un plaidoyer qui offre de confesser jugement pour une partie de l'action, plaide chose jugée pour l'autre partie et demande les frais de contestation contre le demandeur. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Lambe vs Pontiac et Pacific Junction Railway Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 484; 1 R. P. Q., 473.

111. Clause pénale.—Dans une action en recouvrement d'une pénalité conventionnelle, à raison du fait qu'avant l'expiration de certain délai stipulé, le défendeur aurait exercé un commerce qu'il s'était obligé de ne pas faire, il n'y a pas lieu pour le demandeur d'alléguer: "que depuis que le défendeur a commencé ce commerce, le demandeur a souffert des dommages considérables dans ses affaires," et une inscription en droit demandant le rejet d'une telle allégation sera maintenue avec dépens. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Normandin vs Hogue, 10 R. J., 517.

112. Compensation.—L'on ne peut par réponse en droit faire rejeter comme irrégulier un plaidoyer renfermant une exception de compensation et de litispendance. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Picard vs Bérard, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 454; 8 L. N., 347.

113. Des allégués demandant à compenser une réclamation basée sur un acte d'obligation et un billet, avec des dommages que le défendeur prétend avoir soufferts par le refus du demandeur de radier des hypothèques enregistrées sur l'immeuble hypothéqué au demandeur, lesquelles hypothèques seraient acquittées au dire du défendeur, sont illégaux et seront rejetés sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1899, St-François, King vs Lepitre, 2 R. P. Q., 429.

114. A plea of compensation, setting forth a contra-account, followed by an allegation of acknowledgement and promise to pay by the plaintiff, will not be dismissed on an answer in law. K. B., 1901, Quebec, Laurentide Pulp Co., Ltd., vs Curtis, 4 Q. P. R., 109.

115. In an attachment in revendication of moveables sold, allegations in a plea tending to compensate the purchase price with damages arising from previous legal proceedings and seizures, will be rejected on inscription in law. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Poulin vs Sekyer, 9 Q. P. R., 50.

116. If in an action for the recovery of monies collected by the defendant for the plaintiff, the former, by a cross-demand, alleges compensation by professional services, commission, etc., an inscription in law asking the rejection of this cross-demand, will not be granted on the ground that the debts are equally clear and liquidated, and that the defendant should merely have pleaded to the principal action; but preuve avant faire droit will be then ordered. S. C., 1910. Quebec, Drouin vs Patry, 11 Q. P. R., 266.

117. Une défense basée sur la compensation au moyen d'une créance d'une nature litigieuse qui ne peut être liquidée que par une longue enquête, peut être renvoyée sur une inscription en droit. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dlle Verdun vs Théoret, 18 R. L., n. s., 46.

118. Compensation d'injures.—En matière de séparation de corps, le défendeur ne peut plaider compensation d'injures, et des allégations de cette nature seront retranchées de ses défenses sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Brossard vs Delattre, 7 R. J., 257.

119. A une action réclamant des défendeurs, mari et femme, des dommages pour des propos injurieux proférés par l'épouse du défendeur sur le compte des demandeurs, les défendeurs ne peuvent opposer une défense alléguant les propos tenus par le défendeur.

120. Ces allégations ne peuvent repousser la demande basée sur les propos de l'épouse du défendeur, et partant sera maintenue une inscription en droit demandant de retrancher telles allégations de la défense des défendeurs. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Huet vs Paré et vir, 8 R. J., 350.

121. Compte de tutelle.—Dans une cause de reddition de compte par une mineure assistée de son mari, contre son tuteur, ou ce dernier plaide, par exception à la forme, la nullité du mariage comme contracté sans consentement, preuve avant faire droit sera ordonnée sur une réponse à l'exception alléguant que ce consentement a été refusé par malice et par intérêt et contre le sentiment unanime du conseil de famille. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Dame Levy vs Levy, 6 R. P. Q., 250.

122. Conclusion.—Demurrer maintained to declaration setting up a contract, and (without asking that the contract be set aside) claiming more than was stipulated in the contract. S. C., 1865, Montreal, Gough vs Greaves, 1 L. C. L. J., 93; 18 R. J. R. Q., 162, 570.

123. On ne peut produire une défense en droit à une action sur un billet promissoire sans conclusion, la déclaration et le bref d'assignation y suppléant. C. R., 1871, Montréal, Childerhouse vs Bryson, 2 R. L., 735; 15 J., 246; 1 R. C., 242; 20 R. J. R. Q., 69, 518.

124. An inscription in law need not necessarily contain conclusions, but the indication that it applies to the whole declaration or to some particular allegations thereof is sufficient. S. C., 1897, Montreal, Potvin dit Montpetit vs Montreal Loan and Mortgage Co., and Ladurantaye, 1 Q. P. R., 216.—Contra: S. C., 1904, Montreal, Hon. Préfontaine vs Compagnie de Publication de la Patrie, 6 Q. P. R., 183.—S. C., 1905, Sherbrooke, Delisle et al. vs McCrea et al., Q. J. R., 27 S. C., 76.

125. Une action réelle qui ne contient que des conclusions personnelles, sera renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Drouin vs Laurier, 4 R. P. Q., 343; 8 R. L., n. s., 130.

126. Le fait de conclure à ce qu'il émane un bref en expulsion au lieu d'un bref de possession ne peut donner lieu à une inscription en droit. C. S., 1909, Montréal, The S. Carsley Co., Ltd., vs Scroggie et al., Ltd., 10 R. P. Q., 415.

127. Considération de chèque.—Une action basée sur un chèque ne sera pas renvoyée sur défense en droit parce qu'elle ne contient pas d'allégation de considération fournie, ni de présentation pour acceptation ou paiement. Un plaidoyer d'absence de considération n'est pas une bonne défense à une telle action. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Aumont vs Massey, 7 R. P. Q., 67; 11 R. L., n. s., 503.

128. Contrat.—Une partie à un contrat n'a pas d'intérêt à faire confirmer ce contrat par les tribunaux, lorsqu'elle n'allègue pas que ceux qui ont contracté avec elle répudient ce contrat ou refusent de l'exécuter. Une telle action sera renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Laveau et vir vs Berman et al. et Bédard, 11 R. J., 464.

129. Couronne.—The rule in the cases of information from the Crown seeking judgment against a party is not to set aside the plea demurred to unless it is clearly bad. Ex. C., 1884, The Queen vs Whitehead, 1 Ex. C. R., 134.

130. Cumul.—L'on ne peut inscrire en droit contre une action en dommages pour assaut et batterie, injures verbales et bris de maison sur le principe qu'il y a eu cumul. C. S., 1873, Beauharnois, Tremblay vs Legault, 5 R. L., 549.

131. An inscription in law is not the proper remedy to compel a party to optate between different paragraphs of his pleading but the recourse is by means of a dilatory exception. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Bourget vs Lefebvre, 8 R. J., 163.

132. Ce n'est point par une inscription en droit qu'une partie peut se plaindre du cumul d'une dénégation générale avec un plaidoyer affirmatif, mais par une demande à son adversaire d'opter entre ces moyens contradictoires. C. S., 1908, Québec, Claret vs Forgues, 17 R. J., 22.

133. Curateur étranger.—To an action to set aside the appointment of a curateur to an interdict on the ground that he lived in Ontario, and that plaintiff was dependent on her father and unable to compel the defendant to contribute thereto, defendant pleaded that he was known to be living in Ontario at the time of his appointment, and moreover plaintiff had since married and was not now dependent on her father for support. The plea was dismissed on demurrer. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Legge vs Legge and Simpson, 24 J., 83; 3 L. N., 159.

134. "Damnum sine injuria."—Celui qui exerce un droit ne commet pas de faute, et les dommages matériels qui, en fait, peuvent exister, et qu'un tiers peut éprouver ne sont pas recouvrables en justice, étant des dommages sans lésion d'un droit.

135. Ainsi, l'action en dommages contre la cité de Montréal d'un propriétaire qui a bâti suivant le plan d'une nouvelle ligne homologuée et qui se plaint que ses voisins se bâtissent plusieurs pieds en avant de lui, vu qu'ils bâtissent suivant l'ancienne ligne, sera renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Pépin vs La Cité de Montréal, 11 R. P. Q., 368.

136. Déchéance d'action.—La déchéance diffère de la prescription et peut être plaidée par inscription en droit. C. S., 1910, Joliette, Barrette vs The Provincial Mutual Benefit Society, 12 R. P. Q., 224.

137. Défaut d'autorisation. — The allegations of defendant's plea were, that by plaintiff's gross neglect the church was burned, and plate and valuables lost, whereby defendants suffered great damage, which they set up in compensation. Demurrer to plea, on the ground, 1st, that defendants' claim being for unliquidated damages could not be urged in compensation, 2nd, that defendants did not allege that at a regular meeting of the fabrique, or of the parishioners, they had been authorized to so plead, succeded. S. C., 1891, Quebec, Giroux vs Curé et Marguilliers de Beauport, 17 Q. L. R., 315.

138. Défaut d'enregistrement. — Une réponse en droit faite à l'opposition et fondée sur le défaut d'enregistrement d'une promesse de vente, et de paiement du droit de mutation, n'a pas sa raison d'être, et doit être renvoyée avec dépens. C. S., 1896, St-Hyacinthe, Chaffers vs Morrier et Paquette, 2 R. J., 103.

139. Défense.—A plea which is good in part and bad in part should be rejected on demurrer. S. C., 1871, Montreal, Miller vs Bourgeois and Holland et al., 16 J., 196, 335; 17 J., 158; 20 R. J. R. Q., 380, 382, 522.

140. Where defendant pleads two defences and, subsequently, fyles a demurrer covering the same ground as one of the plea, this latter must be dismissed. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Berger vs Devlin, 4 L. N., 294.

141. On ne peut pas répondre en droit à une défense en fait. C. S., 1883, Québec, Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Côté, 9 R. J. Q., 76.

142. Une défense en droit est une contestation au mérite. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Riddel, ès-qual., vs Commissaires d'écoles de la ville de la Côte St-Louis et Commissaires d'écoles catholiques romaines de la Cité de Montréal, 5 R. L., n. s., 38.

143. Délai.—A demurrer is not a preliminary plea, and need not therefore be filed within the four days laid down by the statute. S. C., 1853, Quebec, Benson vs Ryan, 4 L. C. R., 156; 4 R. J. R. Q., 125.

144. Under the present Code of procedure, the inscription in law is part of the defence and must be filed at the same time as the latter. S. C.; Quebec, 1898, Bourget vs The Colonial Mutual Life Association, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 209; 1 Q. P. R., 505.

145. L'inscription en droit devant être produite en même temps que la défense au fonds, la cour n'adjugera sur cette inscription qu'après la production de la dite défense. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Leach vs Pelletier, 8 R. P. Q., 71.

146. Lorsque le défendeur a produit une défense en faits niant les allégations de la demande, il ne peut postérieurement produire une inscription en droit qu'avec la permission du tribunal. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Croysdill vs Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of Canada, Ltd., 10 R. P. Q., 117.

147. L'inscription en droit doit précéder la défense en faits.

148. Si le défendeur lie d'abord contestation avec le demandeur sur l'action telle qu'intentée, avec ses conclusions telles que prises, il ne peut ensuite contester en droit une partie des conclusions et en demander le rejet. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Caisse, ès-qual., vs Foucreau, 11 R. P. Q., 79.

149. Délégation de paiement. — Un plaidoyer demandant le renvoi de l'action parce qu'il y a eu délégation de paiement et que la poursuite aurait dû être dirigée contre le nouveau débiteur, sera renvoyé sur défense en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Dame Venne vs Brunet, 4 R. L., n. s., 451; 1 R. P. Q., 431.

150. Délit de la femme mariée.—Lorsque le demandeur poursuit en dommages le mari pour des injures verbales prononcées par la femme de ce dernier, il doit alléguer que le défendeur a autorisé ou ratifié la conduite de son épouse, sans quoi son action sera renvoyée sur défense en droit. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Lepage vs Montreuille, 9 R. P. Q., 269.

151. Demande de paiement.—Le défaut de demande du paiement d'un billet payable à demande ou d'allégation dans l'action de telle demande de paiement ne peut faire l'objet d'une défense en droit, telle action portant demande de paiement.

152. Le défaut de demande de paiement avant l'institution de l'action peut tout au plus permettre au défendeur de se libérer des frais d'action en déposant le montant réclamé ou dû. C. S., 1904, St-François, Eastern Townships Bank vs Dame Woodward, 6 R. P. Q., 458.

153. Demande incidente. — Une demande incidente réclamant des dommages additionnels ne peut être basée sur des faits postérieurs à l'action principale; pareille demande incidente sera renvoyée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Jordan vs Gagnon, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 184; 9 L. N., 203.

154. Dénégation de faits.—An allegation in a plea in law denying the allegations in the plaintiff's declaration is bad, and must be struck out. S. C., 1872, Montreal, Dubois et vir vs Stoll, 17 J., 24; 22 R. J. R. Q., 512, 531.

155. L'on ne peut inscrire en droit contre une défense à une action sur billet promissoire lorsque cette défense allègue dénégation de signature et de valeur et prescription de cinq ans. C. C., 1874, Beauharnois, Lynch vs Laframboise, 5 R. L., 547.

156. An inscription in law is not the proper means to attack a plea which couples special grounds of defence with a general denial. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Thorneloe vs Ivey et al., 8 R. J., 61.

157. Dépôt volontaire. — Lorsqu'une somme d'argent est réclamée entre les mains du débiteur par plusieurs créanciers et que ce dernier en fait un dépôt volontaire entre les mains du trésorier de la province, un des créanciers peut, par action contre l'autre, en mettant le débiteur en cause, demander à ce que ce montant lui soit payé, et une inscription en droit prétendant que l'action aurait dû être dirigée contre le débiteur est mal fondée. C. S., 1905, Québec, Connelly vs Dame McCarron et Ætna Life Insurance Co., B. C. J., 21.

158. Description erronée.—Dans une action en dommages parce que l'intimée en construisant un chemin aurait illégalement démoli une clôture entourant un certain lot décrit dans la déclaration, laquelle description n'incluait pas le lot du défendeur, une défense en droit est mal fondée et sera renvoyée. B. R., 1878, Montréal, Whitman vs La Corporation du township de Stanbridge, 9 R. L., 652; 23 J., 176; 1 L. N., 474, 507.

159. Diffamation et injure. — Un plaidoyer à une action en dommages, pour injures verbales, par lequel l'on répète et en même temps l'on offre de rétracter les paroles injurieuses dont on se plaint, sera renvoyé sur défense au fonds en droit. C. S., 1858, Québec, Noël, ès-qual., vs Chabot, 8 D. T. B. C., 211; 6 R. J. R. Q., 209; 20 R. L., 105.

160. Discussion préalable des meubles. Une opposition alléguant que les meubles du défendeur n'avaient pas été préalablement saisis et vendus doit être renvoyée sur une défense en droit, le défendeur n'ayant pas d'abord, dans sa dite opposition, nié les allégués du rapport du shérif, dans lequel il rapportait que le défendeur avait déclaré n'avoir point de meubles. B. R., 1858, Québec, Arnold vs Campbell, 9 D. T. B. C., 33; 7 R. J. R. Q., 86.

161. Enregistrement.—Une inscription en droit alléguant que l'action aurait dû être dirigée, non contre le régistrateur, mais contre celui qui a requis l'enregistrement de l'acte, sera renvoyée avec dépens.

162. Le fait que le jugement sur le fonds de la demande ne pourrait être rendu ordonnant la radiation avant que celui qui a requis l'enregistrement soit mis en cause, ne peut donner ouverture à une inscription en droit, le défaut de mise en cause de l'une des parties qui devrait être en cause ne peut faire l'objet d'une inscription en droit. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Rochez vs Champagne et al., 9 R. J., 38.

163. Exception à la forme.—Une exception à la forme à une action prise par une personne internée dans un asile d'aliénés, mais non interdite, ne doit pas être renvoyée sur réponse en droit, mais doit être considérée comme une mise en demeure de la demanderesse de se faire assister d'un curateur. C. S., 1892, Québec, Mercier vs Mercier, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 479; 16 L. N., 192.

164. Une réponse en droit à une exception à la forme soulevant une question d'irrégularité est inutile et doit être renvoyée. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Tellier vs Canada Liquor Co., 4 R. L., n. s., 372; 1 R. P. Q., 318.

165. Exhibit. — Where by a deed of donation the donors gave the usufruct of the property to one and the ownership to another at the death of the usufructuary, binding themselves to ratify and confirm the donation within eight days after the death of the usufructuary, and to an action to compel them to do so one of the defendants demurred, on the ground that the deed of ratification which the plaintiff sought to have executed, although fyled, was not set out in the declaration, and also that no consideration had been given, and therefore the promise to ratify was only a nudum pactum, and could not be enforced: The deed of ratification did not require to be set out in the declaration, but could be taken cognizance of as exhibit, and as the deed of donation was valid, the promise to ratify was binding. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Easton vs Easton, 7 J., 138; 12 R. J. R. Q., 104.

166. The court, for the purposes of a demurrer, cannot look at papers filed with the declaration, such as the protest of a promissory note sued on. C. R., 1899, Montreal, Ridgeway vs Dansereau, Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 176.

167. L'inscription en droit doit être dirigée contre les faits allégués, et les pièces produites ne doivent pas être prises en considération. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Lewis vs Cunningham, 7 R. P. Q., 238.

168. Expression erronée. — The use of the present tense "has" instead of the past "had" under the circumstances stated was good ground for a demurrer. S. C., 1865, Montreal, Stephens vs Hopkins, 1 L. C. L. J., 93; 18 R. J. R. Q., 161, 568.

169. Forme.—A demurrer to part of a plea should indicate the particular paragraphs or portions demurred to and a judgment maintaining such demurrer should specify the portion strucked out. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Graham vs McLeish, M. L. R., 5 Q. B., 475; 3 D. C. A., 225; 20 R. L., 106.

170. Il n'est pas nécessaire de numéroter ou particulariser les moyens qu'on invoque dans une défense en droit. C. S., 1888, Rimouski, Sylvain vs Malenfant et Sylvain et Canuel, 33 J., 32.

171. Les moyens de droit doivent être plaidés par voie d'inscription en droit pour un jour fixe. On ne peut plaider ensemble le droit et le fait. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Bellemare vs Roy, 1 R. P. Q., 43.

172. Un plaidoyer en droit, non accompagné d'une inscription pour un jour fixe, sera renvoyé sur motion. C. S., 1897, Québec, Lespérance vs Rochon, 1 R. P. Q., 39.—C. S., 1897, Québec, Audet vs Beaupré, 1 R. P. Q., 79.

173. L'inscription en droit est un privilège auquel une partie peut renoncer, si elle ne désire pas être entendue d'abord sur les questions de droit. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Létourneux vs Cité de St-Henri, 1 R. P. Q., 74.

174. Un plaidoyer en droit à la cour de Circuit, non appelable, ne sera pas renvoyé bien qu'il ne soit pas accompagné d'une inscription à jour fixe. C. C., 1898, Québec, Corporation de Sainte-Anne de Beaupré vs Richard, 1 R. P. Q., 215.

175. Le défendeur qui, au lieu d'inscrire en droit aux termes de l'article 192 C. p. c., produit une défense en droit dans la forme usitée sous l'ancien Code de procédure civile, et inscrit ensuite sur cette défense en droit, régularise sa procédure, et le demandeur, qui n'en éprouve aucun préjudice ne peut demander le rejet de la défense en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, The Montreal Park and Island Railway Co. vs The Town of St. Louis, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 335; 2 R. P. Q., 254.

176. Une inscription en droit ne sera pas rejetée pour la seule raison qu'elle est d'une longueur extraordinaire et sous forme de factum. C. S., 1900, Québec, Belgarde vs Carrier, 3 R. P. Q., 238.

177. An inscription in law founded on grounds which apply to several paragraphs of a pleading, should be directed against all of such paragraphs, and not against only one of them. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Victoria Montreal Fire Insurance Co. vs Hyde and Bickerdike, 6 Q. P. R., 302.

178. Garantie.—Lorsqu'il paraît évident que la personne appelée en garantie n'en devait aucune au défendeur, le demandeur peut, au moyen d'une réponse en droit, obtenir le renvoi de l'exception dilatoire. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Darling vs Banque du Peuple et al., 2 R. J., 163; R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 381.

179. When plaintiff in warranty alleges in his declaration that the agent of the defendant in warranty was authorized by said company defendant as its mandatory to accept and receive a promissory note upon which he is sued by principal plaintiff, a demurrer claiming that there appears no right of warranty will be dismissed. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Beaudoin vs Charruau et al., and Federal Life Insurance Co., 8 Q. P. R., 236.

180. Inscription.—Une partie contre laquelle est faite une défense en droit peut inscrire immédiatement, mais celui qui a produit la défense en droit doit donner à son adversaire le délai régulier pour répondre. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Dame Low vs Dame Bain et Phillips et al., 8 L. N., 110.

181. Inscription partielle.—L'on peut filer une défense en droit à un des chefs d'une exception, quoique les autres chefs soient valables. C. S., 1860, Québec, Routh vs Maguire et al., 10 D. T. B. C., 206; 8 R. J. R. Q., 346.

182. An inscription in law to a plea in its entirety where part of it is admitted to be well founded cannot be maintained, as the court cannot, of its own motion, pick up words or part of a plea to reject it under a general demurrer. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Montreal Loan and Mortgage Co. vs Dame Brennan et vir, 14 R. L., n. s., 134.

183. It is not competent on a demurrer to a whole paragraph of a plea to strike out one or more words of it, in the same manner as in a general demurrer a part or parts, or one or more words of a pleading cannot be struck out. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Gravel vs Ouimet, 8 Q. P. R., 240.

184. Insolvabilité.—Ne donnent pas lieu à l'inscription en droit, malgré qu'elles ne contiennent pas le mot insolvable, les allégations dans lesquelles le vendeur poursuivi en résiliation de marché pour refus de livraison se justifie par les faits suffisamment allégués pour l'autoriser à prouver l'insolvabilité dans le sens de l'article 1497 C. c. C. S., 1904, Kamouraska, Pineau vs Letellier, 7 R. P. Q., 203; 11 R. L., n. s., 558.

185. Intérêts.—The plaintiff claimed a certain capital sum, and also computed compound interest as well as interest thereon, and alleged as to the total amount, which said last mentioned sum the said defendant hath often admitted to owe and promised to pay to the said plaintiff, but has always neglected to do so: The allegations of the declaration justified a conclusion for the whole amount, and it was not necessary to allege specially that the defendant had promised to pay compound interest. Q. B., 1891, Montreal, McVey vs McVey et vir, M. L. R., 7 Q. B., 305; 15 L. N., 92.

186. Le défendeur ne peut se plaindre par une inscription en droit que le demandeur a, dans son action, demandé des intérêts sur le capital depuis la date de la déclaration au lieu de ne le faire que depuis la date de la signification de l'action. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Christin vs Massy, 5 R. L., n. s., 42.

187. Intervention.—To an action against an executor three children of deceased intervened, and alleged that they were of age, that they were the universal legatees of deceased under her will, and that they had an interest in the conservation of her estate, and a right to watch over its administration. They alleged also that the estate had never received any value for the notes sued on. The plaintiff having contested this intervention on grounds such as would be urged if the intervention had been a plea to the merits the intervening parties filed a réponse en droit to the contestation, among other grounds "because the reasons invoked in the contestation could not be pleaded against the right of the intervening parties to intervene in the present cause: Maintaining the réponse en droit, the intervenants had still a right to plead to the instance principale. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Evans et al. vs Lionais, ès-qual., and Lionais et al., 2 L. N., 195.

188. Inventaire.—In an action to oblige defendant to make an inventory where the defendant pleads that he has made one, and plaintiff replies by a débat d'inventaire, the defendant can inscribe in law against the replication. S. C., 1854, Montreal, Bates vs Foley, 1 M. C. R., 131; 2 R. J. R. Q., 391.

189. Irrégularité.—Le moyen d'attaquer un allégué d'une réponse en droit comme contradictoire avec la déclaration, ou une demande incidente comme non connexe à la demande principale, ou parce que des parties intéressées n'ont pas été mises en cause, n'est pas l'inscription en droit; mais si l'autre partie n'a pas demandé le rejet d'une telle inscription en droit (quære, par motion), la cour adjugera sur le mérite d'icelle. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Naud vs Marcotte, 2 R. P. Q., 50.

190. Jugement final.—A judgment on the merits which leaves a défense en droit undisposed of is bad. C. R., 1871, Montreal, Hart vs Rose, 15 J., 133; 21 R. J. R. Q., 429, 519, 531, 537.

191. Juridiction.—It is not by an inscription in law, but by a declinatory exception that a defendant may deny the jurisdiction of the Superior court to hear an action, on the ground that plaintiff has only set forth in the body of the declaration items aggregating to a sum under $100. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Leclaire et al. vs Beauchamp et vir, 3 Q. P. R., 312.—S. C., 1912, Quebec, Morin vs Compagnie Paquet, 13 Q. P. R., 195.

192. Labour et semence. — L'on ne peut réclamer à la fois les frais de labours et semences, et le prix des récoltes, et cette dernière réclamation sera mise de côté sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Desormeaux vs Bastien, 5 R. P. Q., 417.

193. Lettre de change et billet promissoire.—In an action, against an indorser of a note of hand, an omission to state the protest in the declaration, cannot be taken advantage, of by a défense en droit. K. B., 1818, Quebec, Jones vs Pelisson, 2 R. de L., 29; 3 R. de L., 72; 2 R. J. R. Q., 137.

194. A plea setting up a parol agreement that defendant should not be liable, inconsistent with the indorsement on the note, is bad. Q. B., 1858, Ontario, Hart vs Davie, 1 U. C. R., 218.

195. Where, in an action against the endorser of a note, the plaintiff in his declaration alleged that the note was made on the 12th of July instant, instead of the sixteenth: On demurrer, the subsequent allegation in the declaration that the defendant had promised to pay since the protest of the note would not cover the defect, and the plaintiff was allowed to amend on payment of costs. S. C., 1861, Montreal, Helliwell vs Mullin, 5 J., 76; 9 R. J. R. Q., 33.

196. A demurrer to a declaration which sets up a promissory note as made by one of the defendants, St. Julien, tuteur, and prays for judgment against him personally and the other defendant as endorser, will not lie. C. R., 1873, Montreal, Darling et al. vs St. Julien et al., 18 J., 190.

197. In an action on a note by payee against maker, plea that there was never any value or consideration for the making the said note or paying the same, is bad on demurrer; it should state the circumstances under which the note was given, and deny that there was any other consideration than alleged. Q. B., 1873, Ontario, Stultzman vs Yeagley, 32 U. C. R., 630.—Q. B., 1876, Ontario, Osborne vs Pierson, 36 U. C. R., 457.

198. In an action against the maker of a note payable on demand, and generally, want of presentment is not a ground of demurrer.

199. But if the defendant tender the debt and interest before plea filed, and bring the money into court, the plaintiff will be condemned to pay costs.

200. The judge who renders the final judgment can reverse all interlocutory judgments. C. R., 1877, Quebec, Archer vs Lortie, 3 Q. L. R., 159; 1 L. N., 179, 182.

201. Lorsqu'un débiteur signe en dehors du district de Montréal un billet promissoire daté de Montréal, il fait une élection de domicile qui donne juridiction, en cas de poursuite sur ce billet à la cour Supérieure de ce dernier district, quand même la dette aurait été contractée en dehors du dit district.

202. Une exception déclinatoire sous ces circonstances peut être renvoyée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Leclaire et al. vs Beaudieu, M. L. R., 5 C. S., 95; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 361; 12 L. N., 300.

203. A warrantor (donneur d'aval) occupies the same position as an endorser, and is discharged by omission to protest. Hence a declaration in an action against a warrantor which does not allege that the note was protested is demurrable. S. C., 1892, Montreal, Emard vs Marcille, Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 525; Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 268; 16 L. N., 268.

204. In an action on a promissory note against the marker and the indorser, where it is alleged that both are insolvent, the indorser cannot demur on the ground that no presentment nor protest of the said note is alleged. S. C., 1899, St. François, Banque Nationale vs Martel et al., 2 Q. P. R., 35.

205. A une action fondée sur un billet, le défendeur ne peut faire qu'une défense attaquant le billet lui-même, et il ne peut pas plaider que le billet a été donné en paiement de marchandises vendues à un prix exorbitant. Cette obligation sera rejetée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Renaud vs Bougie, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 405.

206. Libelle.—Un plaidoyer à une action pour libelle, alléguant que le défendeur n'a causé aucun dommage au demandeur, vu que sa réputation était si mauvaise qu'il ne pouvait souffrir du libelle, et que cette mauvaise réputation était le résultat de divers crimes et délits commis par lui, ne peut être rejeté sur réponse en droit, cette dernière étant censé admettre la vérité des faits allégués. C. S., 1881, Montréal, Baxter vs Fahey, 12 R. L., 7.

207. En défense à une action basée sur un article de journal allégué être diffamatoire, lequel, après avoir mentionné le demandeur et quelques autres personnes comme ayant assisté à un banquet offert à un personnage politique, ajoutait que parmi ces personnes se trouvaient deux des auteurs d'un écrit libelleux dirigé contre ce même personnage et à raison duquel un tiers avait été condamné à la prison, on ne peut plaider que si le demandeur s'est senti visé par cet article, c'est parce qu'il se savait coupable, qu'il s'était comporté publiquement comme un adversaire violent du personnage en question, qu'il avait dit et écrit contre lui, non seulement les choses que la cour criminelle avait punies de prison, mais d'autres encore, et qu'il avait sympathisé avec l'accusé et l'avait aidé à se défendre. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Lemieux vs La Compagnie du journal "Le Monde," R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 93.

208. Lien de droit.—La déclaration alléguait qu'en avril 1891, le gouvernement provincial, désirant payer certains subsides votés en faveur de la compagnie de chemin de fer de la Baie des Chaleurs, et voulant que ces subsides fussent d'abord employés à acquitter certaines dettes antérieures de cette compagnie, nomma un mandataire qu'il chargea de faire ces paiements, et qu'une lettre de crédit au montant de $100,000, adressée à la Banque Union, fut mise à la disposition de ce mandataire pour cet objet. Que celui-ci la déposa à la dite Banque Union, et, le même jour, fit à l'ordre du nommé C. N. Armstrong, cinq chèques de $20,000 chacun, et les lui remit dans le bureau du défendeur, et qu'immédiatement les dits chèques furent endossés et délivrés par le dit Armstrong au défendeur, sans qu'il ne fût rien du à ce dernier. Et le gouvernement demanda le recouvrement de cette somme du défendeur, par action en répétition de l'indu. Sur défense en droit, il fut décidé que l'action ne démontrait aucun lien le droit entre le gouvernement et le défendeur, et ne pouvait être maintenue.

C. S., 1892, Québec, Casgrain vs Pacaud, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 89; 16 L. N., 111.

209. An inscription in law will lie against a declaration or part of a declaration which shows an incomplete right of action, but not for an omission or incomplete statement of facts therein. S. C., 1899, Bedford, Gendron vs Corporation of the town of Waterloo, 1 Q. P. R., 573.

210. Il y a ouverture à l'inscription en droit, que, s'il appert de la déclaration qu'il n'y a aucun lien de droit entre le demandeur et le défendeur. C. S., 1906, Richelieu, Quintin dit Dubois et al. vs Laramée, 13 R. J., 380.

211. Plaintiff, on the representation of the defendant, then president of the Accident and Guarantee Co. of Canada, that he was appointed manager of the said company, resigned his position at the Canada Life Assurance Co. Later on, however, the Accident Co. declined to ratify the contract made by its president. An action for salary taken by plaintiff against the company was dismissed. Now plaintiff seeks to recover from defendant, among other amounts the sum of $225, costs of the above action. Defendant pleads by inscription in law that there is no lien de droit between him and the plaintiff, these damages being indirect and too remote: The claim of plaintiff for recoupment of the costs of said proceedings is not legally impossible of assertion as resulting from the alleged united false representations of defendant and his co-directors. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Stewart vs Nelson, 7 Q. P. R., 472.

212. L'allégation du fait en ces termes: "le 15 novembre 1907, dans la nuit, les défendeurs ou leurs employés ont enlevé subrepticement les meubles qui garnissaient le magasin loué par le demandeur à Picard et se les ont appropriés hors la connaissance et sans le consentement du demandeur et en ont disposé à leur profit," est suffisante, et une inscription en droit pour le motif qu'elle ne fait pas apparaître un lien de droit entre les parties ne saurait donner lieu au rejet de l'action, mais, tout au plus, à un ordre de "preuve avant faire droit." C. R., 1908, Montréal, Lallemand vs Larue et al., R. J. Q., 35 C. S., 431.

213. In an action to quash an order of homologation of a local procès-verbal, made by a county council, on an appeal from the rejection of the same by the local council, the party on whose petition the procès-verbal was prepared, and who instituted the appeal to the county council, is properly made a party defendant and cannot, by inscription in law, ask to be discharged from the suit on the ground that no lien de droit exists between the plaintiff and himself.

214. The order of the county council to homologate a procès-verbal, made on an appeal from the order of the local council rejecting it, is a judicial and not an administrative act, and, if made regularly and within the powers of the council, the county corporation cannot be called on to account for it. C. R., 1909, Montreal, Forget et al. vs Letendre et al., Q. J. R., 35 S. C., 440; 14 R. J., 373.

215. Marque de commerce.—In an action for infringement of a trade-mark, it is a sufficient allegation that the trade-mark used by the defendant is the registered trade-mark of the plaintiff to charge in the statement of claim that the registered trade-mark of the plaintiff and the mark used by the defendant are in their essential features the same.

216. It is not necessary in such statement of claim to allege that the imitation by the defendant of the plaintiff's trade-mark is a fraudulent imitation.

217. It is not necessary to allege that the defendant used the mark with intent to deceive, and to induce a belief that the goods on which their mark was used were made by the plaintiff. Ex. C., 1900, Boston Rubber Shoe Co. vs Boston Rubber Co. of Montreal, Ltd., 3 C. L. R., 364; 10 R. L., n. s., 230; 7 Ex. C. R., 9.

218. Matières fédérales.—In an action of damages for collision of automobiles, the words: "by the by-laws of the locality and" contained in an allegation in the declaration setting forth that: "the rate of speed of which the car of the defendant was moving was far in excess of that permitted by the by-laws of the locality and by the general statutes of the province of Quebec," will be struck out on an inscription in law as illegal, irrelevant and useless, being so far as it assume to regulate speed, in contravention of the statute 6 Ed. VII, ch. 13, sects 26 and 31. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Warren Gibson Peck vs Shirley Ogilvie, 13 R. L., n. s., 54; Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 227.

219. Mérite.—Le mérite d'un plaidoyer en droit ne peut être décidé sur motion. B. R., 1878, Montréal, La Banque de Commerce Canadienne vs Brown et al., 9 R. L., 654; 23 J., 181.

220. Mis en cause.—Si la déclaration ne contient aucune allégation positive contre une partie mise en cause, cette dernière pourra se faire renvoyer des fins de la demande sur défense en droit. C. S., 1887, Montréal, Plante vs Société des Artisans et Laurent, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 185; 11 L. N., 399; 20 R. L., 320.

221. Moyens.—A défense en droit commenced by protesting that all the plaintiff's allegations were false and untrue, for which reason it was dismissed as irregular. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Huot et uxor vs Coutu et al., 2 L. N., 294.

222. Une inscription en droit doit contenir tous les moyens sur lesquels elle est basée, et ceux seuls qui y sont mentionnés seront pris en considération. Une inscription en droit faite en termes généraux sera renvoyée. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Angers vs Dame Moreau et City and District Saving Bank et al., 3 R. L., n. s., 538; 1 R. P. Q., 110.

223. La cour ne peut, sur inscription en droit, rejeter certains allégués pour des raisons non mentionnées dans l'inscription. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Turcot vs Lebeau, 2 R. P. Q., 208.

224. Le but ordinaire de la défense en droit étant de faire disparaître des allégations de fait qui ne justifient pas les conclusions et d'en éviter la preuve, une réponse en droit à une prétention légale émise par la plaidoirie d'une des parties n'a pas sa raison d'être, la partie adverse pouvant toujours faire valoir ses moyens de droit à l'argument au mérite. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Marsan dit Lapierre vs Larue et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 270.

225. En adjugeant sur une inscription en droit, la cour ne prendra en considération que les raisons qui y sont spécifiées. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Marshall et al. vs McDougall et al., ès-qual., 5 R. P. Q., 186.

226. La seule question à décider sur une inscription en droit est celle de savoir, non pas si les faits invoqués sont vrais ou faux, non pas si le demandeur n'aurait pas dû donner à l'écrit qu'il a produit un sens différent de celui qu'il lui a attribué, mais simplement si les conclusions prises par le demandeur découlent logiquement des faits qui servent de prémisses au syllogisme contenu dans la déclaration. C. S., 1907, Beauharnois, Briggs vs Bourgie, 8 R. P. Q., 261.

227. L'objet de l'inscription en droit partielle est de prévenir une preuve inutile en faisant retrancher, d'une plaidoirie, des allégations étrangères au litige, et non pas de faire décider les prétentions légales des parties par l'élimination des allégations qui sont des arguments et non l'affirmation d'un fait. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Baron vs Lapointe, 11 R. P. Q., 166.

228. Nom de famille.—Le nom d'un homme est le mot par lequel il est désigné et identifié; et son nom juridique et légal, qui est un des éléments de son état civil, est le nom par lequel il est désigné dans les registres de l'état civil.

229. Un nom est quelque chose de plus qu'une simple désignation, c'est une propriété, ainsi, si le litige est entre deux personnes dont l'une conteste à l'autre le droit de porter le même nom qu'elle, celle-ci ne pourra pas établir son droit par une simple possession ou une notoriété plus ou moins grande.

230. Mais si la contestation n'est engagée que sur la désignation et l'identification de l'une des parties en cause, le tribunal ne devra pas apporter dans la solution de cette question la même rigueur et les mêmes règles absolues.

231. Ainsi, lorsque le défendeur prétend que le nom que prend le demandeur dans son action n'est pas le sien, celui-ci fait une bonne réponse en droit en disant que c'est le nom qu'il a toujours porté et sous lequel il a toujours été connu.

232. Le fait que le défendeur a toujours connu le demandeur et l'a toujours désigné dans son journal, et dans le libelle allégué, sous le nom que le demandeur prend dans son action, ne peut pas changer l'état civil du demandeur et lui permettre de poursuivre sous un nom qui ne serait pas le sien; ce fait ne constitue donc pas un moyen légal d'une réponse spéciale à une exception à la forme, et sera rejeté sur défense en droit. C. S., 1894, Québec, Angers vs Pacaud, R. P. Q., 5 C. S., 339.

233. Nullité d'acte.—L'allégation que le demandeur en nullité a bénéficié de l'acte dont il demande l'annulation pour défaut de consentement de sa part n'est pas une défense suffisante, et cette allégation sera renvoyée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Hudon vs Provost, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 258; 16 L. N., 145.

234. Offres réelles.—On ne peut plaider à une action que l'on a offert la somme réclamée, sans alléguer qu'on a toujours été prêt à la payer depuis, et renouveler ses offres a ce son plaidoyer, et telle allégation sera renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1899, St-François, King vs Lepitre, 2 R. P. Q., 429.

235. Des offres réelles faites avec la réponse au plaidoyer ne seront pas rejetées sur réponse en droit, dans le cas où elles pourraient servir à mettre l'équité en faveur du demandeur. C. S., 1899, Saguenay, Meunier vs Whiting, 5 R. L., n. s., 363; 5 R. P. Q., 387.

236. The validity of a tender, especially in commercial matters, may be a question of fact, and allegations relating to a tender will not be rejected on answer in law, although the tender may appear not to have been made in the manner prescribed by law for legal tenders. K. B., 1901, Quebec, Laurentide Pulp Co., Ltd., vs Curtis, 4 Q. P. R., 109.

237. Opposition afin d'annuler.—Lorsqu'une partie a produit une défense en droit contre une opposition, elle ne peut subséquemment demander le rejet de l'opposition sur motion. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Dame Low vs Dame Bain et Phillips et al., 8 L. N., 110.

238. Un défendeur dont les biens sont saisis ne peut en arrêter la vente par opposition sur le principe que le transport sur lequel le demandeur saisissant a obtenu jugement est contesté par un autre de ses créanciers, dans une cause pendante où il a été mis en cause, et cette opposition peut être renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Barnard vs McDonald et al., et Barnard, 2 R. L., n. s., 496.

239. Opposition en sous-ordre.—Une opposition en sous-ordre demandant à ce que l'opposant soit payé de préférence à tout autre créancier et qui n'allègue pas que le demandeur est en déconfiture, qui ne demande pas que les créanciers soient appelés et qui ne fait pas voir que l'opposant est privilégié, et qu'il a un jugement contre le demandeur, pourra être renvoyée sur une inscription en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Grossman vs Robinoviten et Schlooness, 5 R. L., n. s., 219.

240. Particularités.—A count in the declaration charging defendants with conspiring to ruin plaintiff by putting him into bankruptcy cannot be attacked by a demurrer on the ground that the day and place were not given. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Demers vs Lamarche et al., 2 L. N., 54.

241. Paternité.—An action en déclaration de paternité, even when there is no allegation of any promise of marriage, cannot be met by a general demurrer. S. C., 1853, Montreal, McElwee vs Darling, 1 M. C. R., 10.

242. Prescription.—La prescription ne peut être plaidée par défense en droit, mais par une exception péremptoire. C. S., 1872, Montréal, Faucher vs Bélanger, 2 R. L., 388.—C. R., 1895, Montréal, Chartrand vs Cité de Sorel, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 337.—C. C., 1898, Ottawa, McLaurin vs Perkins, 1 R. P. Q., 433.

243. Mais les courtes prescriptions des articles 2250, 2260, 2261 et 2262 C. c., étant extinctives du droit d'action, peuvent être plaidées par inscription en droit. C. S., 1909, St-Hyacinthe, La Banque de St-Hyacinthe et al. vs Bernier, R. J. Q., 37 C. S., 481.

244. An action to recover a debt, which, on the face of the declaration, falls under article 2267 C. c., is open to demurrer by the defendant, who may set up the short prescription by inscription in law. K. B., 1909, Montreal, Joyce vs The Town of Outremont, Q. J. R., 18 K. B., 447; 15 R. L., n. s., 151; 15 R. J., 377.

245. A statutory limitation requiring an action, based upon anything done in execution of the Act, to be brought within four months, cannot be invoked by demurrer, where the declaration expressly alleges that the act complained of was done in violation of the law and with malice.

246. The defendant, in order to have the benefit of the limitation, must prove that he was acting in execution of his office. C. R., 1887, Montreal, Roy vs Molleur, M. L. R., 3 S. C., 450; 11 L. N., 139.

247. A plea of prescription, to a petitory action, alleging that the defendant and his auteurs have been in open, peaceable and uninterrupted possession of the immovable property in question for more than thirty years, is not demurrable on the ground that the defendant does not give therein the names of his alleged auteurs. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Donegani vs Martineau, Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 4.

248. L'on peut, par une inscription en droit, faire rejeter un plaidoyer de prescription qui ne s'applique pas. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Macdonald vs Bulmer et al., 3 R. L., n. s., 88; R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 424; 1 R. P. Q., 113.

249. Prête-nom.—The action was instituted by the plaintiff as cessionnaire of certain shares in the defendant's society to be allowed to withdraw the amount due on the shares under the rules of the society. Plea that plaintiff was a mere prête-nom, and that he holds the shares with regard to which he sued the society as representing another party. The plaintiff demurred to this, on the ground that "la question de droit du demandeur est indépendante et étrangère au fait que cette action soit exercée par lui comme prête-nom, et ne peut motiver aucune exception en droit en réponse à l'action du demandeur": The demurrer was maintained. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Robillard vs Société Canadienne-Française de Construction de Montréal, 2 L. N., 181.

250. Preuve.—Sur une défense en droit, ce que le tribunal a à examiner, c'est si les allégations attaquées justifient les conclusions prises.

251. Il n'y a pas lieu de maintenir une défense en droit lorsque les allégations attaquées de la déclaration, tout en ne pouvant pas être prouvées par témoins dans la cause, aident cependant à justifier les conclusions de telle déclaration. C. S., 1900, Montréal, McLenman vs Forde, 9 R. J., 241.

252. Sur une inscription ou défense en droit, la cour n'a pas à rechercher si la partie pourra prouver les allégations attaquées, mais si, en les supposant prouvées, elles justifieraient les conclusions prises par telle partie. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Agnew et al. vs Dufort et Boisseau et al., 7 R. J., 518.

253. Preuve avant faire droit.—The plaintiff leased to the defendant for several years certain premises for the sum of £570, the receipt thereof was acknowledged, and action was afterwards brought to have the lease set aside as fraudulent, the plaintiff alleging that the only amount which he had ever received was £37, and that the contracts were usurious, and that there was lésion d'autre moitié, and the defendant pleaded by demurrer: The parties must proceed to proof before adjudication on the demurrer. S. C., 1860, Montreal, Perrault vs Malo, 11 L. C. R., 81.

254. In an action against a public officer for a saisie-revendication of goods seized, preuve avant faire droit will be ordered upon a demurrer alleging the omission of one month's notice. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Bathgate vs Delisle, 15 J., 250.

255. Sur une défense au fonds en droit fondée sur la raison que l'enregistrement du transport qui fait la base de l'action, n'est pas allégué par les demandeurs en leur déclaration: La cour se réserve d'adjuger sur icelle lorsque les parties seront entendues au mérite. C. S., 1870, Montréal, Desbarats et al. vs Lemoine et al., 15 J., 81.

256. Lorsqu'une défense en droit a été réservée, il doit être adjugé sur icelle au mérite, sans qu'il y ait besoin d'une inscription spéciale sur cette défense. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Warmington vs Lapierre, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 69.

257. Preuve avant faire droit sera ordonnée sur une défense en droit faite dans une action directe en désaveu par le demandeur sur l'action originaire, contre cette partie des conclusions de l'action en désaveu qui demande des frais contre le demandeur originaire. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Lewis vs Richard et al., 2 R. P. Q., 426.

258. Un tiers-saisi a un intérêt suffisant à ce que l'exécution du jugement en vertu duquel on l'assigne, soit faite au nom du véritable créancier, et que preuve avant faire droit soit ordonnée sur les allégués tendant à mettre en doute l'intérêt du demandeur dans l'exécution du jugement. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Wilson vs Lemonde et Lemonde, 2 R. P. Q., 156.

259. Preuve avant faire droit sera ordonnée sur l'allégation du donateur qu'il a vendu à réméré les objets revendiqués, et ce, avec l'assentiment de la donataire. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Dame Rousseau et vir vs Verdon, 5 R. P. Q., 219.

260. Autant que possible, il est préférable que l'instruction soit faite au mérite en même temps sur tous les points soulevés dans les plaidoiries, afin d'éviter la multiplication des procédures et des appels.

261. Ainsi, dans une action en dommages, il sera ordonné preuve avant faire droit sur une inscription en droit demandant le rejet d'un allégué du plaidoyer disant que le demandeur a déjà été indemnisé par la remise du montant d'une police d'assurance. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Harwood vs The Canadian Northern Quebec Railway Co., 11 R. P. Q., 360.

262. Privilège de constructeur. — Un demandeur qui demande une condamnation personnelle au paiement de la somme de $1,598.10, avec privilège de constructeur, et qui allègue seulement que son auteur a pris un tel privilège sans dire qu'il y a eu plus-value et que la demande porte sur cette plus-value et sans mentionner qu'avis par écrit a été donné au propriétaire dans les délais voulus, ou que les défendeurs sont propriétaires de l'immeuble affecté, ou que le dit privilège a été dûment enregistré, pourra être renvoyée sur défense en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Banque Jacques-Cartier vs Dame Picard et al., 5 R. L., n. s., 134.

263. Privilège du locateur.—L'allégation que le locataire a des meubles suffisants pour la garantie est une allégation de fait, qui ne peut être plaidée dans une défense en droit, même si la déclaration ne contient pas d'allégation contraire. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Leclaire et al. vs Beauchamp et vir, 3 R. P. Q., 312.

264. Le locateur qui réclame des dommages subis par la faute des défendeurs qui l'ont dépouillé du gage qu'il possédait comme tel, en enlevant les biens sujets à son privilège, ne réclame ni des objets mobiliers, ni des droits sur des objets mobiliers, ni un droit de gage: Le jugement qui a maintenu une inscription en droit à ce sujet sera renversé et il sera ordonné preuve avant faire droit. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Lallemand vs Larue et al., 10 R. P. Q., 118.

265. Promesse de vente.—An offer of sale means the existence of a mutual agreement, and not simply an unaccepted offer, and therefore an action based upon such an offer will not be dismissed on inscription in law. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Racette et al. vs Vanier, 7 Q. P. R., 449.

266. Propriété littéraire et artistique. A company alleging itself to be the registered owner and proprietor of certain canadian copyrights, covering certain musical compositions, may answer allegations going on to say that it is not the author, or legal representative of the authors of the musical compositions, by saying that the British proprietors of the copyrights assigned the same to it, plaintiff, and that it gave legal notice of such assignment to the minister of Agriculture before registration in Canada. S. C., 1903, Montreal, Anglo-Canadian Music Publishing Association vs Dupuis, 5 Q. P. R., 351.

267. Quo warranto.—Un allégué de la requête libellée accompagnant un bref de quo warranto disant que le défendeur doit des taxes à la municipalité dont il est l'un des conseillers, sera renvoyé sur défense en droit, s'il ne dit pas également que le défendeur devait des taxes au moment de son élection.

268. Preuve avant faire droit sera ordonnée sur des allégués disant que le défendeur n'a pas sa résidence ni sa place d'affaires dans les limites de la municipalité; qu'il a fait mettre de côté une vente de débentures municipales pour faire ratifier, par intérêt personnel, une vente subséquente de ces débentures, plus avantageuse pour lui, et qu'il a fait payer à un créancier de la municipalité une somme plus forte que son dû, dans le but d'en retirer une commission. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Yale vs Bayard, 2 R. P. Q., 524.

269. Reddition de compte.—Il ne sera pas permis au demandeur, dans une action en reddition de compte, d'alléguer au long un procès antérieur mû entre le défendeur et lui, et ces allégués seront renvoyés sur défense en droit. Cependant, comme il peut avoir intérêt à alléguer ces faits d'une manière générale, pour se justifier de n'avoir pas poursuivi plus tôt, la cour peut lui permettre, proprio motu, d'amender sa déclaration en alléguant la poursuite antérieure et le jugement sur icelle. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Cheval vs Sénécal, 4 R. P. Q., 241.

270. Un défendeur ne peut plaider, à une action en reddition de compte, qu'il a rendu compte après avoir été mis en demeure, mais que son compte a été refusé, et produire son compte, avec sa défense, concluant au renvoi de l'action avec dépens: Telles conclusions seront rejetées sur inscription en droit. C. S., Montréal, 1911, Archambault et al. vs Laurence 12 R. P. Q., 237.

271. Règle nisi.—An answer in law to a petition for rule nisi, based on want of personal service, will be maintained without costs, if the respondent, by his appearing and moving for security for costs, has possibly misled the petitioner. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Lamothe vs Lamothe and Sills and Sorocold, 2 Q. P. R., 337.

272. Règlement municipal.—Dans une action en dommages contre la cité de Montréal pour la mort d'un cheval survenue à la suite d'une explosion de pétards, l'allégation de négligence et de la faute des employés en ne faisant pas observer les règlements en vigueur suffit pour donner droit d'action; une inscription en droit de la part de la défenderesse alléguant que la mise à exécution du règlement en question lui était facultative sera renvoyée. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Lauzon vs Cité de Montréal, 10 R. P. Q., 49.

273. Rejet sur motion.—Une motion pour faire rejeter une défense en droit basée sur des moyens de droit en réponse à la défense en droit, ne peut être admise et doit être rejetée. C. C., 1898, Ottawa, McLaurin vs Perkins, 1 R. P. Q., 433.

274. Répétition d'allégations.—La répétition dans un plaidoyer de la même allégation n'est pas une cause de réponse en droit si les allégations sont utiles. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Turcot vs Lebeau, 5 R. L., n. s., 205; 2 R. P. Q., 208.

275. Répétition de l'indu.—Si un demandeur, sous prétexte de répéter un paiement indûment fait, base sa demande sur un billet et que sa déclaration fasse voir que ce billet est payé, cette demande ne peut être maintenue, parce que le fait d'être porteur de ce billet ne lui donne pas le droit d'exercer l'action en recouvrement de l'indu, et l'action peut être renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Demers vs The Bank of Ottawa, 9 R. P. Q., 107.

276. Réponse et réplique.—La propriété immobilière saisie fut réclamée par l'opposante, comme propriétaire, en vertu du testament de son défunt mari, et la demanderesse plaida que, subséquemment à la date du testament, le testateur et l'opposante, de lui dûment autorisée, avaient fait donation de la propriété saisie au défendeur; l'opposante répliqua spécialement que la donation avait été, subséquemment, et avant le décès de son mari, résiliée du consentement de toutes les parties à icelle: Cette réponse spéciale ne pouvait être attaquée au moyen d'une défense au fonds en droit, sur le principe que cette réponse invoquait un titre différent de celui allégué dans l'opposition; de fait, cette réponse n'invoquait pas cette résiliation comme titre, mais l'objet de cet allégué était de faire voir qu'en conséquence de la résiliation en question, son titre, en vertu du testament, avait repris vigueur. C. S., 1857, Québec, Romain vs Dugal, et Jobin, 8 D. T. B. C., 209; 6 R. J. R. Q., 208.

277. Une défense en droit doit être jugée sur son propre mérite en droit, et la contestation sur icelle est liée par sa production, et il ne peut y avoir de défense en droit ni de réponse spéciale, à une défense en droit. Cette procédure est irrégulière et peut être rejetée sur motion. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Compagnie de Prêt et Crédit Foncier vs Lemire et Gérard, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 464; 8 L. N., 348. —C. S., 1896, Montréal, Beaubien vs Fitzallen et vir, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 72.—C. S., 1900, Montréal, McLennan vs Forde, 9 R. J., 242.

278. L'on ne peut, dans une réponse à une défense en droit, alléguer les questions de fait, et semblable réponse pourra être renvoyée sur motion.

279. L'on ne peut aussi dans une réponse à une défense en droit, faire des allégations qui tendent à expliquer et compléter la déclaration de manière à rendre sans effet la défense en droit. Ce qu'il y a d'illégal, dans une pareille réponse, pourra être rejeté sur motion. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Bourbonnais et al. vs Dufresne et al., M. L. R., 6 C. S., 287; 13 L. N., 283; 18 L. L., 630.—C. S., 1890, Montréal, Ewart vs Wyatt et Blodgett, M. L. R., 6 C. S., 328; 13 L. N., 308.

280. In an action on a contract, an inscription in law is well founded when the allegations of fraud are urged by answer to plea, where they should have been alleged in the declaration. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Hope et vir vs Leroux, Q. J. R., 18 S. C., 556.

281. An inscription in law, coupled with an amendment of plaintiff's answer to plea, being not an amendment to the answer originally fyled, but a distinct plea, must be communicated and fyled at the same time as said original answer. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Barber vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 8 Q. P. R., 8.

282. La procédure à suivre pour faire rejeter des allégations qui sont irrégulièrement plaidées dans une réponse à un plaidoyer et qui auraient dû être mises dans la déclaration est l'exception à la forme ou la motion de rejet, et non l'inscription en droit. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Dagenais vs Weiman, 13 R. P. Q., 17.

283. Requête ou action.—La question de savoir si un demandeur doit procéder par une requête ou par une action ordinaire est une question de forme et non de droit; et une inscription en droit basée sur ce moyen sera renvoyée. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Bond vs Barry, 5 R. L., n. s., 268.

284. Réserve de consentement.— Une défense en droit sera rejetée, mais sans frais, s'il appert que, du consentement des parties, elle n'a pas été plaidée en temps utile, ayant au contraire été réservée pour être plaidée lors de l'audition au mérite.

285. Dans l'espèce, les parties, devaient préalablement à l'audition finale au mérite, inscrire et plaider la dite défense en droit, et n'avaient pas le droit de la réserver pour qu'il n'en fût disposé que lors de l'argument final au mérite. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Roy et al. vs Gauthier, 17 J., 227; 23 R. J. R. Q., 193, 551.

285a. Révision de jugement. — The plaintiff (defendant in the first action), having made his petition for revision in the form of a common-law action wherein he alleged that the first action had not been served upon him, but not having made the affidavit required by article 1165 C. p., and the defendant in the demand for revision, on the other hand having failed to take exception to the form, the allegations of the demand in revision were sufficient in law to justify the conclusions, and the action in revocation should not have been dismissed upon inscription in law. K. B., 1912, Quebec, Stather vs Bennett, 19 R. J., 98.

286. Révision d'interdiction.—On ne peut, par inscription en droit, prétendre qu'une requête demandant la révision d'une sentence d'interdiction prononcée par le protonotaire est mal fondée, parce que le requérant aurait dû se pourvoir par bref de sommation et non pas par requête, un tel moyen étant un moyen de forme et ne pouvant être opposée que par exception à la forme. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Bond vs Barry et al., R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 364.

287. Rôle d'évaluation.—It is legal, in an action to annul a valuation roll, to allege that the corporation defendant dictated to the valuators to overvalue the properties, in general, irrespective of the real value of said real estate, this irregularity being sufficient to justify the annulment of the roll. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Percival et al. vs The Town of Montreal West, 11 Q. P. R., 69; 16 R. J., 8.

288. Saisie-arrêt avant jugement. — L'inscription en droit est une défense au mérite d'une demande basée sur certains faits, lorsque tels faits sont insuffisants en droit pour donner ouverture à cette demande.

289. L'affidavit pour saisie-arrêt après jugement n'est pas une demande donnant lieu à l'inscription en droit; il ne constitue qu'une formalité exigée par la loi pour justifier l'exercice d'une procédure exceptionnelle, et on ne peut en contester les allégations par un plaidoyer en droit. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Prévost vs La Société des Arts du Canada et La Banque d'Epargne de la Cité et du District de Montréal, et al., 10 R. P. Q., 378.

290. Salaire.—L'on ne peut poursuivre pour du salaire à venir; et une action ainsi prise peut être renvoyée sur inscription en droit.

291. Dans une allégation pour salaire, l'allégation que le demandeur a offert ses services au défendeur doit être faite dans la déclaration et non dans la réponse à la défense; dans ce dernier cas, elle pourra être renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, McBeth vs Brodeur, 5 R. L., n. s., 262.

292. Séparation de corps.—L'on ne peut pas, au moyen d'une contestation à une opposition afin d'annuler, fondée sur un jugement en séparation de biens, attaquer ce jugement. C. S., 1860, Québec, Routh vs Maguire et Maguire et al., 10 D. T. B. C., 206; 8 R. J. R. Q., 346.

293. Lorsque, dans une défense à une action en séparation de corps et de biens, le défendeur ne demande pas le renvoi de la demande, les allégations de son plaidoyer qui tendent à établir le mal fondé de l'action seront renvoyées sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Duchesne vs Tremblay, 3 R. L., n. s., 458.

294. In an action in separation as to bed and board, not founded upon adultery, the husband plaintiff has no right to ask that his wife's matrimonial rights be forfeited, and such part of his conclusions will be dismissed on demurrer. S. C., 1898, Montreal, Champagne vs Swail, 2 Q. P. R., 69; Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 349.

295. In an action by the wife for separation from bed and board, in which the plaintiff also asks for an alimentary allowance and the care of the children, allegations in the plea charging that some of defendant's acts were caused by the misconduct of the plaintiff herself, are not demurrable, although not of a nature to defeat the action for a separation, inasmuch as such allegations of misconduct might affect the other conclusions of the plaintiff, namely, as regards the care of the children and the alimentary allowance. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Courteau vs Skelly, Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 215.

296. Servitude.—Dans une action pour faire reconnaître un droit de servitude, des allégations dans la défense allant à dire que la demanderesse n'a aucun intérêt à retirer de la servitude qu'elle réclame, dans l'espèce, un droit de passage, et son action n'est intentée que pour forcer le défendeur à acheter ses terrains, seront rejetées sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Content vs Demers, 2 R. P. Q., 500.

297. Société.—Le salaire d'un des associés est une dette sociale que l'un des associés ne peut recouvrer de son co-associé qu'au moyen d'une demande en reddition de compte. C. R., 1896, Québec, Provençal vs Nadeau, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 344.

298. Solidarité.—Une action en dommages contre plusieurs défendeurs par laquelle il est allégué qu'ils ont fait défaut de remplir un marché pour le transport d'une cage, ne peut être renvoyée sur une défense en droit, quoique par les conclusions il soit demandé que les défendeurs soient condamnés solidairement. C. S., 1855, Montréal, Ranger et al. vs Chevalier et al., 5 D. T. B. C., 180; 4 R. J. R. Q., 329; 33 J., 283.

299. Souscription de charité.—Where the declaration alleged that the defendant subscribed the sum of $200 to a hospital to be incorporated, and that the incorporation had since been duly had; a demurrer on the ground that the action was based on a promise of future donation, and that it was not alleged that it was made in authentic form, or that any acceptance thereof was made: As a donation was not alleged, and the subscription might have been for valuable consideration, the demurrer would not lie, and was dismissed. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Western Hospital vs Godfrey, 3 L. N., 347.

300. Succession. — Lorsqu'une partie poursuivie comme héritière par un créancier de la succession, allègue qu'elle a renoncé à la succession, mais n'allègue pas enregistrement de sa renonciation, l'allégation de renonciation pourra être rejetée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Bell vs Garceau, R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 239; 2 R. P. Q., 62.

301. Upon an inscription in law by defendant praying for the dismissal of a possessory action by a tutor, on the ground that such action does not allege an acceptance of the succession by which it is claimed that the minors are the owners of the property in question, in the manner required by law, the court will grant a delay in which to fyle such legal acceptance and authorization, and to demand permission to amend declaration, upon payment of costs of the inscription, and on failure so to do the inscription to be maintained and the action dismissed. S. C., 1905, Bedford, Larosée alias Dew, ès-qual., vs Burt et uxor, 11 R. J., 205.

302. Vente.—Un plaidoyer à une action réclamant des dommages d'un vendeur pour défaut de livraison, n'alléguant pas insolvabilité pour justifier le défaut de livraison, est mal fondé en droit et peut être renvoyé sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Collette vs Lewis, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 23.

303. Vente de créance. — Lorsqu'une somme de $100 est payée en considération d'un transport de créance que le vendeur s'est obligé à faire, mais qu'il ne peut exécuter, ayant transporté cette somme à un tiers, l'acheteur peut réclamer ce montant de $100 sans alléguer de dommages, et une défense en droit basée sur la prétention contraire sera renvoyée. C. S., 1873, Beauharnois, Bougie vs Leduc, 5 R. L., 548.

304. In an action based upon a transfer, a demurrer will not be sustained in consequence of want of allegation of the signification of such transfer, as the action itself constitutes sufficient signification. S. C., 1885, Montreal, Brunet vs The Corporation of the county of Hochelaga et al., 29 J., 281.

305. Contra: Il est nécessaire, dans une action basée sur le transport d'une créance, d'alléguer la signification au défendeur de ce transport, et à défaut de cette allégation l'action sera renvoyée sur inscription en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Sabiston vs Stanton, 4 R. L., n. s., 454; 1 R. P. Q., 422.

306. Verdict du coroner. — In an action in damages against a railway company for the death of a party, an allegation in the plea which states that according to the coroner's verdict, the employees of the company were guilty of no negligence, will be struck on an inscription in law, as being irrelevant to the issue. S. C., 1909, Quebec, Blais vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 10 Q. P. R., 355.

V. Action pénale, Affrètement, Aliment, Appel, Appel (C. P.), Cautionnement, Cession judiciaire de biens, Communauté, Compensation, Contrainte par corps, Douaire, Droit municipal, Droit paroissial, Faillite, Frais, Garantie, Gardien judiciaire, Injonction, Inscription en faux, Juridiction, Lettre de change et Billet promissoire, Lésion, Louage des choses, Louage d'ouvrage, Mandat, Mari et femme, Minorité, Mise en demeure, Obligation, Opposition afin de conserver, Opposition à jugement, Opposition en sous-ordre, Prescription, Preuve, Privilège, Procédure, Reddition de compte, Requête civile, Responsabilité, Révision, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie-arrêt avant jugement, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Scire facias, Séparation de corps, Succession, Usufruit, Vente, Vente de créance, Voiturier.

INSCRIPTION EN FAUX

Déf.—L'inscription en faux est une demande judiciaire incidente par laquelle une partie désire faire juger par le tribunal que ce qu'un notaire ou un officier public dit avoir vu et entendu lui-même est faux, ou que la signature de l'acte est fausse. C. p. c. 225 et s.

INDEX

Acte authentique, 2, 4 et s., 6, 10 et s., 13 et s., 16, 17 et s., 29, 31 et s., 40 et s., 47 et s.
Altération légère.....37
Avis de protêt.....10
Billet promissoire.....26
Bref de sommation...11
Cas où elle a lieu.....7
Cautionnement pour frais.....12
Certificat de protonotaire.....13 et s.
Copie d'acte notarié, 4 et s., 16
Copie de jugement 17 et s.
Copie de procédures, 20 et s.
Déclaration.....20
Défense en droit.....15
Déclaration d'usage..22
Délai.....23 et s.
Dépôt.....12 et s., 28
Dépôt de la pièce.....26
Distribution de deniers 15
Donation entrevifs...6
Election de domicile..30
Election municipale, 31 et s.
Enquête.....23 et s.
Erreur cléricale.....18
Expropriation.....15
Extrait de baptême...33
Faux incident.....35
Inscription en droit. 13
Inscription futile.....34
Intérêt des parties....36
Internement d'aliéné. 25
Mandat tacite.....35
Minute 4, 27
Mot ajouté. 6
Omission.....38
Opposition fin de conserver.....41
Parties en cause.....3
Procès-verbal de la pièce.....39
Procès-verbal de shérif, 40 et s.
Protêt.....16
Rapport du président d'électtion.....31 et s.
Règle de pratique...42, 108
Renonciation.....43
Requête.....44
Résolution.....45
Société incorporée...45
Sous seing privé.....1, 9
Suspension de procédure 46
Testament.....47 et s.
Vérité des déclarations 8

ÉCRITS

1. Acte sous seing privé.—L'inscription en faux existe-t-elle contre l'écrit sous seing privé. Article écrit par A. X. Talbot, avocat. 1 R. L., n. s., 268.

2. Acte authentique.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 9 R. Not., 134.

3. Parties en cause.—Article écrit par Philippe Demers, C. R., avocat. 1 R. L., n. s., 419.

JURISPRUDENCE

4. Acte authentique.—La copie d'un acte notarié fait preuve de son contenu et du contenu de la minute de cet acte s'il est constaté qu'il y a eu minute, et cette copie ne sera pas déclarée fausse, parce qu'on ne trouve pas la minute de cet acte, dans le greffe du notaire, qui comporte l'avoir reçu, et qui a été déposée au bureau du protonotaire après son décès, s'il est établi, par la preuve testimoniale, que le notaire a reçu cet acte. B. R., 1874, Montréal, Lamontagne vs Contant, 6 R. L., 607; 22 R. J. R. Q., 505, 544; 17 J., 319.

5. The correctness of a duly certified copy of a notarial acte may be attacked otherwise than by an inscription en faux, and when the procedure by way of such inscription is unnecessary ought to be rejected. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Dufresne et al. vs Lalonde et al., 21 J., 905; 1 L. N., 208.

6. The defendant inscribed en faux against the copy of a deed of donation filed in the suit and also against the original minute, alleging that the words avec intérêt légal had been inserted illegally after the execution of the deed. The terms of the deed had been discussed between the parties during two days, and there was a strong presumption that the subject of interest on the instalments payable under the deed had not been overlooked. In the original minute the words avec intérêt légal were added at the end of a line where there was barely space to crowd them in, and moreover these words did not appear in a copy made by the notary a few days after the execution of the deed. Under the circumstances and the facts apparent on the face of the original minute, the words avec intérêt légal constituted an addition (ajouté), which is null under the law regulating the execution of notarial instruments unless it be clearly identified or confirmed by the contracting parties. Q. B., 1900, Montreal, Nadon vs Auclair, Q. J. R., 9 Q. B., 462.

7. L'inscription en faux n'est requise que lorsque l'on veut prouver la fausseté de ce que l'officier public déclare avoir vu ou entendu lui-même expropriis sensibus. C. S., 1902, Québec, O'Malley vs Ryan. R. J. Q., 21 C. S., 566. (Renv. par la C. R., le 31 octobre 1903..)

8. Le recours de l'inscription de faux n'est pas ouvert à la partie qui attaque simplement la vérité des déclarations consignées dans un acte authentique, lorsque, du reste, elle reconnaît que le notaire les a rédigées telles que reçues. Elle peut et doit faire sa preuve dans ce cas par voies ordinaires. C. S., 1903, Valleyfield, Anderson vs Prévost et al., R. J. Q., 28 C. S., 434; R. J. Q., 33 B. R., 458; 11 R. L., n. s., 513.

9. Acte sous seing privé.—La loi ayant admis un mode spécial de contester la vérité des actes sous seing privé, on ne peut recourir à la voie de l'inscription en faux contre ces actes. B. R., 1893, Montréal, Lamarche vs Brunelle, R. J. Q., 3 B. R., 74.

10. Avis de protêt.—On ne peut attaquer que par une inscription de faux un avis de protêt fait par un notaire. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Choquette vs McDonald et al., R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 408.

11. Bref de sommation.—Il faut une inscription de faux pour pouvoir démontrer au tribunal que le bref d'assignation a été altéré ou falsifié après son émanation. C. S., 1893, Montréal, R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 105; 16 L. N., 189.

12. Cautionnement.—Under article 227 of the Code of civil procedure, the judge is authorized to order the security to meet the costs incurred on a petition in improbation to be deposited in portion from time to time as necessity may arise, and an additional deposit may at any time be ordered where it appears that the sum already deposited is insufficient. S. C., 1899, Montreal, Dame Auclair vs Dame Nadon and Ouellette and Dame Nadon vs Dame Auclair, Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 200.

13. Certificat du protonotaire.—Dans l'espèce actuelle, le demandeur en faux est sans intérêt à poursuivre son inscription en faux tant que la pièce produite n'est pas attaquée de faux quant à son authenticité. Sous ces circonstances, l'inscription en faux est renvoyée sur une défense en droit. C. S., 1866, Montréal, Beaudry vs Le Maire, les Echevins et les Citoyens de la Cité de Montréal, 10 J., 278; 11 J., 28; 2 L. C. L. J., 231; 16 R. J. R. Q., 58, 60.

14. Sur inscription de faux, le demandeur alléguait, comme moyens de faux, que le certificat du protonotaire, produit par les défendeurs (sur lequel était basé leur plaidoyer), constatant qu'une certaine somme d'argent courant avait été par eux déposée au greffe du protonotaire tel jour, comme compensation et indemnité pour l'expropriation d'une certaine terre, était faux, falsifié et entièrement faux; que tel dépôt n'avait pas été fait et que la chose déposée était un billet promissoire signé par E. D., leur trésorier: Les moyens de faux étaient suffisants, et le jugement de la cour Supérieure, renvoyant les moyens de faux, fut infirmé. B. R., 1867, Montréal, Beaudry vs Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of Montreal, 17 D. T. B. C., 428; 16 R. J. R. Q., 61.

15. An application to inscribe en faux against the certificate of the prothonotary regarding the posting of a report of distribution will not be granted after the report has been homologated in favor of an opposant who knew of the faux complained of prior to the judgment homologating the report. S. C., 1883, Montreal, Pangman vs Pauzé, èsqual., and Robertson, and Lamarche, 27 J., 140.

16. Copie de document.—Unless it is proved by a plaintiff en faux that the originals of protests of promissory notes never existed certified copies of said documents will be held, as true copies of the minutes of the notary. S. C., 1912, Sherbrooke, La Banque Nationale vs Joncas et al., 13 Q. P. R., 341.

17. Copie de jugement.—Where attachment after judgment had issued, a copy of the judgment having first been served upon the defendant, and the latter objected to the service and inscribed en faux against it on the ground that it had been certified by the attorneys of the plaintiff: This did not constitute a ground of falsity or improbation, and the inscription was dismissed. S. C., 1862, Montreal, Perry vs Milne and The Ontario Bank and Milne, 6 J., 243; 10 R. J. R. Q., 323; 13 R. J. R. Q., 425; 17 R. J. R. Q., 456, 549.

18. Il sera permis de s'inscrire en faux contre la copie d'un jugement signifié à un défendeur arrêté sur capias, lui ordonnant de se livrer sous un mois, lorsque par erreur le mot ninth a été inséré dans la copie signifiée au lieu du mot month. C. S., 1862, Montréal, Seymour vs Horner et al., 12 D. T. B. C., 90; 10 R. J. R. Q., 300.

19. Une inscription en faux ne peut être faite contre un jugement de la cour Supérieure et d'aucune cour, qui a été altéré en aucune manière après son prononcé. Une pareille inscription ne peut être reçue contre la copie d'aucun jugement. C. S., 1867, Montréal, Healey et al. vs Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of the City of Montreal, 17 D. T. B. C., 409; 16 R. J. R. Q., 52; 22 R. J. R. Q., 328.

20. Copie de pièce de procédure.—An inscription de faux will not be permitted against a document purporting to be a copy of a declaration in another case, and certified to be so by the attorneys of the party producing the same, although such document be filed as an exhibit. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Molson vs Burroughs, 2 J., 72; 6 R. J. R. Q., 373.

21. Il n'y a lieu, ni en loi, ni en fait, à l'inscription de faux formée en cette cause, à cause des irrégularités qui ont été commises, bien qu'elles soient répréhensibles. C. S., 1871, Montréal, Duchesnay et al. vs Vienne et Vienne, 16 J., 138; 22 R. J. R. Q., 327, 544.

22. Déclaration d'usage.—If the party who fyles an acte impeached en faux omits to declare (on being required) that he means to make use of it, he is not foreclosed but may still be admitted to make his declaration on payment of costs. K. B., 1818, Quebec, Proux vs Proux, 3 R. de L., 198; 2 R. J. R. Q., 284.

23. Délai.—Suivant les dispositions de l'article 164 du Code de procédure civile, une demande pour inscription en faux peut être faite en tout état de cause jusqu'à la clôture de l'enquête, et la règle de pratique du 4 janvier 1854 est rappelée par suite de cet article. C. R., 1868, Montréal, Lynch vs Duncan, 12 J., 220; 15 J., 36; 17 R. J. R. Q., 456, 548.

24. Un défendeur ne peut s'inscrire en faux deux mois après l'enquête terminée, lorsqu'il a acquis la connaissance des faits qu'il désire arguer de faux dès avant le temps qu'il a plaidé à la demande, vu qu'en ce cas il n'avait que jusqu'à la clôture de l'enquête pour s'inscrire en faux. C. S., 1873, Trois-Rivières, Désilets vs Trahan, 5 R. L., 52.

25. Demande d'internement d'aliéné. Les documents exigés par l'article 3196 S. R. Q. pour l'internement des aliénés, quoique faits sous serment devant un juge de paix, ne sont pas des pièces authentiques susceptibles d'être attaqués par l'insctiption de faux. C. S., 1905, Québec, Rousseau vs Les Sœurs de la Charité, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 166.

26. Dépôt de la pièce.—Un billet contre lequel est faite une inscription de faux doit être déposé au greffe, avec la consignation du montant établi par la loi ou sentence pour faire recevoir l'inscription. Prév., 1735, Québec, Voyer vs Michelon, Prév., 23; 1 R. J. R. Q., 9.

27. The original minute of a notarial acte impeached en faux is to be filed in most cases by the defendant en faux. K. B., 1810, Quebec, Paquet vs Demers, 3 R. de L., 199.

28. Le tribunal, après avoir fixé le montant du dépôt à être fait par la partie qui s'inscrit en faux, ne peut plus augmenter ou réduire ce montant, surtout lorsque la cause est en délibéré sur l'inscription de faux. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Dame Léveillé vs Dlle Kauntz et al. et Labelle, 5 R. P. Q., 101.

29. Si un acte authentique est argué en faux, ordre sera donné au dépositaire du dit acte de le produire pour faire partie du dossier de la cause pour les fins de l'inscription de faux C. S., 1903, Montréal, Dame Awde vs Charest et Dame Awde, 5 R. P. Q., 319.

30. Election de domicile.—Il n'est pas nécessaire de faire une élection de domicile dans une inscription en faux. C. S., 1859, Montréal, Martineau vs Karrigan, 3 J., 190; 7 R. J. R. Q., 453.

31. Election municipale.—The minutes of the president of a municipal election may be attacked without an inscription de faux. C. C., 1872, Montreal, Boileau vs Proulx, 2 R. C., 236; 16 R. L., 598.

32. Il est douteux que, sans inscription de faux, la preuve, pour contredire le rapport du président de l'élection, qui est un officier public et dont les procédés font preuve, soit admissible. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Arthabaska, Chapdelaine vs Girard, 8 R. J., 268.

33. Extrait de baptême.—Where the plaintiffs in answer to a plea alleged that one of them at such a date was a minor, and filed as exhibit what purported to be an extract from the baptismal register of the American Presbyterian Church: On an inscription en faux, although not a true extract from the registrar of baptisms which that church was by law allowed to keep, it was not a false document (pièce fausse) so as to subject it to improbation. S. C., 1860, Montreal, Shaw vs Sykes, 5 J., 124; 9 R. J. R. Q., 98.

34. Inscription en faux futile.—If the moyens de faux be such as will not (if proved) affect the acte impugned, the court will set them aside and proceed in the cause in chief. K. B., 1810, Quebec, Baby vs Bernard, 3 R. de L., 199; 2 R. J. R. Q., 285.

35. Inscription en faux incident.—The incidental improbation may, under certain circumstances, establish relations existing between the parties to a deed and a tacit mandate by the creditors to the notary. S. C., 1897, St.Francis, Connors et vir vs Chambers, 3 R. J., 312, 359.

36. Intérêt des parties.—A demand for improbation can only be made when it is relevant and will be rejected if the faux complained of does not affect the issue between the parties. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Hanleyson vs Dozois et vir, Q. J. R., 28 S. C., 400.

37. Légère altération.—An inscription in improbation cannot be maintained against a notarial copy, on account of a slight alteration or erasure, as in the present case, where the word "parties" had been altered so as to make it "party." Q. B., 1855, Montreal, Halpin vs Ryan, 5 L. C. R., 430; 4 R. J. R. Q., 463; 13 R. J. R. Q., 429; 17 R. J. R. Q., 456, 549.

38. Omission.—An omission in a deed by error or oversight does not constitute a ground for an action in improbation. C. R., 1872, Montreal, Sabine vs Krans, 3 L. N., 267.

39. Procès-verbal de la pièce.—Le procès-verbal de la pièce arguée de faux doit être fait immédiatement après le compulsoire de cette pièce. C. S., 1858, Montréal, Moreau et vir vs Léonard, 2 J., 136.

40. Procès-verbal de shérif.—Un rapport du shérif ne peut être contredit que par inscription de faux. B. R., 1851, Montréal, Lespérance vs Allard et vir, 1 D. T. B. C., 154; 2 R. J. R. Q., 444;

41. Un créancier qui a produit une opposition afin de conserver réclamant partie des deniers de la vente faite par le shérif, peut, après le jugement de distribution, s'inscrire en faux, quand le rapport du shérif constate qu'il a reçu le prix de l'adjudication, tandis que de fait l'adjudicataire et le shérif se sont entendus pour substituer, en paiement réel du prix, une compensation et réclamation privée de l'adjudicataire contre le shérif qui est insolvable dans ce cas, l'inscription en faux sera maintenue, et la vente à la folle enchère sera ordonnée. B. R., 1880, Québec, La Société de construction permanente de Québec vs Martiné 10 R. L., 619.

42. Règle de Pratique 108.—La 108ème règle de pratique de la cour Supérieure a été abrogée par l'article 171 du Code de procédure civile, et la motion pour faire déclarer les moyens de faux non-pertinents et inadmissibles n'est plus permise. C. C., 1874, Richelieu, Mathieu vs Barthe, 5 R. L., 304.

43. Renonciation.—Un défendeur qui a produit une requête en inscription de faux et qui ne s'oppose pas à l'inscription au mérite de la cause, renonce par là virtuellement à toutes prétentions de procéder sur sa requête en inscription de faux. C. S., 1851, Trois-Rivières, Phillips vs Hart et al. et Hart, 1 D. T. B. C., 305; 3 R. J. R. Q., 14.

44. Requête.—A petition in improbation does not need to set forth the reasons for improbation. S. C., 1910, Montreal, Létang vs Décarie, 11 Q. P. R., 263.

45. Résolution.—On ne peut établir que par une inscription en faux, qu'une résolution dûment certifiée d'une société incorporée n'a pas été soumise à l'assemblée. C. S., 1882, Joliette, Desmarais vs La Société de bienfaisance et de secours mutuels de l'industrie et du comté de Joliette, 12 R. L., 198.

46. Suspension de procédures. — Le défendeur en faux, demandeur principal, n'est pas tenu de répondre au plaidoyer de l'action principale, avant que l'inscription en faux ne soit vidée. C. S., 1859, Montréal, Martineau vs Karrigan, 3 J., 268.

47. Testament.—L'allégué qu'un seul notaire était présent à la confection d'un testament, attaqué de faux, est un moyen de faux pertinent et admissible. B. R., 1819, Québec, Proulx vs Proulx, 2 R. de L., 61; 3 R. de L., 199; 2 R. J. R. Q., 151.

48. In an action in nullity of a will, it was held that the party plaintiff might also inscribe en faux against the same deed, and by direct action. Q. B., 1856, Montreal, Perrault vs Simard et al., 6 L. C. R., 17.

V. Appel, Cautionnement pour frais, Droit municipal, Enquête, Faux, Huissier, Obligation, Péremption d'instance, Preuve, Preuve testimoniale, Procédure.

INSOLVABILITÉ ET DÉCONFITURE

Déf.—Ces deux termes s'emploient pour désigner une personne qui n'a pas assez de biens pour payer ses dettes. On emploie généralement le premier en parlant d'un commerçant; le second, quand on désigne un non commerçant.

L'insolvable, par rapport à la demande de cession judiciaire de biens, est celui qui a cessé ses paiements. C. c. 17, § 23; C. p. c. 853 et s.

Cout. de P., art. 180.—Le cas de la déconfiture est quand les biens du débiteur, tant meubles qu'immeubles, ne suffisent aux créanciers apparents; et si pour empêcher la contribution, se meut différent entre les créanciers apparents, sur la suffisance ou insuffisance des dits biens, les premiers en diligence qui prennent les deniers des meubles par eux arrêtés, doivent bailler caution de les rapporter pour être mis en contribution, au cas que les dits biens ne suffisent.

JURISPRUDENCE

1. Déconfiture.—Les mots "en déconfiture" et "insolvable" sont des mots synonymes. C. S., Kamouraska, Pelletier vs Deschênes, 1 R. J., 352.

V. Action paulienne ou révocatoire, Assurance (vie), Cession judiciaire de biens, Cession volontaire de biens, Compagnie incorporée, Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.), Compensation, Contrat de mariage, Distribution de deniers, Enregistrement, Faillite, Fraude, Hypothèque, Inscription en droit, Lettre de change et Billet promissoire, Louage des choses, Obligation, Opposition en sous-ordre, Preuve, Preuve testimoniale, Saisiearrêt après jugement, Saisie-arrêt avant jugement, Vente.

INSTITUTEUR

Déf.—L'instituteur ou professeur est une personne laïque ou religieuse qui se consacre à l'enseignement et à l'éducation des autres. S. R. Q., art. 2521, § 14.

V. Droit scolaire, Insaisissabilité, Responsabilité, Saisie-arrêt après jugement.

INSTITUT D'ARTISANS

LOIS

"Dix personnes au moins, ayant souscrit ou possédant ensemble pas moins de cent piastres en deniers ou en valeurs pour l'usage de leur institution projetée, peuvent faire et signer une déclaration en double, constatant leur intention d'établir une association de bibliothèque on un institut d'artisans ou l'un ou l'autre à la fois, suivant le cas, en un lieu à être désigné dans la déclaration, et dans laquelle elles indiquent aussi: 1. Le nom collectif de l'institution; 2. Son but; 3. Le montant des deniers ou des valeurs par elles souscrits respectivement, ou possédés pour l'usage d'icelle; 4. Les noms des personnes qui doivent être les premiers administrateurs pour en gérer les affaires; 5. Le mode d'après lequel leurs successeurs doivent être nommés, ou de nouveaux membres admis ou d'après lequel il sera fait des règlements pour leur nomination et admission ou pour tout autre objet ou fin que ce soit; et généralement toutes les autres particularités et dispositions qu'elles croient nécessaires et non contraires au présent chapitre ou à la loi." Art. 4001.

"Un double de cette déclaration est déposé dans le bureau du régistrateur pour la division ou le comté, par l'un des signataires qui en reconnaît, devant le régistrateur, l'exécution en ce qui le regarde, et déclare qu'elle a aussi été exécutée par les autres parties désignées en icelle, soit en personne soit par procureur." Art. 4002.

"Le régistrateur garde le double ainsi déposé et remet l'autre à la personne qui l'a déposé, avec un certificat constatant qu'il a été ainsi déposé, et l'exécution attestée devant lui.

"Ce double, ou copie d'icelui, certifié par le régistrateur, fait primâ facie preuve des faits allégués dans cette déclaration et ce certificat." Art. 4003.

"Aussitôt les formalités susdites remplies, les personnes qui ont signé la déclaration, ou les directeurs, administrateurs ou officiers, et le comité pour le temps d'alors, de toutes telles institutions ou institutions unies, et leurs successeurs, sont constitués en corporation.

"Toute telle corporation a le droit, en son nom collectif, et de temps à autre, d'acquérir et de posséder pour elle et ses successeurs, pour l'usage et les fins de la corporation des terres, biens-fonds et héritages situés en cette province, de quelque nature que ce soit." Art. 4004.

1. Les instituts d'artisans et les associations de bibliothèque "peuvent faire et signer une déclaration de leur désir ou détermination de se faire constituer en corporation conformément au présent chapitre, indiquant dans cette déclaration le nom collectif que doivent prendre cette institution ou ces institutions unies, et produire pareillement la déclaration, en la manière ci-dessus prescrite, avec copie de la constitution et des règlements de l'institution ou des institutions unies, avec un état général de la nature et du montant de tous les biens, meubles ou immeubles, appartenant à cette institution ou à ces institutions unies, ou possédés pour elles en fidéicommis." S. R. Q., art. 4005.

INSTRUCTION PUBLIQUE

V. Droit scolaire.

INTERDICTION

Déf.—C'est l'acte judiciaire par lequel il est interdit à une personne majeure d'exercer ses droits civils excepté sous certaines conditions et avec l'assistance d'un curateur. Curatores, impleta legitima ætate, prodigis vel furiosis volent tribui. Dig., lib. 27, tit. 10. C. c. 325.

INDEX

Acquiescement..... 97
Acquisition d'immeuble.....25 et s.
Acte antérieur, 6, 37, 67
Action en résolution.. 37
Aliénation mentale, 7, 11 et s., 32, 37 et s., 73
Aliment.....12 et s.
Allié.....46 et s.
Aubain..... 51
Autorisation maritale, 13 et s.
Avis..... 8
Avocat..... 73
Bail.....9 et s.
Boisson enivrante.... 5
Chose inutile 16
Chose nécessaire, 17 et s., 35, 38
Conseil de famille, 33 et s., 45, 49, 52, 69, 78 et s., 81, 96, 98
Conseil judiciaire, 1, 6, 22 et s., 81
Contestation..... 71
Contrat.....6 et s., 31
Curateur, 13 et s., 17 et s., 32 et s., 57 et s., 60, 68 et s., 86 et s., 99
Curateur "ad hoc"..39, 41
Délai.....62a, 97.
Demande ..... 46 et s.
Démence notoire 7, 11 et s.
Destitution de conseil judiciaire..... 48
Destitution de curateur 49 et s., 68 et s.
Domicile..... 83
Dommage 21

Droits politiques..... 3
Effet rétroactif..... 74
Entretien.....20 et s.
Epicerie 18
Epoux..... 46
Expertise..... 59
Femme mariée..... 35
Formalités, 42, 48, 77 et s., 100
Frais de main-levée, 4, 73 et s.
Frais d'interdiction... 71
Fruits et revenus 26
Homologation..... .. 98
Honoraire..... 71
Hypothèque..... 35
Insolvabilité.....34a
Interdiction (De l')... 2
Intérêt.....10, 50
Internement, 57 et s., 99
Interrogatoire, 63 et s., 82
Inventaire.....53 et s.
Ivrogne habituel, 60, 66 et s.
Jugement..... 84
Juridiction, 66, 92, 101
Lésion 10
Libération ..59, 61 et s.
Louage des choses, 9 et s., 15, 35
Main-levée, 4, 63, 72 et s., 75 et s.
Mari et femme, 13 et s., 32, 35, 58, 70, 85, 88
Mauvaise foi 26
Mère .....43 et s.
Notaire.....77 et s.
Nullité, 27 et s., 83, 100
Parent..... 46
Particularités 30
Pension alimentaire, 68, 99
Pensionnaire..... 15
Père 34
Placement .....55 et s.
Possesseur 26
Poursuite, 37, 39 et s., 71, 76, 79 et s., 84 et s.,
Preuve....10, 24, 69, 71, 92
Procédures, 8, 23, 62, 71, 76, 79 et s., 84 et s.
Prodigalité, 24, 30, 80, 88 et s., 90 et s.
Protonotaire.....66, 91
Reddition de compte. 39
Révision .....92 et s.
Signification 80
Tableau..... 22
Tiers..... 28
Vendeur 28
Vente.....9 et s., 28 et s.
Vêtement 19

ECRITS

1. Conseil judiciaire.—Nomination d'un conseil judiciaire à un prodigue.—Compétence des notaires.—Procédure à suivre. Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 9 R. Not., 320.

2. De l'interdiction.—Article écrit par L. P. Sirois, notaire. 12 R. Not., 65.

3. Droits politiques.—Article écrit par L. P. Sirois, notaire. 2 R. Not., 421.

4. Frais de main-levée. — Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 2 R. Not., 170.

LOIS

5. Vente de boissons enivrantes. — "Toute personne qui vend, donne ou procure, sciemment, des liqueurs enivrantes à une personne interdite pour cause d'ivrognerie d'habitude encourt, pour chaque contravention, une pénalité de quarante piastres, recouvrable par le curateur au profit de la famille de la personne interdite, sur poursuite sommaire, dans les trois mois de la perpétration de l'offense, devant un juge de paix du district où cette offense a été commise; et à défaut de payer cette amende, avec les frais de poursuite, dans les délais fixés par le juge de paix, la partie contrevenante est emprisonnée dans la prison commune du district où se trouve sa résidence, pour l'espace de trois mois, à moins que cette amende et les frais et ceux de l'emprisonnement et du transport du défendeur à la prison ne soient plus tôt payés." S. R. Q., art. 7256.

JURISPRUDENCE

6. Acte antérieur.—Une interdiction et la nomination d'un conseil, obtenus à la requête de l'interdit lui-même, sont de nul effet, quant à un créancier avec lequel l'interdit a contracté; le contrat est valable, quoique le conseil n'y fût pas partie, si l'interdiction n'a pas été dénoncée au créancier, et si elle n'a pas été inscrite au tableau des interdits. B. R., 1852, Montréal, De Chantal et al. vs De Chantal, 2 D. T. B. C., 469; 3 R. J. R. Q., 324; 17 R. J. R. Q., 167, 549, 563.

7. La démence et l'imbécilité notoires ne rendent pas, avant l'interdiction, les actes de celui qui en souffre nuls, et elles ne les font qu'annulables pour lésion. Tant que l'interdiction n'a pas été prononcée, celui qui y est sujet est à la tête de son patrimoine, et les tiers ne peuvent s'adresser qu'à lui. L'imbécile et celui qui est en démence jouissent de leurs droits, tant qu'ils ne sont pas interdits, et ils ne peuvent valablement les invoquer en justice, et traduits là par eux, les tiers peuvent valablement s'y défendre. C. S., 1874, Québec, D'Estimauville vs Tousignant, 1 R. J. Q., 39; R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 479.

8. The incapacity arising from insanity only begins from the date of the interdiction, and up to that time the interdict remains, as regards third persons, at the head of his patrimony and preserves the gestion thereof, and third persons not having quality to demand the interdiction, are entitled to serve all necessary notices and significations on the interdict prior to his actual interdiction. When the change of status of a party to a suit only occurs after the proceedings by way of execution against him have commenced, such proceedings may continue, notwithstanding such change of status. S. C., 1883, Montreal, Symes et vir vs Farmer and Farmer, 27 J., 185.

9. Un acte de vente et un bail d'un immeuble passés par un interdit pour démence, avant son interdiction, mais alors qu'il était notoirement en démence, doivent être déclarés nuls, pour défaut de consentement valide.

10. Dans ce cas, il n'est pas nécessaire de prouver lésion, mais celui qui demande la nullité des actes doit prouver au moins un dommage suffisant pour démontrer un intérêt à demander cette nullité. Le préjudice est suffisamment démontré, s'il est prouvé que l'immeuble aurait pu et a de fait été loué depuis à un prix plus élevé. B. R., 1906, Richelieu, Bérard, ès-qual., vs Désy, 12 R. J., 407; R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 113.

11. Aliénation mentale.—L'affaiblissement mental, sans qu'il y ait folie ou démence, la diminution des facultés au point de rendre celui qui en est atteint incapable de se conduire lui-même et de conduire ses affaires est une cause d'interdiction. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Gingras vs Richard, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 154; R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 62; 15 R. J., 25.

12. Aliment.—Pendant l'instance, dans une cause intentée par le curateur à un interdit pour démence, pour faire annuler certains actes consentis par l'interdit à son fils dans le temps où il n'était pas capable de donner un consentement valable, la cour peut, par provision, accorder au demandeur l'autorisation de prendre sur les biens transportés par les dits actes, une somme suffisante pour subvenir à la nourriture et à l'entretien de l'interdit. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Proulx dit Clément vs Proulx dit Clément, 20 R. L., 403.

13. Autorisation maritale.—Le mari, interdit pour démence, est incapable d'autoriser sa femme pour quelque acte que ce soit, et il ne peut être suppléé à ce défaut d'autorisation, qui découle de la puissance maritale, par celle de son curateur.

14. La femme de l'interdit pour démence, étant privée de l'assistance et de l'autorisation de son époux pour se défendre à une action instituée contre elle personnellement, il appartient à la cour d'y suppléer et de la protéger contre son incapacité, en l'habiletant pour les fins du procès, ce qui peut être fait en tout état de cause.

15. Lorsque la femme d'un interdit pour démence a loué une maison, pour en faire sa demeure et celle de sa famille, y reçoit des pensionnaires pour subvenir à ses besoins et ceux de sa famille en l'absence de son mari, ce fait ne constitue pas un acte de commerce qui nécessite l'autorisation maritale. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Parizeau vs Huot, 7 R. J., 350.

16. Chose inutile. — Where the income of an interdicted person is barely sufficient for board and maintenance of himself and his wife, the latter cannot make the estate liable for the price of diamonds purchased by her, the value of diamonds being greatly beyond the means of the interdict. S. C., 1891, Montreal, Hemsley vs Morgan et al., M. L. R., 7 S. C., 273; 14 L. N., 313.

17. Chose nécessaire. — Le créancier a un droit d'action contre le curateur ès-qualité à un interdit pour les choses nécessaires à la vie qu'il aurait vendues personnellement à l'interdit, sans l'assistance du curateur. C. C., 1887, Montréal, Valade vs Levy et al., 10 L. N., 350.

18. Celui qui fournit des effets d'épicerie pour l'usage d'un interdit pour prodigalité n'aura pas de recours contre cet interdit, s'il est établi que le curateur a fourni à ce dernier une somme suffisante pour pourvoir à ses besoins. C. R., 1889, Montréal, Ricendeau vs Turner et Dame Greene, 17 R. L., 576; M. L. R., 5 C. S., 278; 13 L. N., 11.

19. Where necessary clothing has been furnished to a person interdicted for prodigality, and work in repairing and cleaning his clothing has been performed for him, the items of the account not being out of proportion to the means of the interdict, the creditor is entitled to recover the value of the same as an alimentary debt. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Milloy vs Masson, Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 467.

20. Si une partie se charge de l'entretien d'un interdit pour démence, à la place de son curateur, et sans le consentement de ce dernier elle a droit de recouvrer ce qu'elle a dépensé dans l'intérêt de l'interdit, mais uniquement dans la mesure des revenus de celui-ci, et sans pouvoir toucher à son capital.

21. La personne qui garde ainsi un interdit pour démence ne peut réclamer de son curateur des dommages pour les dégâts que cet interdit aurait commis. C. S., 1902, St-Hyacinthe, Beauregard et vir vs Larallée, ès-qual., 9 R. J., 385.

22. Conseil judiciaire.—Where an action was taken against an interdict personally because his name was not correctly spelled in the tableau des interdits, the judgment was rendered against conseil afterwards called in the cause, but not against interdict personally. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Ritchot vs Hayeren, 2 L. N., 248.

23. Un conseil judiciaire n'a pas le droit de faire, au nom de celui auquel il a été nommé conseil, des procédures judiciaires, alors même que tel conseil aurait personnellement intérêt à ces procédures. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Beauchamp vs Gourdé et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 260.

24. Where a person, to whom a judicial adviser has been appointed because of her mania for spending money, and with a prohibition to incur any debts, buys on credit, the creditor must prove that the goods sold were necessary and useful before he can recover. S. C., 1904, Hull, Barbridge vs Eddy et vir et al., Q. J. R., 26 S. C., 81; 11 R. L., n. s., 367.

25. Un conseil judiciaire ne peut, ni par lui-même ni par personne interposée, acquérir un immeuble appartenant à celui auquel il est nommé conseil judiciaire, tels actes d'acquisition seront annulés comme étant illégaux et préjudiciables à celui qui est ainsi quasi-interdit, suivant les dispositions de l'article 334 C. c.

26. Le conseil judiciaire qui acquiert ainsi un immeuble appartenant à celui auquel il a été nommé conseil judiciaire doit être considéré comme un possesseur de mauvaise foi quant aux fruits et revenus de tel immeuble et tenu d'en rendre compte aux termes des articles 411 et 412 C. c. C. S., 1905, St-Hyacinthe Noiseux vs Noiseux, 13 R. J., 84.

27. L'acte de la personne pourvue d'un conseil judiciaire fait sans en être assisté, n'est pas nul de plein droit, mais il est seulement annulable, s'il lui est préjudiciable.

28. Cette nullité est établie en faveur de la personne pourvue d'un conseil judiciaire, qui seule peut s'en plaindre. Un tiers n'a pas qualité pour demander la nullité de tel acte. A plus forte raison lorsque le vendeur lui-même n'est pas en cause, et que la lésion n'est aucunement alléguée dans l'action.

29. Une vente, faite par une personne sous conseil judiciaire, sans l'assistance de son conseil, alors même qu'elle ne serait pas propriétaire de l'immeuble vendu, n'en devient pas moins valide, si le vendeur est devenu propriétaire subséquemment de tel immeuble ainsi vendu. C. R., 1906, Terrebonne, Johnson vs Valade, 13 R. J., 278.

30. Le libellé d'une requête pour nomination d'un conseil judiciaire à un prodigue, qui lui reproche la prodigalité en termes généraux, sans en articuler des faits spécifiques, est informe et insuffisant. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Ste-Marie vs Bourelle, R. J. Q., 31 C. S., 343.

31. Contrat.—Une personne interdite qui est sous la garde d'un curateur ne peut pas s'engager seule dans un contrat, tant que la curatelle subsiste. C. S., 1857, Québec, Emerick vs Paterson et al., 7 D. T. B. C., 239; 5 R. J. R. Q., 218.

32. Curateur. — La nomination d'une femme, comme curatrice à son mari interdit, contient nécessairement l'autorisation d'administrer les biens de son mari aussi bien que les siens. C. S., 1864, Québec, Le Mesurier et al. vs Leahy et al., 14 D. T. B. C., 417; 13 R. J. R. Q., 166.

33. Le juge qui prononce l'interdiction n'est pas obligé de suivre l'avis de la majorité des parents et amis convoqués pour donner leur avis sur l'interdiction et la nomination d'un curateur, tel avis n'étant qu'un mode d'instruction pour assister le juge dans l'exercice de ses attributions.

34. Le père de l'interdit a le droit d'être nommé son curateur de préférence à un étranger.

34a. L'insolvabilité n'est pas une objection légale à la nomination d'un curateur. B. R., 1876, Montréal, Dufaux vs Robillard et al., 7 R. L., 470; 20 J., 288.—C. S., 1889, Berthier, Lafontaine vs Lafontaine, 34 J., 111.

35. Une femme curatrice à son époux interdit pour aliénation mentale, a le droit ès-qualité de s'obliger pour le loyer de la résidence de la famille, mais elle n'a pas le droit d'hypothéquer les immeubles du mari pour assurer cette créance sans autorisation de la cour. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Short vs Kelley, 9 R. L., 538; 2 L. N., 284.

36. Un curateur peut être nommé pour prendre soin de la personne et des biens d'un individu incapable de faire ses affaires, sans qu'il soit nécessaire de prononcer l'interdiction. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Ex parte Bury, 13 R. L., 477.

37. Le curateur à l'interdit pour démence n'a pas besoin de l'autorisation du juge pour intenter une action en résiliation d'une vente que l'interdit aurait consenti avant son interdiction, alors qu'il ne pouvait, à cause de sa démence, donner un consentement légal. C. R., 1889, Montréal, Rivard dit Dufresne et Rivard et Dufresne vs Forcier, 18 R. L., 128.

38. Where two persons have been appointed curators to a person interdicted for insanity one of them cannot make the estate of the interdict liable for the price of goods bought by such curator without the knowledge or consent of his co-curator. S. C., 1891, Montreal, Hemsley vs Morgan et al., M. L. R., 7 S. C., 273; 14 L. N., 313.

39. Un curateur ad hoc à un interdit ne peut intenter une action en reddition de compte contre les représentants du curateur décédé; cette action ne peut être prise que par le nouveau curateur. C. R., 1896, Montréal, Wilson, ès-qual., vs Blanchard, R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 132; R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 474.

40. Les pouvoirs du curateur à l'interdit pour ivrognerie d'habitude, comme ceux du curateur à l'interdit pour prodigalité, ne s'étendant que sur les biens de l'interdit, ce curateur ne peut représenter l'interdit en justice, mais l'interdit doit ester en justice lui-même avec l'assistance de son curateur. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Shepperd vs Hoffman, ès-qual., R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 228; 1 R. P. Q., 26.

41. Where it appears that an interdict has matters to litigate with his curator, he is entitled to have a curator ad hoc appointed to him for the purpose of such litigation and the judge ought to reject the advice of the family council not to name a curator ad hoc to said interdict. K. B., 1905, Montreal, Cantlie vs Cantlie, 7 Q. P. R., 193; 11 R. L., n. s., 530.

42. Under article 339 c. C., curators to the person are appointed with the formalities and according to the rules prescribed for the appointment of tutors.

43. Mothers and female ascendants are entitled during their widowhood to the curatorship of their child interdicted for insanity, when the father is dead, the child unmarried, and there is no valid reason against their appointment.

44. The nomination of a curator to an interdict, made upon the strength of a declaration by the prothonotary that his mother was not capable of being named his curatrix, is null and void.

45. A new family council, and not the court, has the right to appoint a new curator. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Dame Charbonneau vs Mercier, 7 Q. P. R., 326.

46. Demande.—L'époux, le parent ou l'allié de l'imbécile et de celui qui est en démence peuvent seuls provoquer l'interdiction. C. S., 1874, Québec, D'Estimauville vs Tousignant, 1 R. J. Q., 39; R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 479.

47. L'alliance subsiste, même après le décès de celui qui l'a produite, et l'allié peut demander l'interdiction pour cause de démence. C. S., (en chambre), 1892, Montréal, Brunet vs Létang, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 249.

48. Destitution de conseil judiciaire. La demande en destitution d'un conseil judiciaire ne peut se faire par une simple requête, mais l'on doit procéder par action en la forme ordinaire. C. S., (en chambre), 1892, Montréal, Létang vs Auclair, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 241.

49. Destitution de curateur.—A curator to an interdicted person may be removed by his consent and the consent of the parents; or upon petition by the next of kin, on sufficient cause and on avis de parents, without his consent. K. B., 1812, Quebec, Côté vs Pageot, 2 R. de L., 458; 2 R. J. R. Q., 255.

50. Une curatelle ne sera pas mise de côté à la demande d'un beau-frère de l'interdit, qui ne fait apparaître aucun intérêt dans l'affaire, ni qu'il y ait eu fraude pratiquée lors de la nomination du curateur. C. S., 1862, Québec, Marois vs Bilodeau, 16 D. T. B. C., 169; 15 R. J. R. Q., 40.

51. The appointment as curator to an interdicted person of a party residing in Ontario is illegal, and will be set aside in a suit en destitution de curatelle. C. S., 1879, Montreal, Legge vs Legge and Simpson, 24 J., 83.

52. Le Code ne contient aucune disposition expresse quant à la procédure à suivre dans le cas de destitution des curateurs, et dans ces circonstances, il y a lieu d'appliquer les principes de l'ancien droit, à l'effet que la destitution d'un curateur ne peut être prononcée que sur l'avis du conseil de famille; ce conseil de famille se compose alors de la même manière que pour la nomination d'un curateur et est convoqué ainsi que le tribunal l'ordonne. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Gagnon vs Gauthier, 8 R. J., 71.

53. The failure of a curator to an interdict to make an inventory, is not absolutely, and under all circumstances, a sufficient cause for the removal of such curator.

54. The court will appreciate the facts and particularly the nature of the property committed to the care of the curator and determine whether the interests of the interdict have been prejudiced by the failure to make an inventory; and if they have not been, the curator will not be removed for that cause alone. S. C., 1903, Montreal, Wilson vs Giroux and Wilson et al., 9 R. J., 542.

55. A curator who becomes indebted in a sum of money to the interdict committed to his care, is bound, under articles 295 and 981o c. C., to invest it in the same manner as all capital sums which are paid into his hands and failure to do so, within the prescribed delay, amounts to the breach of duty (infidélité) which, under article 285, renders him liable to removal from office.

56. The court, upon suit brought for that purpose, may order him to make the investment within a fixed delay, reserving further adjudication in case of his failure to do so. K. B., 1908, Montreal, Prud'homme vs Beaulieu, Q. J. R., 18 K. B., 97; Q. J. R., 33 S. C., 198.

57. Internement.—The curator to a person interdicted for lunacy or insanity cannot remove him from his domicile to an hospital or asylum, without the authority of the court, acting on the advice of his relations or friends. B. R., 1874, Montreal, Ex parte Cahill on behalf of Moore, 18 J., 270.

58. Le curateur à l'interdit pour démence n'a pas le droit d'enlever le mari interdit à son épouse et à sa famille pour le placer dans un hôpital. B. R., 1874, Montréal, Moore vs O'Neil, 5 R. L., 646.

59. On a petition for the discharge of a person confined as a lunatic, the court found that the testimony of physicians who had examined the patient was conflicting, and in particular the opinion of the physician resident in the asylum was in conflict with that of the visiting physician. Under the circumstances the court would order an examination of the patient by a disinterested expert before pronouncing upon the petition for discharge. S. C., 1884, Montreal, Ex parte Perry, 29 J., 7; 7 L. N., 330.

60. The curator of a person interdicted as being an habitual drunkard, under the 33 Vict., ch. 26, Lower Canada Statutes, has the power to place such a person in any duly licensed institution for the cure of drunkards, whenever he may deem it desirable. Q. B., 1884, Montreal, Ex parte Walsh, 3 D. C. A., 365.

61. Celui qui vent être remis en liberté, prétendant qu'il n'est plus aliéné, peut présenter sa requête pour habeas corpus, dans le district où est situé l'établissement où il est interné.

62. L'action pour recouvrer la liberté étant personnelle à celui qui est interné pour aliénation mentale, il n'est pas nécessaire qu'elle soit exercée au nom du curateur: l'interdit peut lui-même demander l'émission d'un bref d'habeas corpus, pour faire cesser son internement. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Leduc vs Les Frères de la Charité, 11 R. P. Q., 138; 16 R. J., 144.

62a. Lorsqu'une personne internée pour folie sort de l'asile pour n'y revenir que plus de quatorze jours après, dans l'espèce plus de trois mois, elle ne pourra plus y être retenue, à moins que l'on ne remplisse de nouveau les formalités nécessaires pour son premier internement; sinon, elle sera libérée sur bref d'habeas corpus. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Dubeau vs Les Frères de la Charité, 14 R. P. Q., 258.

63. Interrogatoire.—L'interrogatoire requis pour une main-levée d'interdiction pour imbécilité, démence ou fureur, doit être rédigé par écrit à peine de nullité. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Ex parte Rossin, 2 R. P. Q., 203.

64. L'interrogatoire du défendeur sur l'interdiction doit être rédigé au long, par questions et réponses, et il n'est pas suffisant d'écrire les réponses, lesquelles ne peuvent être appréciées qu'en regard des questions. C. S., 1899, Terrebonne, Léveillé vs Léveillé, 5 R. J., 379.

65. Article 330 c. C., which requires that the person sought to be interdicted be interrogated, should be strictly complied with, and if the examination be not taken down in writing in the form of question and answer, but consist of observations by the prothonotary upon the statements and acts of the party and of inferences therefrom as to her mental state, an order of interdiction for insanity cannot legally be made thereon even in accordance with the advice of the family council. K. B., 1911, Montreal, Chatelle vs Chatelle, 17 R. J., 464; 17 R. L., n. s., 367; Q. J. R., 21 K. B., 158.

66. Ivrognerie.—Une interdiction pour ivrognerie habituelle sous 33 Vict., ch. 26 (Q.), ne peut être prononcée par le protonotaire de la cour Supérieure en l'absence du juge. C. S., 1873, Ste-Scholastique, Thérien vs Lauzon, 4 R. L., 681; 17 J., 174; 23 R. J. R. Q., 147, 557.

67. L'interdiction d'une personne comme ivrogne d'habitude a les mêmes effets que l'interdiction pour prodigalité, et notamment, un contrat fait par un ivrogne avant son interdiction est valide comme le serait celui d'un prodigue dans les mêmes circonstances. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Métayer vs McVey et vir, M. L. R., 4 C. S., 21; 11 L. N., 187.

68. Le curateur à l'interdit pour ivrognerie d'habitude a le pouvoir de poursuivre le paiement de la pension alimentaire qui est due à cet interdit, et son refus de le faire, lorsque l'interdit a absolument besoin de cette pension, est une cause de destitution de la curatelle.

69. L'avis du conseil de famille, sur l'opportunité de destituer le curateur à un interdit pour ivrognerie d'habitude, est sans valeur lorsque ce conseil n'a pas assisté à la preuve faite sur la demande en destitution ou que cette preuve ne lui a pas été communiquée. C. R., 1902, Montréal, Gagnon vs Gauthier, R. J. Q., 22 C. S., 310.

70. Le mari a le droit, il est obligé même de demander l'interdiction de sa femme adonnée à l'usage excessif des boissons enivrantes. C. S., 1905, Sherbrooke, Archambault vs Camirand, R. J. Q., 27 C. S., 30.

71. L'article 336f du Code civil n'exigeant pas une contestation par écrit de la requête demandant l'interdiction de l'ivrogne d'habitude, mais permettant à ce dernier de produire des témoins pour en contredire les allégués, les avocats des parties ont droit, dans ce cas, à l'honoraire de contestation ($25) et à celui d'enquête ($10) prévus par l'article 75 du tarif. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Lacroix vs Chabot, 12 R. P. Q., 395.

72. Main-levée. — The proceeding in main-levée of an interdiction can be authorized by the interdict himself only when he has in reality a right to have such interdiction set aside.

73. If an interdict, still insane, succeeds in convincing an advocate or a notary of his sanitary, and the latter thereupon undertakes upon his instructions proceedings which fail, the costs of such proceedings cannot be charged against the interdict's estate.

74. A judgment setting aside the interdiction would have a retroactive effect to the date of the cessation of the cause of interdiction, and would necessarily validate an agreement by the interdict to pay the costs of the proceedings to obtain the removal of the interdiction. C. R., 1900, Montreal, Bouchard vs Bastien, ès-qual., Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 507; 6 R. J., 449.

75. Un interdit pour cause d'ivrognerie ne peut être relevé de cette interdiction qu'après une année d'habitude de sobriété.

76. La requête pour faire lever une interdiction pour ivrognerie doit alléguer que l'interdit a été habituellement sobre depuis un an. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Morency vs Gleason, 9 R. P. Q., 230.

77. Notaire.—Les formalités de l'interdiction sont de rigueur et spécialement celles énoncées au jugement, et non suivies dans l'espèce.

78. Un notaire ne peut tenir l'assemblée du conseil de famille aux fins de l'interdiction, s'il n'a pas été délégué à cet effet par ordonnance du juge ou du protonotaire. C. S., 1899, Terrebonne, Léveillé vs Léveillé, 5 R. J., 379.

79. Les notaires ont qualité pour signer, comme procureurs des requérants, les demandes de nomination de conseils judiciaires.

80. La requête pour nomination d'un conseil judiciaire à une personne pour cause de prodigalité doit lui être signifiée avant d'être présentée au juge et la signification qui en est faite après présentation et ordre de renvoi à un notaire pour prendre l'avis du conseil de famille est irrégulière.

81. Le juge saisi d'une requête pour nomination d'un conseil judiciaire peut autoriser un notaire à convoquer le conseil de famille et à prendre son avis dans les cas prévus à l'article 256 C.c., comme s'il s'agissait d'une nomination de tuteur.

82. Le notaire ainsi délégué n'a pas le pouvoir d'interroger ou de laisser interroger des témoins devant le conseil de famille. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Sainte-Marie vs Bowell, R. J. Q., 31 C. S., 507.

83. Nullité.—Quoiqu'un jugement d'interdiction ne soit pas annulé par l'acquisition par l'interdit d'un nouveau domicile avec résidence à l'étranger, survenue ultérieurement, cette circonstance peut néanmoins être valablement alléguée dans l'action en nullité d'interdiction comme faisant partie rerum gestarum. B. R., 1906, Montréal, Cantlie vs Cantlie, R. J. Q., 15 B. R., 530.

84. Poursuite judiciaire. — A judgment obtained against a person interdicted by reason of insanity, his curator not being a party to the suit, is null de plein droit. K. B., 1818, Quebec, Sproat vs Chandler, 3 R. de L., 390; 2 R. J. R. Q., 308.—K. B., 1819, Quebec, Sproat vs Dunière, 2 R. de L., 438, 469; 2 R. J. R. Q., 255, 256.

85. Une femme nommée curatrice à son mari interdit pour ivrognerie peut être poursuivie seule, sans qu'elle ait besoin d'aucune autorisation spéciale. C. S., 1870, Québec, Lemieux vs Forcade, 2 R. L., 626; 1 R. C., 122; 23 R. J. R. Q., 323, 551.

86. The curator to a person interdicted for habitual drunkenness does not represent the person of the interdict, and therefor cannot be sued instead of the interdict.

87. The suit must be taken against the interdict himself, but the curator must be made a party to it, the law suit necessarily affecting the interdict's property. S. C., 1897, Montreal, Shepherd vs Hoffman et vir, 1 Q. P. R., 26; 12 Q. J. R., 12 S. C., 228.

88. Un interdit pour prodigalité ne peut ester en justice, et son curateur doit le faire pour lui. Si le curateur est sa femme, elle peut poursuivre ès-qualité sans autorisation spéciale. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Hoffman, ès-qual., vs Lawrence, 4 R. L., n. s., 362; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 238.; 1 R. P. Q., 221

89. An interdict for prodigality cannot be sued or appear alone in judicial proceedings, and a writ taken against him cannot be amended by adding his curator as co-defendant, S. C., 1901, Montreal, Leroux vs De Beaujeu. 4 Q. P. R., 35; Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 235.

90. Prodigalité.—An interdiction pour cause de prodigalité may by superseded by the court. K. B., 1814, Quebec, Ex parte Ducheneau, 2 R. de L., 438; 2 R. J. R. Q., 254.

91. Interdiction for prodigality renders the interdict incapable of administering his estate, or of being lawfully served with or of lawfully appearing in judicial proceedings. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Leroux vs De Beaujeu, Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 235.

92. Révision d'interdiction.—Sur demande de révision d'une sentence d'interdiction prononcée par le protonotaire, le tribunal peut entendre d'autres témoins que ceux qui ont été interrogés devant le protonotaire. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Bond vs Barry et al., R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 365.

93. Le juge peut réviser la décision du protonotaire en matière d'interdiction, quoique la requête en révision de ce jugement prétende être un appel de la décision du protonotaire. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Ex parte Roussin, 2 R. P. Q., 203.

94. An interdiction pronounced out of court will not be revised except for good and sufficient cause.

95. On a revision the sufficiency of the petition, on which the interdiction was granted will not be considered, especially when no demand for further particulars was made at the original hearing.

96. The interdiction will not be set aside on the ground that all the relatives were not summoned to the family council, unless it is shown that this was done with a design not to have such persons present. S. C., 1908, Belford, Gingras vs Richard, ès-qual., 15 R. J., 25.

97. La loi ne fixe aucun délai pour demander la révision d'une décision du protonotaire nommant un curateur à un interdit, et telle demande doit être reçue lorsqu'il ne s'est pas écoulé, depuis la décision, un délai suffisant pour faire présumer que le requérant y a acquiescé.

98. Le protonotaire et le juge, appelés à homologuer l'avis d'un conseil de famille, ne sont tenus d'adopter l'opinion ni de la majorité ni de la minorité, et doivent, au cas où il y a divergence d'opinion dans le conseil de famille, suivre l'avis qui leur paraît le plus impartial, et le plus dicté par le seul intérêt du mineur ou de l'interdit.

99. Il y a motifs suffisants pour ne pas nommer curateur à sa sœur interdite, celui qui est obligé d'en prendre soin, de lui payer une pension alimentaire, qui a en mains des deniers lui appartenant, et qui cependant l'a fait interner dans un asile d'aliénés comme étant une personne pauvre et incapable de payer ses frais de pension. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Longtin vs Longtin, 9 R. J., 217.

100. Il n'y a pas lieu de réviser une interdiction prononcée hors de cour pour des défauts de forme qui n'entraînent pas une nullité absolue et qui n'ont pu empêcher le juge de décider en pleine connaissance de cause.

101. C'est au juge qu'il appartient d'apprécier les faits et l'interrogatoire qu'il fait de la personne à interdire. Le maintien, les gestes, etc., de celle-ci, au cours de cet interrogatoire, sont d'une valeur et d'un poids plus considérable que l'opinion des témoins, même spécialistes, qu'il permet aux parties, sans y être tenu, de faire entendre. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Gingras vs Richard, R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 154; R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 62; 15 R. J., 25.

V. Appel, Conseil de famille, Enregistrement, Frais, Gardien judiciaire, Juridiction, Mari et femme, Minorité, Obligation, Opposition afin d'annuler, Preuve testimoniale, Procédure, Reddition de compte, Responsabilité, Révision, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Séparation de biens, Séparation de corps, Substitution.

INTÉRÊTS

Déf.—C'est le profit tiré d'une somme d'argent prêtée ou due. Usuræ sunt accessio debitæ quantitatis, pro usu sortis præstenda. Dig., lib. 22, tit. 1. C. c. 449.

Les intérêts moratoires sont ceux qui se paient sur les arrérages d'une somme de deniers. C. c. 1077, 1534.

Les intérêts compensatoires sont ceux qui sont donnés à titre d'indemnité. C. c. 1070 et s.

Les intérêts sur les intérêts ou l'anatocisme, n'a lieu que par convention spéciale, ou dans une demande en justice ou dans un compte de tutelle. C. c. 1078.

INDEX

Acquéreur évincé..... 12
Actionnaire 4, 28
Actions.....4, 19
Amiable compositeur. 13
Anatocisme 1
Appel de versement.. 6
Arbitre 13
Arrérages 53a
Assurance..... 5
Avant le C. c..... 14
Avis..... 32
Avocat 8, 16
Banque..... 47
Banque (Liq.)..... 204
Billet promissoire, 82 et s., 115 et s.
Bourse..... 46
Capitalisation..... 2
Cession jud. de biens. 15
Chemin de fer.....4, 39
Chèque .....20 et s.
Cité de Montréal 48
Collection..... 16
Collocation 3
Compagnie de prêt 18
Compagnie incorporée, 6, 17
Compagnie incorporée (Liq.)..... 204
Compte courant...25 et s.
Couronne...6a, 33 et s., 42
Courtier 46
Coutume, 29 et s., 32, 62, 93
Créancier hypothécaire 110
Débenture .....37 et s.
Délégation de paiemnet..... 43
Demande de paiement, 64, 96
Demande en justice, 44 et s., 96, 101
Dépôt....20 et s., 46 et s.
Dommage, 40 et s., 48 et s.
Dot.....52 et s.
Enregistrement.....53a
Exécuteur testamentaire..... 54
Expropriation...7, 13, 55
Facture.....25 et s.
Femme mariée..... 107
Frais.....8, 71 et s.
Héritiers..... 124
Hypothèque..... 10
Imputation..... 26
Indemnité..... 13
Injonction..... 116
Inscription en droit... 103
Intérêts composés, 26, 56 et s., 101, 112
Intérêts moratoires, 63 et s.
Interprétation, 66, 88, 95
Inventaire..... 119
Jugement.....67 et s.
Jugement étranger, 68, 76
Jugement par défaut.. 85
Legs.....78 et s.
Lettre de change, 82 et s., 115 et s.
Libelle..... 50
Locataire..... 117
Locateur..... 106
Loi des Prêteurs d'argent.....100, 115
Manitoba..... 9
Mise en demeure, 15 et s., 43, 45, 49, 103
"Negotiorum gestor" 101 et s.
Obligation.....66, 102
Paiement, 26 et s., 45, 118
Pétition de droit..... 34
Point de départ, 5 et s., 25, 28 et s., 39, 43, 46, 48 et s., 57 et s., 67 et s., 78 et s., 88, 97, 102, 109
Possession..... 123
Prescription..... 61
Prêt.....113 et s.
Prêt à la grosse..... 104
Prêteur sur gage..... 105
Preuve.....27, 32, 96
Promesse de vente.... 106
Répétition de l'indu, 107 et s.
Saisie conservatoire .. 100
Saisie et vente d'immeuble..... 110
Salaire..... 36
Société de construction 19
Substitution..... 101
Taux, 6 et s., 9 et s., 31 et s., 76, 87, 89, 91, 100, 104 et s., 111 et s.
Taxe d'église..... 108
Taxe municipale, 11, 109, 117
Taxe scolaire..... 11
Terme de paiement... 118
Usage de commerce, 29 et s., 32, 62, 93
Usufruitier..... 119
Vente.....120 et s.
Versement.....4 et s., 24

ÉCRITS

1. Anatocisme.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 4 R. Not., 10.

2. Capitalisation.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 6 R. Not., 287.

3. Collocation.—Article par J. J. Beauchamp, C. R., avocat. 11 R. L., n. s., 565.

LOIS

4. Actions de compagnie de chemin de fer (Prov.).—"1. Chaque actionnaire est tenu de payer le montant des versements requis sur les actions possédées par lui, aux personnes, aux époques et aux lieux désignés, de temps à autre, par la compagnie ou par les directeurs.

"2. Si, avant le jour fixé pour opérer le versement, un actionnaire ne verse pas la somme demandée, il est tenu de payer les intérêts sur cette somme, depuis le jour fixé pour le paiement jusqu'à celui où il est effectué." S. R. Q., art. 6497.

"Les actionnaires qui veulent payer d'avance le montant de leurs actions, ou toute partie de la somme due sur leurs actions respectives, au delà des versements actuellement exigibles, ont la liberté de le faire.

"Sur les sommes principales ainsi payées à l'avance, ou sur telle partie qui, de temps à autre, excède le montant des versements alors exigibles sur les actions, à raison desquelles ces avances sont faites, la compagnie peut payer des intérêts au taux légal d'intérêt d'alors, suivant ce qu'il est convenu entre les les actionnaires qui avancent ces sommes et la compagnie; mais ces intérêts ne sont pas payés à même le capital souscrit." Art. 6503.

"4. Les directeurs de la compagnie peuvent, à leur discrétion, jusqu'à ce que le chemin de fer soit achevé et livré à la circulation, payer des intérêts au taux légal sur toute somme dont le versement a été demandé sur les actions, à compter des dates respectives de leur paiement, lesquels intérêts sont exigibles et payables aux époques et aux endroits que les directeurs fixent à cet effet.

"5. Il n'est pas payé aux propriétaires d'actions, sur lesquelles il est dû des arrérages de versement, d'intérêt sur ces actions, ou sur toute autre action possédée par le même actionnaire, tant que ces arrérages ne sont pas payés." Art. 6504.

5. Compagnie d'assurance.—"L'intérêt court et devient payable au taux de cinq pour cent par année sur le montant de tout versement impayé, à compter de la date de l'échéance du dit versement." 9-10 Ed. VII (F.), ch. 32 (1910), art. 152.

6. Compagnie incorporée.—"L'intérêt s'accumule et est payable au taux de six pour cent par année, sur le montant de tout versement non payé depuis le jour désigné pour le paiement." S. R. Q., art. 5978.

"L'appel est censé fait le jour où les directeurs ont adopté la résolution qui l'autorise; et, si un actionnaire manque d'effectuer un versement auquel il est tenu au jour ou avant le jour fixé pour le faire, il est sujet à l'obligation de payer l'intérêt, au taux de six pour cent par an, sur la somme exigible depuis le jour indiqué pour le versement jusqu'à celui où ce versement est effectué par lui." Art. 6048.

6a. Couronne.—Le ministre des Finances peut allouer et payer à toute personne qui a droit, d'après le jugement de la cour, à des deniers ou dépens, l'intérêt sur ces sommes à un taux n'excédant pas quatre pour cent à compter de la date du jugement jusqu'à ce que ces deniers ou dépens soient payés." S. R, C., ch. 140, art. 53.

7. Expropriation.—En matière d'expropriation sous "La loi des expropriations,' "un intérêt, au taux de cinq pour cent par année, peut être alloué sur l'indemnité pécuniaire, depuis le jour où le terrain ou l'immeuble a été acquis, pris par expropriation ou détérioré jusqu'au jour de la prononciation du jugement; mais il n'est alloué à la personne à laquelle a été offerte une somme de deniers, égale ou supérieure au montant que la cour juge lui être dû, aucun intérêt sur l'indemnité pécuniaire pour le temps écoulé postérieurement à l'offre de deniers.

"2. Si la cour est d'avis que le retardement de la détermination de l'indemnité est imputable en totalité ou en partie, à quelque personne qui a droit à l'indemnité, ou à une partie de l'indemnité, ou que cette personne n'a point, après la demande à elle faite, fourni au ministre, dans un délai raisonnable, un état exact contenant les détails requis, ainsi qu'il est prévu plus haut, la cour peut, soit lui refuser, pour la totalité ou pour partie du temps pour lequel cette personne aurait eu droit à l'intérêt, de lui allouer aucun intérêt, soit lui en accorder un à tel taux, au-dessous de cinq pour cent par année, qu'elle trouve juste.

"3. Le présent article ne s'applique point aux cas où le terrain a été pris par expropriation ou détérioré avant le septième jour de juillet mil neuf cent." S. R. C., ch. 143, art. 31.

8. Frais d'avocat.—"Les frais accordés à une partie ou à son avocat par le jugement d'un tribunal, portent intérêt de la date du jugement dans chaque cour." S. R. Q., art. 4564.

9. Manitoba.—L'intérêt payable, dans cette province, entre le 15 juillet 1870 et le 1er mars 1887, est déclaré être de six pour cent." S. R. C., ch. 99, art. 5.

10. Taux.—La "Loi de l'intérêt" est le chapitre 120 des S. R. C. "Sauf quant aux obligations existant immédiatement avant le septième jour de juillet 1900, chaque fois que de l'intérêt est dû en vertu de la convention des parties, ou en vertu de la loi, et qu'il n'est pas fixé de taux par cette convention ou par la loi, le taux de l'intérêt est de cinq pour cent par an." S. R. C., ch. 120, art. 3.

"Sauf quant aux hypothèques sur les biens-fonds, lorsque, aux termes d'un contrat, soit écrit ou imprimé et soit scellé ou non, quelque intérêt est payable à un taux ou percentage par jour, semaine ou mois, ou à taux ou percentage pour un temps moindre d'un an, aucun intérêt au-dessus du taux ou percentage de six pour cent par an n'est exigible, payable ni recouvrable sur aucune partie de la somme principale, à moins que le contrat ne contienne l'énonciation expresse du taux d'intérêt ou percentage par an équivaut et autre taux de percentage." Art. 4.

"En cas de paiement d'une somme d'argent pour un intérêt non exigible, ni payable ni recouvrable d'après l'article qui précède, cette somme peut être répétée ou imputée sur tout principal ou sur tout intérêt à payer en vertu du contrat." Art. 5.

11. Taxes municipales. — "Les taxes portent intérêt, à raison de cinq pour cent par an, à dater de l'expiration du délai pendant lequel elles doivent être payées, sans qu'il soit nécessaire qu'une demande spéciale soit faite à cette effet.

"Sauf les dispositions de l'article 5775, il n'est pas aux pouvoirs du conseil ou des officiers municipaux de faire remise des taxes ni des intérêts sur ces taxes." S. R. Q., art. 5726, "Loi des Cités et Villes."

Sous le Code municipal, art. 947, l'intérêt, est dû au même taux, à dater de l'expiration du délai pendant lequel elles doivent être payées.

11a. Taxes scolaires.—Les taxes scolaires, sous la "Loi de l'Instruction publique", portent intérêt à dater du trentième jour qui suit celui où elles sont exigibles." S. R. Q., art. 2866; C. scol., art. 374.

JURISPRUDENCE

12. Acquéreur évincé.—Un acquéreur d'immeubles, pour le temps qu'il a été en possession, malgré qu'il ait été subséquemment évincé, doit l'intérêt sur la partie du prix de vente échue pendant le temps qu'il a été en possession de l'immeuble. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Bériau vs The Stadacona Water, Light and Power Co., et La Corporation de la ville de Farnham, R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 525; 11 R. L., n. s., 387, 423.

13. Amiables compositeurs.—Lorsque les arbitres sont constitués amiables compositeurs, ils peuvent accorder l'intérêt sur l'indemnité à compter de la prise de possession du terrain exproprié et imposer à l'expropriant l'obligation de faire certaines choses pour réduire le montant de l'indemnité qu'il devra payer. C. S., 1906, Québec, The Quebec Improvement Co. vs The Quebec Bridge and Railway Co., R. J. Q., 29 C. S., 328.

14. Avant le Code civil.—Les intérêts annuels sont distincts du capital dont ils proviennent, et comme tels ils sont régis par notre Code, quand même la créance qui y donne lieu serait antérieure à ce Code. C. S., 1876, Iberville, Hébert vs Ménard dit Bellerose, 10 R. L., 6; 23 J., 331.

15. Cession judiciaire de biens.—A demand of abandonment acquiesced in by the debtor, constitutes a sufficient mise en demeure to cause interest to run on the debt on which the demand of abandonment was based, from the date of such demand. S. C., 1899, Montréal, Laberge vs Brosseau, Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 430.

16. Collection.—L'avocat qui, au cours de diverses procédures dans lesquelles des déboursés sont constamment nécessaires, reçoit pour son client et à sa connaissance des sommes d'argent que celui-ci lui laisse entre les mains sans les réclamer, n'est pas tenu de payer l'intérêt de ces sommes, tant qu'il n'est pas mis en demeure ou qu'il n'y a pas de règlement de compte entre eux. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Chagnon vs St-Jean, R. J. Q., 3 C. S., 459.

17. Compagnie incorporée.—The exception in the last clause of 22 Vict., ch. 85, which prevents corporations, etc., "heretofore authorized by law to lend or borrow money," from charging more than six per cent. interest, applies only to corporations created for the purpose of lending money, or at least expressly authorized to do so, not to all who by the general law are allowed to lend it. Q. B., 1861, Ontario, Edinburgh Life Assurance Co. vs Graham, 19 U. C. R., 581.

18. La convention par laquelle une corporation autorisée à prêter de l'argent, charge un taux d'intérêt plus élevé que celui autorisé par le chapitre 58 des Statuts Refondus du Canada est nulle, quant à l'excédent d'intérêt seulement. Une rente constituée est sujette aux dispositions de cet Acte. C. S., 1882, Montréal, La Corporation du Séminaire de Nicolet vs Pauzé, 11 R. L., 438.

19. Le statut qui régit les compagnies de construction ne permet pas d'exiger l'intérêt sur les parts non payées. C. Supr., 1889, Montréal, Hughes et al. vs Compagnie des Villas du Cap Gibraltar et Lalonde, M. L. R., 5 C. S., 129; 12 L. N., 320; 31 J., 264; 34 J., 24; 3 D. C. A., 175; 18 R. L., 205; 11 R. C. Supr., 537.

20. Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.).—On the application of the liquidators of the bank for the direction of the court as to the allowance of interest to the several classes of creditors other than noteholders: Unless there is a surplus of assets available after payment of the principal of the debts, all interest ceases after the commencement of the winding up.

21. If, however, there should be any funds available for the purpose, interest should be allowed as follows: (a) Depositors who before the winding up had been receiving interest without written agreement, and depositors entitled to interest by special agreement should now be allowed interest at the agreed on rates, just as if the bank were not being wound up, and any dividends paid them should be applied, first in payment of the interest accrued, and then on account of principal in the ordinary way. (b) Depositors whose accounts did not bear interest and general creditors can only claim interest if they have made a demand in writing upon the liquidators under the statute 3 and 4 Will. IV, ch. 42, sect. 28 "with notice that interest will be claimed from the date of such demand until the time of payment," and then they are entitled to interest at six per cent. per annum.

22. Holders of drafts and bills of exchange issued by the bank, drawn either on its own branches or on other banks or bankers who acted as agents of the bank, will be entitled under section 5, sub-section 2, of the Bills of Exchange Act to treat them either as bills of exchange or promissory notes of the bank, and can claim interest at six per cent. from the time of presentement for payment to the drawees under section 57 of the Act. The fact that these holders knew that an immediate presentment for payment would be useless does not entitle them to interest from the date of the winding up. In re East of England Banking Co., L. R., 4 Ch., 14, and section 46 of the Bills of Exchange Act. Holders of cheques drawn on the bank by customers and accepted or certified by the ledger keepers in the ordinary way and charged to the customers' accounts will not be entitled to interest, unless they have served the demand and notice under the statute 3 and 4 Will. IV, as in the case of other ordinary creditors.

23. Such an acceptance or certifying of a cheque by the bank cannot be held to be an "acceptance" of it so as to make it an accepted bill within the meaning of section 17, subsection 2, of the Bills of Exchange Act, especially in view of the provisions of section 90 in the case of an instrument "signed" by corporation, the impression of the name of the bank by the rubber stamp in use for certifying cheques not being equivalent to sealing the instrument by its corporate seal. Q. B., 1894, Manitoba, In re Commercial Bank of Manitoba; In re Claims for Interest on Debts Proved, 10 Man. L. R., 187.

24. In proceedings under the Winding-up Act a claim by a shareholder against an insolvent company for an amount alleged to be due for interest on calls paid before their due date, will be rejected from collocation as against the creditors of the company, the same being an equity between him and his co-shareholders, and as such cannot be allowed, after a winding-up order, to prejudicially affect the creditors of the company. S. C., 1896, St. Francis, Mitchell vs Royal Pulp and Paper Co., and Buck and Angus and Pope, 2 R. J., 215.

25. Compte courant—En matière commerciale l'intérêt peut être chargé sur un compte de marchandises à partir de l'échéance du délai convenu sans autre mise en demeure. C. S., 1884, Montreal, Rowan vs Massé et al., M. L. R., 1 C. S., 177; 8 L. N., 101; 19 R. L., 3.

26. Where the credits for each year, in an account current, are in excess of the amount of interest charged for the year, it cannot be pretended that compound interest has been charged, inasmuch as (under c. C. 1150) payments made by a debtor on account are imputed first on the interest. Q. B., 1886, Montreal, Dudley et al. vs Darling, M. L. R., 2 Q. B., 458; 10 L. N., 110; 30 J., 309.

27. Des comptes courants pour marchandises vendues, livrées et reçues, à divers intervalles, par le débiteur, et dans lesquels sont chargés des intérêts, et des paiements faits à compte du tout, sans protestation, constituent une preuve de l'obligation de payer les intérêts sur ce compte. C. S., 1890, St-Hyacinthe, Boisvert vs Saurette dit Larose et al., 19 R. L., 1.

28. An account current does not bear interests from demand and refusal of payment. S. C., 1898, Montreal, The New York Life Insurance Co. vs Dubeau, Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 100.

29. Under article 1534 c. C., a custom on the part of a merchant to charge interest on goods sold can avail only where it is shown that the purchaser has understood such custom and has assented thereto; and such assent may be expressed or implied.

30. Where it is not shown that the purchaser had knowledge, either express or implied, of such custom, the merchant is not entitled to interest except from the time when his debtor is put in default, which is from the date of the service of the action.

31. Since the coming into force of the Statute (Dominion) 63-64 Vict., ch. 29 (1900), the legal rate of interest is five per cent. C. C., 1901, Bedford, Olmstead et al. vs Lusignault, 7 R. J., 290.

32. Dans les ventes entre commerçants, l'avis dans les factures que l'intérêt à un taux indiqué sera chargé, reçu par l'acheteur sans réclamation de sa part, et son aveu que cet intérêt est payable suivant l'usage du lieu, équivaut à la preuve d'une promesse de le payer. C. R., 1910, Québec, La Compagnie Paquet vs Paquin, R. J. Q., 39 C. S., 58.

33. Couronne.—The Crown can recover interest where a private individual would be entitled to it, as in an action for money paid under a written contract, on account of a third person, in which it may be recovered from the date of service of process of the court. K. B., 1828, Quebec, Attorney General pro Rege vs Black, S. R. C., 324, 581; 2 Knapp's P. C. R., 328; 1 R. J. R. Q., 282, 291, 500, 520; 12 R. J. R. Q., 437; 20 R. J. R. Q., 64, 68, 569.

34. Interests may be allowed against the Crown upon a judgment on a petition of right arising ex contractu in the province of Quebec in the absence of any express undertaking by the Crown to pay the same, or any statutory enactment authorizing such allowance. But such interest should only be computed from the date when the petition of right is filed in the office of the secretary of State. Ex. C., 1896, Lainé vs The Queen, 5 Ex. C. R., 103.

35. The Crown is not liable to pay interest except upon contract therefor, or where its liability therefor is fixed by statute. Ex. C., 1901, The Algoma Central Railway Co. vs The King, 7 Ex. C. R., 239.

36. A suppliant against the Crown for a difference of salary is not entitled to interest on his claim. Ex. C., 1902, Hargrave vs The King, 8 Ex. C. R., 62.

37. Débentures.—The plaintiff claimed the sum of $170.33, amount of coupons due on bonds. The defence was that the bonds were issued under 37 Vict., (Q.), ch. 57, and that that legislature could not enact a law authorizing the company to enter into any contract binding on it by which a rate of interest higher than six per cent, was to be paid, and that the coupons being at the rate of seven per cent. the obligation was void, or, at most, good only for six per cent. The answer to this was that the company was authorized to borrow, and could legally agree to pay seven per cent., or such other rate as might be specially agreed upon: The action was maintained.

38. In an action for the amount of overdue coupons on bonds: Interest on such coupons only ran from the institution of the action. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Macdougall vs Montreal Warehousing Co., 3 L. N., 64.

39. Interest runs on the interest coupons of railway debentures from the dates on which they respectively fall due, without the necessity of putting the debtor en demeure. C. R., 1883, Montreal, Desrosiers vs The Montreal, Portland and Boston Railway Co., 28 J., 1; 6 L. N., 388.

40. Upon a bond for the payment of money on a day certain, with interest at a fixed rate down to that day, further contract for the continuance of the same rate of interest cannot be implied, and thereafter interest is not recoverable as interest but as damages.

41. In assessing damages in the nature of interest on a bond payable at a particular place reference should,in general, be had to the rules in force at the place where the same is so payable. Ex. C., 1890, The Queen vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 2 Ex. C. R., 132.

42. In an action by the Crown against the Quebec North Shore Turnpike Road Trustees to recover interest upon debentures purchased from them by the Government of the late province of Canada (with trust funds held by them belonging to the Common School Fund), the defendants pleaded that the Crown was estopped from recovery inasmuch as, at the time of their purchase, the advisers of the Crown were aware that these debentures were being issued in breach of a trust and with the intention of misapplying the proceeds towards payment of interest upon other debentures due by them in violation of a statutory prohibition: As there was statutory authority for the issue of the debentures in question, knowledge of any such breach of trust or misapplication by the advisers of the Crown could not be set up as a defence to the action. Supr. C., 1906, Canada, Quebec North Shore Turnpike Road Trustees and Tessier et al. vs The King, 38 Supr. C. R., 62; 8 Ex. C. R., 390.

43. Délégation de paiment.—Interest is due by the drawee on the amount of an order of payment only from the time that he is put en demeure to pay the same. C. R., 1892, Montreal, Ward vs Royal Canadian Insurance Co., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 229; 16 L. N., 122.

44. Demande en justice.—Le créancier qui a omis de réclamer des intérêts sur une somme poursuivie par lui, peut demander le paiement de ces intérêts par une action distincte, lorsque le débiteur a refusé de les payer en même temps qu'il acquittait le capital.

45. La mise en demeure de payer le capital suffit pour mettre le débiteur en demeure de payer les intérêts de ce capital; partant, le défendeur condamné à payer le capital, ne peut se dispenser de payer les intérêts sur ce capital, pour le motif que le demandeur n'a pas conclu à ce que le défendeur fût condamné à les payer. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Poulin vs Land and Loan Co., R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 363; 1 R. J., 170.

46. Dépôt.—Interest is due on money deposited in the hands of a broker, as margin for speculative stock transactions only from the date of service of action. S. C., 1892, Montreal, Pérodeau vs Jackson et al., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 25; Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 364.

47. On the wrongful refusal of a bank to honour a demand for the withdrawal of a special deposit, the depositor may be allowed interest thereon in an action for its recovery at the legal rate from the date of the demand even though the legal rate is in excess of the rate of interest at which the special deposit was to be carried. Supr. C., 1912, Alberta, The King vs The Royal Bank, 2 D. L. R., 762.

48. Dommage. — Dans une action contre la corporation de Montréal, pour dommages causés dans une émeute, les intérêts seront accordés du jour de la signification; et non pas comme dans une action ordinaire pour injures de la date du jugement. C. S., 1862, Montréal, Douglas et al. vs Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of Montreal, 13 D. T. B. C., 71; 11 R. J. R. Q., 267.

49. Le montant alloué à titre de dommages-intérêts porte intérêt à compter du dernier jour de délai accordé par la mise en demeure, s'il en a été fait une. B. R., 1885, Québec, La Compagnie du chemin de fer Quebec Central vs Létourneau, 14 R. L., 324.

50. Interest, in an action of damages for libel, should be allowed merely from date of judgment liquidating damages, and not from date of service of process. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Fullerton vs Berthiaume, Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 342; Q. J. R., 7 S. C., 460.

51. L'intérêt sur le montant accordé pour dommages-intérêts réels, court de la date de la demande judiciaire. C. S., 1900, Montréal. Scanlan vs La Cité de Montréal, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 363.

52. Dot.—Les deniers dotaux portent intérêt de plein droit. C. S., 1862, Montréal, Poirier vs Lacroix, 6 J., 302; 10 R. J. R. Q., 369.

53. L'intérêt sur une somme dotale ne court que du jour de la demande judiciaire. C. C., 1862, Montréal, Gauthier vs Dagenais. 7 J., 51; 12 R. J. R. Q., 31.

53a. Enregistrement pour arrérages. In the absence of registration of a memorial under article 2125 c. C., the hypothec covenanted for capital and interest in a deed of loan is effective as regards interest only for arrears of two years and the expired part of the current year not only as regards other hypothecary creditors but also as against a tiers détenteur. K. B., 1912, Québec, Standard Loan Co. vs Faucher, 19 R. J., 97.

54. Exécuteur testamentaire.—Testamentary executors cannot be charged a greater rate than six per cent. per annum for interest on moneys collected by them, after an account has been demanded, unless there is proof that a higher rate was realized by them through the use of such moneys. Supr. C., 1877, Canada, Darling et al. vs Brown et al., 2 Supr. C. R., 26; 21 J., 125; 1 L. N., 204.

55. Expropriation. — Interest on the amount awarded should not be added by the arbitrators, especially in a case where the claimant remains in possession of the property until after the date of the award. C. A., 1909, Manitoba, Canadian Northern Railway vs Robinson, 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 226; 17 Man. L. R., 396.

56. Intérêts composés.—The fact of a plaintiff attempting to capitalize interest already accrued, is not a sufficient ground for the dismissal of his action, although the court may refuse to grant that part of it which claims such compound interest. Q. B., 1868, Quebec, Dionne et al. vs Valleau et al., 2 L. C. L. J., 112; 18 R. J. R. Q., 278, 554, 569.

57. Un demandeur qui poursuit pour une créance en capital et intérêts, a droit aux intérêts sur les intérêts depuis l'institution de son action s'il les demande. C. S., 1879, Montréal, Bourassa vs Roy, 9 R. L., 553.

58. An agreement to the effect that accrued interest shall bear interest from the date on which it will become payable until payment, is valid and effect will be given to such an agreement. C. C., 1888, Aylmer, Campbell vs Bell et al., 11 L. N., 346.

59. Under paragraph one of article 1078 c. C., it is competent for the parties to stipulate that interest, when not paid at maturity, may be capitalized.

60. Effect must be given to such an agreement between the parties themselves; although it may not have that effect as regards other privileged creditors of the contracting debtor.

61. As regards the debtor, such interest becomes a part of the principal and is not prescribed by five years under article 2250 c. C. S. C., 1900, Bedford, Boisvert vs Philp, 6 R. J., 173.

62. En matière commerciale, les intérêts sur les argents ne courent pas, à moins d'alléguer et de montrer que c'est l'usage du commerce d'en accorder. C. S., 1902, Québec, Moisan vs Paradis et al., R. J. Q., 22 C. S., 423.

63. Intérêts moratoires.—In an action for arrears of interest, interest upon the sum demanded must be awarded by the judgment. S. C., 1852, Québec, Anderson et al. vs Dessaules et al., 2 L. C. R., 481.

64. Where money is payable at the domicile of the debtor, demand of payment must be made there before interest can accrue thereon.

65. A payment of the capital so due to a party indicated by the creditor, although after the date at which it fell due, is sufficient to prevent the accruing of interest thereon. C. R., 1874, Montreal, Halloran vs Kennedy, 18 J., 284.

66. Interprétation d'obligation.—La clause d'une obligation portant que le paiement aura lieu à telle époque, sans intérêt jusqu'au terme, ou que le paiement aura lieu à telle époque pour tout dommage à peine, etc., équivaut à une stipulation d'intérêts à partir de l'expiration du terme. C. S., 1880, Montreal, Montchamps et al. vs Perras, 24 J., 231; 3 L. N., 339.

67. Jugement.—Interests on the amount of the condemnation money will run from the date of the judgment. S. C., 1860, Montreal, Walsh vs The Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of the City of Montreal, 5 J., 335; 9 R. J. R. Q., 356.

68. Where action was brought on a judgment obtained in Upper Canada, which assessed the plaintiff for breach of contract by the defendant, over and above his costs and charges by him about his suit expended at £26 7s. 2d.: Proof aliunde was required of such promise, and, failing such proof made, interest would be granted from the date of such judgment. C. C., 1864, Montreal, Chapman vs Gordon, 8 J., 196; 12 R. J. R. Q., 273; 22 R. J. R. Q., 293.

69. Judgment will not go for interest where it is not demanded by the declaration. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Coupal vs Bonneau, 10 J., 177; 1 L. C. L. J., 33; 15 R. J. R. Q., 137.

70. The question of allowing interest for time judgment has been stayed, pursuant to section 36, Superior and Exchequer courts Act, is a matter which the court will dispose of on its own motion. Supr. C., 1880, Canada, McQueen vs Phœnix Fire Insurance Co., Cass. Dig. (2. ed.), 688; Cass. S. C. Prac. (2 ed.), 87.

71. Les intérêts ne courent sur les frais dus par un client à ses avocats que du jour du jugement pris par eux pour ces frais. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Saint-Pierre vs Chartrand et al., 2 R. P. Q., 290.

72. The plaintiff was, for the first time, condemned by the Supreme court to pay the costs in the Superior court:

73. The judgment of the Supreme court was the judgment granting the costs under the terms of article 556 C. p. c. and interest was due upon costs from the date of the Supreme court judgment only. Supr. C., 1899, Quebec, Gibsone vs Quebec and Montmorency Railway Co., Q. J. R., 17 S. C., 74; 29 Supr. C. R., 340.

74. Where a decree of the court of Appeal affirmed by an Order in Council had ordered the repayment of moneys received by the appellant in excess of his salary as manager of company, but was silent as to interest on the sums so overdrawn: The court had power to order interest on further directions as a matter of discretion, but as it appeared from the judgment of their Lordships that the Order in Council intentionally omitted a direction to that effect, the discretion of the court below should be overruled.

75. As no claim for interest was made at the commencement of the action, it should be charged only on the amount decreed from the date of the decree of the court of Appeal. P. C., 1905, Ontario, Burland vs Earle, 2 B. J. P. C., 33; L. R., 1905, App. Cas., 590; 93 L. T. R., 313; 74 L. J. R., n. s., 156.

76. In the case of a judgment obtained by a creditor in England against a railway company incorporated and being operated in the province of Quebec, interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum runs from the date of judgment on the judgment debt and costs, and may be recovered against the company. Ex. C., 1908, Canada, The Royal Trust Co. vs The Baie des Chaleurs Railway Co., 13 Ex. C. R., 9.

77. Plaintiff is entitled to interest on the amount mentioned in a judgment since its rendering, even if the judgment does not show that interest is awarded. S. C., 1911, Montreal, Riordan vs McLeod, 13 Q. P. R., 156.

78. Legs.—Interest is due on legacies only from a judicial demand. A promise by the executors to pay interest is not good without the consent of the heirs. S. C., 1854, Montreal, Torrance et al. vs Torrance et al., 1 M. C. R., 115; 2 R. J. R. Q., 386.

79. L'intérêt sur un legs ne court que du jour de la demande en justice. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Saint-Aubin vs Dame Lacombe, 14 R. L., 316; M. L. R., 2 C. S., 110; 9 L. N. 123.

80. Les héritiers ont droit aux intérêts que produisent les legs particuliers tant qu'ils n'ont pas été acquittés par l'exécuteur testamentaire. C. S., 1887, Montréal, Mayer et al. vs Léveillé, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 190; 10 L. N., 371.

81. Le testament en question en cette cause léguait à la demanderesse une somme de douze cents piastres et contenait la disposition suivante: "Et il est entendu que les quatre cents piastres que me doit mon dit mari, ou toute autre somme qu'il pourra me devoir à mon décès, devront être déduites de la dite somme de douze cents piastres, et toute balance restante ne pourra être retirée par la dite légataire que sur mes revenus retirés par mes exécuteurs testamentaires": Lors du décès du testateur, tous les intérêts antérieurs ayant été payés par le mari de la dite légataire, la somme de quatre cents piastres, dette en capital due par le mari, est devenue éteinte, et les intérêts sur cette somme, depuis le décès du testateur, ne pouvaient être chargés à la légataire, lors du paiement subséquent fait à la dite légataire, par les exécuteurs testamentaires de la balance restante, du legs de douze cents piastres; tels intérêts sur la dite somme de quatre cents piastres ayant été indûment chargés à la légataire, cette dernière était en droit d'en demander le remboursement. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Daoust et vir vs Boileau, ès-qual., 17 R. J., 8.

82. Lettre de change et Billet promissoire.—A promise to pay on demand £200 "with interest" is a promise to pay interest from the date of the note. K. B., 1816, Quebec, Baxter vs Robinson, 2 R. de L., 439; 2 R. J. R. Q., 255.

83. "Twelve months after date, I promise to pay £200., with six months interest" upon a note in these words, no more than six months interest before service of process ad respondendum can be allowed, but the plaintiff is entitled to interest from the date of the service. K. B., 1817, Quebec, Heaviside vs Munn, 2 R. de L., 439; 3 R. de L., 390; 2 R. J. R. Q., 255.

84. In an action on a promissory note against the defendant as one of a firm, who were the payee and endorsers of the note, it appeared that the plaintiff had discounted the note in question for the defendant along with other notes made in their favor, and had retained his discount, in amount equal to 60 per cent. per annum on the three notes. The defendant pleaded that the excess of interest over six per cent. should be deduced from the note sued on, the two others having been paid in full: The plea could not be maintained, inasmuch as the defendant had not established the precise excess obtained over the legal interest on the note in suit, and because the defendant's firm were endorsers of the notes, and the two notes might have been paid by the makers and not by the endorsers. S. C., 1859, Montreal, Malo vs Wurtele, 9 D. T. B. C., 327.

85. In default cases, interest runs on notes, payable on demand from date. C. C., 1860, Montréal, Dechantal vs Pominville, 6 J., 88; 11 R. J. R. Q., 137, 521.

86. Interest made payable by a note is part of the debt, not merely damages for detaining it. Q. B., 1861, Ontario, Crouse vs Park, 3 U. C. R., 458.

87. Interest is recoverable on a note at the rate specified in it till payment. C. P., 1862, Ontario, Howland vs Jennings, 11 C. P., 272.

88. A promissory note dated 24th August, 1857, payable with interest "from first August last" bears interest from first August, 1856. Supr. C., 1862, New Brunswick, Calhoun vs Colpitts, 5 Allen's N. B. R., 382.

89. And the jury should be directed, as a matter of law, to allow such rate when allowing interest in the nature of damages, from the maturity of the note to the entry of judgment. C. P., 1863, Ontario, Montgomery vs Boucher, 14 C. P., 45.

90. Interest at the rate allowed by our law is chargeable upon a note dated and made payable in the United States. C. P., 1863, Ontario, Griffin vs Judson, 12 C. P., 430.

91. The agreement between the parties fixes the rate of interest recoverable as damages, however, exorbitant it may be. C. P., 1865, Ontario, Young vs Fluke, 15 C. P., 360.

92. A promissory note was dishonoured at maturity, but was not protested by the holders (a banking corporation) because of a waiver by the indorsers of presentment and notice: The indorsers were not liable to pay interest thereon as a debt.

93. Nor could a contract to pay interest be deduced from a usage of banks to charge interest on overdue debts, and to collect it if possible.

94. Semble, the indorsers would be liable to pay interest as damages for breach of their contract. C. A., 1885, Ontario, In re McDougall, 10 A. R., 265.

95. An indorsement on the back of a note of the payment of interest up to a future date beyond the maturity of the note, in the absence of evidence of mistake, is to be deemed an extension of time for the payment of the note to such date, so as to discharge a party thereto who is merely a surety for the payment thereof. C. P., 1888, Ontario, Ryan vs McKerrall, 15 O. R., 460.

96. Le demandeur n'ayant pas fait preuve du jour où il a fait demande régulière du paiement des billets, ne doit obtenir l'intérêt sur ses billets à demande que du jour de la signification de l'action, qui est la première mise-en-demeure régulière et légale qui soit au dossier. C. S., 1888, Montréal, Cléroux vs Pigeon, 32 J., 236.

97. The holder of a note, who has obtained judgment thereon against the maker and first endorser, is entitled, in an action subsequently instituted against the other endorsers, to interest from date of service on the amount of the first judgment. S. C., 1892, Montreal, Thibeaudeau et al. vs Pauzé et al., Q. J. R.. 2 S. C., 470; 16 L. N., 173.

98. Interest on demand note runs from the date thereof. S. C., 1903, Hull, Bank of Ottawa vs McLean et al., Q. J. R., 26 S. C., 27; 5 Q. P. R., 237; 9 R. L., n. s., 182; 11 R. L., n. s., 408. (Conf. par la C. R., le 31 mai 1904.)

99. Sur un billet portant intérêt à 24 par cent par année, l'intérêt conventionnel ne sera accordé que jusqu'à l'échéance du billet, et l'intérêt légal après l'échéance. C. S., 1905, Québec, Beaudoin vs Marceau, 11 R. J., 173.

100. A party who signed promissory notes discounted at a rate of interest exceeding that allowed by the Money Lenders' Act has no right to ask by a conservatory attachment that these notes be put under judicial custody for the purpose of reducing their amounts, especially if it is not alleged that the defendant is insolvent. S. C., 1912, Montréal, Friedenberg vs Bailey and The Bank of Montreal, 13 Q. P. R., 312.

101. Negotiorum gestor.—L'appelant n'ayant reçu les deniers appartenant à la dite substitution que comme procureur des grevés et simple negotiorum gestor, il n'était pas tenu de payer les intérêts des sommes par lui reçues, si ce n'est depuis la demande qui en a été faite par l'intervention produite par l'intimé; l'obligation de payer les intérêts des intérêts n'incombant qu'à ceux qui reçoivent des deniers pour les incapables. C. Supr., 1885, Montreal, Dorion vs Dorion, M. L. R., 1 B. R., 483; 13 R. C. Supr., 193; 8 L. N., 410; 4 D. C. A., 213.

102. Obligation.— In an action on a written contract to pay certain sums of money annually, with interest from the date of such obligation to the maturity of the obligation: The contract implied an obligation to pay interest from and after the time at which the payments became due. Q. B., 1862, Montreal, Dame Rice et al. vs Ahern, 6 J., 201; 12 L. C. R., 280; 10 R. J. R. Q., 276.

103. Dans une action basée sur un acte d'obligation, le demandeur ne peut réclamer des intérêts, outre le capital, à moins d'alléguer une stipulation expresse à cet effet dans l'acte, ou une mise en demeure; et, à défaut de ce faire, cette partie de l'action demandant des intérêts pourra être renvoyée sur réponse en droit. C. S., 1899, Montréal, McLeod vs Lemay, 5 R. L., n. s., 227.

104. Prêt à la grosse.—Maritime interest at the rate of 25 per cent. upon a bottomry-bond given at Quebec not considered exorbitant. V. A., 1818, White vs Ship "Dardalus," S. R. C., 130.

105. Prêteur sur gage.—Remarks upon the law relating to pawnbrokers. A pawnbroker, under C. S. C., ch. 61, may legally charge any rate of interest that may be agreed upon between him and the pledgor. P. C., 1881, Ontario, Regina vs Adams, 8 P. R., 462.

106. Promesse de vente.—Le locateur vendeur sur promesse de vente qui retire le montant d'une telle police d'assurance, lorsque son prix n'était payable que mensuellement et sans intérêt, doit compte au locataire acheteur des intérêts sur la somme perçue. C. S., 1908, St-François, Breton vs Dion, 14 R. J., 384.

107. Répétition de l'indu.—Dans une action en répétition, conditio indebiti, par une femme séparée de biens, par suite de la nullité de son cautionnement, les intérêts ne lui seront accordés, lorsque le débiteur des deniers réclamés est de bonne foi, que du jour de l'assignation. B. R., 1873, Montréal, Buckley vs Brunelle et vir, 21 J., 133; 3 R. L., 695; 1 L. N., 133.

108. Dans le cas où le paroissien répète le montant indûment payé par lui pour une répartition d'église, il n'a pas le droit aux intérêts sur ce qu'il a payé. B. R., 1887, Québec, Syndics de St-David de l'Aube rivière, R. J. Q., 6 B. R., 378; 8 L. N., 83.

109. In an action to recover money paid under an illegal assessment roll, interest will be allowed only from the date of the institution of the action and not from date of payment. Q. B., 1879, Montreal, Baylis vs The Mayor et al. of Montreal, 23 J., 301; 10 R. L., 106; 1 L. N., 62; 2 L. N., 340.—Q. B., 1880, Montreal, Wilson et al. vs The City of Montreal, 24 J., 222; 1 L. N., 242; 3 L. N., 282.

110. Saisie et vente d'immeuble—The sheriff cannot be compelled to exact interest from the purchaser of an immoveable who is a hypothecary creditor in respect of such immoveable, and who has given a bond in terms of article 688, of the Code of civil procedure. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Cross vs Gareau and Coutlée, 25 J., 253.

111. Taux.—Interest at 7 per cent. may be recovered on advances, on proof that such is the rate invariably charged, and that the defendant received without objection statements of account wherein such rate was charged. S. C., 1895, Montreal, Lacke et al. vs Leblanc, Q. J. R., 8 S. C., 69.

112. Le taux de l'intérêt sur des intérêts échus lors de la signification d'une action, est de six pour cent seulement, quel que soit le taux des intérêts payables sur le capital. C. C., 1898, Terrebonne, Gascon vs Drouin, 1 R. P. Q., 377.

112a. Since the coming into force of the Statute (F) 63, 64 Vict., ch. 29 (1900), the legal rate of interest is five per cent C. C., 1901, Bedford, Olnstead et al. vs Lusignault; 7 R. J., 290.

113. Lorsque, aux termes du contrat, quelque intérêt est payable à un taux par jour, semaine ou mois ou pour un temps moindre d'un an, aucun intérêt au-dessus du taux ou percentage de six pour cent par an ne pourra être exigible sur aucune partie de la somme principale, à moins que le contrat ne contienne l'énonciation expresse du taux d'intérêt ou percentage par an auquel équivaut cet autre taux ou percentage. S. C., 1901, Montreal, Charest vs Leclerc, 7 R. J., 408.

114. Lorsque les termes d'un contrat de prêt de deniers ne mentionnent pas le taux annuel de l'intérêt, la cour Supérieure siégeant en révision réduira le taux de l'intérêt à cinq pour cent par année, même alors que le débiteur poursuivi n'a pas, en cour de première instance, invoqué le bénéfice du statut 60-61 Vict., ch. 8, sects 2 et 3, Dans ce cas, la cour de Révision condamnera le débiteur à payer le capital dû avec intérêt au taux de 5 pour cent et avec dépens d'une action du montant dû, chaque partie payant ses frais devant la cour de Révision. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Foo vs Gow, 11 R. J., 121.

115. The Money Lenders' Act does not in any way forbid the negotiation of notes discounted at a forbidden rate, but on the contrary provides for the right of action to the bona fide holder for the face value of said notes, reserving only the privilege to the party discharging said notes to reclaim from the money lender any amount paid for interest illegally charged.

116. A petition for an injunction to restrain the transfer of said promissory notes will be dismissed. S. C., 1912, Montreal, Friedenberg vs Eaves, 13 Q. P. R., 329.

117. Taxe municipale. — L'intérêt ne court pas ex lege, sur les cotisations payées par le propriétaire pour le compte du locataire. C. C., 1875, Québec, Deslauriers vs Lambert, 1 R. J. Q., 365.

118. Terme de paiement.—La stipulation que le prix d'une chose, de nature à produire des fruits ou autres revenus, sera payé à terme, sans intérêt, doit s'entendre sans intérêt jusqu'aux termes, et n'ajoute rien à la règle que fait l'article 1534 du Code civil. C. R., 1886, Québec, Dumont vs Sévigny, 12 R. J. Q., 76; 15 R. J. Q., 57.

119. Usufruitier.—L'usufruitier qui n'a pas fait inventaire ni fourni de cautionnement ne peut réclamer que les intérêts actuellement perçus par ceux qui détiennent les capitaux. C. R., 1891, Québec, Lyster vs Reed, 17 R. J. Q., 32; 14 L. N., 172.

120. Vente.—Un prix de vente stipulé, payable à terme par versement sans intérêt, n'en portera pas moins intérêt de plein droit, à compter de l'échéance de chaque versement s'il n'est pas alors payé. C. S., 1875, St-Jean, Arpin vs Lamoureux et Boivin et Molleur, 7 R. L., 196; 12 R. J. Q., 81; 15 R. J. Q., 57.—B. R., 1888, Québec, Hogan vs Clancy, 17 R. L., 44; 15 R. J. Q., 53; 12 L. N., 150.

121. Where the faculty is accorded to the purchaser in a deed of sale of immoveables to relieve any of the lots described in the deed of the whole balance of the purchase money, which by the deed carries interest at the rate of seven per cent., by paying to the vendor at the rate of sixteen cents per foot of the lot to be discharged, the interest at the rate aforesaid must also be paid in addition to the capital at said rate of sixteen cents a foot. C. R., 1879, Montreal, Chaussé vs Larose and Dame Symes and Dupré et al., 24 J., 127.

122. Tout acheteur doit au vendeur les intérêts du prix de vente, lorsque la chose vendue est de nature à produire des fruits ou autres revenus, à compter de la prise de possession. C. S., 1885, Montréal, Atlantic and North West Railway Co. vs Prud'homme, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 21; 9 L. N., 42; 18 R. L., 143.

123. A purchaser who has been in possession of the property since the sale, and in the enjoyment of the revenues, is bound in any event to pay interest on the unpaid portion of the price according to the stipulations of his deed. C. R., 1894, Montreal, Lalancette vs Lalancette et vir, Q. J. R., 6 S. C., 274.

124. En principe, le prix de vente d'une chose frugifère porte intérêt. Ainsi, lorsqu'il avait été stipulé que le prix de vente d'un terrain serait payable aux héritiers et représentants légaux des vendeurs, sauf le droit de ces derniers d'exiger des paiements partiels de temps à autre, l'acheteur devant payer l'intérêt aux vendeurs leur vie durant et la balance qui resterait due sur le prix de vente lors de leur décès, à leurs héritiers, par paiements annuels, les héritiers des vendeurs pouvaient réclamer les intérêts sur la balance du prix de vente, malgré que la stipulation des intérêts ne fût expressément faite qu'en faveur des vendeurs et pour la durée de leur vie. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Brien dit Durocher et al. vs Jasmin, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 391.

V. Action hypothécaire, Arbitrage, Banque, Chemin de fer, Compagnie incorporée, Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.), Couronne, Distribution de deniers, Dommage, Douane, Droit constitutionnel, Droit paroissial, Enregistrement, Expropriation, Exécuteur testamentaire, Frais, Inscription en droit, Lettre de change et Billet promissoire, Louage d'ouvrage, Mandat, Mari et femme, Obligation, Offres réelles et consignation, Paiement, Prescription, Prêt, Preuve testimoniale, Procédure, Reddition de compte, Rente constituée, Répétition de l'indu, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Substitution, Testament, Travaux publics, Usure, Vente, Vente à réméré.

INTÉRIEUR

LOI

1. Le ministère de l'Intérieur a l'administration des territoires du Nord-Ouest et du Yukon, ainsi que de toutes les terres de la Couronne appartenant au Canada. S. R. C., ch. 54.

Il a encore sous son contrôle toutes les Réserves forestières, ch. 56; les terrains de l'Artillerie et de l'Amirauté, ch. 58; l'Irrigation dans les provinces de l'ouest, ch. 61.

INTERVENTION

Déf.—C'est l'acte de procédure incident par lequel un tiers demande à former partie d'un procès ou d'une instance déjà engagée pour faire adjuger sur ses droits par le même juge et le même jugement.

V. Procédure.

INVENTAIRE

Déf.—C'est une énumération écrite, article par article, des biens, meubles, titres et papiers qu'une personne, société, corporation ou succession, faite comme mesure conservatoire et pour renseigner les intéressés. Les formalités de la confection de l'inventaire sont prescrites par le C. p. c. 1387 et s.

ÉCRITS

1. Clôture.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 7 R. Not., 303.

2. Clôture d'inventaire en justice.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 10 R. Not., 262.

LOIS

3. Clôture.—"Les inventaires clos en justice par les protonotaires de la cour Supérieure, les greffiers de la cour de Circuit, et leurs députés, depuis l'entrée en vigueur des Statuts Refondus, sont déclarés l'avoir été validement, et pouvoir est conféré pour l'avenir à ces officiers de clore les inventaires en justice dans les cas où cette formalité est requise, comme si la section 23 du chapitre 78 des Statuts Refondus pour le Bas-Canada était encore en vigueur." 59 Vict., ch. 46; S. R. Q., vol. 4, p. 606.

V. Communauté, Enregistrement, Exécuteur testamentaire, Inscription en droit, Interdiction, Succession, Usufruit.

J

JÉSUITE

1. Biens des Jésuites.—L'Acte relatif au règlement de la question des "Biens des Jésuites" est aux S. R. Q., compl. vol. III, p. 119.

V. Droit constitutionnel.

JEU ET PARI

Déf.—Le jeu est un contrat aléatoire par lequel une personne s'engage à payer à une autre une somme d'argent ou à lui donner un objet quelconque si ce dernier est le gagnant à un exercice basé sur l'adresse ou le hasard. Lusus est peractam facti delectabilis quandoque virtutis gratia parati, quandoque lucri, quandoque voluptatis tantùm, cessatio a negotiis. De ludo, Caccialupus, tit. 7.

Le pari est un contrat aléatoire qui consiste dans l'engagement de payer une somme d'argent ou de donner un objet ou de faire une chose déterminée, suivant que tel fait, telle circonstance ou tel avènement inconnu arrivera ou n'arrivera pas. C. c., 1927.

La loi dénie l'action basée sur ces contrats, à moins qu'il ne s'agisse d'exercices propres au developpement de l'habileté dans l'usage des armes, ainsi qu'à l'égard des courses à cheval ou à pied, ou autres jeux licites qui tendent à l'adresse et à l'exercice du corps." C. c., 1928.

INDEX

Avis..... 28
Billlet promissoire, 8, 13 et s., 29, 49 et s.
Bourse... 2 et s., 60 et s.
"Bucket shop," 8, 29, 32 et s.
Chèque..... 4
Club..... 50
Commission, 5, 18, 22 et s.
Connaissance d'office. 54
Consignation.....44 et s.
Contrat, 1 et s., 51 et s., 53, 56 et s.
Course de bateaux.... 33
Course de chevaux, 34 et s.
Courtier, 4 et s., 7, 9 et s., 16 et s., 22 et s., 28, 30
Créancier..... 40
Dépense..... 5
Dépôt de l'enjeu...37 et s.
Dette naturelle..... 14
Dommage..... 9
Election parlementaire 48
Endossement..... 50
Femme mariée..... 2
Frais..... 17
Gage.....11 et s.
Jeu de cartes.....58 et s.
Lettre de change..... 49
Livraison, 4, 7, 9 et s., 16, 19 et s., 21 et s., 61
Loterie.....51 et s.
Mandat..... 10
Marge, 3 et s., 18, 26 et s., 31 et s.
Novation..... 14
Paiement, 39, 43 et s., 46 et s.
Pari.....33 et s., 48
Prêt, 3, 20, 35, 58 et s.
Propriété de l'enjeu, 42, 47
Répétition de l'indu, 11 et s., 43, 47, 51
S.a. après jugement... 40
Société de construction 52
Tiers..... 37 et s., 46, 49
Vente.....51, 55, 60 et s.

ÉCRITS

1. Contrat.—Gambling contracts. 4 L. N., 1881, p. 337.

2. Bourse.—La femme séparée de biens qui joue à la bourse, spécule, se livre à la plus dangereuse des spéculations. Ce n'est pas là ce que la loi permet, elle peut aliéner, elle ne peut pas jouer. 5 R. L., n. s., 106.

JURISPURDENCE

3. Bourse.—Action to recover money advanced by plaintiff for the purchase of pork in the Chicago market for defendant through a firm there. Defendants pleaded that all their dealings with plaintiff were gambling transactions on margin, no property passing: The plaintiff was only an agent and not a party to a gambling transaction, and ought therefore to recover money so advanced by him. S. C., 1878, Montreal, Jones vs Shea et al., 1 L. N., 163.

4. Where a person had transactions with a stock broker, for the purchase and sale of stocks on his account, and it was perfectly understood between the parties that the operations were fictitious, and that there would be no delivery of the stocks, but merely a settlement of the differences of price: This was a gambling transaction, and the consideration of a cheque given to the broker in the course of such transactions was illegal, and an action will not lie to recover the amount thereof. S. C., 1882, Montreal, Fenwick vs Ansell, 5 L. N., 290.—S. C., 1883, Montreal, Allison vs MacDougall, 27 J., 355; 6 L. N., 93.—S. C., 1889, Montreal, Russell vs Fenwick, 17 R. L., 675.

5. When a party employs a broker to sell pork, grain, stock, etc., for him on margin, he is bound to repay the broker for all expenses made in the execution of this mandate, and is also bound to pay the broker the usual commission for his services. S. C., 1885, Montreal, Denton and Co. vs Arpin, 29 J., 266.

6. Time bargains are not necessarily illegal, nor does the law refuse to enforce them, if they are made for serious transactions intended to be fulfilled, although it may happen, contrary to the expectation of the parties, that they are not really carried out as contemplated, but from unforeseen causes come to be settled by differences. But, if in contemplation of the parties, they are at their inception intended to be speculative transactions, to be settled by adjustment of prices according to the rise or fall of the market, and not by delivery of the subjects bought or sold, they become gambling transactions,and, under C. c. article 1927, there is no right of action for the recovery of money claimed thereunder.

7. Where brokers act for a person contracting as above to deliver grain at a future date (but without intention to make actual delivery) and the brokers, having full knowledge of the fictitious character of the transaction, disclose no purchaser or principal, they will be considered principals as regards the party contracting to deliver, and no action will lie by the brokers for the recovery of a deficiency upon the transaction. Q. B., 1886, Montreal, MacDougall et al. vs Demers, M. L. R., 2 Q. B., 170; 4 D. C. A., 380; 9 L. N., 202; 30 J., 168.—C. R., 1893, Montreal, Baldwin et al. vs Turnbull et al., Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 34; Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 402.

8. There is no right of action for the recovery of the amount of a promissory note given by the proprietor office, what is commonly termed as a "bucket shop" to a customer in settlement of speculative transactions between them, i. e. speculations on the rise and fall of prices of goods in stocks, without delivery of the things bought and sold. S. C., 1889, Montreal, Dalglish vs Bond, M. L. R., 7 S. C., 400; 15 L. N., 93.

9. Un client a droit de poursuivre en dommages son agent de change pour refus ou défaut de livrer des actions ou stocks que l'agent aurait achetés pour lui. Ces dommages consistent dans la différence des cours.

10. Le mandat est sévère et est un achat réel et sincère et non pas un jeu de bourse, lorsque le client a déjà acheté par le ministère du même agent des actions dont il a pris livraison; lorsqu'il a payé une marge de vingt pour cent sur les stocks réclamés, qui sont des stocks surs et peu variables, et lorsqu'il a offert de prendre possession en payant la balance du prix d'achat, intérêts et commission, quoique cette dernière offre n'eût été faite que seize mois après l'achat à la bourse. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Ritchie vs Barclay, 21 R. L., 421.

11. An action lies for the recovery of money deposited by the plaintiff in the hands of a broker, as "margin" for speculative stock transactions which were admittedly mere jeu de bourse, the money in question being the balance remaining in the broker's hands, as shown by the account rendered by him, after payment of all losses incurred in the transactions. The illicit nature of the debt to secure which a pledge is given, is not a ground which the pledgee can invoke as entitling him to retain the pledge, more especially where the pledge is given, as in the present case, to secure merely an eventual indebtedness, which, whether licit or illicit, has never existed, the event on which it was to come into existence not having occurred.

12. Reversed in Review: An action does not lie to recover from a broker a balance remaining in his hands, of money which was deposited with him by the plaintiff as "margin" or security against loss on transactions in stocks which were being carried on by the broker for the plaintiff, and which were admittedly mere fictitious or gaming contracts. S. C., 1892, Montreal, Pérodeau vs Jackson et al., Q. J. R., 2 S. C., 25; Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 364.

13. Un billet donné en règlement de différences de bourse plusieurs mois après que les opérations ont été terminées, n'en repose pas moins sur une cause illicite et est nul.

14. La dette de jeu ne constitue pas une dette naturelle pouvant servir de base à une obligation civile et, partant, cette dette n'est pas susceptible de novation. C. C., 1893, Montréal, Clerk vs Brais, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 181.

15. Article 1927 of the Canadian civil Code does not differ substantially from 8 and 9 Vict., ch. 109, sect. 18, and renders null and void all contracts by way of gaming and wagering; and a contract entered into merely for purposes of speculation is not a gaming contract within this article.

16. A broker was employed to make actual contracts of purchase and sale, in each case completed by delivery and payment, on behalf of a principal whose object was not investment but speculation: These were not gaming contracts within the meaning of the Code.

17. Costs of both parties directed to be paid by the successful appellant, special leave having been given to him under special circumstances notwithstanding the small amount at stake. P. C., 1895, Quebec, Forget vs Ostigny, 2 B. J. P. C., 192; L. R., 1895, App. Cas., 318; 72 L. T., 399; 64 L. J., n. s., 62; 43 W. L. R., 590; 18 L. N., 193; 21 R. L., 387; Q. J. R., 4 Q. B., 118; 11 R., 474.

18. Where a broker buys or sells stocks for a customer, on commission, and he has no interest in the contracts, he being entitled to the same commission whether the market rises or falls, the fact that the customer merely buys on margin for purposes of speculation does not bring the transaction between the broker and the customer within the prohibition of the law as to gaming contracts. Q. B., 1897, Montreal, Stevenson vs Brais, Q. J. R., 7 Q. B., 77.

19. Pour qu'il y ait contrat de jeu, au sens de l'article 1927 du Code civil, il ne suffit pas qu'il ait été fait des achats à la bourse qui n'ont pas été suivis de livraison des effets achetés, mais il faut que, dès le moment de l'achat, il y ait eu entente entre les parties que telle livraison n'aurait jamais lieu.

20. Si une personne qui avance de l'argent à une autre sait qu'elle se propose de l'employer à jouer à la bourse, cela ne lui enlève pas le droit de se le faire rembourser, si elle-même n'a pas participé à ce jeu et n'a pas avancé l'argent pour le favoriser. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Venne vs Christin, R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 164.

21. Defendant instructed the plaintiffs to sell shares in a special stock for him, who asked for cover and defendant paid $600.00; no time was fixed for delivery; plaintiffs asked defendant for more as shares were rising, and finally called for $2,400.00, which defendants refused to pay. Plaintiffs then, as they alleged, purchased the shares to satisfy their own liability and sued for amount paid: As no stock was ever delivered or intended to be delivered, and as the intend was to make a profit from the fluctuations of the stock market, the transaction was illegal. Supr. C., 1901, British Columbia, British Columbia Stock Exchange Limited vs Irving, 4 C. L. R., 238.

22. Where a broker enters into a transaction on the Stock Exchange for the purchase or sale of goods on behalf of a customer, and the transaction takes place in the ordinary course of business, the broker's sole interest being his commission, he is entitled to recover from the customer the amount of the loss resulting from the operation.

23. The broker's claim is not restricted to the amount of margin in his hands, but, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, includes the entire loss.

24. A contract does not fall under the head of gaming contracts merely because it is entered into in furtherance of a speculation. It is a legitimate commercial transaction to buy a commodity in the expectation that it will rise in value, and with the intention of realizing a profit by its resale.

25. Where a real contract of purchase has been made and carried out by a broker on behalf of a principal, delivery of the goods to the broker by transfer of warehouse receipts is delivery to the principal, just as much as if it had been made directly to himself. C. R., 1903, Montreal, Morris vs Brault, Q. J. R., 23 S. C., 190; 4 C. L. R., 226; Q. J. R., 24 S. C., 167; 9 R. L., n. s., 379; 10 R. L., n. s., 136.

26. Les opérations de bourse qui ont pour objet l'achat de stock sur marge, sont des opérations licites et permises par la loi et ne peuvent être assimilées au jeu et au pari.

27. Les courtiers ne sont pas tenus de donner avis à leurs clients qu'ils vont vendre leurs stocks s'ils ne fournissent pas la marge pour couvrir les fluctuations subites du marché.

28. Une demande de marge par télégramme ne crée, quant aux courtiers, d'obligation de ne pas vendre le stock d'un client, qu'en autant que ce dernier a consenti à fournir la marge demandée, et a informé le courtier de son consentement à cet effet. C. S., 1904, Québec, Belleau et al. vs Lagueux, R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 91; 10 R. L., n. s., 543.

29. Un billet donné pour un prêt d'argent devant servir à tenir une maison connue sous le nom de bucket shop, dans laquelle le prêteur et porteur du billet devait avoir une part de bénéfices est nul et illégal, la considération du billet étant contraire à l'ordre public. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Allan vs Robert, 13 R. L., n. s., 132.

30. Brokers are entitled to be indemnified against loss in property in carrying out their customers' orders. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Pitblado et al. vs Rosenthal, 16 R. J., 185.

31. The sale of mining stocks on margin, in the expectation of a rise in the market price of that security, when there is no understanding between the broker and his client that the certificate will not be delivered, is not a gaming transaction which the law declared null.

32. The sale in this case was perfect although respondent, who was a broker and carried on mining operations on the Exchange, instead of buying for appellant shares on the Exchange sold him a certain number of shares which belonged to him. K. B., 1911, Montreal, Bennett vs Estes, 18 R. L., n. s., 165.

32a. Where parties entrust moneys to a financial agent for him to carry on imaginary speculations of every kind for their benefit, so as to yield them fantastic benefits, they are participants in illegal gaming contracts under article 1927 of the civil Code (Que.), hence the winners of the game have no action to recover their profits, nor the losers any action to recover the profits paid out, even if these were fictitious and in reality paid with their own (the losers) money.

32b. Where a so-called financial agent, who obtains money for investment in a blind pool under promises of 30 per cent. profit per month, becomes insolvent and absconds, and prior to his absconding, has paid out to some of the depositors fictitious profits out of the monies deposited with him by the mass, no action lies in favor of the curators named to the abandonment to recover these profits from the winner. K. B., 1912, Montreal, Wilks vs Matthews, 7 D. L. R., 395.

33. Course de bateau.—No action lies in law for the recovery of a bet made on a bateau race, as it does not come within the exception in article 1927 of the Civil code. S. C., 1877, Quebec, Wagner vs L'Hostie et al., 3 Q. L. R., 373; 1 L. N., 174.

34. Course de chevaux. — The betting on horse races by the owners of the horses is not illegal, and such bets could be enforced by actions. C. C., 1862, Quebec, Rickaby vs Sutliffe, 13 L. C. R., 320.

35. Une personne qui prête de l'argent à une autre pour lui permettre de faire un pari sur une course de chevaux a droit d'action pour recouvrer ce montant, ces sortes de paris n'enlevant pas le droit d'action. C. M., 1889, Montréal, Bow vs Legault, 13 L. N., 241.

36. Le pari pour courses de chevaux ne donne pas droit d'action pour le recouvrement de deniers ou autres choses pariées. C. R., 1890, Québec, Swift vs Angers et al., 16 R. J. Q., 163; 13 L. N., 340.

37. Dépôt de l'enjeu.—L'article 1927 du Code civil qui refuse le droit d'action pour le recouvrement de deniers réclamés en vertu d'un pari, ne déclare pas ces contrats illégaux.

38. Le dépôt des deniers, avant la décision du pari, entre les mains du porteur du gage équivaut au paiement en vue par l'article 192, et dans ce cas la partie perdante n'a aucun droit d'action pour recouvrer le montant déposé par elle, pourvu qu'il n'y ait pas de fraude. C. S., 1868, Montréal, McShane vs Jordan, 1 R. L., 89; 13 J., 61; 19 R. J. R. Q., 98, 575.

39. Lorsque dans un pari la somme d'argent pariée a été placée entre les mains d'un tiers, celui qui a gagné a droit d'action contre le tiers pour s'en faire remettre le montant, ce dépôt étant assimilé à un paiement. C. S., 1880, Montréal, Riendeau vs Blondin et al., M. L. R., 1 C. S., 406; 8 L. N., 331.

40. A judgment creditor has the right to seize in the hands of third parties the amount of bets which they have lost to the defendant on a horse race, and which they are ready and willing to pay. S. C., 1884, Montreal, McGibbon et al. vs Brand and Drury, et al., 7 L. N., 228.

41. Lorsqu'un pari est fait à la condition que les sommes pariées seront déposées entre les mains d'un tiers, le retrait de son enjeu par l'une des parties, met fin au pari et donne à l'autre le droit de recouvrer du dépositaire ce qu'elle avait elle-même déposé sur son enjeu.

42. Tant que le pari n'est par gagné par l'un des parieurs, la somme déposée en mains tierces ne cesse pas d'être la propriété du déposant et il peut la retirer. C. R., 1890, Québec, Swift vs Angers et al., 16 R. J. Q., 163; 13 L. N., 340.

43. After the election, when the money has been paid to the winner of the bet, the loser cannot recover from the stakeholder the amount deposited by him, the parties being in pari delicto, and the illegal act having been performed. Supr. C., 1894, Canada, Walsh vs Trebilcokes, 23 Supr. C. R., 695; 21 O. A. R., 55.

44. The deposit of the amount of a bet in the hands of a stakeholder is not equivalent to a conditional payment, and, when the bet is decided in favor of one of the parties, the money does not become his property, and an action brought by him against the stakeholder, claiming the amount of the bet, will not be maintained.

45. In the present case, the stakeholder, defendant, having brought the money into court, and the other party to the wager having intervened and also claimed the amount of the bet, with further conclusions, in any case, for the amount of his deposit, it was ordered that the plaintiff and the intervening party should severally be paid the amount of their deposits. Q. B., 1896, Montreal, Marcotte vs Perras, Q. J. R., 6 Q. B., 400.

46. Le dépôt de l'enjeu d'un pari entre les mains d'un tiers ne constitue pas une simple promesse de payer révocable, mais est un véritable paiement par anticipation, et sujet à la condition qui fait l'objet du pari.

47. Dès qu'elle se réalise, l'enjeu devient, par le fait même, la propriété du gagnant, et le déposant, qui perd, est sans recours pour le répéter, soit du gagnant, soit du tiers dépositaire. C. S., 1912, Québec, Marquis vs Canán, R. J. Q., 42 C. S., 132.

48. Election parlementaire.—Une gageure touchant le résultat d'une élection alors prochaine d'un membre du parlement, est illicite, illégale et nulle. C. C., 1859, Richelieu, Dufresne vs Guèvremont, 5 J., 278.

49. Lettre de change et Billet promissoire.—Un billet à ordre, consenti pour dette de jeu est nul, quoique transporté à un tiers de bonne foi et avant échéance. C. C., 1863, Ste-Scholastique, Biroleau vs Drouin, 7 J., 128; 12 R. J. R. Q., 96.

50. Est nulle et illégale l'obligation résultant de l'endossement d'un billet signé par le gérant d'un club, pour garantir l'emploi d'une somme d'argent à lui remise par ce club pour faciliter le change pour le jeu de cartes et les consommations du club. C. R., 1899, Montréal, Le Club Canadien vs Jacotel et al., R. J. Q., 16 C. S., 312.

51. Loterie.—A deed of sale, in execution of a lottery is invalid, and the purchase money cannot be recovered. Q. B., 1843, Quebec, Dame Ferguson et al. vs Scott, 2 R. de L., 305; 2 R. J. R. Q., 243.

52. A building society distributed lots of land by a tirage au sort, which was a secondary or subordinate element in its constitution: Held, Not to be a lottery, and not in violation of C. S. C., ch. 93 or 1927 C. c. C. C., 1877, Montreal, La Société de Construction du Coteau St-Louis vs Villeneuve, 21 J., 309; 1 L. N., 214.

53. A contract in connection with a scheme for the operation of a lottery forbidden by the criminal statutes of Canada is unlawful and cannot be enforced in a court of justice.

54. The illegality which vitiates such a contract cannot be waived or condoned by the conduct or pleas of the party against whom it is asserted and it is the duty of the courts, ex mero motu, to notice the nullity of such contracts at any stage of the case and without pleading. Supr. C., 1900, Canada, Association St-Jean-Baptiste de Montréal vs Brault, 30 Supr. C. R., 598; 31 Supr. C. R., 172; 1 Q. P. R., 302; Q. J. R., 12 Q. B., 124.

55. La vente d'immeubles dans le but, concerté entre le vendeur et l'acheteur, d'organiser une loterie et d'en disposer en les faisant tirer au sort par le public, est radicalement nulle et inexistante, étant simulée entre les parties, accessoirement, dans le dessein principal de commettre un acte prohibé par la loi. Elle ne peut donc être opposée à une vente légale, subséquente, consentie à un tiers. C. S., 1912, Montréal, Bédard vs The Phœnix Land Improvement Co. et al., R. J. Q., 42 C. S., 1. (Conf. en C. R., déc. 1912 et portée en C. Supr.)

56. Nature du contrat.—A contract, in order to be a gaming transaction, must be so in the intention of both the parties to it.

57. The intention to gamble of one of them, even though known to the other, does not alter the nature of the contract. C. R., 1905, Montreal, Brosseau vs Bergevin, Q. J. R., 27 S. C., 510.

58. Prêt.—Un prêt d'argent fait par une personne qui a cessé de jouer, à un des joueurs qui continue, peut être recouvré en loi. Toute personne qui n'est pas intéressée dans le jeu est considérée comme tiers auquel l'article 1927 C. c. ne s'applique pas. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Amesse vs Latreille, 7 L. N., 326.

59. Mais une personne tenant une maison de jeu et qui ayant quelque intérêt au jeu, prête à une de ses pratiques jouant aux cartes pour de l'argent, dans son établissement et sous ses yeux, une somme qu'elle sait être destinée au jeu, n'a pas d'action en justice pour le recouvrement de cette somme. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Eager vs Lajeunesse, 8 L. N., 190.

60. Vente.—Where to a conservatory attachment of 1000 barrels of flour sold to the defendant by the plaintiff and prayer for condemnation to the payment of the price thereof, the defendant pleaded that the sale had been made in January for delivery in all the month of May following, and such sale was a gambling transaction: Such an exception was wholly unfounded in law, and dismissed the plea. S. C., 1861, Montreal, Baldwin vs Binmore et al., 6 J., 297; 10 R. J. R. Q., 365.

61. A sale of goods for future delivery admittedly made without any intention on the part of the seller to deliver, or on the part of the purchaser to receive delivery of, and on the understanding that the parties should settle with each other at the period fixed for delivery by the one party paying to the other the difference between the price of sale and that which might prevail at the period fixed for delivery, is a mere gambling transaction and therefore illegal, null and void. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Shaw vs Carter, 26 J., 151.

V. Composition et décharge, Mandat, Obligation, Répétition de l'indu.

JEUNE DÉLINQUANT

LOIS

1. La "Loi des jeunes délinquants, 1907," a pour objet d'éviter aux enfants de moins de 16 ans, arrêtés pour une offense quelconque, le contact des criminels ordinaires et pour les soumettre à une surveillance, à un traitement et à un contrôle éclairés tendant à réprimer leurs inclinations mauvaises et à affermir leurs meilleurs instincts. Les lois qui les concernent et toutes les mesures nécessaires pour remplir l'objet ci-dessous se trouvent dans 7-8 Ed. VII (F.), ch. 40 (1908); 2 Geo. V (F.), ch. 30 (1912).

2. Pouvoirs des contribuables.—"Tout contribuable d'une municipalité peut faire amener devant deux juges de paix, ou un magistrat, ou un coroner, ou le shérif ou le protonotaire du district, tout enfant âgé de pas plus de quatorze ans qui est orphelin, ou orphelin de père ou de mère, si le survivant tient une mauvaise conduite ou est condamné à la prison ou au pénitencier pour offense criminelle, ou tout enfant qui, à raison de la négligence, l'ivrognerie ou autres vices de ses parents, de son gardien ou de la personne chez qui il réside, est élevé sans éducation et sans aucun contrôle salutaire ou dans des circonstances qui l'exposent à mener une vie de paresse et de désordre, ou tout enfant qui mène une vie de vagabondage ou est trouvé errant à des heures indues ou est sans abri et paraît délaissé ou abandonné, ou tout enfant qui est habituellement battu ou traité cruellement par ses parents ou par les personnes chez qui il réside, ou tout enfant qui, par le fait qu'il est infirme ou qu'il n'a ni tuteur ni aucun parent en ligne directe capable ou digne d'en prendre soin, est exposé à vagabonder ou à mourir de faim." S. R. Q., art. 4031; 3 Geo. V, ch. 39.

3. Pouvoirs des parents.—"Lorsque le père ou la mère, le beau-père ou la belle-mère, le tuteur ou un parent d'un enfant, ou la personne qui en a la charge ou le soin, représente sous serment à deux juges de paix ou à un magistrat que cet enfant déserte ou abandonne, ou qu'il a déserté ou abandonné le toit de la personne qui en a le contrôle sans permission ou sans raison suffisante, ou qu'il désobéit habituellement à toute demande légitime et raisonnable de ses parents ou de la personne qui en a le soin ou la garde, ou qu'il se livre habituellement à la paresse, ou qu'il est incontrôlable ou incorrigible, ou qu'il se sert habituellement d'un langage obscène ou indécent, ou qu'il se conduit d'une manière immorale, et qu'il désire que cet enfant soit envoyé à une école d'industrie certifiée, les juges de paix ou le magistrat doivent s'enquérir de ces faits et, s'ils sont convaincus qu'il est nécessaire que l'enfant soit placé dans une école d'industrie, ils peuvent l'y envoyer pour le temps jugé nécessaire." S. R. Q., art. 4036; 3 Geo. V, ch. 39.

JOURNALIER

Déf.—Un journalier, dans le sens de la loi, est celui qui n'ayant aucun métier, est engagé à la journée pour faire tous les ouvrages de peine. La loi lui accorde un privilège pour son salaire. C. c., arts 2009, 2013 et s.

V. Insaisissabilité, Louage d'ouvrage, Privilège.

JOURNAUX

LOIS

1. Déclaration.—"Nul ne doit imprimer ou publier, ni ne doit faire imprimer ou publier, dans la province, un journal, un pamphlet ou autre papier contenant des nouvelles publiques, ou servant aux mêmes fins qu'un journal, ou aux fins d'être affiché ou répandu en feuilles détachées comme un journal, avant qu'une déclaration sous serment, ou une affirmation faite et signée en la manière indiquée plus bas, et contenant les particularités mentionnées ci-dessous, ait été délivrée au greffier de la paix, pour le district où s'imprime ou se publie tel journal, pamphlet ou autre papier." S. R. Q., art. 3699.

Tout ce qui concerne le contenu de la déclaration, son renouvellement, son dépôt, la pénalité pour défaut de faire cette déclaration, et les autres formalités se trouvent aux S. R. Q., arts 3700 à 3712.

Cette déclaration est déposée chez le greffier de la paix du district où est imprimé ou publié le journal. La pénalité est de $20.00.

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Annonce. — A contract between a newspaper proprietor and a customer, for 12,000 lines of advertising to be furnished within a year, based upon a price of four cents a line for advertising if the conditions of the contract as to prompt payment, etc., be strictly complied with by the customer, and of fifteen cents per line in case of failure to comply with such conditions, is an alternative contract, and where the customer makes default to comply with the conditions, the other party is entitled to recover the higher alternative rate for the work actually done. Article 1076 C. c. does not apply to such case, the claim not being based upon the enforcement of a penalty but upon the application of a condition. K. B., 1902, Montréal, Berthiaume vs Kent; Q. J. R., 11 K. B., 312.

3. Déclaration.—That portion of chapter 11, C. S. L. C., which relates to the affidavits to be made by persons publishing newspapers, and to the penalties to be incurred in default of making such affidavits, is repealed by 40 Vict., (Que.), ch. 15, and amending Acts, as being inconsistent therewith. C. C., 1887, Sherbrooke, Pijon vs Compagnie Typographique des Cantons de l'Est, 10 L. N., 364.

4. Souscription.—Action was brought for the recovery of three years' subscription to a newspaper, but no proof was made that the paper had ever been ordered by the defendant, although it was received by him from the carrier: It was held that the plaintiff could not recover. C. C., 1588, Montreal, Parsons et al. vs Kelly, 2 J., 275; 7 R. J. R. Q., 30.—Contra: S. C., 1858, Montréal, Briston vs Johnston, 2 J., 275; 7 R. J. R. Q., 29. See V. Juridiction, Libelle, Louage d'ouvrage, Obligation, Responsabilité.

JUDICATUM SOLVI

V. Cautionnement pour frais.

JUGE ET MAGISTRAT

Déf.—Termes génériques par lesquels on désigne les personnes chargées d'administrer la justice. On appelle plus spécialement juges ceux qui siègent dans les tribunaux; et magistrats, ceux qui sont, de quelque manière que ce soit, revêtus de l'autorité publique, à l'exception des officiers ministériels et des agents de la force publique.

INDEX

Action "qui tam".... 11
Animosité..... 19
Avis d'action..... 33
Certificat de licence.... 31
"Certiorari".....17 et s..
Commissaire de la paix 6
Conseiller municipal, 28 et s.
Constable.....7 et s.
Coroner..... 7
Corporation municipale, 20, 22, 28 et s.
Corruption..... 8
Dépense de constable 8
Déqualification.....9 et s.
Dommage à la propriété 21
Dossier..... 46
Enquête préliminaire, 35, 51
Enquête publique.... 14
Expression d'opinion. 12
Frais.....30, 49
Hôtelier..... 20
Immunité..... 34
Incompatibilité..... 3a
Juge conjoint.....35 et s.
Juge "de facto"..... 27
Juge de paix, 4, 16, 21 et s., 27 et s., 44, 52, 56
Juge (Le) doit-il juger suivant la loi?..... 1
Jugement.....41 et s.
Juge suppléant.....38 et s.
Juridiction, 5, 28 et s., 33, 35 et s., 48 et s.
Loi des licences, 23 et s., 31 et s., 43
Lois.....3 et s.
Maladie.....38 et s.
"Mandamus"....44 et s.
Mandat.....39 et s.
Mandat d'emprisonnement..... 51
Mercuriales d'Agueseau 2
Milice canadienne.... 52
Mise en demeure..... 47
Parenté.....9, 25
Pénalité..... 53
Préjudice.....53a et s.
Présance..... 54
Présomption..... 55
Preuve.....8, 18, 21
Procès..... 33
Prohibition, 14, 29, 43
Récusation.....5a, 9 et s.
Règlement municipal, 5
Religion..... 13
Résidence..... 56
Révision..... 50
Société..... 11
Société de tempérance 23 et s.

ÉCRITS

1. Le juge doit-il juger suivant la loi? Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 13 R. Not., 321. Autre article écrit par B. A. T. DeMontigny. La Thémis, 161.

2. Réflexions sur les mercuriales de d'Aguesseau.—M. Dreaux. 7 R. L., n. s., 293.

LOIS

3. Les juges quant à leur salaire, autres rétributions et frais de voyage, ainsi que pour leur pension sont soumis à la "Loi des juges." S. R. C., ch. 138; 6-7 Ed. VII, ch. 25, (1907); 7-8 Ed. VII, (F.), ch. 39. (1908), 8-9 Ed. VII, (F.), ch. 21, (1909); 9-10, Ed. VII, (F.), ch. 35, (1910); 2 Geo. V, (F.), ch. 29, (1912); 3-4 Geo. V, (F.), ch. 28, (1913).

3a. Incompatibilité.—"Aucun juge de la cour suprême du Canada, de la cour de l'Echiquier du Canada, non plus que d'une cour Supérieure ni d'une cour de comté du Canada, ne peut se livrer ni directement ni indirectement, en qualité de directeur ou gérant de corporation, de compagnie ou de maison d'affaires, non plus qu'en aucune autre manière, pour lui-même ou au compte d'autres personnes, à une occupation ou affaire autre que ses fonctions judiciaires; mais chacun de ces juges est tenu de se consacrer exclusivement à ses fonctions judiciaires. S. R." C., ch. 138, art. 33.

3b. "Aucun juge des sessions de la paix, aucun magistrat de police, ou aucun magistrat de district ne peut se livrer ni directement, ni indirectement en qualité de directeur ou gérant de corporation, de compagnie ou de maison d'affaires, non plus qu'en aucune autre manière, pour lui-même ou au compte d'autres personnes, à une occupation ou affaire autre que ses fonctions judiciaires, mais chacun d'eux est tenu de se consacrer ex-

clusivement à ses fonctions judiciaires." S. R. Q., art. 3383.

4 Juge de paix.—"Les juges de paix sont nommés par le lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil pour un certain district ou pour toute la province de Québec. Tout ce qui est relatif à leur nomination, à leur qualification, à leurs pouvoirs, à leurs devoirs, aux registres qu'ils doivent tenir, à leurs greffiers, huissiers et constables, sont aux S. R. Q., arts 3333 à 3403.

5. Juridiction.—"Chaque fois que le lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil nomme, par commission émise sous le grand sceau, des personnes ayant qualité pour être juges de paix dans et pour un district de la province, ces personnes possèdent et exercent tous les pouvoirs, autorité, droits et privilèges, et sont soumis à tous les devoirs, obligations et responsabilités imposés par la loi aux juges de paix." S. R. Q., art. 3351.

Tout juge de paix pour un district possède juridiction dans tous les cas auxquels s'appliquent les règlements de chaque municipalité de ce district. Art. 3366.

"Chaque juge de paix de la province doit tenir, dans un registre qu'il se procure à cet effet, de vraies et fidèles minutes ou mémoires au long, de toutes les condamnations prononcées par lui." Art. 3367.

5a. Récusation.—"L'intérêt qu'un juge peut avoir dans l'issue d'une poursuite, dans laquelle est partie une compagnie d'assurance mutuelle contre le feu, existant dans cette province, ou une compagnie formée conformément aux dispositions de la section 2, à raison de sa qualité de membre de cette compagnie, n'est pas une cause suffisante de récusation." S. R. Q., art. 7026.

JURISPRUDENCE

6. Commissaire de la paix.—The words "Commissioners of the Peace and Justices of the Peace," as used in our statute book are synonimous. Session hebdomadaire, Quebec, Falconbridge vs Tourangeau, 2 R. de L., 188.

7. Constable.—Une commission de constable accordée par un juge de paix à une personne aux termes de l'article 2587 des Statuts Refondus de Québec, ne confère à cette personne le droit d'exécuter que les ordres du juge de paix même qui accorde telle commission.

8. Dans l'espèce, le demandeur ayant fait des déboursés, pas et démarches à la réquisition du défendeur lui-même, a droit à une compensation raisonnable comme valeur de tels déboursés et pas et démarches. C. C., 1894, L'Assomption, Normandeau vs Desjardins, R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 354.

9. Coroner.—A coroner is not a justice within the meaning of article 687 criminal Code. Q. B., 1898, Montreal, Regina vs Graham, Q. J. R., 8 Q. B., 167; 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 388.

10. Corruption.—Evidence of corrupt motive must be adduced in order to obtain leave to exhibit a criminal information against a justice of the peace for malfeasance of office. Supr. C., 1906, Nova Scotia, The King vs Currie, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 343.

11. Déqualification et récusation.—The opinions of two members of the court, in the degree of relationship of brothers-in-law, cannot be reckoned as one under the Edict of 1681, and the declaration of the King of France of 1708. K. B., 1825, Montreal, Fleming vs Seminary of Montreal, S. R. C., 184.

11a. On the question whether the appointment of Mr. Justice Caron as commissioner under 20 Vict., ch. 43, had rendered him incompetent to sit as one of the judges of the court, the court was divided in opinion. Q. B., 1859, Montreal, Competency of the Court, 5 J., 79.

11b. Un juge qui fait partie d'une société dont les membres sont poursuivis par des actions qui tam pour avoir négligé de faire enregistrer la déclaration exigée par la loi et qui met au dossier un écrit constatant qu'il avait été partie à l'acte de société, mais qu'il avait cessé d'être intéressé avant l'institution des actions, ne peut être récusé de siéger dans ces actions. C. C., 1867, Montreal, Leclerc qui tam vs Bilodeau, 12 J., 20; 4 L. C. L. J., 42; 17 R. J. R. Q., 206, 567.

12. Where a judge had, in a similar suit between the same parties, and in another court, expressed his opinion and delivered judgment in accordance therewith, on the pretensions of the parties, which pretensions were to be urged in the second case: He should refrain from sitting. Q. B., 1869, Montreal, Hall vs Brigham, 13 J., 252; 18 R. J. R. Q., 105.

13 Roman Catholic judges, in cases involving the right of the civil power to entertain an appeal in the nature of an appel comme d'abus, cannot be recused on the ground that they acknowledge the Roman authority. C. P., 1874, Quebec, Brown vs Les Curés et Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et de la Fabrique de la paroisse de Montréal, 17 J., 89; 20 J., 228;

2 R. L., 257; 6 R. L., 378; 1 R. C., 107, 477; 3 R. C., 471; 6 L. R., P. C., A., 157; 44 L. J. P. C., 1; 21 R. J. R. Q., 169; 1 B. J. P. C., 142, 191, 207, 547, 616.

14. Certain charges having been preferred against a county court judge, a commission was issued under the great seal of Canada, reciting the facts and the provisions of 22 Geo. III, ch. 75 (Imp.), and directing the commissioners to examine into the charges, and for that purpose to summon witnesses and require them to give evidence on oath and produce papers; and to report thereupon. The inquiry proceeded, and a motion was made for a prohibition: Inquiries under the Imperial Act should be made before the Governor-General in council, and the authority could not be delegated, nor inquiry upon oath authorized by commission.

15. The commission could not be supported at common law, for it created a court for hearing and inquiring into offences without determining. Q. B., 1882, Ontario, In re Squier, 46 U. C.R., 474.

16. Les dispositions du Code de procédure civile indiquant la manière de récuser les juges ne s'appliquent pas aux juges de paix, contre lesquels il n'y a aucune loi qui règle leur récusation.

17. La récusation des juges de paix ne peut être obtenue qu'en amenant la cause sous la juridicition de la cour Supérieure par un bref de certiorari ou par un bref de prohibition.

18. Pour que la récusation soit obtenue il faut faire la preuve par écrit des faits de récusation reprochés, la preuve par témoins n'étant pas admise; et l'affidavit de circonstances dans un certiorari n'est pas une preuve suffisante. C. S., 1885, Iberville, Morier vs Loupret et Rév. Tassé, 8 L. N., 411.

19. The defendant was convicted of having unlawfully assaulted the complainant, who was the daughter of the convicting justice, where the only evidence was, that the defendant had, in company with one Spragge, gone to the compalinant's house, at about the hour of ten o'clock p. m., and Spragge had knocked at the door and told the complainant that he desired to introduce the defendant, whereupon the complainant replied that they had come to insult her, and that she would have them both arrested in the morning: It was improper for the justice to sit and try the case, the complainant being his daughter; and this was a good ground for quashing the conviction. Q. B., 1888, Ontario, Regina vs Langford, 15 O. R., 52.

20. The fact that a justice of the peace holds a license as a saloon-keeper within the limits of a municipality, does not disqualify him to preside at the trial of a case brought by the corporation of the municipality under the provisions of municipal by-laws. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Corporation du village de la Côte St-Paul vs Steel and Latour, Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 315.

21. Lorsque, dans une plainte portée devant un juge de paix, en vertu des articles 5551 et suivants, des S. R. P. Q., concernant les dommages à la propriété, le juge de paix a été récusé par les défendeurs, c'est à ceux-ci à faire la preuve des faits énoncés dans leur récusation, et cela même devant le juge de paix récusé, sauf à ensuite porter appel ou à se pourvoir par prohibition, si le juge de paix persiste à siéger, les dispositions du Code de procédure civile quant à la récusation ne s'appliquant pas dans l'espèce.

22. Il n'est pas nécessaire qu'une semblable poursuite soit prise tant au nom du plaignant que de la corporation municipale C. S., 1897, Montréal, Guertin vs Beauchemin et al., R. J. Q., 18 C. S., 316.

23. Justices of the peace, who belong to an association (a temperance alliance) of which the president is the party prosecuting, and to which association any fine to be imposed upon the accused for the offence against the liquor law with which he is charged would be paid under resolution of the municipal council, are disqualified from trying the charge, and will be prevented by a writ of prohibition from so doing.

24. The fact that between the time when the information was received by such justices and the hearing of the charge, the justices had withdrawn from the association does not validate the proceedings. S. C., 1898, Bedford, Daigneault vs Emerson et al., Q. J. R., 20 S. C., 310; 5 Can. Cr. Cas., 534.

25. Le fait que l'une des parties est mariée à la sœur de la femme du juge n'est pas une cause valable de récusation du juge.

26. Le juge qui est récusé dans une cause peut, lorsqu'en fait la récusation n'est pas fondée, et qu'elle paraît faite dans le but de retarder la décision de la cause, ou pour essayer de la soustraire à son juge légitime, rejeter lui-même la récusation et passer outre, surtout s'il s'agit de procédures spéciales qui requièrent célérité. C. S., 1898, Chicoutimi,

Truchon vs Ville de Chicoutimi et Lemieux, 6 R. J., 101.

27. Un juge de paix qui exerce de bonne foi ses fonctions, est compétent à agir de facto, bien qu'il n'ait pas rempli toutes les formalités relatives à sa qualification. C. S., 1898, Sweetsburg, Hogle vs Rockwell et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 309.

28. Un juge de paix ex-officio (comme conseiller municipal d'une ville incorporée) doit s'abstenir de siéger et peut être valablement récusé, lors de l'instruction sommaire d'une plainte qui a été portée contre un individu en conformité d'une résolution passée par le conseil sur motion de ce conseiller lui-même.

29. Si, nonobstant cette récusation, ce juge de paix persiste à siéger et à procéder sur la plainte, il y aura lieu au bref de prohibition contre lui, ainsi que l'autre juge de paix qui a commencé l'instruction avec lui, la déqualification du premier empêchant le dernier de procéder seul.

30. Les juges de paix et autres magistrats ne peuvent être condamnés aux dépens ès-qualités. C. S., 1900, Terrebonne, Piché vs Guénette et al., 6 R. J., 370; 1 R. P. Q., 470.

31. Signing a petition against the granting of a liquor license to the accused, is not a ground of disqualification of the magistrate subsequently trying the accused for an offence under the liquor license law. Supr. C., 1907, New Brunswick, Ex parte Van Buskirk, 13 Can. Cr. Cas., 234.

32. The fact that an action was brought by the deceased husband of the accused against the same magistrate for damages in respect of the execution of a search warrant under a liquor law and that the case has not been disposed of, will not disqualify the magistrate from trying a charge laid against the widow for infraction of a liquor law, if the husband's action has not been received and there has been a long delay in which no proceedings were taken in the action. Supr. C., 1908, New Brunswick, Ex parte McCleave, 14 Can. Cr. Cas., 18.

33. Where a preliminary notice of action against the magistrate has been served with notice in good faith by the accused, it is inexpedient that he should try a subsequent charge against the accused while the civil proceedings are pending, whether or not the notice operated as a legal disqualification. Supr. C., 1809, Nova Scotia, The King Lorrimer, 14 Can. Cr., Cas., 430.

33a. In the administration of justice whether by a recognized legal court, or by persons who, although not a legal court, are acting in a similar capacity, public policy requires that, in order that there should be no doubt about the purity of the administration, no person who is to take part in it should be in such a position that he might be suspected of being biased. In order to disqualify a magistrate from acting, on the ground of bias, it is not necessary to shew that he is in fact biased, but only that he is in such a position that he might be biased.

33b. No judicial officer should make a bargain in regard to anything connected with the administration of his judicial office.

33c. One who is appointed stipendiary magistrate by a municipality at annual salary, on the condition that he shall try all cases under the Canada Temperance Act, and shall make monthly reports, returns and payments to and for the use of the municipality of all fines, penalties and forfeitures collected by him as such magistrate on account of such cases, is disqualified from hearing a prosecution under the Act, inasmuch as there is a reasonable apprehension that he may be biased. Supr. C., 1912, Nova Scotia, The King vs Woodroof, 22 Can. Cr. Cas., 17.

34. Immunité. — The conditions imposed as a term of quashing a justice's order under Code section 891, is one which the applicant may accept or reject on the delivery of judgment, and, if it be rejected, the court may dismiss the application with costs although it finds that the justice exceeded his jurisdiction. H. C., 1906, Ontario, The King vs Morningster, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 15.

35. Juges conjoints.—When an accused person is summoned to appear before a justice of the peace having jurisdiction to conduct the proceedings without associate justices, other justices of the peace are not entitled to interfere in the preliminary enquiry or summary trial, or to be associated with the summoning justice, except at the latter's request.

36. A summary conviction by the magistrate who summoned the accused and heard the charge will be supported, although three other magistrates attended the hearing and purported to dismiss the charge, if the latter magistrates sat without the request or consent of the summoning magistrate. H. C., 1897, Ontario, The Queen vs McRae, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 49.

37. Where a single justice of the peace has authority to try a charge, he may ask other justices to sit with him and a conviction made by all of them jointly is valid. C. A., 1906, Ontario, The King vs Leconte, 11 Can. Cr. Cas., 41.

38. Juge suppléant.—A justice of the peace acting in the illness or absence or at the request of a police magistrate should be designated as so acting, in warrants or other process, otherwise the latter will be invalid.

39. A warrant signed by a justice of the peace so acting, in which he is described as "police magistrate," is void.

40. The initials "J.P." following the signature of the person presuming to issue a warrant is not a sufficient description of such person as a justice of the peace for the city or county in which the warrant purports to have been issued. C. Gen. Sess., 1892, Ontario, The Queen vs Lyons, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 218.

41. Jugement.—Lorsque deux ou plusieurs juges de paix ont instruit une cause, ils doivent tous concourir pour la juger. C. S., 1864, Montréal, St-Gemmes vs Cherrier, 9 J., 22; 13 R. J. R. Q., 499; 14 R. J. R. Q., 78.

42. In a case heard before three justices of the peace, judgment may be rendered by two. S. C, 1865, Arthabaska, Trowley vs Côté, 9 J., 169; 14 R. J. R. Q., 78.

43. Loi des licences de Québec.—Une poursuite pour contravention à la loi des Licences de Québec, de 1878, ne peut être entendue et jugée par trois juges de paix, et sur un bref de prohibition, la sentence ou conviction rendue par trois juges de paix sera annulée et mise à néant. C. S., 1885, Kamouraska, Beaulieu vs Le Bel, et al., 12 R. L., 24; 8 L. N., 362; 11 R. J. Q., 281.

44. Mandamus.—Lorsqu'un ordre est donné par un juge de la cour Supérieure, à des juges de paix, leur ordonnant de suspendre certaines procédures, ces derniers en suspendant ces procédures, ne peuvent être considérés en défaut de remplir un devoir qui leur est imposé par la loi, et il n'y a pas lieu, en ce cas, d'émaner contre eux un bref de mandamus.

45. Lorsque plusieurs poursuites pendantes devant les mêmes juges de paix sont semblables, l'émanation d'un bref de mandamus, dans chacune de ces causes, sera considérée comme vexatoire, et la cour suspendra les procédures sur ces brefs, à l'exception d'un seul, jusqu'à ce qu'il soit adjugé sur la question. B. R., 1885, Québec, Caron et al. vs Lamontagne, 15 R. L., 641.

46. Des juges de paix saisis d'une cause sommaire, sous les dispositions du Code municipal, qui ont perdu le dossier, doivent dans un délai raisonnable rayer la cause du délibéré, et avertir les parties intéressées, à défaut, ils peuvent y être contraints par mandamus.

47 L'avertissement de la part du maire, la demande du secrétaire-trésorier et du procureur chargé du procès constituent une mise en demeure suffisante. C. S., 1889, Montréal, La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Raphael de l'Ile Bizard vs Trépanier et Antoine alias Wilson, 18 R. L., 156.

48. Les juges de paix saisis d'une plainte ne peuvent plus, après avoir entendu la preuve et ajourné la décision, se déclarer sans juridiction et refuser de décider la cause, sur le motif que les défendeurs avaient comparu et plaidé devant un autre magistrat, mort depuis, et n'avaient pas comparu de nouveau devant eux. Et s'ils refusent de rendre jugement sur la plainte, ils peuvent y être contraints par voie de mandamus.

49. Si la défense au mandamus met en question le droit au bref, ne permettant pas ainsi au requérant d'obtenir jugement sans preuve, les défendeurs doivent payer les frais rendus nécessaires par leur faute; et ce, nonobstant leur déclaration qu'ils s'en remettent à justice.

50. On ne doit pas, comme règle générale, réviser un jugement sur une question de frais, lorsque le juge paraît avoir usé d'une saine discrétion; mais, dans l'espèce, rien ne justifiait le refus au requérant de ses frais contre les défendeurs par le tribunal de première instance, et son jugement est modifié en conséquence. C. R., 1896, Québec, Lacerte vs Pepin et al., R. J. Q., 10 C. S., 542.

51. Mandat d'emprisonnement. — Where evidence on a preliminary inquiry is commenced before one justice of the pace and finished before two justices, a committal by the two is irregular unless both have heard all the evidence. Supr. C., 1899, British Columbia, In re Munn, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 429.

52. Milice canadienne. — Under ch. 31 Vict., ch. 40, sect. 27, which enacts that the active militia shall be liable to be called out to aid the civil power during riots or other emergencies, and authorizes two justices of the peace to call them out, payment for such services cannot be resisted by the municipality on the ground that there was no emergency which justified the justices of the peace in calling them out, S. C., 1876, Montreal, McKay vs The Mayor et al. of Montreal, 20 J., 221.

53. Pénalité.—Par l'article 872 du Code criminel, le juge de paix peut, par la conviction, pourvoir au mode de prélever le paiement de la pénalité si la loi n'y pourvoit pas. B. R., 1899, Ottawa, Beaulieu vs Lemery, 6 R. J., 199.

54. Préséance.—A judge of a district court was removed from that court to another court of appellate jurisdiction composed of some of the judges of the first court, and the letters patent appointing him judge of the latter court, also granted him precedence over the judges of that court, whose commissions were of later date than his own: Such grant of precedence was valid, as being within the prerogative of the Crown, and not an incident of office; therefore the judge had a right to rank and take precedence accordingly. P. C., 1849, Lower Canada, In re Justice Elzear Bédard, 1 B. J. P. C., 647; 7 Moore, 23; C. R., 1 A. C., 328.

55. Présomption.—Justices presuming to act as such in and for a county named will not be presumed to have acted as justices for the district in which the county is situate, and for which district they have been appointed. S. C., 1898, Ottawa, Ex parte Welsh, 2 Can. Cr. Cas., 35.

56. Résidence.—Dans l'espèce, la sommation assignant l'appelant à comparaître devant deux juges de paix du district de Montréal, sans indiquer la résidence de ces deux juges de paix, et la conviction ayant été prononcée par tels juges de paix, sans indication de leur résidence, cette assignation et cette conviction sont nulles, la compétence des juges de paix, aux termes de l'article 1042 C. m., dépendent de leur résidence qui doit être mentionnée. C. C., 1903, Montréal, Tourville vs La Corporation de la paroisse de St-François de Sales et Masson et al., R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 67; 9 R. L., n. s., 331.

V. Appel, Certiorari, Contrainte par corps, Droit criminel, Droit municipal, Juridiction, Prohibition, Loi des licences de Québec, Mandamus, Mépris de cour, Prescription, Procédure, Résidence, Responsabilité.

JUGEMENT

Déf.—Le mot "jugement" est un terme générique qui, en droit, comprend toutes les décisions des magistrats, des juges et des tribunaux.

On emploie le mot "verdict" pour signifier le jugement des jurés sur les questions de fait.

En droit criminel, la "sentence" est la prononciation de la peine infligée par le juge.

La pratique, en Droit anglais, est de désigner le jugement et la sentence sous le nom de conviction.

En France, les jugements des cours d'Appel et de la cour de Cassation prennent le nom "d'arrêts", ainsi qu'on nommait les jugements des cours Souveraines dans l'ancien droit.

INDEX

Action en révocation, 61 et s.
Adjudication subséquente 18
Amendement et correction 2 et s.
Appel 20 et s., 33, 63
Chose jugée 60
Conseil privé 25
Considérants 54
Contestation 26
Contrat "ultra vires" 27 et s.
Copie 29
Date 6, 9, 30
Décès des parties 31
Délai 23, 67 et s.
"De neminis non curat lex" 32
Description 5
Droits acquis 59 et s.
Erreur cléricale, 2, 5, 12, 16 et s., 19 et s., 45
Exécution 33 et s., 48
Falsification 39
Formalités 40
Frais 18 et s.
Inscription en faux 39
Interlocutoire 7, 41
Interprétation 42 et s.
Jeu et pari 36 et s.
Jour non juridique, 44 et s.
Juge en chambre 10
Jugement étranger, 36 et s.
Jugement "ultra petita" 45
Mari et femme 48
Minute 14, 39, 49
Montant du jugement 8, 50
Motifs 43, 53
Motion 55, 62
Opposition 52 et s.
Présomption 51
Procès-verbal 47
Prohibition 62
Publicité 1
Rature 39
Rédaction 52 et s.
Reddition de jugement 24
Registre 13, 56
Rejet sur motion 55
Renonciation 57 et s.
Réparation 35
Requête civile 30
Révision, 13, 15, 22, 55
Révocation 61 et s.
Signature 64 et s.
Signification 66 et s.
Transport 69

ÉCRIT

1. Publicité des jugements.—1 R. de L. 401.

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Amendement et correction.—It is a well settled principle of law that a judgment once rendered cannot be changed, nevertheless the Judicial committee can rectify any error which has been introduced in the redaction of a judgment. P. C., 1836, Bengal, Rajundernarani vs Bijai Gooind Sing, 1 B. J. P. C., 470; 1 Moore, 126.

3. A draft of judgment may legally be amended, even after the judgment has been pronounced, provided that it has not been registered. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Palsgrave vs Ross, and Ross and Palsgrave, 2 J., 95; 6 R. J. R. Q., 397.

4. Lorsqu'un jugement final a été rendu dans une cause, la cour ne peut intervenir ensuite pour le changer ou le modifier en aucune manière, sur motion ou autrement. C. S., 1859, Québec, Huot vs Pagé, 9 D. T. B.

C., 226; 7 R. J. R. Q., 208; 23 R. J. R. Q., 383. —C. S., 1859, Québec, Bertrand vs Gugy, 9 D. T. B. C., 260; 7 R. J. R. Q., 22; 23 R. J. R. Q., 383.

5. La cour corrigera une erreur cléricale dans le jugement, par laquelle erreur la désignation de l'immeuble dans le dit jugement est autre que la désignation dans la déclaration. B. R., 1861, Québec, Bilodeau vs Lefrançois, 12 D. T. B. C., 25; 10 R. J. R. Q., 35, 508, 519, 522; 16 R. J. R. Q., 219.

6. An error in the date upon which a judgment was rendered is not a ground of nullity in the judgment itself. Q. B., 1866, Richelieu, Naud vs Smith, 10 J., 217; 2 L. C. L. J., 59; 15 R. J. R. Q., 508; 22 R. J. R. Q., 284.

7. Un jugement interlocutoire entré par erreur peut être reformé. C. S., 1868, Montréal, Quintal vs Roy et al., 14 J., 57; 19 R. J. R. Q., 510, 559, 564.

8. Lorsque le jugement a été une fois prononcé à l'audience, il n'est plus au pouvoir du juge de le changer, sous aucun prétexte, de manière à augmenter le montant de la condamnation, et s'il est ainsi altéré, la partie condamnée peut demander et obtenir la cassation du jugement par la voie du bref de certiorari. C. S., 1872, St-Hyacinthe, Macfarlane vs Bourgault et Surprenant, 16 J., 221; 22 R. J. R. Q., 387, 530.

9. La cour peut, de son propre mouvement, ordonner de corriger, instanter, en rendant le jugement, les erreurs contenues dans la déclaration, quant à la date de la pièce qui est la base de l'action. C. S., 1877, Montréal, The Sun Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Montreal vs Gareau, 19 R. L., 602.

10. Un juge en chambre ne peut sur requête à lui présentée, corriger un jugement final rendu dans une cause, et entrer dans un autre jugement une des pièces qui n'étaient pas au dossier lorsque le jugement de la cour fut rendu. C. S., 1877, Malbaie, Brassard et al. vs Langevin et Blackburn, 9 R. L., 153.

11. The court, so long as the judgment shall not have been enregistered, can change, in an essential point, the judgment originally rendered. S. C., 1882, Quebec, Canada Gold Co. vs Doran, 9 L. N., 206.

12. A clerical error in judgment may be corrected, by the substitution of one word for another. C. R., 1884, Quebec, Nadeau vs Corporation of St. Sévérin, 9 L. N., 189.

13. La cour de Révision ayant confirmé, avec dépens, un jugement rendu contre le défendeur, dans une cause dans laquelle le demandeur avait appelé en garantie son garant qui avait pris son fait et cause, peut ordonner, sur motion du garant, que l'entrée de son jugement au registre soit rectifiée de manière à donner au garant ses frais en révision. C. R., 1890, Québec, Lebel vs Pelletier, et Lebel vs Crédit Foncier, 16 R. J. Q., 240; 13 L. N., 416.

14. Le seul jugement de la cour est celui qui est paraphé par le juge qui l'a prononcé, et ensuite enregistré; et la cour n'a pas juridiction pour s'enquérir de l'exactitude de ce jugement, ni pour le changer ou le modifier. C. S., 1891, Montréal, Browning vs Spackman, 35 J., 34; M. L. R., 7 C. S., 369; 14 L. N., 394.

15. La cour de Révision peut corriger une erreur qui se serait glissée dans la rédaction d'un jugement rendu par elle, lorsqu'elle était présidée par d'autres juges, et le rétablir tel qu'il a été rendu. C. R., 1892, Montréal, Gervais vs Seeley, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 44.

16. Des erreurs cléricales dans la rédaction d'un jugement peuvent être corrigées sur requête à cet effet.

17. Même dans le cas où le requérant aurait intitulé sa demande sous le nom de "requête civile" et en aurait pris les conclusions, une défense en droit à cette requête sera renvoyée, pourvu que les erreurs dont on se plaint puissent être rectifiées sous les conclusions de la requête. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Laporte vs Dauphinais et Daigle, 3 R. L., n. s., 453; 1 R. P. Q., 4.

18. Lorsque le demandeur, par les conclusions d'une action hypothécaire, demande que, dans le cas de contestation par le défendeur, ce dernier soit condamné personnellement aux dépens, si le défendeur, de fait, conteste cette action, et qu'il intervienne ensuite un jugement maintenant l'action du demandeur, mais omettant d'adjuger sur la partie des conclusions demandant la condamnation personnelle du défendeur aux dépens, alors, sur motion du défendeur, la cour, faisant droit à cette demande, condamnera le défendeur personnellement à payer au demandeur les dépens occasionnés par la contestation de telle action. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Marchand, es-qual., vs Chaput, 7 R. J., 224.

19. Le dispositif d'un jugement final, qui adjuge sur les dépens d'une manière absolument contraire à ce que voulait dire le juge, ainsi qu'il est évident d'après les considérants et tout le contexte du jugement, peut être corrigé sur requête au juge, cette correction étant considérée être celle d'une "erreur cléricale," prévue par l'article 546 C. p. c. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Bériau vs The Stadacona Water, Light and Power Co. et La Corporation de la Ville de Farnham, R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 525; 11 R. L., n. s., 387, 423.

20. Si une cause a été portée en appel et le jugement rendu confirmé purement et simplement, le tribunal qui a rendu ce jugement en premier lieu est dessaisi de la cause et n'est plus compétent pour rectifier, dans son jugement, une erreur dite "cléricale."

21. Un jugement conforme aux droits des parties et à l'ensemble des allégations de l'action ne peut être dit entaché d'erreur "cléricale," parce que les conclusions ne réclameraient pas tout ce que la partie est en droit d'exiger. C. R., 1906, Montréal, Robert vs Montreal and St. Lawrence Light and Power Co., 7 R. P. Q., 480.

22. Si par suite d'une erreur cléricale, le jugement a quo porte condamnation contre "le défendeur" au lieu de "les défendeurs," la cour de Révision pourra, en confirmant le jugement rectifier la dite erreur et condamner "les défendeurs."

23. La cour peut également, et ce d'office, corriger l'omission de fixer le délai dans lequel les défendeurs devront rendre compte. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Beullac Limitée vs Simard et al., 12 R. P. Q., 316.

24. Audition des témoins.—Il n'est pas absolument nécessaire, quoique désirable, que le jugement soit rendu par le juge qui a entendu les témoignages; cette matière ayant été laissée à la discrétion des juges siégeant en cour Supérieure. B. R., 1861, Québec, Gugy vs Donaghue, 11 D. T. B. C., 421; 7 R. J. R. Q., 249.

25. Conseil privé. — Les demandeurs, avec leur requête, produisirent copie d'un décret de Sa Majesté en son Conseil Privé, infirmant un jugement de la cour du Banc de la Reine, qui confirmait un jugement de la cour Supérieure à Montréal, renvoyant l'action des demandeurs. Le jugement du Conseil Privé ordonnait à la cour Supérieure de rendre jugement pour les demandeurs originaires, ce qu'ils demandaient par la dite requête: La cour Supérieure doit obéir à l'ordre ainsi donné, et rendre jugement pour la somme réclamée par la déclaration des demandeurs. C. S., 1861, Montréal, Bank of British North America vs Cuvillier et al., 11 D. T. B. C., 495; 10 R. J. R. Q., 21, 510.

26. Contestation.—The rule that the judgment of a court which has jurisdiction cannot be called in question by collateral attack applies to the decisions of special tribunals and to proceedings that are directed by statute. K. B., 1912, Quebec, United Shoe Machinery Co. of Canada vs Laurendeau et al. and Drouin et al., 2 D. L. R., 77.

27. Contrat "ultra vires."—A judgment against a company obtained by consent upon a contract which was ultra vires, has no more validity than the contract upon which it is founded, but is impeachable to the same extent as the contract.

28. In such a case, the contract cannot be maintained as to matters admitted to be lawful while matters ultra vires are disallowed, but it must be wholly set aside. P. C., 1898, Canada, Great North West Central Railway Co. vs Charlebois et al., 2 B. J. P. C., 106; 79 L. T. R., 35; 68 L. J. R., n. s., 25.

29. Copie.—Les copies de jugements signifiés doivent être certifiées par le protonotaire de la cour, et non par les procureurs. C. S., 1862, Montréal, Seymour vs Hornes et al., 12 D. T. B. C., 90; 10 R. J. R. Q., 300.

30. Date.—Where a judgment was pronounced on the 17th, but not paraphed until the 19th, it was held to have been rendered on the 17th, and the draft of such judgment, which was dated the 17th, was the true record of such judgment and could not be set aside on a requête civile by another judge of the same court, or contradicted by oral testimony offered in support of such requête civile. Q. B., 1878, Montreal, Holmes vs Carter, 21 J., 210; 23 J., 50; 9 R. L., 620; 1 L. N., 209; 6 L. N., 372; 8 L. N., 281; 3 D. C. A., 279; L. R., 10 App. Cas., 664.

31. Décès des parties.—The death of several of the plaintiffs, during the pendency of the suit, does not render a judgment pronounced in their name absolutely null; the nullity being relative, and such as can be invoked only by legal representatives of the deceased, on the ground that their rights have been prejudiced by the judgment. Q. B., 1887, Montreal, Lowrey et al. vs Routh, M. L. R., 3 Q. B., 364; M. L. R., 2 S. C., 58; 9 L. N., 67; 11 L. N., 53; 33 J., 26.

32. "De neminis non curat lex."—Jugement renvoyant l'action avec dépens, lorsque le défendeur auquel on demandait 27 livres et 14 sous, avait prouvé qu'il avait tout payé moins 2 sous. Prevosté, 1737, Québec, Sombrun vs Chalou, Prev. 47.

33. Exécution.—Dans le cas où un jugement ne peut être exécuté, et que la partie condamnée ne peut être forcée de s'y conformer, ce jugement sera renversé en appel, et la cause sera renvoyée au tribunal de première instance, pour qu'il y soit procédé de nouveau à jugement. B. R., 1890, Montréal, Brunette vewe de St-Denis et al. vs Fraser, 19 R. L., 305.

34. Un jugement ne peut condamner un défendeur à faire quelque chose qui est subordonné au consentement d'une autre personne. C. S., 1903, Québec, Bergeron vs Drolet, R. J. Q., 23 C. S., 415; 9 R. L., n. s., 490.

35. Le jugement qui condamne un défendeur à réparer les défectuosités dans la construction d'une bâtisse, et à mettre cette dernière dans les conditions de bonne exécution prévues par le contrat est trop général et trop vague, et non susceptible d'exécution; la cause sera renvoyée à la cour de première instance pour qu'il y soit procédé de nouveau à jugement. B. R., 1908, Montréal, Les Curé et Marguilliers de l'Œuvre et Fabrique de St-Charles de Lachenaie vs Archambault, et le dit Archambault vs Perrault, R. J. Q., 12 B. R., 349; 9 R. P. Q., 369.

36. Dans une action qui a pour objet de déclarer exécutoire un jugement rendu contre le défendeur à l'étranger, si le défendeur a été assigné personnellement dans la première action, la production du jugement est conclusive pour cette cour qui n'a pas à s'enquérir des causes et raisons de la créance qui a motivé le jugement.

37. Le défendeur ne peut donc pas plaider que le billet sur lequel est fondé le jugement est nul, parcequ'il a été consenti pour régler une dette de jeu. C. S., 1910, Montréal, Riordan vs McLeod, 13 R. P. Q., 67.

38. Un créancier porteur d'un jugement dont il y a appel et non encore exécutoire contre son débiteur ne peut arrêter une exécution contre ce dernier par le fait seul qu'il en est généralement créancier, surtout s'il ne conclut pas à la nullité du jugement obtenu par le demandeur. C. S., 1911, Montréal, Croysdill vs Blackmore et Dunlop, 13 R. P. Q., 80.

39. Falsification.—Lorsque la minute d'un jugement a été, après sa prononciation, falsifiée par des ratures dans une partie essentielle, le demandeur n'a pas la voie de l'inscription de faux, mais doit s'adresser par requête au tribunal pour demander que le jugement soit entré aux registres tel qu'il a été prononcé. B. R., 1858, Montréal, Ross vs Palsgrave, 5 J., 141; 9 R. J. R. Q., 116; 16 R. J. R. Q., 54.

40. Forme.—L'article 472 (a) du Code de procédure n'est pas obligatoire pour les juges, et un jugement n'est pas nul par cela seul qu'il manque de toutes les conditions de formes exigées par la loi. B. R., 1869, Montréal, La Fabrique de Ste-Julie de Somerset vs Paquet, 1 R. L., 430; 20 R. J. R. Q., 353, 535, 553.

41. Interlocutoire.—Le juge du fond n'est pas lié par les interlocutoires rendus dans la cause. C. S., 1893, Montréal, Crane et al. vs McBean, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 331.

42. Interprétation.—Le pouvoir d'interpréter leurs jugements, que la loi reconnaît aux tribunaux, doit être exercé par ceux qui les rendent et non par ceux auxquels ils sont transmis pour être exécutés. C. R., 1890, Québec, Lebel vs Pelletier, et Lebel vs Crédit Foncier, 16 R. J. Q., 240; 13 L. N., 416.

43. Si les motifs d'un jugement font voir qu'il y a erreur, ambiguité ou obscurité dans le dispositif, ils doivent être pris en considération pour en déterminer et compléter le sens. C. S., 1902, Sherbrooke, Adam vs Gagné et al., R. J. Q., 22 C. S., 567. (Conf. par la C. R., le 31 janvier 1903.)

44. Jour non juridique.—Un jugement rendu un jour qui n'est pas un jour de terme, ou un jour d'enquête et pour audition aux mérites, sera mis de côté, chaque partie payant ses frais en appel, les frais du tribunal inférieur sujets à la décision ultérieure de ce tribunal. B. R., 1865, Montréal, Allen vs Corporation of the township of Onslow, 15 D. T. B. C., 433; 14 R. J. R. Q., 74; 15 R. J. R. Q., 509; 10 J., 218.

45. Jugement 'ultra petita.'—Lorsqu'un jugement par une erreur cléricale, ou autrement, accorde à une partie plus qu'elle n'a droit d'avoir, elle doit, pour éviter une condamnation aux dépens, se désister immédiatement de la partie du jugement à laquelle elle n'a pas droit. B. R., 1880, Montréal, Provost vs Bourdon, 1 D. C. A., 21; 4 L. N., 77.

46. L'intimé ayant demandé l'emprisonnement de l'appelant comme gardien judiciaire jusqu'à ce qu'il eût représenté les effets saisis ou qu'il en eût payé la valeur, et le jugement de la cour de Révision ayant condamné l'appelant à représenter ces effets ou à payer la dette due au saisissant, ce jugement avait adjugé ultra petita. B. R., 1893, Montréal, Tessier vs Rolland, R. J. Q., 2 B. R., 593.

47. Bien qu'un contribuable ait demandé la nullité absolue et entière d'un procès-verbal, le tribunal peut, sans adjuger ultra petita, ne l'annuler que quant à ce contribuable. B. R., 1898, Montréal, Comtois vs Dumontier, R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 293.

48. Mari et femme.—Before her marriage plaintiff's wife had obtained judgment against defendant and another in their capacity of tutor and tutor ad hoc, and plaintiff now brought action against defendant to have judgment declared common and executory against defendant: The proceeding for rendering a judgment executory ought by law to be a proceeding in the cause in which that judgment was rendered and that no original action can be brought for rendering it executory. S. C., 1853, Montreal, Bisaillon vs De Beaujeu, 1 M. C. R., 21; 2 R. J. R. Q., 341.

49. Minute.—The draft of judgment which has been signed by the judge who presided at the trial and pronounced the judgment in open court, must be held to be the judgment of the court, and its validity as such is not affected by the circumstances that, through error, another judge had previously paraphed the draft as having been rendered by him, nor by the fact that at the time the inscription in Review was made, no formal draft of the judgment had been signed by the judge who rendered it. C. R., 1898, Montreal, Guérin vs Fox et al., Q. J. R., 15 S. C., 199.

50. Montant indéterminé.—La cour de Prévosté, à Québec, a condamné un défendeur à payer au demandeur la somme qui sera fixée par un architecte expert nommé dans le jugement. Prévosté, 1737, Québec, Desmeloises vs Deguise dit Flamand, Prév. 41.

51. Présomption.—The general rule is, that the judgment of the court appealed against stands, unless the appellate court can say that it is clearly wrong. C. P., 1866, Ontario, Keena vs O'Hara, 16 C. P., 435.

52. Rédaction. — When an opposition afin de distraire, based on a deed of gift from the defendant to opposant is dismissed because the deed of gift is fraudulent, the judgment should state that the opposition is dismissed, not for want of proof, but because the deed of gift on which it is based, is set aside as fraudulent. C. R., 1865, Montreal, Ward vs Brown and Brown, 1 L. C. L. J., 95; 18 R. J. R. Q., 169, 556.

53. Where an opposition to the sale of land is based upon title under a deed of donation manifestly fraudulent, the judgment dismissing such opposition should be motivé that the deed of donation was fraudulent, and not that the opposition was unsupported by sufficient proof. C. R., 1865, Montreal, McGinnis vs Cartier et Cartier, 1 L. C. L. J., 66; 18 R. J. R. Q., 144, 563.

54. Le jugement rendu après contestation, dans une action en responsabilité pour un accident qui a causé la mort et qui est imputé à la faute de la défenderesse, est suffisamment motivé sur ce dernier point, en ces termes: "Considérant que les demandeurs ont prouvé que l'accident qui a causé la mort de leur fils est arrivé par la faute des employés de la défenderesse." Il n'est pas nécessaire d'énoncer en quoi la faute consiste pour satisfaire aux exigences de l'article 541 C. p. B. R., 1908, Montréal, La Compagnie de chemin de de fer Canadien du Pacifique vs Riccio et al., R. J. Q., 18 B. R., 337.

55. Rejet sur motion.—Un défendeur ne peut par simple motion demander le renvoi d'une action déjà maintenue contre lui ex parte, par la cour: Quelles que soient les allégations d'irrégularités dans la procédure du demandeur, le défendeur ne peut se pourvoir que par requête présentée en vertu des articles 1175 et 1176 aux fins de faire réviser et annuler le jugement déjà rendu contre lui, et en observant les règles tracées par l'article 1176. B. R., 1907, Montréal, Banque Nationale vs Desrochers, 9 R. P. Q., 59.

56. Registre.—Lorsqu'un jugement a été erronément entré dans les registres de la cour par le protonotaire, le juge qui a rendu le jugement peut faire corriger l'entrée faite aux registres avec dépens contre le protonotaire. C. de D., 1843, St-Henri, Ex parte Beaumont, 3. R. L., n. s., 147.

57. Renonciation.—Bien que la renonciation ne se présume pas, elle peut se faire d'une manière tacite au moyen d'actes qui ne peuvent s'interpréter autrement que par la volonté arrêtée d'y renoncer.

58. S'il s'agit de la renonciation à un jugement prononçant la résiliation d'une vente d'immeuble, au cas où l'enregistrement d'une hypothèque qui le grève ne serait pas radié sous quinze jours de sa signification, les faits suivants réunis ne peuvent s'interpréter autrement que par l'intention d'y renoncer: 1. Retard pendant deux ans à faire signifier le jugement; 2. Défaut de le faire enregistrer; 3. Action de rester pendant tout ce temps en possession comme propriétaire; 4. Action d'hypothéquer l'immeuble. B. R., 1898, Québec, Labbé, ès-qual., vs Routhier, R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 263.

59. Une partie dans une instance ne peut renoncer à un jugement que lorsque tel jugement est exclusivement en sa faveur, elle ne peut, par cette renonciation, aucunement affecter les droits acquis en faveur des tiers.

60. Il n'est pas permis à une partie qui, par manque de soins et de diligence, n'a pas obtenu, par un jugement, tous les droits qu'elle réclamait de renoncer à un jugement par lequel l'une des parties adverses a acquis des droits, vu que ce serait enlever à la chose jugée son caractère de permanence. C. S., 1903, Saint-François, Simard vs Sawyer, 11 R. J., 393.

61. Révocation de jugement. — The modes of setting aside a judgment numerated in the Code of civil procedure are not exclusive, and a direct action may be brought for the purpose where the plaintiff alleges that the judgment was fraudulently obtained without his knowledge and without the service on him of a writ of summons. Q. B., 1874, Montreal, Kellond vs Reed, 18 J., 309.—Q. B., 1893, Montreal, Ritchot vs Cardinal, Q. J. R., 3 Q. B., 55.

62. La révocation d'un jugement ne peut être accordée sur simple motion, elle doit être demandée, soit par voie d'action de droit commun, soit par voie de bref de prohibition sur l'exécution du jugement. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Ouimet vs Gaudreau, 16 R. J., 421.

63. Une action directe en révocation de jugement n'est point admissible si le jugement dont on demande la révocation est susceptible d'appel. C. R., 1908, Québec, Crépault vs Provencher et al., R. J. Q., 35 C. S., 377.

64. Signature du juge.—La signature du juge n'est pas une forme substantielle, mais seulement une forme probante du jugement, et la date du jugement est celle de sa prononciation, telle que constatée à la feuille d'audience, même lorsque le jugement n'a été signé par le juge que plus tard. C. R., 1894, Montréal, Tellier et al. vs Fournier, R. J. Q., 5 C. S., 131.

65. Il n'est pas nécessaire qu'un jugement soit signé par le juge qui l'a rendu; il suffit qu'il contienne son nom. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Rennie vs Mace et vir et McNamara, R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 136; 9 R. P. Q., 169; 14 R. J., 184.

66. Signification.—Signification of a judgment is not required where it has not been given contradictoirement. K. B., 1819, Quebec, Rogerson vs Bégin, 3 R. de L., 391.

67. When the parties are before the court, the delay given in a judgment to do a certain act might be made to run from the judgment instead of from the date of the judgment. Q. B., 1866, Montreal, Prévost vs Brien dit Desrochers, 2 L. C. L. J., 82; 18 R. J. R. Q., 268, 556, 559.

68. When a judgment orders the delivery of certain goods within fifteen days from the rendering of the judgment, and, in default of so doing, to pay a specified sum of money, service of the judgment is not necessary, the party condemned being put in default by the mere lapse of the fifteen days. S. C., 1885, Montreal, Samuel vs Houliston, M. L. R., 1 S. C., 505; 8 L. N., 402; 17 R. L., 552.

69. Transport.—A judgment debt is legally susceptible of transfer, and where it has been legally transferred, the transferee has the right to enforce the execution of the judgment in the name of the judgment creditors. S. C., 1865, Montreal, Bergevin dit Langevin et al. vs Persillier dit Lachapelle et vir and Meloche, 9 J., 78; 11 R. J. R. Q., 322.

V. Acquiescence, Aliment, Appel, Assurance, Cautionnement pour frais, Certiorari, Conseil Privé, Contrainte par corps, Douaire, Droit constitutionnel, Droit criminel, Droit international privé, Droit litigieux, Election provinciale contestée, Etat civil, Exécution, Inscription en faux, Interdiction, Intérêts, Juridiction, Mandamus, Mépris de cour, Obligation, Opposition afin d'annuler, Prescription, Procédure, Requête civile, Révision, Révision de jugement par défaut, Saisie-arrêt après jugement, Saisie et vente de meuble, Saisie et vente d'immeuble, Séparation de biens, Société, Vente.

JUGEMENT DE DISTRIBUTION

Déf.—On appelle ainsi l'ordre de distribution que prépare le protonotaire ou le greffier des deniers prélevés par voie judiciaire ou consignés en justice entre les parties qui y ont droit. C. p. c., art. 793 et s.

V. Appel, Distribution de deniers, Faillite, Opposition en sous ordre.

JUIFS

LOIS

1. Instruction publique. — Les personnes professant la religion judaïque sont traitées, pour les fins scolaires, de la même manière que les protestants, et, pour les mêmes fins, sont assujetties aux mêmes obligations et jouissent des mêmes droits et privilèges que ces derniers. S. R. Q., arts 3046 à 3051.

JURISPRUDENCE

2. Congrégation.—Une congrégation juive ayant été formée sous le Statut 9 et 10 Geo. IV, ch. 75, il n'en peut être formée une nouvelle. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Requête de Aronson, 18 R. L., 55.

JURIDICTION

Déf.—L'on définit généralement le mot juridiction, le pouvoir d'entendre et de juger les causes dans une certaine étendue de territoire. Jurisdictio proprie dicta, est notio jure magistratus competens; proinde consistit in decernendo et dandis judicibus. Dig., lib. 2, tit. 1.

INDEX

Abattoir..... 134
Abonnement.....192 et s.
Absent.....20 et s.
Abus de pouvoirs, 101 et s., 132 et s., 141, 143, 150 et s.
Acceptation de lettre de change.....194 et s.
Accident à l'étranger.. 39
Acquiescement, 89, 970 et s.
Acte d'Agriculture, 40 et s., 71
Acte des chemins de fer.....354 et s., 389
Acte impérial..... 42
Action alimentaire, 43 et s., 274, 476 et s.
Action en déchéance. 93
Action en reddition de compte, 93, 786, 844, 972 et s.
Action en expulsion, 46 et s., 478, 855 et s., 958
Action en répétition. 297
Action hypothécaire, 1, 4, 54 et s., 58 et s., 224, 329, 482, 495, 541 et s., 979, 985, 1042a
Action mixte, 92, 785, 979
Action négatoire, 557, 758
Action par le percepteur..... 76
Action paulienne, 68 et s., 490, 496
Action pénale.....71 et s.
Action personnelle, 82 et s., 274, 502, 739 et s., 785 et s.
Action pétitoire..... 489
Action possessoire 479 et s.
Action "pro socio".. 21
Action réelle, 85 et s., 89 et s., 94, 1002
Action résolutoire, 95, 213, 483
Actions, 29 et s., 34, 266 et s., 271, 327 et s., 330, 435, 1009
Administrateur..... 786
Affaire municipale, 96 et s., 836 et s., 1065
Affaire scolaire, 146, 150 et s., 499, 727
Affidavit, 344, 793, 1043 et s., 1054
Affréteur..... 1078
Ajournement.....546, 552
Aliment.....924 et s.
Amalgamation....410 et s.
Amende, 12, 16, 74 et s., 79 et s., 81, 136, 453, 458 et s., 500, 521 et s., 651, 834
Amendement, 158 et s., 289, 384, 504, 964, 1059
Annulation de lettres patentes..... 160
Appel, 41, 117 et s., 142, 148, 339, 499, 569, 595, 634 et s., 699, 704, 711, 720, 730 et s., 960
Arbitrage, 161 et s., 336 et s., 338, 340 et s., 516
Arbitres de la Puissance.....166, 526
Armée..... 42
Arrestation de navire 167 et s.
Arrestation illégale.. 226
Assignation, 33, 345 et s., 740, 742
Assignation personnelle, 82 et s., 87 et s., 1018
Assurance étrangère, 26, 36, 434
Assurance (feu) 169 et s., 246, 257, 323
Assurance (maritime) 338
Assurance (vie)...172, 1030
Aubain .....519, 972 et s.
Autorisation à ester en justice..... 173
Autorisation à femme mariée, 563, 710, 1074 et s.
Autorisation à poursuivre..... 174
Avocat, 175 et s., 453, 458 et s.
Banque.....743, 1051
Barreau, 175 et s., 364, 676 et s.
Bâtiments marchands 7
Biens, 20 et s., 32, 35 et s.
Billet d'excursion.... 428
Billet promissoire, 35, 180 et s., 330, 492, 954
Bref de possession... 491
Bref d'erreur..... 451
Brevet d'invention, 207 et s., 258 et s.
Brevet d'invention, 207 et s., 258 et s.
Bureau de santé..... 77
Canada et provinces, 533, 537
Capias, 215 et s., 660, 747, 1054
Cause d'action, 223 et s., 556, 845 et s., 1023, 1081, 1084 et s.
Cautionnement...720, 947, 1035 et s.
Cautionnement pour frais.....1064, 1068
Certificat..... 558
"Certiorari," 332 et s., 485, 654, 678, 843
Cession jud. de biens, 174, 698
Chambre des notaires, 333 et s.
Chars urbains..... 651
Charte spéciale..... 131
Chaussée.....94, 637
Chemin de fer, 243, 270, 348 et s., 727, 811, 833, 888
Chemin de fer..... 413
Chemin de fer provincial, 359, 363, 389, 410 et s., 416 et s.
Chemin public, 373, 376, 392, 396, 412, 425, 431 et s., 658
Chèque.....190, 281
Chose jugée..... 632
Chose nécessaire, 519, 523, 600, 629, 633a
Cité de Montréal..... 105
Clause compromissoire, 336 et s.
Clause pénale.....79 et s.
Clôture..... 383
Club.....341, 707
Collision, 535 et s., 593, 596, 598, 605 et s., 608, 613 et s., 620, 630 et s.
Comité des ch. de fer, 348 et s.
Commande, 299, 309, 331
Commissaire civil, 781 et s.
Commissaire d'école, 150 et s., 499, 727
Commissaire du Havre, (Mont.).....342 et s.
Commissaire enquêteur..... 1049
Commission des ch. de fer, 348 et s., 727, 800 et s.
Commission d'Utilité publique.....425 et s.
Commission rogatoire, 433, 1073
Commis-voyageur, 33, 249 et s., 309, 318
Compagnie de prêt.. 8
Compagnie étrangère 238
Compagnie incorporée, 34, 435 et s., 438 et s., 1009
Compagnie incorporée (Liq.), 9, 631 et s., 719, 1077
Comparution.....970 et s.
Compensation..... 377
Comptage..... 304
Comté de Berthier, 503, 506
Comté de Terrebonne 494
Conclusion..... 447
Condition résolutoire 328
Condition suspensive 328
Confession de jugement..... 958
Connaissance d'office 156
Conseil de comté, 108, 121 et s.
Conseil de famille, 2, 448
Conseil d'enquête... 14
Conseiller municipal, 97, 966 et s.
Conseil privé, 449 et s., 595, 1009
Consentement, 267, 464 et s., 1007
Consignation..... 28, 470
Constitutionalité.... 644
Construction de ch. de fer, 392, 425 et s., 800 et s.
Contrainte par corps, 471, 682, 697
Contrat, 95, 131, 262, 273, 276, 282, 305 et s., 308, 312 et s., 336 et s., 360, 396, 408, 467 et s., 539 et s., 743, 1045
Contrebande.....11, 472
Contrefaçon, 212, 258 et s.
Corporation municipale 77 et s., 96 et s., 340, 373, 370, 387, 474 et s., 481, 498, 643, 704, 797 et s., 833, 966 et s., 1048
Cour d'Amirauté, 16, 455 et s., 593 et s., 900 et s., 926, 1013 et s., 1046
Cour d'Appel, 10, 634 et s.
Cour de Circuit, 48, 55, 57, 59 et s., 62, 66 et s., 69, 71 et s., 74 et s., 91, 100 et s., 108 et s., 112, 123 et s., 126, 140, 145 et s., 147 et s., 152 et s., 223, 324, 329, 332, 442, 444, 473 et s., 570, 650, 746, 769 et s., 771 et s., 778, 792 et s., 808, 815, 834, 854, 858, 871 et s., 884, 889, 903 et s., 925, 967, 976 et s., 994, 1008, 1012, 1032
Cour de Comté..... 7
Cour de l'Echiquier, 16, 507 et s., 716 et s., 896
Cour de Magistrat, (Montréal).....560 et s.
Cour de police..... 7
Cour des Commissaires, 485, 571 et s., 753
Cour des Magistrats, 7, 72, 100 et s., 109, 112, 126, 134, 144, 152 et s., 545 et s., 558, 771 et s., 967
Cour des Sessions.... 7
Cour du Recorder (Montréal).....645 et s.

Cour du Recorder (Québec).....655 et s.
Cour du Recorder (St. Henri).....659
Cour martiale.....678
Couronne, 512, 517, 524 et s., 531, 534, 544a, 735, 975
Cours d'eau, 340 et s., 343, 637, 700, 756 et s., 929 et s.
Cour Supérieure, 1, 7, 10a, 43 et s., 48, 54, 56 et s., 61 et s., 66, 73, 77 et s., 81, 91, 94, 96, 100 et s., 106, 108 et s., 114 et s., 123 et s., 132, 135 et s., 138 et s., 143, 145, 156, 161 et s., 213 et s., 216 et s., 222, 275, 334, 341, 353, 433, 439, 489, 502, 542, 960 et s., 744 et s., 747 et s., 759 et s., 770, 775, 792 et s., 800 et s., 838, 846, 854, 860, 870 et s., 881, 904, 924, 933, 936 et s., 975 et s., 997, 1012, 1032
Cour Suprême, 3, 77 et s., 728 et s., 1000
Cumul.....1036
Curateur aux biens..174
Décompte électoral..737
Décret canonique, 781 et s.
Défaut.....668, 715
Défendeurs conjoints, 260, 738 et s.
Délai, 106, 698, 704, 766 et s.
Délibération des conseils municipaux...104
Délit, 553, 571, 597, 779
Délivrance, 301 et s., 315 et s., 856
Demande incidente. 744
Demandeur étranger 239
Démolition, 94, 480, 512, 722
Dépôt.....745
Député-protonotaire 173
Déqualification...836 et s.
Désertion.....42, 886
Désistement, 179, 564, 746 et s., 961
Destitution de com. d'école.....155 et s.
Diffamation.....303
Dimanche.....751 et s.
Dime.....753
Discipline, 175 et s., 364, 676 et s., 916 et s.
Distribution de deniers.....454, 696
Domicile, 180 et s., 188, 190, 192 et s., 195 et s., 213, 219, 278 et s., 324, 328, 741, 1003 et s., 1017, 1019
Dommage, 40 et s., 50, 52, 163 et s., 226, 263 et s., 265, 270, 276, 278, 283, 286, 294, 300 et s., 307 et s., 314, 320, 340 et s., 377, 385, 390, 392, 425, 497, 507, 526, 534, 572, 593, 598, 605 et s., 618 et s., 620, 626, 628 et s., 637 et s., 648, 722, 756 et s., 798, 845 et s., 854 et s., 989 et s., 1085
Dossier.....711
Douane, 11 et s., 514, 517 et s.
Doute.....731, 734
Droit acquis.....362
Droit futur.....555
Droit immobilier....91
Écoulement des eaux, 757 et s.
Effet rétroactif.....328
Égouttement des eaux, 353 et s.
Eclairage électrique..432
Electeur municipal, 127 et s.
Election de domicile, 180 et s.
Election d'officier de banque.....105
Election fédérale contestée, 12a, 759 et s., 1055
Election municipale contestée...112, 769 et s.
Election parlementaire 81
Election provinciale contestée...12b, 779 et s.
Election scolaire contestée.....152 et s.
Embranchement, 363, 371, 399 et s., 408
Emphytéose.....51
Employé de ch. de fer.....409
Endossement.....184, 281
Enquête publique 657 et s.
Epave.....13
Equipement de ch. de fer.....391
Equipage.....633a
Erection de municipalité.....581 et s.
Erection de paroisse, 781 et s.
Erection en ville..121 et s.
Erreur.....122, 580
Etranger, 20 et s., 519, 972 et s.
Exception à la forme, 84, 157, 710, 873 et s.
Exception déclinatoire, 21, 23, 25, 29 et s., 34, 146, 149, 156, 182 et s., 202, 206, 215, 224, 236, 247, 272, 284, 308, 329 et s., 335, 473, 504, 748, 779, 868, 913, 1032
Exception dilatoire..1037
Exécuteur testamentaire.....787 et s.
Exécution, 586, 636, 693, 792 et s., 1076
Exécutoire, 794 et s., 952
Expertise, 340 et s., 756, 796
Expropriation, 105, 377, 544a, 797 et s., 811
Factum.....642
Faillite, 486, 803 et s., 956
Fermeture de rue....797
Fiducie.....531, 1033
Folle enchère, 810, 1062
Fonds des écoles communes.....163 et s.
Forclusion, 687, 944, 949
"Forma pauperis"..712
Fossé.....138, 353 et s.
Frais, 65, 114, 123 et s., 145, 176 et s., 440
Frais d'arbitrage....811
Fraude.....132 et s., 137
Garantie.....275, 1057
Garde de mineur, 640, 697
Gardien judiciaire...1010
Gare.....397, 403
Gaspé.....754 et s.
Grands lacs...612, 812
Grand-Tronc.....359
Grand-Tronc-Pacifique.....395, 544
Greffier c. C., 777, 813 et s.
"Habeas corpus,.. 695, 816
Hangar à fret.....382
Havre public, 508, 929 et s.
Héritier.....576
Homologation de cons. de faux.....691
Honoraire d'office, 595, 601 et s.
Huissier.....462
Hypothèque.....90, 515
Iles de la Madeleine..815
Illégalité, 101 et s., 109, 116 et s., 132 et s., 141
Immigration.....14, 816
Immunité.....360
Incapacité.....156
Indemnité.....799
Injonction, 508, 700, 785, 817
Injure.....283
Inscription en droit, 156 et s., 335, 843
Interdiction, 818 et s., 952
Intérêts.....492, 821, 955
Internement d'aliéné 820
Intersection, 372, 374 et s.
Intervention, 800 et s., 822 et s., 1006 et s., 1069
Jonction de ch. de fer 352, 378 et s., 381, 419 et s.
Journaux, 264, 824 et s., 845 et s.
Juge.....452
Juge de paix, 7, 714, 826 et s.
Juge en chambre, 113, 563, 636, 642, 660, 666 et s., 675, 682 et s., 693 et s., 697 et s., 703 et s. 718 et s., 796, 804, 810, 909, 995, 1001, 1022, 1049, 1063, 1071
Jugement, 218, 640, 1050, 1056
Jugement à l'enquête 661 et s., 694
Jugement étranger..695
Jugement interlocutoire 568, 641, 680 et s., 692, 704, 722
Juridiction concurrente, 207 et s.
Législature.....921 et s.
Legs.....844, 974
Lettres patentes, 160, 540
Lettre postale.....286 et s.
Lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil.....736
Libelle, 264, 825, 845 et s.
Licence.....342, 344
Lieu de la situation, 85 et s., 92
Lieu de paiement, 198 et s.
Lieu des licences, 140, 648, 701 et s.
Lieu du contrat.....262
Loi anglaise.....532, 538
Loi des accidents du travail.....854 et s.
Loi du Revenu.....450
Loi provinciale.....438
Louage des choses, 46 et s., 478, 650, 855 et s., 943, 1057, 1070, 1076
Louage d'ouvrage, 39, 247 et s., 270, 282, 287, 307, 314, 886 et s.
"Mandamus," 328, 365, 451, 659, 889
Mandat, 249 et s., 470, 890 et s., 987
Mandat d'emprisonnement.....962
Mariage.....893 et s.
Mari et femme, 497, 1082 et s,
Marque de commerce 527, 895 et s.
Matelot, 510 et s., 528, 621 et s., 897 et s.
Mépris de cour....905 et s.
Messagerie.....348, 419
Mesurage.....295, 304
Meuble.....876
Milice canadienne...907
Ministre, 14, 208 et s., 518, 725, 816
Minorité, 5, 908 et s., 951
Mise en liquidation..1077
Monopole.....912 et s.
Motion.....914 et s.
Naturalisation.....15
Naufrage.....1015

Navire, 509, 515, 519, 523, 539, 541, 603, 607 et s., 614 et s., 620, 623 et s., 1084
Négligence, 366 et s., 385
"Negotiorum gestor" 262
Notaire..... 916
Nouveau procès, 565 et s., 940 et s.
Nuisance publique.. 481
Nullité..... 918
Objection préliminaire, 761 et s.
Obligation.....234, 919
Officier municipal, 111, 130
Officier public.....463, 920
Ontario et Québec 163 et s.
Opération de ch. de fer, 352, 378, 381, 394, 418 et s., 430
Opposition afin d'annuler 496
Opposition afin de conserver..... 646
Opposition afin de distrorration6,84, 1060 et s.
Opposition à jugement, 959 et s.
Paiement..... 241
Parlement fédéral, 732, 921 et s.
Partage.....84, 592, 950.
Particularités..... 915
Paternité..... 924
Patron et employé.... 265
Pêcheries..... 16
Pénalité.....627, 701 et s.
Pension alimentaire, 924 et s., 1066 et s.
Péremption d'instance,125
Permission d'appel, 637 et s.
Pétition de droit, 524 et s.
Pilote, 342, 344 et s., 601, 926 et s.
Plate-forme 382
Poids..... 321
Point de départ..... 928
Pont.....405, 432
Port de mer.....929 et s.
Possession de meuble, 683, 1010
Possession d'immeuble, 879
Préjudice, 101 et s., 110, 116 et s., 132 et s., 137
Préposé (mar. march.) 17
Prescription.....933, 954
Présomption..... 722
Prêt..... 280
Prêtre.....933a
Preuve, 344, 431, 645, 752
Privilège....643, 646, 934
Procès par jury, 935 et s.
Procès-verbal, 98, 101 et s., 115 et s., 120, 123 et s., 125 et s., 700
Procureur général, 751 et s.
Prohibition, 126, 493, 559, 561 et s., 653, 657 674 et s., 709, 838, 841, 942, 1013
Promesse de vente, 943, 1079
Propriété dans Ontario 235
Propriété de navire, 509, 519, 539
Prorogation..... 6
Protonotaire.....944 et s.
Pulpe..... 388
Quasi-délit..... 553
Québec et Ontario 163 et s.
"Quo warranto", 107, 153 et s., 966 et s., 1043, 1053
"Ratione materiæ", 968 et s., 984, 1020
"Ratione personæ", 970 et s., 985 et s.
Rebellion à justice... 470
Recel.....220 et s.
Reddition de compte, 93, 734a, 786, 972 et s.
Règle de cour, 351, 965, 1071
Règlement municipal, 77 et s., 99, 109, 124, 127 et s., 132, 134, 139 et s., 474 et s., 651 655, 659, 730, 1035
Rejet d'opposition, 1060 et s.
Rente constituée, 61 et s., 975 et s.
Rente viagère..... 337
Renvoi à autre tribunal, 980 et s.
Renvoi de service.... 887
Réparation, 723 et s., 880, 882, 885
Répartition.....106, 487
Répétition de l'indu, 400 et s., 407, 987
Réponse à l'exceptions déclinatoire..... 291
Reprise d'instance.. 950
Requête civile....988, 1052
Requête en cassation, 101 et s., 113, 127, 144
Résiliation de bail, 46 et s.
Résolution, 98, 101 et s., 107, 123 et s., 131, 140, 143, 505, 558, 726, 1032
Responsabilité civile, 989 et s.
Rétrocession.....955 et s.
Réunion de causes... 991
Revenu de l'intérieur 18
Révision, 142, 339, 563 et s., 692, 935 et s., 941, 960
Rôle d'évaluation, 113, 142, 484
Rôle municipal, 101 et s.
S.a. après jugement, 65, 493, 586, 681, 827, 963, 992 et s., 1011 et s., 1062
S.a. avant jugement, 806 et s., 996 et s.
Saisie-conservatoire, 85 et s.
Saisie de navire..... 541
Saisie et vente de meuble .....998 et s.
Saisie et vente d'immeuble..... 1000
Saisie-gagerie..... 47
Saisie-revendication, 34, 635, 671, 813, 899 et s., 1001 et s., 1072
Saisine.....787 et s.
Salaire, 510 et s., 528, 614, 621 et s., 649, 652 et s., 654, 887, 897 et s., 959 et s., 1011 et s.
Salaire (Loi Lacombe) 1011 et s.
Sauvetage..... 19
Sauvetage, 13, 611, 1013 et s
Sentence arbitrale, 162, 292
Séparation de biens, 1017 et s., 1069
Séparation de corps, 640, 697, 1020 et s., 1066 et s.
"Sequestration"..... 536
Séquestre, 667, 685 et s., 696
Servitude..... 555
Signature par erreur. 122
Société.....21, 1025
Société d'agriculture 1024
Société de bienfaisance, 1025 et s.
Société religieuse, 1025, 1028 et s.
Souscription d'actions, 266 et s., 268 et s.
Substitution, 93, 1033 et s.
Succession, 84, 576, 1038 et s., 1082 et s.
Surcharge de fret, 400 et s., 407
Surintendant spécial, 114 et s., 145
Surveillance des cours et corporations, 101 et s., 110, 115 et s., 121 et s., 132 et s., 135, 137, 143, 150 et s., 670 et s., 709, 678, 726
Suspension, 342, 345, 493, 669 et s., 693
Tarif des ch. de fer, 386, 388, 407, 415, 419 et s., 427 et s.
Taxe d'église..... 560
Taxe municipale, 65, 488, 493, 547 et s., 588, 643, 647, 665
Taxe scolaire, 4, 57, 67, 146 et s., 329, 534, 567, 1043a
Télégramme..... 283
Terres publiques.... 540
Territoire 1042
Testament.....1043 et s.
Tiers-saisi, 493, 588, 681, 963, 962 et s., 1062
Titre nouvel..... 979
Tonage..... 1045
Train..... 404
Traite..... 362
Transport d'actions 271
Travaux, 247, 282, 386 et s.
Travaux de ch. de fer, 416, 727
Travaux municipaux, 587, 852
Travaux publics, 98, 100, 449, 507, 944a
Traverse de ch. de fer, 349 et s., 356, 361, 370, 387, 534
Tribunal spécial..... 107
Tribunaux..... 1a
Tutelle, 448, 908 et s., 959
Vacance, 944 et s., 953, 1048 et s.
"Venditioni exponas" 984
Vente, 38, 230 et s., 240, 249 et s., 261, 279, 288, 296, 309, 315 et s., 337 et s., 483, 1078 et s.
Vente à réméré..... 189
Vente de biens de mineur..... 89
Vente de biens substitués..... 104
Vente de boisson enivrante..... 5
Vente de meuble 301 et s.
Vente par correspondance, 225, 236, 244, 272, 277, 285, 290, 293 et s., 299 et s., 310 et s., 316, 319, 321 et s., 325 et s.
Vente par téléphone, 305 et s., 53
Vente sur échantillon, 240, 58
Voiturier.....1084 et s.

ÉCRITS

1. Action hypothécaire.—Compétence de la cour Supérieure en matière d'actions hypothécaires.—Article écrit pas S. C. Rios, avocat. 6 R. L., n. s., 455.

2. Conseil de famille.—Article écrit par L. P. Sirois, notaire. 4 R. Not., 71.

3. Cour Suprême.—Discours de M. Demers, C. R., M. P., au Parlement du Canada, 4 mai 1903. 9 R. L., n. s., 253.

4. Juridiction des tribunaux dans les actions en déclaration d'hypothèque pour taxes scolaires.—Article écrit par Clément Lamothe, avocat. 2 R. L., n. s., 327.

5. Minorité.—Dans quel district doit être tenue l'assemblée de parents, et quel est le tribunal compétent pour homologuer l'avis du conseil de famille autorisant le tuteur à emprunter hypothécairement pour son pupille.—Article écrit par L. P. Sirois, notaire. 1 R. L., n. s., 389.

6. Prorogation.—Article écrit par J. E. Roy, notaire. 14 R. Not., 301.

LOIS

7. Bâtiments marchands.—"Tout juge de la cour Supérieure de la province de Québec, juge des sessions de la paix, juge de cour de comté, magistrat de police, magistrat stipendiaire, peut connaître et juger sommairement toutes les contraventions punissables sous l'empire de la présente partie et punir le contrevenant soit d'une amende ou de l'emprisonnement, soit de l'amende et de l'emprisonnement, soit de la déduction des gages et de l'emprisonnement.

"2. Deux juges de paix ont la même compétence." S. R. C., ch. 113, art. 306.

8. Compagnie de prêt. — Lorsqu'une compagnie de prêt veut soumettre à la cour les doutes qu'elle a sur la légalité de la réclamation d'un droit sous l'article 246, de la "Loi des compagnies," S. R. C., ch. 79, le tribunal qui a juridiction et auquel elle doit s'adresser est: Pour Ontario, la Haute cour de justice; pour Québec, la cour Supérieure; pour les Territoires du Nord-Ouest, la cour du Magistrat; pour le Yukon, la cour Territoriale; dans toutes les autres provinces, la cour Suprême de la province." S. R. C., ch. 79, art. 247.

9. Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.).—"Les pouvoirs qui sont donnés à la cour (selon les provinces) par la présente loi peuvent être exercés, sauf l'appel ci-dessus prévu, par un juge de cette cour agissant seul; et ils peuvent s'exercer en chambre, soit pendant les sessions, soit pendant les vacances." S. R. C., ch. 144, art. 109.

10. Cour d'Appel.—"Le lieutenant-gouverneur en conseil peut soumettre à la cour du Banc du Roi, juridiction d'appel, pour audition ou examen, toutes questions quelconques qu'il juge à propos, et, sur ce, la cour les entend et les examine." S. R. Q., art. 579.

10a. Cour Supérieure.—"Tous les pouvoirs dont, par une loi quelconque, les juges de la cour Supérieure ou un quorum d'entre eux, étaient revêtus en terme ou en vacances, avant la mise en vigueur des Statuts Refondus pour le Bas Canada, et qui, par ces derniers statuts, sont donnés à tout juge du tribunal, continuent, comme par le passé, à être possédés par tout tel juge, de manière qu'un seul juge puisse constituer un quorum de la cour et puisse entendre et juger toutes les causes et matières du ressort et de la compétence du tribunal, et en exercer tous les pouvoirs. S. R. Q., art. 3081.

"Tout juge peut continuer et terminer un litige commencé ou continué par un autre juge, mais il ne peut infirmer la décision d'un autre que dans les cas où il pourrait l'infirmer si elle avait été rendue par lui-même. Art. 3082.

"Dans toutes les causes commencées en vacances par un juge, il est loisible, en cas de sa maladie ou de son absence, à tout autre juge, de siéger à sa place et d'exercer tous les pouvoirs et l'autorité qui auraient appartenus à ce juge s'il avait continué à siéger. Art. 3083.

"Deux juges ou plus, exerçant leurs fonctions dans le même district, peuvent, et doivent, chaque fois que la dépêche des affaires le requiert, siéger en même temps et au même endroit, dans des salles séparées, pendant ou hors des termes, et chacun d'eux a juridiction pour entendre et décider les causes et matières qui lui sont soumises, et exerce les mêmes pouvoirs que s'il siégait seul en cet endroit.

"A l'exception de la cour du Banc du Roi, tous les tribunaux, juges de circuit, magistrats, et autres personnes, corps politiques et corporations dans la province, sont soumis au droit de surveillance et de réforme, aux ordres et au contrôle de la cour Supérieure et de ses juges, en la manière et en la forme que prescrit la loi.

"Quand à ce qui concerne les dispositions non abrogées de quelque loi en vigueur dans la province, à l'époque où la loi 12 Victoria, chapitre 38, est devenue entièrement en vigueur, la cour Supérieure continue d'être substituée aux cours du Banc de la Reine abolies par la dite loi.

"Ces dispositions non abrogées continuent à s'appliquer à la cour Supérieure comme elles s'appliquaient autrefois aux dites cours du Banc de la Reine.

"Ce droit de surveillance, de réforme et de contrôle continue d'être conféré et assigné à la cour Supérieure et à ses juges." Art. 3085.

11. Douane.—Une action en dommage contre un préposé des douanes, ou contre une autre personne employée pour empêcher la contrebande, pour un acte fait dans l'exercice de leurs devoirs, doit être portée et jugée dans le lieu ou le district où les actes dont on se plaint ont été commis. S. R. C., ch. 48, art. 162.

12. La cour de l'Echiquier ou toute cour Supérieure a juridiction pour le recouvrement des amendes et sur les confiscations en vertu de la "Loi des douanes." S. R. C., ch. 48, art. 265 et s.

"Le procès relatif à cette poursuite ou action peut avoir lieu dans n'importe quel comté de la province, bien que la cause de la poursuite ou action n'ait pas pris naissance dans ce comté." Art. 269.

12a. Election fédérale contestée.—"Dans la province de Québec, la cause de l'action est censée avoir pris naissance à l'endroit où l'élection a eu lieu, et la pétition d'élection est présentée à la cour du district judiciaire où se trouve situé cet endroit." S. R. C., ch. 7, art. 3.

12b. Election provinciale contestée.—"La connaissance des pétitions d'élection et les procédures à suivre à cet égard sont du ressort de la cour Supérieure de cette province, sujet néanmoins aux dispositions du présent chapitre." S. R. Q., art. 442.

"La cause d'action mentionnée dans la pétition est censée avoir surgi à l'endroit où l'élection a eu lieu.

"La pétition d'élection doit être présentée et instruite dans le district judiciaire où se trouve situé cet endroit; mais l'audition finale a lieu devant la cour de Révision conformément aux articles 513 et s." Art. 443.

13. Epaves.—"Lorsque deux personnes ou plus réclament des épaves en la possession d'un receveur, ou le produit de leur vente quelque soit leur valeur ou leur montant, toute cour siégeant et ayant juridiction en matières civiles jusqu'à concurrence de la valeur des épaves ou du montant du produit en litige, dans la circonscription de ce receveur, peut, sur la demande du receveur ou de l'un quelconque de ces réclamants, assigner ces personnes à comparaître devant elle, recevoir leurs réclamations, en décider, et rendre, à l'égard de ces épaves et des frais de procédure, telle ordonnance qu'elle juge à propos.

"2. Cette ordonnance peut être mise à exécution de la même manière que tout ordre décerné dans une poursuite intentée devant cette cour." S. R. C., ch. 113, art. 755.

"Toute contestation se rattachant aux droits de sauvetage de vie ou de biens est entendue et jugée par et devant le receveur ou devant la cour ainsi que respectivement réglé par la présente partie et non autrement." Art. 760.

"Lorsque le montant réclamé n'excède pas cent dollars, ou que la valeur des biens responsables ou détenus ou prétendus responsables pour le droit de sauvetage n'excède pas deux cents cinquante dollars, ou que les parties y consentent par écrit, la contestation est entendue et décidée par le receveur de la circonscription dans laquelle les services ont été rendus, ou dans laquelle les biens responsables pour les droits de sauvetage se trouvaient à l'époque de la réclamation du paiement de ces services; la décision du receveur porte sur les honoraires et les frais," Art. 761.

"Dans les autres cas, la contestation peut être entendue et jugée par tout tribunal qui a juridiction civile jusqu'à concurrence du montant réclamé ou de la valeur des biens responsables, à l'endroit où ces services ont été rendus ou dans lequel se trouvaient les biens quand la réclamation a été faite." Art. 763.

"La juridiction conférée par la présente partie à tout tribunal civil peut être exercée soit à l'égard des actions réelles, soit à l'égard des actions personnelles." Art. 827.

"La présente partie ne peut aucunement porter atteinte aux pouvoirs de la cour de l'Echiquier en sa juridiction d'amirauté en Canada dans aucune cause civile ni criminelle." Art. 828.

14. Immigration.—"Nulle cour et nul juge ou officier judiciaire n'ont juridiction pour reviser, annuler, infirmer, restreindre, ou autrement modifier une mesure prise ou une décision, une ordonnance ou un ordre rendus par le ministre, ou par un conseil d'enquête, ou par un fonctionnaire en autorité, sous le régime et en conformité des dispositions de la présente loi, relativement à la détention ou à la déportation d'un immigrant, d'un passager, d'un voyageur ou d'une autre personne refusée, non plus que pour entraver la mise à exécution de pareille décision ou ordonnance ou de pareil ordre, pour aucune raison que ce soit, si ce n'est que la personne est un citoyen canadien, ou a son domicile en Canada." 9-10 Ed. VII (F.), ch. 27, art. 23 (1910).

15. Naturalisation. — Les tribunaux qui ont juridiction pour accorder un certificat de naturalisation sont dans: Ontario, la cour des Sessions Générales, la cour d'Assises et de Nisi prius; Québec, cour de Circuit; Nouvelle Ecosse, cour Suprême; Nouveau Brunswick, cour Suprême; Colombie-Britannique, cour Suprême; Manitoba, cour de Comté; Ile du Prince Edouard, cour Suprême, cour d'Assises et de Nisi Prius; Saskatchewan et Alberta, cour Suprême; Yukon, cour territoriale. Ces cours sont celles siégeant dans le dietriet du domicile de l'aubain. S. R. C., ch. 77, art. 16.

16. Pêcheries.—"Le recouvrement de toute amende ou l'opération de toute confiscation imposée sous l'empire de la présente loi peut être poursuivi devant la cour de l'Echiquier, juridiction d'Amirauté, ou devant toute cour Supérieure de la province où la cause a pris naissance." S. R. C., ch. 47, art. 18.

"Tout juge de la cour de l'Echiquier, juridiction d'Amirauté, et tout juge local en Amirauté, et tout juge d'une cour Supérieure devant laquelle la cause est pendante peut, du consentement de la personne qui a opéré la saisie d'effets, navires, vaisseaux ou bateaux, gréements, équipements, apparaux, provisions et cargaison confisqués en vertu de la présente loi, en ordonner la restitution sur obligation souscrite par la partie, avec deux cautions, au bénéfice de Sa Majesté; et si des effets, navires, vaisseaux ou bateaux, gréements, équipements, apparaux, provisions et cargaison ainsi restitués sont condamnés comme confisqués, la valeur en doit être consignée en cour et répartie ainsi que ci-dessus prescrit." Art. 19.

"Le procureur général du Canada peut poursuivre et opérer, au nom de Sa Majesté, toute amende ou confiscation encourue sous l'empire de la présente loi." Art. 20.

17. Préposé sous l'acte de la Marine Marchande.—"Tout préposé en Canada peut décider toute contestation entre le capitaine ou le propriétaire d'un navire enregistré en Canada et un homme de son équipage, lorsque les deux parties ont convenu par écrit de la lui soumettre; et la sentence rendue par lui lie les deux parties, et est réputée définitive en ce qui a trait aux droits des parties, dans toute instance sur le même différend portée devant un tribunal en Canada.

"2. Tout écrit qui paraît être un référé du différend ou une sentence du préposé, fait foi primâ facie de ce référé ou de cette sentence.

"3. Il est permis au préposé de percevoir, pour prix de ses services, un honoraire qui n'excède pas quatre dollars." S. R. C., ch. 113, art. 177.

18. Revenu de l'intérieur.—Toute action contre un préposé du Revenu de l'Intétieur pour un acte fait dans l'exercice de sa charge doit être intentée et instruite dans l'endroit ou le district où les faits se sont passés." S. R. C., ch. 51, art 95.

"2. Tous droits de patente et d'accise sont recouvrables, avec les frais de poursuite, comme créance de Sa Majesté, devant tout cour de juridiction compétente." Art. 125, § 2.

"Si quelque poursuite au sujet d'une contravention à quelque disposition de la présente loi est portée devant un juge d'une cour de comté, ou devant un magistrat de police ou un magistrat stipendiaire, ou devant deux juges de paix, nul autre juge de paix ne peut siéger ni prendre part au procès; néanmoins, dans toute cité ou tout district où il y a plus d'un juge de cour de comté, ou plus d'un magistrat de police ou magistrat stipendiaire, cette poursuite peut être portée devant l'un ou devant l'autre de ces juges ou magistrats de police ou magistrats stipendiaires." Art. 134.

19. Sauvages.—"Le Surintendant général peut décider toute question qui s'élève sous le régime de la présente partie, au sujet du partage, entre les ayants droit, des biens du sauvage décédé, et il est seul et unique juge du titre d'ayant droit.

"2. Le Surintendant général peut prendre les mesures qui lui paraissent les meilleures pour donner sa part à chaque ayant droit, suivant le sens et l'intention véritables de la présente partie; et à cet effet, il peut, s'il juge convenable, ordonner de vendre, louer ou autrement aliéner la totalité des biens ou partie des biens et d'en distribuer ou employer le prix ou le revenu, sans préjudice, en cas d'aliénation, des restrictions mises à l'aliénation des propriétés comprises dans une réserve." S. R. C., ch. 81, art. 31.

Les témoins peuvent être assignés et interrogés sous serment par lui, et il peut condamner les récalcitrants à l'emprisonnement. Art. 67.

Dans les poursuites criminelles, la juridiction est exercée par tout recorder, magistrat de police, magistrat stipendiaire de toute cité ou ville. Et tout agent des sauvages est juge de paix avec les pouvoirs de deux juges de paix pour les matières tombant sous la "Loi des Sauvages."

"Tout juge d'une cour, juge des sessions de la paix, recorder, magistrat de police ou magistrat stipendiaire, a plein pouvoir de faire tout seul ce que le présent acte autorise un juge de paix ou deux juges de paix à faire." Art. 159.

19a. Tribunaux.—"Les tribunaux de la province, en matière civile, criminelle et mixte, sont: a. La cour du Banc du roi, divisée en cour Criminelle et en cour Civile d'appel; b. La cour Supérieure; c. La cour de Circuit; d. La cour des Magistrats de district; e. La cour des Sessions de la paix; f. Le tribunal des juges de Paix; g. La cour du Recorder; h. La cour des Commissaires.

"2. La juridiction de la cour du Banc du Roi, de la cour Supérieure et de la cour de Circuit est générale et embrasse toute la province; la juridiction de la cour des Magistrats de district, de la cour des sessions de la paix, de la cour du Recorder, du tribunal des juges de Paix et de la cour des Commissaires, est locale.

"3. La cour de l'Echiquier du Canada qui est un tribunal d'institution fédérale sur lequel la législature est sans compétence, et qui, en vertu des dispositions de l'Acte Impérial 53 et 54 Vict., ch. 97, et du chapitre 141 des Statuts Revisés du Canada, 1906, est, dans les limites du Canada, une cour coloniale d'amirauté." S. R. Q., art. 3052.

V. Eod Verbis.

JURISPRUDENCE

20. Absent et étranger.—Absent defendants who have had no domicile in Lower Canada, must possess real or personal property within the district where the suit is instituted to give jurisdiction to the court, and property of the defendants within the district of Quebec, held by A. resident within the district of Montreal, is not property of the defendants within the district of Montreal. S. C., 1859; Montreal, Frothingham et al. vs The Brockville and Ottawa Railway Co. and Dickinson et al., 3 J., 252; 9 L. C. R., 345; 7 R. J. R. Q., 272, 500; 12 R. J. R. Q., 247.

21. In an action pro socio arising out of a partnership contracted in the Island of Jersey, and having its head office there, but carrying on its principal business and owning property in the district of Gaspé, the defendants, who had never been domiciled in the said district, were summoned through the newspapers to appear and plead therein, and declined the jurisdiction: The declinatory exception was well taken. Q. B., 1876, Quebec, Gosset vs Robin et al., 2 Q. L. R., 91.

22. An absentee having property here may be sued here, though no personal service is made, and though the cause of action did not originate here. C. R., 1879, Montreal, MacDonald vs Mackay and Routh, 2 L. N., 301.

23. Defendant, resident in the city of Ottawa, was personally served there with a summons to appear before the Superior court, in the district of Ottawa, in the province of Quebec. The declaration alleged that defendant had real estate in the district in which suit was brought: On exception déclinatoire, the service was sufficient, and defendant was properly sued. S. C., 1879, Ottawa, Cuddie vs Cassidy, 2 L. N., 346.

24. Le créancier peut, à son choix, pour une dette contractée à l'étranger, poursuivre l'absent devant le tribunal du district, ou de circuit, où il avait son domicile, ou devant celui du district, ou du circuit, où sont situés ses biens. C. S., 1883, Québec, Paradis vs Cuesteau, 9 R. J. Q., 117.

25. Une action contre un défendeur résidant aux Etats-Unis, qui n'a pas été assigné personnellement, sera renvoyée, sur exception déclinatoire, si le demandeur ne prouve pas que le défendeur a des biens dans la juridiction de la cour. C. S., 1884, Montréal, Redfield et al. vs Hardee, 13 R. L., 42.

26. Les compagnies d'assurance étrangères faisant des affaires en la cité de Montréal ne peuvent être poursuivies devant les tribunaux de la puissance du Canada que pour les obligations ou responsabilités par elles assumées en Canada. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Compagnie de Navigation du Richelieu et Ontario vs Phœnix Insurance Co. of Brooklyn, M. L. R., 2 C. S., 192; 9 L. N., 210.

27. The courts in the province of Quebec have no jurisdiction, in matters purely personal, over persons residing in the province of Ontario, when they have no property in the province of Quebec, when the cause of action did not arise therein, and they have not been personnally served within the territorial jurisdiction of such courts. C. C., 1887, Ottawa, Guest vs Carle and Dunn, 10 L. N., 156.

28. Goods in the possession of third parties for sale on commission constitute property in the sense of article 94 (4) C. p. S. C., 1900, Montreal, Lumsden vs Cowan et al., 3 Q. P. R., 155.

29. A non-resident defendant may be sued in a district where he owns shares of stock, and against residents of which he has claims, such claims and stocks constituting property in that district within the meaning of article 964 C. p., sect. 4.

30. Plaintiff should regularly, in order to make the jurisdiction of the court by reason of the defendant having property in the district, appear on the face of his action as instituted, have set forth in the writ or declaration that defendant had property in the district

31. Yet if defendant by his exception, tenders an issue to plaintiff upon the existence of such property by alleging that he does not come under any of the provisions of article 94 which would justify the institution of the action before the court seized therewith, and moreover meets the allegation of plaintiff's answer in which it is formally stated that defendant has property in the district, not by any objection thereto as being made in the answer, but by denial of its truth, he must be held to have waived any objection based upon the absence of allegation of said fact in the writ of declaration. S. C., 1901, Montreal, McCurry vs Reid, 4 Q. P. R., 261; 8 R. L., n. s., 101.

32. La présence dans cette province, d'une caisse de marchandises, achetée par le demandeur du défendeur, et refusée par lui, caisse que le commis-voyageur du défendeur chargé de la reprendre si elle était intégrale, prétend ne pas être intégrale, ne constitue pas des biens suffisants pour donner à nos tribunaux juridiction sur le défendeur.

33. Dans une poursuite dirigée contre une société de commerce étrangère, une signification faite à un commis-voyageur de la société dont les pouvoirs sont limités à prendre les commandes aux prix à lui fournis par ses patrons, n'est pas suffisante pour donner juridiction aux tribunaux de cette province. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Malouf et al. vs Zech et Fils, 5 R. P. Q., 153.

34. La cour Supérieure, à Montréal, est compétente pour connaître d'une saisie-revendication d'actions dans le fonds-capital d'une compagnie étrangère, lorsque le demandeur et le défendeur, ainsi que le tiers qui détient les certificats d'action (scrip) y sont domiciliés, et cette compagnie étrangère ne peut demander, par exception déclinatoire, le rejet, quant à elle, de cette saisie-revendication. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Kinsela vs Kinsela et vir et al., R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 270; 11 R. L., n. s., 129.

35. Article 103 C. p. does not authorize the holder of a note made out of the province of Quebec by a non-resident, and payable out of the province, to sue the maker thereof before the courts of the province of Quebec, because a subsequent endorser of the note, co-defendant, is domiciled therein. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Hackett vs Ryan et al., 8 Q. P. R., 380.

36. An action will lie before the Superior court of this province against an insurance company that has its chief place of business in Ontario, to recover, on a policy issued in that province, a loss by fire of property in the United States, but it must be brought in the district where the company has its chief place of business for this province, and service of process must be effected at such chief place of business. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Mutinier vs The Traders Fire Insurance Co., Q. J. R., 33 S. C., 411.

37. A foreign defendant can be sued in the province of Quebec, if he has property in said province which can be taken in execution for his debts.

38. In the present case the action being for the cancellation of a sale, the price whereof has not been entirely paid, and the goods being at Montreal, in the province of Quebec, these goods or the value thereof, are to be considered as defendant's property, and the latter who resides at Manchester, England, may be sued in the district of Montreal. K. B., 1909, Montreal, Porter vs The Canadian Rubber Co. of Montreal, Ltd., Q. J. R., 18 K. B., 534; 10 Q. P. R., 402.

39. Accident à l'étranger.—Lorsqu'un contrat pour louage de services est fait à Montréal par des personnes qui y sont domiciliées, et est exécuté en pays étranger, si un accident arrive à une des parties pendant l'exécution du contrat, les droits des parties et leur responsabilité, l'une vis-à-vis de l'autre, seront régis par la loi de la province de Québec, où l'action peut être intentée. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Lee vs Logan, 13 R. L., n. s., 543.

40. Acte d'Agriculture.—Sous les dispositions de l'Acte d'Agriculture, les juges de paix n'ont aucune juridiction pour décider sur le montant des dommages soufferts. Ces dommages doivent être constatés par des experts auxquels seul le statut a conféré l'autorité requise.

41. La cour sur appel prendra connaissance, ex officio, de la commission nommant les juges de paix, comme constatant la résidence de ceux qui ont rendu le jugement dont était appel. C. C., 1863, Montréal, St-Gemmes dit Beauvais vs Cherrier, 14 D. T. B. C., 82; 13 R. J. R. Q., 382.

42. Actes Impériaux.—In a prosecution before the judge of Sessions of the peace brought under the 153rd section of the Imperial Army Act, 1881, for enticing soldiers to desert: Such Act has no application in Canada with respect to persons not connected with the active militia. Sessions of the Peace, 1882, Quebec, Holmes vs Temple, 8 Q. L. R., 351.

43. Action alimentaire.—L'obligation du beau-père de fournir des aliments à sa belle-fille qui a des enfants, naît du mariage du beau-père et ne procède pas du mariage du fils. En conséquence, la cour Supérieure à Montréal, n'est pas compétente à juger une demande de pension alimentaire intentée par la bru contre son beau-père résidant à Québec, même lorsque la bru a épousé le fils du défendeur à Montréal et y a toujours demeuré avec son mari. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Snodgrass, ès-qual., vs Plunket, R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 366.

44. La cour Supérieure siégeant comme tribunal n'a pas juridiction pour réviser le jugement d'un juge en chambre accordant, dans une action pour pension alimentaire, une provision alimentaire pendant l'instance. C. S., 1895, Montréal, Lassiseraye vs Larue, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 146.

45. Une demande de pension alimentaire dont le montant total est inconnu, est du ressort de la cour Supérieure. C. C., 1897, Montréal, Marcotte vs Lachapelle et al., 1 R. P. Q., 128.

46. Action en expulsion et résiliation de bail.—Dans une action en expulsion, ce n'est pas le prix du bail qui règle la compétence, mais c'est la propriété dont on réclame la jouissance. B. R., 1843, Québec, Glackemeyer vs Day, 1 R. de L., 386; 2 R. J. R. Q., 70.

47. La procédure en saisie-gagerie et expulsion, sous l'acte 18 Vict., ch. 108, sect. 16, ne peut avoir lieu, à moins qu'il n'apparaisse d'un bail quelconque, ou de l'occupation avec consentement et permission de celui qui est réputé propriétaire. B. R., 1857, Montréal, Dubeau vs Dubeau, 8 D. T. B. C., 217; 6 R. J. R. Q., 213.

48. Les actions en résiliation de baux doivent être portées devant la cour Supérieure ou devant la cour de Circuit, selon que le montant demandé par l'action, pour loyers ou pour usage et occupation, ou pour dommages, est de la juridiction de la cour Supérieure ou de la cour de Circuit, et non d'après le loyer annuel ou la valeur annuelle de l'usage et occupation. B. R., 1877, Montréal, Dame Voisard vs Saunders, 22 J., 43; 1 L. N., 41.

49. Une action pour faire annuler un bail de meubles ne peut pas être intentée en vertu de l'article 887 du Code de procédure civile (Acte des locateurs et locataires), qui ne doit s'appliquer qu'aux immeubles. C. C., 1884, Montréal, Monarque vs Clarke, 7 L. N., 361.—B. C., 1888, Montréal, Lusignan vs Rielle et vir, 32 J., 323.

50. Dans une action en résiliation de bail où aucune somme d'argent n'est réclamée ni pour comme loyer, ni comme dommages, c'est la valeur du bail qui détermine la juridiction du tribunal; mais dans le cas où des sommes d'argent ont déjà été payées au locateur, c'est la balance due ou à devenir due en vertu de ce bail qui en fixe la valeur. C. S., 1886, Montréal, Wood vs Varin et Lardis, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 110; 15 R. L., 537; 10 L. N., 202.—C. S., 1895, Montréal, McPherson vs Gadbois, R. J. Q., 8 C. S., 428.

51. L'action en résiliation de bail emphytéotique ou de vente, pour défaut de paiement du prix par l'acquéreur, ou inexécution des obligations résultant du bail emphytéotique ou de la vente, est une action personnelle, qui est bien intentée dans le district où le contrat a été passé, quoique le domicile du défendeur et les immeubles en question soient situés dans un autre district. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Marsolais vs Grenier, 3 R. P. Q., 39; R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 296.

52. Une action par laquelle un locataire demande la résiliation d'un bail de $200 et $85 de dommages, est de la compétence de la cour de Circuit, et sera renvoyée à cette cour sur exception déclinatoire. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Yon vs Vallée, 2 R. P. Q., 562; R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 446.—C. S., 1901, Fraserville, Marneau vs Verret, R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 399.

53. La cour Supérieure a juridiction pour entendre une cause entre locateur et locataire, lorsqu'il est allégué que ce dernier ne garnit pas les lieux loués de meubles suffisants et qu'il a enlevé certains meubles sujets au privilège du locateur. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Devlin vs Robb, 8 R. P. Q., 417.

54. Action hypothécaire.—The court of King's Bench had jurisdiction in hypothecary actions under £10 sterling, notwithstanding the passing of 4th and 5th Vict., ch. 20. Q. B., 1843, Lower-Canada, Delery vs Lemieux, 3 R. de L., 402; 2 R. J. R. Q., 311.

55. Une action en déclaration d'hypothèque, pour une somme de $36, n'est pas du ressort de la cour de Circuit non appelable. C. C., 1877, Québec, Masse vs Coté, 3 R. J. Q., 322; 1 L. N., 179.

56. En vertu de l'article 1053 du Code de procédure, la cour Supérieure n'a pas juridiction pour connaître d'une action hypothécaire pour $60 dues pour taxes scolaires.

57. Semble, la cour de Circuit a juridiction exclusive dans les causes en recouvrement de taxes scolaires, quelque soit le montant. C. R., 1880, Québec, Commissaires d'Ecole de Sillery vs Gingras et al., 6 R. J. Q., 355; 4 L. N., 157; M L. R., 6 C. S., 273.

58. Dans une action en déclaration d'hypothèque, c'est le montant réclamé, indépendamment des conclusions prises, qui détermine la compétence du tribunal.

59. Une action en déclaration d'hypothèque pour une somme moindre que $100 est de la compétence exclusive de la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Laverdure vs Coté, Montreal Investment and Freehold Co., 1 R. P. Q., 76; R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 254.

60. Article 1053 of the Code of procedure, which says that the Circuit court has ultimate jurisdiction to the exclusion of the Superior court in all suits for school taxes or school fees, does not apply where the action is a hypothecary one. In such case, under articles 1142 and 1054 of the Code of procedure, the Superior court has jurisdiction. C. R., 1897, Montreal, School Trustees of the municipality of St-Henri vs Salomon, Q. J. R., 11 S. C., 329.

61. Dans une action pour arrérages de rentes constituées, le demandeur peut prendre des conclusions hypothécaires, et une telle action, quelqu'en soit le montant, est de la compétence de la cour Supérieure.

62. Ainsi une action hypothécaire, doit au chef-lieu d'un district, être intentée devant la cour Supérieure, et non devant la cour de Circuit. B. R., 1898, Québec, Labbé vs Routhier, 1 R. J. Q., 68; R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 263; — C. C., 1906, Québec, L'Hôpital Général vs Dufresne et al., 13 R. J., 395.

63. Une action par laquelle on réclame un montant inférieur à $100, mais qui contient des conclusions tendant à faire déclarer certains immeubles hypothéqués au paiement de cette somme et à faire condamner la partie défenderesse à les délaisser en justice, à défaut par elle de payer le montant du jugement, est du ressort de la cour Supérieure, quel que soit le montant réclamé. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Syndics de la Paroisse St-Paul de Montréal vs Compagnie des Terrains Suburbains de Montréal, 6 R. P. Q., 444.

64. Une demande hypothécaire non contestée sera renvoyée d'office par la cour Supérieure du district de Montréal, si l'immeuble hypothéqué est situé dans le district de Québec et si le défendeur est domicilié et assigné dans ce dernier district.

65. Cette demande sera renvoyée sans frais vu le défaut du défendeur de comparaître. C. S., 1909, Montréal, La Foncière, compagnie d'assurance, vs Bolduc, 11 R. P. Q., 309; 16 R. J., 117.

66. Sauf dans les districts de Québec et de Montréal, où sa juridiction est exclusive, la cour Supérieure a juridiction concurrente avec la cour de Circuit, siégeant ailleurs que dans un chef-lieu de district, pour connaître d'une action personnelle hypothécaire, pour une somme de $33.34. C. S., 1909, Hull, Campeau vs Deschambault et al. et The Northern Colonization Railway Co., R. J. Q., 37 C. S., 542.

67. Une demande pour taxes d'écoles, quand même elle serait prise en déclaration d'hypothèque, reste de la juridiction exclusive de la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1911, Montréal, The School Commissioners of the City of Westmount vs Galarneau, 13 R. P. Q., 10.

68. Action paulienne.—The plaintiff, a judgment creditor of one of the defendants, brought action in the district of Montreal to set aside a deed of sale of real estate situated in the district of Iberville, from the judgment debtor to the other defendant: On declinatory exception, such action was a purely personal one, and did not require to be brought where the real estate was situated. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Scriver vs Stapleton et al., 2 L. N., 190.

69. La cour de Circuit n'a pas juridiction pour prononcer sur le mérite d'une contestation de déclaration de tiers-saisi qui est une demande en révocation pour cause de fraude du transport d'une dette de $1,150. C. R., 1881, Québec, Lapointe vs Bélanger et Bilodeau et Chassé et al., 7 R. J. Q., 316; 5 L. N., 72.

70. Pour les actions pauliennes, comme pour toutes les autres actions révocatoires, la juridiction est déterminée par la valeur des choses qu'elles ont pour but de rétablir, les premières dans l'actif du cédant, les autres dans celui de la personne qui les intente. C. R., 1892, Québec, Beaulieu vs Levesque et al., R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 193; 16 L. N., 123.

71. Action pénale.—Les pénalités imposées en vertu des dispositions de l'Acte d'Agriculture, peuvent être recouvrées par action devant la cour de Circuit. C. C., 1863, Québec, Garneau vs Garneau, 13 D. T. B. C., 437.

72. The jurisdiction given by article 348 of the municipal Code to the Circuit court and district Magistrate's court, is exclusive of that of all other courts. C. R., 1886, Quebec, Delage vs Germain, 12 Q. L. R., 149.

73. La cour Supérieure, siégeant dans le district où une société commerciale a un établissement d'affaires ou succursale, est compétente à juger une action intentée contre cette société en recouvrement de l'amende imposée par le chapitre 65, S. R. B. C. C. S., 1888, Québec, Larue vs Patterson et al., 15 R. J. Q., 22; 12 L. N., 109.

74. La cour de Circuit a seule juridiction pour connaître des actions en recouvrement d'amendes encourues pour infractions aux dispositions de la loi des licences, lorsque le montant de la demande n'excède pas deux cents piastres. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Lambe vs Beauchamp, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 298; 16 L. N., 155.

75. Une action pour recouvrer un montant de $150 comme pénalité pour avoir vendu des liqueurs enivrantes, contrairement à la Loi des licences, doit être portée à la cour de Circuit, même dans les endroits où la juridiction appelable de la cour de Circuit a été enlevée. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Lambe vs Millaire, R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 94.

76. L'action créée par les sections 14 et 21 du chapitre 11 de la 57 Vict., 1894, étant une action spéciale, ne peut venir devant un autre tribunal que celui désigné par le Statut. C. C., 1894, Terrebonne, Paquin vs Craig, 1 R. J., 26.

77. It forms no part of the functions of the Superior court to enforce obedience to the criminal law, to the rules of the council of health, or to municipal by-laws, by means of orders granted in actions instituted by municipal corporation, to restrain unlawful acts complained of, unless it be alleged in the action or demand that such municipal corporation, as a civil corporation, suffers some specific damage.

78. The jurisdiction conferred by article 1042 m. C. upon the courts therein mentioned for the recovery of fines under municipal by-laws, is not exclusive of the jurisdiction conferred by article 48 of the Code of civil procedure upon the Superior court, in all cases not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Circuit court, and in consequence leaves within the jurisdiction of such Superior court, at the chef-lieu of the district, demands for the recovery of such fines where the amount demanded amounts to or exceeds one hundred dollars. S. C., 1906, Montreal, Corporation de la paroisse de Saint-Laurent vs Roy, 13 R. J., 527.

79. Une loi avec clause pénale qui déclare que la poursuite en recouvrement des amendes visées peut être intentée devant un tribunal qu'elle nomme est à cet égard permissive seulement et n'enlève pas la connaissance de la poursuite aux tribunaux de droit commun.

80. Par suite, une amende recouvrable en vertu de cette loi devant la cour de Circuit l'est également devant la cour Supérieure, si elle excède $100 ou $200. B. R., 1906, Montréal, La Corporation du Village St-Denis vs Benoit, R. J. Q., 15 B. R., 278.

81. La cour Supérieure est le tribunal compétent pour connaître de l'action en recouvrement de l'amende imposée à tout candidat qui se rend coupable de l'action de traiter (treating); il n'est pas nécessaire que cette demande soit faite sur une pétition en contestation d'élection. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Bourbonnais vs Lortie, 11 R. P. Q., 145.

82. Action personnelle.—A personal action follows the person, and a personal service in Montreal in a case where the contract was made in Ontario, gives jurisdiction to the tribunal in this place, under article 34 C. c. p. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Lafrance vs Jackson, 4 L. N., 60.

83. Where an endorser (who was discharged in consequence of not receiving notice of protest) was made a defendant solely in order to withdraw the other defendant (the maker) from the court of his own district, article 38 of the C. c. p. was held not to apply. S. C., 1884, Montreal, Bazier vs Martin et al., 7 L. N., 78.

84. Une action personnelle contre un débiteur résidant dans le district de Québec, en remboursement d'une somme d'argent due en vertu d'un acte de partage fait à Montréal, au sujet d'une succession ouverte à Montréal, compète au tuteur général des mineurs qui réclament cette somme, et une telle action prise par un tuteur nommé spécialement aux mineurs pour administrer leurs biens situés dans le district de Montréal, sera renvoyée sur exception à la forme. C. S., 1899, Montréal, Prévost vs Prévost, 2 R. P. Q., 75.

85. Les demandeurs avaient intenté une action accompagnée d'une saisie conservatoire, réclamant $700 comme prix du bois saisi, et demandant subsidiairement qu'ils fussent payés à même le prix de ce bois sur la vente qui en serait faite en justice.

86. Cette action n'était pas une action réelle au sens de l'article 100 du Code de procédure, et ne pouvait être intentée au lieu où se trouvait la chose saisie. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Auger et al. vs Moreau et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 285.

87. A defendant, having his domicile in the district of Quebec, who is summoned to Montreal for examination by means of a subpœna from the Superior court of the district of Montreal, can, then and there, be served personally with an action after his examination, and such service gives jurisdiction to the Montreal courts.

88. If said defendant complains of an abuse of legal process and fraudulent measures, it is incumbent on him to prove these allegations and if such proof was not made, his declinatory exception will be dismissed. S. C., 1909, Montreal, Hyde, ès-qual. vs Boswell, 10 Q. P. R., 388.

89. Action réelle.—Where a real action was brought in a different district to that in which the immoveable in question was situated: An appearance by a defendant without pleading to the form or to the merits of the action was a waiver of an exception to the jurisdiction. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Whyte vs Lynch et al., 17 J., 76; Q. J. R., 1 Q. B., 386; 23 R. J. R. Q., 102, 532, 558.

90. An action by which the plaintiff alleges that defendants collusively made and registered a mortgage before the mortgage given to plaintiff, and seeks to change the order of registration is not a matter purely personal. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Faucher vs Painchaud et al., 3 L. N., 316; 2 D. C. A., 168.

91. La cour Supérieure (ou la cour de Circuit, appelable) est seule compétente à connaître des causes relatives à des droits immobiliers, lors même que la demande est pour une somme moindre de $100. C. R., 1892, Québec, Beaulieu vs Levesque et al., R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 193; 16 L. N., 123.

92. In a real or mixed action, the defendant can only be summoned before the court of his domicile, or before that of the place where the thing in dispute is situated. C. R., 1905, Montreal, The Canadian General Electric Co. vs The Canada Wood Manufacturing Co., Q. J. R., 29 S. C., 148; 7 Q. P. R., 140; 11 R. L., n. s., 533.

93. Une action en annulation de certains actes et en reddition de compte de profits faits en vertu de ces actes, et dans laquelle le grevé de substitution est assigné comme mis en cause, pour qu'il soit déchu de la jouissance des biens allégués dans l'action et condamné à fournir caution, ou à laisser mettre sous séquestre les biens substitués, est une action mixte, où le grevé, mis en cause, est un véritable défendeur, et qui peut être intentée, indifféremment, dans le district du domicile du défendeur ou du mis en cause. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Resther, ès-qual., vs Hébert et al. et Drolet et Massue, 7 R. P. Q., 89; 11 R. L., n. s., 531.

94. Celui qui réclame des dommages causés par la chaussée d'un moulin, et qui conclut à la démolition de la chaussée, faute de paiement, exerce une action réelle de la compétence exclusive de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1907, Richelieu, Houle vs Ducharme, 8 R. P. Q., 326.

95. Action résolutoire.—L'action résolutoire intentée par un acquéreur, parce que le vendeur est incapable de lui transférer un titre valable, avec demande de remboursement des sommes payées sur le prix de vente, est une action personnelle; l'action pouvait être intentée devant le tribunal du lieu où le contrat a été passé. C. S., 1884, Montréal, Rough vs The Eastern Townships Bank, 29 J., 131.

96. Affaire municipale. — La cour Supérieure a juridiction pour connaître d'une poursuite pour le recouvrement d'une somme n'excédant $200, pour travaux faits par une corporation municipale sur des chemins aux frais du propriétaire. B. R., 1882, Québec, Ross vs La Corporation de la paroisse de Ste-Clothilde de Horton, 11 R. L., 520.

97. La contestation des résolutions des conseils, autorisée par l'article 100 du Code municipal, n'est pas, pour celle de la nomination des conseillers par le conseil, exclusive de celle que permettent les articles 1016 et suivants du Code de procédure. C. R., 1883, Québec, Paris vs Couture, Paris vs Brisson, Laliberté vs Barabé, 19 R. J. Q., 1.

98. Jurisdiction of the Superior court is not taken away by m. C. 100, in actions to set aside a procès-verbal or resolution of a municipal council.

99. The neglect to promulgate a by-law does not prevent a party interested from taking proceedings to set it aside. Q. B., 1886, Quebec, Corporation du comté d'Arthabaska vs Patoine, 4 D. C. A., 364; 12 Q. L. R., 57; 9 L. N., 82.

100. La juridiction donnée par les articles 401 et 1042 du Code municipal, à la cour de Circuit, à la cour du Magistrat ou à un juge de paix, en matière de recouvrement du coût des travaux de voirie, n'est pas exclusive de la juridiction de la cour Supérieure. B. R., 1887, Québec, Corporation d'Irlande Nord vs Mitchell, 13 R. J. Q., 32; 10 L. N., 200; 16 R. L., 534.

101. Bien que le Code municipal (arts 100 et 698) donne un recours devant la cour de Circuit et devant la cour du Magistrat pour la cassation de tout procès-verbal, rôle, résolution ou acte municipal quelconque, néanmoins la cour Supérieure ne cesse pas d'avoir juridiction dans une action directe au même but par un intéressé, vu le contrôle qu'elle possède sur toute corporation ou corps politique.

102. Lorsque l'acte fait par le conseil municipal est d'une nullité absolue, résultant du défaut de juridiction ou de l'exercice illégal ou d'abus de pouvoirs, une action peut être intentée devant la cour Supérieure pour le faire annuler, indépendamment des susdits recours.

103. Mais cette action en nullité ne peut être reçue favorablement qu'en autant qu'il résulte clairement pour le demandeur une illégalité grave et un préjudice réel, vu que la loi en permettant semblable action ne peut avoir pour objet que d'empêcher ou réprimer une illégalité et un préjudice sérieux; et encore faut-il qu'elle soit intentée sous un court délai et sans attendre qu'il ait été donné suite au procès-verbal. C. S., 1889, Montréal, Barbeau vs Corporation du comté de Laprairie, M. L. R., 5 C. S., 84; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 213; 12 L. N., 300; 20 R. L., 469.—B. R., 1889, Québec, Corriveau vs La Corporation de St-Valier, 19 R. J. Q., 87; 17 R. L., 440.—C. Supr. 1891, Montréal, La Corporation du comté de Verchères vs La Corporation du village de Varennes, 20 R. L., 467, 675; M. L. R., 7 C. S., 3; M. L. R., 7 B. R., 368; 14 L. N., 18; 15 L. N., 5; 19 R. C. Supr., 365.—B. R., 1891, Québec, Poulin vs Corporation d'Aubert-Gallion, 17 R. J. Q., 341.—C. R., 1892, Québec, Lacoursière vs Corporation du comté de Maskinongé et Grenier et al., R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 558; 16 L. N., 58.—C. S., 1893, Montréal, Corporation de la paroisse de l'Ile Bizard vs Poudrette dit Lavigne et al., et La Corporation du comté de Jacques-Cartier, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 81.—C. S., 1895, Beauharnois, Vincent vs Corporation du Comté de Beauharnois et Dubuc et al., 3 R. J., 7. —C. R., 1903, Québec, Thériault vs Corporation de Notre-Dame du Lac, R. J. Q., 24 C. S., 217; 9 R. J., 326; 10 R. L., n. s., 220.—C. S., 1905, Iberville, Bessette vs Corporation du comté d'Iberville, 13 R. J., 16.—C. S., 1907, Montréal, Emard vs Corporation du Village du boulevard St-Paul et Bélair, 13 R. J., 567; R. J. Q., 33 C. S., 155; 14 R. L., n. s., 53.—C. S., 1909, Montréal, Lennon vs La Cité de Westmount, 10 R. P. Q., 410.—C. R., 1909, Montréal, Allard et al. vs La Ville de Saint-Pierre et al., R. J. Q., 36 C. S., 408; 10 R. P. Q., 433.

104. Les cours de justice ne peuvent s'immiscer dans la gouverne intérieure des délibérations du conseil, lorsqu'aucune injustice ou illégalité n'a été commise. C. S., 1889, Kamouraska, Fortin et al. vs La Ville de Fraserville, 20 R. L., 44.

105. Les dispositions de la charte de la cité de Montréal, 52 Vict., ch. 79, sects 213 et 227, relativement à l'évaluation des dommages par des commissaires, n'enlèvent pas aux cours de justice leur juridiction ordinaire pour condamner la cité à payer des dommages et pour faire établir ces dommages d'après les modes de preuve ordinaire. C. S., 1892, Montréal, Lamarche et vir vs Cité de Montréal, R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 307; 16 L. N., 156.

106. La cour Supérieure est compétente à connaître d'une action, par un intéressé, en nullité d'un acte de répartition, même après l'expiration des trente jours de sa mise en vigueur, dans lesquels la demande en cassation doit être portée devant la cour de Circuit. B. R., 1893, Québec, Grenier et al. vs Lacourse et al., R. J. Q., 2 B. R., 445.

107. Le recours établi par l'article 100 du Code municipal, pour faire casser les résolutions d'un conseil municipal, n'est pas exclusif du droit accordé, par les articles 106 et suivants du Code de procédure civile, à toute personne intéressée, de porter plainte devant la cour Supérieure, lorsqu'un individu usurpe, prend sans permission, tient ou exerce illégalement une charge publique, et, partant, la prescription établie par l'article 708 du Code municipal ne s'applique pas à un recours par bref de quo warranto pour l'annulation de l'élection d'un conseiller municipal. C. R., 1893, Montréal, Bourbonnais vs Filiatrault, R. J. Q., 4 C. S., 13.

108. Même après avoir exercé les recours donnés par le Code municipal, soit devant le conseil de comté, soit devant la cour de Circuit, il y a encore lieu au recours devant la cour Supérieure. B. R., 1895, Ottawa, Corporation du Township de Ripon vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-André-Avellin, 1 R. J., 315; R. J. Q., 4 B. R., 167.

109. The Circuit court and Magistrates' court have power, on petition of a municipal elector, to quash by-laws and proceedings of municipal councils by reason of illegalities.

110. Municipal corporations are subject to the reforming power and control of the Superior court, but they will not be judicially interfered with in matters left by law to their discretion, unless it is shown that a fraud or an invasion of private rights has been committed, or that a palpable and manifest wrong has been inflicted. Q. B., 1896, Quebec, Corporation of the parish of St. Louise vs Chouinard et al., Q. J. R., 5 Q. B., 362.

111. Where the grounds upon which a municipal officer is sought to be ousted are any of those comprised in article 346 of the municipal Code, the Superior court is without jurisdiction to try the matter, the examination and decision of such contestations being, by article 348, vested exclusively in the Circuit court or Magistrates' court of the county. S. C., 1896, Quebec, Lajeunesse vs Nadeau, Q. J. R., 10 S. C., 61.

112. La juridiction exclusive conférée à la cour de Circuit et à celle du magistrat, par l'article 348 du C. m., ne s'étend qu'aux contestations de nominations de conseillers faites par les électeurs (346 C. m.) et non pas à celles faites par le conseil. C. R., 1897, Québec, Boissonnault vs Couture, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 532.

113. La requête en cassation d'un rôle d'évaluation, d'après l'Acte des clauses générales des corporations de villes (titre XI, ch. 1, S. R. Q.) peut être présentée au juge, en chambre, qui a juridiction pour entendre et décider cette requête. C. S., 1908, Chicoutimi, Truchon vs Ville de Chicoutimi, 6 R. J., 99; R. J. Q., 25 C. S., 55; 10 R. L., n. s., 365.

114. La cour Supérieure est compétente pour juger une action prise par un surintendant spécial nommé par le conseil de comté pour $150 de frais taxés par le dit conseil, dont la décision a été infirmée par la cour de Circuit du comté. C. S., 1899, Beauharnois, Martin vs Corporation du comté de Beauharnois, 2 R. P. Q., 99.—C. S., 1911, Trois-Rivières, La Corporation de la paroisse de Ste-Anne de la Pérade vs Lafleur et al., 12 R. P. Q., 376.

115. La cour Supérieure, même si l'article 100 C. m. n'existait pas, a juridiction lorsqu'une résolution d'un conseil municipal est attaquée en nullité parcequ'elle contient des instructions à un surintendant spécial sur la manière de faire son procès-verbal, et un intéressé peut toujours s'adresser à elle pour faire casser semblable procédure. C. S., 1899, Arthabaska, Dureault vs Corporation du Township de Tingwick, 2 R. P. Q., 223; 6 R. J., 79.

116. Pour donner juridiction à la cour Supérieure et lui permettre d'intervenir et de casser un procès-verbal d'un conseil municipal, passé dans les limites de ses attributions, il faut que le demandeur établisse clairement, soit l'illégalité du procès-verbal ou des procédures du conseil, soit une injustice grave, qu'elle équivaille à une oppression, et qu'elle soit l'indice d'une mauvaise foi manifeste.

117. La cour Supérieure n'est pas un tribunal d'appel des décisions des conseils municipaux. Le droit d'appel à un tribunal n'existe qu'en autant qu'il est spécialement donné par la loi.

118. La juridiction de la cour Supérieure, dans les affaires municipales, lui est donnée par l'article 50 C. p. c. (S. R. Q.). C'est un pouvoir de contrôle et de surveillance seulement, bien différent des pouvoirs d'une cour d'appel.

119. Une cour d'appel substitue son opinion sur le mérite de la cause, à l'opinion de la cour d'où vient l'appel, tandis que la cour Supérieure, sous l'autorité de l'article 50 C. p. c. n'a pas le droit d'empiéter sur les attributions qui appartiennent exclusivement aux autorités municipales, et de substituer son opinion à celle de ces autorités sur le mérite de leurs ordonnances passées régulièrement et dans les limites de leurs attributions.

120. Quand bien même la cour Supérieure, dans une action portée devant elle, sous l'autorité de l'article 50 C. p. c., serait d'opinion que les charges imposées, légalement et de bonne foi, dans un procès-verbal, auraient pu être réparties d'une autre manière et plus équitablement d'après elle, cela ne la justifierait pas de substituer, sur ce point, sa propre opinion à celles du conseil local et du conseil de comté qui aurait confirmé unanimement, sur appel, la décision du conseil local. C. R., 1900, Kamouraska, Thériault vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Alexandre, 8 R. J., 527; R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 45.

121. La cour Supérieure peut toujours casser les procédés d'un corps municipal lorsqu'ils sont injustes, arbitraires, ni dans l'intérêt public, ni dans celui même des contribuables pour lesquels on prétend législater.

122. En vertu de l'article 52 du Code municipal, le conseil de comté doit avoir devant lui pendant tout le temps que durent ses procédés sur une requête pour érection en ville les deux tiers des intéressés pour avoir juridiction; les contribuables qui ont signé une requête par erreur, ou sous de fausses représentations, ont droit de retirer leurs signatures de la dite requête. C. S., 1901, Arthabaska, Martin et al. vs La Corporation du comté d'Arthabaska, R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 329; (Rens. par la C. R., le 8 février 1902).

123. La deuxième partie de l'article 100 du C. m. décrète qu'une résolution ou un procès-verbal d'un conseil municipal peut être mis de côté par la cour Supérieure, pourvu que les frais encourus dans l'instance ne dépassent pas les frais et déboursés qui auraient été payables si la cause avait été commencée à la cour de Circuit.

124. Cette disposition de la deuxième partie de l'article est une loi d'exception et de droit strict qui n'a d'application que lorsqu'il s'agit de faire mettre de côté une résolution ou un procès-verbal d'un conseil municipal, elle ne peut avoir d'application lorsque l'action en cour Supérieure est en cassation d'un règlement municipal. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Filiatrault vs Corporation du village du Coteau Landing, 8 R. J., 496; R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 494.

125. La question de savoir si une requête pour cassation d'un procès-verbal est périmée ou non, pour défaut de présentation régulière en temps utile, est un incident dans la cause, et une matière de simple procédure, sur laquelle une cour qui a juridiction dans la matière principale, peut se prononcer, et a même juridiction exclusive.

126. Une cour de Magistrat, saisie d'une requête en annulation de procès-verbal, ne peut être alors considérée comme un tribunal inférieur parce qu'elle a juridiction spéciale, et concurrente avec la cour de Circuit dans ces matières, et, par conséquent, un bref de prohibition ne peut émaner contre elle lorsqu'ele prend connaissance de ce genre de causes. C. S., 1903, Terrebonne, Corporation de la paroisse de St-Jérôme vs St-Aubin et al., 9 R. J., 208.

127. La voie de requête en cassation d'un règlement municipal, n'est qu'une procédure additionnelle donnée à tout électeur; c'est une procédure plus facile que celle de l'action et pour avoir droit à cette requête il faut un cautionnement et qu'elle soit prise promptement.

128. Tout contribuable ou intéressé peut n'être pas électeur, et alors, si la voie par action était abolie, il faudrait dire que le contribuable ou intéressé non-électeur n'aurait pas de recours.

129. La voie de requête est un privilège donné à l'électeur, il peut se servir de ce privilège, mais il peut aussi choisir l'action ordinaire. C. S., 1903, Kamouraska, Deslauriers vs Ville de Fraserville, 13 R. J., 244.

130. Les tribunaux civils ne sont pas compétents à réformer les décisions des officiers municipaux sur des questions de fait, sauf le cas de fraude ou d'abus manifeste. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Pepin vs Pepin et al., R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 371.

131. Une action demandant l'annulation d'une résolution et d'un contrat comme ultra vires d'une municipalité n'est pas sujette aux conditions et prescriptions édictées par sa charte. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Aubertin vs Ville de Maisonneuve et Compagnie de chemin de fer Terminal de Montréal, 7 R. P. Q., 305.

132. Il y a recours à la cour Supérieure par action en cassation de réglement lorsqu'il y a illégalité, mais cette cour, dans l'exercice de son droit de contrôle et de surveillance, ne doit intervenir dans l'exercice de son pouvoir discrétionnaire, que quand il y a illégalité, abus de juridiction, fraude, injustice flagrante ou abus de pouvoirs. C. S., 1905, Joliette, Jeannotte vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Henri de Mascouche, 12 R. J., 33.

133. The Superior court has no jurisdiction to control the exercise of the discretion of municipal councils, unless such abuse arise as to indicate grave fraud and misconduct. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Demers vs Corporation du village de Laprairie and Demers, 12 R. J., 276.

134. Un règlement de la cité de Sorel, accordant un privilège pour l'exploitation d'un abattoir, ne peut être annulé que par un jugement de la cour Supérieure, dans une cause où la cité de Sorel est appelée et dans l'espèce, le magistrat de district n'avait pas juridiction pour le déclarer nul. C. R., 1905, Montréal, Lacouture vs Côté, 12 R. J., 335.

135. While a muuicipal corporation may, like any other person, seek redress by action before the courts of a specific wrong done it, in violation of the law, the courts have no jurisdiction,in the absence of such a wrong, to deal with a demand upon them by such a corporation to restrain breaches of it by-laws, or to authorize it to prevent them by physical means.

136. The Superior court has jurisdiction of actions to recover penalties imposed by municipal by-laws, when of an amount of one hundred dollars in Montreal and Quebec and of two hundred dollars in the other districts. S. C., 1906, Montreal, The Corporation of the parish of St. Laurent vs Roy, Q. J. R., 30 S. C., 333.

137. In the absence of fraud, or of an undue invasion of private rights, or of the wilful infliction of a palpable and manifest wrong, the Superior court will not use its reforming and revisory power to interfere with municipal corporations in matters left by law to their discretion. S. C., 1907, Quebec, Mercier et al. vs The Corporation of the county of Bellechasse, Q. J. R., 31 S. C., 247.

138. Un différend entre voisins touchant un fossé d'égout doit être référé à l'autorité municipale constituée à cette fin et ne saurait donner lieu à une demande en cour Supérieure. B. R., 1907, Montréal, Dansereau vs Dansereau, R. J. Q., 16 B. R., 426; R. J. Q., 29 C. S., 411.

139. Sous la section 4389 des S. R. Q., (Acte des Corporations de villes), la cour Supérieure est seule compétente à connaître des requêtes en cassation de règlement du conseil pour cause d'illégalité. B. R., 1907, Montréal, Migneron et al. vs Ville de St-Laurent, 13 R. L., n. s., 495.

140. Une requête de la part d'électeurs municipaux, demandant la cassation de résolutions passées par le conseil municipal d'une ville incorporée, est du ressort de la cour Supérieure, et la cour de Circuit n'a point juridiction en pareille matière, nonobstant l'article 23 de la Loi des Licences de Québec, tel qu'amendée par 3 Ed. VII, ch. 13, sect. 3. C. C., Sherbrooke, Guay et al. vs Corporation de la ville de Mégantic et Laroche, 9 R. P. Q., 350; 14 R. L., n. s., 347.

141. Il y a ouverture devant la cour Supérieure à l'action en cassation d'un règlement municipal, pour cause d'illégalité et d'excès de pouvoir, même alors que ce règlement a été passé par une corporation municipale, régie par l'Acte des cités et villes, 3 Ed. VII, ch. 38, sect. 368 et s., S. R. P. Q., art. 5332 et s. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Lennon vs Cité de Westmount, 15 R. J., 298.

142. La cour de Révision n'a pas juridiction pour entendre un appel sur une requête demandant l'annulation d'une évaluation municipale. C. S., 1909, Québec, Martel vs La Corporation de Marston, 11 R. P. Q., 11; 16 R. J., 146.

143. Le recours, par voie d'action devant la cour Supérieure, reconnu par le Statut 56 Vict., ch. 43, qui a amendé l'article 100 C. m., et par l'article 50 C. p. c., pour faire casser, pour cause d'illégalité, les décisions abusives et illégales des corporations municipales et juridictions inférieures, ne doit pas être considéré comme conférant à la cour Supérieure un droit de substituer arbitrairement son opinion à celle de ces corporations et juridictions, lorsque d'ailleurs elles ont agi légalement, dans les limites de leur juridiction et avec des motifs raisonnables. C. R., 1910, Montréal, Fontaine vs Desrosiers et al. et La Corporation du comté de Bagot, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 95.

144. L'article 100 C. m. ne confère à la cour de Magistrat, pour la cassation de décisions de conseils municipaux, qu'une juridiction limitée au cas d'illégalité. Par suite, une demande de cassation formée devant ce tribunal doit énoncer les causes d'illégalité de la procédure attaquée pour qu'il en puisse être saisi. C. Supr., 1910, Montréal, Désormeaux vs La Corporation de la paroisse de Ste-Thérèse et al., R. J. Q., 19 B. R., 481; 43 R. C. Supr., 82.

145. L'action en recouvrement des frais taxés d'un surintendant spécial, lorsque le montant excède $100.00, peut être portée devant la cour Supérieure. La juridiction donnée à la cour de Circuit par les articles 807 et 1042 du Code municipal, sur une telle demande, n'est pas exclusive de la juridiction de la cour Supérieure. C. S., 1889, Beauharnois, Martin vs La Corporation du comté de Beauharnois, 2 R. P. Q., 99.—C. S., 1911, Trois-Rivières, La Corporation de la paroisse de Ste-Anne de la Pérade vs Lafleur et al., 12 R. P. Q., 376.

146. Affaire scolaire. — On an exception déclinatoire, the Superior court has no jurisdiction to hear suits for the recovery of school taxes. S. C., 1876, Montreal, The School Commissioners of the municipality of Hochelaga vs Hogan et al., 20 J., 298.—C. R., 1879, Montreal, The Corporation of the township of Acton vs Felton et al., 24 J., 113.

147. A municipal corporation, when suing for municipal taxes before the Superior court, is not given the right by article 952 m. C., to sue for school taxes by the same action, the jurisdiction in suits for school taxes belonging under article 54 C. p. exclusively to the Circuit court. S. C., 1898, Sherbrooke, Corporation of the township of Dudswell vs Quebec Central Railway Co., 1 Q. P. R., 383.

148. La cour de Circuit a une juridiction en dernier ressort et privativement à la cour Supérieure pour toute demande de taxe d'école, et ses jugements en cette matière sont sans appel. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Commissaires d'écoles de la Cité de St-Henri vs Cité de St-Henri, 4 R. L., n. s., 506; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 144; 1 R. P. Q., 172.

149. In a suit in the Superior court, claiming municipal taxes to an amount exceeding $100, accompanied with a demand for school taxes, a declinatory exception asking the dismissal of that portion of the demand which is for school taxes, on the ground that the Circuit court has exclusive juridiction, will be maintained, notwithstanding article 170 C. c. p., it being impossible in such a case to transmit the whole record to the Circuit court. S. C., 1898, Sherbrooke, Corporation of township of Dudswell vs Quebec Central Railway Co., Q. J. R., 19 S. C., 116.

150. La loi scolaire ne donne aucun recours spécial au contribuable, il peut donc se prévaloir de l'article 50 C. p. c.

151. Un contribuable ne peut empêcher un acte illégal et injuste des commissaires, mais il peut toujours empêcher un acte ultra vires. C. S., 1910, Montréal, St-Denis vs La Commission des écoles catholiques de Montréal, R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 1.

152. D'après les provisions de l'Acte 45 Vict., ch. 29, sect. 2, et les articles 346 et s. du Code municipal, les contestations d'élection de commissaires d'écoles doivent être portées devant la cour de Circuit ou la cour de Magistrats, qui ont une juridiction exclusive en ces matières.

153. Partant le recours par bref de quo warranto établi par S. R. B. C., ch. 15, sect. 40, contre l'usurpation de telles fonctions, est abrogé.

154. Même si ce recours existait encore concurremment avec celui indiqué par la loi nouvelle, la simple élection des défendeurs comme commissaires d'écoles, sans qu'ils se soient immiscés dans l'exercice de telle charge, ne donnerait pas lieu à l'émanation d'un quo warranto. B. R., 1885, Montréal, Métras vs Trudeau et al., M. L. R., 1 B. R., 347; 8 L. N., 274.

155. La cour de Circuit et la cour des Magistrats ont juridiction, à l'exclusion de tout autre tribunal, pour la connaissance de contestation de commissaires d'écoles, fondée sur l'incapacité du commissaire élu.

156. Le défaut de juridiction de la cour Supérieure pour siéger dans ces sortes de causes doit être plaidé par exception déclinatoire et non par défense en droit, mais s'il est invoqué d'une manière irrégulière ou même s'il n'est pas invoqué, la cour doit soulever d'office ce défaut de juridiction.

157. Le fait que la requête pour faire destituer un commissaire, occupant sa charge illégalement, a été présentée trop tard, qu'elle n'est pas suffisamment libellée, n'est pas présentée au nom de personnes ayant le droit de contester une élection de cette nature, qu'elle n'a pas été régulièrement signifiée, que le requérant n'a pas donné le cautionnement voulu par la loi, sont des motifs d'exception à la forme et non pas de défense en droit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Joyce vs Hart, 1 R. P. Q., 299; R. J. Q., 14 C. S., 199.

158. Amendement.—Le tribunal dont la partie défenderesse a décliné la juridiction ne peut pas permettre au demandeur d'amender sa déclaration, tant que l'incident n'est pas vidé.

159. Dorion, juge en chef, a concouru dans le jugement, parce que l'amendement aurait été inutile, et non pas parce que le tribunal de première instance n'avait pas le droit de permettre l'amendement. B. R., 1881, Montréal, Sénécal vs Compagnie d'Imprimerie de Québec, 2 D. C. A., 57; 4 L. N., 414.

160. Annulation de lettres-patentes. An action for the annulment of a written agreement and for the recovery back of the consideration illegally obtained for said agreement, may be taken in the district where this action is personally served upon the defendant; the incidental asking for the nullity of the letters patent mentioned in the agreement cannot deprive the provincial courts of their jurisdiction in the matter. K. B., 1906, Montreal, Shawinigan Carbide Co. vs Wilson, 8 Q. P. R., 1.

161. Arbitrage.—The Superior court has no power to amend an award of the Board of Revisors of the Montreal Corn Exchange Association. If irregular, it must be set aside in toto. S. C., 1865, Montreal, Glassford vs Taylor, 1 L. C. L. J., 94; 18 R. J. R. Q., 167, 522.

162. La cour Supérieure, à Montréal, n'est pas compétente à connaître d'une action en exécution d'une sentence arbitrale, malgré que le compromis, l'instruction de la cause et la prononciation de la sentence aient eu lieu dans le district de Montréal, si la sentence a été signifiée aux défendeurs dans le district de

St-Hyacinthe, toute la cause d'action, dans ce cas, n'ayant pas pris naissance dans le district de Montréal. C. S., 1900, Montréal, La Corporation Episcopale Catholique Romaine de Nicolet vs Paquet et al., R. J. Q., 17 C. S., 447.

163. Questions between the provinces of Ontario and Quebec as to the distribution of money in the hands of the Government of Ontario belonging to the "Common School Fund" of the two provinces, were referred to arbitrators appointed under statute:

164. It was held that the arbitrators had no jurisdiction to entertain a claim of the nature of damages against the Ontario government in respect of money belonging to the fund which it was alleged that they had wilfully neglected or omitted to collect. P. C., 1902, Supr. C., Canada, Attorney-General for Ontario vs Attorney-General for Quebec, 2 B. J. P. C., 56; 87 L. T. R., 453; 72 L. J. R., n. s., 9; 19 T. L. R., 46.

165. By section 9 of the award dated September 3, 1870, made in pursuance of the British North America Act, 1867, section 142, it was directed that all money received by the province of Ontario since June 30, 1867, from the school lands set apart by Canadian statutes (consolidated by Can. Cons. Stat., 1859, ch. 26) and called the common school fund should be paid to the Dominion, and that the income derived therefrom should be paid to the provinces of Ontario and Quebec in the porportions specified in section 5 of that statute. On April 10, 1893, the three governments of the Dominion, Ontario and Quebec entered under statutory authority into an agreement of submission as to matters in difference in the settlement of account between them under the award of 1870, and for the ascertainment and distribution of the said school fund. Thereunder Quebec claimed that certain moneys, which it was admitted had not actually been received by Ontario, had been constructively received, since they were deductions which Ontario was not authorized to make except at her own expense, and should be the subject of distribution between them: The Supreme court was right in affirming an award to the effect that the arbitrators had no jurisdiction. Moneys actually received by Ontario were alone the subject of the submission, the terms of which could not be extended so as to force a contribution from a large constructive receipt. P. C., 1910, Canada, Attorney-General for the Province of Quebec vs Attorney-General for the Province of Ontario, L. R., 1911, A. C., 627; 42 Supr. C. R., 161 (1910); 80 L. J., P. C., 35; 103 L.T.R., 328; 26 T. L. R., 679; C. L. R., 1910, App. Cas., 509.

166. Arbitres de la Puissance.—The Dominion Arbitrators have jurisdiction, under the submission provided by the Statutes 54, Vict., ch. 6, (D.), 54 Vict., ch. 3, (O.), 54 Vict., ch. 4, (Q.), to hear and adjudicate upon the claims made by the Province of Quebec referring to the "Common School Fund and Lnds." Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Province of Quebec vs Province of Ontario and Dominion of Canada, In re Common School Fund and Lands, 31 Supr. C. R., 516.

167. Arrestation de navire.—A foreign vessel passing through waters dividing Canada from the United States under a treaty allowing free passage to ships of both nations is not, even when on the Canadian side, within Canadian control so as to be subject to arrest on a warrant from the Admiralty court.

168. A warrant to arrest a foreign ship cannot be issued until she is within the jurisdiction of the court Supr. C., 1907, Canada, Ship "D. C. Whitney" vs St. Clair Navigation Co. and Southern Coal and Transportation Co., 38 Supr. C. R., 303.

169. Assurance (feu).—An action on a premium note given for insurance in a Mutual Insurance Company, taken at Waterloo, in the district of Bedford, where the head office of the company was situated, and served on defendant in Verchères, in the district of Montreal, where he resided, and where the note was executed is illegal. The action should have been in the district of Montreal. C. C., 1879, Waterloo, Eastern Tow ships Mutual Fire Insurance Co. vs Bienvenue, 23 J., 316; 2 L. N., 363.

170. The right of action on a fire insurance policy is where the property is and where the application was taken, and not where the office of the company is. Q. B., 1880, Quebec, Tourigny vs Ottawa Agricultural Insurance Co., 3 L. N., 196.

171. Une compagnie d'assurance, dont le bureau d'affaire est dans Ontario, qui assure une bâtisse, située dans un district de la province de Québec, ne peut être poursuivie en recouvrement de la perte résultant de l'incendie dans le district ou l'incendie a lieu, si l'application a été faite dans un autre district par l'entremise d'un agent de la compagnie, et si la police est faite et datée du bureau d'affaires de la compagnie d'Ontario. C. R., 1857, Montréal, La Banque d'Ontario vs La Compagnie d'assurance sur le feu Standard, 15 R. L., 380.

172. Assurance (vie).—Where a life insurance company having its home in office New York, and its principal office for the province of Quebec in Montreal, and a local office in Quebec, had, upon application made in Quebec, issued a policy to a person residing in that city, and being sued for the amount of such policy was required by process, served at the Montreal office, to appear and plead before the Superior court at Quebec, and declined the jurisdiction: It was incumbent on the plaintiff to show that the policy had been executed in the district of Quebec; the proof adduced was insufficient for that purpose, on the contrary, there was reason to presume that the policy had been made and executed at the home office at New York, and the declinatory exception was, in consequence, maintained. S. C., 1876, Quebec, Vézina vs New York Life Insurance Co., 1 Q. L. R., 207.

173. Autorisation à ester en justice.—Le député-protonotaire n'a pas le droit d'autoriser une femme mariée à ester en justice. C. S., 1871, Terrebonne, Dame Dubé vs Mazurette, 5 R. L., 247.—C. S., 1871, Terrebonne, Dame Filion vs Lacombe, 5 R. L., 248.

174. Autorisation à poursuivre. — L'autorisation au curateur d'une cession de biens à poursuivre doit être donnée dans le district où cette cession a été faite, et la cour Supérieure d'un autre district où une action est intentée n'a pas juridiction pour ordonner au curateur de se pourvoir d'une nouvelle autorisation. C. S., 1910, Ste-Scholastique, Lamarche, ès-qual., vs Globensky Wilson, 11 R. P. Q., 347.

175. Barreau.—The council of this province, acting and taking cognisance of complaints against its members, have no jurisdiction, under C. S. L. C. ch. 72, to try a complaint against a member for an act done as a mere agent. S. C., 1862, Montreal, Devlin, ex parte, 7 J., 29; 12 R. J. R. Q., 1.

176. Le conseil du Barreau de Montréal a compétence pour entendre et décider une plainte accusant l'intimé, avocat pratiquant, d'avoir obtenu de son client une somme de $60 pour inscrire en révision un jugement renvoyant une saisie-arrêt, que l'intimé avait fait émaner comme procureur du plaignant, tandis qu'il avait alors lui-même réglé l'affaire avec les avocats de la partie adverse, qui lui avaient payé ses frais, ces faits étant de nature à constituer primâ facie un acte dérogatoire à l'honneur professionnel.

177. Et le fait que l'intimé aurait eu un intérêt dans la procédure en question, comme associé du plaignant sous le nom de son épouse, et qu'il avait, en outre, une réclamation de plus de $200 à exercer contre le plaignant, pour honoraires et déboursés, ne pouvait soustraire l'acte reproché au contrôle disciplinaire du conseil du Barreau, ni empêcher ce conseil de procéder sur la plainte qui lui était soumise, la loi donnant au Barreau juridiction sur tous les actes professionnels de ses membres, sans exception ni distinction.

178. L'allégation que le conseil du Barreau aurait, dans l'espèce, adjugé sans preuve, ou contrairement aux faits, et n'aurait pas pris l'enquête par écrit ou par notes ne suffit pas pour donner ouverture au bref de prohibition; mais le conseil n'ayant pas pris de notes de la preuve faite devant lui, comme il aurait dû le faire, et ayant par là privé l'intimé du bénéfice de l'appel au conseil général du Barreau que la loi lui accordait, il n'y avait pas lieu de condamner l'intimé aux frais du procès.

179. Le fait que le plaignant se serait désisté de sa plainte contre l'intimé, ne pouvait arrêter l'action disciplinaire du conseil, ni affecter en aucune manière la sentence prononcée par lui. C. Supr., 1898, Montréal, Le Barreau de Montréal vs Honan, 30 R. C. Supr., 1; R. J. Q., 8 B. R., 26.

180. Billet promissoire et Election de domicile.—Une poursuite pour le recouvrement du montant d'un billet daté dans un district et payable dans un autre, peut être intentée dans le district où le billet est payable et où le défaut de paiement a eu lieu.

181. Ainsi dans une action basée sur un billet daté de Montréal et fait payable à Montréal, quoique réellement signé à Québec, où les défendeurs sont domiciliés, toute la cause d'action prend naissance dans le district de Montréal, surtout si l'arrangement en vertu duquel ce billet a été donné en paiement partiel d'une dette antérieure, est intervenu à Montréal. C. S., 1873, Montréal, Clay on et al. vs McLean et al., 4 R. L., 654.—C. C., 1885, Montréal, Robillard vs Finn, 8 L. N., 79.—C. C., 1900, Montréal, Lévesque vs Roy et al., 3 R. P. Q., 369.

182. Contra: L'action en recouvrement du montant d'un billet promissoire, doit être instituée au lieu où la dette a été contractée et non à celui où le billet est payable.

182a. Dans la présente cause, les défendeurs, résidant à St-Hyacinthe, ont été poursuivis à Montréal, sur des billets promissoires datés à St-Hyacinthe, mais payables à Montréal, et l'action des demandeurs sera déboutée sur exception déclinatoire. C. S., 1877, Montréal, Mulholland et al. vs La Compagnie de Fonderie de A. Chagnon et al., 21 J., 114; 1 L. N., 202; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 361.

183. Une action instituée à Montréal, basée sur deux billets promissoires qui, bien que datés à Montréal, ont été, en réalité, faits et signés à Québec, où réside le défendeur, sera renvoyée au tribunal de Québec, sur exception ou motion déclinatoire du défendeur, alléguant ces faits, avec dépens contre le demandeur. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Cardinal vs Picher, 11 R. J., 283; 11 R. L., n. s., 533; 7 R. P. Q., 147.

184. Après l'échéance d'un billet promissoire, il n'est pas permis d'y ajouter un endossement, dans le seul but de soustraire le faiseur et les endosseurs bona fide à la juridiction de leur juge naturel, pour les traduire devant le tribunal du domicile de cet endosseur putatif. C. S., 1876, Montréal, Wilkes vs Marchand et al., 21 J., 118; 1 L. N., 209.

185. Le tiers, porteur de bonne foi d'un effet de commerce daté à Québec, mais réellement fait à Rimouski, ne peut assigner le prometteur de tel effet qu'à Rimouski. C. C., 1878, Québec, Lepage vs Billy, 4 R. J. Q., 383.

186. Une action basée sur des billets datés de Montréal et faits payables à Montréal, mais réellement faits dans le district de Beauce, où le défendeur a son domicile et où l'action a été signifiée au défendeur, n'est pas bien intentée dans le district de Montréal, et le dossier sera renvoyé, sur exception déclinatoire, à la cour de district de Beauce. C. C., 1878, Montréal, The National Insurance Co. vs Cartier, 20 J., 336.—C. S., 1900, Montréal, Lapierre vs Beaudoin, 3 R. P. Q., 386.

187. The right of action on notes signed in the country in blank, for goods sold there by a commercial traveller, but filled up and made payable in Montreal, is in Montreal. S. C., 1879, Montreal, Gnaldinger et al. vs Bertrand, 24 J., 8; 2 L. N., 377.

188. Une action peut être portée dans le district de Québec, pour le recouvrement d'un billet daté de Québec mais signé à Rimouski, et où le prometteur a son domicile. B. R., 1880, Québec, Danjou vs Thibaudeau et al., 1 D. C. A., 98; 6 R. J. Q., 351; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 361; 4 L. N., 120.

189. In an action on a premium note in a mutual insurance company where the application was made or taken in the district of Bedford to a company having its head office in Sherbrooke, in the district of St. Francis, and the note was made payable at Sherbrooke and the polidy issued there: The action was properly brought in Sherbrooke. C. R., 1880, Montreal, Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Stanstead vs Galiput et al., 3 L. N., 239.

190. La cour Supérieure, siégeant à Québec, est compétente pour juger une action portée sur un billet promissoire fait dans un autre district et sur un chèque fait dans ce même district mais daté de Québec, les défendeurs ayant leur domicile dans un autre district où l'action leur a été signifiée. C. S., 1888, Québec, Thibaudeau et al. vs Wright et al., 14 R. J. Q., 134; 11 L. N., 318.

191. Where the action was served on the defendant, at his residence and domicile, in the district of St. Francis, on a note which was executed by defendant at Windsor Mills, in the district of St. Francis, and delivered by him there to Roy & Cie, who endorsed and delivered the same to the plaintiff herein for value: The court in Montreal has jurisdiction. C. C., 1888, Montreal, Lacaille vs Connolly, 11 L. N., 44.

192. Where action is brought on a contract of subscription to a publication, in a district which is not that of the domicile of the debtor, the plaintiff must prove conclusively that the condition containing the election of domicile which is relied on to give jurisdiction was pointed out to the defendant by the agent when obtaining the subscription, and that the defendant agreed to be bound by such condition.

193. A condition in a contract such as the present is in the same position and is governed by the same rules as a condition on the back of a railway ticket or bill of lading. C. C., 1889, Montreal, Belden et al. vs Christie, 33 J., 335.

194. Une lettre de change, faite et datée à Montréal, payable à Montréal, mais acceptée par les défendeurs à Coaticook, ne peut être recouvrée en justice à Montréal, la Cour n'ayant pas de juridiction; l'action doit être intentée au lieu où la lettre de change a été acceptée, ce dernier endroit étant le lieu où a pris naissance le droit d'action.

195. Une lettre de change, acceptée sans que rien n'indique à quel endroit elle a été acceptée, est censée l'être au domicile de celui qui l'accepte. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Lockerby et al. vs Weir et al., M. L. R., 6 C. S., 285; 13 L. N., 283; 1 R. L., 256.

196. Celui qui signe, à son domicile, un billet promissoire daté d'un endroit dans un autre district, accepte par là même la juridiction des tribunaux de ce dernier district, au cas d'une poursuite ultérieure sur ce billet. C. S., 1890, Montréal, La Banque du Peuple vs Prévost, 20 R. L., 7; M. L. R., 6 C. S., 88; 13 L. N., 172.

197. Where a deed or writing, whether commercial or civil in its nature, is dated, or declared therein to be made and signed, at a place other than the real domicile of the party sought to be charged thereunder, he is considered to have made election of domicile at such place (if there be no indication of a place of payment), and an action based on the writing may be brought against him before the court of his elected domicile. Q. B., 1892, Montreal, Beaulac vs Leclaire, Q. J. R., 1 Q. B., 351; Q. J. R., 1 S. C., 360.— S. C., 1900, Montreal, Nozon Co. vs Yelle, 6 R. L., n. s., 199.

198. Aux termes de l'article 85 C. p. c. l'indication d'un lieu de paiement dans un billet constitue une élection de domicile.

199. L'action en recouvrement du montant d'un billet, daté à Montréal, fait payable à Huntingdon, dans le district de Beauharnois, et souscrit par des personnes résidant dans ce dernier district, doit être instituée dans le district de Beauharnois et non dans celui de Montréal. B. R., 1896, Montréal, Wilson et al. vs Cameron et al., 3 R. J., 306; R. J. Q., 7 C. S., 487; R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 171; R. J. Q., 6 B. R., 289.

200. Aux termes de l'article 85 C. c. tel qu'amendé par 52 Vict., ch. 48, l'indication d'un lieu de paiement dans un billet, quel que fût lieu de sa date, équivalait à une élection de domicile au lieu ainsi indiqué, et le signataire de tel billet pouvait être valablement assigné devant le tribunal de ce domicile élu. (Art. 94 C. p. c.).

201. Le Statut 52 Vict., ch. 48, a été rappelé par le Statut 63 Vict., ch. 36, mais cette loi nouvelle n'affecte pas les élections de domicile antérieures, vu que l'élection de domicile est une clause essentielle d'un contrat et constitue un droit acquis qui ne peut être affecté par une loi postérieure.

202. Une action instituée à Montréal en recouvrement de billets datés et payables à Montréal, et faits et signés avant la sanction du Statut 63 Vict., ch. 36, sera déclarée bien fondée, ce dernier Statut ne pouvant affecter l'élection de domicile contenue aux dits billets et les droits acquis en résultant et, dans ces circonstances, une exception déclinatoire sera renvoyée comme mal fondée. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Merchants' Bank of Halifax vs Graham, 7 R. J., 229; 3 R. P. Q., 415; R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 319.

203. The article 85, C. c., as amended by 52 Vict., ch. 48, (Que.), providing that indication of a place of payment in any note or writing should be equivalent to election of domicile at the place so indicated, requires that such place should be actually designated in the contract. Supr. C., 1901, Canada, Magann vs Auger et al., 30 Supr. C. R., 186; Q. J. R., 16 S. C., 22.

204. The stipulation in a written contract that in the event of any dispute, action should be brought before the court in this district when such contract is entered into, is not contrary to law, and does not, in any way, deprive courts of their regular jurisdiction, but is merely calculated to serve the interests of justice. S. C., 1902, Montreal, Compagnie de Laiterie de St-Laurent vs Côté, 9 R. J., 210; 6 Q. P. R., 153. (Conf. par la C. A. le 19 mars 1903).

205. Un demandeur qui poursuit sur plusieurs billets promissoires peut intenter son action dans le district où l'un de ces billets est daté, quand même ce billet serait en renouvellement d'un précédent billet fait, ainsi que les autres billets, dans le district où réside le défendeur, en paiement du prix d'une vente faite dans ce dernier district. C. S., 1904, Montréal, Guertin vs Roy, 6 R. P. Q., 206.

206. Lorsqu'un billet a été consenti et signé dans le district des Trois-Rivières, que le contrat en vertu duquel ce billet a été donné y a été passé, et qu'il contient en outre une élection de domicile dans ce même district pour toutes les contestations auxquelles il peut donner lieu, une action intentée dans le district de Montréal sera renvoyée sur exception déclinatoire. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Compagnie de Laiterie St-Laurent vs Trottier. 7 R. P. Q., 428.

297. Brevet d'invention.—Lorsque deux tribunaux ont une juridiction concurrente sur une affaire, celui qui en est d'abord saisi, est le seul compétent à la juger suivant la maxime prior tempore, potior jure.

208. Une défense alléguant la déchéance du brevet pour violation des conditions imposées par la section 8 est mal fondée, si le ministre de l'Agriculture ou son député a, avant la production de cette défense, déclaré que la déchéance n'avait pas eu lieu pour telle violation. C. Supr., 1883, Ottawa, Smith et al. vs Goldie et al., 18 R. L., 478.—Ministre d'Agriculture, 1886, Telephone Manufacturing Co. of Toronto vs Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, 18 R. L., 463.

209. Section 28 of the Patent Act of 1872, after specifying certain cases in which patents are to be null and void, provided that in case disputes shall arise under this section as to whether a patent has or has not become void, such disputes shall be settled by the Minister of Agriculture or his deputy whose decision shall be final: A court or judicial tribunal for the determination of the matters referred to in the section was constituted by the Act; the constitution of such a court was not ultra vires the Dominion Parliament as infringing provincial legislation; and it was competent for the Minister to decide as to the existence of disputes arising for his decision. Prohibition therefore was refused. C. P., 1884, Ontario, Bell Telephone Co. vs Telephone Manufacturing Co. and the Minister of Agriculture, 7 O. R., 605; 9 O. R., 339; 4 Cart., 618.

210. The Minister of Agriculture, or his deputy, has exclusive jurisdiction as to the question of the validity of a patent under sections 28 and 37 of the Patent Act, and cannot divest himself of it by relegating it to any other tribunal whatever. Supr. C., 1883, Canada, Smith et al. vs Goldie, 18 R. L., 478.—Ex. C., 1885, Toronto, Telephone Manufacturing Co. of Toronto, vs Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, 2 Ex. C. R., 524.—Ministre d'Agriculture, 1886, Telephone Manufacturing Co. of Toronto vs Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, 18 R. L., 463.—Ministre d'Agriculture, 1889, Ottawa Royal Electric Co. of Canada vs Edison Electric Light Co., 12 L. N., 90; 2 Ex. C. R., 576.

211. To give the commissioner jurisdiction to authorize the re-issue of a patent it is not necessary that the patent be defective or inoperative for some one of the reasons specified in section 23 of The Patent Act. It is sufficient to support his jurisdiction that he deems the patent defective or inoperative for any such reasons, and his decision as to that is final and conclusive. Ex. C., 1897, The Auer Incandescent Light Manufacturing Co. vs O'Brien, 5 Ex. C. R., 243.

212. In an action against a company for infringement of a patent the venue should be laid at the place of the registry which is nearest the head office of the company. Supr. C., 1899, British Columbia, Short vs Federation Brand Salmon Canning Co., 6 B. C. L. R., 436.

213. The Superior court sitting at Montreal has jurisdiction to try an action, served personally on the defendant within the district, to rescind a contract of assignment of patent rights on the ground that the patent is void, although the defendant had elected his domicile at Ottawa when applying for the patent and never had a domicile in the province of Quebec.

214. The impeachment of the patent in such a case is made incidentally and the court cannot thereby be ousted of its jurisdiction to try the main issue, the rescission of the contract. K. B., 1906, Montreal, Shawinigan Carbide Co. vs Wilson, Q. J. R., 15 K. B., 240; 12 R. J., 133; 12 R. L., n. s., 25; 7 Q. P. R., 369.

215. Capias.—The question of jurisdiction cannot be tried by motion, the defendant must proceed by declinatory exception. S. C., 1854, Montreal, Darling vs Cowan, 1 M. C. R., 127.

216. Where a capias had been issued based on a claim of $72.65: The Superior court had jurisdiction to condemn the defendant to pay the amount, although the capias had been quashed. S. C., 1857, Montreal, Elwes vs Francisco, 1 J., 188; 6 R. J. R. Q., 19.—S. C., 1874, Montreal, Prévost et al. vs Ritchot, 18 J., 72; 23 R. J. R. Q., 359, 559.

217. La cour Supérieure n'a pas de juridiction pour accorder jugement au demandeur dans une poursuite de $68.00, accompagnée de capias, lorsque ce capias n'a pas été exécuté. C. S., 1874, Beauharnois, Tessier vs Legault, 5 R. L., 472.

218. Le bref de capias basé sur une créance résultant d'un jugement ne peut émaner dans un district autre que celui où le jugement a été rendu. B. R., 1883, Montreal, Mathewson vs Bush, 18 R. L., 7; 3 D. C. A., 195. 4 L. N., 342.

219. The courts of this province have jurisdiction to issue a writ of capias against a defendant presently within, but domiciled outside of the province of Quebec and Ontario, where the cause of action arose within this province. S. C., 1896, Montreal, Jacobs vs Goldberg, 1 Q. P. R., 169.

220. The rules governing the use of the writ of capias ad respondendum are those of the place where the arrest under the writ is made; they are those of the lex fori, and not those of the lex loci. Therefore, the fact that the alleged secretion of effects by a debtor, arrested under a writ of capias in the province of Quebec, took place in another province of the Dominion of Canada, is not a bar to the exercise by the creditor of his remedy by way of capias in this province, if the debtor be found within the jurisdiction.

221. The mere knowledge by the creditor issuing the capias, that a criminal proceeding had been issued by another creditor, and the fact that the former had contributed to pay the expenses of such criminal proceeding, are not sufficient to rebut the presumption of good faith, so as to deprive the said creditor of the remedy by capias against his debtor while the latter is within the jurisdiction. Q. B., 1898, Montreal, Gault Brothers Co. Limited vs Cloutier, Q. J. R., 7 Q. B., 546.

222. Lorsqu'elle a compétence sur le fond, la cour Supérieure peut émettre et faire exécuter dans la province d'Ontario un bref de capias. C. S., 1905, Montréal, Gravel et al. vs Lizotte, 7 R. P. Q., 201; 11 R. L4 n. s., 496.

223. Cause d'action.—The Circuit court sitting in any given circuit has jurisdiction in actions, the cause of which has arisen within the limits of such given circuit, although the defendant reside in a district other than that in which such given circuit is situated, and has been served with process in such other district. S. C., 1850, Quebec, Hardy et al. vs Trottier et al., 1 L. C. R., 286.

224. Where a hypothecary action was attacked by declinatory exception: The circuit within which the détenteur held possession, and not the circuit in which the contract was made, was the place where the cause of action arose. S. C., 1854, Sherbrooke, Morkill vs Cavenagh, 4 J., 7; 8 R. J. R. Q., 59.

225. Une vente effectuée au moyen d'une correspondance entre le demandeur et le défendeur, résidant dans différents districts, la livraison étant faite dans le district du demandeur, le paiement devant être fait au moyen d'un billet payable dans le district du défendeur, ne constitue pas une cause d'action originant dans le district du demandeur de manière à ce qu'une action puisse être intentée dans tel district. C. S., 1856, Québec, Warren vs Kay et al., 6 D. T. D. B., 492; 15 R. L., 380; 5 R. J. R. Q., 153; 12 R. J. R. Q., 246; 19 R. J. R. Q., 97, 543.

226. Une dénonciation faite dans un district, et l'arrestation de l'accusé faite dans un autre district, lieu de sa résidence, donne droit à ce dernier de poursuivre en dommages le dénonciateur, dans le district où l'arrestation est faite, quoique le dénonciateur ne réside ni dans l'un ni dans l'autre de ces districts. C. S., 1860, Montréal, Sénécal vs Pacaud et al., 10 D. T. B. C., 419; 8 R. J. R. Q., 439.

227. Pour assigner un défendeur à repondre à une action dans un autre district que celui de son domicile, il faut que toute la cause d'action, c'est-à-dire, tous les faits qui constituent le droit d'action aient eu lieu dans ce district, et l'on ne peut pas réunir plusieurs actions qui ont pris naissance dans différents districts pour distraire un défendeur de la juridiction de son domicile.

228. Le défaut de livraison des effets vendus et de paiement du prix constitue une cause d'action. B. R., 1861, Montréal, Sénécal vs Chènevert, 6 J., 46.—C. S., 1868, Montréal, Gault et al. vs Wright et al., 1 R. L., 88; 13 J., 60; 19 R. J. R. Q., 95.—C. S., 1875, Québec, Connolly vs Brannen, 1 Q. L. R., 204.—B. R., 1881, Montréal, Archambault vs Bolduc, 2 D. C. A., 110.—C. C., 1889, Montréal, McCready vs Préfontaine, 18 R. L., 118.—C. S., 1890, Montréal, Fraser vs Gilroy, 19 R. L., 80; R. J. Q., 2 C. S., 77.—C. S., 1902, Montréal, Lipschitz vs Rittner, 4 R. P. Q., 311; 8 R. L., n. s., 157.

229, Pour permettre à un demandeur d'assigner le défendeur dans un autre district que celui de son domicile, en vertu de l'article 34 C. p. c., sous le prétexte que l'action est portée dans le district où le droit d'action a pris naissance, il faut que ce droit ait pris naissance dans un seul district; si, au contraire, il a pris naissance dans différents districts, l'action doit être portée devant le tribunal du domicile du défendeur, à moins qu'il ne soit assigné personnellement dans un autre district. B. R., 1881, Montréal, Faucher vs Brown, 2 D. C. A., 168; 3 D. C. A., 213.

230. A debtor who has his domicile in the district of Montreal where the contract of sale was signed, cannot be sued in the district of Quebec, where the goods are to be delivered and are payable.

231. A cause of action is the entire set of facts that gives rise to an enforcible claim; the phrase comprises every fact, which, if traversed, the plaintiff must prove, in order to obtain judgment. S. C., 1907, Quebec, Joly vs Godbout, 9 Q. P. R., 93.

232. Dans le cas de marchandises achetées dans un district et livrées dans un autre, l'acheteur ne peut être assigné dans le district où l'achat a été fait s'il n'y a pas son domicile, ou si la sommation ne lui a pas été signifiée personnellement dans ce district.

233. Il faut que toute la cause d'action soit née dans le même district pour donner juridiction à la cour, et dans le cas actuel il aurait fallu le concours de la vente et de la livraison dans le même district. C. C., 1862, Montréal, Ricard vs Leduc et al., 6 J., 116; 10 R. J. R. Q., 208; 13 R. J. R. Q., 431.

234. Dans le cas d'une obligation exécutée dans le district de Québec, la cause d'action avait originé dans ce district, quoique les deniers mentionnés dans l'obligation fussent, aux termes d'icelle, payables en Angleterre. C. S., 1862, Québec, Jackson et al. vs Coxworthy et al., 12 D. T. B. C., 416; 10 R. J. R. Q., 111 515; 14 R. J. R. Q., 118; 15 R. L., 381.

235. Although the defendant resided in Lower Canada, an action for the rescission of a lease of property situated in Upper Canada is not within the jurisdiction of the court here. S. C., 1862, Montreal, Senaner et al. vs Porter et al., 7 J., 42; 12 R. J. R. Q., 20.

236. Where a resident of Toronto ordered goods by letter from a merchant in Montreal, and also gave verbal order for goods to the travelling agent of the merchant at Toronto, and action was brought in Montreal: On the declinatory exception, the cause of action arose in Montreal, not in Toronto. S. C., 1863, Montreal, Clark vs Ritchey, 9 J., 234; 14 L. C. R., 48; 12 R. J. R. Q., 246.

237. Dans le cas d'un défendeur poursuivi pour le prix de vente d'une terre située dans le district où l'action a été commencée, et la signification faite au défendeur dans un autre district, où il avait son domicile, et dans lequel l'acte de vente avait été exécuté, la cour n'a pas juridiction, la cause d'action ayant originé dans un autre district. C. C., 1864, Montréal, Gauthier vs Gratton, 14 D. T. B. C., 442; 13 R. J. R. Q., 228.

238. Where a contract for the sale of goods was made with defendant in Montreal, through the agent in Montreal, of the plaintiffs, who were a foreign company, and the moneys were sent to the agent so that the defendant could not have got the goods from the Custom House in Montreal, without applying to the agent of the plaintiffs, but were at defendant's risk the moment they were placed on the railway at Boston: The cause of action did not arise in a foreign country. Q. B., 1865, Montreal, Gregory vs The Boston and Sandwich Glass Co., 9 J., 134; 15 L. C. R., 475; 1 L. C. L. J., 37; 14 R. J. R. Q., 114; 23 R. J. R. Q., 16.

239. The defendant in Upper Canada consigned to the plaintiff in Montreal 2.000 barrels of flour, to be sold, and in anticipation of the sale, drew on the plaintiff for $6,000, which plaintiff accepted and paid. The flour, on being sold, however, did not realize so much, and the plaintiff brought action for the difference: The cause of action arose in Montreal. Q. B., 1867, Montreal, O'Connor vs Raphael, 11 J., 123; 2 L. C. L. J., 229; 17 R. J. R. Q., 1, 534; 19 R. J. R. Q., 97, 541.

240. Where a party in Quebec gave an agent of the plaintiff there an order for goods to be supplied by the plaintiffs in Montreal, according to a sample exhibited by the agent, and the order was filled, and the goods supplied at Montreal, the right of action arose in Montreal. C. C., 1870, Montreal, Joseph et vir vs Paquet, 14 J., 186; 20 R. J. R. Q., 116, 521.

241. A debtor is liable to be sued at the place where the debt was contracted, but not at the place where it was made payable merely on account of the debt having been made payable there. C. C., 1871, Arthabaska, Pacaud vs La Compagnie de Télégraphe de Montréal, 2 R. L., 601; 21 R. J. R. Q., 92.— S. C., 1874, Quebec, Wurtele vs Lengham et al., 1 Q. L. R., 61.

242. The court at Montreal has no jurisdiction to compel defendant to answer a suit on a draft made at Montreal, but payable at St. Hyacinthe, and accepted accordingly. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Greene et al. vs Blanchette, 20 J., 196.

243. To an action in Montreal by a creditor of a railway company against a shareholder for the amount due on his shares, defendant filed declinatory exception, saying that he resided in Stanbridge, in the county of Missisquoi, and that the cause of action arose in Bedford in said county, which was the place where he subscribed for his shares: The cause of action arose at Montreal, where the company had its principal office and where judgment was rendered for the debt due by the company. S. C., 1876, Montreal, Welch vs Baker, 21 J., 97; 1 L. N., 202.

244. Lorsque des objets dont le prix est réclamé en cette cause, ont été vendus sur échantillon, au défendeur, à son domicile, à Richmond,dans le district de St-François, etc., et en outre, au moyen d'un ordre par écrit, ostensiblement daté de Montréal, mais en réalité signé à Richmond, et lui furent expédiés à cet endroit par chemin de fer.

Ce marché a été consenti à Richmond, district de St-François, et la cause d'action en cette instance, y a originée, bien que le dit écrit paraisse à sa face même, avoir été daté et signé à Montréal; et partant la présente action sera déboutée sur exception déclinatoire sauf recours. C. S., 1875, Montréal, Railway and Newspaper Advertising Co. vs Hamilton et al., 7 R. L., 261; 20 J., 28; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 361.—C. S., 1878, Montréal, Shupe vs Vasey, 23 J., 295.

245. Si une vente d'effets a eu lieu dans un district et qu'un écrit est ensuite fait, quelques jours plus tard dans un autre district mais daté du district où la vente a eu lieu, dans ce cas, le droit d'action a pris naissance dans le district où la vente a eu lieu. C. S., 1883, Joliette, Riopelle et al. vs Fleury, 12 R. L., 85; R. J. Q., 1 C. S., 361.

246. Une compagnie d'assurance ayant son domicile à Montréal, et émanant ses polices de Montréal, prend des risques à Québec par l'entremise de son agent résidant en ce dernier endroit: La compagnie peut être poursuivie à Québec, le droit d'action y ayant pris naissance. C. S., 1878, Québec, Omalley vs Scottish Commercial Insurance Co., 4 R. J. Q., 226.

247. A suit brought in the district of Quebec against a defendant residing at Moisie, in the district of Saguenay, for work done there under a verbal hiring at Quebec, will be dismissed on declinatory exception. S. C., 1878, Quebec, Trudel vs Duval, 4 Q. L. R. 180.

248. Where the defendant, domiciled at Montreal, wrote to the plaintiff, a resident of Arthabaska, requesting him to take charge of his, the defendant's, lands at the latter place, and promising to indemnify him for his services: An action for the value of such services brought in the district of Arthabaska was properly dismissed on exception déclinatoire. C. R., 1878, Quebec, Cloutier vs Lapierre, 4 Q. L. R., 321.

249. Lorsqu'un commis voyageur fait une vente de marchandises à la condition que la vente soit approuvée de son patron, si celui-ci approuve ensuite, la vente est censée faite au lieu où le commis l'a faite, et non au lieu où son patron l'a approuvée. C. C., 1880, Montréal, Desmarteau et al. vs Mansfield, 3 L. N., 136.—B. R., 1881, Montréal, Gault et al. vs Bertrand, 24 J., 9; 25 J., 340; 2 L. N., 411.—C. C., 1904, Québec, Rock City Tobacco Co. vs Girard, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 453.—C. S., 1904, Montréal, Compagnie de Ferronnerie du Canada vs Delorme, 6 R. P. Q., 215.—C. S., 1908, Montréal, Silver vs Pinsonnault, 9 R. P. Q., 255.

250. Une action pour marchandises vendues au défendeur domicilié dans le district de Terrebonne, par le commis-voyageur de la demanderesse, autorisé par elle à recevoir le paiement de ses marchandises, alors que le fret que le défendeur paie sur les marchandises est déduit de son compte, prend naissance dans le district de Terrebonne et le dossier sera renvoyé sur exception déclinatoire à la cour de ce district. C. C., 1899, Montréal, Montreal Brewing Co. vs St-Vincent, 2 R. P. Q., 363.

251. When goods are shipped and delivered, at Montreal, to a purchaser residing in Chicoutimi, under an agreement previously entered into between such purchaser and the seller's agent, at Chicoutimi, the cause of action arises in the district of Chicoutimi. S. C., 1905, Montreal, Dawes et al. vs Claman, 12 R. J., 334.

252. When goods are sold in the province of Ontario by a commercial traveller who does not disclose the fact that the sale is subject to the approval of his principal, then the contract of sale is completed there, and no action lies in the district of Montreal where the principal is living and doing business. S. C., 1908, Montreal, Silver vs Holliday, 9 Q. P. R., 360.

253. Contra: When goods are sold through a commercial traveller, whose power as agent of the seller is limited to taking orders from customer subject to the approval of his principal, the contract is only perfected by such approval and acceptance.

254. Hence, when an order is given in Morrisburg, Ont., and accepted and approved by the seller in Montreal, the contract takes place in the latter city, and an action for the recovery of the price from the purchaser will lie there under article 94 C. c. p. § 5. S. C., 1870, Montreal, Thompson et al. vs Dessaint, 14 J., 184; 20 R. J. R. Q., 114, 521.—C. R., 1873, Montreal, Lapierre vs Gauvreau, 17 J., 241; 3 R. C., 78; 23 R. J. R. Q., 209, 553.—C. C., 1880, Montreal, Prévost vs Jackson, 3 L. N., 136.—C. S., 1907, Montreal, Morris vs McDonald, R. J. Q., 32 S. C., 507; 9 R. P. Q., 67.—S. C., 1909, Montreal, Brock and Co., Ltd. vs Forget, 11 Q. P. R., 21.

255. Lorsqu'une commande de marchandises est signée dans Ontario et remise à un commis-voyageur n'ayant pas l'autorité de vendre, et la commande est acceptée par le principal à Montréal, d'où la marchandise est expédiée aux frais de l'acheteur, le contrat a pris naissance à Montréal, et l'acheteur peut y être assigné en justice.

256. Ce contrat n'est pas une vente conditionnelle, soumise à l'article 1085 du Code civil, qui, par l'accomplissement de la condition, c'est-à-dire, l'approbation du principal, a un effet rétroactif au jour de la signature de la commande, mais le contrat même n'a d'existence qu'au moment où le principal a donné son consentement. C. R., 1908, Montréal, Morris vs McDonald, 14 R. L., n. s., 423.

257. The cause of action in a suit brought by a mutual insurance company against a member, arises where the policy is dated and where the application is accepted, and at the place where the head office of the company is situated, and not where the deposit note and application are made. S. C., 1881, Montreal, Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Joliette vs Desrouselles, 4 L. N., 220.

258. In an action for the infringement of a patent, plaintiff laid the venue in Hamilton, while the defendant was a resident of Toronto: Regarding the language of section 24 of the Patent Act, 1872, the venue should be laid in the county where the defendant resided; and an order was made under rule 254 to change the place of trial to Toronto. P. C., 1881, Ontario, Goldsmith vs Walton, 9 P. R., 10.

259. The word "may" in 35 Vict., ch. 26, sect. 24 (D.), was obligatory and not merely permissive, and the venue in an action to restrain the infringement of a patent, must be laid at the place of sittings of the court in which the action is brought, nearest to the place of residence or business of the defendant. Held, also, that section 24 was not ultra vires the Dominion Parliament. P. C., 1882, Ontario, Aitcheson vs Mann, 9 P. R., 253, 473.

260. S'il y a plusieurs défendeurs résidant dans la même juridiction, on ne peut les assigner légalement dans le district où l'un d'eux l'a été personnellement, et où la cause d'action n'a point pris naissance, et où ils ne sont point domiciliés. C. C., 1882, Malbaie, Bouchard vs Morison et al. et Maltais, 10 L. N., 239.

261. The original contract, which was for advances to get out timber, was made at Quebec. It being found advantageous to sell the timber in England the parties subsequently agreed that the plaintiff should send the timber there to be sold, the plaintiff paying the expenses at Quebec and in England. The action was well issued in the district of Quebec. Q. B., 1883, Quebec, Conroy vs Ross, 6 L. N., 154.

262. Le contrat par un negotiorum gestor ne lie les parties qu'après que l'obligé a été averti par le représenté qu'il le ratifiait, le lieu du contrat est celui où l'obligé en a reçu et accepté la proprosition, et une condition de livraison dans la province de Québec n'est pas suffisante pour donner juridiction au tribunal du district où elle devait s'effectuer et permettre d'y assigner la partie qui résidait et s'est obligée dans la province d'Ontario. C. R., 1883, Québec, Tourigny vs Wheler et al., 9 R. J. Q., 198; 6 L. N., 336.

263. Where the action is for damages for failure to perform a contract, the debtor may be sued at the place where the contract is made, though the failure to perform occurred in another district. Q. B., 1883, Montreal, Quebec Steamship Co. vs Morgan, 6 L. N., 324.

264. Dans une action en dommages pour libelle par un journal qui circule dans différents districts, il faut limiter la demande de dommages au district où l'on veut faire comparaître le défendeur en dehors de celui de son domicile. B. R., 1885, Québec, Blumhart vs Larue, 11 R. J. Q., 252.

265. Liability for tort is governed by the lex loci actus, and, in an action by an employee against his employer arising out of a personal injury, is not affected by the law of the place where the contract of lease and hire of work was made. Hence, when a railway company, running trains in both the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, hired one of its servants in Quebec, and he was injured through the fault of the company in Ontario, his claim for compensation is governed by the law of the latter province. S. C., 1910, Montreal, Marleau vs The Grand Trunk Railway Co. et al., Q. J. R., 38 S. C., 394; 12 Can. Ry. Cas., 149.

266. Lorsque des actions ont été souscrites au fonds capital d'une compagnie à un de ses agents, dans un district autre que celui où la dite compagnie a son bureau d'affaires, la cause d'action est censée avoir pris naissance dans le lieu où les dites actions ont été souscrites.

267. Lorsque le consentement du débiteur a été donné dans un district et celui de la compagnie dans un autre, toute la cause d'action n'a pas originé dans le district où la dite compagnie a son bureau d'affaires. C. R., 1885, Montréal, Ross et al., ès-qual. vs Fontaine, 30 J., 297.

268. Le défendeur fit, du district de Kamouraska, application à une compagnie incorporée, à Montréal, pour des parts qui lui furent accordées par les directeurs, à cette dernière place. Plus tard, il fut poursuivi pour des versements sur ces parts. L'action fut intentée à Montréal et signifiée au défendeur dans le district d'Ottawa où il était domicilié.

269. Toute la cause d'action n'ayant pas originé dans le district de Montréal, le consentement du défendeur à prendre les dites parts ayant été donné dans un autre district, la cour, siégeant à Montréal, n'avait pas de juridiction. C. R., 1885, Montréal, Ross et al., ès-qual., vs Rouleau, M. L. R., 1 C. S., 424.

270. Une personne engagée à Montmagny, pour aller travailler sur la ligne du chemin de fer que construisait la compagnie du Pacifique dans la province d'Ontario, ne peut poursuivre la défenderesse à Montmagny, endroit où elle a été engagée, pour recouvrir d'elle des dommages occasionnés par le refus de la dite défenderesse de procurer de l'ouvrage au demandeur, quand celui-ci s'est présenté pour obtenir de l'ouvrage à l'endroit où la compagnie construisait la dite ligne de chemin de fer dans la province d'Ontario. C. R., 1885, Québec, Meservier vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 11 R. J. Q., 161.—C. C., 1885, Montmagny, Paquet vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 8 L. N., 79.

271. The declaration alleged a transfer by plaintiff to defendant, at Quebec, of certain railway shares, which the latter by contre lettre signed and dated there, undertook to return within two months, upon payment of $50,000. It further alleged a notarial demand of re-transfer,accompanied by tender of the amount named, made upon the defendant at Montreal, and his refusal to return the shares, and that in fact he had sold and converted them to his own use. Conclusion for $200,000 damages. The writ issued from the Superior court, Quebec, and was served upon the defendant in Montreal, his domicile, and he declined the jurisdiction: The cause of action had arisen in the district of Quebec, and declinatory exception dismissed with costs. S. C., 1886, Quebec, McGreevy vs McDougall, 12 Q. L. R., 110.

272. Where goods are ordered by letter written in the province of Ontario, and addressed to the city of Montreal, and the goods are shipped by the vendor at Montreal, addressed to the purchaser in Ontario, an exception déclinatoire will not lie to an action instituted at Montreal for the recovery of the price. C. C., 1887, Montreal, Gannon vs Sauvé, 10 L. N., 211.—C. R., 1904, Montreal, Dame Tinassi et vir vs Polangio, 6 Q. P. R., 253, 452.

273. Dans le cas ou un commerçant expédie des marchandises sur une commande contenant un ordre formel, le contrat est parfait par l'exécution qu'en fait le commerçant à qui la commande est adressée, sans autre déclaration de sa part, et la cause d'action origine alors à l'endroit où le contrat a été exécuté. C. S., 1887, Montréal, Gratton vs Brennan, M. L. R., 3 C. S., 95; 15 R. L., 713; 10 L. N., 186.

274. Les dispositions de l'article 34 du Code de procédure civile, qui permettent, en matière purement personnelle, de soustraire le défendeur de ses juges naturels, et de porter la demande devant les tribunaux du lieu où le droit d'action a pris naissance, ne sont pas applicables aux poursuites pour aliments, qui doivent être intentées devant le tribunal du domicile du défendeur. C. S., 1888, St-Hyacinthe, Bradford vs Sharkey et uxor, 18 R. L., 664.

275. La cour Supérieure, siégeant à Québec, n'est pas compétente à connaître d'une action contre un défendeur domicilié et assigné à Sherbrooke, et poursuivi comme garant, en vertu d'une convention faite à Sherbrooke, du remboursement d'effets négociables endossés par lui, partie à Sherbrooke et partie à Québec. C. S., 1889, Québec, Ross et al. vs Robertson, 16 R. J. Q., 381; 14 L. N., 111.

276. Le tribunal compétent pour connaître d'une action en dommages pour défaut d'exécution d'une obligation, est celui du lieu où l'obligation a été contractée, et non pas celui du lieu du défaut de cette exécution, l'obligation elle-même constituant le droit d'action. C. S., 1890, Montréal, The Western Assurance Co. et al. vs Bossière frère et cie, 20 R. L., 233.

277. Lorsque des marchandises ont été en partie ordonnées et achetées à Montréal et que le reste a été ordonné et acheté par lettre du défendeur au demandeur, la cause d'action a originé à Montréal où l'action peut être intentée pour le tout. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Cartwright vs McCaffrey, M. L. R., 7 C. S., 41; 14 L. N., 52.

278. Where the contract of sale and the delivery of the goods are made and completed in Ontario, where the vendor's domicile is, the purchaser's right of action in respect of such contract arises there; and the fact that the purchaser, who is domiciled in another province, subsequently complains of inferiority of quality and claims damages, does not entitle him to implead the vendor before the court of the plaintiff's domicile, where the demand is not served upon the defendant personally within such jurisdiction. S. C., 1893, Montreal, Vipond et al. vs Grimmon, Q. J. R., 3 S. C., 536.

279. An action for the price of goods sold and delivered at Montreal, may be brought in the court at Montreal, though the defendant be domiciled in the province of Ontario and be served therein; and since the amendment of articles 68 and 69 by 53 Vict., ch. 55, it is no longer necessary in such case that the defendant should have property in the province of Quebec. S. C., 1893, Montreal, Racette vs Bate et al., Q. J. R., 4 S. C., 391.

280. In an action for monies advanced by plaintiff for the use of the defendant, the advances being to meet overdrafts against cattle shipped by defendant to England, the right of action arises in the place where the monies were advanced. S. C., 1894, Montreal, Fraser vs Ryan, Q. J. R., 5 S. C., 175.

281. Le demandeur alléguait que les défendeurs avaient retiré sans droit le montant d'un chèque payable à leur ordre, à Montréal, mais qui était la propriété d'une succession vacante dont il était le curateur. Les défendeurs étaient domiciliés dans le district de Terrebonne, ils y avaient endossé le chèque et l'avaient remis à un notaire de l'endroit, avec instruction d'en percevoir le montant et de le placer à son crédit, mais pour leur compte, à la banque d'Hochelaga, à Montréal. Ce dernier transmit le chèque par la poste à la banque d'Hochelaga, à Montréal, laquelle le fit payer par la banque de Montréal et en plaça le montant au crédit du notaire. Les défendeurs demandèrent, par exception déclinatoire, le renvoi de l'action du demandeur: Le notaire, agent des défendeurs, ayant réellement perçu le chèque à Montréal, par l'entremise de la banque d'Hochelaga, les défendeurs, qui se trouvaient liés par ses actes, étaient censés avoir eux-mêmes fait cette perception à Montréal; de plus, ils étaient devenus, par leur endossement, parties à ce chèque payable à Montréal, et étaient réputés y avoir fait élection de domicile, ce qui suffisait, aux termes de l'article 85 du Code civil, pour donner juridiction au tribunal de Montréal. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Lamarche, ès-qual. vs Bonnafous et al. et Girouard, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 154.

282. Lorsqu'un contrat a été fait dans un district pour faire des ouvrages dans un autre district, lesquels ouvrages ont été exécutés dans ce dernier district, le droit d'action ne prend pas naissance dans le district où le contrat a été fait. C. S., 1896, Montréal, Roy et al. vs Kennedy, R. J. Q., 9 C. S., 111.

283. Une action réclamant des dommages à raison d'une dépêche télégraphique injurieuse, transmise d'un district dans un autre, peut être intentée dans le district où la dépêche a été reçue par le destinataire. C. C., 1897, Ste-Scholastique, Leduc vs Théoret, R. J. Q., 11 C. S., 395; 3 R. J., 167.

284. Dans le cas où une demande contient deux causes d'action, dont l'une est de la compétence du tribunal devant lequel elle est portée, et dont l'autre n'est pas de sa compétence, le défendeur ne peut faire exception déclinatoire. C. S., 18981 Montréal, Richmond Industrial Co. vs Thomas et Jones, et Ball, 5 R. L., n. s., 21.

285. Une action ne peut être prise dans le district de Montréal pour des marchandises commandées par lettre et expédiées dans le district d'Arthabaska, aux frais du défendeur. C. C., 1898, Montréal, Madore vs Courchêne, 1 R. P. Q., 489.

286. Une action en dommages basée sur une lettre transmise d'un district à un autre peut être intentée dans le district où cette lettre a été reçue, même si la déclaration allègue d'autres injures, non pour en faire la base des dommages additionnels, mais pour prouver malice. C. C., 1898, Montréal, Daumerie vs Robert, 1 R. P. Q., 97.

287. Le défendeur, par une lettre envoyée de Québec à Montréal, avait prié un correspondant résidant en cette dernière ville de retenir les services d'une agence de police pour découvrir les auteurs d'un vol commis à Québec, et ce correspondant avait engagé à cette fin les demandeurs. Sur poursuite par ces derniers pour le prix de leurs services: La cause d'action avait pris naissance dans le district de Montréal et l'action pouvait y être intentée. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Carpenter et al. vs Pinault, R. J. Q., 13 C. S., 352; 4 R. L., n. s., 328; 1 R. P. Q., 271.

288. Dans un achat de marchandises, toute la cause d'action prend naissance à l'endroit où l'ordre d'achat est accepté et les marchandises expédiées. C. C., 1898, Arthabaskaville, Rinfret vs Morrissette, 1 R. P. Q., 444.

289. The courts of the province of Quebec have no jurisdiction to try an action based upon a conversion, in Victoria, of goods shipped there from Quebec, nor a motion to amend a declaration founded on those facts. S. C., 1899, Quebec, Duchaine vs Freel, 2 Q. P. R., 278.

290. Quand le contrat sur lequel est basée l'action a pris naissance dans une proposition des défendeurs, envoyée aux demandeurs à Montréal, par lettre, et acceptée par eux, également par lettre, ce contrat a été fait à Kingston et les tribunaux du district de Montréal n'ont pas juridiction. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Beaubien Produce and Milling Co. vs Richardson et al., 3 R. P. Q., 464.

291. Le fait que la cause d'action a pris naissance dans le district où l'action est intentée doit apparaître dans la déclaration, et si cela est nié, le demandeur ne peut, dans une réponse à l'exception déclinatoire, alléguer des faits additionnels qui donneraient juridiction au tribunal. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Merchants Bank of Halifax vs Graham, 4 R. P. Q., 55.

292. La cause d'une action pour faire exécuter une sentence arbitrale reçue dans un district et signifiée dans un autre, ne prend pas naissance entièrement dans le premier district, et le défendeur peut décliner la juridiction du tribunal de ce district s'il n'y a pas son domicile et si la demande ne lui a pas été signifiée. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Corporation Episcopale Catholique Romaine de Nicolet vs Paquette et al., 3 R. P. Q., 144.

293. Le contrat par correspondance se forme au lieu où l'acceptation est arrivée à la connaissance du correspondant.

294. Une action en dommages pour insuffisance et mauvaise qualité des marchandises achetées est bien intentée dans le district où ces marchandises devaient être délivrées, vérifiées et payées. C. S., 1901, St-Hyacinthe, Dame Reeves et vir vs McCullock et al., 4 R. P. Q., 285; 8 R. L., n. s., 143.—C. S., 1903, Montréal, Schmidt vs Crow, 5 R. P. Q., 361.

295. Une action en recouvrement du prix de bois vendu à Bécancour, dans le district de Trois-Rivières, mais mesuré à Montréal, ne peut être instituée dans le district de Montréal, même alors qu'elle est accompagnée de saisie conservatoire en vue d'assurer aux demandeurs la restitution du bois non encore livré et la reconnaissance de leurs droits tant sur le bois que sur les deniers entre les mains de tierces personnes.

296. Une telle action sera déclarée mal fondée et renvoyée devant la cour Supérieure du district de Trois-Rivières. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Auger et al. vs Moreau et al., et Peruse et al., 8 R. J., 235.

297. Quand le vendeur d'objets déterminés quant à l'espèce seulement, qui réside dans Ontario et qui, en vertu d'un contrat qui a été complété à Montréal, envoie d'Ontario les choses vendues, à l'acheteur, à Montréal, si l'acheteur qui les a payées d'avance, ne trouve point les choses expédiées conformes aux conventions, et les refuse, son action pour recouvrer ce qu'il a payé et les frais, ne pourra être intentée à Montréal, parce que toute la cause d'action n'a pas pris naissance à Montréal, le fait de l'envoi, dans Ontario, étant une partie de la cause d'action.

298. Les choses transmises à Montréal, et que l'acheteur refuse d'accepter, doivent être considérées comme un bien appartenant aux défendeurs, pour les fins de la poursuite et donnent compétence au tribunal, à Montréal. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Hislop et al. vs Bernatz et al., 3 R. P. Q., 451.

299. Le demandeur qui se plaint qu'un objet à lui livré par le défendeur, à la suite d'un contrat par correspondance, et expédié à un client, n'était pas conforme à la commande, ne peut intenter son action dans le district du domicile du client qui refuse d'accepter l'objet.

300. Dans le cas où un objet vendu est refusé par l'acheteur, qui le met à la disposition du vendeur et réclame de lui des dommages, cet objet ne constitue pas un bien pouvant donner juridiction à la cour du district où il se trouve. C. S., 1901, Richelieu, Forman vs United Electric Co., 4 R. P. Q., 148.

301. En l'absence de conventions contraires, les effets mobiliers vendus sont présumés livrables et payables au domicile du vendeur, et, partant, sur une vente d'effets mobiliers consentie à Montréal, par un vendeur domicilié dans le district de Terrebonne, en l'absence de convention contraire, la livraison des dits effets sera présumée devoir être faite et le prix en être payable dans le district de Terrebonne.

302. Une action instituée à Montréal par l'acheteur pour dommages résultant du défaut de livraison des effets ainsi vendus sera renvoyée devant la cour du district de Terrebonne, sur exception déclinatoire. C. S., 1902, Montréal, Lipschitz vs Littner, 8 R. J., 87; 8 R. L., n. s., 189.

303. Une action basée sur une lettre contenant des propos diffamatoires, expédiée du district des Trois-Rivières à l'adresse d'une personne demeurant dans le district d'Arthabaska, là où la lettre a été reçue et lue, peut être portée dans ce dernier district. C. S., 1902, Drummondville, Marcotte vs Thérien, R. J. Q., 22 C. S., 315.

304. La vente de choses in genere est faite au lieu où les objets ont été pesés, comptés ou mesurés, et l'action peut être intentée au lieu où telle opération a eu lieu. C. C., 1902, Montréal, Gravel vs Durocher, 4 R. P. Q., 435; 8 R. L., n. s., 281.

305. Un contrat fait par téléphone pour achat de marchandises à être expédiées par le vendeur, aux frais et risques de l'acheteur, n'est pas censée fait au lieu d'où se fait cette expédition de marchandises.

306. La réception, par le vendeur, de lettres confirmant les achats faits par téléphone n'est pas suffisante pour donner juridiction à la cour du district où ces lettres ont été reçues et d'où l'expédition des marchandises a été faite. B. R., 1902, Montréal, Walker vs Walker et Gervais, 5 R. P. Q., 330.

307. Where an employee, hired in the province of Ontario to work in the district of Pontiac claimed that he had been wrongfully discharged in the latter district, and suffered damages from frost bites, etc., while on his way back from the shanties where he had been working, the whole cause of action did not arise in this province. S. C., 1903, Bryson, Landry vs Hurdman Q. J. R., 25 S. C., 378; 5 Q. P. R., 273; 9 R. L., n. s., 271; 11 R. L., n. s., 128. (Conf. par la C. R., le 27 mars 1903).

308. Une action instituée à Montréal et signifiée dans Ontario, où réside le défendeur, dans laquelle le demandeur allègue qu'il a avancé au défendeur plus d'argent que pour la valeur des effets reçus, sera renvoyée sur exception déclinatoire, par le motif que le contrat entre les parties étant intervenu dans la province d'Ontario, la réclamation du demandeur relative aux avances ne peut être qu'un incident de tel contrat, et en conséquence toute la cause d'action ne se trouve pas à avoir pris naissance dans le district de Montréal. C. S., 1903, Montréal, Hamel et vir vs Stapleton, 9 R. J., 365.

309. Si une commande est donnée à un voyageur de commerce de faire expédier par un voiturier des choses qui sont au magasin du vendeur et livrées ensuite au voiturier pour être remises à l'acheteur, le contrat est fait au lieu et à l'endroit où cette remise a lieu, et la cour de ce district a compétence pour prendre connaissance d'une action pour le prix des marchandises ainsi vendues et livrées. C. C., 1903, Montréal, Gravel vs Gendreau, 5 R. P. Q., 360.

310. Bien que des offres pour l'achat de marchandises soient envoyées de la province d'Ontario, par lettre ou par télégramme, telles offres sont réputées faites, quant au vendeur, au lieu de leur réception, et le contrat y est alors devenu parfait ou complet par leur acceptation.

311. Partant, le tribunal du lieu de telle acceptation, qui, dans l'espèce, était aussi le lieu de la livraison des marchandises, est compétent à connaître l'action en recouvrement du prix de ces marchandises. C. R., 1904, Montréal, Timossi vs Palangio, R. J. Q., 66 C. S., 70; 10 R. L., n. s., 451; 11 R. L., n. s., 425.

312. La convention qu'une partie fera pour l'autre un achat de fruits pendant la saison qui s'ouvre, moyennant une commission sur le prix, à être fixée plus tard, est un contrat au sens du paragraphe 5 de l'article 94 C. p. c.

313. Le tribunal du lieu de cette convention est compétent à juger les actions qui peuvent en naître. B. R., 1905, Montréal, Archambault vs Laroche, R. J. Q., 14 B. R., 380; 7 R. P. Q., 165.

314. Un demandeur poursuit en dommages, alléguant que le défendeur, qui est de Québec, l'aurait induit à quitter son emploi à Montréal, pour aller travailler pour lui à Québec, et aurait ensuite refusé de l'employer aux termes convenus. Toute la cause d'action n'a pas pris naissance dans le district de Montréal, et le défendeur doit être poursuivi dans le district de son domicile. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Stevens vs Valiquet, 7 R. P. Q., 477.

315. Lorsqu'une partie des marchandises dont le prix est réclamé a été vendue et livrée dans un district, et l'autre partie, dans un autre district, chacune des dites ventes constitue un droit d'action, et le défendeur peut être assigné devant le tribunal du lieu où l'assignation peut être donnée pour chacune d'elles. C. S., 1906, Montréal, Chapman Dart Co. vs Chevalier, 8 R. P. Q., 50.

316. When goods are ordered, whether verbally to an agent or by letter mailed from the district of Ottawa, and delivery of the goods is made there, then the whole cause of action arises in said district, and no action will lie in the district of Quebec where the seller of the goods is residing and doing business. S. C., 1907, Quebec, Amyot vs Bélanger, 9 Q. P. R., 6.

317. Lorsqu'un écrit signé par l'agent du vendeur contient non seulement un ordre ou une offre d'acheter, mais qu'il est un véritable contrat de vente, l'action pour le prix de vente des marchandises doit être intentée dans le district où cet écrit a été signé. C. S., 1908, Montréal, Watterson vs Beaudry, 10 R. P. Q., 84.

318. La vente faite par un commis-voyageur, même sans condition de ratification de son patron, se forme dans le lieu où le contrat est passé par le commis. C. S., 1910, Sherbrooke, The Walter Blue Co. vs Reid, 11 R. P. Q., 205.

319. Si un acheteur demeurant dans le district de Joliette écrit à son vendeur qui réside dans le district de Montréal pour changer la nature de sa commande, le contrat est complété dans le district de Montréal où la nouvelle commande est acceptée.

320. Une action en dommages par l'acheteur contre le vendeur pour inexécution du contrat devra être intentée dans le district de Montréal. C. C., 1910, Joliette, Courchêne et al. vs The Maritime Nail Co., 12 R. P. Q., 19.

321. L'offre de marchandises déterminées par leur espèce et leur prix au poids, sans mention de quantité, suivie d'une acceptation pour une quantité spécifiée, en forme une vente parfaite, conclue, lorsqu'elle est par correspondance, au lieu où la lettre d'acceptation de l'acheteur a été déposée à la poste.

322. Il n'importe pas que l'offre invitant une réponse par télégraphe, celle-ci ait été donnée par lettre postale; ni que l'acheteur ait ajouté à son acceptation les mots "Ship at once." B. R., 1910, Montréal, Beaudoin vs Watterson, R. J. Q., 19 B. R., 530; 15 R. J., 527; 11 R. P. Q., 86.

323. An insurance contract made by a Montreal company, through its agent, at Quebec, is completed in said last city if such agent is authorized to close the risk, the policy being delivered to defendant at Quebec and paid by a cheque to the order of said agent. S. C., 1910, Quebec, Tanguay vs Dale and Co., 12 Q. P. R., 245.

324. Une action en-dessous de $200 qui a pris naissance dans le comté de Berthier où le défendeur a son domicile, est de la juridiction exclusive de la cour de Circuit du comté de Berthier, si l'assignation du défendeur est faite en cet endroit. C. S., 1910, Joliette, Lemoine et al. vs Bergeron, 11 R. P. Q., 387.

325. When a correspondence takes place between two parties for the sale of a thing and all the particulars and conditions are stated therein, and the seller (in Montreal), to overcome the hesitation of the buyer (in London, Ont.), sends a representative to secure his order, which is thus obtained, the sale is concluded at the domicile of the buyer by the delivery of the order there to the representative of the seller, although it contains a demand that "the usual form of contract be sent for approval and signature," and the seller thereupon writes a letter, as he expresses it, "to take care of the contract asked for."

326. Likewise, where similar correspondence has taken place and the buyer informs the seller's representative, (in London, Ont.), that the price stated is too high, whereupon the representative telephones to the seller (in Montreal), who instructs him to quote, a lower price and the buyer, a few days afterwards, writes an order for the thing at such reduced price, and the seller writes back an acceptance from Montreal, the sale in concluded at the domicile of the buyer (London, Ont.), by the despatch of the order. C. R., 1911, Montreal, Lyall vs The London Brass Works Co., Q. J. R., 40 S. C., 338.

327. When the cause of action arises partly in one district and partly in another no jurisdiction results under the sub-section 3 of article 94 C. p. c. Therefore, when an application for shares in a company was signed at Granby, district of Bedford, where the defendant has his domicile, the defendant cannot be sued in the district of St. Francis, because said application was accepted by the directors of the company plaintiff at Richmond, district of St. Francis. S. C., 1911, Montreal, The Richmond and Drummond Fire Insurance Co. vs MacDonald, 12 Q. P. R., 274.

328. Celui qui achète à son domicile d'un agent, contracte chez lui, et ne peut pas être considéré comme ayant contracté là où la ratification du principal a eu lieu, cette ratification ne pouvant constituer qu'une condition suspensive ou résolutoire, selon le cas, dont l'accomplissement rétroagit au lieu et à la date du contrat. C. S., 1912, Québec, Trudel, ès-qual. vs Assad, 19 R. P. Q., 202.

329. Si la cour de Circuit connaît en dernier ressort et privativement à la cour Supérieure de toute demande pour taxes ou rétributions d'écoles, quelqu'en soit le montant, elle n'a aucune juridiction au chef-lieu du district de Montréal, pour connaître d'une action en déclaration d'hypothèque, qui est sujette à appel. Une exception déclinant la juridiction de la cour Supérieure doit être renvoyée. C. S., 1912, Montréal, The School Commissioners of the City of Westmount vs Galarneau, 14 R. P. Q., 104.

330. Lorsqu'une personne demeurant à Québec, y souscrit des actions d'une compagnie de Montréal et donne en paiement son billet promissoire et que la compagnie y accepte là et alors le contrat, toute la cause d'action prend naissance dans le district de Québec: Une action intentée dans ces circonstances dans le district de Montréal sera renvoyée sur exception déclinatoire aux tribunaux du district de Québec. C. S., 1912, Montréal, The Security Life Insurance Co. of Canada vs Gosselin, 14 R. P. Q., 99.

331. Lorsqu'une commande par écrit d'un acheteur exige une réponse du vendeur pour compléter le contrat, c'est cette réponse ou consentement qui termine le contrat, et l'action pourra être instituée dans le province ou le district où cette réponse aura été donnée. C. S., 1912, Montréal, The Mechanical Equipment Co. of Canada vs Butler, 13 R. P. Q., 410.

332. Certiorari.—La cour de Circuit n'a pas juridiction en matière de certiorari dans les causes criminelles mues devant les juges de paix. C. C., 1911, St-Hyacinthe, Dion et al. vs Champagne et Chabot, 13 R. P. Q., 36.

333. Chambre des notaires.—Les articles 4837 et s. des S. R. Q., (1909), ne se rapportent qu'à l'instruction des plaintes contre un notaire, relativement à ses devoirs professionels et de la nature de ceux détaillés à l'article 4589 ou à des actes dérogatoires à l'honneur de la profession notariale.

334. Ces articles n'enlèvent pas à la cour Supérieure sa compétence exclusive dans une action principale et directe en faux, et la "chambre des notaires" n'a aucune juridiction dans une telle action.

335. Dans tous les cas, une question de ce genre doit être soulevée par exception déclinatoire et non par une inscription en droit. C. S., 1912, Richelieu, Dame Dagenais vs Cardin, 18 R. L., n. s., 175.

336. Clause compromissoire.—Under the clause or condition, in policies of insurance, that, in case of any dispute, between the parties, it shall be referred to arbitration, the courts are not ousted of their jurisdiction, nor can they compel the parties to submit to a reference, in the progress of the suit. K. B., 1823, Montreal, Scott vs Phœnix Assurance Co., S. R. C., 152, 354; 14 R. L., 140; 1 R. J. R. Q., 184, 188, 493, 495; 18 R. J. R. Q., 447, 526.

337. La clause compromissoire n'enlève pas à la demanderesse le droit à une action ordinaire pour faire fixer par la cour la rente viagère au lieu de la faire fixer par arbitrage. C. S., 1885, Malbaie, Dame Laberge vs Laberge, ès-qual., 14 L. N., 52.

338. A condition in a marine policy that any difference between the company and the assured as to the loss or damage, should be settled by arbitration, is not of a nature to exclude the ordinary action before the common law courts. Q. B., 1886, Quebec, Anchor Marine Insurance Co. vs Allen, 13 Q. L. R., 4; 14 R. L., 449; 10 L. N., 199.

339. La clause compromissoire par laquelle les parties à un contrat conviennent que tous les différends qui pourront en résulter, seront décidés par une personne désignée dont la décision ne sera pas sujette à révision par les tribunaux, est nulle et ne lie pas les parties. C. Supr., 1890, Québec, Peters et al. vs Commissaires du Havre de Québec, 15 R. J. Q., 277; 16 R. J. Q., 129; 12 L. N., 411; 13 L. N., 315; 15 L. N., 52; 19 R. C. Supr., 685.

340. Bien que l'article 5535 S. R. P. Q., pourvoie à la fixation du montant de dommages causés par des travaux sur les cours d'eau par experts, la partie lésée a droit de recourir directement aux tribunaux, et cette faculté ne lui est pas enlevée par une clause d'arbitrage contenue dans l'acte de vente des auteurs relativement aux dommages que ces travaux pourraient causer aux demandeurs. B. R., 1873, Montréal, Grenier vs La Cité de Montréal, 25 J., 144.—C. S., 1878, Belford, Brisset et al. vs Phillbury et al., 4 R. J., 243.—C. S., 1879, Québec, Jean vs Gauthier, 5 R. J. Q., 138.—C. S., 1881, Québec, Edmond vs Gauthier, 7 L. R., 287.—C. R., 1881, Montréal, McGillivray vs McLaren, 5 L. R., 199.—B. R., 1891, Montréal, Bazinet vs Gaboury, M. L. R., 7 B. R., 233; 21 R. L., 299. —B. R., 1898, Montréal, Corporation de village de Verdun vs The Grand Trunk Boating Club, R. J. Q., 7 B. R., 185.—B. R., 1898, Montréal, Lake Megantic Pulp Co. vs Corporation du village d'Agnès, R. J. Q., 7 B. R., 339.—C. S., 1899, Sherbrooke, Larochelle vs Price, R. J. Q., 19 C. S., 403.—C., Supr. 1900, Montréal, Bannerman et al. vs Hamelin et al., R. J. Q., 10 B. R., 68; 31 R. C. Supr., 534.—B. R.,

1905, St-Hyacinthe, Leclerc vs Dufour, R. J. Q., 28 C. S., 14; R. J. Q., 19 B. R., 138.—C. Supr., 1911, Canada, Gale vs Bureau, 44 R. C. Supr., 305.

341. Club.—La cour Supérieure a juridiction dans une action contre un club, dans laquelle on demande la nullité d'un règlement imposant une répartition de $25. sur chaque membre. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Beaudry vs Club St-Antoine, 6 R. L., n. s., 224.

342. Commissaires du Havre (Montréal).—The Harbor Commissioners have authority under their by-laws, made under 36 Vict., ch. 54, sect. 18, sub-sects. 6 and 7, to suspend the licence of a pilot guilty of a dereliction of duty. S. C., 1880, Montreal, Ex parte Lisé, 3 L. N., 338.

343. The Statute 16 Vict., ch. 24, extending the jurisdiction of the Harbor Commissioners westward to the little St. Pierre River and giving them the control and management within the extent of the limits specified, does not thereby vest in them the proprietorship of the bed of the river, nor enable them to maintain petitory actions against propriétaires riverains, within their extended limits under allegations that such propriétaires riverains have encroached upon the bed of the river. S. C., 1861, Montreal, The Harbour Commissioners of Montreal vs Hall et al. vs Lyman et al., 5 J., 155; 9 R. J. R. Q., 168.

344. Les Commissaires du Havre de Montréal ont juridiction civile pour retraire la licence d'un pilote pour refus de prendre charge d'un vaisseau, sans qu'il soit besoin d'une plainte écrite et assermentée. C. S., 1897, Montréal, Dusseault vs Commissaires du Havre de Montréal, 4 R. L., n. s., 89; R. J. Q., 12 C. S., 417; 1 R. P. Q., 105.

345. Les Commissaires du Havre de Montréal n'ont pas le droit de suspendre un pilote licencié, sur une plainte irrégulière, sans sommation et sans assignation. C. S., 1900, Montréal, Belisle vs Commissaires du Havre de Montréal, 6 R. P. Q., 363.

346. Une condamnation prononcée contre un pilote par les Commissaires du Havre de Montréal ne sera pas cassée parce que l'accusé n'a été assigné que par simple lettre, s'il a comparu et s'est défendu contre l'accusation sur ce seul avis.

347. Les Commissaires du Havre de Montréal n'ont pas le droit de condamner un pilote parce qu'il aurait, en vertu d'un engagement avec une ligne de paquebots, piloté plus de vaisseaux qu'il ne lui avait été permis d'en piloter par les commissaires du Havre. C. S., 1901, Montréal, Auger vs Commissaires du Havre de Montréal et Seath, 3 R. P. Q., 553.

348. Commission des chemin de fer et Comité des chemins de fer du Conseil Privé.—In the case of a complaint made by an express company against a railway company, that the latter has not granted them equal privileges with other express companies, the Railway Committee of the Privy Council has jurisdiction to hear such complaint, and a sufficient remedy being thus provided a mandamus will not lie. S. C., 1891, Montreal, Ontario Express and Transportation Co. vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 35 J., 306; M. L. R., 7 S. C., 308; 14 L. N., 346.

349. Under sections 11, 18, 21, 187 and 188 of the Railway Act of 1888, Parliament conferred upon the railway committee the power to order that gates and watchmen should be provided and maintained by such a railway at crossings of highways traversing different adjacent municipalities; to decide which municipalities are interested in the crossings; to fix the proportion of the cost to be borne by the different municipalities, to vary any order made by adding other municipalities as interested, and to readjust the proportion of the cost; and the decision of the committee cannot be reviewed by the court. Municipalities are subject to such legislation and the orders of the committee in the same way as private individuals. D. C., 1896, Ontario, Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs County and Township of York, 27 O. R., 559.

350. The Railway Committee of the Privy Council, on the application of the city of Toronto, ordered the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to put up gates and keep a watchman where the line of railway crossed a highway running from the city of Toronto into the township of York, the line of railway being at the place in question the boundary between the two municipalities, and ordered the cost of maintenance to be paid in equal proportions by the railway company and the city. On a subsequent application by the city representing that the township was equally interested and asking for contribution from the township, the township brought in the county, and an order was made by the railway committee that the county and township should contribute in certain proportions. Assuming the validity of legislation conferring jurisdiction on the railway commjttee, their powers were limited to persons or municipalities invoking the exercise of their jurisdiction, and their order was invalid so far as it imposed a burden upon the township and county. The decision of the Railway Committee upon a subject, and in respect of persons, within its jurisdiction, cannot be reviewed or interfered with by the court. C. A., 1898, Ontario, Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs County and Township of York, 25 A. R., 65; 27 O. R., 559.

351. On an application to make an order of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council a rule of court, the court will not go into the merits of the order, or consider objections to the procedure followed by the Railway Committee. While the Railway Committee of the Privy Council has jurisdiction in such a case, to impose upon the party interested an obligation to bear part of the expense, it has no jurisdiction to compel a party or other than the railway company to execute the works. Ex. C., 1903, Grand Trunk Railway Co. vs The City of Kingston et al., 8 Ex. C. R., 349; 4 Can. Ry. Cas., 102.

352. The object of the Railway Act (sections 177, 253 and 271) is to insure that all reasonable and proper facilities for the handling, forwarding and interchange of traffic shall be afforded to the shipping public. For this purpose the Board may, without the sanction and against the will of a railway company permit a junction to be made with its line by another railway where in the opinion of the Board such junction is reasonably necessary in the public interest and in the interest of traffic in the district through which the railway passes. The parties to a lease of a railway cannot by stipulation between themselves restrict the powers or discretion of the Board to authorize such a junction. Ry. B., 1904, Canada, Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Co, vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 3 Can. Ry. Cas., 256.

353. La Commission des chemins de fer du Canada et non la cour Supérieure a seule juridiction pour ordonner les travaux à faire par la compagnie du chemin de fer pour conduire les eaux qu'elle est tenue de recevoir, ou pour donner plus de pente à ses fossés.

354. La première partie de la section 196 de l'Acte des chemins de fer, 1903, 3 Ed. VII, C., ch. 58, ne s'applique pas aux chemins de fer actuellement construits à la date de cet acte.

355. La seconde partie de cette section ne peut être appliquée qu'à la Commission des chemins de fer pour le Canada. C. S., 1904, Arthabaska, Langlais vs La Compagnie du Grand Tronc, R. J. Q., 26 C. S., 511; 11 R. L., n. s., 497. (Conf. par la C. A., le 30 mai 1905.)

356. Upon application by certain towns and villages in Alberta in respect of street crossings over the Canadian Pacific Railway. While the Board has no general jurisdiction to determine whether a public right of crossing over a railway exists, yet in cases where it is called upon to exercise the powers specifically conferred upon it, or its jurisdiction to enforce the performance of the duties of railway companies with respect to highways, it has incidentally to inquire and determine whether in fact a right of crossing does or does not exist at any particular point, sections 186 and 187 of Railway Act, 1903. Section 187 enables the Board to give leave for the construction of a highway across a railway, but does not provide means by which private individuals or bodies not otherwise possessed of power to open highways, can do so.

357. The Board is not authorized to direct or compel railway companies to construct or make highways across their lands, where a public right of crossing does not already exist by law, although it may give leave to a company or some other body to do so.

358. The question as to the power of a railway company to dedicate a portion of its right of way for use as a public highway without the authority of the Railway Committee or the Board under the Railway Acts reserved for further argument. Ry. B., 1905, Canada, High River et al. vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 6 Can. Ry. Cas., 344.

359. The Board, under the Railway Act, 1903, has no authority to compel the Grand Trunk, a Dominion Railway, to shift its tracks for the convenience of the applicants, a provincial railway. And the Board, under section 137 of the Railway Act, 1903, had not jurisdiction to grant to a provincial railway company power to take, use or occupy the lands of a Dominion railway company. Ry. B., 1905, Canada, Preston and Berlin Street Railway Co. vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 6 Can. Ry. Cas., 142.

360. On the 17th October, 1904, the plaintiff shipped three packages of household goods on the defendants' railway and signed a special contract by which he undertook that no claim in respect of injury to or loss of the goods should be made against the defendants exceeding the amount of $5 for any one of the packages. On the same day the Board of Railway Commissioners by order approved of the form of special contract signed by the plaintiff, under section 275 of the Dominion Railway Act, 1903, providing that no such contract shall be valid unless "such class of contract shall have been first authorized or approved by the Board." In an action to recover the value of the goods, which were lost by the defendants: Under sections 23, 24, 25 and 275 of the Act, the Board had jurisdiction to make the order, the making of it was a judicial proceeding, and the order must be regarded as in full force during the whole of the 17th. October, 1904; and therefore the contract was valid, and the plaintiff entitled to recover only $15. H. C., 1905, Ontario, Burkey vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 11 O. L. R., 1.

361. Orders directing the establishment of farm crossings over railways subject to "The Railway Act, 1903," are exclusively within the jurisdiction of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada. Supr. C., 1905, Canada, Perrault vs The Grand Trunk Railway Co., 36 Supr. C. R., 671; Q. J. R., 14 K. B., 245; 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 293.

362. The Board of Railway Commissioners is a judicial, as well as an executive body created to enforce the railway legislation of the Dominion parliament, but not to supplant or supplement the provincial courts, in the exercise of their ordinary jurisdiction. In making orders and regulations under sections 23 and 25 of the Act the Board is not to adjudicate in respect to rights arising out of past transactions but to lay down rules for future conduct. The Board is not empowered to award damages or any other relief for any injury caused by an infraction of the Act, e. g., section 214. Ry. B., 1905, Canada, Duthie vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 4 Can. Ry. Cas., 304.

363. The Board had no jurisdiction over a provincial railway, and no power to make an order for the construction of a siding by it. Ry. B., 1905, Canada, Bertram and Sons vs Hamilton and Dundas Street Railway Co., 6 Can. Ry. Cas., 158.

364. Une corporation municipale n'a pas le devoir impératif de faire disparaître des barrières, placées sur un de ses chemins de fer par le gouvernement fédéral à l'endroit où un chemin de fer de ce dernier le traverse. L'Acte des chemins de fer 1903 donne à la Commission des chemins de fer le pouvoir d'accueillir et de juger les plaintes qui peuvent être faites à ce sujet et cette juridiction est exclusive de celle des tribunaux ordinaires.

365. Pour ces motifs, le recours du mandamus contre la corporation n'est pas ouvert. C. R., 1906, Québec, Carrier vs Corporation de la paroisse de St-Henri, R. J. Q., 30 C. S., 45.

366. The Board has no power to limit the liability of the company for negligence contrary to the provisions of the Railway Act, 1903, section 214.

367. The findings of the jury upon the evidence were so unsatisfactory, a new trial must be ordered. D. C., 1906, Ontario, Booth vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 389; 7 O. W. R., 593.

368. The Board has jurisdiction under section 198 of the Railway Act, 1903, to require a railway company to make a farm crossing under its railway.

369. Where the railway was carried across a farm upon a high embankment, and any crossing over it would be inconvenient, the owner was held entitled to an undercrossing, in addition to payment of the purchase money for the land taken and damages. Ry. B., 1906, Canada, Cockerline vs Guelph and Goderich Railway Co., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 313.

370. The Board had jurisdiction under section 47 of the Railway Act, 1903, to order the municipality liable under the provincial Act, 63 Viet., ch. 46 (N. B.), for the support and maintenance of its highways, to contribute to the expense of protecting such crossings as in other provinces, City of Toronto vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 37 Supr. C. R., 232, referred to. Ry. B., 1906, Canada, City and County of Saint John vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 161.

371. On an application to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, under the provisions of the "Railway Act, 1903," for a direction that a railway company should replace a siding, where traffic facilities had been formerly provided for the respondents with connections upon their lands, and for other appropriate relief for such purposes: Under the circumstances, the Board had jurisdiction to make an order directing the railway company to restore the spur-track facilities formerly enjoyed by the applicants for the carriage, despatch and receipt of freight in carloads over, to and from the line of railway. Supr. C., 1906, Canada, Canadian Northern Railway Co. vs Robinson, 37 Supr. C. R., 541; 19 Man. L. R., 300; 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 101.

372. By virtue of section 7 of the Railway Act, 1903, where one railway crosses another which is subject to the Act, the Board of Railway Commissioners have exclusive jurisdiction. H. C., 1906, Ontario Canadian, Pacific Railway Co. vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 400; 12 O. L. R., 320.

373. The power of the Board of Railway Commissioners, under section 186 of the "Railway Act, 1903," to order a highway to be carried over or under a railway is not restricted to the case of opening up a new highway, but may be exercised in respect to one already in existence. The application for such order may be made by the municipality as well as by the railway company. Supr. C., 1906, Canada, Ottawa Electric Railway Co. vs City of Ottawa and the Canada Atlantic Railway Co., 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 131; 37 Supr. C. R., 354.

374. The Board of Railway Commissioners granted an application of the James Bay Railway Company for leave to carry their line under the track of the G. T. Railway Co. but, at the request of the latter, imposed the condition that the masonry work of such under crossing should be sufficient to allow of the construction of an additional track on the line of the G. T. Ry. Co. No evidence was given that the latter company intended to lay an additional track in the near future or at any time. The James Bay Railway Co., by leave of a judge, appealed to the Supreme court of Canada from the part of the order imposing such terms contending that the same was beyond the jurisdiction of the Board: The Board had jurisdiction to impose said terms.

375. The question before the court was rather one of law than of jurisdiction and should have come up on appeal by leave of the Board or been carried before the Governor-General in Council. Supr. C., 1906, Canada, James Bay Railway Co. vs Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, 37 Supr. C. R., 372; 5 Can. Ry. Cas., 164.

376. The general jurisdiction conferred upon the Board by section 26 apart from special circumstances does not extend to the prohibition of placing rails upon or along public highways merely because the leave of the Board has not been given. Such unauthorized acts are not usually done in contravention of the Railway Act, and being breaches of the general law forbidding the obstruction of highways are not within the jurisdiction of the Board. Ry. B., 1907, Canada, Essex Terminal Railway Co. vs Windsor, Essex and Shore Rapid Railway Co., 7 Can. Ry. Cas., 109

377. The question of compensation between the advantage and the damages caused to land by the construction of a street railway should be decided by the ordinary courts of justice and rests entirely between the immediate land owner and the municipality. Ry. B., 1907, Canada, Robertson vs Chatham, Wallaceburg and Lake Erie Railway Co., 7 Can. Ry. Cas., 96.

378. The Board has no jurisdiction to order a connection to be made or traffic to be interchanged between a Dominion railway and a provincially incorporated railway which it crosses, such provincial railway not having been declared a work for the general advantage of Canada.

379. Under section 8 of the Railway Act the jurisdiction of the Board is confined to the point of crossing, and does not extend to the whole line of the provincial railway.

380. There is no jurisdiction to authorize making connections with or affording facilities to a Dominion railway which does not exist, and an order requiring such connection to be made would be in effect ordering a provincial railway to connect with a Dominion railway, as to which the Board has no jurisdiction. Ry. B., 1908, Canada, Boards of Trade of Galt, Preston, Hespeler, Waterloo, and Berlin vs Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific, Berlin, Waterloo, Wellesley and Lake Huron, Preston and Berlin, Galt, Preston and Hespeler Railway Cos., 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 195.

381. The Board has no jurisdiction under sections 237 and 238 of the Railway Act to order the junior company at a crossing, where the wires of a telephone company are carried over an electric railway, to bear the cost of certain changes in the construction of the lines of the senior company and of certain protective appliances rendered necessary by reason of the construction and operation of the railway of the junior company, where such alterations were made by the senior company without having previously obtained an order from the Board for the making of the same. Ry. B., 1908, Canada, Bell Telephone Co. vs Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Rapid Railway Co., 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 20.

382. Under sections 30 (g), 258, 284 (1) (a) and (3) of the Railway Act, the Board has jurisdiction to require a railway company, to erect and maintain platforms or freight sheds or any other structures or works that may be deemed reasonably necessary for the protection of property or the public at stopping places on the railway (known as flag stations) used for unloading and delivering traffic. Ry. B., 1908, Canada, Winnipeg Jobbers' and Shippers' Association vs Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Cos., 8 Can. Ry. Cas., 151.

383. Under the provisions of "The Railway Act" the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada does not possess authority to make a general order requiring all railways subject to its jurisdiction to erect and maintain fences on the sides of their railway lines where they pass through lands which are not inclosed and either settled or improved; it can do so only after the special circumstances in respect of some defined locality have been investigated and the necessity of such fencing in that locality determined according to the exigencies of the case. The "Railway Act" empowers the Board to order that, upon lines of railway not yet completed or open for traffic or in course of construction, where they pass through inclosed lands, the railway companies should construct and maintain such fences or take such other steps as may be necessary to prevent cattle and other animals from getting upon the right-of-way. Supr. C., 1909, Canada, Canadian Northern Railway Co. vs Board of Railway Commissioners, 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 104; 42 Supr. C. R., 443.

384. The Board has jurisdiction under section 29 of the amendment to the Railway Act, 7 and 8 Ed. VII, ch. 62, to review, rescind, change, alter or vary any order made by it. Ry. B., 1909, Canada, McDougall and Secord vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 201.

385. On an application to recover damages for the company's alleged negligence in way-billing a skiff to the wrong address, and charging excess tolls for sending it in a roundabout course to its proper destination, it being in dispute who was responsible for the erroneous way-billing: The Board had no jurisdiction to entertain the complaint; the complainant must be left to her rights in the courts. Ry. B., 1909, Canada, Rogers vs Canadian Express Co., 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 480.

386. The Board has no jurisdiction over rates charged by railways from points in the United States up to the international boundary. But, the Board has jurisdiction the very moment the traffic crosses the International boundary, whether it is a dividing point on land or water. Ry. B., 1909, Canada, Canadian Northern Railway Co. vs Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway Cos., 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 139.

387. The Board of Railway Commissioners has jurisdiction to order a municipality interested in works for the protection of a railway crossing over a highway to pay a portion of the cost of such work. Supr. C., 1909, Ottawa County of Carleton vs City of Ottawa, 9 Can. Ry. Cas., 154; 42 Supr. C. R., 552.

388. On a complaint in respect to a joint tariff, between the appellant company and the Michigan Central Railroad Company, under which a rate of three cents per hundred pounds was charged on pulpwood in car-lots for carriage from Thorold, in Ontario, to Suspension Bridge, in the State of New York, the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada decided that the rate should be reduced and ordered the appellants to restore a joint rate which had previously existed of two cents per hundred pounds for carriage of such goods between the points mentioned: As the Michigan Central Railway was not a party to the proceedings, the Board had no jurisdiction to make the order. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Co. vs Dary, 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 109; 12 Can. Ry. Cas., 61; 43 Supr. C. R., 277.

389. The "Railway Act," R. S. C. (1906) ch. 37, does not confer power on the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada to make orders respecting through traffic over a provincial railway or tramway which connects with or crosses a railway subject to the authority of the Parliament of Canada. The provisions of sub-section (l) of section 8 of the "Railway Act" are ultra vires of the parliament of Canada. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, Montreal Street Railway Co. vs City of Montreal, 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 203; 43 Supr. C. R., 197.

390. The Board had no jurisdiction to deal with the question of damages. C. A., 1910, Manitoba, Robinson vs Canadian Northern Railway Co., 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 289; 19 Man. L. R., 300.

391. Under the provisions of section 1 of 8 and 9 Ed. VII, ch. 32, the Board has jurisdiction to require and direct the railway company to supply the equipment, from time to time, when ordered by the applicant. Ry. B., 1910, Canada, Empire Refining Co. vs Père Marquette Railway Co., 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 158.

392. On an application to the Board of Railway Commissioners for leave to construct and approval of the location of the line of their railway upon and along a highway, it was held, under the provisions of section 47 of the "Railway Act", R. S. C. (1906), ch. 37, the Board had, on such application to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada for leave to construct and approval of the location of the line of their railway upon and along the highways, the power to impose the condition directing that compensation should be made by the company in respect of the damages which might be suffered by the proprietors of the lands abutting on the highways of the municipality upon and along which the line of railway so located was to be constructed. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific Railway Cos. vs City of Fort William and Fort William Land Investment Co. et al., 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 271; 43 Supr. C. R., 412.

393. The Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada has not the power (except on expropriation or consent of the owner) to order that a private industrial spur track or siding, constructed and operated under an agreement between a railway company and the owner of the land upon which it is laid and used only in connection with the business of such owner, shall be also used and operated as a branch of the railway with which it is connected. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, The Blackwoods and The Manitoba Brewing and Malting Co. vs The Canadian Northern Railway Co. and The City of Winnipeg, 44 Supr. C. R., 92; 12 Can. Ry. Cas., 45.

394. Under section 261 of the Railway Act, the Board has no jurisdiction to open a railway for the carriage of traffic other than for the purposes of construction, until application has been made therefor by the railway company.

395. Since the Government by the provisions of the special Act incorporating the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company (4 and 5 Ed. VII, ch. 98), has power to fix by order in council the date of the completion of the railway, it may be that the Board cannot open the railway until such order is issued, the special Act over-riding the Railway Act undre section 3 of the latter Act. Ry. B., 1910, Canada, Central Saskatchewan Boards of Trade vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 135.

396. The Board had jurisdiction to make an order that certain street prolongations were highways within the meaning of the "Railway Act"; that the Act of parliament validating the agreement made in 1892 was not a "special Act" within the meaning of "The Railway Act" and did not alter the character of the agreement as a private contract affecting only the parties thereto, and that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, having acquired only a limited right or easement in the filled-in land, had not such a title thereto as would deprive the public of the right to pass over the same as a means of communication between the streets and the harbour. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada and Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs City of Toronto, 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 38, 365; 42 Supr. C. R., 613.

397. The Board of Railway Commissioners has power to order a railway company whose line is completed and in operation to provide a station at any place where it is required to afford proper accommodation for the traffic on the road. Supr. C., 1910, Canada, Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada vs Department of Agriculture of the province of Ontario, 42 Supr. C. R., 557; 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 84.

398. On application to construct a branch line by extending an industrial spur across certain private property of the respondent company, the applicant relied upon a letter from the owners of the property that they were willing to grant the right-of-way for the spur over their land, and that arrangements could be made later. The respondent objected before the Board to the application being granted:

399. The Board had jurisdiction to make the order. Ry. B., 1910, Manitoba, Canadian Northern Railway Co. vs Blackwoods, Manitoba Brewing and Malting Co. and City of Winnipeg, 12 Can. Ry. Cas., 40.

400. Application for a refund of an overcharge on the transportation by water of a shipment of carbide from Vancouver to Alberni, B.C., and for a reimbursement of expense in obtaining redress: The Board had jurisdiction under section 7 of the Act, over the charges for transportation by water when such transport is under the control of a railway company.

401. The Board could only declare the overcharge illegal, having no jurisdiction to order a refund in a case of mistake.

402. The Board has not set a precedent by ordering reimbursement of expense in obtaining redress but that means should be, adopted by railway companies to rectify plain and palpable errors, leading to overcharges and that if this is not done it may be necessary for the Board to compel railway companies to reimburse those incurring expense in similar cases. Ry. B., 1911, Canada, Currie vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 31.

403. On application to direct the respondent to furnish adequate station accommodation and satisfactory train service on its line of railway: It was held that under sub-section 3 of section 258 of the Railway Act, the Board had jurisdiction to direct the respondent, subsidized by the parliament of Canada to maintain and operate suitable stations with suitable accommodation or facilities.

404. Under section 11 of 8 and 9 Ed. VII, Railway Act amendment, the Delaware, Hudson and Quebec, Montreal and Southern Railway Cos. were both subject to direction to maintain proper train service and facilities upon this section of the line. Ry. B., 1911, Montreal, Stewart and Village of St. Cyprien vs Napierville Junction Railway Co., 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 399.

405. The Railway Committee of the Privy Council of Canada in the exercise of powers preserved to it under section 238 of the Canadian Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37, on January 14, 1904, ordered the appellant and respondent railway companies to carry a bridge over their respective lines at Yonge Street in the city of Toronto. The Railway Board constituted by the Railway Act of 1903, consolidated in 1906, on June 9, 1909, ordered the said two companies to construct an elevated viaduct several miles in length for the purpose of carrying four of the tracks of their railways through the said city: Under the said section 238 and the amending Act, of 1909, (8 and 9 Ed. VII, ch. 32), sub-sects 237 and 238, the Railway Committee and the Railway Board had jurisdiction to make these orders; the latter of which virtually superseded the former.

406. The Board where, it has jurisdiction, may in its discretion make any order of this kind for the protection, safety, and convenience of the public, except where it is restricted by section 3 of the Act of 1906, which enacts that where the provisions of the Act of 1906 and of any special Act passed by the Parliament of Canada relate to the same subject the latter so far as necessary shall override the former. P. C., 1911, Ontario, Canadian Pacific Railway Co. vs Corporation of city of Toronto and Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada, L. R., 1911, A. C., 461; 37 Supr. C. R., 232; C. R., 8 A. C., 402; 10 Can. Ry. Cas., 378.

407. The Board had no power to order any refund, it can only declare what the legal rate was or should have been, leaving the parties to whatever redress they are entitled to under the circumstances. Ry. B., 1911, Ottawa, British American Oil Co. vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 12 Can. Ry. Cas., 327.

408. Notwithstanding provisions in an agreement under which a private industrial spur or siding has been constructed entitling the railway company to make use of it for the purpose of affording shipping facilities for themselves and persons other than the owners of the land upon which it has been built, the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, except on expropriation and compensation, has not the power, on an application under section 226 of the "Railway Act," (R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37), to order the construction and operation of an extension of such spur or siding as a branch of the railway with which it is connected. Supr. C., 1911, Canada, Clover Bar Coal Co. vs Humberstone, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. and the Clover Bar Sand and Gravel Co., 45 Supr. C. R., 346; 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 162.

409. An application that the Brandon, Saskatchewan and Hudson Bay Railway Company be directed to employ two men and a foreman on each of the Boissevain and Minto sections of its line of railway. The application was granted under an order dated September 15, 1909. Subsequently the railway companies were notified that the Board would take up the question of fixing the length and number of men to be employed on the sections of the railways' line: Under section 269 of the Railway Act, the Board had no jurisdiction in the matter in question. Ry. B., 1911, Ottawa, In re Section Men; 12 Can. Ry. Cas., 375.

410. Application under section 361 of the Railway Act for a recommendation by the Board to the Governor-in-Council for the sanction of amalgamation agreements between Dominion and provincial railway companies. The Montreal Park and Island and Montreal Terminal Railway Cos. were incorporation by the parliament of Canada and the Montreal Street Railway Company, by a statute of the province of Quebec. Agreements were made between the three companies apparently pursuant to the authority given in two special Acts of the Dominion incorporating the first two railway companies for the sale of these railways with their facilities and assets to the provincial railway. Under sections 361 and 362 (which must be read together) the Board has no jurisdiction to deal with the amalgamations of railway companies incorporated under Dominion and provincial Statutes.

411. The proper mode of procedure would be to apply as provided by the special Acts for sanction of the agreements to the Governor-in-Council. Ry. B., 1911, Canada, In re Amalgamation Agreements, 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 150.

412. Under section 237 of the Railway Act, the Board had jurisdiction to give leave to construct a highway across "any railway."

413. Under section 2 (21) of the Railway Act, the word "railway" included real property such as the said block of land. Ry. B., 1911, Canada, City of St. Thomas vs Grand Trunk Railway Co., 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 134.

414. The Board has no jurisdiction under 9 and 10 Ed. VII, ch. 50, sect. 2, empowering the Board to approve of works constructed without approval before December 31st, 1909, since the road bed in question had been constructed subsequent to that date. Ry. B., 1911, Canada, In re Prince Rupert Location, Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 153.

415. The Board of Railway Commissioners has no jurisdiction to order a reduction in rates from initial points in the United States and the application must be dismissed. Ry. B., 1911, Canada, Contienntal, Prairie and Winnipeg Oil Cos. vs Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern, Minnesota, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railway Cos., 13 Can., Ry. Cas. 156.

416. Upon the true construction of sections 91 and 92 of the British North America Act, 1867, a provincial railway is not subject to the jurisdiction of the federal Railway Commission in respect of its through traffic with a federal railway.

417. The provisions of sub-section (b) of section 8 of the Railway Act, R. S. C. 1906, ch. 37, purporting to subject to the federal Railway Act the through traffic upon any railway or street railway authorized by special Act of a provincial legislature which connects with a federal railway, although such provincial railway or street railway has not been declared by federal statute to be a work for "the general advantage of Canada," is ultra vires of the Parliament of Canada. P. C., 1912, City of Montreal vs Montreal Street Railway, 43 Supr. C. R., 197; 1 D. L. R., 681; 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 203; 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 541.

418. The Board of Railway Commissioners cannot compel a railway company to open and operate for passenger and freight traffic a newly constructed road, as the determination as to when it shall be opened for traffic rests solely with the railway company. Ry. B., 1912, Canada, In re Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 3 D. L. R., 819.

419. The Board of Railway Commissioners is without jurisdiction to require carriers of express from points within the United States to Canadian points to join with a Canadian express carrier in the establishment of joint through tariffs on traffic originating in such foreign country.

420. Notwithstanding section 336 of the Railway Act requires joint tariffs to be filed covering all traffic carried from foreign countries into Canada, the Board of Railway Commissioners cannot require the initial carrier to file such tariffs.

421. Notwithstanding the Board of Railway Commissioners cannot require a foreign express company to file or concur in a joint tariff on traffic originating in the United States for Canadian points, if they do concur with a Canadian express carrier in a joint through tariff that is fair and reasonable, the latter may be required to file it.

422. The Board of Railway Commissioners cannot, without the concurrence of the foreign express company require the re-establishment of a joint through tariff on express traffic between points in United States and Canadian points.

423. The Board of Railway Commissioners cannot require the reinstatement of a joint through tariff that formerly existed on express traffic from points in the United States to Canadian points, so as to apply to points in Canada to which it was not formerly applicable where the reasonableness of the rate to the new point is not shewn and the foreign carrier did not concur therein, as, in order to do so, it would be necessary to impose the cost of the additional haul upon the Canadian carrier, which would be unfair, as no portion thereof could be imposed by the Board upon the foreign carrier.

424. The Board of Railway Commissioners is without jurisdiction to extend a formerly existing tariff on express traffic between points in the United States and Canada so as to apply to points in the United States to which it was not formerly applicable. Ry. Com., 1912, Canada, Stockton and Mallieison vs Dominion Express Co., 3 D. L. R., 848; 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 458.

425. Having obtained the consent of the municipality to use certain public streets for that purpose, the Grant Trunk Pacific Railway Company applied to the Railway Board for leave to construct and approval of the location of the line upon and along the highways in question. None of the lands abutting on these highways were to be appropriated for the purposes of the railway, nor were the rights or facilities of access thereto to be interfered with, except in so far as might result from inconvenience, caused by the construction and operation of the railway. The Railway Board in granting the application, made an order that the railway "make full compensation to all persons interested for all damage by them sustained by reason of the location of the said railway along any street." The Supreme court of Canada sustained above order.

426. Privy Council reversed above judgments, holding that under section 237 (3) of R. S. C. (1906), ch. 37, the power to award damages was in respect of construction, and section 47 did not on its true construction extend that power to meet the case of location. That as the condition failed there had been no approval of the location. P. C., 1912, Canada, The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. vs The Landowners on Streets in Fort William and Fort William Land Investment Co., L. R., 1912, App. Cas., 100; 43 Supr. C. R., 412; 11 Can. Ry. Cas., 187, 271; 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 187; L. R., 1912, App. Cas., 224; 81 L. J., P. C., 137; 105 L. T. R., 649; 281 L. R., 37; 22 O. W. R., 303.

427. The Board of Railway Commissioners has no authority under the Railway Act, R. S. C., 1906, ch. 37, to compel a railway company issuing tickets at special rates to 300 people or more to offer such privilege to a less number.

428. The Board of Railway Commissioners has no jurisdiction to compel railway companies to make special excursion rates. Ry. B., 1912, Canada, Canadian Fraternal Association vs Canadian Passenger Association, 5 D. L. R., 17; 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 178.

429. The Board has no jurisdiction in ordering the fixing of experimental tolls since it has not been established that the tolls charged are unreasonable. Ry. B., 1912, Canada, British Columbia News Co. vs Express Traffic Association, 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 176.

430. The Board had no jurisdiction to compel the respondent to open its railway for traffic; but if it applied for permission to do so it must carry freight and passengers under the provisions of the Statute. Ry. B., 1912, Canada, British Columbia and Alberta Municipalities vs Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., 13 Can. Ry. Cas., 463.

431. Commission des services d'utilité publique.—The Quebec Public Utilities Commission has jurisdiction in a complaint to the effect that a public utility company is interfering with the public right, or in any way obstruct the free access to any building, as when a light and power company has constructed a bridge over a canal and has graded the road leading to the bridge in front of a store in such a manner as to raise the level of the road and obstruct the free access of the store. The jurisdiction of the Commissioners is not taken away because the work had been completed before complaint was made, and it has the power, like any other tribunal, to grant an injunction and given an order even after the injury is completed, if it thinks proper to do it. K. B., 1912, Montreal, Canadian Light and Power Co. vs Julien, 18 R. L., n. s., 462; Q. J. R., 21 K. B., 476; 2 D. L. R., 496.

432. Lorsqu'au cours d'un litige entre les propriétaires de deux systèmes d'éclairage électrique, une injonction a été prononcée par la cour Supérieure défendant à l'un d'eux de continuer son exploitation, la Commission des services d'Utilité Publique est sans compétence pour (a) ordonner des changements dans la disposition des fils, poteaux, etc., de ce dernier, et, sur son refus, (b) pour déléguer quelqu'un pour les effectuer. Par suite, elle ne peut, non plus, condamner ce propriétaire à payer à son délégué, les frais d'exécution de son ordonnance. B. R., 1912, Montréal, La Compagnie Electrique de Grand'Mère vs La Commission des Services d'Utilité Publique, R. J. Q., 22 B. R., 27.

433. Commission rogatoire.—La cour Supérieure, à Montréal, a juridiction pour faire exécuter les décisions d'un commissaire nommé sous une commission rogatoire, par la cour du Banc de la Reine, au Manitoba, et d'obliger les témoins de produire les pièces ordonnées par le commissaire. C. S., 1883, Montréal, Crawford et al. vs Morton Dairy Farming and Colonization Co. of Manitoba, 6 L. N., 188.

434. Compagnie d'assurance étrangère.—The fact that a foreign mutual insurance company collects assessments from members resident in the province of Quebec constitutes the possession of assets on its part in said province; hence the company could be summoned to answer an action entered in the province of Quebec. S. C., 1912, Montreal, Hodges vs The Commercial Travellers' Mutual Benefit Society, 13 Q. P. R., 352.

435. Compagnie incorporée. — The right of action on a subscription to stock in a company arises where the subscription took place, and not necessarily where the offices of the company are and the allotment was made. Q. B., 1879, Montreal, The National Insurance Co. vs Paige, 24 J., 187; 2 L. N., 93.

436. It is an elementary principle that a court has no jurisdiction to interfere with the internal management of companies acting within their powers.

437. The company must sue to redress a wrong done to it; but if a majority of its shares are controlled by those against whom relief is sought, the complaining shareholders may sue in their own names, but must show that the acts complained of are either fraudulent or ultra vires. P. C., 1901, Ontario, Burland vs Earle et al., 2 B. J. P. C., 124; L. R., 1902, App. Cas., 83; 50 W. R., 241.

438. Compagnie incorporée (Liquid.). Les tribunaux de la province à laquelle appartient la corporation mise en liquidation en vertu des lois provinciales, peuvent seuls connaître des causes de démission existantes contre le liquidateur (receiver) qu'ils ont nommé. C. R., 1883, Québec, Pacaud vs Tourigny et Niagara District Mutual Fire Insurance Co., et Bourbeau et al., 10 R. J. Q., 54.

439. The Superior court in the district wherein a trading company has its seat or head office, is the court which has jurisdiction to grant a winding up order. S. C., 1888, Aylmer, Dupont et vir vs Compagnie de Moulin à Bardeau Chanfréné, and Kent et al., 11 L. N., 225.

440. After the action was at issue, an order was made by a Quebec court directing the winding-up of the defendant company and appointing a liquidator. The plaintiff then obtained leave from that court to proceed with this action. Afterwards the liquidator obtained an order from that court authorizing him to intervene and defend this action in his own name as liquidator; he then applied to this court in this action, and obtained an order that the action proceed in the name of the plaintiff against the company and the liquidator: The liquidator having thus intervened and made himself a party to the action, and having appeared by his counsel at the trial and contested the claim of the plaintiff, the latter, having succeeded upon his claim, was entitled to a judgment for his costs both against the company and the liquidator personally.

441. This court had no authority to direct that the liquidator might reimburse himself out of the assets; that was a question for the court in the province of Quebec having control of the assets. P. C., 1897, Ontario, Boyd vs Dominion Cold Storage Co., 17 P. R., 468.

442. La cour de Circuit n'a pas juridiction pour entendre une cause dirigée contre un liquidateur d'une compagnie mise en liquidation en vertu de la "Loi des liquidations" fédérale. (Winding-up Act.) C. S., 1901, Québec, Robillard et al., ès-qual., vs Blanchet et al., 3 R. P. Q., 532.

443. There is jurisdiction under section 13 of the Dominion Winding-up Act, R. S. C., 1886, ch. 129, to restrain proceedings against the company, even in actions outside the ordinary territorial jurisdiction of the court, and the enforcing of an execution is a proceeding within this section. C. A., 1903, Ontario, Tobique Gypsum Co. vs Costigan, 6 O. L. R., 515.

444. The Winding-up Act has established a special tribunal of exclusive jurisdiction (to wit, the Superior court) for disposal of claims against a company in liquidation: An action taken in the Circuit court will therefore be referred to the Superior court. C. C., 1908, Montreal, Baxter vs International Steel Co., and McIntosh, ès-qual., 10 Q. P. R., 27.

445. A petition for a winding-up order of a company incorporated by Dominion Letters Patent must be presented where the company has its head office. S. C., 1908, Montreal, The E. W. Wetzel, Ltd., vs The Oriental Silk Co., Ltd., 9 Q. P. R., 289.

446. Where under an order of a High court judge, a reference has been directed to an officer of the Supreme court of judicature to take all necessary proceedings for the due winding-up of a company, and delegating to him for such purpose the powers confered on the court therefor by the Winding-up Act, such officer has jurisdiction, in settling the list of contributories, to inquire into and decide as to whether stockholders, holding certificates declaring the stock to have been duly paid up, have in fact paid anything thereon. C. A., 1909, In re Cornwall Furniture Co., Ltd., 18 O. L. R., 101.

447. Conclusion.—Une demande en justice est caractérisée par ses conclusions et ce sont ces dernières qui servent à déterminer la compétence du tribunal. C. S., 1910, Montréal, MacKay vs Aquin, 11 R. P. Q., 372.

448. Conseil de famille.—Le domicile de la tutelle étant considéré comme invariable durant tout le cours de la tutelle, une assemblée du conseil de famille pour régler certains différends entre le tuteur et les mineurs doit être tenue dans le district où la tutelle a été créée et non dans le district où demeure le tuteur. C. S., 1908, Valleyfield, Aubin vs St-Onge, 10 R. P. Q., 13.

449. Conseil privé.—A petition was presented to the Judicial Committee to obtain the redress of torts suffered by petitioners in consequence of public works done by the government: The petition was dismissed, as the Judicial Committee has only jurisdiction in appeals from the colony, and not in first instance, the petitioners having their remedy before the courts in the Island of Jersey. P. C., 1838, Jersey, In re Gould et al., 1 B. J. P. C., 468, 2 Moore, 188.

450. The petitioner was condemned by default in the court below for frauds committed against the Revenue laws. By his petition in doleance he prayed to be relieved from the sentence for alleged irregularities: The petition was dismissed, but the cause was remitted to the court below with liberty to petitioner to plead to the action. P. C., 1838, Jersey, In re George Whitfield, 1 B. J. P. C., 468; 2 Moore, 269.

451. The Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction to grant an order, in the nature of a mandamus to an inferior court, to enter up judgment for a party upon a writ of error, but can only recommend as their opinion that the court should do so. P. C., 1839, Tobago, In re Muir, 1 B. J. P. C., 468; 3 Moore, 150.

452. The Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction over judges refusing to proceed as they ought to do, but they may be given to understand that it is their bounden duty to proceed with the case, or to enter judgment, and if they do refuse they must take the consequences. P. C., 1840, Antigua, In re Assignees of Manning, 1 B. J. P. C., 468; 3 Moore 154.

453. A fine imposed by a court of record upon an advocate for contempt of court cannot be remitted by the Judicial Committee, although the judgment is rescinded and the appellant reinstated in the practice of his profession with an unimpeached character. But their Lordships may recommend that such fine be remitted. P. C., 1841, Sierra Leone, Smith vs The Justices of Sierra Leone, 1 B. J. P. C., 468; 3 Moore, 361.

454. The Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction on a petition complaining that the court below has refused to grant an order of præ et concurrentiæ and to award the moneys to be paid to petitioner sub cautione de restituendo, although it has recognized his preferential claim by definitive sentence which has been carried into appeal, and asking that order be given to the judges of the Supreme court of British Guiana to entertain his application. P. C., 1842, British Guiana, In re Butts, 1 B. J. P. C., 468; 4 Moore, 92.

455. In the decision of cases, properly within the jurisdiction of the court of Admiralty, equitable considerations ought to have their weight; but it does not thence follow that the court of Admiralty has jurisdiction to do all that courts of Equity may do.

456. In actions instituted by persons suing, either for themselves, or on behalf of themselves and others, for the administration of assets, or the distribution of a common fund, in which several persons are interested, or upon which they have claims, the Admiralty court has no jurisdiction.

457. In this cause, different creditors, the owners of the ship and part of the cargo, and the owners of the remaining portion of the cargo claimed the distribution of the proceeds of the sale of the ship, and it was held that the Admiralty court had no jurisdiction to decree a rateable distribution. P. C., 1847, Admiralty, Bernard vs Hyne, The "Saracem," 1 B. J. P. C., 470; 6 Moore, 46.

458. The Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from orders made by a court of record in the colonies, inflicting fines upon a practitioner for contempts of court; such court being the sole judge of what constituted the contempts.

459. Upon a reference by the Colonial Office to the Judicial Committee, referring the whole matter of complaint against the judge concerning the contempts and the inflicting of the fines, for their advice and opinion, the Judicial Committee advised the Crown to remit part of the fines, which, by an order in Council, was directed. P. C., 1853, Sierra Leone, Rairy vs The Justices of Sierra Leone, 1 B. J. P. C., 469; 8 Moore, 47.

460. Although the Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction to entertain any application in an appeal until the petition of appeal is lodged, in circumstances where it appeared that an inquiry was pending before the court below which might render the prosecution of the appeal unnecessary, the proceedings on the appeal were suspended and the time prescribed by rule 5 of the Order in Council of the 13th June, 1853, for prosecution thereof, was extended until further order. P. C., 1855, Calcutta, Gundahur Seal vs Sreemutty Radlamoney Dossee, 1 B. J. P. C., 469; 9 Moore, 411.

461. No step was taken in this appeal by the appellants to prosecute the appeal either by entering an appearance or lodging a petition of appeal. The transcript had been transmitted to the Council office, but no agent had been appointed to act on behalf of the appellants. Motion was made by respondents in November, 1856, to dismiss the appeal for non-prosecution. A question being raised whether the court had jurisdiction to make an order to dismiss in such circumstances, there being no petition of appeal to Her Majesty lodged in the Privy Council office, and no reference of such appeal to the Judicial Committee, their Lordships declined to make any order upon the motion. P. C., 1857, New South Wales, How et al. vs Kirshner et al., 1 B. J. P. C., 469; 11 Moore, 21.

462. The Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction to make an order upon the bailiff of the Island of Jersey to force him to admit the petitioner to take the oaths and practice as an advocate in the royal courts. P. C., 1857, Jersey, D'Allain vs Le Breton, 1 B. J. P. C., 470; 11 Moore, 64.

463. The Judicial Committee has no jurisdiction to enter into the consideration of a dismissal of a public officer who held his office durante bene placito, unless by the express command of Her Majesty. P. C., 1858, New South Wales, Robertson vs The Governor General of New South Wales, 1 B. J. P. C., 470; 11 Moore, 288.

463a. The sale of land situated in one province cannot be conducted, nor can possession be given by a court in another province. Nor has neither the Supreme Court of Canada, or His Majesty-in-Council sitting in appeal, any wider jurisdiction. P. C., 1878, Ontario, Great North-West Central Railway vs Charlebois et al., 68 L. J. R., n. s., 25; 78 L. T. R., 35; 2 B. J. P. C. 221.

463b. Court of justice have power at any time to correct an error in a decree or order arising from a slip or accidental omission, whether there is or is not a general order to that effect. P. C., 1893, New South Wales, Wilson vs Carter., 9 T. L. R, 613 ; 2 B. J. P. C., 313.

463c. Where an award of compensation made in an arbitration under the Canadian Railway Act, 1888 (51 Vict. ch. 29), was appealed from under section 161, sub-sect. 2: The court rightly exercised its jurisdiction by reviewing the award as if it had been the judgment of a subordinate Court, that is by deciding whether a reasonable estimate of the evidence had been made. It was not authorized by the section to disregard the award and deal with the evidence de novo, as if it had been a court of first instance. P. C., 1885, Québec, Atlantic and North-West Railway Co. vs Wood, L. R., 1895 App. Cas., 257; 72 L. T. R., 238; 63 L. J. R., n. s., 116; 2 B. J. P. C., 346.

463d. The court has jurisdiction under article 998 of the Code of civil procedure, to prohibit the issue of a writ of information under article 997; but after issue the attorney-general is dominus litis, and can discontinue proceeding or control their conduct and settlement independently of any private relator. P. C., 1895, Québec, Casgrain vs Atlantic and Morth-West Railway Co., L. R., 1895 App Cas., 282; 2 B. J. P. C., 221.

463e. It is an elementary principle that a court has no jurisdiction to interfere with the internal management of companies acting within their powers. The company must sue to redress a wrong done to it; but if a majority of its shares are controlled by those against whom relief is sought, the complaining shareholders may sue in their own names, but must show that the act complained of are either fraudulent or ultra vires. P. C., 1901, Ontario, Burland vs Earle et al., L. R., 1902 App. Cas., 83; 50 W. R., 241; 2 B. J. P. C., 124.

463f. There is jurisdiction in a civil court to review a sentence of judgment of a court of martial law. A martial law court is not a court of record, and the administrator, even though he happen to be also a civil magistrate and describe himself in a memorandum as acting in the double capacity must be taken to have acted solely in the administration of martial law. P. C., 1903, Cape of Good Hope, Attorney-General of the Cape of Good Hope vs Van Reenen., 50 W. R., 273; 18 T. L. R., 185; 2 B. J. P. C., 288.

464. Consentement.—Le consentement des parties ne peut donner à la cour ou au juge une juridiction que ne leur donne pas le statut. C. S., 1887, Québec, Hearn vs McGreevy, 13 R. J. Q., 322; 11 L. N., 86; 15 R. L., 609.

465. Consent does not confer jurisdiction, and the accused may, upon an appeal by way of case reserved, object to the jurisdiction of the tribunal he has himself selected. Supr. C., 1898, Nova Scotia, The Queen vs Smith, 3 Can. Cr. Cas., 467.

466. Where a court or judge is not vested with jurisdiction by law, the consent of the parties cannot confer jurisdiction. K. B., (en chambre), Montreal, 1902, Ex parte Tremblay, Q. J. R., 11 K. B., 454; 8 R. L., n. s., 532.

467. A condition in a contract made in a foreign country, which was moreover executory in largest part outside of this province, stating that all disputes arising therefrom shall be settled by a certain foreign tribunal, is positively restrictive in form and precludes the parties from relief in our courts. S. C., 1904, Montreal, Michaelson et al. vs Hamburg American Packet Co., 6 Q. P. R., 165.

468. A covenant in a contract that litigation arising from it, shall be had before the court in a different district from that in which it should be had in the ordinary course, is valid and binding.

469. No consent of parties, by contract or otherwise, can vest in a judge or a court a jurisdiction that the law does not give them. S. C., 1911, Quebec, The Jonquières Pulp Co. vs The Chicoutimi Pulp Co., Q. J. R., 41 S. C., 97.

470. Consignation.—Dans un contrat de commission fait et exécuté à Montréal, si, lors du règlement de compte le facteur paie à son principal, demeurant dans un autre district, une somme par erreur, l'action en recouvrement de cette somme peut être intentée à Montréal. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Bédard vs Gagnon, 4 R. L., n. s., 157; 1 R. P. Q., 224.

471. Contrainte par corps.—In a case of contrainte par corps pour rébellion à justice, the imprisonment ought to take place in the district where the defendant resides. Q. B., 1866, Montreal, Massue vs Crébassa, 8 J., 122; 16 L. C. R., 446; 2 L. C. L. J., 22; 12 R. J. R. Q., 168.

472. Contrebande.—Where the attorney general demanded the forfeiture of goods alleged to have been passed through the custom house without entry or permit, and without payment of dues: The Superior court had jurisdiction in the matter. S. C., 1864, Montreal, Hon. Dorion, attorney general, vs Rothstein, 8 J., 130; 1 L. C. L. J., 85; 12 R. J. R. Q., 297; 18 R. J. R. Q., 152, 535, 569.

473. Cour de Circuit.—Action was brought for £51 10s., and the defendant by declinatory exception pleaded that he owed only £25, and that the Circuit court, consequently, was the only court of competent jurisdiction: The amount demanded, and not the amount actually due, must determine the jurisdiction of the court. S. C. 1857, Montreal, Généreux vs Leroux, 1 J., 285; 6 R. J. R. Q., 86.

474. La cour de Circuit siégeant en appel, sous l'Acte des Municipalités de 1860, a le pouvoir de casser un règlement d'une municipalité.

475. Un jugement d'un tribunal inférieur quand bien même la nullité de ce règlement n'y aurait pas été invoquée. C. S., 1861, Montréal, Daoust vs Aumais, 7 J., 110; 12 R. J. R. Q., 78.

476. La cour de Circuit n'a pas juridiction dans une action pour aliments au montant de $200 par année, réclamés pour une période indéterminée, savoir, pendant la vie durante de la demanderesse.

477. Le jugement de la cour de Circuit accordant £28 par année, la vie durante de la demanderesse, sera infirmé, et l'action de la demanderesse renvoyée. B. R., 1863, Montréal, Smith et uxor vs Patton, 14 D.T.B.C., 323; 23 R. J. R. Q., 52; 20 R. J. R. Q., 192, 520.

478. The Circuit court has no jurisdiction in action for rent for $200 or to grant the resiliation of the lease where the annual rent exceeds $200, although the damages claimed be under that amount, nor where the subject matter involving an amount exceeding $200. C. C., 1863, Montreal, Beaudry vs Thibodeau, 7 J., 137; 12 R. J. R. Q., 103.—C. R., 1870, Montreal, McGinnis vs Horseman, 14 J., 224; 20 R. J. R. Q., 155, 521.—S. C., 1883, Quebec, Guillet vs L'Heureux and Lamarche et al., 9 L. N., 371.

479. The Circuit court has no jurisdiction over possessory actions. Q. B., 1869, Montreal, Mackay vs Cook, 13 J., 321; 19 R. J. R. Q., 420, 579.

480. Dans une action en démolition de nouvel œuvre portée devant la cour de Circuit, la valeur de la servitude doit être alléguée et prouvée ne dépassant pas $200, de manière à donner juridiction à la cour de Circuit. C. R., 1870, Montréal, Dorval vs Chevalier, 14 J., 263; 20 R. J. R. Q., 191, 521.

481. La cour de Circuit a juridiction conformément à la sous-section 5 de la section 49 du ch. 24, S. R. B. C., savoir l'Acte des Municipalités, sur une action pour obtenir l'enlèvement d'un empiétement; et la demande de £100 de dommages résultant comme incident de l'empiètement ne vicie pas le reste de l'action. B. R., 1870, Montréal, La Corporation de la paroisse de St-Martin vs La Compagnie des chemins de péage de l'Ile Jésus, 15 J., 106; 2 R. L., 622; 1 R. C., 119; 21 R. J. R. Q., 411, 527.

482. La demande pour une somme au-dessous de $100, accompagnée de conclusions demandant que le défendeur (qui n'est tenu au paiement de la créance qu'hypothécairement) soit condamné à payer la dette, si mieux il n'aime délaisser, etc., est une demande de la compétence de la cour de Circuit et non pas de la cour Supérieure. Ce n'est pas une action hypothécaire réglée par l'article 2061, C. c., et par conséquent appelable. C. S., 1871, Montréal, Rodier vs Hébert, 15 J., 269; 16 J., 41; 4 R. L., 63; 22 R. J. R. Q., 107, 525; M. L. R., 6 C. S., 273.

483. La cour de Circuit a seule juridiction pour juger les poursuites en résiliation d'actes de vente d'immeubles pour non paiement du prix, lorsque la valeur de tels immeubles vendus est au-dessous de $200. C. C., 1872, St-Hyacinthe, Gaboury vs Leclaire, 4 R. L., 74.

484. La cour de Circuit ne peut pas prendre connaissance de la validité d'un rôle d'évaluation. C. C., 1873, Montréal, Laurent vs La Corporation du village St-Jean-Baptiste, 4 R. L., 684; 17 J., 192; 23 R. J. R. Q., 154, 576.

485. The Circuit court has no jurisdiction by means of certiorari over judgments other than those rendered by the Commissioners' courts or by justices of the peace. C. C., 1877, Waterloo, Long vs Blanchard and The Magistrates court of the county of Shefford et al., 21 J., 331; 1 L. N., 43.

486. The Circuit court has no jurisdiction to interfere with a seizure under a writ of attachement in insolvency, though in appeared that the writ issued against a non trader, and the same goods were under seizure in a suit in the Circuit court. C. C., 1878, Sherbrooke, Clément vs Heath and Bacon, 22 J., 54; 1 L. N., 53.

487. La cour de Circuit a juridiction pour déclarer qu'une ordonnance et un acte de répartition pour l'érection d'une église sont nuls. C. C., 1879, Montréal, La Fabrique de la paroisse du St-Enfant Jésus vs Poirier et al., 9 R. L., 644; 23 J., 155.

488. La cour de Circuit a juridiction dans les actions on recouvrement de taxes municipales. C. C., 1880, Québec, Corporation du village de Bienville vs Gillespie et vir, 6 R. J. Q., 346; 4 L. N., 134.

489. L'article 1107 C. p. c. permet de porter l'action pétitoire ou l'action possessoire devant la cour de Circuit contre toute personne qui détient illégalement des terres tenues en franc et commun soccage, mais sans aucun préjudice à la juridiction de la cour Supérieure, et les intimés qui, sans instructions spéciales, ont porté les actions devant la cour Supérieure, ne doivent pas être pour cela privés de leurs honoraires et déboursés, surtout lorsque la cour de première instance les leur a accordés. B. R., 1881, Québec, Davidson vs Laurier et al., 1 D. C. A., 366.

490. L'appelant demandait, devant la cour de Circuit, à Trois-Rivières, la nullité d'une donation faite, en fraude de ses droits, par sa débitrice au défendeur (intimé), et laissait à ce dernier la faculté de conserver les biens donnés en lui remboursant $102.35, montant de sa créance. Les biens étant d'une valeur excédant $400, le défendeur déclina la juridiction de la cour de Circuit. Le montant de la demande ($102.35) étant de la juridiction de la cour de Circuit, celle-ci était compétente à en connaître, quelque fût la valeur des biens donnés. B. R., 1883, Québec, Leduc, vs Tourigny et al., 17 R. J. Q., 385.

491. Under a judgment in the Circuit court certain real estate of defendant was sold by the sheriff, who filed his return in the Superior court, and the report of his distribution was made there. The defendant refused to give possession. The application of the purchaser for a writ of possession should be made to the Superior court and not to the Circuit court. C. C., 1883, Montreal, Evans vs Hurtubise, and De Berczy, 27 J., 294; 6 L. N., 336.

492. In an action on a promissory note bearing interest from date, where the interest accrued at the date of the institution or service of the action, added to the principal or balance due thereon, forms a sum exceeding $200, the demand is not within the jurisdiction of the Circuit court. S. C., 1886, Aylmer, Major et vir vs McClelland, 9 L. N., 394.

493. La cour de Circuit n'a pas juridiction pour connaître et décider d'une contestation de la déclaration d'un tiers-saisi, demandant qu'une vente faite par le défendeur au tiers-saisi, pour un prix excédant $200, soit déclarée nulle ; et si elle décide cette contestation, il y a lieu au bref de prohibition, ordonnant à la cour de Circuit et au contestant dans la cause de suspendre toute procédure sur la contestation. C. S., 1888, Sherbrooke, Doherty vs La Cour de Circuit du district de St-François et al., 16 R. L., 144.

494. La cour de Circuit du comté de Terrebonne et la cour de Circuit du district sont deux cours distinctes bien que tenues par le même juge. C. C., 1894, Terrebonne, Paquin vs Craig, 1 R. J., 26.

495. Aux termes des articles 1053 et 1054 du Code de procédure civile, la cour de Circuit au chef-lieu n'a pas de juridiction pour adjuger sur une demande à des droits immobiliers, et spécialement sur une action en déclaration d'hypothèque pour une somme de cinquante piastres contre un détenteur d'immeuble hypothéqué. C. C., 1896, Montmagny, Talbot vs Parent, 2 R. J., 214.

496. La cour de Circuit, sur contestation d'opposition dans une cause non appelable, a juridiction pour mettre de côté, mais pour les fins de la cause seulement, une vente de meubles, dont le prix en bloc excède $200, faite en fraude des droits du saisissant et que l'acheteur veut faire valoir à l'encontre de la saisie. C. C., 1897, Joliette, Désy vs Désy et Désy, 4 R. J., 161.

497. Une action en dommages, prise conjointement par un mari et sa femme, au montant de $100, pour propos injurieux tenus sur leur compte, n'est pas du ressort de la cour Supérieure, parce qu'elle est en réalité une demande de $50 pour chacun des demandeurs; et, dans ce cas, la cour doit ordonner d'office le renvoi de cette cause devant la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1898, Montréal, Campbell et al. vs Kavanagh, 4 R. L., n. s., 485; 1 R. P. Q., 509; R. J. Q., 15 C. S., 80.

498. C'est la situation des municipalités dans des districts différents qui est attributive de juridiction à la cour de Circuit de l'un ou de l'autre de ces districts. C. S., 1901, St-Jean, Arbec et al. vs Lussier et al., R. J. Q., 20 C. S., 543.

499. La cour de Circuit a juridiction pour entendre un appel d'une décision de commissaires d'écoles refusant de reconstruire une maison d'école qui demande beaucoup de réparations et de la changer de place dans l'arrondissement, lorsque le terrain est offert gratuitement en échange et que la maison se trouverait située dans un endroit plus propice. C. C., 1902, Arthabaska, Beaudoin et al. vs Commissaires d'écoles de Ste-Anastasie de Nelson, 8 R. J., 519.

500. La cour de Circuit n'a pas juridiction pour connaître d'une action en recouvrement de pénalités au montant de $2,075 pour infractions aux dispositions du statut de Québec de 1901, 1 Ed. VII, ch. 19, Acte de l'Hygiène publique. C. p. c. 170. C. S., 1905, St-Hyacinthe, Benoit vs Corporation du village de St-Denis, 7 R. P. Q., 424; 11 R. J., 347, 350.

501. Excepté au chef-lieu de chaque district, la cour de Circuit appelable a juridiction pour décider de toute demande, n'excédant pas $200, même lorsque cette demande est pour rente annuelle ou droits immobiliers ou matières pouvant affecter des droits pour l'avenir. C. C., 1905, Joliette, Béland vs Paul, 11 R. J., 375.

502. Lorsque l'action est purement personnelle et que le montant en litige est au-dessous de $100, la cour de Circuit a juridiction exclusive; si cette action est soumise à la cour Supérieure, cette dernière étant absolument incompétente à raison de la matière, elle est tenue de la renvoyer, même d'office, devant la cour de Circuit. C. S., 1907, Montréal, Coupal vs Dame Beaudoin, 8 R. P. Q., 327.

503. Le chef-lieu du district dont le comté de Berthier fait partie en vertu de la loi 61 Vict., ch. 19, est le chef-lieu du district de Joliette et non le chef-lieu du district de Richelieu, malgré la juridiction concurrente qui est attribuée par cette même loi au tribunal d'icelui sur le comté de Berthier, une action au-dessous de $200 qui a pris naissance dans le comté de Berthier et alors que le défendeur y a son domicile, devra être instituée devant la cour de Circuit du comté de Berthier. C. S., 1907, Richelieu, Comtois vs Michaud, 9 R. P. Q., 87.

504. Upon a declinatory motion or exception, if it be made to appear that by virtue of amendments made the day after the return, that the claim, at the date of the institution of the action, only amounted to a sum less than $100, to which specific amount it is reduced and that it should have been instituted in the Circuit court, the court will maintain such motion or exception, order that the record be transmitted to such Circuit court, with costs of said exception to be taxed as including the difference in costs up to date, between an action instituted in the Superior court for the amount therein claimed and one instituted in the Circuit court for the specific amount to which it was reduced, leaving it to the Circuit court, on final judgment, to determine as to the costs of an action in that court for the amount last mentioned. S. C., 1907, Montreal, Lande vs Lewitt, 13 R. J., 557.

505. La cour de Circuit en vertu de la loi 3 Ed. VII, ch. 13, sect. 3, a le droit d'entendre une cause par laquelle on demande la cassation d'une résolution d'un conseil de ville accordant une licence pour la vente de boissons cette juridiction est spéciale et forme une exception aux règles de l'article 47 C. p. c. C. S., 1909, Montréal, Picard vs La Ville de Bordeaux et Boisseau, 11 R. P. Q., 296.

506. En vertu de la section 3102 des Statuts Refondus de la province de Québec, la cour de Circuit du comté de Berthier a juridiction exclusive dans une cause de $100, dans laquelle le défendeur est domicilié dans le comté de Berthier, où la cause d'action a pris naissance, malgré que l'action ait été signifiée dans le district de Richelieu. C. S., 1910, Richelieu, Latour vs Guévremont, 16 R. J., 476; 10 R. J. R., 38.

507. Cour de l'Echiquer. — In an action in damages suffered by the fall of part of a rock belonging to the Crown, where there is no allegation in the petition that the property mentioned was a work of defence or other public work, or part of a public work, and it not appearing therein that any officer or servant of the Crown had any duty or employment in connection with the property mentioned, or that the acts complainted of were committed by such officers while acting within the scope of their duties or employment, no case was shown by the suppliants in respect of which the court had jurisdiction under the Exchequer Court Act, 50-51 Vict., ch. 16, sect. 16 (c). Ex. C., 1891, City of Quebec vs The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R., 252.

508. An information at the suit of the attorney-general to obtain an injunction to restrain defendant from doing acts that interfere with and tend to destroy the navigation of a public harbor is a civil and not a criminal proceeding, and the Exchequer court has concurrent original jurisdiction over the same under 50-51 Vict., ch. 16, sect. 17 (d). Ex. C., 1891, The Queen vs Fisher, 2 Ex. C. R., 365.

509. The Exchequer court has jurisdiction to hear and determine actions of account between co-owners of a ship. Ex. C., 1892. Hall and Fairweather vs Ship "Seaward," 3 Ex. C. R., 268.

510. Where the amount of a claim for seaman's wages is below $200, the Exchequer court had no jurisdiction under section 34 of the Inland Waters Seamen's Act. Ex. C., 1892, In re "Jessie Stewart," 3 Ex. C. R., 132.

511. The Admiralty Act, 1891, conferred upon the Exchequer court all the jurisdiction possessed by the High court, Admiralty Division, in England, as it stood on the 25th July, 1890, the date of the passing of the Colonial Courts of Admiralty Act, 1890, and the Admiralty court in Canada could now try any claim for seamen's wages, including claims below $200; and section 34 of R. S. C., ch. 75, was repealed by implication (not having been expressly preserved) to the extent at any rate, that it curtailed the jurisdiction of the Admiralty court to entertain claims for seamen's wages below $200 in amount. Ex. C., 1893, Canada, In re The Ship "W. J. Aikens," 4 Ex. C. R., 7.

512. The court has no power to restrain the Crown from making any unauthorized use of the land or to compel the Crown to remove any buildings erected thereon contrary to the terms of the grant. Ex. C., 1893, Magee et al. vs The Queen, 3 Ex. C. R., 304.

513. The court has no jurisdiction under the provisions of 50-51 Vict., ch. 16, to give relief in respect of any claim which, prior to the passing of that Act, was not cognizable in the court, and which, at the time of the passing of that Act, was barred by any statute of limitations. Ex. C., 1895, Canada, Penny vs The Queen, 4 Ex. C. R., 428.

514. The Controller of customs had made his decision in respect of the seizure and detention of a vessel under the provisions of the Customs Act, confirming such seizure. The owner of the vessel within the thirty days mentioned in the 181st and 182nd sections of the said Act gave notice in writing to the controller that his decision would not be accepted. No reference of the matter was made by the controller to the court as provided in section 181, but the claimant presented a petition of right and a fiat was granted. The Crown objected that the court had no jurisdiction to entertain the petition, and that the only procedure open to the claimant was upon a reference by the controller to the court: It was held that the court had jurisdiction. Ex. C., 1896, Julien vs The Queen, 5 Ex. C. R., 238.

515. A mortgagee under an unregistered mortgage of a ship has no right of action in the Exchequer court of Canada against freight and cargo; and unless proceedings so taken by him involve some matter in respect of which the court has jurisdiction, they will be set aside. Ex. C., 1896, Strong vs Smith, The Ship "Atalanta," 5 Ex. C. R., 57.

516. The Exchequer court has no jurisdiction to entertain an application to make an award under a submission to arbitration by consent in a matter ex foro, a judgment of the court. Ex. C., 1897, The Dominion Atlantic Railway Co. vs The Queen, 5 Ex. C. R., 420.

517. In an action by the Crown upon two Customs export bonds the defendants applied for an order to bring in a third party, and it appeared that such bonds were given by the defendants personally and did not indicate that the person against whom the third party order was sought was in any way liable to the Crown in respect of said bonds. The defendant, however, claimed that in giving the bonds they were only acting as agents for such person, and that he had agreed to indemnify them against the payment thereof: The court had no jurisdiction to try the issue of indemnity between the defendants and such proposed third party, and the application should be dismissed with costs to the Crown in any event. Ex. C., 1897, The Queen vs Finlayson, 5 Ex. C. R., 387.

518. Where a claim has been referred to the Exchequer Court under section 182 of the Customs Act, the proceeding thereon as regulated by the provisions of section 183 of the Act, is not in the nature of an appeal from the decision of the minister, and the court has power to hear, consider and determine the matter upon the evidence adduced before it, whether the same has been before the minister or not. Ex. C., 1898, Tyrrell vs The Queen, 6 Ex. C. R., 169.

519. The Exchequer court of Canada, under the provisions of 24 Vict., ch. 10, sect. 5, may entertain a suit against a foreign ship within its jurisdiction for necessaries supplied to such ship in a foreign port, not being the place where such ship is registered, and when the owners of the ship are not domiciled in Canada.

520. Under the principles of International Law, the courts of every country are competent, and ought not to refuse, to adjudicate upon suits coming before them between foreigners. This doctrine applies with especial force to commercial matters; and is declared in the provisions of article 14 C. c. and articles 27, 28 and 29 C. c. Ex. C., 1898, Coorty vs The Steamship George L. Colwell, 6 Ex. C. R., 196.

521. The penalty enforceable under the provisions of section 192 of the Customs Act in the Exchequer court is a pecuniary one only, the other remedies open to the Crown thereunder cannot be prosecuted in this court.

522. The court has no discretion as to the amount of the penalty recoverable under such enactment. Ex. C., 1900, The Queen vs Fitzgibbon and Co., 6 Ex. C. R., 383.

523. No action will lie on the Admiralty side of the Exchequer court against a ship for necessaries when the owner of the ship at the time of the institution of the action is domiciled in Canada. Ex. C., 1901, The Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron Co. vs The Ship "The Garden City," 7 Ex. C. R., 94.

524. The Exchequer court of Canada has jurisdiction in respect of a claim arising out of a contract to grant a portion of the public domain made under the authority of an Act of Parliament. Such a claim may be prosecuted by a petition of right.

525. Where the court has jurisdiction in respect of the subject-matter of a petition of right, the petition is not open to objection on the ground that a merely declaratory judgment or order is sought thereby. If on the other hand, there is no jurisdiction, no such declaration should be made. Ex. C., 1901. The Qu'Appelle Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railroad and Steamboat Co. vs The King, 7 Ex. C. R., 105.

526. Such jurisdiction as the official arbitrators were empowered to exercise in respect of any claim for alleged direct or consequent damages to property arising out of anything done by the government of Canada, under section 1 of 33 Vict., ch. 23, and also in respect of any claim for alleged direct or consequent damage to property arising from the construction or connected with the execution of any public work under section 34 of 31 Vict., ch. 12, was, in substance, transferred to the Exchequer court by the provisions of sections 16, 58 and 59 of 50-51 Vict., ch. 16. Ex. C., 1902, Graham vs The King, 8 Ex. C. R., 331.

527. The amendments to the Exchequer court Act since the decision in Partlo vs Todd 1886, 12 O. R., 175; 1887, 14 A. R., 444; 1888, 17 Supr. C. R., 196, have not had the effect of giving that court exclusive jurisdiction to adjudicate as to the validity of a registered trade mark, and in answer to an action in the High court of justice for Ontario to restrain the infringement of a registered trade mark, its invalidity may be shewn. C. A., 1902, Ontario, Provident Chemical Works vs Canada Chemical Manufacturing Co., 4 O. L. R., 545.

528. Subject to the exceptions mentioned in section 165 of the Merchants Shipping Act, 1894, this court has no jurisdiction to entertain a claim for seamen's wages for an amount below $200 earned on a ship registered in England. Ex. C., 1904, Gagnon vs Steamship Savoy; Dion vs Steamship Polino, 9 Ex. C. R., 238.

529. This court has as large a jurisdiction as the High court of Admiralty, and therefore in an action between the co-owners of a ship for an account, the ship may be arrested. Ex. C., 1905, Cope vs Steamship Raven, 9 Ex. C. R., 404.

530. Where the court has no jurisdiction to grant relief in an action, it has no authority to make a declaration binding the right of the parties. This rule should be strictly followed in all cases where the jurisdiction of the court depends upon statute and not upon common law.

531. It does not follow that because the Crown is a trustee the court has jurisdiction to enforce the trust or to make any declaration as to the rights of the parties interested. That authority if it exists must be found in the statutes which give the court jurisdiction. The real question in any such case is not that the Crown may or may not be a trustee; but whether the court has any jurisdiction with respect to the execution of the trust. Ex. C., 1905, Henry vs The King, 9 Ex. C. R., 417.

532. The jurisdiction which the Exchequer court of Canada may exercise under the Colonial courts of Admiralty Act, 1890, and the Admiralty Act, 1891, is the admiralty jurisdiction and not the general or common law jurisdiction of the High court in England. Ex. C., 1906, The Union Steamship Co. of British Columbia vs Bow McLachlan and Co., 10 Ex. C. R., 348.

533. The jurisdiction that the court has of controversies between the Dominion of Canada and a province of Canada, or between two provinces, does not authorize the court to decide the issue in accordance only with what may to it seem fair and without regard to the principle of law applicable to the case. Ex. C., 1907, The Dominion of Canada vs The Province of Ontario, 10 Ex. C. R., 445.

534. The provisions of section 16 (c) of 50-51 Vict., ch. 16 (now R. S. C., 1906, ch. 140, sect. 20 (c), not only gives exclusive original jurisdiction to the Exchequer court of Canada to hear and determine claims against the Crown arising out of any death or injury to the person or to property on any public work resulting from the negligence of any officer or servant of the Crown while acting within the scope of his duties or employment, but imposes a liability upon the Crown to answer in such cases for the wrongful acts of its offices or servants. Ex. C., 1907, Ottawa, Armstrong vs The King, 11 Ex. C. R., 119.

535. The jurisdiction of the Exchequer court in respect of proceedings in rem for collision against a ship (whose owners are at the time in liquidation) is not taken away by the provisions of sections 22 and 23 of the Winding-up Act (R. S., 1906, ch. 144); and where leave is obtained from the proper forum to bring an action, as provided by section 22 of the Winding-up Act, the Exchequer court is competent to entertain the same.

536. Semble, that the word "sequestration" as used in section 23 of the Winding-up Act means a sequestration to recover payment of a judgment already obtained. Ex. C., 1909, The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. vs The Steamship Imperial, 12 Ex. C. R., 243.

537. Where a dispute between the Dominion and a province of Canada, or between two provinces comes before the Exchequer court as provided by section 32 of R. S. C., 1906, ch. 140, it should be decided on a rule or principle of law and not merely on what the judge of the court considers fair and just between the parties. Supr. C., 1909, Canada, Province of Ontario vs Dominion of Canada, 42 Supr. C. R., 1; 10 Ex. C. R., 445.

538. The Exchequer court of Canada, as an Admiralty court constituted under the Colonial courts of Admiralty Act (Imp. 1890) and the Admiralty Act (Dom. 1891) has no greater jurisdiction than the Admiralty jurisdiction of the High court in England. P. C., Supr. C., Canada, Bom McLachlan and Co. vs "Camosum," C. R., 1909, App. Cas., 306.

539. Where the majority owners of a ship, desiring to make use of the ship, without application to the court, execute a bond under seal to the minotity owners, conditioned for the safe return of the ship to a port mentioned, or, in default, payment of a fixed money penalty, such contract is not one which the court has jurisdiction to enforce, differing in this respect from a bond executed under the same circumstances in the court, which is not a contract between the parties but is a security given to the court. Ex. C., 1910, Canada, Heater vs Anderson et al., 13 Ex. C. R., 417.

540. The Exchequer court has jurisdiction to decree a patent for public lands void under section 94 of 7-8 Ed. VII (D.). Ex. C., 1910, Canada, The King vs Powell, 13 Ex. C. R., 300.

541. In a case where a ship was seized under a warrant issued from the Exchequer court, upon a hypothecary action, the subsequent bankruptcy of the owners of the said ship, did not have the effect of removing the cause and the vessel so seized out of the jurisdiction of the Exchequer court.

542. All the proceedings in liquidation in respect of the other property of the defendant company had to be taken before the Superior court and not before the Exchequer court.

543. While the liquidator was at liberty to contest the action instituted in the Exchequer court that court, could not entertain his motion to take proceedings therein for the purposes above set out. Ex. C., 1910, Canada, Dame de St-Aubin vs The Steamship "Canada," Moreau, 13 Ex. C. R., 469.

544. The Transcontinental Railway is a public work within the meaning of section 2, sub-section (d) of the Exchequer court Act, and proceedings respecting compensation for land taken for the railway may be taken by or against the Crown in the Exchequer court. Supr. C., 1911, Canada, The King vs Jones, 44 Supr. C. R., 495; 13 Ex. C. R., 171.

544a. The Exchequer court of Canada has jurisdiction to award damages for the taking of property by the Crown for the purpose of erecting an ice pier on riparian land, by virtue of sub-section (b) of section 20 of the Exchequer court Act (Can.), providing for claims "against the Crown for damages to property injuriously affected by the construction of any public work," and section 19 of the same Act, giving the court jurisdiction where the land of the subject is in the possession of the Crown. Ex. C., 1912, Canada. Pickels vs The King, 7 D. L. R., 698.

545. Cour de Magistrat de district.—La cour de Magistrat de district a juridiction jusqu'au montant de $100. C. M., 1875, Percé, Beaudoin vs Winter, 6 R. L., 689.

546. La cour du Magistrat a le même droit que la cour de Circuit pour les ajournements des termes et pour l'audition de toute cause dans une séance en vertu d'un ajournement. C. M., 1875, Bagot, McEvilla vs La Corporation du comté de Bagot, 7 R. L., 360.

547. Le magistrat de district a juridiction pour le recouvrement de taxes municipales quel qu'en soit le montant.

548. Sous les articles 939 et 951 du Code municipal, une corporation locale peut être poursuivie devant le magistrat de district pour le recouvrement d'une dette de comté due par la corporation locale à la corporation du comté.

549. Un magistrat de district n'est pas disqualifié pour juger semblables causes, parce qu'il est contribuable de la municipalité intéressée. B. R., 1876, Québec, La Corporation de la paroisse St-Guillaume vs La Corporation du comté de Drummond, 7 R. L., 562.

550. La cour du Magistrat de district, en matières civiles, n'a pas juridiction sur un défendeur résidant hors du district où la cour siège. C. S., 1877, Kamouraska, Ex parte Fiset, 3 R. J. Q., 102; 1 L. N., 174, 179.

551. The district magistrate appointed, with jurisdiction in the district of St. Francis and of Bedford, sufficiently shows his jurisdiction when he describes himself as "district magistrate in and for the district of Bedford," when acting in the latter district. S. C., 1899, Bedford, Ex parte Robinson, 5 R. J., 271.

552. Le magistrat de district a, comme tout autre magistrat, le pouvoir discrétionnaire d'ajourner la cause à lui soumise ou de procéder sur icelle, nonobstant tout arrangement fait entre les parties ou leurs procureurs. C. S., 1899, Bedford, Ex parte Daigneault, et Smith, 3 R. P. Q., 128.

553. Le délit et le quasi-délit engendrent une dette, et la cour de Magistrat du comté est compétente pour juger la cause dans les limites de sa juridiction, où le délit ou quasi-délit a été commis, quand même le défendeur n'a pas son domicile dans le district. C. M., 1901, Gaspé, Duguay vs North American Transportation Co., 7 R. J., 562.

554. The district Magistrate's court has no jurisdiction to order the construction of a farm crossing even when the costs thereof is alleged to be less than $50.

555. Such order would involve also the future maintenance of the crossing would create a servitude, and would be interfering with future rights. C. M., 1903, Lac Mégantic, Bolduc vs Canadian Pacific Railway Co., Q. J. R., 23 S. C., 238; 4 R. L., n. s., 357; 10 R. L., n. s., 355; 3 Can. Ry. Cas., 177.

556. Abraham Duguay, pêcheur, avait, le 30 mai 1900, une rêt tendue dans l'anse du sud-ouest du port de Percé. L'"Amiral," la propriété de l'appelante, la brisa, et Duguay obtint $18.50 de dommages devant la cour de Magistrat du comté de Gaspé, le 5 octobre 1901. En novembre suivant, l'appelante se pourvut par prohibition, alléguant que la cour de Magistrat n'avait pas juridiction parce que la cause d'action avait pris naissance en dehors du comté de Gaspé, qui est borné par la mer ou le golfe Saint-Laurent, L'intimé Duguay seul plaida, la cour de Magistrat n'ayant pas comparu. La cause d'action ayant pris naissance dans le port de Percé, dans le golfe Saint-Laurent, dans un endroit entre des langues de terre, inter fauces terræ, adjacent au comté de Gaspé, la cour de Magistrat, dans et pour le comté, avait juridiction pour entendre et décider le litige. B. R., 1903, Gaspé, North American Transportation Co. vs Duguay et al., 9 R. J., 392.

557. La cour de Magistrat pour le comté de Gaspé, ayant juridiction pour entendre les actions personnelles ou réelles dans lesquelles la valeur de la chose demandée n'excède pas $99, est compétente pour décider dans une action négatoire, quand le terrain où les défendeurs prétendent exercer la servitude de passage qui leur est déniée par le demandeur, est d'une valeur au-dessous de $99. C. M., 1904, Gaspé, Alain vs Bois et al., 12 R. J., 185.

558. La cour de Magistrat n'a juridiction pour annuler à cause d'illégalité une résolution du conseil municipal à propos de licence d'auberge que dans les cas où le conseil confirme un certificat en violation de l'article 22 du statut 63 Vict., ch. 12; dans tous les autres cas, la décision du conseil est finale.

559. Partant le jugement de la cour de première instance qui a refusé l'émanation d'un bref de prohibition pour empêcher la cour de Magistrat de siéger est mal fondé et doit être renversé. C. S., 1908, Montréal, La Corporation du village de Ste-Thérèse de Blainville et al. vs La cour de Magistrat pour le comté de Terrebonne et Desormeaux, 9 R. P. Q., 408.

560. Cour de Magistrat (Montréal).—La cour de Magistrat pour la cité de Montréal a juridiction dans toutes les poursuites jusqu'à concurrence de $50 pour cotisations, pour la construction et la réparation des églises presbytères et cimetières, même dans les action hypothécaires. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Guillemette vs Cour de Magistrat pour la Cité de Montréal et al., M. L. R., 6 C. S., 273; 13 L. N., 282.

561. La juridiction est fixée par le capital, les intérêts et autres accessoires antérieurs à la demande; de sorte qu'une demande d'un capital de $50, avec des intérêts antérieurs à la demande n'est pas de la compétence de la cour de Magistrat pour la cité de Montréal.

562. Dans ce cas, un bref de prohibition doit émaner contre la dite cour. C. S., 1890, Montréal, Bousquet vs La Cour de Magistrat pour la Cité de Montréal et Turgeon, 20 R. L., 655.

563. Cour de Révision.—The court of Review has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal from an order of a judge in chambers empowering a married woman to borrow a sum of money on the security of real estate without the consent of her husband. C. R., 1876, Montreal, Ex parte Dufaux and Robillard, 20 J., 305.

564. L'inscription, en révision, étant ainsi rejetée, la cour de Révision n'a plus juridiction pour juger de la validité d'un désistement du jugement a quo, laquelle doit être appréciée par le tribunal de première instance. C. R., 1902, Montréal, Lamothe vs Piché et Brown, 5 R. P. Q., 164.

565. In the province of Quebec, upon a motion after verdict for judgment or a new trial, the function of the court of Review, under the Code of civil procedure, is the same as that of the court of Appeal in this country.

566. It is not their province to retry the case, but the verdict must stand if it is one which the jury might reasonably find on the evidence, though it is not in accordance with the opinion of the judge at the trial, or of the court. P. C., 1904, Supr. C., Canada, McArthur vs Dominion Cartridge Co., 2 B. J. P. C., 222, 313; 91 L. T. R., 698; L. R., 1905. App. Cas., 72; 74 L. J., P. C., n. s., 30, 31; 53 W. R., 305; 21 T. L. R., 47; 11 R. L., n. s., 276; 31 Supr. C. R., 392.

567. The Superior court sitting in review has no jurisdiction over a judgment rendered by the Circuit court, sitting at Stanstead, in an action of warranty brought by a defendant against whom the principal action is for the recovery of $124, school taxes, and an inscription for review of such a judgment will be struck on motion. C. R., 1906, Montreal, The School Commissioners of the town of Coaticook vs The Coaticook Electric and Power Co., and the Town of Coaticook, Q. J. R., 29 S. C., 264.

568. Une fois la cause portée en appel ou en révision, la cour a juridiction sur toute la cause et peut renverser le jugement final et les jugements interlocutoires et renvoyer le dossier en cour Supérieure. C. R., 1907, Montréal, Currie vs Slater, 13 R. L., n. s., 533.

569. La cour Supérieure siégeant en révision n'est pas compétente pour connaître d'un jugement dont il n'y a pas appel à la cour du Banc du Roi. C. R., 1908, Montréal, La Ville de St-Paul vs Latour et The Mount Royal Spinning Co., Ltd., R. J. Q., 34 C. S., 125; 14 R. L., n. s., 446; 14 R. J., 406.

570. La cour de Révision n'a pas juridiction pour réviser un jugement rendu par la cour de Circuit sous les dispositions des articles 698 et s. C. m., en cassation d'un rôle d'évaluation. C. C., 1909, Québec, Martel vs Corporation de la partie sud du canton de Marston, 16 R. J., 147.

571. Cour des Commissaires.—Commissioners for the recovery of small debts cannot take cognizance of an action of damages ex delicto. K. B., 1820, Quebec, Legendre vs Lemay, 2 R. de L., 32, 337; 2 R. J. R. Q., 139, 249.

572. La cour des Commissaires est compétente pour connaître d'une demande en dommages contre une personne qui a refusé de former une société, conformément à une convention antérieure. C. S., 1853, Montréal, Ex parte Allère, 1 M. C. R., 10; 2 R. J. R. Q., 326.

